STRAIGHT FRONT

NEW BOOKS.

Personal Narratives of a Pilgrimage to El Medinah and Meccah.
By Richard F. Burton, Lieutenant, Bombay Army. With introduction by Bayard Taylor. New York: G. P. Putnam
& Co. Toronto: J. C. Geikie

The world is changed sadly since the times of good old Sir John Maundeville with his valleys opening into the nether world, his men with heads below their shoulders, and their melancholy rivals with the heads of dogs. Romance is well nigh driven away like the May morning fairies by the sun-rising. Jones and Brown, pooh pooh the cataracts of the Nile as a poor affair, and Grundy tries how far he can throw a stone from the top of the great pyramid. It is with no little pleasure, therefore, that we have to notice Mr. Burton's volume which tells us of some of the very few spots of the earth yet hidden from the crowd. Since 1678 no European traveller has reached Meccah and Medinah and returned from them except Buckhardt and Lieut. Burton, so that his narrative deals with matters and scenes that must be new to every one. His style itself is so rare and striking, with so much of the vividness of Eothen and the fine description of Warburton, that even had the subject been hackneyed he would have had many readers.

We commend the volume to all lovers of good English and to all who desire to pierce the thick mystery that hangs over the Holy Land of the Prophet.

The Hills of the Shatemuc. By the author of the Wide Wide World. New York: Appleton & Co. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

Of this book no fewer than 45,000 were sold in the first month of publication, and in England 20,000, it is said, have been at once bought up. That an authoress should have such a demand for a third or fourth work from her pen argues very strongly merit. Nothing less would account for such lasting popularity in her department of letters.

Sermons, Doctrinal and Practical. By the Rev. W. Archer Butler, M. A., late Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Dublin. Philadelphia: Farry & McMillan. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

The North British Review, speaking of these sermons, says, "Few men ever brought to the service of the Christian Ministry such a conjunction of useful qualities, and few sermons in our language exhibit the same rare combination of excellences; imagery almost as rich as Taylor's; oratory as vigorous often as South's; judgment as sound as Barrow's; a style as attractive, but more copious, original and forcible than Atterbury's; piety as elevated as Howe's; and a fervor as intense at times as Baxter's."

Africa's Mountain Valley, or the Church in Regents Town, West Africa. By the author of "Ministering Children." New York: Carters. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

The former work of this author, "Ministering Children," has had a great sale in England, and we anticipate no less favor for the present volume. It is a narrative very well written of the labors of that very eminent missionary, the Reverend R. A. Johnstone, in Regents Town, Sierra Leone. By birth a German, and originally a mechanic, Mr. Johnstone was appointed by the Church Missionary Society in 1816, as schoolmaster at Regents Town. His devotedness, intelligence and success having proved his fitness for a higher position, he was after some time ordained as a clergyman of the Church of England, and seldom has there been in that great communion one who more worthily attended its altars. His story takes us back to the days when the Church missionaries generally were foreigners, when the missionary spirit had not as yet been awakened to any great extent in the native clergy of Britain, as is so happily the case in our day. May the Church never want many men of such apostolic spirit.

The susceptibility of the simple children of Africa, among whom Mr. Johnstone labored, for receiving the truth, is well worthy the thoughtful reflection of all. No one can read the simple faith, the love, the earnest devotedness of the converts of Regents Town without learning a lesson fitted to humble and quicken. The story of Mr. Johnstone's labors is no less fitted to do us good. Such a man is the realization in some measure of the great ideal of the Christian life. He stands before us in these pages as an example of what Christianity in healthy exercise makes a man. The influence of a gospel in civilizing the rude and barbarous people, to whom this instance it was proclaimed, is also a striking illustration of the great truth that to make men Christians is the way to make them men. We very heartily recommend the volume which must, we believe, please every one who takes an interest in his own spiritual welfare, or in the spread of religion.

