Technical and Bibliographic Notes / Notes techniques et bibliographiques

Canadiana.org has attempted to obtain the best copy available for scanning. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of scanning are checked below.

Canadiana.org a numérisé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-être uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de numérisation sont indiqués ci-dessous.

Coloured covers / Couverture de couleur		Coloured pages / Pages de couleur
Covers damaged / Couverture endommagée		Pages damaged / Pages endommagées
Covers restored and/or laminated / Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée		Pages restored and/or laminated / Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
Cover title missing / Le titre de couverture manque		Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/ Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées
Coloured maps /		Pages detached / Pages détachées
Cartes géographiques en couleur	$\checkmark$	Showthrough / Transparence
Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black) / Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)	✓	Quality of print varies / Qualité inégale de l'impression
Coloured plates and/or illustrations / Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur  Bound with other material /		Includes supplementary materials / Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
Relié avec d'autres documents  Only edition available / Seule édition disponible		Blank leaves added during restorations may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from scanning / II se peut que
Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin / La reliure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distorsion le long de la marge intérieure.		certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont pas été numérisées.
Additional comments / Commentaires supplémentaires:

Our Paper_

Should be in the hands of every Catholic Family.

vol. XLVII. No. 46.

MONTREAL, SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1898.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

The Yast Financial Operations of the Society of St. Yincent de Paul.

Princely Legacies for Religion and Education by an English Catholic of Paris-The German Centre

Party - Sad Death of a Catholic

Public Man in the Dutch

France, $436 787; Germany, $143 761;

A Meritorious Work.

that is the parts of it lying outside the

A committee, composed of men of in-

Woman.

CONFERENCE OF SEMINARY PRESIDENTS.

First Meeting Held at St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, N.Y.

Mgr. Conaty Outlines the Objects to be Attained by the Conference in an Admirable Address-Some of the Important Questions to be Considered by the Leaders in the Cause of Catholic Education.

FROM THE CHURCH NEWS, OF WASHINGTON,

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Catholic University of America, held in Washington in Octeber, 1897, approval was given to the suggestion of Right Rev. Mgr. Conaty for the holding of a conference of seminary presidents, having as purpose the general consideration of seminary education and the particular relation of the seminary to university training. After presidents an invitation was issued for a meeting, which was held at St. Joseph's Seminary, Danwoodie, N.Y., on Wednesday. May 25th. The following seminaries were represented at the conference: Baltimore, St. Mary's Seminary, Very Rev. A. L. Magnien, SS., DD.; Boston St. John's Seminary, Very Rev. John B Hogan, S.S., D D. Brooklyn, St. John's Seminary, Very Rev. J. Sullivan, C.M.; Cincinnati, Mt. St. Mary's Seminary of the West, Very Rev. J. B Murray, D.D; Emmitta burg, Md , Mt. St. Marv's, Very Rev. W I. () Hara, D.D.; New York, St. J(soph's Seminary, Very Rev. Edward R. Dyer, SS, D.D; Niagara University, Very Rev. Patrick McHale, C.M; Philadelphia, St. Charles Seminary, Very Rev. P. J. Garvev. D.D.; San Francisco, Very Rev A. J. B Vuibert, SS. DD; Seton Hall, New Jersey, Very Rev. S. J. Synnott, D D. Letters of approval were read from Very Rev. J. F. Butler, O F.M., St. Binaven-ture's Seminary, Alleghany, N. Y.; Very Rev. Athanasius Schmitt. O.S.B., St. Meinrad's Seminary, Indiana; Very Rev. N. A. Moee, D. D., St. Mary's Seminary, Cleveland; Very Rev. Francis V. Nugent, C.M., Kenzick Seminary, S. Louis, and Very Rev. P. R. Heffron, D. D., St. Paul's Seminary, Minnesota. The professors of St. Joseph's Seminary were

The proceedings opened at 10 o'clock, and continued throughout the day. Right Rev. Mgr. Consty presided, and Very Rev. W. L. O'Hara, of Mount St. Mary's Seminary, acted as secretary. Mgr. Conaty made the opening address, which the conference unanimously asked to have published. The matter of organization was discussed, and it was voted to form a permanent organization, to be known as "The Educational Conference of Seminary Faculties." Committees were appointed to discuss topics relative to seminary work, as also the relation of the seminaries to the University in the higher education of the clergy. It was felt that this first conference was more in the nature of a preparation for future work. A standing committee, consisting of Very Revs. A. L. Magnieu, P. J. Garvey, P. McHate, and J. B. Murray, was appointed to take charge of the work of the next conference, and to invite all seminary faculties to attend and become

The Very Rev. L. Colin, Superior of the Seminary of St. Sulpice, Montreal, was present as a guest of the conference, and in his address he emphasized very strongly the importance of such a conference in the proper discussion of educational work, and the importance of proper preparation for the superior education in the University.

Very Rev. E. J. Purbrick, S.J., Provincial of the Jesuits, was also asked to address the conference and gave a most interesting and detailed account of the work of the educational conference in England, in which he had so large a part. He urged very strongly the importance of an educational conference as a means of better acquaintance with one another, and a more perfect systematizing of educational work.

The conference voted to hold the next meeting in Philadelphia, at St. Charles' Seminary, the 1st of September, 1899. To this conference seminary professors, as well as the presidents, will be in-

The members of the conference were entertained by the President and the Faculty of St. Joseph's Seminary, and among the guests present at dinner were the Most Rev. Archbishop Corrigan, Fathers Purbrick, Provincial of the Jesuits; L. Colin, president of St. Sulpice Seminary, Montreal; T. J. Campbell, S.J. president of St. John's College, Fordham, New York; and Brother Justin, superior of the Christian Brothers, The conference held several sessions during the day, and adjourned at 8 o'clock p.m., to meet in Philadelphia, September, 1899.

The following is the address of Mgr.

In calling this meeting to order Jean-generosity with which the demand for it has been met by those in charge of our seminary education. The presence of so many superiors of theological institutions gives evidence of an earnest interest in all that tends to advancement in the education of the clergy.

This conference is the outgrowth of a feeling, more or less defined, that our educational system calls for an organiz ation in which the leaders of our educational thought may meet to discuss the means and ethods by which the best results in education may be at tained. Happily we have reached the day when the Church in this country is prepared to give answer to the educational demands of all classes of cur people. Schools, colleges, sem-minaries, and universities are found in various sections of our country, thoroughly equipped in the interest of a profounder and more extensive knowledge. Yet, though many of them are in excellent condition and well prepared for the work which they undertake to do, there is on all sides a consciousness that the work is being done by independent and individual units, without that cohesiven as which comes from the unity of purpose and the harmony of parts.

To bring together representatives of those educational agencies, to effect a harmonizing of all parts of the system, cannot be without good results; for at of the hour—issues no longer between least it will serve to introduce men to the true Church of Christ and the seminary to university training. After one another, open up discussions upon sects, but between revealed religion of the fields of exclesisational sciences consultation with many of the seminary topics of common interest, give an and all forms of agnosticism and talse. He should be prepared to begin work opportunity to compare methods and develop a proper feeling as to the best way or attaining the greatest good in education. B-sides all that, there is the need of organization, that we may realize that our different schools are not disjointed elements of a system, but that one hinges upon the other, and that all should be closely bound together, in order the better to move in solid phalanx in the interests of knowledge and

In studying the different phases of our educational life, it occurred to me that a movement toward a conterence such as this would be productive of great good. In an experience of twenty five years it has been my privilege to come in contact with all classes of educational work, and it has always seemed to me that there has been lacking a spirit of organization of our different forces, which has interfered with our general success. This thought prompted me to suggest, at the meeting of the trustees of the University last October, the feasibility of an educational conference, first with the directors of seminaries, and afterwards with the rectors of colleges, to discuss the general aims and purposes of education, to consider and compare methods and to study invited to attend and take part in the out the question of organization. This suggestion met with the layor of the lines that will furnish proper material ing to a university that requires thost trustees, and, as a result, you are gath for the University finishing. ered here.

This conference, as the first of its kind among us, must be more in the nature of preparation for future methodical and systematic work. One of its objects must be to study the necessity and importance as well as a method of organization, so that we must look forward to subsequent conferences for the results we desire The most we can do now is to establish the principle of an educa tional conference, which in the years to come will bear practical fruit.

My relation to this conference is largely that of one who presumes to call men together, and at least set in motion the machinery, by virtue of which a power may be generated which will be productive of substantial educa tional good. We come together as friends of the higher education of the clergy. Upon us devolves the responsibility of shaping and moulding the future religious leaders of our people; and draw our inspiration from the spirit of work for the greater glory of God and the interests of religion in the United States. Now that the work of education in this country finds its culmination and its crown in clergy and laity, it stands to day prethe Catholic University, established by pared to do university work in the true the Holy See at the earnest demand of sense of the word. It is neither a seminthe Bishops in council assembled, it ary nor a college—in this sense at seems proper that a conference of semi | least: That it does not aim to, nor is it nary presidents, such as this, may also prepared to, do the work for which give careful consideration to the true the seminary and the college exist. all the other parts of the system of which the University is the head.

We have reached the time in our Church life when ecclesiastical scholarship, in the true sense of the word, is demanded from us. To effect that scholarship, to make it more general, to place it within the call of our earnest and ambitious young clerics, should be the aim and object of our work, as well as the desire of our hearts, and every branch of the system should be made to contribute, in a perfect form, its portion to the great whole, which should find its complete perfection in the graduate of the Uni versity. A two fold relation presents itself to us; first, the relation of the seminary to the university and the consequent preparation which the seminary should make for university work; and second, the standard of seminary work which the University requirements demand, which latter would lead to a conalderation of the programme of studies necessary for such a standard.

The University and the seminary are closely bound to one another; one is built upon the other, and both are built upon the college. The university is not something far away and standing by itself, with pretentions which ignore the existence of other educational agencies. not help congratulating you upon the It is an integral part of the system, closely bound up with the depending upon the other parts. The same blood and purposes bind it to success. It leads to greater heights the men whom the other parts of the system have equip ped for the work of climbing. Its students come from college and seminary; its graduates often go back to college and seminary as valuable aids in the work of preparation. It is not independent—indeed it is very dependent. No one among you is without close touch to the public life of the clerry and the laity, and all realize the demands of education, as also the vast increasing needs of the Church—needs that are constantly pressing, especially in our day and generation. As the number of priests increases in our dioceses, the opportunities for wider and deeper study must necessarily present themselves to our talented young ecclesiastics.

The state of the s

The day of so called pioneer work in the Church, especially in our eastern section, is over; in fact, we may say that the day of material Church build ing is practically over. We have reached the point where it becomes necessary to develop the intellectual and social qualities of our people, as well as the religious. Our young cleric must be prepared to meet the issues individualism. He must be equipped to defend science against so-call the questions of intellectual and scien harmony that exists between religion and science, to enter the fields of his tery and asche logy in defense of the Church, to protect and preserve the word of God in this day of Biblical criticism, against the iconoclasm of secturies. We must also be prepared to enter into the field of social and economic reform, to take a leading part in prison and reform atory work, and to be an element in all charitable endeavors. The battle of the future is to be a philosophical battle, as well as scientific and historical. It will he a defense of the very foundations of belief.

Scholarship is demanded, in the leaders, who are commissioned to defend the truth. The time has come when the scholarship of the clergy should give to the Church that brilliancy which shone forth in the scholarship of past ages. This scholarship should find expression in polished writing as well as in elegant speech. We need writers as well as preachers. To send forth finished scholars, it is necessary that the ground work be well done; that school and college and seminary train the youth on

I may be permitted to state here what appears to the University to be the relations which it holds towards the seminaries. No clearer statement can be made than that which appears in the words of our Holy Father Leo XIII, in his Apostolic letter of March 7, 1889 to the episcopate of the United States. He said: "We exhort you to endeavor to have your seminaries, colleges and other Catholic institutions of learning affiliated to the University, as is suggested in its statutes, leaving, nevertheless, a perfect freedom of action; omnium tamen libertate salva et incolumi." We see clearly the mind of the Holy Father, that all the different parts of our educational system should be affiliated with and lead to the University. This is expressed in the general constitutions of the University, chapper 8, number 4; C lieges or seminaries, without losing their independence, may be affiliated to the board of trustees, in which case the diplomas granted by these institutions will entitle the holders of them to ad mission to the University."

Established as the University has been tor the higher education of the relations which should exist between the | In the true university sense, it aims University and the seminary, as well as to begin where both college and seminary leave off. Unfortunately for good work, the University is often obliged to supply for the defects of both seminary and of college, and thus waste valuable time both of teacher and of scholar. The r ason of these defects, in my judgment, may often be found in the imperfect understanding of the relations which the different institutions held to one another. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that the work of the University is not a repetition, even in a more scholarly way or on a broader scale, of the work done in the seminary or in the college. A leading idea of the University is specialization, and this has rather to do with the development and specializing of certain branches and the giving of superior training in them. Not all the students of the University are called to be specialists. Only the very few can ever hope to realize that ambition. For the most part, all that the University can be expected to do is to incline men to serious study, and thus fit them for practical work in their dioceses.

We cannot hope to find in the many a taste for special research, but we can could have been spared from their and do hope that all will be taught to dioceses, for the years needed to unbe accurate in what they know, and thus dertake the severe labor which it deacquire a certain perfect formation, mands. while a few will be attracted to specialize, and thus become specialists. The low three students who are preparing moment.

University aims to broaden and develop | for their doctorate in theology, which the spirit of scholar-hip-in fact, to courses through its veins, the same in- make scholars-men of research, capable terests actuate its life, the same aims of distinguishing the true from the false, ment. Hence appears the necessity of good general theological culture on the part of those who enter as students of the faculty of theology. This general culture a necessary basis for serious and successful special studies, whether in the field of theology, history, or of sacred acripture. It is important to have the spirit of scholarship developed in college and seminary training, the love for learning for learning's sake, that taste which goes far toward forming the

It is not necessary to emphasize the conclusions reached by every one who considers the situation, namely, that the student coming from the seminary to the University should have an excellent training in philosophy, dogma, moral theology, Church history, and a general introduction to sacred scrip ture. He should be prepared to enter into the workshop of the University, there to be taught how to use to the best adventage the tools with which his seminary life have made him familiar-the tools that will permit him to carve for himself a special place in any He should be prepared to begin work which will have the samp of his own individuality, that thus he may begin ed ecientific unbelief, to answer all to fit himself to contribute to the fund of the world's knowledge. He ought to tific thought, to maintain the perfect he skilled in the use both of Greek and Latin, and in the elements of Hebrew as these are the languages that contain the original documents of all his studies. He should not be satisfied with what is handed down to him by translation, but as a scholar he should be prepared to study the originals. I is also highly desirable that there should be a knowledge of French and German, because these languages contain what is regarded as the best modern theological literature, most of which has not as yet been translated into English.

> The papers for the baccalaureate examination express the conditions which the University considers requisite, in order that an ecclesiastic may matriculate for University degrees. The question has been semetimes discussed as to whether these requirements are beyond the standard reached by the seminaries, and whither a better devetailing of the work may be made. A conference like this will go far towards answering those questions intelligently.

