WILD WEST WAYS.

A Parkhill Family Tortured and Robbed.

The Brutal Burglars Make Good Their Escape.

Parkhill, Ont., Sept. 9.-Friday night about 12, three men-two of whom were small and all of them young,went to the house of John Bullock, about four miles from Parkhill, on the town line, where Mr. Bullock and his aged mother live. They tied Mrs. Bullock, who was sleeping downstairs, but she screamed to her son, who was upstairs. Then two of the burglars went upstairs and bound Mr. Bullock also. before he was able to defend himself. They then demanded money, and took matches and burned the soles of his feet until he told them where what money they had was. The robbers secured about $35 and his watch; then they left for the stable, and took a horse and buggy and departed. Mrs. Bullock, after a great deal of difficulty, loosened the rope which bound her, and went to the house of Mr. Ellis, a near neighbor, and informed him of what had happened. Mr. Ellis went over and loosened the rope which bound Mr. Bullock, and found that the burglars had completely ransacked the house. They were traced for about four miles east, where they were lost track of. And the

THE PIT OF DEATH.

Thirty-Two Men Imprisoned in a Burning Mine.

Nearly 3,000 Feet Below the Earth's Surface-No Hope for the Doomed Men.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 8 .- At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon fire was discovered by timbermen in the 37th level of the Osceola copper mine. The timbermen at once rushed to the shaft, and when brought to the surface in the big bucket gave the alarm. At the start of the fire the whole force of 200 men, including miners, drill boys and trammers, were in the mine and all attempted to come up in the shaft where the fire was. The fire was in No. 3 shaft house, commonly called the cage shaft, for the men are sent up and down in this only. When the smoke had nearly suffocated them, they returned and went through a cross-cut to the other shaft and came up there. In this way most of the 200 escaped, but many were half dead when they reached the surface.

The blaze is 2,600 feet below the earth's surface. The fire is evidently gaining rapidly. It is utterly impossible to quench the fire by the usual methods and preparations are being made to close the mouths of the shafts to shut off the air. It is believed it will take a month to extinguish the

The latest reports are that 32 are missing. The fire in No. 1 will not damage the working portion of the mine much, as this part of the mine has been nearly worked out. It will keep the mine shut down till the fire is cut. All the shafts will be sealed with earth and timber.

All of the doomed miners might have escaped had they heeded warnings, as Capt. Edwards, who was the first to detect the existence of the fire, dispatched messengers to every slope where the miners were known to be working. As the mine is not heavily timbered except in the shafts, the idea of serious danger was scouted. By going a roundabout way all the men who were in the lower level of No. 4 shaft might have escaped, but they preferred the shorter route of ascent by that shaft, and when they got up to the eighteenth level they found themselves cut off. Some passed into lateral drifts expecting to reach other shafts.

ALMOST WIPED OUT.

Disastrous Fire in Liverpool, Nova Scotia.

Large Number of Public Buildings and Dwelling Houses Destroyed.

Liverpool, N. S., Sept. 9 .- This town was almost wiped out by fire which started between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning and raged nearly all day. The loss will be between $50,000 and $75,000, with $20,000 insurance.

The fire started in an old building opposite jubilee hall, and burned from the water's edge up through the business portion of the town. Several of the most prominent business men are burnt out. In the house of Mrs. Chisholm, which was visited by death but a few hours previous, it became necessary to remove the body of Mrs. Coff twice for safety. All the principal buildings are in ashes.

"HELLO" GIRLS IN BLOOMERS.

Ordered Not to Wear Them, but, They Didn't Mind That.

Chicago, Sept. 9 .- An edict recently ssued by the Chicago Telephone Company has been conspicuously bulletined at headquarters, the rendezvous of 199 "hello" girls, and bears the offireport at this building at any hour of the day or night in bioomer costume, nor to assume that attire before departure for home."

"We still wear bloomers under the skirt," quietly said Miss Edith Brandt, one of the leaders of the innovation. 'Skirts are a nuisance, anyway," she added. "If there were no order against bloomers I really do not see why they should not be worn in the operating room."

ABERDEEN'S LONG ABSENCE. Ottawa, Sept. 9.—Lord and Lady Aberdeen, their children and staff have been spending the last few weeks in Victoria, B. C. It is not probable that they will return to Ottawa before November, if then. Mr. Monro-Ferguson, A.D.C., is the only one of the old staff with them, Capt. Urquhart and Mr. Erskine are both in England.

THE MASSACRE DESCRIBED.

the Ku-Cheng Commission-

A Missionary Who Saw the Mob From Behind the Trees-Brutal Murders.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 9.-Private letters from Shanghai, just received here announce that the commission appoint ed by the British and American Governments to investigate the Ku Cheng massacre of Aug. 1, reached Ku Cheng on Aug. 17, without a shadow of mo-lestation from the barbarous hordes, alleged by the Chinese officials to have established a reign of terror throughout the province. The commission, consisting of the British consul, Mr. the United States ship Detroit; Rev. B. Annister, representing the English Church Missionary Society, and D. Gregory, of the American M. E. Mission, and an escort of about 100 of the viceroy's ill-armed and poorly disciplined soldiers, a circumstance which supports but feebly the Chinese contention that the massacre was entirely beyond official prevention, owing to the country being in revolt.
This defense is regarded by the British and American residents in China territory as quite as farcical as the commission, unsupported as it is by any display of British and American force and indignation runs high at the apathy displayed by those Governments in regard to the massacre. The commission, at last advices, had received the statements of three witnesses, Dr. Gregory, of the American Mission of the Foo Chow, Rev. H. E. Phillips, and Miss Hartman, of Ku Cheng, the latter two having been eye-witnesss to the fearful scenes of Aug. 1. Rev. Mr. Philips tells how he was awakened at 6 in the morning by shouting in the direction of the steward's children playing, but soon recognizing the voices of excited men, he dressed hastily and went over.

"I was met a few yards from my dwelling," he said, "by a native friend, who, while throwing his arms around me, told me the vegetarians had come. ing in the doorway of Suhler's store. came inside of the house, from which 40 or 50 bandits were car of plunder, their leader holding aloft a red flag. I could see nothing of our Europeans, and as I was in full view of the rioters, I crept up the hill in the brushwood, and concealed myself behind the trees, from 20 to 30 yards from the house. There I saw everything that could be seen. As I could see no foreigners, I concluded that they had escaped, and as to go down was certain death, I thought it best to await where I was. After a minute or two the retreat horn sounded and the vegetarians began to leave, first, however, setting fire to the house. Two minutes after this every vegetarian had gone. I came down and looked about the front of the house, but could see nothing of any one. I feared something dreadful had happened, as I heard the vegetarians as they left say: "Now, all the foreigners are killed. I just then met one of the servants who told me the Chinese were in the house in which Miss Hartman, of the American Mission was staying. I found Mr. Hartman's daughter, Mildred, with a serious wound on one knee and another severe cut. When I had washed these, turned to Mr. Steward's son, who was fearfully hacked and cut everywhere. Then Miss Cordington sent me a message that she too, was in the house. I found her in a fearful condition, but, with cold water and rags we managed to staunch the bleeding. She begged me not to wait, as she thought Topsy Saunders was still "I then rushed to the back of the house and found the bodies of Miss Saunders, Miss Gordon and Miss Marshall. The latter was awfully cut, her head being almost severed, but beyond the wounds given in the struggle, the body was not mutilated. Later I found Miss Combs' body at the foot of the hill, in front of the house, where it had been thrown. As then I could see no signs of Mr. and Mrs. Steward. Miss Saunders, and Lena, the nurse, re hoped they had escaped, and I eturned to the house, where the Steward children and Miss Cordington Presently Miss Hartford arrived. She had received a cut under one ear, but had been saved from death by a native Christian. I learned later that the five ladies of the Zenana Mission Society, who lived in two houses which form the Ku Cheng Sanitarium, made a futile attempt to escape, got out of the back end, but were immediately surrounded. Some of the vegetarians were inclined to spare them, but were ordered by their leader to carry out their orders, 'Kill, and spare not.'"

TERRIBLE, THIS!

Mechanics' Institute Had a Skeleton in Its Closet.

All Unsuspected It Has Been Hidden for Nearly Forty Years-It Came to Light at Last.

It will no doubt be a severe shock to those connected with the management for many years of the defunct Mechanics' Institute when they learn that the Mechanics' Institute, like many private households, has for the last 40 years a skeleton in the closet. This was not suspected by the constant throng of readers for the last couple of generations. Nor was it known to the lady librarian, or she no doubt would have sent in her resignation years ago. Probably the directors were once cognizant of the fact, but they felt so secure in the concealment of it that they actually forgot all about it. Like some domestic skeletons it was however destined at last to thrust its gaunt and hollow features up on the light of day. It came about in this manner: The lessees of the old Mechanics' Institute building wanted the space under the stairs which had been used as a store-

Bedgood was paid $75 cents for two and boxes were raked out and carted over to the new Free Library building. When one box was opened it was found to contain the well-preserved skeleton of a child who had passed to the great beyond when about 10 years old. The skeleton was presented to the old li-brary board when the building was situated on Talbot street by Dr. Anderson, deceased. This was about 40 years ago, and when the institute changed Testimony of an Eye-Witness Before | quarters the skeleton went with it and was locked away in a box under the stairs. In this manner the Mechanics' Institute has harbored a skeleton in its closet during all these years. It will now form the nucleus for the Free Library museum.

PETER PLAYED POKER

And Lost One Hundred and Sixty Dollars in Four Hours.

He Now Says That Hugh Sharkey Used Marked Cards-The Case Before the Police Magistrate.

