59TH YEAR. NO. 23383

LONDON, ONTARIO, SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 8, 1922.

PRICE, THREE CENTS

QUESTS PALMER-RANEY TO NAME ELLIOTT

GEN. WILLIAMS TAKES OFFICER OUT OF COUNTY

Arthur Palmer Transferred to Duty in Whitby District by Provincial Chief.

CAME HERE 2 YEARS AGO

No Explanation Given by Toronto Official as to Reasons for Change.

As predicted by The London Advertiser three weeks ago, Arthur Palmer, member of the provincial police force, with supervision of the county of Middlesex, has been removed from the district.

From an authoritative and undisputed source it has been learned that Friday afternoon Major-General Williams, of Toronto, director of provincial police throughout Ontario, signed Palmer's transfer form compelling his removal to Whitby, County of Ontario, with duties effective in that district as speedily as circumstances will reasonably allow.

Officer Palmer has been engaged in his duties in this county for nearly two years, coming here from the Essex and Lambton County border, where he was particularly active, it is said, in the apprehension of rum-runners.

No official explanation is forthcoming from the Toronto authorities as to the reason for the change.

SAYS ALLIES RESPONSIBLE FOR COLLAPSE OF MARK

Sir George Paish, British Publicist, Condemns Attitude of France On Reparations.

London, July 8.—The collapse of the German mark, which is featured by the newspapers this morning, is accompanied by reports that Germany will be unable to meet her July reparations payment, due a week from today. The plight of the European exchange in general calls for some gloomy comments. The financier, Sir George Paish, who belongs to that section of publicists here who condemn France's attitude on the reparations question, has an article in the Westminster Gazette alleging that the Entente Allies, particularly France, deliberately chose a policy intended to prevent the recovery of Germany, and that the success of their policy is proving their own undoing. Sir George contends that the situation is rapidly moving toward complete destruction of the value of the German currency.

"Probably no country will suffer more than France in this disaster," he adds, "as it means that Germany probably will be unable to pay any reparations whatever."

HOLD THREE SUSPECTS AT MONTREAL FOR HOLD-UP

Montreal, July 8.—The police dragged three out to catch the authors of yesterday's daylight hold-up, in which paymasters of the Dominion Textile Company were robbed of $29,000, had today picked up three suspects. It is the belief of the police that the bandits came originally from the United States. It is thought that they crossed into Ontario, stole an automobile, came to Montreal, committed the robbery and then made for the border at once.

Freed For Raising Check To Aid Dying Wife

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—William Strickler, 19, whose wife and baby were sick, got a day's work and a check for $4 in payment. He put a zero after the four, cashed the check, and spent the $40 on his family. Strickler admitted everything today in superior court, and the public defender told how, a few days later, Strickler's wife died and how the prisoner at her grave with his 4-month-old baby in his arms, was arrested and taken to jail. Then the public defender asked probation for Strickler. "Probation!" thundered the court. "Why, the case is dismissed."

SALE OF FLEET OFFERS WORRY

Disposal of Canadian Merchant Marine To Be Problem for New Board.

Vessels Will Be Laid Up As Each Ends Voyage.

Ottawa, July 8.—(By the Canadian Press)—The disposal of the vessels of the Canadian government merchant marine fleet, recommended by the management to be tied up and sold as opportunity offered, will, it is expected, be one of the first problems to confront the new board when it takes office. The C. G. M. M. steamers are administered by the board of management of the Canadian National Railways, though they are operated as a separate corporation.

The new board of management, to administer all the government lines, will, it is expected, be named shortly. The selection of a chairman is understood to be under consideration at the present time, and the members of the board to administer the railways will likely be named as soon as the chairman is decided upon.

The C. G. M. M. fleet is managed from Montreal, and the head offices of the board are in Toronto. Under present conditions it is not thought here that any attempt will be made by the present board to find a market for the vessels which are to be sold, but rather that the incoming board will find the ships on its hands when it takes over.

The vessels which have been recommended to be disposed of have been tied up at the wharves as fast as they finished their voyages there were on when the fiscal year ended, it is learned. Some are still on the ocean, but will be tied up on arrival at their home ports.

Revises Voters' List In London

BAKER DIVIDES CITY INTO 90 SUBDIVISIONS

Warns Electors To Ascertain Polling Booths at Which to Cast Vote.

13 ADDITIONAL BOOTHS

Changes Do Not Affect Present Representation in Each Ward.

Revision of the city of London, divided according to population into 90 subdivisions instead of the usual 77, which have been in existence for years, has been completed, City Clerk S. Baker announced Saturday.

The significance of this announcement is dependent on the fact that every citizen entitled to cast a ballot on municipal and provincial elections will in future vote in a different subdivision to that which he has been accustomed.

For this reason City Clerk Baker urges ratepayers to scan the voter's list, prior to the next election, in order that they may ascertain the subdivision in which they are listed. The revision, which was instituted to comply with the provincial law, stipulating that there must be less than 300 voters in each subdivision, entails the creation of thirteen new subdivisions in London. Prior to the change there were 77 subdivisions.

TO EXTEND ROAD AT TALBOTVILLE

Provincial Government Decides To Pave Additional Three Miles of Highway.

Good news for the motorists of London and district is contained in an announcement by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.L.A., that three additional miles of roadway between Lambeth and St. Thomas is to be paved immediately.

At the present time, pavement is being laid between St. Thomas and Talbotville. It has been decided to extend this work three miles north of that village to permanently improve one of the worst stretches of road in the district.

This decision was reached by the Provincial government following an inspection by Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, and Dr. Stevenson of the road from Lambeth, where the present pavement from London ends, to Talbotville, which originally was to mark the end of the pavement north of St. Thomas, for this year at least.

The action was taken as the result of considerable agitation on the part of motorists generally for an extension of the government's paving plan in this district.

Improvements will also be made to a particularly bad stretch of roadway on the top of the hill east of Delaware on the Longwoods road. A system of under drainage is to be constructed to do away with the deep mud holes that form there following each heavy rain.

SETTLE VATICAN GUARDS' TROUBLE

London, July 8.—The trouble which caused the Vatican carabinieri to be ordered from their barracks yesterday appears to have been straightened out, according to a Rome dispatch to the Times. Two of the principal malcontents, who were supported in their refusal to go on duty by the fifty carabinieri in the Vatican, have resigned, and it is believed that one of the demands of the carabinieri for increased pay has been granted.

Brands Movies "A Powerful Influence Badly Used"

REV. AGAR VISITS CITY.

LONDON'S opportunities for combining both prevention and cure in its social service relief and investigation work, its possibilities of being foremost throughout the province in community advancement and its potential influence as a factor in gaining the utmost effectiveness in the carrying out of social service legislation were manifested in an exclusive interview afforded The London Advertiser Friday night by Rev. Gilbert Agar of Toronto, chief secretary of the Ontario Social Service Council.

"London, as a city views from the angle of social service work," Mr. Agar said, "enjoys a peculiarly splendid position. With the number of industries located here, London must realize the problems confronting the province, and yet the city is of such a size that individuality is possible in its relief work, and the giving of relief need not be separated from investigation into the causes which bring about want and privation.

The legislation brought about by the workings of the Social Service Council, the mothers' allowance act—an act of inestimable value in preserving the home life of our province—the minimum wage act, the act for the protection of unmarried mothers, all have made their influence felt in the social and industrial life of the city, and it is in the carrying out of these laws that social service work in London, permitting, as it does, individual consideration of both cause and effect, would render an untold service to the community advancement of the province."

Mr. Agar's opinion of moving pictures was expressed in one terse phrase, "A powerful influence badly used."

"One of the overwhelming desires of the Social Service Council," he said, "is to see moving pictures diverted from the channels in which they now run to become an uplifting power in the province. The influence they now exert on the minds of children cannot be estimated, and the aim of cleansing that influence of all impurity, and confining it to the highest motives and visions of life constantly before us.

"Work among underprivileged girls is another factor in our community life toward which our attention must be turned. Throughout women's clubs and throughout our churches, with always the individual touch of friendship, we must win those girls whose lives are bordered by the four walls of factories and the drab interiors of boarding houses.

"London is in a position to stand as a community behind its social service work," Mr. Agar concluded, "backing it with loyal and wholehearted support, that here the problems confronting the whole province may be wrestled with and solutions found to aid our social progress."

STEALS CLOCK IN COURT WHILE JUDGE WATCHES

Berlin Thief Is Regarded As Most Audacious Robber.

Berlin, July 8.—A thief who stole the big wall clock from the Moabit court while the tribunal was in full session, is regarded as Berlin's most audacious robber. The man walked into the courtroom with a ladder while lawyers and judges were engaged in profoundest argument.

He said he had been sent to fetch the clock, which needed repairing. When sharply reproved by the judge he humbly added that he had come six times, and had always found the court sitting.

The judge allowed the workman to proceed. In a minute he finished his work and was gone. It was not until the next day that it was discovered that no order had ever been given for the removal of the clock.

DECLARES PEACE AND WAR CANNOT BE SEPARATED

Admiral Pakenham Gives Talk At Montreal Board of Trade Luncheon.

Montreal, July 8.—Admiral Sir William Pakenham, commanding the British North Atlantic Squadron, speaking at the special luncheon in his honor given by the Montreal Board of Trade here yesterday, said peace and war could not be separated. "A continuance of peace," he said, "inevitably leads to war, just as a state of war leads towards peace."

He said the last war had taught us that the Empire could not be carried along on parched lips, and that the test in future must be for the Empire for all and all for the Empire. The whole development of naval affairs during and since the war, the admiral concluded, was to cause a new relationship between the various dominions, with the idea that no part would act for itself alone, but for itself and the Empire, with the navy as the great connecting and protecting link.

CLOSE NOTED N. Y. RESTAURANT

New York, July 8.—Reisenweber's restaurant, on the rim of the mid-night fox-trot belt, was ordered closed Friday for one year, but on conditions that no liquors be made, sold or stored on the premises. Execution of the order is suspended for six months.

The order emanated from Federal Judge Manton, who called the dining and dancing place at Columbus Circle a "common nuisance." The decision was given in an action brought by United States Attorney Hayward.

REPORTS STREET RAILWAY REMITTED FULL TAXATION

Commissioner Grant Claims Company Paid Regular Amount for Track in Annexed District.

Although there is one mile of the London Street Railway Company's tracks in the annexed district of East London which should enjoy a fixed rate of taxation of 15 mills, Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant states that the company has paid the full rate of taxation on it without demurring.

Mr. Grant mentions this fact in token of the activity of City Engineer Brazier, who is measuring up the company's tracks in London by order of the city council. This mile of track is assessed at $5,000, and would mean a financial saving to the company, if it were taxed at the fixed rate for the annexed district.

City Engineer Brazier is measuring all "straightaway" and curved tracks separately, and expects to have his report on the mileage of the London Street Railway Company completed early next week.

FEARS BLUNDER MAY COST CITY $36,000 TAXES

City Clerk Baker in Doubt as to Status of McClary and White Exemptions.

EXPECTS FIGHT IN COURT

Will Bill Firms in Question in Full This Year in Hope of Collecting.

Upon the interpretation of the law laid down by the provincial legislature on the terms of fixed exemption of the McClary Manufacturing Company and George White & Sons' buildings and properties in London, $36,000 hangs in the balance between the city and these concerns.

This fact was announced by City Clerk S. Baker today, who is in a quandary with regard to interpreting the law regarding these fixed assessments. One interpretation of the law gives these industries a fixed assessment until Jan. 1, 1922, while the other interpretation adds a year to this period.

The assessments involved are $906.95 for the McClary Manufacturing Company, and $34,400 for George White & Sons, or a total of $35,306.95, which involves taxes of approximately $36,000 at the full mill rate.

When ratepayers of London voted on this fixed exemption ten years ago, they indicated that these firms should be allowed a fixed exemption.

M'CLARY WORKERS LEAVE FOR PORT

Tin Band Plays 2,000 Employees to Lakeside Resort.

Headed by a band of golden tin with every piece different, 2,000 employees of McClary's Manufacturing Company and their families left for Port Stanley on special trains at 9:20 this morning to enjoy what promises to be one of the merriest picnics in the long history of that firm.

Announcement that the employees had left all cars locked in the factory for the day and were dealing only in joyful frivolities from then on was made to a startled Londoner creeping sleepily to work at an early hour this morning, by the breakfast band that ever paraded the business district of the city.

Tea kettles, water spouts, cuspidors, frying pans, tubs and what-nots, all carefully fashioned into wind instruments with gazooks for mouthpieces, gave forth weird sounds as fifteen members of the McClary band, in picturesque costumes, followed George Moll, bandmaster for the day, through street after street. Each and every instrument had been manufactured in McClary's establishment and sounded the part.

At the lakeside a long list of sports, novel and otherwise, was begun in the morning. Baseball games and other attractions were scheduled for the afternoon.

BIGGEST PEDDLER OF DRUGS GUILTY

Detroit, July 8.—David Oster, "the biggest dope peddler in Michigan," according to Joseph P. Dykes, United States narcotic officer, pleaded guilty in federal court Friday to a charge of having violated the narcotic law, and Judge Arthur J. Tuttle sentenced him to two years in Atlanta penitentiary on each of the two counts, the sentences to run concurrently. Oster is said to have had $4,000 worth of narcotics in his possession when arrested.

