SWAN FLIES FROM ROCKWOOD TO A NORTH END POND The swans in Rockwood Park are becoming restive with the approach of winter. This morning one was discovered swimming about in the mill pond at the foot of Victoria street, North End.

On her own statement that she is sixteen years of age, the girl was given a hearing in the juvenile court, and, as is always the case in the juvenile court, the proceedings were conducted with the strictest privacy, no one being admitted to the counsel's library, where the session was held, except the presiding judge, counsel and police.

MRS. PANKHURST CAPTURED TORONTO; MANY CONVERTED

Sutragettes' Made Great Impression—Their Methods Explained—At Massey Hall and Canadian Club Many Hundreds of People Assembled to Hear Her

(Toronto Mail and Empire). There are at least five thousand people in Toronto, prominent in all walks of life who are convinced that women should be allowed to vote. Many of these people were absolutely opposed to woman suffrage prior to Saturday and yesterday, but after hearing Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader of Arc, at the Canadian Club at noon on Saturday and in Massey Hall on Saturday evening, they were forced to admit that she had placed the question before them in such a logical and convincing manner that it is now forced to believe that the cause for which she is working should be recognized and that it eventually will be their duty to support it.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst

Seldom has a man made such a profound impression on his hearers as did Mrs. Pankhurst. Her arguments are so convincing and logical, so full of weight and wisdom, so pathetic when she referred to her own personal case, that tears appeared in the eyes of many of her hearers. Mrs. Pankhurst is such a winsome and lovely woman that her personality attracts one unconsciously, and many of her converts expressed the wonder that she could be so ill-treated as she had been when confined in prison in England for leading the women in the campaign which has now been going on for three years ago.

When Mrs. Pankhurst rose to speak the immense gathering of men rose simultaneously and the women was applauded again and again. She felt a very great responsibility, she said, and as the chosen spokeswoman for the women engaged in the movement she must make it quite clear where they stood. She was a business woman, she said, and was glad she was speaking to business men. The very fact that the Canadian Club allowed her to address its members was good business for the women both in England and Canada.

GENUINE MINK BEAUTIFUL BUT COSTLY Many imitations of mink are offered in very attractive guise, but the real mink has a deep color and a silky texture that no imitation can equal. Silk and ribbon trimmings add a dainty touch to this season's neckpieces of fur and the mink scarf has a border of very soft brown satin ribbon, arranged in loops along the inner edge. With this mink set is worn a brown fur hat with ostrich feathers in the same shade.

THE THREE KEYS BY FREDERICK ORMOND.

Lathrop turned to the door through which Millington had made his retreat, and called out: "Jack!"

"There was no reply, and he waited for a moment, then called again. Still receiving no answer, he went through the rooms in search, only to find that his guest had disappeared. The fact first astonished him, then troubled him, then pleased him. It was certain that Millington had gone out; there was, therefore, the possibility that he had left the vital words of Trevor's conversation had been spoken. Lathrop returned to the parlor of his suite, and waited the coming of his friend in a fever of anxiety. Ten minutes later, the bell sounded again, and he opened the door to his guest.

"Missed me, did you?" Millington asked, with a smile, as he entered the room, and deposited his bulk in a convenient chair. "Well, I want to stretch my legs a bit, you know; they were aching with cramps from the sleeper. So, I hunted up a golf-cop of yours out there, let myself out by the other door, and took a stroll around the block. I fancied, too, that the old man might have something private to discuss with you, and if I'd stayed, I'd have had to hear, which wouldn't have been fair."

"Lathrop regarded his friend stanchly, but he made no further reference at this time to the subject uppermost in his thoughts. He derived much comfort from the fact that his guest's manner was as bluff and hearty as ever.

"Jack," he said at last, "there is something I want to say to you, or rather, something I ought to say to you. I do not think that there ever will be a better time than now."

"What is it about?" Business? Millington lazily took his cigar from his mouth, and blew a cloud of smoke into the air.

"Well, I don't want to hear it," was the curt announcement. "Won't hear it, in fact."

"But it is important!" Lathrop urged. "Nothing is more important at this time of night. I'm tired of business, and I don't want to hear it for anything. Besides, there is something not business that I wish to talk about."

"Lathrop, despite his firmness of purpose, experienced a thrill of relief. Nevertheless, he made one further effort toward confession.

"It's about the matter that Trevor and I referred to while I supposed you were in the next room," he said.

"What is it?" Millington asked. "I don't think it's worth your while to talk about it."

"My engagement with Clara Trevor is at an end," Lathrop explained. "I should not ask Clara Trevor to marry me."

"Look here, Morris," he said. "Are you going to ask Miss Ortega to marry you?"

"I have already done so," was the quiet answer. Millington regarded his host with such disapproval.

"You didn't lose any time, did you?" he remarked, and his voice was bitterly sarcastic. He got up from his chair, and crossed the room to the fireplace where he stood for several moments, silently regarding the glowing coals. Then he returned and calmly resumed his seat.

"When is it coming off?" he asked.