There is no doubt that the omission of certain studies in seminaries acts as a serious handicap upon a student com work. Every one will realize the difficulty of the student when presenting himself for special studies in Holy Scripture, who has never studied Hebrew in the seminary and forgotten what little Greek he learned in the college. He may be a brilliant student, and may become a fair exegete, but with his brilliants talents and satisfactory work what tr mendous advantages would be within his reach were he capible of reading the text in the original Hebrew or Greek? The same is true as far as the Greek and Latin are concerned in the study of Church history, while French and G rman give an entree to day, not only to science, but also to the best theological literature. If we are in earnest, tuen, to lead the clergy of the Church in America to the heights of scholarship we must see to the foundations, as also to the general educational structure upon which schol arship is to be built.

This is the message of he University to the seminaries in this conference. It is a word of encouragement and a word of advice. The University is the highest expression of the Church in education, and to us Americans, cur University should be the pride and idol of our hearts. It was a bold step on the part of the Bishops to inaugurate the University; but the educational system was not complete until the University was established.

Like all institutions, the University is of slow growth; that which springs into being in a night oftentimes tades and withers before the morning eun. It has taken many years to develop our seminaries and place them upon the splendid tooting of to-day. Like them, the University is not merely for our day and gen eration, it has been built for the cen turies. It is as yet in its youth, and must experience all the difficulties that come with youth. Yet in looking over the nine years that separate us, from its first schelastic days, we have no reason to be ashamed of the position it occupies in the higher education of the clergy and the laity. It has not done all that it has wished to do, because, on the one hand, some of the work that came to it for perfection was imperfectly done, and on the other, many of the students could not be spared from their dio ceees long enough to give the University time for proper university development. Yet more than two bundred priests have passed through the University; nearly sixty have received its licentists, and two hold its doctorate. Others could have reached the honors of the University doctorate if they

The second second

the country, and adding hon r to the degrees which the University bestowed upon them.

operation of the seminaries .... the colambition for work as well as direction it needs the friendliness that comes with the kindly word of direction and the conscientions co-operation in the preparation but that our own Catholic University stands at our very doors to give us the very best possible scientific training in university lines. Clergy men from our own dioceses, having fitted themselves by the best training in Europe, stand ready to lead our young men to the oftiest heights of ecclesias ical learning.

The University welcomes the day of this conterence, and rejoices that through its deliberations we may hope for a more unitorm scandard of seminary training. is well as a more complete development of seminary work on lines that will lead to general theological culture, making our young men not only pious priests and good theologians, but masters of their own language and cultured genitenen, worthy to be presented to their Bestops as candidates for the bignest see larenip thus to become in their day too ornaments of the Church, as well as the teachers of the people.

IN MEMORY OF

A Handsome Monument Erected in the Cemetery of Uptergrove, Ont., by His Grace the Archbishop of Toronto and the Pries s and Parishioners.

Uprendiave, ONT. June 1, 1898 - A very handsome monument was creeted in St. Columbkills' Cemetery here, on Saturday, the 28 h May, in honor of the late and esteemed Father Hogan. It is a fitting commemoration of the deceased priest.

Father Hogan came here in 1891, from New York, where he had labored for five years prior to that. Father Hogan was or many years pastor of St. Ann's Parisa, Montreal, where, I understand, the reverend gentleman was beloved by his parishioners. The estate of the deceased priest was insignificant, as it was not his policy to hoard up money; hence there were no funds with which to erect a monument to him. But If is Grace the Most Reverend John Walsh of Toronto, aided by a number of his priests, together with the subscriptions of the narisbioners here, made up for this, and the result is that a pretty monument has been erected to commemorate the saintly priest, who was beloved by the people of the parish.

Father Hogan was forty years in the sacred ministry, and left behind him a name, a record, an example to emulate. The deceased gentleman had no near relatives in America, he having left Ireland, the land of his birth, for Canada nearly 48 years ago. It was very fitting that such a devoted, learned and God fearing priest, who left his native land, his relatives and his lovely home, to minister to the wants of humanity in this far-off land, should be suitably re cognized. The only regret the pariso committee had was that they had not sufficient funds to erect a grander monument to one so worthy.

Ireland has sent many noble priests to Canada, but few to excel the saintly, courteous and dignified Father Hogan. Great credit is due to His Grace Archbishop Walsh, Father Whitney and the local committee for their kind work andsome contributions. May the soul of Father Hogan r st in peac:.

F. J. GILLESPIF.

The Catholic Universe says: An exchange deplores the wn detale rejection of cigarette fiends by recruiting officers of the army. No better place could be found for these young men than in the front ranks of the vauguard of the invading army, it argues, because they can be better spared than others whom their presence in that position would help to protect. In this way the nuwholesome slave of the cigarett shahit could be used for a double service to his country. I have brought myself by long meditation to the conviction that a human being with a settled purpose must ac complish it, and that nothing can resist its fulfilment.—Benjamin Disraeli. Senator Allison states that the most trustworthy information he can obtain is to the effect that it will take 379 million dollars to pay the expenses of the a will that will stake even existence for they hope to secure at the end of another year. Among its graduates are found men who are to day doing glori as work for the Church in different sections of

The time has come now and the University is better prepared than ever to take a step forward to still better work for the c'ergy and latte to me United States; but it needs the con mued co-Religious Condition in the Schools leges; it needs the touch that gives for the work. We should be proud that we have in our country an institution capable of doing as good work as any institution of the kind in the world; that it is no longer necessary that our students go abroad for higher developement,

Chamber. One of the most striking evidences of the vast usefulness of the Society of St. Vincent de l'ant in charitable work is shown in the financial report of the operations of the organization for the years 1895 6, which appears in the April issue of the R vue Generale. Nearly two millions of dollars have been expended each year. This large amount was divided over the fellowing countries, as appears from the statement showing the disbursements of 1896, as follows:

Austria, $114.718; Spain, $138.734; Great Britain, $147 031; Holland, $232,158; Italy, $53 762; Canada, $56 000; United States, $258.649; Mexico, $52,976; Belgiom, Br. zd and other councies, $377, il nence and distinction, has been formed for the purpose of remedying a great evil and performing a great and meritorious work in Paris. The suburbs of the city, > walls or boulever is, contain a population of about 2,000,000, only a very small number of whom ever see a pricat. The parishes there contain about 60 000 peo-REV. FATHER HOGAN ple, served by about four or live priests, with churches capable of holding from tour to five bundred people, with hardly any religious houses; whilst the olde and richer parishes are served by from 10 to 20 priests each, with several religious houses. Paris and France spend en rmous sums on foreign missions and works of luxury, while nere stits doors lies a wild and uncultivated vineyard urgently requiring attention. In these · muchs are generated unbelief, immorall; anarchy, and socialism, which traverse like electric currents the whole of France by me as of such papers as the Intransigeant and Petite Republique, whose readers make up the army of anarchy and collectivism. Cardinal Guiber has begun to provide for these people by the erection of small parishes, in which priests can find those who want them and the people find pricate to minister to their wants. It is to be hoped that the Gov-rument will co operate in the good work begun by Cardinal Guibert and his zealons coloperators, as the work of converting these irreligious people will also produce wholes me

Legacies to Catholic Schools.

flect, from a social and political point

We clip the following from the London Universe, which goes to show that there is yet hope that wealthy and well to do Catholics will yet come to the rescue of our religious and educational establishments, and emulate, in some measure, the example shown by non Catholics:

Under the will of the late Miss Anne lane Garton, of the Priory, 161 Lord street, Southport, the funds of various charities in Southport and St. Helens will benefit in a very handsome degree. The value of the estate has been sworn at £99 977 12s. 2d. The Rev. John Postlethwaite Airey, of Grange over-Sands, and Mr. J. Smallshaw, of Southport, have been appointed executors and trustees, and to each of these gentlemen she has bequeathed £1000 free of legacy duty. To Kate Foley has been left £50, the amount of a year's wages, and the plate, glass, books, pictures, trinkets, and household effects; Kate Ford, the companion of the deceased lady, will receive £250, and all the servants will be provided with mourning. A sum of £2000 is left to the trustees upon trust to invest in consols, the dividend to be paid to Kate Foley for life. The other bequests include £1000 to the Carist Church Schools, Southwerk; £1000 to the Convalescent Hospital Sea bathing Infirmary; £1000 to the Southport Infirmary and Dispensary; £1000 to S. Marie's Catholic Schools, Southport; £1000 to the Southport and Birkdale Provident Society; £1000 to the Governesses' Home, Southport; £1000 to the Parish Church Schools, St. Helens; £1000 to the Catholic Schools, St. Helens; and £10:0 to the St. Helens (Luncashire) Infirmary. The residuary estate is expected to amount to £60,000. This sum will be divid d equally between the Southport Infirmary and Dispensary and the St. Helens (Lancashire) Infirmary, towards and for the purpose of the endowment funds of these institutions. This bequest is entirely separate from the ±1000 each already mentioned.

The German Centre Party.

The people of Germany, says an exchange, will elect their representatives to the Reichstag on the 16th June for a period of five years. Every man in Gerwar from the present time until July 1, many 25 years of age who has retained 1899, not taking into account any emer-It is encouraging to note that there are | gen y expenses that may arise at any | get no remuneration, except the train CONTINUED ON PAGE FIVE:

The second of the second of the second of

FAMINE STRICKEN DISTRICTS OF IRELAND.

Some Pictorial Features of the Terrible Condition of Families.

A Memorial Address to President McKinley.

Two Hundred Thousand People on the West Coast Verging on Starvation -A Sad Picture of the Congested Districts.

For some time past we have been publishing heartrending reports of the famine now doing its ravages in Ireland. We take the following extract from the last issue of the Dublin Freeman, and reproduce the cuts which appeared in connection with the article. The Freeman says:

the state of misery into which the un tures, taken at random from a series of photographs illustrating the distress of the peasantry of the South and South of the necessities of the starving people count for little in view of the sad story that the sketches plainly but most eloquently tell. We need not go to Cuba for vivid representations of misery and starvation that should appeal to all who have bowels of compassion for the suffer. ings of the poor. Old and young alike upon the charitable organization by have been truthfully described as being which alone thousands of deaths by on the brink of famine, and yet the only attempt made by the authorities enabling the landlords to wring from to cope with the situation is pal their tarving seris the charitable funds try, grudging, and totally inadequate to the needs of the famine stricken people. Even the cry of the helpless little children has failed to induc: Mr. Champagne Balfour and his advisers to take measures that would mitigate their woes. As we have said, the pictures with which we present our readers tell their own tale. It would indeed be diffi- alone, in the famine clearances of the cult, as it surely is unnecessary, to ex- early part of the present generation, aggerate the conditions under which the bare of their whole population, and family depicted in the picture are con- nanded over to a few ecore of foreign demned to live. No sketch of a Cuban reconcentrado is more pitiful than that evicted population who did not perish of of the child whose face and general appearance betoken the awful ravages patches of bog and mountain which which have been made by hunger and were never intended by nature to raise want, and we may guess the nature of ] food for human subsistence. Mr. Billour's schemes when we learn j that an old and helpless widow is refused | tricts Board, nominated by the Governfor some reason or another any share in | ment for the improvement of these disthe relief to which her circumstances tricts, have, by a unanimous resolution, should apparently entitle her at once.

adopted at the great open air demonstral among the disinherited people, the Gov tion held at Islandeady, near Castlebar, ernment have steadily refused to give under the auspices of the United Irish effect to the demand of their own board,

An American Catholic Journal of

Opinion That It is Much

Needed at Present.

Catholic Newspapers to Spread

Religious Prejudice-A Timely

Rebuke to Over-Generous Cath-frequently mistakes license for liberty, and in consequence a censorship of the press is very much needed just now. In the haste to obtain news the truth is excrificed, and in place of aiding in the prosecution of the war, the press is giv-olics.

the Islandeady district. It is expected | tering an extra force of armed policemen that a similar memorial will be signed in the other districts of Mayo, and it is rumoured that all such memorials will be presented to the President of the United States at Washington by Mr. Michael Davitt, M.P., during his visit to America in the early autumn.

The following is a copy of the memorial referred to :-

'To the President of the United States of America.

"We, the people of the parish of lalandeady, in the county of Mayo, lreland, mindful of the noble love of liberty and hatred of oppression which have ever actuated the American Common-wealth, and of the ties of blood and tradition which unite us with many mil lions of its citizens, are moved to bring to the knowledge of the President and Congress of the United States the following facts concerning our present suffering condition, and the neglect of our English rulers to provide a remedy for that misery created by their own misgovernment.

"1. That more than two hundred thousand of the population on the western coast of Ireland are at the present moment in a condition of destitution, in which they are only preserved from death by starvation by grants of Indian meal provided by the Dublin Mansion House Fund and other charitable organ-

"2. That although the English Government in Ireland were many months ago warned of the imminence of this calamity by the Archbishop and Bish-Nothing could show more graphically ops of the Western Province, and have been repeatedly urged in Parliament by the representatives of Ireland to come to fortunate people of the West have been plunged than the accompanying pic only measure of relief they have proposed is one by which one fourth of the total costs of the relief works must be paid by the boards of guar ians of the distressed districts, the great majority of West of Ireland. The repeated denials whose ratepayers are themselves in a condition bordering on starvation, and are already obliged to pay at the rate of £100 a week in outdoor relief to their lamishing neighbors.

> "3. That every attempt to awaken the English Government in Ireland to a sense of their duty has been met by infamine have hitherto been averted, and by renewed coercion for the purpose of subscribed for their relief and the remit tances of their relatives in the United

> '4 That the chronic destitution of the West of Ireland is not a consequence of the natural intertility of the soil or of over population, but is the direct result of the system of consolidation of hold ings, by which, in this County of Mayo 400 000 acres of fertile lands were swept graziers, while the remnants of the famine or had no means of emigration were huddled together upon miserable

'5. That although the Congested Disdeclared that the only genuine remedy for these recurring famines in the West is the compulsory purchase of these vast In accordance with the resolution grazing tracts and their redistribution national memorial to the United States in Mayo for the enforcement of the Conwas yesterday signed by the people of gested districts Board's remedy by quar- tion of our country.'

upon the starving people, and suppressing with an armed hand the right of public meeting.

"That under these circumstances, our poverty and misery cannot be attributed to any Providential design or to any fault of our own, but must be laid at the door of the alien rulers of Ireland who, instead of contributing anything towards the relief of Irish poverty, are now incontestibly pr ved, by the admis sion of their own Treasury experts, to be exacting an overplus of at least £2,750, 000 per annum from this unfortunate country in excessive taxation.

"In consideration of all which we as a last resource invoke the intervention of the President and Co gress of the United States in the name of that Ire-land whose Parliament voted their sym pathies to the authors of the Declara-tion of Independence in the very crisis of their struggle for liberty, and whose sons have freely given their energies and their blood to the building up of your spoken gratitude of a free people. great Republic, to aid us in putting an Whatever meagreness in great end to that blighting foreign rule which | there was during the lying-in-state,

REST IN WESTMINSTER

The Funeral of England's Grand Old Man.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor's Pen Picture of the Last Tribute to the Prince of Statesmen.

