Dominion Day Celebration

By virtue of a call over the signature of his worship, the Mayor, a number of the prominent rate-payers—ladies and gentlemen—gathered in the Assembly Hall last Monday evening. The Band was present and by their selections breathed the holiday spirit and made one and all feel that Cardston without a Dominion Day Celebration would be like a funeral. It was unanimously decided that a celebration should be held and a general committee was appointed with Mr. J. W. Woolf at the head.

On Tuesday evening another meeting was held for the purpose of continuing the work of the committee. Mr. J. W. Woolf was present and acted as Chairman.

Mr. Thomas Duce spoke for the Finance Committee and said that he had the assistance of Mr. Brant but would like the meeting to name a lady to complete the Committee. Mrs. Elton was voted in to assist in this work.

Mr. Spencer discussed the proposed sports of the day and said that his committee awaited some definite information from the committee of Finance before they could proceed with any certainty. It was moved and carried that two days celebrations should be had, field sports, base-ball etc. on the first day and horse-racing on the second. Mr. Newton stated that Raymond would be glad to bring a base-ball team for the second day. It was not thought advisable to have them owing to the fact that we have no base-ball team this year.

Mr. Duce mentioned the fact that the Band should be engaged and it was decided to leave the matter to the Chairman of the Finance Committee. It was also agreed that the Band should have all the proceeds of a Concert for the second night as a recompense for their services.

The Program for the day was briefly discussed and outlined. The Committee were instructed to get up a two hours program for the indoor services in the Assembly Hall. It was decided to have the Finance Committee look after the Dance on the evening of the first night.

The Decoration Committee expressed their willingness to go ahead and do the best they could. It was suggested that the work of this Committee was to encourage all the people of Cardston to decorate their homes, especially the business portion of the same. It was moved and carried that a prize of $10.00 cash be given the business house best decorated for the occasion—the Decoration Committee to be the judges. It was also moved and carried that the Decoration Committee ask the Council to place three large streamers across the Main Street bearing appropriate wording.

The duties of the Reception Committee were defined and the members present were agreed.

The Refreshment Committee was instructed to have refreshments for sale at the dance in the Assembly Hall on the first night and also to provide Ice Cream together with the usual nuts, fruits, candies, lemonade, etc.

It was decided not to sell badges but to provide the same for the Committees only. This part of the work was left to the Decoration Committee. No entrance fees were to be placed on any event outside of the Dance and Concert. Of course this means admission to the grounds and does not refer to entries for prizes.

It was moved and carried that

Thomas Duce see to it that Mr. E. N. Barker does not leave town on that day. It was decided that the Program Committee should attend to the advertising. It was moved and carried that the Chairman, Mr. J. W. Woolf should write to the Manager of the A. R. and I. Co. asking for special rates and special service for the two days. It was moved and carried that a page in the Alberta Star be purchased for this week's issue. Badges were ordered as follows: Reception 12, Finance 3, Sports 4, Salute 4, Program 5, Refreshments 6, Chairman 1.

A meeting was appointed for Friday following at 8 p. m. when the different committees were expected to be prepared with a complete list of their programs.

An Interesting Trip

Everywhere the country is teeming with vegetation and large areas are being brought under cultivation. The writer had the privilege of accompanying Mr. J. W. Woolf, M. P. P. to his farm east of the St. Mary's River, last week. After leaving the Roller Mill at the wagon bridge and passing the farm residence of Mr. S. M. Woolf it is Wheat, Plowing, Wheat and more Wheat as far as the eye can see. The evidence of progressive agriculture are intervened with the richest meadows and hay land. In and around Woolford one gets a splendid chance to observe the wonderful success of scientific and up-to-date farming. Especially is this manifest to a marked degree in the excellent stand of Alfalfa which Mr. T. H. Woolford has succeeded in raising. This progressive farmer adopted the science of inoculation and it has proved a great success, while his neighbor, equally diligent in the art of cultivation but failing to inoculate has, what a Southerner would call, "A sorry looking sight." The Fall Wheat of Mr. J. A. Woolf and sons is excellent and Mr. Simpson declares that he will average 40 bushels to the acre. To look at the crop one would think that he was indeed modest in his estimate. A Steam Traction is at work tickling the earth with 8 fourteen inch gang plows and puffing with delight over the laughing harvest that will follow. This is on the land of Mr. W. L. Thompson, brother of the popular man of Spring Coulee, W. L. Thompson. Gedleman and Anderson (Joe) have been breaking a very fine piece of land for Mr. J. W. Woolf on the bench just above the farm home. It is the intention of Mr. Woolf to have at least a thousand acres under cultivation next year and he is making preparations to that end. It is worth one's while to take a trip through the country and look at the evidences of growth and development that are seen on every hand. Within the course of a few years the entire area of the bench will be converted into fields of growing grain. The growing crops are far in advance of their condition one year ago.

