The Pole at Last.

The war is on between Commander Peary and Dr. Frederick Cook. Peary, with all the egotism which man could possess, returns, and, after learning that Dr. Cook had reached the pole nearly one hour before, immediately begins a campaign of slander against his rival. Dr. Cook, with the calmness of a man confident in the truth of his own story, listens in silence to the spasmodic outbursts of the Commander and smiles. If Dr. Cook did discover the Pole, or if having discovered and can produce the proof, he certainly must enjoy the situation.

Polli Held For

Orr's Murder

Italian Sent up for Trial at Victoria Circuit Court, Which Opens September 28.

Andover, Sept. 12.—Dr. Coffin was the only witness called Saturday in the preliminary examination of the Italian Polli, held for shooting James Orr at McDonald's camp. He swore that he was called to McDonald's camp to attend to a man who was shot. He testified as to the nature of the wound and as to what he did in the operation. Dr. Puddington and he operated and Dr. Taylor administered the anaesthetic. The wounded man had the best of care. The bullet being in his body would not cause death, but it was the three perforations of the small bowel that caused it.

After the doctor was through with his evidence, an opportunity was given the defence to produce witnesses. An Italian, a nephew of the prisoner, stood up and offered to give evidence, but was informed by Magistrate McQuarrie that under the circumstances he would have to wait until the trial. The prisoner was then sent up for trial, and will appear at the next sitting of the Circuit Court, which meets on Sept. 28.

WEDDING BELLS

A quiet wedding took place Wednesday morning at the home of the bride, Newcastle, when Rev. W. J. Dean united in marriage Miss May, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McLean, to Edward Wyseman. The bride was attired in a travelling suit of taupe broadcloth. They are on a wedding trip to Nova Scotia.

"The woman who wants to be beautiful shouldn't talk too much," said the beauty specialist. "Too much use of the facial muscles produces untimely wrinkles."

Barry, Judge of the Supreme Court of Judicature for the Province of New Brunswick. The grand request of the County of Northumberland at the present circuit court desire, on this your first appearance as a Judge at this circuit, to assure you of their strong and sincere approval of your elevation to the bench. The stability and progressiveness of British communities wherever existing, is due in no small measure to the training and the uprightness of these judicaries. New Brunswick has been highly favored in this respect, and we feel that in your appointment, the highest traditions of the English bench are recognized and upheld. Your long successful and honorable career as a barrister of our province, is well known to us, and while congratulating you on the appreciation by the government of Canada of your learning, impartiality and ability, we congratulate the county on the acquisition to the bench of one so calculated to succeed the many able and worthy men who have adorned the judiciary of New Brunswick. We trust that with youth on your side, there awaits you a long and honorable judicial career, and we hope that career will bring to yourself as much pleasure and happiness as it will bring a sense of security and satisfaction to the inhabitants of the province generally.

J. McKNIGHT, Foreman, Sept. 14th, 1909. His Honor replied in a few well chosen remarks and thanked the jury for their kind address, after which he discharged them as there were no criminal cases. The two civil cases in the docket are as follows:—M. Kay vs. M. Kay. The Royal Bank of Canada vs. James Tucker. The case of M. Kay vs. McKay is an action for damages for trespass.

The case of The Royal Bank of Canada vs. James Tucker is one that will create much interest, as Mr. Tucker delivered lumber to the Anderson Furniture Co. and in order to get his money for the lumber had to endorse the company's note for the amount. But when the note came due the company could not meet it and Mr. Tucker was ordered to pay it which he refused. The following are the names of the petit jury:—Wm. A. McLaughlin, Howard Irving, Wm. H. Baldwin, Ernest O. Dickson, Wm. McKay, Andrew McCabe, John Finland, Michael Young, Thos. Halloran, Frederick Gough, Allen McLean, David Anderson.

On Sunday evening N. Locker, a Jew who is managing S. Rosenick's store at Campbellton made an attempt on his life. The cause of his rash deed is said to be due to dispondence over the death of his father.

FREDERICTON ROBBERY

HAS BEEN SOLVED.

Geo. S. Beach, an employee was Man Who Stole that $335

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 10.—The mysterious disappearance of the package containing $335 at the C. P. R. station last Wednesday has been solved and after one week's liberty ricket seller George S. Beach, the man responsible for what was heralded as a "bold robbery", is now in jail. More than that he had admitted his guilt to C. P. R. Secret Service officers and has been remanded to jail for his preliminary examination. Throughout the police enquiry here, the young man played on his nerve, at times going too far, however, as it became noticeable and only helped the detectives to continue on their well-founded theory that he was the guilty party. He showed less anxiety outwardly over the matter than any member of the C. P. R. staff at the local station and of course the observant ones noticed that.

COOL UNDER FIRE

Under fire with "new degree" or "third degree" methods, Beach was as cool as could be. He stated that he got mixed up somewhat in his story at times in some of the details but he never allowed anything to get by that was in the way of an acknowledged fact. Time and time again he was examined and cross-examined by C. P. R. officers and agents and slowly but surely the net of evidence was being woven about him.

HAD GOOD REPUTATION.

Station Agent Howard declined to make any statements last evening, but from other sources it is learned that a large shortage in the receipts from the sale of tickets had been discovered, and the supposition is that part of the stolen money was used to cover this up. Beach has been employed at the station for about four years. He was a prominent worker in the I.O.G.T. and a regular attendant at church. He always bore a good reputation. He is about thirty-five years of age and has a wife and child.

STARTLING STATEMENT

It's Statements Like That of H. Heyman, Kingston, Ont., that is making Miona World famous for Obstinate Stomach Troubles.

Mr. H. Heyman, 132 Colborne street, Kingston, Ontario, says: "Mi-on-a is worth its weight in gold as a remedy to quickly cure long standing cases of dyspepsia. For years I had suffered with my stomach and could find no cure nor even relief. I could not eat anything, as it would sour and form gas on my stomach that had a pressure on the heart. Heavy pains would come around my sides and pit of my stomach. I was unable to sleep for this and there was nothing to relieve my miserable condition. I was weak and languid and would feel as tired in the morning as on going to bed and perspiration would break out all over my body. I would be so weak from vomiting that I would fall to my knees. My head would ache and spells of dizziness would leave me unable to see. Doctors had termed the trouble gastritis, but failed to benefit me. I tried Mi-on-a, which I procured at T. J. Durick's on advice of a friend, which has cured me when all else failed. I am sound and well and feel grateful to Mi-on-a for my present health. It's the known results obtained by Mi-on-a that places it far and away above all other remedies and confirms Mr. Durick in offering to refund the money if Mi-on-a fails to cure stomach trouble. 50 cents a box. Relief in twenty-four hours.

Fall Travel at Remarkably Low Rates.

An Opportunity to Visit Montreal, Detroit, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Other Western Cities at Less Than Single Fare.

Announcements is made by the Intercolonial Railway, in our advertising columns, of a very low fare to Montreal and return—less than the ordinary single fare, and also to some of the great commercial centres in the United States. Going dates named are September 16, 17 and 18, with a return limit of October 4th, which means nearly three weeks may be spent away from home at a season of the year particularly convenient for the business man, and at a time when travel is, perhaps, the most enjoyable. The celebrations connected with the "Back to Montreal" week, will be in full blast, and a most elaborate programme of festivities has been arranged. Other points to which the low rates apply include Port Huron, Detroit, Cleveland, Saginaw, Bay City, Grand Rapids, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis. Taking the most westerly city as an example of the reduction in price, the regular return fare from Halifax to St. Paul would be $71.45, while by this excursion it is only $48.00, and to the other cities named the reduction is proportionate. To St. Paul and Minneapolis it should be mentioned the excursionist has choice of several routes from Chicago, or he may, at slightly increased cost, vary his trip by taking the Upper Lake steamers via Sault Ste. Marie. This increase, however, includes meals and berths. As this year the Intercolonial's "Ocean Limited" is running later than customary, the train service from the Maritime Provinces is exceptionally good, for by its connection with the Grand Trunk's "International Limited," at the Bonaventure Union Depot in Montreal, splendid through service is given to Detroit and Chicago. With these many advantages there is no question of a big travel, and it is advisable that early application be made for sleeping car accommodation.