Mr. P. B. Lewis played poker with Mr. Hugh Sharkey on the afternoon of Aug. 30, and inside of four hours he R. W. Mansfield; the American consul, Col. J. Courtenay Hixson; the British vice-consul, E. L. B. Allen, from Pagoda anchorage; Lieut. Evans, of the United State Lieut. Evans, of key of cheating him by means of key of cheating him by means of marked cards. Police Magistrate Parke refused to conduct the trial, preferring to send it to a higher court. He was agreeable to take the preliminary hearing, and at the Police Court this morning the case was heard. Lewis and Sharkey were there, and among those who hung over the railing as spectators or sat inside as witnesses were noticed many of the sports around town. Only one witness-Lewis-was examined. Mr. J. B. McKillop and Mr. Frank Love appeared for the prosecution. Mr. Sharkey was represented by Mr. Toothe. Lewis, the complainant, swore that as he was passing Sharkey's place on the afternoon of Aug. 30 he was beckoned in by Sharkey, who was engaged at the time with a customer. He was told that if he waited Sharkey would play him a "$5 freeze out." A customer who was in the chair told the witness not to take the bluff. He didn't. He went into the back room, and on the way Sharkey asked him if any trouble arose could he (Lewis) eat the book; that all his barbers had eaten it He at first thought it was court). They sat down at 3 o'clock, every time they had gone up there (to and for half an hour played a 50-cent limit with a deck of cards which Sharkey took out of his pocket. Side bets of $2, $5 and $8 were made, but luck went all the defendant's way. "How much did you lose in the half hour?" asked Mr. McKillop. "About $40," replied Lewis. Sharkey then suggested a ne of cards, and called Hugh Stevenson. one of his employes, handed him 25 cents to go to an adjoining store and get the cards. For half an hour they played with the second deck, but as Sharkey continued to win Lewis resolved to turn to the old deck. They went back to the old cards again, and a stop of play was brought about by Lewis getting four kings in a hand when there was $5 in the pot and $16 in side bets. He looked on the backs and saw that they were all marked. Mr. McKillop-And what was the result of showing hands

Lewis-Sharkey had four aces (Laughter.) Another hand was played after that and quits were called. The old cards were produced and shown to the court. Lewis claimed the face cards were marked so that they could be distinguished. The balance of the deck were spotted with ink. Lewis dropped $160 in the afternoon. On cross-examination Lewis said he had played only about eighteen games of poker. He never looked for it, and had played five or six with Sharkey, losing in every game but one. Witness had $600 in his clothes when he went into the shop, and he was willing to lose $200 if the game had been conducted "on the square." Lewis had heard that Sharkey was crocked, but he always thought him honest until this game. When the third change of cards was made Sharkey was about $115 ahead, he having steadily won from the start. The game was brought to a onclusion be Lewis pocketing the red deck, which, he holds, is marked. A little tussle occurred before the men separated, and later in the evening witness went back and told Sharkey that he was going to push him for cheating. Lewis denied going around looking for the game. He had never beaten a man out of $140 at the Grigg House on a leaded dice. He admitted telling Charles Brennan that he had trimmed Sharkey out of $40, and that it was ike finding money to play with him. About three weeks ago he had played Barber Tracey in Sharkey's and won $15, but lost $40 to Sharkey the same day. Lewis' experience as a poker player had cost him about $250. He had played in a boarder's room at Jerry McDonald's and also in an empty house on two different days. At dice ahead. To show how the $250 was lost Mr. McKillop examined him and showed that Lewis had played cards in Sharkey's on Aug. 11 and Aug. 18. This concluded the case, and Mr. Toothe urged the dismissal of the de-

and dominoes he was a few dollars

fendant. The police magistrate was not prepared to take such steps. He said the cross-examination had shown that Lewis was not the innocent man he appeared to be in the first brush of the proceedings. There was the uncontradioted evidence that the cards were marked, and this was sufficient to warrant further examination.

Sharkey was bound over in his own recognizances to appear at the next court. The cards were left in charge of Sergt. Crawford. "The fact of their being in charge of Lewis since Aug. 30 has considerably weakened the prosecution," concluded the court.

BASEBALL. The ball teams of Hobbs' and Hyman's employes met on Erie Flats Saturday afternoon. A large crowd enjoyed a capital game. Score:

ARE YOUR WINDOWS OPEN?

Dr. Talmage Draws Admirable Lessons From a Text in Daniel.

When Windows Should be Open and Not Shut-Should Look Out Towards Jerusalem.

New York, Sept. 8.-In his sermon for today, Rev. Dr. Talmage has chosen a theme overflowing with Christian cheerfulness and encouragement. The subject is "Open Windows," and the text selected was Daniel, vi., 10—"His windows being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem. The scoundrelly princes of Persia, urged on by political jealously against Daniel, have succeeded in getting a law passed that whosoever prays to God shall be put under the paws and teeth of the lions. But the leonine threat did not hinder the devotions of Daniel, the Coeur-de-Lion of the ages. furnaces, and they can not now scare him with the lions. As soon as Daniel hears of this enactment, he leaves his office of Secretary of State, with its upholstery of crimson and gold, and and pulls the curtain aside, so that he can look toward the sacred city of Jerusalem, and then prays.

I suppose the people in the street gathered under and before his window, and said: "Just see that man defying the law; he ought to be arrested. And the constabulary of the city rush to the police headquarters and report that Daniel is on his knees at the wideopen window. "You are my prisoner," says the officer of the law, dropping a heavy hand on the shoulder of the kneeling Daniel. As the constables open the door of the cavern to thrust in their prisoner, they see the glaring eyes of the monsters. But Daniel becomes the first lion-tamer, and they lick his hand and fawn at his feet, and that night he sleeps with the shaggy mane of a wild beast for his pillow, while the king that night, sleepless in the palace, has on him the paw and teeth of a lion that he cannot tame—the lion of a remorseful conscience. But our text stands us at Daniel's window, open toward Jerusalem. Why in that direction open? Jerusalem was his native land, and all the pomp of his Babylonish successes could not make him forget it. It may have been a very humble home in which you were bern, but your memory often plays around it, and God only knows how sometimes you have longed to see the familiar places of your childhood, and how in awful crises of your life you would like to have caught a glimpse of the old wrinkled face that bent over you as you lay on the gentle lan twonyou as you lay on the gentle lap twenty or forty or fifty years ago. You may have risen in fortune, and, like Daniel, have become great, and may have come into prosperities you never could have reached if you had stayed there, any you may have many windows to your house-bay-windows and skylight-windows, and windows of conservatory, and windows on all sides—but you have at least one window open toward Jerusalem. Yes, yes; in all these cities, and amid the flowering western prairies, and on the slopes of the Pacific, and amid the Sierras, and on the banks of the lagoon, and on the ranches of Texas, there is an uncounted multitude, who, this hour, stand and sit and kneel with their windows open toward Jerusalem. Some of these people played on the heather of the Scottish hills. Some of them were driven out by Irish famine. Some of them were accustomed at Lyons, or Marseilles, or Paris, to see on the street Victor Hugo and Gambetta. Some chased the chamois among the Alpine precipices. Some plucked the ripe clusters from Italian vineyard. Some lifted their faces under the midnight sun of Norway. It is no dishoner to our land that they remember the place of their nativity. Miscreants they would be, if while they have some of their windows open to take in the free air of America, rolls in the Bible heaven. and the sunlight of an atmosphere which no kingly despot has ever breathed, they forgot sometimes to open the window toward Jerusalem. You have the example of heroic Daniel of my text for keeping early memories fresh. Forget not the old folks at home. Write often, and if you have a surplus of means, and they are poor, make practical contributions, and rejoice that America is bound to all the world by ties of sanguinity as in no other nation. But Daniel, in the text, kept this port-hole of his domestic fortress unclosed because Jerusalem was the capi-total of sacred influences. There had smoked the sacrifice; there was the Holy of Holies; there was the Ark of the Covenant; there stood the temple. We are all tempted to keep our windows open on the opposite side, toward the world, that we may see and hear and appropriate its advantages. What does the world say? What does the world think? What does the world do? Worshippers of the world instead of worshippers of God. Windows open teward Babylon. Windows open toward Corinth. Windows open toward Athens. Windows open towards Sodom. Windows open toward the flats, instead of windows open toward the hills. Sad mistake, for this world, as a god, is like something I saw in the museum of Strasburg, Germany—the figure of a virgin in wood and iron. The victim in olden time was brought there, and this figure would open its arms to receive him, and once unfolded, the figure closed with a hundred knives and lances upon him, and then let him drop 180 feet sheer down. So the world first embraces its idolators, then closes upon them with many tortures, and then lets them drop forever down. The highest honor the world could confer was to make a man a Roman emperor; but, out of sixty-three emperors, it allowed only six to die peacefully in their beds. We need, like Daniel, to open our windows toward God and religion.

In olden times the Earl of Westmoreland said he had no need to pray, be-cause he had enough pious tenants on his estate to pray for him; but all the prayers of the church universal amount to nothing unless, like Daniel, we pray for ourselves. Oh, men and women, bounded on one side by Shadrach's redhot furnace. and on the other side by devouring lions, learn the secret of courage and deliverance by looking at that Babylonish window open toward the southwest! "Oh," you say, "that is the direction of the Arabian Desert!" Yes: but on the other side of the desert is God. is Christ, is Jerusalem, is hea-

We would do well to think more of heaven. It is not a desolate outpost. As Jerusalem was the capital of Judea, and Babylon the capital of the Babylonian monarchy, and London is the capital of Great Britain, and Washington is the capital of our own Republic, the New Jerusalem is the capital of the universe. The King lives there, and the royal family of the redeemed have their places there, and there is a congress of many nations, and the parilament of all the world. Yea, as Daniel had kindred in Jerusalem of whom he often thought, though he left home when a very young man, perhaps father and mother and brothers and sisters still living, and was homesick to see them, and they belonged to the high circles of royalty, Daniel himself having royal blood in his veins, so we have in the New Jerusalem a great many kindred, and we are sometimes homesick to see them, and they are all princes and princesses, in them the blood imperial, and we will do well to keep our windows open towards their eternal residence.

