POCH'S STRATEGY RELIEVED ALL DANGER

He Has Wrested From the Germans in Three Weeks What Required Them Four Months To Obtain

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, August 14—After the battle of the Avre, the situation of the Belgians pre-ent a change which for rapidity and extent has rarely been approached in military history.

The immediate results of the counter-offensives which will have the greatest bearing on subsequent operations are the clearing of the Chateau Thierry pocket, ending the menace to Epernay and Paris, the liberation of Mont Tdidier, ending the menace to Amiens; the freeing of the important eastern railroad line from Paris to Chalons, and the equally important northern line from Paris to Amiens, restoring to the Allies means of communication which give them enormously greater ease in future movements of troops.

These successes render impossible any rupture of the line which would separate the French armies of the center from those to the east, or a rupture of the junction between the French and British. The most disastrous consequence to the Germans aside from the heavy losses they sustained in men and material, is the collapse of their plan to drive wedges into the Allied lines, and the subsequent widening and joining which would have threatened general dislocation.

Marshal Foch's strategy in releasing the salient wedges wrested the initiatives in operations from the Germans, at once obliging them either to order a general retreat to a strong line such as the Somme, or to engage reserves. The enemy adopted the second alternative which, having failed, makes eventual retirement immensely more difficult.

HARRASSING THE ENEMY

The first phase of the battle of the Avre finds the French with a footing upon Thiescourt plateau, west of Noyon, which has vital importance in future operations. The Germans must either recapture the position at high cost, if he can, or abandon Noyon, which means the fall of Roye and Lassigny, which already are under menace of imminent capture.

The disaster, which menaced General Von Hutier's army has been averted for the moment. The few narrow passages which now are open for the withdrawal of his stores are so harassed by the bombs of aviators and the fire of heavy artillery that prompt escape is impossible, rendering probable a desperate effort by the Germans to cling to their 1914 line.

The Old Girl is Game.

(From the Kansas City Star) We owe England a cheer for this. The old girl is game. She has in the natural phrase of one of her own favorite sons—and ours—laid a point closer to the wind for us than a man could expect of his own married wife.

She has stood by at every crisis from the start. Her destroyer fleet took the sea before ours was ready and battled the submarine at a time when it seemed that monster might dispute our passage. She sent us coal last winter when thousands of tons of ships were tied up in our own harbors for want of fuel. Let's not forget it. England's been a good neighbor and a good ally right through the time when most of the flowers were being sent down to the footlight were marked for her co-star, La Belle France. Let's not forget that she never failed to join her voice to ours in acclaiming that wonderful people—and kept right on doing hard, practical, handy jobs for us.

Women to Enter Railway Service.

WASHINGTON.—Thousands of women will be drawn into railroad employment within the next few months to take the places of men entering the army and going to other industries, according to plans now being formulated by the railroad administration. Women are to be employed extensively as clerks in railway offices, as expert accountants, ticket sellers, station agents, crossing watchmen, car cleaners and to some extent as track laborers.

Haig Reports 28,000 Prisoners and 600 Guns.

LONDON, August 14—Since the Allied offensive began on the Mont Didier-Amiens sector, August 8, the total captures by the French first army and the British fourth army have aggregated 28,000 men and 600 guns, says Field Marshal Haig's communication from headquarters tonight. The communication adds that Tuesday passed in comparative quiet on the battlefield.

STRANGEST BATTLE FIELD EVER SEEN

German Dead Strew the Fields of Ripening Crops Everywhere.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY, France.—I have spent much of the day, from early morning to noon, walking in parts of the battlefield, having at first the extraordinary experience of being able to pass in a motor car over what was yesterday No Man's Land, and also the trenches of the front German system, and look down on the enemy below. When the road became impassable for reason of shell holes made by our guns, one could stray over great deserted plains while guns thudded intermittently and our aeroplanes wheeled overhead.

The chief impression made on me is relatively of the great number of German dead. We know our casualties are light; we believe the enemy's are heavy. Never before on any battlefield have I seen so great an excess of German dead over ours. I am not exaggerating when I say that on that part of the field I explored—which was that traversed by the Canadians yesterday—there were certainly seven to eight. I think ten Germans dead to one Canadian. I regret I did not make an actual count, but I spoke to the men busy with salvage work and their impression was the same as mine. Even apart from the number of prisoners there is no manner of doubt that the German casualties vastly exceeded ours.

