THIS MAN'S LIFE WAS A MYSTERY

A. Rex Guycount Died in Victoria Hospital From an Attack of Pneumonia.

RELATIONS UNKNOWN

Was Well Educated and Came From England, but Nothing Is Known of His History or Family.

Mystery surrounds the history of A. Rex Guycount, of 280½ Dundas street, who died this morning in Victoria Hospital after an illness of about a week with pneumonia.

Guycount came to London eight years ago and has since followed his work as a painter, paperhanger and decorator. All that is known of him is that he came from England and that his family was said to be an aristocratic one.

Why he came here and why he lived absolutely the life of a recluse without saying a word to anyone that would disclose anything of his past, is unknown. Only a short time ago he asked his landlord, ex-Mayor Spencer, to see that he was decently buried if anything ever happened to him. Mr. Spencer promised the man that he would, and at his own expense is looking after the funeral arrangements, as otherwise Guycount's body would have been sent to the Medical School.

His Only Friend.

Guycount was 40 years old, and went to Victoria Hospital a week ago. He told the attendants that his only friend in the world was Mr. Spencer.

This morning Detective Nickle and Mr. Spencer went to the room where Guycount had lived for eight years. They were absolutely unable to find anything that would reveal the address of his relatives, if he has any.

"I knew very little about the man," said Mr. Spencer to The Advertiser. "He came here eight years ago from England. He was a man apparently well educated, but said very little."

Guycount at times acted in a very peculiar manner, and was thought to be mentally deranged.

"ASSAULT-AT-ARMS" AT "Y" GYMNASIUM

Gymnastic Carnival Proved a Splendid Success.

The assault-at-arms and gymnastic carnival which was held at the "Y" gymnasium, on the 18th and 19th inst., proved to be a big success. As last night was the last performance, a large crowd turned out to see the stunts. Some very difficult feats were performed by the young athletes and gymnasts. The programme consisted of work on the horse, parallel bars, horizontal bar, flying rings, tumbling, etc. One of the features of the evening was the fencing bout between Mr. Walters, champion of Canada, and Mr. Markle, of London. This proved very interesting to the spectators. A. Maudsley and E. Faner demonstrated a few holds in the art of wrestling, which was much applauded.

The clowns were H. Pingel, W. Foxworthy and Bruce Robinson Clerihew. The latter created much fun, especially to the younger folk. His wit and natural ability brought the house down many times with laughter.

The final act consisted of artistic posing by Physical Director Sovereign, and Gos Thompson. Both are possessed of marked physical development. Thompson is only 16 years of age, but can hand out something in the line of physique.

The evening was made very pleasant by an excellent musical programme, which was furnished by the Metropolitan Orchestra. The musicians received hearty applause from the audience.

WOODSTOCK PUZZLED BY A DISAPPEARANCE

Well-Known Young Man Has Not Been Seen Since April Ninth.

[Canadian Press.]

Woodstock, April 20.—Woodstock has now a disappearing mystery of her own, a man named John Housman, 23 years old, a native of this city, having left home on Sunday, April 9, and has never since been heard of. Housman is the son of a well-known resident, John H. Housman, and his family are much worried over his disappearance. No reason for voluntarily leaving can be found, as he was in good spirits on the day he was last seen, and was in no financial straits since he left a week's pay undrawn at the grocery store where he was employed. Station agents cannot remember his buying a ticket, so a mishap of some kind is feared, and his parents are having a keen search made for him.

CHICAGO MAN IS AFTER "INVERERIE"

Port Stanley Hotel Not Yet Leased for the Season.

The Invererie Hotel at Port Stanley has not yet been leased for the summer. An American syndicate, of which Mr. P. Warley, of Chicago, is the head, have been looking over the proposition, and a deal may be closed.

Mr. John McCoig, of the Grand Central Hotel, St. Thomas, is also a possible lessee.

It is likely that the deal will be closed within a few days, as the license will have to be transferred from the Port Stanley Amusement Company to the new proprietor.

ORDERED OUT OF TOWN.

Toronto, April 20.—Dr. Bach-Garstach, who was charged with practicing medicine without a license, was fined $50 and costs this morning. He was also ordered to get out of town by tonight or charges of fraud and vagrancy would be pressed against him. He claims to be a graduate of Heidelberg, Germany and London.

300 AUTOS TO VISIT LONDON

Big Touring Party From Detroit Will Stop Over Night Here in June.

OTHERS ARE COMING

Two Parties Already Practically Booked, Numbering 700 People in All With 500 Machines.

Five hundred automobile tourists in two parties will pay a visit to London during the last week in June and the first in July.

Mr. George H. O'Neil, of the Tecumseh House, has received a letter from the secretary of the Wolverine Automobile Club, of Detroit, asking him to make arrangements for the entertainment of the visiting autoists.

Mr. O'Neil states that 300 automobiles will be in the first trip, the majority from Detroit. A week later, the Toledo Club will join the Wolverine Club, and they will spend the night in London.

The trip is an inter-city run around Lake Erie. The tourists will leave Detroit, come to London, and then go through Hamilton to Toronto, the Falls, Buffalo, Erie, Pa., Cleveland, Toledo, and back to Detroit.

It is expected that at least 700 people will take in the outing.

"It is going to be a good thing for the city," said Mr. O'Neil. "I am at the present time making the necessary arrangements for the entertainment of so many guests. It is a big order, but we expect to have little or no difficulty in making satisfactory arrangements. All the local hotels will be asked to provide rooms for the guests.

It is expected that similar runs will be made from Cleveland, Buffalo, and other American cities this summer. London is in the good roads belt, and will be visited by all of the tourists.

Ordinary tourist trade promises to be very heavy also. The first party arrived in London yesterday from Syracuse. They found the roads good, and had no trouble whatever until they struck London. Then they had a puncture.

FIRE CHIEF'S SHOULDER BONE WAS SPLINTERED

Injury He Sustained in Recent Accident Was a Serious One.

Fire Chief Aitken had his injured shoulder examined by the X-ray machine today, and it was discovered that the shoulder bone was splintered. The injuries are not very serious, but it will necessitate the chief taking matters easy for some time.

"The doctors tell me that I will have to be very careful," he said. "I will have to nurse the shoulder along."

The chief was thrown out of his rig a week ago while going to a fire, and since that time, he has had much difficulty in moving his arm and shoulder.

JUNE BUG MAY PROVE A SERIOUS DANGER

But Farmers' Advocate Representative Says Farmers Have Not Yet Complained.

"I should not be surprised," said Mr. W. D. Albright, of the Farmer's Advocate, today, "if the June bug should become a serious menace this year. For the last two years the ground has been infested with the grubs of which the June bug is known to be the parent, and if they are more numerous this season than other years, it is not to be wondered at. We are only beginning to plow on the Advocate farm, and in consequence have not yet found many of the grubs in question. Nor have our subscribers sent in any reports to the effect that these grubs are more numerous than usual this year. Possibly the reports which have appeared are exaggerated."

Some Middlesex farmers report that the ground is literally teeming with the peculiar white grubs from which the June bug develops, and in consequence they fear serious ravages of this summer's crops. Other farmers claim they have not noticed in plowing any unusual number of the larvae, which apparently are not evenly distributed.

THE MOROCCAN SITUATION.

Paris, April 20.—The situation in Morocco, resulting from the rebellion against Sultan Mulai Hafid, has led to talk of French intervention by sending an army to the gates of Fez. The French Government, however, has not reached any decision of this nature.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

London, April 20.—Money was more plentiful, and discount rates were weak today.

The stock market was quiet and irregular, Mexican and home rails hardened, but consols and gilt-edged securities eased off on prospective new issues, including $10,000,000 Queensland and $10,000,000 East Indian Railway 3½ per cent. bonds. Affairs and other shares were dull.

American securities were quiet and featureless at slight advances during the forenoon. Then Wall street selling depressed prices, but the market recovered in the late trading, and closed steady.

A REAR-END COLLISION.

Ottawa, April 20.—In a rear-end collision on the C. P. R. at Hayes' Pit, near Kemptville, Conductor E. Weedmark and Brakeman James Elford, of Smith's Falls, were seriously injured about the head.

FEDERATION OF RAILWAY WORKERS

Movement Launched at Toronto to Take in All Staffs.

LESSON OF RECENT STRIKE

Two-Thirds of Shopmen of Toronto Are Prepared to Join New Organization.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, April 20.—A big labor movement is being launched here which plans the federation of all railway employees in one organization. At present the conductors, shopmen, switchmen, etc., have separate organization. The recent Grand Trunk strike taught the men that they could not fight a big corporation with divided forces, and it is now proposed to unify the entire working staffs that operate the railways. Already two-thirds of the shopmen in Toronto have signified their intention of joining the federation.

SECRETARY WELDON IS NOW SATISFIED

$1,000 for the Old Boys Will Be Available When Wanted.

Mr. James O. Weldon, secretary of the Old Boys' Association, was a caller at the city hall this afternoon to inquire regarding the grant to the Old Boys' Association. The amount asked for—$1,000—did not appear in the estimates passed by the council, and he was anxious to know whether or not they were to get it.

He was informed that sufficient money was placed in the accounts for advertising and band concerts to cover the amount asked for.

"I wanted to make sure of this," he stated. "Some of the boys were doubtful that the money had been placed to our credit, but I see that it has been done. We do not care how it comes, so long as we get it. The city can pay our bills, and that will be satisfactory to us. I am pleased. We should have a communication to that effect, and I presume Ald. Eckert will give us that assurance."

"The Old Boys will get their money," explained Ald. Eckert. "They need not worry at all. We have put sufficient money in the estimates, and we will pay their bills for advertising and bands up to $1,000."

POLICE MAKING IT HOT FOR THE HORSE BEATERS

William Collins Fined By P. M. Graydon for Ill-Treating an Animal.

William Collins, a driver for a local parcel express, was fined $2 and $5 cents costs by Deputy Magistrate Graydon this morning for cruelly ill-using a horse by beating it. According to P. C. McCullough, who laid the information, Collins lashed the animal for half a block on Clarence street.

"He said he wanted to put a little life into it when I asked him why he had beaten the horse," said the officer.

Collins admitted that all that the officer said was true.

"This sort of thing must be stopped," said the court. "You are not a wealthy man or I would fine you heavily. You must pay $2 and costs."

Willis Moxley, a colored Indian lister, who was found drunk, was remanded.

One of the members of the committee looking after the seating arrangements at the Armories at a recent concert was charged by Architect Nutter with breaking the law by allowing the entrances to be blocked by chairs.

"This would have resulted very seriously if there had been a fire," said the court. "This sort of thing cannot be allowed. However, this gentleman is not to blame particularly. What was everybody's business was nobody's business. If anything had happened the police would have been most severely censured. I hope it will not occur again."

Death of J. H. Samuel.

The Toronto Globe says: A highly-respected citizen and for twenty years a resident in Toronto, has passed away in the person of Mr. John Hughes Samuel, whose death occurred at his late residence, 34 Edgewood avenue. Mr. Samuel, who was in his 55th year, was the eldest son of the late Rev. John Samuel, rector of Heythrop, Chipping Norton, Oxon, England. He leaves a widow, two brothers, and one sister. They are: Reginald, of Molsons Bank, Highgate, Ont.; Horace, of Sidcup Hill, and Geraldine, who resides at Nice, France.

Japanese Idea of Canadian Geography

The ideas of the geography of Canada held by the people of foreign countries are very often amusing. This morning The Advertiser received a postcard from Japan, addressed as follows:

Messrs. London Advertiser,
London, Ontario.
Montreal,
Toronto,
Canada.

The card, which was sent by H. H. Ogino, the Teikaku Daily News, Kitahama, Higaih, Osaka, Japan, nevertheless safely reached this great home paper, and carried the following request:

Osaka City, March 13, 1911.

My Dear Sir:
Please information me by return of post the prices of the following your publishing news and Sunday.
Please send me one each a copy.
Very truly,
H. H. OGINO."

The Japanese gentleman will be accommodated, as copies of The Advertiser, together with the rates he asks for, have been mailed him.

THE GRAND TRUNK TO RAISE MORTGAGE OF THIRTY MILLION

Half of the Amount to Remain in the Treasury and the Balance To Be Issued, Directors Decide.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 20.—At the semi-annual meeting today of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, unanimous assent was given to the Grand Trunk Railway act of 1911, and directors were authorized to exercise the powers conferred upon them by this law including the raising of a mortgage of $30,000,000 on the Grand Trunk Western Railway, the interest on which is guaranteed by the Grand Trunk.

A. W. Smithers, chairman of the board of directors, who presided, said that he had no fear that the Grand Trunk would have to make any payment under the guarantee. Half of the amount of the mortgage, he said, would remain in the treasury, and the balance be issued as required.

TRADE DEBATE TO BE CUT SHORT

Liberal Caucus Decides That It Need Little Further Vindication.

ONUS NOW ON OPPOSITION

Expected That Prorogation Will Be Reached by the 24th of May.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, April 20.—At a largely attended Liberal caucus this morning it was decided, on the suggestion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that the debate on reciprocity from the Liberal side of the House could now be wisely cut short in the firm belief that the agreement needs little further vindication before the country.

The onus of continuing the debate and thus delaying prorogation will be left with the Opposition speakers but it is expected that they will not continue the fight much longer and a vigorous effort will be made to reach a vote on the issue early next month and wind up the remaining business of the session before May 24. There will only be three or four additional Liberal speakers in support of the agreement, the final conclusion of the debate being left to Mr. Fielding. There was no question as to dropping the agreement for this session, and the members present were enthusiastically in favor of forcing the vote on the issue and securing a ratification of the proposals at the earliest possible moment.

Discussed the Bounties.

There was also some discussion of the question of renewal of the bounties on iron and steel rods for eighteen months, from July 1, when, according to the present legislation they will expire.

The Nova Scotia members were strongly in favor of this extension, in view of the fact that under the reciprocity agreement no tariff protection is possible, and with a view to meeting what they believe is the reasonable quest of the iron and steel companies for a short extension of the bounties until arrangements can be made by the companies for continuing business in their wire rod plants on a permanent basis of profit. The question was left to the Government for decision, and it is not improbable that some measure of temporary assistance will be granted along the lines suggested.

The question of railway subsidies, of the leasing of branch lines feeding the Intercolonial in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and of the construction as a part of the Intercolonial system of new branch lines, particularly a line through the eastern portion of Nova Scotia connecting Halifax and Pictou, was also discussed, and the recommendations of the minister of railways giving effect to these proposals was indorsed. The construction of the Hudson Bay Railway by the Government as already foreshadowed by Hon. Mr. Graham, was approved.

WELL INTO JULY BEFORE JOB'S DONE

Street Railway Company Is Criticised for Slow Work on the Pavements.

MUCH TO BE DONE

Merchants Are Complaining Bitterly—Engineer Wright Says the Company Is Making Fair Progress.

At the present rate of progress it will probably be well into July before the London street railway have their track allowance on Dundas and Richmond streets completed.

According to Deputy Engineer Wright's estimate it will take them three weeks to do the south half of Richmond street and fully as long for each of the other portions.

Dundas street west, and all of Richmond street, yet remain to be paved. Dundas street from Richmond to Wellington, is well on the way to completion, and another week will probably finish the job.

Another Summer.

By this computation it will readily be seen that all May and June will be gone before the company have got their portion of the streets completed.

If there are any delays the time will be extended, and probably run through a good portion of July.

The city has considerable work to do on the streets. The cement work necessary to fill in the trenches will consume some time, although Deputy Engineer Wright is of the opinion that the department can keep up with the London street railway; in fact, they will probably be ready much before that time.

The City Gas Company have about completed their services, half a dozen more being all that are required.

The water commissioners have little to do, and it will not be necessary to tear up the streets to string their cable or do the other work needed.

Manager King was out of the city today and could not be interviewed as to what the company intended to do.

A director of the company stated to The Advertiser that they were making as much progress as possible on the streets.

The merchants downtown are complaining of the slowness of the company in replacing their tracks on Dundas street.

They claim that they are not employing enough men, and are doing altogether too little work. The merchants are afraid that the streets will be torn up all summer, as they were last year.

Some of the aldermen are considering taking drastic steps to compel the company to hurry the work along.

There is no doubt that the streets are in bad condition, and are causing much inconvenience to traffic. It is very difficult, in fact, almost impossible to keep down the dust, and consequently the merchants do not find conditions at all to their liking.

Slow, Says the Mayor.

"There is no doubt to my mind that the company are very slow," said Mayor Beattie. "They have been a considerable length of time on the job, and it does seem to me that they could make better headway. We certainly do not want the streets torn up again at fair time. As a matter of fact, we want to have them in good shape for the Old Boys, when they return. Bad streets, such as we have had lately, are rather a poor advertisement, and we want to have them right. I do not know what we can do to make them hurry, as we are almost powerless in the matter. However, we will urge them to go ahead, and do the work properly."

"We are not going to stand for delays," said Ald. Cooper, chairman of the board of works. "We want the streets put in first-class condition as soon as we can. If the company do not hurry it through, we will simply go ahead with our work, and fix our part of the streets up."

Power Is Lacking.

"We have little power over the company," declared Ald. Saunders. "But

DELINE PLEADS GUILTY TO MANSLAUGHTER

Peterboro Wife Slayer Sentenced to Kingston for Life.

[Canadian Press.]

Peterboro, April 20. — On court being resumed today counsel for Deline, in the murder case, at consent of the crown, withdrew the plea of not guilty to murder and entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter.

Justice Teetzel sentenced Deline to imprisonment at Kingston for the rest of his natural life, but intimated that the prisoner might be released at some time, if examination by doctors showed him fit to be released.

Justice Teetzel said Deline had been guilty of committing an abominable crime against his wife for some time.

WESLEY SCOTT'S APPEAL IN TORONTO COURTS

Echo of a Famous Shooting Case in Township of Nissouri.

The appeal of Wesley Scott, of this city, against the decision of Justice Meredith at the winter assizes last January, in which the plaintiff sought to upset the will of his father, came up at Toronto yesterday, and was enlarged till the may sittings, Scott to pay the costs of the day.

The defendants, Vining et al., are the executors of the estate of Harvey Scott, who was shot and killed by his daughter-in-law at Thorndale a couple of years ago. Since that time the family has been in the limelight through incessant litigation.

The action to break the will has been before several courts, Justice Meredith dismissing the claim when it appeared last in London at the January assizes, basing his decision on the fact that the expression of intention did not imply a binding contract.

R. U. McPherson is acting for the plaintiff at Toronto, and M. K. Cowan, K.C., and J. Macpherson for the defendant.

ELECTRICITY WRENCHED FIXTURES TO PIECES

Queer Antics of Hydro Power Owing to a Cross With London Electric "Juice."

Electricity played some queer pranks at the residence of Mr. John Labatt early the other morning.

Some time ago, Niagara power was installed. It apparently worked satisfactorily for a time, but the other night part of the fixtures in one of the maids' rooms came tumbling down on the bed. When she awakened, the electricity was dancing with myriad lights over the gas fixtures.

The girl was frightened nearly to death, and called for aid. The wires were straightened out, and the girl retired.

Shortly afterwards the fixtures in another room came tumbling down in identically the same way. This time the gas fixtures were broken and the gas ignited.

Mr. Labatt was again called, and turned off the power. Next morning the hydro-electric staff were summoned to investigate the trouble. In order to discover the cause, the power was again turned on, and three more fixtures in various rooms came tumbling down.

It was found that one of the city power wires had come in contact with a wire owned by the London Electric, and this caused the shock that wrenched the fixtures to pieces.

The trouble was located and remedied. Now everything is running smoothly again.

The experience was rather disquieting for the time being for Mr. Labatt's household.

Finger Smashed.

Mr. George Benbow, an employee of the pumphouse, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon, when he had one of the fingers of his right hand caught in the cogs of one of the wheels and badly crushed. eH was taken to Victoria Hospital, where Dr. Ainley Thompson dressed the injured finger.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Toronto, Ont., April 20. — Herbert McLeachie, the chauffeur, who is charged with manslaughter in the case of Edward Jacobs, the old man who was run down by an auto on Bloor and Clinton streets on March 3 last, pleaded not guilty this morning in the police court, and was remanded for one week.

STEADY DEMAND FOR HOUSES!

Real Estate Sales Are Becoming More Numerous in London Now.

BUILDERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Bankers Say There is a Good Demand for Money—Factories Are Very Busy.

Real estate dealers report a steady demand for houses and state that there is great activity in sales. Many important transfers have taken place in the past few days, and a number of other deals are under way. This season will see a number of very fine new residences added to those already in the city. This is particularly the case in the north end, where several handsome homes are being built. There are a number also in South London, while in various places all through the city work is going on on new homes. The city architects state that they have a great many inquiries regarding new places and extensive improvements. They are looking forward to a good season.

Much Work in Sight.

Builders and contractors state that there is a good deal of work in sight, and that they are looking for plenty of business.

Manufacturers, without exception, are busy and many of them state that they have enough work on hand now to keep their factories running at full time far into the summer. Manufacturers say that the demand from the west surpasses anything they have ever known in the past, and orders have been, and are continuing to pour into local shops from all parts of the west. Many businessmen are complaining bitterly about the delays they are experiencing in getting supplies from outside firms.

"It seems that all over the country the factories are working up to their full capacity," said one man. "We ordered iron and steel goods weeks ago and simply can't get them. We have tried to get what we need from other houses but have been advised that they are so swamped with earlier orders that they could not tell us when they could deliver what we require."

Skilled Help Scarce.

There seems to be a great scarcity of skilled help, and manufacturers are eagerly picking up any good men who present themselves.

"The situation is getting worse from a skilled help standpoint," said one manufacturer to The Advertiser. "Outside places are using every effort to get men. Not a day passes but some of our men get offers to go to Toronto or some other place. High wages are offered. This demand for help, together with the large number of men who have gone west, is going to cause a serious situation for the manufacturer before the season is over. If we can't get help it means delay in filling our orders, and that is bad for business. There is lots of room in London for good mechanics and artisans."

Railways Optimistic.

The railroads are looking for the greatest season in their history. Business has been unprecedented ever since the first of the year, and is steadily increasing.

Both Grand Trunk and C. P. R. officials state that business was never better, and they are looking for all records to be smashed this year. Both the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk are employing many more men than usual on account of the number of extra trains they have had to put on to handle the rush of business.

