CHAPTER XXIII
 ROCKS AHEAD!

It was dusk that afternoon when Sydney, leaning in hand, came down from her own room, and heard herself softly called from the door of the study. Mr. Hurst had been there alone for the last hour. Now she found out what for.

"Have you a light?" he asked (those everyday admissions of his loss always smote her fresh with pain). "Then will you come here? Have I not been doing this for you? I caught my arm on the inkstand, and I expect I have undone my afternoon's labor."

True enough, an ink pool was spreading rapidly over the blotting pad, but, as yet, it was a good inch off the written page lying thereon. Sydney moved this hastily.

"Your letter is safe. The envelope—"

"Oh! that you are holding. I can soon get the things straight and rub the ink-prints off this paper."

"Has he hurt the carpet, or spoiled anything?" he asked, anxiously.

"Clumsy that I am! I don't want to damage the least of my poor sister's household goods."

"You have done no harm, and there is not a speck on your letter. Here it is."

But he drew back as she approached. "What is this?"

"It is the letter," she said. "Will you look through for me? I am forced to write to you. It is my first production without help. Is it legible?"

"Perfectly." But the penmanship of such elaborate pains was so different in its careful distances, and angles, from the freely written manuscripts of his days of light, that her one word betrayed commiseration. Mr. Hurst mistrusted her.

"If readable," he said, "will you let me hear it please? There is no secret in it."

So hidden she read:

"DEAR OLD FELLOW.—Best thanks for your note. As for the inquiry therein, your informant was right. We long ago parted with all interest in the company, your name. Unlucky for us we ever had any in it. Whatever you are after, I wish you prosperity. I am not such a curmudgeon as to grudge my old college mate good luck, though I seem out of the running. I should happily enjoy a chat with you, but just now a visit would not suit my excellent powers 'that be.' Therefore, I cannot say 'Come.' That I will do so, as soon as ever I can, you very well know. Till then, or till I manage my pen better in the dark, fare you well. Always, dear Drayton—"

"Drayton!" exclaimed Sydney, with a great start.

"Yes Drayton—Richard Drayton he is; the fellow who chummed with me at Wellborough and Oxford, and won many a rebuke, and, for all that, the hearty good-liking of our dear old tutor Vaughan—Ah, me! but those were good times. Is the name right?"

"Yes. I—I see now. Shall I fold it for you?"

She put the missive in its cover, read the superscription to her last year's acquaintance, now no farther away than Worcester, checked 'all thanks, kept quite watch over' Mr. Hurst, till very quietly out by the side entrance he went off with his letter—all this she did as if, awake, she were fulfilling a dream, completely for a space overcome by this strange coincidence of being sent by fate to minister to that sudden life she had felt so drawn forward, because described as "well-nigh helpless," well-nigh hopeless."

Pondering this added perplexity to her situation mechanically she cleared away all signs of Mr. Hurst's disaster, replaced the blotting-paper from her store (she would not have him worried over that), and then went out into the soft twilight, to let a blustering south wind aid in clearing away the new complications.

At first it seemed great. What she leave Wynston for fear of Mr. Drayton's coming? Did her promise to her mother exact such extreme caution? Oh surely not! Surely, as she was doing no harm she might stay. She ought. She would! A pain seemed lifted off her heart when she decided thus. For awhile, at any rate, she need not go. With a long, tremulous breath of relief, she looked up and smiled at the stars peeping down from behind the scurrying clouds, and then went back, gravely but gladly, into the house she was tying herself to by bonds beyond her present comprehension.

Mr. Hurst was at home, too, and in the front drawing-room, leaning on the back of his sister's chair.

"Where have you been?" Miss Hurst was saying. "Out? Oh, Gilbert! you know it frets me to have you on the road after dark."

"Why, Jean, it's the same as day to me."

"But not to other people. You might be hurt or run over. Don't you remember Cousin Priscilla's ferret got under a cart-wheel in the dusk, and had to be chloroformed and put out of the way, and how she fretted over it? I

TWO SISTERS GET HELP

Prize Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it did for them.

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was weak, overworked, and my periods stopped. My body was swollen and I often had pains so I had to lie down. I was treated by physicians, but they did not seem to help me at all. My sister had taken your medicine with good results. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am able to work and feel like working. I have been recommending your medicine to my friends, and you are welcome to use my testimonial for I can never praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me."—RODOLPH E. CARBAUGH, R. R. 1, Hagerstown, Md.

Women will tax their powers of endurance to the limit before they give up, and it is then some womanly ailment develops and they have to give up entirely. When a woman suffers from such ailments as irregular menstruation, headache, backache, bearing-down pains, inflammation, nervousness and "the blues," she will do well to profit by Mrs. Carbaugh's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

should fret a deal more over you, so don't go out in the gloaming, please."

"I'm a deal of trouble to you, Jean—letting his hand fall on her shoulder.

"Well, well! Who minds? I don't. You can't help it."

A few seconds' silence. Then, "What I can help, I will. You won't be put out by Drayton, Jean. I have stopped his coming."

"You have?" with animated relief.

"But," compunctiously sliding her fingers into his, "it vexes you to give him up? You are so dull here."

"No, Jean. Not dull, with you—and—"

The gratified sister broke in with a purr of contentment: "It is the greatest mercy left us, Gilbert, to think we are all in to each other."

And, in her unbounded satisfaction at this view, Miss Hurst was for weeks more trying to demonstrate than ever, as caretaker, or indeed proprietor, of her disabled brother, waiving their unamiable down to life's most minor details.

"Oh, dear!" she cried, coming laughing in one evening near Christmas-time, when Sydney was reading a resume of the past year's politics to Mr. Hurst, "did you hear me scolding 'Fanny' in the hall just now? The silly girl was creeping in from the porch with a bunch of mistletoe to hang up in the kitchen. For weeks I said, 'none of that nonsense, if you please! I cannot allow you any such tricks. Mr. Hurst and I never dream of such absurdities. Mistletoe, indeed!' Ah! Gilbert, we've forgotten such things, have we not?"

Her seniority might have prompted the speech; but it was an awkward one. Mr. Hurst took it in dead silence. Sydney, on whose lips, since her father died, nothing tender had lain than Mary Dacie's kiss, felt her cheeks suddenly flame; the more needless these blushes the more they burned. Happily they faded unheeded, while Miss Hurst hunted up her woe-work. But the vivid color would often now fly to Sydney's face, out of somewhat indignant sympathy. For poor Miss Jean's determination to level her brother to her own standard grew more and more aggressive. He must live and move according to her solicitous rule; he pleased with her great self-denying skill in providing him gentlemanly fare and habitments out of her narrow income; never feel or never exhibit other feelings than to vegetate placidly under her mastery's code. And how such a man endured this life, Sydney, with eyes open to the capacities of each, marvelled more every day.

Marvelled! Till she recognized in this pathetic submission to the affectionate, fidgeting feminine despot the culture of something superior to intellect, and realized, each time she saw him harassed yet uncomplaining, wounded yet not outwardly wincing, that the deepest force of his strong manhood was under more powerful control than that of either mere moral or physical mastery. All of which knowledge carried her on to very dangerous regions.

THE BEST CHANCELLORS VS. THE MILK PAUL RICHERS.

There are some people who for every kind deed they do, for every gift they give, exact at least twice the pay they deserve in gratitude.

And at the other end of the scale are people who will accept service and gifts and kindness of every sort and then absolutely refuse to pay even a fair return in gratitude. They can always think of some reason why they do not need to be grateful. Sometimes they value some small service of their own at a ridiculously high value, sometimes they have some other method of discounting what they receive.

