THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

CHAPTER XXX.

ON THE CLIFF.

WITH a shudder, she drew her dress from his hand, and shrank from him like some guilty creature.

'No, no,' she murmured; 'I—I—you do not know. Let me go—they are down there—oh, let me go!'

'Who?' he asked, eying her with a suspicious light in his dark eyes, all the darker for the black line which pain had drawn round them.

'Lillian, I would rather lie here and die than live without you! Can you swear you do not love me?' he groaned out, grasping at her.

'With a sudden pallor, she put his hands from her.

'No, no,' she said. 'For your sake, no. It is too late. I—I—'

'Too late!' he echoed, hoarsely. Then a fierce light flashed across his face, followed by a dull, deadened despair.

'You have promised yourself to him—' Harold Woodleigh. Go, and—' the curse, if such he intended, died away, and he fell back, white and deathlike.

With a loud scream, Lillian sprang along the ledge and down the narrow path to the beach, crying for help at every step.

Loud shouts of alarm rose in an answer, and Harold and the rest came dashing toward her.

'When they came she could only point above her, but Harold understood, and making his way up the cliff, was soon kneeling beside the unconscious man.

'Hi, you fellows,' he shouted, leaning over, 'don't come up here—you can do no good yet. Go round to the point and hail the boat, then two of you come up—the two strongest.'

They hailed the boat and two of them went up to him.

'Why, great heaven, it's Dawson!

'I sent on to get you a room in Higham, Slade,' he said; 'I was afraid that it wouldn't do to take so long a journey. There's an old nurse of ours out that way—you couldn't be in better hands.'

'All right!' was the response, given with a languid indifference, 'that will do famously.' Then he added, looking round, 'you fellows have had an awful trouble, I'm very grateful. I've frightened the ladies, too.'

'By jove, it's a lucky thing one of them, at least, was down there,' said Gerald, in his impetuous fashion.

'Slade, old man, do you know who it was found you?' it was asked by Woodleigh.

'I don't know,' said Harold, 'but I might have lain there for—yes, she saved your life.'

'A faint flush stole over the whole face, and he turned over on his elbow.

'Yes,' he groaned, 'she saved my life! it's not much of a salvage, however.'

'Never knew a picnic wind up satisfactorily yet,' murmured Rayburn in Gerald's ear.

'Poor old Slade!' he exclaimed, 'I'll own to earth did he get here.'

'Don't know,' said Harold, 'quietly—he was always cool in moments of danger.'

'What we got to do is to get him away. Did you bring a brandy flask? Right,' and he forced a little spirit through the white, set lips.

'He is alive, and there don't seem to be any bones broken. He has sprained his foot and knocked his head. Thank God, it is no worse.

Now, then, we must carry him down to the boat. Lift him gently, I expect the pain will bring him to.'

As gently as possible they raised him—he lool e! wonderfully tall and limp—and with no little danger to themselves got him to the beach.

There, surrounded by the rest all anxious and curious, they made as comfortable a bed for him as they could with their coats, and two of them volunteered to help row the boat.

A little apart stood Lillian, her face white and strained.

'Who are the best men?' asked Harold. 'I can pull well enough, but—and he looked round for Lillian.

For the first time she came into their midst.

'Go!' she said; 'oh, you will go with him, will you not?' and she grasped his arm and turned her face up to him with a wild, imploring glance.

'Yes, I will go,' said Harold, and he jumped in and took his place in the boat. Then, as he seized an oar, he said: 'We shall row to the point. The first man who gets to the top of the cliff—Lillian, take care!—Lord Vavasour, you will give Miss Woodleigh your arm? Thanks!—the first man who gets to the top send a carriage to the point, send a wagonette. The dogcart can go on to Higham, to Dame Hester's—she must find a room in one of the cottages—Woodleigh will be too far. Now, then, away with her! Lillian, take care!'

And with a strong stroke he sent the boat toward the point.

CHAPTER XXXI. WHO MORE WORTHY? Long before they had gained the point Dawson Slade came to; but he still looked so white and haggard that when Gerald, who had come down in the wagonette, first caught sight of him, he set up a cry of alarm and sorrow.

'My dear old man!' he cried, leaning over him as they laid him on the floor of the wagonette, 'are you much hurt? How did this happen? For the first time Slade spoke.

On regaining consciousness in the boat, Harold's face and voice had been the first to greet him, and he had turned his head away in silence; but now he explained.

'Don't alarm yourself, my dear Gerald!' he said, faintly, and with his old cynical smile. It was all 'my fault; cliff climbing is not my vocation, I find. How did I get there? By the quickest and simplest route—by falling. It beats an express train, my dear child! Oh, you mean what brought me to the cliff at all? Well, you see, I couldn't resist this picnic of yours, and when I had got halfway to the station I turned back and made straight for the Giant's Helmet, or whatever you call it.'

'But why didn't you wait for us?' asked Gerald, anxiously.

'Oh, Lord, don't ask me any more questions!' he retorted, testily. 'What does it matter? What does anything matter if it comes to that? Where are you taking me to?'

'To the Grange, of course!' said Gerald.

'No, no!' exclaimed Dawson Slade.

ting for. There, that's all. Are you offended? 'No,' said Harold, thinking that he was growing delicious. 'Only a little puzzled.'

'All right,' said Slade, sharply. 'Puzzle it out then. Where is this confounded doctor? I can tell him as much as he can tell me, I expect. This means congestion of the brain. I shall go off my head directly; by the way, before I do, will you telegraph for my man, I sent him to town by the express; Gerald knows his address—' and—Woodleigh—thank you—your cousin for picking me up this morning. Tell her, will you, not to mind anything I have said—half-delirious, you know. Ah! here you are, doctor!—see to my head first, the foot will do afterward.'

Slade was right, congestion of the brain was feared; delirium set in before night, and with starting eyes the sufferer was throwing his arms about, and calling to a certain Hilda Fane to come to him, to listen to him, to save him. Dame Hester was a discreet woman, and kept the door of the room closed while he raved and shouted that name. It was always that name; Hilda Fane, never Lillian. It seemed as if all time and space, since that night in San Francisco, had been wiped out from his memory, and he could only remember the beautiful young actress who confronted him and bade him leave her forever. Once in the evening Ethel North stole in, and knocked at the door, to inquire if she could help, but the dame told her no; on one could do anything for him but wait and watch, and Ethel retired reluctantly.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I wonder if most men realize that the girl they see and the girl that the girl's feminine friends see is almost an entirely different person.

I often think of that when I see a group of girls transformed by the coming of a man among them.

It needn't be a man they care about particularly or even a young man—just a man.

Of course I realize that this isn't any more a conscious and premeditated change than the sunflowers turning toward the sun is conscious or premeditated.

But it's just as inevitable.

Some of the girls change for the better and some for the worse.

I know one girl who masculine society changes something as the sun's coming out of the clouds changes the aspect of the ocean. That is, it brightens her up, makes her more delightful, makes her sparkle.

I know another who is a nice charming girl among girls but who becomes so painfully affected the moment a man heaves in sight that you would scarcely know her for the same person.

And I know a third—one of the very nicest of all the women I know, by the way—who fancies men do not like her and who consequently makes it unlikely that they will, by being stiff and prickly and absolutely different from her nice, jolly, friendly, normal self, whenever a man appears.

Often times I wish with all my heart that some man could see the girl he is inclined to be interested in, as she is with other girls—sometimes as a warning, sometimes as an incentive.

If it were possible for lovers to borrow the invisible mantle of the old fairy tales and go into their beloved's homes and see them as they are with their families and as they are with their girl friends there would be more happy marriages.