The battlefield, which is practically the whole of the Senterre Plateau, is an extraordinary sight. It is a wide expanse of rich, level farmland destitute of hedges and buildings. Crops were already in the ground before the German advance at the end of March drove the cultivators away. Without attention the crops have grown and ripened much more free of weeds than one would expect. There is a field of wheat and oats and barley now ready for harvest and well worth harvesting.

There are many acres of clover which should have been cut before, but there are still blossoms. Many butterflies, especially swallow tails and pale rose before one's feet as one brushed through. There are patches of popadian soldier, detailed for the purpose, was digging them. They were an excellent crop with five to six tubers and each individual potato five to six inches long, well-shaped, and clean. The man had already filled two good sacks full and was at work on a third. This is all ground which yesterday was well behind the German lines.

The crops are intersected by paths by which enemy troops came to their trenches. They are pitted with shell holes like the scarred trenches and lines of machine gun positions. Barbed wire was strung through them, while yesterday our tanks made broad highways through grain crops, clover and potatoes alike. The waving grain especially hides the grewsome things of other days. For the Germans never seem to have searched the ground or else did not care, and one finds hidden in the ripe corn German bodies which have lain there in the open for months.

Air Patrol Service For Atlantic Coast.

The Canadian Naval Service is now organizing an aircraft branch which will operate as an air patrol off the Atlantic Coast, looking out for submarines, bombing them whenever sighted, and generally warning all shipping using the Canadian ports of the presence and whereabouts of enemy submarines. The manning of the Royal Canadian Air Service will be from the ranks of the flight officers now training in Canada. Up to the present time Canada has sent over six hundred trained aviators to join the Royal Air Force, and by the end of the year the total number of Canadians qualified for air service will be fully one thousand.

In connection with the assistance Canada has given to the Allies in the matter of aviation, it is interesting to note that over two thousand, five hundred aeroplanes for training purposes have already been produced in Canada, and now bombing planes for the United States Navy are being manufactured by the national plant at Toronto. High grade aeroplane engines for use in fighting machines at the front are also being produced in Canada now in large quantities.

Hospital bombing and baby killing never won a war and never will.

U. S. IS BUILDING WORLD'S BIGGEST ARMY HOSPITAL.

Will Occupy One Hundred and Eighty-Six Acres Near Southampton, England.

American soldiers who are invalided from the battlefronts to England will find their country has made the best possible provision for their welfare in "Blighly."

Immense country estates have been leased by the United States government on which to construct the necessary hospitals to take care of their wounded.

Plans have just been completed for the construction of the largest military hospital in the world on a country estate of 186 acres near Southampton.

The central building will be around an old manor house, around which the American Red Cross is building ten acres of huts. Separate buildings for the medical staffs, the kitchens, and the operating room are called for. Special attention is being given to the construction of a large isolation hospital for the treatment and cure of special cases.

The hospital will be able to support itself in a large measure. Ten acres of vegetable gardens will be intensively cultivated, assuring the men of a continual fresh supply of fresh vegetables.

Four hundred beds will be available six weeks from the time work is started. Many of these cases will be in tents, which will be turned over to convalescents on the completion of the main buildings.

A direct road to Southampton will enable ambulances to bring the American wounded direct from the piers to the hospital.

Miles of sunny walks inside the hospital will be open to the soldiers. Entertainments and amusements will constantly be provided. The spacious grounds give ample opportunity for all sorts of games, from croquet to fishing. Everything possible will be done to brighten the lives of these men who have given themselves for their cause.

COURAGE BELOW DECK

What the Artificer Engineer Had to Say About His Men.

Would the Zeelbrugge victory have been what it was had her stokehold not been filled with heroes? An old ship with old boilers, but needing, above all things else, speed, especially on the home run, she was at the mercy of her stokers and engineers. A bump told them the vindictive had gained the Mole. Not much else was known about the fortunes of the day until home was reached. It is said that when the Engineer Commander entered the boiler room (after the party) and asked the Artificer Engineer what he had to say about his men the reply was what every one of them must have rejoiced to hear: "I am not going to say anything for or against them; but if I was going to H—I tomorrow night I would have the same men with me."

Admiral Sir David Beatty knows where to find heroes and he says that high up on the roll of British heroes must be placed the names of the engineers and their staffs on board ships of war. Equally heroic are the men below deck on merchant ships. With almost no chance of escape and with almost absolute certainty of being hit when the dastardly U-boat gets in its work these men, nevertheless, engage to transport troops and wounded, foodstuffs, merchandise, munitions—everything needed to carry on this war. Do we give them sufficient credit? Have we, up to this time given them even a thought? Not until the war is over shall we know how many of these heroes have been sacrificed that their cause and ours might triumph.