I wrote about the first class the other day when I likened them to the cow which gives a pail of rich milk and then kicks it over. I want to say a word about the second class to-day, to keep the balance even.

We Want Some Sign.

It is a petty, foolish thing to try to exact a full return in gratitude. It is a natural human craving to want some sign that those to whom you give service and then kick it over. I want to say a word about the second class to-day, to keep the balance even.

anyone asks for payment of the gratitude debt, they immediately repudiate the debt and seem to think they cannot do it by saying they will never accept anything more. Usually the people they say it to are the kind who are constituted that they simply cannot help giving, so the others run no risk. They know they will keep on receiving and that they will have an outlet on the gratitude.

What Each Will Think.

Of course it is inevitable that of the milk-pail-kickers should think those who don't give them enough gratitude belong in the debt cancelling class, and that all the debt collectors think those who want a word of gratitude now and then belong in the pail kicking class.

I wonder if anyone will read this and examine not a neighbor (or a husband or a wife) but HIMSELF!

GENERAL ELECTION FOR CANADA.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 1. — A general election in Canada before the year. Redistribution, based on the census returns, is an accomplished fact for many years. It is announced, would not be before December. So the idea of an election had been given up and the government had been reached. This is the momentous announcement by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, to an address which overflowed from the Grand Opera House and in the streets outside to-night.

FIN ACCEPTS INVITATION.

DUBLIN, Sept. 1. — The Irish government has accepted the invitation for further Conference in London. No plenipotentiaries have yet been nominated however.

SOVIET IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Sept. 1. — The red flag is raised in the South of Ireland. In Brinsford, County Limerick, a group of transport workers and a mill and bakery and declared themselves Soviet. Placards declaring the mills were now the property of the Russian Soviet workers were put up. They contain the announcement "we make bread, not profit." The action followed the dismissal of employees of the mill whom the workers refused to reinstate.

RESENTATIONAL STORY.

BELFAST, Sept. 1. — A riot was quiet to-day with the exception of a slight outbreak of fighting in the morning, which was quickly quelled. Strong detachments of police and military with armed cars patrolled the affected district. The riotous statement that a Sinn Féin army had authorized the Irish Republic to intervene in the war here yesterday was made.

MR. COAKER PROMISES TO AMEND CHARTER.

At last night's meeting of the Civic Commission, correspondence was read in connection with the proposed city loan. In reply to a message from Commissioner Jackman, Hon. W. F. Coaker agreed to have the Charter amended at the December session of the House to permit the City to raise the required loan for Civic improvements. Mayor Morris presided and Councillors Vintcombe, Pest, Jackman and Collier were present.

The following matters were considered by the Board:

The Deputy Colonial Secretary, in reply to Council's request for copy of Amended City Charter, as passed at the last session of the Legislature, stated same was at present in the hands of the printers, and copy would be forwarded when completed.

Geo. W. B. Ayre, on behalf of the St. John's Gas Co., thanked the Council for the kind consideration given their application for exemption from tax on gas coal for manufacturing purposes. He also pointed out the present financial standing of the Company, and asked recommendation be made the Government to guarantee an amount of $100,000 to enable the Company to meet all liabilities. The Company being one of the oldest manufacturing concerns in the country, and as it has not had the support of assistance from the Government, such as other companies have received, and as it is a public utility, the Council decided to accede to their request, and recommendation will be forwarded the Government forthwith.

A letter was read from Inspector-General Hutchings in reference to the statement made at last week's meeting of the Council, with regard to the refusal of the Fire Department to make repairs to hose couplings, enclosing Capt. Michael Dunne's report on the matter. The Inspector stated that, on several occasions, hose had been repaired by the members of the Department, and he did not think such statements should be allowed to pass uncontradicted. He also stated that he and the members of the Fire Department were most anxious at all times to facilitate the City Council in every possible way, and, if the Council wished this work done in the future, permission should be obtained from the officer in charge.

A communication was read from H. D. Reid, stating he would be only too willing to meet with the wish of the Council, in having wooden fence around his property, at junction of Forest and King's Bridge Roads, removed, so as to eliminate "blind corner" at this place. The Council desire to thank Mr. Reid for so readily complying with their wishes.

Letters were received from R. Tobin, Charlton Street, and M. J. O'Brien, New Gower Street, asking that hoppers fronting their dwellings be removed. As water and sewerage are installed in the houses mentioned, it was ordered the request of the owners be acceded to.

Geo. Tucker wrote as to the condition of Gear Street. The Engineer will give the matter his attention.

A letter was read from Mr. S. Wilbar, in reference to fencing of his land on the Pipe Line Road. The Engineer was instructed to inquire into same.

The City Health Officer recommendation that permits be given J. Martin for coach house, Casey St., and F. Barron for stable, rear of the "Maples," Hamilton Street, the latter to conform to the regulations governing such structures within the city.

The application of Moore and Company to install an electric motor on their premises, was referred to the Engineer.

A letter was read from Jas. Phelan, in reference to the painting of the fence around the Parade Ground. Mr. Phelan thought the work was sufficient to give employment to a greater number of painters.

Applications of F. Kelly, South Side, and P. Williams, Parade Street, for permission to make repairs to houses, were granted, while that of Michael O'Brien, to repair stable, 34 Freshwater Road, was referred to the City Engineer for inquiry.

R. Churchill applied for share of work in connection with motor trucks. This was ordered to be placed on file.

The following plans were passed, subject to the City Engineer's approval: Reid Ndg. Co., extension to garage, Railway Station; J. T. Eagan, dwelling extension, LeMarchant Road; T. Pottle, outhouse, Cornwall Avenue; J. Dawson, Merrymeeting Road, must submit proper plan before his application can be considered.

During the week the attention of the Council has been called to the fact that certain residents of Patrick Street have removed house numbers placed there by the Council within the past few months. This is a violation of the Municipal Act, and it was ordered that the names of the delinquents be forwarded the Solicitor to take action.

The City Engineer reported that a blow-out has occurred on the 16th main at Rennie's River, where the work of repairing was very difficult, owing to the leak being underneath the main, and it would be necessary to pump the water from the river so that water might be prevented with Mayor Morris, realizing the necessity for immediate action in this matter, communicated with the Inspector-General at noon Thursday, who sent one of the fire engines to the scene of the trouble, work being resumed at 2 p.m. The Council very much appreciate the assistance given by the Inspector-General.

The reports of the City Health Officer, Sanitary Supervisor, etc., were read.

Tenders are to be called for the supply of oats for the Sanitary Department.

In connection with the proposed raising of a loan of $1,000,000.00 for civic improvements, the following telegrams to and from Commissioner Jackman were read:

New York, Aug. 26th.

W. H. Jackman, St. John's.

Congratulations on adoption by Council of your plan to make St. John's clean, up-to-date City. Have shown Advocate explaining your plan and Hon. W. F. Coaker's Fish Nationalization policy, to the largest building organization here, who are so impressed with the soundness of both policies, they have authorized me to loan money on their account to build 500 houses in St. John's on street connected by car line, with water and sewerage. Only market price of building materials will be asked. No profit on construction. In ten years parties can own their own homes for what they are now paying rent. As this matter is important give it publication.

(Sgd.) E. COLLISHAW.

St. John's, Aug. 27th.

Hon. W. F. Coaker, Port Union.

"Advocating raising loan million civic improvements, tram car extension. Charter failed give Council authority raise bond issue. Could you agree amend obstructing section Charter, December session?"

(Sgd.) JACKMAN.

Port Union, Aug. 27.

W. H. Jackman, St. John's.

"I am agreeable to amend Charter as suggested."

(Sgd.) W. F. COAKER.

