MOB HOWLS FOR VENGEANCE

Crowd Thousands Strong Make Attempt to Take Women Away From Police.

[Canadian Press.]
March 10.—Militant suffragettes today started another campaign of arson. Early this morning they set fire to the Saunderton station on the Great Western Railway, and burned it to the ground, together with all its it contents. Saunderton is about 31 miles from London in Buckinghamshire. Two placards were found in the vicinity on which were painted the words: "Burning To Get the Vote" and "Votes For Women." The fire brigades from the neighboring towns responded to the alarm, but it was found impossible to save anything.

Foiled By the Police and Menaced By Great Mob

[Canadian Press.] March 10.—Even King London, March 10.—Even King George has not been omitted from the campaign of the suffragettes in the British Isles. Vague threats had been uttered that something would be done by them during the ceremony of the opening of Parliament, and while the King and Queen Mary were on their way to Westminster today five women attempted to approach his majesty in historic Whitehall and to hand him a petition setting forth the grievances of women. They did not succeed, however, for police were force, and arrested the suffragettes. There was a notable demonstration of hostility against the suffragettes by the vast crowd gathered to see the royal procession, and the women had to be protected from the vengeance of a mob exasperated by the recent outrages of the "militants."

"Duck Them:" The two suffragettes who were arrested in the vicinity of Marlborough House escaped from rough handling only through the energetic efforts of the police. Shouts of "Duck them," 'Into the lake with them," brought to-Sether a mob 2,000 to 3,000 strong, who tried to take the women from the hands of the policemen. By a quick manoeuvre, however, the patrolmen succeeded is whisking the suffragettes Speaking in a music hall subsequently Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst referred to the women's attempts to present liamentary duties. I will be back in petitions to the King. She said: "This perfectly constitutional action by the women has been called an insult offered to the King. The proposal to remove the "gas house" hill in order to provide a clear passage to the city for South London street car traffic has been greeted with such approval as will guarantee that the feasibility of the scheme will be investigated by the city.

Will Have Report on Probable Cost.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, who brought the matter up at the last meeting of the water commissioners, stated today that he had assurance from Ald. John Saunders that at the next meeting of the board of works, the city engineer would be asked to make a report on the cost of the under-Saving Assured for Grand Trunk Railway

The council is almost a unit in the matter, and ready to give South London any relief possible. The Grand Trunk would be saved the cost of two watchmen, which would provide almost enough to pay interest on its share of the cost.

Would Pay Street Railway Company

Dr. Stevenson believes the street railway would increase its business to such an extent that would more than pay for its share of the undertaking. "There are scores of men who walk to the city at noon because they are afraid of being held up at the Richmond street crossing," said the doctor.

Would Abolish Unsatisfactory Service

"There would be a large increase in business, undoubtedly, and the street railway would do away with one of the chief sources of complaint against its service, although it is really not to blame for the condition."

Mayor Graham For the Publicity Job Is the Rumor

Several aldermen this morning admitted to The Advertiser that the name of Mayor Graham had been suggested for publicity commissioner. One alderman added that Mr. Graham would make an ideal man for the position if it would not require more time than he could spare from his own business It was pointed out that the work of the publicity commissioner need not be any more strenuous in office hours and duties than that of mayor, and the reply was that the mayor had not yet been approached in the matter, and if it were found that he would favorably consider such an appointment, they would unite in urging it upon him.

In view of the fact that there does not appear to be any mad scramble for the position of publicity commissioner, more especially on the part of out-of-town applicants, it has been suggested that it would be quit within the province of the manufacturers' committee if the members do not favor any of the applications received to offer the position to someone who in their opinion would fill it success.

'No one has suggested it to me," said Mayor Graham. "And I can-not conceive of any aldermen suggesting such a thing. I could not consider it for a moment. It is a position that cannot be worked by any system of office hours. It may require absence from the city for weeks at a time, and I could not possibly arrange to give the neces sary time to it. The position of publicity commissioner is one that has immense possibilities, and trequires a man's whole time.

the fraud allegations were made. Mr. Marcil claims he was present at an interview between Louis Coderre, secretary of state, and three of the alleged 'telegraphers" in the election contest, and that the minister wrote letters promising the alleged telegraphers positions in the Government service, and also telephoned directions to his brother, Mr. Oscar Coderre, to pay the men $400. DOCUMENTS ALL THERE.