How to Break Up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. The first symptoms of a severe cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's cough remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

FOR RENT

On July 1st. the apartments over C. E. Snow & Co.'s bank will be to let. A splendid place for a doctor, a lawyer or a dentist. Well lighted with four large windows. Rent very reasonable.

Unknown Friends.

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they have hesitated about giving a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people, however, are none the less friends of this remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendations to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the home and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

Tree Planting for Towns and Cities

In a province like Manitoba the subject of tree growing is one that should appeal to every intelligent and public spirited citizen. Cities or towns can never be made to appear attractive without the presence of trees of some description. We often hear the remarks made by visitors in Eastern towns and cities that the places which they see there are more attractive than the towns and cities that are met with while travelling through the West. Much of the beauty that is attached to these Eastern places lies in the many graceful and well developed trees that are to be found planted along the streets and around the homes. The unpleasant effect of the masses of stone and brick are lost in the natural beauty of their surroundings.

A city or town can make no better investment than the investment made in purchasing and planting of trees along the streets and in public grounds. The chances are that the home seeker will locate, other advantages being equal, in a town that has been made attractive by the judicious planting of trees. If our councils realized more fully the force of this statement, it would not be long until every town throughout the entire West would have a good, live Civic Improvement Committee.

The citizens should also be interested in doing something on their own behalf in this work and induced to undertake something toward the improvement of their homes. A few well selected trees or shrubs planted each year does much towards the improvement of homes otherwise comparatively unattractive. All that is necessary is the exercising of a little taste in the arrangement and a little skill in the planting.

The main excuses that are offered why this work is not undertaken are that there is a lack of Dr. Long, an American writer of animal tales, invites President Roosevelt to apologise for certain reflections cast upon the veracity of the student of natural history in a recent magazine article contributed by the President. The request is preferred in a letter to Roosevelt, which has since been made public, and in which Dr. Long says: "I have spoken the truth and you accuse me of deliberate falsehood and misrepresentation. As President of the United States you have gone out of your way publicly to injure a private citizen who was attending strictly to his own business, and as a man you have accused of falsehood another man whose ideals are just as high as your own." The incident is simply the outcome of Teddy's desire to pose in the limelight as a private citizen and Dr. Long takes the matter too seriously. If his work is one of merit, not all the Roosevelt in the republic, including the self-conscious Teddy, can effect much injury. The president could hardly be expected to refrain from airing his knowledge of the habits of wild animals, even to oblige Dr. Long. The public must be reminded now and then that the chief magistrate is some pumpkins when it comes to a discussion of wild animals, for has he not chased the grizzly in the mountains. We imagine the wisest thing that Dr. Long could do to is arrange for a second edition of his book.

ANENT THE BASE-BALL CHALLENGE

It begins to look as though the Municipal Officers had everything their own way so far as the Base-ball game is concerned for Dominion Day. With Martin Woolf behind the bat, the worthy Mayor can surely "run them in" to his mit and then you know he's the Collector so that nothing can escape. Bristow will be sure to see that there is a good foundation to the score while Bates will be trying to work up a J. I. Case for the Health Officer. The Sexton of course will undertake to bury all the dead ones that get in the Left Field—that's the field where they get "left." Steed as Building Inspector in Center Field will have a splendid opportunity to survey the Grand-stand from a Building Inspector's standpoint. Van Brown will attend to all the little leaks in Right field and let Bates know where all the water goes to. It will be all right if Barker doesn't get "off his base" and try to locate a subdivision near the Chris Anderson house. Cahoon should provide a neat little fence between the three bases as the lumber will not be so "high" on that occasion. Spencer has been placed on 1st Base so that he can arise to answer all the questions that may arise from the grand-stand—he is in close touch. Johnny will make a "Home Run" if he ever gets off that Third Base. Mr. Laurie of course will enter legal proceedings if anything goes wrong. Self-preservation will be the paramount law for the Solicitor on that occasion. Dr. Brant has shaken hands with the Sexton in a solemn pledge that Curfew shall not ring that night. The next thing in order is the game and we shall watch it with both eyes on the Catch—as long as that gentleman is kept busy directing the Mayor in his efforts to place the sphere over the home plate we are safe. It is a good thing there are no Hebrews in the gang or the "Diamond" would never survive. Keep a keen eye on the score, the Tally-man for he will pull wires for the Town if there is a ghost of a show. Nuff said for the present.