Of course this is a confession, and of course many of my sex will deny it indignantly—at least in so far as they personally are concerned.

But don't believe them—you masculine readers—because it's almost invariably true.

And it's not meant as an accusation against or an aspersion upon my sex either—merely as a statement of a fact, a voicing of a law of nature which I thought some men, and even some women might not realize.

By the way, can it be there is a companion law?

Are you men also entirely different creatures among yourselves?

I wonder.

Ruth Cameron

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG.

SCA WOMEN WELL.

The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (100 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 50 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address as above.

Fads and Fashions.

Some of the smartest ulsters of the winter have taken the lines of the Moyen age coat with a knee length tunic part and the killed skirt part of below it.

Though the advent was heralded with much doubt, the dress with the corset bodice and with deep skirt attached below the hips has now firmly attached itself in favor.

Among the formal afternoon and evening gowns, the light intense tones of green have made something of a sensation. Tulle and chiffon have both been brought out in these shades.

One of the newest veils is of finest silken threads, woven in spider web designs scattered over the meshes of the veiling, and within the center of each web a small silken spider.

Slippers are unusually coquettish this season. Cloth of steel and cloth of bronze are among the innovations, and they make up the smartest shoes and slippers for afternoon and evening gowns.

The simple white linen Russian blouse for the small boy may be made wonderfully attractive by braiding a simple design about the neck and a few inches down the front of the blouse at one side.

Cashmere cloth is one of the most popular of the season's fabrics and nothing is better for practical, hard wear. It is to be had in nearly any design and color. Black and blue are very popular.

The crowns of some of the new hats are very tall, and the brims very large, but they are also turned up at the side, close to the crown, and thus the circumference is greatly decreased.

Among ribbons, while all the staple pink, blue and yellow tints are still popular, ultra-fashionable girls are using old rose, vine, grape, dahlia, fuschia, emeralds, and the various orchid shades.

The wide silk rubber girdles, studded with jet or steel, and accompanied by wide, long sashes, worked with the jet or steel, are still popular, where a two-piece costume admits of the separate girdle.

Evidently the crystal bugle with its half sister, the gold bugle, is to supply much of the trimming this season. It is from a quarter to half an inch long, and is pendant from tulle net and chiffon cloth.

Blouses of brocade are being worn with the high-waisted tailored skirts and long coats to complete the street costume. They are veiled with net and chiffon in the color of the suit and are most attractive.

Net bands handsomely embroidered in floss or straw, when on a waist of the same color, look as though the pattern was done on the waist itself. Another device is flowers embroidered in dull colors on ecru lace.

Coming in with the flat coiffure, is an Empire ornament that is gaining a great deal of favor. It is in the form of the long, rather wide barette, made of gold or silver lattice work of baroque pearls or rhinestones framed in metal.

Brick Carrying Record

Edward Ashbee, an employee of the High Broom Brick Company, near Tunbridge Wells, holds the record of having carried considerably over 40,000,000 bricks on a wheelbarrow in the past thirty years.

The weight of the bricks is estimated at nearly 130,000 tons, and in the course of his work he has walked nearly 55,000 miles or more than twice the distance round the world. Ashbee is a man of fine physique and looks much younger than his fifty years.

Haldane's Critic in Jail

SHOWED FAULTS OF ARMY.

Lieutenant Sutor Risked Life Career by Writing "Why Middle Through Thirty Million?"

London, August 11.—Lieutenant Allan Sutor, M.A., who will be tried by court-martial in England for the publication of a pamphlet entitled, "The Army System; or Why Middle Through Thirty Millions a Year During Peace?" has been placed under close arrest at Tynemouth Castle. The young officer has been ten years in the service, and has risked all his hopes and prospects on the publication of his pamphlet. If dismissed from the army he will enter the church, although he has studied law at Edinburgh and has only to pass the final examination to qualify for the Scottish Bar.

Risked Official Anger.

That the present government regards Sutor's indictment of the Haldane policy for the army in a serious light is shown by the refusal to allow press representatives to approach the alleged offender and by the discreet silence of the Liberal press. The pamphlet did create a great sensation when it first appeared some months ago and its author's arrest was prophesied by many. Interviews with Mrs. Sutor, the prisoner's wife, show that her husband expected that his exposure would cause an uproar and that such a breach of the Army regulations would inevitably endanger his military career.

For the Common Good.

"We have all begged him not to take this step," said Mrs. Sutor. "We tried to make him see that his first duty was towards himself, his wife and little daughter—that he had no right to throw away all his chances and his ten years' service. He knew perfectly well the risk he was running, but was quite content to make the sacrifice, that good might come of it."

"The idea of his giving up soldiering is insupportable, for his family has been with the Army for many years. I have often advised him to quit till he was higher in the service. At the same time he has shown great courage in publishing his views, which he feels to be just and true."

Thousand Miles a Day.

How an Englishman Did it on British Railways.

Mr. J. Ingham Learoyd, a Halifax professional gentleman, with a passion for travelling and especially unusual journeys, has just made what he describes as the record trip of one thousand miles in a day over a British railway system.

Leaving St. Pancras at midnight on Monday, Mr. Learoyd travelled to Leeds, a distance of 195 1/2 miles, arriving there at 4.30 Tuesday morning. Seven minutes later he had started back for London, where he arrived at 8.15 a.m. An hour and a quarter later at 9.30 he was again on a train, his destination this time being Carlisle, a run of 308 1/2 miles. He reached the border town at 3.50 in the afternoon and eight minutes later he had left for London.

At 10.25 that night Mr. Learoyd arrived at St. Pancras, looking quite fresh and fit, and Inspector Morley, who signed him off from the Midland terminus on Monday night, attested his safe arrival. At every stage of his journey Mr. Learoyd had a document signed by a railway official.

"I feel like starting back for Halifax by the midnight train," he said to a "Daily Chronicle" representative recently. "It was a most enjoyable trip; but of course, everything depended on the punctuality of the trains. I caught all the connections with comfort."

Mr. Learoyd, who is 67 years of age, has done a good deal of mountain-climbing in Switzerland, has travelled abroad every year for the past thirty eight years, and has been across the North Sea eight-two times.

School Gardens.

Dr. Robertson in his address on Saturday was insistent on the importance of Nature Study in the bringing up of our boys and girls. He insisted that the right path was pointed out in the beginning. Man was brought up in a garden. It was so in the beginning. It should be so now, and must be so in the future. Everlastingly "world without end." He told of his attempt some ten years ago to start a garden in connection with a rural school. He talked the matter over with the parents. They were sceptical. Their point of view was that all that school was good for was teaching the pulling up of weeds, they could find abundance of weeds for their children to pluck without sending them to school. He, however, prevailed upon them to allow him to start the garden in connection with their school. He selected the best exponent he had available as a teacher to develop the effort. After a time he found that the children had caught on. They were developing a keen interest in watching the germination of the seed, the growth of the plants, and the effects of different fertilizers and the prevalence or absence of weeds. By and by the boys were invited to work on a fence which he planned to surround the garden. What the children had learned at school they took home with them and worked out in their parents' garden plots, and the very fences which surrounded the school plot became the pattern of a score of fences for neighboring gardens. The parents themselves began to catch on and the weekly resort of the parents became the school garden, where the parents met and saw and discussed the progress the children had made in the garden during the week. The most marked feature Dr. Robertson observed was the increase in the general intelligence of the children and the more rapid progress they made in their books and studies, especially in reading. A Newfoundland teacher who has closely studied the effect of Nature Study and school garden work on children in America confirms this. He tells us that the two features which made most impression on him were:

1. The intense interest manifested by the children in watching the germination of the seeds.

2. The readiness with which the school garden and its work lent itself in the correlation of studies.

In July, 1908, Miss Mary Marshall Butler, President of the Women's Institute of Yonkers, N.Y., gave the following testimony:

"Our school garden, which in its present location is now in its fifth season, has convinced me that this form of outdoor education is a rational and proper sequence in the development of manual training. As someone has aptly said, 'We need the shop, the kitchen and the garden to cover completely industrial education.' The necessity for industrial or manual application to life but also because of its stimulus to the brain, needs no argument. Our Yonkers garden has convinced me that it is a blessing to the child and to society, and that it contains many elements of educational, social and economic value."

