

"ECHOES of the Past; OR, The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER XX.

He had come in some time after the programme had commenced, but he was not too late for Mina's first song. Immediately she appeared, Lord Chesterleigh was struck by the grace and modesty of her bearing; and he put up his eye-glasses and looked at her with attention. As he did so he was smitten by a vague sense of having seen her before; yet he could not recollect where or under what circumstances; he consulted the programme, but her name, obviously a stage one, conveyed nothing to him. The feeling, a troublesome one, stirred dim depths of his past life, and made him strangely uneasy, even melancholy, and her singing of "Home, Sweet Home," though he admired it, and applauded it as enthusiastically as the rest of the audience, made him still sadder. Where had he seen her before, of whom did she remind him? He harried his memory with the question, but it refused to answer.

He remained until the end of the concert, and was making his way out, still thinking of the girl and pondering over the problem which her personality had set him, when, at a temporary block near the entrance, he recognized a man who was standing close in front of him.

"How do you do, Mr. Quilton?" he said, touching the man on the shoulder.

Quilton turned round and gazed at Lord Chesterleigh with his colorless eyes and without the slightest sign of responsive recognition on his impassive face.

"I'm afraid you don't remember me?" said Chesterleigh, as they passed on together into the street. "My name is Chesterleigh. We met in India, if you recollect? At any rate, I do not forget that you rendered the government a great service."

"Ah, yes! How do you do, Lord Chesterleigh?" said Quilton, as if he had just recollect his companion, but his own tone and face were as impassive as usual.

"Yes; that was very valuable assistance you rendered us," said Lord Chesterleigh, "and I fear that it was not fully recognized. But that was not altogether our fault, was it? You left—I was going to say, disappeared from—Simla so suddenly, not to say mysteriously"—he smiled—"that all our efforts to find you were unavailing."

"That's some years ago, Lord Ches-terleigh," said Quilton, "and I'm afraid I've forgotten what it was that took me away. Any small service I may have been able to render the government it was quite welcome to."

"Strange to meet you here again at Manchester after so many years. Will you have a cigar?" said Lord Chesterleigh. Quilton accepted one and lit it in his leisurely fashion. "May one inquire what brings you here?"

"Business," replied Quilton. "I am on the staff of The Beacon, and I came down to report your lordship's meeting."

"I wish you could have found a pleasanter occupation," said Lord Chesterleigh, shrugging his shoulders, "but, indeed, you have this evening. What a capital concert! By the way," he hesitated a moment, "there was a young lady, quite a young girl, who sang most charmingly; an extremely pretty girl—Miss Veronica Vernon. Do you—you gentlemen of the press are generally omniscient—do you know anything of her? I don't remember seeing her name before."

Quilton knocked the ash off his cigar and studied it as if he had suddenly discovered something exceedingly interesting in it, then he said: "She has only appeared recently. I should say—I don't know much about such matters—that she promises to be a success."

"A very great success," said Lord Chesterleigh warmly. "But what I meant to ask was, do you know anything about her personally? I put the question because I fancied that I had seen her before, or that she reminded me of some one."

Quilton stared before him with expressionless eyes. "I should scarcely think that was likely, Lord Chesterleigh. I do happen to know something about her. She is the daughter of quite humble people. Her father played in the orchestra to-night, and he and her sister look after her."

Lord Chesterleigh sighed—it almost seemed with relief. "I am glad she is so well looked after, guarded. A girl, so young, so beautiful and so finely gifted, is exposed to many temptations. You did not tell me her name?"

Quilton seemed to ponder for a moment. "Jones, Brown, Thompson—I forget," he said casually.

Lord Chesterleigh sighed again. "Ah, well," he said, as if dismissing the subject. "Will you come to the hotel with me and have a nightcap and a chat over the old times in India, Mr. Quilton?"

"Thank you, Lord Chesterleigh, I am afraid I cannot," said Quilton. "I am going to take my report up with me by the night train. And that reminds me that I have only just time to catch it. Good night, Lord Chesterleigh; glad to have met you."

He went off, not hurriedly, but in such a way as to prevent any further conversation, and Lord Chesterleigh went to his hotel, his head bent, his brows drawn, as if his meeting with Quilton had awakened echoes of the past.

The months glided by, the season commenced, the Conservatives were still clinging to office with a tenacity which, of course, the Liberals declared to be as wicked as it was desperate. The Liberals were still working hard to overthrow the government and few worked harder than Clive; not, if the truth must be told that he was particularly and personally desirous of ousting the Conservatives,

Will Ease Your Throbbing Head-- And Stop Droppings In The Throat

To Cure Snuffles and Clear Stuffed Nostrils Nothing Equals "Catarrhoseone."

You can end a cold mighty quick— cure it completely—by Catarrhoseone. Any sort of Catarrh, whether in nose, throat or bronchial tubes, can be driven forever out of the system by simply breathing in the healing vapor of Catarrhoseone.

It's in the nostrils and air passages that Catarrh germs breed. The germ-killing vapor of Catarrhoseone means instant death to these germs—means that a healing process is started throughout all the sore membranes, thereby effectually ridding the system of the real cause of the trouble. Catarrhoseone promptly opens up

If there is a nasty discharge it disappears with a few hours' use of Catarrhoseone Inhaler. If a bad cold keeps you sneezing, if you have dull frontal pains over the eyes, you'll get the speediest cure possible with Catarrhoseone.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes it and the Cough will Stop Itself

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heat the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of the most pleasant and effective remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 84 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions on the bottle. It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

but because he found that when he was not at work he invariably fell to brooding. Therefore he was nearly always in his place in the House, did a great deal of stumping in the country and, what was unusual with him, went a great deal into society, where, it should be added, he was very welcome.

And, of course, he saw a great deal of Lady Edith. He met her nearly everywhere he went, and they danced and talked together. And they talked not only when they met at balls and receptions, but at Grosvenor Square. Habit is a second nature, a man is very much like a tabby-cat, in his unconscious readiness to move in a certain groove or haunt a certain spot. Clive got into the habit of dropping in at the Chesterleights', especially when he felt tired and hipped, and it is just when a man is in this condition that the presence and the sympathy of a woman who is not only beautiful but cultured and tactful are most welcome.

And Lady Edith's sympathy was of the most comprehensive kind; she understood all Clive's aims and aspirations; she had forced herself to take an interest in the cause of the poor which he was always championing, and her tact was really remarkable for so young a woman; she seemed to divine his mood the moment he entered the room, seemed to know whether it would be better to be silent or to talk to him. Sometimes she went to the piano and played softly, but if she could only have known it, these were the only occasions on which she erred, for when she played or sang Clive was reminded of Mina, and sometimes he could scarcely bear the music.