Photographs of the letters sent by the minister most deeply involved, originals of the affidavits made by the alleged "telegraphers," and letters from Government officials hinting at appointments under the Administration, are also in the hands of the Liberal authorities at Ottawa, Mr. Marcil says.

Ottawa, March 10. - Scandal today and tomorrow, and for the remainder of the week, is the program of Parliament as far as at present prepared. It has been announced by the Opposition that they have something to show respecting the conduct of the Hochelaga by-election, and that the longer these things are kept the worse they smell. Therefore they propose to hand them over to the Parliament for treatment. No Let Up to Fight. There seems to be every reason to believe that the Government will keep the House sitting night and day, until Easter on every legal Parliamentary day. Two holidays come be-fere the first of April. With these and Sundays taken out there remain seventeen days between the administration and bankruptcy through exhaustion of appropriations. It is quite clear that the Opposition is not going to let the contentious clause of the naval bill pass until it has received information which has been applied for and it probably will not do so then. There seems to be a strong feeling that the country is not in favor of the bill, and that an appeal to the people would result in the Government's overthrow

Conservatives Dissatisfied. it are not confined to the alone, but can be heard daily in the lobbies from the lips of Conservative members. There is a growing feel-ing of dissatisfaction with the Government among its own followers over the position it has allowed itself to get into by running so close to the end of the fiscal year without taking some supply. It is pointed out that it is three months and half since Parliament was assembled, and there is less than a hundred thousand dollars' supply voted yet. The House has been in committee of supply only once.

Now the Government is practically forced to keep the House sitting continuously in a panic effort to smash things through. It has met a stubborn fighting line, and now there is general agreement that only closure will have the situation. However, there is a further complication here, for there is a report that

Hon. Winston Churchill has given an unofficial intimation that the $35,-000,000 gift will not be received if it has to be taken from the Canadian people by closure. This report has spread since the ara

Ross, who followed, dealt particularly with the constitutional issue at stake, emphasizing the fact that the vital principle for which Liberalism had contended during the past half century, viz., the right of self-government, was at issue. Mr. German, speaking late in the afternoon, varied proceedings somewhat by giving an amended and original rendering of some Conserva-tive "poetry" about the old flag and the Liberal "blockers." The concluding Liberal verse of Mr. German's amended version was as follows:

"Fly the flag from the turret, the flag of our seven seas; Men, not gold, have kept it affoat for a

He strongly suspected the sincerity of the jingoistic imperialist. Perhaps out of it might grow a peerage for Sir Thomas Shaughnessy under the title of Lord Milwaukee. Premier Borden might blossom into the Duke of Halifax, and there might even be a Viscount Rogers. White's Silence.

Hon. Jacques Bureau, who followed, again emphasized the significant lence of Hon. Mr. White, who has not yet said a word in defence of the Borden bill, although it involves the spending of the whole surplus for the fiscal year. Perhaps, he somewhat sarcastically suggested, if the Imperialists were really sincere in wanting to bring home to the people the emergency and the educational benefits of contribution to Britain they would adopt his suggestion of taking up a popular subscription. That would bring the question home splendid measure of the devotion of these flag-wavers to the cause of in these flag-wavers to the cause of imperfal federation. Mr. Bureau promptly pointed out what the Nationalist campaign would be when they were forced to the cuntry. Evidences of it had already been given in the speech of Hon. Mr. Pelletier in the House. They would say: "We have defeated the Laurier navy: we have prevented your sons from being disembowelled in Britains wars; we have ended the matter with a contribution which the other provinces will pay." And in Ontario and other English-speaking provinces the campaign was already under way to say that Laurier was in league with the Nationalists. As for Mr. Sevigny, and Mr. Bureau, he had premptly attached himself to flesh pots, and "before the cock had crowed once denied that he was a Vationalist.

He concluded with a renewed demand for information as to the reasons for Premier Borden's change of front since 1909, and for an explanation of the discrepancies already noted by the Opposition in regard to the cost of building naval vessels.