It is a joy for us to believe that while we are interested in them they are interested in us. Much thought of heaven makes one heavenly. The airs that blow through that open window are charged with life, and sweep up to us an aroma from gardens that never wither, under skies that never cloud, in a spring-tide that never terminates. Compared with it all other heavens are dead failures. Homer's heaven was an eigsium which he describes as a plain at the end of the earth or beneath, with no snow nor rainfall, nor the sun never goes down, and Rhadamanthus, the justest of men, rules. Hesiod's heaven is what he calls the islands of the blessed. In the midst of the ocean, three times a year blooming with the most exquisite flowers, and the air is tinted with purple, while games and music and horse races occupy the time. The Scandinavian's heaven was the hall of Walhalla, where the God Odin gave unending wine-suppers to earthly heroes and heroines. The Mohammedan's heaven passes its disciples over the bridge El-Sirat, which is finer than a hair and sharper than a sword, and then they are let loose into a riot of everlasting sensuality. The American aborigines took forward to a heaven of illimitable hunting ground, partridge and deer and wild duck more than plentiful, and hounds never off the scent, and the guns never miss fire. But the geographer has followed the earth round, and found no Homer's elysium. Voyagers have traversed the deep in all directions, and found no Hesiod's islands of the blessed. The Mohammedan's celestial debauchery and the Indian's eternal hunting ground for vast multitudes have no charm. But here sea-that is, no wide separation. No more night-that is, no insomnia. No more tears-that is, no heart-break. No more pain-that is, dismissal of lancet and bitter draught and miasma, and banishment of neuralgias, and catalepsies, and consumptions. All colors in the wall except gloomy black; all the music in the major key, because celebrative and jubilant. River crystalline, gate crystalline, and skies crystalline, because everything is clear and without doubt. White robes, and that means sinlessness. Vials of odors, and that means pure regalment of the senses. Rainbow, and that means the storm is over. Marriage supper, and that means gladdest festivity. Twelve manner of fruits, and that means luscious and unending variety. Harp, trumpet, grand march anthem, amen and hallelujah in the same orchestra. Choral meeting solo, and overture meeting antiphon, and strophe-joining dithyram, as they roll in the ocean of doxclogies. And you and I may have all that, and have it forever through Christ, if we will let Him with the blood of one wounded hand rub out our sin, and with the other wounded hand swing open the shining portals.

Many years ago the Turks and Chrisians were in battle, and the Christians ere defeated, and with their commander Stephen fled toward a fortress where the mother of this commander as staying. When she saw her son and his army in disgraceful retreat, she had the gates of the fortress rolled shut, and then from the top of the battlement cried out to her son, "You cannot enter here except as conqueror.' Then Stephen rallied his forces, and resumed the battle, and gained the day, twenty thousand driving back two hundred thousand. For those who are defeated in battle with sin and death and hell, nothing but shame and contempt; but for those who gain the vic-tory through our Lord Jesus Christ the gates of the New Jerusalem will hoist and there shall be an abundant entrance into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord, toward which you will do well to keep your windows open.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.-A very large increase has taken place in the sale of the scientific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near the headquarters for dis-Toronto, tributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

France has a prodigy in the person of Jules Zostat, of La Rochelle, who, it is said, knows by heart all the verses of the Bible. He has such a marvelous memory that when asked at random any verse, no matter if it begins a sentence or is a continuation of the preceding verse, he will recite the lines. The Scrap Bag

Geraldine Bonner has an entertaining article on "The Age of the Heroine," who she says, has advanced only slightly to meet the change in taste of the moving centuries. She was in the beginning of her teens in Shakespeare's day, and up to within the last few years she had only advanced to the end of her teens.

The English-speaking world has always demanded the juvenile heroine. In their novels, the British matron in her drawing room and her husband at his club have insisted upon the love adventures, the plots and counter-plots, centering round a girl of 17, who shall have the polished ease, the mental breadth, the knowledge of human nature of a woman of the world of 30. Art was nothing to the British matron and her spouse. Their forefathers had accepted Juliets of 14 years as the proper age for the heroine of fiction, and though, as time passed and 14 became indissolubly associated with bread and butter, pinafores and back-combs, the limit had to be raised to 16 and 18 and 20; still the novel reader was reluctant, and let the years accumulate grudging-

All Sir Walter's great heroines were women of 30 years, though Sir Walter, with a plaintive submission to the barbarous dominance of his public, meekly subscribed them 17. Does not Rebecca, the Jewess, remain in the mind as a beautiful, sad-eyed, mature woman, with none of the hesitancies, the inexperience, the shy crudeness of girlhood about her? Even the cow-like, mild-eyed Rowena is no chicken. Could Di Vernon have been the self-reliant, splendid, conquering creature she was, and have the timidity, the uncertainty, the fresh ingenuousness of budding 10?

Thackeray, like his master, Fielding, was too great an artist to conform to the popular error. His two young women heroines, Ethel and Beatrix, he touches on lightly in the years of their early bloom. Both are women past 25 when the storm and stress of their lives begin, and the true bent of both characters is shown. On that fateful morning at Castlewood, when Esmond and Frank break their swords before the eyes of their prince, the woman who causes that demonstration of fierce and silent hostility and renunciation, in the crude light of the morning, looks haggard and old. Dickens was not a great success in the drawing of heroines. There are only a few young girls in his books-Bella Wilfer, Dora, Dolly Varden. His ideal, the Agnes kind of ing young, in the sense of the boarding school girl.

But it is especially in the hands of the women novelists of that great outblooming of romantic talent, that the heroines were depicted as fearfully and wonderfully developed and advanced at the age when most girls are absorbed in their first long train and their first real admirer. George Eliot. a realist and an artist in most matters, fell in with the common error. Derothea is not yet 20, according to her author, when she displays the firmly molded character, the mental breadth, the wide, pendtrating insight of a woman who at 30 might have been set down as highly advanced and well able to take care of herself. She is only equaled by the thoroughly up-todate Gwendolen. The latter is described as being 21, yet her carefully calculated actions, her brilliant speeches. her intricate mental processes, her mature point of view, her admirable selfconfidence and cool daring would not be amiss in a woman of the world of 35. These two-George Eliot's great achievements-are impossible crea-

Would that I were a poet, or, rather, a poetess. I would sing a song of the hat, the hat of the fall, with its rich autumnal shades, with its feathers and ribbons galore. Nor would flowers be neglected, for the woman of to-day loves to adorn her hat with a luxuriant growth of blossoms that glow with the rich coloring of the most perfect time of the year.

All white hats have deepened into yellow; all black hats are laid aside for a sadder season.

Large straight trimined hats are edged prettily with crush roses in the heavier shades, while some have a facing of straw in contrasting colors. Rough straws are an accepted fact, nor are fine ones to be compared with them in point of beauty.

Ribbon will be the main feature of hat

trimming for the coming fall and winter and one may easily devote a half dozen yards to one hat. The young lady pictured has not trimmed the front of her hat in any way, while a mass of loops rise from a knot in the back. The ribbon used has a Dresden design on green ground. The hat itself is green, and at one side a couple of green estrich tips jauntily rear their heads npward, and are held in place by a chou of ribbon. The entire effect is most fascinating, and the color suggests a quiet nook by some babbling brook.

CHANGING STYLES.

Fashionable Hints for the Month of Sep-

With the advent of September comes a whispered hum of new and changing styles. There is a faint breath of fall in the air, and milady eyes her summer finery askance, visits her dressmaker and begins gradually to plan for the autumn campaign.

If she is rich she orders lavishly-too because there are such vast quantities of material already in her wardrobe in madeseason. If she is poor, she thinks, plans, own frequently clever designs. Such designs are based on the reigning modes of the day, with such modifications as may occur to the tasteful earer. In great measure, too, these plans must conform to the wearer's means, and often to the cloth already in her possession, from which she is obliged to fashion her gowns, instead of purchasing new materials. There is a vast army of stylishly dressed women whose gowns are made over from season to season without exciting the slightest suspicion of so economical a proceeding. When a woman is what is popularly known as "handy," she can accomplish a good deal with a last year's gown, a bit of new trimming, and a practical dressmaker at hand to execute

This applies, or course, where the gown is not too much worn, as it ought not to be after the close of the first season. She who wears out a gown in a single season does not get the worth of her purchase by any means. A last year's gown turned, cleaned and furnished is a triumph for any woman, because it is an economy and a thing of beauty and fashion at the same time. I believe in made-over gowns. I think they stand for prudence, wisdom, thrift, economy. I believe in the woman who wears them, because she is clever enough to devise them fashionably, and independent enough to wear them with an air that would grace a queen. I know a few women-I wish I might say many-who are well-to-do, but whose made-over gowns stand for certain nameless philanthropies which might never be accomplished without that measure of praiseworthy economy in the matter of gowns. A gown that is not yet soiled and frayed is like an old friend or an old bit of lace. There are so many charming possibilities connected with it. And then if you have worn and liked it, it has an individuality that an absolutely new gown cannot have. It has become part of you, as it were. If you were careful in planning it originally; if you knew that it suited you in color, construction, trimming, and general outline and if you will be just as careful when it is made over, you will part from your old gown, finally, with genuine regret.

A wool gown that has been worn but one season is usually such a very good gown that no wise woman can think of thrusting it aside so early in its career. September, or late August, is a time for furbishing, just as February and March are appropriate seasons for the same kind of work. When the last end of the season comes, one's gowns, no matter how drawn into controversy. Lord Herwell cared for, need freshening. This applies both to the top and bottom of the gown. New vests, plastrons, collars, revers, bindings, stiffenings, and what not may be substituted. Many of the striking new September bedices are covered all over with net. The newest dinner gowns with demisleeves have adjustable lace yokes or tuckers, which, surmounted by a stock, fulfil all the requirements of propriety for dinner gowns and are equally appropriate for evening wear, with the yokes removed. The bodices of such gowns are known as guimpe bodices; the latter are cut out at the top like children's bodices. The idea is novel and useful.

The introduction of a decided new color is desirable in making over an old gown. The panel styles, now so popular, are well adapted to such use, and their proper introduction gives an entirely new aspect to the gown.

