Centenary of the Proclamation of the Peace of The Church.

(1713-1913.)

Rome, Palazzo Altompe, 8 Via. S. Apollinare, May 28th, 1912.

Stm.—The President of the Supreme Council appointed by His Holiness Pius X, in a letter of His Eminence the Cardinal Secretary of State, dated January 24th, 1912, for the celebration of the Centenary of the proclamation of the Peace of the Church, has sent to all the Bishops, Vicars and Prefets Apostolic of the Catholic world a circular and a program of the festivities which the Supreme Council proposes to carry out in the year 1913, in which the sixteenth Centenary of the Edict of Constantine occurs.

The undersigned has, therefore, the honour of sending you herewith this program, so that you may publish it in your paper or periodical, and give it the widest possible diffusion among Catholics, to invite them to take part in this solemn centennial celebration, which, according to the express desire of the Holy Father, should prove a world-wide manifestation of faith.

At the same time you are earnestly requested to report in your publication the communications made to it by the Supreme Council, to make known the progress of the work.

Yours, etc.
MARIO PRINCE CHIGI, President.

Prof. ORAZIO MARUCCI, General Secretary.

THE SUPREME COUNCIL.

PROGRAMME.

The year 1913 brings the 16th centenary of the granting of freedom and peace to the Church, through the official recognition of Christianity and of the essential rights of Christian society, proclaimed by the Emperor Constantine in the Edict of Milan in the spring of the year 313.

The great fact, which followed closely the glorious victory won by Constantine over Maxentius under the walls of Rome on the 28th October 312, has a weight and a meaning of the highest import in history, and calls for a special commemoration in our own days. It changed the fortunes of the world, and in its centennial celebration all the nations should rejoice, for to Christianity they owe their highest glories, their chief progress in material and moral welfare, and generally their advance in civilization.

Catholic nations have special reasons for joy in this commemoration, and above all Italy, which more than all the others felt the beneficent influence of the new civilization in religion, manners and customs, sciences, literature and the fine arts. And among all the cities of Italy, Rome has its own peculiar grounds for exultation, as this seat of the Successors of St. Peter shone with a new glory, and shed the light of its supremacy, of faith, of justice and of charity over the whole civilized world.

Under the inspiration of these lofty ideas and noble sentiments, two Roman Associations—the Head Association of the Holy Cross and the Society for rendering Honour to the Christian Martyrs—have initiated a movement to make a solemn commemoration in the year 1913 of the great event of the year 313, which in its importance reaches far beyond the bounds of individual nations and belongs to the world's history.

The chief lines of the programme, which the Supreme Council appointed by the Pope intends, with the aid of local Committees, to carry out, are the following:

1. The erection of a sacred monument over the Milvian Bridge, where the Emperor Constantine defeated Maxentius, which will serve as a memorial of glorious deeds to future generations, and at the same time minister to the spiritual needs of the population in that new quarter.

2. The promotion in Italy and elsewhere of solemn acts of thanksgiving to God, and of special festivities, together with publications, learned as well as popular, so that all may know the importance of the great religious and historical fact that is being commemorated.

All Catholics, therefore, are invited to take part in this celebration, through the constitution of local Committees under the direction of their own Bishops, and in touch with the Supreme Council of Rome, so that everywhere there may be a commemoration of so great an event in the manner best suited to each [circumstances].

A remembrance of this first triumph of the Church and of the liberty and true peace brought by Jesus Christ to the world with the conquering sign of the Cross, is all the more opportune in the times in which we live, that the power of darkness are waging fierce war on all sides against the Christian Religion, with tendencies and inducements of a return to paganism.

The Cross of Christ was the banner under which were proclaimed those principles that freed mankind from the shameful yoke of idolatry and from the barbarism of slavery, taught the true equality and brotherhood of man, raised woman to her noble mission in life, and gave rise to the marvellous formation of the nations, which, by virtue of the supernatural principles of Christianity they embraced, have for so many centuries been the safeguard of human society and the bulwark of true civilization.