A TERRESTRIAL INFERNO.

(BY A BANKER.)

Environed by some of the loveliest scenery in all Europe, favoured by nature, and its beauty and attractions aided by the horticulturists' art, few localities can surpass in beauty the modern town of Monto Carlo. Protected from the chilling blasts of the mistral by a range of jagged and pinnacled mountains, its shores laved by the blue waters of the Mediterranean, and protected from the south-westerly storms by a jutting promontory, its position is ideally beautiful. Its gardens are visions of beauty, the mild and equable climate permitting the culture of sub-tropical trees and shrubs which grow luxuriantly in its sheltered glens and dells, while its parterres are in early spring ablaze in a glowing many-hued display of exotic florage. Tall handsome mimosas towering upwards to the azure skies are loaded with their masses of golden bloom, and lofty palms of many varieties add to its tropical aspect.

But all this beauty is spoilt and disfigured by a great structure, built in execrable taste, which dominates the place. And what a pitiable spectacle does the interior of that great white gaming hell present! There are gathered moneyed rogues, fashionably dressed swindlers, dissipated profligates, the moral scum of Europe, jostling together with wealthy and even high born ladies, young and old—who if they do happen to win anything substantial, possibly find their winnings coolly raked in and appropriated—with all sorts and conditions of men and women, all thrilled with the lust of greed, all watching with feverish excitement the revolutions of a ball.

Ah! and what a study the facial expression of these gamblers. Here a female, apparently a lady, glowing with extreme satisfaction as she rakes in a win before it is swept off by well dressed sharpers; here a foolish young fellow who has lost all his travelling money, and sinks out with a woe-be-gone, lugubrious expression on his face; or here perhaps a fatuous weakling who has lost the earnings of a life time, and, knowing that his wife and family will be plunged in penury, with grim resolve goes out into the night, and, unless happily restrained, adds to the number of hushed up tragedies constantly happening in that resort of ruin.

Surely those who remember that this present life is but the brief probationary stage in that after-life which has no ending, should abstain from participating in that demoralizing saturnalia. For surely it must be displeasing to the pure and holy Son of God, who, to save us from the punishment, and also from the power of sin, Himself on the cross paid the penalty due by all who come to Him for eternal life. But there will come a time when those who willfully ignore Him will remorsefully and bitterly rue it!

"MY STOMACH GAVE OUT ENTIRELY and I suffered untold agonies." This was the experience of Mr. D. D. Whidden, Postmaster, East Wentworth, N. S., after three attacks of La Grippe. Doctors and doses gave him no permanent relief, but Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets had the permanent virtue that won him back to perfect health—pleasant and harmless but powerful and quick. 35 cents. Sold by A. E. SHAW'S Pharmacy.—160.

CHARGED WITH INFANTICIDE.

Boyle and Nesbitt on Trial at Dorchester.

Dorchester, N. B., Sept. 13.—The trial of Wm. E. Boyle and Mrs. Annie Nesbitt of Cookville, near Sackville, on a charge of murdering an infant by strangulation and suffocation about May last, Judge Landry in the circuit court occupied all of Thursday's session. At the afternoon's session the cross examination of Wm. Polley was conducted by Mr. Copp, little new being brought out. Counsel for the defence tried to show enmity between Polley and Boyle, and that this influenced the witness in his evidence against the prisoners. Witness went over again in detail the finding of the infant's body in the cellar of Boyle's house, after he rented the farm, and described finding a cord about the child's neck and wool stuffed in its mouth. He was in the cellar looking for window bolts when he discovered a place in the earthen floor where the ground was disturbed. Digging with a spade he brought up a pile of cotton and after notifying some neighbors of his discovery, he returned and dug up the body. Witness didn't consider Mrs. Boyle of unsound mind.
He was asked about the relations

Timber Dues In Quebec.

St. Johns, Que., Sept. 10.—A demonstration in honor of Sir Lomer Gouin was given here, and was attended by a large number of the supporters of the government.

Sir Lomer Gouin's most important announcement was that increased charges would be made for timber cutting licenses, commencing on Sept. 1, next year. This proposal for the increase of provincial revenue will date, according to the Premier's plans, from the time of the expiration of present contracts between the lumber merchants. The Premier announced that these increased charges for timber cutting licenses, it was hoped, would increase the revenue from $200,000 to $300,000. He also said he believed it was time for the proprietors of mines in this province to contribute their share to the revenue of the province. In this connection he made special reference to asbestos mine owners.

Then Sir Lomer announced the proposed increase for wood cutting licenses. With the increased revenue from this source, added to the contributions from mine owners, the government would be able to do more for true colonization, agriculture, and especially for education in the province.

between the prisoners in August 1908, and said he hadn't seen Mrs. Nesbitt during last winter. Her condition at that time was common talk in the neighborhood.

Mr. Copp asked the witness if the body of the child hadn't been found at one Thompson's, in Upper Sackville, where he lived there for some time two years ago, but he indignantly replied in the negative.

DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY.

Dr. J. O. Calkins, who examined the dead infant and made a post mortem, was next called and described the condition of the body. He found the body that of a large normal child. There was a string drawn tight about the neck and wool stuffed well down in the throat. The wool in the throat was sufficient to cause death. There was evidence that the child had breathed imperfectly.

Witness was asked if the conditions found would cause the child's death, but the question being objected to. The court ruled the solicitor-general could only ask if certain conditions found there would ordinarily cause death, but witness should not give his opinion as to this particular case. The solicitor-general did not press the question.

To Mr. Copp, Dr. Calkin would not say the child had not been still born. He was not prepared to state positively the child was born alive. Wool he found in the child's neck he thought had been put there immediately after birth and that was what caused death.

To the court witness said he was not prepared to say whether the child was still-born or born alive.

SOPHIA POLLEY,

wife of Wm. Polley, gave evidence similar to that given by her husband.

Bessie Polley, daughter of the last witness was the last witness. Her direct story corroborated that of her mother's in reference to the relations between Polley and Boyle families.

More bread and Better bread —And the Reason for it

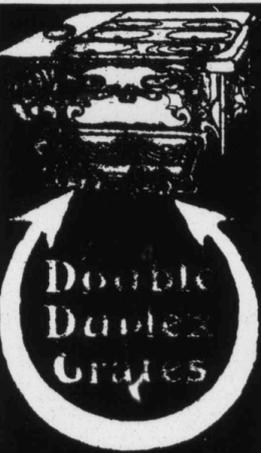

A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purity Flour.

Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purity flour users—that's why we use it.

It means that Purity Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.

It means a high-class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."

Purity may cost a little more than some flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.

Sask-Alta Double Duplex Grates will save you fuel.

Grates are separate, as shown in illustration. This allows ashes to be removed from one end of fire-box without disturbing fire in other end.

And saves fuel—as frequently there are more ashes in one end of fire-box than in other. When ordinary long grates are used good coal in one end of fire-box is shaken down with ashes in other.

