

A HURON COUNTY MIRACLE.

AN OLD LADY'S STORY OF DEEP INTEREST TO OTHERS.

Mrs. Robert Bissett, who was crippled with Rheumatism for Nine Years, Despite Advancing Years, Has Found Relief—She Relates Her Experience That Others May Profit by It.

(From The Godefrich Star.)

For upwards of three years The Star has been republishing articles from various papers in Canada and the United States recounting the experiences of several of the old people known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. A more or less intimate acquaintance with the publishers of several of the newspapers warranted us in believing that the cases reported by them were not overdrawn or exaggerated advertisements, but were published in truthful statements of remarkable cures from human ills worthy of the widest publicity, that other sufferers might be benefited also.

For some time we have heard the name of Mrs. Robert Bissett of Coburn Township, mentioned as one who had experienced most benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after years of painful suffering. Curious to know the particulars, we have called upon her at her home on her street at her four and feed store in Hamilton, and asked her how she was relieved.

Without hesitation she related her story. She launched into praise of Pink Pills, which she said had a most wonderful effect in relieving her mother from the suffering of a bedridden invalid, crippled by rheumatism, and restored her to the enjoyment of a fair degree of health and activity for a person of 70 years of age.

"See for yourself," she said, "I am sure you will freely tell you all about her case, and you can judge how much she owes to Pink Pills. I am sure that it is owing to them that she is alive to-day."

Acting on this cordial invitation, the reporter drove out to the well-known Bissett homestead. Mrs. Bissett was found enjoying an afternoon's visit at the residence of a neighbor, Mrs. Robinson. She laughingly greeted the reporter with the assurance that she knew what he had come for, as her son had told her the day she was in town with him, and she was willing to tell the facts in her case.

"It is about nine years," she said, "since I was first taken down with rheumatism, and for seven months I lay helpless in bed, unable to move or turn myself. I doctored with local physicians and I suppose the treatment I received must have helped me, for I was able to get around again for quite a long while, until another attack came on, and for years I was again unable to move, never being able to put a foot under me or help myself in any way."

Everything, however, doctors, baths, liniments and medicines and of course suffered a great deal, but nothing helped me, until I finally got on my feet again. I was not able to get on my feet again until I had taken two boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I was able to get on my feet again."

Mrs. Bissett has been a woman of great activity and industry, and is possessed of a great deal of energy and vigor. She is a great reader and talks with all the charming interest of one who has been through a long and arduous struggle. She is now 70 years of age, and has been married for 45 years. She has four children, and is the mother of a large family.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood purifier and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous prostration, and the free feeling therefrom. The after effects of a grippe, repeated attacks of humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., and for the healthy glow to pale, thin, and sallow complexions, and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men, they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of any nature.

In mind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen, but in this form is trying to offend you and should be avoided. Ask your dealer for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

NAVIGATION OPENED.

Many Citizens Take a Run Over to the Island—Boats to St. Catharines.

The steamer Lakeside arrived from St. Catharines, being the first boat to cross the lake this season, and is now undergoing some slight repairs. She has been plying for a few days between St. Catharines and Niagara, and will in all probability begin her regular trips between Toronto and St. Catharines next week. Capt. McGuire, formerly of Chicago, will have charge of her for the season.

The John Hanlan did a thriving business yesterday carrying passengers to and from the city and the island. It was the little steamer's first day for business this season. A stiff, cold breeze was blowing and the water was not very calm, but the boat was not very fast, and the passengers were not very numerous.

Fitting out and general repairing have been begun on the vessels of the Niagara Navigation Company wintering at the N. & N. W. docks. Extensive overhauling and repairing is being carried out on board the steamer Chicago, which will be the initial ship of the fleet to start this summer. New guards, new main deck, new promenade deck, new stanchions, new bulwarks are being put into her, and when she is completed she will look like a new ship. She will begin plying between this port and Niagara about May 1.