Local wholesalers report a big demand from all parts of the district. Collections, they state, are good, and merchants are buying freely. Drygoods wholesales report big orders from all parts of the country, and very heavy business from the west. Shoe manufacturers are very busy, and have orders enough booked ahead to keep them working full time for months. Cigar manufacturers state that trade is first-class and the outlook good for a splendid season.

A Demand for Money.

Bankers state that there is a good demand for money for industrial development. Quite a number of persons, they state, are sending money to the west for purposes of speculation in real estate and farms. Conditions generally are good, and the indications are for a prosperous year.

No labor troubles are in sight in London at all. At the present time there is lots of work, and wages paid are good and quite up to those paid in other cities. There is a great demand for young men and women in the factories, and a number of firms are constantly taking on all who apply.

INSURRECTO CHIEF REFUSES AN ARMISTICE

Will Not Discuss Peace Negotiations Until After Attack On Juarez.

El Paso, Texas, April 20—Francisco I. Madero, rebel chief, refused absolutely to grant an armistice, as suggested by Dr. Gomez at Washington. He sent in word today that he would talk armistice after the battle of Juarez, and then only. At present a large force of Insurrectos is advancing on Juarez and a battle is expected at any moment.

Kennedy—Balsden.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Balsden, of 344 Adelaide street, when their daughter, Miss Nellie Balsden, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Wesley Kennedy, of Brown City, Mich. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Bingham, B.A., of Talbot Street Baptist Church. The bride was attended by Miss Jennie Styles, of St. Thomas, while the groom was assisted by Mr. J. A. Clibborn, also of St. Thomas. About 25 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left last night for Brown City, Mich., where they will reside.

Bible Society Convention.

The annual convention of the Canadian Bible Society and its various branches and auxiliaries will be held in Winnipeg on May 8 and 9. Among the delegates from London who will represent the Western Ontario Bible Society of this city are Rev. J. Gibson Inkster, B. A., and Mr. Edward Towe.

THE KING'S DAUGHTER AN EXCELLENT COOK

Princess Mary Very Much Like Her Grandmother.

London, April 19.—Princess Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary, only daughter of King George V. and Queen Mary, is now in her 14th year, and with the coronation of her parents becomes of especial interest to the nation. Sir Richard Holmes, in a recent sketch of Princess Mary, as she is called, says:

"I am an old man now, and I can remember when Queen Mary's dear mother, the Duchess of Teck, looked like in her girlhood. Princess Mary is the exact image of her grandmother. She has the same features, the same splendid physical qualities, and the same cast of mind.

"Frank and open in countenance, high-spirited in character, and affectionate in disposition, Princess Mary will, when she leaves the schoolroom, and comes out in the social world, take all hearts by storm. She is so natural, so jolly, and so brimming over with the energy and the joy of life. An old man, I hope I may be pardoned for trying to look into the future, and I must admit that I often wonder who will win the hand of our princess. What an immensely lucky man he will be!

"Even in the radiant vigor of her girlhood, she is immensely thoughtful for others. I can call to mind how sometimes when I was working in the library at Windsor Castle she would come rushing in, and then directly she saw me at work would walk on tiptoe across the room, and having performed the errand on which she may have come to the room, to take or return a book, perhaps, would steal out quietly again. And the manner in which she looks after her younger brothers shows that she possesses a sense of responsibility that I dare say sometimes makes her much older than she is."

"The princess has been brought up very quietly and naturally at York Cottage, with periods of sojourn at Marlborough House and Buckingham Palace, and longer and perhaps more enjoyable visits to Scotland, for the royal children have always delighted in being at Abergeldie. Her early life has fortunately not been very eventful, but it has been exceedingly bright and happy and singularly free from illness. The princess is endowed with a robust constitution, and the manner of her upbringing has been such as to insure her a continuance of all the blessings which result to the possessor of robust physical health. I think the princess would make rather an impatient patient. On the few occasions on which she has been confined to her bed or indoors with a cold, her royal highness, I believe, has always deemed such care of her health entirely unnecessary.

"Of course, immense care has been taken with the cultivation of her mind, as well as body. Her royal highness has been brought up to speak in French and German, as well as in her native tongue.

"From her earliest years the Princess Mary has been carefully trained by Queen Mary in the household arts. She has been taught cookery, and has herself prepared all manner of dishes; though I have heard it somewhat humorously remarked that her taste in the culinary art inclines to the preparation of such dishes which she most enjoys herself. The princess has also been instructed to do various kinds of needlework. She is an associate of the London Needlework Guild, and sends it some of her work every year.

"The princess, by the way, was the first member of the royal family to open an account in the postoffice savings bank.

"Her royal highness is, of course, being carefully trained for the important social duties which in a few years she will have to perform. She has acted already as hostess on several occasions at children's parties at Buckingham Palace, and a most charming and self-possessed little hostess she makes."

Piles Driven Away FREE

Cases of Extreme Torture Cured So Quick as to Amaze All Who Know the Terrors of Piles.

Even a small and recent case of piles is bad enough, but thousands are in abject misery. Great protrusions render life a torture in every community, and yet, right within elbow room is certainly a drug store that has the wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure. If not, it will be mailed free upon receipt of the regular price—50c.

It works like a hundred swift streams of water on a sudden blaze, puts the fire out, saves lives, saves the nerves, prevents gangrene, stops all pain, all itching, all bleeding; reduces all swellings, internal or external, cures quick and complete to stay cured. Many severe cases think they are hopeless, must be operated on, have part of their anatomy cut and carved. Don't let it happen.

Remember, anything cut off is gone forever. Pyramid Pile Cure saves all this, cures rationally, restores the parts to normal healthy conditions. You can easily and quickly prove this by sending your name and address to Pyramid Drug Company, 278 Pyramid building, Marshall, Mich. A free trial will at once be mailed in plain wrapper, and you will never afterwards be at a loss to know what to advise when you hear of a case of piles, no matter how severe it may be.

For sale at all drug stores at 50c a package, and be sure you get what you ask for.

TAX RATE FIXED AT 23 MILLS

Matter Decided at a Meeting of the City Council Last Night.

LIGHTING VICTORIA PARK

Council and Water Commissioners Will Jointly Pay the Cost and Put in a Proper System Underground.

At a special meeting of the city council held last night the tax rate was definitely decided upon, and this year property owners will have to pay 23 mills on the dollar.

After two or three weeks' paring the finance committee were unable to reduce the figures sufficiently to get the rate down to 22½ mills, as was hoped for.

There were few changes when the figures were submitted. A few more salaries were raised.

The most important change was the addition of $1,000 for an underground lighting system for Victoria Park. It will be remembered that when the first draft of estimates were brought down the sum of $2,000 was included in the board of works' figures for this purpose. The finance committee threw it out altogether, taking the position that this should be taken care of by the water commissioners.

Money Is Available.

Last night Chairman Pocock, of the commission, made a proposition to the effect that they would pay half if the council would pay the rest.

"I think the idea a proper one," he stated. "This work should be done, and then you will have a park worth while."

Ald. Saunders asked if there was sufficient in the estimates to cover an expenditure of this kind, and Ald. Eckert declared that there was.

"I move that we accept the water commissioners offer," declared Ald. Saunders. The motion carried without opposition.

There was a lengthy debate on the question of city hall salaries, and four got increases in salary in addition to the list passed on Tuesday afternoon.

City Treasurer Bell was increased from $1,500 to $1,600; Mr. R. C. Turner, assistant tax collector, was raised $100 instead of $50 as recommended by the finance committee; H. J. Bennett, clerk in Assessment Commissioner Grant's office, was raised $50, and Geo. McKeown, clerk in the city engineer's office, was given $700 a year, instead of $600 as recommended by No. 1 committee.

A Sliding Scale.

"I think the question of salaries should be put on a different basis," declared Ald. Bennett. "A sliding scale should be adopted. To my mind the maximum for every office should be fixed, and a definite time stated when any official would reach that stage. Some of the men we have employed are getting too little, while others are getting too much. This method is not at all proper."

"A special committee should be named to take this matter up," Ald. Richter said. "It is too late to do so at this time, but it is a matter to be considered. A sliding scale would be more satisfactory than this method."

The increases amounted to $825 a year, but $200 was saved in the city treasurer's office by the reorganization, so the net increase is but $625.

The motion to increase the rental of Mr. W. A. Pring, park commissioner's greenhouse, from $100 to $150 was defeated.

The Dog Tax.

A bylaw was passed making the fees for dogs as follows: Males $2, females $3, extra females $5 each.

Some of the aldermen objected to the increase in the fee, calling attention to the fact that no provision was made for a kennel license.

City Solicitor Meredith informed the council that the fees mentioned above were those set by the act, and no change could be made. With this explanation the bylaw passed.

The bylaw regulating the cost of street cleaning was passed. Some sections, particularly the residential sections, will cost 5 cents a foot, while the business districts will cost 7 cents. There was considerable discussion on the subject, many of the aldermen taking the position that it was unfair to charge the property owner with everything. However, the motion passed.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Beattie, Ald. Eckert, Richter, Stevenson, Bennett, Ashplant, Donnelly, Wilson, Tancock, Morgan, Mitchell, Saunders, Cooper, and City Clerk Baker.

CORRESPONDENCE

Is the Frontage Tax Illegal?

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The local improvement enactment of the Ontario Legislature, giving power to the city council to impose a frontage tax for pavements, walks, curbs and bridges, is unconstitutional. The Legislature cannot either exercise or delegate arbitrary or despotic powers. Since the time of Charles the First any law in an English-speaking country must be a common law enacted by the representatives of the people governed by it. The city council represents the whole city and can, therefore, tax the whole city. It does not represent the property-owners on a street or block, and, therefore, cannot levy a tax on such owners. The streets of the city belong to the public, i. e., the whole of the citizens, not to the city council, who are trustees for the citizens. Improvements and repairs of the streets are to be made for the public use and convenience, not for the adjacent property-owners. To make the property-owners abutting on the streets pay for improvements by levying a frontage tax is confiscation of their money so levied. The Ontario enactment should be disallowed by the Minister of Justice. The city council should not act upon it for the purpose of falsely representing a low tax rate. A rate of 20 mills in addition to the school rate is the only honest and constitutional way at the present time of making the necessary repairs and improvements to the streets of the city. Any ratepayer who has not petitioned for and therefore not contracted to pay frontage tax, may legally refuse to pay it.

IRISHMEN ARE TO BANQUET SIR GEORGE

The I. B. S. Propose to Honor Member Who Was Recently Knighted by the King.

DR. BROWN PRESIDENT

Mr. Geo. H. O'Neil Was Last Night Chosen Secretary—A Banquet at the Tecumseh House.

At the annual meeting of the Irish Benevolent Society held last evening in the board of trade rooms, Mr. Philip Pocock, seconded by Mr. Denis Mason, proposed that the society tender a complimentary banquet to Sir George Gibbons on Coronation Day, June 22. Sir George has long been an active member of the society, and being a most enthusiastic Irishman on all occasions, the members decided to honor him by tendering him a banquet, if the arrangements can be made. A committee composed of Messrs. John Forristal, John Stevely, Denis Mason, Philip Pocock and Dr. Brown were named to interview Sir George on the subject.

Dr. Claude Brown was selected as the new president. His was the only name presented to the meeting, and it carried unanimously.

Past President Mr. Samuel Stevely presided, and read his annual report as follows:

President Stevely's Report.

"Fellow members of the Irish Benevolent Society of London," he said, "the year just closed, although it was one of the most successful in the history of the society, from the standpoint of membership, finance and general goodwill, brought with it many sorrows, which it is my painful duty to refer to this evening. I have reference to the death of his late majesty, the King, upon which occasion the society sent a message of condolence to her majesty and the royal family; the death of Judge McMahon, a charter member of the society; of Mr. John W. Pocock, also a charter member; of Dr. John D. Wilson, one of its most active officers and workers; of A. T. McMahen; of Mr. W. A. Jackson, a new member, but one who was most highly respected by all, and of Mr. Walter Forristal, who though not a member of the I. B. S., was, nevertheless, brought into close touch with us through the fact that his father is a past president, and his brother one of the vice-presidents of the society at the present time.

"The society fittingly honored the memory of these worthy gentlemen, whose deaths are deeply deplored by all.

"The past year was an exceedingly busy one, and, thanks to the earnest and indefatigable efforts of the officers, who gave me such able support, success marked it from every standpoint. There were about fifteen meetings held, which in themselves form a record in the annals of the society.

A Great Picnic.

"We had the proud distinction of having what was probably the greatest crowd Port Stanley ever knew on the occasion of our annual picnic in August last. In this connection, I desire to place on record my appreciation, and I believe, the appreciation of all the officers and members of the society, of the courteous treatment the I. B. S. received at the hands of the Pere Marquette, and the London and Lake Erie Railway and Transportation Company. The representatives of these lines, Messrs. Hood and Mower, certainly left nothing to be desired, and are entitled to all praise from us, one and all.

"At Christmas we made the annual distribution of cash to the various charities of London, and the money undoubtedly resulted in much good for the needy.

"I thank you, gentlemen, once again, for the great honor you have done me in electing me president of this, one of the greatest and noblest societies of the Dominion of Canada. I leave the chair with many sincere regrets, because my incumbency has been very pleasant through the goodwill shown me on every side. For the new president I bespeak the same hearty support, and I feel that if all pull together in the future as they have in the past, the Irish Benevolent Society will go onward and upward to even greater things."

Treasurer's Report.

The report was adopted unanimously. The treasurer, Mr. P. F. Boyle, then submitted his report. The receipts for the year were $568 49.

The sum of $275 was distributed to the various charitable institutions in the city and $155 79 was expended in running the affairs of the society during the year, leaving a balance on hand of $137 70. The assets of the I. B. S. are now $1,832 70, with no liabilities.

The election of officers followed, the following being selected for the honors:

New Officers.

Honorary President—P. F. Boyle.
President—Dr. Claude Brown.
First Vice-President—Harry E. Buttrey.
Second Vice-President—John P. Forristal.
Third Vice-President—Dr. A. V. Eecher.
Secretary—George H. O'Neil.
Treasurer—P. F. Boyle.
Auditors—W. Fulton and C. G. Harper.
Physicians—Drs. J. S. Niven, Mayor F. Guest (St. Thomas), P. J. Mugan, A. V. Becher, W. M. Shoebotham, C. S. Moore.

Banquet for Sir George.

At this juncture Mr. Philip Pocock suggested the banquet to Sir George Gibbons.

"During the year one of our members has been greatly honored," declared Mr. Pocock. "I refer to Sir George Gibbons. I think it would be a graceful act to tender him a banquet, say, on the evening of Coronation Day. He is worthy of the honor, and it would show our appreciation of his services in behalf of the society, and the nation at large. I have a great deal of pleasure in moving that we hold the banquet on that date."

"I have much pleasure in seconding the motion," declared Mr. Denis Mason.

The idea was very popular and it carried unanimously, and the committee and the president, Dr. Claude Brown, were named to arrange the details.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

Resolutions of sympathy were passed by a standing vote to Mr. John Forristal and family on the death of his son, Walter Forristal, and to Mr. Joseph Hickey and Mr. James Hickey on the death of their mother.

The new president, Dr. Claude Brown, was introduced, and took charge of the meeting. Mr. S. Stevely congratulated him on the signal honor bestowed on him in electing him president of the I. B. S.

Dr. Brown thanked the society for electing him, and declared that he would do his utmost to make the society prosper during the coming year. He asked for the hearty cooperation of the members in his efforts. The newly-elected officers all spoke briefly.

The question of the annual picnic was brought up, but no definite action will be taken until the next meeting of the society.

A Banquet.

The president, Dr. Brown, invited the members to be his guests at the Tecumseh House, where a banquet was held. Dr. Brown presided.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the presentation of a past president's jewel to the retiring president, Mr. S. Stevely, and a very handsome club bag to the retiring secretary, Mr. E. J. Carty.

Mr. Ed J. Ryan made the presentation to Mr. Stevely. He spoke of the excellent services rendered the society by Mr. Stevely and hoped that he would long be spared to take an interest in the I. B. S.

Mr. Stevely responded briefly, thanking the society for the gift, and informing the members that he would take as much interest in the society as he ever had taken.

Dr. Shoebotham presented the bag to the retiring secretary.

A Pleasant Evening.

Then followed an hour of pleasure, such as Irishmen alone enjoy. There were songs by Dr. A. V. Becher, John Stevely, Denis Mason, Ed J. Ryan, and others. Short speeches were delivered by Harry E. Buttrey, Geo. H. O'Neil, Philip Pocock, William Fulton, and others.

Irish songs and Irish humor abounded, and the members of the society had a most pleasant time.

Among those present were: Samuel Stevely, Dr. Claude Brown, Philip Pocock, John Stevely, C. G. Harper, Geo. H. O'Neil, Denis Mason, Wm. Fulton, Ed J. Ryan, J. Doyle, B. C. McCann, Jerry Collins, R. McMordie, P. F. Boyle, Harry E. Buttrey, John Loughlin, Peter Taft, Dr. A. V. Becher, M. O'Sullivan, Squire Chittick, Clem Garvey, W. H. Brophy, W. Cooney, Dr. W. M. Shoebotham, J. F. Hickey, Ed J. Carty, and others.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

This Will Be the Subject of Hon. Jas. Bryce's Address in London.

"Canada and the Empire," will be the subject of the address to be delivered by Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador at Washington, to the members of the local Canadian Clubs on Saturday afternoon at the Normal School.

Lady Gibbons received word yesterday that Mr. Bryce had selected this as his topic.

From present indications there will be a very large attendance.

"SLEEPLESSNESS."

Thousands of people all over this land toss night after night on a sleepless pillow. The eyes do not close in the refreshing slumber that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right.

Some are troubled with weak and smothering spells; others palpitation of the heart; others have their nerves unhinged; but whatever the cause—it comes entirely from a derangement of either the heart or nerves, or both. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound, refreshing slumber. They do this by their invigorating effect on the heart and nerves and will tone up the whole system to perfect condition.

Mr. H. Jewel, Keswick, Ont., writes: "I am glad to have the pleasure of telling you what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. I would have weak spells, seemed to lose my breath, and would have to get up in the night as I could not sleep. I tried many medicines but found nothing good until I used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took three boxes and it is three years ago since I did so, and I haven't been troubled since."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Clearing Sale of Silk Ends Friday

One-Half and One-Third Off Regular Prices

The dresses are reduced to such narrow proportions this season that what we as a rule class as remnants are this season called dress lengths. The majority of these ends for tomorrow's sale will run from 6 to 9 yards, many also run from ½ to 5 yards each. The present fashions favor these short ends, as many combinations are used, plain silks, with fancy pieces, blending in color for the tunic, all of which will be found amongst these remnants, giving you an up-to-date dress at very small cost, by spending a little time going through this lot and picking out your own combinations.

This is the biggest assortment of ends we have offered for some time, as it is a great silk season, and many ends have accumulated from our present season's stock which are most desirable. You'll find plain colored Pailettes, Messalines, Tamolines and Liberty Satins, all this season's fashionable silks and newest colorings, but they're remnants, and you may pick tomorrow at ONE-HALF AND ONE-THIRD LESS THAN REGULAR PRICES. Come early for the choice pieces and longer lengths.

FATAL MONTREAL ROW

Man Dying as Result of Assault by a Butcher, It Is Said.

Montreal, April 20.—Leonide Arpin, now lying at the Hotel Dieu at the point of death, is not expected to live. This is the result of an assault alleged to have been committed by Alexander Gohier, a butcher.

Gohier appeared before Judge Bazin to answer to a charge of common assault, but upon Detective Demers' testimony to the effect that Arpin would very likely die, the case was adjourned until Wednesday, the 26th, to await developments, as a more serious charge will be laid against the accused in the event of Arpin dying.

Arpin never seemed to fully realize the serious condition he was in, and absolutely refused to make any statement in connection with the assault, and as he is now unconscious, the police have lost all hope of obtaining an ante-mortem deposition from him.

LILLIAN CARIL SUICIDES.

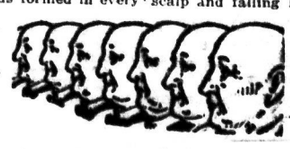

New York, April 19. — Lillian Caril, who was known to many who have attended various national conventions for several years past as a transportation agent for the Trunk Lines' Association, committed suicide at her apartments in this city today. Her body was found with a gas tube, which had evidently fallen from her mouth as evidence of suicide. She left no note, and no cause for her act was known except that she had suffered for several years from asthma. She was 53 years old.

Western Club for Baldheads Reported

Perhaps this report that a baldheaded club had been organized in a western city of the States is a joke, but one thing is certain, a baldhead is no joke to the man who displays it.

A club of baldheads formed in every city in Canada would be an educational organization if its members could be induced to parade hatless through the main streets of the city as a warning to those who still have hair. Baldness is in nearly every case the result of carelessness.

In France baldheads are few because men understand how to care for the hair. Parisian Sage quickly destroys the dandruff germ that causes falling hair and baldness.

Parisian Sage is a hair grower and invigorator that is guaranteed by Cairncross & Lawrence to grow hair if the hair root is not already destroyed, to eradicate dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair or money back.

Men and women who want to have hair full of life and lustre will not be disappointed in Parisian Sage. It is a delightful refreshing hair dressing not sticky or greasy.

A large bottle costs 50 cents at Cairncross & Lawrence's, and druggists everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid by the Canadian makers, Giroux Manufacturing Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND others.—In the matter of the estate of Harry Richardson, late of the City of London, in the County of Middlesex, foreman, deceased: Notice is hereby given that all persons having any claim against the late Harry Richardson, who died on or about the 16th day of May, 1902, at the said City of London, are required to send by post prepaid, or to deliver to the Canada Trust Company, administrators of the estate of the said Harry Richardson, deceased, their names and addresses, and full particulars in writing of their claims and statements of their accounts, and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them. And take notice, that after the 12th day of May, A. D. 1911, the said the Canada Trust Company will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which they then shall have had notice, and that the said the Canada Trust Company will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof to any persons of whose claim they shall not then have received notice. Dated at London, this 12th day of April, A. D. 1911. THE CANADA TRUST COMPANY, 442 Richmond street, London, Ont., by CRONYN & BETTS & COLERIDGE, their solicitors therein. 63c-w

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that under the first part of the Companies Act, Chapter 79, R. S. C., 1906, Letters Patent have been issued under the seal of the Secretary of State, bearing date the eleventh day of April, 1911, incorporating Carl Freschl, Edward Freschl and Louis Heilbronner, manufacturers, all of the City of Milwaukee, in the State of Wisconsin, one of the United States of America, George McElroy Reid, manufacturer, and Frederick Faber Harper, barrister, both of the City of London, in the Province of Ontario, for the purposes following:

"(a) To manufacture, buy, sell and deal in hosiery, gloves, underwear and knitted goods of all descriptions.

