"BEAVER" FLOUR Makes the True Home-Made Bread Your Mother Used to Make

Canadian women are the most attractive in the world because they are the most womanly. They are home bodies. Their interests are centred in their homes. They are proud of their skill in bread-making. They know that with "Beaver" Flour, they can make bread that equals anything turned out by the most skilful chefs in the world.

One of the first things noticed by travellers in Canada is the fact that "all you women know how to make good bread."

If they knew all the facts, they would add "all your best bread makers use "BEAVER" FLOUR.

The reason is quite simple. "Beaver" Flour is a blended flour. It is really two flours in one. It contains the quality, nutriment and flavor of Ontario Fall wheat and the strength of Manitoba Spring wheat. "Beaver" Flour is a perfectly balanced flour. It makes baking easy because it is always the same in strength, quality and flavor. You can make more bread to the barrel than with any other flour—big, brown, nutty, delicious loaves that will delight both the eye and the palate. Perhaps you have never tried "Beaver" Flour. Your grocer has it. Try it. You can't make the best pastry without it.

Beautiful Cynthia;

Victory After Many Defeats.

CHAPTER III. A BOY'S PRIDE.

"Yes, he did," admitted Darrel. "And if he had got in one or two more, I should have been downed instead of him."

Sir Anson drew a sovereign from his waistcoat pocket and handed it to Darrel, who promptly pocketed it.

"You can buy that new whip you were bothering me about," said this exemplary father. "Now, you'd better go and get the cook to give you a piece of steak—all lean, of course—and stick it on. All the same, you'll have a nice eye for a day or two. Was the other fellow much punished?" he asked, with poorly affected indifference.

Darrel's grin was answer enough. Sir Anson nodded and laughed.

"That's all right, my boy," he said. "Always give as good as you get, and a little better if you can. Well, off with you. I'll wait tea for you!"

Darrel had reached the door when his father stopped him with a question.

"By the way, who was the other chap?"

"I don't know him, sir," replied Darrel. "He said his name was Sampson Burridge."

The smile slowly vanished from Sir Anson's face, which grew serious, not to say lengthy.

"The deuce!" he muttered under his breath. "Burridge's son. H'm." He rubbed his chin meditatively and stared at the carpet with extreme gravity. "Yes, he's much bigger than you. And he was bullying a girl, was he? The young hound! Do you know the girl? Who was she?"

"Cynthia Drayle is her name. She lives at the cottage on the moor."

Sir Anson sprang from the table, his face flushed, his eyes angry.

"What!" he cried. "Cynthia Drayle! You've been fighting for that fellow's daughter! Confound—"

Darrel regarded his father with surprise.

"Why not, sir?" he asked. "Why shouldn't I? She wanted some one to help her, and I happened to be there. She was only a girl, and no match for that hulking fellow."

Sir Anson appeared to swallow his wrath. And as he turned away to the window, his hands thrust in his pockets, his face still moody and frowning, he said half apologetically: "That's all right, Darrel. Of course you didn't know—I mean, you couldn't help yourself. Her father is no friend of mine. But there! she was a girl and in distress, and you couldn't do any other. All the same," he rubbed his chin again, "I wish it had been some other boy and some other girl. Sampson Burridge and Cynthia Drayle!" he muttered ruefully. "Never mind. It can't be helped. Confound it!"

Sir Anson mused, with a troubled countenance, until Darrel came down again. He had been under the combined ministrations of the cook, Mrs. Bowles, the housekeeper, the butler, and two of the young maidservants, who were terribly shocked and warmly indignant at the treatment he had received.

For all the servants at the Court admired and were proud of their high-spirited young master. The maids all most worshipped him; and one of them actually shed tears as she viewed the wreck which Sampson had made of Master Darrel's handsome face. But the butler and the footman were somewhat consoled, as Sir Anson had been, by Darrel's admission that he had given as good as he had got.

"The idea of that young Sampson daring to have the impudence to lay a finger on the young master!" said Mrs. Bowles, with a toss of her head and a snort.

"Them Burridges," said Priestly, the butler, severely, "have impudence enough for anything. I hate 'em both father and son; and if I catch that Sampson trespassing in the woods I'll lay a stick across his back."

"Oh, no, you won't, Priestly," said Darrel. "Don't be an old ass. It was a fair fight. I tell you. I wish you'd all go away and let me alone!

What on earth is Mary Jane sniffling for? Any one would think she'd never seen a black eye before. I've had scores of 'em—"

"Oh, Master Darrel," sobbed Mary Jane.

"Well, half a dozen," said Darrel. "Clear out all of you, I'm going to have a bath."

He went down to the den after a while, and he and his father had tea together.

The cloud had left Sir Anson's face—it was never clouded for long; for he possessed the Irish mercurial temperament, and the enviable capacity of throwing troubles from his mind as a Newfoundland dog shakes the water from its back—and they had a very pleasant meal. Nothing more was said of the fray. They talked sport, and the boy listened and joined in with enthusiasm; for he was a true chip of the old block.

They had just finished the cozy meal when a footman entered and said that Mr. Burridge would like to see Sir Anson. Sir Anson's face fell again, he rubbed his chin and looked at Darrel.

"You'd better go, Darrel," he said. Darrel rose, but hesitated, his face flushing.

"I think I'd rather stay, sir, for a minute, if I may?"

"Right!" responded Sir Anson, with approval. "Always face the music, however ugly the tune. Show Mr. Burridge in."

That gentleman entered. Josiah Burridge was as unlike the ordinary and familiar type of an attorney as can well be imagined. He was neither thin, hatchet-faced, nor weaselly; but an immense man, with a huge frame, which, had he been fat, would have made him elephantine. He had a big, round face, with a gash of a mouth—reproduced in Sampson—light, blue eyes, with an innocent and almost childlike expression; his huge head was crowned by a reddish thatch; he moved heavily, and walked with a shambling gait, as if his great bones were scarcely under his control; in fact, he looked like a big and somewhat stupid farmer; and only the careful observer would have noticed that now and again the childish eyes grew sharp like steel, and that one corner of the silly-looking mouth had a habit of twitching downward; for at most times Josiah Burridge held his countenance under complete control.

It had been a very useful one to him, for it had inspired confidence in most of his clients, who argued that a man with such a face, though an attorney—a person who is always eyed askance and with suspicion by country folk—couldn't be anything but honest, not to say benevolent, and not a few had left his office under the impression that they had actually got the better of him, and were quite surprised and chagrined when, later on, they discovered that the boot was on the other leg, and that Josiah Burridge was not so simple as he looked.

As he entered, Burridge stretched his mouth in a smile and bowed, not only to Sir Anson, but to Darrel; and either of the two noticed the momentary hardening of the blue eyes.

