Flying Raid on British Coast Made This Morning by Squad of Dozen German Aircraft; Soon Put to Flight by Defensive Guns and British Air-men—Material Damage Reported Light

London, July 4.—Enemy airplanes appeared over the Essex Coast about seven o'clock this morning, says an official communication. "Our anti-aircraft guns came into action," the announcement continues. "Some bombs were dropped. Details have not yet been received."

An official report from Essex says that German airplanes favored by weather, were able to penetrate a short distance inland. Slight damage was done. No casualties have been so far reported.

London, July 4.—From twelve to fourteen German air raiders today dropped bombs on Harwich, a seaport town in Essex, it was officially announced today. Eight persons were killed and twenty-two others were injured.

The text of the official follows: "A squadron of some twelve to fourteen enemy airplanes attacked Harwich from a northeasterly direction about 7.05 o'clock this morning. A number of bombs were dropped and the latest reports state that eight persons were killed and twenty-two injured. Only slight material damage was caused."

"Fire was opened from the anti-aircraft defenses and the enemy's formation was broken up, although the low-lying clouds rendered the visibility very bad. The raiders also were engaged by our own aircraft from a neighboring station."

"After dropping their bombs, the enemy's squadron turned seaward without attempting to penetrate inland. The whole raid only occupied a few minutes."

FURIOUS BOMBARDMENT BY RUSS ARTILLERY BEFORE ADVANCE

Severe Fighting on all Parts of Galician Front Results in Victories for Picked Troops of Russian Army

London, July 4.—The Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent describes the scene of the main fighting in the Zlotiliana region in Galicia, and says the enemy strongly held triple line of trenches on the Kincha stream, twelve miles northeast of Brzezany. The Russians with a force of artillery exceeding anything yet used on the Russian side, smashed great fields of work after two days' bombardment, and cleared the path for stormers. These were necessarily picked men.

Considerable precautions had been taken to assemble regiments of infantry upon whom more or less reliance could be placed, although units put to the test even their own officers could not pretend to know what would happen. The trial proved, whatever may be the case on the rear, that there are at the front men worthy of Russia's great name.

Southwest of Brzezany the fighting seems to have been even more severe and successful still hangs in the balance. This region is also hilly and wooded. The Germans had special redoubts which required long hammering by the artillery before an attack was possible. These defenses were held by the Germans and Turks—a combination which has always proved formidable.

Weather Bulletin Toronto, July 4.—A few scattered showers have occurred in Alberta and Saskatchewan while in the Maritime provinces light showers have been general. An area of high pressure now covers the great lakes, attended by very fine weather. Forecasts Light to moderate winds, to-day and on Thursday.

CITY TO PURCHASE FUEL AND FOOD TO GUARD AGAINST WINTER FAMINE

Bylaw Introduced at the Council Last Night Authorizing Establishment of Municipal Coal Yards and Other Undertakings - Grant of 600;00 to Great War Veterans

The City Council adjourned for the summer months last evening, the next regular meeting to be held on September 4, but as though loath to give up the ghost, the municipal fathers dragged out their session until nearly midnight, or, more precisely, until the hour of 11.40, taking advantage of every issue to stage a lengthy and often heated debate. A grant of $600.00 was made to the Great War Veterans' Association; the Coal Committee submitted a report emphasizing the gravity of the present situation, and a bylaw was introduced authorizing the city to purchase and sell fuel and food. A spirited and vituperative debate occurred on the question of the city's recent potato transactions. Aids. Mellen, MacBride and the mayor and Bragg participating, the second named defended himself against charges brought by the other two. Aid. MacBride and the Mayor clashed upon the subject of the certificates of honor being distributed to the soldiers of the city, while Aid. Jones took issue with His Worship upon a point of order relative to the fuel and food bylaw, sustaining an appeal to the council against the Mayor's ruling. Aid. Bragg made a strong demand for a report from the investigating committee, and received assurance that no delay would be brooked in the matter.

Flying Flags Observing flags still flying from the windows of the building, His Worship Mayor Dowling urged the janitor to remove them. "Dominion Day is over now," he stated. "Leave the flags flying," protested Aid. Dowling. "We should fly them all the time. If you go to the other side you will see what flag flying means."

"We don't need to let the other side rule us," retorted the mayor. "We can learn a good lesson from them in this instance," declared Aid. Dowling. "Over there they know what the flag means." "We know what the flag means here," insisted His Worship. "Not all of us," retorted Aid. Dowling. "Our foreigners do not know what the Union Jack means. On the other side, everyone knows and respects the Stars and Stripes. The flags remained flying. The council was only half an hour late in starting, commencing its session at eight o'clock. The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read and approved. The customary time lists and reports, together with a number of other communications were read. Petitions The butchers of the city, occupying meat stalls upon the market petitioned for the use of these stalls for the entire day, in place of being compelled to close at 1 p.m., as is now the case. The matter was referred to the Buildings and Grounds committee. Residents of Wilkes Street petitioned for the construction of a concrete walk upon that thoroughfare, the matter being referred to the Board of Works. Plumbing Aid. Jones moved that the City Engineer and the Medical Health Officer be appointed to prepare a by-law providing for the inspection of all sanitary plumbing, representatives from the plumbers of the city to confer with the city officials upon the matter. The question was referred to the Board of Works. War Veterans Aid. McBride, seconded by Aid. Jones, moved that a grant of $600 be made to the Great War Veterans' Association, of this city. Capt. Jenkins addressed the council upon the subject, outlining the nature of the organization which he represented, and the nature of the appeal which they made for a home for returned soldiers. Upon the grounds of gratitude which all should feel for Canada's returned soldiers, as well as upon that of justice, Capt. Jenkins asked for the grant which Aid. MacBride had moved. Admitted that the onus of caring for the returned men rested with the Government, the speaker appealed to the public at large through the council, and explained the desire of all returned soldiers for a centre of unity, essential to all organizations or orders. Capt. Cornelius supported the plea of Capt. Jenkins, asking the sum of $600 to be devoted toward the salary of a paid secretary for the returned soldiers' home. He emphasized the value of the personal welcome for returned men. Aid. MacBride, in support of his motion, referring to the deplorable mental influences which might be caused by the establishment of such a home for returned soldiers. Aid. Jones said the sum requested a very small one, expressing the wish of all that the returned soldier should be received as his needs required. Aid. Bragg declared himself dissatisfied with the intention of the association toward the money to be granted, asking for more definite information upon the subject. Aid. MacBride expressed willingness to amend his motion to provide for the (Continued on page four)

