The longer you allow it to misbehave the more difficult the repairer's task will be in the end and the greater the cost of repair. Putting off the fixing of a Watch or Clock that has gotten out of order is a losing and shortsighted policy. Has this any home application to any of your timepieces? If so our Repair Department is ready and waiting.

Cardinal Vaughan's Book.

Just at the close of his beautiful and active life, the late Cardinal Vaughan wrote a work entitled "The Young Priest: Conference on the Apostolic Life." The venerable Cardinal, Archbishop of Westminster, walking in the footsteps of his illustrious predecessors—Wiseman and Manning—consecrated every hour of his life to the work of his sublime mission; and even, when the close of his career was evidently at hand, he ceased not to write and to instruct in the grand course of the Catholic priesthood. Very beautiful, and very touching are the remarks made by the Liverpool "Catholic Times," in dealing with this last volume, this final legacy of the great churchman to those who were to come after him. In that review the Catholic organ says:

"Cardinal Vaughan, when he found that the end of his life was drawing near, determined to leave his most precious thoughts to those coming after him on the subject nearest to his heart—the priesthood. He was stricken down by disease, and his brother, Mgr. Canon Vaughan, who has edited this volume, tells us that the exertion entailed was a considerable tax upon his diminished strength; and that nothing but an indomitable energy, courage and zeal could have enabled him to continue working at it, as he did, almost up to the very last. As is well known, his Eminence had a very high ideal of the priestly life, and in writing this book he unfolds his thoughts with great earnestness. There is, it is true, evidence of the work having been written under physical disabilities. The composition is not in the continuous style which the Cardinal would have adopted had he been in the full vigor of bodily health. Manifestly the subject was often laid aside and taken up anew. But, though the literary workmanship bears witness to the difficulties which the author experienced owing to his infirmity, there is no sign of falling off in substance. The advice given is well designed to lead the young priest along the path of perfection.

"The Cardinal maintains that a man's vocation as a missionary priest gives him the Apostolic standard and no other for his rule of life and conduct. He must imitate the Apostle. If England is to be reconverted to the Church, if unevangelized races are to be brought within the fold, missionaries must be raised up perfect in faith and good works, and on fire with the love of God and of their neighbor. Such is the general drift of the Cardinal's stimulating words, from what may be called the purely spiritual standpoint. As to practical matters he offers valuable recommendations. He deemed it praiseworthy for a priest to resolve never to put off the ecclesiastical dress. Hunting fields, shooting parties, race courses and all gambling resorts are, he held, unfit places for a priest. He thought a priest should avoid taking part in public football or cricket matches. It is not wrong to play cards as a recreation or as a set of civility. But the custom did not find favor with the Cardinal. He points out that a man who says, "No, I never play," rides himself at once of much trouble and difficulty. A priest, he observes, would do wisely to resolve never to play for money and never to sit over a card table for hours together. In relations with the gentle sex, he bids the priest remember that forms of respect and reverence surround him with reverence, and that so far from diminishing they increase the esteem and confidence in which he is held. Priests ought, he says, to practice self-denial with regard to strong drink. To deny themselves and to fast from the use of spirits from an Apostolic love of God, and for souls will obtain grace for them and others. With regard to tobacco he is more tolerant. Smoking, he says, has been found in certain cases to be beneficial to health when used moderately, and some priests living alone in hard missions and on poor fare more easily reconcile themselves to their lot by the use of tobacco. But on the whole the Cardinal discommends smoking, whilst cautioning the young priests who consider it inadvisable to indulge in the habit, that they must not censure the conduct of seniors, who by reason of age, traditions, health or infirmity may use their liberty in using tobacco. The book will, no doubt, be highly prized by the priests for whom it is intended, and it will have a wholesome effect on the tone of spiritual life amongst the clergy.

