LONDON'S ASSESSMENT SHOWS OVER A MILLION INCREASE

Phenomenal Growth Largely Due to the New Business and Increased Income Taxes.

London's assessment shows an increase of a million and a quarter over that of a year ago. Although the assessment authorities have not as yet completed the final totals, they say that the increase will be not less than a million and a quarter, and they will not be surprised if it goes well onto a million and a half.

This growth is phenomenal, and it means that the city of London will next year have somewhere in the neighborhood of $560,000 to spend, or an increase of close on to $30,000 over this year.

It has been found that in practice the new business tax works wonders in the way of increases. It has resulted in small places of business being taxed which never in the past paid toll. From the largest to the smallest the business men of London have not been overlooked.

Everybody Contributes.

The shoemaker in his little store, 10 by 10 has been taxed, as has also the peanut man and the banana man. The result is that there has been a tremendous increase in assessment from this source alone. On the other hand, many of the largest business men in London, find that their taxes have been reduced through the substitution of the business for the personalty tax. Thus it has been proven that the new law works to make things easier for the big business man and harder for the small business man. Under the new law it does not matter whether you carry a $40,000 stock or a 40-cent stock. The law says the assessor must only take notice of the value of the premises occupied by the business man, and then he must be assessed for, say, half the value of the premises, as a business tax, in addition to his realty tax.

The Income Tax.

There has also been a great increase in income this year. The new law strikes home at the men who make money, and the assessors' hands have been so strengthened that it is next to impossible to "beat" the city out of its income tax. Every man who is not supporting a house must now pay taxes on all he earns over $400 a year, and every householder on all he earns over $1,000 a year.

Added to these increases is the increase in realty. On all sides the city is growing. New houses are to be seen on every side, and the result is that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been added to the city's assessed value by the addition of these new houses.

More Industries Wanted.

On the whole, the city's condition is most satisfactory, barring the fact that in the matter of securing new industries London has not done very well of late.

The following table, which shows the growth in the city's assessment since 1883, will be found of interest:

Year.	Assessment.
1883	$11,314,666
1884	11,341,970

Assessment Commissioner Grant states that the figures for the entire city will be completed in a day or two, when they will be given to the press.

HANGED HIMSELF IN A HOSPITAL

Facing Operation Man Commits Suicide in a Toronto Institution.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Thomas Hurst, aged 44, a former employe of the G. T. R., whose home was on Harley avenue, this city, hanged himself at the general hospital during the night. He was found this morning hanging by a rope thrown over a beam in a vacant room, attached to one of the wards. Hurst was to have undergone an operation for the amputation of his arm this morning. He leaves a widow and family.

MOSCOW QUIET AGAIN

Strike is About Over, But Cossacks Still Patrol Streets.

Moscow, Oct. 9.—Complete order has been restored in the streets by the police and military patrols, reinforced by a regiment of dragoons from Tvet.

Work was resumed today in some sections of the city, but the strike continues elsewhere.

At a meeting of the railway employes today a majority voted to accept the concessions offered by the employers, and it is believed the service will be resumed tomorrow.

It is persistently reported that the steam railway employes will strike on Wednesday.

It has been definitely ascertained that no one was killed during the disturbances of Saturday, but 75 persons were wounded, including the officers commanding the gendarmeries, three Cossacks and one policeman severely, and twenty policemen, gendarmes and Cossacks slightly.

When the troops fired on the houses from which the stones were thrown, all the bullets lodged in the ceilings, and there were no casualties.

Two hundred persons were arrested on Saturday. Sixty-five of these were imprisoned and the remainder released.

SOLDIERS TO HAVE PLENTY OF SPORT

The Seventh Regiment Athletic Association Commences Move Towards Winter Games.

The annual meeting of the Seventh Regiment Athletic Association was held in the lecture room of the armories last evening. The interest which is being taken by officers, non-coms and men in the sports of the winter season was shown by the large attendance, and rank and file being very well represented.

The officers were elected as follows:

President—Capt. Frank Reid.

Vice-President—Lieut. Andrews.

Secretary—Lieut. Ware.

Treasurer—Sergt. Gibson.

Auditors—Color-Sergt. Marshall and Sergt. Cook.

The executive committee will consist of the officers and the conveners of the various committees, who are: Indoor baseball, Lieut. Gordon Ingram; bowling, Capt. Campbell; shooting, Capt. Murphy; hockey, Sergt.-Major Milligan; whist, Color-Sergt. Insley. The appointment of a convener for the pushball committee was left with the executive committee.

The convener of each committee will have associated with him a representative from every company in the regiment. Thus at every meeting of the executive the companies will be represented through the committee conveners.

While the regiment will have all kinds of sports during the season, it is quite likely that indoor baseball will prove to be the favorite. A schedule of games will be drawn up, to include a long series of inter-company games. Then the regiment will have a team drawn from all the companies to play with outside teams. There will also be a team composed entirely of officers of the regiment.

GRAIN BLOCKADE AT BUFFALO; NO CARS; EXPORTERS HARD HIT

New York, Oct. 10.—The Journal of Commerce says: Grain and flour exporters of New York just now are undergoing one of the most severe experiences in their trades' history. They have bought largely in the west, contracted for delivery on the other side, and have engaged berth-room on outgoing steamships, yet on account of the car shortage or blockade at Buffalo, vessels are sailing without cargo, and large losses are being suffered.

Traffic officials of the railroads constituting the Trunk Line Association at a meeting yesterday with the grain committee of the produce exchange made definite promises to at once relieve the grain freight blockade at Buffalo, which is so seriously affecting the export business at New York.

It was officially stated last evening that the grain men made out such a strong case that the railroads decided on the spot that every available car should be withdrawn at once from all branch lines, and the general movement of merchandise allowed to suffer in order to take care of the ex-lake grain business. After the close of the conference it was officially stated that the grain exporters of New York have every reason to be satisfied with the agreement entered into. The Trunk Line Association of Railroads fully realize, it was said, that the present situation is unprecedented, and accordingly, are willing to sacrifice revenue in order to accommodate their customers at the terminal point.

The situation is one that has been particularly injurious to the export flour trade, as especially large contracts have been made by the millers for ocean accommodations via the port of New York, and millers have been compelled to send their flour all rail from the Northwest at the corresponding higher rates for this class of transportation over lake and rail [illegible]

CZAR FREES CANADIANS

Caught on Jap Vessel and Languished in Prison During the War.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The Secretary of State has been notified that through the mediation of the British foreign office, two Canadian sailors, Grant, of Victoria, B. C., and Findlay, of Pictou, N. S., who languished for months in a Russian prison at Medweid, have been freed. They belonged to the crew of a Japanese sailing vessel that was captured and sunk by Russian men-of-war last year. As soon as the Canadian Government learned of their case, it appealed to the British foreign office for their release, which has now been happily granted.

UNIVERSAL PENNY POSTAGE

Henniker Heaton Proposes World-Wide Scheme for One Rate.

London, Oct. 10.—In this Tuesday's issue more than a page of the Times is devoted to the publication of a plea by J. Henniker Heaton, M. P., and others for universal penny postage. Mr. Heaton leads off with a powerful argument in support of the scheme, an agitation for which he has been engaged in for a great many years. There follow scores of letters indorsing the scheme from representative men of all classes—bishops, peers, members of Parliament, scientists, soldiers, authors and merchants.

ENGLISH PREFER CANADIAN FOODS

Dairy Commissioner Just Back Says Demand Is Widespread and Growing.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dominion dairy commissioner, returned to Ottawa, after a three-months visit to Europe. During his absence he visited England, Scotland, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, and Sweden for the purpose of studying market and dairy conditions, with a view to the improvement of Canadian trade. He says the quality of Canadian butter which has been sent over to Great Britain this year has been excellent. There has been a scarcity of continental butter in the English market, and consequently a greater demand for the Canadian product. The cheese business is in a healthy condition, the cheese arriving from Canada in fine form. The facilities for handling cheese on the other side are vastly improved, and the percentage of breakages of boxes has been greatly reduced. The weakest feature of the Canadian cheese business is the durability of the packages, and Mr. Ruddick proposes to devote some attention to the securing of a stronger package.

Referring to cold storage facilities in England, Mr. Ruddick says in London they are the very best. The Surrey commercial dock, for instance, has spent over $500,000 on a new cold storage warehouse. Bristol has good cold storage, and at Glasgow and Liverpool, though the facilities as yet are not quite so good, the authorities he talked with seemed well disposed to endeavor to provide the necessary accommodation. The ocean refrigeration, owing to the work of the department of agriculture, now regulates itself, as only the ships that have cold storage can get the trade.

"How do Canadian fruit and bacon stand in the market?"

"Very satisfactory as regards the latter. Merchants told me that they ask for Canadian in preference to others very often, because it was Canadian. I saw enough of the imperial sentiment to know that, other things being equal, both merchants and people would ask for Canadian goods in preference to the foreign articles on the strength of that sentiment."

During his tour the dairy commissioner visited the Canadian inspectors of dairy products at the ports of Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Bristol, and London, and looked carefully into the methods of inspection of Canadian goods as they enter the ports.

TRIED THE RAZOR ROUTE

Geo. Thackeray, Canadian, in Jail in Detroit, Evidently Weary of Life.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10. — A man who gave his name as George Thackeray, and latterly as George Thomson, and said that his parents live at 215 Chestnut street, Toronto, was yesterday fined $10 or six months in the House of Correction for disorderly conduct. Having no money, he was temporarily placed in the county jail. Last night he was found in his cell bleeding from wounds in the neck and wrist, self-inflicted by the aid of a razor. He still held the razor in his hand and defied anyone to approach him. He was overpowered and placed in the hospital ward. Though severe, he is not dangerously injured. The man got the razor yesterday, when the officials were handing out razors to prisoners who wished to shave themselves, and he hid it away.

B. C. HOLDS UP TIMBER

Will Not Permit a Stick To Be Shipped to United States.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 10.—A Victoria, B. C., dispatch says the Provincial Government has seized six large booms of logs that had been sold to United States mills, and were being exported. The Legislature has announced that not a stick of provincial timber shall go into the United States, and that Americans must manufacture here if they use British Columbia timber. Cedar is scarce in Puget Sound and is rotting in the woods here, only clear cedar being taken from the tree for shingle bolts. An enormous smuggling business was being carried on, which is now being stopped by the Government.

$250 A DAY FOR LUNCH

Mutual Life Paid It Out to Feed Clerical Force.

New York, Oct. 10. — Walter R. Gillette, vice-president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, testified before the insurance investigating committee today that the Mutual Life Insurance Company paid $72,861 last year for luncheons for its clerical force in this city. This was at the rate of almost $250 a day.

OFF TO YOKOHAMA

Powerful British Squadron To Be Given a Reception by Japan.

Tokio, Oct. 10, 6 p.m.—The British squadron, commanded by Vice-Admiral Sir Gerard Noel, left Kobe early this morning for Yokohama. The vessels steamed out in single line formation, headed by six torpedo boat destroyers. There was a display of day fireworks as the squadron passed Wada Point. A number of Japanese warships also left Kobe for Yokohama at about the same time. The long line of warships made a grand sight.

Admiral Noel will return to Kobe after the reception of the visiting officers at Tokio, and later will visit Osaka with a portion of his squadron.

The newspapers tomorrow will editorially extend a welcome to the British warships. The chairman of the muncipal council of Tokio and several other officials will go to Yokohama to meet Admiral Noel.

BLOODY SATURDAY IN MISSISSIPPI

Two Negroes and Three Whites Meet Death in Sunflower County Feuds.

Indianola, Miss., Oct. 10. — Last Saturday was a bloody day in the history of Sunflower county, five people meeting death.

Near Woodburn, Sid Goodall and Jim Hodges, negroes, engaged in a duel over a negro woman, and both were killed.

F. F. Harwell and Frank Fuller, both white, had a difficulty in Rulenville, in which Fuller was shot through the heart and killed instantly.

Later in the day the young son of Harwell had occasion to go to Rulenville, when C. Z. Bennett, who was a friend of the dead Fuller, secreted himself, and without a word of warning, emptied both barrels of a shotgun into young Harwell, killing him instantly.

At Elliotts' Mill, near Indianola, Saturday night, S. T. Allen,, a laborer, plunged a knife into Jim Decker seven times, killing him instantly.

MAY USE NIAGARA POWER

Grand Trunk Investigating It for Use in Sarnia Tunnel.

Sarnia, Oct. 10.—A rumor is current here that the reason for the delay of the Grand Trunk Railway Company in equipping the St. Clair tunnel with electricity is because the company are anxious to investigate the feasibility of Niagara power. It is a year ago since the fatality when six men lost their lives by gas in the tunnel. The railway commission recommended the electrification of the tunnel, and the work has not yet begun. As the required electrical power would be enormous, it is claimed that the railway authorities are giving attention to the feasibility of transmitting Niagara power.

RUSS ASSASSIN ESCAPES

Man Who Killed Finland's Procurator-General Breaks Jail.

Helsingfors, Finland, Oct. 10. — Hohenthal, the murderer of Soisalon Soininen, the procurator-general of Finland, escaped during the night from the prison here, where he was undergoing a sentence of imprisonment for life.

Karl Leonard Hohenthal was formerly a student of the Imperial Alexander University at Helsingfors. He wounded a son of the murdered man, and was wounded himself in a fight which followed the murder. Hohenthal was actuated by the widespread condemnation of Soininen's failure as procurator-general to guard the ancient laws of Finland.

MURDER CHARGE IN WRIGHT CASE

Dead Negro's Companions Must Stand Trial.

BACK TO WOODSTOCK JAIL

Hartsell Released, But Dennis, Bell, Bowers and Wilson Will be Tried at the March Assizes.

Ingersoll, Oct. 9. — George Dennis, George Bowers, Ewart Bell and Thomas Wilson today received a preliminary hearing into the death of Isaiah Wright, colored, whose dead body was taken from the Thames some days ago. The result was that the four stand charged with the murder of Wright and will be tried at the March assizes. They were taken at once to Woodstock jail. George Hartsell was discharged, as there was no evidence upon which to base his detention.

Crown Attorney Ball represented the crown, and Col. J. C. Hegler and J. H. Hegler the prisoners.

Under Col. Hegler's cross-examination, John McMillan, who found the body, swore that Wright might have crawled or rolled under the girders of the bridge. If he did, he would strike his head on an iron rod running the full length of the bridge, or on the timber supports.

Dr. McKay's evidence was to the effect that Wright was drowned. He declared that the bruise on Wright's head might have been due to a blow that would cause unconsciousness. Dr. Coleridge's evidence was practically the same as Dr. McKay's.

In summing up Col. Hegler contended that the crown had not shown that a murder had been committed. The evidence of Campbell, which the crown could not discredit, as he was a crown witness, showed that the men on the bridge with Wright were friendly to him, and that everyone was having a good time. The body was in such a position that had it been put there by the prisoners they would have been likely to have ran away, fearing discovery. That they remained in town was presumptive evidence that they were not guilty. If there had been a concerted plan to kill Wright, Hartsell would not mave gone home at 11 p.m. while Wright was still dancing.

He pleaded that no matter what was gone with four of the prisoners, still Hartsell should be set free.

Crown Attorney Ball said that he was present not as a maker of the law, but to see that the law was carried out. The question the magistrate had to decide was whether there was sufficient evidence to warrant the putting of the prisoners on trial.

He believed Hartsell should be freed.

The magistrate dismissed the case against George Hartsell.

The magistrate then had the prisoners lined up, and said the charge against them was that they did murder Isaiah Wright. It was true he had lost his life, and the evidence pointed strongly to the belief that they were with him when the end came.

The crown believes that in a drunken scuffle Wright was rendered unconscious, and when in that condition was thrown into the river by his comrades. The difficulty of proving this is already apparent.

The defense claims that Wright fell over the bridge rail or rolled under it, into the river. The wound in his head was caused by his striking an iron bar or a timber support. This rendered him unconscious and he was drowned.

An Old Style Hold-Up.

Redding, Cal., Oct. 10.—A bandit held up the Redding and Delmar stage, which carried money to pay off the employes of the Bully Hill mine yesterday. D. N. Huskell, the express messenger, was shot, but he may recover. When the driver whipped up the horses two more highwaymen appeared, and there was a running fight for 200 yards, the stage escaping.

Admiral Sao Dead.

Tokio, Oct. 10.—Admiral Sao, inspector-general of naval construction, is dead. His death is deeply lamented in naval circles as a heavy loss to the nation.

The abrogation of martial law has had the effect of removing to a great extent the business depression in this city, and the public is now feeling in a more suitable mood to extend the heartiest kind of a reception to the British fleet, which is expected to arrive at Yokohama tomorrow.

Cabinet to Talk Elections.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—A cabinet meeting will be held this afternoon, when the question of holding the bye-elections will be discussed. The eastern ones can be pulled off any time, but new lists will be required for the Northwest.

British M. P. Looked On.

New York, Oct. 10.—Sir John Leng, member of the British Parliament, was a guest of the insurance investigating committee at its sessions today. The first witness was Robert Olyphant, chairman of the expenditure committee of the Mutual Life Insurance Company. From him it was expected to learn what became of $75,000 charged to legal expenses. This sum was spent in three installments of $25,000 each, the last installment being paid the day after the presidential election last year

Brigands Hold Englishman,

Salonica, Oct. 9. —The British consulate at Monastir has received a package containing a human ear, which a letter accompanying the package declares was cut from an Englishman named Willis, recently employed by the Turkish tobacco revenue department.