The payrolls and bills submitted were ordered paid, after which the meeting adjourned.

For years I have never considered my stock of household remedies complete unless a bottle of Minar's Linctus was included. For burns, bruises, sprains, frostbites or chilblains it excels, and I know of no better remedy for a severe cold in the head, or that will give more immediate relief, than to inhale through the nasal organ.

And as to my supply of veterinary remedies it is essential, as it has in very many instances proven its value. A recent experience in retaining what was supposed to be a lost section of a valuable cow's udder has again demonstrated its great worth, and prompts me to recommend it in the highest terms to all who have a herd of cows, large or small. I think I am safe in saying among all the patent medicines there is not one that cures as large a field of usefulness as does Minar's Linctus. A real true-ism—good for man or beast.

If you have never used Libby's Evaporated Milk, you will be amazed to find how good, how convenient and economical it is. Many women who first tried it in some emergency now use it always—they find it gives such satisfactory results.

There's no waiting for the milkman—you can always keep several cans on the shelf and in summer there's no bothering with ice, and in winter the milk wagon can get stuck in a heavy drift of snow as often as it wants to!

And there's less waste—a can of Libby's Evaporated Milk will keep indefinitely before being opened—and after you have opened a can you can use just what you need; the rest, put in a cool place, will keep several days.

The Deer-Lake-Bonne Bay Road.

A few days ago the Advocate referred to the circulation of false reports of frightful conditions existing amongst the laborers employed on the construction of the Deer Lake-Bonne Bay highway, a correspondent writing that he had seen such reports, and asking that they be contradicted. For our own part we have not either read or heard any sensational stories of the nature set forth by the Advocate. The press of St. John's has not contained one single word of criticism on the construction of this much needed road, and if any reports have been circulated as to alarming conditions, they must have emanated solely from the men working there, and carried farther afield by those who listened. It may be part of a certain policy to have the Advocate pretend that untruthful statements are being made about this method of employment, by the press opposed to the Government, in order that the same might be dished out for consumption in the North. The same thing applied to Badger, the Opposition press being charged with distorting facts and making mountains out of molehills, for the political embarrassment of the Government. The pursuit of such a course by the only organ of the present administration may be good politics, but it is mighty poor journalism. Fictional items of the nature of that already referred to, touching Deer Lake may be dreamed by the contributor, or his imagination may have been so vivid that he wrote of conditions that were not and did not exist and so persuade some to believe that these bold, bad, altogether incorrigible and irresponsible newspapers, the Daily News and Telegram were at their fricks again.

Whatever difference of opinion there may have been as to the actual necessity for the Badger road, there was none whatever over the building of a highway from Deer Lake to Stanleyville (Bonne Bay) because every person who knows anything about the many handicaps under which the people of that section labor through lack of communication during one third of the year, believes that the road at present under construction, will, if ever completed, be of great advantage to the people of the North West Coast. This road is really a public utility, and should have been built long ago. In fact the Telegram has ever been a staunch advocate of a direct connection between the prosperous and enterprising people of Stanleyville, Norris Point, Woody Point, and the other settlements comprised in Bonne Bay, and, through this busy centre, to the inhabitants of the numerous fishing villages to the north. All that we can do wish, is that this road will be carried to the lumbering centre of Stanleyville, and if possible, next year, continued on down the shore of East Arm to Naddy's Harbor, so that if in future it becomes expedient to link up other settlements along the coast, there will be no difficulty in extending this connecting road still farther along. Even with the terminus at Stanleyville the advantages to be derived from the means of such a facilitation of transport will be great, but with it carried to Naddy's Harbor, the benefits would be doubly increased, because the distance from there to Woody Point, the chief commercial town, would be considerably reduced. From the first we have been favorably disposed toward such advantageous road connection where profitable, and so far we have not been shown any real reason for changing our views in this respect.

The Horseless Carriage.

We would like to direct the attention of motorists and pedestrians alike to a splendid series of articles under the above caption, specially written for and appearing in the Evening Telegram on Friday's. Should readers not find the weekly installment on their favorite page, we suggest that they search diligently until they come to the "Horseless Carriage" column, which carries an attractive and ornamental picture, and contains much that is of interest and information. See page-to-day.

S. U. F. Club Gives Banquet.

A very enjoyable function took place in the Club Rooms of the Society of United Fishermen, Water Street, last night, when the Executive entertained the members, who attended in goodly numbers to partake of the hospitality so generously offered. Mr. James Rendell, the esteemed President and father of the Club, was the promoter of the entertainment, and the many tributes paid to his energy and interest in all matters appertaining to the Order of United Fishermen, were of such a nature as to convey the hearty appreciation of all who enjoy the genial atmosphere which pervades the apartments in which members frequent. Speeches and songs made up a programme which was enjoyed by all, and the hostess's whistle, sounding at eight bells (midnight) brought all present to their feet, when the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem, brought a very pleasant and sociable evening to a close.

Winning Teams Dined.

A dinner was given last night at Wood's West End Restaurant by the friends and supporters of the C.C.C. to the teams which won the football race at the Regatta and the Tag-of-war in the W.G.C. sports. Lt. Col. C. O'N. Conroy presided. Amongst the guests were the Chaplain, Rev. Fr. Pippy, and Mr. E. F. Collins, President of the Boat Club. A lengthy toast list was gone through during the evening, speeches being made by Lt.-Col. Conroy, J. M. Spearns, Rev. Fr. Pippy, C. McGrath, P. F. Collins and Coswain Ryan, whilst songs were rendered by Messrs. J. J. O'Grady, C. E. Jardine, E. Peters and others. Mr. C. E. Jardine presided at the piano and a very enjoyable evening was spent, the affair terminating at midnight with the singing of the National Anthem.

Police Court.

The man Snow, whose arrest the police had so much trouble in effecting yesterday, appeared before the Magistrate this morning charged with the larceny of two carriage lamps and a calfskin. He was remanded for eight days.

An old offender who was charged with being drunk was discharged.

A man charged with being drunk and disorderly in the Salvation Army Depot was fined $5 or 14 days. Sentence was suspended, however, on the promise that the defendant should, in future, keep away from the Depot.

On Shooting Charge.

A Finnish seaman who was charged with being drunk and discharging firearms within the city limits was fined $20 or 20 days. The accused had a revolver of 22 calibre which, yesterday afternoon, he discharged on a wharf in the direction of some boys who were standing by. The boys immediately ran off and informed the police. In his defence the accused said that he was only trying to frighten the boys off the wharf. Besides imposing a fine, Magistrate McCarty ordered the revolver to be confiscated.

To-Morrow's Cricket.

To-morrow's cricket match between the Shamrocks and the Faldians is arousing great interest amongst those who at one time were keen followers of the game. The Shamrock team is as follows—E. Berrigan, E. Power, P. Wallace, E. Berrigan, J. Savage, S. Cuff, E. Furlong, T. Ryan, J. Canning, E. P. Morris and M. Finn.

The Faldian team will probably be made up as follows but all of those chosen are not sure whether they will be able to play or not—R. F. Goodridge, J. Paterson, C. E. A. Jeffery, W. Angus Reid, H. A. Winter, E. Jeffrey, G. Hunt, Edgan G. Ewing, Harold C. Hayward, Rev. J. Britton and A. Martin. The team will be captained by C. E. A. Jeffery. It is unfortunate that a better cricket pitch than that now in use, cannot be obtained, as neither batsmen nor bowlers can do themselves justice on it.

Cup Presented.

