Such flavor, such aroma, such freshness! Why, just to write about it or talk about it puts that "lead me to it" spirit right into your system.

You join the P. A. band and find out for yourself why Prince Albert is sold to more men in the U.S. than any other pipe and cigarette tobacco!

Prince Albert is the largest seller in the United States. It is now being imported into Newfoundland and is sold by all of the leading dealers in one-eighth-lb. tidy red tins.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N.C., U.S.A.

"Here?" she echoed, invitingly, in the voice that could be so sweet and soft when she chose.

"Here it is different. One is no longer a man, but a servant—an inferior—"

"Have you no masters and servants in Australia?" she asked.

"Yes; but the difference is not so great, the gulf not so wide and deep. We are both men, master and servant, of the same flesh and blood; and the man may become master; but here—Ah, well! surely God used different clay for the gentleman and the man—"

"That is—nonsense," she said. "It is wicked!"

"I daresay," he said, with a grim smile; "but it's true. I have decided to go to-morrow."

"Have you told Burchett?" her voice was very low, her eyes downcast—"that you were going, and your reason?"

"No," he said. "There is time enough. He will be no worse off than before I came."

"And will you not tell me?" she asked in liquid tones. "I may be able to—remove the obstacle to your remaining, to make it possible, pleasant for you to stay?"

Her eyes, violet of violet, were raised to his face; her heart was beating fast; she could see his broad chest heaving under the strain; but she had no mercy: was she not torturing herself?

"No," he replied, almost roughly. "You have no right to ask—"

"I know," she admitted meekly, so that he felt like a brute; "but you have been very kind to me, and we women are not all ungrateful, proud, and contemptuous, as we may be thought. Fate has thrown us together—The shame dyed her face, then left it pale; but still, "Tell me!" she murmured.

Ralph was "but human."

"You force me," he said, hoarsely.

"Why don't you let me go without—without any more words? I want to go with the memory of your goodwill, your kindness, not with your scorn and contempt! But you won't let me. You won't be content till you've wrung my secret out of me. Take it then!"

He leant against the side of the harbour, his arms folded, his eyes fixed on her sternly, and yet with a reluctant tenderness which thrilled while it frightened her.

"I am going because I cannot remain here any longer—near you! I think of you all day, and dream of you all night! Yes, I, the gamekeeper; you, the great lady of the Court! I'm mad, of course! Why don't you laugh? I'm waiting for it! You want to hear the whole of it! You shall; then you can enjoy your laugh to the full. I'm so mad that I love you. That first day, on the moor, your face, your voice, went to my heart; and they've stopped there. I can't throw them out. And since the day I had you in my arms my madness has grown until it has taken possession of me. And you have been kind to me—God knows whether you were playing with me, whether you were only amusing yourself—"

The crimson dyed her cheek, then left it paler than before, and her lips quivered. Every word he spoke, every intonation of the deep, musical voice awakened an echo in her heart.

"Perhaps so. It's likely. Even when you were telling me that you were once poor like myself, you may have been leading me on—No, no, I won't say that! I can't believe it! You didn't know, didn't guess—how should you? I, the gamekeeper, the servant, the serf—for it's little better here in this cursed England—to fall in love with my master's niece! It's too fantastic to be dreamed of! And yet it's true! All the heart's gone out of me—and you have got it! I'd die to win a word from you! I'd go to the stake for just a smile from those beautiful lips—Oh, forgive me! I'm sorry, sorry! Why did you force me to speak?"

His face was white and wan, his chest heaved.

"You won't forgive me. I know that. And that will haunt me! If I could have got away without speaking, without offending you, I should have had nothing but pleasant memories of you, of your kindness to me, of your graciousness—but now!"

The Earl's Son;

TWO HEARTS UNITED

CHAPTER XVI.

"I hope you have enjoyed your drive, Veronica?" he said, in an impassive voice.

"Oh, yes," she replied, "and I am much better. I can walk quite well, or very nearly so."

He nodded but made no response, and she went up to her room. Ever since she had left Ralph she was haunted by the idea that his resolve to leave the Court had been born the moment he had seen her that afternoon, and she could not be rid of the idea.

It hovered about her for the rest of the day, made an accompaniment to the song she sang to the two men in the drawing room after dinner, and nestled at her heart as she fell asleep after hours of musing.

The next morning seemed to drag its weary length like a wounded snake. Every now and then she was tormented by the idea that Ralph would go, notwithstanding his promise, before she could see him again. She dared not ask herself the meaning of her strange interest in him, her desire to be near him, to hear his voice.

She felt as if she were drifting in a kind of stupor to the edge of the cataract, without the power of staying her fatal course, without the capacity of summoning her pride, her common sense, to her aid to save her.

As she went through the hall to the pony jingle she hesitated for a moment, trying to turn back. If she could find some excuse!

"The earl—will you tell his lordship that I am going out, and ask him if he wants me?" she said to the butler, desperately.

"His lordship went out some time ago, miss," was the reply, and Veronica, with a mixture of relief and dread, got into the jingle and drove off.

She made a longer round than that of yesterday, feeling all the time that she was being drawn to the harbour, and at last, with a reckless movement of her head, she turned the pony in the direction to which her heart pointed.

Ralph was there leaning against one of the posts of the arbour, his gun beside him. The dogs were with Burchett as they had been yesterday, and the deep, intense stillness of the afternoon reigned unbroken save by the twitter of a bird or the murmur of a bee in the convolvulus that climbed over the arbour.

She saw that he looked haggard and wan as if from sleeplessness, and her heart gave a little leap of sympathy. Sir John Suckling's lines flashed through her mind:

"Why so pale and wan, fond lover? Prithee, why so pale?"

Will, when looking well, can't move her.

Looking ill prevail? Prithee, why so pale?"

She was wise enough to know that there is danger when the sight of a man suggests poetry, and a faint colour rose to her face that had been a moment before, and was a moment afterwards, as pale as his own.

He came to the side of the jingle. "I've brought—"

"I will get out, I think," she said, calmly. "One gets so cramped in these little carts. Thanks! You have brought the handkerchief?"

He took it, not from his breast-pocket, but from the game-bag.

"Thanks!" she said again. She took it, glanced at it, and, with seeming carelessness, thrust it into the bosom of her blouse. She saw, with a woman's quickness, though her eyes were hidden behind her lashes, that his eyes had noticed the action and that his face had crimsoned for a second.

"I have been thinking since yesterday that it is a great pity that you should leave the Court," she said, leaning back in the seat and looking steadily at the ground. "You say that you like the place, the country—"

He nodded. His eyes were fixed on hers with the lover's abstraction in his, the look which no woman fails to understand.

"And I think you are—are so suited to the work. You seem to understand so many things. The weir, for instance, and the felling of the trees for the good of the birds, wasn't it? You remember?"

He inclined his head again.

"Yes; I remember."

"And you have made many friends here—the Masons—"

"Yes," he assented. "But—"

"But—what?" she asked, persistently, her eyes raised and transfixed his. "There is something, someone, you do not like. There must be—something."

He looked from side to side like a bird endeavouring to avoid the Fowler's net.

"There is something," he said, rather huskily. "It's—it's of no consequence—I mean you wouldn't understand."

"Oh, perhaps not," she assented, easily, her heart beating with a mixture of grief and shame, grief at his going, shame that she should be bent on keeping him. "And have you decided where to go yet?"