THE body of England's greatest man, William E. Gladstone, was to day laid in the Valhalla of his race, says Mr. T P. O'Connor, M.P., in a special despatch from London to the New York Herald on Saturday last. Military pomp and in the first four with Mr. Dillon, that the outward trappings of pageantry were is, Blake, Swift, McNeill and myself, absent, but the ceremony was glorified by the homage of his greatest surviving contemporaries and by the sentiment of universal reverence expressed in the out-

Whatever meagreness in grandeur

A LONE WIDOW REFUSED RELIEF.

within living memory has deprived Ire | there was none about the funeral. In famines, emigration and eviction, and sive, lofty, dignified. This was fitting has kept her the reproach of the civilized to the faneral of one who, after all, was world; and we respectfully entreat the control of your great country, bedding plumes, no mighty procession, for fore entertaining any question of the alliance which England professes herself carriage, and the distance between Westso eager to contract with your Republic, minster Hall and Westminster Abbey is to consent to no terms which will not but a few steps. include the abandonment of the present hateful system of misgovernment and organized famine in Ireland, and the establishment of that national self government which the people of Scotland, Wales and the North of England have by their votes acknowledged to be inevitable, and which the insolence of the aristocrats, landlords and Jingoes of League, says the Dublin Freeman, a and have this winter met the agitation England alone persists in withholding, to the misery, spoliation and depopula> feated. Then we were informed that the war speedily. It was waged to save the starvation. At present no tongue can monks and Sisters know the location of increase. What is needed is a sharp submarine mines? How many people decisive campaign that will place our

> > It is one of the misfortunes of our age that we have so little leisure. The haste of life brings many disadvantages; it hinders thoroughness of work, it destroys largely our reverence for life, since we hardly cherish much respect for what we do hurriedly. The r sult is that the world is full of hasty judgments; men are driven to decide almost before they have had leisure to deliberate. The spirit of this haste is infectious; people ask for rapid con-clusions; they become impatient of a wise hesitation. The demand brings the supply. On all sides dogmatic utterances are heard; a swift survey is made. A few facts are gathered; an immature conclusion is reached and immediately announced; oracle succeeds oracle, contradicting or confirming; those who counsel deliberation are elbowed out of the way.

> > I submit that duty is a power which rises with us in the morning and goes to rest with us at night. It is co extensive with the action of our intelligence; it is the shadow which cleaves to us, go where we will, and which only leaves us when we leave the light of life.—W. E. Glad-

> > An American journal says: Prince Bismarck laughs at the thin platitudes

land of five millions of her children by every respect that ceremony was impres-

But the people, as during the lying-instate, were an impressive sight. Every spot on which the eye rested swarmed with huma beings. They peeped at you from the windows of the hospital, from the roofs of houses. Everybody nearly was dressed in black, and there was the same unbroken sombreness in demeanor which has been so characteristic of them the past few days. The unbroken silence of this vast multitude. added immensely to one's sense of the magnitude and solemnity of the occa-

The procession of the members of Parliament formed in the House of Com mons as early as 930. The chamber presented an appearance at once curious and impressive.

Parliament at the Funeral.

There must have been four hundred members present, and, considering the holidays have already begun, this was marvellous. It is said not a single Libreal member was absent, except invalids and Gladstone's opponents. The Tories were also fully represented. The Irish members were some forty strong, a very considerable number, considering that it is vacation time and the present condition of the party. Mr. Dillon sat in his usual place, and close beside him were the men who were most closely associated with his leadership. Among them was Mr. Blake, one of the most impressive figures of the day, with his tall stature, clear cut features and look of distinction.

None of the Parnellites were present, nor was Mr. Healy. Everybody in the House was in the deepest black, and the House looked, to some extent, like's funeral chamber. There was just one bit of color. The sergeant-at-arms had around his neck a silver collar, tied with white silk bows, a curious and an unusual addition to his uniform.

When the Speaker entered there was a surprise in store for the House, which saw its sombreness at least broken by a splendid bit of color, for the Speaker appeared for the first time in my recollection in full, gorgeous robes.

He wore a black gown, richly em-broidered with gold lace, a garment that seemed at once sternly simple and brilliantly rich, and that added greatly to the impressiveness of his handsome face and fine figure. Mr. Gully is one of the handsomest men that has ever held the office of Speaker of the House of Com-

Irishmen Keep Apart.

After considerable delay the Speaker rose, and at once every member was on frequently bestowed upon political sup-porters whom the Government find it impossible to otherwise reward.

The Irishmen had resolved to walk by themselves, so as to distinguish their group from the rest. Mr. Dillon was to give them the signal, and just as the other members were leaving the House he rose from his place, and the Irish members followed his lead.

The procession slowly wended its way to Westminster Hall, where the coffin lay, still giving that impression of smallness, remoteness and loneliness in the vast hall. There was a look for a second as the members passed the coffin, but no pause, and slowly but regularly the procession passed on until it got into open air again.

Then the great majority of the members put on their hats, but some of the Irishmen, especially those who walked kept uncovered throughout as more in accord with the sense of pathos and the solemnity of the occasion. Some few of of the ceremony and surroundings. The the English members did the same great epistle of Paul with its final yearn thing.

The crowd pressed close to see the procession as it passed, but whatever he telt, the Londoner held his tongue. The sive words sounded almost weak and insame impressive, solemn, unbroken trusive. When the lesson had been read silence continued as the procession and the last hymn, "Oh God, Our Help wound its way onward. The ceremony in Ages Past," had been sung, the Archin the case of the House of Lords was practically the same. The Lord Chancellor, who is the Speaker of that assembly, unlike the Speaker of the Commone, was not in full dress. He wore his great wig, and the Sergeant at Arms carried the brazen mace, the emblem of royal authority, and there was the usual retinue of pursebearer and trainbearer and other officials that form his little

Noted Men in the Throng.

The attendance of peers was on as reat a scale as that of the Commoners. This was wonderful testimony to the universality of grief over Mr. Gladstone's death, as he was not a favorite with that body, and his very last speech in the House of Commons was delivered in opposition to their claims.

The pall-bearers who walked on each side of the coffin were perhaps the personages who attracted the most attention during the day.

The sight of the Prince of Wales and his son and heir doing honor to the leader of the great popular liberal forces was sufficient to excite comment and curiosity, but in addition, the leaders of the Tory party in both houses of Parliament were joined in the same homage.' Lord Salisbury was a picturesqu fig-ure in his way. Massive in height, still more massive in weight and heavily stooped, he added to the impressiveness of his massi eness and to the curiousness of his appearance by wearing a small black velvet skull cap.

Arthur Balfour, just as thin as his uncle is stout, bore on his face the mark of the somewhat painful return he recently had of the universal plague through which he had passed last year. Sir Harcourt is also a massive figure, some 6 feet 4 inches tall and built on gigantic proportions. Finally came Mr. Armistead, the faith-ful friend who looked after the comfort of Mr. Gladstone for many years and his his companion in nearly all his travels. He is a gigantic man with a long white beard, with the mien and bearing of a viking of old.

Relief in Bits of Colors.

institutions as ass distinction and old England cannot be without picturesqueness and difference in color on even so studiously simple an occasion as this. Several times the eye was caught by the sight of a beautiful patch of color; chair boys dressed in scarlet tunics; gorgeous footmen with powdered hair and other indications of this land of opulence, magnificence and caste. But the prevalent color was sombre.

The Abbey was filled in most parts, though there was no overcrowding, and there was something almost oppressive in those tremendous rows of women all dressed in the same deep universal black -black gowns, black jackets, black hats, black feathers, black gloves. There was something almost like relief in the white surplices of the ecclesiastics.

Through the dimly lighted nave the different processions took their slow, solemn way.

In due order the two houses of Parlia ment faced each other in the galleries erected for the occasion, and in the space left beween them was the open grave in the floor of the Abbey, waiting to receive its illustrious occupant. There was something that resembled a great theatrical performance in this arrangement of the two houses, and the spectators in their long tiers of galleries around the grave.

But the sombreness of colors, the dim light that came in through the windows and the hosts of ecclesiastics soon banished this idea, and the whole ceremonial was solemn, beautiful.

In the centre of each gallery was presiding officer with the mace beside him. Each speaker seemed to be a sort of core to the gallery, its central, most prominent figure.

Scene from the Gallery.

Down below one caught a sight of the pallbearers as they stood around the small and simple coflin. Looking a little closer, you saw a number of people that you began slowly to recognize as members of the bereaved family. There was a thrill and a hush, though no spoken exclamation as the devoted wife walked to her place leaning on the arms of her two sons—one Stephen, the rector of his ancestral home Hawarden; the other, Henry, an East Indian merchant. Behind them came Herbert Gladstone, the only son who has adopted a political career, and in his charge were a number of young people, boys and girls, who looked sweet and touching in their mourning, and with their innocent interest in all that was going on.

The choir of Westminster Abbey is fine at any time, but for this occasion special preparations had been made and there was a recruiting of the best voices from several other voices of the me-that Newman's hymn, 'Praise the Holiest in the Height' was is favorite, and this hymn found a prominent place in the music of the day.

"Rock of Ages" was also one of Gladstone's favorites, so much so that he made a Latin translation of it, which was printed in the programme beside the English words.

The musical selections were typical of all such ceremonies, that is to say, there was a mixture of inevitable sadness, death and parting and the joy founded on hopes of a blessed immortality.

Beauty in the Music.

At one time the music fell to a low, solemn, tender whisper, then again you heard the trombones resound through the vast building, giving a sense of joy and exaltation, of final victory over death and corruption, that had a most startling and at the same time a most thrilling effect upon the imagina ion.

There was no sermon. It would have been too small in the great proportions of victory over death was read, but the voice of the reader was partially lost in the vast space, and those always impresbishop of Cantertury, in his loud, almost harsh voice, pronounced the final bene-

Then came one of the saddest moments of the day. The widow was supported to the edge of the grave, and there took a last long look and was then conducted away, still leaning on the arms of her two sons. The other relatives followed her, and then most of the members of the two houses of Parliament passed to the side of the grave and looked at the coffin, which lay deep down so to be covered from eight until another grave is built for the surviving partner of that beautiful household.

The 'Dead March in Saul,' the Messe Solennelle' of Schubert, were played as the congregation slowly wended its way out. The crowds were there, and the sunshine and the already impatient throb of the great metropolis to resume its feverish hurried life, and so the great legislature in which Gladstone had reigned as a foremost figure for nearly sixty years paid its last farewell.

A LARGE PEACH CROP.

In the peach orchards of southwestern Georgia there is just now maturing one of the most magnificent crops of the truit that has been known in the history of the state. The probability is that, barring accident, it will surpass any Georgia fruit crop heretofore known. The railroads have been figuring on arrangements for the transportation and distribution of this immense amount of peaches. The lowest estimate made is that it will require 1,400 cars to move it, while other estimates go all the way up to 2 000 cars, and many of the truttgrowers and railroad men believe the latter figure is nearer correct .- Savannah

The only reason why the names of some of the converts that join the Catholic Church are printed, is to encourage other persons-persuided but healtating for lack of human sympathy to seek admission. The Church receives too many converts to "crow" over the reception of any one, and it has too A country with such a vast system of li tie respect for temporary distinctions on account of the accidents of race or rank.—Catholic Columbian.

The Story Teller.

In eastern countries, in place of our storywriters, they have professional storytellers. It is their art to interest their listeners with tales of love, and marvelous adventures, and hair-breadth escapes, and magic cures. There's a story of a wonderful medicine that has made thousands of cures that seemed almost madicial which cures that seemed almost magical, which every woman should read or hear. To have heard it or to read it, may save a woman her own life or that of her husband. The medicine is the discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce, an eminent and skillful specialist, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo N. V. It is Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. V. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes the appetite hearty, the digestion perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich, the nerves steady, the brain clear and the body strong. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent, of all cases of consumption and diseases of the air-passages. It cures nervous diseases and is the best medicine for overworked men and women. A woman may save her Insband's life by keeping a bottle in the house, and getting him to resort to it when he feels out of sorts. All men are heedless about their health. Medicines stores sell it. Doctor Pierce's reputation is world-wide, and his fellow townsmen, of Buffalo, N. Y., think so highly of him that they made him their representative in Congress, but his great love for his profession caused him to resign that honorable position that he might devote the remainder of his life to the relief and cure of the sick.

Another good thing to have in the house is a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure biliousness and constipation and never gripe.

We Do A Good Business

In Roofing_

Because we do good work. We sometimes make mistakes, but when we do we make things right. We'd like you for a customer.

CEO. W. REED & CO., 783 & 785 Craig Street.

MONTREAL.

hard, but so unsuccessfully, for peace, simply in the interest of humanity, he was held up as the special friend of Spain and the enemy of America. Again, after the glorious victory at Manilla, we were told that he was prosent and the interest of humanity, as the special friend of Spainsh navy was de trated because the Spanish navy was de trated because the Spanish navy was de simply in the interest of humanity, he of Joe Chamberlain about the Anglo-Saxon, but a complaint and the his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his mace on his shoulder, with praise for the beauty, harmony and pertain about the Anglo-Saxon, but a complaint nation made of English, Irish, procession, followed by the members of the Privy Council, a dignity of the tastes of the members of the Privy Council, a dignity of the result was to win general placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his mace on his shoulder, with praise for the beauty, harmony and pertain about the Anglo-Saxon, but a complete nation made of English, Irish, procession, followed by the members of the Privy Council, a dignity of the result was to win general placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and then the sergeant at arms, placing his feet, and t The state of the state of the state of #### ular newspapers do not week after week print Catholic sermons in full or give pages from a Sunday school catechism. This favor is reserved for Protestants. When the Holy Father labored so hard, but so unsuccessfully, for peace,

5. 14

ing aid to the enemy by chronicling the movements of our army and navy. In addition to this injury the press is systematically engaged in the infamous effort to persuade the American people that this is a religious war. This effort is so outrageous that no language can be found strong enough to express the enormity of the crime of those engaged in it. An editorial denouncing the Church and Catholics would bring upon the writer the condemnation of every lover found strong enough to express the enof truth, but it is ten times worse to give publicity to despatches that bear the lie on their face, and which are designed to show that the question of religion enters into the war with Spain. The war has been in progress but a very short time, and yet the press has succeeded in publishing quite a number of anti-Catholic items, which every intelligent man knew at the time to be letter relative to the war to be read on a triously circulated by the press.—Church certain Surday in every church. Had News. this announcement alone been made We are proud, and justly so, because there would have been some excuse for the press in America has full liberty. the blunder. When the announcement At the same time we regret that it was followed by the text of a letter which they were said to have written, we have positive proof of a design to miere present the hierarchy.

IT is not uncommon to hear Catholics speak of the generosity of the socular press because it publishes news of Catholic celebrations, Catholic fairs, and Catholic societies, as though the crime of misrepresentation could be wiped out by printing local Catholic news. The press will publish any. thing that is or appears to be news, whether it relates to God or the devil. It will publish items that are shocking to the taste of a refined reader by the side of the notice of some solemn celebra tion. However, we notice that while but little space is given to a sermon by a Catholic priest and a few lines to Catholic notes, the sec-

9+9+8+8+98+0+9+9+0+0+0+0+0+0

monks and Sisters of Manila tried to poor reconcentrados from starvation, and deceive Admiral Dewey and induce him our object will be defeated unless we to place his vessels so they could be soon send an army to Cuba, and save easily destroyed by mines. The absurdthose that are still living from ity of this statement should have destarvation. At present no tongue can terred even the editors of yellow journals describe the misery the Cubans are from publishing it. How could the suffering, and each day their sufferings in Washington know anything about flag over Havana, and make it possible the mines in the Potomac? These anti- to organize a stable government in Catholic lies are seldom, if ever, cor Cuba. Give the army a chance, and it rected. A few weeks since the announce- will soon end the war. In the meantime ment was made in nearly all the dailies something should be done to protect the that the Archbishops had prepared a public from the falsehoods so indus-

Our Observer.