Willis was captured by brigands some months ago, and the letter threatened that he would be murdered unless a ransom of $5,000 was paid.

Only Two Aldermen Voted Against New Belt Bylaw

City Council Accedes to Railway's Wishes and Edward St. Line Will Be Laid.

The question of the Edward street belt line was settled for all time to come last night, when the City Council, at a special meeting, passed a new bylaw embodying a penalty clause similar to that contained in bylaw 2,424. This is in accordance with the wishes of the company, and provides that if the Edward street line is not completed by July 1 next, the railway will forfeit its rights on South street, Beaconsfield avenue, the Wortley road, and the Hamilton road, east of Rectory street.

The vote was 9 to 2 in favor of a new bylaw.

To rescind the bylaw passed recently, providing for the forfeiture of all the company's rights in London, was unnecessary, the bylaw having become inoperative owing to the railway company refusing to accept its provisions, in fifteen days.

When the council was called to order, the city clerk read the letter of the street railway, outlining what it was ready to accept in the way of a penalty clause, and a letter from ex-Ald. Judd, asking, on behalf of the South Londoners, that the council accept the railway company's terms. This brought a motion for the first reading of the new bylaw, which had been prepared by the city solicitor, Ald. Matthews alone opposing it. Although it mattered not one particle, Ald. Cooper wanted the bylaw to fix a time when work should be started on the Edward street line, and his wishes were acceded to. Vice-President Smallman agreeing to May 1 next as the date.

Solicitor's Opinion Uncharged.

Then the council settled down to discuss the matter. Ald. Matthews asked the mayor if, at the meeting the other day, City Solicitor Meredith had altered his opinion, expressed before the council, that it was best to have the penalty clause provide for the forfeiture of all rights enjoyed by the company.

"No," answered Mayor Campbell, "he said if it was his private business he was transacting he would insist on the bylaw as originally drawn."

Ald. Matthews said he heard that there had been sufficient aldermen secured to carry the new bylaw through the council. He did not know why it should be said on the street, when two weeks ago the council passed unanimously a bylaw in accordance with the opinion of the solicitor. Ald. Matthews did not know that any of the aldermen are under a compliment to the street railway company, that they should swallow themselves holus bolus in two weeks' time. However, he wanted to ask Ald. Stevely, Gillean and Gerry if they are not in receipt of complimentary tickets.

Ald. Gillean unhesitatingly acknowledged that he was in receipt of complimentary tickets from the company, but not in his capacity as an alderman. He was official timekeeper for the company, and it was for work performed as such that he received a pass over the city lines. That was the only payment he received for his work.

Under No Obligation to Company.

Ald. Stevely declared he was under no obligation to the railway company.

"I did not ask you that," retorted Ald. Matthews. "Do you get any complimentary tickets?"

"No."

"Any passes?"

"None."

Ald. Matthews went on to say that he did not blame the company for getting enough aldermen to carry the bylaw through. The company is entitled to drive the best bargain possible. He felt that he could not go back on his previous vote, the city solicitor not having changed his opinion of the matter. "I believe if we had more aldermen who would stand by a bylaw when they passed it, the citizens would think more highly of us, and not say that we are a lot of old women, so plastic that we could be swayed to and fro by the opinions of others," concluded Ald. Matthews.

Ald. Stevely assured the council that the question had been thoroughly discussed at the meeting of the street railway with himself and Ald. Forristal, and it was at the suggestion of the city solicitor that the city secured the opinion of Engineer Rust, of Toronto, regarding the "T" rail. Ald. Stevely informed the aldermen that he had been a member of the council for seven years, and that during that time he had received no favors from the street railway company or others.

A Slap at Ald. Matthews.

Ald. Greenlees took a slap at Ald. Matthews when he quietly remarked that some aldermen were proud over very little. He (Ald. Greenlees) could not see that Ald. Matthews had anything to be proud of. He did not care if Ald. Matthews termed the action of the council "swallowing" themselves or not. Ald. Greenlees thought the protection clause in the first bylaw was extravagant, but he bowed to the opinion of the city solicitor. He considered that under the present bylaw the city was well enough protected. It was his opinion that by passing the new bylaw the aldermen, instead of being plastic, easy or old grannies, were prepared to show themselves ready to look on things in a business-like way.

Ald. Forristal corroborated what Ald. Stevely had said regarding the conference with the street railway, and he added that he did not consider he was swallowing himself. The only fault he had to find was that the bylaw did not provide for a slightly heavier rail.

Ald. Gerry answered Ald. Matthews by saying that he was wondering why he had been singled out with Ald. Stevely and Gillean. Had some person told Ald. Matthews that the three Grit aldermen needed to be bribed in order to do what was right and just?

The debate concluded by Ald. Matthews assuring the aldermen that he had not accused any of them of being bribed, but simply asked if they were under any obligation to the railway.

The bylaw was given a third reading and passed, Ald. Matthews and Ald. Wyatt alone voting nay. Ald. Saunders was the only absentee.

JURORS SELECTED

City Chooses Three Hundred for Service Next Year.

Mayor Campbell, City Clerk Baker and Assessment Commissioner Grant today selected the list of jurors for next year. There are 305 grand and petit jurors named from the several wards as follows: Ward 1, 70; ward 2, 42; ward 3, 75; ward 4, 118.

TOWN BOYCOTTS NON-UNION MEN

G. T. R. Switchmen Go Supperless to Bed in a Box Car.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—A weary, hungry lot of non-union switchmen spent last night in box cars on a siding of the Grand Trunk freight yards at Elsdon. They did not take the lodgings from choice, but because the residents of Elsdon, out of sympathy for the strikers, had driven every non-union man from shelter in the suburb.

Every hotel, lodging quarters, boarding house and private residence in Elsdon joined in the boycott. Even the saloons refused admittance to the unwelcome strangers. Yardmaster Conroy, of the Grand Trunk, offered them some empty box cars on the siding. Blankets were procured, and the 48 non-union men went supperless to bed.

The railroad officials said that arrangements would be made to house the men in barracks.

Miss Roosevelt in Japan.

Tokio, Oct. 10.—Miss Alice Roosevelt passed through Tokio today on her way to Yokohama, escorted by Master of Ceremonies Nagaskai Seigo, specially detailed from the imperial household department to accompany her. She will sail from Yokohama for San Francisco, Oct. 13.

ANOTHER POACHER CAUGHT

Valiant, Worth $4,000, Taken by the U. S. in Canadian Waters.

Conneaut, O., Oct. 10.—The United States revenue cutter Morrill yesterday captured the American fish tug Valiant of Erie off this port, while the tug was several miles across the Canadian line.

The Valiant is owned by A. Booth & Co., and carried 600 pounds of fish. She is valued at $4,000.

KING COULDN'T SECURE CABINET

The Austrian House Prorogues Amidst Scenes of Great Excitement.

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 10.—Parliament was prorogued today by royal rescript until Dec. 19. Acting Premier Baron Fejervary and his colleagues did not attend the brief sitting of Parliament. The baron merely sent the President of the Lower House the rescript signed by the King-Emperor Francis Joseph, proroguing Parliament and explaining that the step was necessitated by the fact that no success had been attained in forming a new cabinet on a basis which would secure Parliament against disorder.

Shouts of "scoundrels" and similar epithets mingled with queries of "Where is the constitution?" greeting the reading of the rescript, but there were no cabinet ministers present to take note of the insults hurled at them.

Count Julius Andrassy rose and denounced the ministers, who, contrary to precedent, failed to appear before Parliament.

"The Government," he said, "has thereby shown contempt of the House and has abandoned all pretense of conforming with the laws."

$50,000 FOR PROFESSOR BEHRING IF ANNOUNCE CONSUMPTION CURE

Wealthy New Yorker Wants Discovery Given to the World at Once.

New York, Oct. 10.—The Herald today says: Professor Behring's anonuncement to the International Tuberculosis Congress in Paris of a cure for consumption has aroused widespread interest in America. One of New York's wealthiest and best-known citizens, whose name is withheld for the present, has authorized the Herald to announce that he will contribute $50,000 to a fund to present to Professor Behring if he will at once announce to the world his treatment, and not withhold it for a year. The only qualification to this offer is that the treatment must first be pronounced successful by a competent committee of physicians, of which the donor's physician, one of the widest of practitioners in America, is to be a member.

THEIR HONEYMOON ON THE "L" TRAINS

Children Wed Because They Loved So Much.

A SIXTEEN-YEAR OLD BENEDICT

Hsled to Juvenile Court, But Is Allowed to Go on Condition He Proves a Good Husband.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—There is one husband in Chicago for whom the iron gates of a reformatory will swing open if he stays out late at night or once departs from the straight and narrow path.

This husband was paroled to Probation Officer O'Meara yesterday by Judge Mack, of the juvenile court. His name is William Costello. He is 16 years old and lives with his wife, Mrs. Sadie Mathews Costello, at 3636 Ashland avenue. And if Willie doesn't behave himself like all good boys he will be taken into the juvenile court and punished.

Weeping mothers were saying farewells to their wayward sons and daughters, and truants in the tow of big policemen were hurrying through the hallways to the parental school bus yesterday afternoon when the chief probation officer called for Wm. Costello.

A slender boy pushed his way through the throng and appeared before the bench.

"Well, Willie, what have you been doing?" asked Judge Mack kindly.

"I've been getting married," answered the lad, smiling sheepishly.

"Yes, that's what he's been doing, and I had him arrested," began the boy's mother. "He's no good. I'm sorry for his wife. He's treated me shamefully——"

"Wait a minute, wait a minute," interrupted Judge Mack. "I want to hear the boy's story. How old are you, my boy?"

"Sixteen."

"And do you think you can support a wife?"

"Yes, I was making $2 20 a day before I got arrested, and that's enough to keep any wife on."

"Where's your wife?" demanded the court.

A girlish figure came through the crowd and stood before the judge. Her eyes blazed with defiance as she glanced at her mother-in-law.

"How old are you?" Judge Mack asked.

"Nineteen," repiled the girl.

"Why did you marry this boy?"

"Because I loved him so, your honor," said the girl calmly.

"Well, that's not so bad," commented the judge in an undertone.

Then there ensued the following colloquy:

Bride's Mother-in-law — That girl doesn't know what she's getting. That boy is bad. He swears at his mother. He never gave me more than $2 a week. He never earned more than $4.

Bride—I know what kind of a husband I am getting, and I'm willing to take my chances.

Husband's Mother-in-law — I guess my daughter is just as good as your son.

Bride's Aunt—They are living with us and are happy.

Bride and Groom in Unison—I should say we are happy.

Bride's Mother-in-law—But I can have it annulled. I want to have that done. I want the boy kept in some institution until he is of age.

Husband—That will only be an expense to you, for I'll wait and marry her when I'm of age.

Bride—Yes, and I'll wait for Will, too.

Court—Well, if it's so easy to wait, why didn't you do some waiting in the beginning?

Bride and Groom in Unison — We loved each other too much.

Judge Mack interrupted. First he questioned the lad and then the girl. He learned that they had been married a week. The groom told the court a friend secured the license for him. The honeymoon, he said, was spent on elevated trains and at the White City.

"Well, you are married, so I guess the best thing is for you to carry out your promises to love and cherish each other. I won't interfere. My boy, you are discharged. Be a good boy and a good husband."

Willie and Sadie kissed and were about to leave the courtroom, when Judge Mack called them back.

"I'm going to appoint a probation officer over this boy. I'll parole him to Miss Hughes."

"O, your honor, I beg to be excused in this case," exclaimed Miss Hughes, in whose mind rose visions of a jealous wife.

The court smiled and then named Officer O'Meara.

"You must report to Officer O'Meara once a week, and it will be his duty to see that you behave as a good husband should," was the judge's last injunction to the boy.

"Thank you, judge," exclaimed young Mrs. Costello, gratefully. Then, turning to her boy husband, she kissed him.

"I wash my hands of the whole affair," declared the boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Costello, 4122 Artesian avenue.

QUITS NOBILITY FOR THE STAGE

Countess Kinsky, of Hungary, to Sing in Opera.

FINDS SMALL TALK WEARISOME

Women Continually Discussed Dress and Her Husband Refused to Stop Gambling.

Viena, Oct. 10. — Ilka von Palmay, the beautiful and famous Hungarian light opera singer, who married Count Eugene Kinsky and retired from the stage, but who recently returned to it again, is making a professional visit to the United States. All her arrangements are indefinite, beyond the fact that she will stay some five months in America.

"I have made no contracts with any American theaters or managers," she said, "preferring not to do so until after I arrive in New York. I have had many inquiries and offers, but, as I know nothing of the conditions on the American stage, I prefer to leave myself free for the time. But I am sure I shall like America and the people. I know already so many Americans and have heaps of friends among them."

The countess expects to appear only in light opera in English, although she sings in four languages—English, German, French and Hungarian.

It is now slightly over twelve years since this sprightliest of Hungarian footlight favorites forsook the stage after marrying into the distinguished and noble family of Kinsky. That, however, was not her first matrimonial experience. She previously had rid herself of a crazy husband by getting him locked up in a mad house, not to mention having been courted rather ardently by four or more other Bohemian and Hungarian noblemen. As a matter of fact, Ilka von Palmay charmed everyone who saw or met her. Mark Twain himself who made her acquaintance during his visit to Vienna several years ago, declared that "there could have been few more charming or sweeter women." Count Eugene Kinsky who finally won the fair singer's heart and introduced her into the great world, is the handsomest scion of a house of proverbially handsome men.

Since her marriage, with the exception of a season in London, where she scored a great success in "The Londoners," the countess has played only on rare occasions, and then only for charities. For some time, however, her domestic affairs have not gone especially well, and, after long deliberation the countess decided to become once more Ilka von Palmay, the singer. Of the reasons which led her to abandon fashionable life among the great aristocracy of Austria-Hungary, she spoke openly, though with nothing but the kindest references to her late friends and associates.

"As my husband," she said, "persists in gambling, I have resolved to return to the stage. That is all. We had no quarrel nor trouble of any kind. We are not divorced nor legally separated in any way. We are simply living apart. He is a perfect gentleman and I have not a word to say against him. His family, too, has always treated me with the greatest kindness. But I feel I shall be much happier on the stage."

Regarding the subject of actresses and matrimony, Countess Kinsky Palmay holds decided views. "I doubt much," she remarked, "whether actresses ought to marry at all unless the union brings children, and the woman becomes fully occupied with the cares of family life. I am sure they should not. I speak not only from my own experience. I have thought much upon the subject, and from personal observation, too, have reached this conclusion.

"It is simply impossible for a woman of keen artistic temperament, who has once experienced the joys of dramatic triumphs to settle down into a quiet, humdrum existence, even though it be among the most aristocratic circles. To live with people whose one idea is to amuse themselves, whose conversation is limited to dress and scandal in the case of women, and to sport and ballet dancers in male circles, is unbearable. I do not say that all Austrian and Hungarian fashionable people live such selfish, empty, purposeless lives. Many of them are highly cultivated, intelligent and delightful friends and companions. But there are, alas! many others, who think and talk of little else than dress and pleasure, who have no ideas of a world outside.

"To be condemned to meet these people in society day after day is, for a person of artistic temperament, impossible. Far better to return to the stage and work for one's living in a congenial atmosphere and enjoy the delightful camaraderie only to be found among actors and artists.

"And so," added the countess, "this is what I have decided to do. I have said farewell to society life, and am returning to the stage once more, with nothing but the most pleasurable anticipations. I am the more delighted that it is on the American stage that I shall make my first appearance, as I have heard so much of the kindly, generous appreciation of the American audience, and I am most anxious to have the experience for myself."

300 VILLAGES DESTROYED

$30,000,000 Damage Done by the Recent Italian Earthquakes.

Rome, Oct. 9.—According to the latest official reports, three hundred villages were destroyed by the recent earthquake in the province of Calabria. Reconstruction work, it is estimated, will cost about $30,000,000, and funds contributed up to the present time amounts to $400,000.

The Pope is much distressed because of the situation, especially now that the severity of the autumn weather is felt among the inhabitants of the stricken districts. His Holiness today received the Right Rev. Francis Bourne, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, in audience, and thanked him warmly for opening a collection among the clergy of Westminster, adding "all good Catholics throughout the world should imitate him."

A HEAVY PENALTY

"But, mamma, I would rather do anything than marry him. Indeed, I don't want to marry anybody; I am very happy as I am," said poor Lily, piteously clasping her hands together; for it was shocking to her more refined and delicate mind that her mother should deliberately plan to capture a husband for her. But before she had time to plead her dismay and dislike to the whole scheme, the door opened, and the two young men entered.

"You must come down to the farm and see my new machine for chopping turnips," said the baronet, cheerily, shaking hands with Mrs. Finch. "All the children are coming, and your daughter has said she will come too."

"Thank you, Sir Edgar, but I am thinking of taking my daughter back to Wrexham this afternoon," answered Mrs. Finch, rather stiffly.

"Oh! but there is plenty of time for you to come round by the farm first; indeed, I can not take a refusal."

Edgar Dyson had a pleasant, winning manner—it was almost impossible for Mrs. Finch to decline the expedition.

Sir Edgar did not, however, gain much by the proposed walk. The four children went on in front; Lily, out of modesty, shrunk behind; while Norman, with an easy familiarity, took his place by her side, so that the baronet was perforce obliged to walk before them, with Mrs. Finch as his companion—an arrangement which, much as that lady herself approved of, was hardly to his own satisfaction.