Hon. David Mills Again Propounds His Theories to the Woodstock Preacher.

The Member for Bothwell Warmly Resents the Epithets Applied to Him and Other Liberal Leaders,

And Maintains That They Are Wholly Unwarranted

To the Editor of the 'Advertiser": I noticed in the "Advertiser" of yesterday another letter from Rev. Dr. McKay, full of sound and fury, but did not set out to discuss with Dr. prohibition or any other public question. Dr. McKay, at a Patron-Prohibition convention, made wholly unfounded charges against myself and Dr. McKay now says he has nothing from him. to do with my motives, but only with what I said and did. He has done little else than discuss my motives from the outset, and he continues to do so in the letter which appeared yesterday. When he has charged me with pharisaical cant, with hypocrisy, with falsehood, with a misstatement of facts, as a reason for my vote in Parliament, with making a statement and knowing it to be false, it must be a matter of astonishment to your readers to find Dr. McKay denying that he has been discussing my motives.

The doctor asks what I take the temperance men to be. I take the vast majority of them to be what he is not, fair-minded men, capable of considering the situation, and judging fairly with regard to it. Dr. McKay says 82,000 in this Province have the presumption to differ from me. I do not believe it. The vast majority of them will not be found to agree with him. He is not authorized to speak for them. They have never made him their spokesman heretofore, and when his conduct on the temperance question becomes well known they will certainly not do so hereafter.

Dr. McKay is shocked that I should follow Mr. Burke in the advocacy of high expediency. The public will see that my doctrine of expediency is not the doctrine which guided his conduct in the matters upon which I interrogated him. Of course, those who deny the doctrines of inspiration may also deny the doctrine of expediency. doctor knows that our Lord condemn-ed in his day the practice of divorce under the law of Moses. The law of Moses claims to have been given by inspiration, and yet it authorized and regulated divorce. From Dr. McKay's point of view, that law was a fraud, because the rule of right should be lavishly, perhaps, if the truth were told, made law wholly independent of the the population, who are. is right, those having jurisdiction are up gowns that have rarely seen the light bound to enact a prohibitory liquor of day, which ought really to be convert- law quite independent of the question ed into modish gowns for the coming as to what the popular feelings may season. If she is poor, she thinks, plans, be in regard to it. That is not my contrives and assists in executing her opinion. Dr. McKay denies that he condemned all the Liberals who sit in Parliament for their want of loyalty to the temperance cause, even including Mr. Flint. He was so reported. I believe the report to be an accurate report. It is in keeping with the sentiments with which he set out in this controversy. The doctor says that he did not represent me as being present at the prohibition caucus. He was so reported. He made no attempt to correct that report until I denied the accuracy of the statement, and he was cornered. Several parties, who were present at the meeting, say that he did. Dr. Ross. of Embro, has in a letter to the press contradicted Dr. Mc-Kay on this point. Dr. McKay charges me with a coarse and vulgar impeachment of his motives. Dr. McKay will find that he cannot satisfy the public in respect to his position on the prohibition question in this way, nor will what he says in respect to his motives be accepted as sufficient reason for refusing to discuss the facts. Dr. Me-Kay, in speaking of myself and others. says we are "sycophants, tricksters and knaves, who know no higher rule of life than expediency; and their chief characteristics are imbecility and immorality." Those who know me will be able to say how far Dr. McKay has become a calumniator. And I leave them to form their own opinion of the character of the man, from charges that he makes and the language in which he indulges. The doctor shall not escape exposure by having recourse to abuse. The doctor again denies that the jurisdiction of the Dominion was involved in the case to which I referred in Parliament, and he refers to the propositions submitted to the court as an evidence of his truth and my falsehood. I referred him to the judgments, and I again repeat the words of Mr. Justice Burton that "whenever you find in section 92 municipal institutions interpreted as we are interpreting them, the right of the Dominion to legislate upon the subject is displaced." These words have been brought under Dr. McKay's attention before. They were words spoken upon the very propositions to which he refers. Why is he trying deliberately to mislead his read-Why does he wish to have them believe what he knows is not true? The reason is obvious. He bore false testimony against me, and he seeks to conceal the fact that it is false by further declarations, which are equally untrue. I have before me the Times Law Report of Aug. 6 the argument in this matter before the Judicial Committee. The whole day was taken up on behalf of the Dominion: that would have had no interest in the question Federal jurisdiction had not been schell said during the argument: There was legislation in the matter of the liquor traffic in the various Provinces prior to Federation, and if the Legislature had intended to exempt it from the consideration of the Provinces for the future, it might have been that they would have included it in the subects enumerated as those which the cominion alone could deal with and the Provinces forbidden to touch." And Sir Richard Couch said that "Mr. Blake's argument took away the meaning of the word exclusive in the act, and the object of inserting it in the description of the respective powers of Parliament and the Provincial Legislatures." Your readers will see how the facts of what is actually transpiring contradicts the contention of Dr. McKay. What I said before I repeat, that if he can make an untrue statement pass current, and serve his purpose, he does not hesitate to make it. I informed your readers in my letter which immediately preceded this that Dr. McKay was not so ardent a prohib-

himself up as a censor of public men, and as my personal assailant, I have a perfect right to put.

1. Did you not, when the Canada Temperance Act was upon its trial in the town of Woodstock, vote for Mr. Mc-Leod, an opponent of prohibition, against Mr. Crawford, an active and consistent supporter of that measure? Will you deny that you did so?

2. Did you not endeavor to secure an appointment for yourself on the Dominion commission to inquire into the subject of prohibition, and which you knew was set on foot to dedid any such measure; and you not offer your support to a Conservative, who had before opposed Mr. Mcwat, if he succeeded in securing for you the appointment?

The doctor has practically admitted that he has refused to lecture upon this subject, which he has so much at heart, unless he were paid very hand-Somely for it; so I need not press my third question again.

Dr. McKay says I disclaim responsibility to the people for my conduct in Parliament. This is as void of foundations of the contract which dation as all the other charges which Dr. McKay has made. He is not the people, nor have they commissioned containing a plentiful lack of argu-ment and an abundance of abuse. I behalf. This duty, I am sure, they did not set out to discuss with Dr. will never intrust to Dr. McKay. I McKay either my future action on have now said all I purpose saying in regard to Dr. McKay's charges, and when I discuss the question of prohibition hereafter, as I have not heretofore, on a fitting occasion, I shall managainst others of the Liberal party, age to do so without any solicitation London, Sept. 7, 1895.

London, Sept. 8.—The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, writes under date of Sept. 4 as follows: "With reference to the recent declarations in the House of Commons, I do not know why persons interested should be perplexed over my supposed change of attitude on the question of international bi-metalism, for no such change has occurred. My answer, which has given rise to so much unnecessary discussion, explicitly stated the opinions which I have long held, and which I thought all bi-metallists held also." Mr. Balfour then gives his reply to the question put in the House of Commons, whether he would advise the Government to invite an international monetary conference, when he said: "I am and always have been in favor of an international agreement, but I have not the right to pledge my colleagues." Mr. Balfour's letter continues: "It is only as regards the statement that I had no grounds for thinking that a conference would result in an international agreement at the present moment, and that an abortive conference would do more harm than good, that any difference of opinion may possibly be found among bi-metallists. In my judgment, however, there is but little prospect of a conference succeeding, unless the governments who are to be represented at it come to some understanding on the main points at issue before the conference assembles. No such understanding, unfortunately, at present exists,

BALFOUR ON BI-METALISM.

A MISTAKE. The German-American veterans continue their round of fetes, and there has been but one incident since their arrival to mar the perfect freedom of their visit from unpleasant incidents, and no blame attaches to them for this. The German organizing committee made the mistake of trying to implicate the American embassy through the veterans in an inter-official recognition of the Sedan day celebration. By request the United Press denies all the statements of the Berlin press that the United States embassy took any part in the fetes or shared in any way in the celebrations. On Tuesday the veterans placed a wreath upon the mausoleum of Kaiser William I. at Charlottenburg, and then visited the grave of Emperor Frederick at the Friedrichskirche at Potsdam. The group of veterans will divide into two parties after going to Kiffhauser. One party will go to the Metz battlefields and the other will re-

Tim Healey will not take the licking lying down. His friends in Dublin, where he has quite a number of adherents, have proclaimed their intention to contest against a Dillonite candidate the seat in the House of Commons for the west division of Waterford county, made vacant by the acceptance of the sitting member, Mr. Alfred Abb, of the Chiltern Hundreds, and to seize every other opportunity to vindicate Healeylikely to effect an alteration in this determination. The Parnellite press today concur in the opinion expressed by the anti-Parnellites that Healeyism is squelched. The Dublin Independent says that after Mr. O'Brien's indicton the committee or even in the Irish party. The Freeman's Journal denounces the attempts made to effect conciliation between the factions of the party as a condonation of treachery. The Irish party, the paper says, owes to the country the duty of saving the home rule movement from destruction.