2 Princesses Seek Rich Mates By Advertising

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 8.—"Two royal princesses, sisters, aged 23 and 26, desire friendship and eventually marriage, after mutual tests, with English or Canadian gentlemen, who must be young, wealthy and handsome, specially not upstarts or newly rich," reads an advertisement in an Innsbruck newspaper.

"The princesses, who belong to the old royalty, are accomplished, but very poor. The gentlemen must give full details and references. A meeting could be arranged for August."

It may be recalled that an Austrian archduchess advertised in a similar manner about a year ago, and it is believed, found a suitable husband.

DENIES LABATT VIOLATES LAW

John M. McEvoy, K.C., Claims Act Does Not Apply to Liquor Exports.

Deputy Magistrate Bartlett Reserves Decision in Transportation Case.

One problem Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett will have to determine when he decides the case of John Labatt & Co., licensed brewers, charged with transporting liquor on a public highway contrary to subsection 1 of sub-section 3, of the carriage of liquor act, which was heard in police court Saturday morning, and in which judgment was reserved, is whether the act was intended to apply to any case of liquor being transported for export.

John M. McEvoy, K.C., counsel for the defence, contended that the act was not intended to apply to liquor for export. The Ontario Legislature would clearly have no jurisdiction to prevent the transport of liquor for export, he submitted. Liquor is a substance of trade and commerce, Mr. McEvoy pursued, and if the province can prevent the export of liquor, then it can prohibit foreign commerce in liquor. "That, I submit, they are unable to do."

The Ontario act received royal assent on June 12, its third reading being given June 7. Dominion legislation on this subject was passed on June 15, taking the form of an amendment to the Canada temperance act.

SEEK TEMPORARY SCHOOL QUARTERS IN LONDON EAST

Trustee Bice and Inspector Greer Continue Hunt For Suitable Building.

While members of the board of education voice assurance that actual work will commence on a new public school in southeast London before many days have elapsed, Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer and Trustee (Rev.) A. B. Bice, chairman of No. 2 committee, are still active in their endeavor to secure suitable temporary buildings in that district that may be equipped for use September next.

It was reported that while accommodation may be secured by use of the Sunday school room of a Hamilton Road Church, the rental of the same cannot be definitely arranged until Monday next, when the directors of the church in question meet in special session and consider the request of the school trustees and officials.

RECORD YIELD FOR NIAGARA.

Reports Inch of Rain Fell In Hour In London

THE rainfall Friday afternoon which sent many orchards and nudes frocked daisies and palm beach suited and straw-batted young men scurrying for shelter, was one of the heaviest in London for some time past. In the short space of an hour, one inch of rain fell, and in but a few moments the streets were flooded.

Coming suddenly as it did the rain caused more or less inconvenience and disgruntled dispositions in the city, but reports from the country show that the farmers were delighted with a shower, which gave much moisture and took up very little time.

REVOKES ORDER ATTORNEY MUST QUIT PRACTICE

Ex-M.L.A. for West Middlesex Likely To Win Crown Post On Monday.

DID NOT SEEK POSITION.

Members of Legislature Laud Choice as Able Successor to J. B. McKillop, K.C.

Indications point to the appointment Monday next or Tuesday morning at the latest, of J. C. Elliott, ex-M.L.A. for West Middlesex, as crown attorney jointly for the city of London and the county of Middlesex, to succeed the late J. B. McKillop, K.C., who capably held that position for many years.

Three days ago The Advertiser was informed Saturday morning by those closely associated with the Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general for Ontario, the latter announced that his mind was made up and "he would recommend 'Jack' Elliott for the vacancy."

Whether the latter is seeking the position or whether he would accept the same is not definitely known to The Advertiser, but Saturday morning the attorney-general stated decisively that no longer was it considered necessary, at this time at least, for the new crown attorney to relinquish his private practice.

J. C. Elliott Favored. During the past two weeks it has been freely admitted by district members of the Legislative Assembly that J. C. Elliott could have the position should he so desire, and the only hitch in the appointment seemed to be, the supposed ruling that an appointee would be compelled to abandon his private practice.

It was frankly acknowledged by the members that considerable delay has resulted, in the consideration of the question, occasioned by this fact. It would appear now from the statement by Mr. Raney that, temporarily at least, the Toronto authorities are content to adhere to the present system.

To Be Named Monday.

Supporting the announcement in the Friday edition of The London Advertiser, the attorney-general stated that formal announcement would be forthcoming early in the week, and more than likely Monday.

Returning Friday afternoon from his home constituency of Wellington East, Mr. Raney held a conference with members of parliament from Middlesex ridings.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FOREST FIRES GIVEN NEW IMPETUS

Lang Bay Wiped Out, Leaving Six Families Homeless and Destitute.

Vancouver, B. C., July 8.—Forest fires on the northern half of Vancouver Island gained new impetus last night, when the Comox fire joined one from Menzies Bay, and swept forward to wreak destruction on timber areas hitherto untouched. Weather forecasts are for continued dry weather, and fire fighting has become almost a hopeless task. Loggers have exchanged their normal tasks for fire fighting.

The absence of railways and roads hampers the work in the lumbering areas. Logging railways are burned out in several places.

Late arrivals from Lang Bay, which was practically wiped out Thursday night, say six families there are homeless and destitute, and all other residents of the summer resort have been compelled to leave. Only two houses out of a dozen are left standing.

Sing a song of ragweed
Groaning in the fall;
Sing a song of noses,
Blowing one and all;
When the season opens,
Loud the sneezes ring;
Isn't this hay fever
For every little thing?

ARE you a member of the Pollinosis Club?

If you are, you needn't blow about it.

That is, you won't have to any more, if you take the new serum treatment and it "works."

Of course, you all know what pollinosis is. At least, your nose knows. Pollinosis is the technically formal and proper name for your little old hay fever.

Just the mere mention of a sunflower waving in the breezes used to be sufficient to set all the poor life members of the Pollinosis Club chrousing out the club slogan, "Kerchoo, kerchoo!"

Now, thanks to science and serum (again, if it "works"), their orbs and nasal appendages are as dry as Ontario is supposed to be.

You see, the seat of the whole hay fever trouble is right in the mucous membrane of the little old sniffer. Now, a normal mucous membrane will digest and take care of all the loose floral and grass pollen in the atmosphere.

An abnormal mucous membrane, on the contrary, cannot digest the pollen, so the waste matter remains, sets up a lively irritation, and that's pollinosis!

In the old days, the hay fever sufferer had to sniff, sneeze and blow it or follow his nose on the run, of course, to some distant clime far, far from pernicious pollens.

Now, if he begins six weeks before the date of his annual attack, and has a successful inoculation, every few days, of serum made from the pollen or pollens that affect him, he can just naturally camp out in a field of timothy and look a whole flock of goldenrod in the face.

Beware of August. The most virulent, persistent and pesky form of hay fever arrives promptly in the nose August 15, and just won't leave till it gets a good frost. Sunflowers, goldenrod, the late grasses and ragweed, all do their worst for it.

The main thing in the serum cure is to determine just what your particular brand of pollen is. A scratch on the hide and an application of every variety until you react should settle that question. A little more of the same, hypodermically ("The needle, Watson") is what you get, then and thereafter, every few days for six weeks.

TROOPS STAND READY TO MEET RAIL DISORDERS

First Week of Shopmen's Strike Ends With Sporadic Outbreaks of Violence Reported.

BLAMES LABOR BOARD

Head of Railroad Workers Declares Operators and U. S. Government Body Responsible.

CHICAGO, July 7.—The first week of the strike of shopmen ended tonight with sporadic outbreaks of violence reported in widely scattered sections of the country, troops being held in readiness to quell trouble in other states, and union officials, railroad executives and the United States Railway Labor Board standing firm in the position each assumed when the walkout started, July 1.

The attitude of the federated shop crafts was indicated tonight when B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement disclaiming any further responsibility for continuation of the strike, and holding the railroads and the labor board to blame for the length of time the walkout lasted.

"Those who complain because the railroad shop strike has not been settled should understand that the men have been forced to ask much against their will," his statement said.

"The strike has now been in progress one week. Notwithstanding the fact that we have by every means available to us made it known that a conference was desired with any responsible person authorized to settle the strike, or that any proposal by any person properly authorized would be carefully considered, no move has been made by other parties to bring about a settlement.

"The striking employees are not to be driven back. They are asking only justice, and will not willingly submit to less."

Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the labor board issued an individual statement, in which he asserted that the only feasible way for the shop crafts union to end the strike was to follow in the footsteps of the maintenance of way men's organization, whose officers this week applied before the board and agreed to postpone their strike pending further negotiations.

INTERVIEW MINISTER.

OTTAWA, July 7.—By Canadian Press.—The dispute over the reduction of shopmen's wages on the United States railways is spreading to the Canadian roads. A deputation representing division No. 4, railway employees, which is the Canadian section of the International Shopmen's Union, waited today on the minister of labor.

They reported that the Canadian railways were proposing to bring into effect in Canada the reduction in wages among the shop trades on the American railways, where a cut totalling about $50,000,000 has been ordered. The date on which the wage cut is to become effective on Canadian roads, it is stated, is July 16. It is understood that the shop employees of the Canadian railways are considering the making of an application for a board of inquiry under the industrial disputes investigation act.

FEAR WOMAN MAY DIE FROM FALL

WINDSOR, July 7.—A severe fracture to the skull sustained Thursday night by Mrs. Louis Ellis, aged 50, 415 Caron avenue, when she fell from the porch at her home to the cement sidewalk, may cause her death, authorities at Grace Hospital stated. Mrs. Ellis was trailing vines at the front of her residence when she fell. The back of her head struck the pavement and was split open several inches.

Mrs. Ellis is the widow of a former well-known newspaperman of Windsor and Detroit.

Robs Tiny Crippled Boy at Play, Then Whines for Mercy in Court

Special to London Advertiser.
CHATHAM, July 7.—While Sumner Leckie, a little crippled boy, was enjoying himself riding in his express cart, Michael Flaherty turned his laughter into tears, by threatening him, and stealing the ball bearings from the wagon.

However, an officer listened to the boy as he sobbed out his tale of woe, and promptly arrested Flaherty.

When fined $5 and costs in police court Flaherty whined: "The poor man gets soaked every time." This remark cost him an extra $5.

The prisoner also claimed the hearings did not belong to Leckie. Acting Chief Dezelia termed Flaherty's conduct "the most callous in my 33 years police experience."

DUBLIN QUIET AS IRREGULARS FLEE TO HILLS

Tragic Death of Cathal Brugha, Insurgent Leader, Is Discussed by Supporters of All Factions.

SAYS BORLAND BESIEGED

National Troops Drive 500 Rebels Into Town of Blessington After Successful Encircling Movement.

DUBLIN, July 7.—The activities of the Free State forces in the province, as indicated by the latest official reports, are meeting with complete success, large numbers of irregulars continuing to be captured.

In various parts of the provinces the irregulars, alarmed by the advance of the national forces, have abandoned and burned their fortified positions and fled into the country.

The encircling movement in the hills south of Dublin is rapidly approaching, virtually whole roving bands of irregulars being driven into Blessington, where they are practically invested, with the national troops holding part of the town. The total number of irregulars in Blessington is placed at more than 500.

There are persistent rumors that Eamon de Valera and Erskine Childers have been seen in this district, but these have not been verified. In Dublin itself life is rapidly becoming normal. The railways are resuming service, though damage to the line prevents direct railroad communication with Cork. The tragic end of Cathal Brugha (Charles Burgess) the first irregular leader to fall in the present fighting, was the first most topic of the day. It was recalled how, when fighting the British forces, he received no less than fourteen wounds, and for a month hovered between life and death, eventually to become minister of defense in the first Irish government, though later he espoused the Republican cause.

Harry Boland is believed to be among those besieged at Blessington. His brother, J. Boland, was captured today after a brisk fight at a farmhouse two miles north of Blessington, where the rebels fled. Boland, with a number of others, drove up to the farmhouse later, supposing it to be still in the hands of the irregulars, and the whole party was captured with a quantity of arms. Brig. Gen. Macdonnell, commanding the irregulars, also was captured.

CLASH IS EXPECTED.
BELFAST, July 7.—An enveloping movement by Free State troops has begun in North Donegal, and a clash of the rival forces seemed imminent today.

Reports from the Republican stronghold at Glenveigh Castle and Inch Fort indicated that the occupants are preparing for desperate stands. Large parties of Republicans are operating in the Bridge End district of Donegal, with the object of harassing the advance of the national army toward Inch Fort. The defenders of Inch have motorboats in service in which some of them have appeared off Rathfriland on the shores of Lough Swilly, firing on the Nationals, but the reply of the latter caused the Republicans to withdraw.

A force of 100 Republicans raided the Swilly Railroad yesterday at Churchill and seized provisions which they removed to Greagh.

P. Dawson, who was attempting to liberate his brother-guard.

After a battle which lasted for upwards of fifteen minutes the two men were overpowered and taken to the cells, where they are now chained and padlocked.

TO DROP SITE ON DAKIN STREET

Trustees to Consider Better
Location for London East School.

Chairman Disapproves of Taking Issue to Vote of People.

At the next scheduled session of the board of education, Thursday, July 20, the curtain rings down on the Dakin street site as a public school location.