"She has refused me," Morris answered. "Refused you?" Millington bounded to his feet again, and crossed to the grate once more. Here he turned his back to the fire and stood with his feet wide apart and his hands behind him. When, finally, he broke the silence, his voice was graver than its wont.

"Old man," he said almost plaintively, "I am going to be downright serious for once. Tell me: is there any reason why I should not ask Clara Ortega to marry me?"

"None," was the ready answer.

"She is, somehow, in your care, isn't she?" Millington continued, curiously.

"Yes," Lathrop replied. "She is really although not legally, my ward. She is a trust that came to me through a peculiar chain of circumstances, which I am not free to explain."

"I do not ask for any explanation," was the prompt retort. "You have told me enough. The fact is, as you must have guessed, that I fell head over head in love with her, at first sight. Why, I've hardly dom anything since I went to Chicago but think of her. I made things much here, just in order that I might get back here, and ask you to complete that sentence for me. And, now that I've heard it, it is of no importance whatever. What I wish to know is this: Have I your permission to pay my court to her?"

"Jack," Lathrop made reply, speaking with impressive emphasis, "there is a man whom I would rather see her husband than you—"

"He hesitated for a moment, and his eyes fell before the averted gaze of his friend.

"Except yourself!" Millington cried; and there was bitterness in his voice.

"Leave me out of this question, please," Lathrop rejoined. "There is not a man in whose hands I would so willingly place her future. I do not wish anybody could make a more earnest effort for her happiness, and if you can win her, I shall be the first to say, God bless you both. But you must do in order to place the million dollars he had promised at the disposal of the broker, and for himself, he stated that he would keep close indoors all day."

"Is that why she refused you?" Lathrop hesitated for a little, but finally, he answered firmly: "Yes, literally, that is why she refused me."

"Well, Millington declared, 'I won't give up until I'm beaten. You have no objection to my calling upon her?'"

"No," Lathrop said. "But she went away this morning, without telling me where she was going. She will notify me when she returns, and I shall let you know at once. That is all I can promise."

CHAPTER XX.

The following morning Jack Millington made arrangements for Lathrop to complete the matter of his being let into the copper deal with Trevor; instructed him what he was to do in order to place the million dollars he had promised at the disposal of the broker, and for himself, he stated that he would keep close indoors all day.

"You see," he explained, "it won't do for Cummings and that crowd to know that I am back just yet. Besides I want to rest, and incidentally, to do a little plotting of my own. There are plenty of books to read here. I shouldn't be loose."

"But Lathrop had been gone less than half-an-hour, when Millington rang and ordered a cab. As soon as it came, he entered it, drew the curtains, and directed the driver to take him to the Westmoreland Safety Deposit vaults. There, he entered hurriedly, nodded to the superintendent, passed through the massive doorway, and went straight to the vaults which he had leased Trevor.

"Lucky thing the governor left two keys with me," he murmured. "I'll find out about this thing at once."

"He spent nearly half-an-hour in his investigations, then closed and locked the vault again, and started out, carrying a bundle of documents under his arm.

The superintendent stopped him as he was passing.

"Ah, Mr. Millington," he said. "Mr. Lathrop was here one day while you were here. He gave me a letter for you."

"Well, what of it?" came the brusque query.

"I merely wanted your assurance that it was all right, sir."

"Certainly it was all right," Millington retorted testily. "What the devil would give him the letter for it if it were not all right? By the way, where is that letter?"

"On my file, sir."

"Well, let me have it. I want to preserve it with some other papers."

CANNIBAL SOLDIERS IN CONGO DISTRICT

New York, Nov. 23.—There is no possible doubt that King Leopold is responsible for the terrible conditions in the Congo. His own commission corroborated the stories of atrocities. The Congo now is all under Leopold, for although divided up and apportioned among different companies Leopold retains more than 50 per cent of the stock of each. One of these is an American company.

Dr. William H. Leslie, accompanied by his wife and two-year-old son, made this statement today on returning to this country after spending seventeen years in the Congo as a representative of the American Baptist Missionary Society. For the last four years he had been stationed in Portuguese Congo.

"When a district proves refractory," he continued, "hands of native soldiers are sent to punish it. These soldiers are cannibals and they slay and spare no one. As proof that they have done their work and not wasted their bullets, they bring back the right hands of their victims. Sometimes they come in with huge baskets full of hands. The bodies of their victims are cooked and eaten."

intelligent enough to vote themselves, but they are required to teach others how to vote. In an editorial relating to Mrs. Pankhurst the World says: "Now that Mrs. Pankhurst has come and gone it is to be regretted that many who were only prevented by an ingrained prejudice did not hear her. It would at least have had the effect of raising the discussion of the woman's suffrage question to a level of reasonable debate, instead of the mere denunciation into which their opposition usually degenerates. Mrs. Pankhurst is above all things reasonable. The trouble is, as was said of another able argument, she is too (emphatically) reasonable. When a man is taken at the game of reason he resorts, if his opponent is uncontrollable, to oaths and force. Mrs. Pankhurst is at liberty just now pending the decision of the higher courts upon a test case, the result of which will settle whether women have the right of personal appeal to the sovereign or to the prime minister as chief of his accredited representative advisers. The women claim that under Magna Charta and the Bill of Rights all the privileges secured to men were equally secured to women. For pasting an extract from the Bill of Rights on the wall of the house of commons the woman who started the hunger-strike was sent to prison with hard labor as a common criminal.

