CAMPBELLTON TEAM WINS FROM CHATHAM

First Home Match in Hockey League Ends in Victory For Campbellton

The new Hockey League season was inaugurated here on Wednesday evening at the skating rink with some of our old friends from Chatham as visitors, and as it subsequently turned out, a fair one.

Though fair was not up to the usual, this being perhaps accounted for by the increased charge of admission.

Twenty minutes each, were played, and the game was fast and interesting right from the word "go." Play at first was chiefly confined to the Campbellton end, where McLean held down his job in the usual manner, till Jones beat him with No. 1, five minutes from the start. This initial set back seemed to pull the local boys together, and they settled down to combination work. Shots were sent in by Delaney and Matthews, but marksmanship was at fault, till Fowler, accepting a pass from Matthews, tied the score. This period ended with Chatham pressing.

When play was resumed, Chatham again bore down on the local goal. Synott, Jones, and Veno, being prominent in these attacks. Watling and Fraser relieved in turn. Fraser worked his way down and gave to Delaney, who tallied No. 2 for the locals. For a time, and to end play followed, No. 3 coming from Delaney after a nice piece of play in which Fraser, Matthews, and McLatchey figured. Matthews added No. 4 from a pass by Fraser. McLatchey's territory was now the object of another attack, but Watling relieved, and play was transferred to the other end where Fraser after nice work with Fowler, landed the puck in the net, but the point did not count as the whistle had gone for off-side.

The third period had little more than started when Chisholm got possession from a run on Rogers, and taking the puck up centre ice, he let drive and was fortunate to find the mark with No. 2 for the visitors. The game was Fraser for a few moments to show of repairs to Jones and later to Fraser. End to end play continued till the call of time when the final score stood Campbellton, 4; Chatham, 2.

The visitors, individually, were if anything, faster on the ice, and some nice runs were brought off, but there was not the same combination among them, as was shown by the local team. Considering the speed of the game, play was clean throughout, although at times it seemed as if old friends on either side, came together with a little too much enthusiasm.

MEETING OF THE CURLING CLUB HELD

Another Cup is Put up For Competition Among The North Shore Clubs

A meeting of the Curling Club was held in the rink on Wednesday evening, a goodly number of members attending.

The Secretary read the following letter:

Chatham, N.B., Jan. 2, 1914.

To the President of the Campbellton Curling Club, Campbellton, N. B.

Dear Sir:

For the further promotion of the game of Curling on the North Shore of New Brunswick I have donated a valuable Silver Trophy, to be played for annually under the following conditions—

1. The Clubs of Campbellton, Bathurst, Newcastle and Chatham to compete for the possession of this Cup for the current year with four rinks, each chosen from bona fide members of each Club who do not compete in the current year for the North Shore Cup contributed by the Clubs above mentioned.
2. The first contest to be held at Chatham on the third Wednesday, the Twenty-first instant. All future dates of playing to be agreed upon by the trustees.
3. The Clubs to play against each other to be selected by a ballot at least twenty four hours before the date appointed for playing.
4. Only one game to be played by each Club—the winners to play off within twenty-four hours after the first series is played. The winners to take and hold the Trophy until date of playing in the next succeeding year at the home of the holders of the Cup.
5. Ice to be in good condition for playing to the satisfaction of at least three of the contending Clubs. All Clubs to be represented by one of its Officers, to be chosen by the Club, who shall be called Trustee of Archer Trophy.

Kindly signify to the Secretary of the Chatham Curling Club what your intentions are respecting the above.

Yours truly,

Peter Archer.

In the discussion which ensued, it was felt that it would be almost impossible to take part in this competition, as well as the North Shore Bonspiel, and it was with regret that the secretary was instructed to write explaining the club's position and declining the invitation.

HORSE RACING AT CAMPBELLTON TODAY

Good Sport on the Ice Speedway.—Clear and Cold Weather

Under splendid weather conditions, the sportsmen are today enjoying a full day's sport at the races on the ice. Good fields have been entered for the various events, and although a little to the cold side, the weather is bright and clear for the numerous spectators who are out to view the races.

The program has been well arranged by the committee, Messrs. Geo. St. Onge, C. T. Cool, and H. P. Doyle, Mr. J. R. McKenzie acting as chairman and Mr. W. R. Milligan, secretary.

There are four classes being run, the Free-for-all, "2.30" "3 minute" and the "Green Race", the purses totalling $160.00.

FUNERAL OF MR. DAVID RICHARDS

Business is Suspended on Friday Afternoon During the Time Of Burial

The funeral of the late David Richards was held last Friday afternoon, the services at the house conducted by Rev. J. H. Jenner, assisted by Rev. T. P. Drumm, beginning at 2 o'clock, the funeral procession leaving the house at 2.30. Interment was made in the Rural Cemetery. Showing the great esteem in which the deceased gentleman was held, the town turned out almost en masse to pay the last respects and the remains were followed to the cemetery by almost the largest number that was ever known to take part in a funeral here.

The pall bearers were His Worship Judge McLatchey, Messrs. E. H. Anderson, Oswald Smith, W. W. Doherty, Alex. McLennan, and Max M. Mowat. The flowers received were many and beautiful, showing in a marked degree the high esteem in which the late gentleman was held. The late Mr. Richards was not a member of the Baptist church, but was a member of Campbellton church congregation.

POPULAR PREACHER MEETS WITH INJURY

Rev. T. P. Drumm Receives Cut on Head as Result of Fall at Post Office

Rev. T. P. Drumm, the popular minister of St. Andrew's, met with a painful accident yesterday morning, receiving a fall at the post office steps, which resulted in him being confined to the house with a badly cut head. It appears the rev. gentleman was ascending the steps of the post office yesterday morning, and just as he placed his foot on the bottom step, his dog brushed against him causing him to slip, and falling, his head came in contact with the stone balustrade, sustaining a deep cut on the back of the head. He was able to make his way to McDonald's Drug Store, and from there to the Manse, where medical aid was summoned and the wound dressed.