"How are you, Burridge?" said Sir Anson genially, but with just an undertone of anxiety. "Come to see me about this little affair of the two boys, eh?"

"Not at all, Sir Anson," said Burridge, with a smile; "though, now you mention it, and Mr. Darrel is present, I may take the opportunity of expressing my regret that Sampson should have so forgotten himself and injured a boy younger and smaller than himself."

Darrel grew red, and stared at Mr. Burridge with a mixture of surprise and indignation; and Sir Anson could not refrain from exclaiming:

"Oh, but from what I hear, Sampson hasn't got off scot-free!"

"By no means," admitted Mr. Burridge placidly; "he's about as badly marked as Master Darrel; but he doesn't bear any grudge, and I'm sure Master Darrel doesn't."

"Of course not!" burst out Darrel. "I'll fight him again anyway he likes," he added, with quite friendly generosity, as if to prove the truth of the assertion that there was no grudge on his part.

"No, no, young sir," said Mr. Burridge, smiling, and wagging his head. "Sampson has got something else to do than fighting with his betters; he has his living to get, his way to make in the world. I hope there won't be any more unpleasantness between you. I stepped up about that lease of Simpson's, Sir Anson."

Sir Anson nodded at Darrel, who went out and left the two men alone. Mr. Burridge sat down at the invitation of Sir Anson, drew the draft of a lease from the pocket of his huge, loose coat, and proceeded to discuss the terms. Sir Anson listened and spoke rather absently, and presently he broke in on the discussion and said:

"Look here, Burridge. I think you've taken this affair of the two boys very well. To be quite candid, I expected you to cut up rough about it."

"Why?" asked Burridge, with his eyes wide open; "you weren't angry with my boy, I suppose, Sir Anson?"

"Not a bit," replied Sir Anson promptly. "I am sure it was a fair fight; and it won't do either of them any harm."

"I'm not complaining of Master Darrel," said Burridge, with his eyes on the lease; "boys will be boys, as you say, and, of course, I understand the cause of the quarrel."

"There is always a woman in it, eh, Burridge?" said Sir Anson, with a chuckle.

How to Help the Government

By RUTH CAMERON.

Do you read the prelude and foot notes in the printed directions that come with the articles you buy? If you are a woman, I don't believe you do. Nine women out of ten never glance at such things; men are to. There is a certain brand of canned peas which the whole neighborhood uses. The other evening when we were helping to prepare an impromptu tiffin at Molly's house, the Man-Who-Thinks was delegated to open a can of these peas. Before doing so he carefully perused the printed matter on the outside, and this is what he read: "These peas are colored with copper sulphate."

"Goodness," said Molly, "I never saw that before."

None of us had, and yet it had been there all the time, and we have been using that brand for years. Whether a small quantity of copper sulphate is harmful we do not know. But whether it is or not, there is no question that we should have read what was written on that can.

We ought to be ashamed of ourselves, and so should all the women who do not take advantage of the protection which pure food legislation offers them.

As you know, the pure food law provides that when certain coloring matter and preservatives of questionable salubrity are used, this fact shall be stated on the can or box.

Thus the Government comes half way in protecting the individual from the dangers of impure food. But unless the individual comes the other half way and takes the trouble to read these warnings, the efforts of the Government are useless.

To think that three-quarters of us are too careless or too lazy or too indifferent to do our part!

Isn't that a painful commentary on the American character?

In some of the little basement stores in the slums of the big cities, where violent colored sodas are dispensed for a penny a glass, the proprietors observe the law by this sign, "This soda is highly adulterated." How do they dare to do it? Because they know that the poor ignorant folks will think that fine sounding phrase means that the soda is extra good.

No doubt the manufacturers who supply us with our canned goods feel a similar confidence in our indifference to any warning they may print.

It is every woman's duty to do what she can to get good legislation, but we must not forget that we have a further duty, and that is to make the legislation we already have as effective as possible. And every woman can do that in this particular by reading the printed matter on the outside of all the goods that come into her kitchen.

The sitting members of the Council are in arrears. So gentlemen of the Council, if for no other reason than to clear up such rumors, I think the names of the delinquents should be published. I know there are many that won't agree with me in the publishing of the names of those in arrears, as they will think it uncharitable, but what of those who pay right up, are they not worth the same consideration; for they only enjoy the same privileges as those who don't pay. Now, it is not the man that owes three or four dollars, that I speak of, it is the man of pull, who owes his hundreds and enjoys all the privileges and probably more concessions than the citizen who meets all his obligations, and renders to Caesar what belongs to Caesar. Can any man or body of men with due regard for justice, take that which belongs to an individual and give it to another? Yet the Council, by not availing themselves of the power at their command to collect the taxes and administer the duties of civic government honestly and impartially with due regard to the welfare of the city and credit to themselves. Ask yourselves gentlemen of the Council, what right have you to demand taxes from one citizen and not from another, and if you cannot collect only from those that are willing to pay then I have no hesitation in saying that the usefulness of the Council as a public body, to say the least, is far from what a city like ours requires.

Thanking you in anticipation of space.

Yours, with respect,
FREDERICK FITZPATRICK.

St. John's, March 26th, 1913.

[One suggestion that has been made to us is that the water should be cut off from delinquents, and immediate steps taken to sue for arrears. Ed.]

The strapping of ribbon, either in modère or black, according to the color of the shoes, is pretty. The ribbon crosses over the foot and is wound around the ankle in sandal fashion.

A BLOOD MEDICINE WITHOUT ALCOHOL.

Recently it has been definitely proven by experiments on animals that alcohol lowers the germicidal power of the body and that alcohol paralyzes the white corpuscles of the blood and renders them unable to take up and destroy disease germs. Disease germs cause the death of over one-half of the human race.

A blood medicine, made entirely without alcohol, which is a pure glyceric extract of roots, such as Bloodroot, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Mandrake and Stone root, has been extensively sold by druggists for the past forty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and a physician of large experience and practice, was the first to make up an ALTERNATIVE EXTRACT of roots, without a particle of alcohol or narcotic.

"It is with the greatest pleasure, that I write to let you know of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicine and self-treatment at home," writes Mrs. Wm. Hayes, of Leesport, Pa. "I suffered from a running sore, which had existed for several years, but they failed to mend or give relief. Finally I was told I was in consumption and would have to consult a specialist concerning my case, that the doctor told me must be cut out before the wound would heal. A kind friend advised me to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and after seven months' use of the treatment the sore is healed, and I enjoy better health than I ever did. I dressed the wound with Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve and took the Golden Medical Discovery, and Pleasant Pellets for my troubles. I shall always recommend your medicines."

Redemptorist Fathers at Conception.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—The Mission here opened on Sunday with solemn High Mass, the Celebrant being Rev. Father McCandlish, assisted by Rev. Father Holland and Rev. Dr. Murphy, as Deacon and Sub-Deacon, respectively. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Veltch was also present in the Sanctuary.

