REJOICINGS OF RUSSIANS

Over Reported Successful Residents of Chatham East Repulse of the Japanese at Port Arthur.

Japanese Losses Said to be 2,800 While Russians Lose 1,800 -Praise for General.

St. Petersburg, July 15, 2.15 a. m .-The people of St. Petersburg retired to-night in a happy frame of mind. The absence of a despatch from Lieut. General Stoessel, commander of the brown, navy, sky, green, just right for Shirtwaist Suits, regmalitary forces at Port Arthur, regarding the reported disaster to the Japanese last Sunday night is generally attributed to the delay in communicating official news owing to the absence of the Emperor. Private despatches received in St. Petersburg from Russian sources in the Far East confirm the reports from Mukden and Che-Foo. According to a usually reliable source, the Japanese losses were 2,800 and the Russian losses 1,800. Late to-night a despatch arrived from Ta-Tche-Kiao, communicating an undated despatch from Port Arthur received there July 13th. It did not mention the assault of the repulse, but it is quite possible that it was sent from Port Arthur earlier than July 10, so that it cannot be fairly regarded as contradictory evidence. There is a general conviction that if Viceroy Alexieff decided to communicate the report to the general staff, it must be true.

KUROPATKIN'S STRATEGY.

'A trained military expert says the retreat from Kai-Chou was a masterpiece in tactics. He sees in Kuropalkin's strategy the flawless carrying out of military science, a departure from which would have precipitated disaster. In this light Baron General Stakelberg's match appears to have been the stroke of genius, since he kept in contact with the enemy, prevented a juncture of the Japanese plans both in the north and south of the Liao-Tung peninsula. The transfer of General Kuropatkin's staff to Ta-Tche-Kino and the appearance of great activity there bluffed the Japanese into devoting all their attention to that quarter, leaving the more valuable line from Liao-Yang to Mukden alone. KUROPATKIN'S STRATEGY.

St. Petersburg, July 14, 4.55 p.m.—A telegram from Lieut.-General Sakharoff, feviewing the stuation yesterday, notes the continued Japanese advance on Ta Tehe Kiao, and continuous fighting along the Siu Yen roads converging on Tang Chi, ten miles south-east of Ta Tehe Kiao. The Russian outposts, apparently, were not offering seriious resistance on either of the Shu Yen roads or along the line of General Oku's advance. The Japanese are utilizing Kai Chou to land supplies. Gen. Sakharoff also reports the appearance of Gen. Kuroki's outposts considerably south of Liao Yang, indicating a general flamking movement of Hai Cheng. The Japanese northern outposts are falling back on ment of har Cheag. The statement on outports are falling back on Saimatsza, probably due to pressure on the part of General Rennenkampff.

"I may be permitted to mention," said Captain McCoig, modestly, "that when I was picking my team I did it to win. I telegraphed Mayor McKeough before the game started that it to win. I telegraphed Mayor McKeough before the game started that we had won it, so as to let his worship rest easy. I was at first in favor of shutting these Perrinites out, after that bumptious message of Bill's, but Jack Edmondson thought it would give us more fielding practice just to let them have seven or eight runs—and I let Jack have his way. It was the funniest Garner House team I ever saw. Why, anyone who had ever borrowed a tooth-pick there seemed eligible to play for them.
However, that made no difference.
It was ap-Perrin-t before the first inning was over that they were a gang of four-flushers and if we ever play them again I'm thinking of doing it with three men, pitcher, catcher and first baseman, which would make the game more even. Really it was a shame to take the money."
Meanwhile, Captain George (Bill) Perrin, of the Garner nine, was also addressing the crowd. "Ladies and gentlemen," he began, dexterously clearing his dust-clogged throat, "it was easy money. We had them on the run all the way—that is, on the run around the bases. Fact is, our men were a little over-trained, as any practiced eye could see. Now, you probably noticed, for instance, that Jim Fleming out there in the field would sooner let the ball go by him and then run after it than stop it when it came his way. Jim was Barney stood and watched, and even dared to advise Wilson to get a gait on or he would soon be in a hotter place that St. Thomas, Ont. Harvey Wilson skated down to the city and got P. C. Groves, and he arrested Moore.

It seems that Ida Sullivan, Barney Worlden and Harvey Wilson all occupied apartments in the same apartment house. Thursday morning at 2 cupied apartments in the same apartment house. Thursday morning at 2 a.m. Moore came around raising a disturbance, so Ida Sullivan testified. He was back yesterday and had an altercation with a man next door. Some stone-throwing resulted and then, it is alleged, Moore went over to Judge Bell's hired man and borrowed a gun to shoot rabbits. Pointing the weapon at Harvey Wilson, he suggested that the colored man try to run him away now. Harvey had no such desires. He got a policeman to do it for him.

no such desires. He got a policeman to do it for him.

