prior of a printing shop in Philadelphia, and I used a trustworthy man who will look after my interests while I am away on my other work, inspecting sewing machines. If we reach an agreement I hope that you will bring your wife to Philadelphia with you, for then I shall be more certain of your honesty."
"But I shall not act as boss, shall I? You must have other experienced men there," I said.
"They do not know their business," Cecilia told me. "They cannot properly execute the work I wish you to do."
"Cecilia then showed me some money order blanks, commercial papers and handbills, and I told him that such work was my specialty.
"It was agreed that Cecilia should go with me to Philadelphia, and Cecilia promised us that we should be so wealthy we would not have to work. It was not fixed in my mind just where Philadelphia was, for I had not been in America long and had remained all the time in New York. But Cecilia told me we would be well taken care of during the trip, and that if I did not care to keep the position I would receive my fare back to New York. When Cecilia promised to pay the rent we owed on our rooms and to discharge any other debts Cecilia or I had contracted, I was swept by a great wave of gratitude. Cecilia even told me that she would live in the house where he carried on his business, and that there would be no rent to pay, as he owned it.
"When Cecilia returned from work that evening she cried with happiness over the news and seemed more joyful over my own fortune than her own. At first she did not want to go with me, however, for she said the trip would be expensive, and she wanted to remain at her work so that all my earnings would benefit me. It was not until I told her that the expenses for both of us were to be paid that she consented to go.
"With Cecilia I went to a photographer's and bought cameras, plates and a tripod, and then to the printing shop in which I had worked and struck a bargain for a press which Cecilia said she needed. It was on leaving there that I met "Don Turi" Cina, whom Cecilia introduced as his godfather. Cina took my hand in his great paw and shook it so that the bones cracked, and I could have groaned with the pain of it. He was a terrible man. That I knew at the first sight of him.
"Do not watch his ordinary clothes," said Cecilia to me. "He is a man of gentle manners."
"Late in the afternoon Cecilia, Cina, Don Pasquale and a man named Sylvestre rushed into our rooms and began putting labels on the furniture, which we had packed for shipping. At the time Cecilia kept me busy with some papers and Cecilia was so occupied with wrapping up some of the smaller things that neither of us noticed what was printed on the labels.
"Just as they were carrying the furniture from the house my eye caught one of the tags. On it was printed—
"A Cina, Highland!"
"Suspicious, I turned upon Cecilia. "Do we not go to Philadelphia?" I cried.
"A—ha—ha," laughed Cecilia, and his eyes shot black, wicked fire. "We go to Philadelphia, but the house is really outside the city. This is the place where the boat stops and from there we walk twenty minutes. But have no fear, you will be put to no inconvenience, for we shall hire a carriage. Do not worry about the labels. It is just as though we were sending the furniture to the Bronx, or Harlem. Would it not be all New York?"
"But do we not go by rail?" I inquired.
"That would cost too much," said Cecilia. "Besides we could not load the furniture on the train as we can on the boat. It will be a beautiful trip."
"We left New York that evening. When we were not more than two hours from the pier Cecilia came to me and said, "Mr. Comito, we are about to make a very poor showing."
"Why is that?" I asked.
"Because I find I have not money enough to pay all the fares to Philadelphia. Our friends who helped us pack the furniture are going to assist us in setting up presses, so I should certainly pay their fares."
"I have not one penny," I told him.
"When he asked Cecilia if she could lend him some money she took five dollars from her stocking and gave it to him. This was the only money we had between us."
In this way Cecilia and his friends made it impossible for Comito and Cecilia to escape them if they should become suspicious. Once more, according to Comito's confession—
"Late at night Cecilia awoke me and said that the boat was stopping at High-land, where we should get off. It was cold and there was snow on the ground, which made Cecilia very cross and we were not at all happy.
"I am sorry you are both tired after the trip," said Cecilia. "Philadelphia is not far from here, but we will stop at the house of my other godfather for a few days until you are rested."
"We waited for half an hour on the pier and Cecilia grew crosser each minute. I myself had many misgivings, until I felt very grateful to these men and the thought of having good work and saving a little money outweighed all else.
"There was a clattering of horses' hoofs and a wagon rattled up the pier at great speed. Cecilia introduced the driver as Vincenzo Ciglio, his father-in-law, and we drove to his place, where there was a great feast ready with plenty of wine, which put Cecilia in a good humor once more. My suspicions were lulled and it seemed that at last she was to flow along like a beautiful dream."
How "life flowed along" for Comito and Cecilia you will see by the next article.

TROOPS WILL NOT WITHDRAW FROM MEXICO

Until a Firm Government is Established—Huerta's Fall Predicted.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] WASHINGTON, May 18.—General Huerta has authorized the Mexican delegates to submit his resignation, in case such a course is found necessary to a settlement in peace negotiations. This was stated positively in despatches to-day from a thoroughly competent diplomatic source in Mexico City, to one of the foreign representatives here, and confirms intimations given by friends of the delegates here yesterday.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—While the stage was being set in Niagara Falls, Ontario, to-day for the next big scene in the Mexican crisis, officials here eagerly discussed the extent to which the mediation preliminaries might reach, and the bearing the negotiations eventually would have on the pope of settling the southern republics. Reported optimism of the Huerta delegates over chances for mediation and their confidence that their long journey will not have been in vain found reflection in the capital.

Members of the federal mission were in New York to-day. Minister Naon of Argentina, was expected in Niagara Falls where he was to cooperate in arranging for the beginning of the conference next Wednesday. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil, was in New York where he was to leave for the Canadian border town. Minister Suarez of Chile was to leave here to-day, and members of the American mission were to depart direct for Niagara Falls.

At the same time, the ex-changes of courtesy among them and the South American envoys and the American mission overshadowed military developments. The Huerta delegates firmly declined while here, to give out any statement of their program. Nevertheless, some idea of their viewpoint was believed to have been obtained from representative Mexicans and others with whom they talked. They were reported as feeling that the federal administration is disintegrating, and that it is inevitable that a successor must be chosen for Huerta. At the same time, they are vitally interested in the unfolding of sense that would follow such a crisis—what guarantees could be obtained against possible property confiscation by invading Constitutionalist, safeguards against anarchy and the kind of government that would stand and attract world recognition. Theoretically the Huerta delegates face an international issue but they are declared to have privately admitted that the real problem confronting them is the pacification of their country. At the same time, persons in the line of the Washington Govern-ment assert the question for mediation no longer is the Tampico flag incident or the numerous affronts to the dignity of the United States, but the broad question of settling the troubled republic's ills. Along that line, it is said that Funston's troops never will be withdrawn from Vera Cruz until a firm government is established or assured in Mexico City.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The week-end was remarkable for the reintroduction of the politics of Rudyard Kipling, who addressed a meeting at Tunbridge Wells, according to a London cable to the Mail.

The "imperial poet," in a speech described as of "clotted bitterness," accused the Government of constructive crime in order to retain their salaries, which he declared to be their sole motive. Here are some sentences from Mr. Kipling's speech: "If the Cabinet thinks murder will serve their turn again, they will attempt murder again. In the light of their record of two months ago we are justified in believing that if, by any lie, any falsification of fact or speech or document, by bribe or subornation of evidence, or prearranged provocation, the blame for causing bloodshed can be thrown on Ulster, the Cabinet will, openly or secretly, lend itself to that work." He further asserted that if there was no election, and civil war ensued, destruction of the Empire from within or without is inevitable.

Was Popular In England

Consul General of United States Died Last Night in London.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] LONDON, May 18.—Gloom has been cast over the American colony in London by the sudden death last night of Consul-General John L. Griffiths, who succumbed to heart disease.

The late Mr. Griffiths was one of the most popular American officials who ever held office in England. He was in much demand for after-dinner speeches, and was a prolific writer. The British press pays the highest tributes to-day to the late consul's abilities as an official, while the newspapers refer to him as a popular figure, and praise his efforts upon behalf of good relations between the United States and Great Britain. This was the subject of one of the most recent speeches, during which he said jealousy and animosities between Great Britain and the United States had disappeared, and the two countries were moving forward to a common destiny.

PITIFUL STORY TOLD OF HARDSHIP ON ATLANTIC

Arrival of Survivors From Steamer "Columbia," Burnt on the Ocean—Men Went Insane Before They Died

[By Special Wire to The Courier] HALIFAX, N. S., May 18.—The United States Revenue cutter Seneca arrived here to-day with four survivors of the burned steamer Columbia whom she picked up from their small boat forty miles south of Sable Island at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The condition of the men was pitiful, but it is believed they would live.

