STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER VI

Less than two days the news of Dolores' engagement had spread all over the country. It gave general satisfaction, for every one liked and esteemed Lord Rhyssworth; and Dolores Clifden the whole county was proud. She was "one of them;" she had grown up amongst them; she belonged to a family that had once been first in the county; she was beautiful and high-bred. One and all rejoiced in the good fortune that had befallen her. True, a few simple-hearted women who had married for love themselves, and believed there was nothing like love, thought the difference of age too great, said amongst themselves that Dolores was young enough to be Lord Rhyssworth's daughter, and that it was a pity he was so old, and wondered, as they kissed the rosy faces of their children, whether Dolores loved Lord Rhyssworth. They were only a few happily married women who thought this. The girls envied her; there was hardly one in the county who would not have changed places with her.

Lola smiled when she heard the news. "That is just what I thought," she said; "and I am sure that the day on which I went over to White Cliffe was the day on which the offer was made. Dolores had something on her mind, I know, and it was this. It will be strange if she is Lady Rhyssworth and I am Lady Allammore. We shall be greater rivals than ever then."

Sir Karl was one of the first to hear the rumor confirmed. He had ridden into Deeping to attend some meeting held on county business, and there found every one discussing the coming alliance. As he was riding away, he met Lord Rhyssworth, and after a few words of greeting, he said boldly:

"I wonder if I may congratulate you, Lord Rhyssworth? There was a curious look on the young man's face, a paling of the lips and opening of the lines about his mouth, which did not strike Lord Rhyssworth. "You have carried off the greatest prize in the county," said Sir Karl. "If it be true that you are going to marry Miss Clifden."

He was profoundly touched when Lord Rhyssworth raised his hat as though he would do all honor to the name. "I hope," said his lordship, "with the blessing of Heaven, that I am going to marry Miss Clifden. I speak to you more frankly, Sir Karl, than I should to anyone else. I am the happiest man in the world, and I hope to make my dear wife the happiest of women."

"I trust that every desire of your heart may be realized," responded Sir Karl, and he meant it. "Shall I

He looked half sadly at her. "Do you know, Miss de Ferras," he said, "that I cannot endure to hear you speak in that fashion. I may be not over-wise, but I like to know that there is some faith and trust in human nature in a girl's heart."

"You will find very little in mine," she laughed; and then she saw her way to scoring a mark against Dolores without any appearance of ill-will. "You say you are a little surprised at Dolores. It is a strange way of putting it. I am surprised too. I tell you candidly that I did not think Dolores would have married for money. I thought she was one of those romantic girls who think the world well lost for love. Those fair-haired girls are generally very sentimental—at least I have always found them so."

"I wonder," said Sir Karl, mustering "if she has any fortune!" "Yes, I think so, but not a large one; the Squire is not rich."

They little dreamed as they spoke how near the Squire was to poverty. "Her fortune," continued Lola, "would be as nothing, I should say, compared with one year's income such as Lord Rhyssworth enjoys."

Sir Karl's blue eyes were fixed upon her face. "You express your ideas pretty freely, Miss de Ferras," he said. "I can hardly understand why, since you have all this amount of worldly knowledge, you did not try to secure Lord Rhyssworth's affections yourself."

She laughed, and a lovely rose-tint covered her face. "I know why myself," she said, "but you are the last person to whom I could explain my reason. You taunt me with worldly knowledge, but let me assure you that I would not marry Lord Rhyssworth for money. When I marry, it will be solely for love."

"You surprise me," he said. The rose-tinted face and dark eyes were dangerously beautiful just then. "Yes, I can believe that," she remarked. "You think there can be no sentiment unless it is associated with which to amuse him."

So Sir Karl rode over to Beaulieu, and found the beautiful, vivacious French girl at home. He felt that he must talk about the subject that filled his thoughts. "I have just seen Lord Rhyssworth," he said, "and that rumor you told me about is quite true."

"Of course it is, Sir Karl. If it had not been," she returned, "I should not have told you."

"I must confess that I am just a little surprised," he said. He had a vague idea that this girl was in some way or other not a true friend to Dolores, but he could not resist the temptation of talking about her. "Are you, Sir Karl? Then you are not the man of the world I imagined you to be. That anything in human nature should surprise you is a reflection on yourself."

"Where have you learned so much of the world, Miss de Ferras?" he asked. "You hold strange views for so young a girl."

"Are they strange?" she said, carelessly. "They are true. Why are you surprised that Dolores should marry a man old enough to be her father? It is a common thing, is it not?"

"Yes, unfortunately," he answered. "Then why wonder at it—unless indeed you had an ideal Dolores?"

"Perhaps I had," he said, gravely. "Then the sooner you forget her the better, for there are no such ideals in this world."

Vanished After Using Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ont.—"When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly prompted by necessity. I wondered if I too, would benefit by your medicine. It was the most profitable action I have ever taken. I heartily assure you, for through its results I am relieved of most of my sufferings. I have taken six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have never been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' period I worked on munitions for two years, and in the heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing pelvic inflammation from which I have suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctors for several years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicine."—Mrs. Goldwyn Misenner, Brantford, Ont.

ever having known the real sorrow or the real joys of life."

"What an existence you foresaw for her," he said—"calm, passionless, uneventful—never to know the rapture of happiness or the keenness of pain! It seems to me that a woman may as well be dead as never love."

"But Dolores will love her husband after a quiet, calm fashion of her own. Still, I should not care for such a life," she confessed. "Give me greatest pleasure, keenest pain; give me love or death, I should dread such a life as hers."

"It is not very likely to fall to your lot," he said. "You will have pleasure and pain if you have love."

"I have them now," she cried impetuously, and then paused abruptly. (To be continued.)

Scientists in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., June 17.—(By Canadian Press)—If importance to the agricultural industry throughout Canada is the forthcoming visit of Sir John Russell, D.Sc., F.R.S., O.B.E., and the Toronto meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in August, recently announced, Sir E. J. Russell is head of the Rothamsted station at Harpenden, England, the oldest experimental farm in Europe. He is well known for his numerous publications on scientific agriculture, and has just executed a special mission in the Sudan where he spent three months in studying the government's policy of agricultural research and its plans for cotton culture.

As President of the special section devoted to agriculture at the convention, Sir John will deliver a lecture entitled "Combination in Attracting Farmers' Problems," and he will take part in a discussion dealing with dry land farming in relation to climate and soil.

Among other agricultural experts who are being brought to Canada for the meeting is D. Ward Cutler, also of the Rothamsted station, where he is cytologist. Dr. Cutler's special contribution will be a lecture on Soil Population, in which he will outline modern views of the part played in the growth of crops by microscopic animal and plant organisms in the soil. Other delegates to the Conference are officials in the Ministry of Agriculture in Great Britain and heads of the agricultural departments of English universities.

Fully Charged Batteries Last Longer

It prolongs the life of the battery to keep it fully charged at all times. Battery care is so little trouble and pays such great returns. The expense of charging is now brought down to an infinitesimal amount by using a Westinghouse Rectigon Battery Charger. Rectigon Battery Chargers are inexpensive and dependable. Anyone can use them by just attaching to a lamp socket, no technical knowledge required.

A Westinghouse Rectigon Battery Charger will soon pay for itself in the savings of the charging costs and it does prolong the life of the battery.

All Welcomed

The other Sunday, at a village church I attended, the vicar announced that he was shortly leaving them to take up duties as chaplain to a prison. Then, in absolute innocence, he gave out the text for his sermon, "I go to prepare a place for you."

Household Notes.

Serve crushed berries in season with vanilla ice cream.
A green pea loaf is delicious served with cream sauce.
Serve sour cream dressing with a chilled vegetable salad.
Melted jelly makes excellent sweetening for fruit punch.

Exhume Dead Vet to Solve Identity

INDIAN SOLDIER CLAIMS SOME-BODY ELSE WAS BURIED UNDER HIS NAME.

St. Louis Falls, S. Dak., May 31.—Doctors and field representatives of the United States Veterans' Bureau have taken measurements of the remains of a war veteran buried as Arthur Frazier, Indian service man, at Niobrara, Neb. The measurements will be submitted to scientists, who will be asked to determine if the body is that of an Indian. The body was exhumed in an effort to substantiate or disprove the claims of a youth who says he is Arthur Frazier, Indian service man, and whose parents claim him as their son. War Department records show that Arthur Frazier, an Indian youth, who enlisted at St. Charles, S. Dak., was killed in action in France on October 6, 1918.