Norman and Lily walked on for some minutes in silence.

They had not much to say to each other; they saw each other frequently and they called each other by their Christian names. There was a sort of cousinship between them which warranted the familiarity, the defunct Mr. Finch having been a second cousin of old Mr. King. Norman thought Lily a dear, sweet-tempered little thing, without much to say for herself; Lily liked Norman because he was kind to her, and took pains to be more civil to her mother than his grandfather did, otherwise she thought very little about him. There never had been the slightest symptom of love-making between them.

"So your cousins from France are coming to live at Wrexham, I hear?" said Lily, at length, more for the sake of something to say than because she took any particular interest in the unknown Misses King.

"Yes, one of them arrives tonight."

"Is she pretty?" asked Lily, listlessly, with her eyes fixed upon Sir Edgar's broad back in front of her.

A sudden flush swept over Norman's fair face, but Lily did not see this because she was considering deeply whether she would ever have strength of mind enough to prevent Sir Edgar from behaving to her as though he were her lover. Something, however, in Norman's voice, as he answered Lily, heartily, "You like her, of course?"

"No; I don't think anybody could like her," answered Norman, coldly. Lily opened her eyes. "Because," he continued, "she has what is a fatal blot upon any woman's beauty—a terrific temper."

"Really? What a pity," said Lily, with some interest.

"A bad-tempered woman is like a distorted flower, nothing can be more repulsive than to meet with moral ugliness where one expects to find nothing but beauty and harmony. I think a man whose wife has a violent and ill-controlled disposition is very much to be pitied, You, Lily," turning suddenly to her, with a smile, "you have the sweetest temper I have ever met with. I have often noticed it and admired it."

Lily blushed a little with a vague sense of uneasiness, and turned slightly away.

"I am sorry your cousin is so unamiable," she said, to divert the conversation from herself; "and the other one?"

"I have never seen Florrie, and she is not coming to Wrexham just yet," he answered, rather shortly.

Truth to say, the whole subject of his two cousins was rather distasteful to Norman just now. He was angry with Florrie for not coming, and angry also with Stella for coming alone; for, in spite of his indignant condemnation of her temper, he knew that at his heart her beauty would very probably disturb his peace. And then Norman was angry with his grandfather for limiting his choice of a wife to these two sisters, and was half disposed to determine that he would marry Lily or any other girl whom he might meet, if only he could throw every other consideration to the winds and follow his own fancy in the matter. Not that he cared about Lily, only she was neither Stella, whom he had seen, and who troubled his dreams, nor yet Florrie, whom he had not seen, but who seemed to take a malicious pleasure in avoiding his presence.

"What business had she to stay in France when he wanted her in England?" he said to himself, irritably. And, for a time, both sisters were odious to him, and Lily's attractions stood out forcibly in contrast to them.

Meanwhile they had reached the farm, and Sir Edgar turned round to call them into the covered shed where the new machine had been drawn up.

Farm machinery was a hobby of Sir Edgar Dyson, and although not one of his hearers knew anything about the subject, or cared very much about it, he took a great delight in explaining and expounding the workings of all the different wheels, and cogs, and joints of the machine. Only Lily listened intently, with her soft brow puckered up eagerly, trying hard to understand where the turnips were put in and what happened to them inside, and how they managed to come out of it chopped up—giving her whole mind to the process as though the breaking up into pieces of the homely vegetable were the one thing on earth she was most anxious to learn about. But that was because Sir Edgar was interested in it, and every true woman tries to share and enter into the tastes of the man she loves.

Somehow it came to pass that, in spite of all Mrs. Finch's vigilance, these two came to be separated a little from the others. It is difficult quite to know how it happened. Alice called Mrs. Finch to come into the poultry-yard and look at her own special white hen, of which she was very proud, and Norman, at the same minute, happened to wander away to the shed where the other children were busy inspecting the cows. Suddenly Edgar looked up and perceived that he and Lily were left alone in the barn with the machine; he instantly ceased his essay on turnip cutting, and took hold of her hand.

"I suppose your mother has been setting you against me as usual?" he said, rather roughly.

Lily looked pained.

"Indeed, Sir Edgar, I think she is quite right," she answered, with tears in her eyes; "and I think you will end by driving me away from here."

They were the hardest words she had ever spoken to him.

"So it has come to that—that you think me a brute—that you are afraid of me? I don't think much of your love, Lily."

She tried to draw her hand away, but he held it tightly and would not let it go."

They neither of them heard the stopping of a carriage close by the farm, nor the advancing steps of a lady who come toward them across the yard.

All at once a voice behind them made them spring guiltily apart.

"Dear me, Miss Finch, how very extraordinary! Where are the children, pray, and how come you not to be at lessons this morning? I heard voices, and stopped the carriage to see who was here; and dear me, can I believe my eyes?"—turning toward her son as if she had only just perceived him—"you, Edgar!" It is impossible to describe the mingled amazement and horror with which Lady Dyson spoke her son's name.

But as to Lily, if the earth could only have opened and swallowed her up she would have been very thankful.

CHAPTER X.

Wrexham Hall looked very gaunt and dreary as Stella King drove up alone to it in the dim gloom of the winter evening. Everything about the long facade, with its ponderous rows of white columns and its imposing Grecian portico, looked wealthy, and solemn, and intensely respectable, but was scarcely calculated to impress confidence or cheerfulness upon the heart of the desolate girl who had come alone to find a home beneath its roof.

As the fly which had been thought good enough to bring her and her modest luggage from the station drew up noisily upon the stone flags under the porch, Stella's heart sunk within her, and she could not help thinking bitterly of Florrie's selfish desertion of her.

Two powdered footmen, splendid creatures in crimson and black, flung open the doors to receive her, and ushered her into the large well-lighted hall. No one was there to welcome her.

Her heart sunk within her as she followed one of the servants down a long corridor, but when the man opened a door at the further end of it and told her respectfully that she would find Mr. King there in his study, Stella plucked up her courage, and determined to meet her grandfather with that spirit of independence and self-respect which was natural to her.

The old man was seated by his table, reading by the light of a shaded lamp. He rose at her entrance, and Stella thought his long, angular figure would never come to its full height as it raised itself slowly out of the depths of his low, leathern arm-chair. In all her life she had never seen any one so thin and tall.

"How d'ye do?" he said, not very graciously, holding out his long, claw-like hand to her. "Why didn't your sister come with you? I think she ought to have come; I am very much displeased that she should have begun by disobeying me."

"I am very sorry that you are vexed, grandpapa. I think, too, it would have been better if she had come here; but she had such a tempting invitation to Paris, and she is very young—"

"There—there! that will do," he interrupted, irritably. "I don't want to hear a whole list of excuses. I suppose your mother has brought you up like French girls, to do just as you please and go your own way."

"I don't think French girls go their own way at all," said Stella, smiling. "As a rule they are kept far more strictly than English girls."

Mr. King looked a little surprised. I was rather astonishing to him to be answered and contradicted by this slight, fair girl. The young lady seemed to have plenty of self-confidence, at all events. Perhaps the old man did not think any the worse of her for it.

"Come here and let me look at you," he said, shortly, prudently dropping the discussion concerning the education of French girls. He drew her near to him and held up the lamp so that it fell full upon her lovely face. He was evidently not displeased by what he saw, for his expression softened a little.

"So you are the young lady who refused to marry my heir, Norman Allingham?" he said, rather roughly.

Stella colored with a little natural indignation.

"I certainly refused him," she answered, composedly.

"Well, I am sorry you didn't hit it off, for you have your father's good looks. Is your sister as pretty as you are?"

"I'm sure I don't know," answered Stella, and she could not help laughing a little at this strange catechism through which the old man was putting her, "we are considered alike."

"Humph!" He dropped her hand and put the lamp down again upon the table. "You were a fool to refuse him," he said, shortly, "it's so much the worse for you, and so much the better for her. I shall only allow her to stop in Paris a month. You children don't seem to have understood that I am your natural guardian, and as long as you are under age you are bound to obey me, do you hear," looking at her rather savagely—"to obey me."

"Yes, I hear you, grandpapa, and I will do my best to be dutiful," she answered, quietly, adding, however, after a moment's pause, "as long as you only require from me what is right and reasonable."

It required some courage to say that and after she had said it she was half afraid he would be angry. But this old man only laughed, with a sort of little inward chuckle, as though he were very much amused. Her fearlessness was rather fascinating to him, and, all unknown to her, reminded him of her dead father, toward whom his withered old heart had softened when he had heard of his death.

"What on earth made you come at such an hour?" he said, changing the subject. "Dinner has been over long ago; it is a most awkward time of day to arrive."

"I could not help the boats and the trains," said Stella smiling.

"Well, I couldn't keep dinner waiting for you; I never alter my dinner hour for anybody. I suppose you are not hungry?" looking at her sharply, as though he dared her to own such a thing. But Stella was quite undaunted.

"Indeed, I am very hungry indeed, I hope you will allow me something to eat."

"What a dreadful thing a young appetite is; you children eat at all hours and destroy your digestion for life," he said, grumblingly. "When you are my age the coats of your stomach will be gone."

"As long as I have a coat to my back —" began Stella, laughingly, and then her grandfather opened his eyes at her so alarmingly for daring to turn his words into a joke that her harmless little jest died away upon her lips.

"Go and find Mrs. Finch, and ask her to get you something to eat," he said, sternly.

STATUE TO A COOK

Nice Will Erect One to the Patriotic Urbain Dubois.

Paris, Oct. 10.—The people of Nice are going to erect a statue to the memory of a cook, Urbain Dubois. He was for many years head cook for King William of Prussia, at a salary of $12,600 a year, but as soon as war was declared in 1870 he resigned to fight against his former master. The statute to the patriotic cook will appropriately be erected in the central market.

Paris has recently had an amusing experience with the statue of Camile Desmoulins, which was unveiled the other day, but disappeared the next night. It seems that most of the garments with which the sculptor had provided the revolutionary firebrand were of the wrong date. The coat and cloak were several years too late, and instead of knee breeches and shoes with large buckles he used very modern riding boots. The statue is now being redressed.

ENGLAND'S GAME IN EAST

A German Expert's View of Anglo-Jap Alliance.

Berlin, Oct. 10. — Dr. Theodore Schieminn makes public a statement concerning the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which proves, he says, that it is England's constant endeavor to shift the center of gravity of her interests to the far east. These interests lie in the Pacific and Indian Oceans and in the Persian Gulf. There the preponderance of the British and Japanese navies combined with the Japanese army is to assert itself. He says:

"I believe without reserve that the purpose of English and Japanese statesmen, when they signed the treaty, was to secure peace for a number of years. Japan has certainly no desire for a fresh war, despite the press agitation and the swaggering of the various army, navy, and parliament hotspurs.

"There is no belief in England's desire to wage war. Her economical risk is too great, but her attitude up to the present has been an endeavor by systematic intimidation to delay or prevent the development of the German fleet.

"The treaty is to be regarded in only one respect from a European standpoint, that it will delay the introduction of general conscription in England, the agitation for which has been successfully conducted. A general conscription would give England a real sense of security, combined with a true pacific policy, which will only strike strong roots on English soil when that nation feels strong enough to defends its native soil and when in war time everyone capable of bearing arms must answer with his own life for the policy of the country.

"Anxiety concerning the maintenance of her Indian position is England's motive for entering into the treaty. Such anxiety has increased since the war, for, despite Russian defeats, Russia never had so many troops on Asiatic soil as she has today. It is probable that a considerable number will remain in Turkestan.

"Anglo-Russian rivalry does not concern India, but Persia and Afghanistan, and despite the new alliance all advantages seem to be for Russia, for she can with out sacrificing her projects afford to wait until the Persians and Afghans are driven by the domineering English procedure into her arms as allies. Russia's intentions are not lust of conquest, but closer economical connections with these states.

"I do not believe that the alliance will lead to the defense of India, but perhaps to an offensive war against Russia throughout Afghanistan and Persia.

"Japanese troops in English hands would be a two-edged sword, and would damage England. Even now the eyes of all Indians are turned to Japan in hushed awe and reverence as the future deliverer of Asia.

"Signs are not lacking that the native population of India is desirous of rising to shake off the English yoke, whereas Russia was not troubled a single moment during the recent war with her Asiatic subjects.

"The Angli-Japanese alliance seems to be a dangerous weapon politically and economically in India, Indo-China, Australia and South America, where Japanese trade agencies will spring up like mushrooms."

A WIDE SPHERE OF USEFULNESS. —The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

At the age of 10 the difference had increased to six and a quarter pounds and two and a half inches, and at the age of 12 to seven pounds and one and a quarter inches.

HEALTHY OLD AGE

There Is No Reason Why People of Three Score Years and Ten Cannot Be Active, Bright and Healthy. Nature's Way of Making Old People Well.

In old people, no matter how healthy the individual may otherwise be, there is often a tendency to coldness of the extremities, sluggishness of the circulation, torpidity of the liver and constipation. This tendency is really a condition, and one of the many accompaniments of old age and not a disease. If there is one remedy more peculiarly adapted for this condition than another, that remedy is Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. They impart energy to the whole system, invigorate the circulation, increase the flow of digestive juices, thus improving the stomach action and nutrition. They quickly relieve all unpleasant symptoms usually experienced by old people, resulting in torpidity of the liver, constipation, feeble circulation, headaches, etc. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills are of inestimable value not only in advanced age, but also in people of all ages. They prevent premature wrinkles, give a health glow to the skin, and under their antiseptic and blood cleansing influences the complexion retains its freshness, while sallowness permanently disappears. Hundreds of grateful old ladies in their letters write: "Your pills make me look and feel ten years younger." Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills always make old age comfortable, and promote digestion and nutrition by their specific action on the stomach, liver and bowels. They always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents at all dealers.

FAILURE FIGURES FOR NINE MONTHS

Dun's Returns for Canada Show Smallest Liabilities in Recent Years.

Dun's Review of Oct. 7, 1905, says: Insolvency returns for the Dominion of Canada during the first nine months of the current year show the smallest total liabilities of any recent year, with the single exception of 1903, although the number of failures is slightly larger than in either of the three years immediately preceding. Compared with last year, there were 959 defaults for $7,105,495, against 910 failures for $8,988,140.

Of these aggregates there were 208 manufacturing failures for $2,269,992, against 225 for $3,643,261; 739 trading failures with liabilities of $4,781,320, compared with 665 last year when the amount involved reached $5,060,986, and 12 other commercial failures for $54,183, against 20 for $283,893.

Four banking disasters occurred with liabilities of $420,000, but last year was also satisfactory in this respect, two suspensions involving only $30,749. There is no evidence of unsound conditions in Canada, the various provinces reporting about the usual proportion of failures and no more. The following table shows the commercial failures for the past nine months:

Provinces.	No.	Assets.	Liabilities.
Ontario	336	$1,298,539	$1,743,958
Quebec	319	1,407,087	2,305,214
British Columbia	61	466,812	584,234
Nova Scotia	84	413,875	1,446,058
Manitoba	106	1,087,050	609,100
New Brunswick	47	139,282	319,601
P. E. Island	6	44,250	97,330
Totals—1905	959	$4,856,895	$7,105,495
1904	910	7,102,948	8,988,140
1903	721	3,311,529	5,332,611
1902	840	6,672,155	9,322,467
1901	1,009	6,115,072	8,137,327
1900	1,024	6,548,063	9,029,251
1899	870	5,307,845	7,414,620

ACROSS THE BORDER.

Commercial failures in the United States during the first nine months of the calendar year 1905 were 8,806 in number and $76,234,028 in amount of liabilities, against 9,183 insolvencies in the corresponding months of last year, when the defaulted indebtedness aggregated $111,659,205. In banks, there is a decrease of about 4 per cent in number and 30 per cent in liabilities. Latest returns show that the business situation was more healthy at the opeing of October than it was in the middle of the year, while both comparisons show a great improvement over 1904.

Painful, Fatal Kidney Disease

CALLS FOR IMMEDIATE AND ACTIVE TREATMENT WITH

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Kidney disease—marked by backache, pains in the limbs, scanty, dark colored urine, puffiness under the eyes, dropsical swelling and gradual loss of flesh—is always to be dreaded both on account of the suffering it entails and because of its fatality.

The kidneys and liver share alike the responsibility of filtering poisons from the blood, and it is therefore necessary to regulate both these organs in order to effect a cure for kidney disease.

This fact accounts for the extraordinary sucess of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which is the only treatment obtainable having a direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

For years evidence has been piling up which goes to prove that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have positively cured obstinate and complicated cases of kidney disease which defied physicians and ordinary kidney medicines.

Nor is this to be wondered at when it is remembered that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the result of the long and varied experience of the great American physician and author —Dr. A. W. Chase.

Kidney disease is not to be neglected. It is too far serious to be allowed to develop. You can profit by the experience of thousands of your fellow-citizens and obtain prompt relief, as well as thorough and lasting cure, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

COULDN'T STAND SCOLDING

A Petrolea Young Girl Said To Have Attempted Suicide.

Petrolea, Oct. 9.—Because she went to a dance against the orders of her father who, it is said, struck her upon her return, it is said that a young girl of this place named Gregory attempted suicide. Shortly after Miss Gregory's companions had left her at her door a revolver shot was head. Later she was found with a bullet hole in the right side of her head and was taken to a private hospital here, when the bullet was extracted after considerable trouble. The facts were telegraphed to the county crown attorney at Sarnia, who sent Provincial Detective Murray to investigate.