Rev. Father Holland explained the Mission in a brief sermon. He said that it was owing to the solicitude of our beloved pastor (the Monsignor), who is ever watchful over our spiritual interests, that they were here.

At night the church was nearly overcrowded. After the Rosary had been recited by Rev. Father McCandlish, Rev. Father Holland again ascended the pulpit and in the most impressive language preached on the "Salvation of Our Souls." The rev. preacher is remarkable for his clearness in preaching; he showed the emptiness, the nothingness of all worldly possessions at that terrible hour when we have to render an account to our Creator for our immortal souls. The same rev. gentleman preached again on Monday morning at 8 o'clock, and was listened to with rapt attention. At evening the Rosary was recited by Father Holland after which the Rev. Father McCandlish preached a most touching sermon on "Mortal Sin." The eloquence, the fervour, and the forcefulness with which he treated this subject is more than my feeble pen can describe. He vividly depicted the sufferings of Christ and the heinousness of mortal sin to Him who shed His Precious Blood for our salvation; so eloquent and touching was his sermon that the hearts of the 450 present were stirred to their inmost recesses and many were moved to tears. He closed his discourse by exhorting all present to fall on their knees and ask pardon for the great insult offered to the God through mortal sin.

The children's mission was opened at 4 p.m. on Sunday by Rev. Fr. McCandlish. He showed to them how dear their little souls were to God who created them. On Monday at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. he preached on Death and needless to say his discourse was very touching, simple and beautiful, so that the little ones—over 400—listened with the greatest attention.—Com.

Municipal Tax Arrears.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—The information on Municipal affairs presented to the public in an edition of the morning "News," calls for more than passing notice from that class of citizens who always pay their taxes. It seems to me to be pure neglect on the part of the Council, for it is clearly proven that they have been remiss in their duty or incapable of performing such duty, to allow arrears to accumulate in such an appalling manner, as to find that there is $92,000 owed in taxes to the Council.

I will remember at the opening of the City Hall, the tenor of the speeches led us to believe that we as property holders and citizens in general, were as a joint stock company, and consequently thereby bound to take an active interest in municipal affairs, just as stockholders would in any company in which they might have shares; with the elective Councillors acting as a Board of Directors.

It is altogether unfair for those who pay their taxes, to find that the business of the Council should be conducted in such a slipshod manner. It is certainly quite different from the way any joint stock company is or should be conducted. I do not think it would be asking too much to have the names of those indebted to the Council, with the amounts they owe, given to the public, as the public are the stock holders and consequently are entitled to know who do not pay their bills. There are rumors which may be altogether wrong, as public rumors very often are, that some of

The Seamen's Institute.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Kindly allow me space in your paper to say a few words in reference to the Management of the Seamen's Institute and to say that the statement made in the "Advocate" of the 25th of March, in the "Sparrow" signing himself "Sparrow" is altogether out of place, and that the requirements of the sealers and seamen who have had occasion to seek its hospitality have been met and satisfied to the full. Not only do we as the staff of the Institute say that it is a great boon to the sealers and fishermen of the country, but they themselves in public and private have given expressions of satisfaction and appreciation of benefits derived therefrom. As on the platform of the Grenfell Hall when Mr. Sheard, and Superintendent, Mr. Jones, to make the sealers feel at home and give them a happy week, one of them who we believed voiced the feelings of the three hundred present, spoke of the great kindness of Mr. Jones in trying to make them comfortable and happy while away from their homes. We have also on record to show that seamen are not dissatisfied. Testimonies of intrepid seamen such as Captain Mayo and his crew of the wrecked "Regal," besides personal conversations wherein time and again men have expressed their satisfaction and approval of the Institute and also of the Management, and not only is it a great boon to the fishermen and seamen of our country but we have in our possession a letter from one of the men of the ill-fated s.s. Florence Edwin Taylor, 92 Hodder Street, England, who speaks very highly of the kindness shown him and his shipmates by Manager Jones and staff. These testimonies go to show that the statement made by "Sparrow" as to the mismanagement of the Home, is altogether false, and I think it would be more appropriate if he signed himself "Hawk" instead of "Sparrow," when he tries to destroy the good name of the Management of a concern that has been appreciated North, South, East and West by the seamen and fishermen of our country. Of course we cannot expect to change or affect the biased mind of "Sparrow" because he is like a lot of other cranks too cranky to be turned. It's a wonder, if he had the welfare of the Seamen's Home at heart, and he thinks it is not run or managed as well as he managed his boarding house in days of old, he would not come and give a few persons hints, as to how to do it, or if the bill of fare is not to his liking, why does he not bring down one of his old menus and prices to help us along, instead of giving vent to his prejudiced feelings in such a way. We would be intruding on our valuable space, Mr. Editor, if we were to make reference to various childish things that "Sparrow" makes mention of, such as pocketing the key of the pantry and turning the employes out when it is not fit for a dog, etc., etc., which is as false as it is untrue, and shows that the sense of justice and fair play is outside of the "Sparrow's" realm, and that no fair-minded or right-thinking person believes such nonsense, except a few who have visited and thought they were part owners of the concern, and wanted to ride rough-shod over all and sundry, because they could not get things their way, hence their vile insinuations.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

Death of a Religious at Witless Bay.

On Sunday last at 8 p.m., Sr. M. Columba Noonan, who had been for some time in failing health, passed peacefully to her reward fortified by all the rites of Holy Church. She was born at Knockaullin, Tullylease, Co. Cork, and was in her forty-fifth year and the twenty-fifth of her religious vocation. After Requiem Mass, sung by Fr. McCarthy, and the usual prayers, at which Very Rev. Dean Roche, Fr. Tierney, P.P., Petty Hr., and a large congregation were present, the deceased sister was laid to rest in the quiet cemetery beside the Church where she so often worshipped her Divine Master. She was a favorite with both old and young, and the people during the last three days showed all possible respect. In Sr. Columba we have lost a good, holy and useful religious, and her death will be keenly felt by all friends, and especially by those amongst whom she has labored so faithfully and so zealously during the past twenty-five years. In the "old land" she leaves a mother, brothers, sisters and a host of friends to mourn their loss. To all we extend our keenest sympathy, and we unite with them in mourning the loss of good, faithful, saintly Sr. M. Columba. May she rest in peace. "AMICUS HOMO."

Beauty of contour is the key of the successful "1913" costume.

More than ever before a proper corset is necessary. The great success of the D. & A. and the La Diva styles has kept the great Dominion Corset Co's model factory in Quebec, with its thousand skillful corsetières busy early and late producing the corsets which will bring style, comfort and support to many women in Canada.