It is peculiarly fitting that these men, of whom most of us have never even thought, should be remembered by the King. He has given his approval to a badge which speaks volumes. It is in the form of a torpedo to be worn on the left sleeve and is to be given "to officers and seamen, who have been on the articles of any British merchant or fishing vessel sunk or damaged during the present war by torpedo or mine and who have afterwards completed a further voyage on the articles of a British vessel."

Each subsequent experience will be shown by a bar. It is high time that the rest of us take a thought for the heroes below deck, combatants and non-combatants alike.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form. Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the whole system, and snuffs and vapors do little, if any good. To correct catarrh you should enrich your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal-food and a building- tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it—YOU! A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

DIGBY AS A SUMMER RESORT

An Interesting Letter From One of Its Regular American Visitors

To the Editor of the MONITOR:

DEAR SIR: As you have already noted in your up to date local newspaper (the Digby County section of which is, in my mind, excelled by no other publication) I am on my annual visit to Digby. But I wish to say that Digby in 1918 is nothing like it was a few years ago. Of course much of its quietness is said to be caused by the war, but even after we win the war, Digby will never be the summer resort that it was a few years ago.

Its popularity began more than a quarter of a century ago, and reached its height in 1913. You were a booster and the many articles from your pen which appeared in the big dailies, the yachting magazines and the Digby Courier, were the means of bringing thousands of visitors to Digby. But things have changed, there are no articles of this nature now appearing in the American or Canadian publications and in a recent issue of the Courier, when reference was being made in the local column to boating on Digby's beautiful Basin, there appeared the sentence, "We would not advise any one with sensitive nerves to live near the shore."

There were other reasons beside the war which caused Digby's tourist business to so rapidly decline after 1913. I will give you some of them as viewed by an outsider. The most important was the abandonment of the annual regattas and weekly sailing races on the harbor, caused by the entire lack of support of the summer hotel proprietors, who put neither time nor money in marine sports of any kind, not even, I am surprised to learn (with very few exceptions) becoming members of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club, an organization which was very much alive until this year and something which was the means of dozens of American, St. John and other boats visiting Digby during the summer season. I shall never forget those happy days when there was something to see on the Basin and the long string of tourists sitting along the water front viewing the private pleasure yachts sailing on the Basin by day and the pretty anchor lights at night, which gave us visitors the "bug" to be afloat, with the result, that commercial boats were in great demand, the owners of which, considering their prices, must have had profitable seasons. When the yacht club leased its rooms as a shoe shining parlor, failed to hoist its burgee daily, becoming too poor financially, for want of public support or for want of local leadership, to extend its slip to low water mark; when merchants who deal in marine hardware and motor boat supplies, do not take enough interest to launch their own boats and the fleet dwindles down to two or three; the Club abandons its annual cruise and its popular "ladies' day" outing, then, of course, commercial boating immediately becomes almost a thing of the past, the Basin takes on a lonesome appearance and no pretty snapshots can be taken of the place to send our friends who have heard so much about Digby in the past and so little at the present time.

Just a glance at Digby in 1918, the vacation resort I love so well and the one I have visited so many times. A beautiful town situated on the hillside overlooking the most lovely sheet of water in the world on which, as I write, there is not a boat in sight. This is August and was formerly Digby's most busy month. The public pavilion opposite one of the largest summer hotels, is empty, there is no one on the benches along the water front; two or three of the once popular summer hotels are closed; there are less than a hundred Americans in town (in August, 1913 there were a thousand); an up to date ice cream parlor, once filled most every night and day with a jolly crowd, is selling confectionery only; the stores appear to be doing "but little" tourist trade and the sidewalks once filled with vacationists are almost without them day time and evening.

Mr. Editor, the summer hotel men and all who have made money from the tourist traffic were no doubt disappointed to see you move away. But they should do more, and I believe they will, that is subscribe for the MONITOR and give you a big share, if not all, of their job printing, as long as the business which you conduct is your own. They owe it to you and you are entitled to it. There is still, however, a busy place in Digby. I refer to the Racquette, where such men as H. B. Short and Capt. Howard Anderson, of the Maritime Fish Corporation, and other wholesale fish dealers are doing a prosperous business. I mention Mr. Short and Capt. Anderson because they are two of the most enterprising men in the town. They have supported every movement for the good of the community, both as a commercial and summer resort, and have given more time and money toward marine sports than all those engaged in the tourist business added together. These kind of men are too few in Digby today.