The men are First Officer Robert Tierce, Oscar Kendall, Peter Belanger, and Michael Ludwigen. Belanger is a native of Sherbrooke, Que. Chief Officer Tierce gave the following statement of the experiences of the survivors to Captain Johnston of the Seneca: "Eleven of us left the Columbia at two o'clock on Monday morning, May 4, in a great hurry following a heavy explosion. We had no compass in our boat, as it had been taken out for cleaning. We had matches and a lantern, but there was a strong wind and the spray prevented us from securing a light. We kept the Columbia in sight until daylight. The smoke and fire of the ship enabled us to see her until that time. Then the rain began to fall and we lost sight of the ship. We did not attempt to row or sail, but put over our sea anchor and drifted. That day a four funnell-steamship passed us about a mile and a half way but we were unable to make any signal before she passed us. The next morning, Tuesday, May 5, a steamer with a black red handed funnel passed us about four miles away, but we could not attract her attention. On the afternoon of the 5th a Cunard liner came within two miles of us and seemed to stop as though she was picking up something. She soon disappeared however, after that we saw no ship until the Seneca picked us up. For the thirteen days that we were afloat the weather was thick with mist, fog and rain, but the day we were rescued was bright and clear and the sea smooth."

When we abandoned the Columbia we had a cask of water and the boat's tank was three-quarters full. The boat's crew on rations of one biscuit and half a cup of water three times a day for each man. When it rained we caught water in the sail and in that way kept up our supply until we were rescued.

Drank Sea Water

The biscuit ran low at the end of the first week, the allowance was cut down by one-third. On Saturday May 9, Officer George Hull complained that he could not stand short rations of water and biscuit, and against the advice of the boat's company, began drinking sea water. That night he was taken with delirium and died the following morning. From that time until we were picked up, one or two died each day. As there was no room in the boat in which to keep the dead bodies, the men were buried at sea as they died. The last one to die was Peter Trael, a Belgian boy, an ordinary seaman. He died at five o'clock Sunday morning, about four hours before we sighted the Seneca. A peculiar incident about Trael was that before the ship sailed from Antwerp, he told the men that he had a dream of a sinking ship and being out at sea in an open boat for fourteen days before being picked up. After we had abandoned the ship, he was constantly complaining that he would not be able to last out the fourteen days, and that he would never see Antwerp again. On the morning of the fourteenth day Trael died.

KIPLING IS IN BRITISH POLITICS ONCE AGAIN

Bitter Denunciation of Government's Course in the Ulster Crisis.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] MONTREAL, May 18.—The week-end was remarkable for the reintroduction of the politics of Rudyard Kipling, who addressed a meeting at Tunbridge Wells, according to a London cable to the Mail.

The "imperial poet," in a speech described as of "clotted bitterness," accused the Government of constructive crime in order to retain their salaries, which he declared to be their sole motive. Here are some sentences from Mr. Kipling's speech: "If the Cabinet thinks murder will serve their turn again, they will attempt murder again. In the light of their record of two months ago we are justified in believing that if, by any lie, any falsification of fact or speech or document, by bribe or subornation of evidence, or prearranged provocation, the blame for causing bloodshed can be thrown on Ulster, the Cabinet will, openly or secretly, lend itself to that work." He further asserted that if there was no election, and civil war ensued, destruction of the Empire from within or without is inevitable.

Plans For a New Theatre

Dame Rumor from pretty good authority on the street this morning, that Manager E. C. Symons of the Colonial theatre, has purchased the Stratford block on King and Dalhousie streets for a new theatre. It has been a known fact for some time that Manager Symons has been dickering for this property with a view to erecting a big theatre. The property taken on the deal includes the store at the rear of Turnbull & Cutcliffe's store to the store occupied by Geo. Patte's tail shop. It is the intention of Manager Symons, so it is stated, to tear down these buildings and erect a handsome new theatre at a cost well up in six figures where high class road shows will be staged, besides the best vaudeville and moving pictures that can be obtained.

General Prices Reported Steady

The Department of Labor's index number of wholesale prices stood at 136.8 for April, as compared with 136.7 for March and 136.3 in April, 1913. Eggs and butter declined steeply, grains averaged lower, cattle and beef were easier, hogs, potatoes, sugar and molasses declined, while some metals were lower. Fodder, canned salmon, onions, flour, oatmeal, raw cotton and horseshoes advanced, and raw furs averaged higher. In retail prices a general decline in eggs and butter was the chief feature. Beef advanced in several localities, but veal, pork, sugar and coal and wood tended downward.

STEP NEARER PENNY POST AROUND WORLD

Reduction Will be Recommended by the Governments of the World

[By Special Wire to The Courier] NEW YORK, May 18.—A cable to The Tribune from London says a majority of the world's governments have decided in favor of a reduction of the international letter postage rate from two pence half penny to three half pence. The Standard makes this interesting and important announcement on the authority of Sir John Heniker Heaton, who criticizes the new figure as absurd and hopes to live to see his ideal of universal penny postage realized.

The matter will be officially decided at the triennial conference of the postal union, which will take place in September next, and which all governments will send representatives. Some nations will advocate the reduction to a penny (two cents), but a majority of them are in favor of a compromise at three half pence, and it may be confidently expected that this rate will come into force next year.

Editorially The Standard says that "the three half penny post is unlikely to have a very long life. It is an obvious compromise of a makeshift kind, and it is safe to conclude that before many years the extra half penny will be quietly dropped. Its retention indeed, seems chiefly owing to official dislike of doing anything in a dramatic or direct way."

OPENING WAS VERY PLEASANT

Glorious Weather at the Golf Links and Good Play Saturday.

The new season of golf was opened on Saturday last at the Golf and Country Club under ideal conditions. The weather was almost perfect, and the course in excellent condition, considering all things. The first event of the season was the monthly cup, which was competed for by a large field of players. The contest proved a very close one and resulted in Mr. W. W. Orr winning the cup with a very creditable net score of 79. Mr. C. J. Watt was runner up with the fine net score of 80, which entitled him to a prize donated by the Captain. Mr. F. C. Towers won the prize awarded by the Secretary for the best score turning in by those handicapped at ten or better. Mr. Towers won by a masterly net score of 89.

On Monday next, which will be a bank holiday, a large team of players have signified their desire to play in the annual match with the London Hunt Club, in London. If the weather conditions are satisfactory there will no doubt be a repetition of the very enjoyable times which have always been experienced in the past, with this hospitable club.

SIR CHARLES DRURY DEAD LONDON, May 18.—The death occurred to-day of Admiral Sir Charles Carter Drury at the age of 68. He was born at Rothsay, New Brunswick, and entered the British navy in 1859. From 1903 to 1908 he was second sea lord of the admiralty.

NORDICA'S BODY. BATAVIA, Java, May 18.—The body of the late Madame Lillian Nordica was shipped to-day on board the steamer Vanloon for Singapore from which port it will be taken to the United States on board a North German Lloyd steamer.

Calgary People Crazy Over Big Oil Boom

Policemen Had to Keep the Crowd Back With Their Money Ready to Place in Different Companies—Trading Continued Until 2 o'Clock Sunday Morning—Some Records.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] CALGARY, Alb., May 18.—Twice yesterday the Dingman well became temporarily a gusher. The first rush of oil occurred about noon, and the second expulsion took place three hours later. In each instance the phenomenon lasted about a minute. The drill house was filled with spectators on both occasions, who were drenched with the fluid. Oil in the well has now risen to a depth of 2,200 feet, and only bailing keeps it from coming higher. The flow of gas has now become heavier. Current opinion among oilmen is that with a little more drilling the flow at the Dingman well would be increased very materially, as the drill has not penetrated the oil-bearing sands to any great extent.

Trading on Saturday was furious. Herron Elder, which property adjoins that of the Dingman, took in over $100,000 during the day in small amounts. The crowd was so great that a dozen policemen had their entire issues of stock subscribed for during the day. Trading continued till 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Dingman stock jumped from $15 to prices ranging around $175, and some small blocks were sold around $200. New brokerage offices were opened up every hour. Scenes enacted were much wilder than those occurring during the real estate boom of two years ago.

The land office had a record business Saturday, taking in $8,000 during the three hours it was open. A record price was paid for a leasehold, W. S. Herron disposing of 20 acres adjoining the Dingman property for $50,000.

Decrease In Labor Unrest

[By Special Wire to The Courier] OTTAWA, May 18.—According to the record maintained in the Department of Labor, a feature of the labor situation during April was the marked decrease in the number of strikes and lockouts, as compared with the corresponding month of last year. During April, 1913, 25 disputes commenced, which, together with the eight previously in existence, affected 8,430 employees and caused time losses of 112,446 working days. The record for April, 1914, shows only ten disputes in existence (four new ones), affecting 1,297 employees and causing time losses of about 25,000 working days. Industrial conditions were not seriously affected by trade disputes in any particular locality, the strike of coal miners on Vancouver Island being the only disturbance affecting a considerable number of workmen. Five disputes remained unsettled at the end of April.

WILL LAUNCH LEGAL ACTION AGAINST CITY

R. French, Owner of Rink, Gets Opinion From Legal Firm.

By all appearances legal proceedings will be entered against the city shortly, providing the Council does not in the next ten days reconsider its refusal to grant Mr. R. French, proprietor of the Alfred street rink, a license to run a roller rink. A letter from Brewster & Heyd, solicitors, was received this morning at the City Hall. The rink has been built there by a building permit from the building inspector, and the lawyers want to know if the City Council is going to be influenced by a few neighbors' who have signed a paper against a roller rink license being granted Mr. French. The application was made to the city some two months ago, asking for the license, but was refused, and Mr. French has been put to considerable annoyance. The Council now has ten days in which to reconsider its refusal, and at the end of that time, if some action has not been taken, legal proceedings will likely be started.