"Price of Gas" Consumes Time of Council
On opening last night's session of the town council, Mayor Williamson, introduced Mr. F. R. Slaght, who presented an overwhelming petition of citizens of Simcoe requesting the council to raise the rates for gas 5 cents per thousand feet, as desired by the Dominion Natural Gas Co. in view of the great cost to the company of digging wells in the Lynedoch fields and running a pipe line from Simcoe. It was ten o'clock when the spokesman got through. There was no disposition on the part of the council to stand by the old rate, but some members questioned the power of the town fathers to alter the franchise without the consent of the citizens, and others desired to make sure that the gas was not delivered outside the bounds of the county. The old agreement fixes the price of 25 cents per thousand feet for industrial, and 30 cents for domestic purposes, with an annual metre rent of $1.20 for domestic service.

Mr. Stringer, manager of the company's local interests, had set forth the attitude of the company as opposed to incurring the expense at present cost of material and labor, if the old rates were to prevail. From the town's standpoint, it was a question of raise the price or have a repetition of last winter's service and council, by resolution, expressed intention to comply with the request of the petitioners, providing it is within their power to do so. Town Solicitor H. P. Innes, K.C., will be requested to prepare a new wording of the tariff clause of the 1905 franchise agreement, for submission to council on Friday evening in case he considers the alteration within the power of the council.

Of a moderate batch of accounts, the finance committee requested the council to consider five in committee of the whole.

Mrs. I. McInally's account for carrying for the unfortunate Francis Massie, a stranger, who was run down by a G. T. R. train in Woodhouse Township and dumped into Simcoe by the train crew, ($47.47), was referred to the solicitor for an opinion as to liability.

R. E. Guntton's account for fees as Magistrate in the Lafortune case, passed, but an item of 65 cents for stationery, without his worship's order or a voucher, was sent back.

E. E. Collins' account for $4 for reporting fires to provincial headquarters, was ordered to be paid to Geo. Luscombe, as Collins is not recognized as a member of the council.

Leo's Co., Limited, account for $84 for heating road oil in storage tank, was referred back for detail. The Grand Trunk Railway account for $15 demurrage on a car of broken stone, was passed after the chairman of the committee had pointed out that regular procedure in future would prevent such costs.

Chief Geo. Luscombe Resigns.
Chairman Jacques of the Fire and Light Committee reported the resignation of Chief Luscombe of the Fire Brigade, the striking of Supt. Fildia by his own report, and the retiring of E. E. Collins without superannuation. The latter is out of town considerably during the summer, but has for many years, discharged his duties in general care of the apparatus.

The retiring chief's resignation was accepted, at his own request, and acknowledging his valuable and efficient services for more than a generation, and appointing him Honourary Chief with the continuance of the firemen's phone. The report mentioned Wyatt Wadelle, Jack Laplante and Elmer Ramey as new members of the brigade. Ramey at least has served ex-officio for years and has been one of the first on hand.

The required pay sheet was not to hand, but the Mayor was authorized to issue the pay to the men, and the fire-marshall reminded that the statement should be forthcoming to prevent delay in the matter of distributing pay.

On the whole, Chairman Jacques seems to have effected a re-organization of the fire brigade, tactfully and successfully. Now the Simcoe Shoe and Glove Co. Manager Whitely advised council that the above is the adopted name of the former Unique Shoe Company.

Met Their Financial Obligation
The company's cheque for $1673.58 being the first instalment on the return of the town's loan to the company, due on June 1st, was reported received by the treasurer, with admission that the date of payment had been overlooked.

Charity Funds to Hand
The clerk reported that some $365 had been received from the W. P. Innes charity endowment fund and about $167 from the railway tax fund.

factory enforcement of the traffic by-law was also referred to members, claiming that the final duty of the collector was to summon chief and persistent offenders.

Five hundred dollars was placed to the credit of the Board of Works. Chairman Langford regretted his inability to present the departments with a statement of expenditures during the first half year. He observed that for the third time during the year, council was in session without proper statements before the members, such as a monthly audit would provide. Much of the work demanded of the treasurer was foreign to his duty and the speaker hoped that council will presently agree to provide for a monthly audit.

The procedure recommended, was in vogue elsewhere, and would save money in the long run. "The present hasty checking of accounts in January he claimed, was not an audit and those employed for the work themselves admit it.

After some discussion, introduced by His Worshipship, it was decided to hold a court of revision on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, to hear appeals against the poll tax assessment. It is generally admitted that there are a few instances of errors, not due to the collector, but to insufficient information.

By motion, the clerk was instructed to request the engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the Met-calf St. sidewalk, and the Mayor was authorized to advertise for tenders for the same. No mention was made of including other street crossings in the contract.