When arraigned this morning, Moore wanted the Crown to provide a lawyer to defend him. Judge Houston explained that the Crown only provided for the prosecution. After sizing the Crown Attorney up, the prisoner said,—"He looks like a man who would do what is right."."

After Theoring the evidence the case field would sooner let the ball go by him and then run after it than stop it when it came his way. Jim was bound to get his exercise. Then again, I didn't like to let Babcock pitch the whole game—I wanted to let them score one or two. However, I didn't want to spoil the trip to Detroit. If they'd been beaten these aldermanic quitters would never have faced the music in Detroit.—they'd have got up too late for the boat Tuesday morning, or some such expuse. So all's well that ends well."

Pitcher Ald. Harry Westman was in the pink of condition, having done his training with the Indians on Walpo'e Island. The other aldermen backed Mr. Westman up as they had never done before, even on the famous Mr. N. H. Stevens Delivers a Patriotic Prior to July 4th, the Canadian bowlers touring England has played backed Mr. Westman up as they had never done before, even on the famous pipe line. Anyway, he pitched a great game. He had four opponents in the pitcher's box—Woodward was first, Coupland was next, then "Bill" Per-Perrin, followed by Tecumseh Babcock. The latter did the best twirling for the eaters.

Everybody played a good game, there's no doubt of that. The error list is lost and so can't be published.

The score stood 26 to 7 at the finish in favor of the altermen. defeated by the Newcastle Club, and afterwards entertained to luncheon. N. H. Stevens was one of the speakers. The Newcastle Journal says of him and his speech:

Mr. N. H. Srevens, of Chatham, Ontario, responded, and stated that ever since they landed in Liverpool a month ago they had been generously and loyally treated by their brothers in England, and he must tell them that they truly felt "at home." Through the kindness of the Newcastle West End Club, they had enjoyed visits to the beautiful parks of the city, notably Gosforth Park, where they had been over the finest race-course they had ever seen in their lives. The privilege which they unquestionably enjoyed most was the world famous works of Armstrong's at Elswick, where there was revealed.

WRITES HOME

Alex. Clark, who is handling Ward Stanworth's law business while the latter is visiting at his home in England, has received a long letter from Mr. Stanworth.

Ward is ut precent in Blackburn visiting his brother, J. Stanworth, an umbrella manufacturer. Ward says England is a fine country to live in if you have lots of money to spend. The seenery is good and the air bracing. He is wearing his heavy winter clothes, as it had been raining three days at the time of writing.

Mr. Stanworth attended the quater sessions of the court. It was very interesting to Mr. Stanworth. They had several counsels from Manarchester, but some of them were below the mark. The customs of the court were much the same as in Canada, with the exception of the wigs worn. Ward is having a very enjoyable time.

NEW IDEAS.

There are two kinds of leadership, points out the Toronto Star, One the leadership of men; the other of ideas. A discriminating writer has pointed out that Western nations are led by ideas rather than by person ages. Those who aspire to lead must understand the necessity of embodying ideas that are true and attractive, and that have in themselves the promise and potency of large practical results.

Men who have succeeded in busimess or politics or farming or professional life know the value of a happy thought. A hint has oftentimes led on to fortune. A chance suggestion made use of has brought many a man into the foreground of achievement. A victory in arms is frequently the result of a simple idea put into speedy execution.

There is not much danger of men discounting the worth of ideas. Thoughts and things are so closely interwoven and are so vital to each other that the alliance is forced upon the attention of all. He who runs must read. But there is a possibility of scant favor being shown to new ideas. This is a form of inhospitality which is especially peculiar to adwancing years, though by no means exclusively so. As people grow old the mind is apt to take on a quality of inaccessibility not so much to new facts as to new views and new methods. It may be they have attained a measure of prosperity by the adoption of certain well-thoughtout plans, which have stood the test of years, and they become wedded to the systems. They forget that conditions change, and that methods must change too if they are to hold their own and keep abreast of an age which is no less progressive than aggressive.

This tendency throws light upon another feature of our time-the undeniable preference shown for young men in all branches of business. Indeed, it would almost appear at times as if youth is a main qualification for success in life to-day. Why is it so? The fact is largely explained when we say that it is the bent of youth to be accessible to new ideas. The very radicalism of young men lifts them into priority; in their affinity for the novel and untried lies their strength. Here also may lie their weakness. For there is no virtue in ideas merely because they are new. They must also be sound; they must be able to stand the test of usage and establish their superiority; they must be judged by their fruits.

