CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me. J. A. ASCHE, M. D., 111 St. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

POETRY.

A Temperance Parody.

John Alcohol, my foe, John,
When we were first acquainted I'd savor in your pockets, Which no one, yet I know, I spent it all in treating John, Because I loved you so;
But mark ye, how you've treated me,
John Alcohol, my foe.

John Alcohol, my foe, John,
We've been for long acquainted, See ye mark that I read, John,
And I will take another;
For we must tumble down, John,
If hand in hand we go;
And I shall have the bill to pay,
John Alcohol, my foe.

John Alcohol, my foe, John,
Ye've bleared out a' my eye,
And lighted up my nose, John,
A fiery sign atween!
My hands will wally shake, John, If I'm sure be like the new;
Ye'll surely be the death of me,
John Alcohol, my foe.

John Alcohol, my foe, John, Twas love to you I went,
That gar me rise and eat And sit me late at even;
The best of friends must part, John;
I give me this ye know, But 'twell be as you do, John,
John Alcohol, my foe.

John Alcohol, my foe, John,
Ye've wrought me muckle skait;
And yet to part wi' you, John,
I own I'm unco' laith;
But I'll join the temperance ranks, John, Ye needna say me no;
It's better late than ne'er do weel, John Alcohol, my foe.

ing, the Lord willin', an' it's hoped ev'rybody'll turn out an' bring a' their for the 'sport o' the gospel.' Deacon Spears announced, one Sabbath, after service. "The Lord loves a cheerful giver," he added, in a sort of postscript, after which he blew his nose vigorously on a great red and white bandanna, in a manner that suggested applause, over the neat way in which the announcement had been made, and then sat down.

Immediately there was a buzz among the female portion of the congregation, and little groups of women put their heads together and began discussing what to carry in shape of eatables; while the men got together in the vestibule of the church, and consulted with each other of what they could "donate."

"I reckon I'll take beans this year," said Mr. Wade. "It's been a great year for beans. I hain't raised so big a crop any year since '65, 's I recollect, I can give beans without feeling it muh."

"So can I," said Mr. Pettigrew. "I got a joliced big crop off'n the hill-side lot. I guess I'll take beans, too. I can spare 'em better'n anything else an' they hain't a-goin' to sell for much this year, 'cause they're so plenty."

Several others who listened to their conversation concluded to take beans also, for it had "been a great year for beans" in Soragaby Corners, as Mr.
Wade had said.

"I've a good notion to take some o' my Almiry's clo'es," said Mrs. Deacon Spears to Mrs. Pettigrew. "She out-grow'd 'em, but they'd jest about fit thee; oldest girl, I h'd judge, an' they're most as good as new, some on 'em. You don't s'pose Miss Spooner
'd feel put out about it, do you now, Miss Pettigrew?"

"I can't see why she should," responded Mrs. Pettigrew. "Clo'es is clo'es an' a minister's folks had's ought to git mad at what's give 'em as long as they hav to depend on you for a livin'. Tain't as if they could afford to be independent, y' know. I s'pose I might take some jackets an' trowsis that air gettin' patty snug for the boys.
I will, if you conclude to take some o' Almiry's dress'es, Miss Spears."

"Wall, then s'pose we do," responded Mrs. Spears.

The evening of the donation party came.

The first arrival at the parsonage was Mr. Wade. He met the minister, who came to the door in answer to the knock, with a twobushel bag full of something on his shoulder.

"How'd do, elder. Beautiful night for the donation ain't it?" was his greeting, as he shook hands with the minister. "I've brought some beans for ye. Fust-rate beans, too, ye'll find. Beans is healthy livin', elder.
I was raisin' on 'em. Nothing better for growing children."

"You can put them in the woodshed," said Mr. Spooner. "Just then Mr. and Mrs. Pettigrew drove up.

"Hello, elder, good evenin'," called out Mr. Pettigrew. "I've got some beans here for ye. Wher'll you hev 'em put?"

"In the woodshed," said the minister, with a smile at his wife. "It's going to be beans this year, my dear," in a whisper.

Then other arrivals followed in rapid succession, and at least three out of every four brought beans.

"I've counted fourteen bushels already," whispered the minister to his wife about eight o'clock, "and still there's more to follow."

"It's old clothes in my part of the house," said Mrs. Spooner. "I do believe there's enough to last the children till they all grow up, if they'd fit till that time. I can imagine the appearance they'd make in them. No two alike, and probably not one that would fit one of the children. It's too provoking for anything. If it wasn't for making the people mad, I'd sell the whole lot for rags to the first rag peddler that comes along."

