the Home Bank of that village.

After 16 hours' deliberation the jury reported to Justice Wright that no decision had been arrived at, and that there was no possibility of an agreement, either in the case of the two men jointly, or separately, where-upon the judge absolved them from further duties in the case.

further duties in the case.

With the same words the two prisoners took on a new lease of life, the result of the disagreement being a new trial, probably in January.

And that they realized this was plainly evident from the way in which they seemed to give, and react from the tension under which they have been since the beginning of the week. DOUBTS NEW THEORY ABOUT MISSING LINK

Prominent London Anatomist Believes Story May Not Be True.

NO GREAT DISCOVERY

Says It Matters Not Whether Java Ape Was Male or Female.

Whether as Professor Howard J. McGregor claims the "first man was a woman" or whether he is mistaken, it is not a scientific discovery of great outstanding moment. Professor Howard McGregor, who is research associate in human anatomy in the American Museum of Natural History in New York, has just returned from a visit to Europe, during which he made a minute study of the Pitecanthropus Erectus, the scientific name of what the man in the street usually calls the man ape, and very cantinopus Erectus, the scientific name of what the man in the street usually calls the man ape, and very often the "missing link."

The particular specimen which Professor McGregor examined, was discovered at Trinii, in Java, by Professor Eugene Bubois of the University of Amsterdam in 1891. He states his reasons for saying that the fossil remains of thi animal were those of a female, by saying that he has measured the left femur, or thigh bone, and has found that instead of being straight up and down as in a man, it "has an obliquity such as is the case with a woman." A well-known anatomist in London, when told this morning of the new deduction from the old fossil remains, was inclined to doubt the authenticity of the story, which is an Associated Press Despatch from New York, but recognized Professor McGregor as a reliable student and an accurate scientist.

JUDGE CHARGES JURY TO CARRY OUT DUTIES WITHOUT HESITATION

Reviews Evidence of Witnesses, Pointing To Damaging Statements Against Murrell.

OUTLINES THE LAW

Points Out Williams' Connection As Party in Attack On

Following is a complete verbatim report of the judge's charge to the jury yesterday afternoon. Advertiser reporters carefully followed the address of Mr. Justice Wright, and a comprehensive and detailed record was taken

"Gentlemen of the jury: "The counsel for the crown has performed his duty in this case in an admirable manner. The facts have been quoted in a fair endeavor to present all the facts for your consideration. His duty has been described in the fullest sense of the law. The counsel for the accused has also a duty to perform, this being to pre-sent to you the evidence on behalf of the prisoners, to point out to you the inconsistencies there were in the evidences of the witnesses of the crown; point out to you the possi-bilities of the case. He also has performed his duties in an admirable and very satisfactory manner, al-though one who has had little experience as counsel for prisoners ac cused of murder.

"It is my duty as presiding judge in this case to direct you as to the law, to point out to you as to what pearing the law has on the facts in this case. I am here to offer an opinion upon the events, but that opinion is not binding upon you. Your supreme duty is to determine what are the facts, and whether or not the facts as proven show the prisoners to be guilty or not guilty.

Not Under Obligation. "You are not under obligation to believe the evidence of any wit-ness; you may accept portions of the evidence and discard the rest, or you may reject all of it. You are not obliged to accept the evidence of any witness against your own good judg-ment and common sense; you are not obliged to accept any results or conclusions that may have been sub-mitted to you for the crown or the isoners, nor are you under obligation to accept any suggestions of the judge presiding. Your duty is, in this case as in all criminal cases to carelaced before you.

"Before entering into this particu-lar case I will make a few observations which apply to this and all other criminal cases. In the first place this case is to be tried upon the evidence produced in the witness here, not upon any reports, runors, or anything that you may have heard before coming here, but upon the sworn evidence that has been given in the witness box. That is your oath and that is your duty, and I am confident, gentlemen, everyone of you recognize the resposibility and culpable homicide. One is murder your duty, and will follow it to the and the other is manslaughter, and end. British law presumes inno-cence; every man is presumed inno-tne difference between the two on the presumption that the men in cause the death of the berson killed. the prisoners' dock are innocent un-til the crown, by means of evidence person killed any bodily injury which which is set before you, has removed is known to the offender to be likely the cloak of innocence and disclosed to cause death, and is reckless the cloak of innocence and disclosed to cause death, and is reckless the garb of guilt. Then, too, another whether death ensues or hot; if the principle you are to apply is that you are to be satisfied beyond reasonable doubt before you find any prisoner guilty of any criminal ofprisoner guilty of any criminal of-fence. Reasonable doubt is the doubt that a reasonable man will have upon though he may have desired that his that a reasonable man will have upon evidence or upon circumstances, not a supposed doubt, or not a possibility, but a real, substantial, honest doubt that arises from consideration of the evidence and from no other source. The prisoners or the accused persons are to have the benefit of that reasonable doubt, and it is your object may have been effected without hurting anyone. "That section does not apply here "Without troubling you too much I shall read to you the definition of what causes the difference between murder and manslaughter. Murder may be reduced to manslaughter if he person who does so does it in leat of sudden passion caused by sudden provocation! There are two methods by which murder may be ommitted. The counsel for the crown has pointed out to you very clearly hose two ways. One is caused by which is accomplished by means not Party to Offence. Justice Wright pointed out that a man killing another deliberately and directly; then there is the other any person is a party to an offence who aids any other person to com-mit the offence, assists another one, who loads the gun, who supplies the ammunition, who holds the person while another does him to death."

"That person does not actually cause the death, but is a party to it by assistance. Any person who abets assistance. Any person who abets any person or permits any person to you will have to give serious consideration in the case against the pri-soners. 'If several persons join for prosecution of an unlawful purpose, and to assist each therein, each of them is party to every offence committed by any one of them in the prosecution of such common purpose! You will have to consider in this case two features, viz., who actually com-mitted the crime, and whether there was an actual intention on the part of two or more persons, and that in the carrying out of that unlawful purpose one of them committed mur-der, and thereby made all of them guilty of murder. Perhaps I should make clear if three, two, or more persons are armed and go to rob, and sent to take the cash, and another is sent to hold up some other persons who might interfere, it would be for the jury to consider whether or not the men went there armed with death-dealing weapons in their hands, having resolved to overcome any opposition by force, and whether the very fact that they were armed in that manner would not show their intention to use those arms if occasion demanded, and the probable using of arms indicates one thing, and that is to cause injury to the person against whom they are used.

All Guilty.

Hard threw down his revolver man Pat threw down his revolver on the floor Sidney Murrell picked it up, and there is the evidence of many witnesses that this revolver was picked up almost at the spot where Sidney Murrell was brought to the ground by the men who were chasing him up. Now, upon that evidence you have no doubt as to who fired the fatal shot. Do you see, gentlemen of the jury, that after serious consideration of all the circumstances, and after considering the evidence given, in the light of surrounding circumstances now, that is direct evidence. one is sent to watch the door, one is All Guilty.

"I make clear if two or more have an unlawful object in view, and they arm themselves in order to carry out that object, and somebody is injured by one of them, the one who fired the shot and the others who took part are guilty in the eyes of the law. Another case might be where law. Another case might be where three men resolve to injure a man; they are all armed; two fire at him and they miss, and one fires and hit and causes death. They are all guilty of murder; they all have one common intention to injure this other person, and so it is that if men are armed and go to commit a robbery, which is undoubtedly a unlawful and saw his brother drop, and the prisoner Murrell run away. Now that is direct evidence, and it is for you to say whether you believe it or not. The counsel for the prisoner very ingeniously and very ably criticized the evidence given by John Stuart Campbell, because at three different times when he was examined there may have been some slight discrepancies given on these occasions, but, gentlemen, you will remember that these occurrences were over two and a half years ago, and that on that day there was poswere 'over two and a half years ago, and that on that day there was possibly the most exciting scene that this village of Melbourne has ever seen or that any of these witnesses had ever taken part in. Is it any wonder that there should be some slight variation in the stories, no duty to give it if there is any rea-sonable doubt in your minds. coming to this particular case, the charge is that on the 11th day of April, 1921, at this village of Melbourne, these two accused and others, who are not here, murdered Russell Campbell. The first duty that devolves upon me in that respect is to define to you what is murder, and I will do that by reading from the Criminal Code, which is clear and explicit and certain in its terms: First, I will read you the section that defines homicide. Homicide is the killing of a human being directly or indirectly by any means whatever. Homicide may be either culpable or not culpable. Homicide is culpable when it consists in the killing of any person either by an unlawful act, or by an omission, without lawful excuse, to perform or tell? day of April, 1921, at this village of

Then there is the evidence of Mr. ception, to do an act which causes that person's death, Culpable homicide is either murder or manslaughter. "You only are concerned here with culpable homicide, and the book says culpable homicide, and the book says that culpable homicide consists of the killing of any person either by an unsaw two men in a grip. One was saw two men in a grip. killing of any person either by an unlawful act or by anything without lawful excuse to perform or observe any legal duty, or by both combined.