"Yes; I've been thinking it out. I'll go back to Australia, to the ranching or the gold-digging; it does not matter. There one feels as if one were a man, one man's as good as another; here—"

Sprinkling the Streets.

Some of the Council men, in charge of foreman J. Donnelly, sprinkled all Duckworth Street this forenoon and succeeded in keeping the dust down by the new system that they have adopted. A large hose was used with an unusually high water pressure. Foreman Donnelly's new device worked like a charm and was talked favorably by citizens. However we would suggest the using of a smaller hose, as at present it is very difficult and strenuous for two men to control such a large one owing to the strong water pressure.

St. Mary's Garden Party

The Garden Party in aid of St. Mary's Church, South Side, was held yesterday afternoon at the Rectory grounds. The afternoon was an ideal one, and the attendance was large; the field was prettily decorated, and the different stall holders were kept busy catering to the wants of their many patrons.

The C. L. B. Band was in attendance during the afternoon and rendered excellent music for the occasion. The affair terminated with a dance in St. Mary's Hall, which was attended by over 100 couples, and thoroughly enjoyed.

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle sails from Placentia this afternoon on the Mercedes route. The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.15 a.m. to-day. The Clyde left Botwood at 4 p.m. yesterday, outward. The Dundee left Port Blandford at 6.45 a.m. to-day. The Ethie left Clarendville at 7.35 a.m. to-day. The Glencoe left Belleoram at 6.20 p.m. yesterday, going west. The Home left Lewisporte early this morning. The Invermore is still north of Twillingate. The Kyle arrived in port from the Labrador route at 1 p.m. to-day. The Lintrose leaves North Sydney to-night. The Meigle left Daniel's Harbor at 4.35 p.m. yesterday, going north.

Sagona Sails.

The S.S. Sagona Capt. Kennedy, sails at 3 p.m. from this port for Twillingate when she will take up her new route, proceeding as far north as Cook's Harbor and returning via the same ports to Twillingate, and thence to St. John's. The service is not a regular one, and no definite schedule has been arranged, but it is expected that, with favorable weather, the trip will occupy about 12 days. The following have booked passage by the ship:—A. F. Reed, Dr. J. D. Adams, Rev. N. E. Vivian, Dr. S. P. Mallett, E. N. Perrin and M. McCutcheon.

Here and There.

Mrs. Sarah Pope, who is the largest tenant house owner on George St., wishes to state that the unfortunate Mrs. Curran and her three children did not live in one of her houses but was a resident of Prince's Street, and not George Street as stated in the evening papers.

The Hon. Secretary of the Church of England Orphanage desires to gratefully acknowledge receipt of cakes, sugar, etc., from the Committee of St. Andrew's Sunday School treat, July 10.11

BRUCE PASSENGERS—The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.15 a.m. to-day with the following passengers in saloon: Mrs. M. Withers, C. Withers, Robert Withers, Dora Withers, Mrs. A. McLeod, Gordon C. McLeod, Miss B. G. Dalton, O. A. Telfer, Mrs. W. Williams, Miss M. Bel-Jews, T. G. and Mrs. Carnell, Mrs. M. Nicholl, Miss J. Wonnall, Mrs. Ken. S. Mitchell, F. Winsor, B. F. Kendall and Geo. Russell.

Fishery Reports.

The latest fishery reports at the places mentioned hereunder are:—
(Belleoram to Rencontre East).
The total catch is 8,750 quintals with 150 for last week. Two traps are in the water. There is a decided improvement with traps and codnets, and plenty of caplin for bait. The lobster fishery shows no improvement. The traps took from 2 to 15 quintals daily during last week but there is not much doing with hook and line.
(Cape Race to St. Shott's).
One banker has arrived and fifteen schooners from the grounds. Prospects are very good; the best for some years. There is plenty of caplin but lobsters are scarce and only one factory is working. The men report very good prospects with cod, and think the coming week with favorable weather good hauls will be taken. Two boats, 69 dories and skiffs and 30 traps are fishing. The total catch is 350 quintals.
(Rose Blanche to Petites).
Prospects are fairly good and caplin plentiful. Six schooners have returned. The lobster fishery is very poor. Several boats, skiffs with one dory each, returned from Cape Breton ports and had about 35 quintals for each dory for three weeks' fishing. The total catch is 1,270 and for last week, 340. Sixteen dories and skiffs are fishing.
(Blanc Sablon to Forteau).
Caplin is plentiful and prospects are very good. The total catch is 400 quintals. Twenty-two traps are out and thirty dories and skiffs fishing. The fish struck here on Monday, June 29th. It is yet too early to give any definite opinion of the voyage. The ice is all gone.
(Lance au Loup to Red Bay).
Prospects are very bright and there is plenty of caplin. Two traps set on the 3rd got a boat load of fish each and the few trawls set are getting from 30 to 70 large fish every haul. Fine weather is favoring operations.

Undesirable Characters
Last night a ne'er-to-do-well who holds an unenviable record in police circles, fell over Goodridge's wharf, while under the influence and would have been drowned but for the timely assistance of the watchman who rescued him at great personal risk.
The ungrateful creature, when brought to the police station where he received dry clothing, became profane and with a volume of oaths denounced the person who effected his rescue for in death.
While he was thus pouring out his vile language, his pal, a disreputable character, who was recently discharged from the Penitentiary after doing sentence for a serious offence, was also brought in. He, too, gave utterance to profanity that has no parallel in the history of the police station. When arrested he had a large quantity of liquor on his person, and considering that he is a cripple and apparently has no visible means of existence the persons who supplied him with the liquor are deserving of censure.
Both of them appeared in court to-day, the former for the fifth time within the past month. He was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, and the latter, who only a month ago finished a long term of imprisonment for atrocious assault, will get his deserts this afternoon.

Market Endangered.
Appended is a copy of a letter just received by the Board of Trade from Lind and Conto, of Oporto:—"For some considerable time our market has been quite bare of British cure and this has given a tremendous impulse to Norwegian, Iceland and German cures which are now in general consumption all over the country. From a British point of view this is much to be regretted, and we fear it will be difficult to recover the lost ground in the face of the lower tariff accorded to competing cures which all pay at the rate of 24 reis per kilo against 39 reis per kilo on the British article."

Will Warship Give Band Concerts.
Many people are asking if it could be arranged to have the band of H. M. S. Essex while she is here to give a band concert in Bannerman Park. It is to be hoped that this popular request will be acceded to. If it does, and we have no doubt but it will, the public generally will greatly appreciate the courtesy extended.

Special to Evening Telegram. BELFAST, To-day.

Full military honours were accorded by the Ulster Volunteers to-day to Carson, when he arrived, accompanied by Marquis of Londonderry, Viscount Castlereagh, Walter H. Long, and Ronald MacNeill and other Unionist members of Parliament to attend the meeting of the Ulster Provisional Government. The guard of honour was composed of 400 armed volunteers. Fifty armed motor cycle despatch riders escorted the leader to the residence of Capt. James Craik, military leader, where they will remain for a week. The intentions of the Provisional Government have not been disclosed but one object of the meeting is the arrangement for the impressive celebration of the twelfth of July, in order to show the Government and people of Great Britain that nothing but absolute exclusion of Ulster from the operations of the Irish Home Rule Bill will satisfy us. As one prominent Ulsterman put it the Government is uneasy as to the outcome of the celebration. Major General Sir Cecil Macready in command of the militia in Belfast district, has been in conference with Asquith on the situation. Police have been instructed to act with great care so as to give no excuse for an outbreak.