The cup won by the Briton team in the football stakes at the C. of E. Garden Party sports was presented this morning on board H. M. S. Briton by a representative of the C. L. B. C. Athletic Association. This was done because the Briton team is shortly going away. The cup for the 10 mile race in the Dominion Sports, which was won by Jack Bell, and the silver for the C. of E. Garden Party sports, will be presented next Thursday evening at the C. L. B. C. Armory. The presentation will probably be preceded by a band concert and gymnastic display.

Mother Detained.

POLICE ENQUIRY INTO SUSPICIOUS BURIAL.

As a result of suspicious circumstances surrounding the death and burial of her five months old child, a woman is now detained at Placentia whilst the police are investigating the matter. The woman went out to Placentia recently on the morning train with the child, which was alive when they reached their destination. That same afternoon the child was buried.

The circumstances aroused suspicion and the mother was immediately taken into surveillance whilst the infant's body was exhumed and sent on to town. It was met at the station yesterday by Head Constable O'Neill, who brought it to the Morgue, where Dr. J. S. Tait conducted a post mortem examination, the result of which has not yet been made public.

B. I. S. Outing.

The B.I.S. held their final outing for the season at Donovan's last night. Over 250 people were present and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The B.I.S. orchestra was in attendance and provided excellent music for the dance, which wound up the outing. These weekly outings at Donovan's during the season were originated during the present year, and have been an enormous success. All have been well attended, and the proprietors of Donovan's gave entire satisfaction in the matter of catering. The dances, which were held at each outing, were all thoroughly enjoyed, and the music was in every case provided by the Society's own orchestra. Special notice has been taken in this connection to see that all the music was the very latest. It was with great regret that those who were accustomed to attend the outings, find that there will be no more until next summer.

Examination Results.

Upon enquiry at the office of the Department of Higher Education this morning, a Telegram reporter was informed that the results in the lower grades of the C.H.E. examinations had not yet arrived, but were expected at any moment. Many of those who sat for the examinations are anxiously awaiting the results, and the same applies to those schools, which make their "removes" on these examination results.

Stolen Safe Found.

The safe, which was reported in yesterday's Telegram as having been stolen from the Treasury Department of the Reid Nid. Co., was discovered yesterday in a garden on the lead ing up to the shooting range on the South Side Hills. It had been forced open, and the lock was broken. The papers which it contained were still in the safe. It is evident that the burglars expected to find that it contained cash, and they must have been bitterly disappointed after the labour and risk undergone in getting it up the hill, to find nothing but valueless papers in it. The police are still investigating. The safe was occasionally used as a cash box by the paymaster, and weighed about thirty pounds.

Concerning Bishop Spencer College.

A short paragraph appeared in your columns yesterday concerning Bishop Spencer College. I feel it is a little premature and possibly misleading to the general public. It is perfectly true that certain members of the teaching staff cannot be retained until the return of the Bishop. But the Directors have not made any decision concerning the date of the meeting. Those members of the staff who are coming by the "Sachein" probably will not reach here until the 24th of September, but an announcement will be made on the College that date.

I am interested to have a note from some of the new appointments to the Teaching Staff. One is Miss W. Head, B.A., and Teacher's College, Liverpool. For three and a half years, during the war, she did the work in France among the Y.M.C.A. Before that she was in the well known school at St. Leonard's, where she was for three years. She was in a large High School. She was in English and History. She was in Modern Languages. She was in training in France and in England, and has had a number of years of successful experience, including appointments at Edgely and St. John's. Another is Miss Keith, who has been second mistress of the St. John's School. She was in the Froebel Higher Certificate, and also in teaching high school. Her record is a good one. She was in the Froebel Higher Certificate and in the Kindergarten work. Her record is a good one, and that the Kindergarten work is being rapidly increased. She will take charge of the re-organization of the C. of E. Kindergarten of the C. of E. College building. The other members of the staff, in addition to the Miss Richards, are Miss C.T. Miss Elizabeth Stead, London; Miss Rolf, A.A.; Miss A.A.; Miss Gertrude Sharpe, C. of E. and possibly another. In addition to the other staff, Miss Stirling will preside over the Needlework Department, Miss Stirling will attend the House of Commons School, which is under the supervision of Miss Alice Furneaux. The opening date of the College will be announced to-morrow.

Yours faithfully,
W. W. BLACKALL,
Supt. C. E. College.

Lands Office Please Note.

There are over twenty five hundred acres of land on the Deer Lake-Bonne which we understand to be available for motor traffic. To be successful, however, it is necessary to bridge the Humber. We do not know whether it is the intention of the Government to do that, but we trust it is. This is a splendid agricultural land. The Government will have to be marked off in blocks and not one individual or concern to take any great portion of the frontage. There has already been too much speculation in this country with respect to agriculture has not developed otherwise would have.

Kaiser Heard Truth From Crippled Soldier.

German war historians who painted the Kaiser as a hero overlooked this side of the story of a wounded man, who depicted his majesty and told him plainly and truthfully what he had never heard from a "subject."

This happened in the summer of 1918, when the Kaiser was in the park, when the government was beginning to make itself felt. The Kaiser, sitting comfortably in Sans Souci palace at Potsdam, had seen the horrible struggle "out there in the field." He felt the need to get in touch with the people, so he commanded his retainer to gather up some visitors, preferably war invalids, to the park.

The retainer went on the search. He found a man there. His mood was sad. The weather was too hot and the sun shot off below the knee for the invalid—pained him.

The retainer approached.

"Come with me, please," he said. "Your majesty wants to speak to you."

"With me?" responded the invalid. "He doesn't know me."

"Your majesty wishes to see a war invalid," said the retainer.

"Then let him go out to the barracks," answered the invalid. "There or on the front he can see them in heaps and he need not worry about their crying 'Amara!'"

"Your majesty will give you something—probably 100 marks," said the retainer enticingly.

"A healthy leg would be better and I know I'll get the money," he answered.

The retainer was nonplussed, and finally passed a 100-mark bill to the man, who looked at the Kaiser himself and laughed at the Kaiser.

The invalid didn't bow and scrape and salute as was customary. Instead he laughed, remarking he needn't say anymore since the Kaiser had asked him up instead of his searchers for the Kaiser.

The Kaiser sought to be affable. "Have you lost your leg?" he asked, receiving the reply, "God knows I've answered that question often enough. It was somewhere in France, where you don't go with your usual limbs. There was little to eat and much shooting. It wasn't as pleasant there as here."

So sharp a reply had the Kaiser never before experienced.

Looking sternly at the cripple, he replied:

"I know you've had a bad time. But I am your Kaiser and your master. My fate lies in my hand. But I consider that you shed your blood for me."

The cripple was pale with rage.

"According to the law of September 19, 1915," he said, "I am forever unfit for service. Thereby my fate is removed from the hand of the Kaiser. I shed my blood for my family and my home. At least I believe that, and it would be bad for my country and my people if it had been shed for the Kaiser. You are the Kaiser, but not my master. I am a free man, even though I'm a cripple."

The cripple hobbled off, leaving behind him a 100-mark bill lay at the Kaiser's feet.

The Sad Sea Waves.

Ninety persons out of a hundred if asked to describe the motion of a wave would smile at the apparent simplicity of the question, and say that, of course, the motion was forward and horizontal.

Wrong! The motion of a wave is vertical—just up and down. Up and down in the same place, too. Waves do not move forward. If they did they would go on and on until shore and beach were flooded. They would overrun flat country until hills barred further advance.

The apparent onward motion of a wave is an optical deception, and the best illustration of the deception is that afforded by a corkeraw. Turn the latter round and the thread appears to move forward. We know that it doesn't, however.

The cause of waves is the wind. It presses unevenly on the surface of the sea, and depresses one part more than another. Each depression causes a corresponding elevation, and these undulations make the waves. The motion goes forward, but the actual water remains where it was.