I was speaking to a person connected was greater than on any other. " Much less,' he replied; "every woman that has any time to space will visit the store and worry the charts and it they do happen to make a purchase it is insignificant, and for the trouble that they give there is but little recompense." This agrees with what I said a few weeks sgo; a woman who goes shopping generally manages to spend the day, but sel dom anything else.

From out of the window where I sit, I can see into the offices of a big Insurance company, and it is a noticeable fact that every time any one in authority goes out, the staff thereupon begins a mildly hilaricus reign of revelry, which goes to prove the truth of the old adage: "When the cat's away the mice will play."

William Curtis, the well known Washington correspondent, writes that the Korean minister will have to shut up his legation at Washington and go home, and all because his government has not paid his salary. It appears that the minister is very much in debt; he has not received any remittances either on account of his salary or expenses for a year or more. This is all the more peculiar, as he is a great favorite of the king, and on two occasions has saved him from assassination. Indebtedness is a chronic state of affairs at the Korean legation. A few years ago the Government at Washington was obliged to interfere, so clamorous did its creditors become. According to the usages of the which to compel a member of the corps do so. He is exempt from legal proceedings, and the only resource an unsatisfied creditor has is to advertise his dishonesty in the newspapers. The Korean minister at that time, however, was an honest man, as this one is, and was much mortified over his predicament. So one day he went to the State Department and told all his troubles to the Secretary of State, explaining his belief that his enemies at home in the Government were purposely withholding his salary and allowances | hesitates, as it were, to unveil the glori in order to punish him for some offence, fancied or otherwise. The United States Minister at Seoul was communicated with; he saw the king, and succeeded in straightening matters out. It is amazing ignorance on the subject. A probable that the present Minister is great many home keepers would like to suffering from a similar conspiracy, a it is known that he has many enemies in the Government. The lot of a representative of Korea's opera bouffe Government is truly not an enviable one.

Montrealers have had to pay pretty dearly for the lighting of their streets the rules proved most incorrect and imand houses and this paragraph will hardly add balm to their feelings on the day-gives a different and varying nummatter. Last summer the municipal ber of feet and inches as the true pro officers of Shoreditch parish, London, decided to erect an electric plant to furnish light and power for both private and public purposes, and at the same time to consume the street sweepings for fuel. The first light was turned on on July 16. During the first quarter the loss was about $2,500. During the second quarter there was a profit of $4,000 and the third quarter's profit amounted to almost $6,000 and at this rate an estimated profit of $10,000 for the first year's operations is expected. This plant has been run without the expenditure of a penny for fuel. The street sweepings have been found to be sufficient, and heretofore it has cost the parish from $12,000 to $16,000 to dispose of them. The demand for power has been such that the vestry called for bids for three additional engines and dynamos. The parish is situated in the midst of the cabinet-making trade and the small venient as well as economical. It is a great pity that a few sensible men with up-to-date ideas were not in our City contracts were awarded.

necessity for some time, and now it would appear that the object is nearer attainment than at any other time. The project has been given a good start, and it is very necessary that all should join and bring the undertaking to an assured success.

Harold Frederick in his latest novel, 'Gloria Mundia," through one of his characters, calmly informs his readers that "they do not how to cook in Ireland," and furthermore, that Irish people pay no attention to eating at all. As an Irishman born and bred, I can bear testimony to Mr. Frederick's statement. People in Ireland are a most extraordinary race; they don't eat, therefore why should they know how to cook?

One of their peculiarities is that they are able to live without the troublesome necessity of eating. Of course some of them die, and then others go to countries where they can get something to eat and learn to cook. Possibly this accounts for the enormous decrease in the pepulation of Ireland and for the remarkable statement made recently by with a Department Store the other day, a British efficial that the famine—he and incidently I inquired if the amount | didn't admit that there was any famine, of business transacted on Bargain Day he called it "distress"-was due to over population." The Irish are a truly remarkable people.

> Apropos of all that has been said regarding the forms which lacrosse players in the Senior Series are to sign before being permitted to play the game, I spoke to a prominent official of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada about the matter and pointed cut to him certain published statements that the whole affair was "a slap in the face for the A. A. A. of C." 'On the contrary," he replied, "the action of the lacrosse people will be of valuable assistance to us."

PHILADELPHIA LETTER.

The National Flag of the Republic and the Masses.

Some Interesting Notes on the Subject from Many Standpoints.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30, 1898.

DURING the whole month of May it has rained in Philadelphia. Morning after morning, the gray sky and the chill damp of February rather than the sunlight and warmth of May; evening after evening, the drizzle, drizzle of approaching storm or the downright pour of a winter's rainy night. The effects of such unseasonable weather are visible. diplomatic service there is no way in | There are colds without end, and rheumatism is certainly abroad, while the to pay his debts if he does not wish to mental distress of those who are oppressed with the thoughts of the dismal breaking in' of the troops is not a little conducive to the melanchely aspect of the city, notwithstanding the flutter and sweep of the beautiful flag, repeated in every possible form.

There are some pictures of the flag that are wonderfully beautiful, although both small and cheap. The folds and the slow sway of that moment when it is most majestic, that instant when it ous blending of blood red stripes of struggle and star-brightened blue of the heaven of peace, is most effectively produced in countless colored prints. Everyone talks flags, and everyone displays are their own flags but it seems almost impossible to arrive at a knowledge of the true proportions. The newspapers, upon which so many rely for information, do but confuse and mislead in this case. What was supposed to be an exact account of the making of a flag appeared in one of our papers a few weeks ago, but upon working it out, possible, and each report of the raising of a flag-and they are increasing each portions. They have it as long again as it is wide, they have it two fifths of the length in width, they have it one quarter of the length in width. Now, there must be a rule of proportions by which a flag of any size could be correctly guaged. Who is to furnish it? Given this rule, and thus doing a good thing in the best way it can be done!—exactly right-it is certainly a delightful idea that has seized upon the women of the United States. Every woman among us should make a flag-an American flag, large or small, of bunting, with white muslin or linen stars, and properly finished ready for hoisting. The most teeble fingers as well as the most skilful are able for this labor of love.

A great deal of very foolish 'stuff' is undoubtedly written about 'Old Glory,' and there are mock heroics written unmistakeably to fill out the measure of the paragraphers, while the uses to which the flag and its representation are so often put as advertisements, and worse, too surely prove that there is, after all, a gross misunderstanding and disregard of what is due to the standard manufacturers find the power most con- of our country. Few people really enter to meet the new. Already men make into the meaning of what is said of it, mention of two Decoration Days in the because, unless misfortune touches the heart in some hour where the flag ap pears, there is really so much to suffer Council before the extravagant lighting and so much to absolutely claim, and force its claim upon men and women, that they put off as mere sentiment, to be indulged in as a luxury, the meaning A Catholic High School has been a of the flag to those born beneath the Government it represents and the wide folds with which it shelters them, Many things that are 'every day throes and paroxsyms' to the multitude, I neither accept nor reject, for I see no sense in

Is caused by torpid liver, which prevents digestion and permits food to ferment and putrify in the stomach. Then follow dizziness, headache

insomina, nervousness, and, if not relieved, bilious fever or blood potsoning. Hood's Pills stimulate the stomach, rouse the liver, oure hesdache, disriness, constitution, etc... 25 cents. Sold by all druggists.

The easy Pills to take with Hood's Sersaparille.

the glib tongued setting of them forth, and I will not believe nor assume to be-lieve all that I am told. But I love the flag. In the gayest mood and most thoughtless enjoyment of parade or review or celebration, those tattered battle flags that are borne in line bring some thing with them that thrills my very soul, something that overawes the hour, I know not why, and brings a loftiness of spirit that ennobles. No less, the flutter of the 'colors' deepens the blue of heaven and brightens the sunshine, while, always and everywhere there is with the gladness, a remembrance, that, perhaps, accounts for it all.

One morning long ago, I saw that flag float 'union down' from the last mast of a sinking ship. A little child, I was one of a crowded boatfull in the midst of the Atlantic Ocean, and those around me said to each other in lowered tones, that unless the help came for which that signal of distress was raised, and unless it came soon, the wreck must sink with all on board of her. The boat lay as near as possible waiting-for the end. The flag fluttered once more, floated far out, and went down with the ship and the brave souls on board of her. The help came too late for them, and their Strides of Progress Made During Recent Years.

The Part Catholics Have Taken in the Movement - Religious and Educational Praise for Sir Wilfrid Laurier-The Departure of Lord and Lady Aberdeen.

Pursuing my tour through the Dominion, I arrived in Ottawa a few days ago, and in that Capital City of Canada a try naturally has a prestige peculiar to itself, and, besides, Ottawa has many in her noble husband she has had an ex geographical and commercial features emplary and sympathetic helper in all that attract the eye of a visitor. Its her beneficent works. Canada has been clean and well kept streets, and fine favored with many very eminent rulers last signal of farewell to earth was the business and public buildings, denote its popular Lord and L dy 1) therin, and the flag has on the feelings, and the interest that awakens search for knowledge as to its meaning and its symbolism. A thousand memories, a thousand hopes, a thousand beliefs, hover round every tiny rag that bears the 'red, white and blue' for, as it is to me for reasons of my own, so is it to every other American, and as we feel for the 'red, white and blue' of the fair flag the world knows in its broadest sense as the American Flag so the men and women of other countries feel for other flags-their own.

FAMINE-STRICKEN DISTRICTS OF IRELAND.

INTERIOR OF A CABIN-CARRAROE.-See Page 2.

And it seems to me a lesson we need to learn here, that so they should feel. It is one of the extravagances and part of the mock heroic sentiment I speak of as written to fill out a paragrapher's measure that it is not allowed in the sensational journalism that there should he any flag on the globe save 'Old To an American, no! No other Glory.' to equal it in honors or in affection or of England, the Irishman who can torget the flag of Ireland, the Frenchman short, the native born of any land, who ceases to honor the standard under which he was born, is no honor himself to the ability to lean upon. country he adopts. Either he has forfeited all right to its protection, or he is dead to every ennobling thought of feeling, and should he declare the most exalted sentiments and the deepest devotion towards our own dear banner of the tree, I believe him capable of betraying it as he betrays the one under whose shelter God placed him.

There are Englishmen who are Americans by election and service; there are Irishmen who stand shoulder to shoulder in every rank where there is battle needed for us; there are men of every nation under the sun who are ours by adoption. We know that they are true and faithful; but if there is one among them who is false or will be false in time of trial, it is the man who has trampled on his country's flag in the reward the followers of the 'Red, White and Blue.' An adopted son must wear two flags side by side in his heart, if not on it, or he is a traitor to both. This is reason and common sense. As a man must, in the usual course of events, love his mother at least as well as his motherin law, so must this other be strong as a two-fold love, or no love at all.

It is Decoration Day in Philadelphia, and the old battle flags have come forth future. There is great feeling arcused at this season this year, As '98' was memorable for Ireland, so it is to be memorable for us, yet, with a difference! Who can tell the end! A novel of the last war'-we called it the 'late war three months ago!-which I picked up yesterday gives scenes that are lifelike of the Christmas of 1860. They strangely reproduced the holidays of 1897, when no one dreamed of what has come to usand came in April, too-as that war now. It is the work of Mrs. Flora Mc-Donald Williams and is entitled, 'Who Was the Patriot?' It is most true to nature and to the time.

SARA TRAINER SMITH.

From what we know of ourselves, it is probable beforehand that some amount of jealousy, dislike, rivalry, triumph, or other unworthiness may mingle with our motives, and thus not only vitiate a whole series of actions, but even be superinducing a new habit of uncharitableness, or strengthening an old flutter of their country's flag. It is not [rapid growth and prosperity, while its wonderful that I can testify to the hold splendid Catholic churches its educational and charitable institutions indicate, in a marked degree, that the Irish Catholic element is steadfly pushing onward in the path of prosperity. St Patrick's Church is undergoing alter ations and enlargement, which shows that this prominent congregation, under the spiritual guidance of Rev. Father Whelan and his able assistant, Rev. Doctor McNally, has outgrown the capa city of the present church. St. Joseph's and St. Bridget's have also overflowing congregations The former is now un der the pastoral care of Rev. Father Fallon, the learned and elequent vice rector of Ottawa University, which position, I think, he holds in conjunction with h a rectorship of St. Joseph's parish.

Faber.

The convents in the city are notable for their high standing and educational facilities, and so are the collegiate and educational establishments under the able control of Dr. McCabe, who enjoys in devotion to its cause. But the Engthe well-earned reputation of ranking also the gay devotees of the social cir country. In such headmasters as Mr. Thomas Swift, of St. Patrick's schools, who can forsake the lilies of France-in and that of St. Bridget's, and their respective staffs of efficient teachers, Principal McCabe has splendid teaching

As the tourist wends his way through the new sections of the Capital he sees evident signs of expansion and improve ment on all sides, and in the older and favored residential sections he looks upon homes and grounds that bespeak comfort and elegance within and without. On Metcalf and other streets I eaw mansions at for princes to live Then comes headaches, nervousness, bad in, and I noticed an air of freshness bloud, liver and kidney troubles. Do and cleanliness in all the avenues I visited. Of course, in the way of architectural grandeur, the Parliament buildings are the chief objects of attraction; the central block in particular, with its beautiful House of Commons, etc , and its magnificent library of two hundred thousand volumes. It greatly adds to the interest to know that Parliament is in session. The chief topic discussed race for the spoils and the honors that one of the evenings I attended was the Dominion's tribute to the name and memory of the late Mr. Gladstone. On the first occasion after his death the words of condolence and grief were eloquently uttered by Sir Richard Cartwright on behalf of the Dominion Government, and by Sir Charles Tupper for the Opposition. But at a later date when the formal resolutions touching the great statesman's death were introduced, it remained for Sir Wilfrid Laurier to pay him the most elequent and most just tribute perhaps ever beard in the parliamentary halls of any land. Certainly it was the finest piece of oratory ever heard within the Ottawa House of Commons. And no wonder that it should be far above the average of ordinary speeches, for it was spoken by Canada's silver tongued Premier and orator, and it depicted the life and career of the greatest and most illustrious statesman of the century. The House was fairly thrilled by the earnest and glowing words of the Premier, and at its conclusion the members cheered again came. That novel is worth reading that the subject was worthy of the orator, and again, for each one seemed to realize and that he had fittingly voiced the Nation's grief for the loss of a great Christian statesman whom all the world de-

Nor did the speaker fail to dwell upon the great deceased's efforts on behalf of the oppressed Irish people. Lady Aberdeen was present among the vast audience, who listened with wrapt attention to the beautiful description of the labors and life of the man who had just passed away so full of years and honors. It is said that Lord Aberdeen one, and also bindering all other growths | yearned to be a listener also, but it the sittings or debates in Parliament. ends in it.

This exclusion must have been a dis appointment to I ord Aberdeen, because he regarded the late Mr. Gladstone as a father and a friend.

