Shall Pupils Pay?

The Collegiate Institute Fee Question Discussed.

There was a short meeting of No. 1 committee of the Board of Education last night, Trustee G. J. Griffin in the chair. The members present were: pay; will send copy of my little book, "Your Place in Life," free, to any who write. Rev. T. S. Linscoit, Brantford, Ont. ywt Trustees Greenless, Murphy, Logan, Dr. Campbell, Sanders and Johnston. Principal Merchant and Inspector W ANTED-AGENTS FOR TWO GEN-UINELY new articles; great sellers; territory new. IRWIN TOBIAS, Toronto. xt Carson were also in attendance.

The first question for discussion was Trustee Griffin's motion to impose a fee of $10 upon Collegiate Institute scholars.

Mr. Logan moved that the matter be left as it stood, as in past years things were very satisfactory.

Mr. Johnston moved in amendment that the fee be charged in the upper orms only. Mr. Merchant, when asked for his opinion, stated that the upper forms were more crowded than the lower forms, and a reference to the annual First insertion ic per word. One-half report showed that nearly 600 of the cent each subsequent insertion. No scholars were children of mechanics.

Mr. Carson stated that the majority of those who matriculated were children of the poorer classes, and cited numerous instances. Mr. Griffin-In Toronto and other places they pay $20 per year, and my motion only called for $10.

Dr. Campbell was against any tax as those who matriculated were mostly all poor. Mr. Murphy—It is enough to tax outsiders, but as it is now, I don't believe in it. Mr. Griffin further supported his motion, but Trustee Sanders told him the people of No. 5 ward were in favor of free schools and free education, and that he himself thought at one time a tax should be levied, but he didn't think so now. Mr. Johnston stated that he had asked for information and had obtained it, He understood that it was rich men's children that went through the upper forms.

Dealers Say the Right Class of Houses Are Not Building.

They Are Either Too Small or Too Large Some Recent Land Sales.

London has a building streak on this spring, but those who claim to know say that the wrong class of houses is being erected.

"What is wanted," said a man in the real estate business this morning, "is a style of house which will be either a story and a half cottage or small two-story residence, with three bedrooms, bath room, and all modern conveniences, and which would rent readily at $15. The houses which are going up all over the city are not of the class for which there is the most demand. They either are too large and rent too high, or too small."

While admitting that there were none too many vacant houses in town, another dealer said that there was too much building in progress. Charles Depper will shortly build seventeen houses near the Hamilton road, east of Adelaide street. The electric street railway is evidently having a good effect on land in that neighborhood, which, a few years ago, was covered with tumbledown oil wells and buildings.

The north end of the town is booming along wonderfully, and the expansion of the city during the coming years may be confidently looked forward to in that direction. The East End is also filling up finely, and during the last few weeks the appearance of Rectory street has changed entirely, and a row of residences, extending more or less over the east side between Dundas street and Campbell, is going up with all possible dispatch. The real estate market, on the other hand, is not overly active, and the majority of the agents have very few, sales to divulge.

Mr. A. A. Campbell has lately disposed of the following properties: Wm. O'Neil has purchased the store and dwelling at the northwest corner of Glebe and York streets at a good figure. H. Colerick has purchased that attractive cottage occupying the north-east corner of Queen's avenue and Elizabeth street, the price being in the neighborhood of $1,400.

No. 711 Lorne avenue brought a good figure from John Birmingham. Mr. Leonard Buchanan, Dorchester, has purchased 599 Maitland street, for $800, and will reside in town in future. Mr. J. Dale, Delaware, has purchased the Beattie property, being 100 acres of the north half of lot 8, con.

Westminster. The price was close on to $4,300. The west half of lot 23, con. 2, London, a 50-acre farm on the Smithson estate, has been sold to G. O. Wilcox, at about $1,900. RHEUMATISM CURED IN 1 TO 3 DAYS FOR 75 CENTS.

It is clear that the raid was planned by Cecil Rhodes, Alfred Beit, and the secretary of the Chartered South Africa Company. The telegram from Hammond to Rhodes saying 'Cannot arrange respective interests without Belt' shows that the aim was purely for a stock exchange deal. "These miscreants, therefore, planning a raid which must have led to the death of many, and which was based on robbery, were actually already disputing in regard respective shares of the plunder. The Volksstem, according to the stories, discovered that the British South Africa Company paid £70,000 in connection with the raid into the Transvaal, and intended to start a revolution. The Times publishes a dispatch from Pretoria, giving further telegrams connected with the reform movement in Johannesburg from October to December. One dispatch refers to Col. Rhodes, brother of Cecil Rhodes, drawing a draft of £17,000 on the British South Africa Company on Dec. 20 On Dec. 20 D on Dec. 20. On Dec. 28, Dr. Harris, secretary of the company at Cape Town, telegraphed to Dr. Jameson at Pitsani, saying: "It is all right, if you will only wait. Capt. Heaney comes to you from Col. ### CHAMBERLAIN EXPLAINS

The Transvaal Situation to the House of Commons.

London, May 9.-In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain, replying to Mr. Harcourt, said he had not threatened President Kruger at all, but had claimed the right make friendly representations. President Kruger promised to consider these representations, and the Government had asked Sir Hercules Robinson, Governor of Cape Colony, to come to England, but the request for him to come was not intended as a call. In regard to the Chartered Company, he said he did not dispute the authenticity of the cipher tele-grams which the Transvaal authorities had published, although there was as yet no legal proof that they indicated complicity on the part of the directors of the company. But, he continued, as regarding the actual investigation of the continued tual invasion of the Transvaal, there was reason to believe Mr. Rhodes had expressed his disapproval and had endeavored to stop the raid. Did the Opposition, he asked, demand the punishment of Mr. Rhodes? Whatever have been Mr. Rhodes' errors, he had also rendered great service, which could not be forgotten. Mr. Rhodes was now deprived of power for mischief, and the directors of the Chartered Company had shown their confidence in him by deferring their acceptance of his resignation. Considering the disturbed state of Rhodesia, and the influence of Mr. Rhodes in that territory, he did not blame the directors for their show of confidence. The Government, he said, adhered to their promise to make a searching inquiry into the action of the Chartered Company, but he held that such an inquiry must not be opened until judicial proceedings connected with the Transvaal raid were ended. Then, he said, he would propose an inquiry by a joint committee of both

Mr. Chamberlain said that a harmonious settlement of the question of rights of the Uitlanders had long been Mr. Rhodes' dearest object. If he could only have found a co-worker in President Kruger the results would been beneficent in promoting the federation of the South African states, wherein local rights would have to be fully regarded. Though recent events had sadly interfered with these objects, their accomplishment still remained the Government's chief aim. President Kruger's refusal to come to England at the Government's request to modify the convention of 1884 had ended the prospects of a private conference upon the leading difficulty. What, then, he asked, ought to be the right step? It had been suggested that the Government ought to have sent an ultima-tum to President Kruger. This would certainly have been rejected and would have led to war. The Govern-ment, he declared, could not think of resorting to war in order to enforce internal reforms in the Transvaal. This declaration was received with cries of "Hear, hear." Henry Labouchere described the ompany as a gang of shady financiers, who were running a gambling concern, with the Union Jack flying Cecil Rhodes, he said, had uttered deliberate falsehoods, basely deceiving Governor Robinson, and had, when Prime Minister of Cape Colony, disgraced and dishonored the high tradition that British Ministers did not make money from their posi-tions. Mr. Labouchere concluded by declaring that he regretted the de-cision of Mr. Chamberlain, who was fettered by the Cabinet. The Business Situation