Corset bargains

It is not only their style and comfort which make D. & A. and La Diva corsets popular. Compare them with any imported corsets of similar model.

The quality of the imported corset will be no better but the price will be $1.00 to $3.00 higher.

By actual count more than half of the best dressed women in Canada wear D. & A. or La Diva Corsets. There is a model for every figure. Our catalogue sent free on request, will help you choose the best for yours.

Notes and Comments.

There are still two Commissioners of Agriculture, Messrs. Downey and Devorux, who cost the country far more than an expert in Agriculture would do. Can anybody tell what use they are to the Colony?

Can it be supposed that Canada, Denmark or any country with an agricultural policy would refuse to employ trained and experienced scientists in Agriculture and waste the money on the employment of inexperienced and unscientific men, in reality, in order to provide them with a good salary while they are members of a Legislature?

The policy of keeping and providing for these members of the House of Assembly out of the grant for the encouragement of Agriculture, is not only wasteful and useless but is most pernicious to the body politic.

It is one of the most flagrant breaches of the undertaking of Sir Edward Morris to administer public affairs economically. It is, however, but one instance of such breaches, for the Morris administration has gained unenviable notoriety for its extravagant and scandalous administration of public affairs. It is a Government which has provided picnics, picknics and patronage galore for supporters and leaders.

It is not surprising in a Government notorious for extravagance, that there should be an unwillingness to produce accounts asked for by the Opposition. The Minister of Finance seems to forget that the House of Assembly is the Grant inquest of Newfoundland, that the House has an absolute right to all information relating to finance. Delay in furnishing information, refusal to furnish information, the non-furnishing of information can create only one impression, and that impression is that the furnishing of the information would be detrimental to the partisan interests of those at present in charge of the Government.

We direct the attention of our readers to the remarks of Mr. Kent on railway inspection. He points out that an inspection of the road-bed only is not enough. What is required is an inspection of the whole system, rolling stock and equipment as well as road-bed in relation to the obligations of the contractors. The public want an official statement as to the general working of the system and particularly as to the causes and remedies for the tie-ups that have been experienced in the past.

M. C. L. I.

A record number attended the final debate last night, the subject being an Imperial one, viz., "Should Newfoundland contribute one million dollars towards the British Navy?" The speakers for the affirmative were Mr. S. J. Tucker, supported by R. A. Templeton, and Mr. E. Watson. It was contended that the natural instinct of mankind was self defence and a constant effort to increase his property at the expense of others. That Newfoundland should raise a million of one million dollars and pay the interest of $40,000 per year, and help pay for the protection which the British Navy affords us, and that that is the best use for spending money at home are great, our condition would be very much worse if a foreign power obtained control of the sea and Newfoundland was overrun and taken from the British Empire, and that patriotism without the cash would be of little value in time of need. The enormous expenditure of money by Germany made this a time of real peril, and that our naval reserve could be modernized with an out-of-date ship and guns, the number of men increased and made ready to assume the duties of a modern warship at a moment's notice.

The negative was led by Mr. R. A. Squires, supported by Mr. W. Canning and Mr. Wilfred Ayre. It was advocated the money could be better spent by devoting it to improving the educational conditions in the country, and that we could not raise a million dollars on patriotic sentiment, that Britain needs men more than money and that by improving the mental and physical condition of our people, we are contributing more to the Empire than could be bought with mere cash. The following also spoke adding much valuable information:—C. Bowden, Dr. Macpherson, Rev. Matthews, Geo. Grimes, Geo. Soper, W. Clarke, S. Whiteway. The debate was one of the most interesting for the session and the vote stood in favor of the negative. Next week the annual meeting will be held for the election of officers for the coming year.

Reply To "Dancer."

The suggestion of "Dancer" in Tuesday's Telegram, not to provide programmes for the Bal Masque to be given in the British Hall, April 22, is considered by the Alexandra Workers to be a very good one, and they will govern themselves accordingly. Their aim is to make the Ball in every detail, as great a success as possible. It is being held under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson, who have graciously signified their intention to be present on the occasion. The object of the efforts of the Alexandra Workers is so well known in this community, that it is unnecessary to say more than that they hope the public will give them a full share of patronage.

Sociable at College Hall.

The sociable held last night in the College Hall by the Ladies' College Aid Society and Young Ladies' Guild attracted a large audience. The programme was as follows:—
 Mr. A. News, cello solo; solos and duets, Misses Herder and Strang (2), Butler and Story; Mr. W. G. Watson, recitation, and Miss Pittman, piano solo. The different numbers were well received and evoked encores. The poetry competition was most interesting. Mr. Harrington and Mr. Goodman acted as judges. The essays were sent in sealed envelopes and Mrs. R. Pike, Mrs. W. Currie and Miss Bessie Taylor were declared the winners. The prizes were presented by Mr. R. A. Squires, who spoke on the good work of the Ladies' Aid.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, March 28.
 McMurdo's Toilet and Household Ammonia is a most useful domestic article, and its use will save labor, time and trouble to housekeepers in very many different ways. It is of great service in the toilet—added to the bath it helps to keep the skin soft, and removes all odor of perspiration; it is useful for washing the hair and cleaning the scalp. For the laundry it is most useful; clothes allowed to soak in water to which an appropriate amount of the Ammonia has been added, will be much easier to wash, and fabrics will come out whiter than from water to which it has not been added. It may also be used for many other domestic purposes, to wash hair brushes, crockery, glass, paint, cleaning marble, and removing stains from it, and for taking out grease spots. Our Ammonia is good and strong, but if used according to printed directions, is not harmful for any purpose for which it is employed. Prices 20 and 35 cents a bottle.

Here and There.

POLICE COURT.—A drunk and disorderly in his own house, who was given in charge by his wife, was ordered to be put on the black list. A drunk was discharged.

GETTING BETTER.—Mr. W. J. Higgins has been confined to his home ill of a cold the past week. We are glad to hear that he is getting better and will be about shortly.

Stafford's Prescription "A" cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Catarrh and Nervous Dyspepsia. Price 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

FOR BANKER.—Capt. John Lewis left by the Ethie, Wednesday, to take charge of his banking schooner at Harbor Breton. The vessel will sail shortly as she is baited.

DISORDERLY IN HOME.—Last night two police officers were called to the West End and arrested an individual who was drunk and disorderly in his home.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—The Common Carriers' Committee of the Board of Trade met yesterday and discussed irregularities in measurements of imported goods.

DELAYED BY STORM.—The Bruce express was delayed by the storm of last evening and night and did not leave Port aux Basques until 10 p.m. She is due here tomorrow.

STAR SOCIETY.—The Star of the Sea Association held a meeting last night. Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan, Spiritual Director, was present. The members will parade in a body to eight o'clock Mass at the R. C. Cathedral, on Sunday morning next, and receive Holy Communion.