But the prevalence of foolish novelties and wildcat ventures should not be allowed to lessen the mind's welcome for useful suggestions and rays of wisdom, from whatever quarter they may come. A merchant prince in London, Eng., being asked how he had managed to build up such an immense trade, replied that he was always on the watch for ideas. This man had a secret worth knowing. The very Essence of shrewdness is to remain teachable. The wisdom of life is to catch up hints and make the best use of them. This is where the victim of vanity meets defeat. He cannot bear to learn; to do so fulfill himself.

The man of hospitable intelligence fares otherwise. He maintains the role of an apt pupil; is persistently his duty standing out as clearly as alert; lets in the light from the newspaper, from every book he reads, from every person he converses with. His mind is flexible and receptive. He drinks from every available fountain of knowledge; keeps himself in communication with those about him; makes all men his educators; and thus learns wisdom and wins success.

THE GLOBE'S LAVISH "LANG-WIDGE.

Toronto News Something has occurred to disturb our usually well-behaved contemporary, the Globe, and it bursts forth this morning in a very painful and apoplectic way upon the question of national defence. A nervous attack in July is especially severe, and all elderly newspapers should beware of undue excitement, and of letting their angry passions rise. When, therefore, the Globe turns on its rhetorical tap and pours forth such expressions as "wild and foolish talk," "militarist passion," "playing the fool with dangerous explosives," "guilty and inhu-"myriad-handed murders," man." "pointless insanities of a monomaniac," "smell of blood," "gunpowder of jingoism," and "hell of war," we beg jingoism," and "hell of war," we beg most respectfully to remind our con-temporary of the by-law against the use of violent language in the public streets. Such a neat derangement of epitaphs, as Mrs. Malaprop said, must be calculated to excite brawling on the boulevards, and we would be sor-ry to see our contemporary, in its intense anxiety for peace, hailed be-fore the magistrate as a common disfore the magistrate as a common dis-turber of the public order.

A BRITISH VIEW. Illustrated London News.

The debate in the Dominion parlia ment on the Dundonald incident ended in a ministerial victory. Sir F. Borden attacked Lord Dundonald with much heat, accusing him of plotting with the minister's opponents. It seems difficult for a Canadian politician to understand that an imperial officer may detach his mind completely from party spirit, and look only to the efficiency of the service for which he is responsible. That such was Lord Dundonald's aim is clear enough. Sir F. Borden went in to argue that the Canadian militia is in a most satisfactory condition. Lord Dundonald Buffalo. says the exact opposite. To impartial spectators the protests of the ministers on this score are not very convincing. We have to remember that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues are not likely to look at efficiency with Lord Dundonald's professional eyes. The professional view, in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opinion, degenerates into "militarism." To make the militiaman thoroughly rat ror his duties is to imbue him with an aggressively martial spirit. After an, says one of Sir Wilfrid's champions in this country, the militiannan is a merchant or a farmers, not a solder. He must be a very good merchant or farmer, but he neel no be more than an indifferent militiaman. This is the only way to keep had a man of peace. But it is not the way to provide for the pro-per defence of the country.

A BRAVE COWARDLY MAN. Buffalo Express.

Strange that heroism to the point of death and cowardice to the point of the ridiculous could exist in the makeup of one man. The captain of the doomed steamer Norge, standing on conizes his self-worshipful instincts; the bridge of the sinking hull and he thinks he has already learned striving to direct the feverish crew everything; consequently he fails to and the frenzied passengers in their and the frenzied passengers in their desperate efforts to escape, is a figure to thrill the hero-worshiper. Nerved by generations of tradition, Rockall on a sunny day, he looked death in the face unflinchingly and stayed by the ship until washed off by the swilrling waters,

On the initial day of that fatal voyage he presented another picture. He fronted duty, recognized it, and failed to meet it squarely. See him in the owners' office. His vessel is licensed to carry 488 passengers; his sailing list bears 800 names. He can refuse to take the vessel out, thus, refuse to take the vessel out. thus expossing an attempted violation of the laws for safety and bringing down on the owners the condemnation of an imperiled public. He will lose his job by so doing. He falters, takes the ship out loaded beyond her capacity, and forfeits 200 lives that should not have been risked.

Hoy abject a man in the fear of losing his job! How brave in the face of losing his life!

SETTING THE CLOCK FAST. | A Pleasant Sort of Deception Common to Many People. It is a common thing to find the clocks in nine out of ten househo:ds either fifteen minutes or half an hour fast, and should you happen to be in a hurry or mention the fact that you have to be going you are at once reassured by the fact that you have so cause to herry, as the clock is so much ahead of the time.

