Retiring Pastor of the William St. Baptist Church by Y. P.

The Young Peoples Society of the William street Baptist church gave a farewell to the Rev. J. J. Ross, the departing pastor of the church and also took advantage of the ocasion last evening to present Mr and Mrs. Ross with a dinner ser vice of Haviland china.

Judge Houston opened the ceremony with prayer, after which Matthew Side, who presided, made a few remarks, stating that the Society marks, stating that the Society couldn't let Mr. Ross go without in some way expressing their sorrow at the parting, and that therefore this little evening of entertainment had been arranged that all might have an opportunity to say good-bye.

A short program was then given. Miss Rose Swan played an instrumental solo and received a hearty encore.

Miss Blanche Baxter, James Trotter and John Reeve each contributed an excellent solo. Miss Bessie Brackin played the accompaniments.

Mr. John Reeve, at the conclusion of his solo, read an address to the Rev. Mr. Ross, who had been called to the platform. The address stated in brief that the Young Peoples Society desired to express their thanks for assistance and kindness received from Rev. J. J. Ross, and concluded with a prayer that Mrs. Ross and Mr. Ross would be divinely blessed. Mr. Side then made the presentation of a dineer set of Haviland china.

Rev. J. J. Ross said that it was an exceedingly difficult matter for him to thank the Society. He had desired to say something about his departure at both services Sunday, but he had been afraid to trust himself. He was also afraid to trust himself. He was also afraid to estimate the extent of the work he had done as pastor of the William street Baptist church. He concluded with hearty thanks for the many kindnesses received by himself and Mrs. Ross. The retiring minister earnestly entreated the congregation and Young Peoples Society to relly around his successor and make him feel at home. After a few minutes social inter-course, refreshments were served and the gathering broke up.

ERIEAU TRAINS

L. E. Tillson, local agent for the Lake Erie, has been advised that the Rond Eau service, for the coming sum-Rond Eau service, for the coming summer, will be about the same as last year, with the exception of the boat trains. Arrangements for the boat service have not yet been completed. The trains will likely start about the 15th of June. The band concerts will also start about the same time.

There was a rumor that there would be no summer train service to Ericau and the information that the suburban trains will run as usual will be received with pleasure by those who own cottages at Ericau.

Ald. Edmondson—What we want is a cheap fuel gas, whether it is natural or artificial.

Ald. Scullard—I think it will ultimately end in the artificial gas.

Ald. Edmondson—Well, if that is the case, there will be great advancement in the artificial. The fuel question is one which will be greatly before the public before long, and new discoveries of cheaper ways of getting artificial gas are coming to light.

Ald. Scullard—Yes, I believe Carnegie set chemists to work who found a way of manufacturing gas at 9c. per thousand.

The Mayor suggested as a clause in the agreement that the pipe be not put down on King St. between Third and William Sts., but that it be put down in the alleys and river bank.

Ald. Scullard said that it would be a good idea to have a clause stating that any street which would net the company 12 per cent of the investment have a pipe line.

Mr. Edmondson said the clause in their tender concerning the running out of the natural gas, an artificial cheap fuel gas plant would replace it, was the most important in the whole morning notifying him of the in-

"We have a gang of men at work extending the sewer on William street to Colborne, and moving the sidewalk in line for the curbing of the new pavement.

"Another gang of men are at work grubbing out the stumps on the extension to Patterson avenue, and we intend to open out the street right away. There are eight new houses going up on this street, and I expect it will be one of the finest looking avenues in the city.

"The bricks of the William street pavement are being put down, and this work will, in all probability, be finished to-morrow night.

City Engineer Jones has made a thorough inspection of the sidewalks of the city during the past couple of weeks and will bring in a report next Monday night on all of the sidewalks, on which action will be taken this year. We expect to have this work done early this year, instead of waiting until the fall.

THE INVESTIGATION DEBATE It must be admitted that a good deal of the debate on the Gamey charges in the legislature has con-tributed little to the advantage of the province or the parties, points out the Ottawa Citizen, with considerable force. Mr. Clark, of Centre Bruce, ehicited a statement of principle from Hon Mr. Latchford, which for cynical bravado has seldom been equalled on the part of a Canadian minister; Mr. Hanna, of West Lambton, forced Premier Ross to practically admit that the lawyers for Mr. Stratton had been allowed to censor the instructions to the judges; and Mr. Foy's amendment forced Attorney-General Gibson to bring in a bill to tinker up the same instructions. These advantages, however, could scarcely be credited to oratorical effect. On the other hand Dr. Pyne, M. P. P., did the opposition no good in his apparently exaggerated statement on Thursday that five or six members had been offered the speakership, when on being pinned down to names he could only mention one, Dr. Reaume. The statement may have been correct, but if he was prevented from supporting it with names when challenged it was a mistake to make it. The whole matter before the House is too important to have the public attention distracted by debate which does not contribute direct and vital interest to the astounding disclosures for the proof of which the whole country is waiting with keen expectancy. To have members of the opposition indulge in an apparent exaggeration on a side issue which enables an accused government, that is silent before the grave charged against its members, to deny with unctuous emphasis the allegation insensibly affects public sentiment if only by creating an impression that time is being wasted on minor matters when the gravest charges ever al-

The Guelph Mercury is to be congratulated on having won the action for damages for an alleged libel, in which a Guelph hotelkeeper was the plaintiff. The Mercury had published an ample apology for the statements which it made concerning the plaintiff's hotel, but this the plaintiff refused to accept as sufficient, because, it is said, the newspaper proprietors refused to divulge the source of their information. Now the plaintiff will have to pay all costs.