Vatican Council is merely suspended, not finished, writes "Vox Urbis," the Rome correspondent of the "Freeman's Journal." In 1870 the fathers were obliged to discontinue their labors owing to the disturbed state of Italy and the imminent fall of the temporal power and the occupation of Rome by the Piedmontese. Happily, they had been able to define the great dogma of the infallibility of the Pope, but they were obliged to defer a settlement of a great part of their programme, such as the enactment of disciplinary laws and the definition of many important points concerned with the Sacred Scriptures. Vox Urbis has done his best to trace to their source the rumors of the continuation of the Vatican Council, but his efforts, so far have failed to make the rumors a certainty. The matter is discussed among many ecclesiastics, who consider that the idea is one which would appeal to the apostolic zeal and energy of the present Pontiff, and who are agreed that the times are more propitious now than they have been since 1870. But it is generally felt that at least a couple of years of preparation will be necessary. If the council does meet now it will certainly surpass all records in the number of bishops who will attend it. During the pontificate of Leo XIII., the hierarchy was increased by about 200. It is estimated that at the future sessions of the council some three thousand ecclesiastics will be present, either as fathers, theologians, stenographers, etc. There are at present in the Catholic Church slightly over 1,000 Bishops with residential sees, and half that number of titular bishops. Of course, it will not be possible for all of these to come to Rome for the council, but considering the present facilities of travel and the unprecedented number of bishops, it is quite certain that all previous records for numbers will be put into the shade. Italy heads the list of all countries as regards the number of residential sees, as it did when the Vatican Council was opened for the first time, but at the future session the United States will take the second place instead of France, which has occupied it for a great many centuries.

Says the Monitor: "If the first Bonaparte were in communication with the present rulers of France, he could give them a valuable 'tip' on the probable outcome of their anti-papal policy. He has some experience in the same direction himself."

"Why," asks the Catholic Columbian, "don't the Socialists gather together in some one place, put their theory of business into practice, and prove, if they can, that it will bring about the millennium that they now say it will? Let us have facts, not assertions."

Writing of the labor troubles in the Colorado mining regions, the Catholic Union and Times says: "The first consideration in such riotous conditions should be the insistence of law and order. That is of supreme importance, far beyond and above the right and wrong of the questions at issue."

"There are many Catholics," says the Montreal True Witness, "who are not slow in condemning others for not meeting their obligations who never think of paying their annual subscription for their Catholic paper. Such Catholics are the cause of much worry and useless expenditure of money by publishers who depend upon their paying the small amount of their indebtedness, but in a majority of cases the sum is not forthcoming. The issuing of accounts and notices at frequent intervals to the delinquents involve an expenditure alone in paper, ink and wages of clerks, which amounts to more than the subscription price."

The Catholic Transcript has the following: "The present Pontiff has gone the length of reviving the Order of the Trinitarians, which did so much in ages past for the redemption of captives. Leo XIII., had his Lsvigierie, Pius X., may have another apostle in the protect apostolic whom he has just appointed to scour Italian Africa and rid the land of the barter in men, whose only crime is that their skin is of a dusky hue. The poor blacks in Bonadir little guess the sympathy they have awakened in the heart of the Vicar of Christ. In thus recalling the services of the maribard Order of the Most Holy Trinity, Pius X., will fire the souls of latter-day apostles who will quicken to generous resolves at the stories of the slave-trade practised in all its barbarity in the interior of Africa."

Minard's Liniment cures Burns, etc.

Items of Interest.

This year's Whit-Friday procession of the Catholics of Manchester and Salford, Eng., the sixtieth demonstration of the kind, was participated in by more than 1,000 persons.

The Archbishop of Freiburg was fired upon recently in the archiepiscopal consistory court, but escaped uninjured. His assailant is a teacher named Dr. Rieger, and is said to have borne a grudge against the ecclesiastical authorities for refusing to authorize him to give religious instructions in secondary schools. Dr. Rieger, who appears to be subject to delusions, was arrested.

On a recent Sunday all over Italy Catholic societies of all kinds celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of the great encyclical "Rerum Novarum," which has been well styled the "Magna Charta of Labor." Large crowds visited the new monument in St. John Lateran's, Rome, on the sides of which the great document is reproduced in immortal bronze.