Would it be too much to hope that in the near future Dr. Robertson with the experience, knowledge, resources and staffs at his command, may give an impetus to such a movement in Newfoundland?

Amethyst's Condition.

Shippers generally and the travelling public, we believe, will learn with satisfaction that the S. S. Amethyst, lying between Montreal, the Gulf ports and St. John's, is now in first class condition. After her last voyage up the St. Lawrence she was docked in Montreal and given a thorough overhaul by the Port Wardens, Government Inspectors and Insurance Assessors. The ship's hull and bottom were carefully attended to and put in first class condition in every way; the saloon was enlarged and put in excellent order, and the ship has accommodation for 20 passengers in that apartment. Several thousand dollars were spent on the work of overhauling and repairing, and the ship is now first class in every respect to take up the fall trade. The insurance rates will be the same as those which apply to other cargo and passenger boats in the St. John's trade. The Amethyst is a popular boat and we bespeak for her a full amount of patronage from the business and travelling public.

First Cargo From the Labrador.

Mr. P. J. Shea, grocer, of Water Street, has been several weeks at Griffen's Harbor, Labrador, Mr. Shea, we learn from passengers who came here by the Invermore, started loading the Norwegian schooner Maagen on the 29th ult., and has all the fish he wants to fill the vessel. She will be the first to get away from the coast to Europe with a full cargo of fish.

Hague Verdict Given To-Morrow

Special Evening Telegram.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 6.

The decision of the International Court of Arbitration in the Newfoundland fisheries case which for many years has been an issue between Great Britain and the United States will be announced to-morrow afternoon. It is believed that the decision will be a compromise, but the counsel of the United States expect to gain a preponderance of the points they have argued for. Several American diplomats have arrived here to attend the proceedings.

Eucharistic Congress

Special Evening Telegram.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.

The 21st International Eucharistic Congress and the first ever held in America, opened at 8 o'clock to-night in St. James Cathedral with a blaze of pomp and splendour. Cardinal Vanuetti in his opening address stated in future these Congresses would probably alternate between the Old and New World. An important feature was the telegram to the King and His Majesty's reply. It was a magnificent sight at about 8 o'clock when 100 Bishops and Archbishops headed by Cardinal Vanuetti, the Pontifical Legate, and Cardinal Logue, beautifully robed in scarlet and gold, left the grand saloon of the Archbishop's palace and coming out to Palace Street entered the Cathedral from Dorchester and proceeded to their respective places in front of the altar railing, the Cardinal and the head officers of the Congress occupying the leading places. The great Cathedral was packed to the doors and there would have been many thousands more had the vast edifice been large enough to hold them.

Fair Play.

It is scarcely conceivable, but nevertheless true, that in an enlightened Germany or cultured France a common man wronged by an official, and seeking justice in the courts, that the judge would not regard both parties appearing before him with equal courtesy or with equal strictness. Not speaking of Russia and Roumania or of any barbarous semi-civilized government, but even in a glorious country where freedom and equality are the glowing diamonds of human affairs. There is often a vast difference with some judges who do respect persons in judgment, who do make fish of one and flesh of another. Far different is it with us, we have one price for all. So get your clothing, Dry Goods and Furniture for cash or credit from us. B. FRIEDMAN, Complete House Furnisher, 299-301 Water Street (water side). P. O. Box 5; Phone 546. Hague Decision.

UNITED STATES WIN ON FIVE POINTS AND NEWFOUNDLAND ON TWO.

Special Evening Telegram.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 7.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 7.—The United States wins on five points out of the seven points submitted to the International Court of Arbitration in the Newfoundland Fisheries dispute with Great Britain. Great Britain wins points one and five. The decision was handed down to-day.

The following are the points on which the Tribunal had to decide, viz.:

Can Great Britain, Canada, or Newfoundland, without the consent of the United States, issue rules, for the treaty coast, for example, in reference to (1) hours, days, seasons, when fish may be taken; (2) the methods, means and implements of fishing, provided they are for protection and preservation of fishery, or desirable for public order or morals, and do not give unfairly an advantage to local fishermen? The United States contend that the appropriateness, necessity, reasonableness and fairness must be determined by the United States and Great Britain by an agreement and that no rules must be enforced unless the United States concurs.

Have the inhabitants of the United States the right to employ as members of their crews persons not inhabitants of the United States?

Are such Americans subject to local Custom laws, as to entry, report, light or harbour dues, without the consent of the United States?

What is the base line for measuring the three mile limit?

Can Americans fish in bays, harbours and inlets?

If fishing vessels are authorized as traders by the United States, are they entitled to trade on the Treaty Coast?

Earl Grey at Grand Falls.

Detective Here

After Bigamists.

About a week ago an American detective arrived here from New York State, and to those "in the know" he is a familiar figure as he often walks about the city or drives in the street cars. He is here after a bigamist couple who preceded him to St. John's by several days, and whom he traced to this city. As far as we can learn from those who know of the case, a resident of New York—a married man—eloped with a married woman and came down this way. The deserted wife accompanied the detective to this city, and is living quietly in a hotel here and awaiting the outcome of the work of the sleuth who is on the right track, and hopes to have the guilty couple shortly in the toils, after which they will be extradited for prosecution on a charge of bigamy in New York.

The Eucharistic Conference Opened

Last Evening.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

MONTREAL, To-Day. Congress opened last night at St. James' Cathedral. It was a brilliant and imposing event. One hundred and twenty-three bishops, four cardinals and two thousand priests were present. Cardinal Legate spoke for an hour and read reply to message of loyalty sent to King and thanking him for amendment to Coronation Oath. Greeting from the Pope was also read with Pupal Benediction. The Archbishop of Belgium and Archbishop Bruchesi also spoke in French and English.

Among the Newfoundlanders present were Archbishop Howley, Bishop March, Mgr. Reardon, Mgr. Ryan, Frs. Duncy, Donnelly and Finn, Rev. Dr. Ryan, D. Galway and P. K. Devine. Admission was by ticket; your correspondent had the privilege of being received by Cardinal Vanuetti yesterday at St. James' Palace, his kind disposition, wanting personally, leaves an impression never to be forgotten.

A Colonial Tea.

A Colonial Dame of ancestral fame,
Thought she'd give a Colonial Tea.
She had relics galore,
Antiques by the score,
Some of which ante-dated B.C.

She had silver in plenty, both ancient and dainty
Bronzes with histories too old to recall;
A teapot of brass,
But nothing in glass,
That looked antiquated at all.

Now what could she do; glass antiques are so few,
She surely had seen some, but where?
Krysol sugars and cream,
At The Royal Stores seen,
She immediately proceeded there.

The guests all assembled, not one had remembered
A "Tea" quite as charming or antiques so rare.
Discussed first and last
Was "Chippendale" glass
The "dearest old relic" of all that were there.