"(b) To manufacture and deal in all kinds of articles necessary or desirable to be used in connection with the business or with the sale of any article dealt in by the said company.

"(c) To act as manufacturer's agents or commission agents in dealing with the said class of goods.

"(d) To acquire any patent or patent rights, licenses or trade marks or trade names in connection with any business of the company.

"(e) To acquire, own, hold, sell or otherwise dispose of shares in the Capital Stock, bonds or other securities of any other company having objects similar to those of this proposed company, and to vote such stocks and bonds in the name of the company.

"(f) To promote and assist financially by guarantees, advances of money or otherwise, or indorsation, the enterprises or undertakings of any individual, firm or corporation with which this company may have business dealings.

"(g) To share profits, unite or cooperate with any firm or corporation engaged in or about to carry on any business which this company is authorized to engage in or carry on.

"(h) To install a plant to supply electric light and power and heat for the purposes of its business, with power to sell and dispose of electric light and energy in the form of power and heat and light, and for such purposes to erect wires and lay pipes, as may be necessary; provided, however, that any sale or disposition of electric or other power beyond the lands of the company shall be subject to local and municipal regulations in that behalf.

"The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere, by the name of 'Holeproof Hosiery Company of Canada, Limited,' with a total capital stock of fifty thousand dollars, divided into five hundred shares of one hundred dollars each."

Dated at the office of the Secretary of State of Canada, this eleventh day of April, 1911.
(Signed) CHARLES MURPHY,
69k Secretary of State.

SHOCK FROM FALL CAUSES LADY'S DEATH

Child Goes to Help Mother and Finds That She Is Dead.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, April 19.—Mrs. Isaac Blasdale, Exmouth street, died very suddenly shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Blasdale was in the kitchen performing her household duties when she suddenly fell, striking her head on a pail, and badly cutting and bruising her face. Her little girl witnessed the accident, and hastened to assist her mother to her feet. To her horror she discovered that her mother was dead. Doctors Hayes and Bentley were quickly summoned. The injuries were not sufficient to cause death, which, it is thought, were due to heart failure. The deceased was 56 years of age, and was in good health until a few days ago, when she complained of not feeling well. A husband and grown-up family survive.

The funeral will be held Friday from her late residence, 241 Exmouth street, at 1:30 p.m. Services at the house at 1 p.m. Interment at Hillsdale Cemetery, Petrolea.

LONDON, THURSDAY, APRIL 20.

A TRAGEDY OF THE WILDS.

A tragic chapter has been added to the epic story of the Northwest Mounted Police. The frozen bodies of Inspector Fitzgerald and three other members of the force have been found by a search party near Fort Macpherson, the northernmost Hudson Bay Company post. It is on the Peel River which flows into the Mackenzie River, near its mouth. These brave men set out last November to cover the 400 miles of Arctic waste between Dawson and Fort Macpherson. They perished from hunger within 25 miles of their destination, having eaten their dogs as a last resort. They were among the most experienced of the corps and it adds to the poignancy of their fate that they had been selected as members of the coronation contingent. Inspector Fitzgerald, in particular, had a great record in Arctic work. He had been promoted from the ranks for his services during the wild rush to the Klondike. He went to Fort Macpherson in 1903—after an interval of fighting in South Africa—and carried British authority to Herschell Island in the Arctic Ocean. For two years he remained there, the virtual ruler of the Eskimos in a wide region. In the winter of 1906 he made the journey from Dawson to Fort Macpherson. It occupied nine weeks and some of the time the thermometer was 60 degrees below zero. Since then he had been almost uninterruptedly employed in those frozen silences until the fatal journey of the past winter. His companions, like himself, had been inured in Arctic hardships, and desperate indeed must have been their plight before they succumbed.

The story is not unique in the annals of the Northwest Mounted Police. Every Canadian must thrill with pride at the record of this famous body. A handful of men have carried law and order through a region wide as an empire. They have held savage tribes in awe, and rendered mining camps, swarming with desperadoes, as safe as an eastern town. At the call of simple duty, many of them have laid down their lives on the prairies, the mountains and the snows. They have made history which should be put into imperishable verse or prose.

THE TROUBLE IN MEXICO.

Agua Prieta, the scene of the first battle between the Mexican regulars and "insurrectos," is within sight of the United States. It is not the fault of the Americans that the belligerents are so uncomfortably close to the border. There are many American citizens and extensive American interests in the troubled district, and the assembling of United States troops in the vicinity is a natural precaution. There is no ground for suspecting or more than that the Washington Government will try to snatch a selfish advantage from the turmoil. A portion of the culinary has also been in Texas 60 years ago, but different ideals now govern the policy of the United States, and Mexico is a different country. A similar act of piracy today would consolidate all Central and South America against the northern republic. The self-consciousness of Latin America has become a political factor of the first importance.

It is possible, however, that the claims of humanity may justify the Washington Government in carrying interference beyond the mere necessity of protecting American citizens and American property. The American troops may be employed to impose the obligations of civilized warfare upon one or both parties in the struggle. The Government of Diaz has been an efficient but merciless despotism. The insurrection is not merely the outcome of the intrigues of restless and ambitious politicians. Dr. Aves, the Protestant Episcopal bishop of Mexico, writing in the Churchman, says the people and the nation are suffering from great fundamental needs. "Among many shameful inheritances from the old feudal system," he writes, "are the great estates and the system of homeless peasantry—serfs in reality and lacking some of the security of slavery. Of this class there are nearly 11,000,000 out of a total population in the country of 15,000,000." It is essential that the great estates shall be broken up and the peasantry given the opportunity to possess land. The Peons, as these peasants are called, have been brought up in ignorance, poverty and bondage. Although not ready for the franchise they should have more civil protection, and greater facilities for schooling. President Diaz has vaguely promised reforms, but his assurances are not specific enough to satisfy the sympathy of the American people for the insurrectos, unless the latter are driven to enforce it by barbarous modes of warfare. The down-trodden millions see a wonderful growth of wealth all around them, but most of it is drained off to foreign investors, while the peon continues to work for 12½ cents a day from sunrise to sundown.

RANK DISHONESTY.

Mr. Fielding's obsession on the necessity of making continuous concessions to what he regards as the spirit of the west shows no signs of disappearing," says the Montreal Star. The Liberal is a familiar one—in the eastern anti-reciprocity chorus. But the anti-Government chorus in the west—there is no anti-reciprocity chorus there—sings a different tune. The Edmonton Capital sounds the keynote:

"It is because the tariff arrangement is such that it does not touch the manufacturers that the west is not satisfied with its scope and extent.

"So far as it goes, the reciprocity arrangement is all right, but to offer the farmers a reduction of two per cent. on agricultural implements and tell them that there is a general tendency toward free trade is to ask them for greater faith and credulity than is the characteristic of the agricultural class in this or any other country.

"The objection to the tariff arrangement is not on account of what it does do, but on account of what it does not do. Inasmuch as that it continues practically intact, the special privileges to manufacturers, and inasmuch as that the United States Government was willing and anxious to place agricultural implements and many other manufacturers on the free list, which offer Canada refused, the reciprocity arrangement fails to go far enough to serve the interests of the real wealth producers of the Dominion—the farmers."

This is the attitude of nearly every anti-Government newspaper and speaker in the prairie provinces. It is the attitude of the Opposition members of the House of Commons from rural constituencies in the west, with a single exception. Mr. Borden should plainly define his position and put an end to this humbugging dishonesty. If he is opposed to reciprocity, and opposed to a reduction in the tariff on implements, or any line of manufactures, he should have the courage and sincerity to say so. The antagonism of the eastern and western wings of his party on the tariff question, while co-operating against the Government in the present instance, is a crying scandal.

The views of the Federal Opposition on the tariff question appear to be governed by geography.

The resolution passed by the London school board and the memorial of the London school principals do not appear to have settled the question in the mind of the Ontario Education Association.

Seventy-seven memorials in favor of reciprocity were received at Ottawa during the Easter recess, and none against it. These communications talk just as loudly as the money behind the anti-reciprocity propaganda.

Uncle Joe Cannon says the reciprocity agreement is an "outrageous proposition" from the United States' point of view. The opponents of the agreement in the United States furnish strong reasons why Canadians should support it.

The Ingersoll municipal politician who pleaded guilty to graft was released on suspended sentence at the request of the crown. The crown may have had ample grounds for its request. If so, these are not so obvious as they might be in Mr. Blackstock's explanation.

I used to call the landlord mean,
Because he wouldn't paint the floors
Most every spring we'd have a scene

But now my wants are very few—
I have to pay the bills myself.

I used to think the landlord ought
To decorate the house anew,
And every spring him I besought
To kalsomine the ceilings, too.
I used to bluster and to bluff
For paint and varnish for the stairs
But now the house is good enough—
I have to pay for all repairs.

Behold the easy-payment plan
And all the wonders that it does!
A truly discontented man
With home a year ago I was;
But since I've started in to buy
The place and have the bills to pay,
The paperhangers I defy.
And shoo the men who paint away.

CANADA ABOVE THE PARTIES.

[Ottawa Citizen.]

At any cost or effort, we must learn to rise above such sectional partyism. However long our forebears may have been good Conservatives or good Liberals, it is absolutely essential that in the moment of decision concerning our national policy, as in these very days, we shall be able to realize that whatever political lines may divide us, under them all is the fact that we are all Canadians, and that above all other considerations we must place the interests of Canada. Unless we do that, we have not yet developed the soul stuff out of which national greatness is made. "Under all, Canadian; above all, Canada."

"CONSCIENCE MONEY" FOR A LOCAL FIRM

Smallman & Ingram Received the Sum of Five Dollars Today.

Smallman & Ingram are $5 richer today because the conscience of some person who did wrong was awakened.

While opening the mail this morning, Mr. J. E. Smallman came across a rather bulky letter, and on opening it he found five $1 bills.

A note was inclosed with the words, "Conscience money." No name was signed to it, nor was there any other information in the communication that would lead to identification.

"I have not the slightest idea where the money came from," Mr. Smallman stated. "The letter was mailed in the city, and I presume it was from some person here. It looks as if people were becoming more honest."

NOT INTERFERING WITH MEX. AFFAIRS

Britain Has No Intention of Joining Hands With United States.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 20.—William James Thorne, Labor member in the House of Commons for the south division of Westham, appears to be the only man in Great Britain who attaches the slightest credence to the special newspaper dispatches from Washington, suggesting that joint British-American action is contemplated in Mexico.

In the House this afternoon, Mr. Thorne asked the foreign office whether the report was true, and received a blunt "no" as an answer.

Under-Secretary Wood also denied the suggestion that representations had been made to the United States that Great Britain's recognition of the Monroe doctrine was conditional upon the power of the United States Government to maintain its paramountcy on the American continent, and to protect established British interests.

Mr. Wood added that except for a few isolated cases in which the British charge d'affaires had applied to the Mexican Government for protection, the foreign office had received no complaints that British interests were affected.

PLEADS GUILTY TO GRAFT CHARGES

Ex-Warden Buchanan of Oxford Given Suspended Sentence.

AT REQUEST OF CROWN

Agrees To Make Full Restitution to the County—Case Against McCarty Dismissed.

St. Thomas, April 19. Mitchell Thomas Buchanan of Ingersoll, pleaded guilty at the assizes here this afternoon, when arraigned on three indictments arising out of the recent inquiry into the conduct of affairs of Oxford County. On the recommendation of Mr. George Tate Blackstock, crown prosecutor, Mr. Justice Middleton allowed Buchanan to go on suspended sentence. Two other indictments against him, on which true bills were found by the grand jury, were traversed to the next assizes. Buchanan has made full restitution of the amounts illegally obtained.

After considering the indictment against Byron B. McCarty, of Thamesford, former reeve of East Nissouri Township, the grand jury returned no bill.

This development in the Buchanan cases, which have caused such widespread interest, was quite unexpected, and no little stir was caused in the court room when the one-time mayor of Ingersoll and county councillor for Oxford of many years' standing, in the prisoners' dock responded to each of the three arraignments with the single word, clearly spoken, "guilty."

The Indictments.

There are three indictments, each in three counts, to which the accused admitted his guilt. Charges of conspiracy, breach of trust, and using his public office to procure bribes. In connection with the purchase of machinery and road rollers from the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company, Buchanan received the sum of $350 for using his influence with the municipality to buy from the Case Company. Three similar charges in connection with the purchase of the Ingersoll, North Oxford, West Zorra and East Nissouri toll road. It was charged that he conspired with James G. Mills and Robert Tate to defraud the public by inducing the purchase of the road for $2,000, which was more than its value, at the same time concealing the fact that he was the beneficial owner of the road. Charges of breach of trust, using his office to demand a bribe, and conspiracy with Edward Crawford, Alex. Calder and the Sawyer-Massey Company, of Hamilton, arising out of the allegations that Buchanan received the sums of $400 and $280 respectively from the Sawyer-Massey Company as bribes.

The two indictments which which are traversed to the next assizes are breach of trust and demanding bribes in connection with the purchase of the Ingersoll and Woodstock gravel road for $12,000, Buchanan being alleged to have received $500 for himself. Similar charges in connection with the purchase of the Ingersoll and Port Burwell road for $6,500, of which Buchanan is alleged to have demanded $1,500.

Full Restitution Made.

Five true bills were returned by the grand jury shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon, immediately after which Mr. Blackstock asked permission to retire and confer with the defence counsel for half an hour.

When the prisoner had been arraigned and pleaded guilty on three indictments, Mr. Blackstock moved for sentence. Then Mr. J. M. McEvoy, of London, Buchanan's counsel, announced to the court that full restitution had been made by the prisoner. The amounts named in the indictments had been fully refunded to Oxford County, and also other amounts, coming in all to about $5,000. Mr. McEvoy asked the judge to take into consideration the fact that his client had already been put to great expense as a result of the inquiry, that he was an old man, and that he was suffering from ill-health, a serious operation being necessary.

Mr. Blackstock, in summing up for the prosecution, made a lengthy explanation of the situation, in which he stated the action of the accused in admitting the charges had relieved the Government of great expense, as well as difficulty, in prosecuting, as some of the offences charged could not reach an indictment under the statutes.

He said it was on the conspiracy counts that the crown had based its hope of securing a conviction, but declared the difficulties in cases of that kind were always very great.

In view of these facts, and while he was convinced of the guilt of the accused, he had gone to the counsel for the defence, and suggested the procedure that had been adopted, an admission of guilt. This was in the interests of the public. He had insisted, however, that if he was to ask for leniency, complete restitution of moneys must be made to the county of Oxford.

Mr. Blackstock, continuing, said that throughout the county there was a very general sympathy for Buchanan on the part of officials and others, and in view of these facts he asked that a lenient view be taken.

By conclusion, he said that he assumed the entire responsibility for this application.

A Choice of Two Evils.

"The situation, Mr. Blackstock," commented Mr. Justice Middleton, "is by no means satisfactory, so far as I am concerned. The crimes of which Buchanan is accused, and to which he has pleaded guilty, are serious crimes. I do not know of any more serious crimes, I do not know of any more serious class of crime at this present day than the crime of dishonesty by those who are intrusted with public positions. You say this man comes of a respectable family, and has occupied a good position in the community. I think that adds to the disgrace of his fall. It is by no means to be supposed that it is a proper thing for a man to abuse his trust and take his chance, and when confronted with a trial for his defence to assume that he is in a position where he can make restitution and then plead guilty and escape punishment. It is not a right position from the standpoint of the administration of criminal law. At the same time, I fully comprehend the difficulties with which you were confronted, and you have taken the responsibility of advising the course which has been suggested, that the prisoner should be allowed his liberty upon suspended sentence. Probably you are right in saying that it was a choice of two evils.

"In that case, in view of the admission of guilt, there might have been a miscarriage of justice. On the other hand, there is the admission of guilt, and there is the suspension of sentence, which means that it goes unpunished. Not entirely unpunished, because I cannot help appreciating the disgrace of exposure and of conviction, and that the whole transaction is in itself a considerable punishment. But I hope that it will not be assumed that our criminal law is in such condition that one who is guilty of an offence of this kind can hope to escape punishment merely by making restitution and pleading guilty.

Speaking for myself, had the case gone on, and had it been found that the indictments were well laid, and had the jury found guilty, in making the charge I might have regretted to pass sentence on a man who has occupied such a position in the community, but I would have felt compelled to express the odium in which such a crime ought to be held by imposing an exemplary sentence.

"The law provides imprisonment, and in some cases the alternative of a fine. So far as I am concerned, I would not have thought that a mere fine was an adequate punishment, and I would certainly have given a substantial term of imprisonment. The indictment is laid under section 160 of the code, which makes a man liable to five years' imprisonment who commits a fraud on the public or a breach of public trust. There is no option of a fine. Under the municipal section, 161, the offence is one which rendered the man liable to a fine not exceeding $1,000 and not less than $100, and imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, and not less than one month, and in default of the fine, for a further term of imprisonment not exceeding six months. The main offence is against section 444, of the criminal code, which provides seven years' imprisonment, for conspiracy to defraud the public.

Too Lenient.

"It is with a feeling that I cannot help expressing, that justice has not in all respects been done, that I accede to your request. I do so because I think under the statute the responsibility is on the officers representing the crown in a matter of this kind. The section of the statute which allows the discharge of a prisoner on suspended sentence, provides that the court shall have the concurrence of the crown, and it is on that section that I act.

"I think that in one sense the course you have adopted is farr too lenient. I make this explanation at som elength, because I do not want it to be understood that the offences of which this man stands guilty before the court may be regarded lightly. I know of nothing that is more apt to undermine the respect which ought to be paid the affairs of the state and municipal affairs of the country than offences of this character, and I know nothing that is more apt to debauch and degrade the morals of this nation, which aspires to be a commercial nation.

"I do not know whether you propose to bring bills before the grand jury in connection with those who thought to further their interests by co-operating with this man in the transactions referred to in the indictments. It is inconceivable to me that those who aspire to occupy important posts in the commercial world should carry on their business in the way these people did."

Addresses Buchanan.

Addressing Buchanan, his lordship continued: "For the reasons that I have explained, and at the request of the crown counsel, and against my own judgment of what is right and proper in your case, and not because I regard this offence as a trivial thing, or because I see any extenuating circumstance, or because I think your age or position entitles you to any consideration—I think the statute refers to the young—I yield to the solicitation of the crown, and direct that you enter into a recognizance under the terms of the statute that you will appear for sentence when called upon at any time for the term of five years, and that in the meantime you keep the peace in all respects. So long as your life is exemplary, and there is nothing further to call the attention of the crown, the probability is that you will not have to appear before me or any other court for sentence. Should a matter come to light which indicates that you are not keeping the peace of our lord the King, in the widest sense, you are liable to appear before the court for sentence. Your sentence is suspended. You are not discharged, but in the meantime, upon entering into recognizance, you are at liberty."

A FORCE FROM NAVY FOR CORONATION

Thirty-Five Men Will Be Sent, But No Ships.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, April 20.—The Canadian naval force will be represented at the coronation by a squad of 35 men, but no ships will be sent. The coronation squad will be chosen from the recruits taken in Canada. Three officers will accompany the squad, which will sail on one of the passenger liners in May.

A HUSKY HUNTSMAN.

London, April 20.—At Berkeley Castle yesterday Lord Fitzhardinge, master of the Fitzhardinge foxhounds, received a present from the members of the hunt of two gold cups, in recognition of his 80th birthday.

Returning thanks, he said that although he had been with the hounds only 27 times in the season, he had not the slightest intention of giving up hunting.

WIRELESS FOR LAKE BOATS.

Port Arthur, April 19.—Arrangements were completed in Port Arthur today between James Playfair, principal owner of the Northern Navigation Company, and S. Guy Ashley, local manager for Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, for installation of wireless equipment on all boats of the Northern Navigation Company.

This work will be started at the earliest possible date, and it is expected that boats will be fully equipped shortly after the commencement of the season, being the first Canadian boats on the great lakes to be equipped with wireless.

Cynthia Grey's After-Supper Talks

THE CRUELTY OF RIDICULING CHILDREN.

"When I'm big," announced Sylvia, "I am going to lecture——"

Before the last word was out there was a shout from her brothers and sisters.

"You lecture, Sylvia? Huh, you'd look well on the stage with your pigeon voice."

"You lecture, Sylvia? Folks have to be born smart to lecture."

"What would you say? Folks have to be born smart to lecture," and so it went on, this storm of ridicule unchecked by the foolish parents. Sylvia left the table in tears, and was scolded by her mother for being cross. But that was not the end. Poor Sylvia was teased and tormented for weeks, and her ambitions ridiculed in the presence of every visitor, until she became sullen and silent.

Sylvia grew to womanhood, and did become a lecturer, and a good one, but to this day she will refuse to speak if any member of her family is in the audience.

"I am awkward and ill at ease in the presence of my family," she says, because of what they made me suffer from ridicule as a child. I can never do my best or appear to advantage when any of them are present."

Don't you know many cases of the kind? I do. I know one splendid woman who hates to be where any of her people are.

"They have made me feel all my life that I was a fool," she declares. "They cannot expect me to be happy or at ease among them."

There is a bit of barbarism in children that makes them ridicule their brothers and sisters, and many unwise parents permit it unreproved, without realizing the lost confidence and actual suffering that it causes. I firmly believe that many a life has been spoiled just because a child's confidence in itself has been destroyed by ridicule.

If children are awkward, don't tell them so, put them where they can see and be taught to acquire it. We need all the confidence we can muster in ourselves and others. Don't ridicule anybody or anything. It is wicked and useless, and does untold harm.

THE CABLEMAN

BY WEATHERBY CHESNEY.

Mr. Page shot a glance at her, moving his eyes only, not his head. He made a sight of economy in movement and noiselessness, as Elsa was not looking at him. At the moment, by not moving the head he concealed the fact that he was observing her.

"You don't like your errand?" he asked.

"No."

"And I don't like sending you upon it. It is part of the spy is always an unpleasant one to play; but unfortunately it sometimes necessary. You understand that it is necessary here?"

"I believe you when you say it is. But I don't understand."

Mr. Page hesitated. Then he held out his white, rather large, but beautifully-shaped hand to her. She came to his side.