Memoir of Frederick Perthes, or Literary, Religious and Political Life in Germany, from 1780 to 1843. From the German by Clement Theodore Perthes, Professor of Law in the University of Bonn. 3 vols. 8vo. Edinburgh: Thomas Constable & Co. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

This is one of those records of the public life of Germany during the last fifty years, which are rich in the lessons of the great age that passed before our fathers. The memoirs of the famous publisher Frederick Perthes, are not merely the biography of a most vigorous and sympathetic German man, living in an age unusually rich in stimulating and elevating moments, but they contain, as the title bears, a record of "the literary, religious and political life of Germany," more truly and more comprehensively than any work that to our knowledge has appeared in that country since the peace. Other honours have been mainly of a political and literary interest; here the religious element everywhere marches with an equal right alongside of the other two, and the experience of the inner life is unfolded with a faithfulness proportioned to the importance which it must always hold in the eyes of those who do not estimate the significance of history by the mere breadth of flaunting banners, the noise of Lancaster guns, and the pomp of many colored processions. We cannot indeed name a book so crammed with the most substantial materials for a thorough knowledge of Germany as this life of the great Hamburg publisher.

His religious life possesses a peculiar charm very much akin to that which gave such an extensive popularity to the life of the late Dr. Arnold. The piety of Perthes was most profound; not, however, the piety of a mere devotee or evangelical register of mental features, but the piety of a man of glowing passion, of clear sense, and of sleepless energy.

To show the interest even of a secular kind in these volumes, it is only necessary to add that Perthes was publisher for all the greatest names in his day in Germany. Neander, Ullman, Tholuck, Olshausen and many others of the same rank were in his lists of authors.

He died in 1843, and was buried in the Churchyard of Gotha, and his favorite hymn was sung round his grave.

"What can molest or injure me, who have in Christ a part?
Filled with the peace and grace of God, most gladly I depart."

The Works of Henry Lord Brougham, F. R. S., Member of the National Institute of France, and of the Royal Academy of Naples. New and uniform edition. London: R. Griffin & Co. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

It has been a source of wonder to many that while the works of so many authors of note have been republished in their lifetime, similar honor has not hitherto been paid to those of one who is confessedly so great an ornament to our generation as Lord Brougham. Perhaps like Shakespeare he may have been careless of posthumous fame, or perhaps the many engagements of a most industrious life may have hindered him. He has, however, at last been roused to the task of gathering together and revising his many publications, and thus erecting for himself a monument more lasting than brass or marble. To send out so many treatises and literary efforts bearing upon all the great questions of civil and religious liberty, upon education, upon the amendment of the laws, embracing also his inimitable sketches of the philosophers, men of letters and statesmen of the reign of George Third, his Natural Theology and Dialogues on Instinct, Researches in Fossil Osteology, and Observations on the Glowworm, his Rhetorical and Literary Dissertations and Addresses, and his Historical and Political Dissertations, besides many other labors of his rich and laborious mind, was a work of no small magnitude. But with Lord Brougham to undertake is to perform and hence we find him already far through the undertaking, having added notes, and filled in additional chapters, so as to make the present a standard edition worthy of his great name.

far as we know, in this department; we mean the Biographies of the Reign of George III., written, in most cases, from personal knowledge. Where shall we find similar sketches, by as great a writer, of such a galaxy of intellect and power. After Lord Brougham's name has long passed from among those of the living future generations will turn to these biographies with still as fervid interest.

Every one knows the rank of his other works.

Him not to know,
Argues one's self unknown.

Spiritual Songs for a Month—Being sixty-two Hymns not to be found in the Hymn-books commonly used. Selected by the Rev. J. C. Ryle, B. A., Rector of Helmingham, Suffolk. 1s. currency. Toronto: John C. Geikie, 70 Yonge street.

To mention Mr. Ryle's name is sufficient to commend this book.

A Popular History of England. By Charles Knight. With upwards of one thousand illustrations on steel and wood. Parts 1 to 7—1s. 6d. each. London: Bradbury & Evans. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

Lord John Russell, in his Discourse at Bristol, in October, 1834, on the Study of History, spoke of the need there was of some History of England which would suit a young man desirous of learning, not the story of monarchs only, but also of the people; a record of the slow degrees by which the strength and dignity of the English nation has been built up to its present height. Mr. Knight has acted on this idea, and has produced the first numbers of a history which, in a moderate bulk, presents a great amount of very interesting information respecting our ancestors in all their relations, for which it would have been vain to look in any one publication of an earlier date. It is by far the best popular History of England in existence, with all the Goldsmiths, Pinnocks, Keightleys, and a host of others put together. As a family History, or the History which would be desired by a well-educated young man or young lady, or indeed by any one not anxious to become a tame and critical historian by varied research, nothing can be found better than Mr. Knight's.