That is the definition of homicide and Campbell. In Murrell's hand was a revolver pointed at Campbell. I heard a shot and shortit consists in the killing of any person by an unlawful act. That is the only thing you will have to consider here.

Two Divisions.

"Then there are two divisions of culpable homicide. One is murder and the other is manslaughter, and it is my intention to define to you to difference between the two divisions of the considerable, that such direct evidence in the case of murder has been advanced, but it is for you to say whether you accept this evidence or not. Then there is the evidence of Mr. John Mair. He is cence; every man is presumed inno-cent until proven guilty. Some other countries have a different law or practice from that, but you are here is murder if the offender means to prisoner. It is for you to say whether you can place reliance on his evidence. He says that on this ms evidence. He says that on this morning he saw a man facing the street, and he saw a man coming toward the street. A man came out and ran away. It is for you to say whether that evidence points to whether that evidence points to whether the fatal shot was fired by admissions made by Sidney Murrell-Dr. Freele, who you saw in the box. It is for you to say whether you attach credence to his evidence. Dr. Freele apparently was handed these revolvers on the day of the shooting, and he says he asked Murrell whether the bullet taken from the body of Russell Campbell was from his re-volver. He looked at it and said Coroner's Evidence. "Then there is the evidence of Dr. Woods, the coroner. You also saw him, and know whether to place reliance in his evidence. He said Stuart Campbell came up to Murrell when he was tied at the corner, and when he was tied at the corner, and pointed to him and said, 'You shot my brother.' He said, 'I'm not dneying it; I fired five shots.' Then there is the evidence of Robert Campbell, and he says that in the same place, and he says that in the same place, and on the same occasion, he saw Stuart Campbell, who said to Murrell, 'Did you shoot my brother?' That is the way he put it, and he ermit a crime is guilty.

"Now follows the section to which I fired five shots."

"Then there is the evidence of Robert Campbell, the brother, who heard the shots in the alleyway, and who afterward found the body of his brother, Russell Campbell. That is the direct evidence. If you believe it, gentlèmen, what conclusion car you draw?

"The evidence that Murrell had this revolver, the evidence of Williams that he had this revolver, the evidence of the doctors that the bul-let found in the body fit the revolver -it fit or it could not have shot out, as it was a very large calibre. There is no proof that there was any other revolver other than that Sidney Mur-rell had, because you will remember that the witness said that when this man Pat threw down his revolver on the floor Sidney Murrell picked it is direct evidence purpose, and they have the arms for the purpose of resisting arrest, resisting detection, resisting capture, and one uses firearms and kills someone, they are all guilty of murder.

"Now, gentlemen, applying the law to the facts in this case, you will have to consider in the first instance Russell Campbell was killed. There has been no serious denial and no consideration of that is necessary. The doctors have given the evidence and it is uncontradicted, and the evidence shows that the death of Russell Campbell was caused by a bullet wound. Then the next thing to consider is who fired the shot. Now I am dealing with a direct act. I shall also deal later with the indirect. On evidence at hand I think it is the intention of the crown to show that the fatal shot was fired by the prisoner Murrell. What is the evidence of the eye-witnesses. You can accept or reject the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the eye-witnesses. You can accept or reject the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the eye-witnesses. You can accept or reject the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the eye-witnesses. You can accept or reject the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the eye-witnesses. You can accept or reject the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the evidence of any of them as you see fit. You have the evidence of the evidence of any of the massed that they were the evidence of any of the prisoner and the order was a the back door with a gun in his hand, and told him to get back. He identified Williams as the back door with a gun in his hand, and told him to get back. He identified Williams as the back are the first was tied up. I identify Williams as the bank in the door, and some one pointed a revolver at hother the heard the flash of a gun and saw h there is the evidence of Robert E. Campbell. He said when he first went to the bank he noticed two men standing inside the bank with firearms. He says later in his evidence, 'I identify Williams as one of the men on guard.'

Was It Coercion?

"Now, gentlemen, if you believe that evidence—what is there to contradict or cast suspicion upon it? What does it mean? Does it mean that this man Williams was there under pressure, coercion, standing guard at the bank door, pointing a revolver at the people to keep away so that the others might commit the robbery?

"If it means that, what other conclusion can be reached by you than

"If it means that, what other conclusion can be reached by you than that Williams was a partner to the robbery, that he had firearms, took an active part in keeping away any person going to the rescue or to stop the robbery, and that he along with the others had a common intention of committing this unlawful act, and that the unlawful act, the robbery of the bank, consisting of the entering into the bank, the abstraction of the money, and the fleeing of the prisoners with the money and their freedom from arrest or detection? The robbery is not complete when the money is taken. It is to get away, fleeing with their spoils. Now if during the pursuit or the fleeing of the prisoners an unlawful act is committed, I charge you gentlemen, as a matter of law, that that is part of the unlawful purpose. If you find from the facts that there was a common intention to commit an unlawful act by these two prisoners, and the two men who are not here, it is all one transaction, the entry, the taking of the money, and the fleeing of the prisoners with the money, and if during that time a murder was committed, and you think that the murder was the work of men committing an unlawful act, armed with revolvers, then every man of that party ting an unlawful act, armed with re volvers, then every man of that party is, in the eyes of the law, guilty of murder, through a common intention murder, through a common intention to commit an unlawful offence, if they committed this burglary, being armed for the purpose of injuring any person who might interfere with their criminal operations.

Probable Consequence. "Is there or is there not a probable consequence that any person who attempts to interfere with these men in their robbery would be injured, or would be shot? If you come to the conclusion that they were appeared in Mair's actions in the box when he had his reading glasses on, and had his reading glasses on, and when he changed to his other when he changed to his other this bank, and that it was their intention, and probable consequence of being armed, that any person was injured or shot, then every one is guilty of the crime of murder, Let whether that evidence points to whether the fatal shot was fired by whether. Then there is the evidence of an eye-witness to certain admissions made by Sidney Murrel—of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the committed murder in the eyes of the law, and they are all responsible to the law, and they are all responsibl sible.
"Sitting as a jury it is your duty to find a verdict as applied to the evidence. There may be in your mind some idea that they are not equally guilty or culpable, and that upon rep-resentations made to the proper au-thorities a distinction will be drawn. It then becomes your duty, your sole duty, to determine whether or not the law as I have stated it to you, and as you apply it to the evidence if these men are guilty or not. Who Fired Shot?

"You have then to consider who fired this fatal shot. If you come to the conclusion that the shot was fired by the prisoner Murrell, what ver-dict could you give except that he dict could you give except that he would be guilty of the crime? If you find that Russell Campbell was killed by one of that party, it does not matter whether it was Murrell or not, and that they were engaged in robbing, and that they were armed, and as a probable consequence of their being armed, and engaged in that they were armed, and as a probable consequence of their being armed, and engaged in the them. that uhlawful occupation, and that somebody was injured, then they are all equally guilty as far as you are concerned.
"You have a few aspects to consider.

First, who fire dthe fatal shot? If you assume Murrell fired it, you will have no difficulty as far as he is concerned. If you find some one else fired the fatal shot, then you will have to consider the other phase of the question, whether there was an unlawful act engaged in. If you come to that conclusion they are all guilty to that conclusion, they are all guilty They are not here, they will be dealt with when the time comes. We are trying them upon the evidence before you. You have listened with great care, great attention to the evidence given you. Any juror who is called upon a case of murder has a most serious and painful duty and a very serious responsibility. From that duty I ask you gentlemen, not to shrink. It is for you to say whether or not these accused men are guilty or not guilty. Your country looks to you to do your duty. Not To Be Swayed.

"You are not to be swayed on the one hand by sympathy either for the accused because of their unfortunate position, nor by sympathy for the friends and relatives of this gallant young man who gave his life defending law and order. You are not to be governed by a feeling of revenge; Williams' Story.

"We now shall come to the connection of the prisoner Williams. You have heard of the meeting in Murrell's home in London; you have heard of the theft of the car at Byron; you have heard of the trip to Melbourne; of the observation of the Home Bank as these men passed; then of the conversation in the woods, and of their return to Melbourne, and you are asked by counsel for the crown to draw from all those circumstances, coupled with what subsequently followed, as to whether or not it was a common intention on the part of these men and intention of the conversation in the woods, and of their return to Melbourne, and you are asked by counselved with a criminal offence shall be tried before 12 men; the verdict of these men must be unanimous. Now the case is in your hands; the responsibility is yours, and I have every confidence that you will discharge your duties without he plain facts. When you have returned to the jury-room and have articled to the jury-room and the plain facts.

