Rungs

MESSRS. HENRY BIRKS & SONS have pleasure in placing in the hands of their friends and patrons their seventh annual catalogue. The year just ended has been a most auspicious one in the firm's history and they look forward to another which has every prospect of being still more favorable.

Any success thus far attained has not been accidental or superficial, the growth having been slow and sure; and while ever reaching out after new business the firm believes the true foundation of its success has been the continued patronage of satisfied customers throughout Canada.

The firm wish to call especial attention to the display of small pieces in gold and silver, shewn in this book, and wish to emphasize the fact that, although their business has grown to such large proportions, the same care and attention is still given to the small orders entrusted to them as in years past when the volume of business was much smaller. The illustrations shewn are made direct from photographs of the original goods and will give as correct an idea as it is possible to produce in print.

DIAMOND AND ENAMEL MAPLE LEAF SPRAY PRESENTED TO THE DUCHESS OF CORNWALL AND YORK.

THE DIAMOND.

The diamond in its purest condition is colorless and transparent, yet at times it is found colored throughout of almost every possible tint, the colors ranging from bright canary yellow to a deep brown and black, and in very rare instances green, blue, pink and red. Diamonds are found occasionally in Sumatra, India, Borneo, Brazil, North America, British Guiana, Australia and the Ural Mountains, but the South African mines practically supply the world. The following are some of the important characteristics a diamond must possess to be classed as "first water"; it should be absolutely white, that is without the slightest tinge of yellow, free from flaws, and perfectly cut. In speaking of freedom from flaws it must be explained that should a magnifying glass of sufficient power be used, flaws can be found in the most perfect diamond ever discovered. The cutting is a most important feature, frequently overlooked even by dealers, as an improperly cut stone loses much of its fire and brilliancy. In a correctly cut stone, the front, that is the part above the girdle, should be one third, and the back two thirds of the total thickness of the stone. The girdle itself should be sharp and free from the heavy uncut edges seen in many stones.

Composition : Pure Carbon.

Specific gravity : 3.52 to 3.53.

Hardness : 10.

THE RUBY.

The ruby occupies, among precious stones in general, a position which is unquestionably supreme, and from Old Testament times until to-day it has been regarded as the very type of all that was most precious in the natural world. The true ruby is a variety of the mineral species termed corundum and can be scratched by the diamond but by no other mineral. It is found in many parts of the world, but the localities yielding the rubies of commerce are practically limited to Burmah, Siam and Ceylon. Even of these localities, it is only in Burmah that the favorite tint, the true pigeon's blood color is found; those of Siam are darker, and those of Ceylon, paler. The price paid for rubies by the Ancients was very high; according to Benvenuto Cellini, in his time, a perfect ruby of a carat weight cost 800 écus d'or, whilst a diamond of like weight cost only 100, the same applies to-day more especially in the larger stones. When a perfect pigeon's blood ruby of five carats is brought into the market, a sum will be offered ten times the price given for a diamond of same weight; but should it reach ten carats or more it is almost invaluable.

Composition : Alumina with traces of Oxide of Iron.

Specific gravity : 4.

Hardness : 9.

FINE GOLD AND GEM RINGS.

A card for measuring size of finger will be found at back of book.

THE SAPPHIRE.

The sapphire is a variety of corundum and much therefore that was said under the head of ruby will apply to the sapphire. The desired color is the velvety "Cornflower" blue; but while this is the typical color of the sapphire, it should be explained that the word "Sapphire" is extended by mineralogists and jewellers to corundums of other colors. Thus we have green sapphires, various shades of yellow, and grey, while others may be entirely destitute of color. The principal sapphire yielding localities are: Siam, Burmah, Cashmere and Ceylon, and of these the Siam stones are at present the finest in the market. Many sapphires are found in Montana, but the stones are mostly of green and other fancy tints, and not deep blue. The value of the sapphires like the diamond depends on its purity, color and size. A perfect Oriental sapphire, being worth from a third to a half of a diamond of like weight. The imperfections which appear at times in the sapphire, and which lessen its value are clouds, milky, half-opaque spots, white glassy stripes, etc. Doublets are made of the sapphire as well as the ruby and other gems; these consist of thin layers of true stone cemented to a backing of colored glass. They may be distinguished from the genuine stone partly by their color, but more especially by a careful examination of the girdle where the join, may usually be readily detected.

Composition: Alumina. Specific gravity: 4. Hardness: 9.

THE EMERALD.

The emerald varies in color from what is called emerald green to grass green, and greenish white, the value depending upon its color and freedom from flaws; but a very fine dark velvety colored stone, free from flaws, is almost never met with. The rise in the price of emeralds within the last year or two, has been most remarkable, a really fine stone being now worth as much as a pigeon's blood ruby. The rise has been caused by the great demand for all green stones, and by the very limited output of the emerald mines. Emeralds are found in the Republic of Columbia, the Ural Mountains and in the mountains of Sahara.

Composition: Silica, Alumina and Glucina. Specific gravity: 2.7. Hardness: 7.5.