There will be no general movement among lake vessels for at least three weeks. Other than the John Hanlan, Clark Bros. little craft is the only island boat running. Some 60 cords of wood will be taken by the steamer to the island during the coming week. Youngs-street wharf will be almost unrecognizable when alterations now under way are completed. The new five-foot after which 80 feet of the present Youngs-street wharf will be filled in. The coming summer promises to be a busy one all along the water front. The settlement of the long-standing Epland difficulty has opened the way for alterations and improvements on an immense scale.

The work of reclamation is being carried out with marvelous rapidity. The G.T.R. runs three trains a day, carrying earth from east of Little York for filling purposes. Back of the line of 25 cars, making a total of 75 cars per day, or 450 per week. The C.P.R. are laying new tracks close to the water front, and the same object in view. With the new wharves, new Union Station, new freight sheds and the removal of the sewer from its present place, the appearance of the wharves will be wonderfully improved.

SAVED BY THE FENDER.

Thomas Beasley Falls Between a Motor and Fender and is Badly Cut up.

Thomas Beasley, 140 Simcoe-street, alighted from a Queen-street car yesterday morning. He fell between the motor and trailer, but the wooden fender in front of the trailer wheels saved his life. He was dragged some distance before he could be stopped. His head was badly cut and also his hands.

TALKING WITH ANGELS.

When a Baby Smiles in Sleep Then it is Happy.

How Many Happy Infants if Mothers Only Knew More!

A Great Deal of Suffering is Directly Traceable to Ignorance.

In Ireland they have a pretty fancy that when a baby smiles in its sleep it is "talking with angels."

How many more smiling, healthy babies there might be in Toronto if mothers knew more of their babies' needs.

The only recommendation to this want of knowledge that is possible to little children is expressed in the language of suffering and disease.

Scott's Emulsion's milk—absolutely fresh milk in the city is a fiction—it is not only unpalatable and lacking in nutrition, but also harmful. Mother's milk is sometimes quite as bad. Improperly prepared substitutes are worse. But the best of all is the Food prepared by Wells & Richardson Co., has become a blessing.

It is a better preventive of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum than all the medicine in the world. It is also a better cure for all these diseases, and is not only safe for all druggists, and is not only safe for all druggists, and is not only safe for all druggists.

NEAR CITY.

The York and Saraburo Lines.

Editor World: I wish you would send one of your members out to York Township Council, which you and I helped to elect, over the townships, in any conveyance other than a mud boat. Think if they once drove over it they would do something to relieve our distress. I would like to ask our resident representative (Mr. Local) why he has not done what he promised before election in the way of obtaining assistance from the county council to put our road in better repair. The road is in a worse state than it has been for years. Hoping you will give space for my complaint, I remain your humble reader.

FURRIER RIOTS AT SANTANDER.

Police Called to Fire On the Mob—The Governor's House Bombarded.

SANTANDER, March 23.—Violent demonstrations of the indignation of the citizens at what they believe to have been criminal carelessness in causing the explosion of dynamite in the vicinity of the steamer Cabo Machichaco were renewed last night. In spite of the efforts of the police to prevent the gathering of crowds, an immense crowd assembled early in the evening and mob got together with such incredible quickness that the troops were taken completely by surprise and the crowd had surrounded the offices of the owners and were pelting the building with stones almost before the police were aware of what was going on.

Honoured the Governor's Residence.

While this mob was making another crowd, of equally large proportions made its appearance in front of the residence of the civil governor and began bombarding it with stones. The Governor made his appearance and commanded the mob to disperse, but he was answered with a volley of stones, causing him to retreat indoors.

Fired on the Mob.

By this time the mob had arrived upon both corners in force. The troops were ordered to disperse, but the mob was similar to that given to the governor. They quickly scattered in all directions. Several persons were struck by bullets, but it is not thought that any of them were seriously injured.

The official report on the dynamite explosion gives the number of killed as three and the injured seven, of which three may die.

Ruskin's Bed-Chamber.