The Eastern Trust Company has installed safety deposit boxes in its vault in the Pitts Building, Water Street. These boxes can be hired at a moderate rent by the year.

Persons making a will in which they appoint the Eastern Trust Company executor may deposit their wills in the vault of the Company without charge.

An impression has gone abroad that the Company charges a fee upon the making of a will which the Company is appointed executor. This is an error. The Company charges no fee until after the death of a testator and the Company has undertaken the execution of the trusts under the will. It then charges the same fee as is allowed to ordinary executors.

That Queer Thing Called "Pride."

By RUTH CAMERON.

Once more I must say it.—
What a queer thing pride is! In a newspaper the other day was a letter from one of the readers, who said she had tried to save money on her husband's salary of $48 a week until she found that because they lived so simply none of the people in the nice neighbourhood into which they had moved were calling upon them. So she and her husband decided that it wasn't worth while, and they gave up trying to save and bought a handsome automobile. People at once began calling. Now she has plenty of nice friends (save the mark!), including "I am proud to say some of the best people in the neighbourhood," and she and her husband are both satisfied. "I often let the butcher's bill go unpaid," she concludes, "in order to be able to entertain my friends properly, and my husband says I do quite right."

Think what that means. This woman is too proud to associate with people on her own financial plane, but she is not too proud to leave her butcher's bill unpaid.

In passing, I cannot help wondering how she can relish friendship which is so obviously bought and paid for. There was a time in my life when I was obliged to be distinctly shabby. This time passed. Needless to say, the manners of several of my acquaintances became much more cordial. Yet after an exhibition of this new cordiality a wave of sadness and regret that human nature must be so small would often pass over me.

To return to the main road, I know a school teacher with a small salary who has several wealthy college friends who give her expensive gifts at Christmas. She is too proud to let them give according to their means and return the gift according to hers, so she tries to give them equally expensive gifts. Of course she cannot put a very large sum aside for Christmas presents, but she is a good manager. She buys the expensive gifts for her wealthy friends, and then with what is left she buys very simple gifts for her family. Despite the fact that they have made many sacrifices for her education and can afford pathetically few luxuries, she is not too proud to give them simple, not to say mean gifts.

Again, I know another girl who was too proud to live in a third-story room when that was all her salary as a stenographer would allow. But she was not too proud to pay the deficit which she found at the end of the season by borrowing from her father, who was struggling to lay up a little for his and her mother's old age.

There are so many things to be proud of, as, for instance, to have lived within one's income, to owe no man, to know that one has been as near white in all things as one knows how to be. Why, then, must people pass these things by for others that are not fit subjects for pride at all?

Porfirio Diaz.

By GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Sivash."
Porfirio Diaz is a very old gentleman who is loafing around Paris in the lap of luxury and reading the war news from Mexico with a grim smile.

Diaz isn't a Parisian. He is a Mexican and could trace his ancestry back to the Aztecs if his ancestors had kept any records. He was born in the southern part of the country 84 years ago, and after he had learned all his father, an innkeeper, knew, he went to a Catholic school. When he was sixteen, the United States army invaded Mexico and Diaz ran away to war. He walked to Mexico City, but the United States army got there before him and he was compelled to show his patriotism in some other way.

Diaz accordingly cast a vote against General Santa Ana a few years later. Voting against the Mexican president is a capital offence, but Diaz declined to be shot. He gathered some peasants together and started a revolution. For many years, he revolted vigorously against every president or emperor who showed his head, including Maximilian.

In 1876, Diaz, who had retired, decided to go into the revolution business again and chased Lerdo out of the country. As Diaz was in command of a victorious army, it was thought best to elect him president. He retired in four years, but in 1880, was re-elected. Five times after that he was re-elected president. Occasionally other statesmen became willing to take the job, but they generally escaped with a light sentence and there was little disorder. The election judges from long practice became so expert at counting that they were able weeks before an election to announce the majorities and to indict those who were likely to vote for some other man.

Mexico had had fifty presidents and dictators in less than sixty years, but none of them were of Diaz' size. He called himself president, but in reality he was warden of the country. He made Mexico so peaceable that those who were dissatisfied came to the United States instead of revolting and so prosperous that the great Mexican capitalists were each able to support many poor houses from their income. Under his rule Mexico built great railroads, buildings and factories and the peon was enabled to bear four times as great taxes as before.

owing to the fact that he wasn't allowed to waste any time learning to read.

Two years ago, Modero revolted and chased Diaz out of Mexico. This has been very hard on Mexico, which has come back to the old brand of dictators, but if she makes the United States mad enough in her convulsions, this country will step in and take Diaz' place. Then the country school and the baseball game will bloom in the land and Mexico will wake up at last.

Saints Victors.

Score: 1 to 0.
The Saints defeated St. Bon's in last night's football match by a score of 1 goal to nil after an exhibition that proved rather tiresome to the spectators.
The game was marked by some good individual play, but both teams showed a great lack of combination.
The Saints having won the toss chose to defend the western goal, and after about fifteen minutes of play, lines sent in a shot, that with the assistance of Cleary, of St. Bon's, found its way into the net.
Play became a little more lively towards the finish of the first half but when the teams crossed the line the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of the Saints.

SECOND HALF.

The second half found St. Bon's aggressive during the first ten minutes of play, the ball being kept within the Saints danger zone. No less than three good opportunities to score were lost by wide shooting.
Enthusiasm gradually waned and only towards the finish was there any real football shown, but no further scoring resulted.
When the final whistle sounded the Saints were acclaimed victors by 1 to 0.
Mr. C. Quick acted as referee and the line-up was as follows:—

SAINTS—Ross, goal; Barnes, Dick, backs; Foster, Burns, Innis, halves; Robertson, Kerr, Irvine, Ewing, Evans, forwards.

ST. BON'S—Lushington, goal; Power, Cleary, backs; Crawford, McGrath, Ryan, halves; Gear, R. Callahan, Jackman, Smith, W. Callahan, forwards.

Preparing for Review.

The C. L. B. under command of Lt.-Col. Rendell, the C. C. C. under Lt.-Col. Conroy, and Highlanders under Lt.-Col. Paterson, paraded to the Prince's Rink last night, and went through the march past under the command of Lt.-Col. Rendell. The letter, who will be the commanding officer at the review on Wednesday next, announced the arrangements for the day, after which the battalions returned to their headquarters. The C. C. C. and Highlanders bands were present, the C. L. B. being in attendance at St. Mary's Church Garden Party.

GOSE FISHING—Mr. W. J. Carow, of the Prime Minister's Office, F. C. Brien, of the Auditor General's Office, and W. White went out by last evening's train to spend a week fishing at Come By Chance.

Last Week's Corns

Made these shoes impossible. But Inez told me of Blue-jay.

I applied it and the pain stopped in a moment. In 48 hours all three corns came out. No soreness whatever. I never thought of the corns from the moment I used Blue-jay. And now they are gone, to never return, unless tight shoes cause new ones.

This is the story of millions of corns which have been ended by Blue-jay. It will be the story of your corns when you use this one right method. Don't pare them. Paring never ends a corn. Use the modern method. A famous chemist, by inventing Blue-jay, has made corn troubles needless. Blue-jay takes corns out, without any trouble, without any annoyance. Apply it in a jiffy, then forget the corn.

