DIRECTIONS.
Infectious Diseases—Distribute by means of a spray freely over the sick room a weak solution (about 1 oz. fluid to 5 pints water). Bed vessels and other utensils should be thoroughly cleansed with a solution of about 1 part to 10.
All Infected Linen and Clothing should be washed in a solution (1 part in 100), and this can be done without fear of injury to the most delicate fabrics, and with the confident expectation of rendering them thoroughly aseptic.
A Wise Precaution in case of infectious disease is to shut off the sick room by means of a sheet saturated with a solution of
For the Bath—If sufficient fluid to cloud the water be added the effect on the body will be found most exhilarating and refreshing.
For the Foot Bath—A teaspoonful of fluid added to the water will be found most beneficial to those troubled with tender feet.

CHAPTER XII.
"Right!" said Vane, with a nod.
"I want a cook. I'll take him on. We sail on to-morrow's tide. Is the notice too short?"
"Not at all," said Ronald. "I shall be glad to be on the move. Where are we bound for?"
To his surprise, Vane coloured,
frowned, and stared at his pipe.
"Look here, Des—Carew, do you mind if I don't answer that question?"
he asked, with extreme gravity. "I'd rather not tell you. Neither the captain nor the crew know; no one knows but myself. If you insist upon my telling you—well, I'm afraid we shan't come to terms; but, if you wait until we've got out in the Channel, I'll tell you not only the place we're bound for, but why we're going there."

"Right!" responded Ronald. "I'm quite satisfied. Tide turns at six, doesn't it? I and my man will be here on the quay then."
They shook hands, and Ronald returned in high spirits to the boarding-house. He got hold of Smithers, took him into the square, and told him of their good fortune. Smithers was quietly delighted.
"I was certain something would turn up, sir," said Smithers; "and this seems to be just the sort of thing to suit you."
"And you too, I hope," said Ronald.
"Anything that will suit you will suit me, sir," returned that cheery individual. "I haven't been to sea before, as the puppy said when they threw him into the river, but I once lived next door to a man whose uncle's daughter married a bo'sun, so that I may say as I know something of seafaring—and I've been down to Greenwich on a penny steamer and wasn't sick; so I dare say I shall get on all right. Anyhow, I can smoke, and, so far as I've seen, that's the most important part of a sailorman's duties. Where may we be going to, sir?"
"I don't know," replied Ronald,
with a laugh, and expecting Smithers'
enthusiasm to vanish; but Smithers re-echoed the laugh, and threw up his head with the optimism characteristic of him.

"Well, sir," he said, "there's worse places than that, as the boy said when he found himself in the jam cupboard.
Six o'clock? Right you are, sir. I'd better go and tell Mrs. Podford, and pack up."
He went off briskly, humming "A Life on the Ocean Wave," and walking with the suggestion of a sailor's lurch in his gait.

CHAPTER XIII.
The books Evelyn had brought her opened a new world to Cara. She devoured them eagerly. A volume stood beside the hopper, and she read as she worked; read by the light of the lantern late into the night in her little room; read in the morning as early as the light would permit her.
Hitherto the monotonous routine of her daily work had, if not contented her, sufficed her; but these books revealed to her the fact of a wider life, of keener pleasures than those of a walk across the moor, an unconscious study of Nature in all her moods.
And, strange as it may seem, she understood and appreciated all that she read; for she was endowed with a keen intelligence, a natural acuteness, a receptive mind, and an imagination which was her Southern birthright.

From the moment she turned the pages of the first volume, she seemed to have stepped into fairyland; for the characters in the book were so novel to her, the scenes depicted so far outside her experience, that they were surrounded by the glamour of romance. She wondered what it would feel like to meet such people as she read of, to see the things the books described; she grew wistful, dreamy; and very often she stood on the brow of the hill and looked down at the village below with a new interest, a vague longing to see more of the world of which she had read.

The flowers Evelyn had given her stood in the little jug on the rough box which formed Cara's dressing-table; and as her eyes wandered to them or she bent over them lovingly, she wondered how soon it would be before Evelyn Desborough came again. She had not long to wait; for three days after her first visit Evelyn drove up in the jingle. Cara heard her and ran quickly to the door, but paused before she reached it, and opened it and went out slowly; but there was a dash of colour in her face and her eyes were bright.

"Here I am again!" said Evelyn,
with her irresistible smile, as she held out her hand, which Cara took, after wiping hers on her apron. "I have brought you some more books; though I suppose you haven't read the others?"

"Yes; every one," said Cara.
"Really!" exclaimed Evelyn, with a laugh. "How quickly you have got through them! I hope you liked them?"
"They were beautiful," said Cara.
"I will get them and give them back to you." She brought them, carrying them carefully. "I have kept them clean; but there may be a little flour
on them."
"That will not matter," said Evelyn. "Here are the others. I have brought you one or two volumes of poetry, for I thought you would like them. All Italians like poetry; and you are Italian, are you not? You do not speak with so strong an accent as your father. I suppose that is because you were brought up here?"
"I suppose so," said Cara indifferently, as if the matter were of no consequence.

"Isn't it a lovely afternoon?" said Evelyn. "I want you to go for a drive with me." Cara looked before her doubtfully, and then at her rough, befloured attire. "There is no wind, the mill is not working, so that you are free," urged Evelyn. "It will be beautiful driving across the moor, and I will not keep you longer than you like. Do come, Cara!"

Even if she had not been longing to go, Evelyn's tone would have been irresistible; and, murmuring, "I will not be many minutes," Cara ran up to her room, her face still flushed, her heart beating fast at the prospect of so novel a pleasure. She was indeed only a few minutes; and when, in her plain serge coat and skirt, she appeared in the doorway, she looked so pretty, so graceful, that Evelyn felt a feminine thrill of admiration.

"Oh, I forgot to give you these flowers," she said, as Cara stepped into the jingle.
"I'd like to have them with me,"
said Cara, taking the flowers eagerly, and raising them to her face. "Those you gave me the other day are not dead yet." She paused a moment.
"Whenever I look at them I think of you."

Evelyn flushed with pleasure.
"You dear girl!" she said. "How beautifully you said that. Now, that's Italian! An English girl would have been too gauche—I mean shy and reserved—to have said anything half so pretty."

Cara lifted her wonderful eyes, and looked at Evelyn thoughtfully.
"You are English," she said; "you are not shy."
Evelyn laughed.
"Oh, but I am sometimes. But I don't feel as if I could be with you;
for we seem to understand each other. We both love books and flowers;
and I dare say there are other things
we have in common."

Cara's dark brows drew together;
she shook her head, and glanced at Evelyn, in her face, her hat, her clothes, the perfectly gauntleted hand.

"Do you mean that we are alike?"
she asked gravely. "That is not true; we are very different. You are a lady, and wear beautiful clothes. I suppose you are very rich. I am the girl at the mill, and poor; there is a great difference between us. I wonder you came to see me and brought me books and flowers. I suppose it is just because you are kind."