He is now progressing favorably, and will be about as usual in a day or two.

VERY WEAK SHOWING OF GOVERNMENT RLY.

Returns for 1912-13, Show a Large Deficit.—Expenses More Than Receipts

According to figures published in the Montreal Gazette, the Canadian Government Railways made a very poor showing for the year 1912-13. The net earnings of the I. C. R. were only $4,500, while the Prince Edward Island Railway showed a deficit between receipts and working expenses of $100,498. In other words on this road it cost over $1.25 in working expenses to earn $1.00 in revenue. This statement does not look well against the high salaries of the departments and increased rates, not to speak of the GOOD BUSINESS arrangement with the C. P. R. to haul freight and passengers at reduced rates from Halifax. The following figures are taken from the Montreal Gazette—

Milan, Jan. 14.—A heavy snow is falling in this vicinity and in the Alps. The intense cold has driven the hungry wolves from the mountains and they threaten to play havoc with cattle. Armed bands have been organized to attempt to exterminate the wolves.

A Syracuse dog saved a sausage factory from being burned by a few timely barks. The story fails to relate whether the dog was on the inside looking out or on the outside looking in.

LUMBER SHIPMENTS FOR THE 1913 SEASON

Large Increase From This Port In Cargoes to United Kingdom Ports

The lumber shipping season for 1913 was a busy one in this section, the ports in the northern part of the province showing a good increase. The following comparative figures are taken from the St. John Globe, but it should be clearly understood that the Campbellton figures relate only to shipments to British ports, the full total of the vessels loaded here for all ports not being included.

NO TRACE OF THE SCHOONER GRETA

Hyannis, Mass., Jan. 14.—Twenty-four hours' search of Nantucket Sound by the revenue cutter "Cushnet" and two light-house tenders, failing to reveal any trace today of the schooner, Greta of Dalhousie, N. B., which disappeared from near Cross Rip Light-ship during the gale on Monday night. It was believed that the "Greta" had either been swept far out of sight, or had foundered with Captain Bertyman and the five men of his crew. The "Greta" was bound from Perth Amboy for St. John, N. B.

The funeral of the late James Bruce Firlotte, who died here on Friday, 9th January, was held on Monday afternoon, interment being made in Kempton Road cemetery. Rev. W. Gordon Firth and Rev. T. P. Drumm conducted the services at the home of the deceased, the pall bearers being Messrs. James Adams, Ernest Adams, Campbellton; Fred Adams, Donald Downs, Brantlands; Wm. Connors and Wm. Gregoire, Kempton Road. He is mourned by his father and mother and four brothers, all at home in Kempton Road.

The late Bruce Firlotte, who was in his 23rd year, was a young man of exemplary habits, and was a consistent Christian worker in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. He had been in failing health for over a year and succumbed to an attack of pleurisy at the home of one of his relations, Mrs. James Campbell last Friday. He is much missed in St. Andrew's Sunday school, but his influence will remain in the Sunday school, where he taught conscientiously Sunday after Sunday.

MRS. ROBERT ADAMS

The funeral of the late Mrs. Robert Adams, who died in New Glasgow, N. S., was held from the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. A. G. Adams on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. T. P. Drumm conducted the services at the home of Mr. A. G. Adams, the pall bearers being Messrs. Herbert Garwood, Ernest Adams, Blair Adams, Fred Adams, Allan Hicks, Dalhousie Junction, and Edgar Hicks, Bathurst.

The deceased lady who was in her 83rd year, was a Miss Moodie of Bathurst, and was the widow of the late Robert Adams, who was well known here.

The body was interred in the Rural Cemetery, Campbellton.

EVERY-WOMAN AT CAMPBELLTON HOUSE

In presenting Miss Marjory Lacey in Everywoman, at the Opera House, in the second entertainment of the series on January 29th, the management feel that they are doubly fulfilling their obligation to the public; First in introducing an attractive, competent and worthy young artist; Second, in providing a means by which the great masses of the people may listen to an artistic and forceful interpretation of the most wonderful play of the hour—a story that grips, that dispels the tediums of the stage and high life, and one that every young person especially should hear.

To quote from the author, Walter Browne: "Everywoman is not a sermon in disguise, but a modern morality play intended to afford pleasure and entertainment; at the same time it is hoped that it may be found to contain some clean and wholesome moral lessons."

"Since the days of chivalry when knights clashed steel for their lady-loves and went on crusades to prove their prowess, while they remained secluded in cloisters or in moated castles, of which the title of the play is intended to be a type, has grown more self assertive and more bold—to every woman who nowadays listens to flattery, goes in quest of love, and openly lays siege to the hearts of men, this play may provide a kindly warning—to every man it may suggest an admonition, the text of which is contained in the epilogue to the play."

ANOTHER GOLD MINE FOUND IN N. SASK.

Rich Gold Field is Located Near Beaver Lake, And Rush Has Started

Prince Albert, Sask., Jan. 3, (Special)—Gold in paying quantities has been discovered in Northern Saskatchewan at Amisk Lake, by a party of Prince Albert prospectors who were financed by local capital. Although this is the heart of the winter season, a rush has already started which bids fair to develop tremendous proportions. Through explorations carried on at the instance of the Dominion Government, and by private individuals, it has been proven that Northern Saskatchewan contains great mineral wealth. It has remained, however, for Mr. Dan Mosher to locate a very rich gold field, that seems of enormous commercial value. Mr. Mosher and his associates represented the Prince Albert Exploration Company. From samples which have been assayed by Milton Hersey & Co., Ltd., Montreal, marvellous percentages have been obtained. One company to exploit the local field has already been organized and work will start at the earliest possible moment, on a 24 foot lead. Stamping is to be done on the ground, and the gold brought out by canoes across Beaver Lake, down the Sturgeon River, through Sturgeon Lake, and thence, if necessary, to Prince Albert.