ANOTHER ONE

Two Deaths Already From Aviation Meet Held in Germany.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] FRANKFURT-ON-THAINE, Germany, May 18.—Another fatal accident occurred to-day in connection with the Prince Henry aviation competition which started yesterday at Darmstadt. Lieut. Rohde, who was flying as a passenger with Lieut. Kolbe, was killed when their monoplane was captured by gusty winds. Lieut. Kolbe escaped with slight injuries by jumping before the machine struck the ground.

Lieut. Mueller, who was the first victim after the start of the contest was killed yesterday. Eighteen military aviators and thirteen civilians composed the competitors in the endurance race about thirty additional military aviators are to participate in other contests connected with the meeting. The most important event is a reconnaissance contest covering a total distance of about 1,103 miles divided into two stages.

FIVE WERE DROWNED. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 18.—Five persons were drowned by the capsizing of an over-covered launch in the Mississippi river Sunday.

EVIDENCE OF GUNMEN WILL BE STRENGTHENED

Corroboration of What Jack Rose Said is Plan of Attorney.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] NEW YORK, May 18.—Charles B. Plitt, one time press agent and adviser for Charles Becker, on trial for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, took the witness stand for the state to-day and corroborated in many details the stories of Jack Rose and others that Becker was instigator of the murder plot. As he testified he avoided looking at the defendant. After Rosenthal had been murdered, the witness swore, he met Becker who was indignant at the way the killing had been accomplished.

"What the — is the matter with Jack Rose and the bunch?" Plitt questioned Becker as having said, "To pull the stunt the way they did was very bad. You would suppose it was being done for moving pictures." Plitt said he met Becker almost every day after Becker became head of the strong-arm squad. Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for the defense objected repeatedly to District Attorney Whitman's questions to the witnesses but was invariably overruled.

On July 15, the day before the murder, Plitt swore he saw Becker at police headquarters, and was told by him that arrangements had been made for getting an affidavit from Dora Gilbert, Rosenthal's first wife, to be used in an endeavor to offset his story to the district attorney. "Then Becker told me," said the witness, "that he had to have an alibi for that night. 'Keep away from Times Square to-night,' he told me.

"What's coming off?" I asked. "Never mind," said Becker. "Do as you're told. 'We've got to have an alibi. To-morrow you'll know why.'" Plitt said Becker sent him to the Lafayette baths to meet Harry Vallon and others, and that they went to the Gilbert woman's house, where Plitt personally took the woman's affidavit.

After the murder, said Plitt, Becker had said with reference to the affidavit, "It's not much use now." The first witness to take the stand to-day was Lillian Rosenthal, widow of the dead gambler. In reply to questions by District Attorney Whitman, she said she was living in her husband's gambling house when he was murdered. She related her husband had told her of the proposed partnership between him and Becker, and she bore out the story told by Jack Rose that Rose had been placed in the house to look out for Becker's share of the profits.

George Dougherty, former deputy police commissioner, was the next witness. He told of the surrender of Rose, and of Becker's appearing at headquarters while Rose was being questioned and peering through the door at the prisoner.

Under cross-examination, the witness said Becker had told him where he was on the night before and the morning of the murder.

Americans Were Beaten at Golf

[By Special Wire to The Courier] SANDWICH, Eng., May 18.—Harold H. Hilton, holder of the British amateur golf championship, today defeated H. L. Boyd of the Royal and Ancient Golf club by 8 holes up and 7 to play in the first round of the tournament.

Jerome D. Travers, amateur champion of the United States, was defeated by 2 holes by Charles B. Palmer, of the Royal and Ancient club. Palmer, who comes from Hansword, England, is a very strong player who has taken part in many tournaments. He played so well to-day that he and Travers were all squares when they were at the ninth hole and he soon afterwards took the lead.

TO APPOINT COMMISSION. WINNIPEG, May 18.—That a commission be appointed composed of Liberals, Conservatives, Protestants and Catholics to take up the educational question in this province and submit recommendations to the government was the suggestion made last evening by Rev. Horace Westwood, pastor of all Souls' Unitarian church, in the course of his sermon.

MINISTER WILL RUN. WINNIPEG, May 18.—At a convention of opponents of the Roblin Government, Rev. Mr. Wood, Presbyterian clergyman, Franklin, was selected as candidate to contest Beaty's Plains riding in opposition to Hon. James Howden.

CORNER STONE WELL AND TRULY LAID SATURDAY

Methodists of Echo Place Will Have Beautiful Place of Worship.

"In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, I lay this corner-stone for the foundation of a house to be built and consecrated to the service of Almighty God, according to the order and usages of the Methodist Church," with these words, Mrs. J. W. Grummett laid the foundation stone of the Elm Avenue Methodist church and at the same time used in a new epoch in the spiritual life and history of that thriving little district, Echo Place.

With a calm, well modulated voice she spoke the words and plied the silver trowel, and the massive stone was well and truly laid, forming a new link in the records of the progress of Methodism in Brantford.

Even the elements favored the auspicious occasion, the sun shone pleasantly and the wind died down; in consequence many residents of the section were scattered around the platform, to witness the dedication. It was, indeed, a happy throng, gathered together in the name of He who made all things.

On the platform were grouped a number of men and ministers prominent in Brantford church life, and they included, Rev. A. E. Lavell, Rev. T. E. Hollings, Rev. J. J. Liddy, Rev. Irwin, Messrs. Fred Mann, J. Barnes, George Wedlake, J. Schultz and J. W. Westbrook, M.P.P.I.

Opening the proceedings, Rev. Mr. McIrvine, president of the Hamilton Methodist conference, called for a hymn, which was sung to the accompaniment of Mr. Davison, after which Rev. Mr. Lavell led in prayer. A responsive reading, the 82nd Psalm followed by Rev. Mr. Hollings, who was asked to speak by Mr. McIrvine, who characterized him as a man of sterling ability and one who had done great work for the Methodist cause.

Replying Mr. Hollings said he had no time to speak and would therefore speak impromptu. In his work out West he was familiar with this duty and was pleased to see such extensions in the East. Brantford was destined to be a church centre. The people of Echo Place might have no time to go to the city for worship, for young children to have to travel far to worship. Therefore, it had been decided to build a church at Echo Place and the venture had been abundantly successful. "We are a greatly favored people," he continued, "to have such weather and such interest taken."

He was pleased that soon this district would have a place where the residents might worship as God fearing children would.

Mr. Lavell was called upon and responded with a fine address. He drew attention to the district. It was not densely populated, but it would be a place of importance. The new church was near school; church and school should never be opposed. He congratulated the people of the district upon the splendid church which was being erected, and enlarged upon the good work which would be carried on under its roof.

Mr. C. L. McIrvine said in this world there were three classes of men and it was man who was at the top of the mountain who was required. These were men of broad vision, and he congratulated residents of Echo Place upon the broadness of their principles. Men were wanted; high-minded men, not men of rank, but men. Everything achieved was obtained through the stimulus of a belief in God. He referred to the deeds of Edgerton Ryerson, who won for Canada her religious liberty. In order to achieve we must labor. Great men had dreams and these dreams men had realized, and these dreams were the great men. He would like to charge them—preach the Word. Let us work on for the love of the Lord Jesus Christ. The church would stand as a rebuke to sin and would be a monument to Christ, he concluded, and he trusted that in this church many souls would find their way to God.

Mr. J. W. Westbrook might have been said to represent the state at this church function, and he spoke briefly of the good work accomplished by Echo Place, and as there were many others to speak he said he would wish them every success.

Mr. George Wedlake said there was much undying enthusiasm in this work. The ladies had done a great deal, and he raised his hat to them. This church home would be a blessing to the community, and he was sure that many would be borne to the Kingdom of God through this building.

Mr. Fred Mann, vice-president of the Brantford Methodist Union, and president of the Laymen's Association of the Hamilton conference, said his heart was in such work. He was pleased to be present, and they had every good wish from him.

An offering was then taken, and then the actual ceremony of the afternoon took place by Mrs. Grummett. It will be remembered that Mr. and Mrs. Grummett donated the site for the building. A beautiful silver trowel, which had been presented to the church board by Mr. Fred Mann, was given to the good lady for the act, and upon it was inscribed:

"Presented to Mrs. J. W. Grummett on the occasion of her laying the foundation stone of the Elm Avenue Methodist Sunday School, Echo Place, Saturday, May 16th, 1914."

As is customary, a record of the present time was placed in a galvanized box and placed behind the foundation stone; it contained, the newspapers of the district, history of the church, officials of the church and a list of the names of the laymen of the district.

With the laying of the stone, the ceremony was completed, and all adjourned to the cafe chautau where dainty refreshments were served. The whole was prettily decorated by Mrs. Gullen, and presented a very attractive appearance. The program of the evening was completed, and all adjourned to the cafe chautau where dainty refreshments were served.

MAGISTRATE TOOK CHARGE LIGHTLY

Young Man is Charged With Speeding—His Case Was Dismissed.

