A DESERVED HONOR

On April 10th, 1887, Mr. Robert Wright of Brockville began mercantile life in that town as a parcel boy. The fifty years that have elapsed since that time have been filled with honest endeavor by Mr. Wright. It has not always been smooth sailing, but his enterprise, industry and optimism have overcome all difficulties, and today he finds himself head of one of the largest department stores in Canada, outside of the chief cities. Mr. Wright has always maintained a cordial personal relationship in town and country, and these will read with especial pleasure the following address which was presented to him on the 50th anniversary of his commercial career:

Dear Sir,—It is with a great deal of pleasure that we, the employees of Brockville's Greatest Store, join with you in celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of your business career.

After half a century of earnest unceasing effort, it must indeed be a source of gratification to you to be the proprietor of this great business, one of the most prosperous and respected in Canada.

Surely this is but a fitting reward for sterling integrity, high business principles and concentrated effort.

As your employees we cannot but feel a great deal of pride in your splendid achievement in giving to this part of Ontario a store of such proportions and public usefulness.

On this occasion we wish to congratulate you on the record of the past and to assure you of our hearty co-operation and unbounded loyalty to your interests in the days to come.

We ask you to accept the accompanying souvenir, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of our esteem. Trusting that you will be spared many years to see this large business grow to greater dimensions, is the desire of your seventy-five employees

Brockville, April 10th, 1907. The address was accompanied by a beautiful gold-headed cane suitably engraved.

PETTEM—ANDERSON

The residence of Mr. W. J. Anderson, Glen Buell, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday last, when his daughter, Estella May, was united in marriage, to John Pettem of Seely's. The Rev. Mr. Knox was the officiating clergyman.

Promptly at seven o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played very sweetly, by Miss Edith Sturgeon, and took their places beneath an artistic arch of evergreens and flowers. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly gowned in white silk with trimmings of overlace, and carried white carnations. She was attended by Miss Georgia Pettem, who wore a dainty gown of cream voile, and carried pink carnations. Mr. Leonard Anderson performed the duties of best man.

At the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations, the guests numbering about seventy repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast awaited them, to which they did ample justice.

The bride was the recipient of a number of valuable presents, including a china dinner set, half a dozen silver knives and forks, silver trimmed biscuit jar, table linen, silver trimmed marmalade bowl and spoon, toilet set, two fancy glass tea sets, cheese dish, silver cake basket, parlor lamp, two engraving, silver gravy ladle, silver butter dish, embroidered centrepiece, and tray cloths, four sets of lace curtains, three bedspreads, china tea set, dining room set, and numerous other articles.

VILLAGE COUNCIL

The village council met in special session called by the reeve on Monday evening, 8th inst. All present except Mr. Blanchard. The clerk read the draft of a by-law to appoint an inspector of buildings for the village of Athens. The by-law was considered clause by clause and finally read three times and passed, and signed by reeve and clerk. The by-law provides that B. Loverin be appointed inspector during the pleasure of the council. Briefly summarized, his duties are to inspect all buildings to be erected or repaired within the fire limits and to at once notify all persons making repairs or building to file with him a plan or specification of the proposed work and to inspect the plan and premises at once and if he is satisfied that the building or repairs are such as meet the requirements of by-law no 129, he shall grant a permit in writing for the work to be done and shall from time to time as the work progresses inspect the premises and see that the work is done as required. The person or persons requiring a permit shall pay the said inspector the sum of $1.00 for his first inspection of the plan or specification and his written permit to proceed with the work and at the rate of $2.00 per day for the time actually spent in inspecting the work as it progresses. Section 15a of by-law No. 129, was amended by striking out all that portion of said clause after the word village and inserting the following: To erect or rebuild any bake-oven in which wood is used as fuel for baking.

NOTE: This section includes bake-house or bake ovens in any part of the village of Athens.

The council adjourned to the next regular monthly meeting unless sooner called by the reeve.

B. LOVERIN, Clerk.

An Appreciation

Editor Athens Reporter.
Dear Sir,—A friend of mine, a foreigner, not long in this country—one whose only opportunity of acquiring the English language is on the street and in the workshop—recently composed the following lines on Education, which seems to possess some literary merit and, at the same time, breathe a spirit of appreciation of the teacher's work that a few of our own fellow countrymen fail to recognize. Thinking they might be of some interest to readers of the Reporter, I present them as follows:—

EDUCATION
Education has wings that will carry with might
Cultivation of mankind in progressive fight,
Whoever partakes in that teaching benign
Is a guide to the nations and leader in time.
Great is the teaching—its impulse sublime
Has reformed the nations from errors and crime.
Though soaring and rising, education will go,
Branching in newness, in secrets also.
Yonder, still yonder, its watchword does sound,
Establishing firmly on fruits it has found.
New things are discovered, new treasures remain,
So old things we banish, the new we sustain.
Endorsing its steps in detail as they stand,
Dictating and ruling, we "the profession" demand.
We trust in the teaching and culture of man—
Astounding the progress of book and of pen!
Long may the teaching of mankind progress,
Lasting its merits in time of recess.
—VASA.

A Substantial Benefit

For three days last week ten per cent of the receipts of "Brockville's Greatest Store" was given to the General Hospital. Ladies of the auxiliary acted as floor-walkers and assisted in the different departments of the store, besides conducting a refreshment booth. As a result of the liberality of Messrs. Robert Wright & Co., coupled with the earnest work of the ladies, the hospital treasury will be enriched by about $300.

TRIAL FOR LIFE

The evening of the same day upon which these events took place, the mysterious individual whom we have heard called by the name of Roberts, walked restlessly up and down the floor of his gloomy apartment in the old, ruined palace of Ely. His restlessness was without the least ill-humor; nay, he smiled to himself, as he murmured:

"Gentlemen who can walk abroad at large at all hours of the day, can, of course, have little appreciation of the tediousness of a waiting twelve or fourteen hours in a place like this, or who would exhibit more charity?"

His good humor was at last rewarded by the sound of steps approaching the door, admitted the visitor, and secured it behind him before speaking.

"Well, dear Mac, here you are at last, old fellow. I have been hoping and expecting to see you ever since the night of our adventure. I could not find any way of communicating with you until this afternoon when I contrived to send you a note. But you know where to find me, and it was cruel in you not to come," said Roberts, in his usual gay, sweet tone.

"It was wise and prudent of me. Was I, perchance, to show the police the way to your lair, Roberts, you are the most imprudent man I ever knew for - coward."

"Epicure, epicure, dear Mac! not coward, but epicure; it is not danger or death that I dislike, but pain, dear Mac; pain; therefore, call me epicure, or voluptuary, if you like, but not coward," said Roberts, mildly.

"Very well, then; for an epicure you run more risks of hurting yourself than any one I ever knew," said Roberts, mildly.