In the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

R. J. Dun & Co.'s Review and Bradstreet's

New York, N. Y., May 9 .- Exports of $5,850,000 this week have produced no momentary disturbance, which is proof of the soundness of financial conditions and of the prevailing confidence in better things to come. Home money is in better demand, and more easy to get, and greatly improved commercial settlements have their natural effect in greater freedom of commercial loans. Much of the hesitation at present is due to temporarily reduced demand in some industries, and in iron and steel the power of the new ombinations is being tested by refusal of orders, so that production exceeds consumption, but consumption exceeds new buying. Failures for the week have been 238 in the United States, against 227 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 34 last year. Bradstreet's report: Relatively unfavorable features of the general business situation this week include unseasonably cool weather, which at some centers has checked trade; continued surplus stocks of cottons, which depress prices; dullness and idle machinery in the woolen goods industry; a falling off in demand for lumber at St. Louis and Minneapolis, and continued duliness in iron and steel, where, although mills and furnaces are fairly active, there is a continued absence of new orders. The favorable side of the picture includes a marked increase in the total volume of bank clearings, a longer list of staples, for which quotations have advanced; almost uniform and unexpectedly improved prospects for cereal and cotton crops, and a more confident feeling as to autumn business. The evident though gradual increase in the volume of business during the past two or three weeks shows itself in an enlarged volume of bank clearings. The aggregate for the week is $1,135,000,000, or 15 per cent more than last week, but only 7-10 of 1 per cent larger than in the first week of May. 1895. Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat), from both coasts of the Inited States this week amount to 1,882,000 bushels, as compared with 1,260,000 bushels last week; 2,805,000 bushels in the first week of May, 1895; 2,815,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1894, and 2,712,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

IN CANADA. General trade is more active in the Province of Quebec, as reported by Montreal jobbers and by those at Quebec City. There is a fair movement in drygoods and hardware at Toronto, but prices are unchanged and collections slow. At Nova Scotia the volume of business is small, and there is no improvement in the demand for fish. Exports of lumber from New Brunswick to the United States are heavier than last year. The Newfoundland fishery turns out better than expected. and the higher price of codfish and better prospect of the lobster fishery are additionally encouraging as to the are additionally encouraging as to the business situation in that colony. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax amount ties. The concensus of opinion is that to $20,894,000 this week, reviving evi- the ticket will be completed with the 25 per cent, but there is a slight falling off compared with the week one tract all Harrison's friends, and his year ago, while compared with the conservative record would bring him year ago, while compared with the week two years ago a moderate increase is indicated.

There are 38 business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week, against 26 last week, 27 in the week one year ago, and 30 two

Uniformity in Price

That is what the people of today demand. You cannot mark one one or two lines away down, and think that, by thus doing, it is possible to get long margins somewhere else. That day has gone by, and we believe forever. One of the great characteristics of our establishment is that all goods are marked in plain | figures, and at such uniform low prices as to commend them to the intelligent public. A Scandal That Involves Two Bespour able Families-An Embezzlement

Case Dropped. Chatham, Ont., May 8.—Dover township has a scandal involving two of the most highly respectable ilies. The affair has culminated in the arrest of Thomas Rankin, Dover Center, a general store-keeper, who is about 20 years of age. The complainant, Minnie Clark, a daughter of Mr. Wm. Clark, of the Bear Line, is aged 17, and charges the paternity of her unborn child on young Rankin. Crown Attorney Douglas, of this city, who has the case for the prosecution, is willing to have a settlement on the basis of a marriage, but Ranwill not consent, preferring to take the chances in a criminal trial. The case of David Waugh, charged embezzlement of $500 belong to Messrs, Steinhoff & Gordon, Wallaceburg, and who was arrested and brought from Detroit by Provincial Detective Campau and Detective Woffle, of Dresden, was again before the court yesterday. A settlement of the case has been effected, Waugh having paid back the money. "Advertiser." London, May 9.-The Prince of Wales and the Countess of Warwick have succeeded in once more absorbing the gossip of society for the best part of the week, and many of the venerable dames and blushing "buds" of the world of aristocracy have not yet ceased chattering or whispering over the doings of the heir-apparent and his beautiful friend, sometimes referred to as "Babbling Brooke" of the days of the "great baccarat scandal," when that lady was simply Lady Brooke. The Prince, the mischief-mongers point warm and bright, and the parks and out, with frowns, sighs, winks or streets have been crowded. In spite smiles, according to temperament. spent Sunday at Warwick Castle, with a hastily arranged house party, which included Ladies Rosslin and Cairns, Lord Willoughby De Broke, Sir Frederick Sykes, Major-General Sir Francis Greenfell, "Willis" Low and others, had been gathered together to meet the Prince. The lovely countess took the Prince of Wales up the River Avon in an electric launch, and in the afternoon the party enjoyed a "tea" on the lawn of the courtyard, where the ladies and gentlemen also played tennis and cycled, and, in short. gate. enjoyed themselves greatly. Of course, that speed; but the rate they went at them was as nothing to the clatter which followed the announcement, on Thursday, that the Countess of Warwick had been practically presented to the Queen, at the drawing-room at Buckingham Palace. It is true that Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein (second daughter of her Majesty), presided, but it was "in behalf" of Queen Victoria that she did so, and a presentation to the princess upon that occasion was equivalent to being presented to the Queen herself. The Wales, who was to have presided at this function, was "unavoidably" absent in the south of France, where she is visiting her sister, the ex-Empress of Russia, while the latter nurses the long-suffering Czarewitch, said to be in the last stages of consumption. It is recalled that the very attractive countess "succeeded to the title" about three years ago, and Mr. Dearness spoke on the training that since that time she has been of the powers of observation and trying in vain to be "presented on her succession." She tried to get present-100 lessons sent in at the previous ed last year at a drawing-room which the Princess of Wales was to have held in behalf of the Queen; but almost at the last moment the Princess noticed the name of the Countess of Warwick among those she was to receive. Then. it is said, there was a "flare-up" round. The Princess of Wales paid a hasty visit to the Queen at Windsor Castle, and rumor had it that there was a "scene." The Princess and her daughters hastily departed for the continent, and a paragraph appeared in the newspapers saying, in substance, that the Countess of Warwick, "owing to a sudden attack of influenza," was "prevented from attending the drawin any other branch earnest work at ing room." To add to the triumph of the countess, she was presented by no o keep near the top, but even to keep less a personage than the Marchioness of Salisbury, wife of the Premier. The countess was the center of admiration. Her jewelry consisted of diamonds, turquoise and pearls Another much-admired dress was that of Miss Murclasson Ford, who was presented by her mother, Mrs. W. E. Sanford, of Hamilton, Canada. The Duchess of Marlborough, according to rumor, was to have been presented, but will possibly wait until the Queen holds a drawing room in person. Failing this, the young duchess may be presented at a drawing room which the Princess of Wales is expected to hold shortly

MAUD'S MARRIAGE. Growing interest is taken in the coming wedding of Princess Maud of Wales to Prince Charles of Denmark.

The royal family will put off their mourning for Prince Henry of Be tenburg on the day of the ceremon.

The west end storekeepers are in despair owing to the Queen showing a strong disposition to cut down the ceremonies attending the coming wedding, on account of the fact that the Best Just family is in mourning. The Queen's growing sentiment in regard to all deceased members of her family is well known, and it has of late years developed into something of a mania. This was instanced by her ordering the return for preservation at Windsor of the donkeys which Battenburg used in Africa. The proposal that the wedding shall take place in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace, where the Duke and Duchess of Fife were married, has not been kindly received in the quarters most concerned. It will be practically impossible to have a semi-private ceremony, owing to the fact that Prince Charles is the son of a reigning monarch, and is, moreover, closely allied to the English house. The usual etiquette, when any court is in private mourning at the time of a wedding in the royal family, is for black to be discarded on the day of the ceremony, and at these functions which immediately precede the marriage.