In an issue of the Courier of a week ago I was surprised to learn that a correspondent in referring to the month of June in Digby had been allowed to say the following: "Then is the time that one can have Delightful Digby practically all to one's self, with the sense of almost sole proprietorship that cannot be enjoyed a few weeks later, when the rest of the outside barbarians have descended upon the town."

If that is the way the townspeople feel about us, it is as well to look up another resort, as none of us desire to dwell in a place where we are not wanted.

If I did not know your agreeable nature and had not pleasant recollections of your hospitality to hundreds of Americans who have visited Digby in the past, I would not have dared to encroach on your valuable space. I have done so and I thank you.

ONE OF DIGBY'S REGULAR SUMMER VISITORS. South End, Aug. 9, 1918.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP Has it ever occurred to the majority that those priceless things—ideals of liberty and justice and right living—can be neither bought nor sold? They are not heirlooms and no parent can hand them down ticketed and tied like government bonds or enclosed, like jewels, in a strong box. They may be "recommended" and even insisted upon but are adopted voluntarily or not at all.

These facts offer food for serious thought on the part of those who are responsible for Canada's future. Whatever ideals it is desirable for the citizens of tomorrow to possess must be instilled into the consciousness of the children of today. The process is the tedious one of "line upon line, precept upon precept, here a little, there a little"—a process at times inspiring but more often than not discouraging. It is a process little realized in the main because its workings are unseen. Not until the generation stands ready for citizenship can it be seen that damage has been done. Only then is one aware of the existence of the harmful influence. Human careers are too precious to be submitted to this exploitation and the most serious duty confronting patriots today is the provision of influences that will produce high standards of living for generations to come.

Had this truth been recognized from any other than a largely theoretical stand point by the men and women of the preceding and the present generation it would not have been possible for the vicious theories promulgated by Frederick the Great (wrongly so called) to be working themselves out today in Prussian atrocities. There can not be too vigorous pushing of baby welfare movements or the establishment and maintenance of supervised playgrounds. By Scout movements, national health boards, carefully considered housing schemes, city planning and every other movement that centres in the cleanest, finest living. An examination into the things in which all were most keenly concerned a decade ago will not result in a list of these things as national interests. Every one of them must be absorbing interests if Prussianism is to be stamped out forever.

GIRLS! WHITEN SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE Make a Beauty Lotion for a Few Cents to Remove Tan, Freckles, Sallowness.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply you with three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Squeeze the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle, then put in the orchard white and shake well. This makes a quarter pint of the very best lemon skin whiter and complexion beautifier known. Massage this fragrant, creamy lotion daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and just see how freckles, tan, sallowness, redness and roughness disappear and how smooth, soft and clear the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless, and the beautiful results will surprise you.

Germans Call Upon Austria for Help. PARIS, Aug. 14—Germany has been compelled to call upon Austria-Hungary for help on the Western front, and Austro-Hungarian troops are arriving there, the Echo De Paris says today. These troops, it adds, are being sent to quiet sectors of the front.

Instead of sending the Vindictive up the Thames for Charity the Navy loaded her with cement, handed her over in turn to Admiral Sir Roger Keyes...

Fall Wheat and Fall Rye

(Experimental Farms Note)

There is yet time to prepare the land for fall sown crops such as wheat or rye. The following suggestions are based on crop and soil experiences at the Dominion Experimental Farms and Stations in the Eastern provinces.

WHEAT—Sow on land either naturally or artificially drained, rich in suitable plant food, worked into a mellow, moderately deep seed-bed and situated in districts where fall sown crops have proved successful.

Soil and Rotation—Any good soil, preferably clay and loams, where judicious crop methods are observed may be used for fall wheat.

Manure—Light dressings of short manure stimulate strong growth and act as protection during winter.

Seed—Sow large, plump, sound seed of strong vitality and free from weed seeds. Use the fanning mill wisely.

Count out a hundred barrels, the run of the grain, sow in some of your own soil in a shallow box placed in a sunny window; and keep at a comfortable living room temperature.

Thoughtful Office Boy.

The office boy looked at the persistent lady with the manuscript who calls six times a week and said: "The editor is still engaged."

"Told him it doesn't matter," she said. "I don't want to marry him."

"I haven't the heart to tell him, Miss," said the boy. He's had several disappointments today."

He Sank the Lusitania.

It is reported from London that the German Admiralty has admitted the death, in September, 1917, of Lieutenant-Commander Schweiger, Captain of the submarine that sank the Lusitania.