ASK $14,600 INCREASE FOR PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS

PUBLIC UTILITIES BODY PRESENTS ESTIMATES

Tentative Figures For 1924 Show That $14,600 of Increase Is Needed For Carrying Out of Parks and Playgrounds Program-Net Increase in Waterworks Revenue Estimated at $6,251.26.

FIGURES COVER COMMISSION'S ACTIVITIES

Tentative estimates for 1924, which were presented at yesterday's meeting of the public utilities commission, an overdraft of $7,644.79, which will ing of the public utilities commission, showed an increase of $14,600 in the amount of money that will be requested from next year's council for parks and playgrounds. This is offect, to some extent by the estimated net revenue increase of the waterworks department of $6,251.26.

The estimates, prepared by General Manager E. V. Buchanan, cover every phase of activity of the commission, with the exception of the electrical department, for which the commission is responsible to the provincial body and not the municipality.

The estimates of the park committee were the first presented, and these were gone into thoroughly. In the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction account a large increase is noted, this being for the construction of roads and other improvements, notably at Springbank Park. Maintenance shows a decrease, as does the appropriation for the zoo. An overdraft of $7,412.34 for 1922, which was carried into this year, has been wiped out, and there is no prospect of one being added to the 1924 figures.

W. H. GREENWOOD, FORMER EDITOR

Became Managing Editor of London, Ontario, Paper in 1904.

SIR HAMAR BROTHER

Toronto, Oct. 19.-William Hamar Greenwood, well known Toronto newspaperman, died this morning at his home, 23 Rosborough street west, after a lingering illness. For many years well known in journalism in Toronto and London, he subsequently was engaged in financial promotion endeavors in England. Sir Hamar Greenwood, former chief secretary for Ireland, is a brother. Born in Whitby, Ontario, 51 years ago, second son of the late John Hamar Greenwood, barrister, "Billy" Greenwood graduated with honors in political science at the University of Toronto, and entered as a law student at Osgoode Hall, but soon followed his inclination and took to newspaper work as a reporter for the World. Endowed with a natural talent for the gathering and attractalent for the gathering and attractive presentation of news, and with a personality that easily made and retained friendships, and possessed of a brilliant style in writing, he quickly achieved success and became city editor and then news editor. For a time, too, he represented the World in the parliamentary press gallery at Ottawa.

In 1904 he became managing editor of the London Free Press, but returned to the World as managing director, from which he resigned to go to V-acouver in theinterests of a London, England financial house. During the war he was director of upblicity for the Canada Food Board.

DECLARES FIRST MAN MAY HAVE BEEN WOMAN

Professor McGregor Returns From Europe After Studying "Ape Man."

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Oct. 18 .- The first man GOD-FEARING AND SERIOUS may have been a woman. ...
This was the opinion expressed to-day by Prof. Howard J. McGregor, research associate in human anatomy of the American Museum of Natural History, who recently returned from as vigorous as many men much Europe, where he studied the fossil remains of Pithecanthropuserectus, remains of Pithecanthropuserectus, as the scientists call it, or the "man ape." The specimen was discovered at Trinil, Java, 1891-92, by Professor Eugene Dubois of the University of Amsterdam. Many experts have written about the "missing link" with the pithecanthropuserectus as their subject.

Professor McGregor had free access to the remains, and made further measurements and drew several new conclusions. The idea that the "man ape" may have been a "woman ape," he said, is based on measurements of the left thigh bone. Instead of being straight up and down like a man's, it has an obliquity of form similar to a woman's.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1923. The Jury Disagreed.

"I am not surprised at any verdict a jury brings in nowadays." Words to that effect constituted the pun gent criticism of the crown prosecutor in the murder trial just concluded in London.

The verdict did come as a surprise -that states the case mildly. The hours. charge of Mr. Justice Wright to the jury was very clear and very definite. He reviewed the evidence of men who swore they had seen the crime committed. Eyewitnesses to a murder are not often available, as a to state the facts. shooting is generally done in a secret place with no one around.

The movements of the accused were traced from the time they left out his finger on the exact line which states that all parties who come together for the carrying out of an unlawful act are equally guilty in the eyes of the law, regardless of which one does the shooting.

There is sound reason for such a claim. Four men go to rob a bank. They arm themselves with revolvers so that they may be able to intimidate or, if necessary, shoot any person who interferes with the carrying out of their unlawful purpose. No one person is named to do the shooting: that will depend on do it. The fact that any particular one does it is only an incident in law. the eyes of the law.

Do not I fill heaven and earth? saith the Lord .- Jer. xxiii., 24. Our daily existence sometimes seems to us a thing of small account It appears to be made up of endless petty tasks and a few petty easures and many petty trials.

It produces no great results. We just go on attending to the details of business in a small office. keeping house in a quiet street; and the children are a little larger this year than they were last year; and we have a few more gray hairs; and we have managed to meet our obligations fairly well.

But we wonder what we are sent into the world for. My friend, you were sent into the world to live your life with God. If He can come into this life of yours, you ought to think well of it. All its daily duties, all its small delights, should seem to you refined nd uplifted by the divine participation in them.

Let us learn that the whole Christian life, whether it is lived on a large scale or a small one, is a beautiful and worthy life. What God requires of us is not to accomplish anything wonderful, but to do justice and love mercy and walk humbly with our God. God has two thrones-one in the highest heaven, one in the lowliest

SPLENDID MUSIC

Beauty, comedy and music, reminiscent of Gilbert and Sullivan, but with even more distinctive gorgeousness, were offered to the theatre-ness, were offered to the theather going public last evening at the Grand Opera House.

It was the first presentation of the pleasing New York Globe comedy-opera, "Good Morning Dearie," and it proved to be a production that will stir delightful memories in all who saw it for years to come.

It is doubtful if Londoners ever witnessed a more perfect combination of delicious humor and marvelous artistry. Elements which raise a show to the highest metroplitan standards are here blended with the masterful Originally, Absorbine Jr. was sold only as a pain reliever and an embrocation. It was quickly discovered that the liniment was positive death to all forms of germ life, and it is now used as a mouth wash, for wound dressing and for all disinfecting purposes.

A Wm. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., applied Absorbine Jr. to a varicose vein to relieve the intense pain. Not only did the pain leave, but he noticed every day the swollen vein becoming smaller. The treatment was kept up and, today, Mr. Pratt's legs, though he has never used anything else on them, are as smooth as when he was a boy. It has now been proved that Absorbine Jr. is an actual specific for varicose veins, leg ulcers, boils, pyorrhoea and a number of other ailments and injuries besides that for which it was first prepared. Nothing serves so many every day purposes and nothing is better entitled to be place in every home. When it is needed, it will be needed in a hurry. Don't wait for someone to be hurt. The Northwest Mounted Police will continue to inspire film producers. "The Eternal Struggle between love and duty. But the lements which combine to make this picture are strong enough to down any handicap of this type.

Rene Adoree, an actress who here-tofore has had only small bits to play in the pictures comes well to the fore in "The Eternal Struggle." The cast is oddly chosen, but the none the less interesting for all that. It includes Earle Williams, Barbara La Marr, Pat O'Mally, Joseph Swickard, Wallace Beery. There are some splendidly filmed scenes in Northeren Canada, lending additional interest and not a trifle too long drawn out, giving one the impression that the same scene had been shot from various angles. But even with these flaws, "The Et

Although the cast of "Good Morning Dearle" more than justifies its reputation for being one of the best balanced of its kind on the road, the inclusion of winsome Virginia Watson, who plays the stellar role as Rose-Marie, contributes substantially to the success of the production. This slender Broadway star, with her radiant smile and fawn-like dancing, is, from the spectator's standpoint, radiant smile and fawn-like dancing, is, from the spectator's standpoint, "a joy forever," and manages to convey an atmosphere that is as healthy as it is entertaining. She leaps to and fro eerily, with elfin grace, mincing about from scene to scene and behaving just like a pranksome little fay. Few actresses are so fortunate as to possess the combination of musical comedy requisites as those possessed by Miss Watson. She presents a picture of refreshing unsophistication, and her literally "million dollar smile" cannot help but awaken dreams of youth in the aged and visions of delight in youth.

Deserve Praise.

Others, too, are deserving of high praise, particularly Lou Powers, whose exhibition last night gives him nigh rank in the none too large list of really good fun-makers. Edward Allen as "Chesty." the Bowery boy, gives a faithful portrayal of those lovely lads who haunt Park avenue and other more or less disreputable precincts of New York City. Mr. Allen is probably the third or fourth best dance contortionist in America, and when he and his diminutive partner, Miss Kitty Clarke, negotiated a novelty edition of the "Boston whirl" they were encored repeatedly.