Our English exchanges chronicle the opening of a Catholic church at Northenden, on the Mersey, in Cheshire. It was the first celebration of Mass in that village since Reformation times. The church, which is dedicated to St. Eilda, was erected three years ago by a Protestant lady, but there was some disagreement about the form of service to be followed, and the edifice was offered for sale, the Bishop of Shrewsbury becoming the purchaser. The pastor of Northenden is a convert to the Church and the happy successor of a martyr priest. The last Mass in the village was offered by the venerable Father Barlow, O. S. B., who was put to death on September 10, 1641, for exercising the ministry in a neighboring parish. So it goes in England and many, many other lands.

"The rumored concession of Pius X. to the clergy in the matter of beards and mustaches will not," writes a Highland correspondent to the London Daily Chronicle, come as a novelty in this part of the world, where many of the good priests of the mountains and islands have permission to protect their throats from the raw damp of the Highland winters by beards often of quite patriarchal dimensions. I remember a good old Scottish padre who was elected (much against his will) Bishop of a Highland see, and went to Rome to receive episcopal consecration with his cheeks adorned with whiskers much more voluminous than the 'clerical inch' which custom or courtesy used to allow to all Catholic ecclesiastics. The Cardinal Prefect of Propaganda, who was to perform the consecration ceremony, was horrified, and insisted on the sacrifice of the whiskers before the consecration took place. The Bishop-elect submitted under protest. But he was no sooner back in his Highland fastness than the whiskers blossomed forth again more luxuriantly than ever.

Naturally enough, says the "London Catholic Times," the daily papers have been writing at great length on the new departure in the relations between the Vatican and the Quirinal which took place when Cardinal Stampa, Archbishop of Bologna, drove in state to visit the King of Italy and at dinner was seated at his Majesty's right hand. An explanation of the Cardinal's official recognition of the King has been given, semi-officially it is said, on behalf of the Holy See, its purport being that the permission granted to the Cardinal shows that the Holy Father limits his claim to Rome. The co-existence of two sovereigns in the Eternal City is, his Holiness is convinced, impossible, and this is the reason why a strong protest was made against President Loubet's visit; but the Pontiff is anxious that the policy of mutual conciliation should be adopted by the spiritual and temporal powers so far as the other parts of Italy are concerned. In other words, whilst Pius X., maintains the rightful claim of the Holy See to absolute independence, he desires to make it clear that he is not influenced by any mere love of temporal sway. The course which the Holy See has pursued has produced an excellent impression not only in Italy, but throughout Europe, and it will undoubtedly tend to bring nearer a satisfactory modus vivendi between the Italian King and the Holy See.

Rumor says that it is the intention of the Holy Father to call all the Bishops of the Catholic world to Rome to conclude the sessions of the great Vatican Council. Everybody knows, of course, that the

The Ottawa correspondent of the St. John Sun, writing to his paper under date of the 18th inst., devotes considerable space to the discussion of the Fishery Award raised by Mr. Lefurgey. Mr. Lefurgey questioned the Minister of Marine and Fisheries very sharply about every phase of the question, but the Minister had very little information to give. This paragraph of the correspondent's letter will be of special interest to the electors of this Province: "When pushed into a corner by Mr. Lefurgey as to whether an arbitration is to be held to decide the share of the fisheries award which each province is to obtain, Hon. Mr. Prefontaine went flatly back on the statement of the premier of Prince Edward Island, and assured the house that while there had been some negotiations on the subject nothing had been done. Mr. Hackett pressed the matter still further home, but the minister adhered to his statement that while there had been negotiations since 1899 no conclusion had been arrived at. Mr. Lefurgey then asked if the taking of this money out of the hands of the Dominion Government would not annul the payment of the bounties to the fishermen. But Hon. Mr. Prefontaine replied that he was not prepared to make any statement whatever until the matter was settled or agreed upon." According to this, Mr. Peters is deliberately humbugging the people by his story that the question was relegated to the Privy Council. Is he not?

What Parliament is Doing.