There are so many people ready and willing to pick faults in newspaper comment that journals all over the country feel like throwing up their metaphorical hats when a newspaper is vindicated by the courts in an affair of this kind. No one outside of a newspaper office can appreciate the tact that is required in referring to every-day occurrences, let alone the more difficult problems which ever and anon confront the man in the editorial chair. If slander were as easy to prove as libel, and a man's voice as far-reaching as a newspaper, metaphorical hats when a newspaper voice as far-reaching as a newspaper, half the good people on the continent would be jailed by the other half; LOOKED LONG, but while the spoken word may be but while the spoken word may be easily palliated or even denied (its apparent severity being put down to the exaggeration of mouth-to-mouth repeating), "what is writ is writ, would it were worthier." There it stands, open to no contradiction as far as the fact of its appearance is

The wonder is that papers do not err oftener than they do. It seems impossible sometimes to get information first-handed, and there are always those who are unthinkingly willing to get a journal of good repute into trouble by misinforming it. Then there are communications, chronicles of some event that seem to be perfectly reliable, signed by the sender, but sometimes with a fictious name. The editor must be a walking directory of his neighborhood, as well as a handwriting expert, if he would hope never to be fooled in some such way as this. Fortunately the law provides a heavy penalty for people who thus try to impose on the credulity of newspapers. Forgery is so often committed that some people are apt to think lightly of it. Wives sign their hustand's name without hesitation. Bank clerks will tell you about that. In fact forgery is often harmless, but it is a dangerous tool to meddle with one. The sender of the determined to try them. From the first box I got relief, and after using six boxes I am in a position to say that I am completely cured. I highly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all who may suffer as I have done." chronicles of some event that seem and the law regards it as such.

The Mercury has won its case, and proved its right to make, in good faith, comment on what it believes to be a public wrong, so long as it apologizes when it finds itself in error. The public is ever ready to characterize as spineless and inert a journal which forbears to comment on any too much on her.

certain public issues, whether local or general. If comment is made and the paper gets into trouble, the very same people condemn what they are pleased to consider its officiousness. The editor is left in the pleasant position of being called a weak and nerveless creature devoid of principle and opinion, or an impertinent meddler, whose pertinacity in wrongdoing is properly rewarded when he is licked by a publicc-spirited citizen, or defeated in the courts. Many years ago Sir Thomas Lipton was a passenger on an East Indian steamer bound for Ceylon. While in the Red sea the boat was disabled, and it became necessary to throw over-board a part of her cargo. Lipton was an interested spectator of the prepara-tions for lightening the ship. Suddenly he bolted the scene and by a twenty dollar dicker with the chief engineer secured a paint brush and a pot of black paint. Then, to the astonish ment of the captain and passengers, he cheerfully labeled each box and bale thrown overboard "Use Lipton's Teas." cargo, of course, floated ashore, and for miles in Araby and other lands the natives saw that legend. Subsequently the passengers on the injured steamer were compelled to abandon it and take to small boats. On reaching land Sir Thomas was the first to make a cable office and wire the destruction of the boat and safety of the travelers to London. The message was signed "Lipton." Of course his name was in every English newspaper the next morning, signed to that message, and be was the best advertised man in the kingdom.

The shrewdness of one of the founders of a famous estate in Maine gave rise to many amusing stories, one of which has recently been retold.

One day the man, who was a large lumber operator, was superintending a crew which was breaking up a log jam in the river. Suddenly the spruce which he was standing slipped. The lumberman dropped out of sight in the water, and the logs closed over him.

The nearest Frenchman saw the accident. Hopping briskly over the slip-pery logs, he helped the "boss" to land Nothing was said about the accident. After an hour or so the Frenchman be gan to get anxious because the reward which he considered due was not forth-coming. He approached the lumberman and, pulling clumsily at his cap,

"I see you fall in, m'sieur, an' I run queek to pull you out 'fore you drown

The peculiar breed of cats found in the Isle of Man differs from others only in that they have no tails, and the lack thereof is the insoluble puzzle to naturalists. Since it has become the fash ion to explain everything by the principles of evolution, two theories have been offered—one that, owing to the limited range and lack of dense forests. and consequently they (the tails, not the cats) gradually atrophied for lack of use and became rudimentary; another that the primitive Manx cut off all their cats' tails and in the course of time developed a tailless breed. Something Wrong With the Shammy.