It is taking out about one million corns a month. It is the method now used and endorsed by physicians. You owe to yourself a test.

Mystery Cleared Up.

No. Foul Play—Suspect Released—Body Re-Interred.
The mystery surrounding the death of Thomas Fitzgerald, at Bell Island, has been solved at last.
Exactly a week ago to-day the unfortunate young man was found near Whitney Bridge in a dying condition. On Wednesday, two days ago, the remains were exhumed and a post mortem held. The examination was conducted by Doctors H. Giovanetti and C. A. Ames at the request of the authorities. There were also present Inspector General Sullivan, Magistrate Power, Mr. W. J. Higgins, M. H. A. Sergt. Cox, Const. Morrissey and Messrs. Costigan and Murphy. The finding of the physicians was that all organs were normal except that the spleen was ruptured. It was proven beyond all shadow of a doubt that there was no foul play committed and that the rupture referred to was in all probability the result of a heavy fall. A number of witnesses were also examined after which the young man James Ryan, who was arrested as a suspect, was released from custody and the body of the deceased was re-interred. The tragic affair caused no small amount of unpleasantness, particularly to the one under suspicion. It will be gratifying news to all concerned that the mystery has been cleared up and that the deceased young man was not the victim of foul play.

Wedding at Vancouver

St. Michael's Church, Vancouver, B.C., was the scene of a pretty wedding at high noon, June 17th, when Ella A. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Forey became the bride of Clarence A. Hubly. The bride entered the Church on the arm of her father to the strains of the bridal chorus "Lohengrin." The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. H. Wilson, Rector of St. Michael's Church. The bride was gowned in white satin, draped with shadow lace and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister Miss Lily Forey, and the groom attended by Mr. Robert Hobbs. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the residence of the bride's parents, where a wedding repast was served. The bride and groom were the recipients of a large number of useful and valuable presents, including a cheque to the bride from her parents. The happy couple left on the afternoon train on a wedding trip, accompanied by the good wishes of a host of friends, and showers of rice and confetti. After their return Mr. and Mrs. Hubly will reside at 134, 14th Ave., City—Com. Vancouver, B.C.

At the City Hall.

The Civic Commission met again last night and discussed at length the street-watering service, and the laying and replacing of water mains, which latter will entail an expenditure of about $30,000.
The Chairman presided, and the other members of the Board present were:—
Messrs. Harris, Ayre, McGrath, Morris, Jackman, Bradshaw, McNamara, Anderson and Withers.
Mr. J. W. Morris, Superintendent of the R. N. Co.'s electrical department, attended to supply information requested by the meeting, as to the street watering service.
The members of the Board considered the service inefficient and held that more water and more frequent trips were necessary.
Supt. Morris failed to see what benefits would accrue from the adoption of the suggestions offered, as the car could not make the high grades when filled with water.
It was also suggested that conditions would be much better if the car were out earlier in the mornings, and after the traffic had stopped at night.
Mr. Morris supplied data as to the terms of the last contract, after which he retired, as the remainder of the business will be done by correspondence.
The question of improving the water supply was then introduced, and a full discussion followed. By reference to the Engineer's report it was shown that a large expenditure was necessary to make the service efficient.
After a lengthy discussion it was decided to apply to the Government for a guarantee of a loan of $30,000 to make the necessary improvements, and a committee was appointed to confer with the Prime Minister.

Annual Re-Union.

The Council of St. Bon's Alumni meets to-night to finalize matters for submission to the annual meeting which takes place on Sunday next.
The President, Sir Edward Morris, will preside. Everything is now in readiness for the annual re-union, which takes place at the College, on Tuesday next.
There will be a larger attendance of output members this year, both lay and clerical, many having decided to take advantage of the special rates that are offered to passengers from points in Placentia and Conception Bay. The Council has assurance that this year's re-union will be the largest and most representative in the history of the Association.

Do You Feel Moody, Irritable, Depressed?

When That Languid, Laggard, Easily-Tired Feeling Comes, Your Liver is Slow.

Tells How to Cure Quickly.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those full feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish, and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and helpful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use, I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvelous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."
It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, men and women, anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid by the Cingarhoxo Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office—the history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and adequately equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Improving the Water Service.

We are glad to find that the City Commission has resolved to continue the improvements to the water service, which the Municipal Council have engaged in, provided the Government would guarantee the loan required. The estimated cost of these improvements is $30,000, not a disproportionate outlay in comparison to the greater security from damage by fire, improved sanitation and household convenience which will follow the work.

Since the incorporation of the City under the Municipal Act of 1902, very considerable improvements have been made in improving the pipe line from Windsor Lake, in the addition of a half way main, in duplicating the service to the city, and in laying down new mains, where the old pipes were corroded and incrustated inside. The experiment of watering sections of streets where they cross by means of a hose from neighboring hydrants will be watched with interest. If this leads to a better laying of dust, it will aid in minimizing loss to property and infection of food and air, as well as going away with considerable personal annoyance and inconvenience, arising from clouds of dust.

Making Progress.

The passing of the Government's Home Rule Amending Bill through the Committee stage in the House of Lords yesterday marks an important step in the effort to come to a settlement. Although the Lords have made a number of amendments to it which will lead to controversy and their rejection in the House of Commons, it should not be forgotten that the bill as it leaves the Committee is an admission of a principle which has hitherto been rejected ruthlessly by the House of Lords. On January 31st, 1913, the Second Reading of the Home Rule Bill was rejected by a vote of 327 to 69.

The Second Reading of the Amending Bill was passed by a vote that was practically unanimous.

The amendments made by the House of Lords to the Government Amending Bill and the Amending Bill itself in the main mark the limits of these differences. These differences are, so far as we can make out from the cable despatches, which are by no means as clear as they might be, as follows:—
The Lords' amendments provide for the exclusion of Ulster as a whole from the operation of the Home Rule Bill.

The Government's Amending Bill provides that the counties of Ulster shall individually decide by ballot which if any shall be excluded. It is within these limits that the fight for a settlement will be made.

The Commons will probably reject the Lords' amendments. The bill will then be sent back to the Lords. A deadlock will ensue. Negotiations and a conference between the two Houses will then likely take place, and some arrangement be arrived at.

The bill even as amended by the Lords accepts Home Rule for Ireland, excluding Ulster. This is the first time the Lords have accepted this position.

Regatta Notes.

Another large number of enthusiasts were at the Lakeside again last night.

E. Brophy's trade crew, stroked by J. Kavanagh, had a spin in the Mary. They are an excellent bunch and, no doubt, will be instrumental in making a hard race.

P. Brown's Amateur also had a run over the course in the same boat.

Three juvenile crews are now practicing.

Four factory crews are practicing and four boats will compete in the Labourers' race.

The 'set' race will be as interesting as ever. Torbay, Outer Cove and Logy Bay will be represented and probably a crew of fishermen from the town.

The Regatta Committee meets tonight.

JULY 10.

Full Moon—7th.

Days Past—190 To Come—174.

JOHN CALVIN born 1509. Destined for the Roman Catholic Church he became a Protestant at 23 and one of the great reformers of his century. "Calvinism" on the whole seems to be losing ground.

CAPT. MARRYAT born 1732. So dear to all lovers of sea stories, he entered the Navy at 14 and was present at some fifty or more naval engagements before he retired in 1830. His stories are doubtless the best tales of sea life in the 18th century ever written.