Has it ever occurred to you why clocks are usually put ahead? Some physicians have said it is due to lazness, for it is such a satisfaction to the lazy man to find when he has to get up at 7 in the morning and strains his half closed eyes to look at the clock that it is half an hour fast and he has so much more time to doze, with the result that he oversleeps himself anyhow and misses his train or boat-Said a watchmaker when asked about the subject:

"Yes, it is a peculiar thing with most people to put their clocks fast, and, while there may be some satisfaction in it when it comes to dozing a little longer, there is really no advantage in it, for when you wake up, say, at 6 and glance at the clock and it registers half past 6, the fact remains that it is a half hour fast. While this may make you feel easier, knowing that you still have thirty minutes to doze, I confess I don't see much advantage in it.

"Why not have the clock right? It is the same thing in the end. Suppose railroads were to put this "Suppose railroads were to put this into practice, how many trains do you think people would miss thereby? This putting clocks fast is really only a pleasant form of deception which peoples are the properties of the people of e like to pract it does more harm than good."

The young lawyer's first case is hardly a fair trial.

HOISTING ROPES.

The Threads of Wire Upon Which

So Many Lives Daily Depend. While the longest ropes are used for hauling purposes, some of the most in-teresting data in connection with wire ropes are obtained with their use for oisting purposes. Hundreds of thousands of lives are literally each day men are lowered into and hoisted from the bowels of the earth, and in many cases the only means of communication between the surface and the underground workings, which are from a few feet to a mile in depth, is by a comparatively small hoisting rope. Think of hanging from the end of a cable only a few inches in diameter and a mile long, being hoisted at a rate which is faster than that of the average railroad train, and some idea of the hoisting problem can be gained. To overwound and unwarranted demands are made upon the rope or which are traceable to false economy on the part of the users of wire rope. No part of a mining plant is more carefully inpected and watched than the hoisting cope, and very few mine managers will take any unnecessary risks in the hoisting of men. The skill of the wire rope maker is taxed to the utmost to provide ropes for hoisting from great zepths. To make a rope of practicable size that will be sufficiently flexible and that will bear even its own weight is no mean problem, for in such cases the weight of the rope is often much more than the material lifted; hence we have taper rope intended to give a

LETTER BOX

THE ORIGIN OF EVIL

To the Editor of The Planet :

I was much interested in the article I was much interested in the article in to-day's editorial column, The Origin of Evil," being an extract from the Woodstock Express. The question was asked "Why should an innocent and helpless child to-day suffer for an act of disobedience committed thousands of years ago?" "Most men are to be damned—meaning by this term a continuous state of suffering—and the blessed—stated to be very few—will thank God that it is so."

The question asked above is a natural question, a reasonable, a proper question; and, unfortunately, the answers often given have caused infinitely more injury than good, because the answers, as a rule, indicate a vindictive, a bard, a cruel God, rather than that of a merciful, loving and just God. The evident reason for this, doubtless, is the fact that the majority of Christians, by creeds and teachers, limit the divine plan to a majority of Christians, by creeds and teachers, limit the divine plan to a very narrow area, instead of discerning that there are two divisions or parts of the divine plan, each distinctive yet joined. These two divisions are clearly marked in many portions of Scripture. For example, in Jeremiah, chapter 31, verses 29-30, — "In those days they shall say no more. The fathers have eaten a sour grape, and the children's teeth are set on edge." This indicates one sub-section of 2nd division, under which the world now exists. The fathers have eaten a sour grape (Adam sinned) and the children's teeth are set on edge. (The father's (Adam) sin. The 30th verse beinger continued.) father's (Adam) sin. The 30th vers father's (Adam) sin. The 30th verse beinmg another sub-section,—"But everyone shall die for his own iniquity." This would indicate a different condition to the present state, for now mankind dies, not for his own, but through Adam's sin, "For in Adam all die." But your readers may say, if this be so, how is it that the second portion-very man shall die. second portion—every man shall die for his own sin—has not yet been in-troduced? The answer to this rea-sonable question is, that the time is not yet due. For example, a certain jail contains fifty life prisoners; an individual comes forward and bargains to free those prisoners. Surely, having paid the price, it is his privlege to state just when they are to be freed just when they are to be freed. And if he purposes that he will pick out say 10 of the best behaved, and most worthy prisoners, and ed, and most worthy prisoners, and that they be kept there for a short time, until they prove by their con-duct their worthiness for the special purpose he he intended, and after a purpose he he intended, and after a sufficient testing he delivers these, before his purposed great general delivery of the remaining 40, surely that is his privilege. And so we find this is the first and principal division of the divine plan. First to pick out from the prisoners—the fallen race—a certain number—also called the church, the bride,—these God proposes to deliver first; afterwards the es to deliver first; afterwards the great prison house delivery. This is clearly stated in the 15th chapter of Acts, verses 14, 15, 16, 17,—"Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles to take out of peopel for his name, and to this agrees the words of the prophets, as agrees the words of the prophets, as it is written. After this (after the people, church, or bride, is picked out) I will return and build again the tabernacle of David which is fallen down and I will build again the ruins thereof and I will set it up. Forwhat reason? That the residue of men might seek after the Lord. What does residue mean? Surely what redoes residue mean? Surely what remains, or is left after a certain nun ber has been taken. And what is to be the fate of the residue of men? Are they to be consigned to a hell of fire and brimstone to suffer and whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things." And so we here see something of the derful provision of divine mercy and grace. The trouble, as before stated, is the tendency of restless humanity to crowd and rush much in small compass, heedless of meaning and regard-less of results. As as instance, note the Bible teaches eternal punishment. This is twisted and distorted to mean eternal punishing. Yet these two ex-pressions have no similarity of mean-ing; neither is eternal punishing taught or expressed in the Word of God.