Lord Chesterleigh and he were greater friends than ever, and Clive was made free of the house; indeed, Lord Chesterleigh treated him almost as if he were a son, and Clive very naturally grew much attached to the older man. They had become so friendly, and Lord Chesterleigh so often talked about family and personal matters so unreservedly and confidentially, that Clive was several times on the point of telling him of the strange, foreign-looking woman, but in these modern days most of us shrink from even the appearance of intrusion on other persons' private affairs, and Clive held his tongue. As a matter of fact, he had attached little or no importance to the woman or her behaviour, which he ascribed to monomania.

It is scarcely necessary to say that Clive and Lady Edith's evident friendship for each other and his frequent visits to the house attracted attention. Society regarded a marriage between them as certain, and thoroughly approved of it. But Clive had no intention of proposing to Lady Edith; he did not want to marry any one—excepting Mina. His heart felt dead; he was incapable of love for any other woman, and he had, almost unconsciously, the feeling which every man and woman has in his condition—that every one must know, be aware of his state of mind.

But accident and circumstance often drive us whither we had no intention of going. Clive went home one morning with Lord Chesterleigh to lunch. It was a lovely cobs, and that he has never Edith who had received Clive as if his presence were all that was needed to make the day perfect, remarked:

"What a shame to waste such lovely weather. Father, could you not drive me out into the country in that new mail-phaeton of yours? Do you know," she turned to Clive with a laugh, "that he has bought a most splendid phaeton and a pair of lovely day in early spring, and Lady once asked me to go out with him? And yet I dare say he goes about, priding himself that he is an affectionate and an attentive parent."

Lord Chesterleigh laughed. "I haven't been out with them yet myself," he said.

"Then take me somewhere this afternoon," she retorted quickly. "And perhaps Mr. Harvey would come with us; that is, if he can tear himself away from the House."

"I should be delighted," said Clive. "Wild horses wouldn't drag me to the House this afternoon."

"Then tame horses shall drag us down to—where, father?" she said, her eyes sparkling, her face radiant. "I don't care where it is. Could we find some rustic, out-of-the-way spot where we could have a dinner of tough chops or ham and eggs or something different to the usual endless and tiresome meal we get at home? Do you know of such a place, Mr. Harvey?"

Clive considered for a moment or two. "There's a little place called Palmer's Green, out Surrey way," he said; "it is scarcely a place, for there is nothing there but a small inn, but, though I doubt the chops, I feel pretty sure about the ham and eggs. I came upon the place when I was out riding one day. By the way, it is rather a long drive."

"I'll back my horses for any distance," said Lord Chesterleigh, with an owner's proud confidence. "Your description sounds delightful," remarked Lady Edith. "Let us go at once!"

Clive rose. "I think I should like to change my hat and frock coat for something more suitable for the occasion," he said. "I promise to be back long before you're ready."

"Then you will have to be very quick," she said brightly, "for I shall be exactly three minutes and a half."

"That means three-quarters of an hour," remarked Lord Chesterleigh. "Yes; I can have the phaeton round by that time."

Clive found some letters and a telegram, which required immediate attention, awaiting him, and when he returned to Grosvenor Square the phaeton was at the door; but he found Lady Edith in the drawing-room looking downcast and disappointed.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 20.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
General French reports that enemy attacks between Hilluch and the Quarries were everywhere repulsed. The enemy attacked on a seven mile front east of Rheims, and were completely defeated.
Russia states that near Riga the Germans made progress. Desperate fighting continues. In the Shyr region the Russians retook Chortorsk. Many prisoners and guns were taken in this region.

BONAR LAW.

LONDON BUDGET.
LONDON, Oct. 20.
It is known that the forces in Gallipoli have not been weakened for the Balkan campaign; and while the task is difficult the majority of the British public is confident that it will ultimately be accomplished in the Balkans.
Austro-German and Bulgarian armies continue to claim progress against the Serbians, but expect in the north, where the Serbs are being forced back into the mountains, the various reports do not go far toward clarifying the situation. The Bulgarians have cut the railway between Nis and Sreb, so it is likely that, except in the extreme south, where they have the support of the Anglo-French troops landed at Salonika, the Serbs are falling back on stronger natural positions. Istip and Tetichana, it is said, have already been evacuated.
Italy which—singularly enough—is still technically at peace with Germany, has declared war on Bulgaria. Russia is expected to follow her example almost immediately. When this formality is completed it is possible that the action which Italy and Russia intend to take in the Balkans will be defined.
The Allies have also made a new diplomatic move with regard to Greece. The British and Russian Ministers have delivered a note to Athens, explaining that the Allies do not agree with the Greek Government's interpretation of the Graeco-Serbian treaty, and notifying Premier Zaimis of their intention to land more troops at Salonika. It is expected that anything but Allied success there will be defined.

"CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE CHANCES?"

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if let alone, so the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold.

A cold is more than inconvenient—it is dangerous—so the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief. There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but "STAFFORD'S PHORATONE COUGH AND COLD CURE" is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, grippe, etc.

Price 25 cts.; Postage 5 cts. extra. Prepared only by DE. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Mld. Manufacturers of 3 Specialities: Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "A," Stafford's Phoratone Cough & Cold Cure.

cess will have any influence with Greece, or, for that matter, with Roumania. Russia is trying for this in Galicia and Volhynia, where General Ivanoff has won several local victories and is keeping the Austro-Germans busy. Otherwise interest in the eastern front centres north, where the Germans continue the attack south of Riga. The Russians are on the west of the Drinsk. Both sides lay claims to gains.
The Germans are being considerably hampered by British submarines in the Baltic, besides sinking a large number of steamers, engaged in the ore trade between Germany and Sweden, the submarines are interfering with transports between German ports and the Courland coast.
Comparative quiet prevails in the west.

THE CRISIS AND THE DARDANELLES.

