THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 1, 1886.

It is fifteen years to-day since the first procession passed. We mean the Dominion Day procession. What has those two decades accomplished for us as a people?

can fairly be asked. Has the Dominion been a success—has the Dominion been a failure?

The World thinks it is mixed as a success by those who have not seen it.

to make it one. We in Canada are blessed with a liberty that should be cherished and honored as our dearest possession.

Talk about the freedom of the Republic to the south of us. With ours it may be comparable, but it is not superior. Oh, no, Canada can and will be made the happiest country on God's footstool.

Since confederation we have had a share of intestine squabbling, but we were quite equal to the occasion, and proved to the monarchies of the old world and to the people of the new that we knew how to take care of ourselves.

The World sincerely hopes that we will always be able to do so. We have not yet seen the glare of the incendiary torch, the flap of the red flag, or the deathly wail of the anarchist's bomb on our shores.

God forbid that we ever should. In our country all men are equal, and our democracy is a true one.

A pronounced element in our destinies is the young man in business and politics.

They are now found in our great commercial houses, they crowd the ranks of journalism, compose the militia, and are beginning to lead the van in the political arena.

Two hundred young men are attending a political convention to-day in Montreal.

Live in Canada.

The Hamilton Spectator ought to be and is read in this and other cities throughout the land.

But we miss the accustomed article on pumping machinery. If there is anything more than another that this journal hankers at it is its something else.

We desire to know about your pumping machinery and we want to know it quick.

Perhaps the busy man who is pushing a big business on King, Yonge, or Queen street don't think that the best Dominion Day he ever spent was in catching snails with a pin and no bait on it.

Perhaps he isn't built that way, but if he is not he was never reared in this glorious climate. He ought to be seen when he votes.

The elections are ripe in Manitoba. It is about time for John Norquy, to taste our grapes, but the chances are that he will not do so long as there is a green yard wide open before him.

A Chicago despatch states that the anarchist who threw the fire-bomb in the Haymarket massacre is dead.

It would have been money in several people's pockets—including his own—if he had never been born.

Trial by jury is an affliction to which few men submit graciously.

Having had that kind of a trial the workmen of Toronto have appeared.

It has not yet occurred to any of the party organs to make the able remark that the Conservatives of East Simcoe are suffering from an attack of Quinsey.

There are no many elements of the pathos in "Dick" Andrews' case that his plan of "blackmail" cannot be described as ridiculous, but it is certainly without justification.

He could have more correctly said, in the words of Charles Dickens, "I am an old man, my Lord, a very old man."

After all it was his years that spoke for him, and not altogether in vain.

His case was a career fit for moral analysis. Zola might make a great and dry book out of it.

He had many warnings and some narrow escapes, but he persisted until the end, and such an ending! Advanced in years, and without means, and with a legitimate business under his control, there was no reason why he should not have repaired his wrongful path. He preferred not to. He preferred to carry his pitcher to the well until it was broken.

The pitchers of his patrons, wealthy or otherwise, have not yet been shattered, but most of them will go to the well one by one.

Let the conscience which reads these lines think of that. Don't do it again, old fellow, don't do it again.

A cooper named Graham, who certainly cannot have been Graham, has his name to the contrary notwithstanding, proposes to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

We are awfully sorry for the barrel.

That cable story about Farnell, the League funds, and the assassination of two of Ireland's best friends does not fit on this side of the water.

It displays all the symptoms of a soap bubble. Farnell has appeared in many guises, from the role of a graduate of Oxford University and denouncer of "Pajant rats," down to that of a Kilmannin jail bird, but when anybody asks us to contemplate him in the character of an accomplice to a crime ruinous of his own ambition that body makes us tired, and we cordially request to go away.

Did you ever see the politician who never made a dollar out of politics, dear reader? No! Well, he is now in our midst. We would not have him there if we could help it, but he says he is willing to sleep any place he has just come to town, you know. We propose to have him shipped.

Our friend the post-man may rest assured that nothing is so rare to-day as a day in June.

The war of the boycott has been literally exported into Africa. The natives of Cameroonian and French colonies who, they think, have not treated them the right way, have always relied on the natives.

The Young Liberals propose that the fishery question shall be settled by Canada alone.

The idea is all right, though not happily expressed, but the one thing certain is that Canada desires the intervention of Great Britain or without, as the case may be.

The Montreal Herald is "given to understand" that the Toronto Globe is "led by a demon."

The Herald's understanding is all right. The Globe is edited by the only old wind original descent on the Canadian press.

Attempts have been made by jealous journalists to invent other demons, but all such attempts to infringe upon the World's rights have met with ignominious and deserved failure.

There is but one Demon in Canadian journalism, and we hold the patent, and will continue to hold it so long as the rights of the press are respected by the consensus of law and public opinion.

It is a Well-known Fact

THE CIGAR

Cable and El Padre

BRANDS OF CIGARS

ARE THE

Oldest, Most Reliable and Best Value in the Market.

For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employment of close on 500,000 cigars annually.

Smokers will find it to their advantage to patronize the dealers who have invested in these brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain.