writhe in agony cternally? Oh, no; thank God! The Word says: "That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon God.

Pardon me for taking so much of your valuable space on this most interesting subject. Should any of your readers desire to follow the matter up I would suggest such to write Tower Bible and Tract Society, Allegheny, Pa., U. Tired Trees.

The condition of life in a tropical forest is sunlight, and to get to the top, where alone there is sunlight, is the constant aim of every tree. They have no winter's rest in the tropics, and they are so hard at work all day long that at night the trees seem quite tired out. From dawn to sunset the trees are From dawn to sunset the trees are hard at work. You can almost see some of them growing, and, as may naturally be supposed, they must have a little rest at night. The tree is thoroughly exhausted, its branches lose their stiffness, while the leaves droop and fold themselves together. Unlike those of temperate climates, the trees of the tropics all, more or less, show these signs of exhaustion toward sunset.

A GRUEL JOKE

A great practical joke was worked on the local K. O. T. M. lodge yesterday and it was a good one. The Maccabees are very strong in this city and the members of the lodge are very enthusiastic. This was known to Mr. Thompson so when he heard that a Knights of Pythias Excursion was coming here from Mount Clemens yesterday, he quietly circulated the report that a Maccabee excursion was report that a Maccabee excursion was coming. Organizer Baughman thought it odd that he hadn't been notified but he at once got busy as soon as he learned of the K. O. T. M. excursion. An emergency meeting was called and Messrs. G. W. Sulman, J. M. Pike, Ira Burke, Mr. Baughman, W. H. Bensen, W. E. Merritt, Frank Tschirhart and Geo. Pritchard were appointed a special reception committee augmented by about a hundred lady Maccabees met the boat and gave the excursionists a royal good time. Ira Burke looked stunning, he had paid the bootblack an extra nickel for a special shine in honor of the event. The men were shown the sights and taken to the firehall where a hitch was made in honor of the a bitch was made in honor of the visiting Maccabees. Shortly before the departure of the boat, the reception committee began to examine the badges of the visitors and found that they had been entertaining Knights of Pythias instead of Knights of Maccabees. The committee enjoyed the joke as much as anyone.

The hotel keepers of Blenheim have instructed the firm of Wilson, Pike & Gundy to take proceedings against the license commissioners of East Kent to compel them to grant licenses to the hotels there. The commissioners refused to grant licenses in view of the refusal of the town council to pass by-law after it was carried by the electors. The hotel men contend that the council is quite within its rights in refusing to pass the by-law and that to make it valid it should have the support of both the electors and the council.

CATHOLIC ORDER OF FORESTERS

JULY AND AUGUST DESIGNERS, 10c...

St. Joseph's Court, 241, held its regular meeting last evening. After the regular order of business had been transacted, the event so long looked forward to by the members was pro-ceeded with, namely the conferring of the higher order of membership, known as the Adjunct Degree. Seven candidates were initiated last even-ing, and expressed themselves as high-ly delighted with its workings.

This is the first instance in the his-tory of Catholic Forestry in Ontario that the Adjunct Degree has been conferred, and St. Joseph's Court is to be congratulated on taking the initiative in this line, and especially the itiative in this line, and especially the Degree Team, who were amply rewarded last evening with the satisfaction of seeing that the result of their hard practices during the past month, resulted in a decided success.