With Police Magistrate Duncan he visited the young girl in the hospital and secured her deposition. She recites the facts as given, but says she fired the shot herself, having carried a revolver for the past two weeks. Her reason for shooting herself was that she could not stand being scolded in front of her companions. She gave the names of her companions and they will all appear before Police Magistrate Duncan for a preliminary hearing.

If the victim's story is corroborated she will be charged with attempted suicide and with carrying concealed weapons.

BLACK A BETTER RACE

Madagascar's Queen Cannot Understand Dislike of Negroes.

Paris, Oct. 10. — Ranavalo, former Queen of Madagascar, is studying the negro question.

"It is only lately that I have understood why black people are stared at," said Ranavalo. "At home we always regarded the whites as inferior; they are smaller, slower, uglier and more willing to work than even the negroes at whom people laugh here when they pass along the boulevards, and who are certainly bigger and more powerful than the average white European. I am told negroes from Martinique do well in the Paris schools, some of them even being known to come out at the head of their classes; then after all what is the difference? There must be some, and it is this that I shall try to find out."

She was asked: "Why not go to America some day and pursue your studies there?"

"I am not my own master," sadly replied the little queen.

Ranavalo has considerable dignity and the Paris dressmaking establishments declare that she has a better figure than the average French and American women. The Government has augmented her income from $6,000 to $10,000 yearly. She is living as an ordinary boarder in a modest boarding-house at St. Germain, near Paris.

NOT ENOUGH CARS

Shortage Is Handicapping the Forwarding of Grain.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The cry for freight cars which the west has heard many a time is now ringing through Ontario. The points where the shortage is felt worst are Point Edward, Goderich, Owen Sound, Midland and Collingwood.

Grain is being rushed down from the west, and the elevators at these points are filling up, because there are too few cars to keep the grain moving eastward.

Besides the shortage at these points, there is a cry for cars from all over the grain-growing parts of the Province.

Warehouses are filled and the buyers cannot receive more from the farmers until some of the grain is moved out. Dealers say they often have to wait weeks for cars.

Representatives of the railway companies declare the reports of shortage exaggerated. They had cars standing idle in summer, and now everybody wanted to get grain or fruit or some other product out before navigation closed. The companies were doing everything in their power to cope with the demand.

NO PERSON should go from home without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial in their possession, as change of water, cooking, climate, etc., frequently brings on summer complaint, and there is nothing like being ready with a sure remedy at hand, which oftentimes saves great suffering and frequently valuable lives. This Cordial has gained for itself a widespread reputation for affording prompt relief from all summer complaints.

Before Formosa passed into Japanese hands 20,000 Chinese coolies were imported every year during the tea-picking season. The number now is less than 6,000, the Japanese employing their own coolies.

Trade With Australia.

In his address to the board of trade last night, Mr. Larke cleared up some misconceptions to which recent tariff rulings in Australia have given rise in this country. It is reassuring to hear that the reports of friction between the Canadian and Australian Governments have no basis in fact, and that the commercial relations of the two countries were never more promising. The customs ruling, which has created some uneasiness among Canadian shippers, provides that in computing the tariff on Canadian goods entering Australia, the Canadian freight charges shall be added to the price of the articles at the point of production. As Mr. Larke pointed out, this is more lenient than the Canadian tariff, which requires that an article shall be valued, for the purposes of duty, at the selling price in the country from which it is imported, not at any price which the exporter chooses to place upon it. So far as Ontario and Quebec are concerned, the Australian regulation is an advantage, because the bulk of the goods shipped from these provinces to Australia go through United States ports, and only the freight charges from the point of shipment to the American boundary line are added to the price. For instance, a consignment of goods from London to Sydney, via New York, would pay extra duty only on the freight rate from London to Niagara Falls, whereas a consignment from Cleveland or Chicago by the same route would pay on the cost of carriage to New York. It will be seen that this arrangement discriminates in favor of the Ontario or Quebec shipper, as against American competitors equidistant from the sea coast, but it differentiates against the Vancouver route. Mr. Larke gives the C. P. R. credit for doing its utmost to build up an export business with Australia, but says the company has come to the conclusion that goods cannot be profitably carried from Eastern Canada to the Pacific coast. Transportation is the key of the problem, and a line of steamers from Montreal in summer and Maritime Province ports in winter will be necessary to the adequate development of the trade. Canadian commodities lose their identity when shipped through United States ports, and are classified in Australia as American. Canadian exports must be carried through Canadian channels.

Mr. Larke reports that the three leaders of the Australian parties, free trade, protectionist and labor, are preferentialists, and he is confident that if negotiations are prudently conducted, a preferential arrangement will be effected between the Commonwealth and the Dominion. The majority of Canadian manufacturers are too busy at present supplying the home market to cultivate foreign business, but the time will come when they would find it convenient to have a market in Australia for their surplus products, and it would pay them in the long run to secure a footing there as soon as possible, even if they made no immediate profits. The time is propitious, as Australia is recovering from the blight of an eight-year drought and her purchasing power is expanding. Even with the return of the drought, it may be some years hence, she will become again a large importer of foodstuffs, and Canadians should be ready when the opportunity offers. Mr. Larke urged the necessity for co-operation among Canadian manufacturers in arranging shipments and marketing their goods in Australia. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which successfully agitated for a direct steamship service with South Africa, might find another field for its energies in the development of Australian trade. There could be no better education for Canadian industrialism. In the Australian market the products of the world's workships meet in competition. The Canadian manufacturer will find there the highest standard of excellence, and if he will ascertain whether he can make goods as well and as cheaply as his foreign rivals, and if not, why not, the result cannot but be beneficial.

Physical Training in the Schools

Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, is communicating with the educational departments of all the provinces with a view to co-operation in a system of physical training in the schools. He has found the Governments of British Columbia and Manitoba sympathetic, and hopes for a similar response in the east. Sir Frederick has not given the public the details of his plan, but it contemplates instruction in the larger schools by militia sergeants, and in the smaller ones by the regular teachers, who shall be required to qualify themselves for the work.

Sir Frederick has done well to call it physical training instead of military training. There are many people who have conscientious objections to any course in the schools which would foster the spirit of militarism or the belligerent tendencies of boys, by accustoming them to the thought of war, and the handling of firearms. There is much to be said in favor of such exercises from a physical standpoint, and probably the same results can be obtained without emphasizing the military side. The physical development of children is neglected in the schools, and too often in the home. A few simple exercises, practiced regularly, would work wonders for growing boys and girls, and would not burden a curriculum which many think is already overgrown. The children would take pleasure in them, and would not grudge the time spent in such a way before or after regular school hours.

Sound and healthy boys and girls will make a greater country than a race of youngsters whose minds have been crammed at the expense of their bodies. Canadians will not tolerate compulsory military training or any approach to conscription, but the military problems of the country will be much easier of solution if the physical standard of the people can be raised. The rudiments of military training may be imparted under the system which Sir Frederick Borden is advocating without the suggestion of militarism, which is repugnant to the ideas of many worthy citizens.

A Forestry Convention.

An official summons has been issued by Sir Wilfrid Laurier for a Canadian forestry convention at Ottawa on Jan. 10, 11 and 12. In his communication to the public the Premier points out that Canada possesses one of the largest areas of virgin forest of any country in the world, and is ranked by European experts first, or among the first, of the important sources of the world's timber supply for the future. The preservation of the streams in perennial and constant flow, which is largely controlled by the forests on the watersheds, will have an important influence on the industrial and agricultural development of the Dominion. The expansion of our electrical and mechanical industries will be regulated to a great extent by water, which forms the greatest source of power in all countries, and some of our western districts are dependent on irrigation to insure the success of agricultural operations. In all the older provinces the clearing of the soil has been carried to such an extent that the ill-effects on the water supply and on agriculture are clearly marked, while on the western prairies the need of sheltering trees for houses and fields is seriously felt by the settlers. The early construction of the Transcontinental Railway, and of other railways, through our northern forested districts and the consequent opening of those districts to general traffic, will increase the danger from fire which has already been a most active agent of destruction. These conditions are not new; they have from time to time received public attention, and during the session just closed, Parliament authorized the summoning of a convention for the more thorough discussion of the same.

Those who are especially invited to the convention are members of the Senate, House of Commons and Provincial Legislatures, and representatives of the boards of trade, lumbermen's associations, universities, farmers' institutes, agricultural colleges, railway companies, fish and game commissions, and mining and civil engineers' societies. The subjects to be considered will be discussed under the following divisions:

1. The nation and the forest.
2. Forestry in relation to agriculture and irrigation.
3. The forest and the lumber and pulp industries.
4. The relation of our forests to our other industries: railways, water powers, mining, building trades, woodworking manufactures.
5. Scientific forestry and forestry education.

Since Koch set the medical world agog with his lymph for consumptives, no name of eminence in the profession has been connected with the many alleged discoveries of cures for tuberculosis, until the other day, when Professor Behring announced that he was hopeful of a new formula with which he has been experimenting with great success. Professor Behring has earned the right to be taken seriously by his discovery of the diphtheria antitoxin which has robbed that once dreaded disorder for nearly all its terrors. An American millionaire today promises him a rich reward if he will make his latest specific public at once.

A Self-made Man.

"Yes, sir," said the noisy party, proudly, "I am a self-made man."

"Well, don't let a little thing like that worry you," rejoined the quiet party. "Keep your mouth shut and no one will ever suspect it."

Proof Positive.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

Coppers, the billionaire, of Butte, was in Rome, buying statuary for his new Fifth avenue palace.

"Are you sure this is a genuine Michael Angelo?" he said.

"Sure!" replied the dealer. "I'll prove it to you."

And he shouted in a loud voice:

"Mike!"

A workman coming from the studio in the rear saluted respectfully.

"Mike, who carved this antique?"

"Me, sir, M. Angelo, sir," the workman answered.

Coppers, convinced at last, drew out his check-book.

Pushing the Old Folks Aside.

[Atchison (Kansas) Globe.]

When the babies are cross and a man would like a quiet retreat there is none for him. But in a few years, when the children are grown, and he is in the way, the daughters and mothers put their heads together and originate a den. There is no den for the mother, for she gracefully eliminates herself by sitting in the kitchen or running over to a neighbor's. It is her natural disposition to hide in a corner or remove herself entirely, and it is not the natural disposition of the father. Hence the den. It has a couch and some pipes and tobacco and the books which the neighbors haven't got around to borrowing as yet, though if father begins a story today the book will be found to be loaned out when he wants to finish it tomorrow. The den is a fashionable way of pushing the old man out. If there is one in your house, Mr. Man, don't be deceived.

An Odd Picture.

[New York Tribune.]

Alton B. Parker, at a dinner in New York, characterized as illogical the position of two prominent financiers.

"These men remind me," he said, "of two sailors who were found, one day, seated at a table before a cafe.

"One sailor had a letter before him and was reading it aloud, while at the same time the other sailor held his hands over the reader's ears.

"It made an odd picture—the two sailors with their mild drink,one reading and the other holding his ears while he did so.

"The friendly waiter, impelled by an irresistible curiosity, paused before the table.

"'Why,' he asked, 'do you hold your hands over your friend's ears while he reads that letter out loud to you?'"

"'Because,' was the dignified answer, 'the letter is from my sweetheart. Jack is reading it to me because I can't read myself. That is all right, but I don't want him to hear a word of what is written.'"

All Waiting.

[New York Tribune.]

One of the rural schools in Kansas has a pretty girl as its teacher, but she was much troubled at first because many of her pupils were late every morning. At last she made the announcement that she would kiss the first pupil to arrive at the schoolhouse the next morning. At sunrise the three largest boys of her class were sitting on the doorstep of the schoolhouse, and by 6 o'clock every boy in the school and four of the directors were waiting for her to arrive.

Two Visions Needed.

[Hartford Courant.]

The late Bishop Williams of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut was a confirmed bachelor, and had a deep-rooted antipathy for becoming entangled in Cupid's net. Once he was visited by a rather erratic maiden lady of his acquaintance, who was also his ardent admirer.

"Well, bishop," she remarked, after some unimportant preliminary skirmishing, "I have had a vision from the Lord that you and I are to be married."

The bishop looked at her, overcome with consternation and amazement. But only for a short time was he at a loss; then he replied:

"Splendid, splendid. Just as soon as I have had my vision, I will communicate with you."

These Glorious Autumn Days.

[Weekly Sun.]

The wealth of bloom and luxuriance of verdure which come with June have their counterpart in the brilliant sunshine and full fruition of an autumn such as the present. Spring, its young life filled to the brim with promise, had a joy all its own; so, too, has the season of abundant fulfillment which has come with the later months of the year. The barns are filled with the harvest of the fields; all the rich color of the ripening apple is brought out by the setting of dull green leaves; here and there may be seen the still richer coloring in the scarlet of the fruit clusters on the mountain ash; and, most beautiful of all, the maples have begun to don robes the magnificence of which marks a goal beyond reach of the most skillful of the world's artists. Above and around all there are the light and warmth which brighten without enervating and an air every breath of which is filled with vitalizing force.

At no season is life in good old Ontario so full of quiet peace, beauty and harmony as in these glorious autumn days.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Germany Expected to Oppose Any Suggestion of Disarmament.

Berlin, Oct. 10. — The foreign office says Germany will accept Russia's invitation to attend the second peace conference at The Hague on the condition that the points to be discussed shall be arranged in advance by an interchange of communications among the powers so that the objects of the conference may be defined with precision, thus avoiding questions upon which any power has reservations.

Germany naturally will wish the question of disarmament to be off the programme as one which cannot lead to a practical agreement.

Great Britain, it is also pointed out, has a special position on certain neutrality practices, such as the length of time a belligerent may stay and coal in a neutral port.

The acceptance of Germany's suggestion will probably delay the assembling of the conference, but will save time after the delegates meet, and it is believed that the participating countries will thus be able to avoid embarrassing situations.

FARMER SWINDLED BY MODERN WITCH

"Driving Out the Devil" Costly Cure for a Superstitious German Farmer.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—The trial at Erfurt of a so-called "wise woman" for defrauding a rich farmer and his family brought to light an extraordinary case of superstition.

The farmer, who owns a large estate near Naegelstadt, six years ago met with some ill-luck, and at once concluded that he was "possessed by the devil." The "wise woman" of Langensalza, who was consulted, confirmed this belief, and was requested by the farmer to relieve him of the evil one.

She went about it with many ceremonies, which wound up with the burial in the earth at dead of night of an ordinary new pot, in which the farmer had previously placed a considerable amount of money. After the pot was buried the farmer, his family and the "wise woman" retired some distance and waited.

Suddenly there came a slight flash and a little explosion on the spot where the money was buried. The peasants were awestricken, and the "wise woman" at once declared: "There goes the devil. He took your money, and you have got rid of him.'

The farmer said at the trial that he felt relieved after this occurrence for some time, when the devil took possession of him again. This time a larger sum was needed to conjure the fiend, and in this manner the woman continued to defraud the farmer for six years, during which time she relieved him of $23,500. She had five accomplices, who helped her to dupe the superstitious people in the vicinity of Laugensalza, from whom they extracted many thousands more by the most absurd methods.

All the defendants were convicted and sentenced to imprisonment.

ENGAGED HERSELF TO ELEVEN MEN

Swiss Girl Receives Extraordinary Correspondence—The Suitors Come Together.

Geneva, Oct. 9.—Mlle. Korner, of Thun, aged 18, has had the strange experience of being engaged to be married to 11 men at the same time. Posing as a wealthy orphan, she corresponded with several matrimonial agencies in various Swiss towns, forwarding photographs of a charming girl friend instead of her own. Without knowledge of her parents, who are poor tradespeople, she corresponded with all her lovers.

The affair had been going on several months when Mlle. Korner decided upon a bold bid for matrimony. She invited her 11 lovers to call upon her at the same hour on the same day, intending to throw herself on their mercy in the hope of finding one who would be willing to marry her.

A hitch occurred in her plans, however, as she was unable to send her parents away on an excursion, on which she had counted, and later the 11 lovers arrived from various parts to claim their fiancee, to the great astonishment and anger of Mlle. Korner's parents.

The girl was obliged to explain the situation, and her lovers, who took the affair in good part, departed. It is believed the girl's mind is unhinged.

TO END CLUB GAMBLING

High Stakes and Heavy Losses Cause Older Members to Protest.

London, Oct. 9.—White's Club, in St. James street, one of the most historic institutions in smart clubland, has landed in a serious crisis over the gambling question. Early last summer Prince Mirsky lost $50,000 in one afternoon's sitting. Later on a young English swell, barely 21, in whom the King was interested, dropped $10,000, a whole year's allowance. The King intervened, and directed that heavy gambling be discontinued by the committee, but moral suasion with that body was quite ineffectual. Several other young fellows have recently been heavy losers.

The older members of the club have now called a general meeting to do away with the "box" system that prevails in all London high-class gambling clubrooms. No money passes at the table, but a note showing the winnings of each member is placed in a box, which is opened by the secretary of the club, who makes out the account of each player's indebtedness, which he must meet the following Wednesday under pain of disqualification as a defaulter.

The cynical assumption of the members is that if this official compulsion to pay be withdrawn, default will soon become so common as to kill heavy play. Anyway, White's seems doomed, for if the box be retained the old members will resign, and if it be abolished the young lot will clear out. Gambling is now virtually the sole attraction left at these clubs, since restaurant dining has become so fashionable.

Few men are able to achieve greatness without advertising the fact.

He who loves without reason is apt to reason without love.