A hydrant chart of the town will be provided to replace the one lost from the fire hall.

Mayor Williamson reported his response to a short notice call to Galt to the conference re. ferry service from Port Dover, and was authorized to consider himself a delegate to represent Simcoe should a delegation be formed to go to Ottawa with the met-calf.

The petition of Chas. Slaght and others in the North ward, to have a tree on the Ryckman property removed by the town, was read and laid away.

PRETTY LINEN DRESS
This dress is carried out in a novel shade of pink lined with white. Pockets play a prominent role in the scheme, a detail that is well emphasized in the sketch, the coat furthermore, being planned with a long becoming pocket at the back that resolves into a box-plant on either side. THE SITUATION

Russian renewed activity continues. They have taken many more Teuton prisoners in Galicia and the total since Sunday is nearly 20,000. Their advance has been so rapid that the Austro-Germans are evacuating Brzezany, fifty miles South East of Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, and the place is described as a most important strategic centre at a congress of soldiers, workmen and peasant delegates held in Petrograd, it was decided to send fraternal greetings to the army and to appeal for aid to the soldiers on their resumed offensive. War Minister Kerensky is maintaining an active direction of affairs and has cancelled all leave of absence to soldiers. It is significant that the recent successes have created great evidences of enthusiasm among all classes.

A third contingent of U. S. troops has arrived in France. It is announced that two attacks were made by submarines on the way across but with no success, the American war ship convoys sinking one and probably both of the "U" boats. Figures also show that the scare with regard to the undersea craft has become so mitigated as far as our neighbors are concerned, that traffic in and out of New York ports last week showed a big increase. With regard to still greater safety the statement is made that Japan may send a fleet to the Atlantic.

At Athens, after marching past Premier Venizelos, the officers and troops took an oath of fidelity.

AFFAIRS AT OTTAWA.

The rumor is current at Ottawa that Premier Borden has in contemplation a union government, including Liberals who are in favor of conscription, and representatives of organized labor and the grain growers.

Some such plan as that outlined, would certainly find favor with a large section of the general public.

The fact that Laurier refused to join hands on a union basis should certainly prove no bar to those of his followers who are opposed to his referendum scheme.

use of the sum on payment of a secretary's salary.

Ald. English considered that the Great War Veterans could be trusted to administer the money granted judiciously, and that the 1918 council would be willing to continue any support temporarily given by this year's board.

As chairman of the local branch of the soldiers' Aid Commission, Ald. Dowling, long active in caring for the returned soldiers, declared himself in sympathy with the needs of this class; as chairman of the finance committee of the council, he felt the necessity of further discussion and conference before the grant was made. He moved, accordingly, that the finance committee, together with the chairman of the other standing committees, be appointed a committee to confer with representatives of the G. W. V. A., and to make a grant up to the sum of $500.

Ald. Jones, speaking upon Ald. Dowling's amendment, protested against haggling and hair splitting in a matter where a trival sum was involved. He still favored the original motion opposing any delay in making the grant.

Ald. Dowling took exception to Ald. Jones' charge that the matter was being either haggled with or shrewdly considered in one of great importance, and meriting the consideration of the special committee named.

Ald. MacBride championed the cause of the returned soldiers and their right to establish a home if so desired, protesting against such quibbling in the matter.

Ald. Kelly considered the council could trust with $600 the men who they have trusted to fight the nation's battles in France.

Capt. H. Boyd addressed the council briefly, requesting action as promptly as possible, that no time might be lost in establishing the home.

Ald. Secord considered the project one along the right line, and queried the need of any further delay in the making of the grant.

Ald. Dowling and Wiley agreed to withdraw the amendment they had moved, and recorded, and Ald. MacBride's motion for the grant of $600 was carried.

Coal Question.
The special coal committee reported as follows:—
To the Mayor and Aldermen, of the city of Brantford,
Your Committee on coal, beg leave to report as follows:—

First—That we have conducted enquiries as to the coal situation, and find that there is the gravest danger of a shortage, particularly of anthracite coal, not only in Brantford, but throughout the whole of Canada. The responsibility for this condition seems to rest more particularly on the railroads, through the lack of sufficient facilities for transportation.

Second—Your Committee have made every possible effort to purchase coal, but regret that the operators and jobbers do not show a disposition to sell to municipalities, many of the large companies claiming they have no stock on hand. This, we find from conversation with local dealers, to be substantially correct. In this connection, it is only just to say that the local merchants are doing all possible to meet the demand, and are in no way responsible for either the shortage or the high prices. So far as your Committee have been able to ascertain, in no case has more than a legitimate profit been charged.

Third—Your committee were in attendance at Galt, where a gathering representative of a number of Western Ontario Municipalities passed resolutions urging upon the Government prompt action on the following phases of the situation:—
"A" Action in conjunction with the Washington government for a fixed price at the mine.

"B" To ascertain the quantity of coal available.
"C"—To provide facilities for an equitable distribution to all communities.

Your Committee ask the assistance of the Railway Committee in their efforts to have Port Dover opened up as a port for receiving coal from Pennsylvania points, as we believe this is the solution of future coal difficulties so far as Brantford is concerned.

Your Committee further recommend the passing of a By-law at this meeting empowering the Municipality to purchase coal and other necessities as it is important that the Committee should be vested with the power to make purchases if an opportunity is afforded.

Since our meeting in Galt, we observe that the Washington Government have set a fixed price on soft coal at the mine, and your Committee are urging our Government to have the same measure apply to Canada, both as regards Bituminous and Anthracite coal.