At the instance of Chief Slemin, Lloyd Almas was charged with a breach of the Motor Act. The charge originated in the recent accident which occurred late at night and caused injuries to Dr. Elliott. Giving evidence, when called by the Chief, George Patte said at the time of the accident he was asleep and knew nothing until the smash occurred. Dr. Elliott, testifying, said owing to his position in the car, he could not see the other car as it approached. He would not swear that it was there at the time and caused the accident. He estimated the speed at about 15 miles an hour, more or less.

Chief Slemin thought, according to state, this was reckless driving, and he therefore asked for a conviction. The magistrate did not consider that this was reckless driving, as at the early hour there was no people about, and therefore there was no reckless driving. He did not think that defendant's story of the Ford car, which was on the wrong side of the road, had been disproved by the evidence brought out by the cross-examination, and he could not convict. The men concerned had been sufficiently punished by the costs to which they had been put, and they would be allowed to go.

Peter Hill, an Indian, was charged with housebreaking by Mary E. McDougall, of the same nationality. She gave a long list of articles, principally household effects, which he had taken from her home on the Reserve during her absence a fortnight ago. Totalled up, the value was $12. Defendant pleaded not guilty, and remained mute although he could speak English fluently. Without a movement of his features he listened to the evidence given against him, which showed he had removed all the articles to his home, and some of them he had destroyed, and when asked if he had anything to say to the magistrate, he refused to speak. Evidence clearly proved him guilty, and he was fined $25 and costs and three months in jail.

A case for investigation was that provided by Peter Marracle, an almost blind Indian lad of nineteen. He was charged with being a vagrant, and speaking with a cultured voice, he said he had run away from his home in Hagersville because his people had ill-treated him, and up-cast the fact that he was not working. He came to Brantford seeking employment and was found asleep in Alexandra park yesterday. His appearance gained from the magistrate sympathy and he was remanded for two days in order that the Chief might find some work for him, and that his story be investigated.

The usual compliment of drunks completed the list.

GOOD SUGGESTION TO BRANTFORD PEOPLE

It is surprising the amount of food matter the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowels so thoroughly that DR. E. DOSE relieves sore stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Brantford agents for Adler-ika. Robertson, druggist.

THE CANADIAN NORTHERN ISSUE.

The Laurierites are getting more and more at sixes and sevens in connection with proposals of the Borden government. It is true that on the Conservative side of the House two members—Nickle of Kingston and Bennett of Calgary—have expressed disapproval but their defection does not begin to be of the importance of the resignation of Hon. A. G. Blair as Minister of Railways and Canals in the Laurier Cabinet, because he did not approve of the Grand Trunk Pacific details, and said influence turned out to be nothing.

Our objections to him, unlike his objections to the prince, are purely personal. Prince Alexander happens to be the great-grandson of King George III of Great Britain and Ireland. The Prince's grandfather, Adolphus Frederick, the seventh son of George III, was Duke of Cambridge and Earl of Tipperary, and Mr Emmerson may be interested in knowing that neither Cambridge nor Tipperary is in Germany because his mother was English. Nor is Queen Alexandra regarded as a foreigner in England because she was born a Dane.

We are not blaming Mr Emmerson for being half American by birth. He couldn't help it. Our objections to him, unlike his objections to the prince, are purely personal. Prince Alexander happens to be the great-grandson of King George III of Great Britain and Ireland.

The Prince's grandfather, Adolphus Frederick, the seventh son of George III, was Duke of Cambridge and Earl of Tipperary, and Mr Emmerson may be interested in knowing that neither Cambridge nor Tipperary is in Germany because his mother was English. Nor is Queen Alexandra regarded as a foreigner in England because she was born a Dane.

TECK'S APPOINTMENT. We heartily congratulate, writes Henry Dalby, in the Montreal Mail, His Serene Highness Prince Alexander of Teck upon having so early acquired the cordial disapproval of the Hon. H. R. Emmerson, ex-Minister of Railways, and a few disgruntled sore-heads who agree with him. The Prince could not desire a stronger recommendation to the people of Canada generally.

Mr. Emmerson is good enough to explain that his objection to the new Governor-General is based upon his dislike to the idea of the continuance of royalty in any official capacity in Canada, and especially to a German Prince being sent to the Dominion. Incidentally it may be remarked that Prince Alexander is not royal and is not a German. But that is near enough for Mr. Emmerson.

Perhaps a more serious objection, from the honorable gentleman's point of view, is that the Prince is not an active and aggressive member of the political party of which the member for Westmoreland is such a distinguished ornament. Four our part we have a decided conviction that it is a great advantage to Canada to have the King represented here by a gentleman who has never been identified with either political party. Canada has suffered before now from the party activities and prejudices of Governor-Generals who could not forget their party alliances in the Old Country.

There may be people here who would prefer that Mr. Keir Hardie should preside at Government House. Doubtless there are some who would expect great advantages to inure to themselves or to their party from the partizanship of the vice-regal head of the state. Everybody in the United States recognizes that the principal weakness of the Constitution is to be found in the partizanship of the Chief Magistracy and the Speakership of the House of Representatives. The Electoral College was designed for the purpose of preventing the presidency of the United States from becoming identified with any political party; but unfortunately failed to accomplish its object.

As to Prince Alexander's nationality, he is at least as English as Mr. Emmerson is Canadian. Under the Royal Marriage Act of 1772, no descendant of King George II can marry without the consent of the Crown under the Great Seal, except that in case any such descendant over twenty-five years of age, shall persist in contracting a marriage disapproved by the Sovereign, he may contract such marriage after giving twelve months notice to the Privy Council and the marriage will be good unless both Houses of Parliament declare their disapprobation thereto.

The Act gives formal recognition to the principle that the interests of the state must take precedence of personal preference in the marriages of members of the reigning families. Hence the numerous alliances between the royal families of Europe. The Kaiser is not regarded as a foreigner in Germany because his mother was English. Nor is Queen Alexandra regarded as a foreigner in England because she was born a Dane.

We are not blaming Mr Emmerson for being half American by birth. He couldn't help it. Our objections to him, unlike his objections to the prince, are purely personal. Prince Alexander happens to be the great-grandson of King George III of Great Britain and Ireland.

NOTES AND COMMENTS. Ex-President Roosevelt returns from his jaunt to Brazil to find his bull moose looking like the breaking up of a hard winter.

A cablegram announces that Winston Churchill spent the week end flying in the air at Sheerness, incidentally looping the loop six times. Perhaps he thought that safer than facing suffragettes.

Toronto aldermen have been on a trip to the States sniffing around up-to-date garbage disposal plants to see if any odors can be detected. Upon their return they will with one accord be able to assume a wise look regarding the subject and exclaim: "We nose."

PITIFUL STORY

Fireman Insane Fireman Fritz Jakob went insane, and was more or less violent the day before he died. The death of the other man was unattended by any peculiar incident, all expiring as the result of hunger and exhaustion.

Sighted Seneca. Captain Johnston, commander of the Seneca, said the boat was sighted at 10.15 yesterday morning about 40 miles south, southeast of Sable Island. The men in the boat had seen the Seneca for two hours before they were picked up, and were pulling to get across the line of vher course. The mate was steering, and the three poor emaciated men at the oars were pulling as hard as their little strength would permit. The boat came alongside the Seneca and the men were helped on board. One had to be carried below, two staggered across the deck to the door of the companion-way and the fourth had to be led below. They were all taken to the Sick Bay, where the ship's surgeon, Dr. Slaughter, took charge of them.

Gangrene in Feet. The Columbia's first officer was wearing heavy sea boots when in the boat, and did not cut them. As a result his feet became swollen, so that the circulation partially stopped in his feet, and gangrene set in the toes of both feet. The ship's doctor thought that this could be arrested without amputation. The four men were turned over to the local officers to be transferred to the marine hospital.

Credit to Officer. Captain Johnston said that great credit was due to the first officer for the manner in which he handled the boat and the men. The rations were correctly distributed. "It was a case of the survival of the fittest," said Captain Johnston, "the eleven had to die for the other four to live."

When the boat came alongside the Seneca, the first mate did not lose his bearings, said Captain Johnston, but handled the boat well, and gave orders in a seamanlike manner."

Birthdays of Note

MONDAY, MAY EIGHTEENTH

This is the sixty-first birthday of Colonel Andrew Duncan Davidson, sometime known as "The Father of the American Invasion," one of the right hand men of the Mackenzie & Mann interests and head of their land department. Born in Glencoe, Ont., he spent his younger days in the western states and then engineered the movement which directed a flood of American settlers into Canada. Since 1905 he has been chief land commissioner of the Canadian Northern Railway. Apart from his wonderful success in settling the Saskatchewan Valley with Americans, his most interesting coup was in connection with the C.N.R. entrance into Montreal. When he heard that it was proposed to tunnel Mount Royal, he instantly saw the way to pay for the right of way and the terminals. Going to Montreal, he established himself in a rather obscure corner, kept away from hotels and clubs where he would be known and working quietly and steadily succeeded in buying up the whole of the property behind the mountain now belonging to the C.N.R. No one knew anything about the move until the deal was consummated. The same plan was worked by him at Leaside, near Toronto.

SOMETHING TO DO.