Wise is the orator who knows when to cut a long story short.

In most cases a man seems to think that his wrongs begin almost immediately after his wedding rites.

HAD TO HIDE IT

A mother wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key—her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way. Scott's Emulsion makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

Red Rose Tea Uniformity

A TEA that is good to-day and poor to-morrow is unreliable.

Have you ever noticed variations in the quality of the tea you use? One package good, the next bitter, herby, perhaps weak and insipid.

A lack of expert knowledge by the tasters and blenders of that tea produced that result. There was a failure at a vital point, an ignorance of combining qualities in teas, poor judgment in the blending of that maker's teas, a weakness which invariably gives just such results as your poor tea.

Every chest of Red Rose Tea is tested at the gardens, again by the Eastern Red Rose shippers, then at the Red Rose warehouse upon its arrival before blending; after that an experimental blend is tested, and the final or actual blend is also tested before being packed.

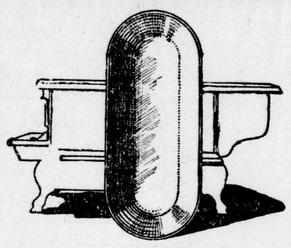

Nothing is left to chance.

That is why that "rich fruity flavor" is always present in Red Rose Tea.

Why Red Rose Tea is always uniform, why

The Pandora Reservoir

The Pandora is the only range with a reservoir stamped in one single piece of steel and enamelled. It is the only reservoir without seams, rivets or places to catch dirt. It has no sharp angles. All angles are made with rounding curves, and the whole reservoir is beautifully enamelled.

McClary's are the only range makers in Canada with a plant for making enamelled steel reservoirs, and that is why the Pandora is the only range that has a one-piece reservoir.

A PUBLIC TOOTH BRUSH

A noted dermatologist says: "The time is coming when an unsterilized public hair brush will be as rare as a public tooth brush." The reason is that dirty hair brushes spread dandruff, and true dandruff is now known to be a contagious disease that will,sooner or later, cause baldness. A writer in Medical Review of Reviews says: "School children should know that it is dirty to use another's hair brush." Newbro's Herpicide renders public hair brushes harmless by destroying the dandruff microbe. A delightful hair dressing. Gives wonderful results.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 9.—There were larger numbers of live stock in the vicinity of the East End Abattoir this morning than have been there on any previous day for several years past, there being nearly 2,000 cattle and 3,000 sheep and lambs. Butchers were out strong, but trade was not brisk, and sales had to be made at a decline from the low rates paid last week. No choice beeves on the market, and 4¼c per pound was the highest price paid, pretty good cattle being from 3c to near 4c per pound, and common stock from 2c to near 3c per pound. About 50 leanish grass-fed calves, sold at 2c to 3c per pound. Others sold at about 4c per pound. Milch cows sold at from $25 to $55 each, and a very fine large cow was held at $60. Sheep were lower, selling at 3¼c to 3¾c per pound. Good lambs were bought for the American market at about 5¼c per pound. Good lots of fat hogs sold at 6½c to 6¾c per pound.

OLD COUNTRY PRICES.

London, Oct. 9. — Cattle are quoted at 9¼c to 11 3-4c per pound; refrigerator beef, 9c per pound. Sheep, 11c to 12c per pound.

TORONTO.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Receipts today, 81 loads, including 1,433 cattle, 1,211 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 184 calves; trade was fair for all sorts of stock; all cattle of good quality sold early; prospects are steady. Quotations:

GOT PARCHMENTS

New Marriage License Issuers Are Now Ready for Business.

The parchments for the new marriage license issuers appointed throughout Ontario were received yesterday from the office of the Provincial Secretary. As far as can be learned none of the old issuers has been refused certificates when application has been made for them. It is said that under the act the Lieutenant-Governor has the final say in the canceling of the old parchments, and he has refused to cut any off except those against whom complaints have been made.

RUSSO-JAP WAR AT VAUDEVILLE

This Week's Splendid Bill Includes Pictures of Famous Peace Conference.

A large crowd last night filled Bennett's Vaudeville Theater and thoroughly enjoyed the many excellent acts which comprise this week's bill. The hit of the evening was made by Bryant and Saville, with their comedy musical act. This act has been seen here before, but if the clever pair were to book a six months' engagement at the Vaudeville they would be as welcome the last week as the first, such warm favorites are they in London. Really, the act is a whole show in itself, and is worth a quarter of anybody's money to see. Humor and melody are blended in the act in a manner which wins the audience from first to last, and last night the people refused for fifteen minutes to allow Bryand Saville to leave the stage.

"Bill Casey, Burglar," also made a tremendous hit. This sketch was put on by Horace Vintona and Edna Clayton, both of whom are finished artists. Their work is of a very high order, and certainly the sketch is one of the very best on the road. It is always interesting, well written, and clean. There is nothing of the slapstick variety about it, neither does horse-play find any space in its make-up. It is alone a dainty little show, and the hit it scored last night was well deserved.

"A Fair Musketeer," a sketch which was put on by Haight and Dean, proved very novel. It is of the romantic drama class — a sort of "Prisoner of Zenda" variety. It made a very pleasing diversion from the usual comedy run and it was loudly applauded.

The Clarence sisters, in their dancing and skipping act, proved a revelation. They are by long odds the best sister team appearing on the stage today, and they carried the house with them.

Martinette and Sylvester, the acrobats, were clever, and the D's and D's the colored pair, sang and danced well, and appeared to greatly please the audience. Billy Hines, the trick clog dancer, demonstrated that what he doesn't know about clog-dancing isn't worth looking up. He is certainly a good one.

By far the finest feature of this week's bill are the moving pictures. They consist of scenes incident to the peace conference which ended the bloody war between Japan and Russia. The opening scene shows the Japanese and Russian envoys . . . ing from the foot of Twenty-third street, East River, New York city, for Oyster Bay, Long Island. Baron Komura and Minister Takahira, of the Japanese party, and M. Witte and Baron Rosen, of the Russian party, are all readily recognized. The next scene shows the envoys arriving at Portsmouth navy yard, and being received by Admiral Mead. All the distinguished guests come in full view of the camera and are quickly recognized. A street procession is followed by the arrival of the envoys at the courthouse. The final scene shows the envoys leaving the Hotel Wentworth in automobiles for the first conference in the peace negotiations.

If these pictures were shown alone, they would be well worth the price of admission.

There will be a matinee each day, and a performance each night.

Manager Bennett has decided to give away a present to a lady at each matinee performance until further notice. When a lady buys a ticket she is given a coupon, and then the prize is drawn for in full view of the audience. Until further notice this plan will be followed.

At each Saturday matinee the children will also be given a present by the management of the house. The children will not have to draw for anything—each and every one will be remembered. Monday afternoon a lady won a handsome oak-framed mirror.

SERVICE OF PRAISE

The Choir of New St. James' Church Gives a Delightful Programme.

A very large and delighted audience was present at the New St. James' Presbyterian Church last night to hear the service of praise given by the choir of the church, under the organist and choirmaster, Mr. E. W. Goethe Quantz, assisted by Mrs. Clyde-Green, mezzo-contralto, of Hamilton, Mr. Harold Jarvis, of Detroit, and Mr. Angelo Cortese, harpist, of this city. The recital was successful beyond expectation.

The work of the choir was especially praiseworthy. Their attack was firm and strong, and the blending of the parts, especially of the soprano and alto, was well done. The chorus work consisted of Smart's "The Lord is My Shepherd," Gounod's "By Babylon's Wave," Sullivan's "Say, Watchman, What of the Night?" (unaccompanied), and the "Kyrie" and "Gloria" from Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

Mrs. Green sang splendidly, her voice being a beautiful contralto of rare quality. She delighted all by her artistic rendition and correct enunciation. She will be a welcome visitor here again.

Mr. Harold Jarvis is still the popular singer of old. He needs no introduction to Londoners. His singing was as good as in the past.

Mr. Angelo Cortese scored a triumph in his harp solo "Rondo Brilliante" (Godifroid). He played with wonderful brilliancy, and his work was a revelation of the possibilities of this instrument.

Mr. Quantz's organ numbers were given in his best style. The numbers were: "Prelude Romanesque," by Shelley; "Romance," by Max Reyer, and the overture from "Fra Diavolo," by Auber.

MACDOWELL SCORES WITH GISMONDA

Famous Actor Gives a Powerful Portrayal in Sardou Drama —La Tosca Tonight.

Mr. Melbourne MacDowell, who opened a two nights' engagement at the Grand last night, with Sardou's "Gismonda," has for several decades held a prominent position on the American stage. He will be recalled as the husband and leading support of the lamented Fanny Davenport, and later as co-star with Blanche Walsh. Probably Mr. MacDowell has done more than any one actor, next to Miss Davenport, to familiarize American and Canadian theater-goers with the works of the greatest of living dramatists. Mr. MacDowell has always identified himself with the heroic in stage characterization. Possessing an exceptionally fine stage presence, clear-cut enunciation, and a smashing spectacular method of taking the climaxes, he is peculiarly fitted to carry the roles of M. Sardou, who is nothing if not tremendous in his effects. MacDowell does not give the finely-drawn stage portraits which we expect from a Willard or a Forbes Robertson, but for the types he portrays, fine shading would be somewhat out of place. MacDowell is none the less effective. In the powerful culminations of "La Tosca," "Cleopatra," "Fedora" and "Gismonda," he has you "sitting up."

"Gismonda," put on last night, is probably the least known to London theater-goers of Sardou's dramas, but it possesses all the subtlety of plot and thrilling situation common to the better known "La Tosca" and the rest. As Almerio, the archer, brave, handsome, resourceful, but a commoner, who loves the noble Gismonda, Mr. MacDowell played last night as only MacDowell can, and whether the scene was cast in the minor key of love-making or the major one of heroic deed or declamation, he held and carried the large audience to the last individual.

Mr. MacDowell's present support, which is a good one throughout, is headed by Miss Charlotte Deane, who, by physique, voice and manner, is splendidly fitted to the Sardou heroine. Not unnaturally she challenges comparison with Miss Walsh, but loses nothing in the test. She plays off her own bat, so to speak. In last night's piece her portrayal of a mother's hate towards the man who attempts to kill her child was especially impressive.

Mr. MacDowell has not stinted himself in the matter of settings and scenery, which, for the type of play presented, is perhaps the finest ever seen in this city.

"La Tosca," Sardou's masterpiece, will be put on at this evening's performance, with Mr. MacDowell as Baron Scarpia.

BADE FAREWELL TO MISSIONARIES

Large Gathering in the Dundas Center Methodist Church Last Night.

A very large gathering was present at the Dundas Center Methodist Church last night to bid farewell to a party of missionaries on their way to the far east. Several addresses were given by the leading men of the denomination, and a most delightful evening was spent. Mr. W. H. Lambly, of Quebec, presided.

The four out-going missionaries gave splendid addresses on the present opportunities in the mission fields. Rev. C. R. Carscallen, B.A., who comes from Dresden, and who after some years' work in the Canadian West, is going to China, spoke very interestingly of the work there, as also did Rev. James Neave, who is also going to China, and Rev. R. B. Ewan, M.D., a returned missionary, who is on the way back to his work in the Flowery Kingdom. They spoke of the great opportunity for Christian work among the students of China. The medical work was also said to be very encouraging.

Rev. R. B. Hannigar, a native of the eastern provinces, is on his way to Japan, and gave an inspiring address on the work among Japanese students. They are earnestly seeking after the western culture and religion, and would listen to the words of the missionary.

Rev. Dr. Carman and Rev. Dr. Sutherland, said farewell to the four young men on behalf of the church.

Rev. Dr. Young, of Montreal, gave a splendid address on the church's work in the Chinese hospitals.

Special music was rendered by the choir, assisted by a male choir.

An Innocent Dissenter.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Judge Sicotte yesterday dismissed the action against Pierre Gauthier, who was charged with being one of the leaders in the recent disturbances attending the attempt of the Salvation Army to hold meetings in St. Louis du Mile End, a French Roman Catholic suburb. The judge held that Gauthier was no more than an ordinary dissenter, and consequently had a right to ask his compatriots to follow him from the hall, and not to listen to the preachings of the Salvation Army officers.

BEHRING TELLS OF NEW THEORY

Discoverer of Anti-Diphtheria Serum Says French Scientists Are Victors.

Paris, Oct. 9.—"The complete downfall of the theories of Koch and the definite ruin of the theory that bovine tuberculosis is not transmissible to the human species," is the result of the present tuberculosis congress in Paris, according to Prof. Behring, discoverer of the anti-diphtheria serum, a representative appointed by the Kaiser himself.

A correspondent called on the savant who declared that he did not mean to announce the cure of tuberculosis until next year, and in the meantime would maintain inviolable secrecy about it. Dropping the subject of the discovery Prof. Behring said:

"The theories of the French school which were always strongly contrasted with the German, now seem triumphant. French students always insisted that the sterilization of milk was one of the tremendous preventive measures insisting as now seems unanimous opinion of the congress that the bovine bacillus was far more dangerous than the human bacillus itself. Investigations in the last two years have brought a vast majority of the best equipped authorities to the belief that the most efficacious means of checking the dinease lies in the sterilization of milk before feeding young children, isolation of the tuberculosis patient even in the earliest stages, the development of sanitorial schemes, with more attention to the ultimate cure than to temporary care, insistence on these points is the keynote of the congress which realizes the truth that tuberculosis is not hereditary in thousands of cases, being due to the indifference with which one affected member of a family is allowed to contaminate others. I believe that from the date of this meeting the dread disease will be fought with more practical common sense measures than ever before."

Keeps His Discovery Secret.

Referring to his discovery Prof Behring said:

"As in the case of my anti-diphtheritis serum I feel I have a right to enjoy some of the pecuniary fruits of my discovery in order to enable me to undertake other important research work later on. Therefore, I have confided my theory only to Metchnikoff and Roux, of the Pasteur Institute. I will announce all the details next summer, and not long afterward cease receiving any financial benefit whatever from it. For the moment I may say my cure is not a serum or a vaccine. It is not only preventive, but curative, and I solemnly avow my entire conviction on the thoroughness and finality or this cure, which is the culminating point of many years of labor. Before another year has passed the world will be in possession of a secret which will speedily rid it of one of the greatest of plagues."

Prof. Behring's cure is a powder which he calls "Tx."

Entirely New Principle.

At the closing session of the congress today Prof. Von Behring made a much similar statement, saying:

"In the course of the last two years I recognized with certainty the existence of a curative principle completely different from the anti-toxic principle This new curative principle plays at initial role in the operation of the immunity derived from my bovo vaccine which has proved effective against animal tuberculosis during the last four years. This curative principle reposes upon the impregnation of the living cells of the organism with a substance originating from tubercose virus."

Prof. Behring then gave a lengthy technical description of how "Tx" was introduced into the cellular organism and it had already given marked results in the treatment of animals. The professor expressed the confident belief that his researches would permit similar curative results in humans. He added that he was unable to say how soon positive results would be obtainable, but he felt as certain that these results would be attained as when he first announced his discovery of a new method of treating diphtheria.

Although there is some talk of choosing Vienna for the next tuberculosis congress, the weight of opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of America—probably Chicago or New York.

A FLOATING FORTRESS

New British Battleship Will Equal Strength of Any Three.

London, Oct. 9.—The keel-plate of the Dreadnought, which is to be the most powerful battleship in the world, has been laid at Portsmouth. Her displacement will be 18,000 tons. She will be armed with ten 12-inch guns of the latest type, each capable of throwing a 960-pound shell a distance of twenty miles, with a muzzle velocity of upward of 2,500 feet a second. Her striking power will be as great as any three battleships of ordinary type at such a range as that at which the engagement opened in the battle of Tsushima Straits, for no other warship hitherto has mounted more than four 12-inch guns, so there is nothing afloat that can stand up against her in a sea action.

About 11,000 tons of armor will be built into her hull, and the Dreadnought will be driven by turbines at twenty knots speed. For the first time on record on a battleship the officers' quarters will be placed forward, the designer's chief difficulty being to provide accommodation for the nine hundred officers and men, owing to the great demands on her space made by ammunition, storage of coal, etc. She will carry 500 tons of projectiles for her main guns, 200 tons of cordite charges, 300 tons of stores, 2,500 tons of coal and guns to a weight of 600 tons without mountings. She is designed to be a floating fortress of the most formidable type.

A CHURCH DEPARTURE

Urity of the Anglican and Russian Churches is Proposed.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 10.—A number of the Episcopal clergy of the Diocese of New Hampshire have made preliminary arrangemnts for the formation of an association which will have for its object the union of the Anglican Church with the Orthodox Church of Russia and other ancient churches of the east.

The organization is the outgrowth of the thanksgiving service at Christ Church, Portsmouth, which followed the signing of the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan, and at which priests of the Episcopal and Russian churches officiated.

The new organization will follow the lines of "the eastern church association" of the Church of England, and will have branches in all dioceses of the Episcopal Church in this country, if the plans of the promters are successful.

The first diocesan branch to be formed was that organized by New Hampshire clergy at a recent meeting in St. Paul's parish house here. The Right Rev. Wm. Woodruff Niles, bishop of the diocese, consented to act as president of the New Hampshire branch, and a committee was apointed to perfect the work of organization.