The arbject must discussed n. w in Ottawa is the impending will drawn of the Earl and Counters of Aberdeen 'rom their efficial post in Canada L dy Aberdeen herself made the announcement the other evening at the meeting of the Women's Council and the bare thought of a separate from so the charming woman provided tears of s striking proof of the good influence wrought by this distinguished lady dur ing her residence in Canada, and it proves that goodness of heart and nobility of character will always fine their adequate reward in the love and gratitude of a discerning people. Lady Aberdeen is a woman endowed with visitor always sees much to interest | high mental and natural gifts, and these him. The political capital of any coun. she exerted to the utmost in furthering the happiness and well being of all creeds and classes in the Dominion, and and social according to the x imple, the many others, but it may be only said that the noble pair who intend to leave our shores in October or November next deservedly worked their way into the love and affections of the people at large in a way and to an extent unequalled by any other occupants of the vice regal

The time of final departure is yet some days distant, but the official mention of it has caused deep-seated sorrow among the whole people, and it creates a pang of regret among the ladies of the Women's Council as well as among all persons who ware admitted to intimate terms with the noble pair who have so kindly moved among the people for these past years, acting always in a manner to win their attachment. When I heard or witnessed the outburst of regrets at the coming leave-taking, my mind turned back to the scenes enacted at Dublin quay on the duy the self same couple left the shores of Ireland.

In poor Erin, where famine and desti tution so often visit, there were still greater scope for the exercise of Lady Aberdeen's goodness of mind and soul torshe had o'tentimes to relieve actual want, and she traveled ever the land from Cork to Donegal on her mission of relief works to help the needy peasantry to keep starvation from their doors. And to her benevolence of purp se and business ability the numerous knitting and embrodery actories all over Ireland speak in trumpet tones. And the workers of the ruined Irish Poplin Industry will bless her name, for she was the instrument that put new life and vigor into that once flourishing trade. It was no wonder then that streams of tears should flow on the quays of Dublin as the grateful peasants saw their best friend and protectoress take sad leave of their

From what I could gather in Ottawait seems that the session is drawing to a close, and surely the legislators may retire to their homes with a full consciousness that they have participated in the labors of a time that has produced many wise enactments that will tend to the good and happiness of the

The commercial citizens of Oltawa will regret the closing of the House and cle, for these and other departments thrive when the House is in session and the Capital alive with pleasant people. WM. ELLISON.

Almost every man in America has some digestive trouble. When men meet, the greeting usually is, "Well how are you?" That develops health talk. The man who has no bowel or stomach trouble is almost a curiosity Trouble is men take no care of themselves. They eat as though they had copper stomachs and howels of brass. By and by, overworked nature rebels. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets furnish help for constipation and torpid liver, sick and billious headache, dizziners, sour stomach, loss of appetite, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy beechings, "heartpain and distress after eating, burn. and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, Accept no substitute.

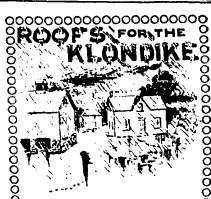

FAMINE-STRICKEN DISTRICTS OF IRELAND

A Starving Child-See page 2.

Kaiser Wilhelm is taking a vacation at the castle of Urville in Lorraine and amusing himself in contriving a new mitrailieuse that shall mow down a whole regiment at once.

Let the men who despise religion learn first to know it; let them see it as it is -the inward happy creats by which human life is transformed and an issue

Roofs must be chosen with care and judgment in any country, and especially so in Canada.

All cur products are con-All cur products are conand ample prevision is allow ed for contraction and expansion and we guarantee them. to be water, wind, and storm prenf. Up to date information and offully illustrated catalogues of Steel Rooting, Sidings, and Ceiling, sent free for the ack Pedlar Metal Roofing Co.

ĕ00000000000000000000000000000000000

Baby Carriages

AT YERY LOW PIGURES TO CLEAR THEM OFT.

RENAUD, KING & PATTERSON,

Artistic Furniture Warerooms,

652 CRAIG STREET.

The . . Wail Paper King . . .

C. B. SCANTLEBURY, Belleville, Kingston, Winnipeg.

Sample Books of Choice Wall Paper for Residences, Churches, Offices, Lodge Rooms, Public Halls, Hotels, Stores, and our booklet, "How to Pamer" sent fice to any address. Write a Postal.

Mention what prices von expect to pay, the rooms you wish to paper, and where you saw this advertisament.

ment.

*** We pay express charges

Mais Order Department at Belle

DISENGAGED, ACCOUCHEMENTS.

Pees Moderate.

195 Ottawa Street.

HOW SECRETARY LONG GOT A LICKING.

'Grandpapa's going to lick me. Don't let him, will you, Uncle Johnny?' cried a lad down in a little Maine village, years ago, as he winced at a twist of his car given by an irate old gentleman who held him with one hand, dourishing a riding whip in the other.

Uncle Johnny's' sympathy, it was evident, were at once enlisted in behalf of his favorite nephew as he asks. What are you going to whip him for, father?

'Impudence,' answered the stern old man, 'impudence; and he must be punished,' flourishing the whip.

Now, let us see, said Uncle Johnny, and he entered with spirit into the case (one of his first), making a strong argument in favor of acquittal. But the judge was obdurate, quoting, 'Spare the rod,' etc., and it was only by his earnestness and elequence that 'Uncle Johnny' succeeded in arranging a compromise by which he was to take the 'licking' instead of the nephew, thinking, of course, that that part of it would be a farce. But he reckoned without his host, and was amazed when he was told to 'take off' your coat and come into the shed.

A: d when next morning the boy was asked what he was laughing at so heartily, he said: 'Hee! hee! to see Grandpa lick Uncle Johnny, and to see

Uncle Johnny hop.'
It is entirely safe to say that 'Uncle-Johnny' never volunteered to take another thrashing for his nephew. But today he stands ready to 'thrash' any one who would give any impudence to Uncle Sam, for he is none other than the Secretary of the Navy- the Hon. John D. Long,—Ladies' Home Journal.

The sunlight falls upon a clod, and the clod drinks it in, is warmed by it itself, but lies as black as ever, and sheds out no light. But the sun touches a diamond, and the diamond almost chilisitself as it sends out in radiance on every side the light that has fallen upon it.

PURE BLOOD is the foundation of health. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure, rich and nonrishing and gives and maintains good HEALTH.

Our subscribers are particularly requestof grace in the soul, so long as this seems that custom precludes the pres opened up towards the ideal life. All sed to note the advertisements in the Thur canker is allowed to remain.—Father ence of the Governor General at any of human development springs from it and WITNESS, and, when making purchases, mention the paper.

and the state of the state of the state of

She Grue Wilness

AND CATHOLIC CHRONICLE.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY

The True Witness Printing & Publishing Co. (LIMITED.)

253 St. James Street, Montreal, Canada. P.O. BOX 1138.

All communications intended for publication or notice should be addressed to the Editor, and all business and other communications to the Managing Director TEVE WITNESS P. & P. Co , Limited, P.O. Box 1138.

The subscription price of the TRUE WITNESS for city, Great Britain, Ireland and France is $150; Belgium, Italy, Germany and Australia, $200; Canada, United States and Newfoundland, $100. Terms, payable in advance.

SATURDAY.....IUNE 4, 1898.

DESTITUTION IN THE WEST OF IRELAND.

The bitter cry of destitution continues to reach us from the western shores of Ireland. As will be seen from what we publish on the subject elsewhere, over two hundred thousand of the people on the western coast are at present in a condition bordering upon starvation. Nor is this sad state of affairs traceable to the fault of the victims themselves, or to the infertility of the soil. It is due to the misgovernment of Eugland, which taxes the people $12,000,000 a year more than they should pay, which allows hundreds of thousands of acres of arable land to be looked up in the possession of the wealthy and unproductive few, to the neglect of the Chief Secretary of the Lord Lieutenant to listen to the solemn representations of the facts of the case which were made to them by the Archbishop of Tuam and the Bishops of the West in their Lenten pastorals, some of which were reproduced in the columns of the TRUE WITNESS at the time.

At a mass meeting held in the West of Ireland, it was resolved to request Mr. Michael Davitt, M P., to present to the President of the United States a memorial calling upon him to ask the American people to come to the rescue of the starving peasants of the famineatricken district. Already, even before the memorial has been presented, help is pouring across the Atlantic. The Boston Pilot has opened a subscription, and has sent across its second instalment. Mayor McGuire, of Syracuse. N.Y., "the boy orator of the United States," has forwarded a thousand dollars to the fund started by that valiant and uncompromising champion of Irish freedom, the Irish World, of New York. Other sources of charity will also be in evidence before long, and there will, we trust, be no lack of assistance once its urgent necessity becomes known to the sons and daughters of the dear old land, and their descendants.

One circumstance in this connection has struck us as being somewhat peculiar. Why is it that the eyes of those who are now in sore distress, and of those who have taken up their cause, should be turned solely on the United States? Certainly that country has bestowed its assistance upon the distressful isle with a lavish hand in the past, But, has not Canada done its share of sympathy of the Canadian people with Ireland's constitutional struggle for Home Rule? Have not thousands of dollars been sent from the Dominion for the Irish Parliumentary Fund, as well as for the various famine funds the organization of which has unhappily been rendered necessary. We confidently expect that some strong Irish Catholic Association in Montreal-say the A. O. H. or St. Patrick's League, backed up by the other Irish Catholic organizationswill lose no ime in taking up a work which is at once so urgent and so meritorious. The celebration of the '98 centennial is fast approaching. What more scription of a large sum to rescue those two hundred Western Irishmen, Irish women and children from the terrible pangs of want and hunger. The TRUE Witness will be only too happy to give the use of its columns for the purpose of publishing any general appeal that may be issued, and any subscriptions that may be received in response to it.

ST. ANN'S CADETS.

In St. Ann's Parish, it is gratifying to find that the true spirit is alive and that, under wise and energetic guidance by the clergy, not only are the long established associations active and useful, but that new means are being adopted to keep abreast of the time The latest move, in the right direction, is the organization of the St. Ann's Cadets, a creditable body of youths, drawn from Major Fagan, to whom all praise is due. On Tuesday evening last a dramatic country" of the United States is vehem- writes . "Lombardy, or Cisalpine Gaul, tations.

entertainment was given by the St. A-Y. M.'s Club, who presented "Pizarro" in a praiseworthy manner, in aid of the | cans so often tell ourselves that we have | his birth It is reasonable, therefore, new organization. The hall was crowded, and the enthusiasm manifested by any nation in existence that we showed how popular the corps is and the actually take the joke seriously. We hold it has taken on the people. On that occasion Rev. Father Lemieux, the new Rector, presided. He was greeted with the hearty acclaim of his flock, who showed that whilst deeply regretting the departure of Rev. Father Catulle, they are devoted to his successor, and hope that he may have a long and successful term of effice, aided, as Father Catulle was, by Rev. Father Strubbe and his indefatigable associates.

The organization of the Cadets is an important step. Many of those best qualified to give an opinion are advocates of elementary military training in all our schools and colleges. On more than one occasion the advantage to be derived from drill have been pointed out in these columns. It is unnecessary to insist that it gives boys a manly bearing, accustoms them to habits of discipline, and is free from exposure to the painful and often serious accidents occurring in these games; and above all, it makes the boys feel a pride in their country, whose arms they are bearing, and prepares them for doing their duty as citizen soldiers should the occasion ever present itself. From these Cadets will spring, we hope in this city, at least, one regiment with which the Irish name will be specially identified. There are now the Royal Scots, wearing the Highland uniform, of which the sons of St. Andrew are justly proud, and the Sixty Fifth, a distinctively French-Canadian organization, as well as others that could be mentioned. Our people have no distinctively Irish-Canadian regiment. Our young men serving in the volunteers swell the ranks of many regiments in the city; this is certainly not to be depreciated, since it creates a feeling of brotherhood, amongst the different races, in our own happy Canadian community; but it is desirable that we should have at least one regiment where the Irish-Canadian element will predominate, just as our friends of other races have their special organizations. To have such a military body will be the best evidence of our loyal attachment to our Canadian institutions, and give us our proper status and it fluence in a very importan branch of our government alongside of our fellow citizens of other origin.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS IN PRO-TESTANT COLLEGES.

In the June number of the Catholic World, Dr. Austin O'Malley, M D., L.L. D., has an exhaustive as well as a very interesting article on "Catholic Collegiate Education in the United States." It is replete with facts, figures and suggestions which are highly important especially at the present juncture, when this subject is being brought home to us in a variety of ways. Dr. O'Malley tells us that there are 1452 Catholic students in the different State universities and collegiate institutions, there being 300 at Harvard, 201 at the university of Pennsylvania, 120 at the Michigan University of Michigan, 118 at that of Wisconsin, and 115 at Yale. All these institutions are profoundly non-sectarian, and some of them are undisguisedly the good work, too? Has not its Parlia- anti-Catholic. It costs the Catholic ment passed a resolution expressing the parents of these boys, at the lowest computation, $2,026,000 to keep them at the colleges-within $127,000 of the total amount appropriated last year by all the states of the Union for the States Universities.

Yet American Catholics pay as much as this, if not more than this, to keep Catholic colleges and universities running in the different States. "What are they getting for the money?" asks Dr. O'Malley. Very little. "We might," he says, "have, and should have, universities like the Pennsylvania, or Harvard, or Yale. I am not finding fault with the noble men who, in poverty and toil, have built up the collegiate institu fitting form could it take than the sub- | tions we have, without any hope of earthly recompense, without salary, often without proper food and clothing. I am merely drawing attention to our misdirected struggles, to the indifference of our people to all unity of endeavor. We complain about the scantiness of our resources while we are throwing millions of dollars into holes in the ground. Several American Catholics think that their colleges are private institutions, or rather, boarding houses, which are car ried on for the money that can be made out of them. The smallness of the cost per student, however, effectually relutes this argument. In the Catholic colleges which are worthy of being so called it appears that there are only 973 students, out of a Catholic population of at least 10,000,000."

On the obvious evils which befall a Catholic student of a non-Catholic college, Dr. O'Malley descants at some the present and expupils of St. Ann's length. The result of the lack of dis-School. The corps, has its chaplain, cipline, he seems to think, is one of the authority on Celtic "linguistic antiquione of the Rev. Redemptorist Fathers chief of them. "Human nature," he ties," but it appears that he knows a and its drill instructor, Sergeant points out, "in any country, is not fond thing or two about ancient Celtic history, ently opposed to it. That is another platitude, but a bitter one. We Ameria deeper respect for law than is possessed really have no respect for parent, priest or governor, unless these persons are morally stronger than we are. When we find a strong man we make orations about the nobility of obedience and we march in line. Love for obedience as such, for its sacredness through the touch of God's will on it, is almost unknown among us. Not boys alone, but menand not a few of the latter are pricetsthink the discipline in our Catholic colleges too strict."

"What is the very reason for existence of a Catholic college? If it is only to sharpen a boy s wits, then in the name of common sense why do we not turn the matter over to the State universities and keep over two million dollars of yearly expenditure in our pockets? The Catholic college is intended for the teaching of history that can talk for at least a page without lying, of literature that has the foulness cut out of it; we want narrow-minded,' expurgated literature, because we prefer to teach a boy the beauty in literature—he can learn the lechery thereof from the devil without the help of a professor. The Catholic college is also intended to teach the clements of metaphysics and ethics, to replace histories of erroneous systems of philosophy and eneers at scholasticism made by men who, through ignorance of technical terminology, could not understand Catholic philosophy if they honeatly tried to study it. It also teaches Christian doctrine; but almost half its work should be devoted to that moral education that is effected by discipline. The end of education is not so much learning as living, and intellectual education alone does not conduce to good living."