CHIPPENDALE "KRYSTOL"

(Patented Feb. 5, 1907)
This is the one Colonial glassware that is "distinctly different" from all others. This is the new idea, the advanced thought, the ultimate achievement in fine crystal ware for table use. It has many features which separate it from others, advantages which are peculiarly its own:—

1. Its straight lines.
2. Its squared handles.
3. Its simple beauty.
4. Its superior strength.
5. Its great brilliancy.
6. Its amazing economy.

The Cobble Stone Drain

"REFORM" AND THE COUNCIL.

A Mythical Meeting Which May Yet Take Place.

The Mayor he sat in his Mayoral chair
With the rest of the Councillors—all were there;
They held fast their noses with sniffs and with sneeze
When whiffs from the cobbles came in on the breeze.

The Mayor looked up—his words burst in a storm,
"Have ye seen," said he "friends, those screeds of Reform?"
Have ye seen how he writes, and needs not our pain,
Of our glory and pride—the cobble-stone drain?"

Here sobs choked his voice, while with tears on his face
A Councillor cried, "I say he's a disgrace;
I say so, nor care I what any one thinks,
Who hurts so our feelings for these paltry stinks."

"Relics of Barbarism—well, that may be true;
But what does this wretched man want us to do?
Does he wish us to throw all relics aside
That show how we are with the stone age allied?"

"Would he have us build footwalks when this Council knows
The road centre's as good (confound the autos)?
Would he have us put crushed stone, not dirt, on each street
When with no mud to soak rain we must get wet feet?"

"And think when a 'dead beat' applies for a job,
How well these drains give him just 'one for his nob';
We set him repairing—we don't see him again—
One day's work's enough at a cobble-stone drain."

"Drains don't smell like roses," another one cries,
"But see how our island they must advertise;
Each tourist that comes tells all over the sphere
How such cobble-stone drains are only found here."

"They can't see a footwalk—but night carts—why yes,
Let these show the wide world how quick we progress;
I move, Mr. Mayor, these carts be on view—
No charge to all tourists—from twelve until two."

The motion was passed by acclaim, which fact brought Concrete drains to be noted "not worth a thought";
Then work thus well ended the Council uprose,
And soon were enjoying a well-earned repose.

L'Envol.

Till the people insist there still shall remain
Our stinking and murderous cobble-stone drain;
Our children may sicken and strong men grow faint,
The doctors say "cobbles," the Mayor says "it ain't."

Bad Labrador Fares.

Capt. A. Kean had a wire yesterday of the arrival at Westleyville of the schr. Etliche May, from Labrador, with only 80 qts. of fish after the summer. J. Blackwood's craft arriving with a similar fare. Both these men are noted fish killers, and such a failure as this for them is an indication of the bad catch on the coast.

The IDEAL HOME

IS FIRST OF ALL A COMFORT-ABLE HOME, WITH AN INVITING AIR OF RESTFULNESS ABOUT IT—COSY AND CHEERFUL. It is, of course, an Artistically Furnished Home, showing taste and judgment—each article pleasing in itself and in harmony with its surroundings. But it requires a knowledge of stores as well as of furniture in order to secure all these elements in the furnishing of one's home without its calling for an extensive outlay of cash. It is for this reason that the appeals particularly to that large portion of St. John's home-loving people who have excellent taste but are economical.

Popular Furniture Store

Let us make a cosy, comfortable and artistic Home for you—or make the Home you already have a little more cosy, a little more comfortable or a little more artistic.

Our Individual Credit Service is the most refined, genteel and helpful credit plan in St. John's to-day—none excepted. Let us talk with you in person about these matters. May we?

Maronite Priest Here.

Rev. Fr. Louis Siab, a Catholic priest of the Maronite rite, arrived in the city from Bell Island yesterday and will conduct a mission here for the Syrian people residing in St. John's. Father Siab has a flourishing parish at New Glasgow, N.S., and arrived at Bell Island Thursday last where he ministered to the spiritual wants of the people of his nationality there. He celebrated Mass at the R. C. Cathedral at 9.30 this morning, his nephew, a bright lad of 12 years, serving the Mass. He will remain until Monday next and will celebrate Masses each morning alternately at the Cathedral and St. Patrick's and will impart Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the evenings, after which he will be present in the confessional. Father Siab is staying at the Osborne. He was here in May last.

A cow strayed on the railway track near Woodstock last evening, and the outgoing train hit it and broke two of its legs. The trainmen despatched and bled it, ending its sufferings and saving the meat for the owner.

Died of Diphtheria.

There were four cases of diphtheria at Spanish Room, Mortier Bay, we learn from people who came in by last night's train. One of the patients, a young woman named Sarah M. Withers, died there Thursday last of the disease, but all the rest are convalescent. The young woman was 15 days ill before death released her of her sufferings. The disease was of a very virulent type.

Good Yield of Local Petroleum.

People who have been at Parsons' Pond oil wells, and who recently reached here, say that in all about a thousand barrels of oil have been taken from the old wells there. When new borings are made it is expected that there will be a prolific flow of oil.

Rear Admiral Lyon with a party of three officers of the Brilliant left yesterday on the Bruce express to spend a short while at Grand Falls.

Published by Authority

His Excellency the Governor has received information to the effect that H. M. S. Cornwall will visit St. John's from the 25th of September to the 10th of October, inclusive.

His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to appoint Mr. David Sutton, (Filleys' Island), to be a Surveyor of Lumber; Mr. Geo. Nicholas Shears, (Crabbe's), to be a member of the Church of England Board of Education for the District of Barachois, in place of Mr. Charles Fortune, retired; Messrs. Wm. Rees, St. and Chas. Foote, to be members of the Church of England Board of Education for the District of Bell Island, in place of Messrs. Wm. Clements, deceased, and Giles Foote, left the District; Mr. James Hussey, to be an additional member of the Road Board for South River, District of Port-de-Grave; Messrs. Matthew Brunnoek, Thomas Ryan, Thomas Colbert, Stephen Gertrall, and Matthew Melvin, to be the Road Board for St. Michael's, District of Ferryland.

The Benedict Chartered

We learn from Harvey & Co. that the Black Diamond Line has chartered the S. S. Benedict to ply on the St. John's-Montreal service when the Rosalind leaves it, and transfers to the Red Cross Line. The Benedict is a fine vessel and has often been in this port.

Very Small Catches.

We reported the other day a catch of a ½ qt. of fish at Bateau for two traps with five men, and on a par with this is a catch of 1 ½ qts. for Mr. F. Moore's two traps at St. Anthony. Hardly ever before have such small catches been noted for traps.

The Diana Here.

The S. S. Diana, Capt. Blandford, arrived here yesterday to Job Bros. & Co. from Blanc Sablon after a good run up. She brought about 250 persons, part of Mr. Grant's crew, and landed them at Hant's Harbor, Scilly Cove, Carbonar, Bay Roberts and other places. She reports cod plentiful in deep water in the Straits, and fairly good catches still being made.

Very Valuable Cargo.

The big four master Gypsum Empire which arrived to the Horwood Lumber Co. Monday night, has a very valuable cargo on board. She has a cargo of 500,000 feet of hard pine, cyprus and gum wood on board, and it is valued for $200,000 approximately. She will likely load lumber in this country, when discharged, for South America.

ARRIVED WITH LUNATIC.—Constable Bartlett arrived here by last night's train, having come down from Surin by the Glencoe. He brought with him a young man named Wm. Francis, who has been demented for several months past, and drove him to the Asylum. About a year ago this young man wandered away and got astray for a while at Sydney, since which time his brain has been affected.