The Chief Ranger of the Degree Team is E. J. Pettier, and the other members are, J. R. Gerber, J. P. Dunn, N. Pinsonneault, Nelson Emery, E. Dunn, F. E. Gerber, F. A. Tschlifhart, John Brennen, Parnell Welsh, Jas. Flynn, John Stephen, Andrew Jacques and A. C. Trudell.

Material Used In Making Note Paper. It is not a pleasant thought that the brilliant white note paper which your hand rests upon may have in it the fibers from the filthy garment of some Egyptian fellah after it has passed through all the stages of decay until it is saved by a ragpicker from the gut-ter of an Egyptian town, and yet it is a fact that hundreds of tons of Egyptain rags are exported every year in America to supply our paper mills. At Mannheim, on the Rhine, the American importers have their ragpicking house where rags are collected from all over Europe, the disease infected Levant not excepted, and where women and children, too poor to earn a better living, work day after day, with wet sponges tied over their mouths, sorting these filthy scraps for shipment to New York Our best papers are made of these rags and our common ones of wood pulp, which is obtained by grinding and macerating huge blocks from some of our soft wooded forest trees.-National Geographic Magazine.

The Stage Mirror. Whenever a looking glass appears in a scene in a play above a fireplace, in a sideboard or a cabinet one is almost sure to hear somebody ask his or her neighbor why the glass has been smear ed with whiting or soap or something that dulls its surface completely. All sorts of reasons are hazarded or gested. Sometimes it is stated that it is done for luck, at others that they did not intend to leave it dirty. The real explanation is, however, a simple one. The glass is dirtied to prevent the illusion of the scene being destroyed, as it certainly would be if the audience saw in it the reflection of themselves or, worse still, the reflection of the people in the wings carrying on the business of the stage.

Onions For Diphtheria. In cases of diphtheria onions in the form of a poultice and a sirup are said form of a positive and a sirup are said to have an almost magical effect. "That being the case. I see no reason why you cannot entertain the proposi-tion I have decided to make you," said the merchant, "which is that you sever your relations with Mr. Frye between now and the first of the year, and then take hold and see what you can do in looking after my legal matters. The fact is, Mr. Page, as I intimated to you a short time ago, I am not entirely satisfied with Mr. Frye. Just why need not be considered now. The only point fs. do you feel yourself capable of actcharge of any law business that may "Well, so far as my knowledge of the law goes," replied Albert, "I passed a good examination when I was admitted to the bar, I had some practice in Sandgate, and since I've been with Frye I've learned a good deal of the usual procedure here. I think I can de all that is necessary."

"My needs in a legal line are not complicated," continued Mr. Nason; "it is mostly looking up deeds and making transfers, seeing that titles are clear, etc. You will have to watch the custom officers, and there are more or less collections to be made. Occasionally I have to resort to the courts, but try to avoid them as much as possible.

"I think I could attend to all such matters to your satisfaction," said Albert confidently; "they are not hard

"Very well," replied Mr. Nason, "I have decided, partly at the request of my son and partly from my own estimate of your ability, to give you the trial. I will pay you twenty-five hundred dollars per annum to look after my needs, and you are also at liberty to take such other business as comes to you so long as you do not neglect

"I thank you, Mr. Nason, for this offer," replied Albert, rising and proffering his hand, "and I accept gladly and will devote all my time, if need be, to your service."

"Very good," responded Mr. Nason; "separate yourself from Frye at once, or between now and the new year, and in the meantime I would suggest that you rent a suitable office. There are one or two vacant in a building I own on Water street that will serve very well, and when you are through with Mr. Frye come and see me. I shall consider you in my employ from now on, and as you may need funds in fitting up your office I will advance to the control of the cont you a little on your salary," and with out further comment he turned to his desk and wrote and handed Albert a check for $500. "I should prefer," he added hastily, as if to prevent any word of thanks, "that you make no mention whatever of our agreement to Mr. Prye, or in fact to any one, until after January let." Then rising and There are moments when our emo tions nullify all attempts at speech, and to Albert Page this was such a one "Never mind the thanks now," said Mr. Nason as he saw Albert's agitation. "Put your thanks into your work, and in a year we will talk it over. "And this is the man I had almost hired myself out to spy upon!" said Albert to himself as he left the store.

it solved itself. Frye was out, and Albert was, as he had been for three days, thinking how to escape, when a red faced and rather bellicose sort of man came in and inquired for Frye.

and give him a few pointers that might help my case." "What is your case?" asked Albert, a little amused at being taken for Frye's partner. "Waal, the facts are," replied Staples,

"I've had to sue a miserable whelp in self defense. I live in Lynnfield. It's a small place about ten miles out, an' last spring I bought the good will, stock in trade and all of a man by the name of Hunt, who was in the meat business. He signed a paper, tee, agreein' not to engage in the business in or within ten miles o' Lynnfield for a period o' five years, and a month ago he opened a shop almost 'cross the street from me and is cuttin' my prices right and left."