Referring to the long struggle, modestly for recognition, and for what they deemed to be their rights, the World continues: "The appeal to reason, continued for years, made no impression on politicians saturated with prejudice. Some other argument which they could not ignore had to be found. It was discovered that no body of the people outside the constitution had ever been able to obtain constitutional rights by constitutional means. There was nothing for it, as Mrs. Pankhurst declares, but to adapt former masculine methods to feminine conditions. They have not taken human life as men did in 1832 or practised any of the brutalities common then. It may be argued that the premise with which the women start is wrong, and that they do not need votes. But Mrs. Pankhurst's enumeration of a few of the disabilities under which women labor, the removal of which it is quite hopeless to expect men to bring about, is sufficient to meet this objection. Men will not waste time in politics on persons who have no votes. Mrs. Pankhurst may not hope to overcome prejudice, although her graceful demeanor, her refined deportment, her charming speech should go far to break down the opposition of conservative instinct. Those who are amenable to reason only need to hear her case."

It is safe to say that Mrs. Pankhurst's visit to Canada has greatly advanced the cause of woman suffrage in this country.

Mr. Bradbury, M. P., undertook to convince parliament yesterday that the lands of certain Indians in Manitoba had been filched from them for the benefit of friends of the federal government. Hon. Mr. Oliver pointed out that the Indians desired to sell the lands; that these were duly advertised; that they are within 125 miles of Winnipeg, and that they were sold to the highest bidder. The Manitoba member subsided.

Mr. A. O. Skinner has shown himself to possess capacity, tact and industry as president of the Exhibition Association, and his colleagues have shown their appreciation by re-electing him to that office for the Dominion Fair of 1910. It is now necessary to secure the services of an able and experienced manager. This fair should be a great advertisement for the city and province.

Another American missionary, returning from the Congo, declares that King Leopold of Belgium is responsible for the terrible conditions existing among the natives of that country, who are treated as slaves and made the victims of horrible atrocities. The civilized world cannot much longer endure the shame of the Congo.

The world shudders to read the news that comes today from the Cherry mine, of the finding of over a hundred bodies lying in a tangled mass where death overtook them in their wild attempt to reach a place of safety. This terrible disaster has brought sorrow and misery into hundreds of homes, and a thrill of horror to the reading world everywhere.

LEMIEUX AT ANNUAL DINNER OF KENTISH MEN

Montreal, Nov. 23.—The Canadian Associated Press London correspondent relates: At the annual dinner of the Kentish men, Mr. Lemieux was the principal speaker. He said so far as Canada was concerned the work of consolidating the empire had been furthered in 1909. He himself, was still engaged in an effort to obtain cheaper telegraphic rates. Interviewed, Mr. Lemieux said Canada was enthusiastic for the "All Red" route. No sane man in Canada now thought Canada's destiny was incorporation with the United States. "We are and intend to remain a nation within the empire," he declared.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT

The Budget Debate in House of Lords—Irish Members Denounce Upper House and Birrel

London, Nov. 23.—Interest in the budget debate in the House of Lords today was well sustained. The house and galleries again were crowded and many peruses were present. The Duke of Connaught sat beside Lord Rosebery. The debate, which was not concluded until midnight, did not reach any great oratorical heights and was principally remarkable as showing the likelihood of a number of free trade interests declining to support Lord Lansdowne's motion, although opposing the budget on general lines. These peers will abstain from voting. Among them is Lord Lytton, who announced his intention of voting this course because there was no proof that the country opposed the budget.

The debate generally followed party lines, being a reiteration of the arguments for and against the bill. Lord Pentland, secretary for Scotland, gave another indication of the government's policy. He stated that the House of Commons could not be expected to find a way out of the difficulty created by the retention of the budget. This statement created the greatest interest in the lobby of the House of Commons, where it had been supposed the government might give way to the lords in these matters of adopting temporary financial measures to meet the situation arising out of the retention of the bill. Many Liberal members of parliament had, in fact, expressed their determination to oppose any bill authorizing the continuance of existing taxation until after the dissolution of parliament.

Lord Pentland further declared that the government had done better with the oil state of things and that the constitution and character of the House of Lords must be modified. He also reminded the house of the long constitutional struggle which handicapped the country in case of war, and asked the lords to consider whether the penalty might not be disproportionate to the offence. Earl Russell predicted that the adoption of the Lansdowne resolution would mean a revolution that would sooner or later bring a readjustment that would leave the House of Lords powerless. Lord Avesbury strongly criticized the budget. He declared that it would frighten capital out of the country, cripple enterprise and create a feeling of insecurity. The House of Commons was occupied this evening with the discussion of the compromise reached with the House of Lords over the Irish land bill. John E. Redmond, John Dillon and other Nationalists hotly denounced the lords and Mr. Birrel, chief secretary for Ireland, for consenting to a compromise and threatening the government with reprisals. In spite of the opposition the Irish land bill amendments were carried in a division lobby.