LONDON AT ITS BEST. London has been at its best during the past week. The weather has been of the fact that many new cycling clubs have been organized, and that Hyde Park is thronged with cyclists. there are signs that the so-called 'wheeling craze" is on the wane among the leaders of fashion. Several of the latter who were the first to take to "biking" are now always to be seen in the park on horseback. The Sunday church parade is likewise given up to suburbanites this season, while early during the afternoons the "very select" sit on the lawns near Stanhope SOCIAL CHIT-CHAT.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, of New York, who have been here attending the proceedings which have led to the extradition of William Dunlop and William Turner, two of their former servants, for stealing jewels valued at about £60,000, have many engagements before them. Lord North entertained Mr. and Mrs. Burden at dinner on Wednesday. It is not likely that the young Duke and Duchess of Marlborough will spend any portion of the summer at Newport. The coupie are makin, extensive engagements for the entertainment of large house parties at Blenheim at the conclusion of the London season. Recently the traffic inspector of the Great Western Railway was summoned to Blenheim and asked to introduce a special service on the branch lines running thither, for the convenience of these guests. Their graces will come to London for the season about May 15, and have taken for that period No. 6 Audley Square, which is the most fashionable portion of Mayfair. The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough will entertain largely in town, in addition to giving the looked-forward-to "weekend" parties at Blenheim. They have been buying lavishly of carriages and horses, and the Duchess, with Princess Louise, will attend the Oxfordshire Agricultural Show. The Duke and Duchess will be at Henley when the regatta week begins. The Marquis of Donegal, who is hereditary High Admiral of Lough Neagh and clerk of the peace for Belfast," is in the Bankruptcy Court. His liabilities are estimated at £519,000, and his assets, thus far, are £122.

WEALTHY BUSINESS MEN.

Lord Dunham has sold his collieries, from which he derived an income of about £70,000, to Sir James Joicey, the wealthy north country coal owner, who for years has been a mine of gold for the Liberal party, in whose interests he represents the Chester-le-Street division of Durham in the House of Commons. Sir James is also the principal proprietor of the Newcastle Leader, and is said to have invested £60,000 n that paper. Some time ago he purchased the Ulgham estate from the Earl of Carlisle, the property consisting of an entire village and a number of farms. At the time of the purchase the transaction was pointed out as being another instance of the passing of the territorial possessions of feudal owners into the hands of wealthy men of business. On the other hand, a receiving order has been issued against Earl Poulet, father of the notorious Viscount Hinton, who for years tried to shame his family into supporting him in idleness by playing a hand or gan in the streets. When last reported in the newspapers, about a year ago, the Viscount was acting as for a kinetoscope, near Leather Lane, Holborn. He said that organ grinding had permanently crippled his right

Explanations in Order.

While Dr. Montague is in the city, it might be timely for our esteemed fy a yearning public as to why in the name of mystery it was thought the correct thing to displace Sir John Carling from the position of Minister of Agriculture, and to elevate Dr. Montague thereto, at our old citizen's Does Dr. Montague know more about agriculture than Sir John Carling? Is he a more practical Had he done more for his party? Does he, in fact, know a mangel-wurzel from an artichoke? The only connection the Doctor has had with agriculture that we ever heard of was in shipping his potatoes to Ottawa on a Government palace car. Will the Free Press, therefore, be good enough to explain to a waiting public why Sir John Carling was thrown out of the position of Minister of Agriculture to make room for the voluble Montague?

Save the Shade Trees.

citizens of London will rethe stately locust trees with which the early residents of this city borer was permitted to destroy every Then the citizens spent stowed much care upon the planting and rearing of maple trees. The result is that in almost every thoroughfare we have either double or single rows of magnificent shade trees, and the city has a charm not only for residents, but for every visitor who sets foot in our broad and well-kept These shade trees are worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the city. If they were destroyed they could not be replaced in their present condition for a quarter of a century to come, and then only after they will be, and by a kindred agency to that which carried off the locus trees, unless concerted action is taken to prevent the further ravages of the borer that is now in evidence in every part of the city. The city engineer has been issuing instructions to householders to prevent the destruction. The remedy is a simple one, but judging by past experience there is small hope that it will be generally applied. The civic authorities should take the matter in hand. The mayor and aldermen must appoint competent men to apply the remedy in a systematic manner in every ward in the city. It can best be done in a co-operative manner, and there should be no further delay. The shade trees are under civic control. and they should be preserved by civic vigilance. Let there be no further delay in appointing the necessary help to have the trees preserved, and the beauty of the city, in which we all are vitally interested, preserved.

A Manufacturer's View.

In a speech at a public meeting in Toronto, on Thursday night, Mr. Geo. Bartram said he spoke as a manueverything he had in the world invested in manufacturing in that city, and he wished to say that he was not afraid of the Liberal policy. The Massey Company, the Gurney Company and the Bartram Engine Company, all employing a large number of men, would, in his belief, be better off under a tariff framed by Mr. Laurier than at present, because if reduction was made in the tariff on their products a like reduction, or a greater, would be made in the raw material entering into these products. He proposed during the campaign to state these views at greater length. and to show that a tariff for revenue such as Mr. Lawrier proposed, would be in the best interests of the manufacturers themselves. In conclusion. Mr. Bartram warmly eulogized the honest government of Sir Oliver Mowat, and said the time had come to put Mr. Laurier and the Liberals in power, and secure a like honest Government in the Dominion. Everyone was saying the Government at Ottawa have been in too long. Turn them out, he added.

Mr. Bartram's sentiments are not only those of the large majority of the electorate of Canada, but of very many manufacturers in this city and in every center of population. These employers of labor, with the overwhelming majority of their workmen, laugh to scorn the proposition of the professional politicians who are going up and down the country shedding crocodile tears over what they essert will be the ruination of the manufacturers of Canada unless they put up the funds to buy enough of rotes to again place in power the individuals who have so persistently mismanaged public affairs.

Sir Oliver's Pledge. The only "weakness" that the Gov-able to pick out in Sir Oliver Mowat's letter to Mr. Laurier is, that he has not at once resigned the Premiership and offered himself for a seat in the House of Commons. But there is no real weakness in the business, and the people who have learned to confide in the honesty and integrity of Sir Oliver will not so regard it, no matter how much the reference to it may be harped upon. The Liberal leaders have carefully studied their battle ground, and they know that the only place where they are really weak is the Senate. Owing to the faulty constitution of that body the Conservatives have been enabled to fill it with their placemen for eighteen years, without let or hindrance by the people at large, and as a consequence the Senate has come to be composed almost wholly of members representing the Conservative party. Excepting Hon. R. W. Scott, of Ottawa, Hon. Mr. Power, of Halifax, Senator McInnes, of British Columbia, and perhaps one or two others, there is not a man left in the Senate chamber capable of strongly and clearly presenting the views of the Liberal party when the Government of the country comes to be en trusted to them by the people. A Lib eral of the first rank as a Minister and a statesman will be required in the Senate then to expound and defend the measures and policy of the Government, and such a man without any question is Sir Oliver Mowat. For this object the leaders of the party desired that Sir Oliver should be reserved for the Senate. His services would be valuable in the House of Commons, but the Liberals in that chamber overtop and overmatch the Conservatives; no new blood is required there by them excepting as to numbers, and that lack will be supplied in the new Parliament. The scheme could not be better planned than it has been in the public interest: and if Sir Charles Tupper could be persuaded to give Sir Oliver a seat in the Upper House now, the latter would no doubt accept it and take his part in the election contest as a member of the Dominion Parliament. But of course Sir Charles will do nothing of the kind, and Sir Oliver must wait until Mr. Laurier is in command. His pledge to join Mr. Laurier is given, and the electors of Canada will ask no better assurance that he will be a member of the Liberal Cabinet.

tion existing in the high tax party these days is nowhere better exemplified than in the fact that over one-half of the time of the average Conservative orator in one wing of the party is taken up in denouncing the record and the speeches of his fellow-Conservatives belonging to the other wing. Each section declares that it alone represents eld-time Conservative principles. and as the leaders never had the courage to call a convention and agree upon a platform, one claim is just as good as the other. And the disunion will continue to prevail till the united political party of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat is voted into power by the people.