"And you are bringing an action for breach of contract?" interposed Albert, thinking to have a little fun at the

"That may be," said Albert, realizing he had put his foot in it, so to speak, "and perhaps you have other grounds to base a suit for damages on, but as for the agreement this man Hunt signed, it's of no value what-good case and take my money? gasped the irate Staples.

"That I can't say," replied Albert, foreseeing the rumpus he had started.

"You'd better come tomorrow and have a talk with him. He may have seen some loophole for you to win out through that I do not see, but so far as your agreement goes, it's not worth the paper it's written on." When Staples had departed it dawn-when, two days later, he purposely reached the office late Frye did not even bid him good merning. "Where were you yesterday?" he said curtly as Albert entered.

"I was availing myself of your express wish that I cultivate young Nason." was the answer. "We went to yacht for the winter."

"And what did you say, to Mr. Staples the day before, I would like to know?" continued Frye in a sneering tone. "He has retained me for an action for breach of contract, and you have told him he had no grounds for suit. He came in yesterday, mad as a wet hen, and wanted his money back. Are you a fool?

'Maybe I am," replied Albert, trying hard to keep cool, "but I do not care to be told of it. Mr. Staples explained his case to me, and I inadvertently told him that the agreement he held was of no value in law, which is the truth." "And what has that to do with it?"

said Frye, with biting saroasm, didn't hire you to tell the truth and lose me a paying client. If that is your idea of law practice you had better go back to Sandgate and hoe corn for a living. You have made a mess of it now and lost me several hundred dollars in fees."

Albert had remained standing through all this tirade and looking squarely at his irate employer.

"You need not say any more," he put in when Frye had paused for breath. "If you will further oblige me with a check for the small balance due me I will not again upset your plans. You need not," he added, feeling himself blush, "consider that you owe me any part of the increase you recently prom sed. I de not want it.'

For a few minutes the two looked at each other, and then Frye weakened. "You are foolish," he said in a modified tone, "to act so hastily. Perhaps I have spoken rather rudely, but you must admit you gave me prevocation. De not throw away a good chance for a few hasty words."

"I do not care to discuss it," answer ed Albert firmly. "The role of private detective that you want me to assume is not to my taste anyway, and your words have convinced me we can never get along together. I will not remain onger on any terms."
"And what will you do now?" sneer.

"Neither," replied Albert defiantly. "I'll go back to Sandgate and hee corn

Frye's arrogance melted, and as he turned and began to play with a paper utter he said meckly:
"Come, Mr. Page, overlook it all. I speke too hastily, and I apologize."

"Will you oblige me with the small balance due me today," asked Albert, or shall I cail again for it?"

"And if we part company now," mut-tered Frye, "what am I to expect? Are you to be a friend or an enemy?"

"If you refer to your scheme to blackmail John Nason," replied Albert resolutely and not mincing words, "I m too ashamed to think I ever Mstened to your proposals to even speak It was a hard blow and made Frye

"I am much obliged, Mr. Frye. Good morning, sir," said Albert in a chilly one, and putting on his hat he left the office.

In a week Albert had his office fitted up, and then he presented himself to John Nason, and after that he not only had all the responsibility thrust upon him that he was able to assume, but he no longer felt himself in the posi-tion of a menial. Miss Hapgood tells how she was cured of Fallopian and Ovarian Inflammationand escaped an awful operation by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered for four years with what the doctors called Salpingitis (inflammation of the fallopian tubes) and ovadoctors called Salpingitis (inflammation of the fallopian tubes) and ovaritis, which are most distressing and painful ailments, affecting all the surrounding parts, undermining the constitution, and sapping the life forces. If you had seen me a year ago, before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and had noticed the sunken eyes, sallow complexion, and general emaciated condition, and compared that person with me as I am today, robust, hearty and well, you would not wonder that I feel thankful to you and your wonderful medicine, which restored me to new life and health in five months, and saved me from an awful operation."—Miss Irene Hargood, 1022 Sandwich St., Windsor, Ont.