Definite assurance was given on Saturday morning from an undisputed source that a notice of motion eliminating the site in question for present consideration, and the introduction of what is considered a more suitable location, will be followed by the approval of the majority of the members of the board.

Offer No Opposition.
Furthermore, it is stated upon good authority that Mayor Cameron Wilson and his associates on the city council, who have opposed unreservedly the construction of a school at Dakin and Price streets, will offer no opposition to the property now under contemplation, and for which, as was announced on Friday, a satisfactory option has now been secured.

Within the next two weeks members of the board of education, who have for a month past been quietly but efficiently working toward a solution of this problem, confidently state the now famed Dakin street controversy will be another closed chapter in local board of education history.

The new property, the location of which is being discreetly withheld from the public for a few days, will, they say, be in the center of their immediate need, while not in the actual center of the district as the old site, the Chesley avenue and Ealing public school area.

Questioned on Saturday relative to the suggestion emanating from certain other trustees that "all further action on the city council be abandoned and the issue taken to the people for a decision at the next city election," the trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board, placed himself on record as being against such methods.

Favor Such Action.
"Although I know that there are members of the board who favor such action," the chairman replied, "I still think that it is the wrong attitude to adopt. My conclusion is that there are only two courses open, namely, change the site or change the council. As we cannot hope to change the councilors until the next election, we could change the site."

"Personally I am in favor of getting together on this question, and if there is any hope of a change of council, I think that it is the wrong attitude to adopt. My conclusion is that there are only two courses open, namely, change the site or change the council. As we cannot hope to change the councilors until the next election, we could change the site."

HEAVY RAIN FAILS TO STOP PICNIC

Church of Christ Holds Annual Outing at Springbank Park.

The heaviest rain of the season failed to break up one of the happiest picnics of the year at Springbank Park Friday afternoon, when the Church of Christ (Disciples) held its annual outing.

Even when Jupiter Pluvius called up his total reserve forces and poured them at once to flood the spacious park he failed to dampen the merry spirits of the young picnicers, who braved the rain, which drove in battered mists through every sheltered place, to have their fill of sandwiches, pies and cakes and ice cream, and all other things that go to top a perfect picnic.

The day was started under smiling skies with a refreshing breeze adding zest to the games and races. A long list of events were successfully run before the storm came on, and baseball was enjoyed to a certain extent, although the big game scheduled for after lunch, was postponed because of wet grounds.

The numbers contested closely by a large number of entries. The following were the winners:

Primary class—Jack Bank, Eleanor Churchill.
Girls, 7 to 9—Ona Wood, Lois Russell.

Boys, 7 to 9—George Miller, Jack Russell.
Girls, 10 to 12—Marion Churchill.

MISSING LONDONER WRITES FROM ZILDA, N. ONTARIO

Charles Smith Communicates Whereabouts to Anxious Wife in City.

Charles Smith, who disappeared one week ago last Monday from his home, 458 Grey street, leaving his wife and three children without telling them where he was going, has written to his wife from Zilda, N. Ontario, that he is in that place.

In the letter, Smith states that he was suffering from melancholia at the time of his departure, but further than that gives no reason for his sudden departure, and the twelve days absence.

One year ago Smith disappeared for about the same period in a like manner. He is a veteran of the war, and it is believed that he suffers from asphasia, brought on by his experiences overseas.

His wife states that he is a steady worker, and a retiring man, with no other peculiarities than the one for sudden disappearances for a week or so. Smith served in the 70th battalion, Canadian Infantry, when in the army.

PLACE DOMESTICS IN LONDON HOMES

Salvation Army Brings Over Hundred Girls Here in Six Months.

Milford House, the Salvation Army domestic lodge, located at King and Ontario streets, has more than justified its existence in the city.

A London business man approached Adjutant Martin Friday night and asked him in what manner he could pay his debt to the Army.

"We owe you something," he declared. "From your domestic lodge we secured a parlormaid, who is unexcelled, and just recently we acquired what is ever more rare, a priceless cook."

Prior to the establishment of the home, the Salvation Army gave its word to the Chamber of Commerce and other institutions which were contributing something toward its support, that during the year fifty girls would be brought out from England for domestic service.

Although barely half the year has elapsed more than a hundred girls have been brought out from England already through the instrumentality of Salvationists and placed in good positions in London and the district surrounding. They are required to have a certain amount of money, but the Salvation Army advances them a portion of their passage money, and the girls are under their care from the time they leave England until their establishment in the new homes in this country.

Citizens who have benefited claimed that in a time when accomplished domestic servants are a rarity, the Salvation Army, in addition to their main object, that of giving the girls a greater opportunity for advancement, has done an untold service to the community.

RECEIVE PERMIT TO USE SCHOOL

London Board of Education to Convert Victoria Building.

Permission to use the old Victoria school building as temporary quarters for a South London high school has at last been obtained from the department of education as the result of an interview by a deputation from No. 3 committee of the board of education of this city with Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education.

A. E. Silverwood, chairman of the committee, who headed the deputation, stated this morning that a start will be made immediately to get the building in shape for classes in September. Several details which remain to be cleared up will be dealt with at a meeting of the committee next week.

Although a request for permission to use Victoria school temporarily was made to the department several weeks ago, it was withheld until the deputation called upon the department, giving it further information, and explaining that the city council and many citizens had expressed themselves as against further school building this year.

The deputation had little trouble in securing the consent of the department when the situation was fully explained. The department was never really opposed to a temporary provision, but it wished to make sure that permanent quarters would be provided in the near future.

It is not expected that there will be any delay in carrying out the plans of the board, as all preparatory work, including the building into condition has been made, even to the appointment of a teaching staff.

The other members of the deputation were Trustee Bryden Campbell and E. A. Miller, principal of the proposed South London high school.

In London, but the new city map now shows ninety.

Thirteen New Booths.
The changes do not provide any greater representation on municipal elections to each ward, nor more members in the legislature representing London, but they do provide for thirteen additional polling booths, deputy returning officers, and increased expenses for each election.

The changes were commenced in 1921, but owing to the formidable task necessitated by complete revision of the voters list and subdivisions, have not been completed until recently, and they will be in operation for the first time in the municipal elections next December.

In every case the ward boundaries of the city are the same as of old, but each contains more subdivisions. The changes were framed by City Clerk Baker, and put into effect by his department co-operating with the city assessment staff, under Stephen Grant.

An interesting feature of the new subdivisions is the fact that they are not equal in area. This feature is demonstrated by comparison of the downtown district with the subdivisions situated on the city limits. One block in the heart of the business section constitutes a subdivision because in it are located more than 200 voters, while subdivision 50, situated on the north east boundary of the city, covers a wide area owing to the sparsely populated area of this section.

Mean Extra Work.
The changes will mean extra work in counting ballots at future elections, as there will be thirteen more polling booths to hear from. This fact will also delay the final report of elections by several minutes.

There will be thirteen new subdivisions at the next elections," said the city clerk, "and every voter is urged to scan the list to see in which subdivision he votes. These subdivisions which have been in our ward for years, and which the ratepayers have been accustomed to vote in, may be in another ward altogether."

"We started to make the change in 1921, allotting less than three hundred voters to a subdivision, and have just completed this work. We are preparing our final voters' list from the assessment rolls. There really should not be more than 200 voters to a subdivision, as that is all that a deputy returning officer can handle satisfactorily at an election."

WINDSOR HOTEL INQUIRY OPENED

WINDSOR, July 7.—The committee appointed by the Legislative Assembly to investigate hotel and tourist accommodation arrived in Windsor last night and is scheduled to confer with local hotelmen in the Prince Edward Hotel this afternoon.

At noon the commissioners were entertained at a luncheon by the Windsor Hotel Merchants' Association. The party leaves for Sarnia tomorrow morning.

TO CUT WAGES OF BRITISH PRINTERS

LONDON, July 7.—(By Canadian Press Cable).—The industrial court has decided that wages of members of the typographical association, representing newspaper and job printers in the provinces shall be subjected to a reduction of 12 shillings and 6 pence. The reduction will be made in four installments, extending from July 11 to January, 1923. This action was taken on the ground that costs would have to be reduced to encourage orders for printing.

FEARS BLUNDER MAY COST CITY $36,000

from taxes for fifteen years. However, when the bill ratifying this vote of the people was presented to the Ontario Legislature the members cut it down to ten years.

Stipulated Ten Years.
The law, as laid down by the legislature, stipulated that these concerns should have a fixed exemption in taxation from January 1, 1913, which would mean that the exemption expires January 1, 1923. However, the city clerk points out, that the fixed assessment was made for these two concerns in 1912 for 1913 taxes, or one year earlier than that stipulated by the legislature.

As the law stipulates that the fixed assessment date, from January 1, 1913, City Clerk Baker admits that, which would mean that the exemption expires January 1, 1923. However, the city clerk points out, that the fixed assessment was made for these two concerns in 1912 for 1913 taxes, or one year earlier than that stipulated by the legislature.

The city clerk points out that the same condition of affairs was passed unnoticed when the D. S. Perrin fixed assessment expired last year, and owing to the oversight this company enjoyed an extra year of tax exemption.

He intends to notify the McClary Manufacturing Company and George White & Sons that their ten years of fixed exemption expired January 1, 1922, but fears that they will take the matter to court for a decision, ruling that they have another year of exemption coming owing to the wording of the law.

May Appeal to Courts.
"The trouble will be if these people are assessed in full this year, they may appeal for an interpretation of the law," said the city clerk. "The city solicitor will have to decide if I am notifying them that their tax exemption expired last January. If they follow the actual interpretation of the law, these firms will obtain an extra year of fixed exemption, owing to the blunder, which put the exemption into force in 1912, instead of 1913."

"The assessment department assesses these firms in full each year, and I know of the fixed exemption. I don't know what to do this year, as I am puzzled."

"I am going to save the city this big sum of money if I can," concluded City Clerk Baker, "by billing these firms in full for their assessment this year. They may appeal it to the courts, as D. S. Perrin enjoyed an extra year of fixed exemption, thereby creating a precedent. If the courts rule in their favor they will obtain an extra year of fixed assessment and the city will be out about $36,000."

Grant Explains.
Regarding Ald. John Ashton's charge that charges of the city are being assessed at a much lower rate than their actual value, Assessment Commissioner Grant explained on Saturday morning that this course was followed some years ago in order to induce the garbage collection tax, which is charged to churches on the local improvement plan.

He points out that these edifices are not taxed excepting for local improvements, and therefore the city does not lose financially in such cases. The court of revision set the assessment of the churches in London some years ago, because collected garbage taxes was regarded as a hardship on them, and was made as low as possible.

Several years ago ratepayers of London voted to have all exempted property in the city assessed, but the will of the electors was never carried out. This bylaw was never sent to the legislature at Toronto for final ratification, and therefore exempted assessment is still in force here.

AUSTRIA WANTS ASSETS RELEASED

PARIS, July 7.—Austria has sent the negotiations in London a note asking the immediate release of her revenues, such as customs, state monopolies and other assets, including mines and forests, it was announced this afternoon.

She desires the use of these assets, she explained, as collateral for a foreign loan.

RISE ON FREIGHT LEADS TO COURT

PARIS, July 7.—Summons have been issued to four Brantford youths to appear in the Paris police court on Saturday morning. The boys made their way to Paris via the "freight route" and it is alleged, broke some glass in a greenhouse on the outskirts of the town.

COUNCILLOR AT ST. MARY'S TENDERS RESIGNATION

ST. MARYS, July 7.—Councillor David McCullough, at a special meeting of the town council, tendered his resignation as councillor following charges laid against him by Miss Aphra Dixon, a neighbor. Miss Dixon charged that Mr. McCullough was employing labor on his premises at the expense of the town. After some discussion the resignation was accepted, and an investigation, which was intended to be held, was withdrawn.

Real Estate Problem.

REAL ESTATE dealers from several cities in Western Ontario have discussed, in recent issues of THE ADVERTISER, the best way to handle the housing situation. In every case they claim that housing commissions cannot handle the work with the same success as realtors. The average citizen might give as his answer to this claim that it is only natural that a realtor, being in the business, and interested in keeping it as much in the hands of realtors as possible, would try to discourage any other organization from coming in, with a loss of revenue and prestige to those already in the field.

It stands to reason, though, that established real estate men should know more about houses than any other body of men. Properly conducted, the real estate business is a highly-organized affair. There are few houses in any locality that are not known to these men. They know what many of them have been sold for in previous transfers; they can advise a prospective purchaser if he is buying at a price that is reasonable; they can arrange purchases based on known cash payments and installments that have succeeded in the past. They can do much to protect the person disposing of a property, by knowing fairly well the ability of the prospective purchaser to carry out his agreement.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that it is better for a person who wants to own a house to at least have his lot paid for before he approaches a builder, as in that way he has not such a heavy load to carry afterward in the making of deferred payments. The fact that all the realtors expressing opinions make this same point seems to give it additional weight. Given this as a start, there are certain workable rules, proved by experience to be correct, that can be applied to working out the payments. There is no good reason to doubt that this system is safe and fair to all parties concerned, particularly as it has the sanction of men who have given their whole life to carrying on this class of work.

It is rather significant, too, that in every case the point is stressed that the proper idea is "Own Your Own Home." There is a nice little business to be done in some centers by looking after properties, collecting rents, etc., but in spite of this the advice is that ownership is the proper basis for permanent settlement of the housing problem, and the fact is so well established that there is no room for argument on the premises.