Oh, ye who complain of the grind, remember these words (which are true!): The dreariest job one can find is looking for something to do! Sometimes, when my work seems a crime, and I'm sorely tempted to sob, I think of the long vanished time when I was out hunting a job. I walked eighty miles every day, and climbed forty thousand high stairs, and people would shoo me away, and pelt me with inksands and chairs. And then, when the evening grew dark, I knew naught of comfort or trees. I looked through the windows at men who tackled their oysters and squabs, and probably grumbled again because they were tired of their jobs. And I was out there in the rain, with nothing to eat but my shoe, and filled with a maddening pain because I had nothing to do. And now when I'm tempted to raise the grand hailing sign of distress, I think of those sorrowing days, and then I feel better, I guess. I go at my labors again.

Big Account Paid.
The Hydro Electric Power Commission has acknowledged the city's check for $2,824.43 for supplies.

Sugar Gone Up.
Sugar has gone up in price. Last week the local grocers were advised that the price of sugar would advance cents per hundred. This sets the price at $4.70 a hundred pounds.

Now a Lawyer.
Mr. W. J. Jolly of Regina, son of Mr. David Jolly, Sr., of this city, is now a fully-fledged lawyer in the West. He passed his final examinations in April and has received his degree at convocation in Winnipeg.

Building Permits Issued.
Building permits were issued on Saturday to J. L. Howard, 202 Nelson street for a brick addition to a brick house to cost $375 and to A. F.
Bunnell, 55 Dufferin Avenue, for a brick addition to a brick house at a cost of $100.

Pole on Fire.
An insulated wire set fire to the electric light pole bearing the transformer in front of the Gem Theatre on Saturday night shortly after 10 o'clock. The lights in the theatre were put out for a time, but the damage was soon repaired.

Has the Qualifications.
Another application has been received at the City Hall for the position of manager of the street railway.
J. J. Marshall of Toronto, is the applicant and at present is car starter and cashier of the Lansdowne Division of the Toronto Street Railway. He was for some time master mechanic on both the C.P.R. and G. T. R.

Class Humor.
At the First Baptist Church Sunday school yesterday an amusing episode occurred. The superintendent, intending, by his reference to Niagara and the Peace Conference, to draw a parallel on Biblical matters, asked the school: "What have they got at Niagara just now?" Quick as a shot came the reply from an excited youngster: "Smallpox."

A Timely Deed.
Mr. N. Poulos, who runs the Brantford Cafe, at 135 Colborne St., did a very appreciable act when he voluntarily offered the entire receipts of last Saturday to the funds of the Women's Hospital Aid, in appreciation of the splendid work of that association. The spacious quarters were beautifully decorated with flags and bunting, and the attendance was excellent. The table linen, food and all accessories told of careful management, and the many who visited the establishment, in addition to regular customers, expressed themselves as most pleased. The net proceeds were $75, which the ladies gratefully acknowledge.

Story Hour.
The Marvellous Pitcher, a story by Nathaniel Hawthorne, will be the subject of the Story Hour on Tuesday, and on Thursday the famous Maeterlinck masterpiece, The Blue Bird, will be dealt with by Miss Middlemiss.

All Work Ceased.
At 2.30 this afternoon all employees of the Grand Trunk railway from coast to coast stopped work for one minute as a mark of respect to the late late Vice-President William Wainwright.

Football Executive.
A meeting of the Brantford and Paris Football League will be held at the Y.M.C.A., next Wednesday at 8 o'clock. Arrangements will be made for the John Hill Charity Cup between the Dufferin Rifles and Cocksbutts United and referees drawn for the games to be played on May 23 and 25.

Ventilation at Court House.
Repairs are being effected upon the chimneys of the Court House at the present moment. Several of the employees of that building have been concerned with regard to ventilation, which has to some extent been cut off by alterations, but they are assured there is no need for anxiety.

Thoughtful of H. R. H.
Members of the Brantford Golf and Country Club are particularly pleased with the thoughtful gift of the Duke and Duchess as a 'souvenir' of what was described in the letter of the private secretary, Arthur F. Haden, as the "most pleasant visit of His Royal Highness to the Brantford links on Saturday May 9. The portraits will be framed and put in place at the Club House.

Horse Came Back.
"Billy," the old police horse, who has been sent into retirement from active service at the Agricultural Park, was found yesterday on his way to the police station by a constable.
He had travelled over half the distance unattended, after having broken loose from his quarters in the park.
He was taken to his old quarters at the police station, to his evident pleasure, and was sent back to his new stable this morning. The old horse evidently does not care to part with old associations, and was overjoyed to hear Bill Rutherford's voice yesterday.

At The World's Exposition Held at Ghent, Belgium, 1913

One of the Finest Exhibits in the "Textile Class" ever shown was that of "FINE LINENS"---by the celebrated firm of John S. Brown & Sons, Limited of Belfast, Ireland. After this had won world wide notoriety there the firm decided to divide this Exhibit amongst their clients in Great Britain, and the possessions beyond the seas, dividing the actual Exhibits, as well as making replicas of others, where the Exhibition quantities would divide into too small lots.

Last Autumn the management arranged with us to take that portion of the Exhibit allotted to Western Ontario in time for the early showing and trade of Spring 1914. This grand collection has just come to hand and will be put on Exhibition in our main store on Tuesday next and following days.

Many of the articles are of a higher class than are usually kept for Canadian trade, but as the whole collection is put on for Display and Sale, our instructions are in the case of the highest class exhibits, to SELL them after they have been seen and admired—even if in doing so some slight loss is sustained. The variety is such (as will be seen by the list) that it must appeal to every lady in the community, and whilst the great numbers of those who have for some time past been securing their Monogram Handkerchiefs from us (from the same manufacturers) will need no introduction to, nor recommendation of the most beautiful goods, turned out by this firm OF THE VERY FIRST RANK.

The goods will all be shown simultaneously. The highest class specimens when "sold" will be so marked and will be delivered on the evening of the third day of the Exhibition; orders as well, will be taken from the samples, and where materials or monograms are desired, will be delivered as soon as they can be brought out from Ireland.

This Exposition should by no means be missed as no such Exhibit has ever been made in Ontario. We append an approximate list which will all be on view on Tuesday morning, May 19th, at 10 o'clock.

FORESTERS AT ALEXANDRA HEAR FINE SERMON

All Brantford Courts Represented at Anniversary on Sunday.
The Canadian Order of Foresters, to the number of two hundred strong including the Court Glen No. 9, Court Brant No. 85, Court Southern City No. 139 and Court Telephone City, No. 196 lodges, were heartily welcomed at the Alexandra Presbyterian church on the occasion of their 35th annual service. Specially appropriate services were conducted by Rev. D. T. McClintock, who preached a splendid sermon in honor of the occasion.
Mrs. Barton and Mr. Houson gave a soulful rendition of "Watchman what of the Night," by Shelley, and the anthem selected was "Lord how excellent is Thy name."
Welcoming the visitors, the pastor said he was pleased on behalf of the congregation and himself to have them at Alexandra church, and he hoped that they would not forget that this church was ever open to them in the future.

His sermon touched upon the biblical aspect of brotherliness, gave some excellent thoughts upon the light in which brotherhood was regarded by Jesus Christ.
The highest ideal of brotherhood is found in Jesus, said the pastor, who took for his sermon the brotherliness of Jesus, a theme taken from the 13th verse of the 15th chapter of John. Jesus recognized the principals of fraternalism, for had he not recognized all classes and made no distinction of color or race. He was a brother to all, a universal brother. As many of those present sought to benefit all by fraternal organization, they could have no better example than Jesus. When a man was called to give himself up to brotherhood, they had to give more than wealth, comfort or gold. Jesus had given all of his physical strength, to the last ounce in the favor of mankind. Jesus gave not money, but sympathy, and few knew the effort it cost to give real sympathy. It was easy to give money, when you have got it to give, but to make a man feel that he has a place in your life, is another matter. Christ trusted all men. He treated them as brothers, and thus he won them. That was His brotherhood. Greater love hath no man than this for he gave his life for his friends. There was no greater example of self-sacrifice and brotherliness than that of the disciples when they went forth into the world and left all that was dear to them behind.
There were many kinds of friendship and brotherhoods in this universe. Many a home had been ruined and many people had lost all they had possessed because some one under the guise of brotherhood, pushed a whiskey bottle, tobacco and soda across the table. Was this brotherhood? Did this bring results that the brotherhood of Jesus did? It did not. Therefore it behoved all to see that their brotherhoods were Christlike in principle, and he asked them in conclusion to look to the high ideal of brotherliness presented by the Lord Jesus Christ.

A large number of cricketers took advantage of the glorious weather on Saturday last to play a practice match at the O.I.B. grounds, several new men turning out, all showing up well. Captain Bland was in charge and put every man through some good work, both with the bat and ball.
Practice will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of next week.
The opening match in the city league takes place on Saturday next here, Grace Church vs. St. George's. On Monday next, May 25th, the Brantford team plays in Guelph in a Western Ontario League match.
General Meeting
A general meeting of the cricketers will take place on Wednesday evening next at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 p.m., when the team will be selected for the Guelph game. A recording secretary will be appointed to take the place of Mr. G. Richards, who has left the city, also of a treasurer to succeed Mr. J. F. Bryden, who has also left the city.