A CORRECTION.—In our report of the proceedings of the Assembly on Wednesday, we stated that the report of Mr. Badcock favored the setting of single lobster pots between Batetoux and Port au Choix. This was a mistake. The contrary is the case, and a rule has been enforced, prohibiting the setting of single lobster pots in that part of St. Barbe District.

SALE OF WORK.—The St. Thomas' Women's Association held a Sale of Work at Canon Wood Hall, yesterday afternoon. A choice programme of vocal and instrumental selections were given by Misses Anderson, Winter, Dunfield, Gosling, Rennie and Harvey. The Ladies in charge of the stalls were: Plain Work—Mesdames Sterling, Simms, Austen and Miss Payne; Bag Table—Mesdames Hunt and F. Carter; Canteen—Mrs. H. Striving and Miss Striving; Tea—Mesdames T. Cook and J. Oke.

OLD LANDMARK GONE.—There died at Caplin Bay a few days ago one of its oldest and most respected residents in the person of Mr. Walter Clancy. He deceased was in his 87th year and was a type of the good old-time fisherman. He leaves one son, James, who resides in the United States, and two daughters—one house-keeper in the Palace here, and the other is Miss Clara Hartery of Cape Broyle.

 DAYTON, To-day.
 All but a few of those hundreds of persons who have been marooned in the downtown section of flooded Dayton, since Tuesday morning, are safe. Chief of Police Alback himself was marooned. He had been directing the rescue work and gave first information as to the situation in what has heretofore been a waterbound district. Except for possible loss of life on the north side of the River, there will not be more than 200 dead in Dayton, according to Alback's estimate. The worst condition found, was near the centre of the flood in a workhouse where sixty prisoners have not had a drop of water nor a bite of food since Tuesday. The men revolted on Tuesday night, demanded liberty and a chance of a fight for their lives. Since then, according to the Superintendent, the prisoners repeatedly fought with Johnson and threatened to kill both him and his family. Johnson asked for a detachment of the national guard to help him to handle the men. He declared the men would have to be shot if they escaped from their cells. No word has been heard from Mayor Phillips, the Chief of Police has been unable to get near Phillips's house and he did not know whether the Mayor was dead or alive. All grocery stores are commandeered and although in most cases the goods are covered with water, yet sufficient supplies were found to prevent great suffering.

Religious Reception at Littledale.

The beautiful ceremony of religious Reception took place in the Chapel of Littledale Academy at noon yesterday. The young ladies who received the white veil had been pupils of the Academy for some years, and it was gratifying and edifying to witness the sacrifice of youth and talent to the interest of Religion and Education in their own loved Alma Mater. Miss Fitzgerald daughter of Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald of Mobile in now known as Sister Mary Carmela Joseph and Miss Baker daughter of Mr. Joseph Baker of Marystown as Sister Mary Agnes Joseph.

His Grace Archbishop Howley officiated assisted by Very Rev. Chancellor St. John and Rev. Dr. Greene; present also in the Sanctuary were Rev. Fr. Tierney, P.P., Petty Harbor; Rev. P. O'Brien, P.P., Tor's Cove; Rev. Fr. McDermott, Rev. Dr. Kitchin, Rev. Fr. Pippy and Kelly, St. Patrick's.

The Archbishop addressed the young ladies on the beauty of the Religious life and in elegant language compared the separation of the Religious from the world to the solitude of the dove "in the cleft of the rock." The discourse was most impressive and deeply affected all present among whom were the parents and relatives of the young ladies.

The chapel was exquisite, and the singing of the choir most effective. After the ceremony a sumptuous dejeuner was served in the dining hall of the new building. This beautiful room with its floral decorations, elicited the admiration of the guests, who testified their pleasure on seeing the elegance and up-to-date finish of the interior of the new building.

We congratulate the young ladies who have just entered on their career and wish them many years of successful labour in the way of the Lord.

Funerals Yesterday.

The funeral of the late Mr. Rees, of Mullock Street, took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended; the Society of United Fishermen was present; interment was at the C. of E. Cemetery.

The Newfoundland Highlanders attended in large numbers at the funeral of their late brother member, Mr. Snow, of McDougall Street, yesterday afternoon. From a spectacular view the cortege was imposing, the appearance of the ladies in uniform attracted much attention of the hundreds who witnessed it from the various points along Military Road to the C. of E. Cemetery.

One of the largest funerals seen for some time in the city was that of James M. O'Neil, electrician, which took place yesterday afternoon. The handsome casket containing his remains was literally covered with the choicest of flowers. At the Cathedral the burial service was conducted by Rev. D. O'Callaghan, afterwards the sad cortege wended its way to Belvedere Cemetery and consigned to Mother Earth there to await the final resurrection. May his young soul rest in peace.

N.B.S. Bazaar.

The lady friends of the British Society held the second of a series of afternoon teas yesterday in the British Hall. The teas are in connection with the Bazaar, which it is proposed to hold in October next and for which the ladies are working so hard to make a success. The teas served yesterday were provided by Mesdames H. Cowan and G. Lawrence and were well attended. His Excellency the Governor has kindly consented to open the Bazaar; the proceeds of which is to be devoted to help in lessening the debt.

The parish is in good financial membership. Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. G. W. Ellis, People's Warden for 10 years, and to the ladies' committee. The Rector also received a vote of thanks for his devotion to the parish and especially for his work in connection with the extension of the church.

A Coming Event.

Next Monday evening in the T. A. Hall the B. I. S. Dramatic Company are producing their well known success of last year, "Miles Aroon." The original casts which so well portrayed the humour of the Irish life in last year's performance are once again featuring the piece. Special scenic effects are being designed and if possible the admirable arrangements of a year ago will be eclipsed. We predict for the management a successful show.

Northern Bay School House Again.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks concerning a letter which appeared in the 'Daily News' some time ago, headed "Northern Bay School House." The writer of that letter is trying to make the public believe what is not the case.

He stated the reason they were against us having the use of the school house, was that after our meetings they used to find it covered with foul spit. That Sir, is a lie to begin with.

Perhaps the writer of that letter was used to spitting foul spit whenever he would attend any meeting of any kind, and he thought every one was as dirty as himself.

Their reason for refusing us the use of the school house, was that the Chairman of our meetings, and the majority of Union men were Roman Catholics, and that they (the Roman Catholics) were encroaching on Methodist property.

That was their only objection there that night. We are prepared to prove this.

Josiah Puddister stated that night in the school house, that "if James Moores, the past chairman, was in the chair again this year, there would not be a word said." The mob waited until the Roman Catholics left the school house, then they left, and left what Union Protestants there was to themselves in the school room.