Reports which are credited to the rish section of the Natoinal Liberal Club forecast the expulsion from the Parliamentary Committee of the Irish party of Messrs. Healey, Arthur O'Con-nor and Edmund Francis Vesey Knox. Should Mr. Justin McCarthy persist in retiring from the chairmanship of the committee, Mr. Dillon will give his assent to the appointment of Mr. Sexton to the chair, and if the last named gentleman should be nominated by the party, it is certain that no question between Mr. Dillon and Mr. Sexton will be allowed to disturb the restored har-

The latest developments in the case executed by the Belgians in the Congo State for having, it is alleged, sold arms and ammunition to Chief Kilbonge, with whom the Belgians were fighting, point to the conclusion that, even if Captain Lothaire, the Belgian officer at whose command Stokes was killed, was morally justified in executing the Englishman, he was legally wrong. There is evidence showing that Stokes carried on a regular trade in arms with natives, and a British blue book of 1892 records how he was entrapped by Captain Lugard into an offer to sell powder and rifles to him, and how Captain Lugard then accused him of dealing in arms and ammunition with the tribes in Uganda. Later Stokes succeeded in making his escape from Captain Lugard. He was for two years an officer in the German East Africa service, but resigned from the service upon In this pageant the Emperor led the finding that his position in it inter-fered with his dealing in munitions of war with the natives. Capt. Lothaire erred in hanging Stokes upon the evidence of negroes, which is contrary to the Congo State law, and with-out allowing his prisoner to take an appeal to the court at Boma, and also in the seizure of his moneys and goods, which were valued at £50,000. The Belgian Government is assisting in every cossible way in the inquiry. The final issue will probably be that Capt. Loth-aire will be cashiered, and indemnity will be paid to Stokes' family, together with the value of the confiscated goods. There is no expectation that interna-tional complications will result from

ent says: The closing scenes of Parliament were dull and almost lifeless. Sir Charles Dilke remained to the end a pended their energies in snubbing chronic bores, like Sir Ellis Ashmeade-Bartlett, whom Mr. Chamberlain crushed with ponderous contempt. AN ILL-TIMED ADVENTURE. The Irish members have closed the session with an exhibition of factional warfare. Mr. Healey, after conducting a brilliant sham fight in the Commons, and increasing his prestige as an aggressive leader, rashly challenged Mr. McCarthy's authority in the South Kerry election. It was an ill-timed, illjudged adventure. His candidate was buried out of sight after a short and decisive canvass, in which both fac-tions employed all their resources. Humorous, audacious and versatile as Mr. Healey has shown himself to be in the recent debates in the Commons, he does not command support in Ireland; and that is essential to leadership in the home rule cause. The vote in the home rule cause. The vote in South Kerry was light, although the canvass was a hot one. Apparently the Irish voters either do not understand this factional fighting, or do not take much interest in it.

FRENCH PHILOSOPHY.

The opening by Emperor William of the memorial church in Berlin, the pageants of Sedan Day, and the splendid military reviews in Germany have excited less irritation in France than might have been expected. While re-minded painfully of their national defaate the with the reflection that the republic has completed a quarter-century of continuous life, and is today as firmly founded as the European monarchies. They have also derived cynical pleasure from the message of the German Socialists the revival of war memories, and ex-changing fraternal greetings. THE PROPOSED NEW STEAMER

LINE. Ballard Smith cables from London to the New York World as follows: I have positive information that the British Treasury is now seriously conment by the Canadian Government of a new transatlantic service between England and both Canada and the United States, aided by a special imperial subsidy. Mr. Chamberlain's avowed policy is to do everything possible to develop the interests and trade of the British colonies, as against com-peting foreign countries, and he promptly approved the Canadian scheme, and forwarded it only a few days ago to the Treasury, with an urgent minute, asking the Chancellor of the Exchequer to report as soon as possible on its finment of Healey as a traitor whose misdeeds make the hair of Irishmen stand on end, he cannot be allowed to remain the new service is $400,000 a year, and as this is a vital point of the scheme, the decision of the Treasury, sanctioning or refusing this expenditure will determine the fate of the proposal. The scheme provides for building a new fleet of crack steamers for the service, those for New York starting from Southampton, and those for Canada from Liverpool, via the north of Ireland, Queenstown being ignored. The adoption of this proposal would be a reversal of England's established policy as to giving bounty to Anglo-Canadian shipping, and hardly any other member of the Government except Mr. hamberlain could hope to carry it

AGITATION FOR PROTECTION. The Fair Trade Association has reepened the agitation in favor of protection. At a meeting held at Westminster, with Right Hon. James Lowther in the chair, and 30 Conservative notables, largely members of the of the English trader Stokes, who was | Carlton Club, in attendance, it was agreed that the moment had come to test public opinion in regard to the reform of the fiscal policy, and to try to obtain the imposition of duties upon all imported goods which come into empetition with those produced by home industries. A propaganda com-mittee was also appointed. The resurgence of the association is due to the existence in the new House of Com-mons of a Conservative majority.

> REVIEW OF GERMAN SOLDIERS. The review of the troops yesterday at Stettin was a magnificent military spectacle. The second army corps in particular presented a splendid appearance, which won for it the special recognition of Emperor William. After Empress' Grenadier Regiment, and af-terwards the Empress, wearing the uniform of the Pasewalker Cuirassiers, marched her regiment of Cuirassiers past the Emperor. Prince Putbus was in personal attendance upon the Empress. Before the review the Emperor rode along the parade ground and greeted a number of veterans' associations. The Emperor and Empress were loudly cheered by the vast crowd that witnessed the review. The number of troops who will take part in the annual maneuvers is 120,000.

United Kingdom. LAUGHING AT LONDON'S MAYOR. London is watching with amusement the state reception in France of Sir Joseph Renals, Lord Mayor of London. The Lord Mayor himself must be accused of assisting in keeping up the deception of the French as to his importance. To French interviewers he pretends to take a serious view of his visit to Paris, and says he hopes it will help to dispel the misunderstandfor a year, but the Lord Mayor means to make a regal demonstration in Paris, probably with a business eye to the results. His programme in the French capital includes visits to several of the embassies. He will be received at the Palace of the Elysee by President Faure, and will then be given a reception by the British Cham-ber of Commerce in Paris. He will next visit Bordeaux, where there will be a civic procession, in which his gor-geous Mayoral liveries will cause French eyes to widen. France is pour-ing her hoarded wealth at present into London for South African ventures, and is supporting the most remarkable boom in speculation since the great railway mania. The Lord Mayor may be guiltless of intent, but the money the French is coming in, and buying the greater part of the stock of the South Nigel gold mine,

A MUSICAL TREAT. The Savoy Theater, which was built for Gilbert and Sullivan's operas, rendered famous as the house where all their earlier works were produced, and which was successful only so long as it confined itself to these popular collaborateurs, is to be the scene in November of the performance of an entirely new effusion from the pen of W. S. Gilbert, for which D'Oyley Carte has succeeded in inducing Sir Arthur. Sullivan to write the score. This announcement has caused great rejoicing among all English-speaking people, who are fond of the originality and charm possessed by all of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas, and everyone guessing what theme of satire Gilbert has chosen this time.

THE POPE'S PERSONALITY. Cardinal Gibbons, speaking of his several visits to the Pope, said: Represent to yourselves a man in his 86th year, pale, and emaciated with a pallor almost of death upon him. His body is more bent than it was eight or ten years ago, but his eye is bright and penetrating, his voice is strong and sonorous, his intellect is remarkably lear and luminous: his memory is mos ower of physical endurance which nables him to hold audience for several consecutive hours, treating on most important subjects with cardinals and foreign representatives, as well as with private individuals, and pass-ing with ease and elasticity of mind from one subject to another. He is remarkably familiar with the public events of the day.

CABLE NOTES. London, Sept. 9.—A sister of J. M. Barrie, the novelist, died suddenly on Sunday last and her death was followed two days later by that of her mother. Cardinal Vaughn will shortly start for Rome to assist the Pope with his new encyclical on the conversion of the English-speaking race. It is understood that the cardinal will propose to his Holiness a definite scheme for the attainment of the object in view.

Negotiations have practically been completed for the erection of a magnifamous and historical "Her Majesty's Opera House," in the Haymarket, which was pulled down three years ago.

DRAWN INTO A THRESHER. Kerwood, Ont., Sept. 9.—A sad accident occurred about half a mile from ere Friday afternoon, by which a very estimable young man may lose his life. Wm. Watson was threshing for Wm. Smith, and Charles V. Langford was called the deck belt came off. Charley, in helping to replace the belt, had his arm drawn in, smashing the bone below and above the elbow, and causing a terrible wound in the head. Doctors say terday removed the right arm at the shoulder and several pieces of bone from the head. Very slight hopes of his recovery are entertained.

SCOTT'S SARSAPARILLA

You may relieve a cold in the head by local applications, but all the snuffs, powders, sprays, salves and balms on earth won't cure catarrh. Scott's Sarsaparilla will, because it acts constitutionally with pure blood, reaching every part of the system, searching out the fount of mucous accumulations, removing the cause of their being. The reason it cures catarrh is nd effectual because of the stimulating action and effectual because of the stimulating action which it exerts over the nerves and vital powers of the body, adding tone to the one and inciting to renewed and increased vigor the slumbering vitality of the physical structure, and through this healthful stimulation and increased action the cause of the Pain is driven away and a natural condition restored. It is thus that the Ready Relief is so admirably adapted for the Cure of Pain and without the risk of injury which is sure to result from the use of many of the so-called pain remedies of the day. Dunraven's Valkyrie Defeated by the Defender

After Leading the Yankee Boat for an Hour.

The English-Canadian Cricket Match Ends in a Draw, Shabel Completes His 1,000-Mile Run-Baseball, Golf and Other Sporting Events.

DEFEATED BY THE DEFENDER. New York, Sept. 8.—The aluminum and bronze boat defeated Valkyrie III. 8 minutes, 49 seconds, in the first of the races for the America's cup yesterday Twenty thousand people on the greatest flotilla that ever assembled on Sandy Hook, witnessed the race, and there was a scene of hilarious joy when the Defender crossed the lin fully two miles ahead of Lord Dunraven's boat. The joy of the multi-tude was undoubtedly increased by the fact that that the Valkyrie led the Yankee boat for the first hour. A hush fell over the marine amphitheater when the boats started, and all the joys of yachting seemed gone when Valkyrie easily moved to the front and showed her heels to the Defender. Cheers and enthusiasm were missing for a full hour while the British boat was lead-

There was only a five-knot breez at the start, and, as predicted, the Valkyrie was going through the water fast er than the Defender in the light air. There was a lumpy sea on, and quit a swell came in from the ocean, but the buffeting of the waves against the Britisher's bow did not keep her bac She outpointed and outfooted the He reshoff boat to the amazement of th great crowd of spectators. But after establishing a lead of a good quarter of a mile, the wind having freshened, the cup hunter failed to hold her own, and the Yankee yacht began to gain. Then a cheer went up, and the tug boat whistles screeched.