Do You Know Your Ailment

Or is it a complication which can be reached only by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.
There is only one medicine that can prove thoroughly satisfactory in complicated ailments of the liver and kidneys, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
They begin by regulating the bowels and awakening the action of the liver, thereby effecting a thorough cleansing of the excretory system. By thus removing the poisons from the system they lighten the work of the kidneys and gradually restore them to health.
Nobody who once learns of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regulating and invigorating the kidneys, liver and bowels, is willing to take chances by experimenting with other medicines.
Such ailments as biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion, liver complaint and kidney disease yield readily to this treatment.

Wabana Gleanings.

A sad fatality occurred at the Mines, Friday, when a little girl named Hearn was drowned while procuring water in the dam near Dominion No. 2 slope.

Mr. P. J. Summers and wife paid a week-end visit to Wabana, and put up at the well known Costigan Hotel.

Masters M. Jackman and R. Costigan left on Monday to resume their studies at that well known seat of learning, St. Bonaventure's College, St. John's.

Sports at Wabana have now concluded for the season, and it has been in this line a Dominion summer, the Dominion Athletic Association winning everything except the Football Race, which the Wabanas secured for the second successive year. The Football Championship, Football Fives and Inter-Club Relay Race going to the Dominion.

The schools here opened Monday. Mr. Edward Neary, graduate of St. Bonaventure's, with the A.A. Diploma, assisted by Miss L. Shannahan, Graduate of Littledale, 1910, assumes charge of the school at the Mines.

Last Mass in St. Michael's Church, Sunday, was a Missa Cantata sung by an Assyrian Priest, with all the Assyrian rites. The ceremony was very impressive. The clergyman is on a visit to the island where there are many Assyrians.

"Terra Nova Hotel," conducted by Mrs. R. J. Costigan, was a scene of merriment Friday night when Mr. and Mrs. Costigan entertained all the young folks in honour of the success of their son, who secured a scholarship in the recent C. H. E. Dancing, music and cards were much in evidence, and a great time was spent till the threads of daylight began to appear.

Placentia Notes.

On Monday, Sept. 5th, the Boys' Superior and Convent schools reopened after the summer's vacation. Mr. T. J. Flynn, the junior teacher of the boys' school, resigned at midsummer and Miss M. Collins has taken his place.

Rev. Fr. Gough is at present here attending to the wants of the parish while Mgr. Reardon is attending the Eucharistic Congress at Montreal.

On Sunday morning a fatality was narrowly averted. While returning from Mass Mrs. J. Hendrick, an aged woman, was knocked down by a horse. The woman looked round and on seeing the horse, she in a hurry moved to the same side of the road as the horse. The animal immediately collided with the woman. The shaft of the carriage caught in her dress, and the horse becoming frightened she was dragged around in a circle several times before the animal was stopped. The position of the woman was between the forward wheels of the carriage and the horse's hind legs, and it is a miracle that she was not trampled on or crushed by the wheels of the carriage. In a very short time Rev. Fr. Gough and Dr. McKendrick were attending her, and she is now recovering. Drivers should be more careful and this accident should be a lesson to others to reduce speed on the public street.

Mr. H. Booth in Interview.

Why He Left Salvation Army for Evangelistic Work—But is Still in Harmony With Former Associates—Greatest Sin of the World is the Forgetting of God.

Mr. Herbert Booth, who is in this city this week, is the youngest son of General Booth, and he has passed through the Army, where he won his spurs as an enthusiastic and zealous worker. At the present time he is busy gaining greater experience among the people of the world—all over the world—as a Christian revivalist. His business in St. John's is to conduct a mission for the Gower Street Methodist Church. Mr. Booth is not unlike his father in appearance, although he has not the long hooked nose or the flowing beard. The resemblance is strong enough to be noticeable. He is young, tall, with a generous crop of hair, keen eyes, and he is full of nervous energy. It has been said of Mr. Booth that he has gathered his qualifications for the work in which he is engaged from both his parents. As a preacher, he is credited with having the style of his mother, and as an organizer he is a successful imitator of the General.

Dealing with the question why he turned from the work of the Salvation Army to that of a revivalist missioner, Mr. Booth said he made the change through conviction that he could do good work in the direction he is now working in, and the result of his eight years had justified him. He had been able in the past eight years of independent work to reach a class which was not usually reached by the Salvation Army, and throughout he had worked in very great harmony with his former associates and present friends in the Army. "Twice while in the Army," said Mr. Booth, "I went pretty well round the world, and I have done it once since I took up my present work. I have preached and lectured in almost all the States of the United States, in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. I have met with great blessings. Doors have been opened to me in a most remarkable way by every section of the Christian Church. In the parish churches of Scotland, and in the Church of Ireland, I have addressed large congregations."

Having been about so much, and having seen so many peoples and the conditions in which they live, what conclusion have you come to as to the social question, which is much the same everywhere? was asked, and Mr. Booth at once warmed to the subject. "My 25 years' experience," he said, "and my knowledge of the great social question, of the results of sin, squalor and misery, have been a great assistance to me. I believe the only practical solution of the problems of the day is the application of Christ's Gospel. I have seen miserable failures among those who have placed their dependence on other methods. Material systems alone will never redeem mankind. The whole history of the world is an open book on the point. Men placed in the very best material environment have gone to ruin—I have known them—whereas, on the other hand, I have seen multitudes of cases where men, without any material advantage, but with everything against them—their inheritance a legacy of crime—converted and redeemed body and soul—they have never looked back after accepting the Gospel as their guide. I am convinced that Godliness is profitable for this world as well as for the world to come."

"I am," he said, "a great believer in helping men by improving their environment. I believe in taking the excuse out of the man's mouth that he cannot change owing to his environment. At the same time, to change his character is hopeless. I believe in good houses for the people, but I am a greater believer in better people for the houses."

As an example of his experience, Mr. Booth referred to Australia, where, he explained, there exists everything that the working men of this country regard as the paradise. "Yes," he went on, "they are not satisfied, and the colony is not paradise. I spent thousands of pounds in four years in trying to save the human wreckage of Australia and in Sydney, which has been dominated by the working man party for years. I could show you as evident manifestation of squalor, crime and wretchedness as are to be found in London."

"The sin most prominent to-day is that people went about things as if God did not enter into practical politics. But God is a great politician. The way in which God is ignored, he went on to say, was an evidence that the devil was in the ascendancy in the world. The present condition of great cities he regarded as a wonderful confirmation of the Master's prophecy that in the latter times men would forget God and be lost. Speaking with a regretful note in his voice,

Mr. Booth added, "It is only the few who have the sense to see and to perceive the things of God. If I did not believe that God was going to have his policy fulfilled, I would be very discouraged when I looked upon the world."

Mr. Booth closes his mission next Monday evening by the delivery of his well-known biographic lecture on the "Early Christians" in Gower Street Methodist Church. The lecture is illustrated by 200 life model slides and moving pictures. Tickets are 25 cents each and may be secured at Dick's store.

Mr. Robinson's Address

Mr. H. Robinson, of the Journeymen Tailors Union of America, gave a very interesting address last night to the various local unions, in the British Hall, on the subject of the Labor Movement in America. A large audience composed of representatives from the local unions were present.

Mr. Robinson was introduced to the meeting by Mr. James Conroy, President of the Journeymen Coopers Union and Vice-President of the Trades and Labour Council.

Mr. Robinson is an enthusiast in the cause of the Labour Movement as conducted in America through the American Federation of Labour. Among other things he cited cases where this Federation of Labour has been the means of having enacted in the Legislatures of U. S. A. and of Canada many laws beneficial to the working men and women. Notably the law compelling the proprietors of stores to allow their female help to sit down when not employed serving customers. The lecturer held his audience in close interest, and was frequently applauded during his address.