A youth calling himself Arthur Frazier, Indian, a victim of shell shock, without discharge papers and unable to tell how he returned from France, is in the home of the Frazier family at Fort Lookout, S. Dak. The parents and many of his former comrades say he is the real Arthur Frazier.

The War Department files of fingerprints show that the records of the man who enlisted at St. Charles are not those of the man at Fort Lookout. American Legion officials say the fingerprints records may be erroneous.

The real Arthur Frazier was well educated, the son of an Indian clergyman of the Episcopal Church. A body was brought back and interred as his at Niobrara, Neb. Some months ago the parents were notified that Arthur had been found wandering in Oklahoma. American Legion officials brought him to South Dakota. The parents identified him by body scars and habits, but the War Department officials did not know him.

Canada Will Raise Large Refunding Loan

March Expedition Discovers a Blond Race in Panama—S.A. Elections Show S. African Party 25; Labour 18; Nationalists 12; Independent 1;—Canadian Postal Strike Postponed for 24 Hours.

A FRIENDLY REPLY.
TOKIO, June 18.—The United States reply to Japan's protest against the expulsion of Japanese from the United States is marked by a spirit of friendliness and reasonableness and will be examined in the same spirit, it is authoritatively stated here to-day.

CANADA TO RAISE LARGE REFUNDING LOAN.
OTTAWA, Ont., June 18.—The Dominion Government intends to float a loan of three hundred million dollars, entirely for refunding. Hon. James Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, will shortly bring down legislation to give the necessary authority.

STANDING OF S. A. PARTIES.
CAPE TOWN, S.A., June 18.—The standing of the parties at midnight was as follows:—South African party, 25; Labor, 18; Nationalists, 12; Independents, 1.

SMUTS' FAITH STRONG.
CAPE TOWN, June 19.—Premier Smuts in a message to-day thanking his campaign committee, after returns showed his defeat in Pretoria West, says, be of good cheer. From the wider view points which shape national policy, our failure may yet prove a blessing in disguise. My faith in the future remains as strong as ever. Although the immediate outlook before the country is gloomy enough, in that faith we hold on unflinchingly.

STRIKE POSTPONED FOR A DAY.
OTTAWA, June 19.—The strike of postal workers called for five o'clock this afternoon has been deferred until five o'clock tomorrow. After a whole day's conference between a sub-committee of the Cabinet and representatives of the postal workers the members of the postal workers' delegation decided to refer the proposal made by the Government to the workers themselves before the strike went into effect. This proposal was embodied in a letter written after a full meeting of the Cabinet Council early this afternoon by Hon. Charles Stewart, Acting Postmaster General, to G. Arches, Secretary of the Canadian Federation of Postal Employees.

BRINGS SPECIMENS OF BLOND INDIANS.
COLON, June 18.—Richard C. March, the explorer, who led an expedition into the Panama jungles in search of a tribe of blond Indians, arrived here to-day with 3 specimens of the so-called white Indians and six others of the regular copper hue. The trip from San Blas coast to Colon was made in an auxiliary schooner. The party showed marks of extreme hardships, but all were apparently in good health. March has fitted out his Indian charges with the habiliments of civilization. The blonds include a well-grown girl, about thirteen years old, with wavy golden hair which was bobbed to-day. March and his party will leave soon for the United States in order that scientists of the Smithsonian Institute may examine the blond Indians.

WHITE INDIANS.
NEW YORK, June 18.—Corroboration of the recent reports that the March expedition to the jungle had found a tribe of white Indians, is contained in a statement published by Dr. Frank B. Von Tumber, Austrian explorer, who declared he encountered white skinned savages in the Darien jungles of Panama almost two decades ago. He believes them the results of the mingling of African and native American blood.

B. C. ELECTIONS TO-MORROW.
VANCOUVER, B.C., June 18.—With only one day to go before the Provincial elections on Friday, the campaign is closing orderly and without fireworks. Eight political meetings were staged in Vancouver last night, and elsewhere throughout the Province members and would-be members are still busy covering as much ground as possible.

FRENCH FISHERMAN WRECKED.
ST. PIERRE, MIQ., June 18.—The French fishing brigantine Clycine was stranded here yesterday on the rocks on the south of St. Pierre coast, which she struck in a heavy fog. All members of the crew were reported rescued. The craft is registered as sailing from the port of St. Malo, France.

BELGIUM WINS GORDON BENNETT CUP.
BRUSSELS, June 19.—Lieut. Ernest D. Muyter, piloting the balloon Belgium, was proclaimed winner of the Gordon Bennett cup race to-day. Lieut. De Myster landed at St. Albion's Head, on the English Channel, approximately 600 kilometers from the starting point. It was the pilot's third consecutive victory, clinching the cup for Belgium.

England and Italy at Loggerheads
JUBALAND TREATY DID NOT SETTLE CONTROVERSY OVER EGYPTIAN BOUNDARY.
ROME, June 12.—A reminder, that the colonial questions between England and Italy are not entirely solved, through the Jubaland agreement, is sounded by the Messagero. The problem of delimitation of the boundary between Egypt and Cyrenaica is still unsettled, says the journal, though there is reason to believe that negotiations to this end will be started soon in the same friendly spirit in which the recent London dealings were conducted. The Messagero expressed the hope that the Egyptian Government will co-operate cordially in solving this question, which is of the utmost importance to the countries interested in view of its manifold aspects.

INDIAN ARRIVED HERE TO-DAY WITH 3 SPECIMENS OF THE SO-CALLED WHITE INDIANS AND SIX OTHERS OF THE REGULAR COPPER HUE. THE TRIP FROM SAN BLAS COAST TO COLON WAS MADE IN AN AUXILIARY SCHOONER. THE PARTY SHOWED MARKS OF EXTREME HARDSHIPS, BUT ALL WERE APPARENTLY IN GOOD HEALTH. MARCH HAS FITTED OUT HIS INDIAN CHARGES WITH THE HABILIMENTS OF CIVILIZATION. THE BLONDS INCLUDE A WELL-GROWN GIRL, ABOUT THIRTEEN YEARS OLD, WITH WAVY GOLDEN HAIR WHICH WAS BOBBED TO-DAY. MARCH AND HIS PARTY WILL LEAVE SOON FOR THE UNITED STATES IN ORDER THAT SCIENTISTS OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE MAY EXAMINE THE BLOND INDIANS.

Veteran American Civil War Dead

The many friends of Mr. Coombes, pantry steward of S.S. Digby, will be sorry to learn of the death of his father, Mr. Benjamin Coombes, which recently occurred at Portsmouth, England. The late Mr. Coombes was born in Cape Town, South Africa, but spent the greater part of his lifetime in America. He was a veteran of the American Civil War, when thousands like him answered the call of President Lincoln. The deceased had numerous friends in the States and Canada who will regret to hear of his passing.

Employment at the Humber

RECEIVING CONSIDERATION.
The Government has at present under consideration the matter of employment at the Humber, and several days ago despatched Employment Officer Gerald Byrne to the scene of operations. Mr. Byrne returned yesterday and in conjunction with Major Butler, who will arrive here tomorrow, he will submit a report on the situation to the Executive.

First Encyclopedia of the British Empire

There can be no doubt that 1924 will be known as British Empire year. The great Exhibition at Wembley has opened its many gates to the 30,000,000 people who, it is estimated, will visit this Empire in miniature. There is a bewildering series of Imperial events, not only in London, but all over Britain, arranged for almost every day of the spring and summer months; and a Naval Squadron is "showing the flag" in the seven seas.

All these great and spontaneous movements are born of the natural desire to express or visualize this colossal Empire of the twentieth century, and the question may, therefore, well be asked: how many out of the millions of people who visit Wembley, witness one or more of the provincial events, will carry away with them to their homes all over the world anything more than feelings of pride, respect and a kaleidoscopic mental picture of a great pageant?

Comparatively few of the Empire's millions will, however, be able to come to Wembley. Many who visit this great pageant of Empire will wish to take back home something more tangible than a mere catalogue of what they actually saw there. Almost every man, woman and child will have their curiosity aroused by many things seen, but only imperfectly understood, in this miniature Greater Britain.