"Nay, I am very cautious; I have not shown my head abroad by daylight since our adventure. But now tell me, what does the world outside say of it?"

patron, yet I will not permit you to suffer loss from an enterprise into which I was the means of drawing you. I came here with the express purpose of telling you all this, putting this fifteen-pound note into your hand, and advising you to place as many miles of sea between you and your own good, and my safety, for you are just the fellow for turning king's evidence upon a pinch," added Mac, mentally.

"I thank you, dear Mac. You are very kind and thoughtful. I accept your bounty as a loan, to be repaid with interest some of these days."

"Of course, as a loan," replied Mac, very dryly, adding—"and now I must really wish you good-evening, or rather bid you good-by. I hope to hear from you from Quebec or Constantinople," said Mac, shaking hands with Roberts, and leaving the room.

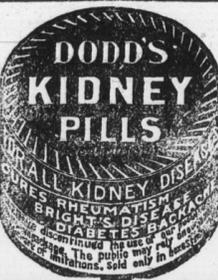

Left alone, Roberts took two or three turns up and down the room, muttering:

"Rose Elmer—Baroness Etheridge—Duchess Beresleigh high fortunes for the cottage girl! I could spoil that pretty sport if I chose to do so, or dared to show myself. Were that I could find one woman out of my way, what a prospect were opening to me! I must think! I must think! Here is a magnificent fortune, and perhaps a baron's coronet, within my very grasp, but that man who was a witness of my crime told me that woman, who is the living obstacle to my ambition! The woman may be easily disposed of, poor creature! but the man! the man! I must think. Can all these difficulties be overcome in time to permit me to appear and arrest this marriage? Surely! Well, let the marriage go on if it must, for a while, it will only give me a stronger hold upon her grace. Let her wear the strawberry leaves a little while; she will be none the worse, and as she is not Helen, I am not fastidious! Oh, Helen! Helen!"

CHAPTER XXIII.
The marriage of the Duke of Beresleigh and the Lady Etheridge of Swinburne came off with great eclat. The ceremony was performed in St. James' Chapel, in the presence of the elite of the aristocracy. The Bishop of London officiated. The bride was attended to the altar by the Ladies Wardour, the sisters of the bridegroom, and by Miss Elmer, her particular friend. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to Beresleigh House, where a select party were entertained at breakfast.

Immediately after breakfast, the newly-married pair started for the Continent. After the marriage and departure of the young duke and duchess, Miss Elmer's home with the Lesters was not as agreeable as it had been. Lady Lester having nothing more to hope from Laura's influence over Rose in favor of Mr. Lester, treated the governess, not with disrespect—but no one durst do that—but with coolness.

Production and Care of Milk for Cheese Factories

In the production of high-class cheese, it is essential that the milk be clean, sweet and free from foreign flavor upon reaching the factory. Both the quantity and the quality of the product will suffer when the raw material is inferior. Unless the patrons supply milk of good quality, they cannot in justice hold the maker responsible for the quality of goods made therefrom. The health of your cows, the water supply, the quality of the food, the condition under which milk is drawn from the cow, the care used in seeing that it is not exposed to dirt or dust of any kind, proper handling, etc., all require unceasing watchfulness and care.

In order that the maker may receive instruction regularly and periodically, and that the producer may be directed wherein he may improve in the production and care of milk, the Department of Agriculture has employed a staff of instructors to visit both the factories and the farms upon which the milk is produced. The instructor is not a detective, but a co-worker and educator. All tests for adulteration will be made at the factory, and action for prosecution left with some official of the factory concerned.

To dispel the misapprehension which exists in the minds of many as to the objects of the Department of Agriculture and the Dairymen's Associations in providing instructors, a few statements as to the work they are doing will here be given:

1. To assist the makers in producing a high class article by pointing out defects in the cheese on hand, and suggesting to the makers means of avoiding or overcoming these defects.

(b) Explaining to the makers as clearly as possible the quality of cheese required by the trade, so far as acidity, texture, color, finish, etc., are concerned.

(c) Following the different stages of manufacture from the time the milk is received until the curd has been put to press, and pointing out the importance of care, watchfulness, and a definite aim at all times.

(d) Suggesting needed improvements in equipment, drainage, methods of disposing of whey, etc.

"In a few weeks—yes."
"Forgive the question—for another situation?"

"No; when one has discovered that she is not fitted for a particular work, she should abandon it; and when she has found that for which she is best adapted, she should pursue it. I have clearly ascertained that I am not fitted either by ability or inclination for the life of a governess, therefore, I can make myself neither very useful nor very happy in my duties; while I have some gift for scribbling, by which I can give more satisfaction, if not do more good. At least, it is my principal talent, and I pursue it with pleasure. I take some quiet pleasant lodgings, and maintain myself by my goose quill, which already brings me an income sufficient for my few wants."

"You will be more independent, more retired and happier. I sincerely congratulate you on the change, Miss Elmer. The most humble life of liberty and seclusion is preferable to any life of dependence amid un congenial associates. And since you speak of going into lodgings, will you permit me to recommend to you my late landlady, Mrs. Russell?"

"Thank you; I was thinking of her."
"She is a gentle and refined woman, unfit to struggle through the world, and hence she does not succeed very well. She has more of a private life house at Chelsea, the ground floor of which is occupied with her own little shop and family rooms. The upper floor comprises a suite of three or four neat rooms, that she would be glad to let. I think you would like both the landlady and her lodgings."

"I am quite sure that I should. Please give me her exact address," said Laura, taking up a pencil.

"Gassivone compiled, and while Laura was taking down the address, he gazed upon her beautiful, bowed face as she bent over her desk, with his own face rapidly flushed and paled, and his breath came short and quick.

She heard—her ear caught that quick, convulsive breathing—and she impulsively looked up. Her eyes stopped and took her hand, and, bowing over it, uttered, in a tone scarcely above his breath, yet deep and vibrating with his soul's profound emotion:

"Laura Elmer, I love you. I love you with my whole heart, soul and spirit. I loved you the first hour I looked upon your noble face. I have loved you with an ever-increasing power ever since, as I shall love you through all time and all eternity. I have suppressed the utterance of my love for months, as I once perhaps, yet to have suppressed it for years, but I could not be silent longer; I could not stifle my feelings and live. And so I have sought you today, Laura Elmer, not in selfishness, nor in vanity, not in presumption; not to engage your heart, or bind your hand to a poor man, who must yet struggle through many years of labor, privation and hardship before he can command a position which he would ask you to share. No, Laura Elmer, I sought you to say that my heart, my brain, my feelings, my whole life, are all your own; to say that I consecrate myself, with all that I am or may become, with all that I have or may acquire, to your service for life and death and eternity, and count myself richer than a monarch, more blessed than an angel, so you will but accept the offering."

wagon, the man, the horse, and the harness should be clean, and a credit to the great dairy industry of Canada.

"Do not use wooden pails. Discard all rusty pails, cans and stirring utensils."
"Milk cans and pails should first be rinsed in cool water, then washed with a brush and luke-warm water, in which a little soda has been dissolved, then scalded and placed on their sides in the sun."