Mr. Carvell analyzed the information given to the House on Monday last by Premier Borden and Mr. Hazen as to he cost of two fleet units if built in Canada as proposed by Sir Wilfrid Laur-The figures submitted, said Mr Carvell, were evidently designed to frighten the Canadian people, and had Carvell. ittle regard for accuracy or consistency. In regard to the cost of Dreadnoughts the original admiralty memorandum had stimated the cost at $11,759,000. Now in the supplementary estimate secured by the Premier the cost had suddenly umped to over $13,000,000. For unarm ored cruisers the original estimate had been $1,750,000. Now the Government said it would cost over $2,500,000. The Cammell-Laird Company had actually tendered to build these cruisers in Canada for less than two millions each. They had tendered to build destroyers for $630,000 each, but Premier Borden, on some anonymous authority, now said they would cost nearly $1,000,000 each. In the statement he had presented to he House the Premier had declared that he destroyers were of 4,200 tons each Mr. Carvell, by reference to the admiralty blue-book, showed that the real figures of displacement gave only 700 tons each these vessels. The Premier was only multiplying this by six. In regard to submarines the Premier's statement subnitted to the House was equally absurd Surely, said Mr. Carvell, before attemptng to force this measure through the opposition was entitled to at least some attempt to explain these discrepancies Mr. Carvell was going on to point out

Dainty Whitewear Specially Priced

PRINCESS SLIPS, SKIRTS AND GOWNS

THE excellent values and dainty styles in these specially-priced lines can only be appreciated after a careful examination and inspection of the garments themselves. The four lines mentioned here are worthy of your immediate attention, as in some cases the quantities are limited. The trimmings and finishing of these, even at the very lowest prices, are of excellent quality and workmanship. A few of these garments would make a splendid addition to the assortment you have already stored away in the bottom of your trunk or dresser drawer for future use.

LONDON, MONDAY, MARCH 10.

THE SITUATION AT OTTAWA

The Ottawa situation seems to be unchanged. Premier Borden indicates that the naval bill will be proceeded with and the ends meet? The Gabey-Storer report debate resumed. Evidently the London and Port Stanley Railway as Government has not considered a civic enterprise, would haul all the it possible to bring in a closure bill at once. There are no doubt by handing over to it all their traffic some things to be considered before that is done. The Government is not certain that a closure bill can be forced through any more than the naval bill.

So the Government lets the debate go on until it can collect its wits and find some way of breaking the deadlock other

Does the Government contemplate strangling discussion on the naval bill—the contribution bill, to be correct—by an abuse of the power of chairmen of committee? Under the Canadian system there has always been a great deal of latitude allowed in the interest of free and exhaustive discussion. If the Government tried to stifle this freedom, it would be reversing all the rules and precedents of the Canadian Parliament. This would right hou, friend, should build up a the country he the real home the real home be an arbitrary exercise of power that might lead to very tvigorous remonstrance and might not succeed.

When the Disraeli Govern- first place, that half a century, Even ment put through the first clo- upon sure rule for the British Parliament in 1880, the situation was as Mr. Hugh Chisholm puts it in the Encyclopaedia Britannica:

"With the entry of Mr. Parnell and his Irish Nationalist followers into Parliament (1875-1880), a new era began in the history of the House of Commons. Their tactics were R. L. Borden at ly experiment to oppose all business of whatever kind, at all hours."

It was obstruction for obstruction's sake with the Parnellites. They were not concerned about forcing a dissolution of Parliament in order to get a decision of the people on a particular question as are the Liberals at Ottawa today.

When the great closure crisis arose in the British House of Commons in 1881, increased manent policy for powers of crushing debate were Canada, granted to the Speaker on condition of a three to one majority would serve a sible for a single more practical sible for a single for such a departure, which was obtained. There was some justice in the proceed- of our own maings against mere turbulence. It labors, and by the most powerful navy is a very different matter at Ottawa today, and much more any necessary protherefore will resistance be made naval to any arbitrary methods of carrying a closure rule. Liberals has endowed this ent at least, at the will not be intimidated by bluff, material, with the problem that can nor give up their legal rights maritime situation, without a struggle to the limit. | tial, not only for

THE MILLION DOLLAR SCHEME.