In Parliament during the past week, a number of private and Government bills were considered. Two private bills, offered by Conservatives in the public interest, were defeated on straight party votes. One was a measure to assure all positions as masters and mates on lake vessels to British subjects. The United States so protects its citizens; but on this side of the line the American has as free a hand as the Canadian. The other ordinance was to make the railways keep watchmen on all crossings in towns or villages where the speed of trains is excessive and likely to endanger life.

In supply the opposition were able to show that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries had been disposing of the property of the land to favorites at prices far below their true valuation. Several scandals of this nature were ventilated. The Minister, responsible for this sort of thing, was unable to give any information as to the reason for so treating the property of those he represents in his official capacity.

The Dundonald-Fisher incident was brought up by the leader of the opposition, who declared by resolution that the Government had no right to allow the Militia to be made a camping ground for politicians. It was shown that the Minister of Agriculture had not only interfered with the proper carrying out of the plans of the General Officer Commanding for the improvement of the force, but that he misrepresented the facts of the case in the House of Commons, by reading a statement which was at variance with remarks made by him on the same day at a later stage of the recent debate on the question. The Liberals declared that the expulsion of Lord Dundonald from the command of the Militia was a proper proceeding and that Mr. Fisher had done right in meddling in the work of the most competent officer that has ever commanded the Canadian forces.

The millions in surpluses that have been taken from the pockets of the electors since 1896 have not resulted in the reduction of the national debt, but they have enabled the ministers to enjoy themselves. The report of the Auditor General, for the year 1902-03, shows that six members of the cabinet disposed of the enormous sum of $203,399 for travelling expenses, railway fares, cab hire, tips, and sundries. The ministers in question got rid of $7,477 for personal travelling expenses. For fares they paid out of the treasury $475; for cab hire $1,061; and for sundries $45.60. The Labor Department spent for travelling expenses $3,891; the Justice Department for travelling expenses $4,658; and for cab hire $166; the Department of Marine and Fisheries for travelling expenses $8,473; the Department of Militia for travelling expenses $7,842 and for cab hire $139; the Department of Indian Affairs for travelling expenses $827, for cab hire $365 and for tips $40 and the Department of Agriculture's bill for travelling expenses was $28,055. The habit of Government employees giving tips on trains and in steamers, amounting in many cases to dollars, is becoming a common practice within the last few years. Sir John Macdonald was abused for the best part of a day by the Liberals because in the last days of his service to the country he sometimes took a cab. But those protests have all been forgotten and in the days of large surpluses $203,399 for the personal needs of the opulent and earwhile economists is considered nothing. The farmers and workmen who are able to take cabs to and from their meals and hand over to a porter the best part of their week's earnings in the shape of a tip will sympathize with the men who are for making the surpluses go as fast as the tax-payers can pay them into the treasury.

Our Ottawa Letter.

"It is for the people to decide. Let them determine whether Canada shall have a Government owned railway or a railway owned Government." Mr. R. L. Borden, announcing the Conservative policy of Government railway ownership.

THE WEEK IN PARLIAMENT.

The decision of the Government to dismiss Lord Dundonald, because of his fearless exposure of the interference of Hon. Sydney Fisher in the appointment of officers of the militia, was the event of the week in Parliament. This means that the Liberals have determined to make the militia another cog in the wheel of machine government. The result will be the removal of the most competent man who has ever presided over the Canadian forces.

Mr. R. L. Borden asked that all the papers in connection with the case be laid on the table of the House. To this Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave an evasive answer. The Premier was then informed that in case the documents were not all produced, the opposition would take steps to supply any that may be missing. It was clearly the Premier's intention to produce only such letters as might place Lord Dundonald in a hole. The Conservatives, however, profiting by the concealment of the Grand Trunk Pacific documents until such time as it suited the purpose of the Government to make their contents public, made their position clear. It is not a happy situation when the word of the Prime Minister cannot be accepted in good faith by his opponents, but Sir Wilfrid by his equivocations has brought about this state of affairs.