Evelyn knew that an evasive answer would be worse than unsatisfactory. She was silent for a moment;
then she said:

"Of course, I know what you mean, Cara. Yes; we are differently placed in life; and I have more of the good things of this world than you have; but, after all, there is not so much difference as you think. We are both women—girls, rather—and,
just beneath the surface, I imagine all girls are very much alike; and I'm afraid that my kindness, as you think it, was not disinterested. To be quite candid—and it is very difficult to be anything else with you, Cara," she put in, with a laugh—"I felt drawn towards you the first time I saw you. It was not only because of the plucky way in which you stopped the horses, but because—upon my word, I can't explain the feeling!—
let us say that I took a fancy to you.
I do not know many girls of my own age; we have not many friends, visitors to the Hall, and I suppose every girl hankers after the friendship of other girls. But don't let us worry about it. We are friends, are we not? You will share my books with me, and we will go for walks and drives together; and you must let me talk to you as if we had known each other for a very long time."

Evelyn had not intended to say all this; indeed, even as she said it, she was surprised at the warmth of her expressions; but there was something about this strange girl, whose beauty was instinct with such dignity and self-respect, that carried Evelyn beyond herself; so much so that she was not repelled by the silence with which Cara met Evelyn's overtures of friendship. They drove across the moor and descended the hill to the road. Cara looked about her with interest.

"I have not been here before," she said.
Evelyn gazed at her with astonishment.
"What a little hermit you are!" she said. "Do you not go down to the village?"
Cara shook her head.
"No," she replied. "I do not often go away from the moor; my father does not wish me to, and I do not mind. I have seen the people of the village, and I do not care for them."
"No," said Evelyn. "Some of them are quite nice people. But," she added, looking thoughtfully at the girl's almost statuesque face, "I think I understand—I mean, why you do not care for them. They are so very English, our Devonshire people; and you are somehow different. Do you speak Italian, Cara?"
"Oh, yes," replied Cara, with slight surprise. "I speak it with my father sometimes, though he does not like me to do it often; he likes me to be as English as possible."

"Do you remember Italy, the place you come from?" asked Evelyn.
"Just a little," Cara answered. "But only a very little. I do not know the name of the place; I have never thought of asking. It seems as if I had lived here all my life."
"Do you not remember your mother?" asked Evelyn, after a pause, and in a lower voice.
"No," said Cara; "she died when I was quite a little baby."
Evelyn put out her hand and laid it softly on Cara's.

"I too have no mother, Cara," she said.
Almost unthinkingly Evelyn had driven in the direction of the Hall, and presently they came within sight of it.
Cara gazed at the great house, and she said gravely:
"What a beautiful place!"

LONDON, Dec. 2. The enemy claim that 16,000 prisoners and fifty guns were captured at Prizrend. Otherwise no special news. BONAR LAW.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

LONDON, Dec. 2. Great Britain's killed, wounded and missing since the war began number 10,230. Premier Asquith informed Parliament to-day. These figures were furnished by the Premier in writing, in response to a query addressed to him in the House of Commons. Of the casualties 379,958 occurred in France and Belgium, 106,610 in the Near East, 11,502 in various other zones of land fighting, and 12,160 at sea.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Dec. 2. Artillery exchanges continued last night, but with decreased intensity, in various sections of the front. There was firing in Artois district, in the region of Frise on the Somme, and in the Champagne district near Thaurbe. There is nothing to report on the remainder of the front.

FRENCH MERCANTILE FLEET.

PARIS, Dec. 2. The French Cabinet this morning authorized the Ministers of Finance and Marine to introduce in the Chamber of Deputies, in the name of the Government, a measure authorizing the purchase by the state of a merchant fleet of fifty ships. These vessels are to include tank steamers for the transportation of petroleum, cold storage vessels for the transportation of frozen meat, and provisions for the population of France. The object has been under consideration for several months. It was proposed at first to buy 100 vessels with a total tonnage of 500,000, at an estimated cost of $30,000,000. Negotiations undertaken with England under the previous ministry, produced no result. The increasing cost of food and other necessities and the rise in freight rates led the new cabinet to take up the question again. It was decided to make a beginning with 50 vessels. Members of the Chamber of Deputies, much interested in the project, expected the government bill would be adopted.

ULTIMATUM TO GREECE EXPECTED.

LONDON, Dec. 2. A new defiance of the Allies by Greece, the Austrian smash at Montenegro, and the direct bearing of the new Russian offensive in Galicia and Bukovina upon the position of Roumania were the outstanding features of the Balkan war situation to-day. Greece has rejected the demands of the Allies, according to a despatch from Athens. The settlement of points at issue between King Constantine's Government and the Entente Powers appears as remote as ever, and it is likely the Allies will consider sending an ultimatum as the next step.

ITALIANS FOR ALBANIA.

PARIS, Dec. 2. Detachments of Italian troops landed at Avlona, Albania, on Tuesday, according to information from reliable sources. An Athens despatch to the Temps to-day says that although Avlona, in southern Albania, on the Adriatic, has been under occupation by the Italian troops for some months past, the statement that Italy

Reports that Italy would take part in the Balkan campaign have been current for some time, but no positive announcement that she would do so has been made. In an address before the Italian Parliament, reported from Rome this morning, however, Baron Sonnino, the Italian Foreign Minister, gave what was thought to be an intimation that an Italian expedition would soon be sent to Albania. MONASTIR WILL SURRENDER.

PARIS, Dec. 2. Despatches from Salonika and Florina, Greece, forwarded by way of Athens and Rome, say that arrangements have been made for the surrender of Monastir. It is said that a commission, consisting of the Greek Consul, Serbian Metropolitan and the Mayor of Monastir have been appointed to negotiate terms of surrender with German and Bulgarian representatives.

SCARCITY OF FOOD CAUSE TROUBLE.

PARIS, Dec. 2. The Journal des Debats publishes a Milan despatch to the Fournier News Agency to the effect that a great demonstration of working people in Berlin, occasioned by the scarcity of food, was broken up by troops. The despatch, which says this information was received from Berlin by way of Bern, Switzerland, asserts that troops fired on the crowds, killing 200 persons. The Journal des Debats says the report should be accepted with reserve.

FROM BERLIN.

BERLIN, Dec. 2. Yesterday, as usual, says the Overseas News Agency, at the opening of the Reichstag, large crowds gathered around the building and neighboring streets. Among the throngs were some who made demonstrations in favor of a quick settlement of the problem of government regulation of prices and distribution of food. Germany's enemies, no doubt, will again spread all over the world. Reports about Berlin street riots, and make other insinuations which in no way correspond with the truth.

BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK.