Encyclopedias To Aid Wembley.
Recently there started the publication—for the first time in the history of literature—of a complete, illustrated "Encyclopedia of the British Empire." A great and opportune Imperial work in convenient, fortnightly parts, which will provide those who go to Wembley with the essential connecting link to make all they see there doubly interesting and intelligible; and will give the far larger number all over the British-speaking world who are unable to visit this pageant of Empire, an alphabetically-arranged survey of the stirring history, the beautiful countries, the wonderful cities, the varied lives of the people, the queer native races, the industrial and commercial achievements, and the general aspect of all the sea-divided lands of the British Commonwealth.

In size alone this national work equals twenty-five illustrated volumes of the usual travel book size. Over 2,000 of the most interesting and instructive photographs procurable, and many specially-drawn maps, illuminate the text, which consists of 1,150,000 words, divided into 4,532 articles and paragraphs, written by statesmen, administrators, explorers and authors, all of whom have the intimate personal knowledge acquired by living in the fields they describe.

In planning-out this great Encyclopedia, the Editor-in-Chief, determined to give it a form which should be devoid of the old and tedious language, multitude of cross-references, and dry-reading text of the usual encyclopedia. Here is a new form of encyclopedic work, one which can be read like a book of travel or historical adventure, and yet referred to as a standard of knowledge. History is converted into adventure, economics into glowing achievement, and geography into fascinating world-travel.

It offers to the British reading public, on the eve of what is destined to be a great Imperial year, the most remarkable representation of the Empire's life and appearance ever attempted.

LADY HAIG AND LADY ALLARDYCE TO SELL FORGET-ME-NOTS.

On June 30th, Forget-Me-Nots will be sold throughout the Dominion. The success in the outports is assured as the co-operation shown by friends of the G.W.V.A. assures well for a whole-hearted observance in the different centres.

Mrs. W. B. Frazer, the Dominion Organizer, has supplied nearly 40,000 Forget-Me-Nots to the outport districts up to date. In the City the ladies, who have assisted so splendidly on Poppy Day, are again disposing of Forget-Me-Nots, and they will be assisted by the various troops of Girl Guides. The factories are being looked after by Miss Furlong who will call on the various plants throughout the morning. All the ex-Service men, parading on July 1st will wear a Forget-Me-Not, and it is safe to assume that the loyal citizens of St. John's will do likewise, as the wearing of this token on July 1st, is a respectful commemoration of sacrifice which our sons, brothers and companions, have been called upon to make.

The wearing of a Forget-Me-Not on July 1st, achieves a two-fold purpose, that of commemorating the memory of "ours," and to whose memory the Newfoundland National War Memorial is erected, and which will be unveiled on July 1st, and also as a means of contributing to the expenses of Veterans' Week, the financial burden of which is being borne entirely by the Great War Veterans' Association. Citizens generally will no doubt appreciate this departure from the custom of asking the Government to allocate funds for such a reception and programme of events, and it may not be presumptuous to say that the G.W.V.A. hope that its example may be emulated to the betterment of our Island Home.

It is anticipated that some 100,000 Forget-Me-Nots will be sold on June 30th, and the co-operation of all is asked by wearing this Floral Tribute.

THE SITUATION.

Exit "Big Gobs of Gloom"—Enter the Beginnings of a More Cheerful Sentiment.

Nothing can surpass the "punishment of the shorts" for bringing thrills of joy to the heart of the average trader. Nobody loves a bear and while he occasionally "gets away with it," he receives not a grain of sympathy when he is compelled to buy back stock which he has borrowed and sold at prices lower down, the lower the better, says the same average trader.

It seemed simplicity itself to gather a few profits on the short side in the light of Tuesday's news, big drop in United States Steel orders, another increase in the copper surplus and no clearly defined improvement in any department of industry. "Big gobs of gloom" were being served up; some swallowed the bait. Other

When Food Tastes Best

Goat is unobtainable except as kid, but sheep is best at four or five years old. In these days only the wealthy epicure can afford five-year-old mutton, for since a sheep is full grown before it is two, naturally the farmer is not going to feed it for another three years on the chance of getting another penny a pound for it. Yet five-year-old Welsh mutton makes the finest joint in all the world.

Most animals taste best when they are young. Lamb, of course, is delicious, yet many people prefer beef to veal. To many men veal is a poor, flavourless meat at best, and not to be compared with three-year-old beef from a fat beast.

Vension, however, seems to depend more upon the condition of the stag than upon its age. A very old stag is nearly always tough, and certainly meat cut from the young antelope or buck is very preferable to that from older beasts. Pork, again, must not be too old. Certainly the pig is at its best before it reaches the age of three.

Nearly all birds toughen rapidly with age. Young grouse, for instance, are so greatly preferred to older birds that they fetch just about double the price. The same is true of partridges and quail, as well as of the inhabitants of the poultry yard. Once a hen has passed two years it is fit only for boiling. An old goose is almost unobtainable.

First Encyclopedia of the British Empire.

We have on our desk a copy of Part One of the first Encyclopedia of the British Empire, a further reference to which appears in another column of this issue.

The advance copy, which deals with the African possessions, gives an excellent idea of the comprehensiveness of the work with regard to the information which it contains, and the system of arrangement as a book of reference is all that can be desired.

"Know your country" is a slogan which cannot be too often sounded, but "Know your Empire," the motto of the Encyclopedia, is one which reminds us of our wider responsibility, and recalls to Newfoundlanders in particular the proud place which she holds as the nucleus of the great Federation of British peoples.

France Changes Her Statesmen, BUT MAINTAINS HER POLICY.

It is not surprising that France is somewhat sceptical on the question of securing payments from Germany, and the pronouncement of the new President in his first message to Parliament makes it clear that he has no intention of trusting blindly to the faith of a nation which has yet to show that its promises can be relied upon.

The Report of the Experts has met with general approval and the various nations concerned have expressed in a whole-hearted manner their desire to see the plan put into operation. Their approval, however, cannot make the Plan operative, as everything depends upon the attitude adopted by Germany, and so far there has been nothing to indicate that their intentions are sincere.

The determination of the French people to remain in occupation of the Ruhr until the guarantees provided in the Experts' Report have been set up in natural, justifiable and reasonable. While it cannot be denied that many of the claims submitted for war damages by the people were excessive, the fact remains that the destruction wrought by Germany in French territory can never be estimated on a cash basis, but so far as a quid pro quo can be applied, the French have every right to apply such means of persuasion as lie within their power. Such a policy carried out with the full co-operation of the rest of the Allies would promptly bring the German nation to a full realization of its responsibilities, and

The Downfall of Smuts.

With the downfall of the Smuts Administration and the succession of the Nationalist-Labour Coalition Government in South Africa, the attention of the Empire at large will be focused upon the Union, and the pronouncement of their policy will be waited with interest if not with apprehension.

General Jan Christian Smuts has been one of the most outstanding figures among our Empire's statesmen ever since the notable Union was effected in 1910. During the Great War he rendered valuable service in East Africa, and at the Imperial Conference he showed himself possessed of fearlessness and a whole-hearted devotion to the interests of the Empire, and his suggestions were always given the greatest consideration. He has been Premier of South Africa since 1921, and will now be succeeded by General Hertzog, who is spoken of as essentially Boer in sentiment, but it is to be hoped that the great responsibility which he has assumed will have the effect of making him realize that personal inclinations must ever give place to national interests.

Nfld. Nurse Amongst Graduates

At the 65th graduation exercises of the Long Island College Hospital held recently 46 physicians and 32 nurses subscribed to the Hippocratic Oath. Amongst the 22 nurses was one Newfoundland, Miss Gertrude Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thorne of Bonaville. Miss Myra an older sister graduated from the same hospital a year ago and is now engaged in private nursing. Both young ladies have given excellent proof of their ability in their chosen profession.

Shed at Dry Dock Gutted by Fire

Last night about 9.55 an alarm of fire from Box 41, brought the Central and West End Companies to an old shed at the head of the Dry Dock, which was found in a blaze. Before the fire gained much headway two streams of water were quickly directed on the burning building, and after twenty minutes work it was finally subdued, but not before the interior was badly gutted, and a stock of biscuits which was stored there, destroyed. How the fire originated is not known. The all-out alarm was rung in at 10.25.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

June 18th—Up very betimes and to the office, where the greatest rush being a half day, and much work to be done. By my morning sheet, news of the elections in South Africa, and a thing I am sorry for is Smuts, by losing his seat, albeit still hope for his party. Comes Mr. Taylor to talk with me of diverse matters, and bids around my homestead, instancing that I offering him a Craven's cigarette, and he did say how he was "craving" for a smoke, and was, indeed, the luckiest thing for him there was no hammer at hand. A great crowd assembled all morning about the shop door of Mr. Ellis the grocer, all looking at a fish displayed there, in appearance mighty like a salmon, with scales like those of a herring. And the greatest arguments about it, some calling it mackerel and some herring, while one did say it was a herring. But Lord, how strange are men's minds that even the most trivial things serve to take their minds from their business. All afternoon to play at tennis to my great content, being a hot day, which is the best for the game. By my evening sheet, I learn how Dr. Messell is removed from his office of Pension Commissioner, but little other news of any import.