Recent Farm Sales

The high tax pilgrims, in addressing a meeting at Glencoe yesterday, asked the yeomanry of West Middlesex to believe that they had been enriched by the system which has added enormously to the burdens of the people, any kind. and especially of the farming community. This reminds us that when the present managers of affairs at Ottawa got into power, it was on the distinct cry that the farming community were oppressed, and that what was needed o keep up the value of land and of law that is now on the statute books. It is worth considering for a moment how ruthlessly this claim is discounted by the conditions existing today. A Delaware farmer bought a 200acre farm thirteen years ago for $11,-000. He sold out his 100-acre farm at a good price, and with the proceeds paid one-half cash, borrowing the rest of the money. Since that time he has toiled early and late to improve the place. He has tile-drained it through-He has improved its buildings. With his wife he has toiled early and late these thirteen years to make ends meet, and his three children, when not at school, have been impressed into the service. But all that he has been able to do has been to keep the interest on his loan paid up and get the bare necessaries of life. He offered to sell the farm, undoubtedly very much improved by his labor, and by the exwas not offered $11,000, the price originally paid for it by him. He could not get a bid of $8,000, though he was willing to sell it for this sum, Our readers know that this man's experience can be duplicated in every county of old Canada. From Dunwich township, a rich agricultural section of Elgin county, for example, the St. Taomas Journal has the following transactions in farm lands: "Geo. Milligan has purchased the farm of Theodore Mills, part of lot 24, concession 5, south of A, consisting of take much exercise, and I fight the 75 acres, for $2,700. This farm was first sign of stomach troubles with purchased some years ago by Mr. Mills Scott's Sarsaparilla. It has never from his father for $5,009. This indicates a depreciation in land values of a doctor's bill."

"Jas. French has purchased the farm spent in improvements. Here, in four the, of all dealers.

years, is a clear loss of $300, or 13 per "John Galbraith has purchased acres from James French for $1,650. This farm was purchased by Mr. ernment organs and friends have been French ten years ago from Angus McGugan for over $2,500."

An attempt is made to explain away the causes for this shrinkage of values. But everyone who is not an office-holder or an unreasonable partisan must concede that whatever other causes have been at work the extravagant expenditure of taxes wrung from the people must be recognized as depressing agencies. The official record tells the tale:

1. The gross debt of Canada increas. ed by $144,000,000-from $174,000,000 to $318,000,000-since 1878. The net debt of Canada increased by $113,000,000-from $140,000,000 to $253,000,000—since 1878.

2. The public expenditure increased from $23,500,000 to $38,000,000 since 1878. notwithstanding the promise of Sir Charles Tupper that the high tax Government would govern the country for $1,000,000 less than the Mackenzie Government did.

3. Deficits aggregating $17,730,000-$4.153,000 in the last fiscal year-notwithstanding the pledges made in 1878 that the Tory Government, with the aid of the National Policy, would forever abolish deficits.

Some of the specimen corrupt expenditures may be given:

1. The Onderdonk scandal, in which Sir Charles Tupper figured, and which cost the people of Canada $1,113,000 over and above what competent engineers asserted was a fair price for

2. The McGreevy-Connolly scandal, which resulted in the "boodling" of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars of public money.

3. The "hard pan" claims scandal with its steal of $272,000. 4. The Curran bridge scandal with its steal of $270,000.

5. The waste of $476,000 on the Tay Canal for the especial benefit of Minister Haggart's mill.

6. The waste of $224,000 on the Caraquet railway job. 7. The waste of $124,000 on the Little Rapids lock-a useless work which has no traffic and yields no revenue. 8. The waste of $600,000 on the Galops Rapids Channel, which shipping men will not use because of its danger. 9. Wasted, stolen, or boodled on the St. Charles branch of the I. C. R .- $1,

To this list might be added over one million dollars expended on an uncalled-for Dominion voters' list, and many other equally indefensible expenditures of the people's taxes. When the subject was before Parliament, Hon. Mr. McIsaac, the Liberal member who captured the seat held till his death by Sir John Thompson, proved that over seven millions of dollars had been thus worse than squandered, necessitating largely increased burdens on the taxpayers. Even at the eleventh hour of the dying Parliaand after the late Sir John Thompson, the Auditor-General, and every engineer connected with the work had reported against its payment, the men in power, led by Sir Hibbert Tupper, attempted to have yet another scandalous payment made, which would have added to the sum named another $750,000.

Do the taxpayers, whether they are farmers or workers in other callings, need to be told why land has depreciated in value and unnecessary hard times have been caused? But this reed not always continue. A change of men and methods will put new life into the country. Under the new order of things every one will be enabled to enjoy his earnings without paying toll to combines or rings of by no means unusual with Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has given health to suffering children, even when health seemed impossible. The secret of its success is that it purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood.

The board last night decided not to buy metallic shingles, as, owing to the closeness of contract figures and the estimates, to do so would only leave them a margin of $31 out of the grant of $25,000. It was thought that by the time the metallic shingles were needed the board would be in a position to do the work itself.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture will shortly issue a lengthy spring crop bulletin. Of this report the "Advertiser" is today able to furnish an advance condensation. The bulletin will say:

POOR FALL WHEAT CROP. creased acreage; fair condition."
There has not been for many years so unfavorable a report as we have just received. The large majority of our correspondents report extensive destruction by freezing from ice forming on the bare fields. The loss is much heavier on clay than on light soils. A large amount will be plowed up or resown to spring grain. The re-port from the townships along Lake Erie and Lake Ontario, from Windsor to Kingston, are, with very few exceptions, of a most unfavorable nature. In Huron, Grey, and part of Simcoe the general report is "thin and patchy." The most favorable reports come from a range of townships beginning in Lambton and running east through parts of Middlesex, Perth, Oxford, Wellington, Dufferin and South Simcoe. Putting the very best construction upon the reports, the general condition at present can be summed up as poor condition with reduced acreage.
CLOVER OUTLOOK POOR.

Clover-The red clover made a poor catch in the spring of 1895. The drought of last summer in the west was another setback. Consequently, it went into the winter in rather poor condi-tion. There was considerable freezing out during the winter and spring, and the present reports are quite unfavorable. Some say that it is becoming more and more difficult to grow red clover, and others go even as far as to say that the day of red clover is past Ontario. The worst reports are from

VERY EARLY VEGETATION. Vegetation-The remarkable earlito by nearly every correspondent, some of whom say that they do not remember vegetation being as far forward on the last of April in 30 or 40 years. The stage of growth is placed at from "From the present appearances the one to three weeks in advance of the average season. In most localities cattle had been turned out to grass, forest trees were getting well into leaf The speaker was Mr. Charles Baker, and wild plums were in blosom, while were in bloom. of Spring and Early Summer buying. Winter Gowns must be discarded and cooler ones made up. We make some timely offers today in goods for summer wear. Perhaps many of our customers are in the midst of housecleaning, but it will pay you to drop everything for a little while and get your choice of these offers:

larger range Washing Kaiki Silks, better quality than above, new goods.

YOU'LL GAIN.

We bought from the manufacturers 2,000 yards of Japanese Silks. We bought them to retail at 37 1/2c a yard, which we thought would be a bargain. But they didn't come to us in right condition—the edges were imperfect, but otherwise they are all right, and the imperfection doesn't hurt them in the least. We are selling them at 29c a yard, 23 inches wide. You'll gain by the manufacturer's mistake. We have the most beautiful and attractive range of all kinds of Silks at close prices for cash.

DRESS GOODS.