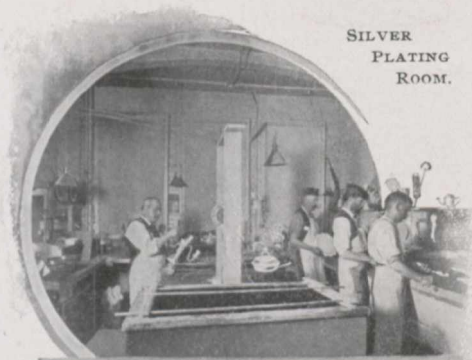

THE PEARLS.

These products of nature stand pre-eminent in the ranks of precious gems; so rarely are they found of perfect quality and symmetry however, that they are rapidly increasing in value. The steady demand coupled with the recent closing of some important fisheries, by the Indian government, has resulted in most astonishing advances. For really fine gems, quite twice as much will now be paid, as would have been two years ago, and even when this great increase is paid, they are much more difficult to procure. The characteristics of a fine pearl are: perfection of shape, skin and lustre or brilliancy. The chief localities for pearls are: North Borneo, West Australia, Torres Strait, Gulf of Panama, Ceylon and the Persian Gulf.

THE OPAL.

Several kinds of opals are known to the mineralogist, but of these the common opal, semi-opal, and Mexican or fire opal, are of little or no value. The precious or noble opal was formerly obtained almost exclusively from Hungary, but of late years large quantities have been found in Queensland and New South Wales, and as the Hungarian mines have been largely worked out, Australia is now the chief source of supply. There are innumerable superstitions attached to the opal. By the Ancients it was thought to bestow every possible good; in the Middle Ages the same belief held, but by a strange freak of fashion for which Sir Walter Scott's "Anne of Ghererstein" was largely answerable, it was for a long time considered unlucky. The pendulum however, is now swinging the other way, and the opal is again looked upon as a lucky stone.

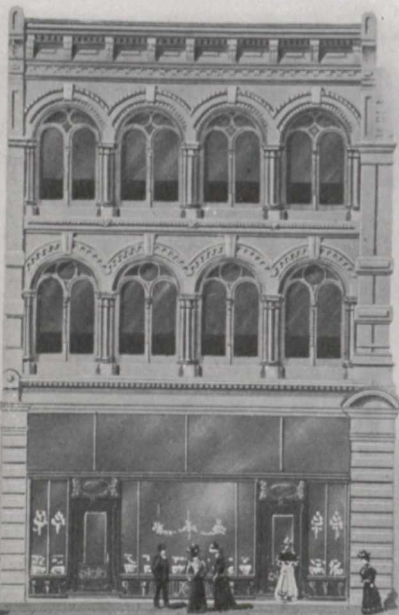

Composition: Silica. Specific gravity: 2 to 2.2.
Hardness: 5.5 to 6.

FINE GEM BROOCHES AND PENDANTS.

Set in solid 15 karat gold.

Only the finest grade of pearls the Paris markets supply are used in Henry Birks & Sons jewelry.

INTERIOR OF MONTREAL STORE.

THE OLIVINE.

The olivine has a delicate olive-green color, which greatly enhances the beauty of diamonds when the two stones are mounted together, it also combines well with opals and is much used in jewellery. The colors vary from light straw yellow to yellowish green, when the stone receives the name of Chrysolite; and thence to a peculiar soft hue, of a deep yellowish green, when it is called Peridot. It is found in the Levant, Mexico, Brazil and South Africa.

Specific gravity: 3.35.

Hardness: 6.5.

THE TURQUOISE.

The turquoise is a hard opaque gem of sky-blue color, which combines beautifully with diamonds and pearls. It is found principally in Persia and Arizona. Turquoise matrix is the term applied to stones where the brown sand-stone runs through the turquoise, making a rich mottled effect.

Specific gravity: 2.75.

Hardness: 6.

THE AMETHYST.

This term is applied to all the violet and purple crystals of quartz, which are found in nearly all parts of the world. The really fine stones however, now so much used in jewellery, come from Brazil, Uruguay and Siberia.

Specific gravity: 2.6.

Hardness: 7.

THE GARNET.

The mineralogist includes a great number of stones which present a variety of colors, under this name; but among jewellers the name is confined to the deep red variety of the garnet family. The finest garnets are found in Ceylon and Siberia.

Specific gravity: 3.5 to 4.3

Hardness: 7.

THE ALMANDINE.

The almandine is a very pretty species of garnet found in India. It has a rich petunia color between the purple of the amethyst and deep red of the garnet.

Specific gravity: 3.5 to 4.3.

Hardness: 7.

THE BLOODSTONE.

Bloodstone is a variety of jasper, of a deep green color, interspersed with red spots, which resemble small drops of blood, whence its name. Being a hard stone and yet not difficult of manipulation, it is the favorite for seal rings in which monograms and crests are cut.

Specific gravity: 2.6.

Hardness: 7.

THE CARNELIAN.

Carnelian is a clear red variety of chalcedony having the same characteristics as the bloodstone.

Specific gravity: 2.6.

Hardness: 7

FINE GEM BROOCHES AND PENDANTS.

Attention is specially called to the high grade of pearls which has long been a most important factor in the excellence of our pearl jewellery. In the selection of pearls, as in all other gems, there are many qualities to be had. We use only what are termed "Extra Orientals," being the highest quality obtainable. The lustre and color of our pearl jewellery are notable features.