Pictou With Two Rinks Wrest 32 to 26

Amherst Jan. 9.—Amherst lost the McLeLlan cup Wednesday afternoon to Pictou curlers by a score of 32 to 26. The Amherst curlers won the cup from the Mayflowers of Halifax early last season and defended it against six outside rinks last season. The Pictou stone men proved too much for the Amherst followers of the roaring game, and the Scots won out. The two visiting rinks were the best that Pictou could send to this city and they certainly came up to all expectations. The rinks were as follows:

LADY WITH A BUSTLE EXCITES PITTSBURG

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Hooted from its position of popularity among the moodily dressed women of an earlier decade, and thrown into the discard, the "bustle" has come back, or at least one of them. Adorning one of the latest creations of the Parisian modiste's art, it arrived here to day and was placed on display by a beautiful young miss who passed down Fifth Avenue, the cynosure of thousands of eyes and to the accompaniment of an ever-increasing babble of voices, hoots, and hisses. When Miss Collingwood turned into Fifth avenue from Smithfield street this afternoon there was a gasp from the crowd in the busy thoroughfare and then a simultaneous "it's a bustle."

By the time the fair young dame had travelled a block Pittsburg's fashionable thoroughfare was congested with a wildly curious mob of men and women, eager, as one of the latter species said, for "just one glimpse." Two big corner policemen finally took Miss Collingwood in tow and urged her into one of the avenue's big banking houses. Later she was whisked away in a big motor car, bustle and all.

Mrs. ANNIE A. CORBETT

Avon, Ont., May 14th, 1913
"I have used 'Fruit-a-tives' for indigestion and Constipation with most excellent results, and they continue to be my only medicine. I am highly pleased with 'Fruit-a-tives' and am not ashamed to have the facts published to the world. When I first started, about six years ago, to use them, I took four for a dose, but I cured myself of the above troubles and gradually reduced the dose to one tablet at night. Before taking 'Fruit-a-tives' I took salts and other pills but the treatment was too harsh. I thought I might as well suffer from the disease as from these treatments. Finally, I saw 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised with a letter in which someone recommended them very highly, so I tried them. The results were more than satisfactory and I have no hesitation in recommending them to any other person. They have done me a world of good. I get satisfaction from them, and that is quite a lot!" ### HELPFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS

(From the Gloucester Northern Light)

Common household remedies are not given the prominence which they deserve. One of the best and perhaps the cheapest of these, the lemon, is so popular with us as it should be, perhaps because the many uses to which it may be put are unknown or ignored. Let us suggest to you, this week, some of the helpful things lemons will do for you if you give them the chance.

Squeeze a lemon into a glass of water in which is a little sugar, and drink every morning before breakfast and you will not be troubled with dyspepsia.

When you make hot lemonade for a cold, it is well to remember that a little glycerine will make the remedy more valuable.

For a cough or cold, try the following: Put a good sized lemon in the oven, and let it remain until it seems well baked. It will be soft all through. Remove the pulp and add enough honey to make a thick syrup, remove seeds. Keep this mixture warm, and take often a teaspoonful, and unless in a very obstinate case this will effect a cure in a short time.

Lemon juice with the addition of salt will remove iron-rust, and nearly all vegetable stains from white goods. As a remedy for an obstinate corn, grind a piece of lemon upon it, renewing every morning for three or four days. Then the corn may be easily removed.

Rubbing with slices of lemon will relieve sore and tender feet. Chills may be relieved by rubbing with slices of lemon, sprinkled with salt.

To whiten the hands, mix equal parts of lemon juice and glycerine, and rub your hands well with the mixture before going to bed. Wash hands in warm water in the morning, and rub again with a little pure lemon juice. When lemons have become hard from keeping, cover them with boiling water and set on back of range for a little while. They will become soft and pliable.

A lump of sugar, saturated with lemon juice, is said to be a cure for hic-coughs.

A few drops of lemon juice give scrambled eggs a delicious flavor.

BRAZILIAN TIMBER SAID TO BE FINEST

Enormous Wealth in Forests is Untouched Through Lack of Facilities

Brazil is without any possible contestation the country which possesses the most precious timber for general construction and ship-building, and for the manufacture of furniture and other articles. A country of varied and luxuriant flora in diverse climates and zones of vegetation, Brazil possesses a multitude of timbers, which are highly appreciated for their resistance, beauty and durability.

The importance of this timber does not consist only in the hardness of the wood; in many species the grain is so beautiful and wavy that it appears to be the work of an artist. Other species emit an odour of such sweetness and intensity that they seem to be the reservoirs of pure essences prepared by famous chemists.

All the states possess timber of superior quality, but some of them are uncommonly rich in valuable species and varieties, as Amazonas, Para, Matto Grosso, Bahia, Espirito Santo, Rio de Janeiro, Minas Geraes, Parana.

In proof of the wealth of the forests of Brazil it is sufficient to mention the S. Louis Exhibition in North America, where the samples of timber excited the enthusiasm of the American people, and where the Press declared Brazil the richest forest country in the world.

The timber trade, however, has not yet attained to a high degree of development, owing to difficulties of transportation, costly rates and a lack of good ports for quick loading and shipping.

BAKED APPLES AND NUTS

1. Baked apples and nuts are delicious. For a half dozen large apples, three quarters of a cupful of nut-meats—butter-nuts or walnuts—will be required. Chop the nut meats fine, add half a cup of sugar. Core the apples and fill the centres with the nuts and sugar. Bake in rather deep pan, with a cupful of boiling water added. When tender, remove carefully, place in dish in which they are to be served, pour the juice over the apples, and crown with whipped cream or a meringue made from the whites of two eggs.