AUTHENTIC CATHOLIC NEWS.

New force has been added to our repeated contention in regard to authentic Catholic news by the recent publication. by the Associated Press of the United States, of a document purporting to be a circular letter of the American Hierarchy on the present war. Many Catholic papers published the letter as genuine, because they knew that the authorities of their Church are only too prone to favor the secular press in such matters, to the detriment of Catholic newspapers. As we have several times insisted, it is to the columns of the Catholic journal that a Catholic reader should naturally turn for authentic intelligence on Catholic subjects.

"Unfortunately," as the Visitor of Providence. R.L., says, "the truth is that Catholic news, as such, is rarely given to Catholic papers by those who could give it, who, however much they have the cause of Catholic journalism at heart, usually prefer to "favor" the secular papers when their favor would be worth dollars and cents, and, better still, au. thority to their own papers."

There is only one way to stop this; and that is for the conductors of the Catholic press to make joint representa tions to our Bishops on the subject. This fabricated circular letter on the Spanish-American war could be used as a powerful argument; and it will have served a very useful nurpose if it secures the desirable end which the TRUE WITness has so long had in view.

WAS VIRGIL AN IRISHMAN?

That St. Brenden, the intrepid navigator, discovered the American continent over a thousand years ago, is quite within the bounds of possibility. The Celtic original of the Scandinavian Vedas has recently been proved to the satisfaction of eminent Celtic scholars. 'We were not, then, unprepared for the suggestion of the Rev. Dr. Starbuck, of Andover, Mass., that Virgil was an Irishman, and that the name of the bard of Mautua was Ferghal. In the Middle Ages, in the case of the Holy Bishop of Salzburg, "Ferghal" was Latinized into "Virgildown and sinking. We can now underius." The poet Virgil was confessedly a stand why the edges of the breaks and "Ferghal" was Latinized into "Virgil-Ciarlpine Gaul who did not receive the full Romish citizenship until he was grown. To be sure, the encycleopedias and other biographical sketches of the poet usually mention his birthplace and give other particular information, which at first reading seems incompatible with the Celtic theory, but do encyclopedias never err? The Rev. Mr. Starbusk points out that there is much in Virgil's style to recommend a belief that, for all Virgil's love of Rome and Roman history and tradition, he was not a Roman. "The witchery of his phrase," we are told, "and the delicacy of his sentiment, and his appreciation of female feeling, are thoroughly Celtic." Dr. Lambert, of the New York, Freeman's Journal, to whom this theory is addressed and who no doubt would like to believe it. seems to have been considerably impressed. He modestly affirms that he is not an of discipline, and the youth in the "free which gives support to the theory. He

The transfer of the most considerable and the transfer of the

the province in which Virgil was bornwas inhabited by Celts centuries before to suppose that he was of Celtic origin, and that his name was Ferghal, Virgilius. About two hundred years before the birth of the poet Cisalpine Gaul was conquered and became a part of the Roman Empire. There are many words in the Latin language that then says, is the word "semper," which means "without end" in the original Celtic words from which it is derived. 'If semper is Celtic," he asks, "why not Virgil?"

Suppose, however, that Virgil did come of Celtic stock of Lombardy, thetheory still has little more than speculative interest. Two hundred yesrs, except when viewed in the perspective of history, make up a long time. Would the sons of the families whose ancestors went to America among the colonists of 1698 care to say that they were not Americans, but, for instance, Englishthe Celtic race gains something; but what do Romans lose? The thoroughly national subject of Virgil's epic and the great historical and antiquarian lore which he dedicated to the glorification of "populi Romani," show that he was such a patriot, whatever the race of his ancestors, as are the Americans of to-

A PRIEST'S THEORY OF THE MAINE DISASTER

The Rev. Professor McCabe, of the Seminary of St. Charles Borromee, Over brooke, Pa., has sent to President McKinley an exhaustive report on what he is firmly convinced was the actual cause of the fatal disaster that overcame the American battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana. The Rev. Father's theory is rather startling, but it is none the less plausible. After carefully examining all the evidence given at both the American and Spanish Courts of pride of arms is humbled in the dust by Inquiry, and the reports of each as the cause of the terrible occurrence, Father McCabe arrives at the conclusion that the Maine was destroyed neither by an internal nor an external explosion, but broke asunder as a result of defective construction.

Father McCabe takes as the keynote to his theory the well-known tendency of the Maine to dip her head in the water and the very words of Naval Constructor Bowles, of the Brooklyn Naval Yard. that the vessel had a tendency "to go down by the head." Mr. Bowles also stated that "at the time she was launched she stuck her nose in the water, but it was hoped that her armament could be so arranged as to remedy this grave defect. It was the immense strain due to this rearrangement of the ship's armor that caused the disaster. according to Father McCabe, who says

"To have this effect her forward part had, of course, to be comparatively lightened and her centre of gravity moved further back than was at first intended. Even after this readjustment it was coneidered desirable to empty her forward coal bunkers first for the purpose of lightening her in that region, as the immense weight of her terrible ram or ram bow, as it is technically called, still tended to draw her head downwards What an immense strain this arrangement must have caused to the comparatively light portion of her structure intervening between the ram and the forward boilers! A strain increased by the consumption of every ton of coal taken from her forward bunkers. True, her strong frame and powerful keel were able to stand the strain for years, but it must have been constantly exerting its force, and the power of resistance gradually and imperceptibly diminishing, it could only have been a question of time when the crash would come. At last the crash did come, and just about half way between the bow and the forward boilers, immediately in front of the foremast, the mighty keel itself gave way, and following the line of least resistance, necessarily rose and bent like a fishing rod, tearing with it and forcing up the ship's sides, beams, bulkheads, decks, and everything else in its path, till the fore and aft parts of the forward section bumped together and the strain was relieved by the bow striking bottom, and the after part crushing cracks in the plates presented so torn and jagged an appearance, the wrinkling and buckling of the vertical keel, decks, etc, and the peculiar character of the dull, mutiled, deafening sound or roar first heard, as well as the facts testified to by the spectators on board the City of Washington, which was only 300 feel of to port and stern."

There is a good deal of plausibility in the Rev. Professor's theory; and it is a pity that he did not give publicity to it earlier. As, however, it was not the destruction of the Maine which was the cause of the present war, the interest in the subject dealt with so ably by Father McCabe is purely scientific. If his con clusions come to be generally accepted they will have done a great service in clearing the Spaniards from the suspicion of having been guilty of an act of treachery of which only their worst enemies deem them capable of performing.

Readers of this paper desiring to buy anything advertised in its columns should insist upon having what they ask for, refusing all substitutes or imi-

NOTE AND COMMENT.

It is heartrending to many of our Protestant friends to be forced to recogand that it was Latinized into nize the growing influence of the saintly old man imprisoned in the Vatican. An influence which has withstood the d∈termined attacks of the man of blood and iron, who smashed at his will one of the proudest empires in history, but are of Celtic origin." One of these, he fell back, battered and shattered, when he dashed himself against the rock on which the Church is built. On the great chess board of universal politics, whose is the hand of the umpire? Whose is the influence always making for peace and good will to men? The Holy Father's. The "United Italy" which one reads so much about has practically degenerated into a mere name. Eogland, with her usual avidity to crush anything and everything Catholic, lent her moral and financial aid to the formation of this United Italy. The instalment of Victor Emmanuel in the Quirinal seemed a blow to the Papacy men, because the immigrating founder that could not be overcome, but the of the family emigrated from England events of a quarter of a century have two centuries ago? If Virgil was a Celt, proved conclusively that the Church is greater than mere earthly power.

> The words of an eminent Euglish naval officer, Captain Gambier, have a prophetic cadence about them: "Reason as we may, blink facts as much as you like, the Pope, in the silence of his austerely furnished room, with his simple fare of pasta and cold water, is a power in shaping the destinies of the world, greater than the Czar of Russia, greater than Emperor William, greater than all the foreign secretaries who fret and fume on the political stage in the length and breadth of Europe."

> These are the words of a clear-sighted man, a man who watches the affairs of the world, a student of the tremendous forces the nations find necessary to bring together in order to maintain their integrity. How prophetic were his words may easily be seen at the present time, when this United Italy is torn by internal dissensions, when her a dusky Abyssinian monarch that Garibaldi or Victor Emmanuel would have looked on as a mere barbarian; when the absolute putridity of its method of government finds light in the disgrace of investigation commissions; when people clamor for bread, and not for blood; when famine stares the peasant in the face; when banking scandals shock the world; when, in a word, as has been well said, the Italian throne is tottering to its fall; now, when these things are happening, the Vicar of Christ, prisoner though he be, is the real power the nations look to.

Some years ago a close observer of Italian national conditions wrote:-'Italy is in a deplorable condition. A broad and overweening national ambition has saddled a groaning country with an army and a navy of utterly disproportionate size. The monarchy does not feel itself safe. It would never abandon Rome; Rome is a name to conjure by, but a compromise might easily be effected. The Italian Government could cede to the Pope a small portion of Rome on the Vatican side of the Tiber, with a narrow strip of land running to the sea. Italy would lose nothing of moment; the Holy Father would gain the independence he desires. It would make no difference how amill the territory was, so long as it was made neutral ground by international agreement." It would be questionable, however, under the present conditions. if such a small concession as this would begin to be acceptable as a measure of restitution for the robbery of the States . . . of the Church.

Cavour must have been farseeing when he warned . . . Victor Emmanuel that interference with Rome would en tail untold disaster on his dynasty. How well the warning was justified is being shown every day by the progress of events.

The Belfast Irish Weekly, in referring to the proposed Anglo-Saxon Alliance Scheme, says :- Mr. Chamberlain wants to see the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack waving together in war. But has it occurred, the Daily News wonders, to Mr. Chamberlain that here, as in so many other things, Ireland may be found to block the way? Mr. Chamberlain now proposes, on the occasion of the demand of Home Rule for Cuba, to seek alliance with the United States. Mr. Davitt asks Mr. M'Kinley to make Home Rule for Ireland a condition precedent. But the fact remains that the Irish vote is a strong, and often the dominant, factor in the politics of the United States. It is the Irish vote which has been at the bottom of much of the political bitterness in the past between the American Government and the British.

Lord Dufferin, so well known in Canada, in speaking to a representative of an English journal on the same subject, is reported to have said:—' I am enre there is no Englishman who does not earnestly desire the best possible understanding and close smity should exist between the United States and Great Britain, but the question of an alliance, using the term in its diplomatic -Sarah Grand. The state of the s and technical sense, is one which involves various issues which for the moment, it seems to me, it would be premature to discuss.'

Belgrade's national library, which opened with 40,000 volumes on the shelves, has closed on account of the disappearance of all its books. It was intended to be a circulating library, but the people who took out books never returned them, and on investigation it was found that the books passed from one reader to another till they could be no longer traced.

Those who think that the college girl does not take kindly to matrimony must study their facts a little more closely, says an American authority in the N. Y. Post. At a reunion last week of a certain class of '97 of Vassar, there were seventeen girls present. Of this small number, four announced their engage-

The New York Herald, in referring to the visit of Sir Louis Davies, Minister of Marine, to Washington, and the appointment of a joint commission to deal with all pending disputes between the United States and Canada, says:

Heretofore many things have stood in the way. The Behring Sea arbitration and the negotiations which followed left behind their grievances and bitter memories. So of the North Atlantic fisheries, and, in a loss degree, other controversies. So long as the same agents were concerned in these matters, so long they were likely to remain unsettled. But the British Ambassador conceived the ides of a commission on which new men should be appointed-men in no way mixed up with old troubles. It is a commission of that nature which has now been agreed on in principle. Its members go to London for approval. If approved and if the right men are appointed on both sides there seems no reason why all oustanding questions beween Canada and the United States should not be finally settled. A blessed work!

LADY HIBERNIANS.

St. Mary's Parish Holds a Most Successful Social.

The Organization Making Good Progress.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, Division No. 3, of St. Mary's Parish, held a most successful entertainment on Monday, May 20th, in their hall, cor. Craig and Panet streets. This spacious hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and was filled with the friends and supporters of the Auxiliary. Mr. Wm. Rawley, the energetic County President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, presided as chairman, and outlined the objects for which these ladies are united.

After this, the first part of the programme was proceeded with as follows: Instrumental duet. 'Chanson Gazelli,' by Misses Street and Price, who made a very favorable impression upon the audience and received much applause; the latter young lady, although not a Montrealer, has gained the esteem of those whom she has met, by her pleasing manners and her ability as a musician. Next came the beautiful Chorus, enti-tiled 'Friendship, Love and Song,' by the Ladies' Auxiliary, who did full justice to the composition. Miss May Logan, a little girl of tender years, sang 'Daddy, I love you,' in a manner which pleased all present. Miss Durand followed and as usual received a hearty encore. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Ed. Quinn, there was a slight change in St. Ann's Quartette, his place being filled by Prof. P. J. Shea. These four gentlemen (Messrs. P. J. Shea, M. Mullarkey; W. Murphy and J. Penfold) sang two pieces in splendid style. Master Polan captivated the audience by singing 'I want my Lulu' in a manner which would reflect great credit on one of maturer years. Mr. and Miss Laing next appeared in a vocal duet which they executed in a pleasing style; though strangers in this city they are becoming great favorites in musical circles. Mr. M. Mullarkey, the popular vocalist of St. Ann's, sang a favorits song and received great applause.

Then followed the most important item of the programme, namely, the serving of the ice-cream and cake by twelve young gentlemen and ladies, members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Ladies' Auxiliary respectively.

The second part of the programme then began with a quartette, by Messrs. McBrien, Palmer, Jeffrey and Caron. Musical selections by Mr. F. Dunn, who is endowed with the talent of executing on several instruments. Mr. C. Leroux held the audience spell-bound with his Legerdemain Feats. A banjo duet, by Messrs. Howard and Chambers, was well received, as was also Mr. Wallace's violin solo. The triple Irish jig, by Mesers. Jones, Higginbottom and Kearns, was so well received that they were obliged to respond again and again to the applause of the audience. The grand chorus of God save Ireland terminated the programme.

The Ladies of the Auxiliary wish to thank the gentlemen who comprised the second part of the programme; they are members of the Acme Comedy and Social, and contributed largely to the evening's entertainment; also, Mr. Wm. Rawley, Mr. Humphrey Kearns, St. Ann's Quartette and the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, who worked so assiduously on that evening, and in fact every one who helped to make the concert a success.

Life is meant to be pleasant, and would be, if it were not for those min-taken ideas of what is pleasant, which make all the mischief. The power to appreciate what is noble and beautiful gives more delight than any quantity of champagne; and the power comes of cultivation; but the discipline is severe.

CHRISTIAN MARRIAGE

Rev. Father Campbell, S. J., Speaks Before the Faculty and Students of a Baptist University.

A Vigorous Characterization of the Methods in Vogue in France Divorce Laws.