MORNING NEWS

OVER THE WIRES At a meeting of the town council at Newcastle on Monday night, bills were submitted for more than $400 for expenses in connection with the election campaign. The financial committee refused to certify bills of $145.70 to R. L. Moultrie for furnishing $100 to J. J. Durkin, the candidate, and $45.70 to A. E. Shaw, for drugs. It was claimed the charge of $3.20 a gallon for formaldehyde was too much, but was accepted by Montreal for $1.50. The bills were referred back for further investigation.

In the Victoria county court in Perth yesterday Judge Carleton presiding, the grand jury found true bills against Antonio Spinnali, charged with attempting to kill Signor Robert Faine, a waiter, and Charles Crondelmir, charged with perjury. In the case against Spinnali, J. B. Foster told of a street fight in which he testified as to Signor Faine's wounds. Signor Spinnali demanded money from him and then shot him. Boston was visited by a heavy snow storm last night and traffic was somewhat interfered with. Bond St. Cable, president of the borough of Brooklyn, is charged with mismanagement and neglect of duty by the commissioners of accounts, and Mayor McClellan is looking into the matter. At the investigation being held in Quebec, into the accident to the steamer Empress of the North, a waiter, and Edward W. Brain, a steward on the steamer, testified to seeing a big piece of timber alongside the ship immediately after the collision. What looked like a submerged wreck was also seen at some distance. Jules LePage, a foreman for the company that made repairs, said that from the nature of the damage a submerged wreck must have been struck. The inquiry was adjourned sine die. Mail received from Col. J. J. Astor and party, posted on Nov. 17 at San Juan, Porto Rico, indicates that the yellowing epidemic is still rampant.

Charles Counsel, of Ottawa, employed in the engineering department of the National Transcontinental Railway, shot and killed himself yesterday. He was twenty-two years old and had been ill for some time. Mrs. William Walter Jefferson, who sings in comic opera under the name of Christie MacDonald, has begun an action for divorce. Her husband is a son of the late Joe Jefferson. Incompatibility is the plea. Mrs. Jefferson belongs to Picton, N. S. It is probable that a conference of representatives of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain, will be held soon after the present session, to make arrangements for the consummation of the all-red route project.

NEWS NOTES FROM

ACROSS THE BORDER Franklin, Ga., Nov. 23.—Because he had been punished for some minor offense by his grandfather, W. S. Carrington, a notable public, Will Carrington, 17 years old, home near here last night. The boy fled but was captured and placed in jail.

New York, Nov. 23.—Five persons were burned to death in a tenement house fire in Brooklyn early this morning (Wednesday). The building, located at Herkimer street and Havens Place, was occupied by eleven Italian families. Beside the dead, eight Italians were seriously burned and were taken to nearby hospitals.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—Five miles of the Panama Canal have been opened to navigation, from the point in the Bay of Panama to the wharves at Balboa. Steamships plying between San Francisco and Panama, the coast ports of South America and Panama are using this part of the canal daily.

New York, Nov. 23.—A quiet wedding at the Hotel Ansonia today united two American fortunes estimated at $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 respectively. The bride is Miss Wm. Hayes Chapman, whom many of the nation's foreign noblemen sought in vain to wed, and the bridegroom is Philip van Valkenburg of this city, a descendant of an old Dutch family, whose personal fortune is estimated at $20,000,000.

CLEAR THE FILTERS!

Your Health Depends On It.

In its course around the body the blood is continually gathering up waste matter worn out tissue and other impurities. Then it flows through the kidneys, which should filter out all this poison. But sometimes the kidneys get sluggish and clogged up with waste matter, and fail to do their work properly. Then the trouble begins instead of leaving the kidneys pure and healthy. The blood becomes full of uric acid, which it carries to every part of the body. Settling in joints and tissues, it causes rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, gout, and other ailments. The natural course then is to clear the filters. One tablet three times a day, with a glass of cold water, will bring relief in a very short time. Joints will limber up, the blood will be purified, and the rheumatism cured. Get your druggist's, or from Father Moricay Medicine Co., Chatham, N. B.

H. G. MARR BUYS CORNER BUILDING

One of the most important real estate deals consummated in this city for a long time, was concluded last week when H. G. Marr of the Marr Millinery Company purchased from the Horton estate the three story brick building at the corner of Union and Charlotte streets, now occupied by F. W. Daniel & Co., and known as the London House retail. The Marr Company expect to occupy their new premises about May 1 next. It is understood the purchase price was in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Although the deal was closed at the time stated, the ultimate ownership of the property was, however, it is said, in question for some time. For some years the Marr Millinery Company was on the lookout for larger premises for the better display of their goods. Mr. Marr, it is said, offered J. A. Lohry, the owner of the store he is now leaving, $40,000 for his corner lot. This offer was turned down. In addition to the Horton property, Mr. Marr was also considering the purchase of the Second property at the head of King street, now occupied by E. G. Nelson as either stand warehouse. It has been a very desirable one for his business. Merchants consider the property finally secured by Mr. Marr. It is not the best, on Charlotte street, best, if not the best, on Charlotte street.

