

IN THE BOX.

(From Chamber's Journal.)

MR. SUNNYSIDE'S STORY

(Continued from First Page.)

When I had ascertained beyond doubt, and by trying again and again, that such was really the case, I staggered back to my pallet bed, and, in my agonized condition, with my courage all my strength went from me in a moment, I sank down on my knees and burst into a flood of tears...

I did not doubt for a moment that Madame had given me the wrong key by accident, not by design. I felt that she had discovered the mistake; probably she would never discover it; but even supposing that she had, it would not matter to her, as she would not have been able to find the key in the lock...

I pushed the lock as before, and the door opened. I stepped into the room, and saw a light of steps about a dozen in number, leading up to a door at the end of the passage. I stepped up to the door, and it was open. I entered the room, and saw a man sitting at a table...

I found myself, when I could look round, in a room of small room, with a table and a chair. I looked at the man, and he looked at me. I saw that he was a man of some rank, and I felt that I was in a dangerous situation...

I pushed the second brick, and the flag moved in place to the floor. I stepped into the room, and saw a man sitting at a table. I saw that he was a man of some rank, and I felt that I was in a dangerous situation...

I pushed the second brick, and the flag moved in place to the floor. I stepped into the room, and saw a man sitting at a table. I saw that he was a man of some rank, and I felt that I was in a dangerous situation...

I pushed the second brick, and the flag moved in place to the floor. I stepped into the room, and saw a man sitting at a table. I saw that he was a man of some rank, and I felt that I was in a dangerous situation...

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

After one quick glance upward at the door of my cell was opened, I neither looked at nor spoke to my visitor; but sat as silent and unmoved as though I had been alone, with my hands on my knees, and my head resting on my hands.

Archie and Lake Huron Railroad

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.

GOING EAST.

Table with 2 columns: Station, Fare. Includes GODEFRICH, CLINTON, SEAFORTH, CAIROBROOK, MITCHELL, STRATFORD, CAMBROOK, HARRISVILLE, GODFRICH.

GOING WEST.

Table with 2 columns: Station, Fare. Includes GODEFRICH, CLINTON, SEAFORTH, CAIROBROOK, MITCHELL, STRATFORD, CAMBROOK, HARRISVILLE, GODFRICH.

Huron Signal.

GODEFRICH, C. W., FEB. 2, 1864.

VOL. XVII. OF THE WEEKLY "SIGNAL."

With this week's number the Weekly Signal enters upon its Seventeenth year, and our readers will admit to be a respectable age, considering the mutations to which newspapers in this new country are subject.

In the introduction to the volume just closed, we adverted somewhat lengthily to the early history of the Signal, so that we need not dwell upon it at present.

We take this opportunity, however, of thanking our friends for the generous support they have extended to their County paper since it came into the hands of the present proprietor.

The subscription list has increased constantly and rapidly during the past year, and the new volume commences with a large accession of good names.

In this respect we may say that our brightest anticipations have been more than realized, and the voluntary readers thus given in our favor by the public generally is a sufficient proof that our humble efforts are appreciated.

Encouraged by the tangible marks of approval during the past, it shall be our constant aim to render the paper still more attractive to the general reader, and to the advancement of the people of the Counties of Huron and Bruce in all that tends to material prosperity and intellectual refinement, while at the same time we will endeavor to advocate with frankness the political principles with which the Signal has always been identified.

We tender our sincere thanks to the friends in various parts of the County who have interested themselves in obtaining copies of the names of new subscribers.

With regard to money matters, we would briefly suggest to those who have allowed their subscriptions to fall in arrears that it is but just and right that the printer should be paid.

Our running expenses are extremely heavy, and the hundreds of dollars spread over the country, if sent promptly, as might be done in most cases without the slightest inconvenience, would save us much time and trouble.

We shall, during the current year, if spared, and under every exertion to place before our readers the latest news, both local and foreign, which, together with a judicious selection of general reading, will we trust render the Signal a welcome guest at every fireside.

SOUTH LEEDS.

Now that the South Leeds election is over, we may say, on a review of the circumstances of the case, that it is by no means astonishing to learn of the defeat of the Solicitor-General.

In the first place, the constituency was by no means safe. It has, we believe, returned a liberal candidate only on one occasion, and that by a very small majority.

The constituency, moreover, is composed mainly of Roman Catholics and Orangemen, and Messrs. D'Arcy Metcalfe and J. H. Cameron continued to write the opposite elements in favor of Mr. Jones.

The plausible arguments of these gentlemen, together with a liberal expenditure of opposition money, secured the overthrow of Mr. Richards, who was left to fight his own battle as he best could.

The supposition of the Ministerial leaders in this case is something we cannot account for. The Ministry might feel confident of being able to hold their ground notwithstanding the loss of Mr. Richards' vote, but it is certain that his assistance would have been valuable. Why, then, was no determined effort made to carry South Leeds?