The million dollar "drunken-sailor" scheme, as Colonel Hobbs aptly called for the resuscitait, is not so much in the public eye building industry as three months ago. Probably the which once made majority of the aldermen would glad- Nova Scotia famly shelve the business if Mr. Beck by shelve the business if Mr. Beck the world.

would let them, and put the cost of R. L. Borden in rehabilitating the London and Port Stanley Railway upon one of the steam roads which wants to lease it.

The council has prudently shown no haste in forcing the question to a vote, although three months ago ratepayers accomplished were assured in a daily fit of hysterics the use of that it was a matter of 'ife and own material, the death. Does a twinge of shame ever own people, the visit Mr. Beck and his newspaper for development and the torrent of abuse poured on the members of last year's city council sourcefulness, and who ventured to ask that citizens be above all, by imgiven more information before being pressing upon the compelled to say yes or no? Today responsibility there is no word of reproach for this their share in in-Year's council, which :2s done what ternational affairs.

last year's council was vilified for proposing to do. The promoters of the electrification scheme could not conceal their rage at their failure to compel a decision before citizens could weigh and examine it, but the result of the municipal election and the protest of the business community gave them pause. The n. vor and the other members of this year's board elected on the cry that last year's council tried to "muzzle the people" now confess that delay was justified, and that further inquiry is desirable and

Much ado is made over the offer of he Pere Marquette to run over an electrified line, failing a renewal of the lease; but the Pere Marquette insists that it shall use its own steam locomotives. Even if both the Pere Marquette and Michigan Central consented to use the road on these conditions- and the Michigan Central has made no offer-where would the city of London, as a competitor of both, obtain sufficient traffic to make both was based on the assumption that the freight on the road, the Pere Marquette and Michigan Central obligingbetween London and St. Thomas. If the Pere Marquette and Michigan Central ran their own trains under their own steam over a municipallyoperated road, they would, of course handle the bulk of freight that would go over the road; in fact, it would nearly all originate on their lines. The city would get only the freight between London and the lakeside. A pretty prospect with navigation closed for five months of the year, excepting than an election, which it fears. for coal! There would be a revenue, of course, from the Pere Marquette and the Michigan Central for running rights, but it is not necessary to electrify the road to get this revenue. Both companies would prefer to run over a steam-operated road.

The more the project is examined the more suicidal it looks, and the more the taxpayers have a right to resent the attempt to rush it to a vote | Canada. at the last municipal election.

You Can See Their Goodness!

If you want to see with your eyes which rolled oats are best, compare a handful of Tillson's with a handful of any other rolled oats made.

Then if you wrote down the visible difference in the flakes, your tabulation would be like this:

Tillson's Flakes

Whole-unbroken. Evenly thin, Uniform size.

The Other Flakes

A few whole-many broken, Almost as thin as paper. Much thicker than Tillson's. Some thicker than others.

Mixed with particles of flour.

There's the Tillson's story in a nutshell. The unbroken flakes explain why Tillson's porridge is never in a jellied mass, but always as inviting as it is palatable. The extreme and even thinness of the Tillson's flakes, together with their uniform size and freedom from foreign particles, shows why Tillson's in 15 minutes are thoroughly cooked and perfectly digestible.

New Millinery Modes for the New Season

THE SPRING season is at hand Though the cold weather is still with us, Easter is only two weeks away. You will want your Spring Hat for Easter Sunday. If you do, you should have your order placed now. The rush is just beginning.

Our grand display on the second floor of new models in Spring Hats and Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Garments will aid you greatly, by its suggestive power, in making your spring wardrobe as complete and as beautiful as possible.

When you come to choose your Spring Hat, you will look for something which conforms to fashion's latest dictates. It must also have something distinctive about it, for while you want it to be stylish, you also want it to be "different" (not like the woman's next door), but above all it must be becoming; it must look well on you.

So when choosing from amongst the many beautiful displays in this city, watch for these three most essential characteristics, and judge for yourself that our styles are the latest, that every hat is different from any others you have seen and you will be sure to find many Hats here to suit your particular requirements.