The words, too, reflect the quality of the production and the Sunshine Girls with their admirable. Vaudeville and Feature Picture Both Provide Excellent Entertainment.

THRILLING STORY

The week concludes with a splendid bill at Loew's. The vaudeville program is consistently good. The feature picture is one of a steady, rational type which can't boast of a except its large measure of those attributes which go to make up entertainment.

The vaudeville opens with The Duponts, a clever team of jugglers. They juggle to time with the orchestra, they juggle while dancing, and one member of the team, manages to eat an apple, also while juggling. By and large, these are rather clever stunts. The Criterion Four are a first-class example of an act built on harmony. The minstrel skit was particularly

CROWN COUNSEL MAINTAINS CASE AGAINST PRISONERS WAS DEFINITELY PROVEN

Donahue Urges Murrell and Williams Be Given Benefit of Doubt.

REVIEWS EVIDENCE

Crown Prosecutor in Opening Address Asks Only For Justice.

Counsel in the Melbourne murder case launched into their addresses to the jury yesterday afternoon, Mr. Donahue opening his remarks at 1:50

Mr. Donahue apologized for his remarks to the judge during the trial, regretted he was not physically capable of placing the case properly before the jury, and deeply regretted there had been so much prejudice against the prisoners since April, 1921.

Spectators were told they must leave before the address began or they would not be able to leave until they had been concluded.

Lunch seemed to have refreshed Sidney Murrell. Williams, however; did not seem to be in a very con-fident mood. He kept looking at the furors continually, as if studying the face of every man who was to decide his fate. At times, the prisoner seemed very downcast.

Although the prisoners were brought in at 1:32 o'clock, the case brought in at 1:32 o'clock, the case did not commence until some moments later. A crown consultation caused the delay.

Hon. Mr. Justice Wright did not take the bench until the consultation was concluded.

The prisoners were placed in the dock at 1:32. Williams gazed straight at the jurors, while Murrell bit his lips nervously. He whispered to Williams, who showed no signs he had heard him. Murrell tapped the floor nervously with his right foot. His lips moved slowly for a short time, and then he raised his left hand to suppress a yawn.
While Dr. Wilson, jail physician, gave evidence as to the bullet wounds on Williams' fingers, "Slim" chewed gum vigorously. Murrell also started to chew gum, but his mouth did not move so continuously as that of Williams.

Witness Was Guarded. While Williams gave his-evidence, Detective Down and a provincial officer were stationed near the witness-box. At times Williams turned his eyes away from the crown prosecutor, Mr. T. J. Rigney, K. C., while the latter was cross-examining him. On several occasions he stated he had intention of killing anyone, that ien he was handed the gun by Pat, While Mr. Rigney was asking Williams many questions, which had not been touched in Williams' story, Mr.

Donahue registered an objection.

Williams, he said, had been intermed while in custody and he while in custody and he wanted to know the source of Mr. Rigney's information. The judge ruled counsel did not have to disclose the information.

Apparently Mr. Donahue was referring to an interview an Advertiser reporter had with Williams in Kingston. Penitentiary on Wednesday,

Although Williams spoke clearly while on the stand, his voice trembled at times.

Mr. Donahue began his address to the jury at 1:50.
"I regret the pre-judgment against

ASKS EMULATION OF LLOYD GEORGE BY BROTHERHOOD

Rev. Dr. W. Beattie Urges King Street Churchmen To Imitate Welshman.

OFFICERS ELECTED

An appeal for world brotherhood as being the key to a solution of international, national and municipal problems, was made by several speakers at the annual brotherhood supper of the King Street Presbyterian Church last night. Rev. Dr. William Beattie, David Ross, president of the Brotherhood Federation. and Mayor George Wenige addressed the banqueters on subjects dealing with fraternity, and all expressed the thought that human consideration for one's fellowmen would, in time overcome all world difficulties.

George Perry, the president, opened the speaking program with reference to the activities of the brotherhood during the past year. He was followed by Rev. Dr. W. Beattie, who spoke on "Lloyd George."

"The little Welsh giant," Dr. Beattie declared, "is an example for all men. He is a living exemplification of brotherhood, possessing all those virtues which raise a man to the highest pinnacles of material fame.

Men would do well to emulate Lloyd George's magnetism kindness of George's magnetism, kindness of heart and sincerity of purpose."

Value of Brotherhood.

David Ross stressed the value of brotherhood in solving the problems of the globe. He compared the Israel of old with Canada. Israel, he said, was situated between nations which were antagonistic to one another, but she ultimately showed them the merits of fraternity, pointing out the way to God. Similarly Canada and the United States, geographically located between Europe and Asia, have been given an opportunity of showing nations of the world the proper path Canada can bring cost proper path. Canada can bring east and west together, and relieve the chaotic conditions now existing in the old world by setting an example of tolerance for all courtries.

It has been suggested in city council that Mayor Wenige had purposely delayed the wage and salary question in order that he could use the results as handy "election propaganda."

Offers Novel Idea for Uncongenial Couples.

If You Are Contemplating Divorce, Try the "Star-Boarder Plan" First-Your Children Will Have a Home and a Father's Care, and Your Husband May Fall in Love With You All Over Again.

A woman writes me that her husband tells her that he has ceased to love her and that he wishes to sever their relationship as husband and wife, but that he does not wish a divorce or want to go away and leave his children, to whom he is devoted.

At this the woman is greatly aggrieved, but it seems to me that it is a wise solution of a diffi-cult problem, and one that many other uncongenial couples might adopt with profit instead of fly-ing to the divorce courts, and breaking up homes, and leaving a lot of helpless little children half orphans. For the real crime of divorce is against the chil-

A woman, infuriated at her husband, rushes off and gets a divorce, thereby depriving her children of the adequate support their father would have furnished them, of the education, the position in society, the start in life, he would have given them. Worst of all, depriving them of a father's control, of his influence and guidance, for no mother, no matter how she loves her children, has the strength and firmness to cope, single-handed, with headstrong young-

A man with a grudge against his wife divorces her. If the court gives him the children, he must farm them out to relatives, or put them in schools, or have them reared by servants, and no devotion on his part can give them the two strongest influences for good in the world, a home and mother's love and prayers.

Statistics show that nearly 90 per cent of the youthful criminals are the children of divorced parents, or come from unhappy homes. This being the case, the two people who are responsible for the life of a child are in duty and in honor bound to help him make the best of that life, no matter at what cost to themselves.

The theory that men and women never divorce their wives, and husbands unless the party of the first part has committed some unforgivable crime against the party of the second part is ridiculous. The real things that lead to divorce are nagging, and petty tyranny, and stinginess, and fretting and whining, and slovenliness, and laziness. When one has to endure these things day after day, year after year, they get on one's nerves and become unen-durable.

Nor do the husbands and wives who get divorces invariably hate each other and consider each other villains. On the contrary they often express sincere admiration for each other's good qualities, and have the friendliest feelings toward each other so long as they do not have to suffer from the faults that got on their nerves.

It is the terrible closeness of people to each other in matri-mony that is its bane. It is the helplessness of those bound together for life that is matrimony's undoing. It is the opportunity for persecution it gives that makes marriage so hard to endure Take these away, and you would take the curse from it. Many a man and woman would like each other well enough and would able to get along in peace and harmony if only they were not, married to each other.

To these people the suggestion of the man who proposes to exchange the role of husband for that of star boarder should be a signboard pointing the way out of their difficulties, and along a road that blossoms with the flowers of duty well done instead of being strewn with the skeletons of

The man would not have to give up his home, he would not be separated from his children, he would still be ministered to by a wife who know his taste in cooking, and to these blessings he would have added personal liberty.

For no landlady would dream of not giving her star boarder a latchkey, nor would she feel called upon to regulate his hours, or nag him about his little personal peculiarities.

Far from it. The star boarder is the gentleman who pays the rent and who gets the white meat of the chicken, and the top of the cream bottle; who is listened to with respect when he speaks, and all of whose jokes are greeted with uproarious laughter.

To be catered to, and flattered, and treated with respect and admiration would be a novelty to many a husband, but it is the invariable attitude of the landlady toward her best-paying boarder. If every woman treated her husband as she would treat a profitable boarder, there would be fewer divorces.