LONDON, Oct. 20.
Asquith's illness has had the effect of producing a greater air of calm in Parliamentary circles than ever would have attended the resignation of Sir Edward Carson from the Attorney Generalship. From present appearances there will be no more resignations from the cabinet. It is quite likely that Asquith's absence will be extended to nine or ten days, and this enforced cessation of political passions is expected to give time for reconciliation of differences. It seems that Carson had intended to make a public statement yesterday, but the Premier's illness resulted in Sir Edward's deciding to postpone it until Asquith's return to the House. Many conflicting statements are current concerning the real reason for Sir Edward's resignation. The Daily Mail affirms that it had nothing to do with the question of compulsory service. The Chronicle is firmly convinced, it says, that it was because of the Cabinet's needless delays in arriving at a decision in favor of compulsory service. The Times says that the resignation was more directly concerned with the eastern war, than with recruiting, and adds, that Sir Edward Carson always had held strong views as to the need for an early and forthwith meeting the German menace in the Balkans. Many papers advocate a smaller Cabinet, and it is said, that when a successor to Carson is appointed, he probably will no longer hold Cabinet rank. It is generally believed that Sir Frederick Smith, Solicitor General, will succeed Carson; George Cape, a Unionist member of parliament, succeeding Sir Frederick as Solicitor General. The Daily Express says it regards these appointments as certain, and asserts that the crisis is ended.
The uneasiness regarding the Dardanelles operations has been increased by the explanation by Harold J. Tennant, Parliamentary Under Secretary for War, in Parliament yesterday that the recently announced figures that the recently announced figures showing nearly 9,000 casualties at the Dardanelles, did not include the sick. This, he explained, was because the number of sick varied from day to day, and could not be counted. Newspapers continue to laugh loud at the appointment of Major General Monro as successor to General Hamilton in the Dardanelles post.

FROM SALONIKA.

PARIS, Oct. 20.
The Salonika correspondent of the Havas Agency sends the following despatch under Tuesday's date: "The French troops having received orders to pass the Bulgarian frontier, Strumitza has not been occupied by the Allies. The Bulgarians are concentrating troops in haste in Dodleja, supposedly because Roumania appears to be leaning more towards the Entente. At the same time three divisions of Bulgarian troops are being concentrated on the Greek frontier. Communications by the Uskub railway now are said to be definitely assured for the Allied troops.

ANOTHER FRONT.

LONDON, Oct. 20.
It is reported from Frankfurt that the Central Powers have decided to undertake still another campaign, this time against Montenegro. According to this report, 20,000 Austrian and German infantrymen, with artillery, have arrived from Galicia at Sarajevo, in Bosnia, about 60 miles north of the Montenegrin border. These troops, the correspondent says, will soon be despatched.

PREMIER'S CONDITION SATISFACTORY.

LONDON, Oct. 20.
The condition of Premier Asquith was described by his physicians at noon to-day as satisfactory. The following bulletin was given out: "The Prime Minister passed a satisfactory night. His condition is improved, but he will be confined to his room all day."

FRANCE UNFLINCHING.

PARIS, Oct. 20.
The French Premier Viviani has telegraphed Sergius Sazanoff, Sir Edward Grey and Baron Sonnino, respectively foreign ministers of Russia, Britain and Italy, that at the moment of a change in the French ministry he wished to declare to them that the modification did not involve any modification in the policy which France was pursuing in concert with the Allies. The three Ministers replied, thanking Premier Viviani, and assuring him of their cordial collaboration in the cause for which the Allies are fighting.

ZEPPELINS USED FOR DEFENCE OF COMMERCE.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 20.
Zeppelins are being used by Germany for the defence of its commerce against attacks by British and Russian submarines. According to a despatch from Berlin, it is stated that the steamer Scotia of Stettin, bound from Sweden to Stettin, with a cargo of ore, was pursued by a British submarine off Bornholm. In reply to wireless calls for assistance, Zeppelins suddenly appeared, whereupon the submarine submerged and disappeared.

MORE GERMAN STEAMERS SUNK.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 20.
In addition to the four German steamers reported yesterday as having been torpedoed in the Baltic, four other German steamers were sent to the bottom by British submarines outside the southern Stockholm Archipelago during the last 24 hours.

TURKEY'S STORY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 20.
The following official statement was issued by the Turkish War Office: On the Dardanelles front our reconnoitering parties attacked the enemy Sunday night and threw them back to their main trenches, causing heavy losses. Local artillery and bomb engagements occurred at Ari Burnu and Seddul Bahr. Nothing of importance elsewhere.

Take "Cascarets" if Headachy, Bilious And Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache. Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels. A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box it regards these appointments as certain, and asserts that the crisis is ended.

Fishery Report.

The following reports of the cod-fishery are now posted at the Board of Trade Rooms:—
Oct. 16th. From W. Chambers, (Hr. Buffett to Brine's Island).—The catch to date is 3,600 qts. and for last week 50. Twenty dories and skiffs and 5 or 6 boats are fishing. The voyage is about over for the larger craft though a few punts and dories still continue operations. Prospects are poor; the weather is stormy and bait is scarce, some squid but very little herring being obtainable.
Oct. 16th. From W. J. White, (Aquaforte to Caplin Bay).—Eighty dories and skiffs are still fishing but prospects are not very good and the only bait to be had is a sign of squid and herring. The catch to date is 1,620 qts. with 120 for last week.

THE WINTER STUNT.

The furnace is yawning, the coal dealer's face is yawning around for a share of my trade; and soon I'll be spending unending, for coal of which clinkers are made. Last April how gladly, how merrily, mostly, I shut the old furnace's door, and chided, "For a season there will be no reason to gorge you, you rusty old bore! No more must I, daily," I said to it, galy, "come here with a scoop in my hand, and fill your steel belly with coal that is smelly, diluted with sulphur and sand!" But now to the cellar I go like a feller whose spirit is broken and crushed, a soul-weary toiler, to see that the boiler is blackened and polished and brushed; to clean up the damper and fix and revamp her, and tinker a while with the grate, the mica door spongin', and sweeping the dungeon, where shortly they'll dump in the slate. The furnace is yawning and soon I'll be pawning my watch for the price of the coal; ah, winter is bitter, it putteth a critter so deep in the dodgasted hole!

Dear Sirs,—I can recommend MIRARD'S LINIMENT for Rheumatism and Sprains, as I have used it for both with excellent results.

Your Boys and Girls.

When the means are lacking, at the time of baby's arrival, to provide a crib a very good one may be improvised out of an old fashioned clothes basket. It should be fitted from top to bottom with a detachable lining of white mull or dotted swiss carried over pale blue cambric. The mattress should be quite four inches thick and made to fit the bottom of the basket, and it should be well protected with a rubber sheet.

The coverlet should be light of weight but well wadded, with three or four thicknesses of silkine over the cotton filling. Down fillings should never be used for a baby's pillow or coverlet as the particles of down, filtering through the cover, will almost certainly find their way into the nostrils and mouth and thence into the lungs.