T.R. AND A.A. HELD ALL-STARS TO A TIE

Big Crowd of Toronto Fans Saw a Great Exhibition of Hockey.

Toronto, March 10.—Although rivals of St. Michael's in their association fixtures, Toronto R. and A. A. went out on Saturday night at the arena to atone for the decisive defeat handed to the Irish by the Western All-Stars on Friday night. While not defeating the westerners, the local seven held them to a tie, six all, and if anything had a shade the better of the play, some unlucky shots in the latter portion of the game depriving them of victory. A crowd of fully four thousand were on hand, and to say they were pleased with the game, is putting it mildly.

A Great Game.

It was one of the best exhibitions of champions, and will be given medals in monor of the achievement.

Meds Beat Arts.

The game between the Arts and Meds on Saturday was one of the closest fought on the local floor this season, and it was not until the closing minute that the Meds could claim a victory. The half time score was 10 to 4 in favor of the Arts, and the professors were playing in such a slashing manner when the first period closed that they were looked upon as sure winners. The surgeons rallied their forces in the last half, and fanished strong, the final count being 18 to 15 in their favor.

A Great Game.

It was one of the best exhibitions of the season, with very little rough work on either side. The speed of the visitors, which was the feature of Friday night's fixture, was again to the fore, but the splendid work of the local defence kept them at a safe shooting distance. They also displayed little team play, which spoilt a number of good chances to score. The teams:

"MY STOMACH IS FINE Since Taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets"

Mrs. J. Merkhuger, Waterloo, Ont., enthusiastically recommends Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. Her experience with them, as she outlines it, explains why. "I was greatly troubled with my stomach", she writes. "I had taken so much medicine that I might say to take any more would only be making it worse. My stomach just felt raw. I read of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and a lady friend told nie they were very easy to take, so I thought I would give them a trial and really they worked wonders. Anyone having anything wrong with his stomach should give Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets a trial, they will do the rest. My stomach is fine now and I can eat any food." One of the many good features of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is that they are so pleasant and easy to take. The relief they give from heartburn, flatulence, biliousness and dyspepsia is prompt and permanent. Try one after each meal-they'll make you feel like among men.

"Oh!" gasped Custer.

"I've knowed it to happen before. It's instinct," explained Shrimplin. "Singlar, says I, and out I jumps to have a look about. I walked to the lamp post and then I seen what I hadn't seen before, that old man McBride's store door was open, so I stepped on to the sidewalk intending to close it, but as I put my hand on the knob I seen where the snow had drifted into the room, so I knew the door must have been open some little time. That's mighty odd, I thinks, and then it sort of come over me the way Bill had acted, and I went along into the store in pretty considerable of a hurry."

In sort of come over me the way Bill had acted, and I went along into the store in pretty considerable of a hurry."

"Were you afraid?" demanded Custer, in an awestruck whisper.

"I'll tell you the truth, Custer, I wasn't. I own I'd drawed my gun, wishing to be on the safe side. First thing I noticed was that the lamps hadn't been turned up, though they was all lit. I got back to the end of the counter, when I came to a hait, for there in a heap on the floor was old man McBride, with his head smashed in where someone had hit him with a sledge. There was blood all over the floor, and it was a mighty sickening spectacle. I sort of looked around hoping I'd see the murderer, but he'd lit out, and then I went back to the front of the store, when I seen Colonel Harbison coming across the Square. I told him what I'd seen and he went inside to look; while he was looking, along come Andy Gilmore and I told him, too, and he went in. They knowed the murderer wasn't there, that I'd been in ahead of them. After that the people seemed to come from every direction; then presently someone started to ring the town bell, and that fetched more people, until the Square in front of the store was packed the wanted the full particulars from the only one who knowed them."

My Shrimplin paused for breath. The recollection of his splendid publicity was dazzling. He imagined the morrow with its possibility of social triumph; he went as far as to feel that Mrs. Shrimplin now had a certain sneaking respect for him.

"Did you see tracks in the snow?" dehe added.