This solemn commemoration of the victory of the Cross should also be the expression of our heartfelt prayer that under this glorious sign all men may join with us in the profession of the true faith, of sincere and ardent love towards the Divine Redeemer of souls, and that all may be united as brothers in Christian charity, which is the best pledge of enduring peace and the source of moral and material well-being.

Rome, 1st of March 1912.
The President,
MARIO PRINCE CHIGI,
The General Secretary,
ORAZIO MARUCCI.

Letter of His Holiness Cardinal Raphael Merry del Val, Secretary of State to His Holiness, to His Holiness Cardinal F. di Paolo Casati, Bishop of Frascati.

Most Eminent and Most Rev. Lord: It was to be expected that the Head Association of the Holy Cross and the Society for Rendering Honour to the Christian Martyrs should take the initiative in a solemn and universal commemoration of the 16th Centenary of the Edict of Constantine, by which the Church at last obtained official recognition and that liberty and peace, of which the price was the Cross of Christ and the blood of the Christian Martyrs.

The Holy Father has learnt of this initiative with lively satisfaction, and is much pleased that on the eve of such a memorable date the happy idea has arisen of inviting all the Catholics of the world to celebrate a fact, which, preceded by the glorious victory of Constantine over Maxentius, marked for the Church the first of those triumphs, numerous as its persecutions, that have accompanied it in its career and will accompany it till the end of time.

In order that these festivities may be worthy of the great event which it is proposed to commemorate after a lapse of sixteen centuries, His Holiness desires to entrust the programme and its execution to a Supreme Council, of which He calls to form part, excellent Catholics, well known for their sincere faith, their zeal and activity, and assigns to them the different offices as follows:

Honorary President—H. Exc. Prince D. Marcantonio Colonna.
President—H. Exc. Prince D. Mario Obigli.
Vice-Presidents—Count Vincenzo Maschi, Mgr. Lobinger, Mgr. Anthony De Waal.

Religious Assistant—Mgr. Vincenzo Bianchi Cagliari.
Treasurer—Cav. Camillo Serbelloni.
General Secretary—Comm. Prof. Orazio Marucci.
Secretaries—Augusto Bignardi, for the Italian Language; Cav. Dr. Pio Pagliucci, for the Italian language; The V. Rev. Emmanuel Bailly, for the French language; Mgr. John Prior, for the English language; The Rev. Dr. John Jedic, for the German language; The V. Rev. Joseph Vives y Tuto, Q. M. C., for the Spanish language.

The August Pontiff entrusts the high protection of this Council to Your Eminence, well knowing that if the activity of its members is displayed under the wise guidance of Y. H., the solemn commemoration of the Victory of the Cross will prove what His Holiness desires it to be, a solemn manifestation of faith and a warm appeal to all Catholics to draw nearer to this August Sign, in which is salvation for all life and the hope of a glorious resurrection.

Lastly, while I beg Y. H. to make known to the aforesaid persons this gracious act of the Pontifical consideration, I communicate to you the Apostolic Benediction, which the Holy Father gives them from His heart, and above all to Y. H., in token of His fatherly benevolence.

With feelings of profound veneration, I most humbly kiss Your Eminence's hands, and have much pleasure in signing myself
Your Eminence's most humble and most devoted servant,
R. CARD. MERRY DEL VAL,
His Holiness' Cardinal Secretary of State, Bishop of Frascati.

St. John's Eve in Rome.

Time was—in the long ago days when Rome was still a glimmering and an enchanting city—when the midnight fair on St. John's eve was an occasion for light hearted rejoicing, but of recent years its character has altered, and by those who now take part in its festivities it is generally regarded as an excellent opportunity for sturdiness and an all-night sitting at an altar.