Now Sir, these are the men that were in the mob that night. John Johnson, Inspector of Weights and Measures, Henry Johnson, has all the main line monies to spend, Charles Wicks, Game Warden, also part hire of stage for use of Ethie's passengers, John Moores, foreman in building wharf, also part hire for stage, Captain Josiah Puddister gets all the Government freight coming this way.

Now, Sir, you see the men that are causing the trouble.

We never applied to the Catholic people for the use of their school house, to hold Union meetings in. We had the use of it when Mr. Coaker was here in 1912. Now, Mr. Editor, our school house was never as clean before as it was that night, until Crosbie's heels came in with their dirt and made it dirty. I give the writer of that letter to understand that we are no lumps of anyone. He had better take it to his own bosom and see if he isn't the only lump that he can find here. Crosbie will find to his dismay that we are not all Morris men here, but some of his best supporters last election are solid Union men now, and not wearing two faces as he would make us believe, or like he tried to do but failed. This affair is after making men that wasn't in the Union, to come out for the Union, and be determined to Sink or Swim with Coaker.

If the writer of that letter wants any more I can give it to him to his own satisfaction at any time.

Thanking you for space in your much esteemed paper, I remain, Yours sincerely,

SALVAGE, Northern Bay, March 20th, 1913.

The Linthrose. Was It Murder?

NICHOLAS ANGEL, WHOSE DEAD BODY WAS RECENTLY BROUGHT HERE, REPORTED TO BE VIC-TIM OF FOUL PLAY.

To-day many in the city were shocked to hear it reported that Mr. Nicholas Angel, formerly a representative of the Telegram, had been murdered, and not killed by accident, as formerly believed. The deceased, it will be remembered, had not left long on his way to Montreal, when the news of his death as the result of an accident, was received. According to the story told by friends, the deceased was on a railway train going from Quebec to Montreal, when he was attacked in the car which he occupied after leaving Revere Quille, was robbed of $30 and was flung from the car into the river near and left to die. His friends say that he lived for 10 hours afterwards, and escaped alive, but in a terrible state from the river, and in his pocket a pathetic letter, giving the facts of the case and addressed to his mother, was found. In it he gave the names of the gang who attacked him, as McDonald, Brown, K. Fowlow, Mrs. J. Blundon, Miss F. Escott, W. Lockyer, T. M. and Mrs. Anthony and several stercora.

Capt. John Smith

BY H. L. RANN.

Capt. John Smith was one of the few Englishmen who came over to this country three hundred years ago and liked it well enough to stay. It was quite a fad with wealthy Englishmen to run over to America, stake out a few million acres of land and then succumb to the scurvy of the native mosquito, but Capt. Smith liked it here and planted a colony at Jamestown, Virginia, which has stayed where he put it ever since. He also planted several thousand Indians where they would not annoy tourists by inserting arrows in them.

Capt. Smith had a fatal gift of beauty which saved his life on numerous occasions. The historian, Macaulay states that he was the only man in England who could wear a high starched ruff, fresh from the laundry, and retain the look of deep piety shown in his pictures. He was once captured by the Turks and would have been drawn and quartered in the course of an unfeeling manner characteristic of that people had it not been for a Turkish slyph weighing 210 pounds, who interceded for him.

One of the first persons Captain Smith met on coming to this country, was an Indian chief named Powhatan, who was roaming around looking for some new ideas in scalps. Powhatan did not like Capt. Smith's looks and told him so in his plain, blunt style. Powhatan was a blood-thirsty savage and came within one-third of an inch of straining Smith's brains and a new, sharp ruff around the suburbs of Jamestown, when his daughter Pocahontas rushed in and announced that she was about to marry the captive. Capt. Smith had never been introduced to Pocahontas and didn't know what her first name was or what set she belonged to, and when he got a good look at her he told Powhatan he guessed they might as well proceed with the interment, but Powhatan spared his life and Smith escaped soon after without having to take out a marriage license.

The two achievements with which the name of Capt. Smith will always be inseparably connected are his discovery of the domestic codfish in 1614 and his invention of the Smith family. The visible supply of codfish has waned considerably, but there are still plenty of Smiths left to go around.

Lost 16 Years of Whiskers.

Rendonda Beach, Cal., March 4.—Charles E. Dawson, an old fisherman, passed the morning in town, and the first place he visited was a barber shop, where he lost 16 years growth of whiskers.

"Them whiskers have been with me for a long time," he said. "I hate to see 'em chopped off. I swore, though, sixteen years ago, that I'd let 'em grow until the Democrats won. I was in hopes of seeing Bill Bryan elected. Anyway, with Bill Bryan as his secretary of state, Wilson can't do very far wrong, can he?"

Sealing Notes.

Last evening Mr. J. S. Munn received the accompanying wireless message:—

From Stephano. "Stephano, Florizel, Nascope, Eagle and Newfoundland working in hoods and harps, getting a few hundred each."

From Florizel. "Took 700 hoods to-day. Have 20,000 stowed down; weather poor."

"This morning Messrs. Job Bros. had the following message from Capt. G. Barbour, of the S. S. Nascope:—

"Have 27,000 stowed; still getting a few; ice all broken up; water rough; seals scattered; Sagona 19,000; position 120 miles east by south of Bacallieu."

If the Sagona has the number reported on board her arrival will soon be expected as a few more thousand seals would fill her.

BACKACHE A WARNING ALL SHOULD HEED

It is One of the First Signs of Kidney Troubles, if Neglected, Serious Diseases Follow.

No one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly and keep the blood pure. When they become clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you.

Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders; have attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired, and feel all worn-out; puffy swellings show under the eyes or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for the prompt cure of all such troubles than this new, scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days in often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

TWO FIRE ALARMS.—At 12 noon, to-day an alarm from Box 334 brought the Western and Central firemen to Patrick Street. At 12:40 p.m. another alarm from Box 314 sounded and the same men went to Barten's Hill. Chimneys were on fire in both cases and were quenched quickly and without damage.

"Little chicks are soon roasted"

Every cocoa manufacturer must remember this homely proverb or he'll scorch his reputation as well as his flavor.

Cocoa beans vary in size. If roasted together, the small beans would burn by the time the large ones were brought to the right flavor. To insure a perfect, uniform roast, the small and imperfect beans are removed.

Variations in weather, fertilizers, pickers employed and a hundred and one other things, all influence the quality of the cocoa beans. We therefore test each shipment of beans for flavor.

Only strict standards in buying, blending and roasting can insure the unmatched flavor that Mr. Lowney insists on.

You invariably find in Lowney's a full, exquisite richness to be had in no other cocoa.

Sold by grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.

Headaches, Dizzy Spells and Weakness Overcome by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Gallop.

At about the age that most girls are working hardest at school studying for examinations there are important physiological changes taking place which are an additional strain on the nervous system.