The idea of companies building houses for their employees is not regarded with a great deal of favor. Most firms have all they can do, especially in their incipient stages, to finance their own business. Men do not feel the same independence when living in a "company house," and there is no incentive to go ahead and make improvements to the property.

Another point made in several of the answers received to THE ADVERTISER query is that there should be steps taken to see to it that money is available from a loan company, or some other source, where funds can be secured at reasonable rates for the purpose of building homes. Some suggest that it should be made obligatory for loan companies to have a certain portion of their funds set aside for this purpose—just how this plan would be worked out we do not know, but the fact remains that there is a demand for funds of this nature, and the house-owning idea could be fostered, encouraged and developed were money available at reasonable rates, with the sole idea of the undertaking being to encourage those who were making an honest effort to own their own homes.

The idea of ownership is on the upgrade in this country, and the best way to encourage it is to try to create such conditions as will make as many successes and as few failures as possible.

Daniel.

IN A PREVIOUS article on the Sunday School lessons of this quarter, the remark was made that it would be highly advisable for the teacher to read ahead and take in the whole context of the lessons. This is especially true this week, for it is impossible to take such a lesson as Daniel interpreting Nebuchadnezzar's dream, and teach it intelligently, apart from the rest of the Book of Daniel. This book is highly prophetic—world events covering years past and years yet to come are no doubt set forth in the inspired interpretation of the king's dream.

Daniel is an Old Testament character, who can stand a present-day setting. Carried off into captivity with his people, he was chosen when about 15 years of age, to be trained in the schools and courts of the Chaldeans. He was clever, quick and capable, and the king soon saw that he was capable of responsibility. His promotion was notable, and yet promotion did not spoil Daniel. He could stand prosperity, for through it all he kept an eye single and open to the fact that he was a servant of Jehovah, rather than a subject of Nebuchadnezzar. Daniel was quick to make decisions—he was not a quibbler. He was not even ready to compromise. He was willing to go the limit for his God.

The result was that when a crisis arrived Daniel was called in. Ever notice how the thing works out today? When a man goes up against a stone wall, when he feels he simply has to unburden his soul—when he wants to get in touch with some human agency—then he seeks out his Daniel. He wants to talk to a strong man who has a grip on the great eternal things, and it's worth while to have lived to be a Daniel to the man in need.

Don't let these great Old Testament stories slide simply as a matter of sacred history. Set them up in 1922. We need men of such strength, such singleness of purpose and consecration of manly effort.

Greater Than the Law.

SURPRISE IS caused by reading the evidence of some English court cases, where people of some standing have been summoned to appear for infractions of the motor laws.

LORD CRICK, according to records, was stopped on two successive nights by a policeman for speeding his car, and in court the officer testified that the distinguished offender had said to him:

"You are wrong. I ought to know. I helped to make the act. I am Viscount Crick, M.P. It is a pity they don't find you something more useful to do."

In another speeding case in the London courts CONSTABLE MILES stopped a car, and LORD MARSHALL, who was in it, said:

"You must want a job. I will report you to CAPT. SEXT. I am the magistrate here."

It is interesting to know that in spite of all this loose talk, the offenders were asked to appear in court and fined 20 shillings and costs.

The Toronto Star, commenting on the attitude of these men of prominence, contrasts it with the traditions and love of each country in regard to the great men it has known.

"One likes to read," says the Star, "of how HARMON AL RASCHIN went around unknown among his people, how KING RICHARD hiding his identity took knocks as good as he gave and took them in good part, how NAPOLEON stood guard in the freezing dawn and shamed the sleeping sentry, instead of ordering out the guard and having the man shot out of hand."

Do these fine things happen, or are they only the children of tradition, so far removed that there is no chance at all of any person bringing in new evidence to shatter the belief?

It is nice to have tradition, but nicer still to find that the big men of today are living up to the marks set by those who gave us the makings of our past traditions.

LITTLE 'TISERS

This is the season of ups and downs—sugar up and fruit going down.

A thrifty man is he who calls his woodshed a garage and rents it to his neighbor for $6 a month.

Now, if there's any Ottawa correspondent a foot high who hasn't had his fling at making new party alignments, will he hustle along and do it so we can get on with the hay crop.

My, what a mouthful! The Strathroy Age refers to people who live in that snug little town as "Strathrothians." That's what the changing political scene has done, because around election times they used to be referred to as "Rossites," which is shorter and much easier to say.

And while they've had a disarmament conference at Washington, another get-together at Genoa, and a pow-wow in the office at The Hague, a new shell is perfected in Britain that will pierce any armor made, and U. S. hastens to place orders for many of them. Will someone please tell us which way we are headed?

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review is puzzled over Miss MacPHAIL, a Progressive at Ottawa, handing back part of her indemnity, while at the same time Progressives at Toronto voted to increase their indemnity. By way of explanation, it must be remembered that these two parties were not starting from the same given financial point.

The Forest Free Press, in a recent issue, calls attention to the records once made by STEWART HAPPER and the late J. D. McCALL, both of Parkhill, in wood cutting, a form of contest now almost obsolete, but a generation ago quite popular. The late J. D. McCALL was a powerful man, and excelled in many lines of athletics, such as throwing the "56." In fact, Williams, east and west, seemed to have the ability to produce many men of fine strapping appearance, who were able to work and excel in sports at the same time.

Thamesville furnishes a good one this week. A swarm of bees made a home in the walls of a dentist's office, finally kicking their way through to such an extent that they were wandering around the office, looking over the work that was being done. The dentist didn't mind being chummy with the bees, but his trade had worries enough of their own, so a mason was called in and told to proceed. Result—the bees are handed over to a local apiarist, and the doctor has 25 pounds of honey.

"The Grouch," writing in the Warton Canadian Echo, complains of being asked to go to Walkerton as a witness at $150 per day, while his hotel bill alone was $3.25 per. He adds: "The allowances for traveling expenses did not meet the bill in that respect, so without going into details, I was considerably out of pocket. One expects that when he is on a holiday, but when he leaves his work or business, which he would not do for $5 or $10 per day, and does not get enough to cover the bare expenses, it is enough to ask if this is Canada or Russia."

LIFE

By John Urquhart.

LIFE may be represented as a great ocean filled with hidden rocks and treacherous undercurrents. Over this all humans must pass or perish in the attempt. Before a captain leaves a harbor he always has another port in view that he wishes to reach. Then when he sets out he repeatedly consults his chart and his compass in order that he may reach his destined port by the shortest route, and so that he may avoid the sweeping currents and hidden rocks.

Imagine a captain setting out from a harbor with no particular port in view and without his chart and compass. Simply content to drift about on the wide, wide ocean, tossed hither and thither by the winds and the waves. That captain's end will be ruin. Either the swift undercurrents will engulf him or he will be dashed upon the rocks—a total wreck.

We, too, are captains on the ocean of life, navigating our own frail bark. It is necessary therefore for the human to have a port in view that he wishes to reach. There should be only one—Heaven.

Let the captain repeatedly consult his chart and compass as he sails over the ocean so the human should repeatedly consult his chart—the Bible—and his compass—God—in order that he may steer straight and avoid the rushing undercurrents of vice and sin; and in order that he may keep off the rocks of destruction. There is only one end for the human that fails to consult his chart and compass. That end is ruin—utter ruin.

TO THE EDITOR

A POINT IN THEOLOGY.

Editor Advertiser:—Among the many interesting comments which we read upon religious subjects, there is one point in theology which I have never heard referred to by the clergy or others, that is, either the promise of the Third Person, without whom the Trinity is incomplete, the law unfulfilled. There is no plainer promise in all the Scripture than this which the Saviour gave when he went away, and yet it has been utterly ignored. John xiv., 16, 26; John xv., 26; John xvi., 7, 13.

Surely this promise can be depended upon along with all other promises of Scripture, and since the Third Person was the one to reveal the truth which would make the world free, advanced students believe that this person has already come, but, according to prophecy has been "reviled, persecuted and imprisoned," because those to whom the truth was offered "loved darkness rather than light." Hence the condemnation, or judgment, through which the world is passing, being but the protest of those who need the light.

It is further said that since it has been claimed that through a woman paradise was lost, it has been the plan of the Creator that through a woman it must be eventually restored, and this promise of the "last best gift" would seem to be confirmed by the "sign in the heavens" some time ago, which was seen by some of our most intelligent citizens, and described as the apparition of a woman. Only when the truth is revealed which proves the relation of the law of the Creator to the life of His creatures can the world be free, and since this part was given the Comforter, only when the truth is made known can the author and finisher come and confirm the word. The cause of the world's unrest is that there is one left out, and that is the one upon whom all depends. WITNESSES.

POETRY

CANADA, MY NATIVE LAND.

Fair Canada, my native land,
Discord ne'er shall sever,
Blest be the ties that bind us,
To the Maple Leaf forever,
In spring behold the tiny gem
Its tender tints unfold,
Till kissed by summer skies it glows
In autumn's red and gold.

—Chorus.

Fair Canada, my native land,
I love to sing of thee,
Land of my birth, I prize thee most,
Sweet land of liberty.

What pleasant memories cluster—
Shall they ever be forgot?
Around the happy days of childhood
And the old familiar cot,
Where first I saw the grandeur of My own dear native sod,
And learned to honor freedom,
My country and my God!

Star of the North, in beauty shine,
And speak true words to me,
And tell me of the glories
Of a nation yet to be,
Whose flag floats proudly, grandly,
And loved from sea to sea,
Whose valiant sons unite to stand
For home and liberty.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

HERE WE HAVE ITEMS OF LOCAL AND DISTRICT INTEREST AS RECORDED IN THE ADVERTISER OF 1897.

July 8, 1897.

At the residence of the bride's mother, James street, Miss Sadie Greenwood, one of Wallaceburg's fair ones, was united in marriage to Harry Morgan. The happy couple left on a month's tour to points in the United States.

W. Van Buskirk, son of Dr. Van Buskirk, has been appointed city engineer of Stratford at a salary of $1,000 a year.

Several scorchers were before Magistrate Parke for breach of the by-law. The statements of the policemen and victims were vastly different, and it puzzled the magistrate not a little. Mr. McKillop gave it as his opinion that no complaint should be made against a person riding seven or eight miles per hour, as that was only a very ordinary speed. But he was opposed to scorching, and thought transgressors should be made examples of.

The number of dogs in the city has been decreased a score or more in the past couple of days owing to mad dog scares. Residents in various parts of the city have been obliged to kill their pets.

The Seventh Veterans' Association met last night in the city hall to further plans for a picnic on the banks of the Thames, near Wonderland, on July 26, commemorating the return of the battalion from the Northwest. Twenty-five or thirty veterans were present, and were quite enthusiastic over the idea. Mr. J. K. H. Pope was chairman, and Mr. A. G. Chisholm secretary.

The picnic will take the form of "A day in camp at Clark's Crossing," and rations will be served a la Bill Wanless and Stanley Pettit.

sent 'em to the folks at home. And in his bag he stuck his shirts, those silken shirts he thought would kill, and with a lump inside his throat he waddled down to pay his bill.

Yet as he rode the day coach back and ate a sandwich on the way, he reckoned that there was some truth about each dog that had his day.

Ah, yes, us folks that have our fling and register our little wreck—we learn with dollar bills and cents to not wade in beyond our neck.—Noah.

TODAY'S word is INTROSPECTION.

It is pronounced in-tro-spek-shun, with accent on the third syllable and the "e" short.

It means—inspection of one's own thoughts and feelings, and comes from the Latin introspecere, to look into (intro, within—and specere, to look).

It's used like this—"Anything that takes people's minds off their problems and stops morbid introspection is a stimulant and a tonic."

NO. 261—SELLING THE "SCHOOL-BOY WRITER"

This term, "schoolboy writer," is used in the figurative, not the literal sense. By it you mean the sort of person whose handwriting is rather conventional.

It's not the copper-plate hand of the school copy book. It lacks the beautiful curves of the latter, and it also lacks flourishes and curlicues. It might be best described as an artistic hand, based upon the copper-plate style.

Suppose you have had a letter in such a hand from a man to whom it is your desire to sell something, and you want to figure out, in a preliminary way at least, just what sort of a fellow he is, that you will know just how to approach him, how to make the best sales appeal to him. Is he secretive? Is he "canny"? Is he broad-minded or narrow-minded?

Nor does the body sleep in that condition which we call sleep. It keeps working incessantly. Its activity is merely reduced to a lower level. The heart beats slower, the blood pressure decreases, breathing is slower and irregular, the muscles are relaxed, the blood supply to the brain is diminished. But still the body is working.

A common misconception is that during waking hours we tear down

Had you best tell him everything? Should you be frank and direct or diplomatic and circuitous in bringing up your subject?

Here is your answer. He is not secretive. He hates deceit. He is honest and straightforward. He is, above all, conscientious, and more likely than not he is broad-minded. He may not be brilliant, but he is very direct and sincere. You'll make a mistake if you use indirect methods with him. He is one of those plain, reasonable, well-balanced individuals, with whom you had better go straight to the point in the most natural way you know how.

"Perhaps not," said Eric, "but thirty might, well spread out."

PIERRE AND LUCE. By Romain Rolland. Henry Holt & Co., Publishers, New York.