It may be asked: "What about tides?" Surely, the water advances then? The reply is that a tide is caused by the elevation of the whole ocean. The moon raises the mass of water. When the ocean sinks, the water runs back. Thus we get tides. Two of these occur in a lunar day of twenty-four hours forty-nine minutes; but some places, owing to their peculiar position, get second, or minor, tides after the first has begun to fall.

Physical Development

And its Bearing on Health and Strength.

INFLUENCE OF EXERCISE ON DIGESTION.

Will-Power.—It should never be forgotten that the results of exercise, or physical culture, are not by any means limited to the body. They embrace the will-power and also numerous moral qualities. These need to be called into requisition with every physical effort, and this constitutes their exercise and constant strengthening and growth. Exercise of will-power, in connection with bodily exercise soon gives the former such control that without active physical exertion, but simply by will-exertion—muscles can be used and developed to an unlimited extent. This strengthening of will-power not only means health of body, but success in life. With will-power fully strengthened goes the kindred quality of self-control, a prime helper toward the completion of the perfect man, not only as to physical proportion, but as to all the qualities classed as intellectual and moral.

Time Required.—Once developed strong limbs and a shapely frame, and a very little exercise comparatively will keep them so. Get the vigorous heart and ample lungs, set in a fair proportioned and ample chest and but a small fraction of the time spent in carefully regulated exercises will retain them in good condition. The portion of each day thus occupied need not be more than the busiest life can spare, nor in excess of that which the gravest mind would seek for recreation and recuperation. And that such results can be really attained, may be demonstrated by reference to the recorded experience of lading teachers of the gospel of physical exercise.

Increase of Lung Capacity.—Dr. Morgan cites an instance of a hollow-chested and weak-lunged man who, by persistent systematic exercise extending over six months, increased the air capacity of his lungs from 250 cubic inches to 300 cubic inches. The value of this augmented lung capacity is inestimable. Suppose a man to be attacked by pneumonia, pleurisy, or broncho-pneumonia, it may be readily conceived in such an emergency to admit forty or fifty additional inches of air will suffice to turn the scales in favor of his recovery.

Lung Function.—Perhaps it is not generally known that only about one-third of the lungs is brought into play in ordinary breathing. Rest assured the other two-thirds will be called into requisition some day or some hour, and therefore should always be kept in condition by proper lung exercises. The most important lung function is the elimination of the deleterious carbon dioxide remaining after oxygen is extracted from the air. In active exercises one becomes breathless and exhausted. This is because the one-third of the lung power is not equal to the task of throwing off deleterious accumulation. Now it is that the other two-thirds are called into requisition. They must be in a position to act promptly and efficiently. Hence the importance of daily, systematic and full lung exercise. It is as essential to health as eating and sleeping. This fact will be soon learned after sufficient trail, for the whole man will soon respond, deep, easy and satisfactory breathing will ensue, and the revelation will be surprising.

Evils of Too Little Exercise.—The gradually increasing fallow of muscular power observed when neglect of proper exercise is persistent, is the result of microscopic changes in the structure of muscles involved, during which some of the materials of construction disappear and are substituted by powerless and inert fat. This change of texture weakens the muscular fibres, so that any sudden strain upon them might cause them to tear across. Such an accident, if it affected the heart, would prove suddenly fatal.

Fatty Degeneration.—After middle life, when the period of decay commences, it can readily happen that a muscle which has undergone fatty degeneration in consequence of long disuse, may give way when called upon to perform some unusual feat. Thus, for example, a man of fifty, who, after years of sedentary life, makes an effort to throw a ball for a long distance, may be seized with a sudden sharp pain like the cut from a whip, and find the arm thus affected drop to his side entirely helpless. On examination a surgeon discovers that the biceps, or large muscle on the front of the arm, has been torn across, in consequence of its weakened condition, the result of fatty degeneration.

No Soldiers Need Apply.

Contrary to the spirit which should actuate all possessed of patriotic minds, Hon. Dr. Barnes, who should be the first to set an example, has given the positions in connection with the census in his district to men who, never did any military service, and has ignored the claims of war veterans for the same jobs. Surely a better precedent than this should be established by a responsible minister, who was so eloquent at one time on behalf of Newfoundland's warriors.

Did you see the pretty dress she wore at the dance last Wednesday? Yes I did, and also heard several admiring it. She bought the VOILE at BOWRING'S, they are selling it for only $1.00 yard.—aug29,31,ood

Sea Superstitions.

(Daily Mail.)

"Bon voyage," I said to the friend who was going yachting round about the Isles of the west coast of Scotland. "I hope you have a good time. Good-bye, Farewell."

Just in time my tongue slipped the good-bye into the right parting salutation. Once you have lived among the fishers you learn to avoid with dread the saying of good-bye to those who depart on the seas. Farewell is always the parting benediction; it holds a sense of good luck, whereas the other word in the ears of those who dwell upon the coast is full of the ominous.

The man of the seaboard to whom good-bye is said may never return. Up on the Yorkshire and Northumberland coasts the women shrink back in fear if ever the word is inadvertently uttered.

Pig is the unluckiest thing a fisher can run across. A girl with a silver bracelet on her arm to which was attached a mascot silver pig aroused the terrified protestations of a crew of fishermen at Cullercoats, as she was about to step on their boat for a pleasure cruise.

It was not until the offending pig was removed that she was allowed aboard. So strong is the superstition that pork is a forbidden article of diet in some boats.

Upon the great trawlers which come into Grimsby there is the superstition that the youngest aboard—usually a lad—should be allowed to open the trawl net when it holds its sea harvest, for the sake of luck.

It is down in Cornwall, where the mackerel is seized, that you hear talk of the ill-luck which has come to a fishing village after a great glut of fish. Gluts mean waste, and ill-luck will always follow waste.

Again, there is the question of unreadiness. They will tell you in some Cornish villages of how at times in the past the pilchards have come and the men were not ready. Hence the "pilcher" have gone. As if in support of the superstition, at one port paid watchers are always on the cliff waiting for the return of the pilchards which have not been there in any quantity for the last ten years.

Oceanographers may have their own theories for the drifting away of the pilchards, but the fishers have theirs too.

It is in the fishing places of glorious Devon that no offer of help is ever refused as a fishing craft beaches. The beachcomber of the wastrel who puts leisurely hands to a rowlock or the end of a rope, for the sake of a few pence, is never pushed aside.

For the time may come when all help will be needed to save boats and men, and it is ill-luck to cast aside aid in the hour of safety.

FIRE ANNIVERSARY.—To-day (Sept. 2) is the thirty-second anniversary of the destruction by fire of the Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception at Harbor Grace, one of the most beautiful and artistic specimens of ecclesiastical architecture in the British Provinces. It was modelled after the great Cathedral of St. Peter's in Rome.

OBEYING THE LAW.

The law forbidding arms has caused me many sighs, although my friend the parson maintains that it is wise. A confagrati on rouses in me a spirit gay; I'm fond of firing houses and barns and stacks of hay. I like to see 'em burning up, a summer night; besides my yearning and sighing, with delight. But there's a law forbidding the sport I most desire; the law says, "Quit your kidding," when I would start a fire. And I am law abiding, the statutes must prevail; I let my dreams go sliding, and thus keep out of jail. Oh, there are laws that give us, each gent some grievance; "Verboten" signs before us increase our many woes. But if we plan to break them, these laws that we detest, not only do we shake them, but injure all the rest. Yes, many statutes bore us, and make our lives seem dark; but anarchy's before us if we don't toe the mark. If laws are vain and foolish some day they'll be repealed; some day, perhaps, we'll flay them, but while they're on the books, if we don't all obey them, we line ourselves with crooks.