FINE 15-CARAT GOLD BRACELETS AND SAFETY PINS.

All pins illustrated here are either solid fourteen or fifteen-carat gold. All stones are genuine and of first-water quality. Solid gold has in the jewellery trade come to mean gold of only ten-carat or even less. We desire to emphasise the fact in the manufacture of our jewellery fourteen carat is the minimum quality of gold used. There is always a satisfaction in giving an article of the highest quality and intrinsic worth, whether it be diamond jewellery or an inexpensive trinket.

FINE NECKLETS AND PENDANTS.

Fourteen and fifteen carats.

Attention is specially called to the high grade of pearls which has long been a most important factor in the excellence of our pearl jewellery. In the selection of pearls, as in all other gems, there are many qualities to be had. We use only what are termed "Extra Orientals," being the highest quality obtainable. The lustre and color of our pearl jewellery have always been notable features.

FINE GOLD LINKS AND STUDS.

Many jewellers class 10-carat jewellery as "solid gold." We make the minimum quality 14-carat in the manufacture of our jewellery; we are then certain that our pieces will give wear and satisfaction. Every piece bearing the name "BIRKS" is of 14-carat or finer. Our diamond settings are always made in 18-carat. A handsome case is furnished with all gold jewellery.

Single length chains are 1 1/2 inches long. Double length, 16 inches long.
All gentlemen's chains, include Bar and Drop.

WINDING.—A watch should be wound as nearly as possible at the same time every day. If allowed to run down, the rate of performance is usually altered. No watch should be allowed to go more than two years without being cleaned, as, no matter how tight the case, the oil will have gathered enough foreign matter, in that time, to cut like a file instead of acting as a lubricant.

REGULATING.—A new watch, or one that has been recently repaired, frequently requires a slight alteration of the regulator to adjust it to the wearer's use, the rate of the performance being altered by the transfer from the workman's case to the wearer's pocket. The alteration may be made by moving the regulator towards the word "fast" (engraved on the index) when the watch is losing, or towards "slow" when gaining. This should be done very slightly at a time, and repeated if not sufficient.

WATCH REPAIRS.—We employ a competent staff of watchmakers. The many varied and complicated movements brought to us necessitate specialists who are most skilful in their respective lines of watches. We guarantee satisfactory work, and prepay return charges on all repaired watches. A wooden mailing-box will be mailed free to those desiring to send us a watch for repairs. Estimate of cost given before proceeding with work when desired.

SCOTCH PEBBLE JEWELLERY.

Although these illustrations are in black and white they give a good idea of the effective contrast between the warm-tinted pebbles in the solid silver mountings. We would direct attention to an interesting piece on this page, the Scotch "Quaich," it being an exact reproduction of a drinking cup, almost universally used in ancient Scottish times; appropriate for trinkets, bon-bons or ash tray.