There is a prominent doctor in Germantown who is busy telling a little joke on himself, says the Philadelphia "Evening Telegraph." It appears that he employed an Irish servant who had just arrived from the "ould sod." Starting out one morning, he noticed his office windows were rather dirty, and calling Bridget, he instructed her to clean them before he returned. At the same time he told her that he would stop and purchase a new chamois skin and send it home, and with this she was to clear the windows. After he had gone his rounds he found them thickly streaked with grease. He called Bridget, and the following colloquy took place:
"Bridget, didn't I tell you to clean the windows?"

"And didn't I tell you to use the new

"And didn't I tell you to use the new chamois?"

"Yes, sor."

"Well, did you use it?"

"Sure I did, sor."

"Let me see the chamois," said the doctor, and Bridget promptly brought it. Then for the first time he learned that his wife had left the house a half hour before he did in the morning and had sent home some tripe. The doctor declines to say what happened to the chamois skin.

"SPORTING LIFE."

"Sporting Life" is the significant title of a pretentious English melodrama to be produced at the Grand next Saturday night. The piece enjoyed a prosperous run of six months in New York at the Academy of Music, joyed a prosperous run of six months in New York at the Academy of Music, and a record-breaking engagement of five months at McVicar's Theatre, Chicago, and comes here heralded as one of the most realistic productions of melo-drama ever given in America. This claim would appear to be borne out by the description of the scenery provided, there being no less than 10 distinct scenes, several of them of magnitude. A massive production of the ancestral home of the Earl of Woodstock from the famous painting, 'The Day of Reckoning," is regarded as a masterpiece of the scene painter's art. Then there is a view of the Earl's Court Exhibition grounds, showing the numerous booths, buildings and amusement devices, all brilliantly illuminated; the interior of the National Sporting Club, London, the boxes and stalls occupied by scores of patrons of the manly art, all in evening dress; and lastly, a splendid view of the Epsom Downs race course on Derby Day. There are numerous other scenes of lesser magnitude, but all admirably designed and executed. In preparing this production, the make all admirably designed and executed. In preparing this production, the management found it necessary to make requisition upon the leading studios of New York, entailing a great outlay, but securing the benefit of the artistic genius of those distinguished masters; Joseph Physioc, Ernest Albert, Homer Emens and John Young. To crowd so much diversity of scenery into four acts necessitates some of the most rapid changes of scene ever witnessed, and the amazing celerity with which these changes are made is one nessed, and the almazing certary with which these changes are made is one of the features of the production. There is no delay in the action of the piece, and the lightning-like transportation of the spectator from one picture to another is said to be start-

Miss Alice Bailey, of Atlanta, Ga., tells how she was permanently cured of inflammation of the ovaries, and escaped the surgeon's knife, by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The universal indications of the approach of woman's great enemy, inflammation and disease of the ovaries, are a dull throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with occasional shooting pains. On examination it may be found that the region of pain will show some swelling. This is the first stage of inflammation of the ovaries.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I wish to express my gratitude for the restored health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought into my life.

"I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation.

"I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure that I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an emergency, and so I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds and was in excellent health, and am now.

"You surely deserve great success, and you have my very best wishes."—Miss Alice Balley, 50 North Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I cannot thank you enough for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. If it had not been for your medicine, I think I would have died.

"I will tell you how I suffered. I could hardly walk, was unable to sleep or eat. Monstruation was irregular. At last I had to stay in my bed, and flowed so badly that they sent for a doctor, who said I had inflammation of the ovaries, and must go through an operation, as no medicine could help me, but I could not do that.

"I received a little book of yours, and after reading it, I concluded to try

"It was a raré musical treat; I enjoyed it immensely," were the popular comments at the conclusion of the last of the Star Lecture Course attractions—the Bostelmann String

Tractions — the Boselmann String Quartette.

The production was well worthy of these favorable criticisms. The large Assembly Hall was well filled with the music lovers of the city, and judgthe music lovers of the city, and judging from the hearty and spontaneous applauses which greeted each selection, the audience was well satisfied. This quartette is composed of Mr. Bostelmann, his son and two daughters, every one of whom is an artist of considerable ability. They were accompanied by Carl Grange, basso, who som won a warm sont in the who soon won a warm spot in the hearts of his audience. He was re-called five times after his eighth

Each of the numbers on the program was encored and the audience received a gracious response each time. Mr. F. D. Sir Wiltrid Laurier, after relating the circumstances under which the commission was issued, at the request of Sir Oliver, who is, owing to an accident, confined to his room, expressed sorrow that Mr. Maclean had declined to wait until to-morrow in order that he might telegraph for permission to submit Sir Oliver's letter to the House. He suggested that as Mr. Maclean had declared his confidence in Sir Oliver Mowat, he would accept that gendenwark telegraph that he was in continuous and the search of nad declared his connience in Sir On-ver Mowat, he would accept that gen-tleman's statement that he was in good bodily health, and quite able to per-form the duties of his office, except those which required him to leave his residence. The Premier recalled the circumstances under which Sir George Virboutrick was allowed to termine residence. The Fremer recatical the circumstances under which Sir George Kirkpatrick was allowed to temain in the office, and asked why sensiar treatment should not be accorded to Sir Oliver Mowat, who more than any man enjoyed the confidence and admiration of the people has his ability to direct the Province in the existing political crisis. TO PREVENT THE SPREAD OF SCARLET FEVER.