Books of Lien Notes have been prepared for the Horse Breeders of the district. Get one from E. Barker. Price 50c.

Blood Indians Refuse to Sell

Macleod, June 9.—The Blood Indians voted on Wednesday as to whether the 3400 acre strip of the Reserve next to the town of Cardston should be sold or not. On the face of it, it looked to be an A 1 sale for a piece of land absolutely no use to them, nevertheless the proposition was defeated more than three to one, the exact vote being 109 to 33. Half the bucks didn't vote at all. J. A. Markill was conducting the negotiations which were opposed tooth and nail by Crop Eared Wolf, the head chief. This dusky gentleman has missed his vocation. He should have been a politician. He personally canvassed every vote on the Reserve. Some he scared, others he coaxed and others he induced to stay away, and he converted a sweeping sentiment in favor of selling into a triumphant majority against which only goes to show that he is a particularly pigheaded Indian who doesn't know what is good for his people.

Dry Farming Addresses

The Department of Agriculture has arranged for a series of meetings to be addressed by Prof. H. W. Campbell, of Lincoln, Nebraska, the man who devised what is called "The Campbell System of Soil Culture for semi-arid Districts". Under his system the moisture is conserved and excellent crops are obtained. This system is sometimes called "Dry Farming". It is applicable to Southern Alberta, and no man should miss Prof. Campbell's address at 8 p. m. at Mountain View on Friday June 28th and field demonstration at 10 a. m. and address at 2 p. m. in Cardston on Saturday June 29th. This address means money and profit to every farmer.

At the Military Sports to be held in High River on June 21st a polo match for the Championship of Canada will be played, excitement will run high over this match, and is sure to attract a large crowd of lovers of this popular sport. R. S. M. Page of High River is willing to meet all comers in the bayonet and sword contest. It is rumored that a gentleman who will not disclose his name, will enter this contest, and according to reports may turn out a dark horse.

It is the custom in a large majority of American families to have dinner on Sunday at the hour which brings luncheon on weekdays. In that case the menu for the two meals may be shifted to suit the habits or the convenience of the household. The menu given here for the Sunday luncheon requires little cooking and may be easily prepared by the mistress of one maid. The one that may be made ready on Saturday. Ten minutes over a brisk fire will suffice to heat it and the foregoing menu for a week has been prepared by request, and not of the editor's own motion. I am told by those who should be better advised than I that correspondents would like to have this kind of help about once a month, perhaps oftener. It was then suggested that the menu be set forth every week. It was likewise our programme to insert recipes for the principal dishes. Were this done the Exchange would be inevitably crowded to the wall—and over it! I purpose, instead, to hold myself ready to print in full any and all recipes for dishes which appear on the menu. If correspondents will write to me, asking for directions as to the preparation of any dish unfamiliar to them. I do not assert—let me remark in conclusion—that the meals I have indicated as seasonable may be put upon the table for $4.45 or $6 per week. I have aimed to bring them within the reach of people of moderate means and to show the house mother how to provide her family with food at once inexpensive, convenient and varied. Will my coadjutors tell me candidly, how far I have succeeded in the attempt and let me know what particular dishes are new, and, in sound, attractive?