Remember this feature is patented. Therefore Double Duplex Grates are to be found only on Sask-Alta Steel Range.

has to run with the current to move." "We can't use her," Gale gave in reluctantly. "She'd only lose time for us. We've got to wait for one of the A. C. boats." "Wait!" cried Burrell. "We've done nothing but wait, wait, wait! Let's do something!" "You go back yonder and set down," commanded Lee. "We'll have a boat before long." The arrival of the tiny mission steamer was never of sufficient importance to draw a crowd to the river

"I bring her back to you, m'sieu!" bank, so the impatient men at the post looked on with interest as she came creeping up abreast of the town. It was little Johnny Gale who first saw Neela and Poleon on board, for he had recognized Father Barnum's craft at a distance and stationed himself at the bank hand in hand with Molly to bid the good, kind old man welcome.

"Well, well! Them two goin' to be married," said Lee. "Stark liked, and Neela goin' to be married—all at once, a hate to see it, John. He ain't good enough. She could 'a done a heap better. There's a lot of regular men around here, and she could 'a had her pick. Of course, always bein' broke like a dog myself, I ain't kept up my personal appearance like I ought, but I've got some new clothes now, and you wouldn't know me. I bought 'em off a tenderfoot with cold feet, but they're the goods, and you'd see a big improvement in me."

"He's a good man," said Gale, "better than you or me, and he's all torn up over this. I never saw a man act so. When he learned about it I thought he'd go mad. He's haunted the river bank ever since, ragging about for some means of following her, and if I hadn't fairly held him he'd have set out single handed."

While they were talking Burrell came in, and "No Creek" saw that the night had affected the youth even more than it had Gale, or at least he showed the marks more plainly, for his face was drawn, his eyes were sunken as if from hunger, and his whole body seemed to have fallen away till his uniform hung upon him loose, unkempt and careless.

"I can't wait much longer," said Burrell and sank wearily into a seat. Almost the next instant he was on his feet again, saying to the trader, as he had said a score of times already: "Luncheon comes to me, Gale! You understand he's mine, don't you?" The old man nodded. "Yes; you can take him."

"Well, who do I get?" asked Lee. "You can't come along," the trader said. "We may have to follow the bound clean to the States. Think of your mine."

understanding. "I had a long conversation with my little girl, for she is like a daughter to me, and I discovered the depth of her love for you. Do you love her as much as you should?" "As much as I can. They don't make words or numbers big enough to tell you how deep she is to me."

"Then why delay? Tomorrow I leave again, and one never knows what a day may bring forth." "But Stark?" the young man cried. "He's her father, you know. He's like a madman, and she's still under age." "I know very little of law outside of the church," the father observed; "but, as I understand it, if she marries before he forbids her the law will hold him powerless. Now, he has never forbidden her anything, and, although my conclusion may not be correct, I believe it is, and you have a chance if you make haste. At your age, my boy, I never needed a spur."

"A spur? Good Lord! I'm from Kentucky!" "Once she is yours before God your hold will be stronger in the eyes of men. If I am wrong and he takes her from you—well, may some other priest reveal you two, I shan't."

"Don't worry," laughed Burrell, abate at the thought. "You're the only preacher who'll kiss my bride, for I'm a jealous man, and all the Starks and all the fathers in the world won't get her away from me. Do you think she'll do it?" "A woman in love will do anything," Burrell seized the little man by the hand. "If I had known more law you needn't have given me this hint." Together they went into the trader's house.

Back in the store there was silence after the priest and the soldier went out, which Gale broke at last. "This forgiveness talk is all right, I suppose, but I want Runnion." "We'll get him, too," growled Lee, at which Poleon uttered a curt exclamation: "No!" "Why not?" said the miner.

"Waal," the Canadian drawled slowly, then paused to light the cigarette he had rolled in a bit of wrapping paper, inhaled the smoke deeply to the bottom of his lungs, held it there a moment and blew it out through mouth and nostrils before adding, "you'll jus' be wastin' time!" Gale looked up from beneath his thatch of brow and asked quietly: "Why?"

"You 'member story I tol' you wan day two, 'ree mont' ago," Poleon remarked, with apparent evasion, "bout Johnny Platt w'at I ketch on de Porcupine all et up by skeeter bugs?" "I do," answered Gale.

"Waal"—he met their eyes squarely, then drew another long breath from his cigarette—"I'm jus' hopin' nobody don't pick it up dis Runnion feller de same way. Melbe dey tin' hees han's tie behin' 'im wif' piece of bees snit."

Perry returned from the North only to find Dr. Cook feasting on the pudding which he was preparing for himself. While still in the frozen regions he immediately begins his campaign against the claims of his rival.

Commander Peary's admirers are making much of the announcement that he "nailed" the Stars and Stripes to the North Pole. There is a brilliancy about a dash to the northern goal that appears to the public mind.

MISCOU HARBOR

Miss Grace Travers of Campbellton has been visiting here, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. H. Blakley.

Miss Mabel Matthews of Shippegan has been visiting friends here. She and Mrs. Benj. McDonald drove to Miscou Harbor recently.

The fall herring fishing has now commenced, but as yet the catch has not been very large, but expect to be better soon.

Mrs. J. H. Blakley and son Weldon who have been visiting in Campbellton, the guest of Mrs. Blakley's sister, Mrs. John Travers, have arrived home again having had a very pleasant trip.

A pleasant party was gotten up the other evening at the residence of Martin Conroy, in honor of the departure of Mr. Hanson Boyd of Mechanic Falls, a nephew of Mrs. Conroy.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Ben McDonald, Mrs. A. E. Windsor, Miss Matthews, Mr. John Champion, Herbert Champion, Mr. and Mrs. Norval McConnell, Solomon McConnell, Mrs. Jas. Harper, and many other friends, who enjoyed themselves very much.

Miss Elsie and Ella Marks have arrived home from Boston having been absent for two or three years. They had called on their way home to visit their cousin Mrs. Wendell Scott of Stonehaven, remaining a week with her.

Mr. Warren Windsor has decided not to go to college this winter. He intends to get in a stock of goods in his store and remain in Miscou Harbor and go into business. We wish him every success.

A large party visited Shippegan the other day in Capt. Champion's geolite launch. Among those included were Mr. and Mrs. Ben McDonald, Mrs. A. E. Windsor, Mr. Warren Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ward, Mrs. Jas. Harper, Mrs. Martin Conroy, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Campbell and Mr. Herbert Champion.

Mr. John A. Ward had quite an exciting encounter with a large man eating shark the other morning, while overhauling his herring nets. He managed with the help of some other men to secure the monster, it being entangled among the nets. It measured twelve feet long and its liver filled a half barrel.

An Appeal for Funds to Fight It

Readers of the Graphic know something of the heartless traffic in young girls for immoral purposes, carried on by abandoned wretches of both sexes, who do not scruple to traffic in guileless that there are not less than 15,000 foreign girls imported and sold into this traffic annually in the United States and Canada.

Two comparatively poor women have recently sent in each $5, the one to Rev. Dr. Carman, the other to the Rev. Dr. Shearer, President and Secretary respectively of the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada.

This Council is interdenominational and represents the Church of England in Canada, the Methodist Church in Canada, the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the Baptist Church in Canada, the Congregational Church in Canada, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Dominion Grange and Farmers' Association, and the Salvation Army.

Are there not countless other women, as well as men, throughout Canada, who would esteem it a privilege to have a similar share in this humane and much needed work?

Mr. Henry Moyle, or the Secretary, Rev. Dr. Shearer, either of whom may be addressed to 435 Confederation Life Building, Toronto. These gentlemen and those associated with them, are doing this work entirely without remuneration.