ENGLAND EXPECTS THAT EVERY MAN THIS DAY WILL DO HIS DUTY.

Trafalgar Day.

Trafalgar Day offers a suitable occasion to recall our debt to our soldiers and sailors and our duty to them. For fifteen months the greatest war the world has known has been raging and yet thanks to our soldiers and sailors, Newfoundland is conducting her business to-day in greater peace and quietness than in the days of Trafalgar. Our coasts are less liable to attack than in the days of Nelson, and our sea-borne traffic is less liable to devastation than in the days succeeding the glorious October 21st, 1805. No fear is felt in obtaining food supplies from Canada and the United States and our fish cargoes go unmolested to South America and the Mediterranean. This is the wonderful achievement of the Navy. Hostile cruisers which at first prowled over the ocean have been destroyed or driven to seek safety in home or neutral havens, and maritime losses of the size of those recorded in the early months of the war are no longer recorded. The great German Navy, built to dispute British supremacy at sea, is relegated to places of safety behind the fortified portals of German sea bases, and the Der Tag to which German sailors looked is no longer seriously sought for by them. The process of wearing down the British Navy by submarine attacks has proved a failure, and the diversion of that warfare to mercantile traffic has not established the blockade of the British and French home waters which was aimed at. A means of wearing down German submarine attacks on mercantile vessels has been found and for some time now we have not been called upon to record a daily list of British steamers sunk by them. Indeed, the tables have been so far turned on them, that British submarines are destroying German merchant steamers in the Baltic, but to their honor be it said, without the attendant horrors of the torpedoing of the Lusitania. Thus far we have dwelt on the work of the Navy, but we must not forget that the British soldiers have been doing great work in preventing the extension of German prowess on the western battle front.

in endeavoring to force the fastnesses and fortresses of the Dardanelles, in aiding Serbia, in guarding the Suez Canal, in fighting in the tropic heats of the Persian Gulf and on the Euphrates and Tigris, and in wresting her colonies from Germany. In accomplishing this work, casualties have befallen our brave soldiers by the hundreds of thousands. Tens of thousands have lost their lives, tens of thousands limbs, and hundreds of thousands are down with wounds or sickness, due to their devoted work. The Army Medical Corps is strained to its utmost limits. Particularly is this so in the Dardanelles. The extension of Red Cross work by such voluntary agency as the St. John Ambulance Association and the Red Cross Society is urgently needed. It is needed to aid our own Newfoundland sick and wounded. To-day subscriptions are being received, the ladies have established a street collection and are working effectively a Tag Day, and to-night a concert in aid of this fund will be given, and to-day recalls to us Nelson's Signal before the Battle of Trafalgar: "England Expects Every Man This Day Will Do His Duty!"

Runaway Causes Much Damage.

Last evening a runaway which had bolted from the Reid Nfd. Co.'s freight shed, dashed up Hamilton Street and on the way collided with Mr. J. Neville the cabman's horse and Victoria injuring the driver slightly and damaging the carriage considerably. Mr. Neville was picked up by Constable O'Neill and some other men who witnessed the accident and taken to his home where he was attended by a physician. Mr. Neville's horse was badly injured about the legs but the runaway escaped without injury.

BISURATED MAGNESIA

Nearly every stomach disorder begins with excess acidity and may be instantly relieved by a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia after eating. Neutralizes the excess acid; quickly relieves dyspepsia, heartburn, indigestion, belching, etc. Inexpensive; at all druggists everywhere, in either powder or tablet form.

Destruction to Poultry.

At present that section of the Portugal Cove Road, about a mile and a half from town, is infested with hungry dogs which are reported to be destroying poultry wholesale. Yesterday a citizen, who happened to pass in that vicinity, saw six splendid turkeys which had just been slain by these brutes. The birds were owned by a professional man and he feels keenly their destruction. An effort should be made to exterminate the mongrels, as every season the residents of Portugal Cove Road suffer loss of sheep and poultry, caused by hungry and useless dogs.

Private Gulliver Who is Wounded.

Mr. John Gulliver, of 42 Alexander Street, whose son George McFarland Gulliver, of the Nfd. Regiment, was mentioned in the casualty list recently as wounded, received by last English mail from London the following letter:—

"Dear Sir,—The Committee of the Newfoundland War Contingent Association desire me to express their regret and sympathy at the news that your son has been wounded. We trust that as the telegraphic report is not serious, he may soon recover, and be able to take his place once more in the fighting line.

Yours sincerely,
HENRY F. REEVE,
Hon. Secretary Nfd. War Contingent Association."

Mapleton's Peanut Butter is made in England. When you buy it you will know its value. When the children get it on their bread they know its quality. Cheap nourishment these strenuous times. The proof of the pudding is the eating of it.

Police Court.

(Before Mr. Hutchings, K.C.)
A man, charged with beating his wife, was ordered to give two bonds for his future good behaviour.

The defendant in an abusive and insulting language case was fined $5 or 14 days.

A woman was summoned for a violation of the Municipal Council regulations—keeping goats within the city limits. The judge spoke strongly on the matter, referring to the damage done to citizens' property by goats let at large in the city and intimated that parties coming before him in future would be severely dealt with and the maximum fine imposed. In this case the defendant was let go on payment of costs as she had promised to destroy the goats.

CENTRAL DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Mr. Morris, K.C.)

The evidence of Deputy Minister of Customs LeMessurier and Inspector O'Rielly is taken. Mr. L. E. Emerson, for Plaintiff; Mr. C. E. Hunt, for Defendant. Judgment is reserved.

He is at present a soloist in one of the big churches in Boston, and has very kindly consented to have the committee in charge of this evening's concert avail of his presence in St. John's to give our people an opportunity of hearing this fine vocalist.

Heart Fires!

By RUTH CAMERON.

The other day I had occasion to ask help of two people in finding my way. Both were women. Both gave me the help I needed. But oh, such a difference in the manner of giving! I explained my errand to the first woman. Her face lit up with animation and her eyes shone with friendly interest. "Yes, I know the place you mean," she answered. "It must be that dear little old-fashioned house at the corner. I know you'll love it. Go down the first street to the right," etc., etc.

When I thanked her she responded with a warm "You're entirely welcome," that made me wish I could do something for her.

The Woman Without Cordiality.
I explained my errand—another house—to the second woman. She listened with an impassivity that made me wonder if by any chance she could be deaf (she wasn't, at least not in the ears, in the heart, maybe.) Then she answered me with a coldness of tone and manner that made me feel as if I were running my head against a blank wall. I wanted further information, but didn't dare ask it. I thanked her and she very slightly inclined her head in acknowledgment and passed on.