"Little girl," he said, "we have been through hard times together, you and I, and though the world has been against us, we have been happy, because we have fought it together. Hitherto there has been confidence between us. You have trusted me. Is that trust beginning to fail you?"

"No, father."

"Then why are you so reluctant now? Your task is an unpleasant one, I admit; but I have never known you to shrink from a task because it was unpleasant. I would spare you the unpleasantness if I could, but—" he pointed to his left foot, swathed in bandages, and resting on a pile of cushions. "someone must go to Ponta Delgada to see this circus," he said, "and can't."

She knelt down beside him and stroked the big white hand which he held out to her.

"Of course I will go," she said. "Mr. Scarborough will be here in ten minutes, and I are going to ride over on our bicycles."

"But reluctantly? You do it reluctantly."

"Yes."

"Why?"

For a moment she did not answer. Part of her reluctance came from the fact that she was going in Scarborough's company. That would have been a pleasure to her a day or two ago; but now, when the part of the spy had to be played, there was risk in her in having to make use of him for such a purpose. Besides, though she did not yet admit the fact to herself, her trust in her father, absolute hitherto, was beginning to be subject to qualifications.

"Father," she said at length, "how much longer is all this going on. When are we going to return to England and be known by our own name again?"

"When we can do so with perfect safety," said Mr. Page. "You can't imagine that I enjoy living in hiding, and that I have willingly separated myself from your mother all this time."

"What is my mother doing? She never writes to me."

"And rarely to me," said her father. "Letters are not safe. But she is working for us, you may be sure, sacrificing everything to the safety of her husband and daughter, and waiting anxiously for the day when we can return to her. It was she who sent us the cablegram."

"Danger—circus," said Elsa. "Father, what is the danger?"

"I don't know. When you return from Ponta Delgada I hope that you will give me the information that will enable me to answer your question. My dear, as you know, I have enemies."

"You mean the people who fastened the accusation of fraud upon you?"

Mr. Page winced. He always winced when the word fraud was used in connection with himself. "Yes," he said, "those and others. When I know which of my enemies is a member of Val B. Montague's circus troupe I shall know what the danger is for which I must be ready. I think that is the meaning of your mother's cable, but I wish she had taken the risk of being a little more explicit. Ah, someone has jumped off a bicycle at the front door. An invalid's ears grow sharp, and I heard the crunch of gravel."

"It's Mr. Scarborough," said Elsa from the window.

"Then, my dear, I won't detain you. You know what your work is—do it as thoroughly as you can. On its perfect may depend on the accuracy with which you remember a mole on an arm or a scar on a forehead."

Elsa thought involuntarily of the complete answer which her father always told her he had to all charges against him. "Our safety!" she cried. "How can it be threatened if——"

"Little girl," said Mr. Page quickly, "it can be, and is, or your mother would not have sent that message. Now, there is one thing more to do. Your work thoroughly, but don't delay unnecessarily afterwards. If I should not be here when you return——"

She turned to him with a sharp cry.

"Father! why do you say that?"

He was a prisoner on his chair, chained by the leg, in the grip of his foe, the spy. How was it possible that he should not be here when she returned. Unless he meant—heavens! was the danger something which threatened not liberty only, but life?

Mr. Page smiled at her alarm.

"I don't mean that I shall be dead, my dear," he said. "I do not expect to move from this chair, or at any rate from this room, till your return. But we must be prepared for everything, even for things which, at first sight, appear to be impossible. And so I say again, if I am not here when you return, look in my desk, and in the second small drawer on the left you will find a paper which will tell you what to do next. Hadn't you better go now? Young men, even the most devoted, don't like to be kept waiting."

Acting upon a sudden impulse, Elsa bent down and kissed her father. The action was the more remarkable because she was not a girl who was given to showing her feelings in this way. Then she ran quickly from the room.

Mr. Page rested back in his chair with a smile. The caress had surprised him, and, curiously enough, it made him uncomfortable.

"I believe my little girl is beginning to suspect me at last," he muttered.

He waited till the sounds on the gravel below told him that the pair had mounted and were off. Then, as though he had forgotten all about his gouty foot, he rose and went to the window. He used no stick, and he did not even limp; the gout, like many other things in his life, was a lie.

He watched the two bicyclists till a turn in the road hid them. Then he turned from the window with a sigh.

"That young man is a good sort, I believe," he said, "but I wonder whether he would cry off or stick to her if he heard the truth about her father?"

Then, a moment afterwards, with something like a moan, he added:

"And when she knows the whole truth—my God! will she stick to me?"

The malefactor had one virtue at least. He loved his daughter with a love that was ready to sacrifice all for her. For her sake he was about to undertake a task in which he had little hope that he would succeed, little hope, indeed, that when she returned he would be alive to welcome her.

CHAPTER IV.

Val B. Montague's American Circus Combination.

In spite of the trouble which she felt to be hanging over her, Elsa enjoyed her ride to Ponta Delgada. The country through which they were riding was beautiful, the air fresh and exhilarating, the road was good and she was riding with the man she loved. Moreover, though she had refused him last night, she knew that he loved her, and she thought that he was not one of those who love and then forget. He would ask her again some day; there was plenty of time, for she was only nineteen and he was twenty-four, or perhaps twenty-five, certainly not more. Perhaps the clouds would blow over, and next time she would say "yes" to his question, and feel no shame in saying it.

At nineteen it is not easy to remain depressed for long, if health is good, if the day is fine, and if one is riding in the company of the man one loves.

Long before she reached Ponta Delgada, Elsa had let the Atlantic breeze blow away her cares for the present. She did not talk much; she had the healthy English girl's delight in physical exertion, and she devoted all her energy to setting a pace. It was not until the white buildings of Ponta Delgada, picked out with edgings of black stone, like a funeral card, appeared in the distance before her, that her mind returned to the errand on which she had been sent. As she entered the beginning of the long street of mean houses which forms the approach to Ponta Delgada on the north, she slackened her pace and allowed Scarborough to lead. Her mood of exaltation was over. She went slower and slower, and Scarborough thought it was because she was nervous in the traffic.

"Would you prefer to walk the last bit?" he asked.

She dismounted at once, and Scarborough took her machine and pushed it for her.

"Tired?" he asked.

"No," she said; "only hot, and I think rather cross. Talk, please."

To Be Continued.

Latest Fashions

A Paris correspondent writes that hat pins are discarded with all the small round hats, and also with many of the wide-brimmed ones. They cover the head so closely the pins are not needed. When they are worn they are inconspicuous in size, and, as to decoration, the head of baroque pearl is preferred.

It is easier to make large bows for millinery purposes of material than ribbon. Velvet and thin makes of messaline lend themselves to these, tulle and lace being also employed as occasion may require. Cut the band on the cross eight to ten inches wide, and let the edges form a double fold with a wire inside. The shape of the bow depends on the form of the hat. Make one loop and hold it in place with wire, and so add loop after loop till you have the required shape, and be sure to fasten the complete bow very securely on the hat.

Tailored coats continue to be cut on loose, straight lines, and are of length best fitted to the figure; generally they end just below the hips or half-length. A pleasing variety is seen in the length of the small sleeves and the shape of collars and revers.

Coral pink of a deep and intense shade is the most striking new color for trimmings. It is too strong to be used more than very slightly, both on gowns and hats, but in small quantities is very lovely. Coronation blue, which is a vivid shade of royal blue is another noticeable color this season, and is very handsome in itself though apt to be trying wear for the average woman.

A pretty fad in dress accessories is the separate sailor collar, much seen in the shops just now. It fastens with slender points forming a V in front, where a bow is attached. It is made in various color combinations, one being navy blue, with a band round the lower edge of navy blue and white. This would make a pretty addition to a navy blue gown, or a white or striped blouse with navy skirt. One of these collars in dark navy blue silk with a band of heavy silk embroidery in several shades of blue is very handsome.

For the new separate kimono blouse—that is, the blouse made with the kimono sleeve, ready-made guimpes may now be had in the shops. Most kimono blouses are made in yoke effect, so that you either have to have a yoke set in permanently, or wear a guimpe. In the case of elaborate blouses, which it is not desirable to launder very often, the separate guimpe is much more practical than the set-in yoke. They come from a dollar and a half up, and are made with both high and Dutch collars. Some of them have the tops and sleeves made of real Irish.

Edited by Cynthia Grey.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. How can I clean a white net waist? 2. What will remove canned pear stain from silk?

A READER.

A—1. Put a quart of wheat flour in clean pan and rub waist in it. After flour has covered every particle of waist, roll up in a clean towel and put away for several days. Then shake well. If waist is not perfectly clean, repeat the operation. 2. Use chloroform.

Liquid Soap.

Dear Miss Grey: How can I make liquid soap to use in an automatic jar?

A READER.

A.—The easiest way is to save all small pieces of good toilet soap and when sufficient quantity is saved, pour boiling water over to cover. Let stand a few days, and you will have a good and inexpensive liquid soap.

Language of Flowers.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. What is the language of the sweet pea? The yellow rose? 2. What footwear will be popular this season? 3. Is a black voile dress all right for wear at an informal dance?

GOLDIE.

A—1. Sweet pea, departure. Yellow rose, diffidence. 2. White, tan and black pumps or low-cut ties. Black satin probably leads in favor. 3. Yes, if made rather low in the neck and with short sleeves, particularly if worn over white or a color.

Some Pointers.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. Will overskirts be worn this summer? 2. What will clean a Brussels rug? 3. Are bands to be worn in the hair this summer, and would it be all right for a married woman of twenty, with two children, to wear them?

PERPLEXED.

A—1. Very little. 2. A thorough beating out of doors and a hard sweeping after damp cornmeal has been sprinkled over it. If it is too badly soiled for this simple cleaning, buy soap which is sold at drug stores for that purpose, and cleanse by scrubbing. 3. Yes, and it is not only all right for you to wear them, but it is your duty to keep yourself looking as attractive as possible for the sake of your husband and little ones, as well as your own.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a young wife, mother of two children. I love them and my husband dearly, but he says he does not love me, which nearly breaks my heart. I try to do everything to make him love me, but have failed so far. He works every day and gives me every cent. Do you think he would do that if he did not care for me? I can't stand it to live this way without having my husband love me. I feel as though I can't live with him in that way. It seems wrong. Do you think there is someone else? Please advise me soon.

HEARTSICK WIFE.

A.—Don't you think you are "making a mountain of a mole hill," as so many, many wives are doing? In the first place, why did this husband of yours marry you if he did not love you, if you were not THE ONE WOMAN to him? And if you ARE doing all in your power to make him happy you may be sure he loves you now, more than ever, since you are the mother of his babies. You say he works hard and gives you all his earnings. Doesn't that show that his family is his first thought? Is he quarrelsome? Is he cruel? Does he drink? Does he gamble? Does he stay out all night? Evidently not, else you would have told me so. Well, what then! Perhaps he thinks that he HAS given and IS giving sufficient proof of his devotion, without spending his hours of rest saying over and over again "I love you." Many good and true men are like that, you know, and they really love their wives as much as the men who are constantly professing unbounded affection. They are merely constituted differently, that's all. It is hard for some men to express their deepest feelings, and they really love their wives as much as the men who are constantly professing unbounded affection. They are merely constituted differently, that's all. It is hard for some men to express their deepest feelings, but when it comes to the pinch they usually prove that they are capable of strong and sincere affection. The PERFECT man does not exist, you know. Which would be your choice if you were in a position to choose—the man who works steadily and provides well for his family, thereby proving his devotion, or the man who sometimes neglects his family, gambles a little, drinks a little, is even now and then unkind, yet who often gushingly says, "I love you, dear," especially when he's had a drink or two too many? You are a woman of sentiment, I know, and deep affections. Just go on loving your husband and your babies and doing all in your power to make your little home the cheeriest, happiest spot on earth. When husband comes home from work tired and a little grouchy, maybe, don't greet him then of ALL times with a "Do you love me?" but see to it that he simply CAN'T HELP loving you. I just absolutely refuse to believe that the man who comes to the home which shelters the woman of his choice and their children; who comes home to a clean, cosy, cheerful house, where he is greeted by beaming faces, beaming because HE has come; who comes home to a table spread with his favorite dishes daintily prepared by loving hands; who comes home to countless acts of kindness and consideration which he knows are prompted by a devoted heart; who comes home to a comrade, congenial, unselfish, sympathetic, willing to share all his sorrows and joys; who comes home to a woman who generously says, "I love you, dear," and does not bother to ask him if he loves her, when he is dead tired, and when "she ought to know it anyhow." I repeat I absolutely refuse to believe that this man is not a good husband and does not love his wife. He simply can't help it!

How to Do It.

At luncheon bake the rhubarb in a crock or casserole, after washing the sticks and cutting up. Do not peel.

For the croquettes at dinner, use any left overs of meat, chopped fine, for every two cupfuls of which make a thick sauce of 2 level tablespoonfuls of butter, 4 level tablespoonfuls of flour, 1 cup of milk, chopped parsley, and seasoning. Cook 15 minutes, and add the meat, heating in well. Cool, then form in cylindrical shapes, cover with egg and fine bread crumbs. For the egg, use the whites only, beat slightly, and add 2 tablespoonfuls of water for each egg. The fat should be smoking hot, not boiling. Cook only 3 croquettes at a time, drain on brown paper, and serve.

GIFTS FOR JUNE BRIDES.

There are many pretty and inexpensive gifts which girl friends can give a bride-to-be, but perhaps one of the most novel is a bedspread made entirely of linen handkerchiefs put together with narrow insertion.

One handkerchief is contributed by each girl and a jolly afternoon may be passed stitching them together. The handkerchiefs must be of uniform size—perhaps 12 inches square—and each should contain the initials of the giver embroidered by hand.

If there are but three or four intimate friends a beautiful dresser scarf may be made in the same manner with the addition of a lace or embroidery frill attached to the edges.

PHILLIES GRAB DOUBLE HEADER

Make It Four Straight by Beating Boston in Morning and Afternoon Games.

HEAVY HITTING IN BOTH

New York Hands Brooklyn Third Defeat, While Other Clubs Are Idle Because of Rain.

Boston, Mass., April 19.—Philadelphia made it four straight wins today by defeating Boston in a double-header which marked the celebration of Patriots' Day and also the close of the first series between the clubs.

In the morning game heavy clouting clinched the game for the Quakers in the first inning, when a total of four runs were gathered off Brown's delivery. Although the Tenney crew rallied in the fifth and sixth innings, they were unable to make more than three scores and were beaten, 5 to 3.

A home run by Magee and a triple by Luderus in the eighth inning gave the Phillies three tallies and a one-run lead, which was sufficient to win in the afternoon, and Boston again was defeated, 7 to 6. Paskert, Magee and Lobert were the heavy clouters, each getting a duo of bingles, and the former a perfect batting average for the day. The summaries:

WOLGAST REGRETS HOGAN'S DECISION

Says He Hopes California Will Change His Mind About Quitting if Defeated.

New York, April 19.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, is in New York today to put the finishing touches to his training for his ten-round bout with One-Round Hogan next Wednesday night. The champion declares that he is in top-top condition.

"I saw a report to the effect that Hogan intends to quit the boxing game in case he is defeated by me next week," said Wolgast. "That's too bad, and I hope he will change his mind. Of course, there is no doubt that I will beat him, and it will be a severe loss to the profession to have a man of Hogan's ability drop out of the game just when he is getting good."

Ty Cobb Tries His Hand at Auto Speeding

Ty Cobb, Detroit outfielder, slipped away from Manager Hugh Jennings long enough in Indianapolis the other day to try his skill as an auto racer. Procuring a National 40, Cobb tried to the speedway, and there clipped off numerous miles, the fastest being in 45 seconds. "Brick" Owens, the American Association umpire, who acted as Cobb's mechanician, is shown with the Tiger outfielder in the picture.

DEMAR SMASHED LONGBOAT'S RECORD

Winner of Boston Marathon Covers Distance in Three Minutes Faster Than Indian.

CORKERY COLLAPSED

Toronto Man Was Favorite With Demar, But He Failed to Finish Race.

Boston, April 19.—Husbanding well his reserve power for a speedy finish, Clarence E. DeMar, of the North Dorchester, Mass., Athletic Association, a young but experienced runner, won the Boston Athletic Association's fifteenth marathon race today, and established a new record for the 25 miles of rolling road, of 2 hours 21 minutes 39 seconds. The previous record, 2 hours 24 minutes 24 seconds, was made by Tom Longboat, four years ago.

F. J. Madden, of South Boston, was second, only missing getting inside the record through an accident; Ed. Fabore, of Montreal, was a poor third, and Robert J. Fowler, of Cambridge, a close fourth.

Second Last Year.

Although he is but 21 years old, DeMar is an old hand at long distance racing, for he finished second in the marathon a year ago, and in the same position in the race to Brockton last fall, while he has won several first prizes at shorter distances.

The weather was ideal, the roads were perfect and the runners in splendid trim. More than 200,000 people lined the course from start to finish. At the critical stages toward the finish continuous crowding on the course took place. Two miles from the finish margin, Madden, running strongly after DeMar, was knocked into the gutter by a motor car, spoiling his chances of record-breaking.

Two Favorites.

DeMar and James J. Corkery, of Toronto, were the favorites in the field of 43 entries, but the latter collapsed three miles from the finish and was carried in. Thirty-six runners finished inside of three hours. The times of the first four runners follow:

Clarence DeMar, North Dorchester, 2:21:39 3-5.
F. J. Madden, South Boston, 2:24:31.
Ed. Fabore, Montreal, 2:29:22 1-5.
Robert J. Fowler, Cambridge, 2:29:31.

Baseball's Boiled Bulletins

Manager Jim McAleer is having trouble deciding upon a man for first for his Senatorial outfit.

Have you noticed how many of these ball players have the "back to the farm" bug?

Russell Blackburne, White Sox infielder, is expected to return to the game following an operation for floating cartilage on the knee.

Big Jeff Overall could send a spasm of joy through Windtown by wiring Frank Chance that he has decided to pitch this season instead of look after that California nine.

Pat Page, Chicago University player, scheduled Waseda University's baseball campaign and omitted dating the Japs with Michigan. Not desiring to be personal, but was it intentional or an oversight, Pat?

Hugh Keogh has named the Cardinals the "Bresna Hens." The name is euphonious enough to stick till the ice goes out at Nome.

White Sox appear due to lose that ancient title, "hitless wonders," from the way they've been sloughing the pill.

TERRY TURNER AGAIN PLAYS AT SHORTSTOP

McGuire Changes Lineup—Griggs Is Sent to Third—Knaupp Benched.

Manager McGuire, of the Naps this morning made a few changes in his lineup. Two successive defeats at the hands of the Tigers caused the change.

Art Griggs, whom Cleveland secured from St. Louis in the trade for "Nig" Clarke last winter, was assigned to play third base and Terry Turner, the veteran infielder, was switched back to his old position at short. Knaupp, the highly-touted Texas recruit infielder, who has been playing short for Cleveland, was benched.

Griggs relieved Larry Lajoie Tuesday when Sheridan sent the Frenchman out of the game for kicking. He got a single and a double.

Five times this season Griggs has been at bat and he made two doubles and a single. His single in the third inning Tuesday drove in the only Nap run. Knaupp failed to get a hit in 17 times at bat and the only time he got on this season was when he forced Stovall on a grounder to Bush in the fourth inning yesterday. Donie just failing to make a double play.

JACK JOHNSON LOOSE AT MIDNIGHT SATURDAY

Negro Pugilist's Twenty-five-Day Term Caring for Jail Ponies To Expire Soon.

San Francisco, Cal., April 19.—Only three more days and Jack Johnson will be free.

The pugilist's onerous job of caring for the horses at the county jail ends at midnight Saturday, when the 25-day sentence imposed by Judge Treadwell will expire. The only person who can shorten Johnson's sentence is Judge Treadwell himself and there is little likelihood that he will interfere.

MELODY GRABS HYDE PARK PLATE.

Epsom, England, April 19.—The Hyde Park plate of 10 sovereigns each, with 200 sovereigns added, for two-year-olds, distance five furlongs, was run here today and won by Charles Carroll's Melody. The Cre gelding was second and Mr. Peeper third. There were six starters.

MILLER HUGGINS HORS DE COMBAT.

Cincinnati, April 19.—Miller Huggins, second baseman of the St. Louis National League baseball team, was so badly hurt in a collision with Evans and Konetchy that he was unable to leave with the team when it departed for St. Louis late today.

Three players came together while trying to catch a short fly ball in the eighth inning.

JOHNNY COULON IS READY FOR FIGHT

Mill With McGovern Will Take Place at Kenosha Tonight.

Chicago, April 19. — Johnny Coulon and Phil McGovern today declared themselves ready for the ten-round battle at Kenosha tomorrow night. McGovern, who put Johnny down for the count of nine when they met in New York a year ago, is confident.

"I've got the punch," he said. "Johnny knows that himself and I can see no reason for my Chicago fans refusing to concede me a look-in."

Coulon finished training with a few fast rounds with Frankie White at Losan Park, while the easterner boxed at a down-town gymnasium.

McGovern Ready, Too.

Chicago, April 19.—Phil McGovern, the New York bantam who is to meet Champion Johnny Coulon in a ten-round bout in Kenosha tomorrow night, had a good workout at a road house today, and declared he felt in splendid shape for the fight. Realizing that he is to fight the best man in the game, McGovern, who is not nearly so rugged-looking as his famous brother, has been working hard and believes he can give Coulon a good scrap.

Stock Yards Champion Sent One-Time Idol to Discard.

New York, April 19. — While fans are not surprised that Tommy Murphy was unable to hold his own against Packey McFarland, it is the general opinion today that the stock-yard champion's victory over Murphy last night puts him in a class by himself.

Packey had everything his own way. The tenth, the closing round, was expected to be a slasher, but that was marred by clinching. It is conceded all around that Murphy, once the most popular boxer in Gotham, is now in the discard.

DAILY HISTORY OF BASEBALL

APRIL 20.

1900.—The Cleveland club played its first game in the American League, defeating Indianapolis, 7 to 6.
1903.—The New York club played its first game in the American League, being beaten by Washington, 3 to 1. Al Orth pitched against Jack Chesbro.
1907.—Cy Seymour, of the Giants, made two singles, two triples and a home run off Irving Young, and Frank Pfeffer, of Boston, batting in six tallies—the season's record in the National League.
1908.—Henry Chadwick, known as the "Father of Baseball," died of pneumonia in Brooklyn.
1910.—Norman Elberfeld, of the Washingtons, made a home run with the bases filled off Leroy, of Boston. In this game the "Tobasco Kid" batted in seven runs—a season's record for the American League.
1910.—Addie Joss, of the Cleveland club, pitched a no-hit game against Chicago White Sox.