The Edmonton Saturday News speaks quite emphatically of a farm in southern Alberta where the farmer starts out after breakfast, plows a straight furrow until noon, and turning round, just manages to reach home for supper. That must be something like a farm.

Lake Superior is the largest body of fresh water in the world and its area is about equal to that of Ireland.

A SURPRISED MINISTER.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from bronchial catarrh, and had despaired of anything like a cure. Judge of my pleasant surprise when I first used Hyomei, which brought complete relief. Hyomei has been a veritable godsend." Rev. Charles Hartley, Sardinia, Ohio.

Thousands of catarrh sufferers have given up in despair. They have tried stomach dosing, snuff, sprays and douches without success, and now believe catarrh to be incurable.

But T. J. Durick the druggist, holds out hope to all distressed. He sells a remedy called Hyomei which is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, bronchitis, asthma and croup.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is medicated air, full of the healthy virtues of the mountain pines. You breathe in the delightful antiseptic air, and as it passes over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane, it always the inflammation, kills the germs, and drives out the disease.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs but $1.00, and an extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents. See T. J. Durick about it to-day.

NORTH POLE

The North Pole has suddenly become of prime importance. After remaining unvisited since creation began we have news within a few days of two explorers who have reached it, and in these days of tremendous energy and unsurpassed activity we may expect speedily to see in the daily newspapers advertisements of summer trips thither; and the problem which was so long unsolved reduced to a comfortable pleasure trip.

Pending this we have strong hope to hear immediately that our gallant and genial friend Capt. Bernier has also discovered the pole. The information now in the public possession is that on April 21, 1908, Dr. Cook got to the Pole; that on April 6, 1909 Peary also discovered it. Notwithstanding the difference in time between the two discoveries the news of both comes close together inasmuch as Cook did not come out within reach of the civilized world until this year, while Peary, as soon as he made his discovery, and planted the American flag at the Pole, started at once for home and arrived within speaking limits on September 6th.

It is, if we remember aright, in some of the papers announcing Cook's discovery that the North Pole is a spot that could be covered by a quarter of a dollar. The two American flags ought therefore to be pretty close together. Peary saw nothing however, of the flag planted by Cook, and the natural presumption is that it drifted away in the current which Cook found moving over the Pole. Of course this discovery, reported by Peary, coming so close to the discovery reported by Cook, will not only deeply excite the interest of the world generally, but it will cause considerable discussion among geographers and men active in the study of physiology and its kindred sciences.

There has been in the scientific world, seemingly, a disposition to doubt the absolute accuracy of Cook's statements, a tendency to believe that his quest inflamed his imagination and that he thought more than he actually achieved. One result of the Peary announcement will be to secure a most rigid and unbiased examination of the claims of the two men, not as respects precedence in the discovery—for that is of little real importance, although of interest—but as to their having really and actually reached the Pole at all. It is yet too soon, the information at hand is yet too limited on which to base a settled opinion; but the facts will develop as the results of the observations made by the discoverers are given to the world. It will not detract anything from Peary's success that he was preceded by Cook, for Peary was not in any way helped by Cook's information, advice or movements. Each man pursued his own course and each acted on his own lines. We should judge that the world will hereafter be somewhat indifferent to Polar expeditions, for the main quest seems to have been accomplished.—Globe.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. PEARY REACHED POLE APRIL 8TH.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Commander Peary announces April 8 as the date of his reaching the North Pole, in a despatch to the New York Times, reading as follows:

To the New York Times, New York: I had the Pole April 8. Expect arrive Chateau Bay, September 7. Secure control wire for me there and arrange expedite transmission; big story. (Signed) PEARY.

The date Peary refers to is April 8 of the present year, although not stated in the despatch, as his expedition to the pole did not leave until July, 1908.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—From out the Arctic darkness there was flashed yesterday Peary's message which stunned the scientific world and thrilled the heart of every layman. From the bleak coast of Labrador, Peary gave to the world the news that he had attained his goal in the far north, while at the same moment in far Denmark, Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of Brooklyn, was being dined and lionized by royalty for the same achievement.

The first word of Peary's success reached New York at 12:55 p. m. in a despatch to the Associated Press. It contained the bare announcement of his gaining the pole.

At the same time he similarly advised the governor of Newfoundland and sent cables to London.

Both the old and the new world were thus surprised of his great achievement practically at the same moment.

Newspaper extras were rushed from the press and there were those who marvelled at the twist of the universe which had wrenched the ice mask from the north in so strange a manner.

April 8, 1909, the date that Peary planted the flag at the pole and April 21, 1908, the day that Dr. Cook unveiled the Stars and Stripes a year before, consequently became the cardinal dates upon which exploration of the far north will rest hereafter.

Although separated by about a year the same feat was accomplished by two Americans, neither of whom was aware of the movements of the other.

Just as Dr. Cook notified his wife, waiting in Brooklyn, so Commander Peary took advantage of the brief stop at Indian Harbor to assure Mrs. Peary of his safety. This message, almost overlooked during a day of excitement over his achievement, reached New York last night from South Harpswell, Me. where Mrs. Peary had been spending the summer.

It contained both a touch of pathos and a quaint reference to his success. 'Have made good at last,' says the explorer to his wife. 'I have the old pole. Am well. Love. Will wire again from Chateau.'

The message is signed simply 'Bert' an abbreviation of Robert, Commander Peary's first name.

Mrs. Peary sent a wife's characteristic reply, with love, a blessing and a request for him to 'hurry home.'

By another strange coincidence in this chapter of coincidences, Mrs. Cook, too, was in South Harpswell, Me. when she first heard news of her husband's success. Both she and Mrs. Peary had gone for months without word of their husbands, but had hoped and prayed, first for their safe return and secondly, it may be guessed, for the planting of the flag at the pole.

ENDEAN HARBOR, Labrador, via Cape Bay, Nfld. Sept. 8.—Commander

From files of The Antion Adorate 40 years ago.

PRINCE ARTHUR.

The reception of the Prince in this province has been most gratifying, and gives evidence of the unbounded loyalty and attachment which the people entertain in the throne and institution of the Motherland—Halifax, Windsor, Pictou, and indeed all along the Provinces route through Nova Scotia, notwithstanding the blatant efforts of a few noisy disunionists, showed evidence of its existence.

When the Prince landed in St. John, as well as on the visit of the Governor General, the reception in each case was most gratifying to the loyal people of this province as well as those of the Fatherland, while the genuine outbursts of feeling which was displayed on the Prince's reception at the rink of that city, joined in as it was by all without regard to Politics, testifies to the loyalty which exists in the hearts of our people.

The Prince's visit to Fredericton, to Woodstock, and indeed all along the route to River du Loup shows that those loyal feelings were not confined to the chief commercial cities. We learn that the Prince arrived at River du Loup on the evening of the 12th when the Minister of Marine had in waiting the fine steamer Napoleon to carry the Prince for a few days fishing and subsequently to Quebec where he is expected to arrive today. We think that the Prince must have felt gratified at his reception in the Maritime Provinces, and will doubtless convey to his royal mother the pleasing information that we are loyal to the core. Long may it continue.

Peary and his hardy sailors lost for Sydney, N. S. today.

The Roosevelt arrived Sunday night and had been detained until this morning by a heavy gale. On the arrival of the Roosevelt, Mr. Peary and Capt. Bartlett came ashore and personally filed the despatches which were sent by wireless to the United States.