Big Feature Film at Rossley's.

There is a complete change of pictures at Rossley's to-night, all high class and specially selected. Last night several tourists now in town complimented Mr. Rossley on having the luminous silver screen hung in his theatre and did not expect to find so new and up-to-date an invention in St. John's. Mr. Rossley tried many experiments for them such as dropping the cotton sheet half way across the silver screen. They were also very interested when he showed them his new model machine, the only one of its kind this side the Atlantic.

Since the latest attachment has been added it is a marvel of British workmanship. The pictures to-night are all features and something above the ordinary. There will be the children's Bargain Matinee to-morrow when eight best selected pictures will be shown.

An Attractive Parlour.

The "Elite Tonsorial Parlour," at the head of Prescott Street, opens today under the management of Mr. H. Walsh, a young man of practical experience. Mr. P. Roberts, the proprietor, has left nothing to be desired in the way of fixtures and up-to-date appliances. The chairs are amongst the best in the city, and the cabinet, which was made at Pope's Furniture Factory, is a very fine piece of work and reflects great credit on our local workmanship. The new parlour is bright and well ventilated, and we predict for the management a liberal share of the public patronage.

Government Sheep Arrived at Last.

The s.s. Soestdijk, of the Furness Withy Line, reached port this morning from Rotterdam, bringing one hundred Siberia bred sheep which were a long time overdue. These animals have been the subject of much comment for some time back in the press and otherwise. It is said that the sheep are to be distributed amongst the Agricultural societies over the Island. The Soestdijk was 9 days coming from Rotterdam. She is bound to Philadelphia where she will proceed after landing the Government sheep.

"Volunteer" and the Firemen.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I do not want to be classed as a fault-finder, but really I do not see the wisdom of Commissioner Ayre's suggestion, that the Fire Department sprinkle the streets within three hundred feet of the Fire Stations. This, in my opinion, would be a very dangerous proceeding, as with a lot of hose spread out, and the firemen engaged laying dust, when an alarm would be rung in, may cause such a delay that the safety of the city may be in peril. I hope, for the protection of life and property, that the firemen will not in any way be interfered with. We cannot afford to take chances of this nature, and I feel sure that our Commissioners after giving the matter consideration, will come to the conclusion that "it is better to let well enough alone," than to take chances that are unnecessary.
While on this subject, let me ask what about the raise in pay for the Firemen, which was dealt with last winter. Surely, it is time it was coming along. Please give us some information at your next meeting.
Yours etc.,
VOLUNTEER.
St. John's, July 10, 1914.

The Morning.

When shades of night are falling, I always hit the hay; but from it I am crawling at early dawn of day. So help me, Alexander, I would not miss that treat; for there is nothing grander than morning, cool and sweet. The little birds are singing, as they go scoting by; the rising sun is stringing strange tints across the sky; the winds are softly sighing, the dew is on the grass, and butterflies are flying above the garden sassa. Hushed is the workday clamor of busy mart and street, the sound of saw and hammer, the tread of weary feet, the voice of town lot booster, that stands in need of grease—the crow of wakeful rooster alone disturbs the voice of town lot booster, that stands in need of grease—the crow of wakeful rooster alone disturbs the peace. It is the sweetest portion of day, this hour of bliss; and sleep is an abortion at such a time as this. To see the bright sun breaking Night's chains, that had him bound; to see the old world waking, to try another round; to see the shadows creeping away, a routed flock—oh, who would lie a-sleeping till 9 or 10 o'clock?

His Indian Wife.

A TWO-REEL FEATURE AT THE CRESCENT.
A large number of tourists that arrived yesterday by the Stephano, saw the big performance at the Crescent Picture Palace and afterwards congratulated the management on the excellent line of pictures and the up-to-date theatre, and a system which surpasses many picture houses in America. A good line of pictures were presented, and to-day the programme will be changed. The feature is a two-reel Bison drama "His Indian Wife," a very dramatic story. Jane Gail is seen to advantage in a comedy "Their Parents." "He and Himself," a Nestor, and "To the Brave Belongs the Fair," a Mexican—both snappy comedies. Miss Arkandy is singing an illustrated song, "You're the Girl I've Been Longing for." On Monday next the feature picture is "The Call of the Angelus." The special weekly matinee to-morrow afternoon.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankful-ness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percis Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Divorced Life

By Helen Hesling Fuesle

Luck on a Rainy Evening

Marian glanced at the little time-piece on her dresser and sighed. Only 7 o'clock, and her little room looked dismal and cheerless as when she left it to go down to dinner. The prospect of a long, dreary, lonely evening stretched ahead of her. The few novels she had brought to New York she had read and re-read.

As for letter writing as a mode of spending the evening, she shrank from writing to any of her friends or her brother. She would be too strongly tempted to ask further financial assistance. "I suppose I might as well go to bed," she mused. "Perhaps I might play Little Nemo, and dream something interesting. Anyhow, I can't endure sitting here and thinking!"

"She began busying herself with her hooks, pins and clasps which looked her into her garments. When almost ready to retire she was startled by a knock at her door. "Who's there?" she called.

"Miss Ella Barker," came the answer. "May I not see you for a moment—that is, if you're not dressing to go out?"

Marian hurried into her dressing-gown and opened the door. "Dressing to go out?" she repeated with a smile. "Quite the contrary. I was just getting ready to retire. Won't you step in?"

"Retire!" echoed Miss Barker, her dark eyes holding a combined look of surprise and pity. "Goodness, girl, retire at seven? This is New York. Why, even in Boston we sit up until ten."

"Well, I felt that I couldn't read or amuse myself in any other way," explained Marian, somewhat embarrassed. "So I thought I'd try to find solace in sleep."

"Well, if that's the case," interrupted the other, "hurry into your clothes again and join Bert and me for the theatre. We have tickets for three, and my sister has decided not to go. She's been shopping all day and feels a perfect wreck. The taxi will be here in twenty minutes. Will you meet us in the parlor, as I believe Mrs. Kern calls it?"

Marian tried to protest against the other's kindness and thought of her, but Miss Barker broke in with: "I'm not going to give you a chance to say no. So hurry."

Tomorrow—Marian on Broadway.

Left alone, Marian began fying into her clothes. "That must have been thought transference," she mused happily, "or else God took pity on anyone who had to go to bed at seven in New York."

Her cheeks burned with the excitement of an evening at the theatre with her new-found friends. Again Bert Barker's dark and merry eyes began hovering before her mental vision. She got into her most becoming frock. She caught a glimpse of her face in her mirror and marveled that she could be so happy after her desperate attack of loneliness. A taxi snorted in the street below. She seized her coat and gloves, and started for the parlor.

"So good of you to come, Miss Winthrop," said Barker enthusiastically. "I'm glad you're not going to mind a little bad weather."

"Marian felt herself transformed by the happy excitement of this unlooked-for event. She seemed lost in a daze of satisfaction at the swift turn of luck. She could hardly realize how her hooks and clasps had found their places so swiftly. She felt that in little more than a twinkling she had transformed herself into a veritable Cinderella."

The three descended to the waiting vehicle. The throttle clicked, the engine barked and the machine hummed fleetly off into the night.

"Do you know, I sometimes find a rainy day most fascinating," Marian murmured contentedly.

Tomorrow—Marian on Broadway.