JELLIED APPLE SECTIONS

2. For six large apples, peeled, cored and quartered, make a syrup with a cup of sugar, one cup of water, the juice, and a little of the yellow rind of a lemon. Bring all to the boiling point, skim and remove the rind. Have ready a flat agateware dish, broad enough to allow the quarters to lie singly, pour syrup over them and cook until tender, then remove carefully from syrup into serving dish, each quarter separately. Add to the syrup one tablespoonful of gelatin, dissolved in a little cold water, stir and pour over the fruit, put in cool place. When cold, each section may be served surrounded by a jelly of just the right solidity.

FRIED APPLES

3. Apples fried in butter make a most acceptable addition to a dinner, as an accompaniment to roast pork. Cut nice fat, salt pork in slices, par-broil. Then fry crisp, but do not allow to scorch or burn. Core as many tart apples, but do not pare. Slice in three or four crosswise rounds, and dip in a batter made of one cup of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, a pinch of salt, and sweet milk enough to make a thin pancake batter. Have the pork drippings nice and hot, dip each slice of the apple in the batter, coating both sides and fry a light, delicate brown in hot drippings.

APPLE CUSTARD PIE

4. Two eggs, four or five apples grated, a little nutmeg, sweeten to taste, add half a pint of cream, pour into pastry lined pie plate, bake without an upper crust.

APPLE WATER

5. Slice some well flavored apples into a large jug, add three or four cloves, a strip of lemon peel, boiling water then pour over all. Let stand one day. Makes a wholesome drink in twelve hours. If preferred add sugar to taste.

APPLE JELLY

6. Pare and cut into thin slices, three or four juicy, sour apples, place a layer of the slices in a bowl, sprinkle them liberally with sugar, put in another layer of apples and sugar, and so on until apples are all used up, having sugar on the top. Place a cover over the dish, and bake for two hours in a moderate oven. When this is cold, it will turn out like a mould of jelly. Serve with whipped cream.

DELICIOUS APPLE DESSERT

7. Stew some tart apples until soft, add sugar to taste, and strain through a wire sieve. To each pint of apple sauce, add the white of one egg, beat until stiff and white, then heap into a dish, pour whipped cream, flavored and sweetened to taste over it, or serve with a boiled custard.

APPLE CUSTARD PIE

8. Strain a cup of apple sauce through a fine strainer. Beat the yolk of one egg and a half cup of sugar until light and foamy, add to the apple sauce, season with lemon extract. Bake in quick oven with no crust. Make a meringue of the white of the egg, spread over pie, and return to oven and brown lightly.

SWEET APPLES PICKLED

9. Tough sweet apples are best for pickles. Pare, core and quarter them. Simmer the parings, cores and seeds, drain, and strain the juice. Cook the apples in this till tender, then drain again. Save the juice. For every seven pounds of fruit, allow four pounds of white sugar, one pint good vinegar and one cup of the apple juice. Make a syrup of the sugar, vinegar and juice, tie one tablespoon cloves and two of cinnamon in a piece of cheesecloth, and boil in syrup fifteen minutes. Add the fruit and simmer half an hour. Put fruit into jars, pour syrup over and seal.

TO PRESERVE APPLES IN WINTER

10. To keep apples through the winter, put a layer of dry sand on a shelf, then a layer of apples, again a layer of sand, then a layer of apples, and so on. Kept in a dry place, apples kept in this way, will be found good in June or July.

The reproducing point of the new Edison Cylinder Phonograph is a diamond

It was appropriate that when Mr. Edison was seeking the utmost perfection in sound reproduction he should find that this power lay in the diamond. He discovered it in the course of more than 2,500 experiments, always looking toward rarer sweetness, mellower, stronger tone.

He has equipped every new Edison Phonograph with a diamond-point reproducer.

When this marvelously improved tip rests upon the surface of the unbreakable Blue Amberol Record, the heavier pressure can produce but one result—wonderfully increased volume combined with rarer sweetness. Hear a Blue Amberol at your Edison dealer's today.

Feb. 18—Chatham at Fredericton

This schedule is much more satisfactory to a number here who were complaining of all the games being played on a Wednesday evening. To many this evening is taken up with church work, and if the management here saw fit to put on some or all of their games on a Friday night, there is no doubt they would have bigger turn-outs.

The Mad Mullah of Scamilland has been raising British territory again, and is to be punished. Have you ever tried to catch a flea in the uncertain light of early dawn?

TEMPERANCE REFORM IN ENGLAND.

When the House of Lords in 1908 threw out the famous Licensing Bill which had passed the Commons by a large majority, its sponsor, Mr. Asquith, assured the British Temperance forces that it would be reintroduced as soon as practicable. At the last session a Licensing Bill for Scotland was passed by the Government, bringing into effect a local option on a 55 per cent. majority basis. The United Kingdom Temperance Alliance is demanding a similar measure for England and Wales. There are 34,000 saloons, or "pubs" in England, or one for every 380 of the population. In congested districts, such as the East end of London, the "pubs" number one to every 174 of the population. Last year the English drink bill amounted to $807, 000,000, or a quarter as much as the annual value of all the private dwellings in the country. The extent to which drink still ravages in England, especially among the laboring classes, was shown in a report made to Parliament by Sir T. P. Whitaker, compiled from insurance statistics. It showed that every thousand deaths among the population, 440 were due to alcohol. There has recently been a strong movement among the labor unions and other workingmen's organizations against the drink traffic, and temperance sentiment has gained wonderful strength.

THE LAW'S INEQUALITIES.