Into this room let us peep for just a moment. It is surprisingly snug and comfortable. It is a room of sixteen feet square; nor is the floor space very ample when the encroachment of the furniture is deducted. A little table stands before the little window; a little wash-stand and a small wooden bedstead flank the little fireplace. A chest of drawers and a book-case—the last named the most important item of furniture, containing, too, some wonderful treasures—these form the rest of the room's furniture. But the walls—the walls are the wonder of Brantwood. For they are virtually covered with the finest masterpieces of the brush—drawings worth probably at least a thousand pounds apiece, each an exquisite in itself, every one a well-known epoch-marking work, from the earliest, when the great landscape painter, in which his eye painted to the last, which in his eye painted to the last, which in his eye painted to the last.

Of course, it is only one species, and the very rarest species of what is known as the object of the fishery. The common roach or finner, largest of creatures upon this planet, is the whaler without fear of any missile more dangerous than a bullet. The whaler is a creature of the Arctic seas, and I have seen their sprays on a clear day shooting up along the horizon like smoke from a busy factory. A stranger sight still, in looking over the bar, where the green is turning to black, the huge, flickering figure of a whale gliding under the ship. And then the strange grunting, snorting noise which they make as they come up, with something of the contented pig in it, and something of the wind in the chimney! Contented they will may be, for the finner has no enemies, save an occasional swordfish; and Nature, which in a humorous mood has in the case of the right whale affixed the small of fin to the largest of creatures, has also blessed the swallow of its less valuable brother, so that it can have a merry time among the herrings—McClure's Magazine.

POND'S EXTRACT COMPANY, 76 Fifth Avenue, New York.

CAUTION.

POND'S EXTRACT has obtained an immense sale owing to its beneficial qualities, and like everything else well patronized has been often imitated. You are warned against purchasing for POND'S EXTRACT such articles as Concentrated or Double Distilled Extract of Witch Hazel, Extract of Hamamelis, etc. These are often offered as POND'S EXTRACT, or "the same thing." There is but ONE pure and uniform Extract, and that is POND'S EXTRACT, as is amply proven in its use by the best physicians of ALL schools and at principal Hospitals of this Country and Europe.

These SUBSTITUTES are NOT POND'S EXTRACT, nor will they take its place. They do not possess the same or as favorable curative properties; if the same in appearance, taste or smell, are much weaker, easily turn sour, are often highly colored with water, and are consequently higher priced than the genuine POND'S EXTRACT. To buy cheaply, get the genuine.

POND'S EXTRACT is so strong and so great that it can be diluted two or three times its volume with water and retain its medicinal properties. Our Book of Directions (sent free on application) recommends its dilution for many complaints. Always call for and get POND'S EXTRACT put up in the bottle, and with the direction, label and trade-mark of the sole proprietors—the POND'S EXTRACT COMPANY.

MONTREAL GETS THE MEET.

ANNUAL SESSION OF THE CANADIAN WHEELMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Montreal Captures Both the 1894 Race Meeting and the Presidency—The Amateur Rule Will Remain Unchanged For Another Year and the Value of Prizes Limited to $500 Each.

In the large dining room of the Toronto Athletic Club 123 delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association gathered in annual session yesterday afternoon.

There were several questions for settlement, chief among them being that of the much-vexed "amateur" rule. The association, however, wanted little time in putting this on the shelf and decided that the present rule was good enough. There will be no division of the classes, but in future the value of prizes will be limited to $500. The 1894 meet was captured by Montreal and 194 meet was captured by Montreal.

A. T. Lane of Montreal was elected president. There were several questions for settlement, chief among them being that of the much-vexed "amateur" rule. The association, however, wanted little time in putting this on the shelf and decided that the present rule was good enough. There will be no division of the classes, but in future the value of prizes will be limited to $500. The 1894 meet was captured by Montreal and 194 meet was captured by Montreal.

Shortly after 11 o'clock President W. A. Hunter reported on the annual meeting of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, which was held at the Hotel Windsor, Montreal, in 1893. He reported that the association had a successful year and that the value of prizes had been increased to $500 each.

TO YOUNG WOMEN.

A THOUGHTFUL SERMON BY ELIZA

ARCHARD CONNOR.

Religion and Common Sense Precepts Worth Thinking of—The Girl Who Follows This Advice is the One Who Will Win—Seven Rules for Success—Be Industrious, Be Thrifty, Be Sincere, Be Helpful, Be Neat, Be Beautiful, Be Your Sex's Best Champion.