As a result, they should not shut out any of the out of the world. They were just as confident of the fall of the Ministry before the last session, and from all we can learn they will be again disappointed.

From Quebec.

JANUARY, 31st, 1864.

The heads of departments officially notified the members of the House of Commons that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

It was quite impossible to follow him through the mysterious windings of such a labyrinth, and I began to consider myself a lost man.

Further, I am by no means pleased with the Arithmetic. To about half a dozen of the school, it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination, and I am not sure that it is not judicious to give them a copy of the subject of the examination.

On the 1st of February, I was notified that the documents would be removed to Ottawa on the 1st of February.

COUNTIES' COUNCIL.

Friday.

The special committee reported on the meeting of the 11th inst., and the Hon. Mr. Trainor, Inspector of Weights and Measures, Mr. Havelock having resigned.

Motion in amendment by Mr. Case, seconded by Mr. McDonald, that Mr. James Stuart be Inspector.

The vote being taken the Report was sustained.

The Committee appointed to consider the best means of improving the Roads and Harbors reported a scheme drawn up with that view. Reported noted.

Mr. Pinkerton moved, that the County of Bruce assume the responsibility incurred by the township of Greenock in building a bridge over the Trent river, on condition that a toll be removed.

After a warm discussion it was resolved that half of said responsibility be assumed by the County of Bruce.

On motion by Mr. Krebs the sum of $370 was granted for the construction of a bridge over the Sable river between the townships of Arvan and Amabel.

The Road and Harbors Committee reported, recommending the construction of embankments on various bridges.

The Road and Harbors Committee reported in reference to the Registrar's memorial, that there was no additional room in the Court House to spare.

Moved by Mr. Pinkerton, seconded by Mr. Case, that the sum of $75,000 be raised by the County of Bruce for the grading of the leading roads. Lost by a large majority.

Some one else advised the Bruce Reeves to set up a set of printed resolutions and fill them in as occasion might require.

(Laughter.)

Moved by Mr. Havelock, seconded by Mr. Malloch, that whereas a number of buildings have lately been burned by incendiaries, this Council do hereby award $250 for the apprehension of the guilty party or parties.—Carried.

Mr. Churchill offers £50 for the apprehension of the person who set fire to his barn.

An interminable number of reports and resolutions of all kinds were brought forward, but they can well wait to wait publication in the printed Minutes, which will be shortly issued.

The Council then adjourned until the 2nd Tuesday in June.

CORRECTION.—In our last issue the printer made an ugly blunder, which we had no opportunity of correcting before the paper went to press, viz: instead of following up in setting up the motion of Mr. Knell with reference to the expenditure of $20,000 on certain roads, the figures were changed in all sorts of ways.

The following is the motion as it should have appeared:

Moved by Mr. Knell, seconded by Mr. Gibson, that the County Council raise the sum of $20,000 by debentures, to mature in ten years, and to be expended as follows:

- $1000 on the Stephen Mill Road. $2000 to extend the Hay Road. 3500 for Colborne Road, on the Ashfield Road. 3000 for the Wingham Road. 4000 for the Seaford Road.

Carried.

FOR THE SIGNAL.

LU-KNOW.

Being in the village of Lockport, on Tuesday the 26th inst., I was invited to attend a performance to be given by the Good Templars of this town, in aid of the orphanage of the same name.

Having been invited, I went, and was very much interested in the proceedings, and the very interesting manner in which the former anniversary was celebrated, concluded to attend, with the idea that I could, perhaps, say a few pleasant words to the audience, and I was accordingly invited to do so.

Accordingly, at the time appointed, I made my way to the School House, where the meeting was held, which I found very crowded, and it was not without great difficulty that I succeeded in forcing my way to the front of the hall.

I then, in a few words, congratulated the ladies and children, and all who were present, and then, in a few words, congratulated the ladies and children, and all who were present, and then, in a few words, congratulated the ladies and children, and all who were present.

My remarks were very much appreciated, and I was very much interested in the proceedings, and the very interesting manner in which the former anniversary was celebrated, concluded to attend, with the idea that I could, perhaps, say a few pleasant words to the audience, and I was accordingly invited to do so.

Accordingly, at the time appointed, I made my way to the School House, where the meeting was held, which I found very crowded, and it was not without great difficulty that I succeeded in forcing my way to the front of the hall.

I then, in a few words, congratulated the ladies and children, and all who were present, and then, in a few words, congratulated the ladies and children, and all who were present, and then, in a few words, congratulated the ladies and children, and all who were present.

My remarks were very much appreciated, and I was very much interested in the proceedings, and the very interesting manner in which the former anniversary was celebrated, concluded to attend, with the idea that I could, perhaps, say a few pleasant words to the audience, and I was accordingly invited to do so.