Commander Peary expressed gratitude at his successful completion of his life's wish in discovering the North Pole. He and Capt. Bartlett appeared to be in the best physical condition. The Roosevelt is uninjured from her hard and arduous voyage through the ice packs of the polar seas.

Unless the Roosevelt stops at Red Bay, Labrador, to permit Commander Peary to file the details of his successful exploration, it is not believed that his interesting story can reach the world for at least three days.

BERESFORD AND DEFENCE

Lord Charles Beresford, in his speech in Toronto, sounded the note of true Imperialism in the matter of defence—five nations, one Union Jack, one navy, one army. That is, co-operation by all the King's subjects for the defence of all. It must not be thought, however, that Lord Charles is one of the old school committed to a policy of centralization, in the sense that the outlying states should be merely tributary to the United Kingdom. He believes Canada should have its own fleet, and that the other dominions should have theirs, and that all should be ready, and fit, to act together in case of necessity.

These ideas were very clearly expressed by Lord Charles Beresford in his address before the Imperial Press Conference. Though he gave him his reputation he is always ready to preach the gospel of peace. Thus he said in the course of his speech to the Press Conference: "May I say a word in favour of peace, and I never lose a chance of saying so, that the greatest interest and the primary object of all nations at this moment is for peace. I believe the peoples of nations loathe and detest war; that is my opinion. Anybody who has ever seen war has that same sentiment. It is a horrid and a shocking incident. It is necessary on occasions, but if you are properly prepared you will have no war. That has been my argument ever since I took up the question. If you are properly prepared you can't have war." He expressed the conviction that Britain could no longer maintain the two power standard unless the self governing dominions united to assist. As to the form which a common plan of defence should take, he said: "Don't let us be in a hurry, but don't let us be too long. Let us take the question up as soon as we can and look into it and discuss it, and let the people of the Mother Country be most careful that there is nothing of any sort that can even hint at domination or control on our part. We want to be all one, and let us discuss how we each can help the other. That is the point we ought to keep in view. I have got my views on the question, and I had the honor to submit them to the Australians in London some time ago. I believe the right plan for you to help us as nations, is to look after the weakest spots, the weakest places that we have in this Empire, and that is our trade routes. Remember the best defence is a defence that can be used as an attack. That is better than a defence that can only be defensive, but your defence should be one that can be instantly turned into attack, and your peace organization should be such that it can be easily expanded into war organization without any trouble. Now, that we can thrash out among ourselves when those great statesmen come over here very shortly.

small matter, but it would be a very big thing to secure this, acting under one control, and would be a splendid preparation for what would take place in war if ever they were called upon. Keep to this standardization and change the officers and men throughout the fleet. When one ship comes to the British fleet let us send a British cruiser to take her place. Why? So that you will always be ready on the spot to protect the weakest spot we have in our Empire—the trade routes. With regard to the training, remember this, that you may build what ships you like, you may have the best boilers, the best engines, the best guns, the best speed—I do not care one bit what you have—but it is the human element that is going to win. (Cheers) And an old fleet with well-trained men and officers, always working together, understanding each other, knowing what their admiral wants, the admiral with that confidence which is so necessary in his captains and his men, will beat the best fleet that was ever put on the water with bad officers—I won't say bad officers; I mean untrained officers and untrained men—no matter how good they otherwise may be. The address from which these extracts are taken was delivered only two months ago. In the interval the Imperial Defence Conference has met, and very soon the proposals upon which it tentatively agreed are to be submitted to our Parliament. Progress in these matters has been swift. In Canada there is substantial agreement between the political parties as to the course Canada should follow. A few Conservatives still hold out for the plan of direct contribution, but they are few and the country as a whole is committed to the better plan which involves the beginning of a Canadian naval force.—Ex.

ROSY-CHEEKED BABIES.

Nothing in the world is such a comfort and joy as a healthy, rosy-cheeked, happy baby. But the price of baby's health is constant vigilance on the part of the mother. The ill of babyhood come suddenly and the wise mother will always be in a position to treat them at once. No other medicine can take the place of Baby's Own Tablets in relieving and curing the ills of babyhood and childhood, and there is no other medicine as safe. Mrs. Wm. Vigeers, Perretton, Ont., says:—"My baby was troubled with his stomach and was very cross while getting his teeth, and did not sleep well at night. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets with the best of results. He is now one of the best-natured babies one could wish." TERRIBLE TALE OF THE CHINESE SEAS

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8.—Steamer Empress of Japan brings a terrible tale of the Chinese seas. A Chinese junk picked up a dugout canoe off Saddle Island, at the mouth of Yantze river, containing three men in the last stages of exhaustion and two bodies half eaten. The junk turned over the castaways to the pilotboat, which took the Empress into Shanghai, where it was found not one of the men spoke any language that could be understood or located. The men evidently were natives of a Pacific island and they must have drifted hundreds of miles. The castaways were cared for at a hospital when the Empress left. Their recovery is doubtful.

It might prove a good inducement to those who hesitate about going back to Montreal for the re-union in September, if the city would promise to lock-up the city Council.

COOK SHOULD NOT BE TAKEN TOO SERIOUSLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The following despatch was received here early today:—

Indian Harbor, Labrador, via wireless via Cape Bay, Sept. 8.—To M. E. Stone, Associated Press, New York: I have nailed the Stars and Stripes to the North Pole. This is authoritative and correct. Cook's story should not be taken too seriously. The two Eskimaux who accompanied him say he went no distance north and not out of sight of land. Other members of tribe corroborate their story. (Sgd) Commander Robt. Peary. NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A cable despatch to the Sun from London tells of some of the jokes and cartoons that are being published in England at Dr. Cook's expense. Some papers profess to find in the names of Cook's Eskimo companions, Etukishook and Ahweish, evidence of humbug. In the first man's name they think they see a euphemism for the slang expression "He took his hook," while the other man's name surely means "a welshe!" The gumdrop feature is worked for all it is worth in cartoons and sarcastic allusions. Thus, the Globe says, "Always take gumdrops if you want your Eskimos to stick to you."

The Star conceives this scene when the pole was reached: "While his devoted brethren sucked ecstatically at their gluttonous sustenance the intrepid explorer amused himself by marking out four radii from the big ball and with elating with unceasing satisfaction from the new world into the old and back again. When this pastime palled on him the doctor, having divested himself of several overcoats in deference to the genial temperature of 149 degrees below the freezing point, proceeded to run around the Pole in the direction of the earth's rotation, picking his way neatly over the lines of longitude which converge with somewhat bewildering confusion. After some fifteen minutes that as he gained twenty four hours for every circuit of the pole he must have added a year to his life. If I could only keep it up," he mused, "Methusalem's record would soon be a back number, but I am not the man I was."

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 8.—One of the most remarkable results of Commander Peary's rivalry with Dr. Cook for the discovery of the Pole is that Dr. Cook's profits from the enterprise are likely to be largely increased. He received a few days ago offers for his books and lectures at twice the figures previously tendered. One American of the highest standing, cabled terms almost startling and it is believed, far beyond any sum hitherto paid for such works. Dr. Cook is likely to accept the offer.

NERVOUS DISORDERS

Promptly Cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

If your hand trembles or is unsteady remember that this is a sure and early sign of your nervous system being at fault. The mischief may develop slowly to a worse stage. You feel unaccountably weak and weary after exertion; you lose flesh; you turn against food and suffer palpitations and indigestion after eating. At times you are intensely irritable, greatly depressed and easily worried. Sometimes sharp pains shoot down your spine and legs and probably neuralgia robs you of your sleep at night. These are some of the troubles that indicate the presence of nervous disorders. If these troubles are neglected they result in complete nervous collapse and possibly paralysis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have won great reputation by curing all forms of nervous disease. The nervous system depends entirely upon the blood supply for nourishment; when the blood is thin and weak the nerves are affected as described. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually increase the supply of good, red blood, feed, strengthen and tone the nerves, enable them to perform their functions and dispel all signs of a breakdown.