"I'M HAVING A WONDERFUL TIME."

Wounded Canadian in No Hurry to Leave Hospital

"For goodness sake keep the Y.M.C.A. going," and "I believe the Peace Bell will be ringing before this year is out," are messages sent to his home, Valleyfield, Que., in a letter by Lance Corp. Thos. Moire, of the 24th Victorian Rifles.

"Fancy a bunch of nice nurses and sisters to wait on you, lying in bed and having your meals brought to you! Why, it's worth while getting wounded, for this is the best part of the war hospital!"

"For goodness sake keep the Y.M.C.A. going," implores Lance Corp. Moir, who in his comfortable hospital quarters does not forget the discomforts of the boys still in the trenches.

"Just think of coming out of the front line after a hard trip, wet, tired and hungry; never having a hot drink for days, to say nothing of a hot meal, and right to the line you find the 'Y' with steaming hot tea and a smoke waiting. I don't know what we would do without them. I think if people really knew what the Y's are doing they would give more."

The writer concludes with the prophecy that the war will end this year. Austria's back is broken, he declares, and Germany cannot spare troops from the Western front to help her ally.

"Dinner time" is the excuse for an abrupt ending to an interesting letter, and the last sentence is the cheerful prediction that "the Peace Bell will be ringing before the year is out."

What Has Been Done

(New York Sun)

With the situation imposed on the Crown Prince's army by the genius of General Foch through the might of allied arms changing hourly, it would manifestly be foolhardy to attempt to predict what the ultimate outcome of the present struggle in the region north of the Soissons-Rheims line will be, but it would be no less foolish to ignore what has been accomplished in the fighting that has already been done, and what, in general, its effect must be.

One thing is plain, and subtlety of the German Staff cannot conceal it; the Crown Prince's army has been licked in every conceivable form of warfare by the French, by the British, by Italians and by Americans. The forces under the heir to the throne have been driven from trenches, driven from their strongholds, driven from natural positions easily adaptable for defence. They have been driven across open country in retreat, and their counter-attacks, skilfully organized and remorselessly pushed, have been broken up, and smashed. They have been outfought and outtricked; their retirement has been altered to a precipitate retreat, and in some hearts the hope begins to unfold that before the end is reached the word rout may properly be on the lips of the Allies.

To avert this rout reinforcements have been sent to the Crown Prince from the Italians front and from Flanders. This fact discloses the far reaching consequences to the triumph General Foch has on. It will not do to say that the German plans on other parts of the line will be affected by the Crown Prince's defeat; they have already been seriously dislocated, if not rendered utterly impracticable. All the labor that went into their preparation has been for nothing.

The Term "Tonnage."

To many persons who are not experienced shipbuilders the various uses of the term "tonnage" in relation to the size of a ship maybe confusing. The following article from the "Pausey and Jones Shipbuilder" explains the terms well and makes a clean distinction between the various ways in which they are used:

There are four kinds of tonnage in use in shipping circles. They are gross tonnage, net registered tonnage, deadweight carrying capacity and displacement.

Deadweight tonnage is what the vessel actually can carry in tons of heavy cargo, plus stores and bunker coal.

Gross tonnage is based on the cubic contents of the hull, with certain arbitrary spaces deducted, and has little bearing on the cargo carrying capacity of the vessel.

Net registered tonnage is gross tonnage, with certain allowances for crew space and machinery space deducted, and has little bearing on the deadweight carrying capacity of the vessel.

Displacement is the total weight of the vessel when full of cargo—that is, the weight of her hull plus her deadweight tonnage.

In round numbers a ship of 9,000 tons deadweight would stand about as follows: Deadweight carrying capacity, 9,000; gross tonnage, 5,000; net registered, 3,000; displacement, 12,000.

Playing Safe

(From the Argonaut)

In the spelling list for a class in a certain Indianapolis school were the words singing and singeing. The class was asked to write sentences using these words to show that they knew the correct meaning of each. One little fellow wrote: "The Italians are a singing nation. The Allies will soon be singeing the beard of the Kaiser." With side glances he watched the teacher mark his paper, and timidly asked: "Is it all right?" "Yes," she said, "but the Kaiser has no beard; he has a moustache." "I know, I know, but I wanted 100 on my paper, and I couldn't spell moustache."