The style is very agreeable, the learning ample, and the illustrations are a great help to the vivid understanding of the text. Coming in numbers is also, in many ways, an additional advantage, as the parts will often be read where volumes would lie unopened.

It is to be completed in about 36 parts.

Chalmers' Astronomical Discourses. New edition, 2s. 1 1/2d. Edinburgh: T. Constable & Co. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

It is very rarely that it can be said of Sermons, that their sale is as great as popular works of fiction; but this was the case with Dr. Chalmers' Astronomical Discourses, which, on their first publication, actually kept pace for month after month with the then new volume of Sir Walter Scott's "Tales of my Landlord." The same magnificent diction and imagery, and the same resistless enthusiasm of treatment which filled a Glasgow church at noon, through the working days of the week, and sped the race of the printed volume side by side with the wonderful story of Scott, has made it a classic in our literature, and leaves any one who has not yet read it, in so far confessedly deficient. What can be grander than some passages, or more tender, or more finely conceived than others!

It is worthy of remark, that this edition, though a beautiful English book is actually as cheap as the very inferior reprint of the Carters' of New York. Between the two there is no comparison. The Messrs. Constable and other British publishers, who, through Mr. Geikie, are endeavouring to introduce British literature into Canada on terms often cheaper than the British, and always favourable, compared to the past, deserve the thanks of the community, and should be encouraged in their effort by a hearty support. How greatly would it tend to elevate our people if such volumes as the present, in a style so attractive, were generally diffused among them.

HERZOG'S ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Every theological student feels the want of some work that shall acquaint him with the personality of leading writers in the departments of Divinity, Church History, and Biblical Literature, with whose names and works he is more or less familiar. He feels the want also of some reliable book of reference, always at hand, by which he can refresh his memory as to any doctrine or movement or person in the history of the Church. Such a work is at length provided in "Herzog's Real Encyclopadie fur Protestantische Theologie und Kirche," now issuing in numbers in Germany. The last number completes the letter H. It contains an interesting article on Hippolytus.

This work is the joint production of many of the best scholars of Germany, each contributing some particular article, or a series of articles in some assigned department. Its tone is decidedly evangelical, while in historical and theological criticism it is strictly impartial. It has received high commendations from scholars in Europe and in the United States.

A translation of this Encyclopedia is in progress in this country, under the supervision of Rev. J. H. A. Bomberger, D. D., of Philadelphia. Dr. B. will enrich the work with contributions touching Biblical Literature and Theology in the United States. His work thus far is well executed. We regret, however, that he should abbreviate in the least the original work of Herzog, since even its minutest local details of German systems would be interesting to many readers in this country. We trust that all idea of curtailment will be abandoned, and the work translated just as it is, with such addenda as the translator's knowledge of theological affairs in this country may supply.

The American edition is published by Messrs. Lindsay & Blakiston, of Philadelphia, in bi-monthly numbers, at 50 cents each. The whole cost of the Encyclopedia will be about $8; but subscribers who pay for it in numbers, will hardly feel its cost when the work shall stand complete upon their shelves. This will do rank among works indispensable to the minister who would be thoroughly furnished for his vocation.

As yet we have seen only the first number of the American edition. The second is advertised as ready for delivery; and when that shall have come to hand, we may be better able to judge of the merits of the translation. But we feel no hesitation now in commending the Encyclopedia to all who would be well informed in Theological and Religious Literature. It is supplied in Toronto by John C. Geikie, 70 Yonge street.

OLSHAUSEN'S COMMENTARY ON THE NEW TESTAMENT. New York: Sheldon, Blakeman & Co. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

The Commentary of Dr. Hermann Olshausen is more widely known and appreciated in this country than the critical works of any other German scholar, except, perhaps, Hengstenberg. This owing to two things—the publication of his entire Commentary in a valuable and popular series, "Clark's Foreign Evangelical Library," and the intrinsic merit of the work. As a critic, Olshausen surpasses most commentators in penetrating to the inmost meaning of the Scriptures, getting at the very marrow of the text. Though there is an occasional vein of mysticism in his notes, especially upon Christ and the Church, yet he is remarkably free from transcendental tendencies. Moreover, while he does not embrace the common view of inspiration, held by English Orthodox divines, he is equally removed from Rationalism, and reverently holds to the supremacy of the Scriptures as the Word of God.