FORBES KNOCKS OUT BRITT IN TEN SECONDS

Makes Great Showing and Finishes Easterner With Right to Jaw in Jig Time.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

South Bend, Ind., April 20. — Harry Forbes, of Chicago, former bantamweight champion of the world, knocked out Young Jimmy Britt, of Schnectady, N. Y., after ten seconds of fighting in the first round here tonight. A right cross to the jaw finished the young eastern fighter.

The end came suddenly and unexpectedly, both fighters going at lightning speed when the Chicago bantam brought the bout to an end. As a result of his victory Forbes will go after another match with Coulon.

The Forbes-Britt bout was the windup of an evening of terrific fighting and was to have gone ten rounds. Britt entered the ring and went at Forbes like a whirlwind, landing a left jab and a right upper-cut. Forbes came back with a left swing and followed with the blow which put Britt to sleep. Forbes was a favorite and his victory was greeted with deafening cheers. The betting was 5 to 3, on Forbes.

Four bouts preceded the wind-up. Lew Messe and Jack Homeland, of Chicago, going to a six-round draw. Jimmy Brady, featherweight champion of Michigan easily defeated Pete Savoy, of Chicago, in eight rounds. Decker, of South Bend, drew with Bechtel, of Mishawaka, in six rounds and Young Perry quit in the first round with Harry Blank.

"Not Too Good to be True"

¶ It was a present good customer of ours who said a few years since that "Semi-ready tailoring is too good to be true."

¶ Like other men we know he was captious, critical and incredulous, but a visit to the Semi-ready tailor shops in Montreal was a revelation.

¶ The story of the rise and progress of Semi-ready does sound marvellous, and yet it is but one of the many trade revelations which have occurred in the industrial renaissance.

¶ The telling is not as convincing as seeing what good clothes we tailor and finish to order for from $15 to $35.

New York, April 20.—The Tribune says: For once in the history of baseball a fan has come to the front with a suggestion which Manager John J. McGraw, of the New York Nationals, believes will be of practical use. A fan named Wayburn, after watching Ithan game for many years, has invented the "ragtime drop," which he maintains is virtually impossible to hit except by mere chance.

Wayburn, when at the Polo grounds for the practice yesterday, put on a glove and mask, and instructed Rube Marquard in its use. Mike Donlin, the once hard hitter, was on hand also, and Marquard, using the "ragtime," struck out the former captain of the Giants, four times.

According to Manager McGraw, Marquard is the only pitcher who will be invested with the syncopated secret for the present.

MAYOR SEES FIGHT MAY BE PROSECUTED

Principals in Clancy-Luke Bout Discharged on Manslaughter Charge.

[Canadian Press.]

Waterbury, Conn., April 20.—Joseph Clancy, a local boxer, and Referee D. Buckley, arrested yesterday, charged with manslaughter, in connection with the death of William F. Luke, following a bout with Clancy in this city on Monday night, were discharged today on order of Deputy Coroner Makelee.

As a result of his investigation the city coroner, it is understood, will recommend that "the prosecuting attorney proceed, under the statutes and ordinances, against the principals, backers and spectators of this unlawful and unlawful exhibition in the nature of a prize fight." Among the spectators at the exhibition at which the match occurred was Mayor William B. Hotchkiss.

Express Wins Prix Des Gresillons—The Others Take Second.

Paris, April 19.—W. K. Vanderbilt had a "big" day in the racing at Maisons Lfitte today, four of his horses being placed. Express won the Prix de Gresillons, a selling race for 3-year-olds; Nefogol was second in the Prix de la Fablais, at a mile and four and a half furlongs; Brume came home second in the Prix Penelope, for 3-year-old fillies, and Messidor III. was second in the Prix de Moulins la Marche, a nine-furlong handicap. Brume and Messidor III. were beaten only by inches.

ENGLISH POLOISTS OFF FOR AMERICA

Captain Barrett, of India, Who Hunted With Roosevelt, Sails.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 20. — The remaining members of the flagship polo team, Capts. F. W. Barrett and Nod Edwards, left yesterday on board the Kron Prinzess Cecilian.

Capt. Barrett, who has just arrived from India, is one of the most interesting members of the team. On of the crack players of India, he is also noted as a big hunter. It was Capt. Perrett, who, with Mr. Roosevelt, practiced shooting on shipboard on the way to Africa.

Speaking of the coming matches, Capt. Barrett said he knew nothing of the American team, and had never seen them. Opinions, he said, were very diverse, but he was delighted at the opportunity of visiting America, where he expected the rarest of good times.

"SAMMY" SMITH AND CARROLL AT 'FRISCO.

San Francisco, April 19.—Sammy Smith, the Philadelphia fighter, who is scheduled to clash 20 rounds here April 28, with John McCarthy, is in San Francisco today. With him is Jimmy Carroll, who probably will be seen in the special event on the same night against George Kirkwood.

Jim Griffin announces that he has selected Benny Selig as the referee.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers. 3

CALIFORNIA NAG SHOULD SHOW CLASS ON BIG RING

Helen Stiles Is Looked Upon as Another Sweet Marie by Native Sons.

Detroit, April 20.—California is going to make another invasion of the Grand Circuit this year, word having been received from Will G. Durfee that he will be at the Blue Ribbon meeting with his entire string. Durfee has made a number of trips down the big line and while he has developed such a good trotter as Carlokin and such a flying pacer as Copa de Oro, he will have a better one this time, for he is bringing what the native sons declare is another Sweet Marie.

The mare Helen Stiles, that was the sensation of the Pacific circuit last year, is the reliance in her classes and there are some that think she will beat 2:02 if all goes well with her. She now is 7 years old and last year she won six races and took a record of 2:09¼. It was expected that Colorado E. would be at Phoenix and she was prepared for that emergency. Durfee worked her alongside of a hobbled pacer and was at the three-quarters in 1:34. The pacer was so far behind that he turned to tell the other driver to come on, his action causing Helen to make a bad break. Straightening her out, he took after the pacer, which had gone by, and not only beat him, but the mile was in 2:06¾. Then he came back in 2:08 very handily and those who looked on said that she had the speed of Hamburg Belle that day.

MONTREAL POLICEMAN BREAKS WORLD'S MARK

Holds Weight of 275 Pounds For a Second—A Wrestling Match.

[Canadian Press.

Montreal, April 20.—Cabana, the Montreal policeman, broke the world's record for weight lifting at Solimer Park last night, with a lift of 275 pounds. Louis Cyr held the previous record.

Eugene Tremblay, the world's lightweight wrestling champion, took a fall from Kilonis, the American welter-weight champion, after wrestling for 2 hours and 19 minutes. Tremblay received an ovation as he stepped on the mat.

The men at once settled down, as though expecting a long and hard tussle. Tremblay was the most experienced and by far the cleverer, but had the disadvantage in height, reach, weight and strength, though in the latter respect there was not much to choose between them. Kilonis pinned Tremblay to the mat, but couldn't hold him. Tremblay retaliated by endeavoring to get a toe hold, but Kilonis kicked free with his man on top, from which position he wrenched himself away, getting on his feet again. The Greek wriggled like an eel, getting on his feet like lightning whenever an opportunity presented itself, but was at his man again in the next minute, diving for his legs. Tremblay's chin started bleeding, and both men were well covered with gore before forty-five minutes were up. There was not much between them at the end of the bout.

Tremblay had a rough time just before the two hours were up, both men getting savage, elbowing and gouging.

Cabana made his successful attempt during this rest period, raising the weight with some difficulty, but managed to hold it for the required second.

NEWARK A WINNER; QUITS IN SECOND GAME.

[Canadian Press.

Springfield, Mass., April 19.—Five extra base hits, including two triples and three doubles, enabled Newark to defeat Springfield 4 to 3 in the morning game. Scores:

Newark ..... 0 0 0 2 0 1 1 0 0—4 8 1
Springfield ..... 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 2—3 7 3
Batteries—Cull, Flater and Cady; Case, Temple and Waters. Umpire, Roorty.

Afternoon Game.

Newark forfeited the afternoon game by refusing to continue play when the score was 9 to 9 at the end of the ninth inning. The visitors claimed they wanted to catch a train. Manager Zeller, of Springfield, declares he will make complaint to the national commission. The game was poorly played. Score:

Springfield ..... 1 0 2 1 0 0 4 0 1—9 13 3
Newark ..... 3 2 0 2 0 0 1 0 0—9 10 6
Batteries — Christopher, Bannister, Jackson and Ball; Sykes, Flater and McCarty. Time, 2:15. Umpire Roorty.

FOUR BIG LEAGUE GAMES ABOUT NEW YORK TODAY

Yanks and Senators, Brooklyn and Boston, Jersey and Rochester, and Newark and Montreal.

[Canadian Press.

New York, April 20.—Weather permitting, the baseball programme in New York City and its Jersey suburbs today was one calculated to smash all records for a day of baseball openings. The morning indications were for rain, but the baseball managers hoped that clearing weather would enable them to stage their contests according to programme. No less than four teams—National, American and Eastern League—were schedulled to start their seasons on their home grounds.

At the New York American League park, the Yankees, with the Washingtons as their opponents, were the offering. In Brooklyn the Brooklyn Nationals had Boston for the first game.

At Jersey City and Newark, the two local Eastern League teams were matched with the Rochester champions and Montreals respectively.

BUNCH OF MUTUELS AT LOUISVILLE, KY.

Twenty-One Machines Tested for the Race Meet Opening.

[Canadian Press.]

Louisville, Ky., April 20.—Manager M. J. Winn, of the Louisville Jockey Club, today had twenty-one new pari-mutual machines tested and will have them installed at Churchill Downs before the opening of the race meeting there May 13. Following the close of the Juares meet Mr. Winn made an extended trip along the Pacific coast and into British Columbia. Pari-mutual betting, he said, would be in vogue in Canada this summer. This system of betting alone will save racing, he thinks.

COMING TO CANADA.

London, April 20. — Peter Gannon, the young Argentinian, who holds the amateur golf championship of France, Italy and Austria, will pay a visit to Canada soon and also make a detour to play in the American amateur championships on the Apawamis course at Rye, N. Y. The strength of Gannon's game can be judged from the fact that in French championships he beat Bokaw, who won all his matches against the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society when that body visited America.

TORONTO TEAM AT BALTIMORE TODAY

Weather Conditions For Season's Start Were Not of Best.

Baltimore, Md., April 20.—The adverse weather conditions of the past 24 hours gave way this morning to clearer skies, encouraging the local fandom in the hope that the Eastern League baseball season would begin on time in Baltimore this afternoon, despite the prediction of showers. Toronto with Keeler, the former big leaguer, in right field, is the opposing team. The battery selections are Dygert and Egan, for Baltimore, and Mueller and Phelps, for Toronto.

Mayor J. Barry Mahool will toss out the first ball,and the league's president, Edward Barrow, is expected to attend the game, which will be preceded by the customary street parade of the players.

GOLFERS BUSY AGAIN.

Lakewood, N. J., April 20.—After months of inactivity golfers are again able to enter the competitive field for the real tournament opening today over the links of the Country Club of Lakewood. From now on open and invitation meetings will follow each other week after week with little cessation until late into the fall. Fred Herreshoff, of New York, and Walter T. Travis, of New York, are here for today's thirty-six hole testing round. The entry list includes upwards of a hundred players, representing various parts of the country.

The weather was heavy this morning, and the links were rain-soaked.

Special Coronation Sailing June 7th.

Owing to the continued demand for accommodation from Montreal to Liverpool in connection with the approaching coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary, the White Star-Dominion Line has arranged for a special coronation sailing by its twin-screw SS. Southwark, leaving Montreal June 7. This will give visitors an opportunity to get comfortably settled in London before that important event, and as the SS. Southwark is very well and favorably known to Canadians, her attractive accommodation and low rates will no doubt attract many to make the trip who were becoming discouraged because of the heavy booking reported by all lines for sailings at that time, and the rapidly narrowing choice in accommodation.

VALUES HIS ARMY AS BEST SCHOOL

Kaiser Considers Military Service Important on Educational Grounds.

INSURANCE AGAINST WAR

When Navy Is Up to Army's Standard, the Peace of Country Will Be Assured.

Berlin, April 19.—Germany is supposed to be better prepared for war than any other nation, and the German army is supposed to be more perfect than any other military organization. It cost $202,500,000 last year to support it, according to the budget, but other expenses not included in that statement, bring the total up to $250,000,000, which has been the average for the last ten years. The German Emperor takes the ground that it is better to spend the money in maintaining the army that cannot be whipped than to waste it on a poor one, that his army is as near perfect as human brains and authority can make it, and when he gets his navy to a corresponding standard, Germany will be immune from attack.

The regular German army on a peace footing numbers 623,000 men and 111,820 horses, of these about 400,000 are infantry, about 70,000 are cavalry, and the balance are artillery and in the several staff corps. Behind this regular standing army is a reserve, or landwehr, of 4,000,000 trained men between the ages of 21 and 30 years, who are called out for drill and exercise twenty-eight days of each year, and behind them are the landsturm, of "home defence forces," numbering 2,000,000 men between the ages of 20 and 45, who are expected to go into camp for exercise and drill fourteen days in the year. This makes a total of 4,529,000 men available for war. To equip them, in case they should be needed, there are 6,000 field guns, 6,000,000 carbines and rifles of the pattern of 1898 and 1908, with a range of 2,000 and 2,200 yards, 5,000,000 revolvers, automatic pistols and other small arms, and a corresponding number of sabres and other weapons.

Three Million Horses.

The warehouses of the quartermaster's department are stored with clothing and shoes; at headquarters is a list of 4,345,000 horses available for military purposes, and the names of the people they belong to, with a record of their age. There is also a list of 41,727 automobiles of all patterns and sizes and 52,000 motorcycles. The commissary department has more than 2,000 motor kitchens in working order, and the engineers have 1,200 wireless outfits ready for use at a moment's notice. Just now the aeronautic science is attracting the attention of the German authorities, and they are doing more than any other nation in an experimental as well as a practical way to develop the navigation of the air for military purposes.

Military service in Germany is compulsory and universal. Liability commences at the age of 17, and actual service at 20. The term of office is seven years, three years in the ranks and four years in the reserves, but practically it is two years in the ranks and five in the reserves.

Last year 1,189,840 conscripts were examined, of whom more than one-half were rejected or excused for various reasons; 435,933 were incorporated into the military forces and 10,374 into the naval forces. All of the conscripts accepted were between 20 and 22 years of age, and only one out of 200, one-half of 1 per cent, could not read or write. This is a remarkable record, and a decided change from the statistics of illiteracy several years ago.

The German Emperor defends the conscript system and compulsory service on educational grounds as well as a military necessity, and considers it an important factor in the civilization of the empire. Half a million green, awkward, unambitious boys are taken from the fields every year as raw material and after two or three years of service are converted into intelligent, valuable citizens. They are taught to think as well as to act, physical development is one of the first considerations, and they are taught a sense of responsibility as well as self-possession, and other qualities which are deemed important to all men. He declares that the German army is the best school in the world, and the best factory ever invented for converting raw material into finished citizens.

The non-commissioned officers are considered the backbone of the German army. As much attention is paid to their selection and education as to that of the commissioned officers.

HIT BY STREET CARS.

Montreal, April 19.—There were two street car accidents reported at the hospitals last night. Gamael Gilman, 34 years of age, residing at 2255 Boyer street, was struck by a car at the crossing of St. Hubert and De Fleurymon streets, and sustained a broken shoulder. William Burton, 55 years of age, was struck by a car on the crossing of Glen avenue and St. Catherine street, Westmount, and suffered a cut head and internal injuries.

STEEL TRUST IS TO PURGE ITSELF

Corporation to Investigate Labor Conditions Referred to in Magazine.

GARY CALLS FOR ACTION

He Declares Combine Does Not Intend To Do More Than 60 Per Cent. of Business.

New York, April 19.—At the annual meeting of the United States Steel corporation Charles A. Cabot of Boston introduced a resolution to appoint a committee of five to investigate certain statements published in a magazine referring to the labor conditions of the company. The article was entitled "Old Age at Forty." Judge Gary, chairman of the executive committee, stated that he favored the resolution. A resolution was adopted to consider the whole subject and report to the finance committee. Judge Gary said:

"The company had given these men every opportunity to investigate the conditions relative to the subject matter of the article in question and had been fair with these people, and we had reason, from their representation, to suppose that the facts, and nothing but the facts, would be published and that the object of the investigation was entirely fair and above board.

Motive Not Good.

When the article in question was published it seemed to us that it was partisan, unfair, unreasonable, and that the motive in publishing was not good. In fact, I understand those who have been urging the distribution of the articles admit that it may be a difficult subject, but that it may give the company an opportunity to publish its side of the controversy. We have differed with these men.

"The question now is whether or not the company will give these men the list of stockholders of the corporation or a large portion of them (15,000) for the purpose of permitting the distribution of the magazine among these stockholders. Believing the motive not good, we have declined to consent to such distribution. However, we desire to be fair, reasonable, and liberal with these men, and it seems to me that the resolution which is now offered is a good one.

"I would suggest the appointment of a committee of five stockholders to consider the whole subject matter and report to the finance committee its conclusions. As I represent by proxy a large majority of the stockholders of the company, I can pass or table the resolution, and hereby favor it."

The resolution was put and passed.

Tells of Business Conditions

Chairman Gary, speaking in regard to business conditions and prospects, said:

"We believe we have a better organization throughout our companies than ever. We think we are best equipped at the present time to manage our affairs economically and promptly, and yet we have no disposition to remain passive, inactive, or contented.

"We are satisfied with the amount of business we have done and profits we have realized during the last fifteen months. When the Steel corporation was organized the total capacity of finishing mills was somewhat like 24,000 or 24,000 tons per day. At the present time the producing capacity is nearly double that.

"We started out with about 60 per cent of the total business of the country and at present we have about 60 per cent on the average. It is our intention to keep a proportion up to about that point. We do not intend to have more than 60 per cent."

Changes in Personnel.

There have been important changes during the year in the personnel of the shareholders. Several large speculative accounts carried in brokers' offices have been either reduced or liquated. When the transfer books closed for 1910, Steel common was selling around 50. Today it is about 76.

The following directors were elected for three years: George F. Baker, W. E. Corey, John E. Dryden, Clement A. Griscom, Samuel Mather, D. G. Reid, Henry Walters, and Gardiner M. Lane. Mr. Lane, who is a member of the banking house of Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston, was elected to succeed the late Nathaniel Thayer.

OLAF'S EDUCATION.

London, April 19.—Whether Prince Olaf, heir to the Norwegian throne, shall be educated in England or in Norway, is stated to be troubling his parents and the Norwegian ministers.

Both the King and Queen are believed to support the idea of placing Prince Olaf in an English college, but the scheme is reported to be opposed by several of the ministers.

MERCHANT SERIOUSLY ILL.

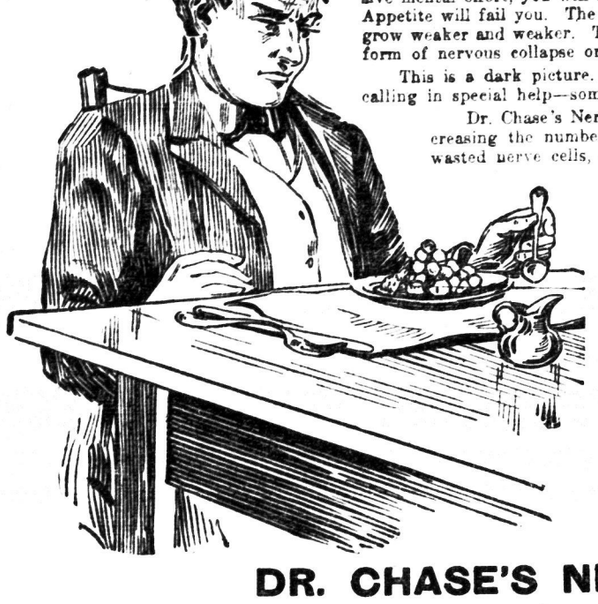

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Thomas, Ont., April 18.—Joseph Mickleborough, one of the best-known and leading drygoods merchants of St. Thomas and of Western Ontario, who suffered a stroke of paralysis ten days ago, lies in a critical condition at his residence this evening and his attending physicians hold out no hope.

Floors and furniture are not scratched by children playing with new building blocks made of cork in Germany.

MANY A MAN STARVES TO DEATH

Not for lack of food, but because he lacks the nerve force to digest what he eats.

"What, starve to death in the midst of plenty? Nonsense," you say. But of what use is food unless your digestive system can make it over into good, rich blood?

If your limited amount of nerve force is consumed in worry, overwork, or excessive mental effort, you will not have sufficient left to carry on the process of digestion. Appetite will fail you. The food will ferment instead of digest. The blood will daily grow weaker and weaker. The supply of nerve force will be less and less until some form of nervous collapse or paralysis is staring you in the face.

This is a dark picture. But it is absolutely true to life. Your only hope is in calling in special help—some means of increasing the amount of rich, red blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the want as nothing else can. By increasing the number of red corpuscles in the blood it feeds the starved and wasted nerve cells, and ensures all essential nerve force or power which drives the machinery of the body.

One of the first influences felt is a sharpening of the appetite and improved digestion. You will soon find yourself less nervous and irritable. You will be able to sleep and rest well nights. Weakness and discouragement will give way to new courage and new health.

Indigestion---Headaches

Mr. F. A. Krutz, Schwartz, Que., writes:—"For about one year before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was a complete nervous wreck. Could not rest or sleep, was irritable and easily excited, and had indigestion and dreadful headaches. My nerves were continually on edge and I feared prostration or paralysis.

"After the first three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I felt greatly improved and six boxes made me entirely well and strong. There is no treatment in the world above Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the nervous system."

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Cures by the building-up process. The benefits obtained from its use are natural and lasting. At this season nearly every person needs just such help as is afforded by this great food cure. The blood is thin and watery and is lacking in the red corpuscles, which are created by this treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food puts new vigor, vim, and energy into every organ of the body.

BOSTON MAN "ROASTS" THOSE FAMOUS BEANS

Indigestible, Says Doctor—Also Scores Oysters and Beef Extract.