HOME dress makers who understand exactly how to use dress trimmings to the enhancement of the gown's beauty work wonders over night. Ribbons this season are playing a great part in trimmings, and there is a larger variety from which to choose than ordinarily. Narrow velvet ribbon in colors, but particularly in black, white used considerably in the winter styles, is in much more evidence in gowns and furberlows for spring. Other ribbons are the Persian, coming in various different widths and prices, ranging from 24c. up, lousine, Japanese ribbons, and numerous others. Many entire small garments are fashioned of ribbon and lace exclusively. Princess gowns and girlish skirts and separate blouses are made in this manner, and the ribbon selected is usually some pastel shade of rather narrow satin ribbon. The lace is Valenciennes. Deep separate cuffs are made of ribbon and lace, as often as of lace and embroidery. Chemisettes and numerous other dressings show the utilization of ribbon and lace in their building. To the esthetic maid or matron few garments appeal more strongly than a beautiful matinee jacket or short negligee. These little bodice fittings are not only an economy in that they save the lingerie blouse from looking house-worn, but are a strengthening device to woman. A loose, comfortable matinee jacket worn in hours of relaxation proves a necessity to women on account of their restlessness. The design shows one fashioned of wide Persian ribbon with Valenciennes lace forming the ribbon. Naturally there is no obligation to use the size of ribbon here shown.

Attractive Lingerie Neckwear for Lenten Needles

THE return of the tailored shirt waist opening in the front has created in the feminine mind a perfect passion for lingerie neckwear of an entirely novel and effective sort. It may be divided into collars, frills and ties. And the woman who has not a full assortment of each for wear with shirt waists in white, or colored wash goods, silk or light wool, will be a full year behind the times. First, as to collars, with cuffs to match. These are fashioned like a man's high two-inch turn-over collar, and may be made of plain linen, embroidered linen or pique, with scalloped edges, plain or with small circles, or conventional figures embroidered in each. Patterns for these may be bought or ripped to furnish the model. The scalloped or plain pique collars are the best for the beginner to fashion. Machine made copies of these collar and cuff sets can be bought as low as twenty-five cents the collar, but they show the factory stamp. The hand-made collar can be bought as low as 75 cents, as high as $7.00. Half a yard of pique, with mercerized linen bias for embroidery will make three sets of collars, with cuffs to match. Dots, circles, fleur de lis, conventionalized daisies and shamrocks in diminutive size are favorite designs for beginners, and simple, conventional vine designs sometimes run around the lower edge of the collar. Narrow, hemstitched frills are used to finish off the front plait, and the deft-fingered girl can make these in sets of ruffle-edged box pleats to run the entire distance down front of the waist, and a turnover collar with cuffs to match, finished first with a hem or scalloped, and set under this the fine gathered or knife-pleated frill. The latter, of course, is made from lawn or handkerchief linen. With these sets, a silk Windsor tie or tiny silk cravat is worn. But far more fascinating to the feminine needle at this moment, are the many styles of lingerie ties, cravats, jabots and rabats. A rabat looks like a handkerchief plain or edged with lace, laid in fine pleats, so that it is snug covered where it joins the collar and flares out as the pleats unfold toward its lower edge. It gives a flat, tailored effect. The jabot gives a cascade effect in lace alone, or lace and lawn, and is worn with dressy rather than tailored waists. The smallest lingerie cravats or made ties measure no more than three and a half inches in length and less than two inches in breadth. They are made of fine linen, batiste or lawn, edged with a very narrow, scalloped or pointed French val, and laid in finest of knife pleatings. They are drawn in a very tight knot in the center to give a butterfly effect. They can be fastened on a bit of pasteboard covered with the lawn and attached to the collar with a bit of narrow elastic. Or a patent safety pin on a bar which comes for this purpose can be purchased at the notion counter and the cravat fastened to the collar by this means. A very cunning cravat shows two bows three inches in length, one set above the other like a double butterfly, with both knots showing, and a tiny pointed bit of lace on the end of each. These are similar to the double-silk bows worn during the winter. Next in size comes a four-inch cravat, which stands out on either side from a very tight knot like a half-furled fan. This is in plain pleated lawn, with a deep point of Venice or Irish lace. These made-up ties require most skillful ironing when washed and, in fact, never look really smart after they are washed, so many women are embroidering narrow, short ties, slightly broader at the ends than in the center and tying them in tight, natty bows. These are less than a yard in length, from 30 to 33 inches, about 2 inches wide where they slip under the turnover collar, and 3 inches or a trifle more at the ends, which may be made as ornate as one's ability as an embroiderer will permit. The rabats are made of lawn oblongs inset or edged with lace and embroidery, then finely pleated. One dainty design shows a long, narrow rabat, with a single plain edging of Val on either side, while across the bottom to the depth of five inches, is set row after row of fine insertions with a plain edge of lace like that used on the sides. Another design particularly good for the woman with the round face, shows a pointed rabat, finished across the bottom with hemstitching, and on either of the shorter sides with embroidered Swiss. This design will appeal to the woman who can hemstitch but not embroider. Very long tie ends without bows, usually double, one being wider than the other, are worn in place of silk ties, and these are fastened to the collar with a circular or crescent shaped pin or brooch. They usually meet the belt, and give long lines to an otherwise chubby figure. MARY DEAN.