CHURCHES AND CHURCH MATTERS

At the meeting of the N. B. Sunday School Association held yesterday, a special budget committee, consisting of S. H. White, of Sussex; E. R. Machum and Robert Reid, was appointed. They will cooperate in drawing up a budget for next year.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the evangelistic campaign committee yesterday, but, as it was thought that the laymen should be represented, the meeting was postponed until 8:30 p. m. on Sunday.

There was a large number at the convocations of the C. of E. institute last night in Trinity church. Rev. E. B. Hooper presided, and a short musical programme was carried out. Refreshments were served.

Another session of the Y. P. A. of the Methodist churches was held last night at the residence of Mrs. E. L. Farewell, presided over by Rev. T. L. Farewell. Papers were read by Rev. E. R. Machum, Rev. S. W. Anthony and Rev. E. L. Farewell.

The members of St. Andrew's Society will meet in their rooms, Oddfellows Hall, Union street, next Sunday to discuss the work of the church.

The girls' association of St. John (stone) church held a successful tea, and sale of fancy articles in the vestry last evening. There was a large attendance. The tea will be continued this evening from 6 to 6 o'clock. The entertainment is to secure funds to paint the interior of the church.

The observance last evening in connection with the anniversary celebration at St. Luke's church were very interesting. The history of the parish and the various pastors, curates and lay readers who have been connected with the church was related by the children of the parish, while by the use of a reflectoscope the pictures of the men and women prominent in the life and work of the church were also shown. A feature of the evening was a tableaux illustrative of camp life by the members of the St. Luke's Cadet Corps.

WHEN THE KIDNEYS GIVE OUT

Backache, Rheumatism and Bladder Troubles Make Life Miserable. Do you ever feel that you simply can't go any further—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back—relief from that constant dead-tired feeling—freedom from those stabbing, darting pains?

This is the condition that so often comes at middle age, bringing with it an extreme nervousness and irritability that makes other things, "cranky" and "hard to get along with." Likely your kidneys are worn and tired and need help. In any machine there is one part that works the hardest and gives out first. The kidneys work night and day, removing from the blood the uric acid and other waste created by overuse of strength and energy. Naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys, and in time the strain tells. With healthy kidneys, one has a good chance to live long, but weak kidneys afflict old age with great discomfort. The back becomes bent and lame, rheumatism is chronic, weight falls, and too frequent or involuntary passages of the urine cause embarrassment by day and loss of sleep at night. Booth's Kidney Pills bring new strength to old backs, and they banish backache and

UPPER CANADA HAS BIG STORM AGAIN

The McLaughlin Wife Murder Case—Anxiety For Bishop Stringer

Toronto, Nov. 23.—An inch and a half of rain, and a sudden lowering of the temperature, also freezing on the telegraph and telephone poles and dragging them down, caused a partial tie-up of wire service from Toronto today, causing a loss of from $25,000 up.

With three miles of telephone poles down and lying across the rails east of Havelock, that part of the Canadian Pacific railway is completely tied up and the first train from Montreal did not arrive until late this afternoon.

Dr. Ellis, provincial analyst, examined the stomach of Mrs. McLaughlin, who, with her two children, was found dead in a meeting of their bureau residence at Uxbridge, and says there was enough strychnine in the woman's stomach to kill her. Dr. Shier said all three deaths were caused by suffocation. Archie McLaughlin, head of the family, is under arrest, and was arraigned in court today but refused to plead.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—A message from White Horse says Bishop Stringer is missing. The last steamer from the lower river reached Dawson some weeks ago, bringing no word of Bishop J. O. Stringer and the reverend gentlemen's friends are somewhat alarmed.

With competent guides, Bishop Stringer left via the Edmonton trail last June for mission posts in the north, Fort McPherson and Herschel Island, the latter in the Arctic Sea. It was his intention, after visiting these stations, to return to the lower Yukon river and come on to Carcross, where his wife and children were to join him, they having remained with relatives at Kinardine (Ont.) while he was on his northern journey.

PROPOSE NEW WHARF AT THE EAST SIDE

At a meeting of the civic harbor board held yesterday, Ald. McGoldrick and E. K. Engineer Murdoch and the harbor master were appointed to view a site at the end of Reed's wharf where it is proposed to erect a new wharf. They will report back to a meeting on Tuesday next. If built, the new wharf will be of a size to accommodate one large and one small steamer, and will be used by the Eastern S. S. Co.

It was decided to call for tenders for repairs for the D. A. R. warehouse. F. T. Williams offered to repair it at a cost of 11,000, provided he was given the use of the wharf for two years free of rent.