The expenses incurred by the raising and equipping the Guard of Honor have been met with a businesslike promptitude by the Militia Dept. The monies were to hand Saturday night, one week from the date of the Duke's visit. Who said "Red Tape"?

PARIS NEWS
PARIS, May 18.—Yesterday afternoon, A. B. and C. troops of Boy Scouts paraded to St. James Church where a splendid address was given them by their chaplain, Rev. C. C. Pinton. There were quite a number present from Brantford, including Asst. Com. McFarlane and a number of the headquarters patrol, as also officers of the 25th Brant Dragoons. The service throughout was very inspiring, the singing being entered into to most heartily by the large congregation present. The National Anthem closed the service, being rendered as only Britishers can.

Scouts Had a Lively Time

Five Despatches Were Spirited Thro' Lines To Brantford.

A scouts field day took place on Saturday afternoon when the Paris despatch runners to the number of five, got through to Brantford. The total number of invading party was 30, so that the local organization did its work pretty thoroughly.

The Brants' advance guard got well out and were within 4 miles of Paris, when they sighted the invading party advancing down the road. Not being in sufficient strength to capture the entire contingent, they broke up and advancing in a crescent horn sweep, as completely as possible covered the country on either side of the road. This formation was maintained in pairs at 50 yards interval and was remarkable for many fine pieces of cover and skirmishing work. However, the excitement of their success caused two Brantford boys to leave their position and rush to assist at the capture of two runners at another point.

Paris quickly took advantage of this breach in the line and five despatch carriers slipped through. A slight not seen every day was witnessed on Dalhousie street this forenoon, when four workmen were rolling a great vat from the old premises of J. S. Hamilton & Co. to their new building. It was easily as high as ten feet and the men rolling it looked like midgets. The vat holds two thousand gallons.

Second Anniversary.
Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church yesterday celebrated the second anniversary of his pastorate by two splendid sermons at both services. At the evening service he gave a strong address on "Dives and Lazarus." He gave a warning to people of to-day to beware of the sins of indifference to the many needs of the people of the city of Canada. Mr. Arthur Blight, the well-known baritone of Toronto, sang at both services and delighted the large audiences with his splendid voice. In the morning he rendered Andrews' "One Sweetly Solomned Thought" and at the evening service he sang "It is Enough" from the "Elijah," and those who heard him said they never heard a better rendering of this selection in this city.

FINANCE COMMITTEE OF COUNTY COUNCIL

Held Business Meeting Saturday afternoon—Hospital Affairs Were Under Discussion.
A meeting of the Finance Committee of the County Council took place in the court house on Saturday afternoon when Mr. Bunnell, representing the hospital, during a discussion of the affairs of that institution, was present. His statement of the financial condition was found satisfactory. He reported that expenses during the year had been exceptionally heavy and would be year, but the outlook was that in subsequent years this expenditure would be greatly reduced and this he hoped would eventuate.

The Council agreed to pay the $5000 owing to the city and still unpaid upon the building account, but they wished to express the necessity of the city keeping faith with the council by at once making satisfactory arrangements for the comfort and maintenance of county patients in the hospital.

The County Council thought that it would be in the interests of all if the returns of the institution were made more regularly and often. It was agreed that a new roof be fitted to the Governor's house at the jail, and other improvements attended to.

Fight Ends Peacefully
A little fracas which originated in the poolroom under the Belmont Hotel, was peacefully settled in the chief constable's office at the police station on Saturday night. John Knott and a head painter had a few words about the union and the present strike, and blows were exchanged which caused Warner's nose to bleed. A constable made his appearance and took the two men to the lock-up. Here the couple became reconciled, and by the time the magistrate dropped into the station they were friends. In view of this, the magistrate dealt with the case straightway, and dismissed the men who went out arm in arm.

Wobbly League Off To Good Start On Saturday

Woodstock Beat Brantford in a Loose Exhibition—Jimmy Bradley Has Likely Looking Bunch of Pennant Chasers.

By the score of 12 to 3 the Woodstock semi-pro team made up principally of ex-Canadian league material defeated the Eagle Place Stars in a very poor exhibition of baseball. It was a walk-over for the visitors from the first innings when they scored 9 runs on seven hits, a walk and a wild throw by Agnew.

Jimmy Bradley has collected a splendid looking bunch of ball players and one which should make all the other teams in the league travel to beat. They clearly outclassed the Stars in every department of the game, out-hitting them and out-fielding them.

Gadsby's error and Smith's hit. Again in the fifth they squeezed one around on Smith's hit and steal, and Coose's error on Plant's grounder. Their third and last run came in the seventh when Dowling hit to deep short and went to second on Gadsby's wild heave scoring on Harvey and Chapdelaine's errors. Tall scoring was the feature of Saturday games in the Brantford and Paris League, when an average of three goals per team, or six goals per match was scored. The only game which did not come up to the average was that in which Cockshutt and the Scots took part, and two goals was the extent of the divided scoring.

NOTES OF THE GAME. Jimmy Bradley has one grand team in the Wobbly League, and should make them all go the limit.

Up in Woodstock they think well of Chubby Coose, and Coose has won a place in the fans' hearts in that city.

Wanderers Fail. The one thing the Wanderers are aiming at seems to have cost them some goals on Saturday.

Duffs Successful. The Sons of England lowered the truce to the Riflemen when they scored twice and their opponents returned with four.

Scots Great Draw. To draw with the well nigh invincible Cockshutt team is a feat well worth chronicling, and this the Scots have done.

Duffs 4 Defeated S. O. E. 2. S. O. E. played a great game against the Duffs on Tutela Park Saturday afternoon, about 300 witnessed the game.

The teams lined up.—S. O. E.—Goal, W. Short; backs, J. Smith, H. Westlake; halves, W. Mitchell, T. Lawton, A. Ellis; forwards, W. Budd, W. Smith, Grover, A. Baker, A. Johnson, (Capt.).

Duffs—Goal, Knowles; backs, Holland, Alexander; halves, Palmer, Williamson, F. Biggs; forwards, Coal, Mercer, Drake, Blower, J. Keighley.

Dufferin Practice. The Duffs football club will hold a practice on Tuesday night, at 7 p.m., at Agricultural Park.

Cockshutt 1, Scots 1. On Saturday last the Scots United met Cockshutt in a League game at Agricultural park, which proved to be one of the fastest and most exciting games ever played in Brantford.

vantage of the sun being at their backs. After fifteen minutes of hard play the Scots were awarded a corner-kick, which Jimmie Morrow took, placing the ball right in goal mouth and Archdeacon scored. About ten minutes afterwards Cockshtuts equalized. The play all through was a treat to watch. The Scots defence played a clever game and so did the Cockshtut defenders. The half backs also played a splendid game and combined well. Final Cockshtut 1; Scots 1.

played good ball. Ottawa again looks like the tough team in the league, and it sure will be a battle royal when the Senators come to Brantford. Last year the fight was almost wholly between Deneau and Shag, and history may repeat itself this year.

The Yates method of getting his players to mob an umpire in order to get a decision reversed, will not last long in this league, despite the fact that success on Saturday gave some encouragement to a repetition of the stunt.

Dolan and Donohue of Hamilton gave an exhibition of rough neck work that was never equalled in the palmiest days of Knotty Lee.

OTTAWA, May 18—Knotty Lee's Beavers met their second consecutive defeat Saturday afternoon at the hands of the Ottawa Senators. Bobbie Auld and Louis Peterson had a pitching duel in which the Ottawa man won. Peterson was erratic in the first and second innings, during which the Torontos tallied one, but he recovered himself, and they were seldom dangerous thereafter.

The Ottawas tied it up in the second on bases' error and Lage's hit and in the third Peterson had the distinction of hammering out a single that put his team ahead, scoring Powers from third. Shaughnessy drove in another in the seventh with a double. It was a hard fought game witnessed by a crowd of about four thousand five hundred. Both teams fielded in sensational style. Ort and Schultz again distinguished themselves.

STRATFORD BEAT GUELPH

Large Crowd Greet Opening of Western Ontario League.

GUELPH, May 18.—The Western Ontario Baseball League inaugurated its season for 1914 in Guelph Saturday with the Stratford team, champions of 1913, as the opponents of the Maple Leafs. There was a crowd of nearly 2,000 people in attendance, and the game was preceded by the usual preliminaries, including a parade from the city hall, headed by the band, etc. The game itself was exciting from start to finish, full of good plays and bad ones too, and was marked by some heavy clouting. The teams were a tie at seven runs each at the end of the seventh inning, but in the eighth the Leafs' pitcher, Schenck, one of Knotty Lee's cast-offs, weakened, and before Craven could be substituted four runs were across the plate and the game was lost. Sharpe, who pitched for the champions, was hit hard throughout.

but was good in the pinches. The fans took kindly to the brand of ball dished up, and the Wobbly League, as it has become known, is an assured success. The score: R.H.E. Stratford . . . 03130004—12 12 4 Guelph . . . 13030000—7 11 5 Batteries—Sharpe and Bryce; Craven, Scheney and Hammill. Umpires—McGunnigle and Miller.