The budget debate was closed. The Government supporters spoke in favor of free trade or protection, the only excuse required being the leaning their constituents might have one way or the other. The Conservative leader pointed out the many defects in the Liberal platform, which his opportunism through and through. His arguments were consistently supported by Messrs. Broder, Armstrong, Kemp, Wilson and Donnelly. An earnest plea was made by all for a policy of "Canada for Canadians." An amendment to that effect moved by Mr. Borden was voted down by a straight Liberal majority.

Some progress was made in supply, and Mr. Fisher's bill to regulate the sale of seeds was considered.

WHO KNIFE DUNDONALD?

"I," said little Sydney.
"Men of my kidney—
(Who play all the tricks
Of peanut politics)—
"Know what's etiquette!
I did—without regret—
I knifed Dundonald!"
Who misused Dundonald?
"I," said the Premier?
Call him a "Foreigner,"
Then again, "a stranger,"
Because I scented danger;
And I stand by Fisher,
For Sydney's my well-wisher:
I misused Dundonald!"
Who knifed Dundonald?
"Not I—Sir Frederick Borden—
I had to go accordin'
To what the others did;
I do as I am bid!
For Fisher I don't care;

He never has played fair!
Alas; Poor Dundonald;
Who'll back Dundonald?
" I," said the man, who votes;
" I," from a thousand throats;
" I," from ten thousand throats;
" I," from the brave red coats;
" Confound their politics;
" Confound their knavish tricks;
We'll back Dundonald; "

GRATUITOUS INSULT TO BRITISHERS.

Lord Dundonald has done more to advance the interests of the Canadian militia than any other man who has held the position of Commander in Chief of the military forces of this country. He won his spurs in many a hard fought battle, and his close connection with the Canadian forces in South Africa specially fitted him as the man to place the national army on a war footing. He was the darling of the Liberal press, until in a moment of courage he tore the mask from the political trickery of Hon. Sydney Fisher, who sought to turn the militia into first class patronage machine. Then came the deluge. Lord Dundonald has since been characterized as a "foreigner" by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He has been given the lie by the Montreal Herald, the subsidized organ of Mr. Fisher. He has been dubbed "His Pipe Clayship" by the Halifax Chronicle, the subsidized organ of Mr. Fielding. Numerous other insults have been hurled at this brave soldier by newspapers, whose chief means of support is the money paid them by the Government. This may suit the purposes of the machinists who care not for the reputation of Lord Dundonald, but there is that in Canadians which will resent the slurs cast at the man, who, in the hour of trial, dashed to the relief of his fellow countrymen at Lady-smith. Lord Dundonald is no "foreigner." He is as good a specimen of true British manhood as stands in Canada to-day. He is a worthy son of old Scotland, whose sons have shed their blood for the upbuilding of the British Empire, and no number of unworthy reflections from the servile organs of the Liberal party or Liberal leaders will lessen the good impression he has made on all classes in this country. It is a matter of regret that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, representing as he does thousands of Scotchmen in his capacity as Premier, should have gone out of his way to insult one of the best and most intelligent branches of the British people. Lord Dundonald, in every respect, is so far superior to most of his detractors that to him their attacks will be of small moment, but there are those, and their number is legion, who will not tolerate the insult that has been leveled at the man who has the gentlemanly good taste to ignore the puny blows of puny men.

MR. BORDEN HONORED.

The Conservative members of the Senate and House of Commons paid a high tribute to their leader the other day, by presenting him with a magnificent souvenir consisting of 24 pieces of plate and a full complement of cutlery, numbering 18 dozen. The gift was valued at nearly $1,000. The leader's fiftieth birthday was made the occasion of the tribute to his many sterling qualities, which in the short space of three years, have made his name a household word throughout Canada. Speaker after speaker bore testimony to the high esteem in which Mr. Borden is held by his party in all parts of his native land. The coming premier was assured that at the approaching elections he would have the undivided support of the rank and file of the party, which has always stood for the upbuilding of this country. The presentation was made by Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. F. Monk.

SHOE ON THE OTHER FOOT.