At the close a hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer was proposed by Mr. James Spratt, of the Bricklayers and Masons, and seconded by Mr. Thomas I. Allan, Financial Secretary of the Longshoremen P. T. U., and carried by acclamation.

The Fogota Sails.

The S. S. Fogota, Capt. B. Barbour, sailed yesterday afternoon for Foxo, taking a full cargo and these passengers:—James C. Mews, Mrs. M. V. Penney, Mrs. Aersted, Miss M. Pike, Mrs. Wiltshire, J. Aylward, M. Kesner, Miss Mattie Harris, Rev. J. K. and Mrs. Curtis, Miss Newbury, Miss Templeton, N. Harding, Miss N. Hogan, Miss Rose and several steerage.

Cachelot's Crew Here.

The tug Ingraham, Capt. Rose, arrived here at noon to-day with Capt. Amundsen of the wrecked whaler Cachelot and her 10 men of a crew. Mr. D. A. Ryan also came up, and the whaler is reported to be a total wreck with the bottom torn out of her and the hull almost demolished with the high sea running. From the crew we learn that the whaler, which had 33 fish up to the time of the accident, went ashore at the eastern end of Belle Isle in the Straits on Wednesday, August 24th, at 3 p.m., during a dense fog, when not a sign of land was visible. She was going at a good rate of speed and the shock when she struck threw the men on the deck off their feet. From the start it was seen that it was a hopeless case as the hold filled quickly with water and all had to take to the boats and leave instantaneously. The place where she struck was very precipitous and the men rowed around till a fairly good place could be had to land. A high sea ran at the time and it was dangerous work to land in the surf and still more dangerous to scale a cliff several hundred feet high, but this was safely accomplished and all remained with the lighter until the Ingraham got there a few days ago and took them off. The crew lost nearly all their effects, the captain losing a valuable silver watch, the two engineers a watch each and other valuables. The provisions on board were also lost, but all were supplied with grub by the lighter for the time they were with him. The men leave for Norway by the Norwegian to-morrow. The Ingraham brought up 40 passengers including these men.

Mr. J. G. Joyce returned to town by this morning's train from Carbonear.

That Elopement

THE FACTS OF THE CASE.
The man who since coming here has been reconciled to his erring wife, who eloped from Halifax with another, left for home with the woman by yesterday's Bruce express. The injured husband's name is Francis Hewett, an Englishman, and a soldier in one of the regiments stationed at the Nova Scotia Capital. In July month Hewett accompanied his regiment which went into camp up country for several weeks, leaving his wife and little daughter, aged 5, alone in their home. Thomas St. Clair, who had also joined a military organization in Halifax, became acquainted with Hewett, and after visiting his home became enamoured of his wife. The woman reciprocated the affection he bestowed on her, and when he learned that Hewett was gone into camp he prevailed on the woman to desert her husband and elope with him, and he, on his part, determined to desert his regiment which he did. He selected Newfoundland for his future residence, as he had been in St. John's on several occasions, having spent a term on the Calypso as a naval reservist, and having also made a couple of voyages on the Florizel as a steward. While in this city he made the acquaintance of a resident of Shaw's Lane, in the West End, and when all his preparations were made to leave Halifax he wired this man on the 15th of August just passed, asking him to meet him when he and his wife would leave the cars at the Rich Co's station here. This his local friend did, and took him with himself and his paramour to his house believing that he had been married while abroad, and that the child was his. After being a short while here the man got employment as a steward on the Bruce, but only made one voyage in her.

When Hewett returned from camp and came to his home at Halifax he found his home deserted, and making enquiries neighbours told him that his wife had left for parts unknown in company with the strange military man they had seen visit the house. The man then bent all his energies to the task of locating the guilty couple, and found at the I. C. R. Depot, and at one of the express offices that a man and woman with a child had sent forward luggage and booked passages for Sydney. Remembering that St. Clair had mentioned to him of his having been in Nfld., he rightly concluded that the man and woman had come on here, and after getting leave of absence wired the facts to our police authorities asking their aid in discovering the pair, and saying he would arrive by Monday's express. This he did and was met by Sgt. Byrne to whose assistance Hewett owes the discovery of his wife, and to whose diplomacy and tact, a reconciliation was effected between the husband and wife, and St. Clair was allowed to go away with a whole skin.

St. Clair and the woman travelled here under the pseudonyms of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, and they had the girl, a pretty child, with them. Neighbours of the family with whom St. Clair and the woman resided while here gave us the foregoing facts, and they say that the woman though scared at first when she met her indignant husband was later quite unperturbed and took the matter coolly. The Canadian authorities know that St. Clair is still in this city, and he may be arrested as a deserter.

The Hump and another whaler were at Harbor Grace yesterday afternoon. The former had six whales, and the later 3, taken down in the mouth of the Bay and up round Harbor Grace Island. The Hump has up to date 114 whales.

Crippen Murder Trial.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Sept. 6.
Three sensations marked the beginning to-day in the Bow Street Police Court of the trial of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen for the murder of his actress wife, Belle Elmore. The first was the changing of the charge of murder against Ethel Clare Le Neve, Crippen's typist, to that of accessory after the fact; the second announcement by the prosecuting attorney was that a large quantity of hyoscine liquid poison had been found in the body unearthed in the Crippen house, which the Crown hopes to prove is that of Crippen's wife; and the third, the testimony of Mrs. Paul Martinetti concerning a scar she had seen on Mrs. Crippen's body and the announcement that the doctors had found a similar scar on the body in Crippen's cellar. The court room was crowded with auditors who leaned forward in their seats to catch every word uttered. Crippen throughout the proceedings bore an air of indifference, even when Traverse Humphreys, the public prosecutor, outlined the Crown's case against him. Miss Le Neve was heavily veiled and not once did the daylight shine on her face while in the court room. After the Crown's case had been rected a few witnesses were heard and an adjournment was taken until next Thursday.

German Spy Arrested.

Special Evening Telegram.
SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 6.
The German spy who was arrested yesterday, while engaged in sketching the fortifications here, is still detained at Fort Purbrooks. The man's name is supposed to be Elmer and he is connected with the construction division of the German land forces. Documents found upon the alleged spy are said to include sketches of the forts all along the hills. The papers have been despatched to the War Office.

Roosevelt and the Panama Canal.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Sept. 6.
The proposal to fortify the Panama Canal as put forward in a recent speech by Col. Roosevelt is still the subject of discussion in the newspapers here. The Times to-day says there is no question that Great Britain wishes in this, as in all other international affairs, to see it eye to eye with the United States. The other Powers, however, might argue that the guaranteeing of neutrality should not be in the care of a single Power in the event of a disagreement. The Times also says there cannot be a doubt that America would welcome a submission of the question to an international court.

John A. Mead Elected Governor

Special Evening Telegram.
WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., September 6.
Lieut.-Governor John A. Mead, of Rutland, a retired physician and a prominent man, was elected Governor by the Republicans in the State by a majority of about 17,000 over lawyer Chas. D. Watson, of St. Albans, his Democrat opponent. The Republicans elected the balance of the State ticket, both congressmen, but the Democrats made gains in the legislature. The Republican plurality was the smallest with two exceptions since 1870. The party leader, Chairman F. C. Williams, of the State Committee, declared to-night the rainstorm was the principal cause.