These two women were perfect examples of the difference cordiality, and the lack of it, can make in a personality.

Cordiality Is A Fire On The Hearth of The Heart.
Cordiality is a fire on the hearth of

The heart. The friend basks in its glow and even the stranger feels its cheerful influence in his momentary contact with its owner. The heart of a person who utterly lacks cordiality is like a chilly room with a clean-swept, fireless hearth. The room may be cheerfully furnished, but no one feels cheered or at home in it, even its owner.

The Heart Fire Shines Through Her Eyes.
I know a woman whom everybody likes. She is rather plain and not terribly clever, but oh, she is so cordial! You always feel cheered and warmed by meeting her. It is the influence of the beautiful fire that always blazes on the hearth of her heart. It shines through her eyes, the windows of her heart and soul, and warms her voice and manner.

Cordiality is a great gift. Or is it wholly a gift? Cannot one kindle the fire by deliberate effort of one's will? I'm not quite sure which is the way of it. I guess it's about six of natural gift and half a dozen of acquired talent.

Is there a fire on the hearth of your heart?
If not, don't you want to kindle one?

Dr. Geisel at Keels.

S.S. STRATHCONA CHARTERED. Special to Evening Telegram.

KING'S COVE, Oct. 20.
Dr. Geisel spoke at Keels last night to an audience that packed the hall being composed largely of men. Nearly all the women remained at the close of the meeting to form themselves into a Health and Temperance committee.

Dr. Henry Hobbs was President, and in presenting the vote of thanks to Dr. Geisel said that the evils of alcohol on the body were presented by the able lecturer in such a convincing way that they could not soon forget it, and he believed that Keels would roll up a good vote for Prohibition on November the Fourth. A deep impression was made. Mr. Harry Crowe was then called upon and received warm applause from the audience at the close of his remarks.

Dr. Geisel's party are sailing today on the Strathcona which has been chartered to complete the Doctor's Health and Temperance tour of the outports. Among other places she will visit are Greenspond, Newtown, Seidom, Pogo, Joe Batt's Arm, Change Islands, Herring Neck, Twillingate, Exploits, Pigeon Island, Nippon's Head and Botwood. If time will permit she will also visit LaSalle, Englee and Conche.

Children's Parade.

This is Trafalgar Day, and it could not be more fittingly celebrated than with a Children's Parade, which took place this forenoon through the city. Although impromptu, as less than 24 hours ago the idea was conceived, the turnout was large and the parade successful in every way. At 10 a.m. one hundred and twenty boys between the ages of six and twelve years, and in khaki and man-o-war clad mustered at Government House Grounds where they were received by His Excellency Sir Walter and Lady Davidson. His Excellency in a patriotic speech complimented the boys, after which they made a tour of the city, under command of two petty officers of H.M.S. Calypso, and attracted considerable attention as they passed by as the parade to most people was a surprise. Of special interest and attraction was the improvised ambulance wagon, decorated with bunting emblematic of the Empire and its Allies. At noon return to Government House was made and the contingent dispersed.

SUBSTITUTES FOR MEAT AND COAL.

The British Board of Agriculture leaflet, says:—
Produce Food for Yourself!—Everyone who lives in the country or has a garden can produce something to eat—the more the better: vegetables, fruit, poultry, eggs, rabbits, milk, cheese. Plant at once what you can and prepare in all possible ways for next year's cropping.
Every Plant in your Garden may save you Money!—Produce all you can; buy as little as possible! Cultivate thoroughly! Destroy Insect Pests and Weeds! Prepare Manure! Preserve and Store your Crops with the greatest care!—The finest harvesting may be rendered useless by bad storing. Protect from the weather! Destroy Vermin! Store your own Vegetables! Bottle your Fruit or make Jam or Pulp of it! Preserve your Eggs when abundant! Cure your own Bacon!
Eat Little Meat!—Replace meat by milk, cheese, peas, beans, and lentils which are as rich in flesh-formers as meat and much cheaper. Use more Vegetables! Eat more Fruit!

STANDARD BREAD RECIPE.
Bake your own Bread! It will be cheaper and better!—Use whole-meal flour from home-grown wheat, barley, and oats. Good wholesome bread can be made from:
1. Household Flour, or Whole-meal Flour.
2. ½ Household Flour and ½ Barley Meal.
3. ¾ Whole-meal Flour and ¼ fine Flour.
4. ¾ Whole-meal Flour and ¼ Maize Meal.
5. ¾ Household Flour and ¼ Baked Potatoes.
6. Oatmeal.
7. Barley Meal.
Cook Vegetables by Steaming!—Boiling in water reduces their food value! Cook potatoes in their skins! Use the hay-box cooker; it will save coal.
Use Less Coal!—Burn wood, peat, etc., whenever possible!
Save Fodder!—Use acorns, chest-nuts, and beech-mast for stock; bracken for litter; all suitable straw for fodder; fodder crops for pigs. Keep pigs, poultry, or rabbits to eat up house refuse, damaged vegetables, light corn!
Waste Nothing!—Buy nothing from abroad that can be produced at home!

The Hygiene of Gas Lighting.

Incandescent gas is the ideal form of illumination for a living room. The soft yet brilliant light given off floods the room, and is restful both to the eyes and to the senses, preventing homeless or sewing from being a source of eyestrain.

It has, moreover, been scientifically determined that the strong uprush of heated products of combustion from gas burners draws up the emanations from the skin and lungs of the occupants of the room, chills and sterilizes any accompanying germs, and, reaching the ceiling, diffuses through the plaster so rapidly as to draw fresh air from the windows and other openings.

DROP BOMBS ON SWITZERLAND.

BERNE, Switzerland, To-day. The Swiss Government has instructed the Embassy at Berlin to lodge an energetic protest against a new violation of Swiss territory by German aviators. The protest occasioned by the act of an aviator dropping eight bombs over Chaux-de-Fonds on Sunday causing injury to four persons and to considerable property. Switzerland demands compensation and the punishment of the aviator.

EXPLOSION.

PARIS, To-day. Fifty-two persons are reported killed in an explosion this afternoon in a factory in Rue de Tolbiac, while one hundred or more were injured. Many victims were women workers in the factory which was wrecked as were other buildings in the vicinity.

HOLDING UP SHIRKERS.