Ovaritis or inflammation of the ovaries or fallopian tubes which adjoin the ovaries may result from sudden stopping of the monthly flow, from inflammation of the womb, and many other causes. The slightest indication of trouble with the ovaries, indicated by dull throbbing pain in the side, accompanied by heat and shooting pains, should claim your instant attention. It will not cure itself, and a hospital operation, with all its terrors, may easily result from parenter.

SERVANTS IN RUSSIA.

The Law Excludes Them as Witnesses Against Their Employers.
The Russian servant is hired for one year and is told exactly what his par-ticular duty is to be. He then sticks to that one duty. As long as each serv-ant faithfully performs the special duties of his position all is well, but the neglectful butler or cook or coachman is sent by the employer with a written note to the police judge, who after carefully investigating the complaints has a right to order bodily pun-ishment or to write a bad mark in the book kept for this purpose.

In great Russian households often from twenty to fifty servants are kept, and even the middle class families have two to four. The pay of these servants varies according to the line of work. While the "chiefs" in the kitchens of wealthy families often receive £300 a year, a cook in an ordinary citizen's empioy gets no more than £12 a year, and a maid of all work never gets more than £5 a year. At Easter every servant gets a present, generally a suit or dress.

Every other Sunday the servants in a Russian household are entirely free. Their work stops Saturday night after supper, when the servants leave the house not to return until the next Monday morning. The employers never ask where or how the free time is spent.

Russian servants will pilfer. Since Russian ladies leave everything to the care of the servants the latter do as they please.

The manservants smoke cigars belonging to their masters and pay frequent visits to the wine cellars of the house, but a gentleman would consider it "demeaning" himself to prosecute a servant for this.

The Russian servants will talk about fellow servants, but never about their employers. Even when they quit one place and take service in another tamily they would never mention any-thing about their former masters. This discretion goes so far that even the law considers it. In Russia the law excludes servants as witnesses against their former or present employers so long, at least, as these servants are not suspected of having taken part in the crime.—London Mail.

A good many people are like ple-plant—their good qualities are not known because no one handles them When a woman's daughter marries a preacher she is more firmly convinced than ever that her children have advantages she did not enjoy. If a woman truly loves her husband, when she is asked how he is she will say, "Well, he does not complain, but I do not think he is very well." If you have a little hard sense it has probably been beaten into you; very few have it naturally. So that, after all, adversity and criticism are useful.

The Bear He Missed. Telling in his book of some hunting experiences near the north pole, Captain Sverdrup wrote: "Walruses and seals were harpooned and shot and also the large arctic hare, which seems to have contracted the peculiar habit of frequently running long distances on its hind legs. Hunting was not always easy, the atmosphere playing strange tricks with the eyesight, as witness the following account of the stalking of a bear: 'With the utmost caution, with his gun ready and his eye fixed inex-orably on the bear, Sehlei advanced to the spot. Meanwhile the bear sat wag-ging its head, but keeping a good lookand flew away. It flew as well as any bird, which, after all, was not remarkable, for it was a glaucous gull.'

AN OLD BOY HOME

John Kennedy, of Morengo, Ill., an old Chatham boy, is spending a few and relatives in the Maple City.

Mr. Kennedy left Chatham in 1857 and since that time ne nas paid three visits to his old home. He also served in the civil war and his father, John Kennedy, was an old Waterloo man.

"It is 13 years since I last visited Chatham," said Mr. Kennedy, to The Planet, "and I find the old town much improved in appearance, especially in her streets, buildings and store fronts. I am always glad to think of Chatham I am always glad to think of Chatham and although I am an American now I have a warm spot in my heart for Canada. I am sorry that I did not attend the re-union but I am taking home a number of The Planet's souvenir numbers. It is a fine number and one of the nest and most valuable editions I have ever seen. I remember many of the people whose pictures are in it."

Mr. Kennedy always reads The Planet and is well posted on the maters going on in the old town. He will remain here until next Monday, when he will return to Morengo, where he has a large and profitable grocery business. He is at present the guest of Mrs. Jane Somerville, John Kennedy and Grace Kennedy.

The season for holiday trips having arrived, most people are considering the casiest places to reach, where they will derive the benefit of rest and change of air. Mr. W. E. ROUGH HOUSE AT ST. THOMAS. Jack Kelly refereed the lacrosse game in St. Thomas yesterday between the home team and Chatham and had a little trouble. After the St. Thomas players got a lead of four goals as players got a lead of four goals their opponents walked away with them. There was a good deal of betting on the result, and a lot of people blamed the referee. One of the St. Thomas men. Nethercott, tried to mix it up with Kelly, and he will be reported to the Association for his trouble.—Brantford Expositor.