Fishery Report

A report from Sub-Collector Murphy, Argentina under date June 14, states that between Long Harbor and Argentina about 2,100 qtrs. codfish had been taken with about 500 qtrs. for the week. Salt is plentiful the report states but owing to stormy weather very little fish is being taken with codlin. The lobster fishery in this section is very poor.

Haig Celebration

A joint parade of the city brigades, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts will take place this evening. The G.W.V.A. Guard of Honor will also participate. The brigades will line the streets and the guard of honor starting from the promenade, the assembly point for the 1st of July, will march to the War Memorial where a rehearsal of the ceremony of saluting the flag will take place. Time of march and the different ceremonies will be checked up at to-night's manoeuvres, so that the programme can be accurately set. There will also be a mass rehearsal by the G.I.B., C.C.G., Guards and Mount Cashin bands in which 120 instruments will be heard.

Special Trains Will Operate

The management of the Government Railway have decided to run special trains next week in connection with the Earl Haig celebration. The first train will leave Curlew for St. John's on Friday morning, June 27th, followed by a train from Grand Falls the same night. In addition to the above, four regular express trains will be running during the week.

Drifts From its Moorings

During the height of the wind storm early this morning, Harvey's coal bulk drifted from its moorings off Baine Johnston's wharf and collided with the steamer Westerner anchored near the quarantine grounds. The bulk was later towed to safe anchorage by a tug from the Fisheries Wathy. No damage was done.

Smuts' Party Overthrown

British Government Defeats Empire Preference Resolutions—Canadian Postage Strike to Take Place To-Day—British Government Will Sever Relations With Mexico.

SMUTS DEFEAT SEEMS INEVITABLE.

LONDON, June 18. The General Elections in South Africa which Premier Smuts called because he did not command a sufficient majority in the Assembly to meet the combined attacks of the Nationalists and Laborites seem destined to bring about the fall of his administration. The last returns reaching London indicate that the combined Nationalist and Laborites have already gained fifteen seats from the Smuts' Party; thus the Premier's small majority of seven or eight in the last Assembly has been completely wiped out, while several of his ministers and many of the leaders of his party have suffered defeat. It is not yet known whether Premier Smuts will resign on the outcome of the elections or will elect to meet the Assembly and await defeat on a vote of confidence before his Government resigns. It is probable that if he resigns he will be succeeded by a coalition ministry headed by the Nationalist leader General Hertzog, but there is an important proviso in the past entered into between the Nationalists and the Laborites, whereby the two agreed to work together in the elections for the overthrow of the Smuts Administration, that in the event of a Nationalist victory there should be no attempt during the life of the newly elected Assembly to test the question of the secession of South Africa from the Empire. Thus this question which is one of the planks in the Nationalist programme cannot be decided without another General Election.

S.A. RESULTS AS YET DOUBTFUL.

CAPE TOWN, S.A., June 18. Returns from general elections yesterday are incomplete and the result is most doubtful. The Government Party on the basis of these partial returns has 25 seats.

RELATIONS BETWEEN MEXICO AND GREAT BRITAIN WILL BE BROKEN.

MEXICO CITY, June 18. The British Premier having informed the Mexican Consul General in London that the relations will be broken should Mexico expel Herbert Cummins, the Charge d'Affaires, before a trial of the British Diplomatic envoy, says the official statement. The Consul General was instructed to reply that it was impossible to countenance Cummins' attitude any longer and that he must go. It is reported Cummins is ready to leave Mexico immediately upon receipt of instructions from his Government.

ANOTHER ARREST ORDERED IN ONTARIO SCANDALS.

TORONTO, June 18. Upon instructions from Attorney General Nicholl a warrant for the arrest of former Assistant Treasurer Charles Matthews, Jr. of Ontario had been issued by the Ontario Provincial police. The charge is violation of secret commissions Act. Matthews left the parliament buildings about the middle of March following sensational evidence at the night sitting of the Public Affairs Committee in which he was accused of participating in a three way split of $10,000 per cent on a provincial bond transaction. Evidence also involved L. C. Mason a distant relative of Matthews who disappeared about the same time and is believed by the Provincial police to be with the former assistant treasurer.

ARRIVAL OF TROOPS CAUSES COMMENT.

ROME, June 18. Several thousand Fascist militia from the Provinces of Rome and Tuscan marched into Rome yesterday singing their war songs. An official communication issued by the Commander of the Militia says the concentration is so way connected with the necessity for maintenance of public order but that the militia was ordered to Rome to render honors to Benito Mussolini, the agent of Abyssinia who is expected to arrive tomorrow to be received by King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini and by Pope Pius on Saturday.

Big Battle Scenes at Crescent To-Night

CONTAINED IN "CAN A WOMAN LOVE TWICE."

Battle scenes with a mighty thrill are mere incidentals of background to the more crashing scenes of domestic drama in "Can a Woman Love Twice?" Ethel Clayton's new starring vehicle. The battle scenes, while magnificent in themselves, are used merely to establish the death of the young wife's husband. This loss of her hero-husband, together with the birth of a son, makes the woman wonder if it is possible to love again. Torn twist loyalty to memory and hope of the future, the woman indulges in a great love which ultimately is made white by the coming of second love. The thoroughly gripping plot is the work of Wynham Gittens, and was produced under the direction of James F. Home. The picture is released by Film Booking Offices.

To-morrow night's Amateur Contest will be a bumper show. You can't afford to miss it.

29 Wives in China

BANKER FINDS NEW YORK CITY IS TOO EXCITING.

Like Broadway Shows, but Thinks Women Should be Undressing at Home.

Traveling alone, although he admitted possessing twenty-nine wives of various ages and temperaments, Ho Kom Tong, said to be one of the richest bankers in Hong Kong, sailed on the Aquitania for Southampton, whence he will go to London to visit the British Empire Exhibition.

The Chinese banker is fifty-five years old, and besides his wives, who, he says, live in amity in different houses, has one of the finest collections of Chinese porcelains in existence. Ho Kom says all his wives are equal and painstaking, and are less expensive than are the ex-wives of American millionaires.

Ho Kom has been in New York five days and saw a different musical show each night. He likes musical comedies. "Women should confine their undressing to the home," he said.

One of the Screen's Greatest Entertainments

SPECIAL BRITISH PRODUCTION AT THE NICKEL.

Who ever created the character of Betty Balfour certainly did the job well. She is the very spirit of vitality, whose every appearance on the screen means another display of comical fireworks.

"Squibs, M.P." she is both pathos and parliamentary, a little flower seller who has climbed the social ladder carrying with her a magic box of amusing tricks.

Betty laying the law down to Walter or masquerading in officer's uniform at a costume ball in Paris, chopping up lumps of butter at the Squibs Pure Milk Dairy, or showing P.C. Lee how to make a parliamentary speech, pasting up election white-washed hecklers, presiding at the cause of babies before battle in the House of Commons, or being ghosts in a haunted castle, that the self-same Betty, radiating wit and intelligence all the time.

"Squibs, M.P." is Squibs' funniest venture so far, and certainly Betty Balfour's clearest and happiest performance. It makes one wonder if there is any limit to the amount of she can get out of life.

Today Miss Marjorie Hutchings, John's talented Contralto will be heard in selected program.

The Ceylon pavilion at Wembley was as famous as well as its commercial success, and many people have been interested in the lifeboat of the United Ship Travessa, which, in the 1924 made a journey many hundreds of miles, lasting twenty-one days, and ending at Maritius. This boat, which is the silent symbol of tremendous usage of the office, who made that dramatic journey, depicted on checks, and is the center of a great deal of attention at the moment.