LONDON, To-day. Immediate steps have been taken by the British authorities, the Evening News understands, to restrict the rush of able-bodied Britons of military age to colonies and the Island of Jersey, Guernsey and Ireland, in order to escape military service. It is perfectly obvious, the newspaper says, grave damage will be caused in the relations between the mother country and dependencies if herds of shirkers are allowed to pour into Canada, Australia and India, which have given their best blood for the Empire.

THE CARDEN TRAGEDY.

LONDON, To-day. Under the heading of the tragedy of Sir Lionel Carden, the Pall Mall Gazette, commenting on the resignation of the British Minister to Mexico, severely criticizes both President Wilson and the British Government for the Huerta incident in 1914, relating how Sir Lionel Carden went to Mexico at the request of Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, saved hundreds of British and American lives only to be subsequently broken, it declares, because he insisted upon the retention of General Huerta as Provisional President, at the Foreign Secretary's dictation. This proved to be the rock upon which he split, adds the Gazette. The intrigues of the Washington Ambassadors were too strong for him. He was not supported by his own Government. He was compelled to return to England. Like Reginald he kept his oath, going out to Mexico much against his will and also like that brave Roman who went back to Carthage to face punishment, Sir Lionel returned home to find his influence undermined and his reputation assailed and his appointment forfeited. His appointment was to a post at Rio Janeiro which never materialized for him. Thus was sacrificed, continues the Gazette, one of the most able and accomplished public servants. By his own Government alone did his great abilities seem to have been undervalued.

WHY CARSON RESIGNED.

LONDON, To-day. Carson announced in the Commons today his resignation from the Attorney-Generalship was due to divergence of views in regard to Near Eastern affairs.

CARSON'S EXPLANATION.

LONDON, To-day. Coming direct from Buckingham Palace, where he handed to King George the seals of his office on his resignation from the Cabinet, Sir Edward Carson appeared in the Commons yesterday afternoon and set at rest all conjectures, regarding the reasons for his resignation. Rising from his old seat in the front Opposition bench, the former Attorney General in a few words made the house conversant with the cause of the ministerial crisis which, he said, was due entirely to the fact that he found himself at complete variance with the Cabinet on the question of the Near Eastern policy. He felt therefore, that his presence in the Cabinet would be a source of weakness and not of strength. Sir Edward added he never had the slightest personal difference pressing regret for the absence of Asquith and stating for this reason he would give briefer explanation than he intended. Sir Edward Carson said: "I am well aware of the difficulties under existing circumstances of making any full statement or of saying anything that might be taken hold of as showing any signs of weakness or divergence of the main object we have in view in carrying on the war at all sacrifices of a final and conclusive issue. I need hardly say that upon that issue there is not and never has been either in Cabinet or in the house or in the country, any disagreement or divergence of opinion thereon. The unity which the country wants is that steadfast unity of purpose to defeat our enemies and save our country and I entirely deny that the fact of holding divergence view as to the best policy and methods to adopt in the various war theatres, in order to bring it to a successful conclusion is in any sense an element of disunity. I have seen criticisms of myself and have seen criticisms of a very petty malicious character, attributing the motives to party political nature. I do not desire to deal with these ridiculous assertions, except to say now in the presence of my late colleagues that since I entered the cabinet I never heard a word of discussion or dispute on those party questions which divided us before the war. In every cabinet meeting I attended we all devoted our energies wholly and solely to discussion of questions which arose with reference to the prosecution of the war. I also desire to say that during the whole time I have been in the cabinet, I never had any personal differences either with the Prime Minister whose unvarying courtesy I desire to acknowledge, or with any one of my late colleagues. May I also add that no one realizes more than I the great difficulties under which we labor, owing to the fact that our policy and methods must at all times be adopted in concert and co-ordination with our various Allies, and must also very frequently be formed with a view to consulting the sentiments and feelings of these neutral countries with whom we remain on friendly terms. This often has been lost sight of by critics of our actions who cannot possibly know the difficulties which arise from time to time.

REPRISALS FROWNED UPON.

LONDON, To-day. Cabinet ministers again were bombarded with questions in the Commons yesterday, but for the most part they managed to escape the intended frontal attack. In the course of the replies it developed that the officer who commanded the landing of British troops at Suvla Bay on Gallipoli Peninsula had been shelled, and that he holds no command in the army at present, but Mr. Tennant, Parliamentary Under Secretary of War, declined to give further information on the ground it would be against public interest. The suggestion made by Johnson Hicks, Unionist, of a policy of reprisals a deterrent of Zeppelin raids was frowned upon by the War Office. Tennant remarking such a policy always had been the subject of considerable controversy. The Royal Flying Corps he said, is a military organization in England for raids by the enemy on undefended towns and defenceless people should not be allowed to divert the energies of the fighting force from its primary military purpose.

SUNK BY SUBMARINES.

LONDON, To-day. Official announcement made today of the total number of British vessels, exclusive of fishing vessels, sunk by submarines, in October is 183. The number of fishing vessels sunk is 175.

THE FIGHT FOR SERBIAN RAILWAY.

SALONIKA, To-day. The Entente Allies are marking time, pending the concentration here of a sufficient number of troops for their operations in the Balkans. A large number of French troops have succeeded thus far in protecting the lower end of the Nish-Salonika railway and western Serbia close to the Albanian frontier. Banks and Legations are being removed to Pristina. The Russian Consul at Salonika sent for an auto to bring the Russian Minister of Serbia to this city, but owing to the military condition of the roads, it is doubtful whether this effort will succeed. The Austro-German expedition is composed of mixed forces from the 11th and 12th divisions. The Austrians are advanced well up the Morava Valley and are endeavoring to effect a junction with the Bulgarians, who are making an attack north of the Nish-Zaioacar sector. Army officers believe that the combined armies, when the junction has been effected, will not be satisfied with opening the route across Northern Serbia, but will attack Nish. Another serious attack is under way by the Bulgarians with Uskub as its objective. It is admitted that a force has already occupied Istip. Prince Andreas, a brother of the King, accompanied by his wife Princess Alice, joined the regiment here. The Italian offensive along the Tyrolean front here is believed to be the beginning of the execution of the plan of General Cadorna, Chief of the Italian staff, for the invasion of Austrian territory, which he is declared always to have held to be the best way of assisting Serbia. The capture by Italian forces of Pregasine, threatened Riva, while the taking of Brenonete of Castle Desce, 2500 feet above it, threatens Rovereto, menacing the Italian command of the route to Neri and the railway to Trent. The result of this offensive movement thus far are held here to indicate the Austrians may be obliged to triple their forces to meet it.

FIFTY AMBULANCES LOST.