LONDON, Dec. 2. The British steamships Colenso and Orange Prince have been sunk by submarines. The Colenso's crew was landed to-day. Concerning the fate of those on the Orange Prince nothing has yet been made public. The Colenso was of 3,881 tonnage, and the Orange Prince of 3,583. The Colenso was a Wilson Liner, sailing from Hull, and the Orange Prince a Prince Line steamer with Newcastle as its home port. The Colenso is known to have been in the North Sea trade and presumably was sunk in that area. It is believed the Orange Prince was also in the North Sea trade.

BRITISH STEAMER RAMMED SUBMARINE.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Dec. 2. Capt. Glasen, of the British steamer Inverkip, which went into the dry dock here for repairs to-day, says he evidently rammed a submerged submarine while passing out of the Straits of Gibraltar on Nov. 6th. The Inverkip was from Valencia to Norfolk in ballast, to load coal. About an hour's run from Gibraltar there was a great shock. The ship's officers saw oil rise to the surface of the sea. This with the fact that a long diagonal dent was made in the bottom of the Inverkip, leads Captain Glasen to believe that she struck a submarine. Several holes were torn in the Inverkip's ballast tanks. But for extremely calm weather, the captain believes the ship would have sunk immediately. The steamer returned to Gibraltar, where temporary repairs were made.

FORD ON PEACE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. In a signed statement, issued to-day, Mr. Ford declared that unofficial envoys of the thirteen belligerent and neutral European Governments have found overwhelming evidence of a universal peace desire. We have further evidence in hand that the belligerent governments would not be opposed to a conference of neutral nations. Ford stated that the expedition expects to stop first at Christiania in Norway. From there it will proceed to Stockholm, Copenhagen and the Hague. He asserts that he had definite letters of assurance that his mission would be welcomed with enthusiasm in Norway, Sweden, Holland, Denmark and other countries which may be included in the itinerary.

Mother! Give Child "Syrup of Figs" if Tongue is Coated

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, clean little liver and bowels.

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver, and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache of diarrhoea. Listen Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Alas! 'Tis True!

The Amherst Daily News says:

There is probably no business in any community that is so dependent for success on small transactions as the newspaper business. "Want ads." and "For Sales" are only small items, but in the aggregate they grow to a respectable total. Yesterday we checked over bills totalling three hundred dollars, and the largest amount due was less than three dollars. It is so easy to go to a phone and ask us to put in an ad. for anything from a "lost dog to house to rent" and then forget to pay for it. One, two, three or four bills may be rendered before the account is paid and our profit by that time is exhausted in war stamps and clerical work. We have dozens of such small bills on our books and they are the bane of our existence. We do not want to be discourteous and demand payment in advance. Just now we are nearing the close of our business year and want to have these small accounts, some of which have been standing two years, wiped off our books. Will our friends who have had accounts rendered to them kindly help us in this matter? We know it is only carelessness or neglect that has led to deferred payments, and a word in season should be sufficient. We do not like to air those personal matters in the newspaper columns, and we are only doing it to give our readers an inside glimpse of our business and to show how important it is that these small bills should be paid without putting additional labor on our staff and compelling us to pay additional war tax. On one account for just forty-five cents we have already paid twelve cents in war stamps, and the friend who got the bill is in receipt of a good income. It would have sent him in the first instance to have sent him a receipted account. It was a "want ad." we took in personally over the phone. There was our time in writing it. Then came the compositor's time in setting it up. Then we had to pay for the proof-reading. Then the accountant charged it. Four bills, four envelopes and twelve cents postage have been spent on the account. If a newspaper is a kind of philanthropic company we want to know it, but if it is a business organization the cold cash should accompany the advertisement.

The Evening Telegram sympathises with the "News." We have had the same experience in connection with small advertisements.

Australian Sniper Makes Record at Dardanelles—Sits For Hours in the Trenches with a Telescope. Sydney, Australia, Nov. 1.—Letters from the Gallipoli Peninsula say that a Queensland cavalryman named Sing holds the record among the Australian troops as a sniper. Up to September 1, Sing had shot ninety-one Turks, of whom at least fifty were killed outright. Sing was a crack marksman before the war and had won prizes for shooting at Brisbane and at Sydney. Since engaging in systematic sniping in the Dardanelles operations he has rarely missed one of his human targets.

Day after day and night after night he settles down comfortably in some pet position and awaits with inexhaustible patience for his chance. He sits for hours with a telescope as an old watching the Turkish tracks over the hills or the lengths of the Turkish trenches until sooner or later a Turk shows himself.

If the Turk is wary and quickly bobs up and down again Sing does not fire. He proceeds on the principle that, emboldened by fancied security, the Turk will gradually risk first his head, then his shoulders, and finally the upper half of his body. At this stage Sing's rifle cracks and the Turk is seen to fall. A notch is made by Sing in a stick which he keeps by the way of a record. Sing's sniping performances are said to be beyond question, for every telling shot by him has been checked by some officer.

Situation Becoming Graver.

The situation in the Near East is becoming acuter as the days go by. Yesterday we pointed out that there was no real expectation that the Greek intervention on the side of the Entente, unless some aggression was made by the Huns or Bulgars on Roumania. The reported arrangements for the surrender of Monastir will strengthen the pro-German Court party in Greece. The result of such a surrender will be that the western half of the southern frontier of Serbia, which borders on Greece will fall into the hands of the Bulgars and Huns. It will also give them possession of the Serbian terminus of the railway between Monastir and Serbia, the remainder of the railway is in Greece. Should soldiers who have been defending this section of Serbia retreat into Greek territory, the question of their internment will immediately arise. It will be otherwise if they are able to withdraw into Albania. The situation, however, of the French and British troops who are along the Vardar Valley will be a difficult one, and they may have to retreat along the valley of the Vardar in Greece through which they advanced. Very soon the Greek King will have to elect whether he will offend the Germans and Bulgars by allowing this retreat or face war with the Entente by attempting to intern them. The French and British are probably now in sufficient force to hold this line for purposes of concentrating in the neighbourhood of Saloniki and they will have the advantage of the fleet in the harbour of Saloniki to back them with their guns. The fall of Monastir will mean that the Central Powers can threaten Greece from that neighbourhood, while the Entente can bring pressure to bear from the Vardar Valley, but more particularly by the fleet all along the shore of the mainland and on the numerous islands within the territory of Greece. A crisis is fast approaching and the ultimatum to Greece, mentioned as expected in the despatches, is indeed very probable.

The procrastinations of the Greek

The Home in Japan.

The Japanese home is an excellent training ground for discipline. All must obey the Head, but he is bound also by custom and many religious regulations. The atmosphere is almost always one of kindness, gentleness, and good manners. Children are not allowed, in Japan, to go to school until the March or September after they are six, but when that important event takes place they are already disciplined little human beings, with good habits of order and some thirst for knowledge. They have already done some small share of the work of the home, they have been taught something of the history and literature and religion of their country, they are expert in manners, and are keen little patriots. All this education has been given them in their home. A true conception of a Japanese home is necessary for any clear knowledge of the Japanese nation, and explains much of the fact that workhouses, old age pensions, school attendance officers, a cane in the schoolroom, and a truant school are unnecessary and inexpedient to the Japanese people.—E. P. Hughes, in 'The Highway.'