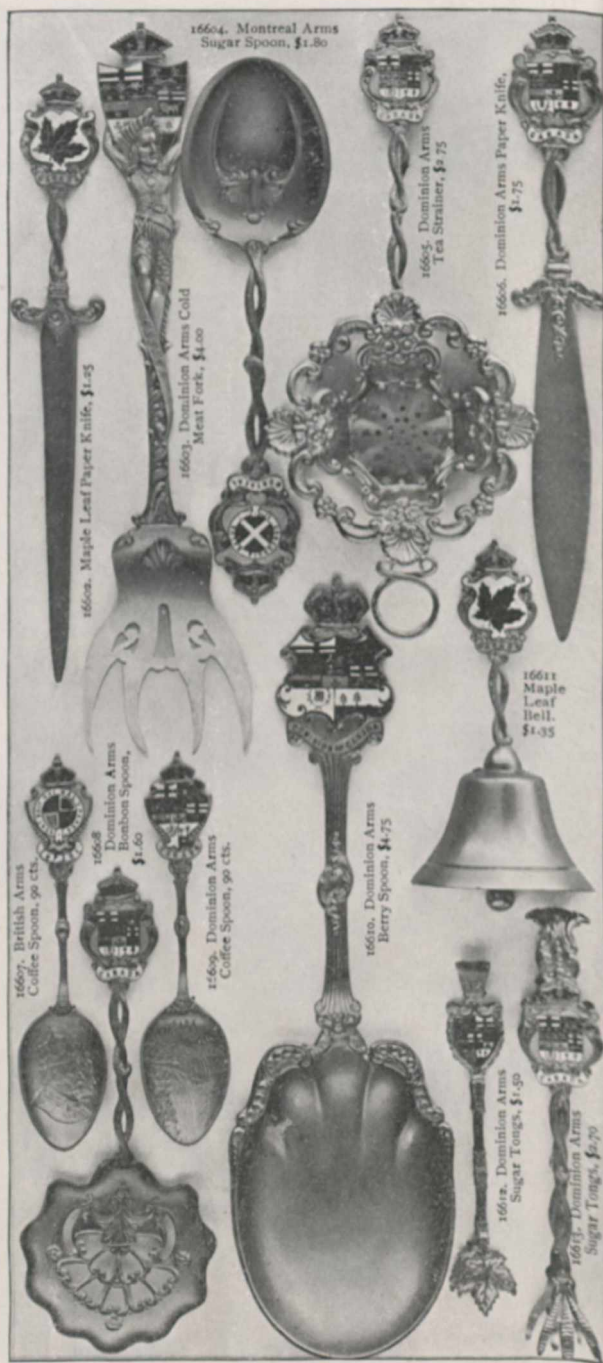

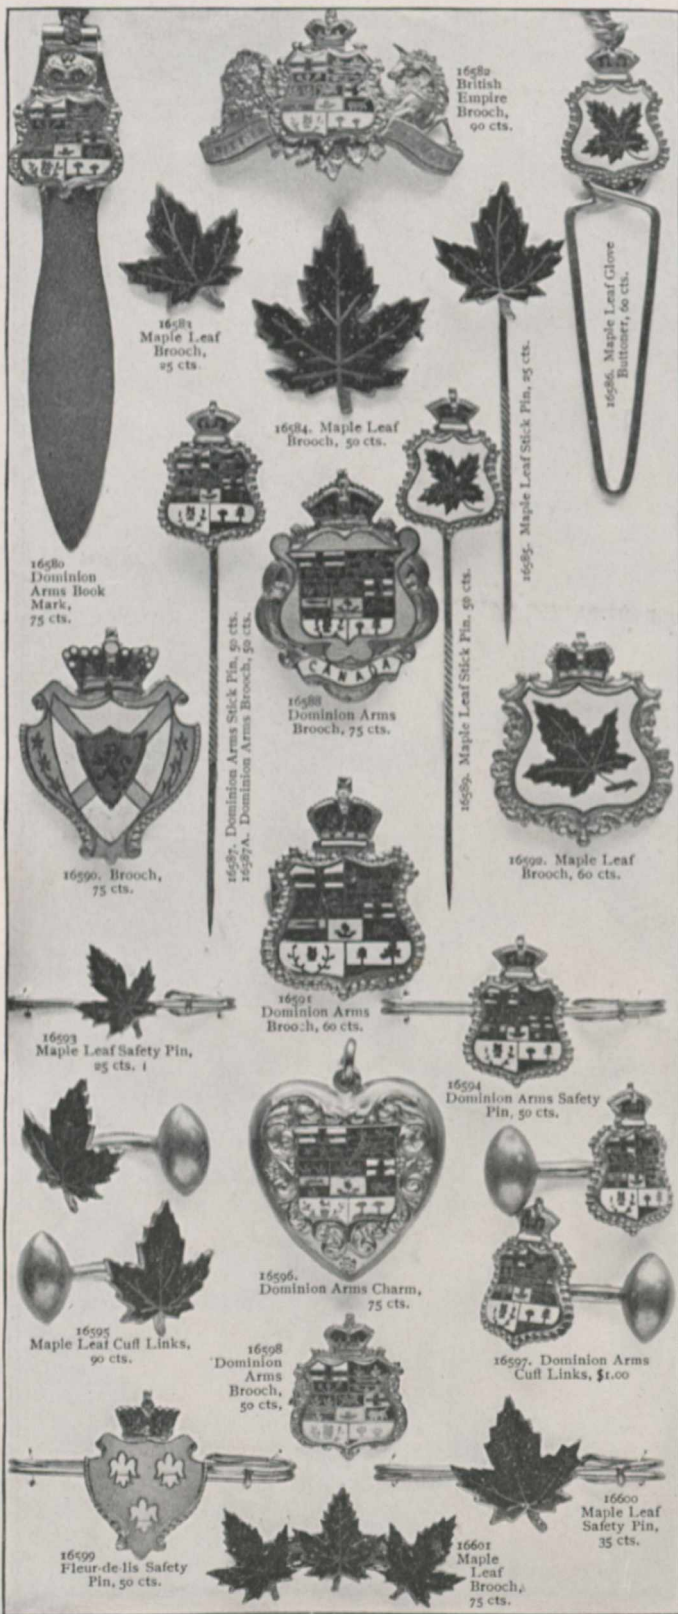

Articles are exact size of illustrations.

Each piece sent in a separate box.

SCOTCH PEBBLE JEWELLERY.

This pretty jewellery is particularly appropriate for gifts to those of Scottish descent. Every piece is emblematic of Scotland, many containing the genuine Scotch pebbles, of the warm tints which contrast most effectively with the silver mounts. We guarantee safe delivery of any order amounting to $1.00 or over.

NOTE.—Articles illustrated directly above are twice the length and width of illustrations.

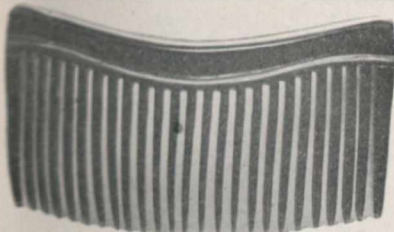

These articles are sterling-silver gilt upon which is placed hard enamel in the correct colors.

They make most appropriate remembrances for friends in the "Old Country."

FINE DESK ARTICLES IN SOLID BRASS.