It is said that within the last half-dozen years the relations between the Russian and Episcopal churches has been growing closer, but until the thanksgiving evensong held at Portsmouth there had been no general participation in one service by both Russian and Episcopal priests. It is pointed out as an indication of a closer relationship that the Nashotah Theological Seminary of Wisconsin (Episcopal) conferred the degree of D. D. upon Archbishop Tikhon of the Russian Church in America this year.

The two churches were brought closer together by the visit of the Right Rev. Charles C. Grafton, Bishop of Fond du Lac, Wis., to Russia two or three years ago.

Cheers for Pat Crowe.

Omaha Neb., Oct. 10. — Pat Crowe, the alleged kidnapper of Eddie Cudahy, arrived last evening from Butte, Mont., in custody of Captain of Detectives Dunn and Detective Heitfield, of Omaha. An immense crowd greeted Crowe with cheers at the Union station. The prisoner was rushed to jail in a patrol wagon.

CURES CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

One Week's Use of Hyomei Did More Than Six Months' Treatment by Specialists.

In the treatment of deafness which is often a result of catarrh, Hyomei acts almost immediately upon the inflamed membrane and the hearing begins to return at once.

Miss Meeks, of Mattewan, N. Y. says: "Hyomei is truly wonderful. I have used it but a short time and see a great change in my condition. My hearing is improving rapidly and I have no idea I would improve so rapidly or so short a time. My breath which was very offensive to myself and others has lost its bad odor entirely. I have spent a great deal of money with catarrh specialists, and can truly say that six months of their treatment is not equal to one month of Hyomei."

A complete outfit costs but $1.00, and consist of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler will last a lifetime and there is enough Hyomei for several weeks treatment. Additional bottles of Hyomei can be procured for 50 cents. Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

Come Up Where You Belong.

Perhaps you know why you fail in the plans for money, fame and position.

Some don't.

Just why the brain does not produce practical money-making result is a puzzle to many men.

Strong, healthy, natural brains cannot be made from the food most men eat, and good brains can't work sharp when slugged to weakness by coffee.

Unsuccessful brains come from improperly-selected food and from coffee drinking.

Coffee affects the stomach and nerves, thence the brain, and prevents proper digestion of even good food.

A distinct improvement in mental power will follow in a week or ten days after coffee is left off and Postum taken on.

The results are multiplied when the brain-building food, Grape-Nuts is used twice a day.

There are well-established and very clearly understood reasons for these sure results from the change in food and drink. You can make Money, Position, Fame if you have the kind of Brain that works that way.

Postum well boiled produces a delicious beverage, satisfying and nourishing.

DECIDES ODD LEGAL POINT

Man Cannot Be Arrested on Charge That He Is About to Abscond.

Toronto, Oct. 9. — Can a man in transit through Ontario be arrested here on the ground that he is about to abscond with intent to defraud?

This is the interesting question brought before Mr. Justice Anglin and he had decided it in the negative.

James Adams and John Josh are two men whom David A. Sutherland had employed to work for the Bolivar Oil Syndicate in South America.

While Sutherland was on his way from Australia to London, for which place he had taken his ticket, his two ex-employes ran across him in the oil fields around Sarnia. They had him arrested on the ground that he was an absconding debtor owing them wages. To avoid detention he paid bail to the sheriff of Lambton county. Mr. Justice Anglin considers the sum paid the [illegible] should be repaid to Suther-

TOOK HORSE AND RIG

May Not Be a Case of Stealing, But Only a Prank.

George Lill, of the Sarnia road, London township, is a sufferer by what appears to be a prank of several young fellows. Mr. Lill's horse and carriage were left standing on the market square the other day, when some persons unknown drove off with the whole outfit. The horse has since been found, having been caught on Pall Mall street yesterday, without any harness, except the bridle. No trace of the rig has yet been found. Probably it will be found on the outskirts of the city, as the taking of the outfit does not seem to be the work of a thief, but that of some boys, whose pranks will prove costly should they become known to the police. The buggy is an open one, without a top, and is upholstered in dull brown.

KIDDIES, STOP IT

Can't Push Your Carts Along the Walks Any More.

The juveniles of the city who find such a pleasure in pushing little four-wheeled carts along the sidewalks at a fast rate of speed, will find themselves in the police court if they continue the practice. The police have been instructed to summon all the youngsters who ignore the warning. A lady on Talbot street was knocked down the other day by a boy with a cart, and sustained serious injuries. One wrist was fractured and she was otherwise shaken up.

The youngster rest in the carts with one knee, while with the other foot they propel the vehicles. A speed of ten or twelve miles an hour is often obtained, and the practice is thereby very dangerous to pedestrians.

NEW EXECUTIVE NAMED

Methodist Mission Board Chooses Committee for 1906.

This morning's session of the Methodist general mission board was devoted largely to the consideration of the reports of the committee. The committee on memorials reported some minor changes in the constitution but nothing of an important nature was altered. The committee on the foreign work reported the appropriations for work in Japan and West China. Their recommendations went through without change.

The executive for the following year was appointed as follows: Ministerial members—Rev. Dr. Ryckman, Rev. Dr. Briggs, Rev. J. A. Rankin, Rev. J. J. Rae, Rev. J. W. Henderson, Rev. D. A. Moyer, Rev. James Wilson, Rev. Dr. Benson, Rev. R. P. Bowles. Lay—W. J. Ferguson, J. W. Flavelle, N. W. Rowell, Justice MacLaren, W. F. Hall, Thomas Hilliard, Alex. Mills, Richard Brown, C. B. Keenleyside.

CHATHAM LADY SMUGGLERS

Government to Prosecute for Breaking Custom Regulations.

Chatham, Oct. 10.—That the warning edict issued by the inland revenue department in July last, that smuggling from Detroit by boat and rail must be stopped, and that special spotters would be on duty for the balance of the season, was no idle threat, was evidenced in the sensation sprung yesterday by the announcement that some thirty-seven cases would be dealt with within the next three weeks. Government Inspector Allen was in the city Saturday collecting the reports of his special agents, all of which show that the bringing in of concealed dutiable articles has become almost a science here. It is a tribute either to the honesty or astuteness of the sterner sex that the entire list is made up of ladies, some of them holding leading social positions in the city. The official invoice of the contraband is most interesting and varied. It includes fall and winter suits and coats, opera cloaks, hats, skirts, underskirts, fancy hosiery, corsets, lace curtains, shoes, belts, chinaware and scores of trinkets.

A further significant feature of the denouement is the announcement that the chief witnesses for the crown in the various cases will be lady friends of the defendants, who could not refrain from telling abroad the clever ways in which their friends had smuggled in their stylish American apparel.

The disclosure has created considerable excitement and anxiety in social circles, and strenuous efforts are being made in many quarters to "hush up" the investigation. Collector Farquharson is also being threatened with an epidemic of conscience money.

IT WILL GO HARD WITH PENNYCOTT

Unless He Determines To Do the Right Thing by His Wife and Children.

In a very simple way, John Pennycott's intentions towards his wife's support were exposed in the police court this morning. He had paid only $28 since Aug. 3, for her support, and that of the children, while $40 was the amount ordered by the court. Pennycott explained that had he not his insurance obligations to meet, he would have paid the whole amount. "If I have to pay her, I shall have to let the insurance lapse," he said.

"Your first duty is to your wife and children," explained the court.

Pennycott said that keeping up insurance was indirectly a duty to his wife. He felt quite willing to let the insurance lapse and pay his wife, but a moment later, when the court suggested that the papers be handed over to his wife, and she be allowed to keep up the premiums, he was unwilling to agree to it, and he refused to pay them at all should the papers go out of his possession. He was given a month by the court to adjust matters with his wife, by which time if he has not done so, the court will not deal so leniently with him.

John Macdonald, 64 years old, had no place of abode, no money, no means, and apparently no friends. He was charged with being a vagrant, and was remanded a week.

Thomas Smith (colored), admitted he had been drunk. He was assessed $3 or ten days.

A juvenile was allowed to go on suspended sentence. He was charged with theft, the deed having been committed some time ago. Full restitution had been made to the loser.

BARCLAY—JENNINGS

Pretty Wedding at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jennings.

"Brook Farm" was recently the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Olive, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jennings, was united in marriage to Mr. Alex C. Barclay, son of A. F. Barclay, of Duncrief, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. G. Newton, of Parkhill. The bride looked beautiful in a charming gown of cream taffeta, with a veil of silk tulle covering the gown. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Barclay, sister of the groom, who looked charming in a gown of crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, was the bridesmaid, while Miss Blanche, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dainty gown of white Indian linen, with bouquet of white asters. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Manford Barclay.

At high noon the bridal party entered the drawing-room to the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, played by Miss Fairy Jennings. The bride was given away by her father, the ceremony being performed before a natural chancel erected in the bay window and banked with ferns and flowers. The drawing-room was decorated in green and white, the hall and stair in ropes of cedar and golden glow. The two dining-rooms were also festooned in green and white, and here the guests partook of a dainty luncheon.

The bride's going away gown was dark green broadcloth, with castor shaded tamiline silk blouse and green velvet toque. The happy couple left for Niagara and Toronto on the afternoon express, followed by the good wishes of friends. Just the immediately relations were present at the ceremony. The presents were numerous and costly, showing that the young couple are general favorites everywhere.

SEVENTH'S ROUTE MARCH

First of the Season Saw Eight Companies on Parade.

The Seventh Regiment had its first route march of the present drill season last night.

The corps "fell in" at the armories shortly after 8 o'clock. The full complement of eight companies were on parade, and with the brass and bugle bands in the van, they marched down Dundas street to Richmond, north to Queen's avenue, and east on the avenue to William street. Instead of returning to the armories by way of Dundas or King streets, both of which are "graced" with worn-out block pavements, the regiment kept to the Queen's avenue pavement as far west as Park avenue, there turning south to Dundas street, and then east to the armories.

A large number of citizens were out to witness the route march.

RYAN—NAGLE

Two Young Londoners Wedded by Rev. Father Aylward.

The marriage was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning of Miss Mary Nagle, of this city, formerly of Biddulph, to Mr. Patrick Ryan, engineer, G. T. R., city.

The bride was supported by Miss Angela Coughlin, of Mount Carmel, and Mr. Joseph Ryan, brother of the groom, was best man. Rev. Father Aylward tied the happy knot. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left on a honeymoon trip to the east, at the conclusion of which they will take up their residence in this city. The couple carry with them the congratulations of many friends

ALDERMEN HOT AT MATTHEWS

Why Didn't the Latter Question Other Members of the Council About Free Car Tickets?

Today the London Street Railway Company asked the city of London to get the agreement for the Edward street line ready, that the company may sign it at once. Thus, is appears, the matter is now finally settled, as the mayor will sign the document the moment it is gone over by the city solicitor after it leaves the company's hands.

Ald. Matthews' action in referring to the complimentary books of tickets which certain of the aldermen are said to receive from the London Street Railway Company has aroused the ire of many of his brother aldermen.

"Why did not Ald. Matthews ask certain Conservative aldermen if they have accepted books of tickets from the company?" one of the irritated aldermen said today. "He apparently forgot them. Maybe Ald. Matthews has gone so far that he doesn't care whether he is asked about certain trips to Buffalo. If everything goes with Ald. Matthews, why is it that the rule does not work both ways?"

What the story in connection with the trip of Ald. Matthews to Buffalo is, is not yet quite plain, but a couple of the aldermen are ready to declare that the alderman will not care to have it appear in print.

"Ald. Matthews was the real friend of the London Street Railway Company," Mayor Campbell said today. "He was working along the line the company wanted him to work along, I believe, for it is my opinion that the company did not want to build the line, and would have welcomed any excuse to get out of the promise made by Mr. Carr and Mr. Smallman to the city. And if Ald. Matthews had had his way, there would have been no end to the quibbling, and the people of South London would not have had their new car line, which is now guaranteed them by the first of next July."

CHILDREN'S AID WAS VERY ACTIVE

A Summary of the Past Year's Good Work--Reports Full of Encouragement.

That the Children's Aid Society has been very active during the past month was evidenced by the interesting reports submitted at yesterday's meeting of the board of management. There was a good attendance of members, and Mrs. Yarker, vice-president, occupied the chair. Those present were pleased to welcome back the treasurer, Mr. J. I. A. Hunt.

Regular maintenance accounts to the amount of $95 48 were passed and ordered to be paid.

Among the communications selected for submission to the board were some very interesting ones from wards of the society, showing that the children are happily placed and have made themselves indispensable to their foster parents.

The secretary wishes to draw attention to the many anonymous communications he has received of late reporting cases of child neglect. He wishes to impress upon the public that all communications sent to his office are treated confidentially and the name of the complainant is not revealed, but that it is impossible for him to take action unless he knows the source of his information. One such letter actually fails to give the name and address of the parties reported.

The inspector's report was of considerable length and dealt in detail with seventeen cases, all of which received the careful attention of the board. Many of these cases were regarding boys and girls who have grown to young manhood and womanhood under the society's care and are a credit to themselves and the organization. Since the last meeting five children have been placed on trial in foster homes, and at present there are seventeen in the Shelter Home, five of whom are girls and twelve boys. All the latter are between two and six years of age; they are bright, active, little fellows for whom the society would be glad to find foster homes.

The treasurer stated that the funds need replenishing. The collector has started to make her yearly visits to the society's subscribers, and doubtless the friends of this worthy charity will remember it as liberally as possible.

The committee appointed to supervise repairs to the old part of the Shelter Home, reported that these were being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible.

The secretary was instructed to call a special meeting of the board as soon as the date of the formal opening of the new home is settled.

His many years of successful service there has furnished him with a wealth of information, which render his addresses deeply interesting and profitable.

STARTED SEASON'S WORK.

The Young People's Society of the King Street Presbyterian Church, having reorganized for the winter, held its opening meeting last night. Some time was spent in proposing and welcoming new members after which a programme was rendered. Special praise is due to the Arion Club, of the Wellington Street Methodist Church, which contributed largely to the evening's enjoyment, with a number of well-rendered selections. The other numbers—solos by Mrs. Herbert Taylor, Miss Margaret Mowat and Miss Mina Taylor—were also appreciated by those present. Mr. William Brown, honorary president, gave a pleasing address. The pastor, Rev. James Rollins, acted as chairman, and the accompanists of the evening were Mr. Fetherston and Miss Marie Dyer. Light refreshments were served.

G. T. R. STAFF CHANGES.

An Ottawa special says: Following out its policy of concentration of departments, the management of the Grand Trunk Railway system on Saturday abolished the car service office of the Ottawa division (formerly the Canada Atlantic), in this city, but provision has been made for all the employes in that department. Mr. T. P. M. White, chief clerk, becomes attached to the staff of Superintendent Donaldson, as does also Mr. W. Rigby, a junior clerk. Messrs. E. D. Letch, J. S. Fraser, F. G. Robertson, J. E. Martin and S. Matheson left for Montreal this morning to take up their respective duties in the same line of work in the general officer of the company.

DEATH OF MRS. FORBES.

Mrs. Ann Forbes relict of the late William Forbes, who lived on the 7th con. Westminster Township, passed away at her late residence, 177 Kent street, last night. His wife survives him, as do also two children, Mrs. Abbott, of Byron, and Mr. Lapthorne, jun., who has been sent for in the Northwest. Upon the latter's arrival the funeral will be held from his late residence to Memorial Church tomorrow at 2 p.m., and thence to Woodland Cemetery. Rev. Dyson Hague will conduct the services.

COFFEE FOR TWO.

As yet it's a table just for two,
A plate for me and a plate for Sue—
My bride and I.
White as her heart is the cloth between,
Bright as her eyes the silver's sheen;
And I gaze and try
To understand and to calculate
Why I have won so much from Fate,
As she who gazes with eyes of blue
Across the table set for two.
Fragrance o' flow'ret in her breast,
Whiff from the urn; now, which is best?
I scarcely know!
Sweet is the scent of the double rose,
But oh, that sniff from the urn's bright nose
Is surely so.
And smiles seem dearer and lips more sweet
When seen through the shimmer of fragrant heat
From CHASE & SANBORN'S perfect brew
Above our table set for two.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

The Chicago Record-Herald gives a forecast of President Roosevelt's next message to Congress. The President's son is playing football this fall. Here's the message: To the Senate and House of Representatives: The nation, having just passed through the most successful football season in its history, is to be congratulated on the wonderful development shown by the contending teams. Those of us who have had sons battling for the glory of alma mater on the gridiron know what a prominent part the game fills in family life, and it is fitting, before we turn our attention to life insurance, canals, foreign affairs, rebates, tariffs and other dry and uninteresting matters, that we give our respective college yells. John L., Ring Veteran, Pats Himself on Back

Says He Made a Million Honestly—He Always Played Square With Public.

There is no bust of John L. Sullivan in the Hall of Fame. Yet it is a dollar to a nickel that he is known to more people in the United States than Geo. Washington. For a dozen years he was the unwhipped king of pugilists and the most-talked-of man on the continent, and he was the one best bet in the world. In those days it was an event to clasp his mighty hammer-like hand or to hear him swear. And even today, when a new king stands in the ring and when John L.'s right arm is no longer a catapult, many of those whose interest centers in the manly art will not admit that, with his years and his girth reduced, the great John L. would not still be king.

But Sullivan is no longer a prize-fighter. More polite, if less congenial, pursuits demand his attention. He is a student now of geography and guide and joke books, and stands upon platforms and describes stereopticon pictures and recites the history of the men he hammered to the sawdust.

Here is what a writer in the Chicago Inter-Ocean has to say of him. The interview took place in the Windy City:

John L. Needs the Money.