Your Committee also recommend that this Council request the local coal dealers to make as equitable a distribution of coal they are now receiving as possible, as we believe the difficulty will be overcome as soon as the machinery of the fuel department recently established under Mr. McGrath gets in operation. The co-operation of all citizens is asked in this connection.

The Railway Committee, in response to a communication from the City Council, has agreed to the proposed association, concurred in the view that government aid to the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific should cease.

Pith of Potato Problem.
Ald. Mellen inquired whether a report was yet ready upon the city's recent potato transactions.

Ald. MacBride, chairman of the committee in charge of the matter, replied with some heat, declaring his hands more than full at the present time, and charging that if Ald. Mellen had taken the position first offered him, he might appreciate the difficulties of the position. He promised a report in due time.

Ald. Mellen charged that rumors had arisen as to shortage in the finances of the transaction, and that Ald. MacBride challenged Ald. Mellen or any other member of the council to substantiate any charges against the potato committee.

Ald. Bragg, as a member of the committee, admitted that at the present time there was a shortage in the account. Ald. MacBride replied, guaranteeing that when the report was submitted no shortage would exist, and declaring that the matter of the potato committee was not to be discussed.

Ald. Dowling took exception to Ald. Jones' charge that the matter was being either haggled with or shrewdly considered in one of great importance, and meriting the consideration of the special committee named.

Ald. MacBride championed the cause of the returned soldiers and their right to establish a home if so desired, protesting against such quibbling in the matter.

Ald. Kelly considered the council could trust with $600 the men who they have trusted to fight the nation's battles in France.

Capt. H. Boyd addressed the council briefly, requesting action as promptly as possible, that no time might be lost in establishing the home.

Ald. Secord considered the project one along the right line, and queried the need of any further delay in the making of the grant.

should be laid over until the report was duly forthcoming. He stated that every cent received for the civic potatoes was paid through the market clerk, who alone was accountable of any shortage which might exist.

"And now," declared Ald. MacBride, "when the matter has been so far opened, I shall go into it further."

"You had better wait," cautioned Mayor Bowly.

"I shall not wait," declared Ald. MacBride, who went on to submit evidence that his express orders that no potatoes should change hands until the money was paid, had been disobeyed by the market clerk. He cited a purchase by Ald. Bragg, without payment until two days later, as an instance. This Ald. Bragg denied, stating that he had paid by cheque for the potatoes which he had bought.

The atmosphere was tense and further fireworks might exist, when Mayor Bowly intervened and put an end to the discussion.

Assessment Clerk.
A by-law introduced by Ald. Dowling, was passed providing for the water and lighting of Sheridan from Bruce to Rawdon streets, and Huron from Erie to Port streets.

Ald. English introduced a by-law authorizing the purchase and sale by the municipality of food and fuel. The Mayor declared himself opposed to the principle of the measure, calling for the yeas and nays and declaring himself for the latter. Upon a request by Ald. Jones, he refused to allow the latter to speak.

"I protest against your ruling," declared Ald. Jones. "I appeal to the council against the ruling of the chair, for I have a right to be heard, and will speak, whether you refuse to hear me or not."

Mayor Bowly denied the right to Ald. Jones to speak after a call for the yeas and nays. Ald. Jones challenged the privilege of cutting off discussion by a call for the yeas and nays.

Ald. MacBride supported the demands of Ald. Jones for further information upon the by-law, as did also Ald. Jones. Put to a vote, Ald. Jones' appeal against the ruling of the Mayor carried by a vote of 15 to 1. Ald. Jones then inquired whether the by-law had been before the city solicitor for his opinion upon its principle.

Ald. MacBride replied that the by-law was introduced and he prepared by the city solicitor, to enable the city to establish a fuel yard and to deal in real foodstuffs as necessary, and legal subject to approval by the Ontario Municipal and Board of the city.

ant Governor and Legislative Council.
Ald. MacBride also warned the council of the gravity of the present situation and of the charges of a fuel and food famine next winter.

Ald. Bragg, doubting the success of such an undertaking, declared himself opposed to the by-law.

Ald. English explained the desire of the coal committee, responsible for the introduction of the by-law, to secure coal as cheaply as possible for private consumers in the city.

Ald. Dowling pointed out that two readings only were to be given the by-law at that session, and that the council was thus safe-guarded against hasty action by having the matter come again before it.

Ald. Kelly inquired whether the action taken was in co-operation with the Board of Trade to obtain coal. Ald. MacBride replied that this was not the case. A vote for the second reading of the by-law showed the Mayor and Ald. Bragg and Mellen in opposition.

Plumbing By-Law.
Ald. English introduced a by-law providing for plumbing inspection.

Ald. Wiley moved that the by-law be laid over.

T. Harry Jones, City Engineer, addressed the council briefly, explaining the purpose of the by-law, which had been for a long time under contemplation by himself, and the medical health officer and plumbers of the city.

Manufacturers' Committee.
Ald. MacBride inquired as to the activities of the manufacturers' committee, desiring to know what had been accomplished by it during its six months of existence. Ald. Mellen replied, giving assurance that his committee was active when any opportunities appeared for the location of new industries here.

Soldiers' Certificates.
Ald. MacBride inquired as to the progress made in the distribution of BUILDING PERMITS.

Forty-seven building permits were issued during the month of June for a total value of $21,495, a decrease of $240 as compared with the corresponding month of 1916.

MARKET OILED.

"Kindly Wipe Your Feet" was the request that confronted the eye of the visitor to the city hall today. This was rendered necessary owing to the oiling of the market square early this morning.

BOWLING CONTEST.

In the County tournament the Harris trophy was won by Gardner's rink, Paris, and the Telephone City trophy by Dr. Burnett's rink, St. George. Bert Inglis' rink won the consolation.