Marian's cheeks burned with excitement of meeting new friends.

NEWS BY CABLE.

Special to Evening Telegram.

MEXICO CITY, July 9. One report made public last night was to the effect that General Villa had been assassinated at Torreon by a woman.

WINNIPEG, July 9. John Kratochenko, convicted of the murder of bank manager Arnold, was hanged this morning. He went to death without flinching.

DORCHESTER, N.B., July 9. Hon. H. R. Emmerson died this morning. He was Minister of Railways in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet, and was 61 years of age.

ROME, July 9. A general strike of the Italian State Railways is threatened for Saturday. The Government is taking extensive precautionary measures.

LONDON, July 9. The House of Lords concluded today the Committee stage of the Amending Bill. The only additional important change was the insertion of a new clause giving control of the Irish Constabulary to the Lord Lieutenant, instead of, as provided in the Home Rule Bill, transferring it to the Irish Government after six years. The amended Bill will come up for its third reading next Wednesday.

OTTAWA, July 9. A new Dominion two-dollar bill will be issued to-morrow in commemoration of the stay of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught in Canada. It will bear the portraits in either corner with the figure "2" in the centre, and the word "two" on each side of it. This is the fourth issue of two-dollar bills. The first bore the picture of Lord Dufferin, the second of Lord Lansdowne, and the third of King Edward VII, when Prince of Wales.

LONDON, July 9. The criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton, chairman, and his co-directors in Lipton's, Limited, was suggested by Sir Arthur Markham (Liberal) in a question addressed to the Attorney General in today's Parliamentary papers. The question of the putting of which was postponed by arrangement, asks whether in view of the defendants in the Army and Navy Canteen scandal case were acting upon a system which was encouraged by the directors of the Company, the Attorney General has laid the case before the Public Prosecutor with a view to criminal proceedings for fraud and bribery against Lipton and his co-directors. The question arose out of the recent conviction of nine Army officers and eight civilians, employees of Lipton's, Limited, on charges of receiving and giving bribes to influence the allotment of supply contracts for the Army canteens.

BELFAST, July 9. The first meeting, since it was formed, of Ulster's Provisional Government, has been called for to-morrow at the request of Sir Edward Carson. According to Capt. James Craig, the result of the meeting will have an important bearing on the Irish situation, but he declares there is no intention on the part of Ulsterites, whatever happens, to set up a parliament for themselves in Ulster.

They claim the right merely to hold the province in trust for the constitution of the United Kingdom, in order that Ulster should continue to be an integral part of the British Empire. Clauses of the Constitution of the Provisional Government, which up to now have not been disclosed, expressly provide that: "Upon the restoration of direct Imperial Government the Provisional Government shall cease to exist," and, "The Provisional Government while it is in power shall maintain and enforce all statute laws now in force in Ireland, other than the statute establishing Home Rule Government." Arrangements have been made to receive Sir Edward Carson, on his arrival to-morrow. Four hundred Ulster Volunteers, armed with rifles and fixed bayonets, will escort him to the place of meeting.

Jake Daubert.

Red McGhee

For all-round value Jake's, a bird. For some years now the fans have heard his praises loudly sung. He's climbed Fame's ladder pretty high and he'll dispute with any guy the right to that top rung. Nap Rucker's old left arm and Jake have worked in harmony to make the Brooklyn team show class. An' Jake has done the heavy part—he's made first basing quite an art. His mem'ry won't soon pass.

He's won one Chalmers' trophy car for bein' leadin' all-round star—heopped that bus last year. Such honors don't turn Jake's head, he just keeps pluggin' right ahead to polish his career. He sets a weird and fancy pace at fieldin' round that 'nitial base—his lank form seems all wire. He cheers the pitcher all the way—just oozes ginger out all day an' never tires.

He's some club swinger, too, this boy. His wallops are a lastin' joy to any reg'lar fan. He's strong on extra cushion drives an' stands out in the dope archives a sure 300 man.

Fat Robbie's of Superba nine would likely hit the greased incline without our ol' friend Jake. At any rate the ol' turnstiles would click lots less.

An' Robbie's smiles a fond farewell would take.

Tourists at the Nickel

Delighted With It.

Yesterday the Nickel Theatre was the popular resort for old and young, and young and all were charmed with the whole performance.

The Nickel is now a household word. It has become popular because it is clean and comfortable, well ventilated and aired, while the pictures are the best obtainable in the British and American markets. Then, too, the operators know their business thoroughly and the pictures are always bright and flickerless.

Last night the hall was well filled, many tourists from the Stephano were present and spent a most enjoyable hour. They were loud in their praises of the Nickel, saying that the pictures were as good as any seen in America. This is flattering indeed to our popular house of amusement. The manager has arranged another clever entertainment for this evening, and all should make an effort to attend. The feature film is alone worth the entrance fee. For the children's matinee to-morrow there will be an extra reel of film of the greatest interest to the children.

Monday there will be a big war story. It is in three reels, and is entitled "Shenandoah." This will prove a delightful entertainment and patrons should not fail to see it.

Readers of the Great Harry Thaw Case should further satisfy their curiosity by at once getting Evelyn Thaw's "Story of My Life." The extraordinary advance orders have induced the publishers to offer it at only 30c.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
The French Line steamer Virginia, signalled to-night two hundred miles southwest of Brow Head that she had in tow the British freighter Etionian. The Virginia is from New York for Havre and usually carries a small number of passengers.

SEATTLE, To-day.
The revenue cutter Bear, with Captain Robert A. Bartlett, late of the explorer ship Karluk will sail from Nome, probably within a week for Wrangle Island, off the coast of Alaska, to take off the eighteen white men and four Eskimos who have been on the island since March 10th, when they arrived from the scene of the wreck of the Karluk.

QUEENSTOWN, To-day.
The Allan Liner Syrian's intermediate pressure engine broke down on Tuesday last four hundred miles west of the Fastnet. The accident caused no commotion. The liner was not so crippled but that she could have completed her voyage slowly with safety. The captain, however, decided to return to Queenstown out of consideration for the passengers.

QUEBEC, To-day.
Dufferin terrace, Quebec, a famous promenade overlooking the St. Lawrence, caught fire yesterday. The flames made rapid headway through the broad walk. In a little over an hour, five hundred feet of the promenade had collapsed. Fears were entertained, that Chateau Frontenac would catch and that the stone supports would fall into the tenement district below. The houses facing the terrace were soon ignited by fire sparks while the firemen were handicapped, because they should only fight the flames from one side, the other being too steep to work on. At three o'clock the progress of the fire was held up by tearing up the broad walk of one third of the terrace. The floors of houses were partially destroyed.

LONDON, To-day.
The American Ambassador, Walter H. Page, speaking at the Pope Centenary meeting, made reference to the new treaty between the States and Britain. After referring to the cordial relations now prevailing between the States and Britain, the Ambassador said it was the policy of the American people to have an alliance with none. Where there was perfect friendship, alliances were not needed. The Old Arbitration treaty between the two countries, however, had been renewed for another period and he was free to announce that the new treaty is being concluded, whereby a Commission was to be set up to which either Government could refer any question arising between them. Both Governments, he added, promised not to begin hostilities until this commission had investigated matters and submitted a report. That treaty, the Ambassador declared, was virtually completed. The announcement evoked a great outburst of cheering.

St. John's Gas Light Company.
Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures. Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

For Far North.