Mrs. Jas. H. Ward, Lord's Cove, N. B., says:—"About two years ago I suffered so much from nervous prostration that I was little better than a helpless wreck. I suffered from headaches and a constant feeling of dizziness. The least unusual move would startle me and set my heart palpitating violently. I had little or no appetite, and grew so weak that I was hardly able to drag myself about, and could not do my household work. In every way I was in a deplorable condition. As the medicine I had been taking seemed to do me no good, my husband got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had only been taking the Pills for a couple of weeks when I seemed to feel somewhat better, and this encouraged me to continue the treatment. From that on my strength gradually but surely returned, and in the course of a few more weeks I was once more a well woman, able to do my own household work and feeling better than I had done for years. I have since remained well and feel that I owe my good health to the healing powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every other week, sickly, worn out, nervous persons should follow the example of Mrs. Ward and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These Pills will send new blood coursing through the veins and bring brightness and energy to the weak and despondent. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A New York crook tells a reporter that "Canada is a crook's paradise" and that it is the easiest thing in the world for a pickpocket to make underground arrangements with the authorities for permission to operate on victims for half a day or so. What part of Canada could he have been referring to? Must have been Montreal.

DEATH IN A SCRATCH

Simple Injuries with Serious Results

Morris Quatzam, an eleven-year-old Windsor boy, has just died as a result of a scratch on his wrist. Poison entered the wound, which was caused by falling off his bicycle, and despite the treatment by all medical men, the boy succumbed to the infection. Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a dirty knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence or a thorn scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full. Directly these germs are introduced through the breach in the skin, a battle royal ensues between them and certain organisms in our blood.

When the invading germs are too strong for nature's defences, in a few hours the finger will become hot and throbbing. A little later the wound may exhibit a whitish appearance in the middle of the swelling, and we have what is known as a festering or poisoned wound.

The way to avoid such serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful germ-killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and inflammation.

The flesh is thus soothed and purified, the wound made perfectly healthy and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this, Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound or sore with new, healthy tissue, in a quick, painless, and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing antiseptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at fifty cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

It is estimated that 1,600,000 people who formerly drank intoxicants have become total abstainers within the past year. No wonder it's hard to stay on the water wagon with all that crowd aboard.

The pay roll of the Bank of England amounts to about $1,000,000 a year. The director gets a salary of $10,000 and the first cashier about $20,000. There are about 1,800 employees, 100 of whom are women.

OUR BASEBALL COLUMN

BASEBALL COACHES

By N. J. Flatley.

When one stops to think of the large number of good professional ballplayers, and then turns his mind to those who are able to get out on the coaching lines and keep things moving, he is liable to be surprised at the small number who can really be placed in the list of good coaches. Many and many a player who knows the game inside out, so far as playing it is concerned, is as much at sea on the coaching lines as any high school tyro. It takes a man with a comprehensive mind to make good at this very difficult part of our national game. A player, brainy enough when he is on the bases or in the field, may be, to use a popular expression, a "bone-head" when his manager sends him to the lines to watch out for things, back of either first or third, because his brain cannot seem to take in the myriad situations that are likely to arise when he himself is not personally participating.

The good coaches may be divided into two classes—the noisy, witty men of the Hugh Jennings stripe, and the quiet, almost silent coaches, of the Frank Chance type. These two classes may, of course be subdivided. In the former we find men whose vocalistic attempts carry with them no hidden barb or sting—they merely "jolly" the other fellow along in a good-natured way. In contrast to these are the ones who, becoming excited or angered, are likely to voice their opinions of umpires and opponents in terms which, while not exactly profane, carry a very obvious and unpleasant meaning. The quiet men follow the same classification. Some of them never attempt sarcasm or abuse, while others have tongues that act as lances on the sentimental nerve centers of their rivals. A good example of this latter class is Clark Griffith, the manager of the Cincinnati Nationals. He has not a very extensive range of talk but he puts a whole lot of vigor and meaning into what he does say. When communicating indirectly with the other side there is no one more caustic or biting, and his remarks very often put his opponents in the air. He is very earnest in directing his own players, and he keeps them on the qui vive every minute. He is a clever strategist and rarely fails to take advantage of a slip on the part of the other team. As is natural to his disposition, he is a strenuous kicker and is often benched, but he never voices his opinion in tones audible to other than the person he is arguing with, and consequently must be placed in the unobtrusive list.

The most picturesque figure the country has ever known, so far as coaching is concerned, is Hugh Jennings, the astute director of the destinies of the Detroit Tigers. The red-haired one keeps his men on the jump all the time and his "see-yah" became a famous cry all over the country in a month. Some critics objected to his antics on the field, declaring that he cut up too much, and tended to make a laughing stock of the game, but majority of baseball lovers like nothing better than to go out and watch Jennings. It can be safely said that he is one of the greatest drawing cards in baseball today. His snappy, encouraging remarks tend to keep the man at bat hopeful, and at the same time they are likely to have a rather depressing effect on the spirits of the opposing twirler.

Archie Latham will go down in history with Jennings as a baseball slidy. He, too, was a most striking figure and always attracted a large crowd wherever he went. He was a natural entertainer, his quips and cracks were original, and he never grew tiresome or coarse.

Joe Cantillon, the Washington manager, is an extremely vociferous person on the side lines and he never lets things quiet down for a moment. He lacks some of the natural wit and spontaneity of Jennings, however. To a person not directly in sympathy with the Senators, he soon grows monotonous, and then disagreeable. Rather than sympathy, he arouses antipathy.

Altrock, formerly with Comiskey's White Sox and now a member of the Washington team, is a typical type of the clownish coacher. His jigs and capers are very amusing, and he has a lot of common sense of a rather rough and tumble order. Somewhat in the same way does Dutch Schaefer comport himself, but his is a far more subtle nature, and there is much more point to his remarks. His antics are also more artistic.

Of the silent men on the lines not much can be said, for what they say can never be heard except by the persons directly interested, but they get the results just as well as their more noisy brothers. From the spectator's point of view, however, they are more or less a failure, but then the spectators are not winning the pennants. These chaps do the greater part of their work by signal and their task is a much harder one than that of the noisemakers, for nine times out of ten, a baseball signal is some little unperceptible motion which to the uninitiated looks perfectly natural. If the coacher had not a steady mind, always concentrated on the intricate problem before him, he might involuntarily make one of the moves that mean so much, and thereby throw his team into disorder. It is related of one manager that, on an occasion when the team were dining, he happened to stroke his chin. On the field this was a sign to slide and one of the players looking up, saw the well-known signal and promptly dove under the table. As to the truth of this incident there may be some doubt, but it illustrates the point.

As an essential part of the game coaching has not improved proportionately as have mechanical skill and the use of brains in playing, but it is showing evidences of a change, and every leader is devoting more attention to it. Some of the teams now carry men whose sole occupation is to get out and coach, and the time seems to be coming when a regular list of coaches will be on the payroll of big league clubs.

EXPORTATION OF CANADIAN PULPWOOD.

TEACHER'S COLUMN.