Inside the vast Basilica of San Giovanni Laterano, on this twenty-third day of June, as is customary on a 'festa,' there are silken hangings of crimson, white and gold, which somewhat mar the beauty of its lofty marble pillars, and Yessops are being used, and outside, the broad and gray space which stretches between St. John Lateran and Santa Croce, there are a large number of gaudily decorated booths and stalls. On these various miscellaneous articles, of a more or less inartistic nature, are offered for sale, and refreshments, consisting chiefly of roast pork and ciambelli—small ring-shaped cakes of an insipid taste—are greatly in demand. Small statues, fashioned in quaintly grotesque designs, are on sale at an adjoining booth, and on another masses of purple lavender and perfumed clusters of fading carnations lie heaped together in confusion. And it is for this reason that the scent of lavender to one who knows Rome is inseparably connected with the Midsummer Eve in the Eternal City. Later on, when the brief southern twilight has given place to the grey gloom of the short June night, colored lanterns gleam out amongst the trees, flaring torches are placed at intervals amidst the stalls and booths, and a mingled din, in which drums, pipes, trumpets and shrill Roman voices all play their part, rises in pandemonium fashion upon the air, while overhead the moon leads to the motley scene a touch of illusive glamour to which it can in reality lay no claim.

There is no doubt that the midnight fair held annually on the eve of the feast of St. John the Baptist is, in common with so many other picturesque Italian customs, a relic of the days of pagan Rome. From time immemorial bonfires have blazed on the hillsides throughout Italy on this particular night of the year, when witches and the power of evil were popularly supposed to be taking their walks abroad—and Verro describes how the peasantry of his day made enormous bonfires of hay and straw and other inflammable materials and danced and leaped through them in order that they and their families might be preserved from evil influences. Fire and noise were indispensable adjuncts to the pagan ceremonies, and they are usually to be found in the present day once as well.

The rite of dancing round the fire is also mentioned by the canonist Balsamon, in his comment on the sixty-fifth canon of the Council of Trent, and may be referred even to the most ancient oracles of Saturn, by which it was ordained that children should be swiftly passed through the roaring flames.

'If you would have a medicine to cure all wounds and cuts,' says Story, in 'Roba di Roma,' 'go out before daylight and pluck the little flower called Piatro, St. John's wort, and make an infusion of it before the sun is up, but at all events be sure, on the eve of this day, to place a plate of salt at the door, for it is the witches' festival, and no one of the tribe can pass the salt to injure you without first going every grain, a task which will occupy the whole night and thus save you from harm.'

But the feast of St. John the Baptist in Italy today makes for peace and good will, for the rejoicings have been Christianized. Dances in disguise and amiable arrangements, and presents are sometimes exchanged between friends and relations. At the family dinner on the 24th of June a dainty dish of snails—the eating of which was formerly supposed to ensure good luck—figures in the menu, which also includes fresh green and purple figs, eaten with slices of succulent ham—a combination which is in reality more pleasing than the description would lead one to believe.

Dominion Day.

On Monday last—Dominion Day—Canada celebrated its national holiday. This was her forty-fifth birthday; the forty-fifth anniversary of Confederation. For Prince Edward Island Monday was the 39th anniversary of her entrance into the Confederation. These have been forty-five years of unexampled progress and prosperity. It is simply marvellous what has been accomplished in Canada in this space of less than half a century. Progress, prosperity, expansion, development are seen everywhere, not only in the fertile West but the equally fertile and industrial East. The record of forty-five years is one of splendid activities and fruitful achievements. Confederation, from which all this progress and prosperity have sprung, was not accomplished without much contention and opposition. It was the result of wise statesmanship, compromise and sacrifice of cherished opinions, here and there. It must be a source of extreme satisfaction and thankfulness to the veteran, Sir Chas. Tupper, the sole survivor of the band of patriotic statesmen who laid deep and solid the basis of Confederation, to be permitted to see and enjoy the extraordinary fruits of the wisdom and foresight of himself and his fellow Fathers of Confederation.

The Democratic Candidate

As will be seen elsewhere in this issue, Woodrow Wilson has been chosen by the Democrats as their candidate for the Presidency of the United States. The convention was a most strenuous one and lasted over a week, and necessitated no less than forty-six ballots to determine the choice of the assembled delegates. The rules of the Democratic convention require a two-third vote for a choice. The fight from the start was between Wilson and Clark. At the start Clark led by long odds; but Wilson steadily gained, passed him and finally won out. Wilson had been President of Princeton University up to two years ago, when he was forced into nomination for Governor of New Jersey. He was elected and proved a splendid Governor. Should he become President he will likely establish a good record.