THE Rev. Thomas J. Campbell, S J., president of St. John's College, Fordham, NY., opened the second James Course of the Colgate Divinity School, or Baptist Establishment, at Hamilton, N.Y.. before a large audience thoroughly renresentative of the University town, and with a magnificent discourse on Christian Marriage.

We take the following extracts from the deliverance of this well known member of the Jesuit Order:

There is a modern instance which perhaps will illustrate more vividly than examples of the past. I allude to France. I know from personal knowledge and long residence among them that there is a strong element of fervent Christianity there, but the splendid nation that once gloried in the proud title of the eldest daughter of the Church, the nation which has furnished multitudes of the noblest men and women of modern times, the nation that has been conspicuous among the peoples of the world for its intellectual culture and magnificent examples of sanctity, where marriage was ever held to be a holy and God given thing, and as inviolable as it was holy, where as nowhere else chivalry had idealized woman and was ever readiest to rush to death to preserve or increase her honor, that nation is no longer not only not Catholic, but not even Christian. It is governed by atheists and haters of Christ.

Just one hundred years ago, in 1794, its National Convention met, and as a preluie to its preceedings formulated these three declarations as the voice of the nation. First, there is no God. Second, the source of morality is the people. Third, marriage is a sacrament of adultery. Mark how, even in the minds of its enemies, marriage is neces earily connected with belief in God and the practice of morality.

This declaration has been the keynote of the nation's history since then.

Marriage, proceeds Father Campbell. in France was degraded to a civil contract, rescindable like any other, which, for a Frenchman, was a tearing up by the roots of the belief of centuries. Successive governments, with what looks like diabolical premeditation, have systematically and successfully aimed at the destruction of family life ever since that awful revolution. Their legislation | than ne could obtain in Washington on property has put a price on filial from official reports. It is his purpose hatred, invited childlessness, and ren- at the conclusion of his tour to join the tion has flung the young men of the ment, while General Merritt, General nation into barracks at a time when they should have been forming households, and has made them propagators of vice in all parts of the country after their term of service. In seven years after the Presideni's second call will be com divorce was permitted, a thing undreamt | ing forward. Fully 50,000 of these men of since the beginning of its Christianity, will be absorbed into the regiments there were 10 000 divorces-10,000 households disruptured and dishonored. When we add to this that almost half of the marriageable men were single, and that a large number of marriages are without issue, we can appreciate the warning of Jules Simon, one of its ablest statesmen, that if France has soldiers to defend it now, in a few years it will have none. France is without children. And the glorious nation of soldiers and saints finds itself in the presence of national disaster, because of its national crime, and with an unnameable stigma upon its once fair name.

What has been its history ever since it began this war upon family life? We would willingly draw a veil over it, for the love we have for its past. But here it is in a few words. Characteristically beginning by enthroning a courtean upon the very altar of Notre Dame, and inaugurating an orgy of blood that is unparallelled in the history of modern civilization, it has ever since persecuted the name of Jesus Christ. It periodically breaks out into its saturnalia of crime. It has murder ed the three last Archbishops of its greatest city, as a culmination of its atrocious slaughter of multitudes of priests and muns and devout Christian laymen; it has driven the Sister of Charity from the bedside of the dying, closed up churches where God was worshipped, and torn the crucifix from the schools, to take even from childhood anything that reminds it of Christ. It is a worse persecutor in some respects than the old Pagans, for it has the bitterness and knowledge of an apostate, and its bitterness becomes greater as the nation becomes more decrepit. And decrepit it is. Its history during the century has been a succession of tottering govern ments, while the world looks on and jeers. It counts for less every day in the councils of Europe. In the possible cataclysm that may come upon the nations, its only ally is a relentless perse cutor of the old faith of France, and there can be little doubt that as Pagan Rome fell before the German invader, this once glorious nation, unless the prayers of its former saints and the supplication of some of its still faithful children avert the disaster, will pass from among the nations. There are no families: Why should she or how can she remain a nation?

In the light of all this, is there not a genuine reason for apprehension in our own country? We are proud of our strength as a nation, but let us put the question frankly : Is not the same cause that destroyed empires and kingdoms in the past at work among us? The official.

census declares that between 1866 and 1885 (and things have grown much worse since), there were not less than 500 000 applications for divorce. Can you estimate what that means? 500,000 families broken up in twenty years, and what is most slarming, without the reproach that rested upon it only a few years ago. Society no longer shuts its doors on divorced parties as it used to do. The divorce laws of the various States have made marriage a farce; and the most abourd pretexts, sometimes none at all, are alleged for separation. Mere children of sixteen or seventeen, it is said, have been div reed two, or even three times, and even minis ters of the Gospel in, face of Christ's in in Regard to Secular Ideals - A junction to the contrary, come into court Warning Note - The Results of with their applications, and, strange to say, continue the work of the ministry, after they have flung aside this most solemn mandate of Him they call their Master.

Connected with this is another omen of evil-the absence of families. As far back as 1870 (and since then the evil has multiplied a hundredfold), the births from foreign born parents in one section of the country—and we take that as a sample - were 800 in excess of the deaths. while among the native born, the deaths exceeded the births by 700 It is impossible to say much upon this delicate subject, but it is a Cassandra announcing ruin. Childlessness was formerly considered a reproach, now the reverse is the case. Jules Simon's warning should be heard by America as well as by

WAR ECHOES.

The Movement of the Land Forces De layed-General Miles on a Tour of Imspection.

The correspondent of the New York Herald at Washington says that the main invasion of Cuba will be delayed until an army of 100,000 men is thoroughly organized, drilled and equipped. This is reported to be President McKinlev's decision after carefully considering all the conditions and the difficulties which the army would encounter in attacking Spain's stronghold at Havana.

When this army will start is a question which has not yet been decided, but the report of General Miles when he returns from his present tour of inspection may throw much light on the subject. It is fully realized by the administration that the making of an effective army of 100,000 men cannot be accomplished in a month, even if a considerable propor tion of the men have had some training in the National Guard.

The lack of preparing for the attack on Havana would have been less difficult had any considerable number of regular troops been available for this service. The progress of events made it necessary, however to send expeditions to Manila Santiago de Cuba and Porto Rico in advance of the main expedition against Havana. For these minor expeditions there was no time to drill raw recruits and the small force of regulars had to be drawn on very heavily.

MILES TO TAKE THE FIFLD.

General Miles upon his return from his tour of inspection will have a more clear idea of the condition of the volunteers and what can be expected of them dered it impossible for families to hold army in the field in person and devote Their military conscrip himself to its organization and equip-Shafter and General Brooke are conducting the operations at Manila, Santiago de Cuba and Porto Rico

Mean ime the 75 000 men called for in mustered under the first call. Each regiment is to be brought up to the maximum fixed by the army reorganization bill. This will mean the addition of between four and five hundred men to some of the company regiments which were accepted under the first call. It is probable that not more than twenty new regiments will be mustered in.

REAR ALMIRAL SAMPSON TAKES THE HELM Rear Admiral Sampson arrived off Santiago de Cuba on Wednesday after noon, and at once relieved Commodore Schley in command of the entire force of vessels operating against Santiago de Guba and the Spanish fleet, assigning that officer to the command of a division comprising the ships formerly attached to the flying squadron. Fifteen warships are at Admiral Samp son's disposal to pit against the six menof war flying the Spanish flag. They include the first class battleships Iowa, Oregon and Massachussets second class battleship Texas, armored cruisers New York and Brooklyn, protected cruisers New Orleans, Marblehead and Minneapolis, gunboat Nashville torpedo boat destroyer Scorpion, dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, torpedo byst Parter, auxiliary cruisers Harvard and Yale, and auxiliary gunboat Eagle.

Perfectly Cured

Weak and Low Spirited - Nervous Prostration - Appetite Poor and Could Not Rest.

" I take great pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla to others. It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had heard it highly praised, and I am glad to state that Hocd's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." G. BELLAMY, 321 Hannah St., West, Hamil-

Remember Sarsa-Hoods parilla Is the Best in fact the One True Blood Purifler. All druggists. $1, six for $5. Get Hood's.

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effec-

ANCIENT ORDER

OF HIBERNIANS.

The National Convention to be Held at Trenton, N. J.

The Date is Monday, June 27-An Important Gathering - One National Administration to be Elected, which will in Future Direct the Affairs of the Organizations.

The National Convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will be held at Trenton, N. J., on Minday, June 27. Delegates from the Montreal Branches will attend at the great gathering, which will embrace representatives from all parts of the neighboring Republic and

Mr. William Rawley, the esteemed and enthusiastic County President in this district, will represent the Hibernians of Montreal, and a better selection could not have been made, as Mr. Rawley is not only well fitted for the important task, but is also one of the most earnest workers in the good cause for which the Order is striving.

NOTICE ISSUED.

The following call has been issued :-

"The county and State organizations throughout the country, having accepted by hermonious action the provisions of the decision of the Right Rev. Arbitrator, it now becomes our duty to call for mally the accredited delegates to the national convention, to be held in the city of Trenton, N. J., which will begin June 27, 1898, and continue until the affairs connected therewith shall have been transacted. As the convention is held in pursuance of the Right Rev. Arbitrator's decision, it is to be regulated thereby; and its deliberations will be modelled upon the suggestions em bodied therein. It is hardly necessary to remind you that the convention will he of such a nature as to render it one of the most important ever held in the history of the Order, and that it is, therefore, of supreme necessity to remember and weigh well your sacred traditions and aims, so that it may be we may be permitted to express the hope that the good will and harmony existing in the Order may be still more intimately knit together by this national convention, and that the organization, with increased strength, courage and influence, may continue in the path marked out for it by its noble prin

P. J O'CONNOR National President. "E S PHILLIPS National Delegate. "JAMES A. McFAUL, Arbitrator,"

The committee of arrangements, composed of representatives of the local Divisions of the Order in Trenton, has arranged the following programme of exercises for the convention:

Monday, June 27, Pontifical Mass, St. Mary's Cathedral, 1030 a.m.; Sermon, National Convention Tayl'r Opera House, at 2 p m; address by Right Rev. Bishop McFaul; address of welcome by His Honor the Mayor W. G. Sackel; address of National Officers; reception to the delegates by the Rt. Rev. Bishop McFaul, Taylor Opera House Spm.

Tuesday, June 28, Taylor Opera House. permanent organization and appointment of committees.

Wednesday, June 29, grand parade of State and visiting organ zutions, leaving P R. R. depot, Clinton street, 11 a m. Thursday June 30, Taylor Opera House, regular work of convention.

Friday, July 1, Taylor Opera House, completion of business of convention.

THE GRAND PARADE.

The perade on Wednesday, June 29 will be one of the distinguishing features of the convention, and neighboring citics and States are specially invited to send members to participate. As this is the first national convention of an Irish organization held in Trenton, the Committee requests the co-operation of every member of the Order towards making it a success. Those desiring information regarding the making of special arrange ments for their accommodation, e c, during the convention, or regarding the programme of exercises, may address James Clinton, County President, 110 Girard Avenue, Trenton, N. J. The headquarters will be the Trenton House, Room 100. County, State and national officers are requested to wear the jewels prescribed for their positions, which can be obtained through the National Sec-

One set of new national officers will be elected to tak + the place of the two sets now holding office.

THE '98 CELEBRATION.

Meeting of the Young Irishmen's L. & B. Association.

The Young Irishmen's Association had a large attendance at their last monthly meeting, June 1st; Mr. R. Burke, the newly elected President. in the chair. The principal business done was in connection with the coming celebration of '98.

Mr. Joseph O'Brien, representing the Association on the Executive Board of 198, reported progress, and stated that prominent societies were coming from Kingscon, Sherbrooke, Ottawa, Quebec and St. Albans; likewise, large excursion parties are being organized from many other points in Canada and the United States. A resolution was moved and carried which called forth many eloquent speeches from some members, calling a public meeting in the Hall on June 8th, at 8 p.m., to which all young men, regardless of race or religion, are invited, so that arrangements can be made to co-operate with the members in the day's celebration.

Sec.

It is therefore hoped that all friends of the cause and of the Association will attend next Wednesday evening, at the hall, where all will be made welcome.

A committee of seven, with Mr. W.

Tracy as chairman, was formed, with full power to carry out all arrangements. The first act was to invite the St. Patrick's '98 Club to become for the time, so to speak, brothers with the Association, and so, jointly, make as creditable a showing from grand old St. Patrick's parish as possible.

It is certain that every man with any true Irish blood in his veins will be expected to turn out with some society or other on that day. It is, then, the desire of the Young Irishmen that all their friends will turn out with them, thus honoring as much as possible the glorious men of that fear ul epoch of our his tory, '98-men whom it is the proudest ambition of the Young Irishmen's Association to honor.

CONTINUED FROM FIRST PAGE.

NOTES ON CATHOLIC NEWS.

are from their residence to the capital In the last Reichstag the Centre party numbered 99, and possessed a preponderating influence in a House of 397 members, composed of several distinct and opposing sections. The Centre in the Reichstag is not so much occupied with purely religious questions as it is in the Pruesian Landtag. Members of the Catholic Centre occupy the very highest prets in the empire, the Chancellor (Prince Hohenlohe), and the Minister of Justice (Herr Nieberding) being Catholics; whilst Prince Arenberg (another member of the Centre) was pressed to accept the post of Secretary to the Colonies by both the Emperor and Chancellor, but declined, in order to retain his seat in the Reichstag. This party by its unity and cohesion, largely moulds the politics of the empire, and remains faithful to the traditions of its great founders-Windthorst, Malinkrodt and Schorlemer.

A Tragic Scene in the Dutch Chamber. The news comes from Rotterdam of a painful scene which occurred in the Second Chamber on May 13. M. Bahlmann, one of the leading Catholic members, was speaking against the Compulsory Personal Military Service Bill introduced by the Government, and advocated by the Liberals and the Christian Historical Party. After speaking for some time he exclaimed: "If the Minister for War wants militia commischaracterized by friendship, unity and sioners let him take them from the Christian charity. In issuing this call, Christian Historical Pastors!" The Assembly laughed, and at this very moment M. Bahlmann swooned, and a few minutes later died on the floor of the Chamber. Just before his death one of the Catholic priests who are members of the Chamber gave him absolution, while some Catholic members knelt by the side of the dying man. M. Gleichman, the President, immediately adjourned the Caamber.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Michael Ryan

Mr. Michael Ryan, for many years a prominent member of the executive of the Senior Shamrocks, and also well known in St. Anthony's parish, died last week. Deceased was a young man of excellent character, steady and persevering in his business undertakings. He was a favorite in the circles of a large number of citizens of all classes and creeds, as was evidenced by the concourse of triends and acquaintances who assist ed at the funeral to St Anthony's Church on Wednesday morning, where a solemn Requiem Mass was chanted.

AN IMPORTANT JUDGMENT,-At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on May 28th, on applica tion of G T. Fulford & Co., proprietors carried on. of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., a perpetual injunction was granted by Chancellor Boyd restraining Theodore Sweet, druggist, of St. Catherines, from selling a pink colored pill in imitatiou impress upon the public the fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can only be obtained in packages the wrapper around which bears the full. law-protected trade-mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Pills oftered in any other form, and notwithstanding anything the dealer may say are fraudulent imitations and should always be refused. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. will be glad to obtain, (in contid nce), the name of any dealer offering for sale any imitation of their pills, as the company is determined to protect the public against this species of fraud.