NEW DESKMAN.

Mr. Frank Ward commenced his duties as deskman and patrol driver at the police station this morning. There are still two vacancies on the force and Chief Slemis is open to receive applications.

PROPERTY TRANSFERS.

There were sixty-four property transfers during the month of June in the city. This is a great increase over June, 1916, when 38 conveyances of property were recorded.

SOLDIERS RETURNED.

Five of the 8 returned soldiers who were expected to arrive home yesterday came in during the afternoon and were accorded hearty civic receptions. On the 3:52 G. T. R. train from Toronto, representatives of the Soldiers' Aid Commission greeted Privates Thomson, Humber and Hawkins, and addresses of welcome were delivered in the waiting room by Ald. Dowling and MacFady. Privates Ballenger and Childs arrived on the T. H. and B. 4:36 train, and were received by the same committee, the addresses being made by Messrs. J. H. Spence and Chris Cook. No further word has been received concerning the other three who were expected.

POLICE COURT.

Magistrate Livingston was of the opinion that Ellis Young, the victim of the stabbing affray, that occurred on Saturday at the noon hour, was equally culpable with his assailant, George Colla, an Italian, and therefore dismissed the charge against the latter in the police court today. Joseph Ferguson who it is alleged, stole a bicycle from Alex. Lovell, will appear again on Friday. Frank Glue, who is accused of assaulting and causing bodily harm to William Holloway, was remanded until Monday. Charges against J. T. Sloan and Harold Miller, for breach of the Motor Vehicles Act, were dismissed as the latter agreed to secure a chauffeur's license. Mike Zanovy, a foreigner, who entered a house recently and annoyed the occupants, causing a disturbance, was warned, and ordered to pay the interpreter's fee of two dollars.

SEARCH FOR BODIES.

It has now been practically decided that the bodies of neither of the victims of the drowning accident on the holiday are located near where they were seen by witnesses to last disappear. The water in the river has now considerably lowered and for two hours last night and from half past five for about an hour and a half this morning, the firemen worked earnestly, dragging the stream thoroughly. Last evening the grappling irons that were lost on the holiday, were recovered, caught on the willows, on the small island near which the one man was last seen. The water was so shallow this morning that in many places the lifeboat had to be dragged over the gravel, and the firemen are now conclusively satisfied that the bodies are not in that vicinity. Efforts to recover them were resumed this afternoon.

MAJOR SMITH

Has Been Recalled to His Duties as Indian Superintendent

It is with much regret that Major Smith of the Canadian Mounted Rifles has had to withdraw. He has given nearly two years of valuable service in that capacity. The following letter explains matters:—
Office of the Deputy Superintendent General,
Ottawa, June 25th, 1917.

Dear Major Smith,—
I have to inform you that I find it advisable to ask the military authorities to relieve you of your duties in the army in order that you may return to your position as Indian Superintendent of the Six Nations. You will remember that it was with reluctance that I recommended your application to join the forces, and the Department has made every effort to carry on the important work of the Six Nations Confederacy without your assistance, and without incurring additional expense, but the experiment has not proved successful, as your absence has been continuously felt. I was, therefore, compelled to ask the Department of Militia and Defence to authorize your release from military duty. I regret that it was found necessary to take this step, as I am well aware that you are desirous of proceeding overseas and that it will be difficult to fill your place with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, but as my first consideration is for this Department, I did not find it possible to take any other course.

Yours very truly,
DUNCAN C. SCOTT,
Deputy Superintendent General,
Major Gordon J. Smith, C.M.R.,
Hamilton, Ont.

Loss of Vitality is loss of the principle of life, and is early indicated by failing appetite and diminishing strength and endurance. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitality—it acts on all the organs and functions, and builds up the whole system.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heel footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.

VEGETARIANS HARD HIT
Stockholm, Sweden, July 4.—The rationing of bread, oatmeal, rice, broats, flour, etc., which was based on the average necessities of omnivorous inhabitants, has been a hard blow to the vegetarians, of whom there is a relatively great number in Sweden. The scarcity of potatoes, milk and butter has contributed to render their lot still harder. At least one of Stockholm's many vegetarian boarding houses has had to go out of business, and the others are having a hard time to struggle through.

(From Tuesday's Daily.) SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Jimmie Hallett, a young American, is wandering in a London fog, when a girl running by suddenly thrusts a bundle of papers in his hand, and, bidding him run, dashes off; a moment later a man rushes by in pursuit. The bundle proves to contain a number of cancelled checks, drawn by one J. E. Greye-Stratton. Hallett goes to the address given, where he is received by a man who says he is a doctor, but who, as soon as Jimmie enters, knocks him senseless. When Hallett awakes, he finds himself alone with the body of a murdered man. Though weak, he gets to the phone and calls up Weir Menzies, chief detective-in-charge, of Scotland Yard, to whom he has an unprinted letter of introduction. Menzies finds that the dead man is Greye-Stratton himself, and that the bundle of checks has been stolen from Jimmie. He learns also that Greye-Stratton has a daughter who has lived always abroad, and a stepson, James Errol, a man of shady reputation, of whom suspicion falls. The next day the daughter calls on Menzies; Hallett recognizes her as the girl who gave him the package, but for a reason not clear to himself, pretends she is a stranger. The trail now crosses that of a gang of notorious international crooks, led by a man named Ling and a clever woman crook, Gwennie Lyne. Menzies discovers a wedding certificate proving the marriage of Peggy Greye-Stratton to Ling. Jimmie's faith in her is not shaken. She takes him to a lodging in the slums where her brother lies badly wounded, and explains that the marriage is one of form only, and part of a blackmail scheme. While they are talking, the door suddenly opens and Ling appears. Menzies, by searching Hallett's clothing, finds Peggy's address and surrounds the house in an attempt to capture Ling and Gwennie. The police have forced an entrance and are hot on the trail when there is an explosion, a smell of gasoline, and the whole stairway bursts into flame.