As both yachts were beating to wind ward it is impossible to say just whe the Defender overhauled the Britis boat, but it was about 1:25 p.m., who the boats had covered nearly half of the fifteen miles of windward work Once the Defender got her gait there was no catching her, and as the wind continued to freshen she opened up very large gap between her stern and the bow of Lord Dunraven's boat When the Defender reached the outer mark she had an advantage of 3 min utes and 27 seconds. There was a big demonstration as the Yankee boa made the turn. The wind having shift ed, the run home became a broad reach and it was a constant gain for the American boat. Going home, the gain was 4 minutes and 53 seconds. With the time allowance of 29 seconds, the Defender's victory was 8 minutes and 40

The wind was ten knots at the finish. The day's race showed that Val-kyrie III. moved like a ghost in a wind of less than six knots, and that she seemed speedier than the Defender in that wind. It also showed that with wind of from eight to ten knots in both windward work and broad reaching, the English boat could not keep the pace set by Defender. Both yachts were somewhat interfered with by the attendant fleet, out the patrol yachts kept a fairly clear course open, except at the start and finish. Summary:

Start. Finish. Time. Defender12:20:50 5:21:14 5:59:55 Valkyrie12:20:46 5:29:30 5:08:44 Defender won by 8 minutes, 49 seconds. Valkyrie allows 49 seconds.

The next race will be on Tuesday at 11 a.m. under the same conditions as Saturday's except that the course will be a triangle of ten miles to a side.

ENGLISHMEN VS. CANADIANS. Rosedale Grounds, Toronto, Sept. 9.— The match between the Canadians The match between the and the Cambridge-Oxford Universities teams was resumed at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, the Englishmen con-cluding the inning for 189 runs. In their second inning the Canadians scored only 86 runs, leaving the Englishmen with 20 runs to get and 10 wickets to fall. Another rain storm, however. came up, which left the ground in such a wet condition that it was decided to make the match a draw.

Winamac, Ind., Sept. 9 .- "By the accidental dropping of a diamond ring at the station here today a husband and wife who had been separated for 40 years were reunited, and they left together for the east on the noon train. "Dr. Charles Mott, formerly of Boston, stepped from the Chicago train on the Pan Handle road to leave a ispatch with the operator. As he valked towards his car a woman leanfrom the window of another car nd asked the doctor to hand her a

"Dr. Mott hastily sprang up the steps of the car and clasped in his arms the wife who had fled from him in anger 40 years ago. There were a few hurried questions on both sides, but the joy of the reunion overshadowed every other feeling, and the happy couple sat talking rapidly and tenderly to one another as the train rolled away toward Massa-

"In 1855 Dr. Charles Mott was a wellknown young physician of Boston, with a good practice and a position in society. He fell in love with Miss Veral Burns, of South Canterbury, Conn., and they were married, but the happiness of the union was short lived.

"Mrs. Mott was jealous of her husband, and many bitter quarrels result-ed. One stormy night, when her husband had been detained very late by a woman patient, the wife determined to stand it no longer, and packing a few personal effects she started out into the storm, leaving no trace of her whereabouts. For years the doctor sought for his vife. He gave up his business and traveled, seeking in every town and city some trace of his wife. "At last he gave up the search, and sought fortune and forgetfulness in the mountains of Montana. He became very wealthy in a few years, and has of late spent much time in traveling. Today he was on his way to New England to revisit the scenes of his childwhen the happy incident oc-

WORK ANO WAGES. Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 9.—The lo-cal typographical union inaugurated a short-lived but successful strike here. The members of the union became dissatisfied with their treatment by the Port Huron Times, which had most of its local news set up by girls who were not paid the union scale, and a strike was decided upon. Editor Sherman, however, made a proposition to accept the union's terms, to take effect two weeks from Monday. The proposition was accepted, and on and after that day all girls remaining in the employ of the Times as compositors will be paid the union scale.

THE STEAM BOILER.

Causes of Explosions and Incrustation -How to Avoid Them.

The prime causes of boiler explosions are divisible into the following categories: 1. Through the influence of thermic action, 2. Through the influence of chemical action; 3. Through the influence of physical action, 4. Structural defects. 5. Defective supervision. Why do boilers explode while getting up steam or so soon after, or upon pumping in cold water, or when the engine is started or shut down? Can boiler withstand 100 pounds pressure this week and explode with 50 pounds pressure the next week? Yes, because the boiler can become suddenly reduced in strength. The mystery of boiler ex-plosions consists in a want of sufficient strength to withstand the pressure. This lack of strength may be inherent in the original construction, but is most frequently the effect of weakening of the iron by strains due to unequal expansion, caused by unequal heating of different portions of the boiler, or it may be due to corrosion from long use or improper setting.

If steam boilers are properly proportioned and constucted, they will, when new, be safe against considerable more pressure than the safety valve is set to; and the hydraulic test, properly applied, may discover faults in material, or the weakening effects of corrosion, but against the danger resulting from unequal expansion, ordinary boilers have no protection; a fact not properly appreciated by engineers or the public. In getting up steam many bollers will be very hot in some parts, while other parts will be actually cold; of course, under these conditions, enormous strains must occur in some por-tions of the boiler, which are thereby weakened; and these strains being repeated, will eventually so far destroy the strength of the line or point of greatest strain that rupture must result, generally small and gradual, but sometimes large and productive of disastrous explosions.

When firing, a quantity of cold air is admitted through the doors, which has a tendency to suddenly cool the bottom sheets, and after a time to cause the iron to become crystallized and finally to crack. The upper damper should be partially closed when firing and the fuel handy and the firing done quick. Sudden and great variation of temperature should be avoided as much as possible in any boiler fur-nace. Boilers should not be blown off on a Saturday night and then filled again with cold water in order to cool them quick. It bakes the mud and incrustation, which otherwise would be quite soft and easily removed; besides it cools the shell of the boiler too rapidly and is apt to crack it. Feed water should be heated and the water level not permitted to vary greatly. Incrustation and sedimentary deposits are the great bane of most steam users and the most general and frequent cause of damage to boilers. It means loss and waste of fuel, excessive repair accounts, and certainly short-ening of life of a boiler.

Nearly all natural water contains more or less mineral matter in solution as well as organic and mineral matter in suspension. The latter may be removed by filtration or settling, but matter held in solution can only be removed from water by the agency of heat. Bottom and surface blow-offs, when used intelligently, can do a great deal towards removing sediments and preventing scale, but it means a waste of water already heated and at the same time increasing the duties of the attendant, which often leads to a gradual neglect of the means at hand. A leed-water heater is to be recommended, if the water can be heated to boil-ing point, and time and quiet must be given for the precipitation of the carbonates of lime. A mechanical boller cleaner is very much to be appreciated. In fact, any apparatus which will prevent accumulation of scale or deposits in a steam boiler. With a view of counteracting the in-jurious effects of the deposits contained in water used in steam boilers, let us look at their composition and action while in the boiler. The main ingredients are carbonate of lime, together with sulphate of lime, carbonate of magnesia; and in salt, or brackish water, chloride of sodium, or common The carbonates of lime and magnesia alone do not form a hard scale; in fact, would not form a scale at all except when baked on to the hot surface of iron by the removal of water. While the boiler is steaming the carbonates, which are quite light and of impalpable fineness, are agitated and kept in motion by the currents in the boiler and are constantly thrown to the surface, until they can find a quiet place in the boiler removed from heat. where they can settle; but when the boiler is allowed to cool down for a while they become precipitated on all the heating surfaces, where they are heated and baked into a more or less hard crust according to their purity. The sulphate of lime and salt at first act a good deal like the carbonates, as on separation from the water they appear as fine, impalpable powders, which are agitated by the currents and thrown to the surface; but as they are much heavier than the car-bonates, they settle more easily and attach themselves to the heating surface as a very hard and crystalline white scale. Among the treasures of the Austrian

DO NOT FORGET TO EXAMINE OUR TWO NEW STYLES OF

THE EMPIRE STYLE

We show an extremely chaste and quiet-looking Upright Cabinet Grand, with panels ornamented with pressed woodwork, in Empire style. The instrument being of large size, it possesses a volume of tone almost equal to that of a Concert Grand Piano. Quality considered, its price is moderate.

THE COLONIAL STYLE

We show one piano only in this style, and we consider it one of the finest specimens of the piano makers' art ever exhibited at London. It is, musically, almost equal to a Concert Grand, and the case has been carved in the highest style of art.

MARQUETERIE PANELS

We also exhibit one large Upright Piano with beautifully inlaid panels, which we secured direct from France. The design is floral, and every petal, leaf and stem is delicately outlined with separate pieces of wood of various colors.

WORD OF ADVICE

To purchasers-Always remember it is cheaper to buy from the manufacturer direct than from a dealer who has to make a middle profit. In cities where there are no manufacturers our goods are handled by the most eminent dealers there, but in our own city we sell direct, and London purchasers have the benefit of the profit which would otherwise go to a third party

SPECIAL NOTICE

We have on hand about 25 nearly new Upright Pianos, which have been taken by us in exchange for new Uprights of our own make. These we will dispose of at remarkably low figures on easy terms. P. S .- Good Pianos for hire.

This man was removed some time ago from the former institution on account of many infractions of duty, of which he was found guilty, and numerous scandals in which his name was connected. After inquiry was made by a commission appointed during the time that Sir John Thompson was Premier, he was dismissed, but after Sir John's death, and despite the report of the commission, Sir Charles H. Tupper had him reinstated. It was then that the Province of British Columbia rose in revolt, and every member and senator from it carried the fight into Parliament. Sir Charles hated to back down, but he had to do so, and finally gave two months' leave of absence to Fitzsimmons. Still Stoney Mountain Penitentiary. Arrangements have been made by which the public schools will be supplied with pure water daily.

Dairy Markets. LONDON.