ANGLICAN CATHEDRAL.—There are several vacancies for boys' voices in the choir. The boys receive quarterly payments in addition to the other advantages. Candidates should send their names and addresses, in writing, not later than Saturday next, to the Organist, A. E. ALLEN, Esq., 71 Rennie's Mill Road.—sep21

Zeppelin Airship.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
STRASSBURG, Germany, Sept. 6.
What practically is a complete prohibition for the Zeppelin or other passenger carrying airships to make trips over this city or vicinity has been decreed by the Government. The military authorities feared that foreign passengers might photograph the fortifications and therefore declined to grant landing facilities to the airships. In consequence of this order the company which has been running an airship service from Baden, Baden will be compelled to return, the passage money paid by persons intending to make the trips from Baden, Baden and other points.

Popular Scholar Dined

The winner of the Rhodes' Scholarship for 1910, Mr. R. H. Tait, was the recipient of a farewell dinner at Wood's West End Restaurant last night, tendered him by the members of the Fethian Club.

Mr. C. E. Hunt occupied the chair, and 50 persons sat down to an excellent repast.

SOUP: Vegetable.
Roast Beef, Roast Mutton.
SWEETS: Compote Fruit and Custard.
DESSERT: Fruit, Tea, Coffee.
When full justice had been done this His Gracious Majesty the King was heartily toasted, the august name being proposed by the Chairman, when next to be honoured was the hero of the hour, Mr. R. H. Tait. After the gathering sang: "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" on mention of his name. Mr. C. E. Hunt, the proposer, made a nice complimentary speech, which Mr. Tait heartily responded to. Then began a musicale which delighted all present and helped them spend a very pleasant evening. Vocal selections were given by Messrs. Mackall, Hunt, Fox, Wood, Cliff, Foster and Ellis. Mr. Tait accompanied, and after the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem proceedings terminated. Mr. Tait goes to England by the Mongolian to-morrow, visiting Edinburgh, after which he will enter Trinity College, at Oxford, where he will study law. He has been popular with his class mates and the public, and the Telegram wishes him the best of luck and every success. CHAS. E. HUNT.

Football at Wabana.

Representatives of Dominion Iron and Steel Co. Win Football Championship for 1910 at Our Iron Isle.

After a series of great football games lasting from the early part of June till the beginning of September, the football season at Wabana, or more generally known to St. John's folks as Bell Island, has terminated, and the team composed of employees of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., under the name of the Dominion Athletic Association, have proven themselves masters over the Nova Scotia and Wabana teams, and are now the champions of Wabana for 1910.

The championship game came off on Saturday evening when the Nova Scotia and Dominion teams met in the football arena for the fourth time this season. A good game was expected and such it proved to be, fast and clean—except at times—with fine combination on both sides. Mr. N. Burke acted as referee, and precisely at 6 p.m. the teams appeared on the field, the Dominions looking well in their uniforms of grey and red, while the Nova Scotians looked smart in white and blue. There is no need to say a large crowd of spectators attended, for every one on the island who could possibly attend put in an appearance.

The game opened with the Dominions rushing matters, but the opposing backs cleared well, and for a while play was general, both sides playing well. The Nova Scotia forwards then took their turn at a rush, and Murphy, the Dominion tender, was called upon to save, which he did in capital style. Burke, Roberts and Noonan the smart forward trio of the Dominion now put in some capital work, breaking the great defence put up by Cahill, Clancey and Bastow for the Scotians, and from a wing shot by Roberts, Noonan scored the first goal for the evening. Dominion, 1; Nova Scotia, 0.

Play now became exciting; spectators yelling with enthusiasm, while the players went at it again with a vim that could only be expected at a championship game. The Dominion forwards again take possession; Noonan has it, he dribbles past centre and passes to Roberts who with a dash up field characteristic of him in

Nutritive Hypophosphites

When a person feels "blue"—"all tired out"—"doesn't feel like doing anything"—cannot concentrate his mind on his work—feels weak mentally and physically—doubts his powers—complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness—suffers from headaches—then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic. Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to trying family cares overstudy, etc.

Nutritive Hypophosphites forms the best nerve and brain food known, and have restored thousands of sufferers to health. Large bottle, $1.00.

playing with the Guards of old, sends a beauty shot across Nova Scotia goal which Burke, the field captain of the Dominion and a player of repute with the B. I. S. in the past, seizes and records No. 2. Dominion, 2; Nova Scotia, 0.

The Nova Scotia forwards now rush a bit, and the ball goes to Dominion goal, but the defence of Martin and Barnes stands good. Burke now made a pretty dash, cleared all opponents, and but for a trip outside penalty area must have scored. Half time then gave the players a well needed rest. Dominion, 2; Nova Scotia, 0.

On resuming the Nova Scotians put Bastow—a celebrated player of old, but owing to injuries received played this year in goal—out centre half. The Dominion forwards made an onslaught on the Scotia goal, but the ball was cleared by Clancey and sent Dominion way, where some fine play was seen in the attack of the Scotians and the defence of the Dominion. In the mix up Martin, the Dominion Captain, who is a defence in himself as full back, got seriously injured, receiving a muscular strain and cramp in the thigh, though scarcely able to stand and enduring intense pain, he decided to play on, his plucky action commended itself to both his colleagues and opponents.

The play on both sides was now very fast, and at times a bit rough; the Nova Scotia forwards worked it down from their goal where the Dominion had rained in several shots in vain, and from a throw in by Bastow, Linsey scored No. 1 for the Scotians, amidst the applause of their supporters. Dominions, 2; Scotians, 1.

This spurred the Nova Scotians on to more vigorous efforts, and they made another rush. Martin, the plucky Dominion back, though injured, cleared well. Still undaunted the Scotians rushed again and Linsey lost a chance to equalize. Cahill now seized it for the Scotians and sent a beauty drop shot in Dominion goal, which through clever judgment Murphy the Dominion custodian saved. Burke and Noonan now rushed up field and scored what many thought to be a goal, the referee not perceiving it, however, no goal was awarded, and from this till the end of the game play was well up in Scotia vicinity, and at last the whistle sounded concluding this year's football at Wabana ending the fourth game played between the rival Companies' teams this year, and awarding the 1910 championship and the Kent-Shepherd trophy to the Dominion.

NOTES.

This is the third year this trophy has been competed for, and each team have now won it once; the Wabanas winning in 1908 and Nova Scotians in 1909.

Congratulations Dominion! Your victory shows what pluck deserves. Last in 1908; second in 1909, and first in 1910 is your record.

Cheer up Nova Scotians you played a plucky game, and have the consolation of knowing you did not part with the cup without stubborn opposition. It may yet come your way again.

The Wabanas—the pioneers of the game—made a good show this season, and your sporty actions all through were much admired.

The Dominion team will shortly be dined by the staff, when the Cup will be presented.

This year's champions are:—W. Martin, Capt.; M. Tierney, Sub-Capt.; W. Burke, Field Capt.; J. Nugent, J.

Dawe, W. White, H. Buchanan, H. Noonan, H. Barnes, G. Roberts and J. B. Murphy, while W. Coughlan, J. Butler, J. Bennett and F. Fagen played some of the games.

The hero of Saturday's game is Captain Martin, of the Dominion, who scarcely able to stand, stood by his team till the end after receiving serious injury. At the conclusion of the game he had to be carried off the field and driven home. We are pleased to know he is now fully recovered and will be around in a day or so.

Doctor Jamieson Elected Unopposed.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 22.—Dr. L. S. Jamieson and Messrs. Merriman, Sauer, Fischer, Hertzog, Graaf and Dr. Smart, were returned unopposed for the Union Parliament.