The first "Back to Canada" train will start on Monday with a contingent of New Englanders. Though their repentance be late, they will receive a hearty welcome and find a country where their brains and energy can achieve all they deserve.—Montreal Herald.

The Canadian electoral system may have its defects, but it has the merit of being "short, sharp and decisive." The country is not kept in turmoil and a state of business unrest for months before and after an election. When the voice of the people has once made itself manifest, there is a prompt and frictionless adjustment of conditions from which there is no appeal.—Vancouver Province.

That Mr. Bryan should still be a force in American politics is extraordinary. He has, probably, the most superficial intellect of any man prominent in public life today. Even more than Mr. Roosevelt he illustrates by his power the primitiveness of the American people. It is still in the stage of hero worship. It cannot assimilate ideas. It can comprehend only personal ally.—Montreal Herald.

Report says that when Premier Asquith's suffragette assistant tried to shake the epaulets off him, he "expressed himself in forcible terms." And indeed if a British Prime Minister could ever be pardoned for using such words in public, it would be when a suffragette virago had grabbed him and was trying to shake him out of his court uniform.—Hamilton Herald.

The Minister of Finance makes the interesting prediction that the trade of Canada will pass the billion mark this year, and that the Dominion will receive half a million immigrants. Both figures are large increases over last year. Mr. White should take warning from the experience of his predecessors and count his immigrants carefully. He should remember that the immigrants reported as having arrived in the ten years before 1911 were not all found by the census enumerators. The number fell nearly a million short.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

Taken by and large, the advantage would seem to be with Great Britain and her unwritten constitution as against her overseas progeny who thought it the part of wisdom to reduce their federal contract to writing. The United States as a nation are today conducting the practical business of government in many essentials in direct contravention of the principles sanctified in their constitution; and in Canada we are enduring the repressive effects of constitutional enactments which, framed in wisdom of even a later day, are sadly out of joint with the times.—Ottawa Citizen.

The Roosevelt Emblem.

Of all things in the world the men engaged in the formation of the Roosevelt party have adopted the bandanna as an emblem. They appeared upon the political risalo on Sunday after their religious services with flaming bandannas tied around their arms, which, it was explained, stood for the "plain people" by whom they were ordinarily used. It is safe to say that not twenty per cent. of the people of the United States, plain or otherwise, have ever seen a bandanna. It would hardly have been more fantastic and quixotic had each member of the gathering appeared with a silk stocking around his arm, for it was customary in former days for bandannas and silk stockings to be the property of the same person.

The last political use made of the bandanna, according to the Boston Transcript, was when Allen G. Thurman ran for Vice-President of the United States on the ticket with Cleveland during the latter's second campaign, but that was not to lure the "plain people," but in compliment to Senator Thurman, the "Old Roman," who always carried one of these survivals of a previous generation and used it with sonorous effect. It added much not only to his own relief but to the gaiety of the Senate. When Roscoe Conkling was making one of the efforts of his life and had just reached the dizzy height in his peroration, Senator Thurman found it necessary to blow his nose. Never had the old bandanna been applied with more startling effect.

There was a bugle call whose echoes rang almost to the dome of the Capitol. The Senate burst into a roar, and the New York statesman dropped from his Empress with a dull, sickening thud. The genuine bandanna in the past was most apparent in the central swath between Hamilton and Albert, a good deal of damage was done outside, particularly in the Western Railway yards.

CONFUSION IN THE CITY. The blow was so sudden that at first indescribable confusion reigned, but soon order was restored and relief gangs organized. The city power works went out of commission, and there is no light, which must greatly hamper the work tonight. Not taking any chances against disorder the contingents of city troops at Sewell military camp in Manitoba have been wired to return by special train. Two fires broke out, but fortunately the brigade was able to get a stream of water playing, and there appears to be little danger of a general conflagration. At this hour details of losses with names of killed and injured are not obtainable.