Smuts' Political Rival

(London Graphic.)
He is a little, black-haired, bright-eyed lawyer from Bloomsbury who is of strangely puzzling personality. He is an easy and fluent speaker, a delightful after-dinner companion. Meet him outside the arena of politics and instinctively you like him. He has a natural gift of humor which adds an engaging quality to his talk and he talks well on most subjects. He is a B.A., and a LL.D. of Amsterdam University, and, with one reservation his outlook on life is broad, liberal, and intensely human; his intellectual resiliency, again with that one reservation, is both astonishing and fascinating. What is wrong, then with James Herzog? Precisely what has been wrong with many famous protagonists in the world's history. He is a fanatic—perfectly sane on every subject but one. He is the reincarnated spirit of the bigoted, ignorant narrow minded Boer of the backveld. The Empire is nothing to him; the Boer is everything. His fanaticism is purely racial, and so intense that he would cheerfully sacrifice the whole future of his country to preserve Boerism unaltered and intact. The Dutch dialect spoken in South Africa, the 'Taal' has no such claims on history as Celtic or Gaelic. It is a tongue evolved on the land, with a vocabulary hardly more inspiring than that of the Hottentot, the Kaffir, or the Bantu. It is impossible to construct from it a literature much in advance of a child's first primer. Yet Herzog has fought for it in the past as though it were as precious and as priceless a possession as the tongue of Shakespeare or of Dante. He is fighting to-day as he fought in 1911 for the 'Taal', and he does not stop to reason. Those who knew him well say he is dangerous because of his personality. His influence among the Boers is very great.

Belvedere Garden Party

The large number of people who attended Belvedere Garden Party yesterday had a delightful evening. The men's committee under the chairmanship of Mr. J. J. Lacey had the grounds nicely decorated and the stalls conveniently arranged. Mrs. Hiscok and her committee had all the tables well supplied and a brisk trade progressed throughout the evening. The wheels of fortune and various side shows were well patronized, as were also the tea tables. The returns from these sources were fully up to expectations. The music was furnished by the C.C.C. and Mount Cashel Bands.

The Junior Football League played a series of football games which were well contested, and very interesting. The final play off was between the Scouts and Holy Cross teams and the latter were successful in winning handsome gold medals. The team was P. Murphy, F. Fitzgerald, L. Fitzgerald, R. Owens, F. Moore. The prizes were presented by His Grace Archbishop Roche. The dance held at night in the Recreation Hall under the management of Mrs. H. Peddl grew was a most enjoyable affair. The hall was artistically decorated for the occasion; baskets of flowers and colored papers being tastefully arranged so as to make a very pretty setting. The music was supplied by the C.C.C. Band.

The Garden Party was a complete success and the combined committees are to be congratulated for their efforts on behalf of the orphans.

YOUR GIRL

Will take a real interest and make a success of the fine art of cooking if you provide her with the necessary equipment at home. Just because her grandmother used an old-fashioned coal stove is no reason why the young generation should be burdened down with it. If your kitchen is equipped with a "SMOOTHTOP" VULCAN GAS RANGE, fitted with a Modern Heat Regulator, perfect results are certain.

Try this recipe for NUT BREAD: 4 cups flour, 6 tea spoons baking powder, 1 tea spoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup English walnuts, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add the chopped nuts. Add milk and well beaten eggs. Put in two buttered pans and let stand 20 minutes. Set your oven heat regulator at 375 degrees and bake for 20 minutes. Estimates and full particulars gladly furnished by

Playgrounds for Eighteen Wards

SUPERINTENDENT WOULD PREVENT ACCIDENTS BY KEEPING CHILDREN OFF STREETS.

Montreal, June 11.—Playgrounds for children in eighteen wards of the city will be in operation by the city this summer, Aid. Desroches, of the executive committee, stated today. Following several demands for more open air amusement places, the council and executive have succeeded in utilizing several large school grounds placed at their disposal by the school commissions. In addition, on request of several aldermen, initiative steps have been taken towards the purchase of several sites in various sections of the city for recreation purposes.

Commenting on this policy, Dr. Gadbois, superintendent of playgrounds, stated this afternoon that the city could not have too many of these. "We are operating a large number at present," he continued, "but we have not enough to meet the needs of thousands of children who will soon be out of school. The children must play. If they are not given protected amusement places, they will stay on the streets, and the result is fatal. Every year numerous casualties occur attributable to the sad need of playgrounds. If the city could furnish adequate recreational sites for all the children, there would soon be no more child deaths from the fact that the road is the only available breathing place.

"As an example of what a difference fresh air and exercise will do to any living organism, you have only to take a jaunt to Lafontaine Park, and visit the zoological collection. There is a young lion there that really looks pitiful because it is enclosed in a space that does not allow it its natural freedom. Take that animal out and put it into a large fenced-in space and it would soon become a handsome, strong beast. Children need exercise and air just as much and even more than animals. Life in a flat is not conducive to either. Consequently, we must find some means of providing more playgrounds as the only solution."

In concluding the superintendent said he would never consider Montreal had too many playgrounds so long as a single child had to play on the streets.

This afternoon the executive committee, including Aid. Brodeur, chairman, Aid. Desroches, Bedard, O'Connell and Jerry, made a tour of inspection of St. Paul ward with its representative Aid. Angignon.—Montreal Star, June 11.

Bulgarian Servants

QUIT WHEN THE SUN GETS WARM

SOFLIA, Bulgaria, May 29 (A.P.)—Domestic servants in Bulgaria all throw up their jobs on St. George's day, the first day of the spring season. Neither maid nor mistress expects the relation to continue beyond May 5.

The reason is found in an old custom. Formerly all young women were needed back on the farms when spring time arrived, and they were permitted to go to the kentry to work during the winter only on condition they would return and help with the plowing. Even if they don't work in the fields to-day as they used to, Bulgarian girls in service set aside their brooms regularly on May 5, and consider what they will do next. Often, after a couple of days off, they come back to the same kitchen and find the broom just where they left it.

Gas Sold Automatically

TO SWEDISH MOTORISTS.

STOCKHOLM, May 29 (A.P.)—Stimulated by the rapid motorizing of Swedish highway traffic, native engineers have patented three inventions for the comfort and safety of motorists. These are an automatic beacon light for giving warnings at railroad crossings, an automatic slot machine for refilling gas tanks, and a device which prevents the accidental running out of batteries.

The crossing beacon consists of a flashing light in a cylindrical lantern with red and white sectors in opposite quadrants. When the railroad is clear the white lights so indicate to the highway traffic, but when a train approaches the lantern rotates automatically showing a red light to the highway and a white light to the train. This beacon will work under unfavorable conditions of snow and ice.

The automatic gasoline vendor can be utilized by the customer at any time of night and day by connecting the tube with the gas tank of the car, dropping a krona in the slot, and operating a lever. The quantity of gasoline received naturally varies according to the market price, which can be quoted at the minimum, owing to the saving of wages for attendants.

The attachment which automatically cuts off the batteries when the engine is stopped involves the principles of suction and gravity. It is essentially a switch system which is connected with the gas intake of the lubrication pipes so that the suction actuates a weight that rises and closes the electric circuit. When the suction stops, the weight falls and throws the switch open.

MARIE CORELLI

VALT MARCH

The highbrow critics jeered her name, and said her fiction was a shame. She couldn't write worth twenty cents, declared the come-to-judgment gents. But queens would lay aside their crowns, and doff their ermine hand-me-downs, to read Corelli's latest yarn, that critics all denounce and damn. And prelates, tired of title and text, of questionings by souls perplexed, of problems old and problems new, were glad to find a quiet pew, and there peruse till darkness fell the tales Corelli told so well. And on the lonely, wind-swept downs the shepherds, poor and simple clowns, while tolling through Corelli's page, thought her the wonder of the age. The plowman paused to rest his team, whose flanks were wet with sweat and steam; and from his cummerbund he drew a stained Corelli book or two. The sailors on the struggling barks, the plutocrats, the easy market the fishers seeking canned sardines, the actors in their limousines, the winners and the also-rans, were numbered with Corelli's fans. So let the stall-fed critics jeer around Corelli's anarchy bier. The high-brow critics cannot reach the common people when they preach; to please each other they proceed to write the painful, caustic screed; they pile their brochures on the shelves, for no one reads them but themselves. And wise Corelli's sidestep Art and strive to reach the human heart.

If purity and wholesomeness mean anything in a soap then Ivory soap is the correct soap to use, for no soap is more pure, or more wholesome than the white, floating Ivory.