"Do not use a cloth to either wash or wipe utensils."
"The two main points in caring for milk are to have everything clean, and to cool (especially the night's milk), as rapidly as possible to a temperature below 70 degrees, and to 50 or 60 degrees if possible."

"Be clean. Keep cool."

BABY'S FRIEND.
Before I got Baby's Own Tablets my baby was troubled with colic and vomiting and cried night and day, and I was almost worn out. But after giving him the Tablets for a few days the trouble disappeared and you would not know it was the same child. He is so healthy and good-natured now. This is the grateful testimonial of Mr. George Howell, Sandy Beach, Que., and it tells other mothers who are worn-out caring for cross sickly children, how they can bring health to the little one and ease to themselves. Baby's Own Tablets promptly cure the minor ailments of little ones, and there are no cross sickly children in the homes where the Tablets are used. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

MAKING FOOD.
TREE MUST HAVE LIGHT FOR THIS PURPOSE.
Practical Applications Made by the Forester in His Treatment of Trees.

A plant forms its own food by taking in carbonic acid gas, or carbon dioxide, from the air, and bringing up water out of the soil, through its roots, and combining these so as to form a substance which the chemists class as a sugar. An animal on the other hand, is dependent on plants for its food; for, though a lion may eat a lamb, still that lamb fed on grass; and so the lion depends, finally, on grass for its living.

This fact, namely, that plants make their own food, while an animal is dependent on plants for its food, constitutes a fundamental distinction between plants and animals, from the lowest to the highest. Every plant, from the humblest of the algae that form the scum on stagnant water to the loftiest tree, has this power, with exception of a very few plants such as the fungi that feed on other plants. In many cases, there are considerable difficulties to be overcome in the process, as, for instance, when a tall tree has to raise water from the roots up to the top, in order that the food may be there formed.

The evening of the same day upon which these events took place, the mysterious individual whom we have heard called by the name of Roberts, walked restlessly up and down the floor of his gloomy apartment in the old, ruined palace of Ely. ST. VINCENT DE PAUL HOSPITAL

A Popular Brockville Institution that is Doing a Worthy Work—Its Benefits Widespread Patients Coming from Distant Points.

Vincent de Paul was born in the Barrens of Bordeaux on April 24th, 1876, of humble parentage, one of six children, and was early employed, like David, in guarding his father's flock. While still a child, he manifested a remarkable compassion for the poor—his bread, even his clothing, it is stated, were not his own when some unfortunate being stood in need of them. At the age of 12 years his advanced course of study commenced, and under great difficulty, with unremitting toil and sacrifice, his progress was such and his whole character so commendable that he was urged and influenced to embrace the ecclesiastical state. At the age of 20 years he received tonsure and minor orders.

His subsequent life was one of constant effort for the temporal and spiritual advancement of the poor and afflicted, and many important agencies were by him organized to further this work—agencies that, without material change, have continued to this day. His personal efforts imposed upon him at times both sacrifice and suffering. He was exposed to great dangers—was captured and sold as a slave, worked in the galleys at Marseilles, etc.—but through it all his trust in his divine Master was such that he was always able to rejoice. He rendered distinguished service to the state and episcopacy, and high honors could have been his, but nothing was allowed to interfere with his life of devotion to the poor.

On the 26th of September, 1860, following an illness borne with great patience and resignation, his pure spirit passed away. "Without fever, without effort, without the least convulsion," it is recorded, "he gave up to God one of the most beautiful souls that ever existed."

It was in perpetuation and commemoration of the life and labors of this great and good man that the Sisters of Charity, sent from the mother house, Kingston, in 1838, instituted St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in Brockville. From a small beginning in the residential property on Schofield's Hill, the institution has progressed greatly, until now even the present beautiful and extensive structure is at times fully taxed to accommodate all seeking admission.

The work of the sisters—their devotion to duty, their skill and kindly sympathetic interest in hospital service—has commended itself to the general public and won high favor and gratitude from all who have received their gentle ministrations. High or low, rich or poor, of whatever creed or nationality, all are welcome to receive the benefits of the hospital. In the service given, respect for persons is eliminated; for, in harmony with the teachings of St. Vincent de Paul, the care of the poor is the special charge of the Sisterhood.

And what a life of toil and self-denial these Sisters lead! Young women in the full flush of youth and strength voluntarily enter upon this life religious, taking the triple vow of chastity, poverty and obedience—forsaking all the world offers for the joy of the Master's service and the reward that follows a life well spent.

Work in the hospital begins at 6.30 a.m., and, for the day-nurses, ends at 7.30 p.m. All day long and often until late in the evening the ringing of the electric bell at the annunciator summons the Sisters to attend special calls from the different wards, and this with the ordinary hospital routine fills in every moment of the day, excepting the time allotted for service in the chapel. It is an arduous life, and yet the dominating characteristic of the Sisters is a bright, cheerful, optimistic spirit that is very comforting and inspiring to the patients.

A patient at St. Vincent de Paul, able to walk about the building, is first impressed with the cleanliness and order everywhere manifest. The demands of modern sanitation are fully met. In the work of the staff there is absolutely no friction—all seem to hold the promotion of the fair name and fame of the hospital as a primary consideration. The sequence of each day's duties is observed with punctilious exactitude. Close study, the inspection of similar institutions, and years of practical experience, united with unusually good executive ability, have thoroughly fitted and furnished the Sister Superior for the administration of the affairs of the hospital. Every detail of the work in all departments is under her personal supervision.

At present the hospital staff numbers about fifty, of which twenty-five are Sisters of Charity and Tertiary Sisters. Frequently during the past winter from 70 to 75 patients would be under treatment at one time, and among these were included Canadians home for treatment from Chicago and New York city, residents of St. Lawrence County, N.Y., and patients from various parts of Ontario and the Canadian West. For their success in surgery, Brockville physicians are becoming widely known, and it seems only a question of a short time when the town hospitals will have to be enlarged to accommodate this class of patients. The accommodation and equipment of St. Vincent for operative cases are most complete, and this department is constantly in charge of skilled, experienced Sisters. The sterilizing apparatus is one of the best obtainable, and being furnished with abundant steam pressure, which can be nicely regulated, definite and satisfactory results are always obtained. An excellent laboratory and dispensary are also maintained.

The building is heated with a combination of hot air and steam from furnaces in the basement, and surplus steam from the laundry is also used for this purpose. The laundry occupies a separate building and the machinery is the latest. Power is supplied by a 12 h.p. steam engine. The washing is done in two large cylinders which have a daily capacity of about 6,000 pieces. In addition to a large steam-heated drying room, an extractor is employed to assist in the process. The extractor works on the same principle as a cream separator. It revolves at the rate of 2,500 per minute and after twenty minutes of this treatment the clothes are dry enough for mangling. The mangles have a capacity of 1500 pieces per day. All machinery, the heating, plumbing, etc., of St. Vincent is now and has been for several years under the efficient management of Mr. P. Shea, formerly of Athens.