"Brothers 'n' sisters, friends 'n' neighbors," announced Deacon Spears, after supper, when the party was about ready to break up, "the proceeds of this 'ere donation amounts to twenty-seven bushels o' beans, three turkeys, seven bushels o' potatoes, an' a pig, two bushels o' clothin', an' some other things. In half o' the elder an' his folks, I thank ye fer ye'r lib'rality. Ye'r kindness is appreciated by him 'n' his'e, I feel sartain, an' I'm sure his heart 'n' han't is strengthened by this evidence o' fellowship on your part. Truly, as the psalmist says, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

"I cordially endorse the sentiment from the receiver's standpoint," said Mrs. Spooner as they looked over the they were alone. "Just look at this collection of old clothes, Henry. I s'pose that you give up preaching and move to the city, and start in business as a bean broker, and I'll run an old clothes store. We'd be well stocked up to begin with."

"What will you do with the stuff?" asked the minister, turning over old jackets, aprons, and other articles of clothing with a comical look of dismay on his face at the formidable collection.

"I think I shall make about a hundred yards of rag-carpet," answered Mrs. Spooner. "That's about all a good deal of it is fit for."

One afternoon in the following week the minister sat down to prepare a sermon for the coming Sabbath. As was often the case, he talked it over with his wife. When he named the chapter he proposed to read at the opening of the service, a sudden gleam of mischief came into Mrs. Spooner's face. But she said nothing.

During the week Mr. Spooner wrote to a friend in the city, asking him if there was any sale for beans there. He had twenty-five bushels to dispose of, at a low price, he wrote, adding that it had been "a great year for beans in Soragaby Corners."

When Sunday morning came Mrs.
Spooner sent her husband on to church ahead of her, under the plea that she had not got the children quite ready.
"Don't wait for me, Henry," she said, "for you may be late. We'll get there in time for the sermon."

He was reading a chapter from the Psalms when his family arrived. He had reached the verse in which the lily of the valley is spoken of, and these words rolled off sonorously from his tongue just as the door opened and Mrs.
Spooner, followed by her children, filed slowly and impressively in—

"Verily, I say unto you, even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

As he finished the verse he looked up at the advancing arrivals, and the spectacle that met his eyes tested his power of self control more than anything else he had ever experienced, he afterward told his wife. His mouth twitched, and a smile flickered about his eyes, but he managed to keep back the grin that would have appeared at the faintest encouragement.

Such a sight! The eldest girl was arrayed in Almiry's east of dress, of navy blue, with some other girl's polonaise of red. Her sister was reple-dient in a dress of Scotch plaid pattern of most gorgeous colors, originally, but now somewhat subdued by time and wear, still very vivid, and over it was worn a jacket about three sizes too small for her, the picture-coque costume being topped off by a hat trimmed with old ribbon freshly dyed a very bright magenta color. The eldest boy had a pair of trousers which fairly dragged at the heels, and a jacket which was long enough for an overcoat, while the other boy wore trousers so short that his feet failed to meet the top of a pair of bright blue stockings, while his jacket refused to keep company with the top of his trousers. Each article had a peculiar color of its own, and the general effect was, as has been said, decidedly picture-que.

The minister had no inkling of what his wife intended to do, and the sight of his family in such fine array so upset him for a moment that he read the verse he had just finished over again—

"Verily, I say unto you, even Solom-
like one of these."

A very audible titter went through the younger portion of the congregation.
Some even laughed aloud. Mrs. Wade looked at Mrs. Pettigrew to see what that estimable woman seemed inclined to think of the proceeding, but she couldn't catch her eye. She was too busily engaged in following the scripture lesson to look at any one.

"I'll bet she's mad, though," thought Mrs. Wade. "One o' them jackets an' one o' them trowsis came from her. I dunno, though, 's they look enny worse than that dress o' Almiry's does. I didn't s'pose they'd think of riggin' the children out in 'em to wear to church.

I'll bet Miss Spooner's done it a-purpose," as she admitted to her husband, on the way home.

"I don't think you ought to have done it, Susie," he said gravely, but there was a laugh in his eye as he said it, as he looked at the motley group a' head.

"Perhaps not," was his wife's reply;
"but I wanted them to see the striking effect resulting from their generosity.
Of course they can't get angry about it, since they gave the clothes to be worn, I do think it'll have one good effect, and that is, that old clothes won't be one of the important features of the next donation party here."

Mrs. Spooner was right. When the next donation party occurred not one old garment was "donated." Mr.
Spooner at last succeeded in disposing of his beans, but he had to do so at a sacrifice, on account of it having been such a "great year for beans in Soragaby Corners," that they overstocked the market.

For Your Moulting Hens.