London, Saturday, Sept. 7,-Another very dull time was spent on the London cheese board today, and deals were scarce. Bids ranged from 7c to 7 1-2c, and were slow at that, the blockade of business being attributed to an overstocking of old cheese on the old country markets. For the same week last year prices ran as high as 10.7-16c, but even then sales were scarce. Only two lots were disposed of today—Cedar Vale at 7.3-8c. and Gladstone at 7 7-16c. The factories which boarded the 6,301 boxes were:

RAIDED THE HOUSE. Five Women and a Man A rested-Market Clerk Wilson Summoned-Horse Eats a Policeman's Flowers.

On Saturday night about 8:30 o'clock Sergt. Crawford and P. C. Gilbert Woolway made a raid on a house on Clarence streets. They arrrested five women and one man. The women were Mrs. Catharine Rodgers, Mrs. Mary Graves, Mrs. Mary Brooks, Mrs. Sarah Butcher and Mrs. Mary Brown, and evey one of them was drunk and having a hilarious time, aided by Henry Law, an elderly man, who was the soberest one in the crowd. The hilarity was suddenly stopped and the party escorted to the police station. With the exception of Mrs. Brown they spent Sunday in jail. This morning they were all in the Police Court looking much the worse for their celebration. Mrs. Graves, the keeper of the house, was discharged. She has a paralytic husband and had not been up for ten or twelve years. Mrs. Rodgers is an oldtimer, and went down for twenty days in default of a $5 fite. Mrs. Brooks went down for the same term, and Mrs. Sarah Butcher, who made her third appearance, was assesed $3 or twenty days. Mrs. Brown was discharged. So was Law, who was only "a friend" of Mr. Graves, and was merely on a visit to him.

John L. Johnston, lately of the firm of Leonard, Johnston & Qo., was charged by his former partner, Lew Leonard, with larceny. The case apparently arose through a misunderstanding as to the terms of dissolution. An adjournment was made until Friday at the request of the crown.

among yachtsmen today was the weather for tomorrow. All hoped for a good breeze for the triangular race, so as to try the yachts in conditions as different as possible from those of Saturday. The weather Horton street, between Richmond and bureau, however, held out small hopes, the prognostications being for fair weather, with light to fresh winds, generally southeaster ly. There were no signs of winds from the westward and the indications were for about the same conditions as on Saturday, except that there would be less sea. Valkyrie stock was decidedly down this morning and few could be found to venture an opinion that the boat would succeed in getting even one of the races. It was thought that with smooth water, however, the British yacht might do better, but that the difference between her and Defender was too great to be overcome.

The Secret Out

"'You have some request to make," she now said, 'What is it? I am in a mood to be gracious;' and she smiled but so coldly I asked myself if my face lighted up no more when I was happy. Alas! I did not know then that she was only indifferently so, and that the joys I supposed made her heart beat with rapture from day to day, had grown more stale and uninteresting to her enervated mind, than ever my work had done to me, notwithstanding I hated it and was, perhaps, as far as disposition goes, above it and its perpetual grind. "But this is telling what I felt, not what I replied. For I answered this question, making her start a little at my first tones, and informing her I was a dressmaker, I asked for some of her work. I have before related this scene, but I did not at that time cling absolutely to the truth. -I had a tremendous secret to conceal, and knew no other way of doing it than assuming Genevieve's past as I had already assumed her present. But at this hour there no longer remains the least motive for concealing or misinterpreting anything connected with this matter, and I beg you to consider what I say as truth, notwithstanding the blur that lies over my honesty, from the false tales I told before I realized how I was shaking my husband's confidence in me by such

'To Genevieve, then, my first words were regarding work, but when I saw that she would never give me this without her sympathies were in some way enlisted, I ceased speaking of my qualifications as a dressmaker, and entered upon my personal history. I began by telling her that I had a sick mother, and that this mother had an inconsolable grief; that she pined for a child who did not even know that she had such a mother in existence. And with this for a text I told the whole story, with just an omission of names, watching her face for the dawning realization which I anticipated seeing there. But it did not come. She listened patiently as she had probably done a hundred times before, to what she considered a tale of distress, and not till I asked her, in what I meant be a significant tone, whether she knew any young lady in her own social circle to whom these facts could apply, did she show the least agitation. Then indeed she did turn upon me and requested me to lift my veil, and when I ignored her demand, sat gazing with something like a wakening apprehension in her eyes.

"Then I thought the time had come to speak plainly, and laying aside all disguise I observed simply:

"'It is your mother I have been talk-ing about, and it is your sister who is speaking to you. Pardon me if I have not broken this gently enough to you. I am little used to such matters and the secret will not stay with me. I cannot see my own flesh and blood and hold back the truth any

And what did she say? Not what I expected. Instead of looking stunned, humiliated or angry, she merely gave me a steady glance, and asked what coof I had in support of this astoundassertion. 'The best in the world,' I replied, and teaning off my veil, I stood before

"It was a strange experience, that interview. After the first astonishment and gush of emotion was over, she showed an unexpected interest in the situation, and questioned me so fully that my stay became greatly prolonged, and I grew anxious and prayed her to let me go. But she was too much interested, and would know just how we lived, and whom we had for our friends. Then we must compare curselves in the mirror, and try on each other's gloves, and submit to other tests to show we were precisely alike. And we found that though there was an amazing similiarity in details as well as general effect, her hands were a little smaller and her dimples not so pronounced. Our feet on the contrary were the same size, and when she had put upon me one of her hats, that was lying near, I did not know whether it was she or myself who smiled upon me from the glass: 'Meantime it appeared that she was not so much disturbed by the news as she was excited by it. She found semething to interest her, she said, and promised to go and visit her mother the next day. As for the work I wished from her, I should have it, as it would give her the best excuse in the world for visiting me. And so the one sister became dressmaker to the other, and a series of visits began destined to end in what we least expected at that hour—desperate tragedy.

"My sister had given no intimation of risking the inheritance she expected from her reputed parents by any dis-cleaure to them of the knowledge which had been communicated to her, so that I was in no wise surprised when she appeared next day as heavily veiled as I had been in visiting her. But what did astonish me was the eagerness with which she entered into relations that must have seemed far-from elegant after her experience with the Greterex family. Was it that in my mother's passionate embrace she felt a warmth of love that she had hitherto missed? It may be, but I rather think it was owing to the influence which Molesworth's strange, sad eyes had upon her even at that early day. "He was my mother's physician and had been in the habit of visiting her daily. On this day he came as usual, and receiving no reply to his knock, fancied that my mother was asleep, and so opened the door and softly came

The first we knew of his presence he was before us, and as we had supposed the door locked, we were utterly taken by surprise, and were as we thought, lost, for my sister was without her veil, and I was standing by her side in a position to bring out the likeness between us to its fullest extent.

"But Genevieve, who had most to lose, showed neither chagrin nor Not when the whole matter had been explained, as it presently was by my mother, did she utter one protest or seem in any way distressed. She had looked at the doctor and he had looked at her, and as the fruit of that look, Genevieve Gretorex became a changed woman.

I did not suspect it at first, but gradually the truth dawned upon me and I marvelled. For not only could see nothing in the doctor especially attractive, but I did see in the prospect which her expected marriage opened out before her, all that a woman's heart could desire, were she poor as myself or rich as my more favored

"For I was often at Mr. Gretorex's house now, and in one of my visits I had seen Dr. Cameron, and though I was too filled with the idea that he was the destined bridegroom of my sister, to understand the feelings which his kind eyes and frank smile awakened. I did think that there was nothing more in the world for Genevieve to ask for, and compared more than ever her gay and glorious existence with the sad and desolate one promised me by my mother's rapidly approaching death. But she showed no such satisfaction with her lot, but rather looked with envy upon mine, which she called a free one. And so the days went by, and my mother's end grew near, and finally the very day came, and Genevieve did not know it and could not come if she did, for others were grouped about that bed, and we could not both stand there without our secret being disclosed. "Yet I felt that my mother would never die happy without seeing her, and loving my mother, I took at last a sudden resolve, and whispering in her ear that I would fetch her darling, I left her with a look of gratitude on her face, and going by the shortest road to Mr. Gretorex's house, happily found my sister at home. When I proposed that she should put on my cloak and hat and thus equipped, go back to my mother's side for the blessing there awaiting her, she seized upon the idea with avidity, and lost no time in carrying out the plan, though it meant the leaving of myself in her place. "She went, and met her fate, for the dector was in that room of death; and when all was over-for my mother died on Genevieve's breast-he took her to his heart, and told her that he loved her, and asked her to be his wife. Do not think he did this under any misapprehension as to who she was. He knew the rich woman from the poor girl, no matter in what garb she was arrayed. I say rich woman, but I do not mean that Julius Molesworth was mercenary, exactly. He had no great longing for money, nor would his love have faltered, if she had come to him completely penniless. "But what he did feel was the distinction which money had created about her; the consciousness that she was a rich man's daughter, and must a lordly home and surroundings the most delightful, if she would come to him. And his pride revelled in this and created a halo about thought, her till he thought he loved her, and what was worse, made her think he did. "For she loved him wholly and without any reserve, and was wretched at the prospect of keeping her engagement to Dr. Cameron, and asked me more than once if I could see any way out of it. But I could not. The preparations for marriage were being made, and everyone looked forward to a great and splendid wedding. What else could she do but fulfil the expectations of people? And yet it all seemed dreadful; for with a pertinacity that argued hope, she still cherished her interest in Dr. Molesworth, sending him messages and keeping him as it were, waiting for the answer her indecision promised. At last, she told me what the situation had suggested to her. Heedless of the astonishment, the delight, the confusion into which her words threw me, she pointed out the ease with which matters could be arranged if she were in my place, and I in hers. And then, between laughter and earnest, looked at me and said:

"I have had my due share of what you call the pleasures of wealth. Suppose you now take yours,' "It was a thought which at once found echo in my weak and dissatis-fied breast, The old longings, the old jealousy, the old sense of having been supplanted in my rights by a freak of the woman who chose the infant whom my mother meant to keep, rushed upon me with redoubled force; and though I could not think she would lend herself seriously to such a scheme, I found myself thrilling and blushing as if it had been a reality I contemplated, instead of some humorous suppo-

FLAGGED WITH HER SKIRT. Saved the Train-Good Work of a Woman Station Agent.