Super-Wireless.

Battles fought with crewless aeroplane bombers, mines unmanned, submarines, ships, searchlights, guns, etc., all controlled by wireless—all the mechanism of strife brought into play, perhaps, by the simple pressing of a button! Such, it is said, are but a few of the wireless wonders of the future. Along the outer side of life there are other joys to come. The journalist will be armed with a pocket wireless telephone instrument. From the scene of his story he will talk his "news" direct to the newsroom, and receive his instructions from the editor without further time and money being wasted in getting back to the office.

Wireless photographs will extend their power. When the wireless system is more perfect newspapers will be able to publish pictures of topical interest within twenty minutes of their being taken and at a distance of 10,000 miles away.

On trains no driver, guard, and stoker will be necessary; wireless will control the whole thing from beginning to end. Perhaps, in the long run, wireless will also control us; may become the A to Z of our existence! Who knows? Transparent hems and long over-draperies show the trend toward longer skirts.

Grief and Laughter.

According to some Oriental writers, the father of Mohammed, whose name was Abdulla, was very much liked by the ladies of his time. He was originally a camel-driver; but, notwithstanding his humble origin, they all loved him—so much so that when he married over one hundred of those Eastern maidens are said to have died of broken hearts!

The cause, we are told, was that grief overcame them when they knew they could not have Abdulla for a husband. It is not often that we read of "merry" deaths. Yet perhaps one of the most surprising cases of this kind is that of a painter named Souzia. Historians tell us that he lived about 450 B.C. at Athens, and was the greatest artist of that time. It is recorded that he once painted a comical picture of an old woman; and one day, while reflecting over his own humour in front of the portrait, he commenced laughing at it!

FRAGE OF MIND.

Life has no richer joy than peace of mind. This is the common goal of great and low. The perfect bliss which every man must know. It happens on earth he is to find: To live his days and never leave behind. Shame or regret or hatred's drifted snow. Taking the pleasures as they come and go. Nor asking others of a greater kind. Who wears this lovely jewel on his breast. Has none to envy, for no man can be happier with all his treasures than he is; For this is victory shining at the best. To come to nightfall or gray, wrinkled age. Content with what is written on the page.

to the elbow—the shortest limit that harmonised with "business."

At present there is no attempt to approach uniformity of a uniform.—Daily Mail.

2,000-Years-Old Love Letters.

Among the remarkable discoveries in the new excavations at Pompeii are several love-letters of patrician girls to successful gladiators. They were found near the newly unearthed wine-shop in the Street of Abundance, which has almost been restored to its appearance as it was 2,000 years ago.

The letters are on ivory tablets, and one is addressed to a gladiator named Strax, who, in the opinion of Professor Victoria Splanzola, director of the Museum here, was probably a "bar-a god to me. Thy beauty and strength have blotted from my brain" from Britain. The letter reads:

Art thou Phoebus Apollo in the body of Hercules? Indeed thou art eyes all other men. I am young and the sunburnt I declare say that I am beautiful. I will await thee, beloved one, near the Temple of Isis!

Inscriptions on the walls under drawings of gladiators show that Chloa, Lydia, and Cornelia were in love with them.

Other tablets have been found perfectly preserved in a great chest, once the property of an old money-lender, who seemed to have been the banker of Pompeii. Sufficient evidence has been deduced from these tablets to prove that many of the young "bachelors" of Pompeii paid frequent visits to the old man, on account of the high cost of feasting and jewels.—Daily Mail.

The Horseless Carriage.

(A weekly column devoted to the interests of the Motoring Public.)

Last week we tried to point out the reason that some small car owners have not got the rebate on 1920 taxes that some of them thought—erroneously—they were entitled to. This week we are going to point out a real grievance which about seventy five per cent. motorists have in connection with last year's taxation. In June last year motor taxes were collected according to the 1920 schedule. Later in the season an act came into force advancing the taxation on all motor vehicles, this not being retroactive—alright, don't get out the dictionary; it means that people who had already paid according to the schedule effective in 1919 were called on to stump up the difference between the 1919 rate and the new 1920 rate. Seventy-five per cent. of the motor owners grumbled and paid the difference. The other twenty-five per cent. grumbled but did not pay the difference, and it has not been collected from them from that day to this. Bills were sent out, circular letters were sent out and legal procedure was threatened against those who had not paid; the Road Commission beseeched payment, and the Motor Association advised payment, but all to no avail. When it came to a "show down" the Board of Works, whose duty it was to take active steps to collect the money "fourflushed" flat. It was stated last year that why this money was not collected was that, as there were prominent doctors, lawyers and businessmen among the defaulters, the authorities were afraid of making political enemies by doing their duty. This year it is stated, on the word of a member of the Newfoundland Road Commission, that these accounts were placed in the hands of three different lawyers for collection, but in each instance the business was declined for the same reason, namely, that because some of the people involved were "big" people in the town, it was undesirable to take legal proceedings against them. And there, the matter was let drop. Isn't that fine? Isn't that great reading for the ordinary taxpayer—the man who cannot afford a motor—to read? If you are a big enough man in this town you can frighten the authorities out of paying your lawful obligations. The amount outstanding is two thousand dollars. Here the motorist, who paid up, is affected, in that all road work and operation of road machinery is now held up through lack of funds. If the Road Commission had the proportion of that two thousand dollars to which they are entitled, road work could continue till the end of this season, and the excellent work half finished in many localities could be completed. Is it good enough that an attempt is not made—even at this late date—to collect in that money? We have a suggestion to make right now to the Board of Works. We suggest that these accounts be handed immediately to Geo. W. B. Ayre, with instructions to take immediate steps to collect the money, about ninety-nine points out of every hundred we do not see eye to eye with Mr. Ayre, but we do believe that he is energetic enough and independent enough to collect this money without fear or favor, and it is a crying shame if it is not collected.

"I should like to suggest (and I suggested to the Deputy Minister of Justice the other day) that a section be added to the Motor Car Act, making it an offence wrongfully to drive a car without the permission of the owner or person in charge, or to meddle in any way with, or operate or attempt to operate, the machinery of any car without such permission, and providing a satisfactory penalty, say not less than fifty dollars or more than two hundred and fifty dollars or not less than one or more than six months."

Mr. Dunlop recommends the attention of the Minister of Justice to the important matter covered by his letter he has quoted above.

And now for the lighter side. An amusing incident happened this week when a motorist who was hurrying to keep an evening appointment at a suburban residence, took his wife's advice, and made a short cut through the back gate. The night was dark and the next thing he knew, he was cutting tracks through his host's highly prized cabbage patch and, for good measure, running over a pot or two containing imported flowering shrubs. (N. B.—This was before being fined, not after.) On arriving eventually at the house, his host was awfully nice about it—said he was always glad to see something new in his garden, etc., etc., but what we would like to know are the sentiments expressed after the ceremonies of the evening were over. The moral of this pathetic tale is: "Your wife may know a lot, but she can't always see in the dark!"

Scenes: (B, giving his three-year-old religious instruction, and showing a picture of the Angel Gabriel with a halo over his head.)

B: That is the Angel Gabriel.
 B. Jr.: Yes, dad, and I see he has his spare tire with him!

And when B. told that incident at a Motor Association lunch, of course D. would cap it with a "better one," which is too blistering for this column even while the normal color of this paper is red. (Plak, please.—Editor.)