In his last work, "Social Environment and Moral Progress," the late Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace attacked the legal system of so-called civilized countries. "And finally," he said, "our administration of what we call 'justice' (and of which we are so proud because our judges cannot be bribed) is utterly unjust, because it is based on a system of money fees at every step; because it is cumbersome and full of technicalities as to need the employment of attorneys and counsel at great cost, and because all petty offences are punishable by fine or imprisonment, which make poverty itself a crime while it allows Jacquet River, Jan. 9th, 1914.

Editor of Graphic,
Campbellton, N. B.,
Dear Sir:

In noticed in the last issue of your paper, an account of the game of hockey between Jacquet River and Nash's Creek. I must say the writer must have been awful absent minded at the time of the writing, and I would like to correct the mistakes. I must say myself, being a spectator and knowing a little about hockey, I believe that if Jacquet River had been given a square deal by the referee, the score might have been different. Our team was crippled by the loss of our R. Wing, Geo. Atkinson, who was hurt five minutes after play started. Also the absence of our goal tender, E. Ultican. The first period ending 3-0 in favor of Nashes Creek.

The play was about even till about half of the last period, when Nashes Creek scored their last goal making the score 4-0.
J. Murphy, Jacquet River, L. Wing, got the disc four times in succession, at the face off, and rushed it the length of the rink, each time to be stopped by the whistle, the referee calling it offside. With about five minutes to play, J. Murphy again secured the disc, went through the whole Nashes Creek team scoring a goal, J. Hayes telling the referee to blow the whistle and call the play offside, as heard by some of the spectators.

You have to play some hockey to beat the referee, believe me. The referee had two brothers on Nashes Creek team making it much easier for them to win.

GENERAL STRIKE

IN SOUTH AFRICA

Government Immediately Declared Martial Law

Capetown, South Africa, Jan. 14.—A general strike throughout South Africa was proclaimed Tuesday night by the Trades Federation, and the mines by two-thirds majority voting in the movement. Government determination was swift. It took the form of martial law. This was the only step the authorities believed adequate to meet the situation for the strike of the miners means not only the turning loose of the most turbulent spirits in the Rand, but raises the whole question of the position of the native workers. If the miners actually obey the strike order the government will immediately take steps to send the natives under escort back to their kraals. This means that about 200,000 natives must be marched back by road to their homes at enormous cost. It will be most difficult after the end of the strike to recruit them again. In brief, such a strike would mean disaster to the Rand for many years.

Time savers for the busy housewife

Round The World In A Kitchen

In seven years, the average housewife walks "around the world" in her kitchen. Rather hard on the poor housewife. With the performance repeated three times a day, and combined to hours of standing it is no wonder that housework steals all of a woman's time and saps her health, strength and good looks.

We would like to explain to you the conveniences of our Kitchen Cabinet. They are time savers and health savers and mean much to the weary women.

Let us show you a model Kitchen Cabinet. They can well be called "Life Savers."

TRURO'S NEW I.C.R.

DEPOT A MODEL

Many New Features Which Will Add Greatly to Comfort of Travellers

Truro, N.S., has a new station building of which it is justly proud, and which adds very greatly to the appearance of the town. It is the finest station building on the line of the Intercolonial.

The new building is the third Truro has had since railroading began in Nova Scotia. The first was opened in 1855 when the old Nova Scotia Railway was completed from Halifax to Truro. It was a fair enough structure in the pioneer days of the "iron horse", but something new was determined on in 1871, when the Intercolonial Railway was completed and Truro became a more important junction point. The second station was for several years thought sufficiently adequate for all the business, but it needs only a glance at it today to realize how far such a structure fell short of the modern demand for station facilities and accommodation. The new building is a handsome and commodious structure of red sandstone, with rock faced buttresses and dressed trimmings. It has a length of 338 feet, the central part being 137 feet long, 56 feet wide, surrounded by a tower on the street side 19 feet square and 78 feet high. The foundations are of concrete and the floors of reinforced concrete and structural steel. The roof is supported on steel trusses, and is built on a burning wood covered with pitch and gravel. A ten foot verandah supported on structural brackets with roof covering of asbestos shingles, extends along the whole track front and around the two ends affording outside shelter and shade. Inside the building is handsomely equipped on a scale more artistic than the Intercolonial has previously attempted. The ground floor of the central part contains the general concourse, 52x61 feet, with a ceiling 19 feet high. The main street entrance is through the tower while there are two entrances from the station platform, and side entrance, and the floors of apartments leading from it are of "Terrano" on top of concrete. The walls for a height of 7 feet above the floors are tiled, the upper part and the ceilings being done in rough cast beams, etc. All the wood furnishings, plastering with finished cornices, are of quartered good oak. The ticket office is a handsome structure with an oval front and an art glass canopy roof, and has ample window accommodation for the growing needs of traffic. Off the main concourse is a finely appointed ladies' parlor and lavatory, telephone office and station master's office. A passage runs from the concourse into the restaurant and dining rooms. The main restaurant is 57x30 feet. The furnishings of these rooms are very attractive, and the kitchen and pantry equipment the most modern that could be obtained. The baggage rooms, express offices, mail room and conductors and trainmen's rooms are in the southern extension.

On the second floor of the central part of the building are located very fine offices for the use of divisional superintendent and staff, the chief dispatcher and his operators, the divisional engineers and trackmaster. The Webster modulation system of heating is used throughout the building. The plumbing is installed according to the most modern sanitary methods. Special attention has been paid to the electric lighting, the wiring being carried in conduits and the fixtures in excellent taste. The lighting will be found ample in the waiting rooms so that the passengers while resting can read comfortably. Most comfortable are the large open fire places in the ladies' parlors and the men's smoking room.