THREE BIOGRAPHS AT THE NICKEL TODAY
It was hard to believe the weather out of the worst kind when patrons of the Nickel edged their way into the crowded theatre last evening, so great was the crush. Everybody was pleased to the limit with the show which certainly was a specially good one, but not any better than that offered for today and tomorrow. For instance, today will include no less than three fine Biograph features: A Midnight Adventure; Sweet Revenge, and Saved by Wireless, a comedy, a drama, and a melodrama. These will make a big hit. From the standpoint of scenic wealth and realism, however, the Selig masterpiece, The Fishermen's Bride, is certain to cause a lot of comment. In this picture some of the finest fishing scenes and exciting steamboat racing ever shown in the world. The doors of these houses are so small that the occupant has to wiggle through them. Access is gained only by means of a ladder, which is removed after the young men have gone to bed. In some of the tribes actors are scattered about the ground at the foot of the rock. The places of the bachelors in order that the telltale footprints of the guilty man can be discovered if he should take a nocturnal ramble. 1915.

STAY HOME AT NIGHT
Young men of Eastern Uganda are not allowed to keep late hours and they are expected to be home at a certain time each night. Their morals are carefully guarded by the older men of the tribes and the young men have no chance to get out at night. The people of this peculiar country are called Bakedi. The bachelors are especially watched at night. All the boys and unmarried young men are made to sleep in small, specially constructed huts, raised high from the ground on posts. The doors of these houses are so small that the occupant has to wiggle through them. Access is gained only by means of a ladder, which is removed after the young men have gone to bed. In some of the tribes actors are scattered about the ground at the foot of the rock. The places of the bachelors in order that the telltale footprints of the guilty man can be discovered if he should take a nocturnal ramble. 1915.

WHITESHORSE COPPER BELT, YUKON
Report on the Whitehorse Copper Belt, Yukon, by R. G. McConnell, (No. 1020). Published October, 1909, by the Geological Survey, Department of Mines, Ottawa. Pp. 63, 4 illustrations, 8 maps.
Discoveries of copper were made in the Whitehorse district of the Yukon in 1897—during the early Klondike rush; but the first claims were not staked until the following year, and development work was not commenced until 1899. Work of a preliminary character was carried on for several seasons. In 1906 the rising price of copper revived interest in the camp, and considerable exploratory work was undertaken. In 1907 R. G. McConnell made an investigation of the geology and mineral resources of the district, and the report before us gives the result of his investigations. The principal economic minerals in the Whitehorse Copper Belt are iron, copper, silver and gold—the two latter being found in some quantity in all the ores; while galena, zinc, antimony, molybdenum, and arsenic occur in smaller quantities. The chief mines and prospects are described in considerable detail. Admirable views of Whitehorse and Miles Canon are given, together with a large map showing the general geological and topographical features of the district, and seven small maps indicating the geological relationship and extent of the principal ore lodes so far discovered.

A live rabbit in a wooden box was picked up in the gulf of Mexico, 400 miles from land. Shipping marks on the box showed it to have been shipped in October from some point in Pennsylvania for Liverpool. It is thought the rabbit traveled in the sea about 2000 miles.

THOSE WHO WILL TAKE PART IN ROANOKE PRODUCTION

Roanoke, the beautiful five act comedy drama, will be presented at the Opera House Thursday and Friday night of next week, Dec. 2 and 3, by T. H. Bird and St. John amateurs, with all the St. John favorites in the cast, including Frank Stanton, who will be remembered for his delightful work as Jethro Baxter in Captive, and Uncle Dave in The Sailor's Sweetheart. Mr. Stanton will have one of the leading roles in Roanoke. Five big European specialties between the acts by 50 St. John young people will be a feature of the performance. Roanoke is a beautiful story of the south, containing all the elements of heart interest, strong action points and good comedy. Launch and every member of the cast has a good part.

The following will take part in the performance: Misses Carrie Baile, Fannie Baird, Bessie Irvine, Fannie Day, Jennie Tutts, Marion Campbell, Mitchell McQueen, Lillian Dodge, Jennie Roden, Jessie Holder, Ethel Toole, Lyla Gregory, Ida Kearney, Mildred Foster, Fannie May, Olla Harding, Belle Thurston, Jean Campbell, Nan Ashers, Madames Dr. Frank Godsoe and C. F. Macneil. Theodore H. Bird, Frank Stanton, Goldsmith, Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Bird, Harry Crowell, Kenneth Bonnell, R. G. Anderson, Ned Bonnell, John Sears, Fred Girvan, Russell Courtright, Clarence Brewster, Edward Noble, W. G. Campbell, Donald Kerr, Frank Corb, Harry Dixon, Harold McLehlan, Harry DeMille, Albert Goodhard, Harry Patterson and Everett Hunt.

CATHEDRAL TEA, AND TEMPLE OF HONOR FAIR
Notwithstanding the stormy weather last night there was another large attendance at the cathedral high tea and at the Keith's assembly rooms. About 400 people had supper in the spacious ball room where the St. Joseph's Y. M. C. A. orchestra rendered a choice programme of airs during the evening. The booths and games were well patronized, and the fortunate telling booth of Madame Conovitch being the centre of attraction.

In the bean board contest Frank Lynch succeeded in winning on No. 1, securing a silver plated cracker jar and D. Connolly won the jardiner on No. 2 with a score of 63. In the voting contest for the most popular lady on the high tea committee the five leaders are: Mrs. J. V. Holland, 199; Miss H. Kennedy, 107; Mrs. Coll, 93; Miss M. O'Connell and Mrs. Harty, 83 and Mrs. P. Dolan, 25. The City Cornet Band will be in attendance tonight and a record breaking attendance is looked for. The fair will practically close tomorrow night, but Friday afternoon has been reserved for the children.