Here we have high quality and perfection in style, combined with remarkably low prices. Those who wish to indulge their good taste may at the same time practice economy. We can state with confidence that the values offered here are unprecedented. This ought to make today of surpassing interest to our customers. We mention in part:

At 25c. A large range of qualities and colors, original price from 50c to 75c. We are selling them at 25c a yard, 42 inches wide. All summer weight 50c Colored Mohairs, 42 inches wide, selling at 32c; 65c Mohairs, 44 inches wide, at 49c; 85c Mohairs, 45 inches wide, at 65c

Silk Warp Mohairs, pattern dresses, original price $10 50, now $6 95; full seven yards in each length, 47 inches wide. Handsome All-Wool French Cashinere, worth 40c, for 28c, in colors, 42 inches wide.

TEXTILE BUCKSKIN—It's splendid for interlining skirts and sleeves. I gives style without suffocation. You'll always have it if you try it once, Just the thing for summer gowns. Price, 25c.

especially in the counties of Bruce and Grey, many cattle had barely enough to support life, and there was hardly enough bedding to keep them comfortable and clean, but taking the Province as a whole, the general condition of both dairy and beefing stock is most encouraging. Sheep are in a good state of health generally, only a few cases of liver disease and grub in the head being reported, and the lambs. Swine are freerer from disease Fall Wheat—In the Crop Bulletin of November, 1895, the new fall wheat Price of pork, however, is most disprise of pork, however, is most disprise to how raisers. couraging to hog raisers.

Regarding the supply of hay for live stock during the winter, and the tend-ency of farmers to hold for a raise in price, some correspondents state tha few of their neighbors who refused to sell hav at $12 and $14 a ton in the winter are now willing to dispose of it at $8 or $9 a ton. FARM SUPPLIES PLENTIFUL. Farm Supplies-Except when farmer held on to their hay for famine price there is a scarcity of that article, the effect of which, however, has been dis counted by the generous pasturage already afforded by the advanced stage of the growing season. There is still an abundance of oats on hand, even though this grain was freely fed during the winter, owing to the low price. offered for it. Wheat is said to be rather scarce although some correspondents aver that $1 a bushel would bring out a surprisingly large quantity. Fat cattle are to be found in much larger numbers than might be expected from the scarcity of fodder, and store cattle are sufficient to meet the demand. The earliness of the grass has materially lessened the drain on the fodder supply, and owners of beeves have thereby been relieved of much anxiety TOO MANY FARM HANDS. Farm Labor-The general report is that there are more farm hands offering for work than are required, and that wages are low. Many reasons are given, such as the increased use of machinery, the decreased demand for labor in other callings, the necessity of economy owing to tinued low prices, and the fact, freness of the growing season is alluded quently stated, that cheap labor, to by nearly every correspondent, some though inferior, has displaced some of the regular labor. Many farmers report that they intend trying this year to do all their work within their own families. There is, however, a fair demand for first-class female do-

It was stated some days ago that there was some friction between the London and Hamilton military authorities with respect to the big demonstration in Hamilton on May 25, in which the Seventh Battalion has been invited to take a principal part. Col. Lindsay was seen today on the subject. He said that there must have been some misunderstanding outside of the military authorities in both cities, because to his knowledge only unanimity had characterized the relations between the officers of the Thirteenth and the officers of the Seventh. "It is true," Col. Lindsay said, "that the visit of our management committee to Hamilton has been postponed from time to but from the anxiety of the Hamilton military men to have every arrangement completed on their part, and leave nothing undone for our We know that we will have a firstclass reception in Hamilton. Lead Nickles.

The Street Railway Company Bothered by Them.

They Are a Good Imitation-Wellington Street Construction Commence d.

The street railway company are very fond of nickles, but they draw the line at lead ones. Some kind person who uses the cars considerably must think that the company like them, as he has a fondness for getting rid of his lead nickles in that way. They are first-class imitations and could easily escape notice when handed over a counter, but more easily still when pressed into the farebox, the conductor not being allowed to handle the fares.

You know now you've roasted, fretted, ruined your clothes, your health and your temper, by doing your cooking in the old wood or coal way. Your job's pretty near as bad as those stokers on the Atlantic liners we read about and pity. Anyway, you're tied up to a great roasting fire all through the hot summer weather. You'd better get out of the stoke-hole

Is It Possible to Stay the Present Epidemic of Heart Disease Among Canadians?

It is simply terrible to recount the mortality among Canadians from heart disease. There is a certain cure for heart disease in Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, as thousands of Candians can testify. Mrs. Roadhouse, of Willscroft, Ont., suffered from heart trouble to the extent that "cold sweat would stand out in great beads upon her face," and yet, by the use of this medicine she was permanently cured. One of the encouraging features of it is that it gives relief in 30 minutes, and thus saves thousands of lives.

Marketing and Seiling Cheese.

The Advantage of the Call Board System Set Forth.

If Properly Carried Out Will Give Good Results-Points for Dairymen.

By J. W. Wheaton, secretary of Western Dairymen's Association. Marketing and selling cheese is one of the important parts of our co-operative cheese factory system. There are seven dairy boards of trade or cheese markets in Western Ontario where cheese is bought and sold, situated at Brantford, Woodstock, Ingersoll, London, Listowel, Shelburne and Barrie. Each factory is represented by somemarkets or not, just as the factory he represents wishes. With a few exceptions all the salesmen attend some one of the markets. For several years these markets have been operated under what is known as the "call" system, a system which, if properly carried out, and the rules connected with it strictly adhered to, will give good results. During the past year, however, at nearly all the markets this system has fallen into disrepute, owing to the fact that the regulations connected with it have been totally disregarded by the members. One of the important regulations that has been broken frequently is that that a large share of the cheese should be sold on the market only. This was both buyers and sellers made a practice of doing business off the market and using it as a kind of "feeler," but have deliberately negotiated for the purchase and sale of cheese off the market on the day upon which the market was held, and frequently as soon as the "call" was over. Under this condition of things no system of selling could be carried on successfully down. (Laughter.) In Ontario there and give the best result.

These difficulties have been discussed As Minister of Education at the various conventions during the winter, and now, as the time for marketing cheese approaches, dairymen those schools. Their opponents at-are considering upon what line the tacked them for being in league with markets should be operated. Some are | the Catholic hierarchy. What did Sir advocating a return to the old "hole Oliver Mowat do? Was he less vigand corner" method, and others a continuance of the "call" system under stricter rules. The latter is much to if they wanted the Mowat Governbe preferred. A return to the old plan ment they must take it as it is, and would certainly be a retrograde step, Sir Oliver was sustained. Sir Oliver and not at all in the interest of the in Mr. Laurier's Cabinet will see that salesmen or producer. The "call" system, if properly carried out, has many advantages. It enables both buyer and seller to know what cheese are sold and what are not, and also to know the prices paid. It brings the cheese of the various factories into public competition, and should, if the bids are in accordance with the value of the cheese, put a premium upon the best sold in public competition, a record sold in public competition, a record minority and majority. Sir Oliver is kept of the sales, which is binding Mowat goes into the Liberal Governupon both buyer and seller. Many salesmen state that last year the French minority in Manitoba. they could get a higher price by selling off the market. We believe this to of statesmanship on the part of the be quite true, and largely the result present Government, and impressed standing one another. It has become of their vote on election day. Was recognized fact on many of the mar-

f the buyers and sellers not underkets that salesmen use the market as a kind of "feeler," and do not atto sell when the cheese are boarded, this difficulty would soon be overcome and buyers would be as ready to make their best bids on the market as off. It is only because there is a "call board" in operation that factories appear to do better by selling off the market. If there were no "call" system at all there would be no means of factorymen finding out whether they were getting more by selling off or on the market. They would be comment. We have been flying kites long pletely in the dark and at the mercy of enough in Canada. The vacant acres the buyer. Some have advocated a return to the old plan so that factory- an end must be made to kite-flying. men might see for themselves the effect it would have and be willing to eturn to the present system and to obey its regulations. We do not think it necessary to do this. If those interested would think the matter out for themselves, they will easily see what an injurious effect it would have upon the selling of cheese without having to put it into practice.