He excels, also, in the interpretation of Scripture by Scripture—especially in linking together the Old and New Testament in one harmonious whole. After years of familiar acquaintance with this Commentary, we are prepared to pronounce it the most valuable for analysis and suggestion, that has yet been published in the English language. It is not suited for general popular reading; but as a help to the pastor in his study it has no rival. There are commentaries on particular books, and monographs on controverted passages, which may surpass this in some points; but taken as a whole, it is the best critical commentary on the New Testament yet made available to the English student.

Messrs. Sheldon, Blakeman & Co., of New York, have undertaken to republish the entire Commentary in six octavo volumes of about 600 pages each. This will bring the work at a much cheaper rate than it is afforded in the Edinburgh edition of nine volumes octavo; yet there will be no abbreviation or omission. Moreover, the English translation is heavy and involved, sometimes obscure and even inaccurate. Professor Kendrick, of Rochester University, an accomplished scholar in both Greek and German, has carefully revised the English translation, correcting its errors and improving its style. One needs but to glance at the specimens of these improvements given in the preface, to see the great superiority of this to the English edition.

Professor Kendrick has also corrected the Greek accentuation, which is often faulty in the English edition. Moreover, he has taken advantage of the fourth German edition, as revised by Dr. Ehrhard, the confidential pupil of Olshausen. Thus, in some respects, the work is entirely new; while in all respects it is improved by the judicious revision of the American edition.

Much praise is due to the publishers for an undertaking which involves so large an outlay. Every minister who has not a copy of Olshausen, should mark this as the next book to be added to his library. Liberal men should also make this prominent on their list of donations to their ministers.

PROFESSOR DANA'S GREAT WORK.

The valuable report of Professor Dana, on the Geology of the Pacific, has hitherto been inaccessible to the public, in consequence of the rarity and costliness of the edition published by the Government at Washington. It has even been so high as forty dollars a copy. Those who are interested in such subjects will therefore be glad to learn that the author proposes to publish a new edition at twelve dollars a copy. Should the list of subscribers reach five hundred, the price will be ten dollars. Many will gladly avail themselves of this opportunity to learn some of the most valuable results of the United States Exploring expedition to the Pacific. Persons who wish a copy of this work are requested to send their names to John C. Geikie, 70 Yonge st., Toronto.

The Report consists of a quarto volume of text of 750 pages, illustrated by several maps and numerous wood cuts, and a folio atlas of 21 plates. It treats of the Structure, Growth and Distribution of Coral Reefs and Islands, of the Geology of the Sandwich Islands; the Islands, the Feejees; the Navigators, of the Pacific ocean, changes of level in the Pacific, general features of the Globe; of the Geology of Peru, and Fugea, and of a part of Oregon. The folio also contains figures of fossils of the Coal and inferior formations of South Wales, and of the Tertiary rocks of Oregon.

THE BIBLIOTHECA SACRA FOR OCTOBER.

Whoever takes up this number of the Bibliotheca will be sure to read the last article first, and to read it through at a sitting. Not only the name of the writer (Prof. Park) will attract him to this, but also the sketch of the Phillips family, whose name is so liberally associated with the Academy at Andover and Exeter, and the Seminary at Andover.

If the eye of a reader follow our own, it will next be arrested by the elaborate and lucid criticism of Prof. Barrows upon the Mosaic Narrative of the Creation. What Prof. Dana has done for science, in his criticism of Prof. Lewis, Prof. Barrows here does equally well in a sound Biblical exegesis. We trust that this discussion will be continued till some stable ground is reached upon which the exegete and the geologist can stand side by side. Will not Prof. Guyot stir us with his views from his own pen?

Mr. Joseph S. Ames, of Boston, a gentleman who, in the ardor of successful mercantile pursuits, has not lost his affection for letters, contributes a valuable article on the Universal Linguistic Alphabet of Lepsius. This should engage the immediate attention of missionaries. We learn that some members of the Micronesian mission, in reducing the native language to writing, in order to get rid of double consonants, have adopted the unwise expedient of repeating single English consonants with various powers. This will only make confusion. The system of Lepsius would obviate much difficulty.