An Invidious Distinction

The United States has the invidious distinction of leading the civilized world in the number of murders. Recently, Dr. Fred L. Hoffman, of the Prudential Insurance Company, in an article pointed out that, on the basis of population, murders were twenty-five times as frequent in the United States last year as they were in England and Wales, and three times as frequent as in Italy. The murder ratio rose from 9 per 100,000 to 10.2. In other words, in 1923, some 10,000 persons were murdered in the United States alone. As for Canada, although the number of murders on the basis of population is larger than the number in England and Wales, our figures compare very favourably with those in the States. In the Province of Quebec, for instance, there were only 20 murders in 1922 (the last year for which statistics are available—and of these 10 were in Montreal. Based on the American ratio, there would have been 90. In Toronto last year, there were 6 murders and if the average were maintained throughout Ontario (which is not the case) the total number of murders would have been 32 as compared with the United States average of the same population of 290.

CAN YOU THROW IT OUT OF JOINT?

When I was a young girl my neighbor had a small boy cousin who used to come and visit her, and whose visits always brought all the small children in neighborhood in to her yard.
Not because her young cousin had any special distinction of brain or brawn, or any gift of pocket money. But because he had a great talent. He could throw his thumb out of joint.
And he was most amiable about it. Instead of charging for a sight of the feat (as the renowned Tom Sawyer doubtless would have done), he would do it half a dozen times in the afternoon when new admirers arrived at his temporary shrine.
That Lucky Boy!
How we envied him that gift! What a lucky boy we thought him!
That envy has somewhat died down now. If a good fairy should offer me the power to throw my thumb out of joint I think I should ask instead the power to throw something else out of joint.
I mean my mind.

Empire Commerce

LONDON, June 14. (Canadian Press)—The tenth triennial Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, postponed from last year in order that it might coincide with the British Empire Exhibition, will take place at the Guildhall here on July 1, 2, 3 and 4, when subjects of intimate interest to Canada and the other Dominions in general will be brought up for discussion.
Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Belleville and other Canadian Boards of Trade will send delegations, along with representatives of the Boards of Trade of the principal cities of the British Empire. Rt. Hon. the Earl of Derby, President of the British Imperial Council of Commerce, will preside over the Congress, and King George V., patron of the congress, may attend some of the meetings.

The Toronto Board of Trade sponsors a resolution which will be introduced regarding Imperial Education, and the Winnipeg Board is submitting a resolution on the subject of passports within the British Empire. Belleville will introduce resolutions covering Imperial preference, emigration and immigration, Imperial education, assimilation of commercial law, incorporation of additional features regarding Empire resources and opportunities in the London Chamber of Commerce Journal.
A fixed date for Easter, Imperial wireless chain, Imperial education, flag discrimination with regard to ocean shipping, unification of Empire bankruptcy laws, and double taxation with regard to income tax, are subjects which will be brought up the London (England) Chamber of Commerce. Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham and other English cities are also introducing resolutions at the congress.

Pretoria, South Africa, Chamber is introducing a resolution urging development of trade and industries within the British Empire by means of quicker transit between the Dominions and Great Britain and by more reasonable rates on cargo and passengers.
Of the nine former congresses, six have been held in London, one in Montreal, in 1903; one in Sydney, Australia, in 1909; and one in Toronto, in 1920. Since 1909 the practice of alternating between London and one of the leading cities in the Overseas Dominions has developed.

Mexicans Stage Bull Fight When Called for in a Play

Mexico, City, May 23. (A.P.)—A real bull fight featured the recent presentation there of Manuel Penella's play "The Wild Cat," in which such a spectacle is included, although in the United States the encounter took place behind the scenes. A gala performance of the show was staged in the bull ring and Antonio Segura, the bull fighter of the play, acquitted himself creditably when he faced and killed the bull against which he was pitted.
During his youthful days in Seville, Segura toyed with the cape and banderillas before he discovered that the stage was a safer and more profitable profession than that of the torero.

ADVISE YOUTH NOT TO STUDY MEDICINE.
LEIPSIK, May 27. (A.P.)—"Don't study medicine" is the advice given to prospective students by the German Physicians' Association, pointing out that for years to come the medical profession will be overcrowded.
One reason assigned is the fact that old doctors find themselves unable to retire from active practice, since their savings were wiped out by the depreciation of the mark. Other reasons assigned are the loss of many, and the poverty of the masses, who will not call a doctor except in the most necessary cases.

British Fire Insurance in 1923

The British fire insurance doing business in the United States, in their recently issued reports, show that the year 1923 was a favorable year in contrast with 1922 which was generally unfavorable. As reported to the Bankers Trust Company of New York by its English Information Service, the results of operations of the twenty-one British companies or groups business in the United States were as follows: The total premium income in 1923, converting the sterling figures at $4.80, was $162,911,000, an increase of $19,809,000. Claims paid and outstanding amounted to $79,184,000 (48.1 per cent of the premiums) as compared with $75,845,000 (58 per cent). Expenses and commissions were $70,283,000 (43.1 per cent) as against $69,397,000 (44.2 per cent). The apparent surplus of premiums over outgoings was thus $14,484,000 as compared with $3,923,000 in 1922. However, in order to ascertain the actual underwriting profit or loss, it is necessary to allow 40% of the increase in premiums each year as a reserve against the increased liabilities. This adjustment brings out the surplus for 1923 as $6,511,000, or 4% of the premiums, against a fractional loss for 1922 of $73,000.
The underwriting surpluses or deficits given above have been determined after allowance has been made for liabilities on unexpired risks on the basis of 4% of the increase for decrease in premium income.

Canada's Most Urgent Need
NATIONAL POLICY FOR DEBT REDUCTION.

By J. T. SHAW, M.P. (Cargary)

Of Canada's many problems the national debt is one of surpassing importance, but unfortunately it receives only scant and casual attention from the public. On the 31st of March 1914 the gross debt of the country stood at $544,391,360. The debt was largely incurred in constructing public works, such as railways, canals, government buildings and the like. Such construction necessarily assisted in the expansion of settlement and in the development of our national wealth. Allowing for a proper deduction of assets, the net debt on that date amounted to $335,986,850.

In common with all belligerent countries the war expenditure has been the chief cause of our debt increase since 1914. Our war and war commitments caused staggering additions to our national indebtedness. By the 31st of March, 1923, the interest-bearing debt has increased $2,493,569,212.

In addition to the increase in the principal debt, it should be noted that the average interest rate has considerably increased. In the year 1914 the interest charge on the public debt was $14,686,787, which gives an average interest rate of 3.52 per cent. The interest paid in 1923 was $136,407,667. The average interest rate has therefore increased to 5.185 per cent. The annual interest charge has increased to a figure almost ten times the 1914 amount, and is a greater sum than the highest amount expended in any pre-war year by the Federal Government for all its purposes. One writer has pointed out that if it had been possible to keep the average interest rate down to the pre-war level of 3.52 per cent the annual interest charge would be forty-four millions less than the present figure.

In addition to the great increase in the principal debt and in the amount of interest payments, there has been, as pointed out by the compiler of the present Year Book, several significant changes, so far as the debt is concerned. Prior to the war the debt was incurred almost entirely for productive purposes, and generally speaking assets offset the debt of that period. On the other hand, the increase occasioned by the war has obviously little corresponding assets. In fact, whereas during the war period the debt was held mainly outside of Canada, at the present moment almost two billions of the total is held by people within Canada. This change was occasioned by the generous response of our citizenship to the appeal for subscriptions to the various war and victory loans. It must not be forgotten, however, that a large portion of the increase represented by war and victory bonds, is largely exempted from income taxation.

With this great increase of indebtedness internally there has taken place in Canada, as in other belligerent countries, a redistribution of private wealth. One war effect has been a more unequal distribution of wealth. Many of the pre-war millionaires have not only retained what they had, but have increased their wealth. In addition the war created a class, small in number, who have acquired a substantial portion of the national wealth. Much of the accumulated war wealth is held in the form of Victory Bonds and the income thereof is exempted from taxation.

Speaking of England's war debt Lord Milner uses these words: "As regards that portion of the National Debt which we owe to ourselves, I do contend that it does not represent the diminution of our total national wealth, but a redistribution of it between individuals. It has been an almost intolerable embarrassment to the Government, which has perpetually exacted money from a great number of people, in order to put into the pockets of a much smaller number." It is at least, such a redistribution must seriously interfere with production, until such time as a equitable balance is secured. The exemption from income tax allowed to adds to our difficulty.

The payment of interest alone on the national indebtedness is obviously a crushing burden. We have been so busy engaged in paying interest charges that we have made no significant progress in reducing the principal debt. From December 1918 to the 31st of March 1924 the British Government applied the sum of $400,000,000, ($3,800,000,000) towards the reduction of its debt, while during the same period Canada's national indebtedness increased by approximately $2,493,569,212. To add to our present difficulties, substantial portions of the present debt will mature annually during the next fifteen years. What is to be the national policy in this matter?