Owing to its many complications, such as diseases of the heart and kidneys, and affections of the throat, ears, and eyes, scarlet fever is one of the most serious maladies of childhood. Its contagion is so subtle and tenacontagion, is so subtle and tenar-cious, and is transmitted in so many ways, that the most stringent precau-tions must be taken to prevent its spread to other children, not only in the same, but in other families. This can be accomplished by keeping the air of the sick room constantly charged with an innocuous antiseptic vapor. with an innocuous antiseptic vapor, which will destroy the scarlatina poison at its source, so that it cannot be conveyed to others. Among the various volatile disinfectants, however, various volatile disinfectants, however, there is only one, Vapo-Cresolene, which will do this, and which can be safely breathed by the child, and at the same time is powerful enough to neutralize the infection. The constant inhalation of air charged with Cresolene vapor in a case of scarlet fever has the additional advantage of diminishing the severity of the throat complications and rendering the course of the disease much milder.

THE DIVORCE BUSINESS. Canton Citizens Decide to Make it a

Chicago, March 31.—The Record-Herald has the following special today from Canton, S.D.: Canton citizens have held a mass meeting and decided to go into the divorce business. Hereafter Canton will be advertised much as any commercial centre, and its specialty will be divorces. The people of this place have looked with some coveteousness upon the profits of other cities in the State which enjoy a lucrative divorce business, and they will dispute the claim that Sioux Falls is the headquarters of the divorce industry of South Dakota. As proof of their embarkation in the business of unmaking martine. tion in the business of unmaking mar-riages, they point to the arrival of five easterners within a fortnight. Canton promises to treat these di-vorces so well that they will bring an army of others. The town will make a bid for the cream of the di-vorce business. It will invite especi-ally the wealthiest of those who seek refuge in the South Dakota courts. They will flaunt the Sioux Falls news-paper correspondent in the face of the paper correspondent in the face of the discontented wife or husband, and will tell them that there is an ordinwill tell them that there is an ordin-ance here against newspaper corres-pondents. The divorce business is one of the principal assets of the State. For the last half dozen years the number of divorces given by the South Dakota courts have averaged about 600 annually. Each case means an expenditure of $1,500 in six an expenditure of $1,500 in six months. The resulting revenue to the State is practically $000,000 a year. Immigrants for divorces are considered by South Dakota as legitimate as immigrants for land.

THE KIANGS OF INDIA.

These Wild Horses Are Victous and Said to Be Untamable.

Writing of the kinngs, or wild horses, of India, found near the land of Tibet, Thomas W. Weber in "The Forests of Upper India and Their Inhabitants"

Here for the first time we saw the kiang, or wild horse. Several herds came to look at us as we marched and galloped around, neighing and kicking up, but kept at a respectful distance. They have big, ugly heads and tails and ears like a mule's and a black stripe down the back; color, light bay, with white noses. They have fine free action in trot and gallop and are four-teen to fifteen hands high, strong in the legs and heavy in the body. We were welcomed by the nativities of were welcomed by the neighing of numerous wild horses to the land of the kiang. Several herds kept circling round, the old stallions approaching in a quite threatening manner, snorting, squealing and kicking up their heels, while the mares and foals galloped off at a more respectful distance. There was a herd of kiangs which careered about our camp in a most objectionable way, making the most fearful dis-turbances. We witnessed a battle roy-al between two stallions, which for ferocity and wicked fury surpassed any fight I have seen. Again and again the pair went at one another like ti gers, biting and kicking and mauling, the blood flowing freely, while the fearful yells and roars they kept up were terrifying to hear. This went on for hours. The horrible roars and shriekings made by the wild horse when fighting sound something like a noise between a donkey's bray and the squealing of a jackal, but far more ear piercing and discordant. Here the king is found in considerable num-bers. He is, according to the Hunia accounts, untamable. There was a young one purchased at Bagesar fair from some Hunias for a small price. The purchaser thought he had a good bargain and proposed to send the animal to England, but when his men went to bring away the purchase no power could induce it to leave its foster mother, an old Ahbet pony, which clever Hunias refused to sell ex cept for an exorbitant sum.

EXPERTS IN WOOD.

The Old Violin Makers and the Material They Used.