And many a woman would be lucky enough to exchange a husband for a boarder. It would solve the money question for her, because the boarder would expect to pay adequately the woman who works to make him com-fortable. It would cure the kicker, for no boarder would dare to say to his landlady the things many a man says to his wife. And it would go a long ways toward keeping a husband at home just to know that his wife regarded him as a boarder whose goings and comings were of no interest

Often the star boarder and the landlady fall in love with each other. The boarder husband and wife would do the same, and they would live together happily ever afterward if they had learned their lesson about not trying to tyrannize over each other.

A Help in Sitting Up One mother says:

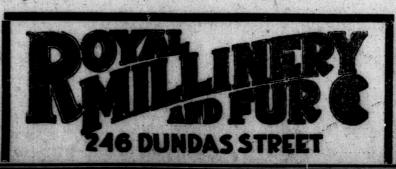

When our little roly-poly first discarded automobile tire placed flat on the floor saved her many bad bumps. We placed a pad in the centre and covered it with a soft blanket, tucking it under the cuter edges of the tire. Her playthings were placed within reach and she took keen delight in beating them against the rebounding surface of the tire.

To Call Game Off

L. C. I. Has Numerous Casualties as Reason.

Efforts are being made by the Central Collegiate to have tomorrow's tilt with St. Thomas C. I. called off.

A big casualty list is the reason, but the answer is likely to be unfavorable, local officials think.

Wanless, Chapman and Rourke are three of the regulars who are limping around, and far from comfortable, though if St. Thomas insists, they'll be back on the job today.

This is the last game of the homeand-home affair, and despite their beating the locals believe they learned enough on Wednesday to give them a good chance of tieing up the round.

Practically the same line-up will be used by Coach Doolittle.

Out of Jail Into Ring and Back

Newark Fighter 'Allowed Out To Fight in Bout.

Special to The Advertiser.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 19. — Teddy Smacka, local bantamweight boxer, who is serving a two-weeks' sentence in the Essex County jail here, tonight get a "leave of absence" from the jail long enough to make a flying trip to Passaic, where he defeated Willie D'Arcy of New York in a ten-round bout.

Smacka, with his trainer, I. N. Mott, were both sentenced to two weeks in jail for failure to attend drills of the New Jersey National Guard, to which they belong. They began their sentence a week ago. The bout, however, had been arranged a month ago, and after much pleading by Smacka's manager the military authorities granted the boxer four hours' leave from the jail.

The W.O.R. have further strengthened their forward line by the addition of Sid Parsons, a young player of splendid physique and a very powerful shot with either foot. This is the third successive year the W.O.R. have been in the final of this c.jp, and have failed on the two previous occasions. The players are bent on winning the game on Saturday, and the old adage that the "third time always does the trick" will have to be proven if right or wrong. In any case, a splendid exhibition of football will be seen, and the public are requested to turn out in large numbers to see this game.

Zev and Papyrus Will Be the First To Race For Cup.

New York, Oct. 18 .- The Jockey Club has donated a gold cup, to be known as the International Challenge Cup, to be a perpetual challenge trophy to be raced tions, is announced today by the Racing Calendar, the official organ of the Jockey Club, and published monthly by hat organization.

OPEN TO WORLD

The new trophy is to be run for the first time by Zev and Papyrus on Satur-Gay afternoon at Belmont Park, and cup will pass to the country represented by the winner. If Papyrus wins the cup will pass into the custody of the Jockey Club in England. If Zev wins it will remain here in the hands of the Jockey Club until such time as the American defender shall be beaten in an international race. The cup is valued at $5,000. Another trophy will go to the winner of Saturday's race, in addition to $80,000 of the $100,000 race.

The idea of the international race originated with Robert L. Gerry, a member of the Jockey Club, and because of that Mr. Gerry offered to present the trophy under a suitable deed of trust, after it had been decided that it was advisable to offer a cup for inter-national competition. At the recent meeting of the Jockey Club a draft of the declaration of trust was approved.

BRILLIANT STUFF

match race, however, the jockey club's step had been interpreted in some quarters as indicating the possible withdrawal of the Rancocas coit.

Major Belmont explained that the committee simply desired to leave nothing to chance, pointing out that My Own was designated as first arternate by the committee, and that Unidy, the second alternate, had already been eliminated as a possible substitute by breaking down

Nerves and Blood Are Life
The lack of nerve force is found among men of all ages. This is true with men in all walks of life, from the day laborer to the mechanic or professional man. Merchant and clergy are alike sufferers—no man is exempt from the ailment who has rebelled against nature's laws—so if you have the result of overwork, dissipation, sedentary habits or worry, and your vital organs are disturbed, remember, delay in seeing the right doctor makes it more difficult to overcome the symptoms, and you might reach an incurable condition beyond relief if you delay too long.

My Equipment is composed of the latest and best known agents in Electrical, Surgical and Mechanical apparatus, and I am prepared by the knowledge of their uses and the experiences in prescribing them so as to get the greatest uniform results from them.

I Am Prepared to Give You Berums. Bacterins, Vaccines and any and all forms of treatment of this character that have been tried and proved a success.

ST. THOMAS CAGERS DISCUSS EARLY PLANS

St. Thomas, Oct. 18.—There was a fine turnout at the big basketball meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. here tonight when plans were discussed for the formation of city leagues to run off schedules before Christmas. The representation was good, including delegates from the various churches, business concerns social organizations and resentation was good, including delegates from the various churches, business concerns, social organizations and factories. The méeting was presided over by H. A. McKerracher, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., who is taking a great interest in the promotion of basketball in the city.

Mr. McKerracher definitely announced that practices would start soon for the juvenile and junior O. A. B. A. teams that would be entered by the "Y." He referred to the winning of the championship by the juveniles last year, and hoped that they would make another record this year.

Referring to the possibility of St. Thomas placing an intermediate team in the O. A. B. A. series, he did not have very much to say. He believed that a start made in this direction would be worth while, as there was plenty of material in the city. If an intermediate team is entered, it will probably be grouped with London. Another meeting will be called in the very near future when plans will be completed for the city leagues and also the entering of teams in the O. A. B. A. series.

Foresee Jack Renault as Next Man To Battle Jack

Dempsey. WILL MEET

Associated Press Despate New York, Oct. 18 .- A Canadian contender for Jack Dempsey's heavyweigh tender for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown may arise from a series of elimination tests expected to take place during the winter season.

The first important encounter having a bearing on the heavyweight ring situation is likely to be Floyd Johnson of Iowa and Jack Renault, the Canadian champion. Johnson has been improving steadily since his knockout at the hands of Jess Willard last May, while Renault has added several victims to his list.

The winner of a Johnson-Renault bout probably would be matched with the victor of the proposed contest between Georges Carpentler of France and Tom Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn., who went fifteen rounds with Dempsey at Sheiby, Mont., last July 4. Carpentier has accepted terms offered him by Tex Rickard, but Gibbons has not yet come to a definite agreement with the promoter.

Emblem of North Oxford Softball Championship Goes To Drury Club Nine.

Woodstock, Oct. 18.—Prior to the U. F. O. Provincial Girls' softball final game at Stratford on Wednesday afternoon, the Tavistock Gazette trophy, emblem of the championship of North Oxford, was handed over to the leaders of the Drury Club, whose team won the title, by the donor of the cup. L. W. Appel. The trophy is a handsome one, and a formal presentation will be made at a later date.

The Drury Girls have done exceptionally well this year, and their success is largely due to the fine spirit which animated the team. This spirit was shown in a striking fashion yesterday, when Hazel McKay, first baseman of the team, who is now attending Toronto University, made the trip from Toronto specially to play in the final game for the provincial U. F. O. championship. Isabel Bain, the shortstop of the team, who is now a student at the London Normal School, made a special trip from London to take part in the game. Both of these players were in first-class form in yesterday's contest, and helped materially in the victory won by their team.

PRESENT TROPHY TO OWEN SOUND WINNER

Special to The Advertiser.

Owen Sound, Oct. 18.—Whole-heated tribute to "Owen Sound, a better place to live in," coupled with striking laudation of clean sport and clean spirit in this city featured the Canadian Legion football banquet Wednesday evening, the occasion being the presentation of the Keenan trophy to the Canadian Legion team, senior champions of the City Football League for 1923.

The Legion clubrooms was the scene of the banquet, and seated around the table were a large number of friends and supporters of the team. Arthur Day proved a very able chairman and toastmaster. Toasts to the king, city, football team, football executive, donor of trophy and press were drunk, and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

NAVIN DENIES TIGERS

Rumors Had It Ex-Sox Pilot To Assist Ty Cobb.

Special to The Advertiser. Detroit, Oct. 18 .- Frank J. Navin this afternoon denied that William (Kid) Gleason, who resigned as manager o the Chicago White Sox yesterday, would be engaged as assistant manager of the Detroit team for 1914.