Boston, Mass., April 17.—The baked bean that has made Boston famous, the succulent oyster and beef extract, were today branded as being injurious or of no food value by Dr. Franklin White, lecturing at the Harvard Medical School on "Digestion." He claimed that people could live more successfully on half the quantity of food taken. Prof. John H. Woods of Cambridge also aimed a blow at the high cost of living by claiming that a 12 cent meal suffices for a day's work.

"It is a hard thing to say in Boston," Dr. White allowed, "but beans are notoriously hard to digest. They may be an excellent diet for one leading an active outdoor life. While oysters eaten raw are digestible, they are practically of no food value, for they are mostly water.

"I always feel that it is pathetic to see people buying beef extracts for invalid foods, knowing, as I do, that they cost so much and contain so little of any value.

"Twenty-five cents' worth of beef juice will yield only six parts of food value to the body, while 25 cents' worth of eggs will yield 700 parts, and 25 cents' worth of milk 1,600 parts of real food value to the human system.

"It takes from fifteen to thirty glasses of beef juice to equal the food value to the body of one glass of good milk.

"Meat that is cooked rare is digested by the stomach in two hours, that which is half roasted takes three hours, and that which is wholly roasted requires four hours to digest.

"Dyspepsia is called an American disease. Surely it is not due to the fact that we have no good food but is rather due to our bad habits."

A 12 cent breakfast is all the nourishment Prof. Woods of 23 Inman street, Cambridge, who is 66 years old, requires to do a man's work consisting of twelve hours' reading and study and a ten or fifteen mile walk.

Prof. Woods sits down to his daily meal at 6:30 a. m. He is served with a cereal, a soup, four slices of wheat bread, and four glasses of milk, one of which is hot.

For cereal the professor always eats oatmeal; for soup, he likes pea, tomato, or corn chowder, and for dessert pies and puddings. His bill for these averages but 12 cents. He never drinks anything except milk. For years he has not taken a drink of water except on hot summer days and then sparingly.

Prof. Woods believes that eventually he will be able to go two days on one meal.

ABOLISH BEER "COLLAR"

German Publican Punished for Giving Drinkers a Short Measure.

Munich, Germany, April 19.—Serving short measure in beer, and the deception of the public by filling the "steins" and "seidels" with froth, so as to form what is popularly known as a "collar," has just been judged an offence, punishable by imprisonment by the criminal court here.

The tenant of a gigantic beer house, who was arraigned on a charge of defrauding the public in this way, was sentenced to six weeks in jail and a fine of $750, and five of his waiters to terms of from one to three weeks in jail.

Evidence showed that it has become customary to serve glasses of beer, in which the liquor did not reach the legally stamped mark indicating the proper measure, the drinking vessels being filled to the top with a large quantity of froth. In this way the profits of the house were greatly increased.

The public, however, indignantly demurred, and to such an extent that a virtual "beer strike" was brought about, and many hitherto popular drinking resorts have been practically deserted.

The suit, instituted by several customers, lasted more than five months.

SUCCEEDS McNAMARA.

Ottawa, April 19.—W. J. Egan, of Montreal, has been appointed trade commissioner in Manchester to fill the vacancy caused by the death of P. B. McNamara. He is the immediate past president of the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association of Canada.

SHAREHOLDERS LIKE SOVEREIGN BANK PLAN

Accept Proposal for New Company to Wind Up Affairs.

Toronto, April 20.—Shareholders of the Sovereign Bank are accepting with promptness the proposal to subscribe for stock equal in amount to the double liabilities on their Sovereign Bank shares, in a new company which will wind up the business. E. G. Jemmett, the general manager, has received many applications from smaller share holders, and the larger interests in the bank have expressed their approval of the plan. The feature of the new scheme which will appeal to bankers is that the charter will be saved, in that the double liability clause will not require to be invoked.

Mr. Jemmett says in a letter to shareholders:

"During the last three years the collection of the bank's assets has been pushed as vigorously as has been consistent with the avoiding of unnecessary loss, and enough has been collected to reduce the bank's total liabilities from $10,174,000, as on Dec. 31, 1907, to $4,258,000, as on Dec. 31, 1910, a reduction of approximately $12,000,000. Allowing for liquidation since Dec. 31, 1910, and for set-offs of some of its assets against liabilities, the present actual liabilities are about $4,000,000. Against these liabilities the bank has assets carried on its books at about $5,350,000. These assets, if carefully nursed and satisfactorily disposed of, may realize about this amount, while the double liability of its shareholders is an additional security to its creditors (the other banks)."

WORRIED OVER BRYCE

Unionists Were Afraid He Had Joined the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

London, April 19.—The report that the Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador at Washington, had joined the Ancient Order of Hibernians was brought up in the House of Commons this afternoon when Blackiston Houston, Conservative member of Liverpool, asked the question of which he gave notice a few days ago. Mr. Houston wanted to know from the premier if he had any official information in regard to the report that Mr. Bryce had become a member of the organization referred to.

Mr. Asquith replied that he had not information from Mr. Bryce on the subject. Mr. Houston then asked Premier Asquith if he would communicate with Mr. Bryce with a view to securing the latter's contradiction of the statement that he had attended a meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; that he made a speech in reference to home rule which was rapturously applauded and that he was afterward elected a member of the order.

Mr. Asquith replied that he did not think the matter worth inquiring into.

Captain James Craig, Unionist member for East Down, Ireland, asked if the premier would send a circular to British ambassadors abroad warning them against having any connection with such "disloyal bodies."

Mr. Asquith said he would not.

Replying to a further question, the premier said he had the utmost confidence in Ambassador Bryce, who was one of the most distinguished public servants of the state.

When Mr. Houston gave notice of this motion, Patrick J. Halligan, division vice-president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Washington, D. C., stated that Mr. Bryce was not eligible to membership in that body, which is for Roman Catholics only. Mr. Halligan thought the report originated through the fact that Mr. Bryce on St. Patrick's night attended the banquet of the Hibernian Order of Baltimore, an organization similar to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, which is open to men of all denominations.

SHELDON BEHIND BARS FEEDS AND READS WELL

Counsel Says He Will Elect for Jury Trial in June.

Montreal, April 19.—For a brief spell C. D. Sheldon will be allowed out of jail tomorrow, but he will not enjoy much fresh air. He will be conducted with other prisoners to the "black van" and be driven to the court house to appear first before Judge Lecky for voluntary statement and afterwards before Judge Langelier to choose his form of trial.

It was definitely announced today by Mr. Pelletier, counsel for the defence, that Sheldon will decide upon a trial before a jury. Of course, his decision tomorrow to this effect would allow him to change his option subsequently to that of a summary trial before a judge, but Mr. Pelletier states that a trial before a jury has been definitely chosen.

This will give the defence until the June term of the court of King's bench to marshal whatever evidence they have, whereas if Sheldon chose a trial by judge, the defence would have to be ready in eight days.

Crown Prosecutor Walsh states that the crown is ready to prove their charges against Sheldon at any time, although it is understood that there will be no important developments in the case until the court of King's bench opens a month and a half from now.

With plain but well cooked meals served to him from an outside restaurant, and with some of the books that he likes best around him, Sheldon is now fairly cheerful, according to the reports of jail officials. He is not in the habit of ordering fancy dishes, and is not a heavy eater, but the meals from outside jail walls allow him a certain variety.

Every time his lawyer or Chief McCuskill visit him, the prisoner wants more books. He has also made friends with several jail guards, and even these he has enlisted into supplying him with literature, so that by this time he has quite a library of essays, history and periodicals in his cell, where he is trying to make himself as comfortable as possible, realizing that he will be confined until June in any event.

DEATH OF MRS. W. F. MACLEAN

Wife of the Member for South York Dies Very Suddenly.

Toronto, April 20.—Mrs. W. F. Maclean, wife of the M. P. for South York, died suddenly last night, after a short illness, at the family residence, Donlands Farm, east of Toronto. The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Catherine Gwynne Lewis, was 53 years of age.

Mrs. Maclean in the afternoon had been out driving. Shortly after dinner she fell in a faint, and passed away in a few minutes. Death was caused by the sudden formation of a blood clot. Mr. Maclean and Miss Maclean were at home at the time.

Mrs. Maclean had spent the past three months in the city, and only returned to the country a week ago. She had been in delicate health for some time, but always able to be about.

"Consumption"

Three Doctors Attended Her. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Cured Her.

It has long been known that the balsamic odor of the newly cut pine tree heals and invigorates the lungs and consumptives improve and revive amid the perfume of the pines. Since but few can command the luxury of a visit to the pineries, it will be good news to many to know that the essential healing principle of the pine has been separated and reained, and combined with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth in the manufacture of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. Charles McDermott, Bathurst, N.B., writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Three years ago I had Consumption and had three doctors attending me, and they were very much alarmed about my condition. I was so weak and miserable I could not do my housework. While looking through your B.B.B. almanac I saw that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs so I got a bottle and after taking ten bottles I was completely cured. At that time I weighed 135 pounds and now weigh 172, a gain of 37 pounds in three years. I now keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything as I owe my life to it."

Price 25 cents at all dealers. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HIS CHANCES SLIM

Austrian Badly Beaten by a Finn in Mines Near Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, April 20.—As the result of a quarrel in a mine at Atikokan an Austrian, whose Christian name is George, but whose surname could not be learned, is now lying at the point of death in the R. M. and G. Hospital, Port Arthur, having been struck on the head with a miner's shovel by a Finlander named Jonpeck. The wound made a gaping hole in the Austrian's skull half an inch deep, through to the brain, and the chances for his recovery are very slim.

His assailant took to the woods after assaulting him and is thought to be heading west. Constable W. C. Symons, of the provincial police, is on the case.

RITCHIE—WILSON.

Halifax, April 19.—The marriage of John W. P. Ritchie, barrister, and Miss Gertrude Wilson, of Belfast, which took place at St. Paul's this evening, was a very fashionable affair. The ceremony was performed by Venerable Archdeacon Armitage. Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie sailed by the Royal Edward for England. They will later return to Canada and take up their residence in the Northwest.

MIRACULOUS RESULTS IN DUNVEGAN, C.B.

GIN PILLS Brought Relief.

"I suffered untold misery even when under treatment from the best doctors for over ten months, and nothing seemed to do me any good or relieve my painful condition. My trouble was Inflammation of Kidneys and Bladder.

"I finally determined to go to the Victoria Hospital, Halifax, for treatment.

"Two days, however, before my intending departure, a neighbor called and happening to have a GIN PILL in his pocket, insisted on my taking it. I did so and six hours after taking it, the results and benefits I derived were simply nothing more or less than miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital, I sent for a box of GIN PILLS, with the result that I am a cured man. I recommend GIN PILLS to everyone suffering from Kidney Trouble.

TOMBS OF OLD PERU SHED LIGHT ON PAST

Dr. Hrdlicka Reports to Smithsonian Institution on Explorations.

Washington, April 19.—The Smithsonian Institution, in a statement issued today, announces that Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the United States National Museum, who made extensive explorations among the ancient cities of Peru last summer and brought back with him 2,800 skulls and thousands of human bones, gathered from nearly 40 ancient cemeteries, has made a preliminary report to that body on the results of his investigations.

With this material, he says, together with the collections from Ancon and other localities of Peru already available, it will be possible now to learn definitely the physical characteristics of the population of the Peruvian coast for a distance of over 400 miles, and to establish a firm foundation for anthropological comparisons for the rest of the country.

His collections proceed mainly from the ancient sacred city of Pachacamac and from the once powerful empire of the Chimu.

"It is not yet possible," says Dr. Hrdlicka in his report, "to speak of the full scientific value of the collection; however, this is not readily overestimated. A number of the more important points which presented themselves during the preliminary work in the Pachacamac ruins are thus stated:

"The remains here were derived partly from mummies, which were especially numerous in the neighborhood of the temple of the great deity of Pachacamac, and in part from simple burials; also that in rare instances cremation had been practiced.

Many Died of Wounds.

"The mummies were not only artificial as to their exterior, but there appeared evidence that the bodies themselves, or at least some of their parts, had been specially treated. Thus, a number of skulls, mostly such as were damaged by wounds, were found filled with cotton.

"All the larger cemeteries about the extensive ruins contained burials of males, females, and even children; but the last were nowhere very numerous and were in a decided minority near the temples. In one cemetery all persons interred were women, and none of these had died a natural death, but were victims of strangulation. All were adults, and one of the skulls showed grey hair. It is probable that the victims were strangled as sacrifices to the deity of the temple.

"The people buried at Pachacamac were in general of moderate stature and medium physical development, with shorter and weaker individuals not infrequent."

The investigation of the cemeteries in the Valley of Chicama, the region of the Chimu, emphasized the relative scarcity of the remains of children. This is not due to the earlier decay of children's bones, for where such were found they were intact as good condition as those of the adults. It indicates either a scarcity of children, in Dr. Hrdlicka's opinion, or separated interments, or else a low infant mortality.

Seat of Temple of Sun.

The majority of the people in this valley were found to have been of the same type as those of the much more southern region of Pachacamac, but it was also evident that the Valley of Chicama was peopled in the course of time by more than one tribe of natives, though all, or nearly all, were of the same stock.

"Pachacamac was a famous religious centre, comparable to the Egyptian Thebes or the Mohammedan Mecca," says Dr. Hrdlicka. "It originally contained the shrine of the 'creator' god, Pachacamac, to which flocked pilgrims coming from all parts of Peru, 300 leagues or more, and later, after conquest of the place by the Peruvians of the Highlands, it also had a famous temple of the sun. It was at the same time a political centre, the seat of a chief who ruled over the neighboring populous valleys. Its decline dates from the entrance of the Spaniards, in 1533, and the destruction by them of the venerated statue of Pachacamac. In the sixteenth century the Augustinian monks transferred the town to the valley, and in the first part of the seventeenth century the Augustinian monks transferred the town to the valley, and in the first part of the seventeenth century the old place was already a desolate pile of ruins.

"The inhabitants disappeared, leaving scarcely a trace in history, but they left behind a vast number of graves. It is estimated the total number of burials within and about the ruins was between 60,000 and 80,000. There are six or more aggregations of graves which may be regarded as cemeteries, burials often two deep existed apparently in every available part of the ground, within the temple, about and even within the dwellings.

"These cemeteries, with the exception of one smaller one, have been for years the prey of the peons, engaged in searching for pottery and precious metals, which are carried to Lima for sale. The result is the destruction of thousands of mummy bundles, and often the mummies themselves, scattering of the bones, damage to the walls and foundations, and destruction or abandonment of everything that could not be sold.

"The skulls, bones, wrappings, damaged fabrics, broken jars, etc., are left to litter the surface of the sands, or are but partly buried by the earth thrown out from the excavations. When I arrived the place looked like a veritable Golgotha, or some great barbaric battlefield, with skulls and bones whitening the ground and ruins in every direction.

"In one sense these conditions, however they may be deprecated, proved of great service, giving an invaluable opportunity for investigation and collection of skeleton material. It made possible the examination on the spot of thousands of individual skulls, a good proportion of which, however, were not removed because of the damage done by the shovel or the diggers or the elements.

Headaches come and go.

MOUNTED POLICE DIED WHILE ON A PATROL

First Accident of Its Kind Since Herschell Island Station Started.

Ottawa, April 20.—When the Commons resumed today after the Easter recess, Hon. George G. Foster asked if the report in the newspapers was true that the Government had given permission to another American gunboat to proceed through the canals to the great lakes.

The Premier said it was true that permission had been granted to replace the Nashville with the Dubuque, but neither vessel had yet passed through the canals.

Mr. Foster then referred to the fatality which overtook three mounted police between Fort Macpherson and Dawson. He said he really did not know why that expedition was sent out of Fort Macpherson at that time of the year, and it would be to the benefit of the House and the country that there should be an explanation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, after giving the official details of the loss of Inspector Fitzgerald and the three men, said it had been the policy of the mounted police for ten years to have that northern part of the country as well as the country between Norway House and Hudson Bay patrolled constantly summer and winter. This was the only casualty during the time these forces had been on the trail. It had been an accident. He considered, however, that the policy was a sound one. American whalers hibernated at Fort Macpherson, and it was important that Canadian authority should be kept constantly before them. At all times Canadian jurisdiction should be asserted.

Martin Burrell, Yale-Cariboo, asked if the Government had received a copy of the commercial treaty between Great Britain and Japan, and what action the Canadian Government intended to take regarding this matter.

Hon. W. S. Fielding replied that he was not able to make a definite statement yet.

In reply to questions, the Minister of Marine stated that a Government inquiry into the wrecks of the steamers Seashell and Iroquois off the B. C. coast had been ordered.

Mr. Brodeur stated in reply to Mr. Monk that in important places throughout the Dominion postmasters had been secured as recruiting officers for the navy. They would be paid $2 for each recruit.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Encouraging Reports Read at Meeting of the Vestry.

The reports submitted at the fifth annual vestry meeting of St. Luke's Anglican Church, Broughdale, last night showed the church to be in an excellent and prosperous condition. The church property was declared entirely free of all indebtedness, with the exception of $60 due on lots which have recently been purchased adjoining the site of the church.

Ven. Rev. Archdeacon Richardson presided at the meeting last evening, and Mr. F. C. Ryott acted as secretary. Besides the members of the vestry a number of the ladies of the congregation were also present.

The report submitted by the church wardens was the best ever presented since the opening of the church. The receipts amounted to $1,106.49, leaving a balance after all expenses had been met of $68.15.

The question of holding two services daily, only an evening service now being held, was favorably discussed. It was decided to provide special envelope for contributions to the missionary cause, and the proposal to devote the Sunday school offerings towards the same purpose was favorably received.

The vestry passed votes of thanks to the choir, the organist, Miss Mason, and to the Ladies Aid for assistance in the services and work of the church.

Reports from the Sunday school, the Anglican Young People's Union, and Ladies' Aid, showed these organizations to be making rapid progress.

The following officers were elected:
Rector's Warden—Geo. Bowman.
People's Warden—Richard Oke.
Sidesmen—W. Oke, V. Jenkins, Allison and J. Henry.
Auditors—D. Blackall and J. Nagle.

A congregational meeting followed, at which Mr. Frank Lewis was elected delegate to the diocese and synod meetings.

UNCLE JOE CANNON IS PESSIMISTIC

Sees Reciprocity as Great for Canada, But Bad for United States.

Washington, April 20.—Although more than 75 years old, "Uncle Joe" Cannon demonstrated in the House yesterday that he can speak as long as almost any other representative. For more than three hours and a half the former speaker attacked the Canadian trade agreement. He charged in effect that it represented an attempt to abandon the old policy of protection.

Mr. Cannon objected to the way the Canadian bill had been initiated. The constitution provided, he pointed out, that revenue bills must originate in the House of Representatives. In this case the constitutional plan had been reversed. The President originated the Canadian bill.

Mr. Cannon said it was well to be careful in dealing with a foreign government.

When you deal with the nations of the world, when you deal with our friends across the Canadian border, you want to be mindful of a favorite expression of an old constituent of mine, who now and then dropped into a little bit of poetry. He was my client. He said: 'Now this is an awfully important matter,' I said, the plaintiff is not a bad man. 'Oh,' said he, 'Mr. Cannon, you don't know him. He may not be bad, but when it comes to material things he steps his tongue in honey and clothes his feet in the cunning of a fox.' That is true not only of individuals and parties, but it is especially true of great countries."

Mr. Cannon said he had no word of criticism to make of Mr. Taft personally, but he reserved the right to follow his own judgment on public questions.

"In my judgment," he said, "not since the war with Spain and all that followed it, of benefit and of burden at its close, has there been considered by the House so important a bill as the one now pending."

SURRENDERING SHARES TO MACKENZIE

No Doubt Now as to His Securing Control of Toronto Electric.

Toronto, April 19.—So rapidly have the shareholders of the Toronto Electric Light Company responded to the call for the surrender of their shares on a $1 55 basis, that all doubt as to obtaining the requisite two-thirds of the stock for the completion of the transfer to the new interests, headed by Sir William Mackenzie, has now been swept aside. It is learned on reliable authority that by Friday at the latest, sufficient stock will have been surrendered to consummate the deal which will be put through at once.

Most of the large shareholders are selling out to Sir William Mackenzie and the interests behind him.

OIL CUP GAVE CLUE

Toronto Chauffeur Charged With Manslaughter After Long Hunt.

Toronto, April 20.—Since March 4 the police have been looking for the chauffeur who ran down and killed Edward Jacobs at the corner of Bloor and Clinton streets. Detective Mitchell's investigation ended yesterday in the arrest of Herbert McLetchie, a chauffeur for A. J. Strathy, on a charge of manslaughter.

After the accident a broken oil cup was found at the corner where the man was run down. Detective Mitchell visited practically every garage in the city trying to find the automobile it had belonged to. His efforts were rewarded when the automobile McLetchie had been driving for some months was found with the oil cup missing.

McLetchie said that the oil cup had been broken off last summer while he was driving his employer through the oil cup away, but did not remember where. He would say nothing about his movements on the night of March 3.

The police have had experts examine the oil cup and the automobile as well and they say the cup belongs to the machine owned by Mr. Strathy. The breaks in the metal and the thread of the screw correspond.

SUICIDE AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, April 19.—Joseph Bourdon, a stonecutter, was found hanging from a beam in a shed at the rear of his home in Papineau avenue this afternoon. When the body was cut down life was found to be extinct. The body was taken to the morgue, where an inquest will be held tomorrow. Deceased was 35 years old. He had been ill for some time past, but it was not thought that he had any intention of ending his life. He leaves a widow and three young children.

WAR ON HOUSE FLY.

Ottawa, April 19.—Earl Grey has written a letter to the mayor urging immediate warfare on house flies. He suggests that a systematic campaign should be inaugurated, and calls on the mayor to take the lead.

His excellency states that Ottawa as the capital should set an example to other cities both in a campaign to kill the flies before they breed and in removing insanitary conditions.

AN IDEAL TOWNSHIP.

The nearest approach to the ideal community would seem to be the village of Langenaulbach, in the Westerwald (between the Rhine and the Lahn), which owns a quantity of forest land, which brings in a revenue of over $10,000, and a limestone quarry which is profitable, so that all communal expenses are paid from the income of the property, amounting to $50,000 per annum, or about $75 per head of the population. High pressure water is supplied free to the houses, and now it is proposed to build an electric power station, lay free mains to the houses, and charge only a nominal rate of about four cents per unit for lighting purposes. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to levy a district rate for many years to come.