A motor car has been seen recently going through this city from which screams and cries are heard exactly as if someone had sat on the baby by mistake. Upon investigation, we find that this is not the cause, but that these sounds proceed from a small dog carried in the car (one of those dogs that is a cross between a squirrel and a lady's muff) who takes this way of greeting everything he sees on the road. We commend the matter to the notice of the Discipline Committee on the Motor Association for attention!

Who said they didn't have "speed cops" and "road hogs" in biblical days. Read the following extract from 2nd Kings, the 9th and the 20th verses:—"And the watchman told, saying he came, and his driving is like the driving of Jehu, the son of Nimshi; for he driveth furiously."

Don't forget, that if there is anything you want taken up in this column, that would be of interest to motorists, to drop me a line care of the Telegram office.

Napoleon's Letter of Fate.

It has often been pointed out that the letter M. for better or worse, dogged the footsteps both of Napoleon the Great and Napoleon the Little. In the case of Napoleon I. it was Marbot who first recognized his genius at the military college, Marengo was his first great victory, Mortier was his best general, Moscow betrayed him, Murat died for him, Marie Louise shared his fortunes, Moscow marked the turn in those fortunes, Metternich beat him in diplomacy.

His first battle was Montenotte, his last Mont St. Jean. He stormed Montmartre, took Milan, Maratout deserted him. His right-hand man was Montecquien, his last resting-place in France, Malmaison. He surrendered to Captain Maitland, and his companions at St. Helena were Moutcholon and Marchand. His marshals were Massena, Mortier, Marmont, Macdonald, Murat, and Moncey, and no fewer than twenty-six of his generals had names beginning with M.

 Napoleon III. married the Countess of Montijo, and his most intimate friend was Morny, and his tutor Moreth of Montclair. His greatest military successes were the capture of the Malakoff and the Mamelon Tower. His biggest battle was Montebello, and MacMahon won Magenta for him.
 He drove the Austrians out of Martiniano, and made his triumphant entry into Milan. He was repulsed before Mantua, in his last war driven back to the Mosello, and his fate settled by Molitke at Metz.

"I notice—had his car stolen the other day and broken up. I had the same thing done to me last summer, though fortunately no damage was done to my car. I then discovered, however, that there was no practical way of punishing the parties as the law now stands. The position is as follows:—(1) You can sue the thieves for civil damages for trespass to your property, but that is no good as they never have any money; (2) You might prosecute the thieves for malicious damage to property, if they did any and you could prove it, but that is a small matter with a maximum fine of twenty-five dollars; (3) They might be prosecuted for driving without a license, if they had not one, but that is a very small matter; (4) You cannot indict them for larceny because it is not larceny, unless they intend to keep the car, which they do not."
 "From the above you will see that there is practically nothing you can do to motor thieves that amounts to any real punishment as the law now stands. At the same time, as we all know, a few hours driving of the kind that such fellows give a car may do hundreds of dollars worth of damage in the way of general depreciation, although the owner may well be unable to point out any specific damage that has been done."
 "Apart from actually taking the car away, it is well known that you cannot leave a car anywhere around St. John's for half an hour without hav-

Attempted Escape.

CHASED BY POLICE, YOUTH TAKES TO WATER.

A youth named Snow who was wanted on a charge of larceny, gave the police an exciting few minutes yesterday, when he jumped overboard to escape from a pursuing constable, and swimming under a wharf proceeded to bombard his attacker with stones. The constable was reticent; however, and ultimately Snow was captured and taken to the Police Station. He was spotted on Water Street by Constable McCos, who immediately proceeded to capture his warrant. The young chap on finding he was cornered ran to a nearby wharf and jumped into a punt moored at the premises made an attempt at escaping. In this however he was somewhat handicapped, as the punt was locked to the shore. The police officer was fast on his trail, and as a last resort Snow jumped overboard and swam under the wharf where he landed amongst some ballast stones, with which he began to pelt Constable McCos, and other officers who were assisting in the capture. The constable went after him and af-

In Memory of Venerable Ecclesiastic.

On Sunday, Aug. 28, an event took place here which was of widespread interest in St. Kyran's Parish, that is the laying of the foundation stone of a Memorial Chapel to the late Venerable Dean Doucety. The ceremony was performed before last Mass by the Rev. A. Fyne, P.P., in the presence of an exceptionally large gathering of worshippers. These parishioners of Assumption Parish, St. Kyran's, amongst whom the late Dean worked for almost forty years, considered it their duty to erect a monument to keep alive his memory, as also to show in a tangible manner their appreciation of that beloved pastor, who, for practically a life time labored so faithfully for their spiritual and temporal welfare. That labour was carried on under conditions which entailed many hardships and inconveniences, of which we at the present time can scarcely form an idea, and which in later life caused the venerable priest great physical suffering.

A Sanctuary added to the parish church was at first in contemplation as a memorial, but owing to the fire of June last year, which destroyed the Chapel of the Sacred Heart, this plan was given up, and the building of a complete Chapel decided upon. Many friends of the late Dean have already shown in a practical manner that they still remember his many years of faithful work in this parish, and it is to be hoped that all his old friends and parishioners will help, so that a Chapel may be erected that will be a fitting monument to such a zealous Pastor and Priest.

Most Wonderful Gathering.

The gathering of the Maritime Province Acadians was one of the most unique in all history, the incident at Grand Pre being one to move a whole race to tears. On the afternoon of a glorious autumn day in the year 1755 the men of Grand Pre gathered in their little church at the command of the New England Colonel Winslow and listened to the stunning announcement that they were prisoners and that they and their families were to be deported and put ashore at various places along the Atlantic coast to the south. When the day for disembarkation came, all promises regarding the keeping of families together were forgotten and the people were simply heeded on board the vessels, the most painful breaking up of families occurring. Some men took possession of one vessel and sailed up the St. John River and escaped. The rest were dropped ashore from Maine to Florida these latter eventually reaching the French territory of Louisiana and there making homes away. Their descendants are still known as "Cajons." In the year following, the edict of exile was revoked and many hundreds of the exiles, by long tramps through the forests and by coasting along the Atlantic shore in frail boats, got back to their beloved Acadia. Some of their old settlements were revived, but they mostly took up new land in other sections, for their old homes were occupied by the New England settlers, who had been waiting for them, within a year of the deportation. The three Maritime Provinces were thus resettled, covering larger areas than before, and the race has prospered, grown and multiplied to hundreds of thousands of the most industrious and law-abiding citizens in the British Empire. To-day they have even got back the head of their forefather's graves and the old church site and the village well at Grand Pre, where they are to erect a memorial church to commemorate what one of their number said "was the most cruel deed since the crucifixion." Their scattering was like the scattering of seed which counted for the larger harvest and the multiplication of the grain a thousandfold. For a long time the French Acadians, suspicious of their Anglo-Celtic fellow-countrymen, lived closely to themselves, refusing to "come out and mix" as it were. That time is now passed, however, and this most capable race has been for years actively asserting itself in public life and entering the learned professions in large numbers, and the part they take is not a secondary one by any means.

The great gathering just celebrated is one of the most impressive things in the history of British North America; a race, revisiting its ancestral scenes and blessing anew the spirits of their forefathers, and at the same time asserting anew their loyalty to the institutions created by their race and cited for the world at large. —Acadian Recorder.

Another Draw.

A large number of spectators saw the C.L.B. and Briton play to a draw in last night's game of the League (football) series. The score was 2-2. The game was on the whole, a fair exhibition and was quite evenly contested. Three goals were scored in the first half, three getting two for the C.L.B. while Taylor got the goal for the Briton. In the second half, three goals were scored for the Briton.

Presentation at Carbonar.