Another Account. Regina, Sask., June 30.—The estimated killed by the cyclone at present is thirty with hundreds injured. The damage will total millions. Three churches have been destroyed and other public buildings. The hospitals are full and temporary hospitals being formed. Among the killed is George Bryan, Manager of the Tudhope Anderson Co., whose warehouse was demolished.

A Destructive Tornado.

Regina City In Ruins. Regina, Sask., June 30.—A terrific wind storm accompanied by hail and rain struck this city from the North at ten minutes to five this afternoon, cutting through the heart of the business centre, causing a loss of life variously estimated at between thirty and fifty souls, and destroying property to the extent of five million dollars or more. The chief loss of life took place in the Saskatchewan Government Telephone Exchange, which was blown down. Relief gangs are searching the ruins and bringing out the dead and injured, but the number of telephone operators in the building is not known.

200 BUILDINGS WRECKED.

Two hundred private residences were carried down in the blast. Substantial brick buildings also went, including the Canadian Pacific Railway's round house. The central part of the storm lay between Hamilton Street on the East and Albert Street to the West, including between them the greater portion of the financial, business and shopping districts.

THE RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT.

Before it entered the city, the storm passed directly over the new Provincial Parliament buildings, north of Wascana Lake, but it is impossible yet to obtain word as to any damage there. Crossing the Lake its path North was over the Dominion Jail buildings, when it struck the most select residential section, included in Sixteenth, Fifteenth, Fourteenth, Thirteenth and Victoria Avenues. On the latter are the land titles and other public buildings, and a number of big churches.

SIX ELEVATORS DESTROYED.

Next in order came Twelfth and Eleventh Avenue and South Railway Street, and these cover the financial and business districts. Not abating one whit in fury the storm passed over the Canadian Pacific railway, taking in its course half a dozen elevators, one of which fell plumb across the main line tracks tying up traffic, which was however, later diverted. It then passed to that portion of the city lying North of the railway, where the wholesale houses are largely situated, while beyond is a big residential district. Although the full fury of the storm was most apparent in the central swath between Hamilton and Albert, a good deal of damage was done outside, particularly in the Western Railway yards.

Winnipeg, June 30.—A message from J. R. Sutherland, Superintendent of Government Telephones at Regina, at 9.30 tonight, said that in the destruction of the Main Telephone Exchange 20 girls lost their lives and forty were injured. There were 75 girls in the building at the time when the rear and front of the structure fell in. The elevators along the Canadian Pacific Railway destroyed were those of the Western Canada Flour Mills Co., Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Winnipeg Elevator Co., and the Saskatchewan Farmers Elevator Co. Coke & Varnstone Elevator Co., on the Canadian Northern Line, was also demolished.

Turbulent Member Ejected

Intense embitterment had been engendered in England by the forcible feeding of the imprisoned suffragettes who declared a hunger strike while in jail. This was reflected in an extraordinary scene last Wednesday afternoon in the House of Commons, when George Lansbury, a Socialist member, denounced Premier Asquith and the government in such virulent terms that he was ordered to leave the House by the Speaker, who threatened to have him ejected unless he went out voluntarily.

Timothy Healy, the Nationalist, had appealed to Premier Asquith to release the women and the Premier replied that they could leave prison this afternoon on undertaking not to repeat their offences. Mr. Lansbury immediately protested himself at the treasury bench, shaking his fist in the face of Premier Asquith and the other ministers, with his face only a few inches from that of Mr. Asquith, Mr. Lansbury screamed, "You're beyond contempt, you know the women cannot give such an undertaking. It is dishonourable to ask them to do so. Talk of Russian atrocities, why you will go down to history as the torturer and murderer of innocent women. You ought to be driven out of office."

The House was in disorder. The Speaker, however, finally secured quiet and ordered Mr. Lansbury to leave.

He replied: "I am not going while these contemptible things are torturing and murdering women." He yelled this out in a loud voice and appeared to be much overwrought, but when the