The Solarium is a feature of the hospital that has been very much enjoyed by patients during the past winter. This sun parlor was obtained by putting a glass front in the second balcony. The floor was covered with linoleum and the room furnished with easy chairs, tables and a handsome couch. A large steam coil proved sufficient to comfortably heat the apartment, and there in the bright sunshine, provided with the best of current literature and surrounded with ferns and foliage plants, the convalescents spent many pleasant hours.

To give an idea of the work that is being done by St. Vincent, we quote as follows from the report for 1906:—
During the past year 920 patients were admitted, an increase of 70 over the previous year. The places of residence of the patients were as follows:
Town of Brockville, 474; counties of Leeds and Grenville, 209; other counties, 116; United States, 121.

Four hundred and fifty-two were male and 468 female; 582 professed different Protestant denominations, 338 were Catholics.

Of above named 920 patients, 505 were treated free of charge. The financial statement of the hospital given in detail shows the total receipts were $16,234.05, while the expenditure amounted to $15,875.66, leaving a balance of $358.39, which is an evidence of its economical management.

The hospital is largely dependent upon voluntary contributions from residents of the town and county, and it is hoped that the excellent work being done may meet with such recognition from the general public as shall result in increased liberality during 1907.

CHARLESTON LAKE NOTES

Present Indications Point to the Coming Season Being One of the Best Ever Experienced by Lake Dwellers.

Our reporter gathered the following during a brief visit to the lake last week.

W. H. Jacob has engaged Alex. Compo to re-paint his cottage.

The Misses Webster and McMillan have had a new dock put in front of their beautiful new summer home and a new boat-house will be erected this spring.

Doc Lillie had a new dock built near his boat house and an addition to his ice house made last fall. He purpose clearing up the lot adjoining his boat house and may erect a launch house with a dwelling in the second storey during the summer.

Billy Crozier, Jr. is putting a gaso-line motor in his new launch.

W. G. Parish has made several improvements to his cottages on Breezy Point and thoroughly overhauled and painted his trim little gasoline launch during the winter.

N. H. Dowley has his new launch about ready for the water. He has without exception the finest launch on the lake, the hull being built of the choicest materials, with Norman well-known, first class workmanship. He has spent months investigating the best styles of motors and expects to have the best all-around boat on the lake.

The Recorder says: Lev. Southworth will leave for Cedar Park Hotel at Charleston Lake the first of May with a gang of carpenters. It is the intention of the owner, Mr. Bowie, to remodel the hotel and place it in first class shape before the summer trade opens. . . . We understand, it is the intention to level up the grounds and put on a lawn tennis plot and fit them for other sports for the benefit of their guests.

Mr. Haskin of Phillipsville, who purchased the steam saw-mill from Geo. Bradley, has bought the Jos. Kealey house at the foot of Main street and will in a few days become a permanent resident. We understand that he will add a shingle machine, planer and matcher, and cheese box machinery to his present plant, the whole to be driven with a new 40 h.p. engine.

Captain B. Loverio, who purchased a beautifully located lot from F. Pierce near the Hick's Hermitage last fall, has torn down and moved his large boat house, stable and other buildings from his old quarters in Warren's bay to his new location and already has a boat landing or dock 64 feet in length about completed. He also has the most of the material on the ground for a summer cottage to be 16x20 ft., two stories high with a 10x12 addition for kitchen, and 10x14 ice house. The grounds have been partly cleared up and about 1/2 acre ploughed for a vegetable garden. During the summer he proposes to fit up the grounds for picnic purposes. As it is only 5 minutes run with his launch from either Charleston dock or Cedar Park it will meet a want long felt of a good place for picnics, or where small parties can spend a day with all the comforts of tables, stove, seats, pure spring water, etc. During the summer a road will be made from Israel Slacks road into these grounds so that those wishing to drive directly to the grounds can do so.

Captain Loverio has repaired, re-modeled and painted his gasoline cruiser "Sport" during the winter and from his success in the past in handling picnic and excursion parties, he will no doubt be kept busy the coming season. The house-boat La ne-o-tah will also be in commission for taking large parties around the lake.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

Are just
for women
and contain just what every Sick and Run-down Woman Needs.

Do you know that distinguished physicians say that ninety per cent. of the ill of women result from your peculiar condition?

This should make clear to you the great advantage of taking a remedy that contains uterine and female tonics. You know, of course, that remedies are not good to men as well as women and contain these. They cannot.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women (not for men) contain them all, and you can't have to take our word for this. Chemists and physicians, whose statements are reliable, say that not one single medical ingredient of any value to women has been omitted from them.

What is the result? Simply this. When you buy a box of these tablets you get a remedy compounded just for your special needs, and one containing all the best medical science can supply in this twentieth century to make you a healthy woman. What more could you want unless your experience should be different than that of other women, you need nothing more. If you don't feel as well as you would like to, try these tablets.

They Make Healthy Women.

FRIENDSHIP

What Does It Cost You?

A few days ago two farmers off the B & W. were seen comparing each others suits.—The taller man said, "You were best out of $3.00. Why don't you try Semi-Ready?" The other replied that he was a personal friend of this other merchant and did not like to go past him.

His friendship cost him $3.00—You say he was an easy mark, and so he was and yet the bush is full of such people.

Reader, if you buy your clothes at any old price because of friendship, you pay too much—the price is too high for what you get.

A Warning

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's warning, too—and sufferers should begin trying Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.

Smith's Falls is to be made a divisional point on the C.P.R. and in consequence about 200 families will move from Carleton Place to that town. This will be a big boom for the Falls, and when the new roads connect with that place it will be one of the greatest railway centres in Ontario.

An Angler's Elysium

According to advertisements all summer resorts are alike. They are the best ever—but if fishing is better anywhere else than it is in "Georgian Bay" we do not know where it is. There is a greater variety of fish in this water than anywhere else, and they are always hungry. No one ever counted the fish in Georgian Bay, but those that have been caught there have been counted and eaten, and if you read the Government reports on fisheries, you know that Georgian Bay supplies more fish than any other equal body of water in the world. The only place you can afford to fish is where the fish are numerous, big and delicious in flavor, and that place is Georgian Bay—so the fishermen say. Suppose you send for booklet, issued by Grand Trunk Railway System, free, telling about the home of the bass, pickerel, pike and the noble trout family. Address J. Quinlan, Bonaventure Station, Montreal, Que.

IRON BLOOD PILLS

NATURE'S SPRING SYSTEM CLEANSER

As the neat house wife cleans her house every spring after being closed up during the winter months, so our system needs the cleaning of its impurities. Iron enters largely into the system and no better purifier can be used than a course of Lamb's Iron Blood Pills.—They give tone to the system, cleanse and supplies new blood. Instead of a pale shallow complexion the iron they contain supplies the lack in the blood corpuscles. A few boxes will cause a rosy cheek, a healthy look and new courage to do our daily work. "HINGE-STAYS" MAKE DILLON TWICE AS STRONG

Short, stiff, hard, steel wire stays make a "hinge-like" joint at every lateral wire on the Dillon fence. These "Hinge-stays" give our fence a greater degree of elasticity—enable it to withstand greater strain. They act like, and really are, hinges—make our fence swing or spring back into shape after receiving a heavy blow, or the unusual pressure caused by a furious bull or other animal endeavoring to push his way through to freedom. Catalogue tells more about this "twice as strong" fence.