Two Good Recipes

WHITE CAKE.
Take 3 cups of flour, 2 cups of sugar, 2 teaspoonsful of baking powder; to this add 1 cup of fresh butter, 1 of sweet milk, and the whites of 5 eggs; mix well and bake in a loaf. Line the tin with buttered paper to prevent burning.

ALMOND CREAM CAKE.
Beat the whites of 10 eggs, and into this sift 1½ cups of powdered sugar and 1 cup of flour into which is stirred a large teaspoonful of cream of tartar; stir gently and bake in jelly pans. For cream, take a half a pint of sweet cream, the yolks of 3 eggs, a tablespoon of powdered sugar, a teaspoonful of cornstarch which has been dissolved smoothly in a little milk. Beat the yolks and sugar together with this, boil the cream, and stir these ingredients in, as for any cream filling, only make a little thicker; into this mix a half pound of blanched almonds which have been chopped very fine, put together like jelly cake and over the top stick the remaining half pound of nuts. DOROTHY DOUGLAS.

HOME-MADE TAILORED WAISTS

A Knife Pleated Frill Closes the Opening
Quarter of an Inch Tucks Are the Vogue
A Thin Lacy Satin Waist with Jabot

By almost imperceptible degrees the tailor-made waist has regained its place in madame's winter wardrobe, from which it had been eliminated for several seasons. As of yore, its favorite form is in white materials, ranging from fine lines to that soft ottoman silk which has so quickly established itself in feminine affections. Then there are the various grades of fallie, soft grograin silk and liberty satin, as well as the washable broadcloth stuffs especially made for shirtwaists. This, however, is less used than formerly. Colored waists are also fashionable—indeed, being so much more practical, they rule in point of numbers. They are precisely like the white waists in form and texture—barring the linen ones. This latter, by the way, has its own models, differing slightly from the others. As for the making, when you say "box pleats without yokes," the story is told, for the heavier materials. There are various ways, however, of arranging the pleats, which are never more than an inch wide. In a waist of oyster-white grograin silk the whole front is made of pleats three-quarters of an inch wide and an inch apart. These are stitched from the neck to the waist, are creased tightly in place, but not pressed. One pleat is directly in front, under which the waist fastens invisibly. There are three similar pleats in the middle of the back and three in the top of each sleeve, which are cut just below the elbow and lace with a turn-back cuff. An Irish lace stock makes a charming and appropriate neck finish, giving a very soft effect. A liberty satin is made with inch-wide pleats stitched by machine on either edge. This blouse opens in front in a central pleat, which is fastened with small crocheted buttons at intervals of three inches. There are but two pleats in the back and none in the sleeves, which, being long, do not lend themselves so well to pleating. This model is especially suited to a colored waist. With it would be worn a linen collar and cuffs, to which the Parisienne adds a crisp little jabot. Sometimes colored silk buttons, which match the waist, fasten through this white linen jabot, giving an original and attractive touch. Ottoman silk waists are more satisfactory than pleated. They are made with a perfectly plain back, the front given a little fullness by two half-inch pleats arranged in the shoulder seams. These are machine stitched just enough to hold them in place. A front of an inch and a half wide is also stitched there is an entire absence of handwork on today's tailor-made waist, and is usually covered with a white jabot. A fastening of three or four mock jewel buttons looks extremely rich. With this waist is worn a star turn-down collar and cuffs and a tiny bow tie of the same color as the velvet, but a tone or two lighter. Linen waists are just one thickness beyond the transparent grade. They usually have a yoke in the back, with a small group of tucks below it, and narrow tucks all over the front. Quarter-of-an-inch tucks almost overlapping are the present vogue. These launder better than the box pleat. A convenient change for the maidless woman, the opening is almost invariably in front. A pleasant variety is given by having a double knife-pleated frill instead of the plain buttoned box pleat. With the linen waist may be worn a perfectly plain collar and cuffs and a diminutive bow tie of white linen edged in valenciennes lace. A very new and feminine touch, however, is a fine pleating of lace to edge the cuffs and collar. A every kind of linen collar and cuff is fashionable as long as they are very high and severe looking. Even the lace stocks have that air because they are stretched so smoothly round the neck and are so carefully held in place by numerous fastenings. Round collars that fasten in the back with two jeweled studs and a third in front in place of a brooch are pretty for very young girls, but very trying to their older sisters. These collars usually have a little pleating of linen around the bottom. The cuffs are trimmed in like manner.