We have not room even to specify the remaining articles of this number. We are more than ever impressed with the value of this Review to the pastor and to every intelligent student of the Bible. The worth of its articles to the minister, in guiding his critical investigations of the Scriptures, in suggesting topics for the pulpit, and in disciplining his powers, augmenting his knowledge, and refining his taste, is beyond calculation. And yet, how many a pastor is compelled to weigh all these advantages by the four dollars that he needs for bread!

It is due to Mr. Geikie to say that the Bibliotheca is beautifully and accurately printed. John C. Geikie, 70 Yonge st., supplies it in Toronto.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.

The October number contains thirteen articles, covering a wide range of Philosophy, History, and General Literature.

The article on the present state of the Jewish People, abounds in valuable information respecting literary culture among the Jews. The North American deserves a wide support. John C. Geikie, 70 Yonge st., Toronto.

MURRAY'S EDITIONS OF THE BRITISH CLASSICS.

The Works of Oliver Goldsmith. Edited by Peter Cunningham. 4 vols. 8vo. London: John Murray. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

If any one wants a perfectly beautiful book at a reasonable price, let him buy Mr. Cunningham's edition of poor Goldy's works.

Amidst all the competition for eminence in our literature, who has ever been more easy and exquisitely natural than the author of the Deserted Village? Johnson's famous line was most true of him. "Nil quod tetigit non ornavit." Hugh Miller and Washington Irving owe their fame in great measure to their being imitators of his style, and we know nothing better fitted to form that of any one than a familiarity with his writings.

Dictionary of Geography: Descriptive, Physical, Statistical and Historical—forming a complete general Gazetteer of the world. By Alexander Keith Johnston, F. R. S. E., F. R. G. S., F. G. S., &c. &c. 1 vol. thick 8vo. 32s. 6d. London: Longman & Co. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

Wit and Wisdom of the Reverend Sydney Smith: Being selections from his Writings, and Passages of his Letters and Table Talk; with a Biographical Memoir and Notes. By E. A. Duyckinck. New York: Redfield. Toronto: John C. Geikie. 6s. 3d.

An intelligent, kindly and well-informed concentration of Sydney Smith's wondrous wit, and no less striking wisdom. It saves wading through several volumes, and gives a fair idea of a man whom all loved while alive, except perhaps a few Pennsylvanians, and whose memory now smells sweet, and blossoms in the dust.

Sermons by Henry Melville, B. D., Minister of Camden Chapel, &c. &c.: Comprising all the Discourses, published by consent of the author. Edited by the Right Rev. C. P. McIlvaine, D. D., Bishop of Ohio. 2 vols. large 8vo. 17s. 6d. New York: Thomas N. Stanford. Toronto: John C. Geikie.

A very excellent edition of the greatest living preacher of the Church of England, and one of the greatest of any Church. To clergymen there could hardly be a better model of calm dignity and elegance, and few sermons contain more individuality in the exposition of the Scriptures. The mere labour of thought required for the discourses must have been great, apart from that required for their composition. The Christian man of taste who has not Henry Melville's works should get them.

LITERARY NEWS.

There is a renewal of the report that Douglass Jerrold is on the eve of visiting the United States, on a lecturing tour. Thackeray is at Spa, in Germany, occupied, it is said, in "laying the keel" of a new serial. His lectures on the Four Georges met with such scant success in England, even though considerably weeded, that he has put them on the shelf. Albert Smith is rustivating at Cheltenham, a fashionable watering place in England, and meditates another ascent of Mont Blanc, by a new route.

Macaulay continues in Venice—the most insalubrious, unsavory Autumn residence in Europe. On his return he will resume his history. A calculation has been made, on the "rule of three" principle, that if it took four volumes to narrate what was done in eight years, it will require sixty octavoes to record the events of the hundred and twenty years intended to be covered by the whole of Macaulay's history. And if it took two years to write the four volumes already published, Macaulay must live exactly a century and a half more to complete the work!

Dr. Kano and Hermann Melville have both left for a sojourn in Europe.