Water By The Boatful.

How the Soldiers in Gallipoli are Supplied with Water.

Every drop of water consumed by the men fighting in the Dardanelles has to be brought to the peninsula in water-boats. There are, of course, many old Turkish wells on the peninsula, but they are nearly all dry, and the small supply obtainable from them is not even enough for the transport horse and mules. A huge fleet of tank-ships and water barges works continually bringing water to Gallipoli, and French Army engineers have built several big underground cisterns, each holding many thousands of gallons, so that there is always a supply of water in reserve. These cisterns are roofed with bomb-proof coverings, made of a thick layer of cement, a six-inch network of thick, pliable olive-tree branches, and then some six or eight feet of stone and sand.

On the whole, the water is handled in the crudest manner. There are no pipe lines through which the water may be pumped ashore. When the sea is calm the small lifeboats of ordinary merchant ships are scrupulously cleaned and towed alongside the water barges. They are then filled to the gunwales and towed ashore. The water is afterwards baled out with buckets and carried to the ashore tanks in giant Greek wine casks lashed to carts drawn by four mules.

Coat Thief Gets Six Months.

"Joey" Baird, a well known character in police circles and who is a bitter opponent of work, was again before court to-day for theft. This time he was charged with the larceny of a new overcoat. It appears that Baird stole the article from the cart of a Kellogg's man named Walter Hibbs, but had not got the article long before Sgt. Noseworthy, who was on the trail of "Joey," captured him. The accused was convicted to-day before Mr. Morris, J.P., and in view of his previous bad record, he was sentenced to six months with hard labor.

Getting Better.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"She's an awful girl, but I don't know that I'd exactly want her round all the time," someone said the other day. We were speaking of a girl who is very interesting and amusing, but who might be a bit tiresome if you saw too much of her.

"Gretchen is quieter," contributed someone else, "but I guess she'd make a better housemate." Gretchen is the first girl's cousin and we had been comparing the two.

"Well, I don't know," said the first speaker, "as I'd want to live with Gretchen either. You know she's terribly obstinate in that quiet way of hers."

All The World Is A Bit Queer.

"All the world is a bit queer—" came suggestively from the corner of the room.

The critic fared up. "That isn't fair," she defended herself. "They're both dandy girls in their own way and I didn't say they weren't. All I said was that I wouldn't want to live with either of them."

The Lady-who-always-knows-somehow came to the critic's rescue. "It's queer, isn't it," she said gently, "how few people there are that we'd like to have as housemates, even among those friends we love the best?"

It is queer, isn't it?

KEEPS BABY'S SKIN HEALTHY

ECZEMA

Results from neglected chafing and skin irritation. As a preventive and cure there is no treatment to compare with Dr. Chase's Ointment. Use it after the bath.

50 Cents a Box. All Dealers, or Edmarson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Sample free.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Even the nicest people, even the dearest friends, seldom quite fit when it comes to inserting them into the family circle on a permanent basis. For awhile, all goes well, but there is apt to come a time when a sense of constraint arises.

Why Are We Most Unkind To Those We Most Love?

Of course there are cases when an arrangement of this sort has worked perfectly, but I think they are the exception rather than the rule. We often wonder at the fact that we permit ourselves to blow off our irritation to and find fault with our own home folks, whereas we maintain our politeness and self-control with outsiders. It is indeed sad that we should permit ourselves to hurt those whom we really love the best, but I wonder if this does not explain why we cannot live with outsiders? We never speak our minds to them, we never blow off our irritation through the safety valve of a quick repeated burst of temper, and lacking this safety valve, the whole structure of our relationship goes to pieces some fine day.

Flush of Temper A Safety Valve.

Of course, it's rather a sad thought that we should need such a safety valve, and of course we ought to continually fight the tendency to use it, but after all when you consider that every human being's most primitive and naturally dominant instinct is the desire for his own happiness, is it not wonderful that we get along with each other as well as we do?

Why, just think, the altruistic instinct, which in the primitive human being could scarcely have existed at all, has grown so common and so strong that again and again one finds people in whom it has outstripped the desire for personal happiness, in the face of that, who can dare say that the old world is not growing better and infinitely better?

As Beatrice Harraden puts it, perhaps he who made us "will be astonished not because we are not better, but because we are not worse."

FUNERAL YESTERDAY.—The funeral of the late Bennett Knickle, seaman of the Lunenburg vessel Mary D. Young, who was drowned in the harbour on Monday night last, took place yesterday afternoon from the mortuary rooms of Undertaker J. T. Martin. Flags were flying at half-mast on the Nova Scotian vessels in port as a tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased young seaman. Interment was at the C. of E. Cemetery.

The appointment of the Rev. S. W. Hughes to Westbourne Park Chapel marks the definite retirement of Dr. Clifford from his ministry. The veteran preacher has nobly sustained the most honorable traditions of Non-conformity, and his Catholic example has done much to extricate the chapel from the stigma of narrow parochialism. Dr. Clifford has inspired his generation, and we trust the day will be long deferred when his voice ceases to champion the great causes he has so long served. At the same time the City Temple loses the services of the Rev. R. J. Campbell, and no successor is yet announced. The suggestion that Dr. Campbell is going to the Church of England, marks the decline of that religious partisanship which has so frequently marred the cordial relationships which should exist between the various Christian Churches. A hundred years ago such a change would have heralded a campaign of uncharitableness, but to-day believers anxiously desire the close co-operation of all those who call and profess themselves Christians.—Ex.

CASINO THEATRE.

One of the most interesting places one visits whilst witnessing the beautiful picture of "Our Boys" is "The Auld Brig O'Doon," made famous in song and story. It is the bridge over which Tam O'Shanter crossed in his memorable ride. This magnificent picture, taken of the First Newfoundland Regiment previous to their final departure for the "Dardanelles," has been shown all the week and is enthusiastically received at each presentation. To-morrow afternoon special performances will be given for the benefit of the children who will undoubtedly flock to see this great production.

BIG WEEK END SHOW AT THE CRESCENT.

Another big week end show is presented at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. "His Brother's Keeper" is a very fine western feature produced in two reels by the Biograph Company with a strong cast including Joseph McDermott, Kate Bruce and Jack Mulhall. A splendid comedy drama is "The Kidnapped Lover," this is the story of a heartbreaker pictured by the Selig Company. Isabel Rea features in a touching domestic drama "The Brooding Heart," and there are two very funny comedies: "Getting Rid of Nephew" and "The Big Night." Mr. Dan Deane sings a comic song: "It's Too High." This is a great programme, mostly meant for laughing purposes, the usual big Crescent matinee will on to-morrow. Send the children for a good enjoyable afternoon.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The feature to-day is a three reeler: "The Oubliette" and as the name suggests, takes one back to the time when rulers could work their will undeterred by the fear of the law. This shows the diabolical whimsy, confined any one sentenced to perpetual imprisonment or secret death. It is a beautifully staged plot in which Marlock McQuary takes the leading role. "The Redskins Reckoning" takes us from east to west and is of the kind that pleases, for the heart of a redskin often beats with truer sentiments than those of his more enlightened races. "The Butler's Baby" is a comedy that will cure any fit of the blues. Next Monday will be shown an extremely modern feature in three reels: "The Hard Road" an adaptation of the "Great White Way." As usual a number of prizes are on hand for our little ones at Saturday's matinee.