TWO OUT OF THREE FOR LONDON.

Peterboro Lost Game to the Cockshtuts by Score of 6 to 4.

PETERBORO, May 18.—London made it two out of three on the series by defeating the Petes Saturday by 6 to 4. Steiger held the Petes scoreless till the ninth, when they scored four runs on five hits and an error. Sterling was unsteady.

Berlin Defeated Galt

BERLIN, May 18.—The Western Ontario Baseball League got away to a good start here Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 1,500 hungry fans. The Galt team was woefully weak at the bat and in the field, and the locals experienced no difficulty in disposing of them by a 13 to 1 score. Molyneux, the ex-Canadian League flinger, worked five innings for Berlin, when the game was tucked away, and Gilmartin and Cochran finished. Kress pitched seven chapters for the losers, and Rowe concluded the game.

Berlin dished up a good article of ball, and the fans were pleased with the team Manager Witt and Captain Dinsmore have gathered. The usual ceremonies of opening day were held. After the automobile parade, Mayor Buller pitched the first ball, with Chief of Police O'Neill at the bat and C. H. Mills, M.P.P., behind the plate. The score—R.H.E. Berlin . . . 12050023—13 12 1 Galt . . . 00000100—1 2 12 Batteries—Molyneux, Gilmartin Cochrae and J. Mahn; Kress, Rowe and Vanande Umpires—H. Hallman, Berlin; W. Thomson, Galt.

With Amateurs

Eagles Won.

The Junior Stars were defeated by the Eagles 11 to 10 on Saturday afternoon at Tutela Park. Both pitchers were hit hard but the Eagles, gave Mather's better support than did the team behind Walters. L. Spencer lost the game for the Stars in the last of the ninth with two men on bases and one out. Batchelor hit a fly to right field; he missed it and then stood and watched the man going home with the run that won the game, instead of going after the ball. Batteries—Eagle Mathersand Baxter; Stars—Walters and Williams.

At the Ranges

The weekly shoot of the 38th regiment on Saturday was marked by the largest attendance of the season, and shows the enthusiasm which the members of the regiment are putting into this important branch of the soldier's training. About eighty turned out for practice, and while the scoring was not high, a noticeable improvement was shown over the previous practices. The best scores were as follows: Pte Bennett, C.M., Sig. COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

Grandma Kept Her Locks, Dark, Glossy Thick with a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

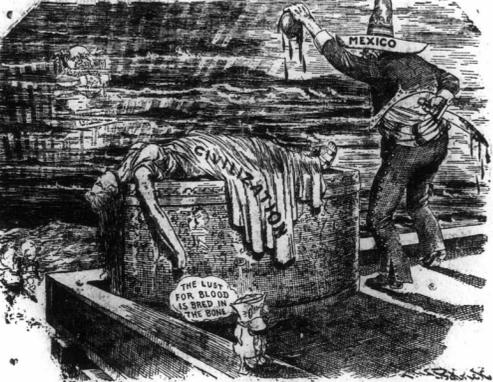

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea streaked and faded hair is grandmothers' treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. Shall Wholesale Murder Continue in Mexico?

A THRILLING STORY OF REVOLUTION AND WAR

By FREDERICK STARR, of the University of Chicago

MEXICO AND THE UNITED STATES:

 Tells not only what is known of the earliest inhabitants of the country, but it also gives a careful, most absorbing account of the course of government, and the conditions and modes of life of the people since the invasion and conquest of the Spaniards. It traces the development of railroads, commerce and progress, and the vital part which foreign capitalists and adventurers have played. It portrays the cruel rule of the Spanish viceroys, the terrors of slavery and peonage, and the oppression of the working people. It describes the winning of freedom in Mexico, the Texan revolution, the war with the United States, the French invasion, the empire of Maximilian, the rise of Diaz and the development of the peculiar complicated conditions that have resulted in the present situation.

It is in the revelation of Mexico's intolerable political and economic conditions that the book possesses one of its chief values. The story of the evils which exist in Mexico has never been adequately told. All previous attempts have been suppressed by powerful influences. Now, however, in this volume is given a complete description of the conditions which exist—a description which will arouse a nation and compel reformation.

To be fully informed on this very vital question one must read this book. Over 400 large octavo pages. Fine super paper. Over 100 great photographs, maps and portraits. Artistically bound in fine book cloth. $3.50 EDITION

BEER, BUT NO CIGARETTES

A Land After Andy Broder's Heart—But Law Doesn't Favor Prosecution of Adults, Nevertheless

MILWAUKEE, May 18.—This city whose beer is famous throughout the land, familiar even to the non-bibulous, who see its virtues placarded on freight cars and flaring signs, has no strong temperance party. Local opinion is still as far off as the Rocky Mountains. And yet, strange to say, a blue law prevails regarding cigarettes. The insidious white tube of rice paper filled with tobacco is strictly barred from this city of the sparkling amber beverage, and the contiguous State of Wisconsin. It may not be manufactured, sold or given away within the borders of that commonwealth.

In view of Andrew Broder, M.P.'s efforts to have a statute passed in the Dominion Parliament, making the manufacture and sale of cigarettes a criminal act throughout Canada, the statute relating to this in the State of Wisconsin, only State in the Union enforcing such a law, may be of interest. Here it is:

Sale, manufacture, or giving away of cigarettes and cigarette papers prohibited; penalty, Section 4608f. Any person who shall, by himself, his servant or agent, or as the servant or agent, of any other person, directly or indirectly, or upon any pretense, or by any device, manufacture, sell, offer for sale, keep for sale, give away, or otherwise dispose of, or bring into this State for the purpose of selling, offering for sale, or giving away, or otherwise disposing of any cigarettes, cigarette paper, or cigarette wrappers, or any substitute therefor, or any paper made or prepared for the purpose of making cigarettes, or any substitute therefor, or for the purpose of being filled with tobacco for smoking; or who shall own, keep or be in any way concerned engaged or employed in, owning or keeping any such cigarettes, cigarette paper, cigarette wrappers, or substitute therefor; or who shall authorize or permit the same to be done

THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copyright 1913 by W. G. Chapman.

"He is on the wrong scent, then, Abdul," replied Tarzan, "for no one here can have any grievance against me. This is my first visit to your country, and none knows me. He will soon discover his error and cease to follow us."

Kadour ben Saden having dined well prepared to take leave of his host. With dignified protestations of friendship he invited Tarzan to visit him in his wild domain, where the antelope, the stag, the bear, the panther and the lion might still be found in sufficient numbers to tempt an ardent huntsman.

It was after 8, and the dancing was in full swing as Tarzan and Abdul entered a Moorish cafe. The room was filled to repletion with Arabs. All were smoking and drinking their thick, hot coffee.

Tarzan and Abdul found seats near the center of the room, though the terrific noise produced by the musicians upon their Arab drums and pipes would have rendered a seat farther from them more acceptable to the quiet loving ape-man. A rather good looking girl was dancing, and receiving Tarzan's European clothes and scenting a generous gratuity, she threw her silken handkerchief upon his shoulder, to be rewarded with a franc.

When her place upon the floor had been taken by another bright eyed Arab saw her in conversation with two Arabs at the far side of the room near a side door that let upon an inner court, around the gallery of which were the rooms occupied by the girls who danced in this cafe.

At first he thought nothing of the matter, but presently he noticed from the corner of his eye one of the men nod in their direction and the girl turn and shoot a furtive glance at Tarzan.

When it came again the girl's turn to dance she hovered close to Tarzan, and for the ape-man alone were her sweetest smiles. Many an ugly scowl was cast upon the tall European by swarthy, dark eyed sons of the desert, but neither smiles nor scowls produced any outwardly visible effect upon him. Again the girl cast her handkerchief upon his shoulder, and again was she rewarded with a franc piece. As she was sticking it upon her forehead, after the custom of her kind, she bent low toward Tarzan, whispering a quick word in his ear.

"There are two without in the court," she said quickly, in broken French, "who would harm m'sieur. At first I promised to lure you to them, but you have been kind, and I cannot do it. Go quickly, before they find that I have failed them. I think that they are very bad men."

Tarzan thanked the girl, assuring her that he would be careful, and, having finished her dance, she crossed to the little doorway and went out into the court. But Tarzan did not leave the cafe as she had urged.

For another half hour nothing unusual occurred, then a surly looking Arab entered the cafe from the street. He stood near Tarzan, where he deliberately made insulting remarks about the European, but as they were in his native tongue Tarzan was entirely innocent of their purpose until Abdul took it upon himself to enlighten him.

"This fellow is looking for trouble," warned Abdul. "He is not alone. In fact, in case of a disturbance nearly every man here would be against you. It would be better to leave quietly, master."

"Ask the fellow what he wants," commanded Tarzan. "He says that 'the dog of a Christian' insulted the Ouled-Nail (dancing girl), who belongs to him. He means trouble, m'sieur."

"Tell him that I did not insult his or any other Ouled-Nail, that I wish him to go away and leave me alone; that I have no quarrel with him nor has he any with me."

"He says," replied Abdul, after delivering this message to the Arab, "that besides being a dog yourself that you are the son of one and that your grandmother was a hyena. Incidentally you are a liar."