My Dear Girls—What do you live for, anyway? Did you ever stop to think?
If I did not know better, I should say some young women lived to read sloopy novels, eat candy and ice cream and wear fantastic costumes. But I do know better. In the secret heart of even the seemingly most shallow and thoughtless girl there is a genuine, deep down desire for a wisdom that will illuminates all her soul and make her life strong and beautiful—profitable to others and to herself. I know that even the apparently vulgar minded and silly girls whom I see every day flitting making faces and talking by the deaf and dumb alphabet with the strange workmen in the windows opposite would not do this a moment longer if they once realized that they are degrading and ruining forever in the minds of those men the whole noble ideal of womanhood. It is only because they know not what they do.

How shall a young woman, rich or poor, learn to lead the strong, full, beautiful life that shall be profitable to herself and others, without being goody-goody or stifling her reasonable, natural desire to enjoy herself as much as possible? All young people have goody-goodyness—the solemn assumption of superior virtue—and I don't blame them. I hate it myself to this day as I hate all humbugs, of which it is one of the biggest.

Object lessons of that kind are often fall to human lot here gives her ideas of how a young woman may best lead the beautiful life without any humbug.
1. Do some useful work, and do it with enthusiasm.
Unless at the end of our days we can look back and say that we have striven steadily to improve our own lives and those of at least two or three other persons, then our lives have been a dead failure. We have given no reason for existence. We had no right to be born.
We have simply lived and taken up room that ought to have been given to somebody better.

In the pursuit of the beautiful life it is hard to say which is the advantage, the rich or the poor one. For the young woman not obliged to earn her living there open to her all the glorious fields of human achievement than ever man or woman enjoyed before. There are magnificent branches of scientific research that ought to be occupying the attention of thousands of girls who have as yet taken up no useful work. The girl with a musical gift can find a refuge from her own griefs and shed joy around her for a lifetime by cultivating that grand gift. So with the woman who has talent for art and decoration, for writing or acquiring languages. Queen Victoria's daughters, every one of them, learned, not only one, but several useful occupations, and could to-day earn their own living if it were necessary. If I were a rich woman I should find my greatest joy in showing the world what matchless power there is in the perfect intellectual flowering and development of a woman's brain. I should go my way singing as I went and thanking God for the opportunity.

Perhaps the wealthy young woman does not care for more intellectual culture. Then there are the great social and philanthropic problems she should take up. The questions of municipal government, labor, poverty, drunkenness and crime will never be solved till woman brings the light of her heart and brain to bear upon them.
Outside of your employment pursue some intellectual or artistic study. Take a course of physical training, too, to make your body fine, strong and supple.
It is the duty of woman, young and old, to make herself as beautiful as she can—not by smearing cosmetics upon her face, pinching in her waist and de-forming her feet by tight shoes and high heels, though she can make herself comely to look upon, but by taking care of her health, keeping good-tempered and living out of doors as much as possible.

2. Lay up some money.
For the working girl this is one of the most important heads of my whole sermon. If I had known as much on this subject in the beginning as I do now, I would at present be in possession of an independent income. No matter how small your pay, put aside a little every week or month, and don't say much about it. There are building and loan associations and savings banks that will save for you a sum at a time as tiny cents. The conditions of life are hard on us. It is as much the duty of a woman to understand business methods and lay up money as it is that of a man. When you have a sum large enough, invest it in some sure way, so that it will bring you a little return, and keep adding to it, and one of these days you will find yourself in the enjoyment of a competency. It was by saving from their small wages that the greatest millionaires got their start.