LONDON, To-day. Fifty ambulances, which the French relief fund of Great Britain recently handed over to a representative of the French Government in London, has been lost at sea. The vessel on which they were being conveyed to France was torpedoed by a German submarine.

REPORTED RUSSIA CEDES ISLAND TO JAPAN.

LONDON, To-day. The Cologne Gazette, a copy of which has been received here, publishes a report which it says passed the Russian censor that Japan has undertaken to supply Russia with munitions in return for the complete cession of the island of Sakhalin, 570 miles long, and from 17 to 90 miles wide, which lies between the east coast of Asia and the northern islands of the Japanese archipelago. Russia owns the northern end and Japan the southern end of the Island.

GREAT BATTLE NOW ON.

ATHENS, To-day. A despatch received by the Russian Legation announces that Bulgarian troops have not taken Vranza as reported. They are said to have been held up by the formidable defence of Vlasina. However, they have succeeded in occupying the railroad north of the town. Great battle continues and remains undecided. French troops guarding communications are said to have left Cleveling in the direction of Vranza. The Serbian Legation denies that Bulgarians have occupied Zajecar.

BRITISH NURSE CONDEMNED TO DIE.

LONDON, To-day. The American and Spanish Ministers to Belgium intervened to have commuted the death sentence which was passed by German authorities at Brussels on Miss Edith Cavell, British nurse, but their efforts were fruitless. Lord Lansdowne told the House of Lords last evening. Lansdowne added that the people of this country were being continually shocked by such incidents, the last one always being more shocking than the one before.

SOUTH AFRICAN ELECTION—BOTHAS HAS FIFTY MEN RETURNED SO FAR—GENERAL SMUTS ELECTED.

CAPETOWN, To-day. General Smuts, Minister of the Interior and Defence of the Union of South Africa, has been re-elected to Parliament by a Pretoria constituency over the National and Labor candidates. The triumph of General Smuts in Pretoria is the only indication thus far of the probable outcome of the contest between adherents of the fighting force and those of the party which has conceded the party before polling began. The strong showing of the Unionists thus far is accounted for by the fact that returns from the cities of the Cape Province have been received before those of the country districts, where the South African and Nationalist parties dominate. The towns in the other provinces which have reported voted heavily for General Botha's South African party. Nationalists returns thus far have been poor, but are expected to improve with the rural returns. A number of leaders in all parties apparently have suffered reverses. This is especially true of the standard bearers of the Labor party, which has been rent in twain by factions for and against General Botha. Frederick P. Rowell, a Labor leader, who has supported General Botha, was defeated in two constituencies in which he was a candidate.

Bishop Power Leaves.

We understand that His Lordship Bishop Power has been nominated, pro tempore, President of the Catholic Extension Society of Canada, and that he will be leaving St. George's for Toronto about the end of the month. The duties which His Lordship will temporarily assume are of vast importance, since they include the Supervision of Roman Catholic Missions in Canada and the general extension work of the Church. He is succeeding the Very Rev. Alfred Ernest Barke, D.D., who recently went to the Western front. In his new sphere Bishop Power will be laboring in the Archdiocese of His Grace Most Rev. N. McNeil, of Toronto, who he succeeded as Bishop of St. George's. We are not aware if the recent appointment will involve the Bishop's resignation of his diocese on the West Coast, but we understand that he will spend the coming winter in Canada. We are, however, confident that the good Bishop of St. George's will carry with him the very best wishes of the people of Newfoundland of all classes and creeds, particularly those of his flock to whom he has ministered so faithfully and zealously since his elevation to the Episcopate.

This Date in History.

OCTOBER 21.
Full Moon—23rd
Days Past—293 To Come—71
BATTLE OF TRAFALGAR, 1805. In 1804 Spain joined France against England and it was by the strength of the combined fleets of the British and the French that Napoleon hoped to crush England's naval power. In September, 1805, Nelson set out to find the fleet and they met off Cape Trafalgar and the battle that ensued resulted in the greatest victory ever gained by Britain on the seas. England had, however, to mourn the loss of her famous commander Nelson being mortally wounded at the moment of victory.
S. T. COLERIDGE born 1772. English poet, philosopher and critic. The intellect of Coleridge is to be estimated rather by that of which it was capable, which it contemplated, and which it suggested, than by that which it achieved.
EDMUND WALLER died 1687, aged 82. One of the most graceful of English poets.
GREAT WAR 1914. Heavy fighting between Belgian and German troops on the banks of the Yser.
The German Army reported to be in full flight from Warsaw.
Sinking of British steamers Chilkana, Troilus, Benmohr, Clan Grant, and dredger Ponrabell in the Indian Ocean by German cruiser Emden reported; British steamers Exford and St. Egbert were also captured and the latter sent to Coochin with passengers and crews.

Our Volunteers.

Daily enlisting continues to be comparatively good. Five more young men offered their services for the Empire yesterday. Their names are:
Caleb G. Bishop, St. John's.
Wm. Geo. Jones, St. John's.
Jos. Clarke, Whitbourne.
Nahaniel Jones, Whitbourne.
Stephen Clarke, Marystown.
During the day the volunteers were engaged at indoor drill.
The total number of enrolments now is 2439.

Prohibition Meeting.

The prohibition meeting held at the T. A. Armory last night was largely attended. Dr. H. M. Mosdell presided, and after a brief reviewing the situation introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mr. W. White. Mr. White reported that much work was being accomplished by the canvassing committee and that the response of the public to the appeal of the committee was most satisfactory. He dealt with the question of shortage in the revenue which the advocates of liquor claim would follow prohibition. He considered that the shortage would be made up by the spending of more money for necessities, as a result of the increased earning power of all, and considered that the revenue derived from liquor is largely expended in the carrying out of the laws and the maintenance of the institutions made necessary by the traffic. In Russia there has been a great increase in the savings of the people. In conclusion he said that it was impossible to estimate the cost of drink on the basis of unhappiness, poverty and misery in the home. Mr. J. M. Devine was the next speaker, and in dealing with the question of revenue quoted the statement of Gladstone, on a memorable occasion said: "Give me a sober nation and I will look after the revenue." Mr. Devine continued with a strong appeal for the abolition of the traffic, and painted a word picture of the effects of drink on the brain and body. He felt that prohibition would be beneficial to Newfoundland as it has been to many other parts of the world. Mr. W. F. Coaker, M.H.A. followed, and dealt with the losses sustained by business men because of their employees being drinkers, and also with the false argument advanced by liquor supporters as to Confederation and the curtailing of men's liberties. He believed that a vote of 18,000 would be recorded between Brien and St. Barbe district, and that a total of 28,000 would possibly be polled for the Island. A vote of thanks proposed by Mr. J. W. Taylor and seconded by Mr. S. Woods, was accorded the speakers by acclamation. During the evening the chairman read an appeal contained in a letter from a volunteer to his father asking him to vote for prohibition; and adding that this might be the last request he would make of him. It was announced that a meeting of young voters will be held on Monday night next, after which the meeting closed.