The attention of those near by had now been attracted by the altercation, and the smearing language that followed this torrent of invective easily indicated the trend of the sympathies of the majority of the audience.

Tarzan did not like being laughed at, neither did he relish the terms applied to him by the Arab, but he showed no sign of anger as he arose from his seat upon the bench. A half smile played about his lips, but of a sudden a mighty fist shot into the face of the scowling Arab, and back of it were the terrible muscles of the ape-man.

At the instant that the man fell a half dozen fierce plainmen sprang into the room from where they had apparently been waiting for their cue in the street before the cafe. With cries of "Kill the unbeliever!" and "Down with the dog of a Christian!" they made straight for Tarzan.

Fly Swatting Is Useless

Our Dominion Entomologist says: "I am convinced that the practical results of the fly swatting campaigns that have been carried on by some of our newspapers are useless as fly reducers."

But the fact that one ten-cent packet of WILSON'S FLY PADS is capable of killing a bushel of flies proves them to be the best of all fly killers and recommends their continuous use to good housekeepers. WILSON'S FLY PADS are sold by all grocers and druggists everywhere.

With tremendous blows the ape-man felled all who came within reach of his powerful hands. So closely packed was the howling mob that no weapon could be wielded to advantage, and none of the Arabs dared use a firearm for fear of wounding one of his compatriots.

Finally Tarzan succeeded in seizing one of the most persistent of his attackers. With a quick wrench he disarmed the fellow, and then, holding him before them as a shield, he backed slowly beside Abdul toward the little door which led into the inner courtyard. At the threshold he paused for an instant and, lifting the struggling Arab above his head, hurled him as though from a catapult full in the faces of his oppressing fellows.

Then Tarzan and Abdul stepped into the semidarkness of the court. The frightened Ouled-Nails were crouching at the tops of the stairs which led to their respective rooms, the only light in the courtyard coming from the sickly candles which each girl had stuck with its own grease to the woodwork of her door frame.

Scarcely had Tarzan and Abdul emerged from the room ere a revolver spoke close at their backs from the shadows beneath one of the stairways, and as they turned to meet this new antagonist two muffled figures sprang toward them, firing as they came. Tarzan leaped to meet these two new assailants. The foremost was a second in the trampled dirt of the court, disarmed and groaning from a broken wrist. Abdul's knife found the vitals of the second in the instant that the fellow's revolver missed fire as he held it to the faithful Arab's forehead.

The maddened horde within the cafe were now rushing into in pursuit of their quarry. The girls had extinguished their candles at a cry from one of their number, and the only light within the yard came feebly from the open and half blocked door of the cafe. Tarzan had seized a sword from the man who had fallen before Abdul's knife, and now he stood waiting for the rush of men that was coming in search of them through the darkness.

Suddenly he felt a light hand upon his shoulder from behind and a woman's voice whispered: "Quick, m'sieur! This way. Follow me!"

"Come, Abdul," said Tarzan, in a low tone to the youth; "we can be no worse off elsewhere than we are here."

The woman turned and led them up the narrow stairway that ended at the door of her quarters. Tarzan was close beside her, and instinctively he knew that she was the same who had whispered the warning in his ear earlier in the evening.

As they reached the top of the stairs they could hear the angry crowd searching the yard beneath.

"Soon they will search here," whispered the girl. "Hasten; you can drop from the farther window of my room to the street beyond. Before they discover that you are no longer in the court or the buildings you will be safe within the hotel."

But even as she spoke several men had started up the stairway at the head of which they stood. There was a sudden cry from one of the searchers. They had been discovered. Quickly the crowd rushed for the stairway. The foremost assailant then leaped upward, but at the top he met the sudden sword that he had not expected—the quarry had been unarmored before.

With a cry the man toppled back upon those behind him. Like temples they rolled down the stairs. The ancient and rickety structure could not withstand the strain of this unaccounted weight and jarring. With a creaking and rending of breaking wood it collapsed beneath the Arabs, leaving Tarzan and Abdul upon the floor.

THE DEMAND

"A Trial Package will bring Enlightenment"

Is increasing enormously Can we tell you the Reason Why?

Scout Notes "Caister men never turn back" it is some years ago now since the cables around the English speaking world carried that stirring message from sea to sea.

The story is this. The Caister lifeboat in the face of certain death put out from the harbor to endeavor to rescue the crew of a foundering schooner, which was pounding among the rocks outside the harbor.

Watching them go stood an old sailor, whose two sons were in the lifeboat. He saw them reach beyond the harbor and waited with bated breath for what would surely happen when they passed out of its shelter.

The fear was realized, the seas took the lifeboat, hurled it capsized back from where they had so daringly ventured from, drowning every member of its crew.

At the Board of Trade enquiry the old man was asked during his evidence why, when they knew the sea was running so high outside the harbor they did not turn back.

"Turn back," said the old fellow: "Sir, Caister men never turn back."

The next day the scenes of the Caister were pictured, hearts were stirred and in every land where English speaking people live, public subscription lists were opened that the old man might be comfortably provided for and not left helpless by his bereavement. He had spoken a message of courage we always admire, of such stuff are the heroes of to-day made.

For another half hour nothing unusual occurred, then a surly looking Arab entered the cafe from the street. He stood near Tarzan, where he deliberately made insulting remarks about the European, but as they were in his native tongue Tarzan was entirely innocent of their purpose until Abdul took it upon himself to enlighten him.

"This fellow is looking for trouble," warned Abdul. "He is not alone. In fact, in case of a disturbance nearly every man here would be against you. It would be better to leave quietly, master."

"Ask the fellow what he wants," commanded Tarzan. "He says that 'the dog of a Christian' insulted the Ouled-Nail (dancing girl), who belongs to him. He means trouble, m'sieur."

"Tell him that I did not insult his or any other Ouled-Nail, that I wish him to go away and leave me alone; that I have no quarrel with him nor has he any with me."

"He says," replied Abdul, after delivering this message to the Arab, "that besides being a dog yourself that you are the son of one and that your grandmother was a hyena. Incidentally you are a liar."

The attention of those near by had now been attracted by the altercation, and the smearing language that followed this torrent of invective easily indicated the trend of the sympathies of the majority of the audience.

Tarzan did not like being laughed at, neither did he relish the terms applied to him by the Arab, but he showed no sign of anger as he arose from his seat upon the bench. A half smile played about his lips, but of a sudden a mighty fist shot into the face of the scowling Arab, and back of it were the terrible muscles of the ape-man.

"He is on the wrong scent, then, Abdul," replied Tarzan, "for no one here can have any grievance against me. This is my first visit to your country, and none knows me. He will soon discover his error and cease to follow us."

Kadour ben Saden having dined well prepared to take leave of his host. With dignified protestations of friendship he invited Tarzan to visit him in his wild domain, where the antelope, the stag, the bear, the panther and the lion might still be found in sufficient numbers to tempt an ardent huntsman.

It was after 8, and the dancing was in full swing as Tarzan and Abdul entered a Moorish cafe. The room was filled to repletion with Arabs. All were smoking and drinking their thick, hot coffee.

Tarzan and Abdul found seats near the center of the room, though the terrific noise produced by the musicians upon their Arab drums and pipes would have rendered a seat farther from them more acceptable to the quiet loving ape-man. A rather good looking girl was dancing, and receiving Tarzan's European clothes and scenting a generous gratuity, she threw her silken handkerchief upon his shoulder, to be rewarded with a franc.

When her place upon the floor had been taken by another bright eyed Arab saw her in conversation with two Arabs at the far side of the room near a side door that let upon an inner court, around the gallery of which were the rooms occupied by the girls who danced in this cafe.

At first he thought nothing of the matter, but presently he noticed from the corner of his eye one of the men nod in their direction and the girl turn and shoot a furtive glance at Tarzan.

When it came again the girl's turn to dance she hovered close to Tarzan, and for the ape-man alone were her sweetest smiles. Many an ugly scowl was cast upon the tall European by swarthy, dark eyed sons of the desert, but neither smiles nor scowls produced any outwardly visible effect upon him. Again the girl cast her handkerchief upon his shoulder, and again was she rewarded with a franc piece. As she was sticking it upon her forehead, after the custom of her kind, she bent low toward Tarzan, whispering a quick word in his ear.

"There are two without in the court," she said quickly, in broken French, "who would harm m'sieur. At first I promised to lure you to them, but you have been kind, and I cannot do it. Go quickly, before they find that I have failed them. I think that they are very bad men."

Tarzan thanked the girl, assuring her that he would be careful, and, having finished her dance, she crossed to the little doorway and went out into the court. But Tarzan did not leave the cafe as she had urged.

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

WHEN young Miss Housewife first aspired, to build the home her mate desired, she dreamed of castles in the air, with never toil nor woe nor care.

The Art of Dirt Chasing

This housewife had her little cry, gave up—and scarcely knowing why. Then, from the sombre clouds of doubt, two rays of golden hope crept out.

The Gold Dust Twins make play of any task that comes their way. A mop—a cloth—a busy brush, and honestly it makes us blush, to think we ever played the drone by working in the house alone.