The time when hens shed their feathers is again at hand. It is a very exhausting process. Are you preparing to help them through this trying period?
Eggs have not been so high for years as at this season as now; they will be still higher. Hens rarely ever lay white moulting, then help them to get their new plumage quickly. Many people get only five to six dozen eggs in a year from a hen and lose money when they ought to get three times that many and make money rapidly. How? There are about 600 eggs in the ovaries of a hen; get all you can of them in two years and keep the hen no longer. You thus save two or three years feed of the hen which is no small item if you buy all the food.
When a hen is in "condition" says a high poultry authority "she will lay plenty of eggs." Therefore help her through the moulting season, that she may be in condition to lay early, as everything is pointing to higher prices for eggs this fall and winter than ever before. The elements needed by a hen at moulting, in addition to good food is contained in Sheridan's Condition Powder to a very high degree. Thousands of people have proven it to be worth its weight in gold, when hens are moulting. It keeps them in health, helps form the new plumage, and gets them in condition to lay early. A hen will not lay while moulting. But if you give them during the moulting Sheridan's Condition Powder daily in extra doses, they will get to laying much sooner and lay all winter larger, better, and more vigorous eggs for hatching, than pullets. But don't keep them a third year, get all the eggs in two. Remember Sheridan's Powder is not an eggfood; you can raise or make food as cheaply as anyone. To anyone interested, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., on receipt of address and stamp for reply will send a recipe for making good egg-food. Any person buying and using Sheridan's Condition Powder now, will get their hens in good laying condition and stand good chance to win one of the large gold premiums to be offered later by the same firm; who are the only makers of Sheridan's Condition Powder. For 50 cents they will send two 25 cent packs, five packs for $1.00; or for $1.20 one large 2 1/2 pound can of Powder, postpaid; six cans for $5.00 express prepaid. A copy of the best poultry magazine published, sent free; The paper one year and a large can of Powder for $1.50.

Wait, mother, before you speak harshly to the little chubby rogue who has torn his pinafore and soiled his brown jacket. He is only a child, and "mother" is the sweetest word in all the world to him. Needle and thread, soap-suds, and a good stock of patience will repair all damage now but if you teach him to shrink from his mother and hide away his childish faults, that damage cannot be repaired.

When grandpa went a-wooing, He wore a satin vest,
A trail of ram's roses, Embroidered on the breast.
The pattern of his trousers, His linen, white and fine, Were all the latest fashion In eighteen twenty-nine.

Grandpa was a fine-looking young fellow then, so the old ladies say, and he is a fine looking old gentleman now.
For the past score of years he has been a firm believer in Dr. Fierce's Golden Medical Discovery. "It renewed my youth," he frequently says. "It is the only blood purifier and liver invigorator guaranteed to benefit or cure, or money promptly refunded. It cures liver disease, dyspepsia, scrofulous sores, skin eruptions, and all diseases of the blood. For lingering scrofula in its early stage) it is an unparalleled remedy.

The tolling of bells at funerals is a relic of the earliest ages, and originated in the pagan idea that the sound of bells frightened away evil spirits. It was kept up until watches and clocks became arrival of church time. Why the custom now prevails it is difficult to conjecture.

SELECT STORY.

The Donation Party.

"We're great on donations, elder.
We jest go la heavy on them things." Deacon Spears made the announcement to the new minister with an air of stating the possession of a great moral virtue peculiar to the people of Soragaby Corners.

"I have never found donation parties very satisfactory," said the minister.
"I would greatly prefer having a stated salary, and have it paid in cash."

"Wall, yes, I s'pose ye would," said the deacon. "That's what all the ministers say. But, ye see, 'twon't hardly do, here in Soragaby Corners."

"Why not?" asked the minister.

"O, they're gettin' in the habit o' havin' donations, an' they expect 'em, ye see," replied the deacon, "an' they'd feel sure offended of a preacher sot his foot down an' said he wouldn't have 'em.
Some folks give suthin' in cash, and we're bound to git all out o' the s'mmunity that we can, ye see."

"My experience has been that a great deal of what people bring to a donation party is worthless or useless," said the minister.

"Wall, ye, I s'pose so," assented the deacon. "But 'twouldn't do to kick ag'in 'em donations on that account here.
Ye'd have the folks down on ye in no time."

"Well, then," said the poor minister, with a sigh of resignation to the inevitable, "I suppose it will have to be."
He thought of his last donation party with its dozen loads of dozy, half-trotten stove wood; wood which was worthless to the donors, because

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., SEP. 12, 1890.

Local and Provincial.

Minards Liment is the Best.

Captain Clarence Egles and wife have been in Wolfville this week visiting Captain James Egles.

Wm. A. Payzant has returned from his visit and will be at his office to wait on all people wanting Dentistry.