"When I found John L. Sullivan the other day in his rooms in a Dearborn street hotel he was pacing the room and muttering over the lines of his lecture. He knows there is money in what he is to say, and he is willing to rehearse. He needs that money. He has made a million in his time, and I have his word for it he is the only American he knows who ever has made that much honestly, but that million dollars has gone where most dollars go. John L. is sorry for it.

"It was my feeble knock at the door that interrupted his rehearsal.

"'Come in,' he bellowed in the voice of a great bass viol. There he stood in the middle of the floor, behemoth in size, with his great coatless shoulders seemingly half filling the room, and his great paunch taking up the rest of the available space.

"'Come in,'" he repeated. 'There's a little room left, I'm hoarse,' he added, as he put out the great right hand that has put to sleep an army of battling giants. 'I'm hoarse as a steamboat whistle. Got to lecture tonight.'

"And then John L. swore. This is one accomplishment he has not lost since his retirement. He is not wickedly profane; his strong adjectives are of a hybrid sort—a cross between Boston-Ian "cuss" words and messenger boy slang.

Lecturing in His Line.

"'It's in my line all right, this lecture business,' he went on before he sat down, 'but it's tough to be hoarse like this when you come to a real town. It wouldn't be so bad in Waco, Texas, or Muncie, Ind., but it's a shame to bring a cracked voice like this to Chicago.'

"Sullivan planted himself in a chair and lighted a cigar. There he sat, his hands upon his knees, his feet squarely upon the floor. He is gray, quite so, although he has not yet seen 50. He weighs more than 300 pounds, but he is as nimble as a bantamweight in training. As he sat there, a great Samson-esque figure, his satellites came in and slid in their orbits around him, bothering him, it was plain to be seen. He got rid of them as rapidly as he could. He could say little as long as they were there, but he didn't need to say anything. The picture he made was enough. There is not one woman in a thousand who would not give five years out of her thirties for his complexion; there is not one man in a thousand who would not crave even the remaining fragment of the giant's unmatched strength.

A Marvelous Memory.

"John L. Sullivan may not be educated up to the Boston standard. His speech is not that of the rhetorician. But he is a posted man and has a memory that is marvelous. He has been around the world and has kept his eyes open. He can appreciate a good story and tell a better one. He talks of United States senators as if they were his friends—and they are—and he can give the record of every prize fighter, race horse and politician of the last quarter century.

"'John L. has always been square with the public,' he said. 'I never threw a fight, and all the world knows it. It was John L. who put pugilism on a level in this country. When I began fighting you couldn't go to a milling without being sandbagged and robbed of your valuables. I made boxing a manly sport. Roscoe Conklin and many men like him used to come to see me in every battle. I put the game where it belonged, and held it there as long as I was in it. It's not on the level now, but it will be when some new John L. comes to purify it.

Played Square Then.

"'Yes, sir, I have played square with the public, and the public has played square with me. I've made a million dollars off the public, and I made it honestly. Can you show me another American who alone, on his own hook, by the strength of his muscle, has made that much money honestly? I have never practiced graft of any kind. You can't show me a millionaire who has made that money out of business who got every dollar in a strictly honest way. There never was a man worth $5,000,000 who had any right to half that amount of money. Millionaire is only another name for a dishonest man.

"'But my money—where is it? Gone—yes, about all gone. I went the gait. I've spent it; I've given it away. Did you ever hear of any one in need being turned down by John L. Sullivan? Not when he had or could borrow the money. I've made an honest million, and I tell you there are few honest millions anywhere.'

"John L. glanced about him at the walls of the little room he was occupying. There was a look upon his face that told that he was thinking of the days when a suite in the finest hotel in the world was his. For a minute he was silent.

"'I'm not an old man,' he continued, as he relighted his cold cigar. 'No, I'm not an old man, but I've lived.'"

Help! Help! I'm Falling

Thus cried the hair. And a kind neighbor came to the rescue with a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. The hair was saved! In gratitude, it grew long and heavy, and with all the deep, rich color of early life. Druggists have sold it in all parts of the world for 60 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Athletics Were Shut Out In First of World's Series

New York Giants Beat American League Champions on Their Own Grounds.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9. — Manager McGraw's New York Giants, National League pennant winners, defeated the Athletics here today in the first of the post-season series for the world's baseball championship.

More favorable weather conditions for the opening could not have been desired. The sun shone brightly and the sky overhead was without a cloud.

A crowd, variously estimated at from twenty-two to twenty-five thousand persons, witnessed the struggle. Every seat in the big stands and bleachers was taken hours before the struggle began. The late comers were allowed to sit or stand behind the ropes in the outfield and to occupy places of vantage on the fences. It was necessary to establish a ground rule and the umpires decided that a hit into the crowd should count for two bases.

The New York club and a large crowd of baseball enthusiasts from that city arrived during the morning. Owing to the intense interest that has been manifested in the series, elaborate preparations were made to handle the crowds. The ticket offices at the ball park were opened at 11 o'clock, and despite the fact that the prices have been raised, the admission being 50 cents, $1 and $2, an immense throng was in waiting when the sale of tickets began.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—At 1 o'clock, two hours before the game was scheduled to start, the pavillion was crowded. The waiting spectators were entertained by the home players, who came out for light practice at 12:30. The bleachers were crowded to their capacity and the late-comers were allowed to sit or stand behind the ropes in the outfield or sit on the fence. The National League champions arrived on the grounds at 2:05. They were arrayed in new uniforms of black and wore white stockings and white caps. Across their breasts were the letters "N. Y." in white. The New York team was accompanied by the Catholic Protectory band of New York, which gave a concert that did not end until the teams took their positions to battle for the world's first honors in baseball. The members of the teams, before taking their regular practice, held a little reception at the plate. There was a general shaking of hands. There were about 23,000 persons present when play began.

The batting order of the teams was as follows:

John Sheridan, of the American League, umpired behind the plate, and Hank O'Day, of the National League, looked after the base decisions. The umpires decided that a hit into the crowd shall count for two bases. Play began at 3:05.

First inning, first half—Bresnahan was hit by the first pitched ball, but was forced at second by Browne. M. Cross to Murphy. Donlin flied to Davis, holding Browne on first. McGann hit into the left field crowd for two bases, Browne taking third. Mertes struck out. No runs. First inning, second half.—Hartzel out, Gilbert to McGann on a close play. Lord flied to Donlin. Davis out Matthewson to McGann. No runs.

Second inning, first half—Dahlen struck out. Devlin and Gilbert bunted safely and worked a double steal. Matthewson struck out. Plank purposely walked Bresnahan, filling the bases. Browne out, M. Cross to Davis. No runs. Second inning, second half—L. Cross out, Dahlen to McGann, Seybold flied to Dahlen. Murphy out. Gilbert to McGann. No runs.

Third inning, New York first half—Donlin out on a grounder to Davis. McGann out, L. Cross to Davis. Murphy threw Mertes out at first. No runs. Third inning, second half—M. Cross out, Devlin to McGann. Donlin dropped Schreck's fly in short center field, Schreck reaching first safely. Plank hit into a double play, forcing Schreck at second. No runs.

Fourth inning, first half—Dahlen out, Murphy to Davis. Devlin struck out. Gilbert thrown out by M. Cross to Davis. No runs. Fourth inning, Philadelphia half—Hartzel singled to center, the first hit for Philadelphia. Lord bunted to Gilbert, forcing Hartzel at second. Davis forced Lord, Dahlen to Gilbert. Dahlen threw L. Cross out. No runs.

Fifth inning, first half—Matthewson singled to center, but was forced at second by Bresnahan, M. Cross to Murphy. Bresnahan stole second. Browne flied to M. Cross. Donlin scored Bresnahan with a single to left and took second on the throw in. McGann reached first on balls. Lord dropped Mertes' fly and Donlin scored. Dahlen flied to Hartzel. Two runs. Fifty inning. Philadelphia half—Seybold out, Matthewson to McGann. The ball struck Matthewson and hurt him so badly that he quickly retired to the bench and McGinnity began to warm up. Matthewson soon recovered, and resumed his place in the pitcher's box. Murphy struck out, first man that Matthewson fanned. M. Cross out, Devlin to McGann. No runs Sixth inning, first half—Devlin flied to Lord. Gilbert singled to left, and was thrown out trying to steal second. Schreck to M. Cross. M. Cross threw Matthewson out after a sensational stop. No runs. Sixth inning, second half—Schreck doubled to center and took third on Plank's sacrifice. Bresnahan to McGann. Hartzel hit to Matthewson who threw Schreck out at the plate. Lord forced Hartzel at second. Dahlen to Gilbert. No runs.

Seventh inning, first half—Bresnahan flied to Lord. Browne out, M. Cross to Davis. Donlin bunted safely and stole second. McGann out, L. Cross to Davis. No runs. Seventh inning, second half—Davis struck out. L. Cross out, Gilbert to McGann. Seybold was thrown out by Devlin. No runs.

Eighth inning, first half—Murphy threw Mertes out. Dahlen flied to M. Cross, Devlin struck out. No runs. Eighth inning, second half—Murphy hit into the right field crowd for two bags. M. Cross struck out. Schreck flied to Browne, holding Murphy on second. Plank struck out. No runs

Ninth inning, first half—Gilbert singled to left center and took second on Matthewson's sacrifice, Plank to Davis. Bresnahan singled to center, scoring Gilbert. Bresnahan going to second on the throw-in. Browne went out on a grounder to first, Bresnahan going to third. Murphy threw Donlin out. One run. Ninth inning, second half—Hartzel out, Dahlen to McGann. Lord struck out. Davis hit into the right field crowd for a double. L. Cross was thrown out by Devlin. No runs.

THE MEDS BLANK Y. M. C. A. TEAM

Opening Game of City Association League—Meds Are Superior Team.

The opening game of the City Association Football League was played last evening on Carling Heights, when the Meds defeated the Y. M. C. A. team by a score of 2 goals to 0.

The Meds were considerably the better team, and had much the better of the play. The Y. M. C. A. team was slow in getting on the field, and the game was delayed longer than it should have been. Team managers should have their team on the field at the scheduled time.

The game was fast and even for the first ten minutes, but the Meds scored first by a pretty shot by Downing, their center half. No more scoring was done in this period.

Both teams missed many good chances to score in the second half, but the Meds got one through in a scrimmage in front of goal.

The last part of the game was played in darkness. The lineup was as follows:

Y. M. C. A.—McLaren, goal; Crawford, back; Gillies, back; Ferguson, half back, Wickett, half back; Jepson, half back; Brock, forward; Canfield, forward; Jordan, forward; Flett, forward; Bartel, forward.

Meds.—Hutchinson, goal; McLean, back; Chamberlain, back; Bice, half back; Downing, half back; McMillan, half back; Aikenhead, forward; Felinsbee, forward; Walker, forward; Keiler, forward; Crawford, forward.

Referee—J. H. Downing.

NEW "CY" YOUNG IS A GOOD ONE

Pitched Great Ball for Boston National League Club This Season.

It is rarely a season passes by that a new star does not arise on the baseball horizon. Some come quickly and pass away within a short time—others come to stay. One of the finds of the present season is Irving M. Young, the left-handed pitcher of the Boston National League Club.

Young has some very baffling curves and great speed. His name being Young it is not at all strange that he was dubbed "Cy," the nickname of the veteran pitcher of the Boston Americans, whose name is not "Cy," but Denton. He is a very quiet, unostentatious chap, and has already become a very warm favorite. When he first signed a contract to play with the Boston Nationals, he did so at a modest compensation, but he did such good work that the attention of independent clubs was attracted, and agents of the Tri-State, or outlaw league, as it is known, made every endeavor to induce him to jump his agreement. He refused these offers, and remained true to the people to whom he had contracted his services. In his first eighteen games this season he was victorious in ten, and most of the defeats should have been victories.

"In the first game at New York, Young pitched the last four innings, replacing Wilhelm when New York got four hits off the former. In the game with St. Louis, on May 20, Young pitched the full nine innings, when he held the Cardinals down to six hits, struck out six men and gave one base on balls.

It will be seen that Young landed twelve out of the twenty-two games in which he pitched up to July 22. In these his opponents made but 59 runs, which is an average of less than three per game, a remarkably fine showing. Boston made but 56 runs with him in the box, which shows how little run-getting and batting there was behind him; in other words, he had to pitch for all he was worth all of the time in order to win his game. But once were double figures in runs reached against him. Chicago succeeding in accomplishing this in Chicago, and but three times were more than three runs in a game scored against him. New York and Brooklyn being the only other teams to secure that number of runs beside Chicago. Five times he succeeded in shutting out opposing clubs, which is the record for any pitcher in the National League. He twice applied the whitewash brush to the strong Phillies, once each to the champion New Yorks, the former champions of Pittsburg and the Chicagos. Three times he held the opposing club down to one run. In but one game in which he pitched was Boston shut out. Two of the games in which Boston was defeated there was a margin of but one run at the close of the game.

Young was hit safely 173 times in these games, which is an average of almost eight hits to a game. In but three games were ten hits or more made off him and in seven games the showing of the opposing clubs was six hits or less. His splendid command of the ball was shown in the fact that in the 22 games in which he pitched he gave an average of less than two bases

SENIORS WILL FINISH SCHEDULE

Football Executive Decides to Stay in the Game—New Players.

The executive of the Rugby club met last night and decided to stay in the senior series. After the game on Saturday several members of the team declared that they were through with the game for good, and that the managers would be unable to get a team together to finish out the season. However, at the meeting of the executive it was found that a team could be got together, and they will finish out the schedule. Several new men will be tried out. The team will also be rearranged. Bice and McMahen will go up on the wing, and Canfield and Yeates will go on the half-line. Edy will play center.

NATIONAL TEAMS TOO MUCH FOR AMERICANS

Boston, Oct. 9.—The Boston National League team today won the first of a series of seven games with their local American League rivals on the grounds of the latter. A crowd of 7,000 persons saw the contest. The score:

Boston (N.)	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	3—5	9	3
Boston (A.)	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1—2	7	2

Willis and Moran; Dineen and Criger. Umpires, O'Loughlin and Emslie. Attendance, 7,000.

THE BROWNS TRIMMED.

St. Louis, Oct. 9. — The local National League team won the first game of the inter-league post-season series today. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

St. Louis (N.)	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	0	0—4	6	4
St. Louis (A.)	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0—1	3	1

Taylor and Grady; Howell and Spencer.

WHAT THE HAMILTON PAPERS SAID OF SATURDAY'S GAME

THE SPECTATOR.

The tabulated score tells the story of the first championship game of the season between the champion Tigers and the London Cockneys even better than it could be told by words. Although their opponents had the advantage of playing on their own grounds, the hungry Tigers simply ate 'em alive. In the first half, when they had the advantage of the fairly strong wind that was blowing from the south, they scored almost at will, and in the second half, when the conditions were reversed, they put up such a strong defense that the Cockneys were unable to get over their line, while they increased their lead by an even dozen points. Despite the fact that the game was one-sided it was not devoid of interest, even to the 1,500 Londoners who were in the stands. The Tigers put up such a fine exhibition that the crowd got the worth of its money. In fact, the crowd became so enthusiastic over the work of the champions that it cheered almost as heartily as if the home team had been winning.

There was no comparison between the teams. After all the good reports received here about the showing made by the London team in practice, the Tigers expected a hard game, but a very few minutes after the teams got on the gridiron it became apparent that the Cockneys had been greatly overrated, and that it was only a question of how many points the champions of the last two years would win by. Less than three minutes elapsed after the referee's whistle blew for play to begin before they scored their first try, and after that there was something doing nearly every minute until the game was ended. Points were scored so fast that had it not been for the system of counting adopted by the Tigers' supporters it would have been difficult for the spectators to keep track of the score. The followers of the yellow and black started out to count by ones, but when the score reached two figures they switched and counted by fives. Before the first half was concluded the score was so big that even counting by fives was too slow, and they then counted by tens. After each score they counted up to the total, so that there was not any necessity for using a scoreboard.

THE HERALD.

Fully two hundred Rugby enthusiasts accompanied the Tigers to London on Saturday, and were well repaid for their outing. The champions put up an exhibition of football that was well worth traveling the distance to see, and, although the score does not indicate it, the Cockneys put up a stubborn struggle.

The Tigers are as wild as ever. As soon as Manager Awrey let them loose on the London field on Saturday, they proceeded to eat the Cockneys alive. But, considering that it was their first meal for some time, no one can blame them for getting all they could digest.

They went right down the menu card and scored 49 points, while the Cockneys were lucky to score 3. But the score is hardly a fair indication of the play.

That the Tigers outclassed their opponents there is no doubt, but still the London dozen put up a brilliant struggle, and with a different system of playing their score would have been different. The Cockneys have had as coach a graduate of Michigan University, by the name of Smith. From the way they played on Saturday, Smith has evidently been drilling the American mode of play into the Londoners, for they lacked the open style which is the most beneficial part of the present O. R. F. U. rules.

The westerners have some splendid individual players, but the team lacks systematic plays. And when one considers that the Tigers excel in combination and system, the story of the large score on Saturday is told. Then the Cockneys were weak behind the wing line. Time after time the backs fumbled, and often a score resulted from their loose play. Hueston, Hague, Girven and McMahen were the stars of the western team, Hague's place is not as half-back, however.

FRENCH WILL NOT TRY FOR VANDERBILT CUP AGAIN

Paris, Oct. 9.—The Automobile Club of France made the announcement the other day in advance of the running of the race for the Vanderbilt Cup in New York next Saturday that no matter what may be the outcome of that contest it will not participate in the event next year.