LUCKY, indeed, is the woman who owns one of those fascinating old ginger jars from China that were so popular half a century ago. Many a sea-faring captain, caught by the rich color and glaze of the blue and white jars, picked them up for a few cents just to show his women-kind at home what pretty wares "the heathen furniture" could turn out. And the wife or mother, after due wonder, would probably utilize the rare vase to hold her pickles or even to the prosaic mixing of her "sets" for bread. A little did either realize that their grandchildren could value those vases among their greatest treasures, which to buy would cost almost their weight in gold. These old Chinese ginger jars, not content with safeguarding in their old age as flower holders, are now being put to a new and interesting use as a base for a lamp. A clever young bride, whose grandfather was a mate on a Chinese trading ship back in the forties, recently found three of these charming blue and white jars in her grandfather's attic. Two were at once put to use as flower jars for the dining table. The third was filled with a brass tank and burner. After a somewhat lengthy search a blue and white shade that toned in beautifully with the rich colors of the base was found in a junk shop, and a remarkably handsome lamp was given a place of honor in the drawing room. So much admired was this lamp that one of the other jars was converted to the same use. As a second lucky find of a suitable porcelain shade did not materialize, a queer hammered brass shade of Oriental design was substituted with equally good effect. Any one owning such a jar would have no difficulty in turning it into a lamp after the lighting apparatus is added by buying one of the pretty Japanese paper and bamboo shades in harmonizing tones that may be so easily picked up. Indeed, shade could be home-made at a trifling expense if a cheap wire frame is covered with one of the quaint dragon papers in queer Oriental blue tones that are now to be found in most large cities.

person, or if material is used, 31 inches wide, 24 yards will be necessary; if 27 inches, 2½ yards, and if 24 inches 1½ yards, with 1½ yards of lace, insertion, and 9 yards of edging. Broad pieces of ribbon may be used as four-in-hand ties, and the ends may be finished with lace and narrower ribbon. Inch-wide satin ribbon and Valenciennes lace make pretty berthas for either a silk or lingerie blouse. In using satin ribbon for the model in the design, about an inch and one-half in width, it will require about 15 yards of ribbon and 18 yards of lace insertion and 9 yards of edging. Ribbons are advantageously made into stocks by using the very narrow ribbon, either in satin or velvet, and all of the different shades known to the manufacturer may be employed in their creation. If organdie is used to construct the jacket, on account of its width, it will take very little over a yard. This would insure the wearer a garment at very little cost, and one as fresh and airy as may well be imagined. Embroidered velvet bands are worn by fashionable women with gowns boasting of no collar, and with Dutch necks. These bands may be obtained in all of the tones that are now in vogue, ready to wear, in the shops. Ribbons are very much utilized in forming half-princess gowns. The high girde belts are fashioned of velvet ribbon and the skirt material, and the straps going over the shoulder are of the ribbon. In some gumpes the shoulder pieces are made of broad taffetas, with narrow quiltings of the same. MARY DEAN.

It has been suggested that the Municipal Government be made acquainted with the ability of Mr. James Austin, the banker, to climb poles without any artificial attachments. It seems that Mr. Austin was in company with a number of young ladies when an enraged animal of the bovine species put in an appearance. In order to defend the gentler sex, Mr. Austin proceeded to verify the Darwinian hypothesis by climbing a pole, in a noble effort to scare the animal away. The services of such an athlete should not be overlooked by the City Fathers.