Devoured by White Rats.

The island of St. Helena seems doomed to come to a bad end; at least, as a place of residence. Rats have overrun it to the point that the government has offered a penny for every rat's tail taken as headquarters.

But that isn't the worst thing. The termites have attacked Jamestown. In view of the fact that the island is infested with this insect, once the houses have been invaded millions upon millions of the little creatures will be at work to perforate beams, flooring, paneling and furniture with an infinite number of tiny tunnels.

The members of the colony consist of a queen, a mate insect, soldiers and workers. The soldiers, which are in the minority, are charged with the defense of the home. Their duty is to guard the entrance to the nest.

Like the workers, they are blind. But they are well able to attend to their role of defender as they navigate their way through the maze of the nest. As soon as an attack is made on the nest the soldier termites rush forth as though they were sent by the aggressors, who times without number have retreated with bleeding legs and feet.

If the attack is repulsed the soldiers strike a succession of sharp blows on the ground. At this signal the workers assemble and under a strong guard repair what ever damage has been done to the nest. Their principal duty, however, is to attend on the queen and to bring up the incredible number of young.

This queen is the object of the most extraordinary solicitude on the part of every member of the colony. Yet she is a prisoner, a closely guarded inmate of the nest. She has taken up her abode until the day of her death. Her cell is the largest single cubicle in the entire nest. It is several inches in length, but a few inches in height, and contains just enough room for her and her fellow prisoners, the mate, the termites, to move about.

The soldier is double the length of a worker and weighs as much as fifteen workers. The male weighs about as much as thirty workers. The queen, who sometimes measures as much as eleven inches, is equal in weight to 300,000 workers.

A second—that is to say, about 80,000 eggs a day. It is these eggs that the workers eat as soon as laid and carry off to the nursery, where they are hatched much in the same way as the eggs of the queen bee. And thus in time a fresh army of termites leaves the nest and forms a new colony for itself under the leadership of a new king and a new queen. The termites are removed from the queen cell by the small holes which are constructed consists of decayed wood and earth, which the insect has the power to make hard as stone.

Neighborhood Amenities. (Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

The steamer W. E. Corey made a wonderful record last season. The big freighter, which was in commission 200 days, covered 41,229 miles and carried 202,477 tons of iron ore. She delivered thirty cargoes, which means that she averaged a little over a ton of ore from the head of Lake Superior to Lake Erie ports. The Corey carried more freight last season than was ever moved by any vessel in the same time in the world.

COSTLY COIFFEURS. In Paris a subject which is agitating all fashionable women at the present moment is that of the coiffure. The prices asked for some of the most costly gowns which have almost reduced their owners to bankruptcy appear moderate beside the sums paid for the brilliant locks which crown the heads of Parisian elegantes.

Superstitious as to Earthquakes. Scientists still study the cause and meaning of earthquakes, but, according to an exchange, uncivilized peoples long ago settled the questions involved to their own complete satisfaction.

In Mongolia it is the breathings and skipplings of a huge frog that causes the mischief; in China, a gigantic dragon; in India, a world bearing elephant; in Mexico, a hog, and in other countries the idea is varied by the introduction of a bull and a tortoise. Earthquakes in Siberia are believed to be due to the frolics of mammoths which live in the centre of the earth, while in Vancouver Island it is the spirit of evil, with his marshaled hosts of all the wicked people who have ever lived.

LARGE PROFITS IN TOBACCO.

Phenomenal Returns Sometimes Are Earned by Growers in Wisconsin.

The year just closed will pass into history as the most prosperous one ever experienced by the growers of tobacco in Wisconsin. Whatever there is in store in the future for the dealers who now practically own the 1906 crop—whether it earns them a profit or a loss—need not concern the farmer, for his position is secure. He is already counting his profit and it amounts to something phenomenal when viewed in the light of recent statistics regarding the acreage, yield and price paid the producer.

Assuming that the statistics of the agricultural department are reasonably correct, let us estimate that the profits of last season's tobacco crop were to the growers of Wisconsin. It is generally conceded that the 1906 crop amounted close to 40,000 acres, yielding 1,275,000 to the acre, while the average price paid growers is given at 13 1/2 cents by the government report. In other words, the gross receipts of each acre would amount to $172.12.

Deducting the cost of raising, which under the most conservative estimates cannot exceed $40 per acre, and it is generally believed that the most of the tobacco of this state is grown at a cost of less than $30 per acre, we have at least a profit of $132 on every acre produced in the state. This would mean an enormous total of $5,280,000 of clear, cold profits to be paid to the tobacco growers of this state. No such profits were ever before paid to so small a number of producers in the west. The figures are unprecedented and almost challenge the credulity of the general public.

HAY HUNG OUT TO DRY.

One of Norway's Peculiar Sights During Harvest Season.

One of the most peculiar harvest scenes in the world is to be witnessed in some parts of Norway. These are districts in which the rainfall is excessive, a common boast of the country folk there being: "We are sure to have one dry day in a year."

When the hay is cut, to leave it upon the ground to dry would, instead, mean that it would rot and be rendered valueless, says Cassell's Saturday Journal. Therefore, long fences are built in rows reaching right across wide fields, and to these the grass is brought in carts. In the daytime the hay is tossed about on the ground, but toward evening it is all carefully hung upon the fences to dry. In very damp weather it remains all day on the fences. The peasants say, "Our women and men do the same work, only while the women hang out clothes, the men hang out hay to dry."

A curious incident at Raleigh, N. C., the other day illustrates the absurdity of nonsense. In the Supreme Court in that city there are kept two Bibles—one on which to swear white witnesses and the other to swear negroes. A scholarly gentleman, a professor of law in Shaw University, was on the witness stand, and the Sheriff gave him the Jim Crow Bible to kiss, whereupon the judge sharply reprimanded the officer for giving it to a white man; so the other Bible was taken and he kissed it. Now, it is that Bible profaned, for it turns out that the professor is really a negro, though to all visible appearances as white as any other man?—Independent.

Steel Trust Saving on Fuel. (Philadelphia Press.)

Someone has produced an engine which may do a great deal toward cheapening the price of steel. The United States Steel Corporation is installing twelve monster engines at various plants, the unique feature of them being that they do not require oil, coke, coal, wood or ordinary gas for fuel. They run on natural gas, which is the gas which is generated in the company's blast furnaces during the process of steel manufacture. This gas has heretofore been wasted, but hereafter it will be made to turn all the wheels. For a steel plant to be able to save the cost of fuel is taking a very big stride toward economy. To be able to abolish smoke at the same time adds to its popularity in probably the most smoke-belching stacks have smothered the air with blackness.