Factorymen often complain that appeals to remedy the market are made to the salesmen more than to the buyers. Both are equally to blame in breaking the regulations. But it must be borne in mind that cheese markets are more in the interests of the seller than the buyer, and were established chiefly for the benefit of the factorymen. Buyers tell us that there were more bargains in cheese and more money in it for them when there was no "call" board nor pubic competition in selling. Such being the case, those who are seeking reform in the system are perfectly justified in appealing only to the salesmen to remedy the evil. How are the difficulties to be reme died? is the question which now suggests itself. The remedy, as we have intimated, is entirely within the power of the salesmen, and if they will agree to abide by the regulations that now exist and to sell all their cheese (the summer months especially) when they are ready to ship at the highest price that can be got on the call board, the difficulty will be overcome and satisfactory results obtained. It has been suggested that all the markets should form a central incorporated association, or become branches of the Western Dairymen's Association, where their rules could be enforced according to law. Many things might be said in favor of this plan, but we do not think our factorymen our ready for such a move yet. Some of the difficulties might be overcome if the fac-torymen would co-operate and have one salesman for a number of factories. This would in some measure do away with the petty jealousies that often exist between factories, and which have something to do with unsuccessfully operating the markets, as one factory does not care to sell until its neighbor has done so. It would, however, be difficult to carry out this co-operative selling without more uniformity in the quality of the cheese made in the various factories. Where the cheese factory syndicate scheme advocated by the association for more uniform instruction is taken advan-tage of by our dairymen it may be possible to co-operate in selling to the advantage of all concerned in securing better prices and in materially lessening the cost of selling. Windsor Salt, Purest and Best. The richest gold has the least glitter.

At the Great Liberal meeting in Quebec, where 10,000 citizens welcomed Hon. W. Laurier, Hon. Geo. W. Ross was cheered for several minutes on rising to speak. He declared that the Liberal party in Ontario was never more united, never more confident of victory than now. There are no bolters in Ontario. There is no nest of traitors. Some men in On tario who were enamored of the National Policy formerly think less of it now. Recently a number of oldone whose duty it is to sell the cheese to the very best advantage. He may become a member of one of the cheese back to us. He had also come to Quebec to say that never was the Liberal party prouder of its leader than today—and as proof Ontario gave as his coadjutor its greatest man, Sir Oliver Mowat. The Liberals never had a leader who has so en-deared himself to the people of Canada as the distinguished gentleman who had just finished speaking. None of Mr. Laurier's enemies can say he ever made a tactical mistake. In all the difficulties of the past session he had withdrawn no pledge, he had not shifted ground. Mr. Laurier has yet to make his first mistake. He quoted from Mr. Laurier's great speech in Quebec that the basis and aim of the binding all members not to sell nor buy above and before all Canadians. ## He Wants a Change.

A Conservative President Resolves to Support Hon. Wilfrid Laurier.

Good Reasons for a Change of Government at Ottawa.

Cornwall, May 9.—There is quite a commotion in the Conservative ranks owing to the withdrawal of ex-Mayor A. F. Mulhern, president of the Conservative Association of Cornwall and Stormont. Mr. Mulhern was the organizer of the Conservative Association here, and his loss to the Tory party will be keenly felt. He addresses the following letter to the local press of today's issue:

"To the Executive of the Conservative Association of Cornwall and Stormont: "Gentlemen,-I hereby tender my resignation as president of the Con-servative Association of Cornwall and Stormont, and also desire to state that I have decided to withdraw from the Conservative party. I feel that I should express to my many warm friends in the Conservative ranks in Cornwall and Stormont my appreciation and gratitude to them for their many kindnesses and loyalty to me president of the association. Before deciding to retire from the party I have given the matter full and deliberate consideration, and I have come to the conclusion that consistently with the views I now hold, indorse the policy of the Conservative party as developed during the last session of Parliament. Sir Mackenzie Bowell having been treated most unfairly by the men who are now accepted as the leaders to fill the positions of the great statesmen, the late Sir John Macdonald and the late Sir John Thompson. I feel it would be subordinating my common sense and intelligence if I supported them in the coming campaign. For years I have stood by "he Conservative cause, while not at were applied to the burning mass, all times in accord with their policy; and in a short time the fire was exbut rather than accept the plank in the Liberal platform of unrestricted reciprocity or commercial union with United States, I assisted in my humble way in opposing that plank in burn. their platform, and which platform, Re and which question were unequivocally repudiated by the people of Canada at the polls, they being uncompromisingly hostile to any policy that savors of unpatriotic influence in the relationship which unites us to the motherland. The Liberals have, as I understand, wisely accepted the verdict, and the question of unrereciprocity or commercial union has disappeared from the arena of practical politics. Now that the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier has declared openly for the readjustment of the tariff upon wise and conservative lines, and not with the view of destroying the industries of the country, and believing that the commonsense of the people is strongly in favor of a purer and more econo mical administration in the expend ture of the people's money, and that will not support any further additions to the national debt of Canada (which is now at the limit line) by such financing as the Curran bridge. Soulanges Canal, etc etc., I now throw in my lot with the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, believing he will administer the affairs of the m. honesty, an patriotism, and will advocate a strong vigorous immigration policy, which may be the means of populating our western provinces, and bringing back for the millions they have already spent in opening out the fertile coun This will certainly be a great means of stimulating and assisting the prosperity of our manufacturing industries in the east.

furthermore believe that the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will make every effort to secure reciprocity treaties upon fair terms with all nations, which will largely assist in expanding the trade of the Dominion, and place us in line with the motherland, whose tremendous trade today is the envy and jealousy of the civilized world. ne, your obedient servant,

In the Methodist Conference on the Woman Question.

Shouting and Confusion Marked the Proceedings.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 9.-The woman question came up again in the M. E. vesterday, and caused a great deal of trouble, both to delegates and to Bishop Hurst. Mr. Morris Sharp, of Ohio, presented a resolution to excuse the women delegates, in that they have relinquished their seats and that their expenses be paid to the date of their withdrawal. The resolution also called in their male reserves. Dr. Nely, of Philadelphia, presented a substitute, in which the women were invited to remain as honored guests of the conference and their expenses ordered paid. Dr. Cranston rose and asked for a ruling by the chair as to the present status of the women in the conference.

Here, for instance, is his story of his initiation by Lord Lytton. He had previously had strange experiences in exchanging souls and observing with the syce, who said that the tat doubles, so that he was well disposed was at that moment safe in his own to become a pupil of Lord Lytton. When he first met the author of 'Zanoni," he did some crystal-gazing, after which he agreed to study magic under Lytton's guidance. "Three nights from this," said Lord Lytton, "I will call upon you."

"On the third evening I never left my rooms after dinner, but lit up my pipe and remained anxiously awaiting Sir Edward's arrival. Hour after hour passed, but no visitor, and I determined to sit up all night, if need be, feeling that he would come.

"He did! but not in the way I exbected. I happened to look up from he book which I was vainly attempting to read, and my glance fell upon of the fireplace. Was I dreaming, or did I actually see a filmy form, scarcely more than a shadow, apparentily seated there. I awaited developments and watched. "I entered, he was standing in the middle of the sacred pentagon, which he had drawn upon the floor with red chalk, and holding in his extended right arm the baguette which was ably pointed towards me. Standing thus, the he asked me if I had duly considered the matter, and decided to enter upon the course. I, replied that my mind was made up. He then and there adminstered to me the oaths of a neophyte of the Hermetic Lodge of Alexandria-the oaths of obedience and secrecy. It is self-evident that any further account of my experiences with Lord Lytton, or in Hermetic oircles, is impossible."

I have only room for one of his stories, that describing his experience with Mr. Jacob, of Simla. He was invited to dine with Mr. Jacob one evening with a well-known general, and had driven over from his bungalow, a distance of three-quarters of a mile. GRAPES GROWN ON A WALKING-

This body would consist, to a great extent, of reservists, who would no doubt readily return to her colors in compliance with the mobili-zation order, but of whom a large proportion would be more or less rusty. A second army corps might be gradually mobilized in the course of a couple of months later, but its composition would be somewhat miscellaneous.