The present demand for attractive desk pieces in Solid Brass has encouraged us to import a most complete assortment from the leading European makers. These pieces, which have been most carefully selected, are beautifully finished, and considering the moderate prices at which they are offered we anticipate a heavy demand. Owing to our inability to re-stock any of these pieces on short notice, we advise placing Christmas orders as early as possible to avoid any chance of disappointment.

APPROPRIATE GIFTS FOR GENTLEMEN.

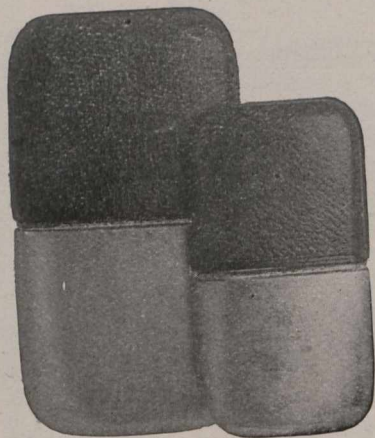

17070. Birks' Stereo Binocular, with Focusing Attachment, 6 Power . . . $35.00
This glass is most suitable for general field work, hunting, yachting, etc. On account of its lightness it is equally suitable for ladies' use.

17071. Birks' Stereo Binocular, with Focusing Attachment, 8 Power . . . $40.00
This is the most generally used glass for field purposes. The magnifying power is sufficient to enable one to see the number on a pilot boat sail as soon as it appears above the horizon.

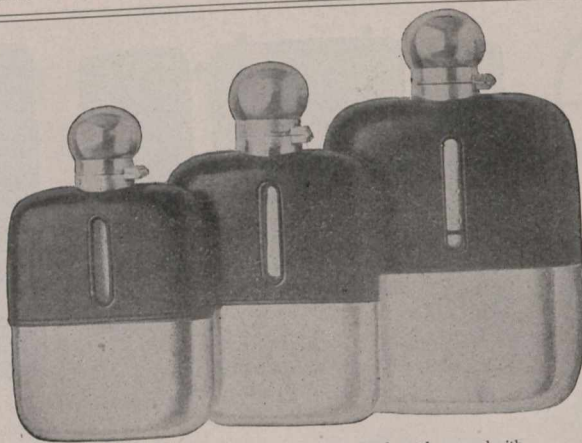

17072. Birks' Stereo Binocular, with Focusing Attachment, 10 Power . . . $47.50
This glass is superior in illumination of view to our 8-Power Glass, and is especially suited for observations where very great distances are to be covered.

These Stereo Binocular Field Glasses represent an entirely new optical principal in field glass construction. By its construction a much larger field or view is obtained in comparison with the ordinary field glass of same power, while the size and weight of glass has been reduced. These glasses are of aluminum construction, making them very light and compact. These two principal advantages make it most necessary for the military man, yachtsman, hunter or rancher.

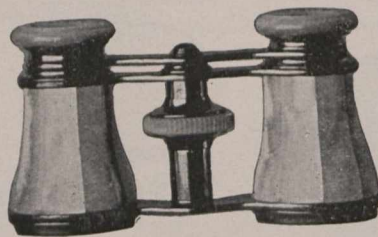

All glasses are furnished in solid leather cases with shoulder straps.
We will send any of these Glasses prepaid, upon receipt of price, to any address, with the privilege of 10 day's trial.
Money will be refunded promptly if not found to be the finest Field or Marine Glass on the market.

in every detail so lacking in much of the silver on the market.

FAMILY PATTERNS IN TABLE SILVER.

The pleasing old English custom of establishing a family pattern, to be gradually completed by adding to the collection from time to time, is again rapidly coming into favor.

The low price of Silver Bullion makes the present time a most important one for the selection of a family pattern.

The purchase of a spoon or fork from time to time soon leads to a well established set, which, when once completed, will be always in keeping with the best traditions of the many old chests of silver handed down from generation to generation as heirlooms.

DESIGNS.

The utmost care is required in the selection of a family pattern of Silver to avoid choosing a design which will in time be out of style and thus not harmonize with its surroundings. Simplicity of design, and gracefulness of outline which have been the chief characteristics of Birks' Silver, will always insure its being as much in harmony with the well appointed dinner table a generation hence as it is to-day.

WEIGHTS OF TABLE SILVER.

Much is to be avoided in the purchase of Silverware of light weight. In the manufacture of a light weight spoon or fork, strength and durability must be sacrificed. Birks' Silver is made only in weights which will guarantee strength, and where the lasting qualities are unquestioned.

With a corps of skilled artists to design and execute their work, the facilities of Henry Birks & Sons for the production of finely Hand-Wrought Silver are possessed by no other concern in the country.

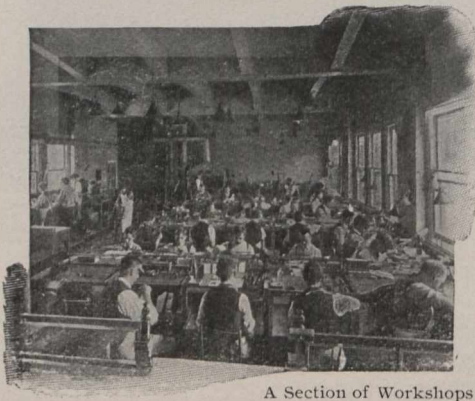

From the melting pot to the finished article every facility for the modern manufacture of sterling silverware is used to the best advantage.