CHAPTER XXV.

Exit Errol.

The girl shrunk back before the bed as though to instinctively protect the man lying there. Her eyes were fixed in a kind of fascinated terror on the man's face. But it was not the face that terrified her. When last they met he had been in league with the police.

"Go away," she shrieked. "You shan't touch him."

"They have set the place ablaze," he repeated. "We are trapped." It was the only thought in his mind.

The doctor was the only one who seemed unmoved either by the fire or by the man's dramatic appearance.

"Don't be a mad fool Cincinnati," he said quite quietly. "Here, stand aside and let's have a look."

He pushed Cincinnati away and glanced through the open doorway. The smell of burning petrol was wafted upwards, and the first burst of flame had given way to clouds of choking, dense smoke through which he could dimly perceive many colored flames devouring the woodwork of the stairs.

The incendiaries had done their work well. The whole bottom floor had been set alight as if by magic, and the dry, rotten flooring was blazing like tinder. Although it had only been a matter of a few seconds since Cincinnati Red had raised the first alarm it was already plainly impossible to reach the street by the stairs.

The doctor closed the door quickly and stepped back, removing his spectacles as he did so.

"The powder will be annoyed about this," he commented. "It's a good move. They'll have a fine chance to get away in the confusion."

The terror in Peggy Greye-Stratton's eyes deepened and her fingers clenched her fists.

"You are not the doctor!" she cried, in a strained voice. "Are you—detectives?"

"I am a police officer," admitted the frock-coated man. "My name's from the fire here is not. But don't worry, miss. We're not going to hurt you. Here, you, Cincinnati. Come along into the front room. We'll have to get down through the window. Someone in the street will surely have had the gumption to get a ladder. Now, don't you get setting frightened, miss. We'll have you out of this in two shakes."

The man and he passed into the front room. Peggy sank into a chair and buried her face in her arms. Realization of the peril she was in, the instant dread for her brother, which the unexpected advent of Cincinnati Red and the calm confession of identity made by the disguised detective had aroused. Their presence had only one meaning for her.

The sick man raised himself on one elbow. "Peggy," he whispered. "His eyes were shining with an unnatural light, but his voice was quite normal."

"Yes?" she said.

"It's all up, old girl; I've been awake for the last five minutes. That was a detective, wasn't it, and the house is afire. Well, I'll take my medicine. I've been a rotter and a waster, but it's up to me now to do the first decent thing by you I've ever done. You get along. I'll look after myself."

She laid a hand soothingly on his shoulder and held herself under stern control. "You've been dreaming, boy," she said with a smile. "Lay down. Everything's all right."

She resisted the soft pressure and pointed to the wreaths of smoke now curling lazily under the door. "That ain't much of a dream, Peggy. Better go. I know what I've got to do, and you'll only be in the way."

Congreve poked his head into the room. "Now then, miss, here's a ladder. You first and then we'll see to your brother."

She held back. "I'll not let you arrest him."

"We'll see about that after we've got you both out," said Congreve gently. "Now come along like a good lass and don't argue."

"No," she retorted, with set face. It was mere madness, but she was past logical reasoning. Even the genial Congreve almost lost his temper. He started forward, but before he reached her Errol had risen from the bed. His face was gray and drawn with pain, and those unnaturally bright eyes shone fiercely out of their sunken pits.

"Do as the man tells you," he said, and added an oath. Excitement seemed to have lent him strength. With a quick movement he lifted her bodily and staggered with her toward Congreve. "Take her," he said curtly.

In her brother's hands she had been almost passive, but as she passed to Congreve she struggled like a wild thing. It was all that the detective, who was a man of no mean physical strength, could do to hold her. He had to call Cincinnati Red to his aid before he could get her across the outside room to the window.

"Steady, miss," he said soothingly. "You don't want to be burnt alive, do you?"

She paid no heed to his expostulations. All her efforts were concentrated on the one purpose—to free herself and stand between her brother and the danger of arrest. What exactly she could do she had but the vaguest notion. She saw nothing except that all she had done and suffered during the last few days had been for nothing. The inevitable end had come.

A low cry went up from the crowd that had already assembled outside the burning house as they appeared at the window. The first engines were dashing up. The two men placed her down for an instant and she made one final effort to break away.

SIDE TALKS

THE PEAC EMAKER.

She's not an awfully pretty woman and she's not particularly clever, and yet everyone loves to have her about,—men and women alike.

And the reason is just this,—she's a peacemaker.

Her voice is well pitched and has a pleasantness and a restfulness threaded through it.

If you are fretting over something and she begins to speak, even before you sense what she is saying, the tones relax you and make you feel that very likely things are coming out all right, and that, anyhow, fretting is foolish.

And of course the lines of her face all slant up and she's comfortably plump.

But, She Isn't A Professional Optimist.

I never see or hear her speak without having the words, "Oh heart of mine, I wouldn't worry so" come into the back of my mind.

And yet she is not one of these exasperating professional optimists who are always telling you not to worry and reminding you how much better off you are than someone who is miserably off.

In fact I never heard her tell anyone not to worry or fret.

She just enters into a situation and says the tactful, the kindly, the gracious thing, in that pleasant restful way of hers, and makes you feel you needn't worry.