Speaking at Grahamstown, Dr. Jamieson urged the Unionists to combine on the issue whether there was to be recrudescence of party divisions which had hitherto rested entirely on radicalism. When the national convention decided to unite South Africa they cherished the great ideal that racial troubles were ended, but now the position was practically the same as before the convention met.

C.P.R. Trainman Instantly Killed.

John Huribut Was Struck by a Piece of Wood on the Jaw.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 25.—John Huribut, a C. P. R. fireman, whose home was at 52 Mullock Avenue, West Toronto, was killed here last night as the result of a peculiar accident. Huribut was on the way east with freight train No. 54. The piston on one side of the engine was not working, and when the train stopped on the siding the driving wheel on the other side stayed at dead centre, the engine could not start up till she pushed off centre, and a yard engine was run up to shove it back. The steps on the yard engine protruded so that the two engines could not be coupled, so a wooden tie was placed between them for shove. Huribut was holding the tie in place when the force of the shove broke the tie in two and one of the flying pieces struck the man in the jaw, killing him almost instantly.

Trapeze Artist Breaks Spine.

Lying in a precarious condition, as the result of a twenty-foot fall from a trapeze, Thomas Michaud, a trapeze artist at the "New Park" show on St. Lawrence Boulevard, is at the General Hospital with little hope of recovery. While performing his sensational act last evening on a trapeze suspended twenty-feet above a hardwood floor, he missed his grip, and fell on his back. He sustained a fracture of the spine, which it is thought at the hospital, will prove fatal.

Michaud had mounted to the top section of his double trapeze, performing several stunts, and then hung to the bar, head downwards, by his feet. A swinging act followed, the performer swinging his legs clear of the higher bar while catching the lower with his hands. There was a distance of about ten feet between the two horizontal bars. This windmill number was performed a great many times by Michaud without mishap. Last night, however, while swinging clear, his foot touched the upper bar. This threw him out somewhat from the under bar, and in the downward course his hands failed to reach the trapeze. He fell to the floor, landing on the base of his neck. It was first thought he was dead, as he lay on the floor in a heap. A low groan, however, showed that life was not yet extinct.

Child Poisoned by Carbolic Acid.

Sydney, Aug. 25.—A very sad accident occurred yesterday at Sydney Mines when Lydia, the four year old daughter of Willard Campbell, drank carbolic acid and died in less than an hour. The child, whose home is on Clyde Avenue, was playing in the yard when she noticed a bottle containing some liquid, took the cork from the bottle and drank the contents. Her cries attracted her parents from the house, and they quickly summoned assistance. The dose, however, was so strong that the child succumbed.

Man Violently Insane.

For several days past a man named Ed. Pendergast, an athletic fisherman, a resident of the Logy Bay Road, showed signs of being demented, but his father, with whom he lived, and other relatives believed that the attack was only temporary and that he would again regain his reason. Yesterday, however, he became very violent in his home and cleared out the house. He savagely attacked his father and tore all the clothing from his person and terrorized the people of the neighborhood who collected about the road but were fearful of going near the maniac, who it was feared for a while might kill his parents. A telephone message was sent the police from Mr. Crosbie's cottage and Supt. Grimes despatched Sergt. Mackey and Const. Tobin to the scene. When they arrived everything was turned topsy-turvy in the house with the unfortunate man raving and in a frenzy. When the officers entered the demented man fiercely attacked them, repeatedly butted Sergt. Mackey, and a desperate encounter ensued. After a terrific struggle the officers, assisted by Cabman John Murray, who drove them, overpowered Pendergast, manacled his hands and tied his legs, after which he was conveyed to the police station, when the necessary papers were made out for his admission to the Lunatic Asylum. Before leaving the station he had to be placed in a straight jacket, after which he was driven to the institution. The patient had his face badly cut, and it was a sad sight to see such a fine young man bereft of his reason.

Wholesale Stealing.

Monday night some thief entered the garden at the rear of the cottage formerly owned by Capt. Alexander Graham on Waterford Road, and now occupied by Mrs. Edgar, and stole the household linen and clothing left out over night to bleach after being washed. The property was valued at $20 at the least. Of late clothes thieves have been busy in the West End, and if they are caught they will get their just deserts.

Cardenia's Good Work

Mr. Waite, navigator on the Cardenia, Capt. W. Carroll, master, arrived here by last night's train from Harbor Breton. The schooner, which passed Cape Race Friday, arrived Sunday and made the run out in 24 days from Oporto. She went across from Harbor Breton to Oporto in 14 days, and going and coming had excellent weather. She passed the Mildred on the 24th ult. just 5 days out from Blanc Sablon, fish laden for Oporto, and she reported all well.

To Save Lives on Submarines

British Admiralty Interested in New Scheme—Patent Fuel Being Tested.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Admiralty are said to be much interested in a scheme by which it is hoped the submarine of the future may be safeguarded against explosion.

The escape of a highly explosive gas from petrol used for the engines has been the cause of more than one disaster, and now what is known as heavier oil fuel is being used in the newer types of boats.

There is a patent fuel being tried, however, at Barrow, which still further minimizes the chances of explosion and makes for greater safety of crews. At present this new fuel is being used with the heavy fuel with good results.

It is most probable that future boats of the D. class will have this fuel entirely, and that heavy oil will follow petrol as a fuel for submarines and become a thing of the past. Rumors speak of the D. class as if many were on service, but, as a matter of fact, only D. 1 is in commission.

The question of reducing risks of explosion has, from the earliest mishap, been ever exercising the minds of experts, and when heavy oil fuel was first found to be so excellent a substitute for petrol it was only a question of whether the expense of altering the boats would be money well spent, considering that many submarines were nearly obsolete in other classes, that led to it not being introduced in them.

All new classes, however, will use the patent fuel as an explosion safeguard.

An attempt is being made by the Admiralty to come to an agreement in reference to the scheme with Messrs. Vickers, Sons and Maxim, who have hitherto done practically the whole of this work under an agreement for a term of years.

Shot Herself in the Astor House.

New York, Aug. 30.—While surgeons in the Flower hospital were making every effort to-day to save the life of a fashionably dressed young woman, who shot and seriously wounded herself in the waiting room of the Hotel Astor last night, the attempts of the authorities to obtain a clue to the woman's identity were unrewarded. She still persisted in refusing to answer questions. Whenever an effort was made to get her to say who she was she would bite her lips and shake her head negatively.

Surgeons to-day said the young woman's condition was serious and that an operation probably would have to be performed during the day.

In the black silk handbag which was picked up in the waiting room of the Astor were found a manuscript and three letters, bearing the date of August 18th, and showing from the discoloration of the envelope that they had been carried for several days. They were addressed "Dearest Blanche," "Dearest Sister" and to "Mother dear," but from each the signature had been scratched so carefully as to be practically illegible, although the police thought that they could read "Nora" in faint strokes in one of them.

"It is really deplorable that a girl cannot get along honorably in New York," ran the letter to her mother. "In some things I might have succeeded had I conceded to the wishes of men, cultured usually, moneyed, but minus morals. Never reproach yourself for what I am about to do. I can hear you say, 'now, my dear, it is very wrong for one to take one's life, whatever the incentive may be'."

Broke Plate Glass Window.

Boys throwing stones in the neighborhood of the Horwood Lumber Co. works are creating much damage to windows and are positively a menace to public safety. A couple of days ago a lad hurled a large stone through the window of the retail store of the Horwood works. It was fortunate that Mr. W. Horwood had left his desk or he would have been seriously hurt by the flying pieces of glass. Last night a little lad named Breen smashed the plate glass window of the store of Mr. W. Sharpe on the ground flat of the Horwood structure. It is valued at $72 and is insured with Mr. Geo. Williams.