Prince Lucien is about to commence, on his return to Paris, the publication of the Gospel of St. Matthew in all the Basque dialects; and after that a map of the countries in which the Basque language is still spoken. The Prince every day assembles at his table, at St. Jean de Luz, representatives of the numerous dialects of that language in Spain and in France. On more than one occasion it has happened that the guests, all of them speaking Basque, could not understand each other, but the Prince, from his acquaintance with all these dialects, has been able to explain to each what has been said.—Presbyterian.

Thomas de Quincey is a contributor to the new English periodical called The Titan. In the September number he has an article entitled "Storms in English History: a glance at the reign of Henry VIII."

A censorship of the press is about being established in Spain. Indeed, in no European country, except England, is the press unshackled.

From the London Publishers' Circular, Oct. 1.

Among the few announcements of new books are—The Marquis of Normanby's Year of Revolution; Ivory, by the author of Amey Herbert; The Chronology of Art, by Mr. George Scharf, jun.; England's Greatness, by John Wade; The Theory of War, by Lieut.-Col. Macdougall, of Sandhurst; a new and miniature edition of Moore's Epicurean; Edgar Barton, by W. Knighton, author of The Private Life of an Eastern King; a new volume of Poems by Gerald Massey; Self and Self-Sacrifice, by Anna Lisle; Life in Ancient India, by Mrs. Spier; Tender and True, by the author of Clara Morison; Kate Coventry, originally published in Prizer's Magazine. The new volume of the Run-and-Read Library is Country Hospitalities, by Catherine Sinclair.

The list of published books continues to remain as brief as for the past month; it comprises The Dodd Family at Home, complete in 2 vols.; Out on the World, 3 vols.; the Second Part of the Daisy Chain; The Hills of the Shatemuc, by Miss Warner; Cambridge in the 17th Century, containing the Autobiography of Matthew Robinson; Astrology as it is; Lardner's Hand Book of Astronomy; the Eighth Volume of Orr's Circle of the Sciences; the Second Volume of Russell's Letters to The Times, completing his history of the Crimean Campaign; Aris Wilmott's Poets of the 19th Century; Emerson's English Traits; Wordsworth, a Biography; Béranger's Songs, translated by Robert Brough; Capt. Stoney's Residence in Tasmania; Ellicott's Pastoral Epistles; Hamilton's Thoughts on Truth; and new editions of Macaulay's Field Fortification, Foster's Critical Essays (Vol. 1, Bohn), Warren's Blackstone, It is Never Too Late to Mend, Haji Baba, The Protestant (by Mrs. Bray), Miss Edgeworth's Popular Tales, Masterman Ready, Heart of Midlothian.

A new edition of Mrs. Stowe's new work, Dred, is now ready, completing the issue of one hundred thousand within a month—a sale, we believe, unprecedented. The new edition of the Hills of the Shatemuc, published by Messrs. Low, completes the issue of thirty thousand. This is the only edition published by consent of the author, and from which she derives any advantage.

THE NEWS OF THE CHURCHES AND JOURNAL OF MISSIONS.

Published on the 1st of each Month—Size, 32 pages Large Quarto.
"The very best Religious Newspaper extant."
—[DR. ALEXANDER.]

THE OBJECT of the News of the Churches is to give full and accurate information as to what the different sections of the Church of Christ in different countries are doing, and how they are faring. It aims at being a sort of universal register, making Christians aware of whatever affects the honour of their common Lord, and the advancement of his cause, in the current history of the churches and the nations.
It interferes with none of the other religious periodicals of the day; while, from its nature, none of these can supply its place.

In the HOME DEPARTMENT, information is given regarding all that is of Catholic interest in the proceedings of the various Evangelical Churches in England, Scotland, and Ireland.

In the FOREIGN DEPARTMENT, monthly letters are given from Special Correspondents in France, Belgium, Holland, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy,
Germany, Turkey, Canada, the United States, India, China, &c. These are supplemented by extracts from Foreign religious journals. A copious selection from the Missionary Records of Churches and Societies both in this country and in America, is also regularly given.

In the LITERARY DEPARTMENT, it is the aim of the conductors to indicate the character of the principal works of a religious kind that appear, and to give a general sketch of the progress of religious literature.