Conductor LeCain, of the W. & A. R., has been away on a short vacation, his place being filled by Conductor Wm. Clark.

A number of the members of Wolfville Division paid a fraternal visit to the Division at Avonport on Saturday evening last and spent a very pleasant time.

Mr. L. A. Cooney, a student of Acadia, who has been preaching in Rawdon during the summer, was ordained pastor of the Baptist church at that place on Monday last.

A number of excursionists from Boston to Terminal City passed through Wolfville on Tuesday afternoon's express, under the care of Conductor Elwan.

Last week a twin plum was handed to us, this week we have to acknowledge a twin apple, from Mr. J. W. Follet. It is perfect in form and quite a curiosity in its way.

Mr. John E. Woodworth, of the Western Chronicle, was in town on Tuesday and paid us a pleasant call. We are all glad to have a visit from our brothers of the quill.

We have received from Mrs. Everett Palmer, of Long Island, a genuine curiosity, being a number of daisies grown together from one stalk, which present a very curious appearance.

A steamer has been chartered to load potatoes at Kingsport for Havana. She will carry 5000 barrels. It is expected that 50,000 barrels will be required for this trade during the season.

We are told that a number of dogs have been poisoned on the "back road" during the past week or so. It is to be hoped that the dogs that killed the sheep for Mr. Simpson were among the number.

The annual meeting of the King's Co. Baptist Sabbath-school Convention will be held in the Baptist church, Kentville on Thursday, 18th inst., at 11 o'clock a. m. A good programme has been prepared.

The Payzant Dentists, having an opportunity, Sep. 20th, of selecting suitable stock for any special case of artificial teeth, respectfully request that patients come in to have the models made previous to that time.

Choice Family Flour, Wheat Bran, Corn Meal, R. PRAT.

The work in the College gymnasium is progressing favorably. Messrs. F. A. Clark & Son, of Berwick, have the contract. The building will be $224,427, will cost $1,470, and is to be completed not later than Nov. 1st.

K. D. C. at G. H. Wallace's.

The volunteers went into camp at A. dersh on Tuesday. It is expected that there will be 1,100 officers and men in attendance. The battalions are the 78th of Colchester, Pictou, and Hants, and the 69th and 72d of Annapolis.

Show Case, 6x2 1/2 ft. for sale. A Bargain. R. PRAT.

We understand that the Windsor baseball team is contemplating a trip through the western counties about the last of the present month. We hope that Wolfville will be the first place visited by them, as we feel sure our team would do their best to make it pleasant for them.

K. D. C. at G. H. Wallace's.

Rev. M. B. Shaw leaves this week for the mission field in India. Mr. Shaw is a graduate of the class of '86, and was two years pastor of a church at Cow Bay and for one year pastor of the Milton Baptist Church. His many warm friends here and elsewhere will wish him abundant success in his chosen field of work.

Wolfville, Sep. 10th, 1890.

Somerset Items.

It is rumored that Mr. Edward Parker, of Somerset, has sold his house, in that place, to Mr. A. E. Killam.

Mrs. George Westhead, a woman upwards of eighty years of age, has during the past year knit one hundred pairs of stockings, spun fifty skeins of yarn, braided and sewed six mats besides doing a considerable quantity of sewing, and at the time of present writing walked a mile without resting.—Western Chronicle.

K. D. C. at G. H. Wallace's.

A most diabolical and cowardly attempt was made by some unknown persons to blow up the house of C. W. Lotten, of Acadia Mines, on Tuesday night, with dynamite. Mr. Lotten, in company with two other constables, took two women and one man and lodged them in Truro jail on Saturday last under warrants for violating the liquor license act. Threats had been freely made against them at the time. The house was badly wrecked but none of the inmates were injured.

Kentville on Monday last accompanied by his daughter Mrs. C. R. Pineo. The aged gentleman is looking remarkably well. He will complete his 101st year on Oct. 18th.

The wreck of the steamer Ulmude, sunk at auction on Saturday, was purchased by S. M. Brookfield, of Halifax, who will endeavor to get her off and place her in the dry dock in that city.

"I, too, am glad of that," said Jean-Marie. "It should be the temple of the humble virtues..."

CHAPTER V. The doctor's carriage was a two-wheeled gig with a hood, a kind of vehicle in much favor among country doctors...

"I have been to Franchard, Jean-Marie," he said. "I fancy not." "Never," replied the boy.

"What?" cried the doctor. "Did you not steal when you were there?" "But the boy could never be brought to see that he had done anything wrong when he stole..."

"I should like to have seen them turning into dust," said Jean-Marie. "Otherwise I should not have cared so greatly."

"Why?" demanded pitiless innocence. "It is only money," replied Jean-Marie. "Oh, come!" cried Despres.