"Never."
"I don't suppose half a dozen people in town were ever inside his door until tenight," said Watt Harbison, speaking for the first time.
Gilmore turnded to look at the colonel's nephew as if he had only that moment become aware of his presence. What he saw did not impress him greatly, for young Watt, save for an unusually large head, was much like other young men of his class. His speech was soft, his face beardless and his gray eyes gazed steadily but without curiosity on, what was for him, an uncliented world. For the eighteen months that he had been an "attorney and counsellor at law" the details of office rent had been taken care of by the colonel.
"Sort of makes the game he played." and a certain sneaking respect for him.
"Did you see tracks in the snow?" demanded Custer.
"No, I didn't see hothirg," declared

Mr. Shrimplin.

"You seen young John North?"
It was Mrs. Shrimplin who spoke.

"Well, yes, I seen young John NorthI said I seen him!"

CHAPTER VI.

Putting On the Screws.

A score of men and boys followed the undertaker's wagon to the small frame cottage that had been Archibald Mc-Bride's home for half a century, and a group of these assembled about the gate as the wagon drew up before it. Along the quiet street windows were raised and doors were opened. It was perhaps the first time, as it was to be the last, that Archibald McBride's neighbors took note.

"He degitteen months that he had been taken care of by the colonel.

"Sort of makes the game he played seem rotten poor sport," commented Gilmore, replying to the nephew, but looking at the uncle.

His keys had been found and intrusted to one of the policemen who accompanied the undertaker and his men; now, as the wagon came to a stand, this offifier sprang to the ground, and, pushing open the gate, went quickly up the path to the front door. There in the shelter of the porch he paused to light a lantern, then he tried key after key until he found the one that fitted the lock; he opened the door and entered the house, the undertaker following him. A second officer stationed himself at the door and kept back the crowd. Their preparations were soon made and the two men re-officer stationed himself at the door and kept back the crowd. Their preparations were soon made and the two men reappeared on the porch.

"It's all right," the undertaker said, and four men raised the stretcher again and carried the old merchant into the house.

At this juncture Colonel Harbison, followed by his nephew and Gilmore, made his way through the crowd before the door. Gilmore, even, gave an involuntary shudder as they entered the small hall lighted by the single lantern, while the colonel could have wished himself any where else; he had come from a sense of duty; he had known McBride as well as anyone in Mount Hope had known him, and it had seemed a lack of respect to thall lighted by the single lantern, while the colonel could have wished himself any where else; he had come from a sense of duty; he had known McBride as well as anyone in Mount Hope had known him, and it had seemed a lack of respect to

WOMEN'S ANNUAL MISSIONARY MEETING

Seventh Annual Event On Wednesday Afternoon-Reports Read.

The seventh annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society, London Presbyterial, opened its first session at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon in Knox Church, St. Thomas. Many delegates were present. Mrs. Currie presided, and opened the meeting with devotional exercise: Mrs. Horton, St. Thomas, welcomed those assembled from the different and beaten, and the devil's agents. lines, if the future work of the church is to be carried on. She also gave many helpful suggestions how to interest and retain the boys and girls. At the close of the meeting tea was served to the delegates and their hostesses. A Mission Band conference, held from 7 to 8, was addressed by Miss Platt and Miss Hodge, London. A notable point in Miss Hodge's address was the neglect of the Bible, and how so many of our boys and girls are growing up pagans in a Christian land.

Evening Session. The evening meeting was a public one, presided over by Rev. Mr. McGillivray. After devotional exercises Mrs. J. M. McEvoy presented the work of the year, clearly and impressively, with a hopeful outlook for the future. The reports from the general secretaries of the different departments of the work also auxiliaries and Mission Band, showed that there have been no retro-

NEW GOLD FIELD

London, Monday, March 10 .--A dispatch from Bombay to the Daily Chronicle says that an examination of the estate of Prince Mahommed Buktear Shah, who died recently, which covers 1,200 miles of the Dalbhum district, 150 miles from Calcutta, has led to the discovery of immense deposits of iron, gold and copper, coal and manganese. Geologist Billingshurst, of Vancouver, B. C., who investigated the matter, is quoted as saying that the mines are auriferous quartz, and will yield 130 ounces to the ton. He expresses the opinion that it will prove to be one of the world's greatest gold fields.