The ordinary Country teacher is more or less handicapped by a lack of facilities in the school room. To the resourceful teacher this handicap of ten proves the greatest instructor, for, left to self necessity breeds invention and the teacher is brought to develop a faculty too often dormant. In the country school, too, with miscellaneous classes, time is an important element. When the attendance exceeds 25 the teacher will find it almost impossible to get all the work done between 9 o'clock in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. The result is one of the large classes must either sacrifice the recess hour or remain after school. The average teacher will reduce the number of classes to a minimum, combining two classes in one whenever possible, and while such a course fails to give ideal results it is about the only alternative, especially where the school is large. But the successful teacher will go a step farther and do much work outside school hours that would otherwise occupy much valuable time, and retard the progress of the work. There are, however, some things which a teacher should not do outside school hours.—e. g. problems in arithmetic, should be worked out at once, otherwise the pupils are apt to lose confidence in the teacher's ability. There is nothing appears to please a boy so much as to come home and announce that he "stuck the teacher with a sum to-day". The teacher should be very careful to know the exact extent of her knowledge in this particular before the day's or even the week's work begins. If in doubt it is better to go through the higher books working each question in a blank book which should be present for reference. Arithmetic has always been, and must always remain, the stumbling block of the country school teacher. Other branches, such as history, geography, etc., present little difficulty in this respect with the text book always at hand. Most teachers realize their weakness in this particular branch, but few apply the necessary remedy. There is but one absolute cure and that is, if you have not the solution at your fingers' ends, then make sure to have it in your desk. The same difficulty arises in algebra and geometry, but not to the same extent; as these branches, especially the latter, are very often neglected unless a pupil happens to be preparing for college or Normal School. It is, then, the first duty of every teacher to be proficient in this one branch of learning, for it is the one in which the child must have a competent instructor. Practice makes perfect, and the more practice the pupil can get in this in the early days of its school life the more perfect will be the foundation for the advanced science. The four elementary rules, addition, subtraction, mul, and div, are the four great corner stones of the whole structure; all else is but the proper application of them. Unless these are firmly grounded in the pupils' mind in the early stages the child is handicapped for life. In order therefore, that the pupils should have the greatest amount of practice in these four principles in the time allotted for this subject, the teacher should resort to all the time saving methods which inventive genius can create. Lest the inventive genius of many of our more desolate may not be equal to the occasion, we propose giving a few suggestions which cannot but reduce the amount of time spent in putting down figures on the blackboard to the minimum, and at the same time, being directly under the teacher's supervision must naturally create a greater interest than though the pupils were left to work at their leisure. The objectionable feature to the proposed scheme is that the pupils may become accustomed to the particular figures used, but this can be obviated by changing them from time to time. As the work must be done outside of school hours the school time spent in the construction of the machine is reduced to nil. The apparatus is so simple that it can be obtained in any school district and the cost of construction will not exceed twenty-five cents.

ROPED A WOLF NEAR MEDICINE HAT.

Big Game Sport not Confined to the Miramichis.

While timber wolves are notoriously rapacious, they are just as notoriously shy, and although the ranchers state that their depredations this year have been very costly, arguing an increase in numbers, still comparatively few of them have been taken. On Thursday of last week, however, Edmund McKay and A. L. Fitch jumped up a big fellow while working on Addison K. Walker's ranch between the Twelve and Thirty mile Sand Hills, some seventy miles northeast of the Hat. They had no weapons, but, nothing daunted, went after the quarry with their ropes. After about four miles hard riding they were able to get within roping distance of the wolf, and McKay, being an expert, made an effort to rope the brute, while Fitch circled round him, holding him at bay. After several trials, in which the wolf was always able to go clear through the loop, McKay got him by both front feet and started over the prairie with him. Fitch soon had his rope over the animal's head and short work was then made of him.—Medicine Hat News.

LORD STRATHCONA NARROW ESCAPE.

Thrown From Coach in Driving at Vernon, B. C. Escaped Injury.

Vernon, B. C., September 10.—It developed yesterday that Lord Strathcona narrowly escaped serious injury in an accident near Vernon on Saturday evening. Accompanied by Sir Edward Clouston, he drove out from Vernon to visit Lord Aberdeen's celebrated fruit farm, the Coldstream Ranch. They were driven by W. R. Megaw, ex-mayor of the city. On a steep hill near Long Lake, three miles from town, the team became unmanageable and bolted toward the lake. Megaw is one of the best whips in the country, but he could do nothing to stop the animals, which had become frightened by the whiff of trees striking their legs. At the foot of the hill the is a sharp turn of the road, which starts the bank of the lake at this place about twenty feet high. Seeing it could not make the turn, Mr. Megaw pulled the horses into a wire fence. The carriage was overturned and all were thrown to the ground. All escaped without serious injury, except Megaw, who had his leg broken. Lord Strathcona's right arm was bruised but he made light of the accident as he was concerned, but expressed great concern over Megaw's misfortune.

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydtown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.
"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until 'Fruit-a-tives' came to my notice. Being a general store-keeper, I was selling a good many 'Fruit-a-tives' to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using 'Fruit-a-tives,' I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'
"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

NEW BRUNSWICK TEACHERS MAY GET PENSIONS

Dr. Landry States That Bill Will be Introduced at Next Session Providing for Pensions.

SUSSEX, N.B., Sept. 13.—The Teachers' Institute held a public meeting here last Wednesday night in the high school building which was largely attended. In the absence of Mayor McLean who was called out of town. Alderman Peary delivered an address of welcome to the assembled delegates, who received the freedom of the town during their stay. During the evening a cornet solo by A. Perkins and a duet by the Misses Brown was rendered.

Chief Supt. Carter spoke of matters of general interest to educationists, noting the great advancement made in educational methods in recent years. He referred to the proposed pensions and advocated better salaries for teachers.

HON. D. V. LANDRY.

Hon. D. V. Landry followed and dealt with the necessity for further instruction in agricultural subjects particularly in rural schools. He spoke very strongly in favor of better remuneration for teachers both by school districts and Government. He also assured the teachers that at the next session of the legislature a bill would be introduced to provide for pensions. Chancellor Jones spoke in the absence of Principal Bridges, of the Normal School, who was unable to be present. His address was in support of more oral work in schools. Lack of training in this direction resulted in much of the stage fright which is often so much in evidence in adults.

A COMMON POLICY.

Inspector Steeves, L. B. Kinder, and F. T. Atkinson of Bloomfield, also spoke. The latter dealt with teachers' salaries and the lack of interest taken by ratepayers in the welfare of the schools. He also favored the organization of trustees into central boards at which all parishes should be represented. This would enable the school trustees to formulate a common and more definite policy in school development.

APPEAL FOR PHOTOGRAPHS.

The New Brunswick Tourist Association is preparing to issue a Provincial Booklet for 1910, and is desirous of securing a number of new pictures. Amateur and professional photographers who have views that they think would add to the attractiveness of the booklet are requested to send copies addressed to the secretary of the New Brunswick Tourist Association, St. John, N. B. Scenic views and pictures of fishing and hunting life are wanted. Each picture should be clearly marked on the back to indicate the view it represents. The association will return all photographs not wanted, and will pay for any that are kept for use. It is hoped that all who have good pictures will promptly respond to this appeal.

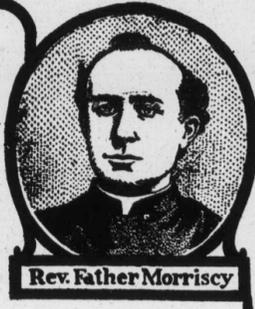

THE VALUE OF NEWS-PAPER ADVERTISING.