MEMORIES of that tragic Good Friday of 1918, when the German long-range guns succeeded in sending a shell smashing into the Church of St. Gervais, killing many worshippers, are revived by Romain Rolland's translated story, "Pierre and Luce."

It is the simplest, most delicate of stories, this idyl of Pierre Aubier, who was only about 18 years old, "delicate in character, tender of heart and frail as to body," and pretty, brave, fiery-tempered Luce, who accepted life as it is and was careless of the morrow, asking only that she might have "just a little bit of happiness" and feeling even that demand to be somewhat egotistical.

They met, these two, and loved, and knew their time together must be short. In a very few months the war would claim him. He never looked beyond that claim, but she, more clear-sighted by far, realized that in any event the obstacles to their marriage would be all but insurmountable. For his people were of the well-to-do bourgeoisie, and she knew what it means to earn one's daily bread.

The characters of both are well drawn; the boy, Pierre, "tender, ardent and nervous, happy and miserable," weak of fibre, utterly unfit to cope with the sometimes pitiless facts of the world; the girl, Luce, more resolute, with "nothing of the rebel in her," enjoying and loving life despite the precariousness and many difficulties of her existence, far more capable of standing on her two small feet than was "that little fellow" she so dearly loved, and at the last tried so desperately to protect.

Then their backgrounds; her mother, a democratized utterly by the war, and her respectable family, belonging to the bourgeois class Romain Rolland attacks so bitterly, calling it a class penurious of heart, utterly arid, braggart and limited; "even those whom they believe they love are loved in a proprietary way; they sacrifice them to their egotism, to their buttressed pride, to their narrow and headstrong intelligence." And behind them all, overshadowing them all, looms the hideous spectre of the war.

WOMEN'S PLACE DEBATE COMING IN CHURCH HERE

Local Churchmen Anticipate It Will Figure At Next General Synod.

May Meet in London—Dr. Sage Points To Growing Liberalism.

The stand taken by the lower house of convocation of the Church of England at Canterbury on July 6, with regard to the work of deaconesses in the church, as reported within the past 24 hours in the Canadian press, brings to the fore again the question of the place of women in the church in Canada. It is probable, local churchmen stated Friday, that the whole matter will be considered by the general synod of the Church of England in Canada at the next meeting to be held in 1924.

Still greater interest is added to this supposition by the fact that the general synod of the Church of England in Canada at the next meeting to be held in 1924.

Still greater interest is added to this supposition by the fact that the general synod of the Church of England in Canada at the next meeting to be held in 1924.

In the absence from the city Friday of the Bishop of Huron, Rev. Dr. Sage was interviewed on the subject. "Of course," said Dr. Sage, "the matter has never really come to a head in Canada yet, but following the prominence given to it at the Lambeth conference in 1920, it would seem most probable that it would figure in the deliberations of the next general synod."

According to the press dispatch which I have seen, the lower house of convocation would give more limited scope to the deaconesses than had been recommended by the committee appointed by the Lambeth conference. The two amendments to the report prohibit deaconesses from reading morning and evening prayers in the churches and prohibit them from preaching at church services.

I note, further, that it was finally agreed though, that, with the approval of the bishop, deaconesses should be allowed to speak and pray in consecrated buildings to congregations of women and children, but not at the regular appointed services.

In this connection, it must be taken into consideration in England that there is an element much opposed to women having part in the services, the attitude in some cases manifested in keeping women out of choirs.

"On the other hand, I understand it was a resolution to those attending the Lambeth conference from overseas and those who heard the debates and were closely in touch with the reports, the extremely open-minded attitude of many of the English people. In Canada, the spirit of liberalism, where the position of women is concerned, is gaining

Red Hot July Days Hard on the Baby

July—the month of oppressive heat; red hot days and sweltering nights; is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come on suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.—Adv.

Hicks--Sharman Wedding Takes Place From Summer Home of Bride's Parents

A pretty nuptial event in which two popular London young people were the principals, took place at Trinity Church, Warton, at 3 o'clock on Friday, July 7, when Norma Dean Sharman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dean Sharman, 869 Hillmuth avenue, was married to Mr. William J. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hicks, also of this city. Rev. A. W. Geddes officiated.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was stately and handsome in a smart suit of costume of mode tricot with feather hat to match, and carrying a bouquet of Sweethearts, roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Josephine Sharman, her sister, as bridesmaid, wore a chic costume of white baronette satin and picture hat, and carried Ophelia roses and fern. Mr. Roy Hicks, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Ed. Morton, Gough, and Kasner, Warton. The church was beautifully decorated with Lake orchids and springing. Mrs. S. E. Foster of Warton, presided at the ground very rapidly, and there is not a doubt we will hear a good deal of the subject in the not very far distant future.

"So far as recognition of women in our own churches is concerned, women have given lectures to general audiences in our churches, though, of course, they have spoken from the pulpit and not from the altar. This has especially applied to women missionaries, who have been asked to give their messages in the churches. While there has not been official recognition for this procedure, it has been taken for granted, apparently."

"What about Miss Maudie Roydon, the famous woman preacher, who may possibly come to London during her tour of this continent next winter and spring? Doesn't she belong to the Church of England?" asked The Advertiser.

"She did belong to the Church of England, though I do not know if she calls herself that now," said Dr. Sage. "You will remember she is preaching in a Congregational pulpit in the City Temple, London, England. Owing to the fact that the woman preachers make provision for possible sin in order to have an opportunity to deliver her message through the pulpit."

PICNIC FOLLOWS JULY MEETING

The annual picnic followed the July meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society auxiliary of Wellington Street Methodist Church this week, about seventy-five members and husbands sitting down to the bountiful tea tables, spread in the basement of the church. Helpful addresses were given afterwards by Rev. W. H. Hill of Robinson Memorial Methodist Church; Rev. G. T. Watt, and a visitor from Crosswell, Michigan; Mr. George M. Manning, Mrs. Frieda Stephens and Miss Kathleen Heard gave much enjoyed readings. A guessing contest proved an interesting and amusing wind-up for the entertainment, the members of the picnic party with pencils and paper setting to work to discover as many words as possible in "Woman's Missionary Society." The prize went to the American guest, Mr. Manning, who presented a list of eighty-four words.

Features of the meeting, which preceded the picnic, were reports of the London conference branch convention, given by Mrs. J. Holliday and Miss Kathleen Heard, the latter devoting special attention to the mission band features.

WITH BRIDES

OSBORNE-HARRIS. On Friday, June 30, the marriage took place at St. Matthew's Church between Kathleen Edna Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pinch, and James H. Osborn, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. B. Asby.

WORTLEY M. C. PICNIC. Interesting plans have been made by the Wortley Road Mothers' Club for the club picnic to be held Tuesday afternoon next, July 11, at Springfield Park. Mrs. E. Wray and Mrs. Hamilton, sports conveners, announce the program of sports will begin promptly at 4 o'clock. Events will be open to both children and grown-ups. Mrs. Fred Chambers is supper convenor.

THE BIRTH STONE FOR JUNE. Dear Miss Grey,—I sure is a long time since I wrote to your cosy corner, and a lot of new friends have entered. Haven't we had two nice, cool days? It's a lot nicer to have the weather cool than hot, isn't it? Well, nearly every time I wrote I wanted help, but this time I am going to try and help someone else. I am sending some bootie patterns for the babies. They are very simple, but when made up look very cute. They can be fixed together with fingering yarn or silk, which ever is preferred, and crocheted around with ring and with a ribbon or drawstring. Has my writing got the right slant? What's the birth stone for June? Good-bye for this time. K. PISTOL.

Thanks for the bootie patterns, K. Pistol. We will be pleased to hear from you soon again, even if you ask for help. Your writing seems to have the correct slant, and, judging from the name you write, you will develop into a good writer. Agate is the birth stone for June.

TRUSTY HATCHET IS NEEDED AT SHELTER

Job Awaits Little George Washington, Cutting Down Cherry Tree.

Wanted—a little George Washington at the Children's Shelter! But that isn't any reflection on the truthfulness of the present young inmates. It is simply an intimation that a hatchet is in order to cut down a cherry tree.

The cherry tree is old and very friendly. It has spread its branches for many years in the Shelter playground; a thing of beauty in blossom time, and a delight to the eye when the fruit is cherry red ripe. But it is a menace just the same to the little folks, particularly to the tinier boys and girls.

Friday morning one of the small children was very, very sick, and when a diagnosis of his case had been made the good fairy, who is the Shelter mother, said very sternly: "I'd like to cut down that cherry tree!"

Such decision was in her voice and manner that if the sharp hatchet had been convenient the chances are the life of that ancient cherry tree in the land would have been short.

Of course, the children like the cherries. Who wouldn't? But it is one thing to eat them when they are properly ripe, another to endeavor to assimilate them when they are an unwholesome green. The difficulty is the tinier tots fall to make nice distinctions. "Cherries" is cherries; and the more the merrier until the reckoning comes.

How do they get them, the mites of eighteen months, of two and three years, when they are not able to climb the tree? Simplest thing in the world. There are always older boys and girls who welcome the excuse to climb the tree and shake down the cherries to be scrambled for by the wee kiddies.

The anxious house mother sees as the most effectual way out of the difficulty cutting down that popular tree. Of course, a fence might be built around it, or the tricky old tree might be transplanted to a more inaccessible spot.

As former residents of this city they are greatly impressed with the development and the beautiful appearance of London.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

FOR AUNT NANNIE

Dear Cynthia—I guess you did not understand my note the other day. That money was for Aunt Nannie's paper, so now here is $1.30 for her paper.

I noticed where a Boxite was asking for a bedbug cure. This is what I used, and it was all right: A tablespoon of lysol, 1 cup of coal oil, 1 cup of gasoline, and spray or paint where they are.

MYSTERY. It is splendid of you to see that Aunt Nannie receives the paper. Mystery, as she enjoys our Mail-Box so much. Thanks for the directions to exterminate bedbugs.

FOR MOSQUITO STINGS.

Dear Miss Grey,—Received the hat pattern and cinnamon bulbs yesterday, for which please accept my thanks. Am returning the pattern today. I also saw in yesterday's paper that M. J. S. can't find relief for mosquito bites, so am sending in several. Hope one will help her. 1. Take a teaspoonful of the tincture of wild rosemary to one-half tumblerful of water and apply the lotion where the mosquito has bitten. 2. To cure a sting of bee or wasp, mix common earth with water to make a consistency of mud. Apply at once. Cure for wasp! Apply a poultice of saleratus water and flour and bind on the sting. Apply slices of raw onion for a bee sting. ARABELLA.

Thank you for returning the pattern so promptly. Also thanks for the remedy for chest bites. Hope you aren't too late planting the bulbs.

AN OLD "UN."

Dear Miss Grey,—Here is another "Old Un." Back in the days when Aunt Nannie wrote often there came to the Corner a funny old thing with "Much Fat," too much in fact. I wonder if you remember me, Aunt Nannie? Where are Beautiful Dolls E. J. Star of the East, and all you other regulars of 1916-17? We had the poetry bug then instead of a seed exchange. The work the Mail-Box of today is accomplishing is wonderful, and inclosed find a "wee" sum toward the "wee" old thing.

If at all possible I should like to get three cinnamon bulbs. Do they multiply? They must, as there seems to be quite a supply and I sincerely hope it has not run out. Maybe some of the "readers" if not "writers" will remember, CALAMITY ANN.

I think I should have an "Old Boys' Reunion" in the Mail-Box, and I am sure a great number of our old writers would return. What do you think, Boxites? I am mailing you a few bulbs, the last of the lot. Many thanks for the hospital mite. Now that you have returned why don't you stay with us, Calamity Ann?

WHO KNOWS JULY? Dear Miss Grey and Boxites,—Do sit over and give me more room, for you see I don't come often to bother you. My chief reason for not coming often is to leave more space for those who can write more interesting letters than I.

I am thankful to be able to say our dear little girl is better now and able to be out of doors once more. She was so patient all through her illness, and we surely feel thankful to God for His goodness, and to you, Miss Grey, for your kindly interest. Some of you may know July in case you all do not, I'll tell you a secret. She is one of the kindest persons living; we can call one another by phone and meet quite often at lawn socials, etc., eh, July. Just a word for Fuzz-Wuzz's mother. I'll write soon, as I expect to go on a short trip and will write when I return. Her kind letter of sympathy was appreciated I am sure.

I wish I had some help to bring this time. O, yes, I have a pair of black slippers, size 4, with a medium high heel. If anyone in need would care for them. Do not send postage to me, send it to Miss Grey if you like, and the first one writes will get them. They are worn a very little. I will inclose a recipe for canning corn, one I have used for years and never a failure, unless the can's fault. Now I'll close and send my mite, wish it were more. Best luck to you all these hot days. HAPPY MOTHER.

To Can Corn. Cut corn from cob as closely as you can. Have cans well sterilized and new rubbers each time. Fill jars, do not pack, just shake well once or twice. Put one teaspoon salt to a quart can. Cover with cold water. Seal but not tight. Place in boiler and boil three hours. After it starts to boil remove from fire and tighten. Turn upside down, cool and store.

I am delighted to hear your little one has recovered from her illness. You must indeed be a "Happy Mother" once again. Thank you for offering the slippers for a needy soul, also for the hospital mite and canning recipe. You seem to know quite a few of the Boxites; it must be interesting to meet them.