Finds Fine Pearl In a Raw Oyster

Some men are born lucky, while others have to work hard all the days of their lives to obtain enough of this world's goods to make them half con-tented.

Mr. W. J. Bruce, who resides on the Wharncliffe road, South London, belongs to the former class. Saturday night, feeling in a particularly generous mood towards his stomach he wandered into the Parisian Cafe and ordered a half-dozen Blue Points on the shell. While putting one in his month Mr. Bruce noticed some hard substance in it, and on investigation with a fork he pulled from it, just as did Little Jack Horner, only his was a plum, a fine pearl.

The pearl was about the size of the top of his little finger, and after leaving the restaurant Mr. Bruce hurried to a local jewelry sore, where he was told that the pearl was a good one and was offered a considerable sum of money for it.

The horse was rented to Carl Stilson. 256 Horton street, early in the after noon. He was driving north on English street, when without an instant's noon. He was driving north on Engup to its neck. He leaped from the rig and shouted for assistance. The horse was kicking madly in an en-deavor to free itself, and soon after it sank a small stream of water burst from the ground near its head.

Telephoned to Fire Hall.

Mr. Patterson heard Stilson's and hurried to the scene. One glance was sufficient to show him that it would be necessary to have ropes and planks to get the animal out, and realizing that it would be next to im-possible to get them in that vicinity, he telephoned to Chief Aitken, telling him of the accident. The chief com-municated with No, 2 hall and ordered the men there to lend any assistance they could. They hurried to the scene, as did Constable Middaugh, and after an hour's work succeeded in getting the animal, which was utterly exhausted from the effects of the cold water and its struggles, out of the hole. It was then found that the ground for a dis-tance of 25 feet along English street.

WANT LINE THROUGH NORTHEAST SECTION

A RICH, FRAGRANT People Living East of Quebec and North of Dundas Want Street Cars.

WOULD BE A BOON

Question of Such a Line Was Dis cussed When North-End Extension Was Decided Upon.

East London may secure a nev street railway line from the corner of Dundas and Quebec streets to the C. P. R. roundhouse, then west of Elias street to connect with the present Adelaide street line.

Before the route of the extension in the north end of the city was settled last year, the people living in the northeast section put up a fight for a line down Quebec street, contending that the district that the district out there was more thickly populated than the north end where the extension was built.

Officials Favored It.

The street railway officials were in favor of putting the extra trackage, due the city according to population in the northeast section of the city, but the city council decreed otherwise, and the line was run down Cheapside street from Richmond to William, thence to Oxford, and down Oxford to Adelaide across the C. P. R. tracks to connect with the Adelaide street line of the Belt Line.

The proposal is to have the car which runs from the loop at Queen's Park down Dundas street and around Ridout, run down Quebec street in-stead of running back west on Dundas An hour's hard work on the part of the firemen of No. 2 hall, Mr. Thomas Patterson and Constable W. BUILD REST ROOMS

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, March 10 .- The Imperial Oil Company will build rest rooms and restaurant in the basement of their office building for the accommodation of the employees on the office staff.

At present many of the clerks live in Port Huron or at distant parts of the town, and as a consequence must either get their meals at boarding-houses in the vicinity of the plant, or take the car uptown, or carry their dinner with them. Those who go to boarding houses or to restaurants for dinner have little time left at noon for rest, but with meals served in the building, and resting rooms adjoining, the case will be altogether different. It is said that the contracts are already let.

So quick to relieve the itching, so certain to heal the sores, it seems a waste of time to try other preparations in treating eczema and salt rheum when Dr. Chase's Ointment can be obtained.

You may know of many cures brought about by this great pintment. for it has a record unparalleled in the history of medicine. This letter is a fair example of many received. Mr. Wm. Angus, postmaster, Lo-gech, Man., writes: "My father was almost covered with salt rheum or eczema, and though he doctored and tried almost everything he could hear about, he only got worse. Someone advised Dr. Chase's Ointment, which he used, and to his surprise and relief after using three boxes, he was cured, and has never had it since. My wife was also cured of salt rheum on her hands by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after other treatments had