Board of Trade Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Cardston Board of Trade convened in the Council Chambers last Wednesday evening with President Martin Woolf in the chair. The main business of the meeting was the discussion of proposed resolutions which will be presented at the first Irrigation Congress of Western Canada which will be held in the city of Calgary on the 17th of next July. The proposed resolutions were read and considered separately. Two more were added to the list. Mr. Martin Woolf was unanimously elected a delegate to attend the Congress. Other delegates will be elected at a latter date if it is found advisable to send more than one from the Board of Trade.

The question of help for the Harvest was discussed and it was decided that those in the district needing help should call at the office of the Secretary Treasurer, Mr. E. N. Barker and a contract for the same and that the Board would do its level best to see that the labor is secured.

On this matter and others pertaining to the interests of the district the Secretary was authorized to call a meeting of the Executive to make necessary arrangements.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Trouble.

Mr. M. F. Borroughs, an old and well known resident of Bluffton, Ind., says: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used the remedy in my family for several years. I am never without it." This remedy is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? For sale by all druggists and dealers.

The 15th Light Horse Band will be in High River on June 21st, have received the offer of a five days engagement at the Winnipeg Fair, and are booked to appear in all the principal Cities in Eastern Canada. No doubt the band will attract a large crowd at the Sports to be held in High River. High River intends to give the Band a royal reception when they visit, they will meet the train from Calgary decked in their Sunday attire, and with banners and flags flying from the roof tops. All citizens will enjoy a holiday.

Sunday School Convention

The Conjoint Sunday School Convention of the Taylor and Alberta Stakes was a marked success whichever way you look at it. Much praise is due the Raymond Board for the excellent system and dispatch in their reception and entertainment of the visitors on that occasion. Equal praise is due the Alberta Stake Superintendent and the local officers and workers for the splendid way in which one and all responded to the call. It is not possible to tell you of the Convention and its Department Work. We can only deal in generalities. The people of Raymond held their arms wide open and to use the words of Supt. B. S. Young, "We were indeed the guests and they were the servants." From the opening meeting on Friday night until the close of the Convention on Saturday afternoon the spirit and genius of Sunday School work held sway. It is safe to say that the Cardston Military Band were the heroes of the hour and the Cardston singers the talk of the town. We may indeed be proud of our representatives on that occasion. From 125 to 150 visitors left Cardston for Raymond on that occasion. It will be the good pleasure of Cardston to entertain the Sunday School Workers of the Taylor Stake at some future time and we hope that the same good cheer and welcome will be seen on all sides as it was at Raymond on Friday and Saturday last.

Notice to Householdors Cut Worms in the Fields and Gardens

Bearing in mind the enormous damage that was done by cut-worms last spring, it will pay the farmer and garden owner to give a look to their crops as early as possible after they are sown and at any rate just as soon as the small plants begin to appear. The parent moths or millers were not very numerous last fall so that probably the cutworms will not be nearly so plentiful this spring as they were last, but from reports and from what has already been seen in the fields and gardens there is still risk of a good deal of damage from the depredation of these creatures this year. These pests are very easily destroyed and the remedy consists in applying a mixture of bran and paris green to the surface of the ground in which the cutworms are harbouring. The creatures come out to the surface to feed at night and bran seems to be in great favor with them as a food, and when there is a judicious mixture of paris green along with it they are usually satisfied with one meal. The mixture should be in the proportion of one pound of paris green to 50 pounds of bran, although some authorities prescribe double the quantity of bran to the same amount of paris green. The bran should be mixed with sweetened water till it is crumbly, not sloppy, and the paris green dusted on to it and thoroughly mixed. It may be applied with a piece of shingle or even the bare hand if only a small quantity is to be used. Many farmers found this treatment very effectual last year and indeed it is now recognized as the standard remedy all over the country wherever cut worms become a pest.

To prevent disappointment in the cabbage patch every plant should be protected by a screen of paper twisted on the stalk just above the roots and loosely unfolding the leaves. This forms an effectual barrier to the cutworm, is easily applied, and does not interfere with the growth of the cabbage.

information as to what to plant and how to plant. The object of this article is to give a little more general information on these questions to which has reference been made. No attempt could be made to answer them fully, as local conditions govern, to a large extent, each individual case. While the nature of the soil has much to do in the selection of the class of trees suited to any particular locality.