Utopia a Long Way Off. (Washington Post.)

Because all men are created equal and endowed by their Creator with equal capacity for accumulating property; because some men are constitutionally industrious, economical and ambitious; because many men naturally prefer criminal methods of getting a living while other men abhor that course; for these reasons, poverty and riches, penury and comfortable subsistence have abode side by side ever since the record of the human family began. Numbers have been the attempts of well-meaning persons to abolish poverty and equalize social conditions, but all have failed signally in such efforts to amend the work of nature. Possibly the time may come when a universal course will be instituted and all the inhabitants of the earth, being free men and fellow citizens, will dwell together in fraternal unity and social equality. But there is at this writing no indication, hint or intimation that such a consummation is immediately impending.

MAKING COTTON FOR WORLD.

English Spinners Likely to Invest Heavily in American Land.

Some months ago a number of leading cotton manufacturers of Lancashire, England, got together and appointed a private commission to visit the United States and make observations on the area where cotton is grown and to take notes upon the methods and processes of marketing the staple.

The commission visited this country and this city, the fact having been recorded in the papers at the time. The members of the commission, having duly returned home, made a report of their mission and with it offered a number of recommendations.

The members of the commission say that the Americans hope to form a gigantic trust to control the cotton produce market through the control of the production of cotton. They declare the people of England do not realize to what an extent the Americans are attracted by the trust principle.

The members of the commission say that they were often pressed to throw in their lot with the planters and become cotton growers themselves, thus imitating the example of some planters who are investing money in cotton mills and declaring their intention to build sufficient mills to use all the cotton grown if an ungrateful world should hesitate to pay for it at the rate of 11 to 15 cents a pound. The commission suggests that the English spinners become interested in the production of cotton, which they can say not be regarded as hazardous provided a competent manager and suitable land at a reasonable price with sufficient labor, can be obtained.

They recommended that a committee be appointed immediately to consider the advisability of buying land. It is stated that another commission is to be invested with greater powers and will witness the methods of cotton picking, which the members of the former commission did not see.

In view of the impracticability of securing a sufficient supply of cotton from any of the British colonies it is more than likely that Englishmen will purchase large bodies of land in the southern states and raise their own cotton. There is land enough in these states for the production of 20,000,000 bales, while intensive cultivation will double the amount. Let the Britishers come. We will still make cotton for the whole world, no matter how much is consumed.—New Orleans Picayune.

THREE BORN TOGETHER,

And Still Alive at the End of Sixty-eight Years.

In this city yesterday, says the New Orleans Picayune, March 27, of two of her oldest and most respected citizens, brothers, of the same age, and yet not twins, but of a set of triplets, celebrated their 68th birthday. They are J. N. and H. E. Price, who have made their home here for several years, and whose triplet sister, Mrs. Nancy Phillips, still lives, and is a respected resident of Calhoun county. The interesting trio came from North Carolina with their parents when 17 or 18 years of age, and lived in Rankin county, where they were living when the war between the States broke out, and the two brothers, with the other young men of Rankin, rallied to the cause of the South. The brothers, and their sister, who after the war became Mrs. Phillips, resided in Rankin until after the marriage of the latter, when they removed to Jackson, where they have since resided. It is believed that this is the oldest set of triplets in this State or section, if not in the United States, and the brothers Price exemplify in their life and conversation all that is best and noblest in the qualities of the cause and honest citizenship.—Philadelphia Record.

Settled a Serious Question.

A poor working girl noted for her prudence and practicality has lately been pondering the problem of whether to buy an umbrella, which she needs very much, now the rainy season is coming on, but doesn't at all want, or an Angora kitten which she doesn't exactly need, but wants so much that it keeps her awake nights. The other day she settled it to her own satisfaction by deciding on the kitten, which she thinks is ever so much more practical than an umbrella, because you can only use an umbrella when it is raining, but a kitten you have with you always. Besides, you can borrow an umbrella, but nobody would lend an Angora.—Topeka State Journal.

Power From Long Distances.

Among the applications of power at long distance from its source is the lighting of the interior passages and chambers of the Great Pyramids by electric currents generated at the outfall of Assouan, several hundred miles away. The Best Speaker in Germany. (Washington Herald.)

"The most finished and effective speaker in Germany," says Professor Ernest Schombel, of Berlin, "is Herr Bebel, the leader of the Socialist party. This man had no advantages of early training, no university education, and indeed gained his knowledge of literature through his own unaided efforts. He worked at the trade of a wheelwright in his younger days, but even while struggling for a living he was a close student, particularly of governmental affairs and political economy. His views are opinions to a great majority of his fellow members of the Reichstag, and yet whenever he rises to speak he commands the chamber of his fellow legislators. Among his followers he is idolized, and they obey him as implicitly as if he were their king. He is a man of great life and he is said to be without even the smallest vest of mankind."

TRIAL WILL COST OVER $300 000.

EXPENSES FALL MOST HEAVILY ON THAW FAMILY.

$250,000 is Their Share—Fees to Lawyers Alone Will Aggregate About $150,000 and Experts' Fees Also Come High.

New York, April 15.—It is eleven weeks since the trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White began. All that time was not spent in the actual trial of the case, as there were several delays, but enough of it was so spent as to make it one of the longest criminal trials in this State.

What has this trial cost both the prosecution and the defendant? It is no easy matter to get accurate figures, but it is a pretty safe estimate to put the total at $300,000.

The heaviest outlay undoubtedly has been on Thaw and his family. Just how much they have spent may never be known accurately. Large sums will have to be paid to lawyers. There have been five of these lawyers actively engaged in the case since the firm of Black, Clecht, Gruber & Boyngue was dropped by Thaw. Of the lawyers, Delphin Michael Deimas will get the biggest fee. He isn't naming the fee he agreed to accept, but it is said by the other lawyers to be $50,000. It is surely not less than that.

What the other lawyers will get is a problem. One of them is going to ask for $15,000. It is said that to another $16,000 has already been paid. It is not expected that any of them will get less than $15,000. Before the Black firm was let out by Thaw it is said to have received $25,000. So the expenses to date are $250,000.

All through the trial there were four medical experts for the defence on hand. Near the end of the trial four more were called in. The experts do not cost very low, especially for the defence. If the experts between them do not get about $20,000 they have reduced their rates. There has been no public announcement to that effect. In addition David N. Carralho, the handwriting expert, has attended every session of the trial. It has not been easy to understand just what he did for Thaw, but there must have been some reason for his presence, and his fee will probably be a fat one.

Will Cost Thaw $250,000.

In every important criminal case there is an amount of investigation and outside work which is not generally realized by the public. Witnesses must be looked up. Stories come from cranks and other misguided persons, but they must all be looked up. It might be fatal to pass any of them without scrutiny. It would at least be dangerous. To get at the bottom of the stories requires patient work and experienced men to do it. They have got to be paid. Sometimes money must be handed out to persons who have something to tell before they give up. This piles up the contingent expense account.