SIAM'S OFFICIAL OATH.

If any form of oath is calculated to impress one, that which is prescribed to the state officials of Siam is likely so to do. Each official has to say:

"May the blood flow from my veins, may crocodiles devour me, may I be condemned to carry water to the flames in hell in vessels without bottoms. After death may I enter into the body of a slave. May I suffer the harshest treatment during all time in years as numerous as the sands of all the seas. May I be re-born, deaf, dumb and blind, and afflicted with dire maladies. May I also be thrown into Narok—the lower regions—and tortured by Prea Yam if I break this oath."

AN ESKIMO FETE.

About 6 o'clock I was escorted to the kosga with my presents (a box of crackers, canned fruit and meat), by the chief and several men in their best furs and finery. Entering through a long, high tunnel, I waited until announced; then I was bidden to enter through a hole in the floor. This igloo, or kosga, was a large cabin, 40x50 feet, built underground. About 120 men and women were closely crowded along the walls or sitting on shelves surrounding the walls. One wall was taken up by 16 musicians sitting in two tiers; they were beating drums made of sealskin stretched over a fan-shaped frame, in a slow measure, but keeping perfect time. The seal-oil lamps and two large Rochesters cast flickering and dancing shadows over ceiling and walls; the chanting noise of the large crowd in this small space, the beating of the drums, the swaying and nodding forms of the naked musicians, the strange costumes, grotesque head-dresses, and the expressions on the dusky, perspiring faces, made a wild and weird scene never to be forgotten. The opening dance was a grand march by all the women and men around the hall, accompanied by a swaying of arms and bodies, keeping perfect time with the drums and chant.

The next dance, performed by two men, was an illustration of the rabbit hunt, one man hopping around imitating the rabbit coming out of his hole, the other man was the hunter stalking and killing the rabbit, all done by jerking and stretching of arms, legs and head like a mechanical toy, and in perfect unison and time with each other, the drums and the chant. I saw at once the meaning the actors tried to convey. Then followed a dance, in like manner, hunting the polar bear, with the diversion of the fierce growl and snarl of the bear. Next followed a dance by two masked men, which was so grotesque and comical we held our sides with laughter. Then followed the salmon dance and a number of others in which the men and women brought in furs swinging in their hands.—Pacific Monthly.

Sale of Beautiful Residence and Valuable Building Lots

Ardaven Place

Ridout Street South, one block over Victoria Bridge, the property of Mr. R. C. Macfie, has been placed in our hands for sale. The residence, one of the best built and situated homes in London, and also a number of lots, are now offered for sale. Residence is of solid brick, with slate roof and large verandah, containing fifteen rooms, heated with hot water, five open fireplaces with marble mantels, hardwood floors, etc. Ground, 140 by 180 feet, beautifully situated, only 10 minutes' walk from the centre of the city, surrounded by handsome old walnut trees and shrubs. Also a number of lots, each 40 by 100 feet, will be sold subject to building restrictions. Money will be advanced to cash purchasers at 6 per cent per annum for purpose of building. Soil is sandy loam, and lots are high above street. The Belt Line and Ridout Street cars pass the property. Terms, 10 per cent cash, sufficient to make one-third in thirty days; balance in instalments with interest at 6 per cent per annum. PLAYS HAD RELIGIOUS BEGINNING.

Few people know that plays in England, Germany, Italy and France were fostered for religious purposes by the church centuries before they were taken up as a separate secular business. Moreover, few visitors to St. Paul's Cathedral, in London, realize that that church during Elizabeth's reign, and the first years of the reign of James I., set aside one of its adjacent buildings for use as a secular theatre. Its little stage was famous, and the company of choir boys as actors presented many of the great plays of Shakespeare's time. They acted from about 1598 to 1608 under the management of Edward Pierce, their master in music, who as church almoner had business control of these adjacent buildings owned by the church.—London Chronicle.

MILLING CONCERNS FORM BIG MERGER

The International and Canadian Cereal Have Been Consolidated.

Montreal, April 20. — One of the most important developments that have occurred in the milling trade of Canada for some time was brought to a successful conclusion yesterday, when Mr. A. J. Nesbitt, the managing director of the Investment Trust Company, closed negotiations for the consolidation of the International Milling and the Canadian Cereal and Milling Companies. Through the consolidation will result an all-Canadian organization, the Canadian Cereal and Milling Company, obtaining through the International a large connection in Western Canada, while in turn the International will secure the advantages of the connection of the Cereal Company in Ontario and Eastern Canada.

With a view to carrying through the terms of the arrangement, Mr. Nesbitt said that a holding company would be formed, to be known as the International Milling Company of Canada, Limited, with an authorized capital of $3,500,000 of seven per cent. cumulative preferred stock, and $2,500,000 of common stock.

Miss Roosey spent over Sunday in Toronto.

PARKHILL.

Parkhill, April 19.—On Thursday last a sale of farm stock and implements was held on the estate of the late Mr. John Waters, which realized about $2,000. Mr. James Anderson, of Parkhill, wielded the hammer.

The steel bridge over the Sable River on the Centre road and Ninth concession, will be completed this week, with the exception of the approaches, which will be finished in a few days and open for traffic.

Miss Anderson, of the Bornish school, is at her home in Seaforth over Easter vacation.

P. D. Morrison left for Chicago on Thursday last to take a position on a steamer for the sailing season of 1911.

Miss Christina McMillan, of Detroit, Mich., formerly of this part, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. D. B. Morrison, fourteenth concession, East Williams.

Capt. Alex. Ferguson, of Chicago, passed through here a few days ago and took with him his two brothers, Pat and Joe, as officers on his steamer for the season.

Ronald McKinnon left on Thursday for Chicago to act as captain or first mate, whichever he gets. It will be remembered that the passed a creditable examination before the marine board of examiners in Port Huron, Mich., a few months ago.

Mr. Wilbert Hall, B. A., will next week assume the principalship of the Parkhill High school, taking mathematics and science, in which two subjects he is specialist.

MR. MACKAY AT AYLMER

Hon. A. G. MacKay, leader of the Opposition, will address a mass meeting in Aylmer this evening.

He will discuss reciprocity, and other important subjects. There will be a very large attendance, from present indications.

On Friday afternoon he will speak to the Southwold Liberal Club in the Grand Opera House, St. Thomas, and later in the evening will be a guest with Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, of St. Thomas Liberals, at a banquet in Engineers' Hall.

PORTUGAL AND CHURCH PART NO MORE STATE RELIGIONS

All the Property Necessary in Public Worship To Be Ceded to the Clergy Free of Cost—Pensions for Beneficed Clergy.

Lisbon, April 20.—The cabinet has concluded the finishing touches on the decree of separation regarding the church and state. This will be promulgated on Friday or Saturday. The main points of the decree are as follows:

The state concedes entire liberty of all creeds, the Catholic creed ceasing to be the state religion from the date the promulgation. Henceforth all churches will be maintained by the faithful. The beneficed clergy will continue to receive their stipends until July 1, after which they will be paid pensions.

The property necessary to the celebration of public worship will be ceded to the clergy free of cost. All the Portuguese and foreign clergy engaged in religious work will continue as hitherto, but all others must obtain authorization. All the religious property which is proved to belong to private individuals, either Portuguese or foreign, will be respected. British and other foreign seminaries will be allowed to remain, but those connected with the seminaries will not be allowed in the streets in clerical garb.

As the Catholic will no longer be the state religion, priests may marry, so far as Portuguese law is concerned. In case of death, pensions will revert to the parents, widow or children.

CHURCH AND HOME SHOULD SOLVE PROBLEM

With Them Rests Moral Purity of Schools, Says Teachers' President.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, April 20.—"Let the church and the home do their part, that is the solution of the question," declared Mr. J. H. Laughton, of Parkhill, president of the Ontario Educational Association, when asked about alleged immorality in the schools.

Mr. Laughton thinks that what has been said on this subject at the convention has brought about a realization in the matter of morality. He says that the home and the church are the ones on whom responsibility most rests, for the teachers can only deal with it as an aid to them.

"We are asked to put moral hygiene on the curriculum," he concluded, "by people who in the same breath complain that it is already over-loaded."

President Laughton is not an advocate of segregating the sexes in the schools, and says he sees no reason why boys and girls cannot be educated together.

BIG CATHEDRAL IS CONSECRATED Brilliant Assemblage of Church Dignitaries at Ceremony in New York.

New York, April 20.—In the presence of a brilliant assemblage of dignitaries of the Catholic and Greek churches and various Protestant denominations, in addition to those of the Episcopal Church, the altar, choir and part of the nave of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, was consecrated yesterday. At the same time the Belmont and King chapels, henceforth known as the chapels of St. Savior and St. Columbus, were consecrated, the Right Rev. David Hummell Greer, Protestant Episcopal bishop of New York, and a host of Episcopal prelates and clergy officiating.

The occasion was one of momentous interest to the Christian world, marking the first step in the completion of the most ambitious church edifice in this country. The presence of so notable a gathering of accredited representatives of so many divergent communities of the Christian church was looked upon by many ecclesiastical authorities as evidence of a new and strong co-operation among the churches, not only in New York, but of the nation at large.

The cathedral, which occupies a commanding position on Morningside Heights, is destined to become one of the chief architectural features of the city. The work began 20 years ago, but it will be 1940 before the mammoth structure is completed. The total cost is estimated at $10,000,000, but the outlay will probably exceed that amount.

THE CAMORRA TRIAL

Devera, Accused of Being High In Councils, Denies That Honor.

[Canadian Press.]

Viterbo, April 20.—Perez Devera, accused of being the head of the Camorra in Porto Capuana, a district of Naples, appeared in the assizes today. The prisoner admitted frankly that he was flattered that the August court, the learned prosecutor and the honorable carabineers imagined him to be a personage of such distinction. The truth, however, compelled him to confess that he was the most ordinary sort of a creature. He spoke in mock gravity, winding up his speech thus:

"I deny every allegation made against me. I know nothing of the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and 'the beautiful Sorreintino.' It is said that I was the head of the Camorra of Port Capuana. Alas, me, no! I wish that I had been, but, honestly, I never was the head of anything."

The states does not accept Devera at his own estimation. It is alleged that he is a dangerous man, and so high in the councils of the Camorra that he was one of those who met at the Alda tavern in Bagnola, five years ago, and condemned their associate, Cuoccolo, to death.

DeLucia, another of those said to have sat in judgment of Cuoccola, was interrogated today. The prisoner described himself as a clerk in the employ of the White Star steamship line. He said that he was not connected with the Camorra, and that in denouncing him Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, had mistaken the accused for another man of the same name.

BRITISH PRINCE ATTENDS THE ITALIAN JUBILEE

Arthur of Connaught Given Magnificent Reception at Victor's Capital.

[Canadian Press.]

Rome, April 20.—Prince Arthur of Connaught arrived here today, the representative of King George and the British people at the Italian jubilee. He received an enthusiastic welcome.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena met the guest at the railway station, where a great crowd had gathered. When the prince appeared he was cheered heartily and thousands followed the carriages in which he and the Italian sovereigns and their attendants were driven to the palace. At the palace the popular demonstration was so persistent that the prince, yielding to insistent demands, appeared upon the balcony and acknowledged the greetings.

Prince Arthur delivered to King Victor Emmanuel an autograph letter from King George, in which the British monarch congratulated his majesty upon the attainment by United Italy of its fiftieth anniversary, and expressed the friendship of the British nation for the royal house and people of Italy.

RIDGETOWN WATERWORKS

Council Will Submit $35,000 Bylaw to Citizens.

Ridgetown, April 20. — This town has practically decided to invest a sum not exceeding $35,000 in a waterworks system. The Promoters' Association has worked up an agitation which will result in the council submitting a by-law to the electorate for a sufficient amount. The public feeling, as expressed at a mass meeeting last night, is overwhelmingly in favor of the project.

The system as outlined will produce a million and a quarter gallons of water per day from artesian wells.

A ROUGH EXPERIENCE

Nova Scotians Fight Their Way Through Ice From Wrecked Craft.

Halifax, N. S., April 20.—The schooner A. K. McLean, Captain Rumble, which left Louisburg, N. S., for St. John's, Nfld., with coal on Good Friday, was caught in an ice field the same night. The schooner remained in the ice all day and night Saturday. On Sunday she started leaking and was abandoned on Sunday afternoon, the boat in which the crew escaped having to be hoated over three miles of ice to the open water. The crew landed at night near St. Esprit, at Captain Cove, Cape Breton, and found shelter in an abandoned fisherman's hut till next day. On Monday they reached a settlement, and on Tuesday were driven to St. Peter's, 32 miles distant. They arrived at Halifax last night. The schooner was worth about $10,000, and owned by Lunenburg County people. She was insured for $5,500. When deserted she was down to the rail in water.

PILED UP ON THE ROCKS

British Bark Lost In Storm on the Coast of Ireland.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 20.—The British bark Port Stanley, is ashore in Ballyheige Bay on the west coast of Ireland, where she put in last night for shelter from a fierce gale. The crew of 25 was rescued with difficulty by the coast guard.

The Port Stanley sailed from Portland, Oregon, on Nov. 15, and arrived at Queenstown on Tuesday last, later sailing for Limerick, which port she was attempting to make when she ran into the gale. For several hours the bark struggled with the high winds, hoping to turn Kerry Head and make the mouth of the River Shannon, but was forced finally to put into Ballybeige Bay. There she lay to, but the storm increasing in velocity dragged her anchor and piled up on the submerged rocks. The plight of the bark was discovered by the life savers, who tried to reach her in a lifeboat. The sea, however, was so high that the small boat could not approach closely to the endangered crew. Then the crew of the bark threw out lines, which were picked up and secured by the life savers. By the use of these lines the imperilled sailors were dragged through the waves from their ship to the small boat.

KING'S HORSES STARTLED.

London, April 20.—When King George was taking his usual morning ride in Windsor Park yesterday, accompanied by Lord Charles Fitzmaurice and Sir Frederick Ponsonby, a group of merry school children lined up in the roadway, waving hats and flags and cheering boisterously. The sudden outburst startled the horses, which commenced prancing. The King, who seemed to be amused, returned the salute of the children and raised his hat to some of their mothers standing in the background.

STIFF FIGHT ON AT WASHINGTON

Republicans Threaten Obstruction in Reciprcity Debate.

DEMOCRATS DETERMINED

Serve Notice That Blocking Tactics Will Not Be Tolerated.

[Canadian Press.

Washington, April 20.—With the general debate still under way and with a score or more of amendments ready to be offered as soon as the measure reaches consideration under the five-minute rule, it was apparent early today that the Democratic organization in the House has a stiff fight ahead of it before the Canadian reciprocity bill can be brought to a vote.

There is not the slightest doubt about the bill passing by a big majority, but the opponents of reciprocity are threatening to resort to obstructive tactics and will demand roll calls on all of the various amendments that are to be offered. The Democrats in favor of the bill are demanding that no amendments shall be adopted. Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, who has been most patient in granting time for general debate, served notice today that if an attempt is made to prolong the discussion unreasonably, the Democrats may be compelled to push the bill through.

A number of the amendments to be offered to the reciprocity bill propose to put various articles on the free list. The Democratic free list bill already is before the House and the majority leaders will defeat any Republican effort to anticipate it.

The Senate met today for the first time since Monday last. Senator Stone, of Missouri, had previously announced that he would speak today on his resolution calling for an inquiry into conditions along the Mexican border.

TO PROBE EPIDEMIC

Government to Investigate Recent Outbreak of Typhoid.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, April 20.—Authoritative information has been handed out that the Provincial Government will hold a thorough investigation into the causes of the recent typhoid epidemic at Ottawa. An investigation by the provincial board of health conducted some time ago, which placed the responsibility for the epidemic on the bad condition of the water supply, has not satisfied either the Government or the people of Ottawa, and it is probable that either a commission or a commissioner will be appointed, clothed with full power to place the responsibility.

NO COMPLAINTS MADE

License Board Had an Easy Time of It on Wednesday.

The citizens of London paid a very high compliment to the splendid work of License Inspector Galpin yesterday afternoon when at the annual meeting of the license commissioners there was not a single individual present from any of the temperance organizations and no complaints of any kind or suggestions regarding improvements came from any source.

"This is the first time in our history that we have not had some one or other here," said Chairman Greer.

The comissioners renewed all the licenses of the city. No transfers have yet to be considered, and none will be made until after the recently-passed legislation is on a working basis.

MAHOOD—HODGINS

Young Physician Weds a Charming Lady.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at her home, 59 Craig street, when Miss Ina B. Hodgins, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hodgins, was united in marriage to Dr. Stanley C. Mahood, of this city.

The bride looked very pretty in a travelling suit of fawn diagonal serge, which was very becoming.

Rev. Heber S. Mahood, B. A., of Paris, brother of the groom, officiated. After the ceremony the happy young couple left for the western coast on their honeymoon.

LOLA POWELL WEDS

Ottawa Society Leader Married to a British Officer at Capital.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Int., April 20. — In Christ Church Cathedral here at 2:15 o'clock the marriage took place of Lola Beatrice Powell, daughter of the late W. F. Powell and Mrs. Powell, to Captain Eric Montagu Charles, of the Royal Engineers, Dublin, Ireland, second son of the late T. Edmonston Charles, honorary physician to his Majesty King George.

The marriage was one of exceptional interest, as Miss Powell is one of the society leaders, and Captain Charles belongs to a distinguished English family.

A Society Event.

"Lady Huntworth's Experiment," the play to be presented on Monday by the London Dramatic Club, was first produced by Arthur Bourchier at the Criterion Theatre, London, England. Among the players who composed the cest at that time were: Gertrude Elliott, Eric Lewis and Weedon Grossmith. Later it was produced at the Haymarket Theatre.

It is written by R. C. Carten, the noted author of "Mr. Preedy and the Countess," and "Lord and Lady Algy."

It is a bright and amusing comedy and will be played here for the benefit of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Among the patrons of the play will be the mayor and aldermen of the city.

It promises to be very successful, and no doubt it will be with strong encouragement from London play-lovers that the dramatic club will leave for Winnipeg to enter the Governor-General's competition.

HAY IN SHARP DEMAND ON THE LOCAL MARKET

Only a Small Quantity Was Offered Today—The Market Quotations.

A strong demand for hay was the principal feature of the market this morning. The quantity offered was not great, and the prices paid were $14 and $14 50 per ton.

Straw also is very scarce, and readily brings $6 per ton.

Oats are still very much in demand, but very little is offered on the market. The price still holds from $1 per cwt. up to $1 06.

Butter having at last come down to earth, is still low. Wholesalers and commission dealers are buying store lots at 19 cents per pound. Wholesale prices for good dairy butter are as low as 22 and 23 cents per pound, but as high as 24, 25 and 26 cents per pound is still asked for retail quantities.

Beef sells at $8 50, $9 and $9 50 per cwt. Dressed pork varies from $8 50 to $9 per cwt., and veal is still slow at $7 50 to $8 50 per cwt.

Seed potatoes are selling at 75 cents per bag. Potatoes for food consumption are worth 80 and 85 cents per bag.

FINANCIAL.

[From Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.]

NEW YORK, April 20.—(Noon)—The irregularity early was followed by a display of firmness, and where there was any fair amount of activity, prices made some gains. The trading element on the floor was the principal factor in causing tre reaction and the later recovery. There was a little increase in commission business in the general list, resulting from the more active price movements that have prevailed since the beginning of the week.

PROFESSOR JAMES ON GERMAN EDUCATION

Very Hard to Compare It With the System in Ontario.

Prof. Needler, of Toronto University, is reported to have created a sensation at the Ontario Educational Association convention in Toronto Wednesday when he stated that the Ontario school system is arranged entirely along wrong lines.

Among his charges he declared that our system when compared with that of Germany, is shown to be greatly the inferior and very badly laid out.

President N. C. James, of the Western University, who is familiar with the German system and is himself a graduate of Halle, one of the leading universities of Germany, in an interview with The Advertiser stated, that judging from the newspaper reports already published, Prof. Needler has confined his criticisms very largely to generalities, making it difficult to say just how far they are justified.

"The German educational system is so entirely different from that of Ontario that it would be very hard to compare them. Besides the three types of secondary schools mentioned by Prof. Needler, there are also what are known as 'Citizen School,' where pupils who desire to develop a knowledge of a trade or business may attend. In Ontario we have practically one type of education for all classes. In Germany they begin to differentiate at a very early stage in the course of the pupil. It would be hard to say whether the German system would be adapted to the different circumstances prevailing in Ontario," said Dr. James.

"Prof. Needler emphasized the need of 'publicity and investigation,' and that is probably the main purport of his address."

Principal Radcliffe, of the Normal School; Inspector Edwards, and Principal McCutcheon, of the Collegiate Institute, are attending the convention in Toronto, and will not return before tonight.

EAST LONDON NEWS

COLORED MAN MADE NUISANCE OF HIMSELF

Charles Coursey Was Fined $2 and Costs in the Police Court.

Charles Coursey, a colored youth residing in East London, was fined $2 and $1 85 costs by Deputy Magistrate Graydon this morning for being disorderly by deliberately jostling on the sidewalks a number of young white girls on Dundas street last night, and for fighting with P. C. John Creen while the officer was taking him to the station. According to P. C. Creen he noticed Coursey step up to two young girls, and speak to them, and deliberately bump into them. A little further down the street, Coursey repeated this, and tried to do it again a little later, but the girls separated and walked around him.

P. C. Creen went after him, and advised him to stop, and later asked for his name. Coursey refused to give it, and said it was none of the constable's business. P. C. Creen started to take him to the station, and Coursey commenced to fight. P. C. Westman arrived, and together, Coursey was jailed. Coursey denied that he had spoken to more than two girls. He admitted that he had been drinking.

"I will fine you $2 and costs," said the court.

Another Case.

Thomas Huntley, of Elias street, and F. Catalano were charged with being disorderly by fighting. According to Huntley, he went into Catalano's fruit store and asked for some bananas, and when those given him did not suit him, he handed them back. This, he said, caused Catalano to become angry and throw the bananas at him. There was a mixup, in which Huntley was thrown out of the store. Catalano admitted throwing a rotten orange at the man.

"You were both to blame," said the court. "But after this, Mr. Catalano would do better to call the police. However, I will let you both go."

A SUCCESSFUL BANQUET.