Brazil and the War

It is probably not generally known that Brazil is taking more than a nominal part in the war. Her Navy is patrolling the seas and co-operating with our own war vessels and those of Great Britain in conveying transports, while the 53 German ships that she seized in her harbors are now working against Germany. She is exporting great quantities of food to the Allies, and while as yet she has sent no troops to Europe she is enlarging her army, and it is expected that she will yet despatch some of her soldiers to the front.

German Paper Hits it Right

LONDON, August 12—Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare could neither keep the army of the United States from taking part in the battles on the fields of France, nor break the will of the Allies to continue the war, is the admission made by the Munich Post, a copy of which has been received here. The Post takes exception to the word "unfavorable" in describing the food situation in Germany, and says "chronic famine" would be nearer the truth.

Poultry Diseases Responsible for Big National Loss

At least fifty percent of the chickens, young ducks and turkeys, die each year from diseases, many of which are preventable. This is an annual national loss of probably millions of dollars that should be avoided to a large extent.

War conditions make it imperative that farmers and poultrymen as far as possible should stop this enormous leak. To do this every breeder should pay strict attention to the general conditions of his flock.

When anything unusual is noted in a fowl, it is advisable to place the affected individual in separate quarters. If within a short time recovery does not take place, it is unwise to destroy the fowl without first ascertaining the cause of the disorder.

The prevalence of disease is more often the cause of failure than the lack of practical knowledge and the extreme importance of keeping the quarters clean; isolation of all ailing fowls and immediate action in regard to finding out the cause cannot be too strongly impressed upon the poultryman.

When trouble occurs, forward to the Biological Laboratory, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont., a live but sick fowl, or, in the absence of such, a dead bird. In the interval disinfect the quarters, runs, drinking fountains and feed dishes to check the spread of any infectious disease.

Disinfect the poultry houses by spraying the interior with a lime-wash solution (50 lbs. stone lime slaked in a barrel of water plus one gallon of a good commercial disinfectant). Fill cracks and crevices to destroy mites, lice, etc. If a smaller amount is required it may be prepared by adding two and half pounds of lime to a pail of water plus half a teacupful of disinfectant.

Keep a crop growing in some part of the yards and alternate poultry and crops. If the runs are small cover with a coating of air-slaked lime and dig up. If the runs are too large to dig up, plough and cultivate before sowing. Rape is a good crop for this purpose. Rear all chicks on fresh soil.

Although these precautions may appear unnecessary it is the only way of combatting many disease conditions affecting poultry, which if left to themselves will undoubtedly prove decidedly costly in the long run.

To Recruit Men for Siberia

A Canadian Expeditionary Force Contingent well mobilize at an early date for service in Siberia. It will include, with other units, an infantry battalion, to which Military District No. 6, will contribute one company. It is the intention to raise the men required by voluntary enlistment. Returned soldiers, physically fit and others not at present liable under the Military Service Act, are to be given the first opportunity to enroll; later the opportunity may be extended to draftees. The officers for this unit will be chosen from those who have been active service at the front.

GILLETTS LYE

KEEP FIT

Keeping one's self fit to help win the war is a part of personal duty that wise people will not overlook. Going stale on the job does not make for the best result. To give up all thought of vacation may be very unwise. Exhausted bodies, brains and nerves need refreshment in order that proper work may be done. The Government looks out that its fighting men are kept in proper physical condition. Volunteer war workers must be no less watchful of themselves.

High Cost of Dying

Fredericton Gleaner: The high cost of dying is going up as the high cost of living, according to the statement of an undertaker. Coffins, horse hire, flowers and other things that enter into funerals have been steadily advancing for some time, and now the rate for opening a grave at one cemetery has jumped from $3 to $5. One Sheffield man, who had considerable forethought, not long ago had his own coffin made, and it now rests in the attic of his house covered with newspapers and canvas.

"That is the time I beat you undertakers to it," he said recently to an undertaker in this city.

Plenty of War Ahead

(From the Philadelphia Press) The uncompromising aspect which the war has assumed is perhaps its grimest feature. With its back to the wall, with its strength unbroken, fighting indeed for its very existence, militarism will not be easy to defeat. Long, bloody, costly, soul-shaking sacrifices are before us. If Foch's brilliantly successful offensive truly marks the turning of the tide, marks the passing of the initiative from the enemy to us, it is yet a mere beginning of the end. Germany in defense is not likely to prove a less formidable antagonist than Germany in attack. Not to fall into the error of overconfidence, not to abate our preparations, not to falter in our determination and not to deviate from the straight, sharp line of our war aims is the moral which the fourth anniversary of the war makes plain to us.