It would remain to be seen in whom among the superior officers would be vested with the principal commands in the field. ## One Point

NEW novelist has risen out of the West! A young Lochinvar in literature, who is to prove to the scoffers who cry "Can any good come out of Nazareth?" that America is not to be renowned alone for its pork-packing emporiums, and never as a land of high-class fiction! Benjamin Sewell, of Hazel Green, Kentucky, is willing to remove the slur resting upon this continent (of which Canada is certainly an integral part) of being nonproducers of the great and the everlasting in literature.

The lucky Boston Herald discovered this jewel, or rather his carefully rolled, dirty, thumb-marked foolscap manuscript discovered them, wandering into that office one morning, without stamps for returning.

But when affinity meets affinity, you know-what matters a paltry few stamps or so?

However, to come to this literary pearl, gulled out a Kentucky oyster, which the Herald is willing to go to the expense of 25 cents to have set in a brass ring. It appears on the first page of the paper, and begins thus:

(For the Herald.) DEATH OF TWO LOVERS.

A Romance. By Benj. Sewell.

There is a story-something like a romance-connected with all love affairs that is never revealed to the public, simply from the fact that no one has sufficient courage to relate it. There is something strangely miraculous and extremely wonderful about the story of which I have the courage to relate. Doubtless all realize something of the sweets of love and of its charming and softening influences. Love is great civilizing agent. Think of the magic, infinite power love sways over the human heart. It varnishes house. the ugly places of beings and gives them a sweet, modest, gentle nature that is as undying as the evergreeen tree of eternal.

W. J. Lampton, in reviewing this new work for the Herald, says that if any writer has ever begun a story with more accuracy to nature, he would like to have his attention called to the title of that story. Could Ella Wheeler Wilcox, he asks, put more soulfulness into a definition of love than this wizard of Wolfe?

With the greatest expedition, the proceeds at once to get to the characters of his story, and

"When Carrie was a pretty, blueeyed girl of 6 years her parents rightly placed her in school under the tutor-ship of an excellent teacher. Each "As the church clock gave the last The ship of an excellent teacher. Each year she was sent to the country schools, for her parents lived in the country. To say that she advanced rapidly in her studies would be but slightly speaking. Each year she climbed the ladder higher and higher, until she was beyond the ability of any ordinary country school teacher. Now she was 14 years old, all merry and bright, and her good father then placed her in a college second to none in Kentucky. Then entered the sweetest the loveliest, the most beautiful girl of the college, the girl of girls. And who of our fictionists has given us a more touching picture of parental sorrow as a result of separation? And what an example is presented in Carrie's exemplary school-life to our giddy seminary girls.

But school-life is only the preparation for the great end of a woman's life. The novelist (evidently a sentimentalist) hurries over her graduation, and other minor scenes, to get into the only natural element of a girl of Carrie's stamp.

She loves! Who can escape? Certainly not a Miss Carrie.

Now comes prelude to Two Spoons about to wallow in the same dish of

I will not attempt to describe the wedding, but it actually occurred and was the social event of the city, and Carrie was there and added much to the magnificence and happiness of the occasion. It was there that Carrie first met Walter Hartright. He

nness

The diseases of thinness are scrofula in children, consumption in grown people, poverty of blood in either. They thrive on leanness. Fat is the best means of overcoming them. Everybody knows cod-liver oil makes the healthiest fat.

In Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil the taste is hidden, the oil is digested, it is ready to make fat.

When you ask for Scott's Emulsion and your druggist gives you a package in a salmon-colored wrapper with the picture of the man and fish on it—you can

There semed to be a kind of telling impress on her smiling, lovely, rosy cheeks that told Walter Hartright all about this as if by magic. It takes a poet to write up an October love scene. Any limp ryhmsters can warble of the spring, but a real poet plumps his young people right down in the midst of a trellis, and lets the October woodbine blaze above

Walter, who is evidently a spoon, out of the same set as Mushy Carrie, does his part of the duet beautifully, and is nothing if not the point.

"Walter had an introduction to Miss Carrie; had a pleasant conversation with her, in which he had ample courage to tell her that he more than admired her charming ways and her pretty, graceful and beautiful features, but frankly told her that he loved her with all the sincerity and warmness of a masculine heart. Told her that he loved her honor, her virtue and herself.

" Say, Carrie, do say, is my love accepted and reciprocated?" ejaculated Walter, dreamily like."

Only those who, too, have had a Walter ejaculate dreamily like! will know what that must have been.

"Did Carrie accept his love which offered so rashly and precipitous-Yes; the quickly kindled love of her romantic, throbbing heart prompted her to this precipitous, unpremeditated act, and fair, beautiful Carrie Norman became the worshiping bride of Walter Hartright. This was several days off, but all of Carrie's bridal days seemed to be one continuous holiday with her. She was the arrangements. exceedingly happy over her seemingly bright prospects for the future."

The speed with which Walter's bright, glittering eyes did their work on Carrie is nothing to the celerity with which Mr. Sewell gaily skips us on, from October to Christmas, when we find the air rent with the song of the snow-birds and Carrie cleaning

"Christmas came and was a glorious day. The air was rent with the melody of the snow-bird's song. All the morning long Carrie sang a love song as she skipped from room to room doing up things, stopping every now and then in one of the halls to have a short talk with Walter."

Walter prowling about the halls all day, it would appear, till the hour full of fate arrives.

The wedding would have been even legitimate and golden opportunity for Mr. Sewell to get in some of his beautiful brush-work, dripping with color, but he is only saving himself. hour. We read:

Till now all has smiled upon the loving Carrie and Walter, but the shades begin to close in. Mr. Sewell sets his palette afresh and lays out a plentiful supply of black and vermillion red. Then he begins to sling it on!

Until the wages are restored to the amount paid before the cut was made of a general lock-out, it is the intento start co-operative shops. The efforts to establish a second cooperative cigar factory in Detroit among the strikers who are still out seem destined to failure. Responses for loans to that object thus far received have not been encouraging, and just at present members are burwith an international assessment of $1 to replenish the deficiency in the per capita tax fund, caused by the large amount of assistance rendered the Detroit and other strikers. There are 132 men and women on the striking cigarmakers' roll. Payments for the past week amounted to $647. At a recent meeting of the builders' laborers of Toronto, who are on strike for 19 cents an hour, and eight hours a day, one of the members, speaking on the situation, said: "I have prepared the following statement to show you and the public what I earned during last year, and the way it was expended, and, let me say, the balance in this case was on the wrong side. The amount I earned was $235 86. I started to work on May 20, at 18 cents an hour, and from that time until Nov 4 worked full time." Continuing, said the speaker: "This is the way I spent my wages: Rent, $72; bread, $1 50 per week, $78; meat, $1 a week, $52; butter, 20 cents a week, $10; tea, 12 1-2 week, $5 20; summer fuel, $8; winter fuel, $28; total, $259 70, or $23 84 more than I earned." Contrary to the general impression created through the recent manifesto issued by the American Federation of Labor, that May 1 would witness a determined movement and many strikes for the eight-hour day, that date was almost as quiet in labor circles as in previous years. This is owing to the fact that the carpenters in most cities have already won the shorter day, and the horseshoers will not engage in a struggle until after their convention in June. In one or two industrial centers, however, the anticipated strikes came off, the city most affected being Boston, where all

For the next two weeks conditions in the labor movement in that city will be much disturbed. The workmen expect to win in most cases. In Buffalo, San Francisco and Los Angeles strikes of the building trades were called, the men uniting in the demand for the eight-hour day. In the first-mentioned city, it is stated, nearly ten thousand men are involved, including the workers on large and small jobs. In St. Louis, where only the cigarmakers are in enjoyment of a short workday, the movement amounted to nothing. It had been predicted that the movement in Cleveland would be widespread, but it fizzled out. There, as in many other cities, the bosses and the men compromised the matter. In Chicago, but for the strike of the bridge workers, the day was unevent-