From the time Stanford White was killed Roger O'Mara, a former police chief of Pittsburg, has been in the employ of the Thaws. He has had much help from him. They have done a good deal of sleuthing between here and Pittsburg and other parts of the country. The bill from this source alone will not be a small one.

There are other incidental expenses which have to be met. The typewriting bills made a good-sized item. When the whole thing is summed up if the expenses outside of the fees for the lawyers and the experts are less than $50,000 it will surprise persons who are conversant with that sort of thing. A conservative estimate of the whole thing would seem to be that before the Thaws have to be that before the Thaws have paid out more than $225,000.

Expense to Taxpayers.

The cost to the taxpayers will not be so great. There are several explanations for this. The principal one is that in this county there is a machine for prosecuting criminals which is always in motion. It is a well oiled machine, and can be started on any individual case at a moment's notice. Its engineers are men who get yearly salaries, and the additional expense comes when outside aid is called in.

The Thaw trial has cost the county to date not much more than $25,000. This, of course, does not include salaries for officials. It is the sum that has been spent outside and includes the fees for the medical experts. It is a matter of record that the experts for the prosecution do not get as much as those called by the defence. There is a reason for this. There is much steady business from the District Attorney's office all the year round, and the experts know that it is good to be on the side of the prosecution.

Total Cost About $300,000.

It is a difficult matter to figure out the running expenses of a court. A man who is familiar with the salaries of court officials, including the judge, the district attorney, his assistants, court officers, stenographers, clerk and others connected with the court machinery has figured out that the daily cost for each court session is about $700. Counting five days for each of the eleven weeks—for the salaries go on even if there is no session, and Mr. Justice Fitzgerald's court has done no other business since the trial started—the court expenses alone have been close to $40,000. Add to that the salaries of a squad of policemen who have been stationed each day outside of the court-room to stand off the curious and you have another neat sum. Taking all these things into consideration, it is not hard to understand that $300,000 for the entire cost of the trial seems more like an underestimate than an overestimate.

KAISER LOSES LAWSUIT.

Fails to Eject Undesirable Tenant From a Hotel.

Berlin, April 15.—The Kaiser has lost a lawsuit against one of his tenants in the court at Innsbruck. The Kaiser Hotel, near the royal hunting lodge at Rominten, was leased to a man named Kallits in 1905. Now, on the ground of sundry grievances, including charges of personal drunkenness and allowing disturbances on the premises, the chief court marshal applied for the rescission of the lease. It was shown in the course of the hearing that Kallits never obtained a liquor license, but that he had been drinking. The local authorities not having enforced this license, the court found in favor of the Kaiser. The long hearing ended by the court finding for the defendant, who, presumably, will remain the tenant of the hotel.

SUICIDE OVER FALLS.

Unknown Man Leaped Into Rapids Above the Cataract.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 15.—At 10 o'clock tonight a man, who was dressed in underwear or very light clothing, was seen to jump from the bridge between the mainland and Green Island into the rapids. He was swept over the American Falls. The locality was searched, but nothing was found. Nightwatchman Hardywood and his son witnessed the suicide. He appeared to be a man six feet tall, with dark mustache.

Magistrate Wallace, in London, in sentencing Charles Stevenson, 27 years of age, who was charged with theft, regretted that in view of the prisoner's bad record the young man had refused to take advantage of his father's offer to pay his expenses to Canada, where he might begin life anew.

As the result of an explosion yesterday morning of a barrel of oil tar in the cellar of Blau & Burmann's wholesale drug house at Rochester, N. Y., John Schleifer, an employee, had his face literally blown in, and died soon afterwards. Fire followed the explosion, but was soon extinguished.

SUICIDE OF THAW WITNESS.

Bert C. Teskey, New York, Killed Himself in Toronto.

Toronto despatch: The man who committed suicide in the lodging-house at 109 York street on Saturday, March 23, has been identified as Bert C. Teskey, of New York, a stranger, who stopped at the Iroquois Hotel, York and King streets, just the day before he turned on the gas and ended his life, and who claimed to be a witness who was wanted at the Thaw murder trial in New York.

The man stated at the hotel that he was wanted as a witness in the Thaw trial, and had left New York rather than give testimony. Mr. Rankin last night wrote to the firm of lawyers in New York mentioned in the letter, and will hold the body until a reply is received.

"Haunted by furies, I am chasing myself from place to place, and can find no rest anywhere." This sentence was found written in the notebook taken from the man. The suicide left behind him also a note asking forgiveness for his deed, and saying he had an incurable disease, that his business was a failure, and that he feared to be dependent upon his friends.

While at the hotel Teskey claimed to have relatives at St. Mary's, Ont.

GROCERY STORE BANDIT.

Montreal Man Attempts to Rob Woman at Point of Revolver.

Montreal, April 15.—George Etienne, twenty-five years of age, was arrested today, charged with attempting to rob a woman at the point of his revolver. Etienne entered a small grocery store of Miss Coriella Gagnant, 21 St. Christophe street, and pointed a revolver at her demanding that she hand him over all her money, and threatened if she did not do so in a hurry he would blow off her head.

His loud words attracted the attention of the woman's sister, who was in the rear of the store, and when she hurried into the store Etienne pocketed his revolver and fled into the street without making any further attempt to obtain money from the first threat he made when he entered.

WRONG NAME MENTIONED.

Cogrove Brewery Not Implicated in Saintfield Affair.

Toronto despatch: Through an error the name of the Cogrove Brewery Company was mentioned in connection with the report of the inquest regarding the death of Mrs. Homer Gregg, at Saintfield. The officials who gave evidence were from the Copeland Brewing Company, of Toronto, and not from the Cogrove Company, as stated. It was not the name of the Cogrove Brewery Company that was subsequently found, and this company's name was not mentioned in the case.

BLOWN TWENTY FEET.

Leander Crossman Killed by Dynamite Explosion Near Dorchester.

Dorchester, N. B., April 15.—A shocking accident, with a fatal termination, occurred at the Interoceanic copper mines, about three miles from Dorchester, yesterday afternoon. The accident was caused by the premature explosion of a stick of dynamite. Leander Crossman, the victim, was working in the mine getting a charge ready for firing, when the explosive was prematurely discharged.

The unfortunate man was thrown over twenty feet and horribly mangled. One eye was torn from its socket and the sight of the other destroyed, while the face was lacerated beyond description. After lingering in great agony until 8 o'clock he died.

Lots of men always know what to do; few of them know what not to do.

THEATRE SCENE OF SHOOTING.

Actress Sang While Wealthy Pittsburger Shot Himself.

Pittsburg, April 15.—With her arms outstretched toward a tier of boxes in the Grand Opera House at 3.20 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Ethel Levy, divorced wife of George M. Cohan, started singing the chorus of "Unrequited Love"; at the same time Robert M. Crow, 25 years of age, a stockholder and officer in several banks, including the Union Trust Company, owned by H. C. Frick, arose in a box, drew a revolver and shot himself through the stomach.