The great violin makers all lived within the compass of 150 years. They chose their wood from a few great timbers felled in the south Tyrol and floated down in rafts-pine and maple, sycamore, pear and ash. They examined these to find streaks and veins amined these to find streaks and veins and freckles, valuable superficially when brought out by varnishing. They learned to tell the dynasty of the pieces of wood by touching them. They weighed them, they struck them and listened to judge how fast or how slow or how resonantly they would slow or how resonantly they would vibrate in answer to strings. Some portions of the wood must be porous and soft, some close of fiber. Just the right beam was hard to find. When found, it can be traced all through the violins of some great master and after his death in some of his pupils. The piece of wood was taken home and seasoned, dried in the hot Brescia and Cremona sun. The house of Stradivarius, the great master of all, is described as having been as hot as an oven. The wood was there soaked through and through with sunshine. In this great heat the oils thinned and simmered slowly and penetrated far into the wood until the varnish became a part of the wood itself.

The old violin makers used to save every bit of the wood when they found what they liked to mend and patch and inlay with it. So vibrant and so resonant is the wood of good old violins that they murmur and echo and sing in answer to any sound where a number of them hang together on the wall, as if rehearing the old music that they

TWO OBLIGING MEN.

It was in a Boston street car. When the car stopped at a crossing, a lady got up and went to the door. As she rose there was the chink of a coin on the floor, but before it occurred to any one to stop her she was out of the car and across the street. Two ladies who had sat next to her looked with anxious indifference on the floor. One of them leaned slightly forward, but said nothing. Just as the conductor was reaching for the bell rope a young man spied the coin and dashed out of the car. He caught the lady who had left the car, handed her the coin, ran back, caught the step of the car as the motors began to sing in crescendo and sat down breathless. One of the two ladies opposite him leaned forward and said oplyste him leaned forward and said coldly, "Young man, what did you do with the nickel I dropped?" The pas-sengers tittered. An old man at the other end of the car turned to his neighbor. "That reminds me," he said, "of something that happened to my wife years are wife years ago.
"It was before the days of conductors, when we used to drop our nickels into a slot, and they ran down a groove to the box behind the driver.

"My wife had started out with a lit-tle change and one of those troublesome five dollar goldpieces which used to be more commonly in circulation than they are now. Her eyes were not good, and so she was nervous about her goldpiece and had it on her mind all the way downtown.

"When she took a car for home, she met a friend and grew interested in conversation with her. She put her coln in the slot observations." coin in the slot absentmindedly. The driver turned as it struck the box. You remember the coin fell into a glass compartment first, and then the driver pushed a lever which sent it into the strong box below.

"As my wife heard the click of the lever she thought of her five dollar goldpiece. She looked in her purse. Sure enough, it was gone. She went forward and spoke to the driver. He said he hadn't looked very carefully, but he thought there were also for the said to be but he thought there were only three nickels in the glass receptacle when he pushed the lever.

"My wife insisted. The driver said if she would ride to the end of the line the cashier at the station would open the box. This meant a journey of two miles beyond our street, and my wife was in a hurry.

"An old gentleman who sat by the door said he was going to the end of the line and offered to give her $4.95 cents and get the goldpiece at the station. My wife thanked him and took the money. When she got home, she found the five dollar goldpiece in the lining of her purse.

"Next day I went to the station. The cashier said an old gentleman had made him open the box. There was no gold-piece. The old gentleman had left in a rage, refusing to give his name. He said he had been swindled and did not want to be known for a fool.

Animal Worship Among the Hebrews The Old Testament records show, notwithstanding the various revisions through which these venerable books have passed, many indications of animal worship among the Israelites, which must have lasted for ages be-fore the prohibition inculcated in the second line of the Decalogue was for-mulated. At a comparatively late date "Jehovah was worshiped under the popular symbol of a bull, while the twelve oxen upholding the laver in Solomon's temple, as well as the horns adorning the altar, were drawn from the prevalent bull worship."

Modern research has also proved that the cherubim were represented in the form of winged bulls. M. Lenormant in his famous book on the "Beginnings of History" says that during the time of the kings and prophets "most assuredly the cherubim, as there describd, are animals.

A Fighting Bishop. On one occasion Bishon Selwyn was going down the river Waikato with a Maori when the latter, who was very lazy, left off paddling the canoe, at the same time muttering that if Selwyn were not a bishop he would-well, "go for him." In a moment the bishop told the man to turn the canoe ashore, where, stripping himself of everything episcopal, he said, pointing to his robes, etc: "The bishop lies there; the man is here. I am quite ready; come on." The Maori did not "come on," however, but quietly resumed his work without another murmur.-London Tit-

New York Sheriffs.

The reason why the sheriff of New York cannot be elected to two succes sive terms is this: It is the sheriff's duty to carry out the process of courts against official delinquents during trial and after conviction. Should a sheriff endeavor forcibly to hold over for a second time after having been defeated for re-election he would be the instrument of the court's process against himself, a paradoxical position which the law avoids by making him ineligible for re-election.

RELIGION IN CHINA.

There Are Three State Systems, Con-fucianism, Duddhism and Taoism.