Miss Martha M. Gurnee has been emloyed on the New Jersey and New York Railroad as station agent at Mount Ivy for a number of years. Miss Surnee and her 14-year-old brother were alone in the station about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when they discovered that it had been set on fire by sparks from the engine of a freight train which had passed a few moments

The station is situated in a lonely place among the foothills of the Haverstraw Mountains. No assistance was ear. Miss Gurnee and her brother saw that the little station was doomed, and set to work with a will to re-move whatever they could from it. They first removed the ticket case and other furniture, and after a hard struggle succeeded in removing a large, new stove, which had been placed in the tation last winter. They were hardly through with this task, when they saw that the roof of the freight house close by was on fire. Miss Gurnee remembered that there were several barrels of kerosene oil in the freight house, and calling to her brother to follow her, she rushed into the burning building and began to roll the oil. They succeeded in getting it to a place of safety. Miss Gurnee did not forget that Conductor Johnson's east-bound passenger train was about due, and that the tracks were covered with wreckage rom the burning building. She had neglected, however, to remove her signal flag from the burning station, and they had been consumed. Her woman's wit did not forsake her.

She slipped off her white petticeat. and handing it to her brother, started off on a run up the road to warn the approaching train of danger. The train was brought to a standstill by the boy's waving of his sister's petticoat. The train crew and the passengers crowded around him, and when they heard the story of the fire they were loud in their expressions of admiration and of gratitude toward the pair.

"JACK THE RIPPER"

Was a Medical Student, and is Now in an English Asylum.

New York, Sept. 9.—Dr. Forbes Winslow, of London, a well known specialist on suicide and insanity, says that 'Jack the Ripper," who by his crimes terrorized London a few years ago, is incarcerated in a county lunatic asylum in England, Dr. Winslow says this fact is known to the doctors, but they hushed up the facts. Dr. Winslow says he was a medical student suffering from homicidal mania. The story of Winslow is as follows: "Jack the Ripper was a medical student of good family. He was a young man of slight build, with light hair and blue eyes. He studied very hard, and his mind, being naturally weak, gave way. He became a religious enthusiast, and attended early services every morning at St. Paul's. His religious fervor resulted in homicidal mania towards the women of the street and impelled him to murder them. He lodged with a man whom I know, and suspicion was first directed toward him by reason of the fact that he returned to his lodgings at unusual hours, and that he had innumerable coats and hats stained with blood. "I have in my possession now a pair of Canadian moceasins stained with blood that the 'Ripper' wore while on murdering expeditions. I notified the Scotland Yard authorities, but at that time they refused to co-operate with me. Subsequently the young man was placed in confinement and removed to an asylum, where he is today. Since his incarceration there has been on repetition of the horrible murders that he perpetrated. These facts are all known to the English authorities, and it is conceded that the man now in the asylum is 'Jack the Ripper.' It was deemed desirable, however, to hush the matter up. The details were too horrible to be made the subject of a public trial, and there was no doubt of the man's hopeless insanity.'

DEPEW ON CLEVELAND. Thinks the President Will be Renom inated Next Year.

New York, Sept. 9 .- Chauncey Depew was interviewed in London by the World correspondent upon President Cleveland. "Cleveland," he said, "is as certain to be the Democratic nominee s the national convention is to meet. Whitney could not be elected. He knows it and he is too shrewd a man to sacrifice himself." "What about the third term idea?" "That has no real influence with the mass of the Democratic party. They don't regard him as a Caesar nor fear Caesarism from his continued administration. It was different with Grant and with Jackson, and even with Washington. They were strong individual characters. Cleveland has persuaded his party, at least, that he is only the mouthpiece of the best desires of the people, with no personal purposes or even personal ambitions. Either he has extraordinary luck in accidentally doing the right thing or he is really a great statesman. I confess I am not sure in which aspect I regard

A LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

If clergymen, lawyers, scholars, merchants, or any one with over-worked and tired brain would use Dr. Story's Five-Minute Headache Cure, they would be relieved wonderfully. YELLOW.

A Popular and Fashionable Color.

It is Not Stylish, However, When Ladies Are Obliged to Wear It All the Time.

Saffron, Chrome, Old Gold and other shades of yellow are the ruling fashionable colors. There is one exception and that is when the popular color is worn in the complexion.

It is much noted that sallowness of complexion, yellow in the whites of the eyes, etc., is increasing. Our best types of womanhood are afflicted to a great extent in this manner. A woman prizes more than anything her freshness of eye and complexion; her youth and beauty, and in the present day these points are much neglected. If the bowels move regularly and habits to this end are contracted, it means a great deal. There will be no billousness or indigestion; no dizziness, or headache; no melancholia, or sleeplessheadache; no meianchoila, or sieepiess-ness; all forms of ills will be provided against. There will be youthfulness, beauty and cheerfulness. There will be no necessity to use artificial beautifiers. Nature in all her beauty will reign supreme. The researches of an eminent scientist were for years directed to producing a certain cure for constipation and bowel irregularities. After much experimenting "Karl's Clover Root Tea" was produced, and it is one of the greatest of modern discoveries.

Nature furnishes remedies for all ills to her creatures, man and beast, and they are always more effective, the nearer they approach to a natural state. "Karl's Clover Root Tea." is prepared directly from roots and herbs, as nature gave them, and the results are direct and perfect.

This wonderful medicine, a boon to mankind, may be procured as you druggist's. A careful use of it as directed will absolutely insure freedom from that trouble which is the curse of the women of our day, constipation of the bowels, "Karl's Clover Root Tea" cures without fail Skin Eruptions, Indiges-tion, Headache. Dizziness, Languor, and prevents Piles, Fistula, and Blood Diseases. Trial samples free at W. T. Strong's.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD. Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves. DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Mr. A. N. Udy, well known in London as a most reliable and painstaking insurance agent, has been appointed city agent for the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company, and now occupies their office in the C.P.R. building. As those procuring life or endowment policies wish to select the company which gives the best returns to policy-holders, it will be to the interest of intending insurers to consult Mr. Udy before placing their applications elsewhere.

The following letter is appended to support the claim that the Ontario gives the best returns of all the companies doing business in Canada. Mr. Bell's reputation as a successful manufacturer of organs and pianos, and as a shrewd business manager, gives the more importance to his letter.

In the comparison of Mr. Bell's letter, it should have been stated that the Equitable's premium was $220 98, and the Ontario's $196 92. No account was taken of the interest on the annual difference in premium, which would make the result still more favorabe to the Ontario.

CAMERA EXPOSES SPIRITS. Saturday's Illustrated Buffalo Express contained several flashlight pictures of spiritualistic seances held at Lily Dale, the celebrated American spirit resort. In one of them the portrait of a well known London spiritualist stands out plainly. The photographs have been the cause of expulsion from camp of two mediums. When the negatives were developed it was found that one of the materialized spirits wore woolen undershirts, that another had a pearl shirt button; that one of the mediums had some white draping loosely concealed in his sleeve, and that several of the materialized wore false beards. The effect has been a severe shock to the pronounced spiritualists of the district. In the photographs of the alleged spooks several faces of people well known about Lily Dale were recognizable. HOSPITAL HAPPENINGS.

R. Lewis (chairman), Mayor Little, C. F. Complin, James Gilmour, T. H. Purdom and Superintendent Balfour held a meeting of the hospital trust Friday afternoon, An application from Miss Ada Laird, of Willow Grove, to be put on the nursing staff was received. The chairman and the superintendent will purchase furniture for the new operating room. They were also empowered to appoint a house surgeon. Dr T. F. Flaherty having resigned. Miss Jelly. one of the nurses, is down with typhoid fever, and a probationer will be taken on in her place. The superintendent reported twenty patients admitted since the last meeting of the board and twenty discharged. There are twelve cases of typhoid fever in the hospital. Accounts to the amount of $580 79 were passed and ordered to be paid. Collections for the month of August were $380 80. The new operating room will be ready for occupation by Oct. 1. A pro-fusion of flowers was kindly donated by the Episcopal Flower Mission, Mrs. John Marhall, Miss Moffat and the Dundas Street liquor during prohibited hours, two of which were preferred against Mike Ward, of Springbank, and one against Wm. Deary, of the Riverside Hotel, London West. The whole three prosecutions arose through the recent investigations by Coroner Ferguson into the Warwick double tragedy, when it was stated by John Warwick, the cousin, that he and the deceased had obtained liquor at Deary's and Ward's on the Sunday of the drowning-Aug. 18-and at Ward's on the previous Sunday also. Ward pleaded guilty to both charges and on the first was fined $20 and costs. On the other, decision was reserved to allow the magistrate to discover whether it can be termed a second offense when the information is laid before the first case is disposed of. Deary pleaded not guilty and John Warwick told the story of his visit to the place on the date in question. Squire Lacey convicted and imposed a fine of $40 and costs. Another case against Deary was enlarged complainant.

Squance, furniture, St. Thomas, as-HOTELKEEPERS FINED. On Saturday afternoon Squire R. F. Lacey heard three charges of selling

MIRROR WRITING.

In the Quarterly Medical Journal for Yorkshire and the adjoining countries Dr. Crochley Clapham gives an account of a case in which this abnormality was well marked. The patient was a female with right hemiplegia who had taught herself to write with her left hand. At first she wrote mirrorwise-i.e. from right to left; then having gone to school she commenced to write in the usual way, and sometimes forgetting she would write one line mirrorwise and the next in the usual way-the style in which archaic Greek manuscrips were written. Many people practice mirror writing at the present day for the purpose of writing on postcards, for the writing is illegible, like the books in "Looking-glass House," unless held up to a mirror. It will be found comparatively easy to do if the left hand is used, and still easier if both hands are used simultaneously, and many markedly left-handed persons do it naturally.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly, and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.