You will observe that through this whole sermon I say not a word concerning matrimony. The omission is on purpose. I do not need to. Young women have been preached at about marriage ever since the days of Adam and Eve.
3. Be sincere.
One of the greatest of human virtues is sincerity. Be so crystal true that one may look into your soul as into clear water, and see that you mean just what you say and intend to stick to it. The best rule I know of in this matter is never to say a word about another thing you would be unwilling to say to the person face to face. The girl who fails into the habit of even telling white lies does her own character an almost irreparable injury. Every falsehood or insincere speech weakens by so much her power over others, and her force and influence in the world. A liar is a coward and a fool, whether statesman or sales-woman. For the sake of our moral and intellectual upbuilding, it is better even to say that we are at home but cannot see a visitor who calls at an inconvenient hour than to take refuge in the fiction that we are not at home. Know by sympathy and perfect good temper, gives one a mysterious power over his fellows.
4. Be helpful to others.
It is given to few to do great things for humanity suddenly. It is given to every one to do constantly little kindnesses to those around her. Where you can't see a headache or heartache do it.
Whenever, by word or deed, you can make another's burden lighter, make another's cup of grief less bitter, as you hope for aid and comfort in your own hour of need, withhold not that word or deed. Give hope to the discouraged, inspiration to the weary and fainting, peace to the troubled. Simply do what you can, for everybody you meet. This does not mean that you shall give of your money to every tramp or winning beggar woman to buy whisky, but that you shall bestow both money and sympathy wisely. Begin when you are able to do all the little kindnesses you can to those who come your way, and by the time you are old the list will be
have been great in helpfulness. So you will have turned at least a little of this purgatorial world into paradise. The genuinely religious life is led by the one that makes her own two divine injunctions: "Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them." "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another, that ye love one another as I have loved this life is not a very jolly one at best.
Do what one person can to make it pleasant.
5. Be neat.
A woman's hair and skin, her sleeping room and all her personal belongings should always be as sweet as a rose new washed by a rain shower.
6. Stand by your own sex.
In one of the visions of that noble
poet, "Dreams," Olive Schreiner says:
"I looked and saw that all the women each other's hands." When all the women hold one another by the hand instead of trying to climb upon one another's shoulders then all will be happy.
Stand by your sisters; fight their battles; say no unkind or cruel word to them or about them, and permit no one else to say such word. In society, in the struggle for new bread-winning industries, in joy and in sorrow let our sex stand together as one woman against the world.
The ideal friendship, I have often thought, is that between two women.
I know that some of the ideal homes are those in which two or three devoted women friends keep house together in apartments suitably enough for a fairy queen. Women who love their own sex find their truest, sweetest, jolliest friends among women, and the solid comfort of their lives is with these friends.
7. Uphold forevermore the purity, dignity and worth of womanhood.
Woman represents the moral and spiritual side of human nature. Bitterly she is punished when she steps down from her high place. The girl who rashly invites the attention of men in public places commits a crime against her sex.
The same men sneer and joke about her constantly in cars and on the street.
Hold yourselves so independent, so pure and high and precious that man will think it worth his strongest endeavor to win your heart and hand. When you all do this, and not till then, will man love and esteem woman at her full worth.
And now, my dear girls, farewell, and God bless you! Go on, rejoicing, loving, conquering. Make life one long thanksgiving for the power to work and achieve.—ELIZA ARCHARD CONNOR.

worth.
And now, my dear girls, farewell, and
thanksgiving for the power to work and

water, and see that you mean just what
does her own character an almost irre-
woman. For the sake of our moral and
by sympathy and perfect good temper,
fellows.
4. Be helpful to others.
It is given to few to do great things
can't see a headache or heartache do it.
Whenever, by word or deed, you can
spiration to the weary and fainting,
will have turned at least a little of this
give unto you, that ye love one another,
that ye love one another as I have loved
this life is not a very jolly one at best.
pleasant.
5. Be neat.
A woman's hair and skin, her sleep-
rose new washed by a rain shower.
6. Stand by your own sex.
In one of the visions of that noble
poet, "Dreams," Olive Schreiner says:
"I looked and saw that all the women
the world.
The ideal friendship, I have often
thought, is that between two women.
I know that some of the ideal homes
queen. Women who love their own sex
find their truest, sweetest, jolliest
friends.
7. Uphold forevermore the purity, dignity and worth of womanhood.
Woman represents the moral and spir-
places commits a crime against her sex.
The same men sneer and joke about her
constantly in cars and on the street.
Hold yourselves so independent, so pure
worth.