ROSE TAPLEY FEATURED AT NICKEL TO-DAY.

All the attendants of the Nickel Theatre will want to see the programme. It is a charming bill, arranged to suit all patrons. A glance at the programme published elsewhere in this issue will be sufficient to show that it will afford pleasure to all who attend. "The Lady of the Light House" is a beautiful three-part educational drama, one of the finest ever presented in St. John's. The other subjects are a Charlie Chaplin comedy: "The Champion"; "The Hazards of Helen"; "Stage Money" and "His Affiliated Wife." The children will be interested to know that at the big matinee to-morrow afternoon: "The Goddess" will be repeated.

BEST OF ALL CONTESTS TO-NIGHT AT BOSSLEY'S.

There will be a monster contest to-night that will make you forget your troubles. Last Friday broke all records but we think this will be even better. Carroll and Ellor in two distinct acts and some first class pictures. The rehearsals for the pantomime are going ahead. The costumes this season are simply magnificent. Mrs. Bossley certainly has no equal in her line of training children for the stage. One has only to look at the Sunshine Girls who are as capable as any performers, and this year the numbers are more novel than ever. On Monday Ballard Brown and Madge Locke. Look out for a big surprise.

Fat Without Fear of Indigestion or Sour, Acid Stomach

Instant relief! "Pape's Diapepsin" ends your stomach trouble forever.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

For a good many years now I have always taken the weight avoider into account in adopting a new book for class use, and I have no hesitation in stating that every year it becomes more difficult to find good modern text-books that are suitable in weight for use in day schools. This is notably the case in subjects such as geography and history and in the readers wanted by the youngest children of all. Where four or five ounces used to be a common weight for a school book, one now finds eight to ten. It is easy to test this statement. Three to five books are required as a rule for home work for girls over twelve years of age, so that the weight of the satchel for books alone works out at anything from a pound and a half to two pounds.—Ethel Gerwin, M.A., in The School World.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The furnishings for the babies beds can be well made at home. In fitting an infants bed the rubber sheet and quilted pad must be bought, but sometimes, if time is no great consideration, the pad can be made at home on the machine, using a soft, rather loosely woven muslin for the covering and sanitary cotton for the filling. A thin, soft muslin will be much more comfortable for baby than sheets and pillow slips of linen. They should be simply made and trimmed with a little torchon lace edging and insertion. Baby blankets are very soft and light but the home made blankets of white elder down is quite as satisfactory and much cheaper. The edges should be bound with ribbon in a dainty color, since white edges soil so easily. A spread is really unnecessary upon an infant's bed, but the pretty cover of point do esprit, lined with a color, is extremely dainty.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Dec. 2. Governor, Newfoundland. General French reports that during the past four days successful bombardments of hostile trenches, strong points and gun positions have been carried. ACTIVITY WITH ARTILLERY AND MINING.

LONDON, To-day. Official last evening. During the past four days successful bombardments of hostile trenches, strong points and gun positions have been carried out. The damage inflicted on the enemy is considerable. Artillery response to our fire is weak. On Nov. 30 we sprung two mines opposite Givensy. While the enemy replied by consolidating by us the enemy sprung mines burying ten of our men. Yesterday we exploded a mine east of Bois Francois. The enemy replied with a mine in the same neighbourhood. On the 30th two hostile aeroplanes were brought down by fire from our aeroplanes, one falling east of Hooge, the other near Henin Lietaer, Pas de Calais. The same day twenty of our aeroplanes bombarded an important German supply depot at Miramont, causing considerable damage to stores, buildings and railway line. One of our aeroplanes which has been on reconnaissance since first December has failed to return also another on the second of December.

ITALY WILL AID SERBIA.

LONDON, To-day. Italy, through her Foreign Minister, Baron Sonnino, announced her adherence to the treaty of London, whereby the Allied powers undertake not to conclude a separate peace, and at the same time declared the intention of sending help to the Serbian army in the Balkans. This news is the most important for some days. It is believed here it will go far to clear the situation, and that negotiations are still proceeding between King Constantine and the Ministers of the Quadruple Entente. These negotiations have been protracted, owing to Greece's unwillingness to allow the Allies the free use of railways and the right to police Greek waters against submarines. They are not yet completed, but the latest advices indicate that they are likely to end in completed satisfaction to the Entente Powers. The assurance of Italy as well as Britain, France and Russia is to give military support to Serbians in their effort to regain their lost territory making a case for the Greeks.

MONTENEGRINS RETREAT.

PARIS, To-day. The enforced retreat of Montenegro troops in their efforts to defend Plevlje against the reinforced Austro-German armies is admitted in an official statement by the Montenegrin War Office, received at the Montenegrin Consulate here to-day. The statement says the army having received heavy reinforcements directed attacks upon Pribos and Plevlje on Nov. 30th. Our troops were obliged to retire upon their rear positions to defend Plevlje.

BRITISH SOLIDARITY.

LONDON, To-day. The birthday of the new Imperialism, says Rev. Dr. Freeman, in an editorial in the British Weekly, is not to be registered with accuracy but perhaps we may name its baptismal day. Was it not the day when Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, was invited to sit as a corresponding member with the Cabinet? On that day the National Government made itself the sponsor of this wonderful new offspring of British solidarity.

FRANZ JOSEPH'S ACCESSION.

BERLIN, To-day. The 67th anniversary of the accession of Emperor Franz Joseph to the throne was celebrated throughout the Austro-Hungarian monarchy today with a solemn service in the churches, and patriotic meetings for the benefit of relief funds.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

BERNE, To-day. With the arrival here to-day of a hospital train from Constance, Germany, 370 wounded and invalided French soldiers, there began between France and Germany a new exchange of men incapacitated for future fighting. The repatriation of 20,000 of French civilians who evacuated the northern departments of France will begin soon. Swiss committees intend to provide all these 20,000 persons, who are mostly poor women and children, with fresh linen and underwear.

KITCHENER BACK AT WORK.

LONDON, To-day. Earl Kitchener, British Secretary of War, did not visit King George to-day, having paid the customary respects to a Cabinet minister returning from a trip yesterday. Kitchener to-day attended a meeting of the War Council and afterwards was present at a Cabinet meeting, at which he undoubtedly made a report of his trip to the Near East, Rome and Paris.