From the dainty dish to the elaborate bowl the same care of execution is given which has long made their work distinctive in character.

Each article has that fine finish

NEW QUEEN'S PATTERN

We desire to call special attention to this pattern of solid silver flatware, in which the designer has followed the precise lines of the King's Pattern, but enriched the ornamentation by much deeper cutting. It surpasses in beauty of form, strength and dignity of ornament any design of similar character now before the public, and is yet sufficiently conventional to appeal to those who appreciate a rich family pattern of such robust character that it will always be in fashion. Owing to the depth of the ornamentation it can only be made in very heavy weights.

KING'S PATTERN.

Although an old pattern, the King's is one which will always be a favorite family pattern for those desiring an ornamental design. Owing to the ornamentation being of less depth than our New Queen's it may be procured in our medium weights as well as extra heavy. By manufacturing this pattern in our own workshops, we are able to offer it at exceedingly low prices, considering the weights furnished.

NOTE.—This pattern is called New Queen's by some dealers, but should not be confused with Henry Birks & Sons' "New Queen's."

THE "GADROON" PATTERN.

The ornamentation on this pattern came into vogue among the English silversmiths during the reign of the First George, and the refined simplicity of the "Gadroon" border has made it a favorite for nearly two hundred years. Our "Gadroon" is beautifully finished and is a superb production of the die-sinker's art. Owing to the high character of its design, we believe it will be as much in favor a generation hence as it is to-day.

THE BEAD PATTERN.

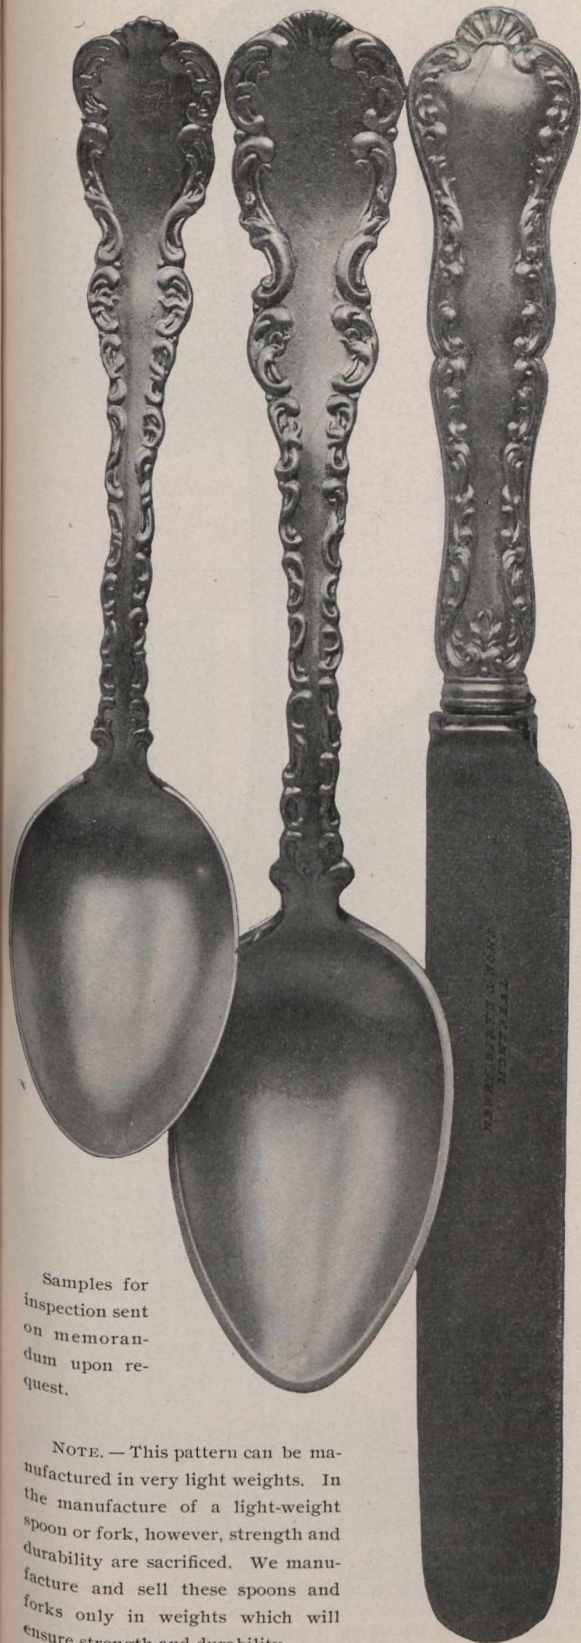

Simplicity of design and graceful outline are the characteristics of this pattern of silver spoons and forks. The bead is sufficient decoration to relieve severe plainness and the whole effect suggests dignity and refinement. It is the perfect embodiment of the ideal we aim at in all our spoon patterns, namely a design so simple and strong that it will be considered a family pattern worthy of handing down for generations.