In theory Confucianism is the re-ligion of the state. The state officials are the literati who have secured their positions through the study of the c'assics—i. e., the "Sacred Writings of Confucius." The Confucianist temples are protected and honored by the state; and the worship of Confucius is carried on at the expense of the state. In a limited sense, too, Buddhism can also claim to be a state religion. The same is also true of Taoism, since deceased generals and statesmen are assigned their corresponding ranks with the Taoistic king of the lower world in hades. In this role they are worshiped in Taoistic temples. In this way it is possible for a Chinaman to make use of all three religions without getting into conflict with the distinctive principles of any of them. Their officials worship together. In funeral services monks of both orders are found performing functions on different days.

The public temples are usually in control of the Taoists, but sometimes Taoistic gods are found in Buddhist temples and vice versa. Sometimes they differ only in name. The Budhist temples are found in particular temples and vice versa. dhist goddess of mercy is the Taoist goddess of heaven. The pearl king of the Taoists is the imperial ruler of the Buddhists. Both systems teach same ten princes in hades, and even a reproduction of the Buddhist punishment in hell is found in the Taoist tem-

"Should one be asked at random to name the most powerful river in New England—that is, the river yielding the most water power and doing the most work—he would be likely to name the Merrimac," said M. S. Edgar of Port-land, Me. "He would have in mind the great manufacturing city of Lowell, and the answer would be a natural one. It is surprising, therefore, to be told by the United States geological survey that the most powerful river in New England is the Androscoggin. Yet the surprise abates when the facts are recounted. There are nine or ten developed water powers along the river, and it appears that they furnish to-tal power equal to 73,000 horses. The falls at Brunswick yield 7,700 horsepower; at Lisbon Falls, 1,925; at Lewiston, 12,600; at Livermore Falls, 3,000; at Otis Falls, 8,000; at Jay's, 3,700; at Peterson's Rips, 6,000. At Rumford Falls there is a potential of 30,000 horsepower when the resources at that place are fully developed, and that is altogether the greatest water power in New England."

Cheese Dishes.

Cheese is one of the most concentrated forms of nitrogenous food and as a food well adapted to the laboring man or those working in the open air. When properly cooked, cheese is probably more easily assimilated by the ordinary stomach than eaten raw, and hard, un cooked cheese should be served grated. In combination with certain food matein this way should form the staple dish of the meal. Macaroni and cheese, rice cooked in stock and then baked with cheese or cooked with it, as in the form of risotto, should be used in the place of meat. An ordinary dinner menu of meat, potato, macaroni and cheese is not properly arranged. Macaroni and cheese should be used for a luncheon dish, and a green vegetable should be served with meat and potato.

"What a fine little fellow," said the patronizing old gentleman who had been elected representative for four successive terms from his congressional district. His remark was addressed to a kind hearted lady holding in her arms a little fellow who blinked gravely at all that was going on.

"Yes," replied the lady. "His father and I set a great deal of store by kim."
"Well, he's a bright looking little fellow. Maybe he'll be a congressman some day.'

"Maybe he will," said the mother. "But," she added earnestly, "I'm going to do my best to raise him right."— Youth.

Ancient Proofreading.

The editions of books printed 200 or 300 years ago are almost entirely free from typographical errors, which may be attributed to the fact that early publishers were generally eminent scholars, and themselves gave much attention to the revision of their proofs. After reading the proofs they frequently turned them over to other scholars with the request to revise and correct, and as the printer's time was then deemed a matter of small consequence a perfection was attained which is seidom equaled by modern printers.

Two Courses Open. Bonaventure de Fourcroy, a clever society poet of the seventeenth cen-tury, a splendid orator, an eminent advocate and an intimate friend of Mo-liere to boot, on being asked one day hy a magistrate what he meant to do with his son replied, "If there is any-thing in him I'll make him a barrister; if not I'll make him a judge."

He's Still a Bachelor. It was at a social. The young woman said on starting home that she needed something more around her. The young man borrowed a shawl. He is still a bachelor. She is now the ma of four interesting children.

THE FARMER'S WIFE is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if the churn is soun it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the sto-mach and digestive and nutritive mach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are exactly akin to the churning of butter. Is it not apparent, then, that if this stomach churn is "sour" it sours all which is put into it? The evil of a foul stomach is not the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of the blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn -absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. "Gold-en Medical Discovery" contains no al-cohol, whiskey or other intoxicant and no narcotic.

QUAINT LONDON LEGACIES.

Some of Them Show the Old Time Estimate of Sermons.

Some curious glimpses into the life of old London are afforded by the reports made in the charity commission on the endowed charities in the county of London. For instance, in the reports dealing with the city parishes we have an estimate of the value set on sermons by city men in olden times. That estimate varied from 5 shillings to £1 10s. One Thomas Bright had left a bequest for a sermon to be preach-ed on the 5th of November every time it fell on a Sunday, the minister to get 13s. 4d., the clerk 3s. 4d. and the sexton 1s. 4d. But David Gittin had a more modest idea of the value of a sermon in the same parish. He required two sermons for 10 shillings, one to be preached on the second Sunday in Advent and the other on the second Sun day in Lent. The reader got 2 shillings, the churchwarden 2s. Sd. and the poor sexton fourpence for each oc casion. John Ireland thought 13s. 4d. enough for two sermons.