Late in the season came several rumors that Gleason would resign his job in Chicago to become Ty Cobb's assistant in Detroit. Cobb, when his attention was called to the rumors, said that no negotiations had been started for Gleason's services, although Cobb has always been one of Gleason's admirers and closest friends. Cobb said that as far as he knew Gleason would continue to manage the Chicago Americans.

NEED OF EDUCATION

Brantford, Oct. 19.-Premier Fer Brantford, Oct. 19.—Premier Ferguson and Attorney-General Nickle were congratulated in their elections by the delegates of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who are holding their convention here. The members expressed the hope that the laws of the province would be fearlessly administered, and especially the C. T. A. A motion of thanks was also sent to Mr. Raney for his service to the cause of temperance during his tenure of office.

One of the resolutions passed dealt with the sale of cheap literature, and asked that the laws regarding them be strictly enforced.

hem be strictly enforced.

Immediately after dinner, the convention was addressed by Mr. Hanley, who is conducting evangelistic services in Paris. The speaker paid a fine tribute to the sterling work of the White Ribbon Band. Concluding his address, Mr. Hanley asked that the delegates place themselves on record to strive for peace. This latpeter was crystallized in a memorial presented by Mrs. Thornley, which read: "We deplore all war that is not for a moral principle or for the defence of weaker nations."

Mrs. H. B. Christy of Brantford along temperance lines.

The evening session opened with the usual devotions, followed by music rendered by the choir of Brant-Avenue Methodist Church. Dr. Mc-Avenue Methodist Chu.ch. Dr. Mc-Tavish delivered the evening address, speaking on "Yestetrdays, Todays and Tomorrows." In spite of the strenuous three-day session, the speaker held his audience for an hour and a-half. He appealed to his hear-ers to be always of good cheer, and to make fun in the world. "What you are speaks louder than what you you are speaks louder than what you say." The convention will in all probability conclude today.

Party Becoming Increasingly Important Factor in German Politics.

Berlin, Oct. 19 .- The United Socialists are becoming increasingly mportant factors in the German political situation. Not only is the parliamentary party apparently unable to deal with the demands of the nasses for economic reforms, thereby threatening the tenure of its three members in the coalition cabinet, but its spokesmen have been conferring informally with representatives of the communists. The Socialists, who hitherto have refused to subscribe to th views of the ultra-radicals, still find the communist program so extreme that the conferences have been temporarily postponed, but the fact that the two radical groups have teen endcavoring to establish "a proletariat working alliance" is regarded as a significant indication that these parties desire to find common ground. The United Socialists are demanding repeal of the emergency act in the hopes of placating Saxony, which is taken as a possible forecast of the tarly retirement of the three Socialist ministers. Should this take place the Stresemann government would prohesticate the stresemann government would be stresemann government. Stresemann government would probably be forced out. The jury case of Noxel vs. Teare was started. The plaintiff is claiming damages for personal injury by a motor car on a highway. He claims negligence on the part of the defendant. Menzies & Cluff are acting for the plaintiff, and McEvoy, Judd & Henderson for the defendant.

The jury was chosen. A juror who had not been called, was found to be sitting in the jury box. He was asked to leave.

Counsel in the case agreed to a night session. Although it was 5:30 o'clock, the judge decided to sit for a few hours. He assured counsel it would be no hardship for him.

Three Ships Struck in the First Attack On the Narrows-Decide To Wait and Asquith Refuses To Interfere in the Matter of Dardanelles Attack.

LITTLE TRAMP STEAMER CAUSES DECISION

By RT. HON. WINSTON CHURCHILL ARTICLE XI.

On the morning of March 18 the whole allied fleet advanced to the narrows.

The foundation of the whole plan was that the battleships would only fight and manoeuvre in waters which had been thoroughly swept and were known to be clear of mines. On March 7 the bombarding area had been found free and was, in fact, free from mines. Sweeping operations had been carried out almost every night up to 8,000 yards from the narrows and a few sweeps had been made along the Asiatic shore. Eren Keui Bay had not, however, been swept to any large extent. An experiment carried out by the Ark Royal had led to the belief that a seaplane or aeroplane flying above a minefield could discern mines at 18 feet depth in the clear water below. The seaplanes frequently reported the presence of mines in the fleet? Several such mines were seen drifting down during the aftermoon, and had been grappled with by the hardy picket-boats. Moreover, but in the much wider and more questionable negative sense that there were no mines where none were reported.

ere none were reported. We now know that the experiment of the Ark Royal was misleading. The seaplanes could not, in fact, loand what they saw and reported were

The seaplanes could not, in fact, locate the regular Turkish minefields, and what they saw and reported were only mines exceptionally near the surface or submerged net buoys. Every allowance must be made for the difficulty of the task and for the limited means available for discharging it. But the operation of sweeping the areas from which the ships were to bombard, which were fully under our control and not at all to be confused with the strongly guarded regular minefields, was the indispensable preliminary to any navaistack upon the forts. This, as we know, was not achieved because the sweepers were inadequate both in numbers and efficiency, and this fact led directly to the losses in the attack of March 18, and indirectly to the abandonment of the whole naval enterprise.

For in the early and squally dawn of March 8, while the British night patrol of destroyers was withdrawing from the straits, the little Turkish steamer Nousret had laid a new line of twenty mines in Eren Keul Bay parallel to the shore and moored about 100 to 150 yards apart. These mines were intended to catch ships attempting to renew the bombardment from the positions in which they had worked on March 6 and 7. In fact, however, they played a recognizable part in the history of the great war. Three of them were found and destroyed by the sweepers on March 16, but as no more were moountered, it was not realized that they were part of a line of mine. There the rest lay during the tendand unsuspected. I regarded this news only as the results of the first day's fighting. It never occurred to me for a moment that we should not go on within the limits of what we had decided to risk, until we reached a decision one and the whole interior of the works was obstructed with debris.

The mine-sweepers were now ordered to advance. The French squadron which had borne the brunt was recalled and the battleships of the relief moved forward to take their places. Scarcely any damage had been done to the British ships, though the Inflexible had her forebridge wrecked and on fire; and several of the French ships had been a good deal knocked about.

The crews, protected by the strong steel armor. had suffered scarcely any loss. Not forty men in all had been killed or wounded. So far the plan seemed to be working well.

At 1:54, as the Bouvet was coming out of the straits, following her flagship, the Suffren, she struck one of the mines in Eren Keui Bay. The explosion fired her magazine and in two minutes she vanished beneath the surface in a cloud of smoke and steam, only 66 men being saved. The cause of her destruction was attributed on the Queen Elizabeth to a heavy shell, and the operations continued without a pause.

Inflexible, Irresistible Mined.

At 4:11 the Inflexible, which all day had been lying in or close to the unknown minefield, reported she had struck a mine. She took a serious list and her condition was evidently one of danger. Three minutes later it was seen that the Irre-

STOCKS MOVE HIGHER

Shipping and Mercantile Issues Improve—Result of Japanese Tonnage Demands.

By STUART B. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Oct. 19.—The principal movements in the stock market today were upward. There were one or two inotable exceptions like the Goodrich stocks and U.S. Rubber, which made new lows in response to the passing of the Lee Tire dividend and the publicity given the statement that tire prices were the lowest on record. But in the main operators on the short side were more timid than they have been in some time, recognizing that after a week of sharp breaks in individual stocks the general body of the list has shown no signs of liquidation. The inference was drawn that the market was well sold out and traders were at work on the long side wherever any initiative was shown.

Shipping stocks stood out prominently again under the lead of Mercantile Marine preferred and American National. A lot of buying took place on the supposition that at their low prices they were below their "assets value," regardless of the unprofitable conditions in the ocean-carrying trade.

Now, however, it appears that these conditions are on the mend, that the Japanese disaster has created a large demand for tonnage, and that for other reasons there is more inquiry for ship charters. The recovery in this class of stocks during the last few days has therefore had a twofold base.

Pan-American shares were sold again on reports that the company could do very well with an increase in working capital. The majority opinion was that this would be obtained through new financing. Some said that an announcement to this effect was to be looked for next week. The other idea was that while the next one or two quarterly dividends might be paid at the regular rate, the intention was to raise for next week. The other idea was that while the next one or two quar-terly dividends might be paid at the regular rate, the intention was to raise necessary funds later on by reduc-the distribution to shareholders. With the steels and equipment shares slowly hardening, the pressure was lifted from the rails and these stocks went higher. There was quite some activity at times in the Eries, Wabash A. Reading, and B. and O. Apparently there has been considerable switching into B. and O. from other five per cent railway stocks like those of the north-

Both Hogs and Sheep Finish with only one load realizing the top price.