LOUIS XV. PATTERN.

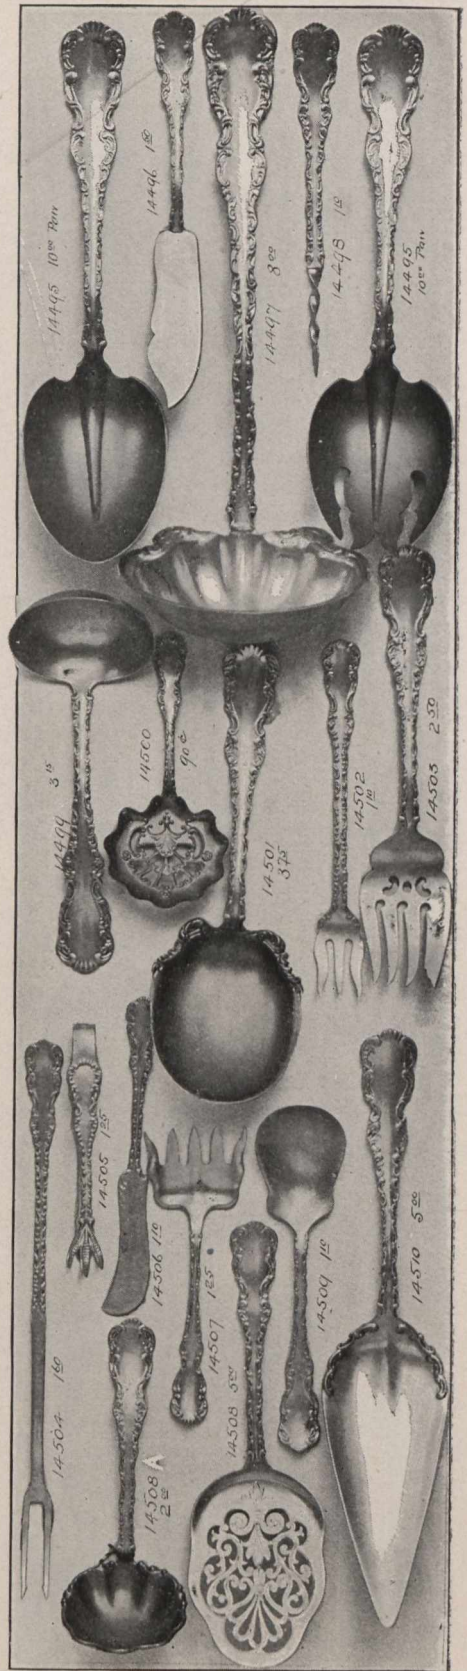

This is undoubtedly the most popular moderate-priced silver pattern upon the market. In the designing of our Louis XV., we have improved the shank of the handle, giving added strength to the article where most needed. It necessitates additional weight to the article, but amply justifies any slight additional cost by its superior strength and durability.

NOTE. — This pattern can be manufactured in very light weights. In the manufacture of a light-weight spoon or fork, however, strength and durability are sacrificed. We manufacture and sell these spoons and forks only in weights which will ensure strength and durability.

We engrave one script initial free of charge on all our silverware.