On Monday last, some thirty-five of the representative women of the community called upon Miss Parsons, sister of Capt. Arthur Parsons, who is shortly going to take up nursing, and gave her a surprise party as an appreciation of her services in Sunday School and other work. Presentations were made by representatives of the various bodies to which Miss Parsons belongs.

Beauty Adorned.

Beauty seems to be largely a matter of being accustomed to the look of a thing.

Many tribes and peoples think beauty enhanced by a ring through the nose. In New Guinea both men and women are subjected from infancy to a distention of the lobes of the ear until in maturity the orifice is so large that a ring can be inserted as big as a child's small hoop. It is their notion of beauty.

In China public opinion until quite lately has struck for ages to doll-feet for women and pig-tails for men; but it is not more than a century since pig-tails went out of fashion in England, and tight shoes and contracted spider-waists are equally barbaric.

Certain Eastern tribes look upon flat heads, the highest form of beauty. Infants are kept fitted with head-boards greased and strapped. Probably intellectually is sacrificed to beauty in this case. In later life the balls of the village is the one with the fattest head!

Go to, Madame Tussaud's and view the head-dresses of certain periods not very remote, and in Court circles, too. Then compare them with pictures in your missionary magazine. Where's the difference?

A certain native tribe does the culture particularly well. A huge cap made of the solidified fat of oxen, instead of pomade, is fitted on the head, and over this the hair is trained, and more "pomade" rubbed in. The solid structure lasts a lifetime, making the hairpin trade a dead industry.

In Japan the professional beauty must have a golden smile; in India they dye teeth red; in Sumatra no belle who respects herself would have any front teeth at all. They are removed the moment they appear, and when they "do it a second time" they are again cleared out. The dentist is busy in Sumatra.

Then consider noses. In Fergina anything that is not aquiline is "off." The Japanese, who long for beauty, liked for nose to look backward, in the West any sort of nose almost will pass so long as it is not poking itself into other people's business. It is a strange world, my masters!

East Meets West.

Like the Topmal whorls, as sports, the Westenders can't be jammed. In the football match on Wednesday night, which by the way, was one of the prettiest games for the season, the West End boys upheld their reputation by defeating the East Enders by two goals to one. The game was very exciting from beginning to end, but the superior stamina and excellent work of the West Enders gave them the victory. A return match will be played to-morrow night when the East Enders will try to retrieve the laurels wrested from them. Wednesday night, a large attendance will undoubtedly witness this battle of the giants, who are the pick of the League teams, and will strive valiantly to uphold the honor of the end of the city to which they belong.

TARIFF THE ISSUE.
LONDON, Sept. 1.
In making announcement of an early general Election, Premier Melchior said Canada could not get settled down to business unless the tariff problem was settled. The real challenge to the Government, he said, came from the Farmers Party, which demanded free trade. That their policy was wrong he was certain, and he was equally certain that it would be proven wrong by developments. Revision of the tariff in Canada was due and overdue. To decide the principle of the tariff he was going to place imperative question before the people of Canada. "Until they do decide it," declared the Premier, "we cannot have tariff stability, we cannot have business stability, we cannot have health and growth and vitality, until we know whether the people want a protective tariff, or whether they don't."

A Very Valuable Worker

Followers of Isaac Walton may look upon the ordinary earth-worm as being a special provision of Nature whereby they are enabled to follow the fascinating pastime of angling. Golfers and bowlers, on the other hand, may view the presence of worms in the soil as being part of the enigma which compels them to subdue the ground by the sweat of their brow for the pursuit of innocent pleasure. Even the ploughman—at least the inexperienced class—consider their progress in the soil as being detrimental to the earth's cropping. Nothing, however, is farther from the truth. The work of the worm, from the gardener's point of view, is as important as digging, ploughing, or sowing. In the early days of the war, when men's minds turned with peculiar keenness to land cultivation, many workers had a most primitive idea of land requirements. In some districts, at least, where ground had been lying fallow for a long period, and the presence of earth-worms was very noticeable, the ploughman somehow got the strange notion that his preliminary procedure was to eliminate the worms. A perfect crusade against the gardener's best friend was therefore instituted.

The HAY Situation!

All our advices from Quebec, Charlottetown, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia point to a short Hay crop this season and the actual figures estimate the shortage as low as fifty per cent. or one-half of an average yield. The excessive heat and lack of moisture during the growing season is accountable for the poor crop and as a consequence Hay has "jumped" considerably the past few weeks, and higher prices are expected as the season advances. Under these conditions we strongly advise our customers to secure their Winter requirements of Hay at once, and as we have a large shipment (secured before the advance) ex Canadian Sapper from Montreal to-day, we are prepared to quote tempting prices on this lot for prompt delivery from ship's side. Poor Outlook for St. Pierre.

That conditions in the French Colony of St. Pierre are not exceedingly good, is evidenced by a news item in the North Sydney Herald of August 30, which states that Charles Thompson of the firm of Thompson and Sutherland, Ltd., returned on the Pro Patria last evening from a business trip to St. Pierre. Mr. Thompson says that conditions in the French colony are very bad, and that the people of Cape Breton are living in a paradise as compared to existing conditions on the island. The fisheries have been very poor and little business is being carried on. The outlook for the winter is extremely bad, Mr. Thompson asserts.

GERIE MORRISSEY.
The angel of death with its icy hand visited the home of Mr. Peter Morrissey, 45 Parade Street, on Thursday morning at 12.15 and claimed as its victim Gerie, the youngest and flower of the family. About a year ago she underwent an operation at the General Hospital for Peritonitis, but her frail constitution could not rally after such a strenuous operation, and despite the greatest kindness of loving parents and friends, and the best medical attendance, she finally succumbed after a long period of suffering, which was borne with the greatest fortitude and resignation to the Holy Will of Him who chasteth those whom He loveth. Her death, although daily expected for the last six months, comes as a severe blow to the grief-stricken mother and family, who have the sympathy of the whole community of whom Gerie was an especial favorite. She is not dead; the child of our affection. But come unto that school where she don't need our poor protection. And Christ himself doth rule. P.E.M.

Timely Suggestion.

Mr. Morgan says that the reason why we should buy our goods from the Newfoundland product of the Newfoundland brand is that it leaves no room for doubt as to the quality of the goods. It is an advertisement for the Fishery Board. Why not see our own brand and sell our goods as such?

Stephen of Hungary.

Upon the death of his father, Stephen, then only twenty years of age, became principal chief of the royal house of Hungary or Magyar, and brought his way into Europe, and the rest of the world.

Stephen's suspected Stephen of Hungary with the many Germans who were among them, and soon his coronation broke out in open rebellion. During the war which ensued Stephen made a vow, in the presence of other chiefs, to devote a third of his lands to the Holy Mother of God on Mount Pannonicus. Two banners blaring with the name of S. Martin and S. George were carried before the army, which on the day advanced to the relief of the camp which was invested by the enemy.

Stephen's history which followed was that of a hero who gave orders for the extermination of his people. The emperor was overthrown. He meant to be crowned at the Christianization of his people.

Ethel M. Dell's New Novel.

Miss Dell's new novel opens up a fresh field of romantic feeling, and she works it with the rapid skill and vigor which have put her in the front rank of novelists of the emotions.

"The Obstacle Race" is run by a heroine of sympathetic character, a young woman disillusioned with the world of fashion and frivolity, who endeavors to return to the less complex and more honest and human ways of life. The obstacle is the associations and entanglements from which it is so hard to fling away. With the aid of a great lover she ultimately conquers the last obstruction.

A dramatic narrative, worked out upon a delightful stage with the aid of a large and interesting company of actors—one of Miss Dell's most enthralling novels.

Only $1.50 post paid.