The wise debtor with yearly interest payments to meet, and with annual principal payments recurring over a period of years, makes a thorough study of his financial situation, and arranges his affairs in advance so that he can ensure payment of principal interest on the due date. This poller, however, does not usually prevail in national affairs. Governments live, as it were, from hand to mouth. Even our system of national book-keeping is so involved that experts would be presently confused as to whether there really was a $30,000,000 surplus at the end of the last fiscal year available to apply in reduction of the public debt. The Prime Minister's recent assertion of that large surplus was questioned with considerable reason by the Hon. Mr. Meighen.

From the foregoing short survey, even a casual observer will note that the problem of our Canadian national indebtedness invites several serious considerations. It will be accepted without argument that there is the gravest necessity of disciplining current government expenditure, so that only the most necessary work will be undertaken, and so in every case results will be secured simply justifying the outlay.

Again it should be unnecessary to point out that the whole field of federal taxation should at once be thoroughly canvassed and studied in order to disclose that method or methods of taxation that it may be most efficiently applied to secure debt reduction. It cannot be denied that wages and legitimate profits cannot bear any heavier taxation designed to liquidate the public debt will of necessity invite other methods of dealing with this indebtedness. Already many people urge that a considerable reduction of the debt should be made by way of inflating the currency, such inflation to take place to the point where the purchasing power of the dollar becomes on a par with its purchasing power at the time the great increase in the national debt was contracted. While this plan has some points in its favor, yet it has danglers, as experience has shown in the case of Russia, Germany and France.

Others advocate a capital of wealth levy, while others still suggest a moratorium cancelling interest payments for a period of five or ten years, after which time it is expected that we will know far better how to deal intelligently with our national debt. But there are considerations involved in this matter outside of the problems of taxation and of economy in government expenditure. For example we may well question as to the prospect during the coming years of reducing the current interest rate on the debt by the process of conversion or otherwise. Some slight progress has been made, as the two conversion loans already effected have resulted in an annual saving in interest to the country of about forty million dollars. Again it is desirable to inquire as to whether money is liable to appreciate or depreciate in the future. It is obvious that to extinguish a debt created when a price level is at its maximum by payment at a time when the price level is 50 per cent. below the maximum point reached, works a grave injustice upon taxpayers generally. Consequently in considerations involving debt payment over a term of years, question in future changes in the purchasing power of money should not be overlooked. Further in such a matter it is proper to inquire as to whether or not the ratio of wealth as compared with the debt is liable to increase, so that the debt will thereby become of less significance.

For example following the Napoleonic wars, England was if anything, in a worse position comparatively than at present. The successful application of steam and modern inventions gave an impetus to wealth production so that the debt rapidly became of less relative importance. As a result, the staggering indebtedness of 1816 became a comparatively light burden.

These various problems invite consideration by economists and financial experts. Surely the time is about ripe to give this matter our serious consideration. If we fall now, events may force upon us a hasty and ill-considered policy perhaps when we are facing calamity. The statesmen in Great Britain are not indifferent to the possibilities of the situation. The Prime Minister of Great Britain has appointed a Debt Committee, composed of financial experts and representatives of labour, commerce and industry to investigate the whole field; not alone the debt itself but also to inquire into the methods of debt taxation, and its effect upon unemployment, upon industry and upon the national life generally.

If we wish to deal intelligently with this matter our judgment must be predicted upon facts with a view to disclosing all the facts there should be undertaken now, under the direction of the Federal Government, a most thorough and comprehensive survey and study of the whole question in all its phases and ramifications. The whole political history of Canada is unfortunately a tragic failure to anticipate events. It is to be hoped that in this vital and important matter we will not continue our past record.—Listening Post.

The Will

There comes a time in the life of every man when he must leave his worldly possessions to the care of another. In anticipation of this, therefore, the first obligation resting on an individual who is possessed of property is the making of a will, and this should be done before the capacities become impaired by time or the ravages of disease.

FOR THE BRIDE AND GROOM

"Man and wife I now pronounce you!"
"Did you hear him as he spoke?"
"Had I been officiating, I am sure my voice had broke!"
"Had I worn God's holy vestments as that marriage knot I tied,
I am sure my voice had faltered, happy Groom and radiant Bride."

By the service which is ended, he pronounced you man and wife. Those were solemn vows you uttered, vows to hold you fast through life.

Vows not lightly to be taken, vows to last the longest hours. You must face the world together, until God shall bid you part.

Pay by day your faith must keep You glad the hurts of life to bear:

By the love which you have spoken you must conquer every care. Yet be true to one another, happy Groom and radiant Bride, and you'll find by sharing sorrow every grief is sanctified.

Meet whatever comes undaunted; pleasures rise and pass away. Youth grows old and fortune changes, but through all things love can stay.

From this service which is ended, now you turn and walk through life. May the love which now unites you keep you always man and wife.

Mother, 112, "Boys" Over 68 Keep House

NEBRASKA MEN RECONSTRUCT HER HOME JUST LIKE IT WAS IN IRELAND.

ALBION, Neb., May 31.—Mrs. Rose Garvey, of Albion, has just celebrated her 112th birthday at her home near here. She is the oldest person living in Nebraska.

The family is just as it was when it left Ireland sixty years ago, except that one child has married and Mr. Garvey, has died. When the family left Ireland there were Mr. and Mrs. Garvey and four sons, Patrick, Anthony, Michael and John. The Garveys are rather unique. In the home there are four people. The "baby" is Anthony. He is sixty-eight years old. Patrick is eighty, Michael is seventy-two.

The "boys" do all the housework. Patrick is cook. Mike is housemaid. Tony superintends the farm.

Years and years ago, after the death of their father, the "boys" vowed never to marry but to remain at home and care for their mother. John was already married, so he was absolved from care of his mother. When the Garveys moved to Nebraska, there were 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres of public land in this State ready for the settler.

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—
 "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."
 (Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

New Dangers to Menace Health

NEW CAUSES OF DEATH TO BE FOUND BY PRESENT MEDICAL SCIENCE.

CHICAGO, June 12.—(Associated Press).—Until disease is successfully eradicated, public health service is incomplete, declared Dr. A. M. Stimson, of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, D.C., in an address prepared for delivery before the American Medical Association to-day.

In the hands of the health workers the scientist's microscope must change to a telescope, he said. Conditions in cities, how to control bad living conditions and various epidemics, how to produce vaccines and keep them within reach of the population and development of cures where the cause of a disease has been isolated he listed as some of the problems of the public health service.

An "epidemic of injuries," superseding the past "epidemic of infection" is the problem with which the modern physician has to cope, said

J. Howard Beard, of the health service of the University of Illinois. Railroad crossings, automobile accidents, exhaust gas poisonings caused by automobiles, industrial accidents and suicides caused by the increased strain of living in cities are taking the places of the old time menaces, conquered to a great extent in the times of Lister, Gorgas and Pasteur, he said.

"The suicide rate is about that of the whooping cough death rate," he said. "About as many people were killed in automobiles at railroad crossings last year as died of scarlet fever in 1920.

"Fatalities resulting from automobile accidents in 1923 are about the same as those from diphtheria and scarlet fever combined. In some cities, exhaust gas from automobiles produces more deaths than typhus bacilli."

Message in Bottle Tells of Fantastic Tragedy in Ambrose Channel

New York, June 12. (United News)—"Goodbye, Mr. Babbs. Your wife and I went to the bottom off Ambrose Channel—Royal Weir."

This message, hinting at the fantastic tragedy where the twin lines of Ambrose Channel buoyed and at open sea, was found in a corked bottle that floated onto the beach at Rosebank, Staten Island.

It hints also at the work of some practical joker, but the police are investigating the strange message. The writing was in a large, round hand. The paper on which the note was written is red ink was about the size of a cigarette paper. A postscript to the letter read: "Notify Tottenham." Many sea-going families live on Staten Island, but so far the police have found no trace of either Babbs or Weir. There are no persons of these names missing from Staten Island.