The other sections of the market saw no trading, but the market officials say that with slio filing completed in most sections, tomorrow's market will be an immense one.

The appie crop throughout the London district is said to be better than average, and as the crop throughout the province is a good one, little exporting from this district is expected, and the price of apples is expected to drop still lower. The price of apples of one kind and another ranged from 75c to $1.15 per bushel, with slow sales.

The following is a list of today's market prices:

A few very choice picked steers sold The demand for the export trade ook care of about 600 cattle, purchased during the week, including heavy steers and a fair proportion of store cattle, the latter to be fed and finished mid the hills and vales of Bonnie Scotland. The weighty export steers sold from $6.50 to $7.50, and store cattle from $5.00 to $5.50.

to $7.50, and store cattle from $5.00 to $5.50.

The balance of the week's offerings consisted for the most of common quality cattle, the unfinished products of the annual fall farm clearings, where, from lack of feeding facilities or shortage of feed, the cattle are forced too early to market. As a result of this overloading of the market, prices this week on all the common grades of cattle have been from $25c to 59c lower, and ranging al the way from $1.50 to $3 for canners and cutters, and from $3.50 to $4.50 for common quality rough heavy steers and helfers and light stockers.

Fat cows have been generally easier this week and $25c lower.

A few heavy bulls sold at from $4.00 to $4.25, but market easier and a quarter lower.

Supplies of calves, moderately heavy, with only a small proportion of really choice veal qualities, the latter selling steady from $10.00 to $11.00 for a few choice tops, but with the bulk of common grassers, selling all the way from $3.50. With heavy runs of sheep and lambs, choice tops were selling steady from $11.00 to $11.50 for ewes and wether lambs, and $1.50 off for buck lambs. Choice yearlings steady from $8.00 to $9.00; choice handy sheep, $6.00 to $7.00. General tone of the market weaker towards the close.

Hog market is weaker at $7.75 f.o.b., and $8.35, fed and watered, closing prices. Packers have announced that for next week's hogs the differential on fed and watered hogs will be 50 cents instead of 60 cents, as formerly. Chicago, Oct. 19.—With talk current about the likelihood of increased imports of Canadian wheat into the United States, duty paid, the wheat market here showed a downward tendency today during the early dealings. It was asserted that at prevailing prices, flour millers as far south as Kansas could import Canadian wheat at a profit. On the other hands, firmness in the corn market exerted a stadying influence on wheat values. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 3 cower, were followed by a moderate general decline and then something of a raily.

Corn and oats showed only transient setbacks as a result of improved weather conditions. Scarcity of corn for immediate delivery was a handicap to bears. After opening unchanged to 4c lower, the corn market sagged a little more and then recovered to about yesterday's finish.

Oats started unchanged to %c lower, and after a further decline railied with corn.

TROTZKY'S AIDE REFUTES RUMOR OF CHIEF'S ILLNESS

Associated Press Despatch.
Moscow, Oct. 19.—Leon Trotzky's secretary yesterday said he could neither affirm nor deny the Munich report that Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch was coming to Moscow to attend him, but he pointed to the war minister's recent and continuing active mode of living as refutation of the reports of his illness.

The rumor that Trotzky is suffering from cancer has frequently spread outside of Russia during the last two years.

Is a physician justified in going on Strike?

This question was asked a number of local medical men as a means of getting an expression of opinion regarding the moral right of the 1,000 odd doctors in Old London, who have announced their intention of striking because they are not being noted. because they are not being paid

The answer of London practitioners is an emphatic "Yes." There is too much sentiment connected with the medical profession altogether, they claim, and a doctor cannot live on sentiment. He has as much right to strike as a coal miner, plasterer or "A set fee for medical attendance," Dr. Spence said, tends to lower the standards of the medical profession standards of the medical profession. It commercializes it to a high degree. A doctor has a right to live just like anybody else, and the stabilizing of fees at a ridiculously low figure does not allow a doctor to maintain the equipment and car which all up-to-date physicians find indispensable in their practice. A doctor has the expense of a long education, and many other things which the general public does not appreciate. If he doesn't get adequate remuneration, he can't do good work. Therefore, it is in the interests earliest phase as a divinity college of the Diocese of Huron, until the present time, when it is recognized as the equal of any other college in Canada, was the subject of a review given at today's meeting of the Kiwanis Club by Dean Sherwood Fox. head of the university, and president of the London Rotary Club.

"At present," Dean Fox said. "graduates of the University of Western Ontario are recognized by the department of education at To-ronto as the equal of the graduates of any other college in Canada. Similarly, the graduates are recognized by the great post-graduate colleges of the United States, and by Oxford and Cambridge in England."

The fact that it was not among the large colleges of the continent the large colleges of the continent was listed by Dean Fox as an asset for the University for Western Ontario "Our classes are smaller, and con-equently there is greater personal ontact between teacher and student We teach rather than lecture. By the lecture system, a student may go to sleep during the lecture, and get his notes from the other fellow, and the teacher cannot check up on this until examination time, when it is nearly always too late. Where there is personal dontact, this is avoided.

"What I consider to be this university's great asset is the fact that students may attend it and the students may attend the students are students. students may attend it and maintain their moral contact home, and in a city the size of Lonof distractions which face students in larger towns."

Grand Jury Returns Present-ment After Making General Survey.

JUDGE COMMENDS

Justice Wright Declares Recommendations Offered Are of Soundest Character.

Following is the grand jury pre-Following is the grand jury presentment made to Mr. Justice Wright at the court house late this afternoon.

The jury found that the jail was kept clean, but committee rooms in the court house were dirty, and not properly ventilated.

The report follows:

London, Ont., Oct. 19, 1923.

To His Lordship Mr. Justice Wright, presiding judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

May it please Your Lordship:

Way it please Your Lordship:
We, the members of the grand jury at the present sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario, beg leave to make the following presentment:
We wish to thank your lordship for the directions and explanation you the directions and explanation you gave to the grand jury at the opening of the assizes.

On Oct. 16 we visited the county jail at 10:30 a.m. We were received courteously by Governor Dawson and other jail officials, also by Mrs. North, matron in the female department. We found the number of reference in idle of the present time. prisoners in jail at the present time to be 13 male prisoners and no female prisoners.

We found one Peter Regan, who has been pronounced insane, confined in the jail. Regan was committed to jail Oct. 8. We recommend that he be removed from the jail to an asythews, who was committed on a charge of vagrancy on Sept. 18, confined in the jail. Matthews is 76 years of age and has apparently com-mitted no crime and should be sent to a home.

Jail in Good Condition.

We found the appointments throughout the jail in good condition. All the wards and cells clean, and the stores properly kept.
We find the conditions in the court house are not as good as they should be. The committee rooms are not kept clean and not properly venti-

Some system should be inaugurated whereby the members of the grand jury can obtain admission to the court house to attend meetings. At times great difficulty was encountered by members of the jury in obtaining admission.

On Oct. 16, in the afternoon, we visited the Ontario Hospital for Insane, and were very much pleased with conditions as we found them there. We were impressed with the amount of work done by the patients, particularly in connection with the new balcony that is being erected, there being very little outside help engaged. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the patients are engaged in some occupation.

The buildings throughout are clean, the crops on the farm good, and the farms are well tilled. The stock is in splendid condition. A large proportion of the foodstuffs used in the hospital are grown on the farm hospital are grown on the farm.

The number of inmates on Oct. 16 were: Males 649, females 655; men out on probation 13; females out on probation 20.

On Oct. 17 we visited the West-minster Psychiatric Hospital, and we found everything in splendid order. The staff is to be commended for their efforts in relieving returned soldiers who are mentally afflicted. Eighty per cent of the inmates are occupied either on the grounds, in the buildings or at vocational work.

confined are 412. The staff, attendants 95, nurses 23, vocational aids 12.

We visited Victoria Hospital. Two hundred patients are at present in this institution. The buildings and grounds are in splendid condition. Extensive changes in equipment and the staff have been recently made which will, we believe, greatly assist the work of the hospital.

While there we visited the Children's Hospital. We found sixteen children, who are being taken care of there. This is a splendid building and could be utilized for other purposes than for treating children brought in by the public. We would suggest the sick children from the other homes be treated in this institution. We visited St. Joseph's Hospital, and found everything in good order, and were impressed with the clean-liness and good ventilation in this institution. The Sisters are very assiduous in their duties, and are spoken of very highly by the patients.

T. P. Taylor, of Toronto, Will Assist in Making Up Budget.

PROGRESS GREAT

T. P. Taylor of Toronto, financial secretary of the Ontario Religious Education Council is in the city this week, assisting the London Religious Education Council to make up its share of the provincial budget for the year.