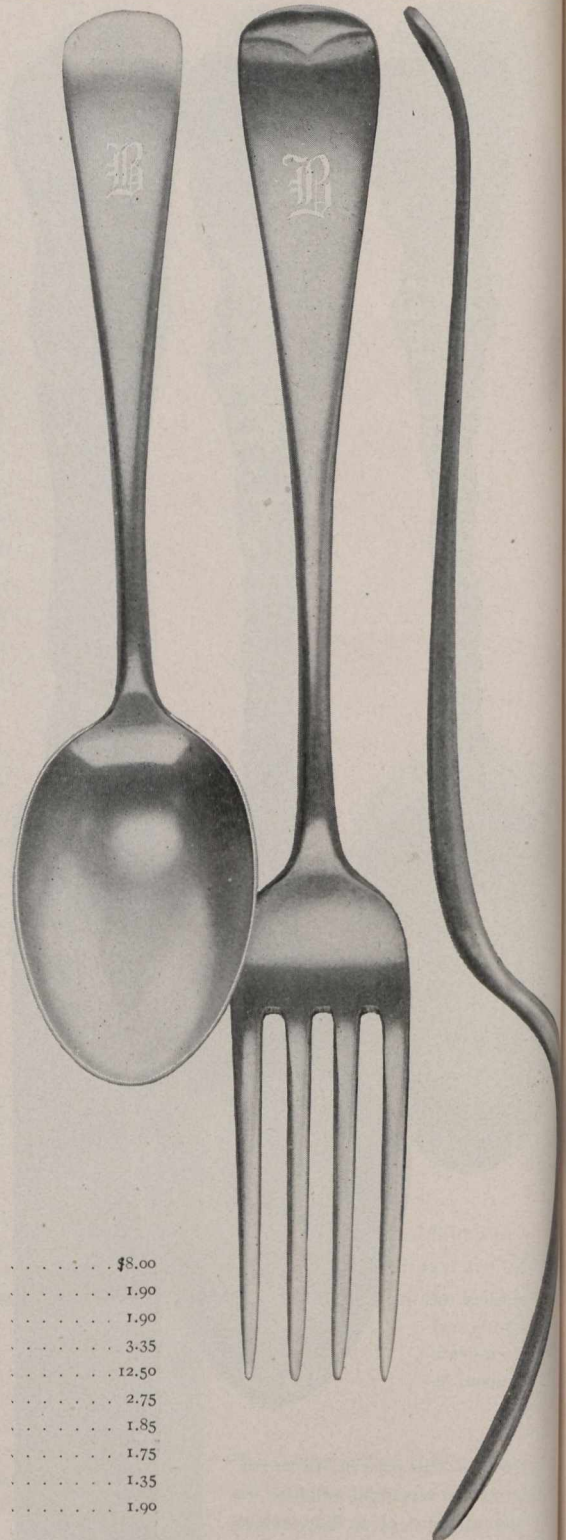

FINE STERLING SILVERWARE

AT MANUFACTURERS' PRICES.

THE "OLD ENGLISH" PATTERN.

Our "Old English" spoons and forks have that beautiful roundness to the handle seen only in the old hand-forged English silver. This is not attempted by any other American manufacturer, and, while adding considerably to the expense of making, this is fully justified by the more graceful appearance and the increased strength of the articles.

VALUES IN TABLE SILVER.

We manufacture and sell our spoons and forks entirely by weight, the prices being based upon the market value of silver bullion. Where two weights are quoted, that listed as ordinary weight will be found about equal to the heavy weight generally sold elsewhere. Samples sent on memorandum for inspection. We engrave one script initial free of charge on our silverware.

There is no steel so valuable as "double shear steel." It costs six times that of the ordinary kind, and when subjected to the process of hand-forging, it is brought to the highest state of perfection. The above cutlery is made of this perfected steel, by one of Sheffield's foremost factories.

The handles are of specially-prepared xylonite. In appearance, it is almost identical with the genuine ivory, but is superior to it, in that it will never discolor or crack. We guarantee this cutlery, and should any defects appear in the above articles, a new piece will be supplied in its place, or the purchase price will be refunded promptly. Prices include free delivery to any express office in Canada.

HENRY BIRKS & SONS' SILVERPLATED SPOONS AND FORKS.

In buying silverplated ware, the first consideration is the wearing quality. Our silverplate is made in one quality only—The best.

The whole effect of our silverplated ware is that of sterling silver. We manufacture our own plate, know its quality and appearance are the best and hold ourselves responsible for its wearing qualities.

It costs no more to the buyer than other makes.

FINEST HARD-METAL PLATED WARE.

Made and guaranteed by Henry Birks & Sons.

The difference between hard and soft-metal plated ware:—Soft-metal ware which is almost exclusively used by the best American makers, has for a basis varying qualities of Britannia metal or pewter. The basis of our soft-metal goods is of the finest white Britannia metal. The basis of our hard-metal ware is composed of the finest quality of nickel silver, remarkably hard and ringing. The plating is equally heavy on both, but on account of the superior hardness of the nickel-silver blank, hard-metal will outwear the same article made of soft-metal.

“SUPERIOR-QUALITY” SILVERPLATED WARE.

Were a cheaper quality of plate applied to the articles quoted on these pages our prices would be lower accordingly. The appearance of the article would be the same, but the wearing qualities would be sacrificed. Time only will test the wearing qualities of silverplated ware. A modern factory enables us to furnish a superior quality at prices to compete with inferior goods.

BIRKS' FINE CUT-GLASS.

Of cut-glass there are all sorts and varieties, it requiring experience and direct comparison to discriminate between them. The illustrations on this and the following page give no idea of the brilliancy, purity of color, depth of cutting or general finish of our cut-glass, which have always been the important features of cut-glass of our own manufacture. The extensive demand for our glass from coast to coast has increased our factory output over 100 per cent. In the purchase of our cut-glass we assume all risks of breakage in transit and ship all pieces prepaid to any Express Office in Canada of the Dominion or Canadian Express Companies.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS RECEIVED:

SHANGHAI, CHINA.

Thank you very much for the parcel which was duly received to-day. It is entirely satisfactory in every way, and very successful, I am delighted with the work. I was prevented through illness in acknowledging the order before. Kindly send the enclosed order as soon as possible, insuring it from Montreal.

HAMILTON, BERMUDA.

The box of silver and cutlery ordered by me was received in good time and most satisfactory condition. We were very pleased with it, and delighted with your "New Queens" pattern. The box was shown with other presents, and very much admired. I beg to thank you for the very prompt manner in which you executed the order.

WOLFFVILLE, N.S.

Many thanks for fountain pen received to-day to replace broken one. It is certainly pleasing to deal with such a reputable firm as you are.

ARROW LAKE, B.C.

I received the parcel of silver and gold articles which you kindly forwarded for my approval, and have made a selection which has proved very satisfactory, the buckles being greatly admired. I must say it is always a pleasure to deal with your firm, as excellent quality of goods, and kindly courtesy may always be anticipated. I regret the short delay in returning the goods, but as we are some distance from the Post Office, it makes delays necessary.