PTROGRAD, To-day. (Official.)—An enemy bivouac was reported on the left bank of the Drina, near Sonnenhoff arm between Friedrichstad and Jacobstadt, and was subjected to a heavy fire by our artillery. The Germans were completely surprised and fled leaving behind a hundred killed or wounded. On the left bank of the Stry the enemy was driven back towards the southwest of Khriask. The rest of the front is without change.

VERDICT OF GUILTY AGAINST HUN OFFICIALS IN UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, To-day. The United States District Court, to-night returned a verdict of guilty against four officials of the Hamburg American Line. They are charged with conspiracy to deceive the United States Government by obtaining clearances for relief ships laden with coal and other supplies, sailing from American ports for German cruisers in the Atlantic early in the war.

MONASTIR NOT FALLEN.

LONDON, To-day. The Serbs still hold Monastir, but their position is almost hopeless. The Bulgarians have cut communication between that city and the Greek frontier, and the Serb troops still there must like the army of the North retreat into Albania, where the press reports the Serbs have crossed the Roumanian border and are marching through that country to Bulgaria in a movement which is hardly likely to occur unless Roumania gave her consent, which would be tantamount to joining the Allies. Another report credits the Russians with diverting their Bessarabian army toward Gallicia where a big offensive is being confirmed. On the other fronts Italian, French and Russian bombardments are the order of the day. British, French and Belgian guns have been particularly active and also air-attacks have been given rather severe bathe have been given rather severe bathe have been given rather severe bathe

CONSPIRATORS NOT YET SENTENCED.

NEW YORK, To-day. Three high officials and subordinate officers of the American Line were found guilty last night in the Federal District Court of having violated the laws of the United States in sending coal and other supplies to German cruisers in the South Atlantic in the first few months of the war. The specific charges against the defendants were conspiracy to deceive and defraud the United States. The maximum penalty for each indictment is two years imprisonment, ten thousand dollars fine, the sentence was not imposed last night.

STATE HORSE BREEDING.

LONDON, To-day. Col. William Hall Walker, member of parliament, presented the nation with his famous breeding farm for race horses at Tully, Kildare, and his training stables at Russley Park, Wiltshire. The Government is undertaking to purchase the land at its own valuation. GUNBOAT SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Athens says a British coast defence gunboat was sunk by a German submarine.

OIL FOR GERMANY.

LONDON, To-day. Lord Robert Cecil, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, admitted in the Commons this afternoon that there have been large increases in the export of oil from England to Holland, but claimed since the formation of the Coalition Government no lined oil has been exported from this country. The question was raised by Sir Henry Dalziel, who urged the Government to declare oil contraband, and said that much, especially in the case of America, could be done for explosives could be made, was reaching Germany through neutral countries. The whole question of exporting oil producing substances to Holland, the Under Secretary said, was a very serious matter, and the Government is taking it up rapidly. It was necessary for England to get sufficient supply of margarine at reasonable prices. To do this it was necessary to let Holland import the oil needed in its manufacture. To prevent this oil from reaching Germany arrangements were being made for periodical examination by British accountants of margarine factories, for the strengthening of the Netherlands Overseas Trust, and for preventing of smuggling from Holland to Germany. By these means it is hoped to prevent the fate of oils from being sent to Germany, to obtain necessary supplies of margarine for this country, and to secure for Holland her rights in neutral trade to which she was entitled. The Foreign Office endeavored, the Under Secretary continued, to secure the country's rights without getting into dangerous disputes with neutrals. The Government's policy would be to deprive the Germans of essential articles, but they could not hold up articles, unless there was evidence that they were destined for the enemy country. With regard to exports from Germany to America, with the exception of goods contracted for before March 1st, there was no evidence that this country had lightened the blockade. This question of exports was a vital one, said Lord Robert, for if the Government could stop the export they automatically stopped imports, for the Germans would have nothing with which to pay for them. He believed that the blockade was being passed, but he was very glad indeed. By successful diplomacy the Foreign Office and navy had been enabled to carry out a blockade successfully without getting the country into any serious trouble with any neutral country.

"WAR TO END SOONER THAN MOST PEOPLE BELIEVE."

LONDON, To-day. Redmond in a speech at Waterford yesterday recounted talks he had with Kitchener at the beginning of the war. Kitchener said to Redmond: "Can you guarantee me 5,000 men from Ireland? If you can I will say thank you. If you can guarantee 12,000 I will say I am deeply obliged." Redmond added, amid ringing cheers, "It is not 5,000 or 12,000, but 1,000,000 that have been sent from Ireland, a perfectly amazing performance when one considers the past history of the country and how it has been drained by emigration. I am convinced," continued Redmond, "that so far as the western front is concerned we have got the upper hand definitely. I am also convinced that the war will come to an end sooner than most people believe."

GREECE IS SILENT.

PARIS, To-day. The prolonged silence of the Greek Government respecting the demands of the Entente Allies has again aroused suspicion in the French press. One paper goes so far as to assert that Greece has concluded, or is about to conclude, a treaty with Bulgaria, by the terms of which Monastir and Vardar Valley in Serbia are "ceded" to Greece in return for aid against the Anglo-French expeditionary forces. French correspondent at Saloniki indicating that the Bulgarians, notwithstanding promises made by the Germans that the Bulgarians would not enter Monastir, have resolved to take that city, which is their real objective, realizing that the Germans are not in a position to stop them.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. The British steamship Langton Hall is sunk and part of her crew reached land. The Langton Hall, evidently another victim of the submarine campaign in the Mediterranean, left Calcutta Oct. 28th for Philadelphia and New York, and was reported at the Suez on Nov. 29. She was owned by the Hall Line of Liverpool.

RUSSIANS ENTER BULGARIA.

LONDON, To-day. The news that the Russians have entered Bulgaria has aroused intense interest and there is much speculation as to the next development. Reuter's correspondent at Saloniki telegraphs: "It is expected this move will have a far-reaching effect on the internal situation of Bulgaria and will modify the whole aspect of affairs in the Balkans."

FORD'S PEACE EXPEDITION.

NEW YORK, To-day. The Scandinavian-American line steamer Oscar 2nd, which Henry Ford has taken passage, his peace expedition to the Hague, will leave New York to-morrow afternoon.

Booker T. Washington.

(The Wesleyan.)

The name of this great leader of the Negro race is familiar throughout the continent of North America and across the seas. Born a slave at Hale's Ford, Va., in 1855, he early showed a strong desire for an education and manifested the qualities of leadership. Having studied at Hampton Industrial Institute and Wayland Seminary, he became an instructor at Hampton, and later a teacher in the public schools of West Virginia. His monumental work was the founding of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute for the training of the practical education of colored youth. Mr. Washington by untiring zeal and great executive ability, collected or earned by his lectures and writings, all the funds necessary to organize and equip this great institution. He insisted upon a practical and technical education for the negroes that they may devote themselves particularly to some branch of industrial life and his efforts in this direction were attended with great success. He was a speaker of great tact and his practical, common sense views with reference to the best interests of his race, and of the country in them, so commended themselves to the philanthropic and wealthy public that very liberal contributions were made to his work. He was a prominent figure in the life of the United States and his decrease leaves a vacancy in the leadership of his race which it will be most difficult to fill. He died at Tuskegee, Alabama, Nov. 14th, of Bright's disease, aged 57 years.