The S. S. Bellaventure, in command of Capt. Randell, will leave here on Sunday en route to Hudson's Bay to begin her work for the Canadian Government. She will go to Sydney first to coal then to Halifax to get supplies. She takes a hundred and fifty laborers along to do rail-roading work at Port Nelson. To attend to these men Mr. F. Baker, who goes as chief steward, yesterday engaged a number of cooks and stewards in the city.
The 'Bell' will only make one trip to the far north, after which she goes to England to be lengthened.

Wireless to the Rescue

How Marconi Machine Recovered $100 For Postal Clerk.

A few minutes before eight on a recent Saturday night a stranger called at Londonderry Postoffice and asked for gold for four £5 Bank of Ireland notes. He explained that he was just leaving for Canara, a tender at the quay, close to the post-office, being timed to start at eight for the liner, which was lying at the mouth of Lough Foyle. The post-office clerk courteously took the notes, and handed in exchange four little piles of gold which were in front of him. Without counting the money the stranger emptied it into the pouch of his emigrant's belt which he thereupon strapped round his waist and departed.

An hour later, when he came to balance up for the night, the post-office clerk discovered his cash to be £20 short. No amount of checking made any difference; the figures would not come right. Late on in the night he sought the help of a senior official. Together they worked at the problem until three on Sunday morning. It then became clear that what had happened was that the stranger had carried away £40 instead of £20. What was to be done? The clerk did not know the name of the visitor, or even of the ship in which he was a passenger. The ship herself was probably already a hundred miles off the Donegal coast on her way to the far West.

It was a case of wireless and Sherlock Holmes to the rescue of a civil servant with £20 at stake. There is a wireless station at Malin Head the most northerly point in Ireland. Calling up Malin Head, the clerk asked "Wireless" to ascertain for him the name of the Transatlantic liner which had left Lough Foyle on the night before. Away over the dark ocean went the request for information. Within five minutes the reply was in Londonderry: "Wireless" reports Allan Line—left Malin Head at 9.30 last night for Halifax." One point gained.

Nothing further could be done until morning. After breakfast time the postoffice clerk looked up the clerk of the Allan Line office in Londonderry with a view to getting the man's name. "Yes," said the shipping clerk, "I remember a man named Patrick Sweeney, from Cavan called in our office on his way to the tender. I asked what money he had and he replied, 'Some five-pound Irish notes. I said they should be changed for gold otherwise he might have trouble in getting them changed on the other side and recommend him to try the postoffice for change.'"

Meanwhile, the Allan liner was rapidly getting outside the radius covered by the wireless installation at Malin Head.

"Halloo, Malin Head!" once more was clicked on the telegraph wire from Londonderry. "Call up Allan Line— and ask the purser to seek out Emigrant Pat Sweeney, from Cavan. Get him to open his belt and return twenty pounds paid over by mistake."

An anxious half-hour was spent by a Londonderry postoffice official and those who shared the knowledge of his threatened loss. Sooner than was thought possible came the response: "Halloo, Derry! Purser has recovered twenty pounds, and will bring it back when the ship returns."

Old Battleships Sold.

Four superannated British warships, famous in their day, were sold by auction the other day to the highest bidder. The most notable was the battleship Renown, which had several claims upon the public interest. For five or six years she has played the unheroic role of training ship for stokers at Portsmouth, but when in 1895 the Renown was first commissioned she proudly ranked not only as the most beautiful ironclad afloat, but also the fastest vessel of the British fleet, being capable of eighteen and one-half knots.

The Renown also holds a unique position as the only modern British battleship sent to the North American station, when she left for the Mediterranean when carrying Lord Fisher's flag. The Renown was the favorite ship of the father of the Dreadnought, and Lord Fisher cherishes a silver model of her, a gift from officers who served under him. The Renown was also the vessel in which the present King and Queen made their journey to India. At the auction she realized $195,000.

The other ships sold were the Resolution, which brought $178,000 the Fero to $92,500, and the Medea for $51,893. The Scylla was also offered but the bids did not reach the reserve, the best offer being $59,000.

English make! We've just received a new lot of Chased and other Pretty Rings from England. If your thoughts are running in that direction, be sure and see them. A. H. TRAPNELL—June 4th to Caplin Bay.

I. C. M.
 To most of the public the sights and scenes of the Trepassey line are new, and everything presents a novel aspect. Though so near the city comparatively few people visit these places, or note the surroundings. As an illustration of how secluded many people live, we quote an instance which occurred during our ramble on Monday last. It was at Caplin Bay, where we happened to fall into conversation with a lady and her children, and we learned from her that she had never seen St. John's, and also, that her mother had lived seventy years in the same place and had never been to the city.
 It is for the benefit of the people who do not visit our nearby places that I write these notes, trusting that they may be productive of some little good in opening our eyes to the beauties of our own country, and in learning more of her worth and opportunities.
 Newfoundland has been too long misunderstood, and therefore, she is too little known, and as a result but meagrely appreciated; and yet, her history should be foremost in the literature of the New World, and her position should be better established than it is.
 It was with similar thoughts to these that our party, three in number, joined the train on Monday last, and for awhile bade adieu to business cares, and city duties. The crowd of people we saw at the railway station was such as one should delight to meet; and like ourselves they had thrown off the common duties and laid aside the daily burden and were on holiday bent.
 It is always good to see people happy, especially when everything else corresponds, and the extremes of one condition do not conflict with the duties of the other.
 To some the road was entirely new, while to others, it was more familiar. Our company was among the latter class, but still we decided there was something new, and we wished to make the best of our outing.
 Having left the station at the regular time, we began to survey the surroundings, and to note the different classes of passengers who occupied the cars. As we have said before, all were pleasure bent, therefore, we were one in that respect.
 But our pleasures varied and some of the excursionists displayed more enthusiasm than others and seemed to be very intent upon accomplishing their purposes. This class consisted of trouters, who were bound for the different ponds and gullies, there to angle and fish; and thus sustain the honor of Isaac Walton of old. There were certainly great numbers of trouters, and every station, and intermediate hill received a contingent. Among those places we heard some strange names, one of which we had never heard before. We did not enquire as to the origin of this name nor as to the date on which it was given, therefore, we cannot inform our readers upon it. But it is evidently a public resort, and had more trouters than any other place along the line during the day. But it could not have been the name that attracted the Waltonians, it was the shady gullies and likely nooks which sparkled around the hillside. The fishers being eager for trout, they evidently did not mind where they went for them. They were bent on pleasure and keen on sport, and irrespective of the name they eagerly watched the spot, and joyfully jumped from the train when it stopped. Many of us do the same in other walks of life, we want to gain our end, and even though we step within the border of destruction we run the risk of having our own way. These thoughts occurred to us, as our party talked over the name of this particular place known and marked on the ticket as "Hell Hill." This particular place of which we speak is in the vicinity of "Tor's Cove," and there are many picturesque spots in passing that place. As to how the trouters succeeded we did not learn, but on their return to the train in the evening there was no jubilation, no boasting of the beauties, and not a word about the beauty that was lost—there was a perceptible silence which conveyed its own message. Our impressions of the surroundings were good, but there was one feature which marred it and which deprived it of its natural beauty, it was the ravages and devastation of the forest fires, which had raged some two weeks before. For several miles, the brushwood and foliage were destroyed, and bare rock and blackened sod met the eye at every turn; even the snow fences came in for a share of this destruction, and the loss in this direction is very considerable. But as we looked at it and considered what a large body of fire there must have been, the wonder seemed that greater damage was not done. Whether these forest fires can be avoided or not, we do not know; but if there be any possibility of hindering them either on the part of the Railway Co. or of the travelling public, we sincerely trust that all parties will do their best to hinder such destruction and to avoid the dangers which must certainly follow in the wake of forest fires.