GOOD NATURE.
By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Swash."
Good nature is a combined strength and weakness of mind which enables a man to endure placidly a scolding wife, an aching tooth, a late train, a thieving office holder, a chronic hope an insulting ticket agent, a small boy who has just asked his 1,111th question, an automobile suffering from mulishness and the telephone in all its phases and conditions.
Good nature is the breeding ground of laughter, the guardian of friendship, the lubricant of smooth-running families, the solace of fat men, the anaesthetic of misfortune and the curse of republics. With good nature a man can endure hard work, enjoy a large family, forget an insurgent corn and enjoy the jokes of Moses. Without good nature a man can possess twenty million dollars and get apoplexy because he has been short-changed five cents by a street car conductor. With good nature a man can run four blocks for a train that proves to be two hours late and can enjoy telling the incident for a week. Without good nature, a man will reach a station fifteen minutes early and try to sue the railroad company because he had to wait for the gates to open. Trying to endure the complications of modern life without good nature is like trying to run an automobile without lubricating oil. The result is heat, noise, sorrow and disaster.
Good-natured men are more valuable than statesmen to the world. A good natured man can go through a mob of ten thousand people and make less trouble about it than an ill-humored man can make all by himself in a church. If it were not for the good-natured men who lose there would be no fun in winning baseball games, billiard tournaments, track meets, golf matches and political bets. If it were not for the good-natured men, there would be no amateur theatricals, concerts or art exhibitions, and half the babies in the world would meet violent deaths while exercising their lungs.
Good nature is a precious boon to humanity, but it is much abused. There is too much of it for one thing. It should be rarer and used with less extravagance. Good nature is responsible for bad street car service, long sermons, thieving politicians, taxicabs that run a mile and a half in the same spot, short-weight coal dealers trust magnates, pre-Adams humor on the stage, hobble skirts, waste basket hats, detachable hair and man-eating automobiles. Having learned how to be good natured under all circumstances, mankind must now learn how to forget to be good-natured when he is imposed upon. Good-natured men are forever going about on the merry ways, being imposed upon by williams, and meekly enduring it, thus encouraging said williams to continue in crime. One good ill-natured man can reform more ticket agents than a million good-natured travelers, and the man who can't stay mad from the disclosure until the election is a peril to the republic.

Canadians Trapping the Germans.

"M. Maurice Barres, in the 'Echo de Paris,' says the Times Paris correspondent, 'gives an account of his recent visit to the British front. He describes how the trappers of the Canadian West employ against the German bear the thousand little tricks of their craft. 'When the Boche, reassured by the long silence and the stillness of the field, ventures on his way he is seized and trussed in two seconds. The other day, after a series of these merry ambushes, the trappers' sent to the Ger-

Battle Squadron of Aircraft Ready in France.

Paris, Oct. 9.—An aerial army is no longer a dream of romance. Such an army, formed in divisions and squadrons, with battle aeroplanes, cruiser aeroplanes, scouts and torpedo planes, all armoured heavily and carrying three-inch cannon and rapid-fire guns, is a reality. It has been made possible through the remarkable developments of military aviation in France.

The French Government to-day permitted the first inspection of its new fleet of aeroplanes. Opportunity was given to inspect the large and small types of the new battle planes, and watch them as they were manoeuvring high in the air, firing round after round from their three-inch rifles, while they soared, looped and darted about.

The aviation field is a vast enclosure. Entering the field, a monster battle-plane loomed up thirty feet high, with a number of planes stretching 130 feet across. Further back was ranged the fleet of battle-cruisers and scout planes. They were formed like a battalion, 20 planes in a row across the front, and ten deep. Their huge wings made a front half a mile wide.

Are Heavily Armed.

The battle-plane and all the cruisers were armed heavily. Each carried both the three-inch cannon and the rapid-fire gun. The huge battle-plane was the chief centre of attention. The engineer who constructed it explained the details. The officers stated this was the first actual realization of the battle-plane, other aerial dread-noughts having proved to be impractical. This monster actually flies, carrying a crew of twelve men, with two cannon on the wings, throwing three inch steel projectiles. Three trial flights have been made, demonstrating that it has the steadiness of an ordinary biplane. The huge craft is now ready for the battle line. The regular crew for fighting will consist of four men and an officer.

The armored cruiser aeroplanes were then brought out and put through tests high in the air. They are small biplanes of high power. Each is armed with a cannon, and is capable of rising almost vertically from the ground at a speed of ninety miles an hour.

Have Raided Germans.

A large number of these battle cruisers are now ready. Several of them recently carried out a night bombardment far back of the German line. During the Champagne engagement these cruisers hit a German balloon, which exploded in a mass of flames. This, however, was only the initial trial. The battle-planes and cruisers are soon to begin movements in large squadrons, both defensive and offensive. They are to attack the German lines of communication, particularly the railway junctions, with the object of cutting off supplies and spreading demoralization in the road of the Germans.

Each squadron will consist of nine aeroplanes of all types, including one battle-plane, two battle cruisers and six scout planes. The complement for a squadron will be upward of fifty officers and men, for the operation of aeroplanes and their transportation on lorries drawn by automobiles, with which each squadron will be equipped.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"How should a lady acknowledge an introduction to a man?" inquired Jane.

"Simply bow and say: 'How do you do, Mr. Blank.' In your own home extend your hand as a mark of cordiality," said her sister.

German Cruelty in S. W. Africa.

Johannesburg, Sept. 2.—9 Boer, Van As, of the Waterberg, Transvaal, Commando, vouches for a particularly ferocious instance of German cruelty during their defence of German South-West Africa against General Botha's Army.

Van As and other men came across a mound of earth which was at first taken to be a land mine. Digging showed that it was the graves of five natives, whose bodies had been bound together round the waist with barbed wire. There were no shot wounds or marks of violence on the bodies except much laceration of the flesh. The statements of natives at a kraal bore out the suspicion that these five men had been buried alive.

Several Germans, who are known to have committed equally cold-blooded murders of natives and who are not among the surrendered troops, are being searched for with a view to trial on the capital charge.—Exchange