The work of the council, which is co-operative and interdenominational, has developed so rapidly during the past five years that the present staff is quite unable to overtake all the work, and respond to all requests being made for assistance from Sunday schools and teachers all over the province. The work has grown so fast that it has almost become its financial undoing, because the schools have not been able to contribute sufficient funds to carry on. entered upon Dr. F. G. Banting, have not been able to contribute sufficient funds to carry on.

The program of work during 1923 has been very extensive, commencing last October with the great provincial convention in Massey Hall, Toronto, lasting a whole week, and at which Margaret Slattery, and Dr. Soares of Chicago, and Professor A. Augustine of Boston, were the leading speakers. A series of two-day institutes were held throughout the winter in 25 of the cities and larger towns. In addition to these 27 teacher-training institutes were conducted throughout the towns and teachers and leaders, conducted under the direction of C. F. Plewman, boys' secretary for Ontario, and Miss Mabel Taggert, secretary of the Ontario girls' work board, and å cooperative training school at Courtright, in Lambton County, at which 55 teachers were in attendance.

The main graduation training summer school at Lake Couchiching was attended by nearly 200 Sunday school workers of all denominations, and 22 students passed their third-year examination and received diplomas. A class of 34 will graduate in 1924.

During the fall, county councils are being held in most of the counties, and in the last two weeks of October twin provincial conventions are being held in Napanee, Oct. 23-25 for Eastern Ontario, and Stratford, Oct. 30-Nov. 1, for Western Ontario. The Stratford one will be very easy of access to Sunday school workers in London, and already several of the schools have arranged to send delegates.

that there is absolutely nothing to prevent the sale of the old registry office, now or at a future date. The new office will be occupied about the first of the year, according to Building Inspector A. M. Piper. But it would require a bylaw in city council, the treasurer believes, to divert the proceeds of the sale into any other channel than to lessen the general debt upon the new struc-

July and August saw 22 summer schools and training camps (co-operative), for "The money received — possibly $15,000," explained Mr. Bell, "should go to reduce the $75,000 debenture issue for the new building. The council could change this by bylaw no doubt, but I don't think it should be done."

V. Buchanan States Body Is Working Against Approaching Winter.

A race against time is being run by the public utilities commission in its endeavor to have all the work planned completed before the first snowfall and the beginning of winter.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan stated this morning that there was much to be done. Water mains, conduits, hydro extensions and many other things must be carried out before winter and cold weather take possession of London.

The young Bob White poked his head inside and then drew back. Never in his short life had he been anywhere with a roof over him or walls around him. Always he had lived right out in the open. He had been taught to sleep at night ready to spring into the air and fly at the first sign of approaching danger. He didn't like the idea of being in a place where he could do no more than turn around. So he hung back. His mother understood. She knew just how he felt. "Go in," said she. "It will not be seefe for your action."

just how he felt. "Go in," said she.
"It will not be safe for you to stay outside tonight."
"Cannot I stay just outside and then if any danger does come go inside?" asked the young Bob White.
Mrs. Bob White shook her head very decidedly. "No," said she. "The danger might be the shook her head very decidedly. "No," said she. "The danger might not be discovered until too late. Do as I say and go in and get just as far as you can."

"Aren't you coming in, too, mother?" he asked plaintively. "No," replied Mrs. Bob White. "At "No." replied Mrs. Bob White. "At least I am not coming in at present. I am going to stay right here at the entrance and keep watch."

So Mrs. Bob White squatted close to the ground on one side and close to the end of the old fence post. She didn't go to sleep. No, indeed. She was the anyious to sleep.

was too anxious to sleep. So it came about that she heard Reddy Fox ap-proaching, although you or I wouldn't have heard a sound. She knew that he was following the scent she and the wounded young Bob White had left. She didn't wait for him to reach hat hollow fence post. She fluttered into the air as if wounded and most at once was down on the

"I thought as much!" exclaimed Reddy Fox, and bounded toward the spot where Mrs. Bob White had dropped in the grass. "I thought as much! That wounded Bob White can't do much more than flutter." He didn't try to be cautious now. He didn't try to be cautious now. He bounded forward, sure that he would be able to run down that wounded Bob White. From almost under his nose Mrs. Bob White again under his nose Mrs. Bob White again fluttered up and along just above the ground. She appeared as if she couldn't use one wing at all well. Reddy bounded after her. Several times he just missed catching her and then suddenly he understood. He looked a little sheepish as he stopped short. "That is Mrs. Bob White." said he to himself, "and she isn't wounded at all. She is trying to lead me away." Then he turned and ran swiftly back to pick up that trail with his wonderful nose.

On Fear. Most WOMEN are AFRAID Of SOMETHING-Sometimes it's a mouse Sometimes, it's a cat In the guise of Another woman, But NO weman Is afraid of a MAN; She is only afraid that she Cannot INTEREST him, And if she cannot, She always believes That he was not worth

The trouble anyway,

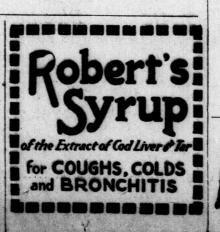

Which is probably true.

What looks like MEAT BEFORE marriage Seems like POISON AFTERWARDS-for marriage Is often monotonous. If a woman loves deeply She invariably fears-For fear is UNCERTAINTY; That is why Women, at heart, Often fear THEMSELVES!

ONE man's poison

But, sometimes,

Is ANOTHER man's meat.

Autumn Modes Have Replaced the Summer Fashions

Summer materials have made way for the smart cloth or silken frocks. Bouffant lines are replaced by distinctive tailoring. Garden colors reign in favor of trim blues or bronzes, or the rich tones of fallen leaves. And when you see the lovely Autumn fashions we have selected and assembled, you will be quite willing to agree to the exchange. Parisinspired, with all the clever touches, the daring combinations of fabric and color that Paris frocks and suits show. Tomorrow will be the opportune time to view this wonderful display of French fashion, as stocks are right now at their height.

The NEW BROMLEY COLLARS AND CUFFS

A worthy successor to the popular Peter Pan collar has just come to town. Like its predecessor, it fits close around the neck, giving a delightful sense of trimness and crisply perfect tailoring to the suit or dress.

Its success is due to its good points—points at the end of the collar and points on the turnback cuffs, which have buttonholes for your cuff links. You can insert or detach the cuffs in a minute, for they have convenient dome fasteners on the inner band. In white gabardine or in sand beach cloth, piped with navy, black or tan, for $1.00 With them one wears a feminine version of the four-in-hand in crepe de chine of mauve, rose, honeydew, jade or pumpkin.....85c To vary these strictly tailored sets, there are frilly affairs of net with guipure lace cascades in white or ecru. These are to be worn with sweaters or suit coats. Priced at $2.75 and $3.00 In heavy crepe de chine is a White Bromley Collar, and accordion pleated Jabot edged with black$2.75 Chamoisette forms attractive sets of Vestees and Tuxedo Collars for suits or cloth dresses. The collars are gray with a banding of coral piped with black, and coral and sand, or maize and sand each edged with black$1.75 If you aren't going to have a new suit, you will need the smartest new neckwear to freshen your old one. that you need. Perhaps it is a set of the new Bromleys; one of those smart English suits; or some of our delightful new winter fabrics.

And because you live out-of-town or can't conveniently come in to see them, there is a chance that you may just let them slip from your mind when you put down the paper.

But I hope you won't! You know that an up-to-date wardrobe means either continual care or continual expense. If the state of the exchequer suggests that the continual care would be preferable, you will be much pleased with the moderately priced and smart new things which we have chosen for you. They serve a double purpose, by increasing the effectiveness of your costumes and adding variety to your wardrobe.

New dresses and bags and luncheon sets, flannels and toweling and underwear, frills and furs and furniture must sometimes be rather sketchily described on advertising pages. THE DAY OF KNITTED CLOTHES ARRIVES

Knitted clothes have had to prove their worth before women would finally accept them as fashionable and sensible.

First, they have made themselves practical-their hems are taut and without stretch; their shoulders fit well; their sleeves are properly tight.

And secondly, they have made themselves objects of beauty. An attractive and varied display of English knitted suits are on display on our Second Floor. The prevailing colors are putty, white, tan, covent, jade and silver. The coats are in the becoming Tuxedo style, with plain little turnback cuffs. They are priced at $11.75

Then the Knitted Dresses! A pretty little model with a plain gray top has a dash of mephisto (a vivid coral shade), binding the batteau neckline and the sleeves. The lower part of the dress combines alternate bands of mephisto and gray in plain and shirred effects It is priced at $19.75

Similar models for this price are developed in sand and sandalwood and mauve and sand. Silk and Wool Dresses, with long waistline, round neck and peasant