The tree that is probably used most extensively throughout Manitoba for street and lawn planting is the common Manitoba maple or box elder. The reasons why this tree is largely planted are its extreme hardiness and rapid growth. It withstands very severe climatic tests and will make a very good shade in comparatively few years. It should not be selected, however, for street planting, as it usually makes a very irregular growth and unless severely pruned, makes an unsightly tree.

For street planting and especially on heavy soils, nothing gives better satisfaction than the native grown American Elm. It is quite hardy under Manitoba conditions, and with careful training, should become "a thing of beauty and a joy for ever."

Of deciduous trees for lawn planting, the native variety of the green ash and the American basswood gives best results in the southern portion of the province, and more especially the Red River valley. The native variety of the Canoe or paper birch is hardy and makes an attractive tree for lawns.

No lawn or home grounds is complete without some of the Conifers or Evergreens. Among the Evergreens which are best suited to Manitoba, the White Spruce and the Scotch Pine rank first. The White Spruce is especially attractive, and is much to be preferred to the black spruce which is ordinarily planted.

The larch or tamarack is one of the deciduous conifers which makes an attractive lawn tree when planted with evergreens on account of the contrast in the color of their leaves. While cedar or arbor vitae is also valuable as a lawn tree on account of the richness of its coloring.

Poor success with trees is often due to careless planting. Many trees are lost on account of the fact that they are not properly planted or are injured in the transplanting process. Trees are best transplanted at a season of the year when they are in a dormant condition. Transplanting in the spring before growth has begun is usually productive of the best results. Planting at this season of the year enables a tree to develop an abundant root system and become thoroughly established before the growing season is over.

A few points that are well to observe in the transplanting process are: (1) Avoid, as far as possible, exposing the root to the air, as they are liable to become dried out and seriously injured, which may cause the death of the tree. (2) Trim off all broken and injured roots before planting. (3) Dig the hole sufficiently large to allow the roots to be properly spread out. (4) Fill in around the roots with surface soil, and tramp it in sufficiently to thoroughly compact it.

A word in regard to the trimming of trees intended for street and lawn planting. The pruning of a tree should be begun when the tree is small, and continued until it has assumed a proper permanent form. It is a very difficult matter to so trim a tree that has once become deformed as to make it slightly and attractive. Heavy pruning should be avoided as far as possible, as trees are often injured in that way. The main point to be borne in mind is that of keeping the trees upright in habit. While the occasional removal of a few branches will be all that is necessary to attain a symmetrical and attractive form

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST MINING REGULATIONS.

Coal.—Coal lands may be purchased at $10 per acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 320 acres can be acquired by one individual or company. Royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2000 pounds shall be collected on the gross output.

Quartz.—A free miner's certificate is granted upon payment in advance of $5 per annum for an individual, and from $50 to $100 per annum for a company, according to capital.

A free miner having discovered mineral in place may locate a claim 500 x 500 feet.

The fee for recording a claim is $5. At least $100 must be expended on a claim each year or paid to the mining recorder in lieu thereof. When $500 has been expended or paid, the locator may upon having a survey made, and upon complying with other requirements purchase the land at $1 per acre.

The patent provides for the payment of a royalty of 2 1-2 per cent on the sales.

PLACER mining claims generally are 100 feet square; entry fee $5, renewable yearly.

A free miner may obtain two leases to dredge for gold of five miles each for a term of twenty years, renewable at the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

The lessee shall have a dredge in operation within one season from the date of the lease for each five miles. Rental $10 per annum for each mile of river leased. Royalty at the rate of 2 1-2 per cent collected on the output after it exceeds $10,000.

A few things to think over before buying your

SPRING SUIT

Don't make the mistake of being satisfied with anything short of the BEST style you can get in a Spring Suit or Overcoat.

No matter what your taste, let it be made as it should be—to your measure, and properly tailored.

There is down-right economy in getting clothing made for you from very best materials, with good linings and good workmanship throughout.

It holds its shape twice as long, wears twice as long and gives evidence of good tailoring up to the very last.

Why should a man wear clothes of indifferent fit, that always look "slouchy" after a week or two, when, for practically the same money, he can get something made to his measure that is made right?

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 9 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 17 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for homestead entry or inspection must be made in person by the applicant at the office of the Local Agent or Sub-Agent.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

1. At least six months' residence on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

2. If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resided upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

3. If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing shall be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.