The Worm Turns

Providence Journal: A pedestrian upholder of the law hung a handbag at the wind-shield when imperilled by the familiar approach of an automobile. His aim was good. He got safely across the street, but was arrested for "assault and battery and wanton injury to personal property." A wise judge found him not guilty of the charge or any of the specifications and intimated that he was guilty of no offence that the statutes provide. After complainant had stated his grievance the judge did not care to have defendant speak for himself. And the latter's counsel rested after asking complainant if he did not know that a pedestrian was not obliged to jump to get out of the way of an automobile. The judge, remarking that a pedestrian has the right of way over an automobile, dismissed the case. Is it not sound law that one is justified in an offensive defence of a threatened right?

Father Meets Son, 19, Left as Infant

Russian Youth's Four-Year Search in America Ends at Last.

Milwaukee, May 31.—Alex. Ginsberg, fifty, is celebrating a reunion with his son whom he left nineteen years ago in Russia as an infant and whom he believed to be dead. The celebration will be complete when his other child—now a young miss of twenty-one—arrives here from New York City.

Back in 1905, misfortune struck heavily upon Ginsberg, a small merchant in Katrinaslav, Russia. His wife died and he was left with two small children—Helen, two, and Abraham, three months old.

Sick and discouraged he placed the children in the care of their grandparents and came to America—the land of promise.

The first years were hard—a new language and a new people. The letters to Russia became fewer and fewer as Ginsberg wandered from city to city in his quest for opportunities.

But while Ginsberg was making his changes in America, things were changing too in Russia.

Shortly after the signing of the armistice, the two children gathered their savings and bought passage to New York. Helen took up her home with an uncle, but Abraham determined to hold true to his vow.

For four years he travelled from city to city throughout the United States and Canada, working his way as a clothes cutter.

Then he met a man in Chicago who was acquainted with the father and at last his journey ended in Milwaukee.

"Happy—well, I have not known real happiness until now," the father said as he greeted his son. "It seems like a dream."
 "A dream—but a dream come true," said the son.

High Costs in Germany

FAIL TO ENRICH ANYBODY.

BREMEN, May 27 (A.P.)—"Who gets the money?" is the question the average German is asking in connection with the high prices now charged for all sorts of commodities.

Food prices and the cost of ordinary clothing range all the way from 25 to 200 per cent above pre war figures.

Still the farmers contend they are unable to make ends meet because of the low prices paid for their products and the sharp competition they have from foreign foods, especially bread-stuffs. Merchants and middlemen insist their taxes, interest and expenses are so high that they are merely making a living.

Railway fares, theatre and moving picture admission prices, hotel rooms and meals in restaurants and cafes of all classes range from 25 to 100 per cent higher than in France, and are far above the Swiss, Austrian and Italian rates.

But enough persons manage to raise the money to keep business going. Luxury shops are pretty hard hit. Fine gowns and hats are not bought in large numbers, and tailors who ask $75 for men's suits which can be bought for $50 in London are not finding many buyers.

German business is clearly not on a healthy basis. Interest rates are so high and uncertain that manufacturers and merchants are unable to figure costs definitely. In their efforts to play safe they have advanced prices to a point that checks normal buying. Export metal-workers who are paid 35 cents an hour, cannot understand why commodities have advanced out of all proportion to the increase in their wages. Clerks and government employes are similarly puzzled, and without money to buy anything but absolute necessities.

Predicting Tides By Machinery

APPARATUS THAT IMITATES SUN AND MOON.

In the Department of Commerce in Washington there is a remarkable tide-predicting machine. It is a mechanism of brass and steel which predicts the times and heights of high and low water at any station for which it is set up, for as long a time in advance as one pleases.

The machine which weighs about 2,500 lb., is about 11 ft. long, 2 ft. wide, and 6 feet high. It was put into operation in 1910, since when it has been used in predicting the tides for the tide tables issued annually for the use of the American Navy and merchant service. The tide tables, issued a year or more in advance, give the predicted times and heights of high and low water for every day of the year at eighty-one of the principal ports of the world. In addition they contain tidal data for 8,500 other ports.

Tide-tale Dials.
 The tides are due to the action of the sun and moon upon the rotating earth. Now, if the motions of the sun and moon relative to the earth could be made to take place in circular orbits in the plane of the equator, tidal predictions would be a simple matter. But, as we know, these motions are not so simple; therefore, for the purpose of tide prediction there is substituted for the irregular motions of sun and moon relative to the earth the simple circular motions of a number of hypothetical suns and moons whose combined tidal effects are equivalent to those of the real sun and moon.

On this tide-predicting machine there are taken into account thirty-seven such hypothetical moons and suns, each represented by a double system of dials, sliding frames, and pulleys. The combined effects of these are transmitted through a flexible chain to the front of the machine, where, on a system of dials, the state of the tide at any moment is indicated.

When next rain comes, think how comfortable you would be, if your roof was covered with DUX-BAK ROOFING.

Dux-Bak ROOFING

'Sheds Water Like a Duck's Back'

A roll of DUX-BAK Roofing costs only $3.50 complete with a supply of nails and cement.

A roll of DUX-BAK Roofing contains 108 square feet of roofing, weighs 55 pounds, and will cover 100 square feet of roof surface, i.e., a roll of DUX-BAK is same size as a roll of 3-ply felt.

Roofs covered with DUX-BAK Roofing pay lower insurance premiums than roofs covered with felt and tar.

DUX-BAK Roofing is heavy weight (3-ply quality) and needs no coating until the second year in use.

A DUX-BAK roof will give 15 years of service if coated every 3 years with suitable paint, tar or asphalt.

DUX-BAK will last longer than ordinary felt and the saving effected by lower insurance premiums will pay for the total cost of covering your roof.

When you buy felt you must also buy nails and tins and coating. You save these expenses when you buy DUX-BAK ROOFING

By CY HUNGERFORD

My Queer Clients

By A WOMAN SOLICITOR.
 Many strange tales have been referred to solicitors, most of them being more than romances of the imagination. Women solicitors hear more than enough of such harrowing tales. They have not yet acquired the art of getting rid of clients who obviously have been fiction-writers.
 A trivial wrong is magnified until it becomes an obsession, a mass of documentary evidence is collected or concocted, and then the aggrieved party tries to find a solicitor who will conduct the case, generally on payment by results' basis.
 In my own short experience I have been consulted by many such clients. One elderly man claimed to be the rightful owner of Buckingham Palace, and brought two huge bundles of documents to prove it. When asked for "something on account" he gathered his papers together and quickly bowed himself out.

Buried Documents.
 A member man—a street musician—told himself the Earl of —, and asked me to begin an action against the city insurance company for the recovery of documents which he would establish his identity. The documents had been buried beneath a tavern floor two centuries ago upon the site of which the insurance company's premises now stand. A stranger visitor of all, curious enough, turned out to be a genuine victim of circumstance. He was a well-seafaring man, and claimed membership of a valuable collection of pictures which had been recently obtained from his father. He asked me to judge of the High Judge, and, to my amazement, received a cheque for fifty pounds and was asked to pay no more that was needed. Today the sailor is a rich man and a valued client.
 There are many people, on the other hand, who suffer in silence enough through ignorance of their rights. In particular I remember a woman who was poisoned owing to the negligence of a chemist in giving her a prescription.
 She lost her post—a highly placed remunerative one—and was seriously ill for over three weeks. Medical bills cost her a small fortune, her faculties were permanently impaired for all time, and she took no step to claim a single penny in compensation.

Helen of Troy No Myth

Helen of Troy was a real girl. That discovery just announced has been made from recent excavations in Egypt. Dr. James H. Breasted, head of the Oriental Languages Department of the University of Chicago, has said as much.
 Dr. Breasted has just returned from his months' stay in Egypt, where he has deciphered manuscripts in the tomb of Tut-ankh-amen. The tomb are manuscripts that all out and amplify all the history of Egypt not known, he says, also will throw a light on ancient Greek history.
 For example, there have been found in the tomb to show the revolutionary Tut-ankh-amen's revolutionary belief in freedom of thought and individuality had on the politics of his time. They supplement the information regarding the transformation of his girl widow to save throne by an alliance with the of the Hittites in Asia Minor.
 It is in this ancient correspondence that Dr. Breasted has discovered elements supplementing recent sunk and battles raged, was a

Laugh and Grow Fat

is an old Axiom.

We advise the use of a Good Tonic and we know of no better than

BRICK'S TASTELESS.

Brick's Tasteless is a wonderful nerve tonic and blood builder that we gladly recommend.

If you have no appetite, and feel tired, no energy for anything, try a bottle of BRICK'S and see how quickly it will help and improve your condition.

You can purchase a bottle of this excellent tonic at nearly every store in the country.

Price $1.20 per bottle.