The Temple Fair last evening at the Cathedral High Tea, Main Street, was well attended. All of the booths and amusements were freely patronized, and judging from last night's business, the committees in charge will be amply rewarded for their efforts. All those connected with the fair are working energetically to make the fair surpass the previous ones, and they are receiving much encouragement from the public. A good programme is being arranged for the closing night.

LAST EVENING'S prize winners were as follows: Bowling game, Edmund Barry, prize pearl handle pocket knife; bean board, My Sutherland, prize box of ovals; ping pong game, Barret Francis, prize necktie; lucky ticket holder at door, Beverly Appleby, ticket No. 1187. The ticket which won Monday evening was No. 686. The person holding it has not yet called for the prize.

THREE BIOGRAPHS AT THE NICKEL TODAY
It was hard to believe the weather out of the worst kind when patrons of the Nickel edged their way into the crowded theatre last evening, so great was the crush. Everybody was pleased to the limit with the show which certainly was a specially good one, but not any better than that offered for today and tomorrow. For instance, today will include no less than three fine Biograph features: A Midnight Adventure; Sweet Revenge, and Saved by Wireless, a comedy, a drama, and a melodrama. These will make a big hit. From the standpoint of scenic wealth and realism, however, the Selig masterpiece, The Fishermen's Bride, is certain to cause a lot of comment. In this picture some of the finest fishing scenes and exciting steamboat racing ever shown in the world. The doors of these houses are so small that the occupant has to wiggle through them. Access is gained only by means of a ladder, which is removed after the young men have gone to bed. In some of the tribes actors are scattered about the ground at the foot of the rock. The places of the bachelors in order that the telltale footprints of the guilty man can be discovered if he should take a nocturnal ramble. 1915.

STAY HOME AT NIGHT
Young men of Eastern Uganda are not allowed to keep late hours and they are expected to be home at a certain time each night. Their morals are carefully guarded by the older men of the tribes and the young men have no chance to get out at night. The people of this peculiar country are called Bakedi. The bachelors are especially watched at night. All the boys and unmarried young men are made to sleep in small, specially constructed huts, raised high from the ground on posts. The doors of these houses are so small that the occupant has to wiggle through them. Access is gained only by means of a ladder, which is removed after the young men have gone to bed. In some of the tribes actors are scattered about the ground at the foot of the rock. The places of the bachelors in order that the telltale footprints of the guilty man can be discovered if he should take a nocturnal ramble. 1915.

YOUNG MAN KILLED IN MILL TODAY

Frank Poley Caught in Machinery in Mispic Pulp Works and Dies Few Minutes Later

A shocking accident occurred at Mispic this morning by which Frank Poley, of Mispic, aged 16, and one of the most popular employes in the pulp mill, lost his life.

The young fellow was employed as a machinist, and while working around the main shaft, became caught in the gear, and before any attempt could be made at rescue, his clothes were ripped from his body, his arm torn off and his body badly mutilated. The members of the office staff, twenty feet distant from the scene of the accident, were horrified to see pieces of bone flying through the air and lighting on the ground outside.

The accident occurred at 9 o'clock, and at 9:30 the boy had passed away, being unconscious in the meantime in the dead lad's father, who is almost heart-broken, while his mother is inconsolable. Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poley, the boy is survived by a younger brother, La Monte, who is attending school.

Deep sympathy is felt for the bereaved family, not only in Mispic, but also in the city, where they have many friends. Young Frank was always a jolly, good-natured boy and was a special favorite in the village.

As soon as it became known that the accident had happened, the mill was stopped, and when the shaft had fallen free from it, and the efforts of Dr. Baxter and Dr. Levin, who were hastily summoned, were in vain.

Coroner D. E. Berryman has been notified and will probably view the body this afternoon.

LOCAL NEWS

John E. Kelley has been reported by the police for allowing a cow to run at large in Main street on Sunday last.

The steamer Belle of Spain arrived at Prince Rupert, (B. C.) Saturday with a cargo of rails from Sydney, (C. B.) for the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Boston steamer Governor Cobb arrived last night at 11:30 o'clock and landed twenty-three passengers. She was detained by the storm along the coast yesterday.

Donaldson line steamer Salacia will go to her berth at the new city wharf this afternoon. The Salacia brought out two passengers from Glasgow for Fredericton.

A large box, containing several articles of ladies' apparel, was found this morning in Mill street, and left in the Central police station by Jacob Gordon.

The Elder-Dempster line steamship Borna, Captain Dutton, sailed today for Havana and Mexican ports with a general cargo. She has a large freight of potatoes fish, etc., from here.

Furres line steamship Rappahannock arrived last midnight from London via Halifax and is now berthed at the I. C. R. wharf. She has among her general cargo 4,400 chests of tea.