One of Those Disagreeable Players

The first time I met her we were playing cards at a charity bridge. My partner was one of those clever disagreeable players who rag their partners if they don't play just so. Our opponent made it no trumps and won the game. My partner glared at me through his tortoise rimmed glasses. "We would have beat them," he said. "If you had signalled me by discarding from your strongest suit the first time you had to discard, I didn't know, and I felt like a small child who had been stood on the floor in school."

So you can imagine what healing it was to my spirit when the peacemaker said so pleasantly that not even he of the accusing tortoise rimmed eyes could take offence. "Well, you know some people think it weakens your strongest suit to discard from it."

Not A Showy Talent But A Livable One

"She's always like that," one of her old friends told me when I mentioned the incident.

And I have found it true.

Its not a showy talent, this "flair" for making things go more smoothly, but it's certainly an awfully lovable and livable one.

We need more people like that.

I used, to wonder a bit why the Peacemakers in the Beautitudes were to receive one of the highest rewards. I began to understand.

"Of all the silly women," muttered Cincinnati irritably.

The window was open and a head now appeared at it. Peggy felt herself abruptly swung off her feet again, and almost before she was aware of it she was in the street, and half a dozen men were moving her swiftly away. Cincinnati had followed her down the ladder, and he gave a great breath of relief as he found himself once more in the open air.

Congreve had returned to the door of the inner room, which had swung to. He tried to push it open with his foot, but to his surprise it resisted the pressure. "Here you Errol," he shouted. "Come on. It's your turn. Open the door. It's caught."

The noise that replied was muffled, but it had a note of determination. "It's not caught. Look after yourself! Mr. Policeman. I'm going to take my chance. You don't lay your hands on me."

The burly figure of Menzies squirmed its way through the window and a couple of helmeted firemen followed. "Hullo, Congreve," he said, casually. "Here's a fine old mess. What's wrong?"

His subordinate jerked a thumb toward the door. "Errol in there. He said shortly, "Door locked. He won't come out."

The chief inspector raised his boot and smashed with the heel against the panels. A mocking laugh came from the interior. "Don't do that again," said Errol. "I've an eight shot automatic here. Don't you run away with the delusion that you're going to take me."

"The deuce you have, laddie," muttered Menzies. "Here," he wheeled on one of the firemen. "Lend me your ax. Pass the word to your people to send up a length of hose. Congreve, you get out this."

He struck with the ax at one of the panels, and as the wood smashed and splintered the thudding report of an automatic answered, and an irregular hole showed a few inches from where he had hit. He moved quickly back out of the line of fire.

"He means business, sir," said Congreve, who, for once, had disobeyed an order. "You'll never be able to make a hole to turn the hose on him. We can't save him if he won't be saved."

Good Night Stories

THE BRASS BOWL

David and his mother lived alone. David cut wood for the villagers, while his mother made beautiful lacings and sold them to the housewives. In this way they were able to keep a little brass bowl that stood on a shelf filled with pennies. This bowl was the only thing of value they possessed and his mother had refused a good sum for it because she loved it so. Now it was turned into a bank.

"We'll never be without food so long as we have the bowl, for we'll keep it filled," said his mother, and so they did until one day a tree fell across David's leg and he could no longer work.

Day after day David sat in his chair in the sunshine whistling and singing so Mother wouldn't worry.

"I wouldn't mind if I had something to do to help mother. Her burden is heavy," David said to a stranger who had stopped to chat.

"Can you whittle? Why not carve toys out of wood?" he suggested, David's face brightened.

"That would be great," he cried, "but I have no knife."

The stranger pulled out a big jack-knife from his pocket and began to chip off a stick that he picked up.

"That's a splendid knife. What will you take for it?" asked David, then he frowned. He had no money, and his mother was having a hard time to make enough to keep them in food, so he said:

"That's a foolish question. I have no money to buy even if you'd sell it."

The stranger saw the brass bowl and picked it up.

"Suppose we exchange this for the knife?" he said.

David shook his head. "That's Mother's. As well as I'd love to have that knife I couldn't part with the bowl. Maybe something else."

The stranger handed the bowl tenderly.

"It is worth money any time you care to sell it," he said and went away.

When David's Mother returned he told her of the stranger's visit. "All he wanted was your brass bowl, but I couldn't take the knife and give up the bowl," said David as his mother wheeled him to his bedside.

When he limped from the chair to the bed something dropped on the floor—it was the stranger's knife.

David.

Then he worked long into the night and when daylight came a company of wooden soldiers panted on tiny blocks stood on the table tall and straight, just like real soldiers with their wooden muskets over their shoulders.

With the morning came the stranger and David handed him the last knife.

"Great!" cried the stranger when he saw the toys. "I dropped it on purpose. You see, I need just such a fellow as you to help me out. I have a home for old people, and life and time grow heavy on their hands. I thought maybe you might teach them the art of making wooden toys. It will keep them from worrying and they will be able to make a little each week for I can sell the toys."

So David and his mother moved into the home. David taught the art of toy-making, while his mother taught lace-making, and they soon had enough to refill the brass bowl and from that time on it was never empty again, and David and his mother were very happy working with the old people.

THE GERMAN SOLDIER.

I'd hate to be a German, and visit my wrath on Kaiser Bill, unable to determine why I went forth to kill. This Frenchman and the Briton have caused fine and high, and when a foe they've smitten, they know the reason why. The Russian and the Roman, the Belgian and the Serb, shoot up the armored foeman auto-crazy to curb. For freedom men are fighting on Europe's blood-drenched lands; the German, at this writing, for ancient eras stands. The Kaiser says, "Go slaughter, go butcher, till you die, make men's blood run like water, and do not task me why, going for."