Mrs. J. A. Gallop, 135 Victoria street, St. John, N.B., whose husband is a carpenter, states:—"We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our family for nervousness, headaches, dizziness and nervous dyspepsia, and have found them satisfactory in every particular. My daughter Bessie was going to school, and became quite run down in health. By the time she had used three boxes of this remedy her nerves were steady, her general health was excellent and she was entirely free from headaches and dizzy spells. She is more than pleased with the results of this treatment."

"More recently we used the Nerve Food for my granddaughter, who was out of school for nearly a year from nervous trouble, and noticed improvement in her condition at once."

The great Bulgarian Army operating in front of the Turkish line of defence at Tchatalja, have received orders to take the offensive simultaneously with advances against Adrianople, and by combined efforts of Serbian and Bulgarian besieging forces during three days, beginning Sunday, constant assaults on Turkish works in various points of Tchatalja lines were carried out. The Turkish defenders operated against the advance of the Bulgarians with five divisions of infantry brigades and cavalry, supported by Ottoman warships, at each end of the line. The result of the fighting was the steady advance by the Bulgarian troops, who encountered superior forces. The three battalions of infantry, who formed the Turkish outposts, fought like lions, and succeeded in inflicting heavy losses on the Bulgarians.

HOUSE of ASSEMBLY

A Long Sifting--Opposition Continue Their Searching Enquiry Into and Criticism of Government's Actions.

Several petitions were presented at the sitting yesterday which did not terminate until last night. These included one from the Col. Secretary and Mr. Downey for various utilities for their districts, and from Mr. Earle from Fogo District for repairs to roads and bridges, and from Carmaville for an increase in the salary of the ferryman who was the most poorly paid in the service.

The House went into Committee on Resolutions re the guaranteeing of interest upon the Capital Stock of Companies operating Marine Docks.

The Premier in introducing the Resolutions, explained them at length, showing that they empowered the Government to give a guarantee for 15 years on the paid up capital of $50,000 to any company which will contract and operate marine docks in the Colony. He referred to the dock in operation at Harbour Grace which had not made a demand to date for any portion of that guaranteed interest. That had relation to a special company in a special place, but the Resolutions introduced this evening had a more general character and applied to docks operated anywhere in the country. He dwelt on the need that existed for these docks, especially around Fogo, Grand Bank, Burgeo, Burin and such places; the number of vessels from the S. W. Coast and other places availing of the two docks at St. Pierre for repairs, and the sums which could be conserved to the country in pilotage, harbour light dues, duties, dockage fees, labour, etc., if we had docks of our own, and felt certain that this legislation would be a stimulus to the building of such in this country.

Mr. Downey supported the Resolutions in a short speech.

Mr. Kent thought the principle of the Resolutions was a good one and agreed with the Premier in the opinion he entertained of their labour giving and other beneficial features, though they would have a better opportunity to discuss their merits when the matter came up in committee. He had not read the Resolutions but presumed the guarantee of 5 per cent upon the capital stock was one which was limited in the amount upon which the guarantee was paid, $50,000. He could not then say whether the guarantee which related to this or the guarantee which would attach for inspection in cases where the Company incorporated for this purpose and receiving the certificate of the Col. Secretary got the benefit from this Act. Its business prospects might be such that any future developments of it would warrant the Colony in making up the difference between the debts and credits of the Company during any one year, or that a guarantee on a dividend alone would be only payable when the Company made a profit. A guarantee of 5 per cent on a limited amount of capital would attach if there were prospects of the socket and equipment and as to whether the work was carried on to the satisfaction of the people of the Colony. It was small satisfaction to know that that road bed was in fair condition. The information required was as to whether the whole system was working satisfactorily and if not, why? Last fall there was quite a lot of inconvenience and probably loss entailed to the traders and public. The report as to the cause of that should have been taken. Last winter the service was tied up; could the cause have been foreseen and guarded against? That was the information required. If it could have been guarded against and such had not been done the proper steps should have been taken to see that future contingencies of the kind should not occur, and if like weather conditions happened the company should be in a position to see that such conditions should not prevent the service going on. He was well aware that in a country like ours conditions such as snow and storms such as no reasonable or ordinary precautions could prevent occurred, but he held that it was only fair to the Contractor and to the public that they should receive information as to the means to be taken under such circumstances to keep the service working if possible. He keenly criticized the item of $5,000 for "sundry contingencies" in the Supplemental Supply. It would seem that the original vote of $15,000 in the General Contingencies for 1913 had been spent. He showed that the proceeding was not in accordance with the provisions of the Audit Act. The special warrant for the securing of monies for contingencies was only intended to apply to the occurrence of Special Emergencies, not to give the Government or every department of it an increase in their Legislative Grants and to allow them to use it for every general purpose. He objected that Section 33 of the Audit Act governing such a procedure was put in this instance to an improper use. Mr. Kent also referred to certain information asked for which had not yet been tabled, such as for instance an item of $12,000 in the Supplemental Supply, for the dredge, and the hoped supply would not be passed before the reception of the information.

The Hon. Minister of Finance and Customs replied at length in defence of the Government, and his own particular department, and tried to justify the expenditures and acts alluded to by Mr. Kent. To pay expenses until the 30th of June next, if they were guaranteed that their wages would be forthcoming at the termination of the voyage, and this is a fact well known to some of the People's Party members of both branches of the Legislature. We believe that no greater ill could befall this Newfoundland of ours than the gradual withdrawal of her sons from the pursuit of the fisheries, and that the root cause of present conditions should form the subject for a thorough investigation by the Marine and Fisheries Department. Our country is suffering at this moment from a hap-hazard prosperity and calls for prudent and wise counsel on the part of our public men. Petty personal matters must be laid aside, personal views and even personal advantage must be abandoned and every honest man must bring his experience and talent to bear on the questions which will call for a solution within the next few months.—Com.

Mr. Clapp here strongly commented upon the gross injustice practiced upon many keepers of post offices and postmasters and mistresses in his district, and in other places also who used rooms in their own houses for the distribution and delivery of mails, and never received a cent payment for rent of such apartments. He knew several places where these unfortunate people even supplied fuel in such rooms, and received the paltry dose of $10 to $15 per year. In large places post offices were erected at the expense of the Government and expenses paid, and he knew people who had been waiting for years to be reimbursed for such expenditure, but who did not even receive the courtesy of a reply to their petitions. The people should be paid for the use of their rooms for the public service, and Mr. Clapp denounced the injustice done them in the strongest possible language.

The Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. Watson), promised to have every particular case investigated, and the Premier said such people had spoken to him of this hardship while in St. Barbe District last year. Mr. Clapp held that it was the duty of the Government to act immediately and rectify his injustice, and the Premier replied that when postmasters were appointed in small places at a yearly stipend, their position carried the use of their rooms.