If the finder of a gold brooch, lost yesterday either in Union or Charlotte streets, would return it to Miss Hastings, King street east, daughter of Sergeant Hastings, a great favor would be conferred as the brooch is highly valued.

St. Luke's celebration reaches tonight what promises to be one of the most interesting events of the programme. Addresses are to be made by all the members of the laymen's missionary committee.

It is expected all the steamship berths at Sand Point will be in readiness tomorrow. Dredges have been at work at Nos. 5 and 6, cleaning them up to the required depth. Work at No. 6 was completed yesterday and No. 5, it is expected, will be ready tomorrow.

The "bowling fever" has certainly developed into an epidemic. The air is rent with challenges. The latest is that of the market clerks who wish to try conclusions with the bachelor aspirants of the employ of Waterbury & Rising. The date can be arranged through the press. The scene of conflict will be the Victoria Bowling Academy.

LOST SAILS AND PART OF DECKLOAD

Schooner Lizzie H. Partrick, in Trouble in the Bay, Comes Here for Shelter

The American schooner Lizzie H. Partrick, put into this port yesterday afternoon, from Windsor, N. S., for safety. She is laden with 300,000 feet of hemlock lumber, and is bound for New York.

Her commander, Captain W. Breen, who is a native of St. John, reports as follows—Tuesday morning the vessel encountered a gale from the southwest, with heavy seas, which washed from the vessel's deckload about 20,000 feet of lumber. The schooner lost two jibs and split her mainmast and the seas flooded the forward house. The smokestack of the donkey engine was washed overboard, and everything movable was lost.

The captain says it was something terrible. The vessel was about the middle of the Bay of Fundy and it was one of the worst storms he ever experienced. A heavy cross-sea made things bad, and it was lucky that the vessel was able to make this port.

Some repairs will be made by the crew and the deckload made secure and the vessel will proceed to her destination.

POLICE COURT

Sister Weeping Over Brother's Position—Scott Dealt With

A touching scene was witnessed in the police court this morning, when Leonard Hodd, remanded yesterday on a charge of assaulting Henry Chandler in Elm street, was again brought into court. His sister went over to where he was sitting on the prisoner's bench and, throwing her arms about him, sobbed bitterly. After a time she was induced to leave him and she resumed her seat with tears in her eyes.

Hodd was again remanded until this afternoon, when he expects to have witnesses.

Richard Scott was fined $30 or fifty days in jail this morning on a charge of assaulting and neglecting to support his wife.

New Fall Styles

C. B. PIDGEON, Cor. Main and Bridge Sts.

The conservative man who prefers styles of the neater class will certainly see his share of pleasing things in the new fall offerings.

Suits of dark silk mixed worsteds; black suits and blue suits of serge worsteds or unfinished fabrics are all the rage for fall.

Oxford grey in rich dark shades, is more popular than ever in suits, overcoats and rain-coats.

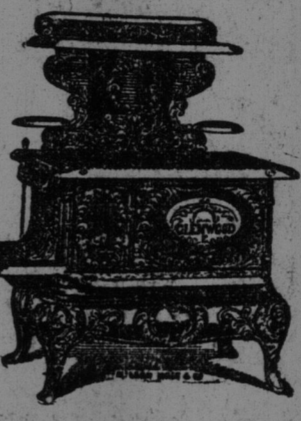

Fancies are bright, but entirely distinct from the loud freakish stuff.

Suits, Overcoats and raincoats of the better sort are offered here at lower prices than at any other store in St. John.

"I Want Some Heavy Underwear"

That is what many men are asking just now, and we are ready to answer it—answer it with this underwear itself.

Unshrinkable? Yes, we guarantee that. If the garments shrink, don't pass them on to some one else, but bring them to us and we will replace them.

These garments are of pure wool and the process which has made the wool unshrinkable has taken nothing from its natural softness and pliability or from its wearing quality.

"Wolsey" Underwear—The highest grade imported underwear made. Made from the finest Shetland wool. Any garment shrunk in washing will be replaced. Can be worn by the most sensitive skin.
$2.00, $2.25, $2.50 per garment and upwards

"Britannia" Underwear—Another of England's famous makes of underwear. Guaranteed unshrinkable and in a number of weights. $1.50, $2.00 per garment

"Pen Angle" Underwear—
In Fleece Lined 50c, 75c per garment.

In Extremely New Colorings and Stripe Effects---Weights for in or Out-of-Door Needs

The soft, warm flannel shirt is fast becoming popular with all classes of men as the perfect shirt for winter wear. If you have not experienced the sense of complete protection and solid comfort a flannel shirt gives—you should hasten to become acquainted with this ideal cold weather garment.

We offer a particularly choice variety of better grade flannel shirts which are intended to be worn in the place of ordinary cambrie and zephyr shirts, by business men, office men and workmen.

The color effects are entirely new in flannels and are extremely pretty. We are showing a great many weights and qualities, one to suit every need, whether for in or out-of-door requirements.

Some shirts have linen, others flannel neckbands, also those with reversible collar: the extremely new colorings, the more ordinary stripes, plain greys, navys and fancies; also meltons and heavy tweeds. All custom made, sizes 14 to 18:

$1.00 to $4.00