LIVES NEAR LAKE. Dear Miss Grey and Readers,—My father has taken The Advertiser for about four years, and I have been an interested reader of your page and would like to join.

I live about two miles from a nice little summer resort along the lake. The parks are lovely in summer, and attract quite a number from the city who want a few weeks of quiet enjoyment during the hot weather.

I would like correspondents near my own age. I am 5 feet tall and have brown eyes and bobbed brown hair. I will sign myself.

You are fortunate in living so near the lake, Kip. It must be a pretty spot. I hope you find our corner interesting, and obtain some nice correspondents.

THORNDALE INSTITUTE ANNOUNCES PROGRAM

Reports Splendid Progress In Improvement Of District Cemeteries.

The regular monthly meeting of the Thorndale Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Woods, Mrs. Bolton Fitzgerald presiding.

During the business meeting reports were given from the various cemetery committees which showed that splendid progress had been made in the improvement of all the cemeteries. It was also announced that the West Nissouri Township Council had donated $100 toward the cemetery funds. Committees were appointed to make arrangements for the programs for the institute meeting at Dorchester, on August 2, and the one at Kintore, on August 30, to which the Thorndale Institute members have been invited.

The roll call was answered by books that we have read from Thorndale public library.

A very interesting program was then rendered. Mrs. E. J. McMartin gave an excellent topic on "The Stranger Within Our Gates," in which she outlined many of the industries that are almost wholly carried on by foreigners in our country. She declared it was the duty of Canadians to provide the education of these people in Canadian modes of living and encourage them to adopt these. She also mentioned some of the splendid work being done among the new Canadians in Western Canada.

Mrs. A. Brown gave a very interesting report of the district meeting.

Mrs. Thomas McFarlan of Dorchester, district president, also addressed the meeting, and stated that she believed the work of the institute was becoming more extensive every year, and the important place it holds in the country is shown by the fact that it is the only woman's organization that the government recognizes. In every community it should surround the improvement of school surroundings, and some social service work might also be accomplished.

The musical program consisted of piano solos by Mrs. T. McFarlan.

The program for the ensuing year has been issued. Conveners have been appointed for the various meetings to furnish the program and provide the refreshments, the first in each list being the supervisor.

Aug. 3—Subject, "Canadian Women of Note." Roll call, a humorous story. Conveners, Misses V. M. Sinker, L. M. Harding, Edna Colbert, Myrtle Buysa and Ida Cunningham. Hostess, Miss Florence Harrison.

Sept. 7—Subject, "We cannot buy with gold the old associations." Roll call, don'ts for the sick room. Conveners, Mrs. A. C. Brown, Mrs. F. Quait, Mrs. E. J. McMartin and Mrs. Irwin. Hostess, Mrs. J. McMartin.

Oct. 5—Subject, "The Power of Personality." Roll call, current events. Conveners, Mrs. Geo. Colbert, Mrs. P. K. Walters, Mrs. B. Mossip, and Mrs. R. R. Wheaton. Hostess, Mrs. Jas. H. Wheaton.

Nov. 2—Subject, "Making the Commonplace Life Interesting." Roll call, ideas for inexpensive Christmas gifts. Conveners, Mrs. Jos. Mossip, Mrs. H. Jones, Mrs. Jas. Ramsay and Mrs. F. A. Jones. Hostess, Mrs. Williamson.

Dec. 7—Convention reports. Roll call, resolutions for the new year. Conveners, Mrs. Chas. Wilson, Mrs. R. Lee, Mrs. H. M. McFadden and Mrs. Jas. Smuck. Meeting held in Harding's Hall. Hostesses, Mrs. W. W. Wright and Mrs. Chas. Guest.

COLDSTREAM W. I. The regular meeting of Coldstream Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Wilson, Tuesday, July 11. Roll call to be answered with suggestions for improvements for our annual school picnic.

CARAMOUCHE

by Rafael Sabatini

It was opened by a tall, slender, gracefully-proportioned man of perhaps forty.

In the crook of his left arm he carried a fencing-mask. His keen glance played over Andre-Louis from head to foot.

"Monsieur?" he inquired, politely.

It was clear that he mistook Andre-Louis' quality, for despite his sadly-reduced fortunes, his exterior was irreproachable.

"You have a notice below, monsieur," he said.

"You are come in regard to that?" Andre-Louis shrugged and half smiled. "One must live," said he.

"But come in. Take off your coat," M. des Amis said, "and let us see what you can do. Nature, at least, designed you for a swordsman. You are light, active, and supple, with a good length of arm, and you seem intelligent. I may teach you enough for my purpose, which is that you should give the elements of the art to new pupils. Take that mask and foil and come over here."

He led him to the end of the room, where the bare floor was scored with lines of chalk to guide the beginner in the management of his feet.

At the end of a ten-minute bout, M. des Amis offered him the situation, and explained it. In addition to imparting the rudiments of the art to beginners, he was to brush out the fencing-room every morning, keep the foils furnished, assist the gentlemen who came for lessons to dress and undress, and make himself generally useful. His wages for the present were to be forty livres a month.

The position had its humiliations. But, if Andre-Louis would hope to dine, he must begin by eating his pride as an hors d'oeuvre.

"And so," he said, controlling a grimace, "the robe yields not only to the sword, but to the broom as well. Be it so."

It is characteristic of him that, having made that choice, he should have thrown himself into the work with enthusiasm.

Every morning before the opening of the academy, the master would fence for half an hour with his new assistant. Under this really excellent tuition Andre-Louis improved at a rate that both astounded and flattered M. des Amis. He would have been less flattered and more astounded had he known that at least half the secret of Andre-Louis' amazing progress lay in the fact that he was devouring the contents of the master's library, which was made up of a dozen or so treatises on fencing by great masters.

At the end of a month it suddenly dawned upon M. des Amis that his assistant had developed into a fencer with whom it became necessary to exert himself if he were to escape defeat.

"I said from the first," he told him one day, "that nature designed you for a swordsman."

"To the master be the glory," said Andre-Louis.

His relations with M. des Amis had meanwhile become of the friendliest, and he was now beginning to receive from him other pupils than mere beginners. M. des Amis, a chivalrous, open-handed fellow, rewarded his zeal by increasing his wages to four livres a month.

CHAPTER II.

Andre-Louis was in the gardens of the Palais Royal, this universal rendezvous, on that Sunday morning in June, when the news of Necker's dismissal spread, carrying with it dismay and fury.

He beheld a slight young man with a pink-marked face leap to a table

Paris Sends Tips On Fall Fashions

EVEN so early as midsummer the great gods of Parisian fashion are sending over advance models of autumn's styles to be made up in materials for summer and very early fall wear.

Most of these are tailored frocks.

Side drapes are shown on some. High collars on others. One dress is not able to disregard the present vogue of cape and has a loose skirt panel in back that folds up across one's shoulders as a cape.

Fine French serge and twill are used.

you profoundly disappoint me that you are not!" He beat his hands together, and raised his shrill voice to call—"Benoit!"

"Benoit, the door. M. Andre-Louis Moreau to the door!"

The tone argued an irrevocable determination. Pale and self-contained, but with a queer pain at his heart, Andre-Louis heard that dismissal. And then another voice, a crisp, boyish voice, cut in.

"Uncle!" it cried, a world of indignation and surprise in its pitch, and then: "Andre! And this time a note almost of gladness, certainly of welcome, was blended with the surprise that still remained."

Both turned, half the room between them at the moment, and beheld Aline in one of the long, open windows, arrested there in the act of entering from the garden, Aline in a milk-maid bonnet of the latest mode, though without any of the tricolor embellishments that were so commonly to be seen upon them.

She was coming toward him now with outstretched hands, a smile of welcome on her lips. He bowed low and kissed her hand in silence.

Animal Comedians Coming To London With Circus

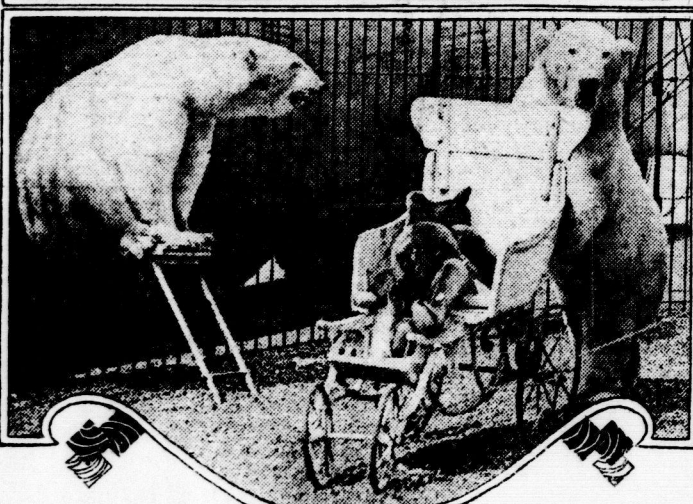

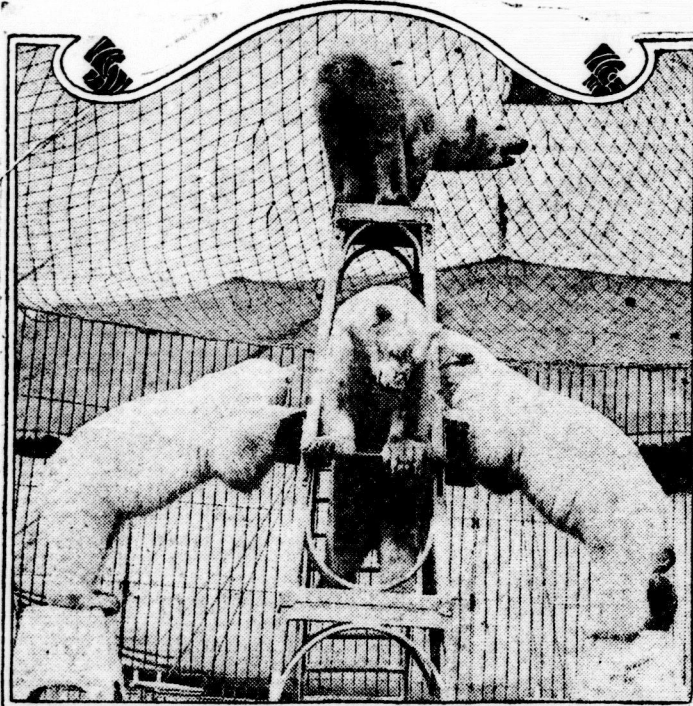

Twenty snow-white comedians are coming to town with the circus next Wednesday, July 12.

This doesn't mean that the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey show has decreased its number of chalk-faced clowns to that figure. On the contrary, there will be fully 100 of the latter in stunts ranging from clown-fights that walk on their hind legs to clown dogs that walk on their front ones.

No, the twenty comedians mentioned above are of an entirely different kind. They are those who form the three troupes of acting Polar bears, and once you see them you will doubtless agree that they are the funniest shaggywags you ever laid eyes upon.

To see Blubber and Waddles slide down a chute tail first, is to witness one of the funniest acts imaginable.

Then there is Snowflake, the clown bear, who takes his lady love for a ride, and Bozo who is said to have sent many an Eskimo into convulsions with his solemn antics long before the showmen's ingenuity prevailed upon him to tour with the circus. Still other bears walk tightropes, ride old-fashioned bicycles or spin round on skates. But no matter what they do, these foxy-footed, fuzzy-faced old bears seem to actually wink at their audience as they perform and so lay constant claim to being "nature's own comedians."

ACTING POLAR BEARS.

Contrasting with the bears are the troupes of snarling tigers and roaring lions that are this season being circled in three immense steel canals.

Mrs. Woodchuck Helps To Delay Relief To Mink

(By Olive Roberts Barton.)

Mrs. Woodchuck saw the little fairy doctor and the Twins coming.

EVERYBODY in all Whispering Forest and Bright Meadowland tried to keep Dr. Snuffles and his helpers, Nancy and Nick, from getting as far as Marty Mink's house.

Marty had swallowed a fish-bone, and as long as it stuck in his throat he couldn't eat a bite. That tickled all the wood-folk and meadow-folk mightily, for no one's life was safe when Marty was hungry and around looking for a meal.

Mrs. Woodchuck saw the little fairy doctor and the Twins coming. She waited until they got opposite her front door, and then:

"Oh, oh, oh!" she cried. "Oh, oh! Somebody help! Quick!"

Marty Mink and his fish-bone flew out of Dr. Snuffles' head. He hurried into Mrs. Woodchuck's hall and right back into her sitting-room.

"What's the matter? Who's hurt?" he called. And then he spied Mrs. Woodchuck rocking herself back and forth in a corner and wailing.

"It's my thumb!" cried Mrs. Woodchuck. "I was putting in a nail when the hammer slipped, and—Oh, oh, oh! you'll have to fix it, doctor."

"My, oh, my!" exclaimed the doctor. "That's too bad! Let me see it. Why, there isn't a mark! Are you sure this is the right thumb?"

"Of course," declared Mrs. Woodchuck tartly. "It's my right hand, isn't it?"

Poor Dr. Snuffles fixed Mrs. Woodchuck's thumb.

Then the three started for Marty's house again.

But some more things were to happen.

Will Withstand All Weathers

A porch entirely glazed in, and included under the sweep of the main roof, becomes a sixth room in this pretty house, and is usable the year round. Casement windows are especially attractive for such uses, and when properly fitted with hardware and frames are as practical as double-hung windows.