While Lord Dundonald is being hounded by the Liberal press and insulted on every side, a prominent Canadian, Sir Percy Girouard, is having a similar experience in South Africa. The gifted son of a French-Canadian is being forced to resign a position which he has filled with credit to himself and his country. According to the Liberal press, Sir Percy is getting just what he deserves. He is a "foreigner," as the word is interpreted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and should therefore be deported without the slightest consideration. In this case the shoe is on the other foot and one of the brightest young men who has been given to the Empire by Canada is in the same box as Lord Dundonald. This should bring the Fisher-Dundonald incident home to the electors in a way that no other argument could. Both men have been forced to the wall for political purposes. Those who sympathize with Girouard are bound to feel that Dundonald has been stabbed in the back.

STAND BY THE MILITIA.

The end of the Dundonald Fisher incident is not yet. The Canadian people should cherish it as one of the signs to be visited on the heads of those who are doing their best to introduce machine methods into a branch of the public service, which if tolerated, marks the ruin of the Militia. Lord Dundonald in calling the band of the Minister of Agriculture did what any self respecting Canadian would have done. The time has not arrived in this land of freedom of thought, when even a boss can abuse men with impunity. Placed in the same position as Dundonald has been, it is safe to say ninety men in a hundred would have acted as the commanding officer of the Canadian forces did. The fact that Dundonald acted somewhat hastily is easily understood by those who know Mr. Fisher. The Minister of agriculture, of all the ministers, is perhaps the most conceited and incompetent. Like most small men, he is incapable of seeing further than the end of his nose, and through Dundonald he attempted a miserable and petty act of political trickery which was not tolerated for a moment. It would require a pretty good stretch of imagination to picture the man who relieved Lady-smith submitting his dignity and self-respect to the boot soles of such as Mr. Fisher, and the inevitable rebellion followed. But the action of Dundonald will pass from sight with his return to England. Not so with the Minister of Agriculture. Canada will have the pleasure of his company as well as that of his associates for some time yet, and the people, who are even above the Minister of Agriculture, are to say by their ballots whether they approve or disapprove such acts as have been brought home to the door of the man who has done so much to injure the military system of Canada. It is all very nice to refer to Dundonald as the best soldier who has ever presided over the militia, but the cause of his removal, the Hon. Sydney Fisher, is the person on whom the eyes of the electors should centre on the day of the next election. If the people are to pay for the maintenance of the force, the Fishers and their kind should be given a back seat.

YANKERS EXPECT TO MAKE MONEY.

The civil engineers of the United States expect to make a lot of money out of the Grand Trunk Pacific construction. Already they have secured about everything in sight, but they are not yet satisfied and the professors of American engineering colleges are pointing out to their graduates that to the Grand Trunk they must look for employment. This is what one of them said the other day in addressing his graduating classes:—"If the published newspaper reports are correct, stating that the Grand Trunk Pacific will cost $150,000,000 to build, that means [taking the average cost of the engineering at ten per cent of the total], $15,000,000. And as there are American engineers in charge of the work, there is no reason why the greater part of this sum should not come into our hands. In fact, I think it is the greatest opportunity we have had for the last quarter of a century, if not the greatest we ever had, for the training of the American railroad engineer." This country, in the opinion of this gentleman, is going to establish a training school for the American railroad engineer, at a cost of $150,000,000 and the American is to receive $15,000,000 for attending the school from which Canadians are practically excluded, because Mr. Hays being an American wishes to surround himself with his fellow countrymen. The Grand Trunk manager is quite willing to allow Canada to pay the bills but he insists on running the whole show. Mr. Fielding contends that it would not be wise to oppose the wishes of Mr. Hays, for then he might not be ready to accept the contract in its present form. So much the better, it would mean a loss to the people of Portland who have been assured by prominent Grand Trunk officials that their city will receive an immense amount of new freight when the G.T.P. is completed. The ending of the negotiations might spoil the new school for American railroad engineers, but that is the least of the evils that the Conservative party have advocated the Government building any necessary roads. No government would dare to employ outside labor.