"Look here, you fellows, we've got to keep better order in this class, and if you don't do it, I'll lick you." "Well, who are you?" "I'd like to see you!" "You'd better try it!" burst out the astonished chorus. "I can do it, if you come one at a fair play, and I will do it, too,

Miss Temple entered then, Hugh's threats bore no fruit that day, except to create worse order tham usual, and to make the teacher feel more hopeless. Theirs was the last class dismissed; the others scholars had scattered, and the six lads started

Come up this street here, and will!" cried Hugh. None of the others cared to risk the same treatment, and as Tim, though a ringleader in their mischief, was not a particular favorite with the boys, one was inclined to resent his defeat. The next Sunday Tim was absent from the class, and it was to this fact that Miss Temple attributed the unusually good order that prevailed among her boys, not knowing what wholesome respect they now felt for Hugh's prowess. "It's a very long way, Tim," she says with a sigh, "and I'se very tired." "That's just because you're a baby Nell; only babies get tired," replies Tim, disdaining to admit his own fatigue. But in reality his heart is sink ing, for her little face has grown white, and his own legs, sturdy though they are, find it every moment more difficult to climb. And well they might; since early morning the children have been walking, and now it is nearly 4 in the afternoon. "There! don't cry, Nell," he exclaims, stopping in their ascent to throw his arms penitently around her. The cruel accusation of being still a "baby" when she was trying so hard to be brave, "jest like a grown-up person," and not get tired, has been too much the overwrought nerves of the lit-

Why should not the children be encouraged to grow flowers by holding frequent juvenile FLOWER SHOWS. Day school teachers and superintendents of Sunday schools might do much to make the homes of many of the children bright and attractive by inaugurating flower shows among their scholars. I have in my mind a Sunday school where, in the early spring of the year, any boy or girl who wished to compete was supplied with three slips of different plants and one or two packets of seed for 5 cents. These they had to plant and grow themselves, and at a stated time in the late summer or early fall they brought them to the school for com petition and exhibition. Judges awarded prizes, and the plants remained on show during the evening for inspection by parents and friends. This was always a great success and aroused a lively interest. It also cultivated in the scholars a ove for the beautiful, kept them use fully occupied, and had a refining influence every way. Might not this be copied here? Who will try it?

BULBS OUT OF DOORS are now blooming finely; tulips, narcissus, crocus, scillas, and other varieties are now at their best. Don't you wish you had planted some last fall? ### A DOUBLE RESCUE.

Two Young Ladies Brought Back to Health and Strength,

One Was Threatened With Consumption Following an Attack of Pneumonia-The Other Was in an Advanced Stage of Anaemia-Dr. Williams' Pink Pink Restore Health After Other Medicines Tail.

From the Truro, N. S., News. Among the residents of Truro there are none better known or more highly esteemed than Mr. and Mrs. James Turner. Mr. Turner is an elder in the Presbyterian Church, and a man whose word is as good as his bond. In his family reside two young ladies, Miss Maud Christie, an adopted daughter, and Miss Jessie Hall, a sister of Mrs. Turner. Both young ladies are known to have had trying illnesses, and were said to have been restored to health by a popular medithe poets simply because he is asham- porter called upon them and asked of Rabinowitz to organize a national took up the process of building up our thers and sisters have no control, it their experience might be helpful to never been very strong. At this time an article was published in the paper concerning the cure of a young dy in Toronto by the use Williams' Pink Pills, and Mr. Turner, at once bought some. After I had used about six boxes I began to get gradually better, my strength began to return, my appetite improved, and had sound, refreshing sleep night. I have now used fifteen boxes of Pink Pills, and have no hesitation in saying that they have effected a wonderful cure in my case. In the case of Miss Hall, the Pink Pills have also accomplished marvels. She was attacked with dizziness, severe headaches and fainting spells, followed later by swelling of the feet and limbs, together with other symptoms of anaemia. After having been treated by a physician for some time without any noticeable improvement. she decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. After using a few boxes of the pills there was a decided improvement in her condition, and with the continued use of the medicine full

A Remarkable Movement.

The Jewish-Christian Agitation at Kishney.

One of the most interesting visitors at the World's Religious Parliament at Chicago was Joseph Rabinowitz, of Kishnev, in Bessarabia, southern Russia. He was invited because he, although not a minister, but a lawyer and a literary man, is at the head of what is probably the most unique "Have a good dinner?" asked one religious movement of the hour, a among the Jewish people of the East. So much is this movement misunderstood that Rabinowitz has recently published a tract in Jewish-German jargon, the language in which he addresses his congregation, in which he develops the leading ideas of his programme and object. It is entitled ing to this interesting document, which is given in dialogue shape, it is not the object of Rabinowitz to organize a new Israel and to teach Israel to desert the religious tenents Olivet, with the New Testament open before him, looking toward the Holy of a new movement in Israel toward Christ, not based on the missionary efforts of Christian Gospel bearers, out solely a result of the study of the New Testament. Yet it is not the aim of the Jewish reformer to connect himself or his followers with any of the existing branches of Christianity. against the Gentile Christianity of the leading nations representing the faith in Christ in our days, he seeks to revive the Jewish Christianity of the Apostolic days in the legitimate sense of the term. In other words he seeks to establish a Jewish Christian Church, in which the members, while becoming Christians in truth, and accepting all the fundamental principles of the New Testament respecting the personal work of Christ, shall nevertheless not cease to be Jews in nationality. They are thus young the New Covenant.

The fundamental idea of Rabinowitz's theology is expressed in these ried it. words: "We believe in the blood of Jesus, the Messiah, and in the sacred writings of both the Old and the New restament. And there in these books every one whose eyes are opened can see that by putting their faith in the blood of the Messiah the Jewish people, the people of God, can learn in what way it is to become an everto serve its God in truth through his physician, and still continued taking Son Jesus Christ. The doctor's medicine now as that which washes away the sin seemed to do me no good, and I grew of the world unites us in brotherly gradually worse. I became so low love with other Christians, yet it was from the beginning God's plan should continue to be his chosen race Therefore the new congregation calls itself the Sons of the New Covenant." Rabinowitz has been developing an extraordinary activity. He himself has never been ordained, nor does he baptize, although he himself was baptized by Prof. Mead, of Andover. But he preaches to large audiences in Kishnev, and has published a large number of pamphlets and sermons. There is no doubt as to the thoroughly orthodox character of his faith in Christ and the meritorious work, yet his determination to ora distinctly national Jewish church has weakened his hold on the sympathies of any Christian leaders and thinkers. Yet he is a power in the religious world of the day, positive character with a decided programme, and develops a wonderful activity in building up the church of the Israel of the New Testament. The movement has manifestly come to stay, and is to be a permanent factor in modern religious thought.

I continued its use up to five bottles, with the result that you see me today enjoying perfect health." The secret of this remedy is found in the fact that it dissolves the uric acid that is really the constituent element of kidney disease, and only when this change in the system takes place is a cure effected.

Must Lower Races Go?

Current Literature. Will the "lower" races of men, so called, eventually oust the higher ones in future conflicts, or will the Anglo-Saxon, the Teutonic and Latin hold their pre-eminence against the yellow races and the black? It has recently been held by ethnologists that while the non-European races may be temporarily inferior, it does not by any means follow that they will always remain so. It was certainly not so in the past. The Gauls and the Germans were once the "lower" race of the Roman world of the Augustan age, though today their positions are reversed; and if the march of empire seems to have been westward, so also has the gradual superiority of one race over another shifted from the extreme east in a westerly direction in an apparently certain and resistless march around the entire globe. It is a fact that the people of the Yellow and Black belt are inferior beings, and that the Caucasian can maintain the supremacy he has gained against superior numbers?