St. Matthew's Anglican Church, East London, held an entirely successful men's banquet last evening. About 80 men sat down to the well-laid tables, and enjoyed the banquet as well as the symposium of speech and music, which followed. Addresses were delivered by the rector, Rev. E. Appleyard, Rev. Professor Jeakins, Rev. Canon Tucker, and Mr. Andrews, of South London. The newly-elected officers of the vestry and congregation were present. This afternoon the ladies of the church are also holding a banquet. Tonight there will be a concert in the church in aid of the baseball team.

BLOOD-POISONING CASE.

An employee of the Sherlock-Manning Organ Company, named Sharrat, while working recently, struck his thumb, with a hammer, but paid no attention to the injury at the time. Last evening, however, the injured member commencing to cause him intense pain, and seriously swelling, Dr. Holmes was called. It was found that blood-poisoning had set in. Mr. Sharrat will be confined to his home for some time, but no serious effects are anticipated.

TRAMPS IN FAIR BUILDINGS

Two Found There by the Police.

According to the police, there was a narrow escape from a big blaze at the Western Fair buildings Wednesday night. Shortly after midnight a trio, composed of John Brown, Jerry Prown and Robert Blackwell, were discovered in the horse sheds by the police.

"The men were all going to have a good smoke and sleep there for the night," said the chief. "It is fellows like these who go to sleep in farmers barns and set them on fire."

"I wish you would all get out of town," said the magistrate. "You are no good any place. I am going to send you down for 21 days, and if you ever come up again I will send you all to the Central for as long a term as I can."

SHELDON ELECTS FOR A JURY TRIAL

Pleads Not Guilty to Charges of Huge Embezzlement at Montreal.

Montreal, April 20.—Sheldon appeared before Judge Leet this morning, and pleaded not guilty to two charges of obtaining money under false pretences and one charge of theft. He was afterwards taken before Judge Langelier in the court of special sessions to elect for trial, and declared for a jury trial, which means that he will have to remain in jail until the June session of the court of king's bench unless bail is granted in the meantime.

There was no application for bail this morning, but Mr. Pelletier, Sheldon's counsel, stated that an application would be entered later. The accused does not appear to have suffered in health from his trouble, other than his hair appears to have become a little more grey, and appeared indifferent to the many curious eyes upon him during his appearance in the court room.

It is the general opinion here that a heavy bail will be demanded, if an absolute refusal is nto made by the crown attorney. In the former case, doubtless some of the "Speculator's" former companions are expected to step into the breach.

AYLMER.

Aylmer, April 19.—H. B. Youell, E. W. R. Hill, James Curtis, W. H. Barnum, Fred Boettinger, Ed Karn, W. C. Talbot, John Trim C. Showers and J. H. Harding spent Tuesday in St. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Love were London visitors yesterday.

The Peninsular Oil and Gas Company, who have several gas wells at Vienna, and who expect to commence in a few days the work of piping gas to the town, have rented a portion of the Charlton block, which they will use for offices and workshop during the installation of the plant.

BOY PLEADED GUILTY TO THEFTS

Only 13 Years of Age But He Is Well Acquainted With Crime.

REMANDED FOR A WEEK

Story of How the Little Flimflammer "Worked" Grocers and Others of London.

The youth who was arrested by Detective Nickel on Tuesday evening in connection with the theft of a 40-pound crock of butter from a stall in the market house, and nine boxes of cigars from the Lucan stage, pleaded guilty this morning when he appeared in the juvenile court before Deputy Magistrate Graydon. He was remanded for a week for sentence.

The detectives say the lad, who is only 13 years of age, is the cleverest boy they have ever had anything to do with.

"He is a lad of unusual ability," said one of the detectives to The Advertiser this afternoon. "He is very smart at figures and a fine writer. It is too bad his ability cannot be directed into proper channels. He is the making of either a very smart man or a criminal, whose cleverness will make him very hard to deal with."

The story is told that some time ago the boy got into the habit of going to leading grocery stores and giving a bona-fide address and ordering large quantities of goods to be sent up.

He would later tell the grocer that his people were in a hurry for certain things and that he would take them back with him. The things were given to him without question, and there was great surprise later when the grocer on delivering the order at the address given discovered that nothing had been sent for.

DEMONSTRATION TONIGHT IN FIRST AID WORK

Will Be Held at the Police Station and Will Be Very Interesting.

One of the most important demonstrations and examinations in first aid work that has yet taken place in this city will take place at the police station tonight, when a large number of police officers and a class from McClary's will be examined by Dr. Becher. The men have been instructed by Dr. Becher and Mr. W. Clarke, superintendent of the first aid work here. Mr. Clarke is one of the best-posted men in the work of St. John's Ambulance Society in Canada, and has a number of certificates for examinations he has passed both in Canada and in England, and a very handsome medal with two bars for first aid work. At present he is instructing a number of classes in the Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and in the city schools.

The Candidates.

Those who will be examined tonight are:

Messrs. Gordon Nott, V. McGreath, W. T. Middaugh, John McIntosh, J. P. Creen, J. Middaugh, W. T. Wilson, V. Y. Oakley, L. Middaugh, W. Gream, C. Pickel, C. P. Burns, G. Snow, R. Fulcher, F. Shephard, Wm. Greaves, C. B. Little, W. H. Hayden, F. Crossley, S. Hewett, E. H. Swindall, A. S. H. Cree.

The following will take the second examination: W. Henry and C. Jackson.

The third examination will be taken by Messrs. Morton, sen. and jun., C. E. Baldwin, R. Wigham and J. A. Bailey.

Mr. W. Loveday, honorary secretary of the association, will take the fourth examination and W. B. Clark the seventh.

WELL INTO JULY

there is a way by which we could make them come to time, and it is this: According to the bylaw the company must pave their portion with the same material that the rest of the street is paved with. For some years we have allowed the company to use brick, as it was cheaper. We have granted them the same privilege on Dundas and Richmond streets. Now, if they hold us back, and do not get along with their work, I, for one, would be in favor of compelling them to use asphalt, and make them pay the extra money for it."

City Is Ready.

"We are ready to start our part of the work at once," declared Deputy Engineer Wright. "The company will be through with Dundas street east of Richmond street this week. They have been delayed somewhat by wet weather, but are doing much better now. When that strip is completed they will do Richmond street south. That piece should be done in three weeks' time. By the 1st of June a large portion of Dundas west should be completed. We will hurry our portion right through, and it will be as far advanced as the company in a short time. Very fair progress is being made now, although it could be hurried a great deal. Manager King has assured me that they are in earnest about the work and that they will hustle it through. I am willing to give him a short time to make good. We could go ahead and lay our own portion. I would rather not do that as it will spoil the job to a certain extent. However, if the company hold us up we will have to take the proper steps to make them hurry along."

Street Railway Side.

"We have a large force of men at work, just as large as can be handled with efficiency," said a street railwayman. "Whenever they get an opportunity to work they make good time. It must be remembered that we have been delayed much this spring. We expected to be much further advanced than we are now. The weather was against us. With any kind of a chance we will keep well ahead with our work. We will be through early this summer."

DORCHESTER STATION.

Dorchester Station, April 19. — The brethren of the environs of Dorchester turned out on Tuesday as a supplementary force, because of the indisposition of Mr. James Hunt, and plowed 25 acres of arable land and sowed ten acres.

Misses Gladys Talbot and Jessie Brown have been the guests of Mr. J. Talbot during the past few days.

Miss Annie Mitchell has been spending her holidays at home.

Miss Maggie Mitchell has been holidaying in the city.

Miss Maggie McGregor, of West Lorne, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. W. Vollick, jun.

CANADIAN PRESBYTERIES FAVOR CHURCH UNION

Fifty-Four Voted in Approval and Fourteen Against it.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, April 20.—Following is a summary of the vote of the 68 Canadian presbyteries on the question of church union. Fifty-four have voted in approval, and 14 votes against.

The individual vote as given by the Presbyterian today is 926 members for, and 443 against.

AUTO MEN GRACED POLICE COURT TODAY

Cars Must Have Numbers and the Lamps Must Be Burning.

Mr. Melville Hueston, the local auto dealer, appeared in court this morning, charged with driving a car without the front and rear numbers on it. He explained that he had mislaid the rear number and was waiting to get another from the department.

"You were not using the same number on two cars?" said Chief Williams.

"No," said Mr. Hueston.

"Well, I will not fine you," said the court. "But you must not drive the car again until you get the number."

Mr. W. Hunter was charged with not having the lights on his car lit. He stated that as it was ustj at daylight when he was driving he had not lighted them.

"Well, it will be cheaper for you to burn a little oil than to pay a fine," said the court. "Don't do it again."

George Montieth, of Delaware, who told the court yesterday that he was not drunk, was found guilty on the evidence produced today, and was fined $10 or 10 days. He took the days.

FARM LABOR IN DEMAND

Salvation Army Officer Reports Many Inquiries.

Major McGillivray, of the Salvation Army immigration department, reports that he has on file several hundred applications for farm laborers from the farmers of Western Ontario.

"I will not be able to fill more than two hundred at the most," he said, "and already twice that number have been sent in. We simply cannot get the men over because of the enormous demands on the steamship companies made by the regular tide of emigration."

Last week a party of thirty domestics from Scotland were brought to London from Halifax by Major McGillivray. Every one of them was placed in a position on the day of her arrival. Another party is expected in several days' time, for every one of whom there are several positions waiting.

OBITUARY

Maggie A., beloved wife of Donald McTaggart, died on April 15 at her late residence, Ekfrid. She was the daughter of the late John Carmichael and Mary Carmichael, of Lobo. On Oct. 19, 1898, she was united in marriage to Donald McTaggart, of Ekfrid. The funeral was held at the home the following Monday at 2 p.m. Elder Vale, of Dutton, spoke feelingly from the 23rd Psalm. She is survived by her husband, her mother, one brother, Charles Carmichael, of Lobo, and three sisters, Mrs. Duncan Gillies, of East Williams; Mrs. Angus McTaggart, Melbourne, and Mrs. Angus O. Gray, Blencoe, Ia.

Mrs. Alice Mudge, wife of Mr. James Mudge, of the Hamilton road, died at her home this morning after an illness extending over some time. She was 39 years old, and besides her husband leaves one son. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery, and the services will be conducted by Rev. T. B. Clarke.

SOLD CIGARS TO MINORS

Dundas Street Merchant Paid Fine of Ten Dollars.

Mrs. Dowerick, the Glendale lady, found wandering about the streets on Wednesday, was remanded to jail for examination by a physician, when she appeared in court today, charged with vagrancy.

She told the court that she had nowhere todo and was not strong and never would be.

"I will see that you are taken care of," said the magistrate. "You will be examined by a physician and we will look after you for the future."

Edwin Wornall, a Dundas street merchant, who was found guilty of selling cigars to minors, paid a fine of $10.

Charles Rose, who said he was an American soldier on the way from Fort Slocum to Fort Wayne, was arrested at the G. T. R. station in a helplessly drunken condition. He had to be lifted from express No. 3 yesterday when it arrived and was taken charge of.

"Canadian whiskey was too strong for him," said Chief Williams. Rose was let go on condition that he gets right out of the city.

Financial Weather Reports

Men identified with shipping interests must study Government weather reports in order to conserve the safety and best interests of their shipping investments. So should the intending investor or one who has investments keep in touch with financial reports on, not only those securities he owns or intends buying, but on practically the entire market. To know what has been done, is being done, and probably will be done, is most important in determining what you shall sell or what you shall buy, or both.

And just as the Government weather reports are simplified for the use and understanding of the reader, so is it necessary to condense and simplify for clear understanding the extensive and involved financial reports issued by the various enterprises whose securities are in mind. The progressive investment house will keep clients and prospective clients in touch with market conditions by such reports. This in addition to its personal advice and suggestions to clients.

Our Security Reports

are sent from time to time, as issued, to our clients and to those who, as possible investors, wish to keep informed on securities dealt in on all markets. May we not put your name on this list? It will obligate you to nothing and will be of undoubted value to you.

Witte Says That Lloyd-George Alone Is Not Responsible.

[Canadian Phess.]

London, April 20.—It is reported that the Government has decided to accelerate the passage of the veto bill through the House of Commons, so that it may go up to the House of Lords by May 16. If necessary, this reason will be attained by a recourse to the guillotine measure.

Widespread discussion has been aroused on the continent by the far-reaching changes in Great Britain's constitutional system, which are involved in the bill. The Telegraph publishes an article from Count Witte, the famous Russian statesman, who says: "Mr. Lloyd-George has been accused of bringing things to a crisis. It was he, they say, who roused the sleeping dogs. I cannot share this view. The economic reform with which he has associated his name is one of those ideas which no man calls into being. In time the masses will assimilate them."

"They become forces which it is dangerous to open up in England."

FORMER GALT MAN KILLED AT DETROIT

Clothing Caught in Wheel, and His Body Pulled In.

Detroit, April 20.—William Voilmer, aged 32, engineer at the Michigan Beef Company, Waterman and Dix avenues, was killed yesterday by being mangled in one of the machines near which he worked. There were no witnesses to the accident and he was found afterward as he lay unconscious on the floor.

It is supposed his clothing became caught in one of the wheels and his body pulled in. One of his legs was torn from its socket and his body otherwise mutilated. He died on the way to St. Mary's Hospital. His clothing was torn to shreds.

He roomed at 1089 Vermont avenue, and formerly lived in Galt, Ont.

TEACHERS FOR SUPERANNUATION

Committee Appointed by Convention to Agitate for It.

LAY PLAN BEFORE GOVT.

Important Step Taken by the Gathering at Toronto Yesterday.

Toronto, April 20. — A firm determination on the part of the teachers of the Province to bring to a successful issue the movement inaugurated some time ago to establish a superannuation fund for those who, through old age or other causes, are compelled to retire from active work in their profession, was shown at the general meeting of the Ontario Educational Association held in Convocation Hall last evening.

The report of the committee on superannuation was adopted. It recommended the appointment of another special committee representing all the sections and departments of the association, with instructions to urge as strongly as possible a superannuation fund scheme upon the Government.

Two interesting addresses were delivered at the meeting, one by Mr. F. W. Merchant, president of the association, on the ideals to be maintained in educational circles, and the other by Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, on the subject of "Vocational Training and Culture."

The officers of the association for the ensuing year were elected also, Mr. J. H. Laughton, of Parkhill, was elected president. It fell to the trustees' department of the association to nominate a president this year, and Mr. Laughton was the only nomination. Mr. R. W. Dean, for the thirty-first time, was elected secretary of the association, and Mr. W. J. Hendry, of Toronto, treasurer.

Idealism and Realism.

President Merchant's address hinted upon the interrogation, is there any opposition between ideas and practice or realization? His answer was in the negative. He outlined briefly what was meant by idealism and realism, and showed how a large number of people had come to regard them as incompatible systems of thought, and in what respects such an attitude as this was erroneous. He strongly affirmed that they were not distinct and separate ways of thinking about the conduct of life, but were only two phases of one mode of conduct and thought, and that it was by no means an impossibility to harmonize the two. Especially in educational processes, he declared, was this fusion or harmony both desirable and easy to accomplish. Education which did not effect a harmony between idealism and realism, between theory and practice, was not education.

President Hill, who is a Canadian by birth and a graduate of Dalhousie College in New Brunswick, outlined the problem confronting educators, both in Ontario and in the states of the middle west, as to how to strike a balance between vocational training in the schools and the means whereby a broad culture in the students may be attained. He stated that there was an increasing demand in the primary and secondary schools and the colleges of the United States from the students for vocational training.

The vocational motive, he said, was an entirely worthy one, and educators should remember that truth-seeking was not a matter of direct concern in itself on the part of the students. Culture was a matter of insight into and appreciation of modern needs and problems. On the other hand there were dangers lurking in the attempt to gain a vocational training solely. "The very exactness and definiteness and precision of instruction," said he, "afforded in technical schools is liable to produce narrowness of view and application." He concluded by saying: "We ought to welcome the movement in favor of vocational training, but we need to watch its tendencies, for we may lose sight of the tremendous significance of fundamental insight. Our highest ambition should be to make the students independent of us."

PERSONAL HYGIENE FOR CURRICULUM

Teachers Urge Plan to Preserve Moral Purity in Schools.

Toronto, April 20.—"Resolved, that a petition be sent to the Hon. Dr. Pyne, minister of education, urging him to take the necessary steps to place personal hygiene and moral purity in the curriculum of studies, and to have treatises on these subjects printed in pamphlet or booklet form for teaching and reading by the pupils."

This resolution was passed by the trustee section of the Ontario Educational Association yesterday afternoon, following a lengthy discussion on the subject. At the morning session a deputation from the Canadian Purity Education Association was received, and all who participated in the discussion of the matter expressed the opinion that conditions of a generally immoral nature prevailed among school children, especially in Toronto.

Dr. A. D. Watson, president of the Purity Association, in introducing the deputation, said:

"I am sure that every member of this association is in sympathy with the hope that the youth of Canada may be able to hold their own with the youth of other lands and worthy to become leaders in the best life and thought and achievement of the age. That such an ideal shall be realized without systematic attention to the laws of life and health and the principles of truth and justice and faith-keeping seems to me impossible."

Dr. Watson said he believed the time had come for the Government to take action in regard to proper sex morality training in the schools of the province. Many were prejudiced he said, against the social purity lectures that have been delivered to men and boys during the past few years on the ground that they wrought more harm than good. He agreed that this was partly the case, and attributed the cause to the exhibition of pictures that only lent a vulgar aspect to the lecture and depicted low ideals and suggestions.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION AGAINST MORMONISM

Clergy and Laity Unite to Bring Growing Agitation to a Head.

[Canadian Press.

London, April 20.—In order to bring to a focus as rapidly as possible the growing agitation against Mormonism, a demonstration, representing all religious denominations, will be held in Holborn Hall, London, on April 28. The Right Rev. James Cowell, dean of Manchester and formerly bishop of Calcutta, and Metropolitan of India, will preside. Addresses will be made by prominent members of the clergy and laity, and the Government will be urged to take measures to prevent the luring of British girls to Utah.

NEW SARNIA PLANTS IN EARLY FUTURE

Several American Companies to Establish Branch Factories.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, April 19.—It is pretty nearly an assured fact that before very long Sarnia will have a couple of new industries, and that several of those already located here will make large extensions. At the council meeting on Monday evening, a letter was read from the Port Huron Creamery, in which the company stated that they wished to locate in Sarnia, and asked the council to relieve them of the transient traders' fee. This will be agreed to, and the creamery will be located in the old Cromwell street depot of the Grand Trunk until a suitable site can be obtained.

It has also been learned that the American Brewing Company intend locating a branch in Canada, and at present negotiations are under way to bring the plant here. It is altogether likely the move will be successful, as representatives of the firm have been in town and are favorably impressed.

A Refinery Extension.

The refinery is planning an extension which will employ 100 extra men, and it is likely the work will be started right away.

The Sarnia Fence Company are also preparing plans for an addition to their new plant on South Christina street. The company has just lately moved into their new premises, and they have found it necessary to keep running their old plant in order to keep up with the orders.

The foundations for the Ontario Canning Company factory have been completed, and the rest of the work will be rushed ahead. A large gang of men are at work on the property, and it is thought the plant will be in full running operation before the middle of the summer.

The prospects of having a new sash and door factory located here are exceedingly bright, and already a large amount of money has been subscribed towards the enterprise. Mr. A. H. Diver, of Trenton, has invested $25,000, and on the strength of this, and Mr. Diver's well-known business abilities, a large lot of local capital has been subscribed. A suitable site has been found, and work will be commenced shortly.

INTERNATIONAL POLICY AND OVER-SEAS LANDS

Imperial Defence Committee to Confer With the Various Premiers.

London, April 19.—In the House of Commons, the Hon. Rupert Guinness moved: "That this House is of opinion that the discussion of the international situation should be added to the programme of the Imperial Conference." He urged the appointment of a responsible minister to travel through the dominions overseas, and suggested that each of the dominions should have an imperial minister. If the foreign office had been in closer touch with the dominions they might have been brought into previous consultation on the declaration of London. The colonies now finding themselves in touch on many points as to their relations with foreign nations, some were providing their own fleets, and it was certain that in future there would be an inclination to stand more on their own. Unless the dominions were consulted freely on matters of foreign policy, serious differences of opinion might arise.

Mr. Ormsby Gore seconded the motion, urging the necessity of knitting close the world-wide Empire for purposes of defence. What was suggested was that before the Imperial Conference discussed the motion of Australia for the close co-operation of the imperial navy with the dominions' navies, the dominions' premiers be instructed by the foreign secretary on the foreign policy of the mother country and its relation to their naval policy.

Mr. Eliot Crawshaw-Williams argued for a consultative commission, in which could be found closer co-operation for the carrying on of the Empire.

The Right Hon. Thomas McKinnon Wood explained that there would be several opportunities for the consideration of international matters by members of the imperial conference, and private discussion with the foreign secretary could be supplemented by discussions at the conference regarding matters of defence involving international relations and by consultations with the committee of imperial defence.

The Right Hon. Alfred Lyttelton asked whether the under-secretary would give a pledge that the premier and foreign secretary would meet the representatives of the dominions, explain the lines of foreign policy, and take the visitors' opinion on it.

Mr. Lewis Harcourt said it had always been the intention of the Government to take them into consultation. "We shall withhold no information they desire, and proffer them all useful knowledge that may be of use to them in the great service they have to perform, but we shall do so with absolute secrecy, and I must warn this House that we cannot be liable to be asked what information we have given and on what subjects.

"It has always been our intention," continued Mr. Harcourt, "to summon those prime ministers to a meeting or meetings of the committee of imperial defence. Of that committee the prime minister is president, and many of the ministers, including myself, are members. It will meet the dominions' premiers in secrecy and they will be able to receive that information, and probably more than that which has been suggested even by the debates in this House."

The Hon. Rupert Guinness thanked the Government for the announcement and withdrew his motion.

DIAZ TO STICK.

London, April 20.—A late edition of the Mail prints the following from Diaz, replying to the Mail's inquiry as to his rumored retirement:

"I occupy the post of president at the republic's mandate. As long as the country needs my services it is my duty to give them it following the same line of conduct which I have always observed."

EPLOSION AND FIRE.

Chicago, April 20.—Three persons supposed to have been burned to death in a fire which followed an explosion last night at the wholesale liquor store of Jos. Morici & Co., were reported today as having left the building safely. Morici and his partner Peter Mussuracet whom the police arrested for alleged suspicious action during the fire each had a loaded revolver when taken into custody. Nothing was found which confirmed the explosion theory caused by Black Handers.