The house was crowded to its capacity, the majority being women. Without missing a note, Miss Levy finished her song, and as Crow tumbled over and almost fell out of the box until the employees rushed to the box, the audience thought the shooting was part of Miss Levy's act.

They applauded her singing, and when officers picked up the dying man it became known instead of being part of the show, a tragedy had taken place before their eyes. There was a panic then, and despite the singing of Miss Levy, women battled to get out, and a number received slight hurts. The display of nerve by Miss Levy was almost remarkable. While singing she saw Crow draw the revolver, rise out of his chair and fire the fatal shot, yet she continued her act.

Crow was an intimate friend of Harry K. Thaw. His relatives declare the Thaw testimony aggravated an ailment from which he had been suffering for years. It is believed the in an afternoon paper found in Crow's pocket, caused him to entirely lose his reason and make the attempt on his life.

THAT TRAIN WRECK.

A RAIL BROKE AND FOUR CARS ROLLED DOWN EMBANKMENT.

The People on the Immigrant Cars Were Cooking Their Dinner—The Debris Took Fire and Men Pinned Beneath It Could Not Be Rescued, and Were Burned to Death.

Chapleau despatch: A terrible disaster by which the westbound Imperial Limited was wrecked and fifteen persons, chiefly English immigrants, were either killed or burned to death, took place twenty-two miles west of here place yesterday. The train was running at a little over twenty miles an hour and was rounding a curve when the rear left the rails, was torn away from the engine and mail car ahead, and plunged down the embankment to a small ice-covered lake. It was followed by two immigrant cars. The cars and a first-class coach crashed into each other at the bottom of the bank. The immigrant cars were crowded with people who were engaged in cooking dinner. The acetylene lights were also burning. From these two sources flames spread through the debris with incredible rapidity. The wounded, seeing the flames approaching, cried out pitifully for help. Many of them were pinned down beneath the wreckage.

He apparently got the material he was looking for, but the sermon was never delivered. The committee which passed upon the charges was composed of such men as ex-Mayor Seth Low and Francis Lynde Stetson.

C. E. MASSON ACQUITTED.

Some Doubt as to Who Struck the Blow in Hockey Game.

Cornwall despatch: Charles E. Masson, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of the late Owen McCourt on March 6, was found not guilty to-day at the Spring Assizes, held by Mr. Justice Magee. Although five witnesses swore positively that McCourt was struck and felled by Masson, there were as many more witnesses who claimed that a few minutes previously McCourt received a vicious blow from Champerlain. The defence made a lot of this evidence, and the outcome was the acquittal of Masson.

MR. ST. JOHN'S ESTATE.

Value is Placed at Less Than $10,000—Too Good to Others.

Toronto, April 15.—It is said that the late Mr. St. John's estate will be under $10,000, and consists mainly of insurance.

Mr. St. John's unfeeling heartiness of manner precluded the idea that he was ever anything but highly successful in all his ventures.

It was not the type of man to parade his misfortune, but the fact was, that the late Speaker was hard hit by fortune on more than one occasion.

His great generosity and sympathy with those in want prevented him from accumulating wealth.

In order years ago to present the $1,500 to help the church out of its difficulties, Mr. St. John mortgaged his home for the last $500.

FATAL FIRE AT LISBON.

Many Persons, Including Children, Were Killed or Injured.

Lisbon, April 15.—There was a disastrous fire last night near the central market. Many persons, including a number of children, were killed, or received injuries.

The fire was in a house near the central market that was occupied by eighteen tenants.

More than a dozen persons were burned to death or killed by jumping from the burning houses. The Duke of Oporto, brother of the King, cooperated with the firemen and saved three persons.

16 CALVES IN SIX YEARS.

Kentucky Cow Gives Birth to Batch of Five.

Lexington, Ky., April 15.—A cow belonging to John McClintock gave birth to five perfectly formed calves this morning. Four of them were born alive, but the fifth was dead.

This remarkable cow has had the startling record of having given birth to sixteen calves in six years, having triplets twice, twins twice, and a single calf. All these she has raised to maturity, some of them now being the most valuable cows in Mr. McClintock's herd.

THE EX-PROVOST'S LAPSE.

After 51 Years a Total Abstainer Drank Glass of Claret.

Pittsburg, April 15.—After 51 years of total abstinence, Sir Robert Cranston, ex-Provost of Edinburgh, and one of the most distinguished guests at the Carnegie dedication, dropped off the water wagon last evening when, in a glass of claret, he drank to the health of his fellow Scot, Andrew Carnegie. Lady Cranston, his wife, had been about being a terrible inebriate after he had drained the glass.

There is one man in luck these days and he is the farmer. The man who wrestles with the cows and teaches the calves to drink out of a pail, is on top financially and seems to have the whip hand over the rest of us poor mortals who live in towns. Grain is high priced and the farmer rakes in all kinds of money for a load of hay. Pork and beef bring lots of cash, butter is dear and the eggs gathered in every day from the chicken coop are almost worth their weight in coin of the realm. Of course the man can bind the hen can report that anyway an egg is a full day's work for almost any hen. Just the same with produce prices uniformly high. Townspeople are getting envious of the farmers.

The favor gained by the Royal Scots Concert Co. in their first appearance in Athens a few weeks ago fully warranted their reengagement, and at the concert in the town hall on Friday evening they but added to the laurels already won. It was an evening of delight to all music lovers. Love for and appreciation of Scottish songs are not confined to the sons of the heather. Whether the theme be the love of the land, the love of its maidens, the pride of clan, or the valor of its army, there is a spirit in the songs that has gained the admiration of all nationalities, and when they are interpreted and voiced as they were on Friday evening a rich and rare pleasure was afforded all. Athenians have only pleasant memories of the Royal Scots and wish them a continuance of the success that has everywhere attended their Canadian tour.

Miss Margaret Taplin, daughter of Mr. H. Taplin of Ottawa recently returned from New York where she took a course in voice culture under the best masters. The Free Press in referring to her first appearance in Ottawa has the following:—"Her voice is contralto of wonderful compass resonance of tone that is delicious. The handling of her voice is almost perfect, and there were on all sides congratulations passing from one to another that Ottawans would often have the pleasure of hearing her. Her songs were "In Autumn" (Franz) and "The Years at the Spring."

Montreal, April 16.—The second disastrous fire within two weeks visited McGill University early this morning and practically destroyed the medical building, one of the oldest and most valuable of splendid collection of the college grounds. The results of the fire were most disastrous, as in addition to the usual equipment of a college medical building, the museum, one of the best on the continent, was destroyed. The loss of this cannot be considered in money value, as the museum had been collecting for nearly three-quarters of a century, and contained many absolutely priceless specimens. The magnificent library which contained many works as valuable in their way as the collection in the museum, was, however, partially saved. A conservative estimate places the loss by this second disaster at half a million, with a strong probability of it running far beyond that. How the fire originated is not known, but there are strong suspicions that both it and the previous one were incendiary.