LADIES' WAIST.

By Anabel Worthington.

Looking waist, No. 8311. It is amazingly easy to make; in fact any one with very little dressmaking experience can reproduce it in a short time. The centre front closing is stitched back to form a broad tuck, and the turn-back ruffles are formed by the extension of the fronts. The big collar is a late style feature which is made of a straight piece of material cut at an angle on the ends to form the points. Many of the new silk waists have this new collar made of a broad piece of ribbon with the slanting ends finished with a picot edge. A separate girle is included in the pattern and may be made of ribbon also. The length of the sleeves is optional.

The waist pattern, No. 8311, is cut in five sizes, 34 to 42 inches bust measure. As on the figure the 36 inch size requires 2 1/2 yards of 37 inch material, or 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch, with 1/4 yard of 30 inch contrasting solids to trim.

MOUNT PLEASANT
(From Our Own Correspondent)
The garden party held at Mr. A. Briggs on Monday evening proved to be a decided success. This is the first time in two or three years that the Anglican church in this village has observed this event, and the old historic Mohawk band, that is worthy of mention. They were excellent. The programme was taken in hand by Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., whose presence was an inspiration. Miss Johnson was the solo singer in his old time spirit, and Miss Sanderson gave some splendid violin selections. Mr. Chipping and Mr. Barber also sang, and brought forth applause, while Miss B. Richards, as reciter, had her audience with her from the start. One of the special numbers enjoyed by all, was a song by the Briggs' family. Altogether, the evening was most enjoyable and gratifying. Thanks are due to the many friends who helped to make it a success, and the loyalty of the "All Saints' ladies" for without the ladies' help, success would have been impossible to express our appreciation for the use of the grounds given by Mr. and Mrs. Briggs.

Cricket
The Brantford Cricket Team did themselves proud again yesterday by defeating the strong Old Country cricket team of Toronto by 13 runs, on a two innings match. A special wicket had been prepared. The heavy rains seemed to have made it all the better, after a good rolling. The Toronto players arrived on Monday night, filling up with Brantford men. Captain Charlie Smith having won the toss, elected to bat first, sending in Whitwell and Wynyard to oppose the bowling of the Anglians and Wakefield. From the first ball bowled, Wynyard lost his wicket to a splendid ball sent down by the former; Whitwell soon followed suit, retiring with 4 to his credit. Johnson was the next batsman to be out, not being able to withstand the onslaught of McKinnon, who, by the by, has the best average as a bowler in the city league of Toronto. That old veteran, Billy Walsh, came next, and by steady, careful cricket, brought his score to 15 before being caught and bowled by Wakefield. Captain Smith and George Elliott made 5 and 3 respectively, and were followed by T. Cooper, who made 9, a very highly creditable showing, considering he is such a young player. F. Scattergood, A. Neale, and J. Hayes made 1 run between them, Brantford making a total of 37 runs.
Toronto started out with A. Wakefield and S. Yaxley to bat, the latter being easily caught for 1 run off Johnson's bowling. R. Scott then came in, and with his partner produced the best batting of the day, these two players bringing their totals to 30 and 25 respectively before being retired. The rest of the Toronto players were soon out, the whole side making 72 runs.
Brantford started out for their second venture with a deficit of 35 runs, and succeeded in passing the first total by 30 runs, 12 of which were made by Walsh and 13 by Cooper, both players playing excellent cricket. Things did not look any too rosy for the local men, but by smart fielding, taking advantage of every catch offered, Toronto was only able to add 19 runs to their former score. Mr. Roberts umpired, and F. Farnsworth, the secretary, was the official scorer, to the satisfaction of all.

GROWING MERCY OF THE WA

Is Intervention of Amer Upon Side of Britain Says London Times

INDEPENDENCE DA Hailed as Commemorative Alliance of English Speaking Nations

By Courier Lensed Wire. London, July 5.—The morning newspapers give prominence to Independence Day and besides fully porting the celebration, devote editorial columns emphasizing sentimentality used by Foreign Secretary.

The Morning Post, which often the past has been critical of American policy, rejoices that the "anniversary of Great Britain is the day of reunion," and declares: "Not the least of manifold benefits the Germans unwittingly conferred on Great Britain is the ending of Anglo-American relations a plane of more intimate and cordial friendship than a century of it has been able to achieve."

The Times, after gratified general comment, says there are so many Britons "who still do not see American intervention as a war of bickering among the British lists, which at one time threaten Anglo-American estrangement, adds:

"It has stamped the justice of the Allied cause with the authority of the most powerful of neutral powers with the prestige of acknowledged leadership by the leader of the western hemisphere. The political balance of the universe shifted when General Pershing's troops landed in France, and America in entering the war has also entered the world—regards the flying of the Stars and Stripes over parliament as a wonderful thing, says:

"The high compliment and courtesies paid our ally in America bear witness to the fountain of international comradeship which not long ago, we trust, will ever disturb and which means much for the world future."

The Chronicle says the war has set the final seal upon the rapprochement of the two nations. Recruiting in United States—With the brass and pipe bands of the regiment, a detachment of 100 men of the 48th Highlanders, making some 500 men in all, will leave Toronto on Sunday, July 15th, for a week's trip to the United States, in connection with the work of the British recruiting mission in that country. Monday and Tuesday will be spent in New York City and on Wednesday the Klities will leave for Chicago where they will remain for Thursday and Friday. The return trip will be begun on Sunday, arriving in Toronto Sunday morning, July 22nd. The intention is to take some of the men of the 48th who are at present in the infantry training depot here; the remainder of the party being furnished in Toronto and brought to Camp Borden for a week's preliminary training.