Pains in the Back
 Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important is a healthy action of these organs. They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and dependency.
 "I was taken ill with kidney trouble, and became so weak I could scarcely get around. I took medicine without benefit, and finally decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After the first bottle I felt so much better that I continued its use, and six bottles made me a new woman. When my little girl was a baby, she could not keep anything on her stomach, and we gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured her." Mrs. THOMAS LANE, Wallaceburg, Ont.

 ALFRED F. Haliburton, Sergeant-at-Arms in the Nova Scotia Assembly and the oldest barrister in the Province died at the Victoria General Hospital last week of cancer of the tongue, aged 85 years. Mr. Haliburton was admitted to the Bar on April 16th, 1842 and was made SERGE-AT-ARMS in 1883. He was a nephew of Judge Haliburton author of "Sam Slick" and made his home at Baddeck where the body was sent.
 ONE death and eleven cases of prostration are reported as result of the excessive heat in New York Sunday. Angus Emmett a widow was taken to the hospital Sunday evening with three self inflicted bullet wounds in her head. The woman said she was crazed by the heat. Albert Rankin, 21, a sailor was picked up on the street overcome by the heat and carried to the hospital in a serious condition.
 A THOUSAND people attended the first day's racing at the exhibition speedway at Moncton on Saturday and witnessed a good race. The 230 class was especially good; five heats being required to decide it. The favorite Lord Alverston, owned by Lerol Willis came badly out of it, finishing no better than last in any of five heats. The fight for first money in this class was between Clayton Jr. and Drull; but the latter proved a better stayer and won. The fastest half of the day was made in the 220 class. In the 240 class Guinness P. won in straight heats, Harry second.
 A very bad accident happened on the P. E. I. Railway at York Station this morning, by which Miss Lawson of that place was seriously, if not fatally injured. The Lawsons keep the Post Office and carry the mail from the depot. It appears Miss Lawson had received the mail bag from the labourer's train and crossed the track in front of the engine, apparently not noticing that the train was moving. She was struck by the engine and thrown onto the platform. What were the extent of her injuries could not then be determined. A doctor was immediately summoned. Fortunately the train was moving slowly. Latest accounts indicate the injury is not very serious.