A Sad Accident.

Last evening Messrs. Job Bros. received the following message from Mr. E. Grant of Blanc Sablon:—
 "His Royal Highness landed at 9.30, ashore two hours and felt pleased with his reception. Sorry to say an accident in the firing of cannon, Hugh Palmer, of Trinity, blowing his right arm off. He is gone to St. Anthony on the Essex."
 Later the Deputy Minister of Customs was in receipt of the accompanying:—
 "H. M. S. Essex, with the Duke of Connaught, arrived this morning. The fishing folk gave him a royal welcome. He left again at noon for St. Anthony. A sad accident occurred. Hugh Palmer had his hand blown off when firing a cannon in honour of the event."

THOMSON—ROWE.
 A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday morning, at 6.30 at 54 Barter's Hill, by the Rev. J. Bartlett, when Mr. Arch Thomson of the Royal Stores, Ltd. and Miss Clara, daughter of Mr. F. Rowe, were made man and wife. The bride looked well in white satin with veil and orange blossoms and was given away by her father, the wedding march being played by Miss Maria Rowe, as they entered the drawing room. The bride was attended by her sister Blanche, who wore blue silk with hat to match, while the groom was ably supported by his brother Mr. W. Thomson. After the ceremony the guests partook of breakfast and the health of the happy couple was duly honored, after which the bridal party drove to Waterford Bridge where the outgoing train was boarded for Pictou where the honeymoon will be spent. A large number of beautiful and useful presents were received including a dinner set, clock, brass umbrella stand and coal vase from the employees of the Royal Stores, Ltd. The groom's present to the bride was a cheque, to the bridesmaid a gold ring, and to the groomsmen cuff links.

A Pleasant Outing.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in the columns of your valuable paper to make a few remarks concerning a very enjoyable holiday. Because of sun-burnt necks and arms, and a few bruises received, the experiences of yesterday will not soon be forgotten. In the early morning the day promised to be fine and warm, and we were not disappointed in this respect. It was decided on the previous day to go to a certain place in the vicinity of New Harbor, fourteen miles distant, for a picnic. The party consisted of thirteen from Whitbourne, including Mrs. Leslie, Miss Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. J. Simmonds, while several others were added during the day. Two went on bicycles, and the remainder in carriages. Bright hopes were entertained for the day, but these were not fully realized until we reached Anderson's Cove, New Harbor, at 12 o'clock. There on the beach we partook of a sumptuous repast, a large flat stone taking the place of a table. During the afternoon we took part in various kinds of enjoyment, including boating, football, etc. For tea we found ourselves on a beautiful green, near the Orange Hall, when I think all did justice to the good things provided. Much praise is due Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. Simmonds for the splendid manner in which everything was arranged, and we cannot forget Miss Simpson, who added so much to the day's programme. Several "snaps" were taken during the day which will serve to remind us of the outing for many days to come. Thoughts of coming home were not foremost while thus engaged, until it was known that one of the party was anxious to join the express that night at Whitbourne, which is due at 8.50 o'clock. The day would have ended splendidly but for an accident which occurred. Hurrying to catch the express on the bridge, everybody went well until coming down Blacktown Hill, when the rider was thrown off and caught with few bruises, what might have been a very serious accident.
 We wish to convey our sincere thanks to the good friends of New Harbor, including Mrs. Newhook and Mr. and Mrs. Woodman, of whose hospitality we were the recipients.
 Thanking you for space, I remain,
 Yours respectfully,

"From Every Nation Under Heaven."

"The Congress of the Salvation Army which has assembled in London, bears striking witness to the international character of its work and the success of its spiritual appeal," says the "Inquirer." "People in middle life can recall the days when the first Salvationists were regarded by the public with contemptuous amusement. Now their uniform is a badge of honor. Seldom indeed has wisdom been so quickly justified of her children."

"The day has happily gone by when educated people were blind enough to place it all to the account of crude theology and appeals to fear. It is a fire kindled by a spark of grace. It is the passion for souls, which ignores all barriers of class and race. It has asked for obedience, discipline, it has asked for obedience, discipline, where men and women have pressed forward eagerly to obey the call."

"The older Churches, more entangled in conventionality and less spontaneous in their movements, can only look on with amazement and pay a generous tribute to the conqueror in many a field where they have failed. But there is also the possibility of gaining fresh stimulus for their own work if they follow the proceedings of this Congress of the Nations with keen intelligence and prayerful sympathy."

A Wonderful Gathering.

The great meeting in the temporary from building erected in the Strand have revealed the thoroughly cosmopolitan character of the Army's operations. The Congress is the largest and the most representative of the widespread character of the work that has yet been organized. The delegates were drawn from thirty-five countries, and the discussions were conducted in twenty-three different languages, to the confusion of everyone but the interpreters.

Delegates to the number of 4,000 filled the "Citadel," and, in their varied and picturesque costumes, they presented one of the most impressive spectacles that has ever been organized by the Salvation Army.

The front rows were occupied by the Army bands of Sweden and Switzerland, with their brightly attired followers in peasant costumes; to the left were Italians, and French, Koreans, and Japanese, and men and women from Java; Finlanders, Russians, Laplanders, women of Holland, some from as far north as Volendam and Marken Island; and in the centre men and women from Australia, in khaki and pith sun helmets. To the right of the platform were Salvation Army people from India, the men in turbans, red jackets, and cotton dhoti, and the women in picturesque garments of every hue. In the centre of the arena, forming a solid phalanx of men and women in red wide-awake hats, the men in blue uniforms and the women in mouse-colored dresses, were members of the Army from the United States. Other seats were reserved for Canadians, South Americans, Patagonians, Texas cowboys, Icelanders, and Germans.

Greetings and Incidents. The King and Queen sent a cordial expression of their goodwill, and, amongst other public men, Mr. Asquith wrote:

"I desire to offer the warmest congratulations both on my own behalf and that of his Majesty's Government to the Salvation Army on the great International Congress which opens to-day, and to send all good wishes for the continued success of its world-wide activities which have for so long excited the admiration of Christian men and women of all denominations."

Many touching incidents were witnessed in the course of the day, but the one that seemed most to move the vast audience was the appearance on the platform of six tiny girls, children of a criminal tribe in India. Their parents were Thugs, and the children had been rescued from their evil surroundings and had come to the great West to bear testimony, in their own childish way, to the wonderful work of the Salvation Army.

Growing Activities.

During the past ten years, it was announced, the work of the Army had increased from fifty countries and colonies to fifty-eight, and the propaganda was now being conducted in thirty-five different languages. Centres of work had increased to 9,560; the number of social institutions, shelters, hospitals, etc., to 1,168; the day schools to 591; officers and cadets to 16,438; men and women wholly employed in the Army's work, but not holding the rank of officers, to 5,714; cadets to 11,531; bandsmen to 25,000 and local officers from 44,100 to 55,520. The number of periodicals published by the Army had increased from sixty-four to eighty, and the total copies per issue was from 1,622,000 to 1,227,500.