Mr. Kent thought these people had a real grievance and one of long standing, becoming more and more accentuated. He contended that with the present large revenues the matter could be dealt with and the stipends of such officers should be levelled up, once for all to a decent figure. The aggregate amount required would be very small. In fact it would be but a very small part of the Government's yearly surplus. He again asked for the public accounts, and thought the Committee should be supplied with them, even if extra help had to be employed in the public offices.

The Minister of Finance and Customs held that if they were required to give the information asked for, the General Election would be on before the Committee could rise.

Mr. Kent said that the information he sought as well as his colleagues, was matter that was before the Government's notice since the session before, and he thought when Minister came to look for supplemental supply, he would have his accounts prepared before the House met, and would then lay them on the table, asking so much to cover the expenses contained in them. He thought they should have in the House a standing committee on public accounts, to which the public accounts of every department would be referred during the session, with full authority to go into every account. That was the style in England, where the committee had the power to have any official up before it when particular information was required. Votes were passed here with no enquiry into them, that was the practice since Responsible Government was ushered in, but it was wrong, and the day was coming when the public would demand the creation of some such committee composed of members of both sides of the House. (To be continued.)

A Serious Condition.

LABRADOR FISHERY BEING DESERTED BY OUR YOUNG MEN.

In the House of Assembly, Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Kent, acting Leader of the Opposition, drew the attention of the House to a very serious side of our present economic conditions, namely, the desertion of the fisheries and especially the Labrador fisheries, by our young men. The report of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries for the year 1912, discloses the astounding fact that the number of men prosecuting the Labrador fishery last year was less by seven thousand (7,000) than it was five years ago; while the number of schooners engaged in the same fishery was 590 less than in the year 1907. Irrespective of the catch altogether, Mr. Kent opens up a most serious economic problem in connection with the prosecution of the Colony's staple industry, which demands our best attention and calls for a thorough examination. The Prime Minister, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and of Customs, of course entertain very different views. There are various causes to be sure both direct and indirect, bearing on this chief question; but to our mind the chief cause lies in the system which has been followed from time immemorial by the supplying merchants. Forming a huge combine that squeezes into poverty hundreds of small planters and thousands of fishermen, by fixing the price of fish and compelling the fisherman to part with his catch in a market completely under the sole control of the mercantile body, while at the same time exorbitant prices are charged by the outfitter to provide himself against actual loss, is only another name for industrial slavery. Can the Morris Government seriously contend that during its term of office it has performed any act resulting in a betterment of conditions under which the Labrador fisherman carries on his business? On the other hand, there are some men engaged in the supply business, who strive to do the right thing by the fisherman. But in this class we cannot include the merchant who refuses to ship a man in the spring of the year, or having shipped him refuses to pay the wages agreed upon. In other words every man is a shareman to be paid according to the voyage. There would be hundreds of young men going to the Labrador, if they were guaranteed that their wages would be forthcoming at the termination of the voyage, and this is a fact well known to some of the People's Party members of both branches of the Legislature. We believe that no greater ill could befall this Newfoundland of ours than the gradual withdrawal of her sons from the pursuit of the fisheries, and that the root cause of present conditions should form the subject for a thorough investigation by the Marine and Fisheries Department. Our country is suffering at this moment from a hap-hazard prosperity and calls for prudent and wise counsel on the part of our public men. Petty personal matters must be laid aside, personal views and even personal advantage must be abandoned and every honest man must bring his experience and talent to bear on the questions which will call for a solution within the next few months.—Com.

How the Old Viking Won His Wages.

(By H. F. Shortall.)

When the scaling time comes round, it does take up old stories that we have forgotten long since, and now is the time to tell them when we are all thinking of the sealers.

It is different now going round in these big iron-clads with a comfortable little iron bedstead for every man instead of the bunks in the forecastle of the old brig. It was then often four men packed together, two at each end of the bunk, with the feet of your neighbor under your chin. No person could call the bunk his own, as every comfortable spot was appropriated as soon as vacated. When the vessel was loaded there was no sleeping under deck, and you had to get a nap where you could. But my weeks to-day is about the months and months spent during the winter fitting out these old brigs in the outports.

There is not a finer class of men to be found anywhere than in Brigus. It is here that Peary and other Arctic explorers go time and again to get their captains and crews to help in their explorations.

I have related many stories about Capt. Asarrah Munden, at the seal fishery, and how he gained his name in the sealing fleet, and made the greatest record to that date in the S.S. Commodore.

Here is one of his jokes on the other captains, and when we remember the hundreds of sealing masters then fitting out for the ice, we can imagine what a hearty guffaw would greet the five captains that Captain Munden had this joke on.

They were all fitting out for the seal fishery, and Capt. Munden wanted to try a new set of sails that he had for the old brig, Atlanta. He knew the reluctance that all crews have to bending and fitting new sails, but he always had a happy knack of getting his own way, and taking it out of his other old chums. One afternoon, in a snug little parlor up-town, five other sealing captains were with him spinning yarns of what they could do. He took up a wager of £5 to £1, with each of these other captains that he would get his men to do what none of the others there could do with their men. Each captain accepted the wager and put up £1 each. Our old friend sent word to his crew that he wanted them all for a special work, and would give them a big spree afterwards. He let them privately into a secret that he had a bet on, that it was possible for his men to put the canvas on the Atlanta, and take it off again three times during one day. The men all thought it was a pretty risky thing to be betting on, but they were determined to see their captain through, as all the other captains in Brigus were betting against him.

The day was arranged, and being in the month of February it turned out a stiff breeze of cold westerly wind, almost too heavy to put up a sail, but nothing daunted they set to work, and in spite of wind and weather they put the canvas on and took it off three times during the day. You may be sure Captain Munden was there supervising operations, and helping along the work, and he took special care to notice exactly how every sail fitted, so that he had no more reason to worry himself on that score, as soon as it was over, he sent down the value of the £5 of rum, and made them all happy.

During the evening Captain Munden met his five old friends again, and informed them his part of the wager was done, and if they could get their crews to set their sails twice, not alone three times, during one day while they were lying at the wharf, he was ready to hand over £5 to each one of them. They all admitted that the bet had been won, as it is the next thing to impossible to get the crews to do any such thing, more especially what they consider unnecessary work. How the Brigus people laughed when they heard the story, and how they laugh still when they think of it.

On FRIDAY and SATURDAY we celebrate our first Anniversary Sale. Just one year ago witnessed our Initial Sale, and the continued success and ever increasing popularity of these Weekly Sales is the result of honest methods and permanent persistent progress, combined with a determination to give every man, woman and child the best value and best quality for the very lowest possible price.

In terminating our first year we sincerely thank our many patrons for their hearty co-operation, and on entering on our second year ask for a continued share of that much appreciated co-operation.