In the spring it is the intention to extend the concrete expanse all around the building, and grass plots with flower beds will grace the town side. The local trains will be despatched from each end of the station where ample track accommodation is being constructed as soon as the old station is removed from its present site.

LEMON CUSTARD PIE

Mix together one half cup sugar, two heaping tablespoons flour, or one of corn starch, the juice and grated peel of one-half a lemon, and two well beaten eggs. Pour a pint of boiling water over the whole, stirring well. Set this mixture over the fire and stir until it boils and thickens. Turn into a pie plate, lined with paste and bake. Set away until quite cold. Beat whites of eggs till stiff, add three tablespoons powdered sugar, spread over pie, return to oven until lightly browned.

LEMON RICE

Boil sufficient rice in milk till soft, sweeten to taste, then pour into a mold to get cold. Peel a lemon thick, cut the peel into half-inch lengths, cover with water, boil a few minutes, pour off the water, cover with a cupful of fresh water, add the juice and sugar to sweeten, then stew gently for two hours. When cold this will be a thick syrup. Turn the rice into dishes in which it is to be served, and pour the syrup over it.

The Sable Lorcha

By Horace Hazelton

Miss Clement, to whom I believe I owe my life, visited me at my request. How I welcomed her with my gratitude! I have no more material than how she endeavored to make light of her service to me, declaring that such offices were a part of her day's work in her chosen field, and that her day's work was her passion. And yet it was this part of our interview which gave me my strongest insight into her exceptionally worthy character. Absolutely unselfish, she joyed in a life that even a religious fanatic might well have envied before, finding flowers in much heaps and jewels amid tinsel.

In five minutes, too, I glimpsed her abounding magnetism, the moving agent in that rare efficiency which was part and parcel of her. Later, I learned of the weight of her influence among the dwellers in the Chinese colony; not from any direct narrative of what she had accomplished—for she was chary of speaking of herself—but by deduction, purely. Moreover, my watch, a few trinkets and a little money, taken from me that night in Doyers street, had all been returned through Miss Clement's good offices; and if, thus far, she had afforded me no real clew in our absorbing exigency, I felt that ultimately her knowledge, coupled with her resourcefulness, would prove to us of unbounded value. And, as events shaped themselves, I was not wrong.

It was now nearly four weeks since Cameron's disappearance, and a fear that he had met death in some fiendish form at the hands of his abductors had come to be with me very nearly an obsession. The care I exercised in hiding my real state of mind from Evelyn could not well be exaggerated. When I appeared to her most hopeful I was actually most despondent. With Miss Clement, however, I had no reason to dissemble. With all frankness I told her of my despair; and when, instead of trying to comfort me with empty words of encouragement she agreed with me that the chances of our ever seeing Cameron again were at a minimum, I liked her the better for being straightforward.

"I sometimes feel," I said to her, "making full confession, that we made a terrible mistake in not at once notifying the authorities. Even now I am inclined to lay the matter before them. Anything would be better than uncertainty. A few arrests and the third degree might work wonders."

"Where would you start?" she asked in a blunt, logical way that reminded me of Evelyn's faculty of going to the root of things. "You see, you know so little. The story about the portrait and the mirror, the police would regard as more amusing than convincing. And besides, you haven't any proof. Yip Sing, you tell me, has the only original letter, and by this time he may have lost it or have forgotten that he ever had it. If you had seen as much of the Chinese as I have, you would appreciate how wily they are. My belief is that the police would conclude that Mr. Cameron fell overboard from his yacht and was drowned. Indeed it would be fortunate if they did not take the view that he jumped overboard and committed suicide. Or, worse still, it would not be beyond them, Mr. Clyde, to charge that you pushed him over. The yellow papers would almost certainly intimate such a possibility." Had some one else voiced this surmise I should not have been so ably resented it, but I understood Miss Clement. She was as kind as her eyes indicated; and that is speaking very strongly.

"Nevertheless," I said with growing determination, "I shall make the case public. It is my duty, and I am willing to run all the risks you point out. I shall start by making a complaint against Peter Johnson. We'll have him arrested, get his record, and follow along that trail until we turn up the other conspirators. If poor Cameron's shares fall in the market, they'll have to fall. If the notoriety precipitates a delayed fatality of which Cameron is the victim, it cannot be helped. I simply will not longer shoulder the responsibility of silence."

The way she had of silent deliberation was also, I felt, mischievous. I can see her, even now, as she sat there that afternoon, her hair the same shade of gray as her cloth gown, her fresh, clear complexion lined in thought, her kindly eyes half closed. For the better part of a minute she pondered. Then, suddenly, her face awoke, and she asked me:

"Will you wait three days longer? That is all. I have channels of information that will, I believe, lead to the truth. There are men in Chinatown, and women too, who would lay down their lives for me. I think some of them would even betray their friends, which is still a greater sacrifice. Wait three days, Mr. Clyde, and if at the end of that time I have not got for you what you want to know, go on with your publicity idea."

It was now my turn to be thoughtful. Evelyn believed in the woman's ability to aid. She had said as much to me. And I myself possessed a certain degree of faith in feminine intuition. Aside from that, though, Miss Clement had demonstrated that she wielded a certain power in her ballroom—was not my watch, at that moment, in my pocket?—and her whole personality proclaimed inherent capacity for accomplishment.

"Very well, Miss Clement," I agreed. "I will wait three days. It is now Saturday, November 14. If by this time Tuesday afternoon we are not, at least, on the track of something tangible, I shall be on my way to Mulberry street."

Sunday was with me a day of impatience. I fretted now at confinement, for my ankle was quite strong again, and I was perfectly well in either respect. But my physician had set Monday for my first day out, and he refused to concede even a twenty-four-hour change of plan. But I chafed more even at the inactivity to which I had agreed concerning Evelyn than at the confinement. All at once, I had become imbued with a necessity for prompt and strenuous measures. Some awful thing, I knew not what, seemed ominously imminent, and remorse tore at me tormentingly.