A correspondent who sought an explanation from the secretary of the club, was informed that the club was too busy with automobile races in France to engage in others at so great a distance away. Moreover, he said, the club was not at all satisfied with the rules governing the Vanderbilt cup contest.

Although he was not very explicit the correspondent gathered that he thought deliberate attempts had been made to lessen the chances of French success in the race through partiality in the number of cars allowed to be entered as well as other restrictions which had not been enforced in the case of other countries.

Many members of the Automobile Club as well as several important French manufacturers are irritated by this decision not to again compete, but say that the club acts by common consent as arbiter of French automobile affairs, and that therefore they can do nothing but submit.

CLOSE FINISHES; RECORD CLIPPED

Good Racing at Grand Circuit Meet—Jubilee Not in the Money.

Lexington, Oct. 9.—The feature of the sixth day of the Kentucky Breeders' Association meeting was the trotting of the Walnut Hall cup, $3,000 guaranteed, by L. V. Harness. It took four heats to decide the event, Turley winning from Glenwood M., the favorite.

In the first heat the stake record of 2:07¾, made by Billy Buckin, 1903, was equaled by Turley. In the second heat Glenwood M. clipped half a second from the record. Fast time characterized every heat and the finishes were close.

Citation, the favorite, had no trouble in taking the 2:10 pace in straight heats.

In the 2:16 trot Boreazella, the heavily-played favorite, was able to take only the second heat. The first went to Pat T. and the third to The President. Summaries:

RAY TURNED DOWN OFFER FROM KING

"Nat" Ray, Toronto's great steeplechase rider, who suffered from a bad fall at Belmont Park on Thursday, is much improved. Last Saturday Ray rode Hylas to victory in a big steeplechase, and the New York Telegraph gave the following description of the race: "If Hylas had not been as brave as a lion, he could not have stood the vigorous ride Nat Ray gave him. Discriminating judges of cross-country form said after the finish that Ray, and not Hylas, won the race, and this theory is correct. The clever Canadian man rode more skillfully. He did not lose an inch of ground, and he betrayed as much courage as the horse under him. It took a real man to straighten Hylas up after the horse went to his knees on the last round of the course, and go after his company, and never on the New York tracks has such riding been seen as Ray's was on Hylas. He rode with hand and head, and gradually cut down the lead Stone had, who rode Dick Roberts, and won by two lengths."

The turf could ill-afford to lose such a grand rider, who always has ridden in such a manner and carried himself in such a way as to cause people to say he is a true gentleman.

Ray received a cablegram from King Edward, through his trainer, making him an offer for next season to ride his stable of jumpers, but he had already accepted a salary of $20,000 for next season from a New Yorker, and was forced to decline, although there is still a probability of his going over to ride the King's horse in the Grand National. If he goes the entire good wishes of all Toronto will go with him.

COMBINATION WORK DEFEATED CHICAGO

Brantford junior lacrosse team's easy victory over the Chicago combination at Chicago, causes the Record-Herald to say:

"The colonists played a combination game that brought out quick appreciation from the old lacrosse fans in the stands. If it had been possible to measure the distance covered by both teams it would be shown that Chicago men ran five times as far in the course of the game, but the smoothness of the visitors' team work more than offset the hard sprinting of the home players, and was good for more than twice as many goals.

"Individual starring was the bane of the Chicago's work. The local men held the ball too long. Their failure to make quick passes to their mates completely upset team work and combination play, and the net result was much hard labor lost where more attention to team play would have put the locals in the running. The quick and accurate passes of Whitehead and Laderoute were too much for the Chicagos. That pair of Canadians alone, by quick turns of the wrist great doging in tight holes and perfect handling of the ball, decided the game, as they scored eight of the Brantfords' goals."

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well-known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

WORLD'S RECORD EQUALED.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Aeronaut, the favorite, backed down from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1, easily won the Westchester handicap, 6½ furlongs circular at Belmont Park today, and in doing so equaled the world's record of 1:18 2-5, held jointly by Martinmas and Mineola. Aeronaut went to the front at the start and opened up a gap of three lengths, which he held to the finish. Kiamesha, favorite, carrying 104 pounds, equaled the world's record for one mile, circular, held by Dick Wells, by covering the distance in 1:37 2-5. Grapple in this race set a terrific pace for a quarter of a mile, when Lord of the Vale assumed command, and led to the stretch, where Knapp brought Kiamesha up, and in a hard drive landed her a winner by a length from Eugenia Burch.

The Meadowbrook steeplechase went to the 5-to-1 shot, Tom Cogan, Jockey W. Knapp's riding was a feature. Out of five mounts he rode three winners, one second and was unplaced in the others

TOKIO PLANS BIG FAIR

Commercial Agent Tells of Plans to Stimulate Business.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—The Canadian commercial agent at Yokohama, Japan, reports to the department of trade and commerce of the Federal Government here that it is considered the war has served as the best advertisement to the world for the Mikado's kingdom, and that with peace now restored Japan as a tourist rendezvous will be henceforward an unrivaled country.

It is suggested that Japan should take advantage of the present opportunity and promote an international exhibition at Tokio as a special inducement to popular travel. This scheme, the agent says is still in embryo. Last year the number of tourists fell off heavily on account of the war, but has been revived since the destruction of the Russian fleet. The business interests of the country find a considerable source of revenue in the tourist traffic, and naturally the Japanese endeavor to maintain it. There is in Tokio an institution known as the Welcome Society, under the patronage and direction of leading citizens, organized mainly to make tourist traffic easy and give value for money.

John Sinclair, who belongs to London, went to Hamilton two weeks ago. He got drunk there and was landed in jail. Behind the bars he broke a pane of glass and attempted to cut his throat. When found he was almost dead, but the jail physician says he will recover. Sinclair was never in trouble before.

MR. HEWLETT'S WORK.

The Hamilton Spectator, in a recent issue, says about Mr. W. H. Hewlett, who is well known in this city: "Mr. Hewlett has a unique personality. He is one of those rare men who never tire, apparently, his fund of nervous energy being limitless. To one not accustomed to his ways he appears to be too nervous and likely to be erratic. This is not so. There is no one more cautious and conservative. Mr. Hewlett has his ideals and, having determined upon a certain result in music, he works with an indefatigable energy till the goal is reached, and woe be to him who gets in the way of the irresistible force he displays. His Sunday programmes at Centenary Church are at all times choice, and he succeeds in getting a wonderfully good sample of work from his choir, which is one of the largest and best selected in the city."

A LUCKY STRIKE

An Unclaimed Parcel Sold at Auction Contained Interesting Collection.

The Toronto News of yesterday contained the following article in reference to an unclaimed parcel which was consigned to a London man, and which was sold by auction in Toronto recently by an express company:

"Every little while one reads of a lucky strike in the gamble which the buying of unclaimed freight undoubtedly is. But seldom does a fortunate purchaser secure such a collection of interesting things as did Frank Walsh, 514 King street east, by the outlay of $2 50 in Henderson's auction rooms on Saturday. Four dozen willow-pattern plates and platters of very old make, a fiddle-bow over 150 years old, flint-lock carbines, which belonged to the Seventy-first Regiment of the line, guns and swords which had been used at Ballanahinch in '78, rebel pikes, Irish clogs, blackthorn sticks, and a host of other old relics were in the big packing-case. The oddest thing, especially as the consignment came from Derry, was a tin box containing four bottles of holy water.

"The case was addressed to Robert Moore, London, Ont., but was never claimed, and had been in the auction rooms for five years."

The name of Robert Moore does not appear in the London city directory for 1905.

PREFERENTIAL TARIFF AS AID TO CANADA-AUSTRALIA TRADE

Mr. Larke Says That and a Mercantile Agency Are Greatly Needed.

A gathering of between fifty and sixty of London's most prominent citizens, representing nearly every leading commercial industry in the city, assembled in the board of trade chambers last night to hear Mr. J. S. Larke, one of the Canadian trade commissioners to Australia. Mr. Larke, as he stated in his final remarks, asked for an extended holiday from the department of trade and commerce, and he was employing the time by delivering lectures throughout the country to the different boards of trade and in other ways influencing Canadian producers and manufacturers to further their own interests by finding a market in Australia for their products. He was thus really in active employ all the time.

Mr. Larke spoke for the space of an hour, during which time close attention was paid his remarks, and frequent bursts of applause were called forth. He dealt expressly with the trade relations between Australia and Canada, and particularly emphasized the evident necessity, to further these relations, of having a mercantile agency with commodious warehouses in both Canada and Australia, in order to show the consumer the goods. A few years ago nearly everybody thought that it was the highest degree of folly for Canadians to seek foreign markets when they have such a splendid home market. Future contingencies should be prepared for. The trade even at present with Australia is ten times the volume that it was ten years ago, and was constantly growing. The people of British Columbia were doing a good trade in exporting fish, etc. Canada was exporting a very considerable volume of trade at present, even more than the trade returns show, as they were not faithful indicators. Much of Canada's exports were shipped through New York and entered in the United States trade returns. But Canada should do a great deal more. If a man has all that he can do at home it would be foolish for him to cultivate a foreign market, because a home market is best. But many raw materials could be transformed into exportable goods, such as peas turned into pork, and hay into butter and cheese, and sent to foreign markets.

Enormous Possibilities.

The resources of this country should be developed through the export trade. In Australia they pay $1,000,000 a year for the same fish put up in tins in Dundee that the Scotchmen of Nova Scotia and the Frenchmen of Quebec could put up in Canada. Possibilities were enormous for the exportation of gypsum and pulpwood, the latter being manufactured into paper, in Australia.

"Canada should be the papermaker of the world."

One absolutely essential thing in obtaining this foreign market was to have all the proper processes of machinery. One condition of transportation was that goods must be landed in Australia as cheap or cheaper than competitors could land them there, and proper machinery was necessary in the manufacture. In transportation, goods must be shipped from our own ports. Canadians were smaller exporters than the Americans, and their shipments natually suffered by delay in United States ports. The two railways should stop their rivalry, and give, if necessary, a preferential rate, so that goods could be landed in Montreal or St. John cheaper than they could be in New York. He thought it a dream of the near future when the railways would have their own steamship line. There was always a return cargo from Australia of wool, hides, sheepskins, hemp and palm oil, used in making soap. Australia is the cheapest hide market in the world."

Large numbers of the Canadian manufacturers could make goods, but could not properly place them. In order to meet such a contingency a mercantile agency should be formed with warehouses in each country, and managed by men of brains. The consumer must be shown the quality of the goods. All the rest would be smooth sailing. The Australian market was a conservative one. The first order a Canadian gets would be a small one. The Australian must have confidence in the goods and in the man who ships the goods. They were wary, and they had to be wary. Also Canadians must remember that they cannot expect to have advantages from Australia and expect to give nothing in return. There the trouble lay, but it could be overcome. For instance, large amounts of our flour are going to Australia because it makes a beautiful bread flour. On the other hand Australian flour is shipped to British Columbia because it makes an excellent pastry flour.

A Preferential Tariff.

Another essential thing to closer trade relationship between the two colonies was the establishment of a preferential tariff. Australia's attitude toward Canada lately has been expressed as being anything but friendly. This was entirely due to a misunderstanding of which the cable company was greatly the cause. Canadian goods received preference over United States goods in Australia. There is no hostility whatever on the part of the Australian ministers or people to Canada. Much the same conditions existed there that exist in Canada. Revenue must be raised through the customs. Unfortunately for Australia at present three factions of equal strength practically composed the government. The latter was not strong by any means; 25 Free Traders, 123 Labor Partyists, and 24 Protectionists were elected last election. But Canadians must negotiate with the people, not with the existing Government. There the Government will do exactly what the people want them to do. The speaker had received many letters from United States manufacturers, who were inquiring about the likelihood of a preferential tariff between Canada and Australia coming about. They were afraid of the event occurring and wished to be ready when it did come. But Australia is an imperialistic country and the sympathies of the people are with the Candians, not the Americans.

Mr. Larke spoke of the intelligent workmanship of the mechanics in this country, and emphasized the opportunities in educating the Frenchmen of Eastern Canada to become able to make the fine goods that their compatriots make across the ocean. The finest skilled labor in Europe is found in France, and the United States wide awake manufacturers are building factories in the vicinity of this raw labor product and are already taking advantage of its presence.

In conclusion the commissioner spoke a few words stating his pleasure at being present and that he would always remember Canada with gratitude. He advised local manufacturers to branch out. "The trade of London is all over the Dominion and a good deal of it wider than the Dominion, and some of it wider then the empire."

Though the meeting was thrown open to allow questions to be answered, but a few took advantage of the opportunity. To Mr. White, the commissioner explained that tariff rates on inland freight and packing cases existed only to the port of export from Canada, i. e., goods shipped from London to New York via Niagara, duty would have to be paid only from London to Niagara.

"Does not Australia export wheat?" was one question."

"Yes. In 1904 Australia actually exported more wheat than did Canada, but this wheat is a soft wheat. Again the drought is always dangerous there, and is bound to occur again. We want to be ready to supply them with foodstuffs. In the last drought $13,000,000 worth of foodstuffs were imported of which Canada supplied but $6,000."

To another questioner he replied that the tariff on flour was specific and not ad valorem, and so the tariff would not affect the freight when shipped across the country.

In responding to a hearty vote of thanks, Mr. Larke stated, after a few pleasantries, that he looked forward five years ago to seeing three movements accomplished in Australia, two of which he had already seen happily finished. The Pacific cable had been laid, and federation of the constituencies of Australia had come about, in each of which Mr. Larke was proud to say that he had played a prominent part, and he hoped to see in the early future Australia taken advantage of as the finest school in the world as an educator of Canadian manufactures. Even at present the Massey-Harris Company do more than 50 per cent of all the agricultural implement business in Australia.

When I went away I believe you had some politics. I believe you still have political parties. There are certain branches of a government that are non-political, and the department of trade and commerce is one of them. In Australia politics are never allowed to interfere with the trade interests. (Applause.)

Several citizens spoke briefly on local commercial dealings with Australia.

A LITTLE STEALTH

"Let Not Thy Left Hand Know What Thy Right Hand Doeth." Especially When the Left Is a Bit Cranky.

Some of the most lovable and best people in the world are cranky, and a "leetle" hard to manage, particularly when you want them to do good. Then it is that justifiable and righteous artfulness may be resorted to. As, for instance, in the following case given by a devoted wife and mother in Iowa:

"This spring my daughter, who is a teacher, became convinced that coffee was doing her harm, as it caused distress and belching after eating. She felt that she needed a warm drink in the morning but disliked hot water or milk. Then our daily use of Grape-Nuts suggested Postum.

"For some time my husband, who has been a user of coffee from his youth, had been more than usually troubled with sleeplessness and nervousness and I felt that Postum might be helpful to him. The question was, how to persuade them to leave off drinking coffee and try Postum, against which they had repeatedly expressed prejudice. I resolved to try an experiment and make the test.

"Without acquainting them with the fact, I made Postum according to directions, but added a teaspoonful of good coffee. I poured it out with some misgivings, but was delighted to see that no one could tell from its appearance that it was not rich, strong coffee. Its use was continued for a week with the coffee addition; then that was gradually withdrawn, until only the pure Postum remained, and still the change had not been detected.

"Two things were very noticeable, however, that my daughter had begun to improve rapidly in health, her dyspepsia left, and my husband was enjoying sweet, refreshing sleep.

"When I ventured to tell him what I had done, he asked for a return to the coffee, and I gladly made it for him; but one day satisfied him, the old sleeplessness came back and he told me he liked Postum the better. So we have used it ever since to the benefit of the whole family." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE DECREASE IN LICENSES

Over 200 Less in Ontario Now Than Two Years Ago.

Mr. Eudo Saunders, chief officer of the license department of Ontario, estimates that the decrease in the number of licenses issued in the Province this year is 166. Last year there was a decrease of 78. The figures for the past three years are as follows:

1903-4	2,899
1904-5	2,821
1905-6	2,655

Mr. Saunders mentioned the figures apropos of an article commenting on the great decrease in licenses that has taken place since 1875, when there were 6,185. He thinks that from the recent figures one is justified in concluding that the reduction is still keeping up a good pace.

ARE ANGELS SEXLESS?

Cannot Assume Them To Be Men, Says Divine.

London, Oct. 9. — Regarding the discussion which has been taking place in New York upon the sex of angels, Archdeacon Sinclair, one of London's most prominent divines, had no hesitation in declaring he was not quite at one with Dr. Peters, who said there is no Scriptural authority for assuming angels to be female.

"There is no formulated church doctrine on the subject of angels," he said. "All opinions about them are founded on what is said in the Old and New Testaments. In the Bible they always are represented as men, or, at any rate, with the appearance of youth. The idea would be no doubt that they have no sex at all. See, for example, Christ's words, 'In the kingdom of heaven, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are as angels.' At the period both of the Old and New Testaments women were considered greatly inferior to men, and the idea of angels being in the form of females would have been quite impossible.

"The church always has founded its traditions on these views. The idea of female angels came in through the influence of the renaissance in reviving the conceptions of the heathen goddesses."

The eye of a young child is as transparent as water; that of the youth a little less so; in the man of 30 the eye begins to be slightly opaque; in the man of 50 or 60 it is decidedly opaque, and in the man of 70 or 80 it is dull and lusterless. This gradual development of opacity is due to the increase of fibrous tissue and deposit of waste matter in the eye.