In 1660 John Winn left a curious be quest to the parish of St. Bennet, Paul's Wharf. A pound was set apart for all annual sermon, the text to be taken from the fifth chapter of St. John and the twenty-seventh verse. He also left enough to buy twelve penny loaves for twelve poor people of the parish who attended a sermon every Friday in the parish church. But he expected more for his pound than the annual sermon. for before or after the sermon the min-ister had to spend an hour examining or instructing the poor people in the Christian doctrine.

The most generous donor of the preacher was James Wood, who thought a sermon in St. Nicholas-Cole-Abbey was worth £1 10s. every alternate year. In 1625 he bequeathed to the Company of Bowvers a sum to enable them among other things, to repair to the parish church named, after they had sworn in their wardens and master every second year, there to hear a sermon and pay the parson £1 10s. and the clerk and sexton 1s. 5d. each. In the parish of St. Michael Bassishaw one Edward Heylin in the eighteenth century left money the interest on which was to be applied to purchasing two sixpenny loaves each Sunday for two poor men or women who should at-tend divine service.—London News.

ALASKA BOUNDARY.

FIRST MEETING OF TRIBUNAL IS POSTPONED.

Will Not Take Flace Until the Autumn-Will Meet in London on

New York, March 31.-The Tribune has the following special from Washington:—The first meeting of the Alaskan boundary tribunal has been deferred until next autumn, through an agreement reached between the State Department and the Foreign Office, the two Governments having concluded tha no practical advantage was to be gain-ed by the members assembling at London next month, as was generally understood to be contemplated under the treaty negotiated in January. The delay in organization will not affect the time limit, December 3, within which the decision is to be rendered, unless an extension of existence is to be granted to the tribunal by common ac-cord of President Roosevelt and King Edward.

Article V. of the boundary settlement convention prescribes that "the tribunal shall assemble for their first meeting at London as soon as practicable after receiving their commissions." The American members were commissioned promptly on March 3, the date upon which ratifications were exchanged, and it was at first thought that they would have reached London in time to join the British commissioners and perfect the organization of the tribunal before May 3, the date fixed by article II. for the submission of the case. This procedure would have been exceedingly awkward for Secretary Root, who could not be spared from the War Department at this juncture, engrossed as he is in putting into effect the great projects in military reorganization authorized by Congress, and War College, and the creation of the national militia, as well as in directing crucial developments in the Philippines. Secretary Hay therefore secured the assent of the British Government to a construction of the words "as soon as practicable," which was tantamount to the phrase "as soon as of any practical benefit," which postpones any real necessity for formal meeting until all the evidence is in and the arguments are submitted. The date of exchange of ratifications, which was March 3, fixes, under the terms of the convention, all its subsequent dates, according to article II, which reads: "Within two months thereafter, or on May 3, the written or privited case of each of the two parties, accompanied by the documents, the official correspondence and all other evidence in writing or print, upon which each party relies, shall be delivered in duplicate to each member of the tribunal, and to the agent of each other party."

The American case is being rapidly arranged and printed by ex-Secretary John W. Foster, and will reach all the commissioners on the stipulated date. Copies for two of the British members who live in Canada will be delivered in duplicate to each member of the succeeding two months, or on July 3. At the end of two months mo

Some time later the son detected an odor of smoke, and when he investigated he found the bed in flames. Toronto, March 31.-The Legislature progressed some distance on the remaining fagyesterday business before adjournment, but at least this afternoon will be needed to reach the conclusion. The be needed to reach the conclusion. The principal matter discussed was the evidence bill, and in this the Attorney-General introduced two important amendments. One provides that no person shall be excused from answering questions which may lead to any punishment, penalty or penal proceedings. The other largely embodies the retrievale contained in an amendment punishment, penalty or penal proceedings. The other largely embodies the principle contained in an amendment offered by Mr. Gamey, and provides that the latter's statement of Friday last shall be deemed to be a charge against the Ministers other than the Provincial Secretary, under the terms of the last clause of the commission. The Opposition declaimed against the substituted amendment, but allowed it to pass without a division. The questions to be disposed of still are an amendment by Mr. Henry Carscallen that the commission bring in only the evidence and no finding, the supply vote, and the long adjournment.

On the opening of the House, Mr. Whitney asked whether the writ for the election to fill the vacancy in North Renfrew has been sent out; whether any step has been taken beyond the formal issue of the writ, whether the time has been fixed and whether the proceedings have been completed for filling the vacancy.

met gone and that no time had been fixed før the election, the matter being under consideration.

Mr. Whitney—As I understand it, the moment you did your duty under the statute it becomes the bounden duty of the Government to carry it out.

Mr. Ross—That is not the practice.