Another desirable feature of this plan is the fact that the house has few openings on the rear, so this side will be a factor in keeping the house comfortable, if it is given the "weather exposure."

Each of the five main rooms of the house is of good size. In addition, besides the sunporch, there is a large storage room in the attic in the front gable.

Back of the sun porch is the living room, with a sunny group of casements along the side. Opposite this is a long inside wall space for the largest piece of furniture. An open stair with a starting platform occupies the rear wall of the living-room. There is a coat closet toward the rear of the room, and near it a door which gives direct access to kitchen, basement, and rear entrance.

The dining-room is the one with the group of front casements, shown in the exterior view. It is unusually large, eleven feet six inches by fifteen feet. A pair of corner china closets are set in the corners nearest the kitchen, a most convenient location for them. The kitchen is small and compact, and its windows on two sides make every nook and cranny light. Ample dressers and work tables built in eliminate the need of a pantry, and save that much space and cost of construction.

Two good-sized, light bedrooms, a good bathroom, linen case, small, light hall, and the large storage space are provided on the second floor. Each bedroom has a clothes closet and a built-in tray case that eliminates the need of a chiffonier.

The quaint, but practical dormer shown in the exterior view furnishes cross-ventilation in the larger bedroom. Another feature that adds to the exterior appearance is the slight spring of the roof at the eaves. The whole house, including porch and rear entry, covers a ground space only 26 feet by 32 feet 4 inches, so is an excellent choice where quarters are rather cramped.

AUTOMOTIVE SECTION

BUY YOUR CAR NOW.

PREDICTS MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN FUTURE AUTO

D. McCall White, Prominent Engineer, Completes Survey of Industry.

WILL INCREASE MILEAGE

States Entire Car To Be Lubricated by Filling Chamber.

D. McCALL WHITE, recognized as one of the foremost engineers in the automotive world, has just completed a survey of the industry which shows that many changes are in store for the future. Among them will be, he says, the lubrication of an entire car by simply filling one chamber—and forty miles to a gallon of gasoline, together with increased power and lighter weight.

Here are some of his predictions: That lighter weight per horsepower will be accomplished through the use of aluminum and alloy metals.

That there will be a great increase in air-cooled motors.

That improvements will be made in transmissions which will promote gear shifting and silence in operation.

That axles will be re-designed to save weight and lessen noise in operation.

That chassis frame and body will be of one piece construction.

That all lubrication in the future will be entirely automatic and that it will be only necessary to fill one chamber to lubricate the entire car.

Maximum weight of cars of the future will be from 2,500 to 3,000 pounds.

That there will be one horsepower to every two pounds of weight in the engine.

Will Increase Mileage.

That motorists will get thirty-five to forty miles on a gallon of gasoline.

That economy will reign in the designing of cars for first cost and operation.

Mr. White points out that today there exists too great a disparity between the performances of cars of the same values, and says he knows of one six-cylinder car, weighing 1,000 pounds more than another, both selling at the same price, and that the former delivers more than twice the mileage of the latter, and also gives much better oil economy. This he attributes to design.

In his capacity as a free lance consulting engineer, Mr. White says that manufacturers are continually trying to secure advice on how they can cut down the size of the motor and still give the public what it wants. Today, it is said, manufacturers are using about one horsepower to each six to ten pounds of weight in the motor, but in the future the experiments now taking shape will enable them to use but one horsepower to each two pounds of weight, and at the same time save a great deal in material, which will be spent on construction.

Body and Chassis One.
On the question of transmission designs, Mr. White asserts that patents have already been applied for by many concerns which will enable the motorist to shift the wheel to shift gears without making the slightest noise and will at the same time simplify the construction and cut down the weight.

Under the heading of brakes, the engineer declares that Europe is far ahead of Canada and the United States, and today the manufacturers have developed their cars to such an extent that brakes on all four wheels are an absolute necessity. The reason for this, he declares, is that cars are being made with such speed, so light, and with such rapid acceleration, that to control this speed four brakes are needed. Mr. White recently drove a car equipped with brakes on all four wheels and took with him five automobile owners of this city, whom he selected at random, and they declared that they would buy the first car to come equipped with these brakes.

Bodies, he says, in the next ten years, with the exception of a few sport cars, will all be enclosed and will be so made that the chassis frame and body will be one rigid piece.

Develop Lubrication.
Probably the greatest aid to the long life and smooth running of automobiles, he says, will be the development along lubrication lines.

Mr. White says that in 1923 several manufacturers are considering equipping their cars with one single oil tank into which lubricant will be poured the same as gasoline. This will lubricate the entire car, from crankshaft bearings to spring shackles. Mr. White declares that he has found that 90 per cent of the automobile owners of today have the erroneous impression that the proper lubrication of their car is only a scheme of the manufacturers to make money for the oil men, and they neglect too many minor parts.

Another great feature, which probably will be put on the market with-

Touring Body For Camping—And Trucking!

ARE you thinking of camping out on your pouring trip this summer? There's a special touring body for your car that would help lessen the discomforts of camping.

It makes a touring car all that its name implies.

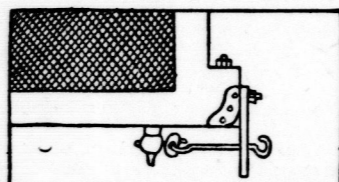

The body is being manufactured at present to fit one of the popular small cars. But there is no reason why a similar form cannot be made for any kind of chassis.

With all curtains up, this body can be converted into a tent for the passengers. The back of the body drops and is held by leather-covered chains, like the tail-board of a truck.

When the collapsible front and rear seats are also brought down, and a curtain stretched over the back, a comfortable bed can be made up in the car.

During week-days in the city, say the manufacturers, this same body can be used for trucking. For this purpose the leather upholstery on the inside of the body is made removable. When the tail-board and rear seat are turned down, the truck is ready for use.

TO DRAIN RADIATOR.

An extension handle attached to the radiator drain cock lightens the task of draining the water supply. Instead of reaching underneath the chassis, all the motorist has to do is turn the handle alongside the radiator.

In another year, he says, is that of a fuel, which a large corporation is experimenting with. This fuel, a few drops of which is added to the gasoline, will increase motor power 30 per cent and do away entirely with compression and ignition pounds, common to so many cars, according to Mr. White. The engineer is careful to point out that this fuel will not harm the motor, create carbon, or do any of the other things which motorists to their sorrow have found that gasoline substitutes of today do. He also says that it will not increase the mileage of a car but simply will give added power and do away with vibration and ignition knocks.

TELLS HOW TO ADJUST LIGHTS

Authority Claims Good Lamp Will Glare When Not Properly Focused.

To Clean Reflectors, Use Cloth Well Saturated With Alcohol.

GOOD lighting is one of the essentials of safe and satisfactory motoring. To get adequate lighting without glare which is dangerous to other users of the road, has been a problem for years.

Probably the greatest factor in creating this problem is poor focusing. A perfectly good lamp is frequently rendered dangerous because it is not properly focused.

In order to secure the greatest percentage of good road light minus the glare, the reflector must be clean and the lamp must be properly focused to throw the right kind of a beam exactly where it is needed.

How to Focus.
The ordinary method of focusing is to throw the beam against the side of a house, barn or wall about 25 feet away. If the beam is uneven in shape or has a dark spot in the center, then it is out of focus and adjustment must be made. Adjustment should continue until the beam of light has been reduced to its smallest dimension, with a bright spot in the center. Then focusing is correct.

There are several ways of making the actual adjustments. The most frequently used method is to fit a screw in the back of the lamp, by turning which adjustments of position are obtained. The screw moves the bulb forward or backward. Another type of adjustment has a ratchet device, whereby the bulb is moved a notch in the ratchet. To do this it is necessary to open the door of the lamp to remove the front.

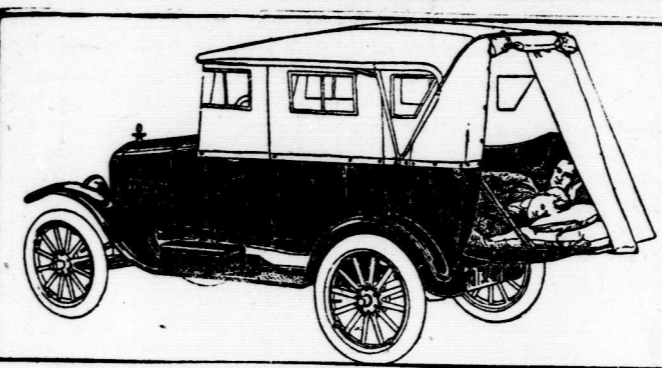

In the modern lamp there is sometimes difficulty in getting off the rim, and great care must be used in putting it back to see that the packing inside is placed correctly. If this is not done water may seep through and dull the reflectors. To clean the reflectors by the way, rubbing with alcohol applied with a cloth is the correct procedure.

When buying bulbs the car owner should take only the best standard makes. Also the same size bulb should be used on each side. The owner should be sure that the bulbs are firmly in their sockets and that cable connections are tight. If there is any looseness vibration is sure to interrupt flow, producing flickering.

The glass front of the lamp must be a type approved by the local authorities, and at the same time a satisfactory dispenser of light.

Test Brakes On Your Car Each Day.

WHEN you leave the garage throw out clutch and apply brakes. If they do not "take hold" have faults corrected before driving farther. Safety demands adequate brakes. Select sturdy brake lining. Have it applied properly. Keep brakes in operating condition. Test frequently for adjustment. Learn to apply brakes correctly.

Demand Should Be For More, Not Less, Improvement In Highways

ACCORDING to Highways Information Service, there is now available in the United States $1,360,000,000 for street and highway construction. This sum, large as it is, represents an increase over the highway revenue of 1914 of only 150 per cent, while highway traffic has increased about 450 per cent.

Yet—

The capitalization by Ontario of what with the normal increment will amount to much less than half the annual revenue derived from motor vehicle license fees as suggested and supported by the Ontario Motor League, for defraying the cost of the proposed improvement of the provincial highway system, was attacked as a squandering of public moneys, unsound economically and a mortgage on the country's future. Those who obstruct the construction of the country's highways for political or other reasons are to arrest its development, curtail its prosperity and directly or indirectly make the social, intellectual, moral and material lot of the people less desirable and salutary than it should be.

Overworked Nerves

The Most Successful Treatment is Through the Blood.

The early stages of nervous debility are noted by restlessness and irritability in which the victims seem to be oppressed by their nerves. As the trouble advances, common symptoms are a tired feeling, weakness in the knees and ankles, headaches, back-aches and sleeplessness. The matter requires immediate attention, for nothing but suitable treatment will prevent a complete breakdown.

The nervous system governs the whole body, controlling heart, lungs, digestion and brain, so that it is not surprising that nervous disturbances cause acute distress. For troubles of this kind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills succeed when other treatment fails, for these pills make new blood, enriched with the elements on which the nerves thrive, and in this way reach the root of the trouble. In proof of this is the statement of Mrs. Dockertill, Stratford, Ont., who says: "My daughter Matilda, was suffering from nervous debility, and the usual remedies did not seem to help her. I was advised by a friend to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and soon we found they were doing her a great deal of good. She complained of pains in the stomach, and a severe fluttering of the heart, with a general weakness. Under the use of these pills she continued to gain, and I believe they have saved her from going into a decline."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

Who Pays For Advertising?

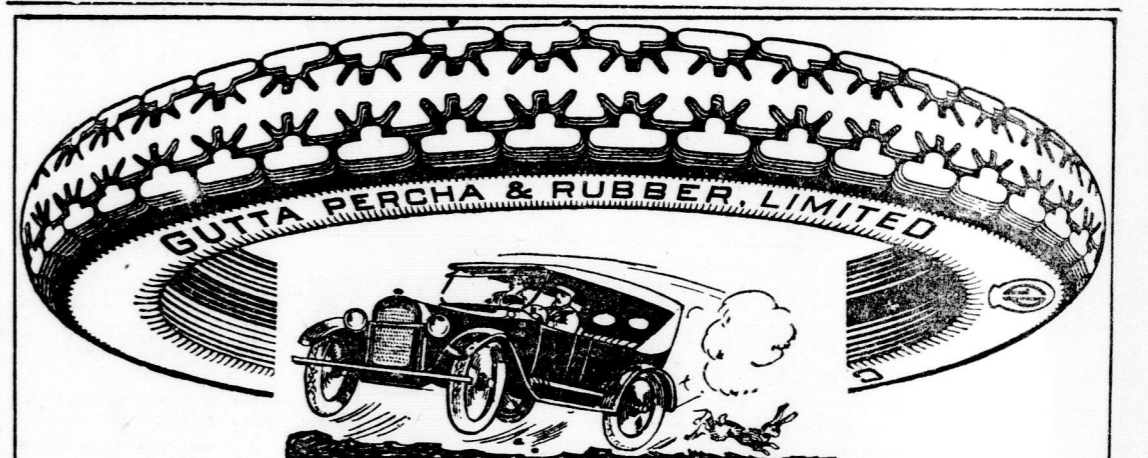

THIS is a direct and reasonable question; and in the case of Daily Newspaper advertising, intelligently used, the answer is simple: Nobody. It pays its own way.

Nobody pays for the new carburetor that gives added mileage to your motor car. It pays for itself in the gasoline it saves.