Early Monday, I telephoned Miss Clement for tidings of her progress, but she could only implore me to wait. She had nothing to report, but she promised, I lunched there; but I went with less grace than ever before, certain as I was of my self-control. Evelyn's faith in Miss Clement, however, was contagious. She spoke of her else, and when I came away I was with strengthened hope of speedy results.

It is my habit to glance over the earlier editions of all the evening papers before leaving my office, and in either on the train to Greenwich or, when in town, at my club, to read more carefully the later issues of the News and Star. On this particular day, however, a succession of matters of more importance prevented my looking at so much as a headline, until, seated at dinner, in the club restaurant, I saw on a window ledge beside me one of the more sensational of the afternoon dailies, and appropriated it in lieu of better companionship.

It was one of those journals which, in catering to the tastes of the proletariat, conceals its misanthropic references to Wall street, save only when a marked slump or a panic points the moral of the unscrupulous capitalist and his heinous crimes. When, therefore, long, bold-face type attracted my eye with the announcement, "Fall in Crystal Consolidated," I started to read the subjoined article, confident enough that some director or directors had been spotted for baroque. And before I had read five lines I came upon the name of Robert Cameron.

If I was to believe this introductory paragraph, my friend was to Crystal Consolidated what John D. Rockefeller was to Standard Oil, yet in the months of our intimacy he had made no reference to this connection; and, though I was thoroughly familiar with the "great glass trust," as it was called, and with the name of its millionaire master, strangely enough I had never connected the Cameron I knew with this Cameron, the Captain of Industry.

"I am," he had said, in all modesty, "largely interested in a certain line of industrial enterprises." That was all. I suppose I should have known; and yet, "no prophet is without honor, save in his own country."

The newspaper article I now read, however, left no room for doubt on the subject; and, incidentally in a single sentence, revealed the secret of how Cameron had succeeded in escaping that general recognition which is usually the penalty of greatness. "He has never sat for a photograph."

But, while this part of the article interested, that which followed startled and perplexed me.

"Crystal Consolidated fell to 103 today," it went on, "because of a persistent rumor that Robert Cameron is seriously ill, in a New England sanitarium. The greatest secrecy has been maintained as to his malady and his whereabouts by those who are in a position to know. It has been ascertained, however, that after spending a quiet summer at his country place, Cambridge, he started on October 21, on his fast steam yacht, Sibylla, for a cruise along the New England coast. Ten days later the Sibylla returned, but Mr. Cameron was not on board. It is known that he has been in ill health for months, and there are those who now declare that he has sought the seclusion of an institution for the treatment of nervous diseases, near Boston, his condition being critical."

Inquiry, today, at his Fifth Avenue home in this city, and at his Connecticut country seat, was fruitless. Mr. Cameron was at neither place, and the servants expressed ignorance concerning his present whereabouts. Robert Cameron is the key-note of the answers to all questions.

"Whether Mr. Cameron is as ill as is reported, or whether he is quite robust, the effect of the gossip on Crystal Consolidated was disastrous. A slump of fifteen points in two hours, this afternoon, wiped out many weakly margined accounts, and spread ruin among a number of speculators who fondly imagined this 'indefatigable trust,' of which Cameron is the supporting Atlas, as firmly entrenched as is the government itself."

"Unless something definite is forthcoming regarding Mr. Cameron's condition before the market opens tomorrow, a panic in Crystal Consolidated is predicted. It closed today at 103 1/2 bid, 103 asked; the lowest figures recorded this year."

It startled me, because it showed that at least a part of the secret we were guarding was a secret no longer; and it perplexed me because I could not fancy through what channel these somewhat distorted facts had filtered into publicity. I had no doubt that the ball, having been set rolling in this fashion, would gain both in volume and momentum unless some energetic measures were promptly taken to check it. And yet, what, under the circumstances, could we do? Robert Cameron, I knew, would be useless, and the truth must prove an accelerant. In haste and with diminished appetite I rushed through my dinner, and a moment later was speeding up the city as fast as a taxicab could carry me, with the Cameron mansion my destination and a consultation with Evelyn Grayson my object.

It must not be imagined that in this matter I expected any weighty assistance from a young woman of such limited experience; but she was practically alone in the great house and I could well imagine how already reporters must be vying one with another to wring from her admissions concerning her uncle.

To my infinite relief I found that she had returned the word, "Not at home" to all such callers. Inquiries from other sources had been made in similar fashion. Officers of the company had called in person or had telegraphed, and Hatch & Hastings had been almost aggressively insistent.

"But, Evelyn," I said, "this is all such a surprise to me. I had no notion your uncle was at all active in any corporation. I fancied him a director, probably, in a score or more of companies, but that he was the so-called 'Glass King,' I never for a moment suspected. Under the circumstances, he must have a private secretary somewhere, who might have been of inestimable aid to us."

"He has a private secretary, it seems," she replied, "though even I never knew it until I read it in the News this evening. I am sure he never came to Cragholt. His name is Simms—Edward Simms—and he was interviewed at the Company's office. Didn't you see it?"

I confessed that I had missed every evening paper but one.

"It was he, I think," she went on, "who, becoming alarmed at Uncle Robert's long silence, mentioned it to some one, who in turn spread the damaging reports."

"Then he is a very incompetent private secretary!" I commented, "if not, indeed, a dangerous one. I shall make a point of seeing Mr. Simms as early as possible tomorrow. Tonight I am going to call on Tony Hatch—I have a nodding acquaintance with him—and assure him that when I last saw Robert Cameron less than a month ago he was in perfect health, and that I am satisfied he is not in any sanitarium or suffering from any mortal or physical disorder. If he heeds me of the newspapers, implying that your uncle has gone on a little journey of which his family are entirely cognizant, and that his return may be expected almost any day, I think that ought to turn the tide in Wall street tomorrow. Meanwhile, my dear Evelyn, continue to be 'not at home.'"