Newspaper advertising offers the greatest possible returns for the smallest outlay of time and money. It is the surest and quickest way of drawing local trade. Reading the newspaper is as much a part of our everyday life as sleeping and eating. It is a rare person who does not at least glance through his daily paper. For this reason a newspaper "ad" goes right to your man at a time when he is in the best position to listen.

Then again, more people will read your advertisement than you could hope to attract by the strongest window displays and personal salesmanship. Experience has taught us that the dealer must go after his trade and not wait for it to come to him. Buntin Gillies & Co.

WIT AND HUMOR.

The late Professor Rogers possessed considerable power of repartee. Whilst speaking at a political meeting in the Corn Exchange Oxford, on one occasion, he was interrupted several times by a man in the audience, who cried:

"How about three acres and a cow? Where is the cow? Now, professor, tell us where the cow is."

The professor paused for a moment, and then said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I must confess I am utterly ignorant as to the whereabouts of the cow, but kindly let me draw your attention to the calf, at the same time pointing to the cause of the interruption."

That worthy left immediately, amid roars of laughter, no doubt, as the professor said, "to find his mother."

The Duke of Amen.—The Duke of Cambridge's father had the faculty of outspokenness. One day the old duke was at church and the celebrant, referring to the farmers' need, put up a prayer for rain. Amen, said the duke aloud, just as Sir Roger de Coverley might have done. Amen; but I don't think we shall have any until the wind changes.

Pa, said the boy, looking up from his book, what does a man's better half mean?

Usually, my son, replied his father from behind the evening paper, "she means exactly what she says."

Mrs. Robinson was entertaining some ladies at a select little five o'clock tea, and Boby, who had been exceptionally well behaved, was in high feather. Mr. he said, as cake was being handed around, may I have some tongue, please? There isn't any tongue, Bobby? That's funny, commiserated Bobby. I heard pa say there would be lots of it.

During the siege of Ladysmith an officer who was organizing a concert to keep up his men's cheerfulness, heard of a sergeant in the Gordons who was said to be a performer. He found the said sergeant, and asked him to contribute his services. The sergeant was sorry, but he couldn't.

Why, said the officer, you do play something don't you?

I did, sir.

Well, what's your instrument?

The bones, sir—but I've ate 'em!

A certain engineer on a western railroad met with an accident the other day, in which his engine rolled down an embankment without awakening him, and just as it reached the bottom and was about to plow its way up the side of a chalk pit he yelled out. Easy, Sarah, easy. Don't shove me like that again, and I'll get up and light the fire right away for you.

PICNIC AT RENOUS.

The picnic at Renous Bridge under the auspices of the R. C. congregation on Sept. 7th (Labor Day) was a grand success. The train which left here for Renous immediately after the arrival of the Local Express had on board a large number of people from Newcastle and vicinity. The train then ran to Blackville and brought down many from that section. A game of baseball between Blackville and Millerton was the order of the day, the winning by a score of Dancing was engaged in during the evening in the hall.

FARMER'S COLUMN. FATTENING STEERS.

Different Amounts of Dry Matter for Fattening Steers (Pennsylvania Station, Bulletin 88).—Two lots of twelve steers each were fattened during sixteen weeks with like amounts of digestible matter, but different amounts of dry matter. Both lots were fed with broken ear corn, cottonseed meal and corn silage, with mixed hay at first and corn stover later. One lot received all the ear corn they would eat, and a limited amount of silage, while the reverse was true of the other lot. This second lot, when on full feed, received about twice as much silage and two-thirds as much corn as the first, and were given, therefore, much more dry matter, although the digestible matter was supposed to be the same. The steers given the full silage ration were at a disadvantage during the first two weeks, indicating that the increase in the amount of silage should be gradual when large amounts are introduced into the ration. "After the first period the gains of both lots were comparatively uniform and almost parallel."

THE VALUE OF SEAWEED.

Seaweed is often looked upon as a waste product, but, instead of being of little or no value, it is esteemed by those who have used it as a most valuable manure, either when used by itself or mixed with stable or farmyard stuff. Many seacoast gardeners are aware of the utility of seaweed for dressing beds of asparagus, seakale, artichoke, and some other vegetable crops, but they do not seem to know that, moderately used, it has a most beneficial effect upon fruit trees, especially apples and pears, also upon grape vines.

It is true that some market gardeners residing near the seashores go to the trouble of gathering and carting on to their land small quantities of this material, but an immense amount of it is allowed to be lost by being washed back again into the sea, to be covered up with sand, or allowed to rot on the beach and become offensive in many ways. In dry seasons it makes an excellent mulching material, perhaps better even than stable manure, and certainly better than many other things which are used. It is recorded that some land which had been reclaimed from the sea had been converted into a garden which grew excellent vegetables, flowers and fruits. There was a great depth of sandy soil, and this was composed to a great extent of sand and decayed seaweed. It appears to be of more value in light than heavy soils.

Seaweed varies considerably, some being far too coarse and heavy for the purposes mentioned, unless it has first had time for its partial decomposition. Preference is given to that of a finer and lighter character which, when collected, generally contains a fair amount of sand, making it more suitable in every way for use in the garden, whether it be for asparagus, fruit trees or even as a plunging material for pot plants during the summer months. We have no statistics available respecting the comparative value of seaweed with farmyard or artificial manures, and, as before stated, the value of the various kinds of seaweed must differ a little.

When burnt, and the ashes applied to the ground, it is good for all kinds of cereals. Seaweed is sometimes suffered to ferment before it is used, but this progress is by some thought unnecessary, for there is no fibrous matter rendered soluble in the process, and a part of the manure is lost. A common plan is to mix it with stable manure, and let it lie for a while before using. The best results are generally obtained when used as fresh as it can be got.

New Regulations

for Lumbermen

The provincial crown lands department has made important new regulations for lumbermen on crown lands. It is provided that in future operations trees shall be sawn down at the swell of the roots instead of being chopped down and that the saw be used instead of the axe in cutting trees in lengths. The trees shall be topped off as small as five inches in diameter and the lower limbs of every fallen tree shall be lopped off so that the tree will lie flat on the ground to rot. Scalers will be instructed to scale any and all tops left in the woods up to five inches in diameter.

No spruce or pine trees shall be used for skidding or building roads and if such are used will become a charge against the license. No portable saw-mill will be set up on crown lands without first obtaining a license from the department. The surveyor general also orders that undersized spruce on crown lands may be cut for clearing or thinning or owing to scrubby growth, only on special permission and in case if it can be shown that in 75 years the spruce would attain fourteen inches in diameter breast high. Violation of this means double stumpage charge.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD

IN AN AEROPLANE

Made by American in British Service

ALDERSHOT, Eng. Sept. 8—During a dead calm at an early hour this morning Capt. F. N. Cody, the American aeroplanist, who has been on the British army for a number of years, achieved what is believed to be the world's record for a cross country flight in an aeroplane. In the high and cumbersome machine which is his own invention, Capt. Cody remained in the air for one hour and three minutes covering in that time a distance of over forty miles. He crossed over the valleys that intersect the Plain of Aldershot, passed over and around the barracks of the troops and circled the spire of the village church. His machine was under perfect control and at times rose to an altitude of 40 feet. It traversed occasionally at the rate of fifty miles an hour. Cody had to land because his fuel gave out. As he was descending the machine struck the ground rather forcibly, but it was only slightly damaged.

Holly & Sons, with whom he has worked faithfully for more than thirty years, was shown by some very substantial tokens of regard. Mr. Lingley received many hearty congratulations from his friends. Two of his sons, Robinson of Newcastle and Stenning H. of Campbellton, were unable to be present. A very pleasant time was spent in games and music.