"I'M FOOLING A FEW."

A small boy, seated on the curb by a telegraph pole, with a tin can by his side, attracted the attention of an old gentleman who happened to be passing. "Good fishing?" he inquired, good-naturedly. "No," the youngster replied, "take a peep in there." An investigation showed the can to be nearly filled with caterpillars. "What in the world are you going to do with them?" asked the old gent. "They crawl up trees and eat the leaves off, don't they?" asked the boy. "So I understand," replied the old gent. "Well," said the boy, "I'm fooling a few of them." "How?" asked the old gent. "I'm going to send them up this telegraph pole," answered the boy.—Chicago Herald.

LONDON, To-day.
The British steamship Langton Hall is sunk and part of her crew reached land. The Langton Hall, evidently another victim of the submarine campaign in the Mediterranean, left Calcutta Oct. 28th for Philadelphia and New York, and was reported at the Suez on Nov. 29. She was owned by the Hall Line of Liverpool.

BRITISH PAPERS EXULTANT.

LONDON, To-day.
The British papers, led by the Daily Telegraph, exult this morning over Baron Sonnino's solemn declaration that Italy will adhere to the compact of London and not make peace until the Central Empires are beaten into the dust.

RUSSIANS ENTER BULGARIA.

LONDON, To-day.
The news that the Russians have entered Bulgaria has aroused intense interest and there is much speculation as to the next development. Reuters' correspondent at Saloniki telegrams: "It is expected this move will have a far-reaching effect on the internal situation of Bulgaria and will modify the whole aspect of affairs in the Balkans."

FORD'S PEACE EXPEDITION.

NEW YORK, To-day.
The Scandinavian-American line steamer Oscar 2nd, which Henry Ford has taken passage for his peace expedition to Europe, will leave New York to-morrow afternoon.

Booker T. Washington.

(The Wesleyan.)
The name of this great leader of the Negro race is familiar throughout the continent of North America and even across the seas. Born a slave at Hales Ford, Va., in 1856, he early showed a strong desire for an education and manifested the qualities of leadership. Having studied at Hampton, he became an instructor at the Hampton Institute in Alabama, for the practical education of colored youth. Mr. Washington by untiring zeal and great executive ability collected or earned by his lectures and writings, all the funds necessary to organize and equip this great institution of educating the Negroes. His technical and practical education for the Negroes that they may devote themselves particularly to some branch of industrial life and his efforts in this direction were attended with great success. He was a speaker of great tact and his practical, common sense views were with reference to the best interests of his race, and of the country in them, so commended themselves to the philanthropic and wealthy public that very liberal contributions were made to his work. He was a prominent figure in the life of the United States and his decrease leaves a vacancy in the leadership of his race which it will be most difficult to fill. He died at Tuskegee, Alabama, Nov. 14th, of Bright's disease, aged 57 years.

"I'M FOOLING A FEW."

A small boy, seated on the curb by a telegraph pole, with a tin can by his side, attracted the attention of an old gentleman who happened to be passing. "How fishing?" he inquired, good-naturedly. "No," the youngster replied; "take a peep in there." An investigation showed the can to be nearly filled with caterpillars. "What in the world are you going to do with them?" asked the old gent. "They crawl up trees and eat the leaves off, don't they?" asked the boy. "So I understand," replied the old gent. "Well," said the boy, "I'm fooling a few of them." "How?" asked the old gent. "I'm going to send them up this telegraph pole," answered the boy.—Chicago Herald.

The Recount.

Proceedings for the recount and resumption of the votes polled in the Prohibition Election were begun before Mr. Justice Johnson at the Court House yesterday afternoon. Messrs. Furlong, K. C. and Kent, K. C., represented the applicants and Messrs. Hunt and Dunfield appeared for the Prohibition cause.

Mr. Fred M. Stirling, of the Colonial Secretary's Department attended with the ballot boxes, excepting those of St. Barbe which have not yet been returned to the Department.

The afternoon was occupied principally in the hearing of the preliminary objections to the recount, as advanced by Mr. Dunfield, whose contentions were:

(a) That the affidavit of Mr. Vinnicombe upon which the order for the recount was granted, was insufficient on the ground that it did not state that any definite returning officer had miscounted, but referred to St. John's only, and that St. John's itself is divided into two districts.

(b) That the affidavit did not show any real ground for the alleged belief that there had been any miscounting.

(c) That insofar as the affidavit applied to any district outside St. John's, it did not show any miscounting or any belief that there had been miscounting and that, therefore, the order should be rescinded insofar as it applied to districts outside St. John's.

(d) That Mr. Vinnicombe had no status to object to the count in any district, where he did not reside, or at which count he was not present.

(e) That the application was put in after the time limit for same had expired.

(f) That there was no ground for departing from the procedure under the Election Act, 1913, which provides that voting and counting must be by electoral districts, and that the said Act must be followed as far as possible.

Double Sacrifice.

Newspaper publishers are asked to do what is expected of no other calling. They are expected to give twice; as individuals to the various subscription lists for patriotic purposes which are presented to them, and as publishers by giving away that which is to them the chief support of the business which they conduct. Journalists are willing to bear their fair share of the common sacrifice, but they do not expect that they alone should be asked to make a double sacrifice.—Brantford (Ont.) Expositor. The Weight of School Books.

The Dukes of Burgundy were renowned for their libraries. The "Ducaccolo" of Charles the Bold was bound in red velvet set with five large rubies. Another Burgundian book was velvet bound and set with fifty-eight pearls of great size.

The Library of Philip the Good of Burgundy surpassed all other book collections of the time. It contained nearly 10,000 volumes, all richly illuminated on vellum, with bindings of damask, satin, and velvet, encrusted with jewels, with clasps of gold and gems.

Leeming Lodge L. O. A.

The annual meeting of Leeming Lodge, No. 54, L.O.A., was held in Victoria Hall last night, and was largely attended. The reports submitted showed the Lodge to be in a flourishing condition. A particularly pleasing event of the evening was the presentation of an honor roll containing the names of those who have volunteered for active service in the army and navy. The election of officers for the ensuing year was conducted by the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Hon. R. A. Squires, and resulted as follows: W.M., Bro. H. V. Hutchings, elected; D.M., Bro. J. Currie, elected; Chaplain, Bro. Rev. H. Royle, re-elected; Recording Secretary, Bro. G. W. Rabbits, re-elected; Financial Secretary, Bro. W. K. Mercer, re-elected; Treasurer, Bro. J. C. Puddister, re-elected; Lecturers, Bros. John Cummins and Sargent, elected; D. of C., Bro. Wilson Stacey, elected; Committee, Bros. H. Fry, C. Puddister, W. J. Taylor, P. Noseworthy, T. F. Butt; Hon. Sargent, Bro. Dr. W. Roberts. The installation will take place on Thursday night next.