Mr. Whitney—I know what the practice is. It seems to me that the provisions of the statute are peremptory, and after the Speaker does his part the Government has no more to do with the matter at all, and that it would be an absolute interference on the part of the Government to take any step whatever, directly or indirectly, to prevent the working of the statute in order that the vacancy might be filled at once.

Mr. Ross—The returning officer has not been named. That means also a date must be fixed. We have been so intensely occupied with the question before the House that we could not give our attention to the matter. This matter has been under consideration. The Speaker has only given his mandate a few days ago. The matter will be disposed of as soon as we can give it our consideration.

Mr. Whitney expressed the view that the proper officials should have filled in the date without waiting for instructions. The moment the Speaker issued the with the question of er issued the writ the election must go on.

Mr. Whitney also asked how it was proposed to deal with the question of patterns the commission.

Colonel Gibson thought the better way would be to follow the practice before committees of the House. There could be advances made, and the Clerk of the House could be entrusted with the duty of disbursing money from time to time as needed. The prosecution would look after the serving of their own subpocases, and for that purpose conduct money and witness fees could be advanced from time to time.

Mr. Whitney-The Clerk will be in Mr. Whitney—The Clerk will be in the position of advancing a certain lump sum without having the names of the witnesses or the district from which they come specified.

Colonel Gibson—That will be specified later.

Mr. Whitney—Quite so.

The first order of the day being resuming the debate on the address in reply from the speech from the throne, the Premier asked if that could be disposed of.

Mr. Whitney said he would agree under ordinary circumstances, but in the present case his duty would be to suggest that it be laid over until after the investigation which was expected suggest that it be laid over until after the investigation which was expected to take place, as they did not know what they might desire to say in re-sponse to the speech from the throne. The Premier said he had wished to get the proceedings of the House in regular form, but if his hon. friend pressed his objection he would be satisfied to let it stand over.

It is understood that the commission appointing Chancellor Boyd and Chief Justice Falconbridge to investigate the Gamey charges has been signed by the Lieutenant-Governor and sent to the Judges. As soon as they have disposed of the immediate work before them a conference will be held with the counsel in the case and definite arrangements announced for summoning witnesses and hearing evidence. This will probably begin early next week, and the session will most likely be held at the City Hall, as furnishing the most suitable room for such a purpose. Nelson R. Butcher will make the official record. A transcript of the proceedings will be handed in the BRITISH OCCUPY SOKOTO.

LION HUNT ON STREETS.

AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE AT PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Bostock's Animal Show Furnished an Unusual Item, in Which Bullets Were of Use.

Pittsfield, Mass., March 31.-There was a genuine African lion hunt in this city last night, in which one four-yearold lioness was killed and another cap-tured. Both were attached to the Bostured. Both were attached to the Bostock Animal Show, which exhibited here last week, and before their escape the one killed attacked one of the attendants, who was feeding her, and bit and clawed him severely. The attendant went into the cage, where four female lions were imprisoned, to feed them, and one jumped at him, biting his arm and tearing his cheek. The attendant grabbed an iron bar and drove the animal into a corner. After the evening performance this lioness and another were driven into a small cage, and preparations were made to lower them from a window at the back of the hall to the ground, a distance of about sixty feet. While the cage was in mid-air the block broke, and the cage fell to the ground, bursting as it struck. Just below the window there was a horse and waggon. One of the escaped animals made a rush for the horse and fastened her jaws in his neck. The attendants of the show collected rifles, revolvers and shotguns, and with the assistance of some policemen started to capture the animals. The one which attacked the horse could not be dragged away from him, and she was shot, seven bullets being fired into her body. In the meantime the other lioness, being frightened at the firing, started down North tock Animal Show, which exhibited time the other lioness, being frightened at the firing, started down North street. Fortunately there were few per-sons in the street. Half a dozen keep-ers followed closely, and she was cap-tured in the Central Automobile Sta-tion.

FOR THE NORTHWEST.

More of Mr. Barr's Colony to Sail To-day.

London March 31.—Canada rather than South Africa is absorbing the surplus population of Great Britain. The restoration of prosperity in South Africa has been slower even than the process of reconciliation, and the mining industry has not received as strong an impetus as was expected since the close of hostilities. The re-ports seat home by a British army of ports sent home by a British army of 250,000 men during the war were unfavorable, and the expected emigration movement from Britain to South Africa has not set in. The resources of Canada meanwhile haye been advertised systematically, and full use has been made of the American invasion, both as an incentive and a warning. The American settlers have been credited with "knowing a good thing when they found it." and British farmers and mechanics have been urged to follow their example and take effective measures against an undue growth of American ures against an undue growth of American influence in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

Mr. Barr himself sails today with this large body of settlers, and will go to Winnipeg and Saskatoon. The Canadian officials assert that the settlers are a picked body of emigrants, representing the arts and crafts, as well as agriculture, and taking with them a large amount of capital. The South African mittienaires have neglected emigration work, and can hardly hope to succeed by belated energy in interrupting this remarkable British exodus across the Atlantic. erpool to-day numbers 1,800, and be-