Nobody pays for an improved cash system in a modern department store. It pays for itself in economy of human time.

Nobody pays for well planned and written Daily Newspaper advertising. It pays for itself by reducing the cost of sales and by increasing production. And it often receipts old bills for follies with advertising labels.

The advertisement in your own local Daily Newspaper tells you the best things to buy and where to buy them. Every new purchase helps the whole community to command cheaper and better goods.

Since the automotive industry started, few cars have enjoyed the general approval and favorable comments which have been extended our own locally built car, the "London Six."

To produce an automobile today that calls forth special and favorable comment, means that such a car must pass a large degree of real merit. The various models of the "London Six" certainly have created a decided impression in the automobile circles and among many automobile engineers both in United States and Canada.

There are many features contributed to the success of this car. The wonderful chassis bespeaks durability and simplicity in its every detail. It is built up of standard units of the highest grade, every unit being produced by an established organization who specialize in their particular lines and the importance and advantages of specializing is conceded on every hand today. It simply means that every London Six car has incorporated in its construction the experience of experts and every unit carrying its own guarantee. A car built up of such units gives additional assurance of most excellent service.

The great secret of the splendid driving and riding qualities of this car lies in the exceptionally even distribution of weight. W. R. Stan-sell, in selecting the various units required, made his selection from units that could never be taxed to their full capacity, consequently a driver of a London Six is always assured of a surplus of strength and power.

With a sturdy frame as a foundation, a powerful Herschell-Spillman motor with the Warner T-60 transmission, and a practically straight-line drive shaft over which to transmit the power to a Columbia Fifty Thousand rear axle, such a combination makes excellent service most certain. Built on the chassis is a well constructed body, the frame-work of which is selected wood, metalized with 16 gauge aluminum. This type of body prevents the car from becoming top heavy, thus keeping the weight between the wheels where it belongs for safe traveling, or as a result of fast driving or turning of curves preventing swaying or the effect of top heaviness.

The name "London Six" has already become synonymous with quality cars, and the constant demand for the various models of our locally built car indicates a real successful career for London Motors, Limited. The London Six model, known as the "supreme in four-season type of car," and will, no doubt, have a strong preference over the adjustable top touring car because of its many advantages.

Succeed In London

OUT of a wilderness of forest, London was hewed by pioneers armed only with crude tools and resourcefulness. Without aid from an indulgent government or patronage of men rich with world possession, she grew and prospered until today she stands proudly among the biggest industrial centers of Canada and maintains the while a name for natural beauty and happy homes.

Built by pioneers, the children of hardy men, who made Western Ontario the richest garden of Canada, London nestles in and about the forks of the Thames river as the foundation of a great city. The dreams of her founders did not die with the dreamers, but they exist today in concrete form as the nucleus of far greater things.

That the steady growth of London must go on is apparent in many things. Her situation first of all points to coming greatness, for she must always remain the hub of the richest spot in Canada and the strategic position of the North American continent. As Western Ontario, already populated with one-eighth of the total population of Canada, grows, so must London grow; as the country around prosperes, so must London prosper.

At no time in her history has London been inflated by false property or by booms. Her growth has been steady and sure. She has not depended wholly on her own thriving industries for substance but, because she is first of all a distributing point, she has drawn from the wealth of many countries. Her position as such was made possible through a network of railroads. That position has been strengthened by good roads, the automobile and the increasing popularity of the long distance telephone.

REPAIRS PHONOGRAPHS,
RESTORING THEIR TONE

Wormald's Firm, Dundas Street, Replaces Broken Parts With New Ones.

Often for want of proper attention or through some unavoidable accident phonographs, instead of being a source of pleasure, become a scratchy noisy nuisance. Then it is time to look for a reliable hospital or repair shop where the business of phonograph repairing is made a specialty and is thoroughly understood.

Such a place is located at 312½
Dundas street, opposite the armories, and is known as the "Wormald Phonograph Repair." These phonographs of all makes, from the fifteen dollar to the five hundred dollar kind receive expert attention. Sometimes the most unruly and noisy motor merely requires a little adjusting, oiling and grease, in the right place to make it perform like new.

When it is found necessary to replace broken parts great care is taken that the new part is made especially for that particular motor. Mr. Wormald believes that a satisfied customer is an asset that cannot be valued in dollars and cents.
For that reason all work and material that leaves his shop is guaranteed to give satisfaction or replacements are made free of charge.
Many people are really handy with carpenter tools, and would no doubt like to try their hand at making a phonograph for their own use. For the convenience of these Mr. Wormald carries a stock of phonograph motors, tone arms, sound boxes, needle caps, lid supports, piano hinges, cabinet hinges, door hinges, etc. This material is all of the best that can be procured.
The person who builds his own cabinet is always welcome to drop in and ask all the questions he has a mind to regarding this material. He will no doubt receive many hints that will simplify the installing of a motor and other appliances.

While in the store one should not fail to hear some of the Starr phonograph records, of which Mr. Wormald carries a large stock. Any person is also welcome to examine the many beautiful models of the Starr phonograph.

SAYS USED CAR MARKET IS EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD

Auto Wrecking Company Claims
Used Parts Are Often Better Than New.

The fact that the country is overrun with used cars affords a direct advantage to the auto wrecking business. Where previously the company had to wait till a car got badly smashed or burnt before wrecking it, now it is practical to take a perfectly good car and dismantle it for its parts.

The used car market is good.
Daily the motoring public realizes that selected used parts are often better in material and workmanship than new parts of today, not mentioning the saving in money.

Thus there is a new industry, the London Auto Wreckers, with warehouse and showrooms at 264 Horton street. Here are found rows of shelves filled with all kinds of parts for almost every make of car.

There is also a used car department. Here one will find only cars of reputable make, and in first-class condition.

Next there is maintained a service department, handling Marathon Aero Gas and high motor oils, giving service night and day the year round.

Along with used parts, the firm carries a complete stock of accessories, together with electric bulbs for car or household use.

It is found that the public today demands greater value for its money.
It is for this reason that the company has outgrown its surroundings several times. The public appreciates square and honest dealing.

The success of the company is founded on its ability to please its customers.

MANUFACTURE OF CIGAR
REQUIRES MUCH CARE

McLeod, Nolan & Co. Dispose of Products in All Parts of Dominion.

To some people the mentioning of a cigar conveys no more than the idea of a certain amount of tobacco rolled together and adorned, perhaps, by a colored band. But when one visits a cigar factory and watches how the different grades of tobacco are sorted, how they are sprayed, cleaned and dried, and then follows the process the tobacco is put through until the finished product is seen, one will leave that factory with the impression that as much care is taken in the making of a cigar as in almost any other manufactured product.

For years the names of David Harum and El Doro have signified quality in cigar manufacture in the Dominion of Canada, and the claim can be justly made by McLeod, Nolan & Co., manufacturers, that these two brands are two of the most popular in Canada today.

From Windsor in the south, to Dawson City in the north, and from Halifax in the east to Vancouver in the west, the El Doro and David Harum cigars are being sold every day, and judging from recent orders, are becoming more popular as time goes on.

Having a large factory in London, offices and warehouses in Winnipeg and Vancouver, and through the efforts of an efficient sales staff, McLeod, Nolan & Co. have been able to place their products in every province and in almost every city and town in Canada.

At the present time cigar manufacturers are paying peak prices for tobacco, Mr. Nolan stated, and even though the prices of raw leaf tobacco, such as is used in the El Doro and David Harum cigars, have advanced considerably in price, the officials of the firm announce that the prices of these well-known brands will remain the same.

The El Doro cigar contains the very best of Havana tobacco, and is handmade throughout. There are seven different sizes manufactured to suit the tastes of the most fastidious, and the appearance of the cigar is evidence of the fact that the greatest possible care has been taken in the different processes of manufacture.

The David Harum cigar, which is the choice of thousands throughout the country, is made of high-grade Havana filler with the best Sumatra wrapper.

The process by which the raw leaf tobacco is converted into the different sizes of cigars is an interesting and painstaking one.

The Havana and Sumatra tobaccos are usually received in bales. After the tobacco has been shaken and thoroughly cleaned, the leaves are placed in a stripping machine, which strips out the center. The filler tobacco is then placed on drying racks until ready for use, but the wrapper and binder tobacco is tied up in pads of six ounces each after stripping.

After being sorted, the tobacco is taken to the cigarmaker, who forms and makes the cigar by hand. Several other steps are necessary before the box of cigars is sealed and shipped to its destination.

AT THRESHOLD OF DEATH, WIFE AWAITS VISIT
Husband Arrested Following Attempt to Rob Cashier of Toronto Firm.

WAS IN HARD STRAITS
Stricken With Cancer, Hospital Patient Cannot Understand Neglect.

TORONTO, July 7.—Critically ill with cancer and wondering why her husband has not been in to see her since Wednesday, Mrs. Arthur Parmiter is waiting patiently and hoping that tonight or tomorrow he will come in for his regular chat with her.

But her husband cannot come. The law must have its way, and he doubtless wondering how it will affect his wife, waits in the Toronto jail for the hearing of his case in the police court.

Yesterday morning Parmiter and his associates were remanded for a week on a charge of assaulting and attempting to rob Andrew Paton, an employee of the American Hat Company. So far the kindness of relatives has kept the news from the suffering wife, and they are still wondering when they will be able to tell her why he cannot come to see her.

Today it was learned that Mrs. Parmiter was admitted to the General Hospital suffering from malignant cancer on May 18, and that there is little hope for her recovery. Up until his arrest Wednesday night, her husband has been a constant visitor to the hospital, and yesterday she was greatly disappointed when he did not come to make the usual chat.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Parmiter, visited her, but she declared today that she had not the heart to tell her daughter-in-law of the trouble which had come into the little household. "I simply could not bring myself to it," she told various members of the family yesterday.

Hospital authorities were informed by members of the family that Arthur Parmiter had not had any regular employment for nearly four months, and that he was behind $60 in his rent. In fact, the mother and son have had very little to eat in the house during the past six months.

REPORTS FOREST FIRES PREVALENT
Vancouver District Office Claims Situation Worst in Many Years.

VANCOUVER, July 7.—The forest fire situation in British Columbia this season is the worst experienced for many years, it was announced at the district forestry office here today. From all parts of the province reports have been received that fires are burning, and in some districts, fanned by strong winds, the flames have gotten out of control of the fire-fighters and have done serious damage to towns, villages and ranches, as well as threatening to destroy valuable standing timber. Six weeks of dry weather and warm sunshine has dried out the underbrush.

Practically no rain has fallen at many points since the first of June. These conditions have added greatly to the menace of fire.
The long dry spell has completely disorganized the logging industry. It will be impossible to estimate the damage done throughout the province by the recent fires for some days at least, as many of the districts are cut off from telegraph and telephone communication.

THE KAWARTHA LAKES

The Kawartha Lakes are among the most popular of Ontario's summer playgrounds. The region was long a favored one with the Indians, who gave it its musical name, signifying "Bright Waters and Happy Lands." The Kawartha chain comprises Lakes Katchewanooka, Clear, Stoney, Buckhorn, Chemong, Pigeon, Bald, Sturgeon, Cameron and Balsam, and they are six hundred feet above the level of Lake Ontario. Every form of outdoor recreation may be indulged in, there being unlimited opportunities for sailing, canoeing and motor-boating, for bathing and for fishing. Bass, muskellunge and salmon trout are caught in the large lakes, while there is good fishing for speckled trout in the smaller lakes in the district. The region is easy of access, has good hotel accommodation and is within 125 miles of Toronto on the Grand Trunk Railway System. Free illustrated booklet with map and list of hotels sent on request. Apply to any Grand Trunk ticket agent, or C. E. Horning, D.P.A., Toronto, Ont.

CHILE TO URGE POLICY OF FULL DISARMAMENT
Will Raise Issue in Fifth Pan-American Conference at Santiago.

PARIS, July 7.—The outstanding feature of the closing session of the League of Nations' disarmament commission here today was the announcement of Dr. Rivas Vicuna, Chilean ambassador at Paris, that Chile would demand the inclusion in the agenda of the fifth pan-American conference to be held next March in Santiago of the whole question of world disarmament, both naval and military.
Dr. Rivas Vicuna said Chile would use the Washington conference as the basis for her program. He explained that Chile was making an effort to bring about disarmament in South America.

Baby Girl, With Bullet in Her Brain, Amazes Doctors by Asking to Play

BAY SHORE, L. I., July 7.—With a small revolver bullet in her brain, Virginia Brown, two years old, is today in the private hospital of Dr. George S. King. She is smiling and happy, except for her impatience because they will not let her go out and play. The surgeons are entirely at a loss to account for her being alive and are making no predictions as to the future of the case.
Virginia was playing with other children in the yard of her home when she fell and began to scream. Her mother found her lying near a steel toothed rake. There was a puncture of the baby's scalp which was bleeding and her mother assumed she had fallen on the rake.
At Dr. King's a trepanning operation was performed in the belief that the rake had made a depression of the skull which was causing Virginia's acute pain. When a small piece of the skull had been removed it was apparent there was a further wound and the X-ray then showed the little bullet deeply imbedded in the brain. No effort has been made to remove it.
The bullet is believed to have been a stray shot from a Fourth of July celebrator who was using ball cartridges instead of blanks.