And then, on the way back down the avenue, to the Loyalton, that happened which made all subterfuge, all tact, all dissembling, unnecessary. For on the sidewalk, opposite the cathedral, I found the best of answers to all the questions raised by the rumor mongers—the animate refutation of every disturbing wall word.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Pollution of the waters of the Great Lakes and the rivers and streams on the Canadian boundary along which live more than 6,000,000 people, was revealed today in a report to the international joint commission by Dr. Allan J. McLaughlin, of the public health service. The report showed extensive pollution in the waters adjacent to many of the large cities and declared that, owing to the present position of lakes, there is not a single city on the lake which can be said to possess water that is safe without treatment. The remedy Dr. McLaughlin said should be sought by the best sanitarians in the world.

PRESENTATION TO

MR. & MRS. J. B. H. STORER

Young Couple Who are Leaving

Dalhousie to Take up Residence in Bathurst

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. John Baldwin was hostess at a very enjoyable dancing party given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James B. H. Storer, who are about to leave Dalhousie, to reside in Bathurst.

Mrs. Storer was formerly Miss Helen Bishop, daughter of Mr. Henry Bishop, the popular postmaster of Bathurst. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. James B. H. Storer, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hilyard, Hon. C. H. and Mrs. LaBille, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. R. Cragg, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Barbarie, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Magee, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McQuarrie, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lennox, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barbarie, Mrs. S. I. Robertson, St. John; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lamkie, Misses Lena Haddow, Marie LeBlanc, Aggie Stewart, Stella McKenzie, Alma LaBille, Eva Barberie, Blanche Mercier, Florine Dcher-ty, Gertrude McKay, Audrey Troy, Kate Harquail, Etta Coleman, Marguerite Sheehan, Emma Harquail, Gertrude Barberie, Gereldine Sheehan, Edith Stewart, and the Messrs. A. J. Hilyard, F. G. Burr, E. Rene Richard, Robert Turner, John Midgley, Harry Hubert, C. B. Hicks, Clinton Johnson, Wallace Sheehan, James Gilker, Vancouver Murray McKay, George LaBille and Stewart Bell, St. John.

Mrs. Baldwin was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Miss Margaret Baldwin. During the evening, Miss Alma LaBille read the following address to Mr. and Mrs. Storer, on behalf of their Dalhousie social friends, which was accompanied by the presentation of a sunburst of pearls to Mrs. Storer, and a handsome leather travelling portfolio to Mr. Storer.

The address read as follows:—
Dalhousie, N. B., Jan. 14, 1914.
Mrs. James B. H. Storer,
Dalhousie, N. B.,
Dear Mrs. Storer,

It is with feelings of deepest regret, that we, your special social friends, have learned of your intended departure from our midst, and we are taking advantage of this opportunity to convey to you our sorrow at the separation of those neighborly ties which have bound us together since you came to Dalhousie, and we ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a small token of our esteem.

To your good husband, who has been such a valuable citizen in our town, we trust that the step he is about to take will result in a greater measure of prosperity and success, and may health and happiness follow you both all your days. Mr. Storer will please accept this accompanying gift as a remembrance of the high respect in which he is held in this community.

This is the earnest hope of your friends, who though knowing that you will enter a new and wider sphere, and take up with other interests and friends, yet feel confident that you will never forget old Dalhousie, with its loved memories and old associations.

Mr. Storer, who was taken by surprise expressed thanks on behalf of his wife and himself for the great kindness shown to them at all times by their Dalhousie friends. He was grateful for the address and the souvenirs presented, which would be appreciated as long as they lived. Their sojourn in Dalhousie, had been all that could be desired and they both regretted that circumstances demanded their departure.

At midnight a very dainty lunch was served, after which dancing was resumed, and the orchestra furnished excellent music for the occasion.

INDUSTRY IN FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES

Committee is Appointed to Investigate Affairs of Hewson's Ltd.

Amherst, N. S., Jan. 9.—A special general meeting of the shareholders of the Hewson industry was held yesterday afternoon. The president, Mr. Frank Stanfield, M. P., presided, and there was a large attendance of shareholders from widely scattered points. The directors submitted a lengthy report dealing with the past history and with the general condition of the industry.

A financial statement submitted to the shareholders showed a loss during the past year of $57,835.30. The manufacturing end of the business made a profit of $25,000, but the overhead charges, the bond interest and other fixed charges had wiped this out, leaving the large deficit stated.

There was considerable discussion relative to the matters referred to in the directors' reports and also in connection with the financial statement. On motion, B. A. Weston, of the Eastern Trust Company, W. H. Covert, K. C. Gavin Stairs, all of Halifax, and C. R. Smith, K. C., of Amherst, were appointed a committee to investigate the affairs of the company and if necessary to engage expert accountants to assist them in their work. The committee was further asked to report on the desirability of continuing the company in active operation, and to suggest ways and means whereby it would be possible to do so. A further meeting will be held after the report of the committee is filed, to which due notice will be given to the shareholders.

The Hewson Pure Wool Textiles, Limited, was reorganized two or three years ago under its present name, a former company having been in operation for several years. The company's authorized 6 per cent. bonds are $500,000 and the issued $350,000. The capital consists of $500,000 authorized and subscribed 7 per cent. preferred stock, and $250,000 of common.

New York, Jan. 14.—The bulletin issued at 11:20 a.m. today by Doctor Biggs and Pyre relative to the condition of Sir James Whitney read as follows:

"Sir James Whitney's condition remains the same as yesterday."