PERGIE JOHNSON.

SUNSHINE.

Oh, let us wear the cheerful grin, and mugs that shine like new made tin, when we are paying taxes; 'tis customary then to scowl, and lean against a fence and howl, and brandish battle-axes. But all our howling doesn't help, nor does our protest, groan or yelp, we must dig up the rubles; the treasurer rakes in the dust, and doesn't notice our disgust, or care about our troubles. And since it doesn't pay to roar, what is the use of acting sore, as though bereft of senses? Why not produce our little rolls, and say it warms our hearts and souls, to help to pay expenses? 'Twere better far to sing and smile, as we cough up our meagre pile, to keep the wheels turning; 'twill help us on a future day, when, in the good old-fashioned way, for Public Trusts we're yearning. Some day, to make your store increase, you'll run for justice of the peace, or something of that nature, or you may higher yet aspire, and through the press voice your desire to join the legislature. Then, if you always raised a bowl, when paying taxes in the fall, the story will confound you; you'll see true patriots arise to det you one between the eyes and flash their knives around you.

Jewelled Books.

Bibliophiles will tell you that the book-binding of the ancients has never been equalled, let alone surpassed. They will extol the beauties of the bindings of the Byzantine period, when books had covers of gold, silver, and copper, studded with jewels, the massive tomes being carried in imperial processions.

The books produced in the Middle Ages were of remarkable beauty, inwardly and outwardly. Religious manuscripts were enriched with illumination themselves, while their covers were of silver, gold, or enamel, encrusted with gems. These books were generally bestowed as splendid gifts by bishops and princes on monastic houses and churches, where they were laid on the altar or chained to a desk.

The Dukes of Burgundy were renowned for their libraries. The "Ducaccolo" of Charles the Bold was bound in red velvet set with five large rubies. Another Burgundian book was velvet bound and set with fifty-eight pearls of great size.

The Library of Philip the Good of Burgundy surpassed all other book collections of the time. It contained nearly 10,000 volumes, all richly illuminated on vellum, with bindings of damask, satin, and velvet, encrusted with jewels, with clasps of gold and gems.

Lightning.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Lightning is a natural phenomenon for which man is not responsible and over which he has little control. It is swift and terrible to look at, like that other great natural phenomenon, T. Roosevelt, and is a fluid which travels from place to place producing terrific disturbances. Mr. Roosevelt is a solid, but otherwise in the resultant business lightning has very little on him.

Lightning inhabits the sky and, like an aeroplane, is harmless as long as it stays there. It is only when it descends to earth that it becomes fatal to man. A man who takes hold of an adult lightning bolt by the tail may look a trifle better afterwards than the man who tries to fry a stick of dynamite, but he is of no more use to society. The man who can survive the kick of a jagged streak of lightning would be hardy enough to vote the Republican ticket in Mississippi again and again.

Lightning is composed of millions of volts of electricity, complicated with amperes and ohms. It travels 175,000 miles a second and yet the longest distance a lightning bolt usually travels is about a mile. Thus it has plenty of time on its way to travel down a chimney, rip up the shingles, shuffle the fireplace bricks, rearrange the plumbing, change the lock on the front door, tie the kitchen poker into a bow knot, hang a pair of shoes on the chandelier, slice the calf, call up central on the telephone, pull a dozen teeth out of the guest-room comb and blonde the cook's hair.

Lightning is very eccentric in ways like this, principally because it has so much spare time on its hands. No one has ever succeeded in training lightning to do anything useful. Benjamin Franklin once caught a bottle full with a kite, wire and a key, but owing to the poor canning facilities of the times was unable to preserve it. Enough electricity is wasted in an ordinary storm to wipe out the gas bills of the world for six months, but until some means of turning it on and off with a button can be invented, it will continue to be an uncovered resource.

Lightning kills about one person out of 10,000,000 each year. A good many people worry a great deal about it on this account, though lightning does not kill as many people as bath-tubs do. Still, a great many people are terribly afraid of bath-tubs, too.

Household Notes.

Pure alcohol will clean white kid gloves.

Camphor will take out almost all fruit stains.

Spareribs should be parboiled before roasting.

A cock turkey is the best to choose for a holiday dinner.

Nuts can be very satisfactorily chopped with a biscuit cutter.

Pink and white tatting makes a pretty insertion for a guest towel.

Put a little sugar in the seasoning of beets, parsnips and turnips.

Turpentine put in the corners of the wardrobe will do away with moths.

Cranberry pie is an old New England dish and excellent for the holidays.

It is best to roast or pan chicken with the breast down. It will be more juicy.

A novel touch at Christmas time is the hanging of the tree with little cakes.

The heart of cabbage minced in the salad makes a good substitute for celery.

If a baby's blanket is too small to admit of a hem, picot the edge instead.

Cold potatoes can be scalloped sometimes to make an agreeable change.

There is no stronger finish for bias edges than the rolled or whipped over edge.

Rub brown sugar on a ham before boiling it. The ham will have a delicious flavor.

An embroidered sewing apron makes an excellent Christmas gift to a needle lover.

Try succotash made with canned corn and dried lima beans. It is a good winter dish.

Windfalls of late pears can be used baked when they might easily go a-begging raw.

Do not put salt in the water in which peas are cooked. It will cause the skins to crack.

When velvet is spotted with rain, allow it to dry thoroughly, then brush well with a stiff brush.

A cupful of liquid yeast is equivalent to half a compressed yeast cake or a whole dry yeast cake.

Salmon cutlets make a pleasant change and they are economical. Make the same as lobster cutlets.

Pocket handkerchiefs and faces will whiten if soaked over night in a bath of toilet carbolic soap.

It is such an easy matter to make the Christmas candles at home and so much better for the kiddies.

Gas and Hospitality.

The sound of motor wheels heralding the arrival of unexpected guests has no terrors for the housewife whose menage is run on up-to-date lines. While the visitors are removing the traces of travel with the hot water which a gas water-heater keeps always "on tap," a match to the gas fire makes the drawing room a place of warmth and pleasantness for their reception; and the children love to "help mother" by toasting the crumpets before the clear and smokeless glow.

The gas cooker (or the modern gas trivet by the drawing rooms gas fire) boils a kettle of water in no time, and within a quarter of an hour after their arrival the guests are enjoying a cosy chat over the cup that cheers. Should they be persuaded to stay, the invaluable cooker makes it possible, even at such short notice, for the experienced housewife, after a raid upon her emergency store cupboard, to set before them a dainty dinner of which no hostess need be ashamed. Gas means ever-ready hospitality.