Solemnly Dedicated to Divine Service.
 On Sunday last, the beautiful new Church of St. Mary, Souris, was solemnly dedicated to Divine worship, by His Lordship, the Bishop, assisted by a number of priests. The weather was charming and there was a very large congregation in attendance at the ceremonies. The people assembled not only from St. Mary's parish, but from neighboring parishes, and a special train from Georgetown arrived shortly after ten o'clock bringing upwards of a hundred passengers. The dedicatory ceremonies commenced about 10:30 when His Lordship, the Bishop, in cope and mitre and bearing his crozier, surrounded by the attending clergy emerged from the Sanctuary and passed down the aisle and out by the main entrance of the edifice. The people meantime had all left the church and assembled in front of the building. The Bishop and clergy took their stand in front of the entrance facing the altar and knelt down, when His Lordship proceeded with the ceremony in accordance with the Roman Ritual. The outer walls were sprinkled with holy water, and dedicated with prayer and blessing, the people following the Bishop and clergy in the procession round the edifice. After making the circuit of the church and arriving again at the entrance the Bishop and clergy entered, when the interior walls and the sanctuary were sprinkled and blessed. The vast congregation then reentered the church and Solemn Pontifical Mass was commenced. His Lordship, Bishop McDonald was celebrant of the Mass, assisted by Rev. Dr. Doyle as arch priest, Rev. Jas. E. McDonald and Rev. Dr. Walker, as deacons of honor, Rev. S. T. Phelan and Rev. J. F. Johnston, as deacon and sub-deacon of office, and Rev. Gregory J. McLellan, D. D., as Master of ceremonies. In addition to these clergy, Rev. R. B. McDonald, P. P., and Rev. J. C. McMillan, D. D., occupied places in the Sanctuary. After the first Gospel Rev. Dr. McMillan preached an appropriate and eloquent sermon. His text was from the 1st. Book of Paralipomenon XXIX. and 1st. "The work is great; for a house is prepared not for man, but for God."
 The Rev. preacher pointed out that every nation had its history, every Province its records and likewise every parish had its chronicles and its monuments. The ceremony of this occasion, when His Lordship the Bishop, the chief pastor of this diocese came to dedicate this beautiful church, constituted a milestone in the history of the parish of St. Mary's. The people rejoice in the great work that has been done. But it would not be unnatural that a note of sorrow might be mingled with their joy when their minds would run back to the good priest who had commenced the church, and who had been so suddenly taken away. During the many years they had worshipped in the edifice, their former beloved pastor had looked anxiously forward to the completion of the present edifice. But God had determined otherwise and their late dear pastor was doubtless looking down and rejoicing with them on the great ceremony of to-day. They were assembled not to sorrow; but to rejoice with their beloved pastor in the past of to-day in the completion of this magnificent church. What was the end and aim of the church of the new law? It was a house not for man, but for God; it was a place of worship set apart for prayer and sacrifice. From the very earliest stage of human history, sacrifice constituted the greatest act of religious worship. Cain and Abel, Noah, Abraham and Jacob offered sacrifices. The Temple of Solomon, the most magnificent place of worship up to its time, was built by command of God, for the offering of prayer and sacrifice. But grand, magnificent as was this temple it was but a figure of the Church of the New Law. For four thousand years the blood of animals flowed in sacrifice; but a greater victim than all these was required. This victim was none else than Jesus Christ, the eternal Son of God. The Rev. preacher here described the condition of the world when our Saviour came on earth, and recited the prophecies relating to his advent among men. In the tremendous Sacrifice of Calvary He embraced all men, and His blood applies to all through the holy Sacrifice of the Mass, which is the same as the Sacrifice of Calvary. This sacrifice is offered in every corner of the earth from the rising to the setting of the sun; all are afforded an opportunity of participating in the great benefits which therefrom. Not content with offering Himself daily on our altars in the sacrifice of the Mass, our dear Lord remains with us continually in the tabernacle, in the Holy Eucharist. In all ages the most magnificent churches have been built and dedicated for the offering of the Sacrifice of the Mass. What can be too grand to offer as a dwelling place for our Lord in the Holy Eucharist. Be glad and rejoice, therefore, at the ceremony of today, unites this Church to the Sacrifice of the Cross.

 At 6:30 in the evening Solemn Pontifical Vespers and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament took place, his Lordship, the Bishop officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. Doyle as arch-priest, Rev. R. B. McDonald deacon and Rev. Dr. McLellan sub-deacon.
 It is estimated that about fifteen hundred people were in attendance at the dedicatory services.
 The contribution to the Church building fund, on the occasion, amounted to between five and six hundred dollars.
 On the discussion of the marine estimates in the House of Commons the other day it was brought out that Commander Spain had purchased a fur lined overcoat for one hundred dollars and had it charged up against the department.
 In the death notice of Mr. Joseph McMillan of Clermont, which appeared in the Herald last week, some particulars regarding his illness, which were sent to the composing room, were inadvertently omitted. About a fortnight before his death he received a scratch from a rusty nail on one of his fingers; but as it seemed to be only a trifling, he paid little attention to it. Food poisoning set in, and all the best available medical skill could accomplish was unable to arrest its progress. As at last resort the attending physicians decided on the 15th inst., to amputate the arm, but the patient died during the operation. Deceased was well and favorably known, by a very large circle of friends and acquaintances, and was highly esteemed in the community in which he lived. He was a charitable, public spirited citizen, who took an active part in whatever tended to advance the best interests of the community. His eldest son, W. J. McMillan, is Principal of the English Grammar School. His funeral to Indian River on the 17th, was very largely attended. The members of Branch 254, C. M. B. A., to which deceased belonged turned out on the occasion. Members from Branch 215, Summerside and other neighboring Branches were also well represented. We extend our sympathy to the sorrowing members of his family.