The Liquor and Drug Habits.

MONTREAL, July 10th, 1597. Mr. A. HUTTON DIXON :

Dear Sir,-Since using your treatment all desire for liquor has gone. I have now not the least crave. I was run down so that my family were in despuir of me. I had often tried hard to stoo drinking of my own accord, but could not do it. I thought I could never get over the crave for liquor. But when I took your treatment I was the most surprised man you over saw. Even with all your strong testimonials and all I was told by friends about your cure I could not believe it possible that anything could have the power to effect such a change in me us it has done I now feel just as I did when I was a boy.

And the change in my home is worth ten years of my life. Instead of heart-broken and anxious faces there are now smiles and gladness. I tell you no pen can paint the picture so as to show the difference.

I know there are bundreds of victims who want to stop drinking and who have squarely tried many times, as I did, without success. To all such I would say, "Use the Dixon Cure," for it is only by using it faithfully that anyone can be made to believe what wonderful good it will do. I or any of my family will be glad to answer any ictorested enquirers. Wishing you God-speed in your good work, Yours very truly,

Rev. Father Strubbe, Vicar of St. Ann's, Vouches for the Above: I have been acquainted with the case described in the foregoing letter and I testify sincerely to the contents.

E. STRUBER, O.SS.R.

100

WESTERN CORRESPONDENT

Reports a Special Entertainment at St. John the Evangelist Convent, Point St. Charles.

The Frogramme and the Names of the Performers.

On the evening of May 31, a very interesting entertainment was held at St John the Evangelist Academy, in honor of the former students of the institution. The old saying, "Whatever the Rev. Sisters do is well done," was fully verified. The energy with which each participant performed their part was sufficient evidence of the success achieved by the institution. As one of the students of some years ago, I cannot refrain from sending the TRUE WITNESS & report of this really unique entertain-

At So'clock sharp the curtain arose, and the attention of all was riveted upon the beautiful stage, which was artistically decerated by the delicate hands of curdenr reverend sisters. While the eye feasted upon this scene the ear was indulging in the melodious strains of a duet, "Tramway Galop," after which a chorus of some sixty voices rendered that beautiful selection which makes one so pleasantly at home, "Welcome."

This was followed by the physical drill, in which some sixteen girls took part. Although quite young, it must be said that they held the attention of the large audience, so beautiful were their move-

A declamation entitled "Drifted Out to Sea," by Miss Katie O'Byrne, was given with good effect; as also a charming contribution of the little tots in their chorus, "In the Leaf-trees."

Then followed the minuet, which was highly appreciated, as was Miss Lizzie Leahy's comic song, "Polly! Polly! which was received with much applause. Miss Annie Turner, in a "Vision of Fair Women," proved herself worthy of the confidence placed in her on the occasion, as well as all the young ladies who appeared as her assistants.

The vocal duet, "Fairy Queen," was pleasingly rendered and prepared the spectators for "Doxy's Diplomacy," a dialogue in which the principal participants were Misses Mary Brady and Lizzie Leahy. The latter won the hearts of her audience by her elever interpretation of her lines.

Tais was followed by a recitation, "A Mortifying Mistake," by Miss Hannah O'Brien. Durch bell Drill, under the leadership of Miss Minnie Bahan, was the next item, which was well received.

Then came the real feast of the even-ing, the puntomime "The Famine." Never, we may safely say, was Hiawatha more truly declaimed than on this occa-sion by Miss Lizzte Leahy and her young lady friends. Miss Leahy is olessed with a sweet and well cultured voice, and gives no little promise of great success in the future.

The "Irish Wreath" and " Good Night from Our Mother's Shrine " brought the whole proceedings to a happy close. May we soon again have the pleasure of being interviewed by our cherished con-

CATHOLIC SAILORS' CLUB.

The concert at the Catholic Sailors' Club last evening was attended by its usual success. Hon. Dc Guerin, M L.A., for St. Ann's, in taking the chair, ac livered a speech full of good advice to seamon, and also expressed the admira tion for the good work that was being

CATCHING A TARTAR.

We all know what the expression, "to Catch a Tartar," means, but may be in of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale doubt as to the origin of the phrase. People. It seems necessary to again to his comrade that he had caught a Tartar.'

"Bring him here!" shouted the other. But he won't come," said Patrick. Then, come along yourself!" retorted the friend.

But he won't let me!" was the reply. So when the biter is bitten, or when one captures a very troublesome enemy, we say that he has 'Caught a Tartar."

After all, for steady companionship, the young men do prefer an uneccentric girl, a girl who knows the proper thing and does it, and makes a man feel recpectable because he happens to be talking to her. There are two other kinds of women, a better kind, perhaps, and a wome, who have not always the knack of making a man feel respectable.-- Florence Converse.

Keep thyself pure. Keep yourselves in the love of God. Present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God. Walk in the spirit and ye shall not fulfill the justs of the flesh. Keep thy heart with all diligence. These are admonitions which every young man who would live a wholesome life would do well to write on his heart.

MARRIED.

Kannon-Lane-On June 1st. 1898, at St. Authony's Church, by the Rev. Father Donnelly, P.P., Michael Kannon, DV S., to Margaret (Sis) Lane. Both of this city.

LARGE SHIPMENTS OF

CARPETS

OPENING.

See the Novelties Shown at

MONTREAL and OTTAWA.

MOST WELCOME WEDDING GIFT. STRONG

SPEEDY "Mother's Machine" With Latest Improvements. Lightest Running, Easiest Managed. Greatly aids domestic bliss.

SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.

New Linens.

Low in Price.

Extensive in Quantity.

Choice in Quality,

A NOVELTY

In Five o'clock Tea Cloths.

ROUND 5 O'CLOCK TEA CLOTHS. with Hand Embroidered Edges, Damask and Plain Linen, assorted prices and NEW LINEN PILLOWSHAMS, Hemmed-Stitched and Embroidered. All Hand Work, Choice Patterns. Prices from $2.50 per pair. NEW APPLIQUE PILLOW SHAMS.

300 pairs New Patterns just put into stock, a manufacturer's stock. Prices from 75c per pair. NEW BUREAU AND SIDEBOARD COVERS, over 200 patterns to select from, all new patterns, a great bargain.

Prices from 40c each. FINE IRISH TABLE DAMASKS, Handsome New Patterns, a special cheap lot. Prices from 75c per yard.

FINE WHITE SUMMER QUILTS, 3 Extra Fine Lines, all laundered, ready for use. Prices 87c, $1.15 and $1.75 each.

JOHN MURPHY & CO.

2343 St. Catherine St.

CORNER OF METCALFE STREET.

TELEPHONE No. 3833. Terms : CASH

EXCURSIONS

'98 CENTENNIAL.

All expenses, Cobin Ocean Passage, and TEN DAYS in IRELAND, $160 and Upwards. For particulars address F. PENFOLD, P. O. Box 247 or TRUE WITNESS Office, Montreal. Telephone 8387.

TWO and THREE DOLLARS____

We make a Specialty of Boots and Shoes

FOR GENTLEMEN At $2 and $3 a Pair.

These goods are equal in style and appearance to goods costing double the money, and are warranted to wear well.

RONAYNE BROS., Chaboillez Square.

MONTREAL City and District Savings Bank.

NOTICE is bereby given that a dividend of Eight Dollars per share on the Capital Stock of this institution has been declared, and the same will be payable at its Banking House, in this city, on and after Saturbay, the 2nd day of July next. The Transfer Books will be closed from the 15th. to the 3sth June next, both days inclusive.

> By order of the Board. HY. BARBEAU, Manager.

Montreal, May 28th, 1898.

FOR SALE FOR THE MILLION. Kindling $2.00 ; Cut Maple $2.50 ; Tamarac blocks $1.50 : Mill blocks, stove lengths, $1.50 . J. C. McDi ARMID, Biohmond Square, 'Phone 1853.

Our subscribers are particularly requested to note the advertisements in The True Witness, and, when making purchases, mention the paper

NOTES AND REFLECTIONS.

HIEF among the tendencies of the moment as regards representative New York women, says a presum' ably well-informed writer on social topics in the New York Herald, is a most marked idea of economy. Economy in every way, even to the saving of the pennies, let alone the dollars, has come to be a growing enthusiasm. That this is not a theory, but a genuine condition, and that women with the biggest sort of incomes are actually practising what they preach, can be learned from all the prominent tradesmen, as war is making many of them genuinely blue, for the accounts of many of their best customers are falling decidedly off.

The idea of the day is that the country may sooner or later need money, that at all events scores of new charities and aid societies will probably spring up and that they themselves should begin to save now in order that they may be prepared when the call for funds comes. That is the feeling among the women of the "sets," and they are showing their willingness to be ready by making all to manage a household. sorts of little sacrifices.

This has not been told in print, for the reason that these women have. naturally, not talked about it, but it is, nevertheless, a fact. The average woman of fashion is having about a third as many new gowns as usual, and she is buying far less in the way of fripperies and novelties. A much smaller quantity of goods is being ordered daily from the butcher, the baker and the grocer, and there are some women who are actually keeping a close watch on the sugar and butter in their pantries, to see that neither of these articles is wasted. This on the part of women who have never done such a thing in all their lives before. Servants are being discharged and establishments quietly reduced.

St. Francis of Sales wrote a little book for those wno lived piously and holily in the midst of the world. In it he says: "I venture to state that the longest interval between one Communion and another, for those who wish to lead a devout life, should never exceed the period of one month."

The Catholic Columbian recently contained an article commenting upon the lack of respect which is oftentimes shown by certain classes towards the pepper. girl that works. We take the following extract from it:

The girl that works for whom there should be most respect is not the one that takes to typewriting or other outside employment where she is not indisensable, in order to get away from housework at home, where she is much needed. Nor is she the offspring of well to do parents who is able to spend all her wages on herself and other extravagances. But she is the virtuous and dutiful girl that gives all that she makes above her own simple wants for the maintenance of her nearest and dearest-to pay the rent, to keep the family together, to educate the younger children, to secure a home for her father and her mother in their old age. High society has no one better than her. Queens might do her reverence. She is one of God's gentlewomen.

All honor to her—the girl that works!

A contributor to an exchange refers what he says :-

'It seemed to me at one time,' said a man who eats carefully, 'that I had seen the li it of eccentric eating when a man I knew used to make his luncheon regularly on a chocolate éclair and a cup of tea. More surprising than that was another friend or mine who told me that he like better than any breakfast he had ever eaten one that consisted of piece of blue fish and a glass ice oream soda. During the World's Fair at Chicago I saw four persons sitting at a table in the best restaurant there. They were, eating shad. With it the two men were drinking sherry cobblers, while the women had selected the judicious accompaniment of lemonade. That was, of course, a painful spectacle. But I decided that it was merely Chicago and only sighed. I have learned now that these eccentricities of taste are not local. Lemonade and shad in Chicago can be balanced against bluefish and ice cream soda here with tea and chocolate éclairs without skins; persimmons, papaws: as a little phenomenon that is likely to occur anywhere. The last painful sight of this kind that has added to my experience occurred at the last place in the world where such a thing might have been expected. It was in the small cafe of a French restaurant where the patrons go for the cooking and not to hear the music, see the crowd or do anything but eat. The other night a man sat in a quiet corner eating mussels a la marinière and drinking boiled milk. I take off my hat to him. Not only must his digestion be remarkable, but he has also succeeded ing, incongruous and terrifying combina tion of food and drink. He seemed to fruits any length of time; serious results ba enjoying it. More remarkable still was the fact of his nationality. He was a Frenchman, and so new was he to this country that he could not speak Eng-

America's greatest medicine is Hood's ever.

"Will the love you are so rich in Light a fire within the kitchen? Or the little god of love turn the spit?"

THOUSANDS of mechanics and laborers, says the Rev. F. J. Watzel in his charming book, entitled "A Guide for Girls in the Journey of Life," recently published by B. Herder of St. Louis, Mo., are robbed of the nourishment which is no idea how to use the different materials to the best advantage and tasty and digestible.

But if people, says the same writer, are well off it may be urged that they employ cooks and housemaids to do the work. That is true, but if the mistress of the house understands nothing at all about cooking or housekeeping, if she is obliged to trust entirely to her servants, how will she be regarded by her dependents? How much will be wasted and equandered in the house? How can peace and happiness dwell in the home, when such girls marry and have

"There is nothing more irritable than a cough," says a doctor sasociated with public institution. "For some time I had been so fully assured of this that I determined, for one minute at least, to lessen the number of coughs heard in a certain ward in a hospital of the institution. By the promise of rewards and punishments I succeeded in inducing them to simply hold their breath when tempted to cough, and in a little while I was myself surprised to see how some of the children recovered from the disease. Constant coughing is like scratching a wound on the outside of the body. So long as it is done the wound will not heal. Let a person when tempted to cough draw a long breath and hold it until it warms and soothes every air cell, and some benefit will soon be derived from this process. The nitrogen which is thus refined acts as an anodyne to the mucous membrane, allaying the desire to cough, and giving the throat and lungs a chance to heal. At the same time a suitable medicine will aid Nature in her effort to recuperate.'

The question of what we are eating and drinking is of serious import, says a contributor to a magazine. There have come to light in recent years facts about adulterants of food products which show an extraordinary condition of affairs.

We eat artificial eggs.
We dust powdered black walnut on our food under the impression that it is

We use cotton seed oil on a salad and think it is olive oil.

We spread oleomargarine fat on our bread believing that it is butter. We are befooled and befuddled on every hand by the purveyors of food and drink until we are never safe from imposition at the table.

It is not so very uncommon a thing in Germany, says an exchange, for a servant girl to remain in the employ of one family for forty years. In such cases, when the fortieth year is reached, the girl gets a golden cross from Empress Augusta Victoria. Last year twelve dozens of these crosses were distributed. Only one went to a Berlin domestic. It speaks as well for the mistress as for the maid, when the latter turns forty years in her employ.

Mrs. Rorer, a frequent contributor to the Ladies' Home Journal, under the peculiar title of "Fruits as Foods and to some of the peculiarities of taste of Fruits as Poisons," closes a lengthy some people in regard to diet. Here is article to the current number in the following manner :-

If man, then, persists in using or trying to use that for which he has neither power for digestion nor assimilation, he. must, without doubt, pay the penalty. To many persons strawberries are such a violent poison that a single dish will produce a rash in less than two hours. The cooking of the fruit seems to destroy this active, irritating principle, but again, here comes our fashion of adding

Canned or preserved fruits, as well as jame and kindred articles, are to be condemned on account of the mass of sugar used. With the fruits it is more prone to fermentation, and even if the sugar is inverted we have a far greater amount than can be cared for by the liver, and here is the origin of the "torpid liver" we hear so much about The liver is not torpid at all, it is simply overworked. The given capacity is exhausted.

Fruits as foods are, then, peaches, apricots, nectarines; ripe, mellow apples; dates, figs, fresh and dried; prunes very ripe or cooked bananas; guavas without seeds-fresh or canned without sugar; pineapples, grated or finely picked, never cut; mangoes, grapes; sweet plums without skins, sugar cherries, and an occasional cooked pear. Bartletts are excellent when canned without sugar.

The fruits which must be used most sparingly are lemons, oranges, shaddocks, currants, barberries, cranberries and strawberries. This applies most emphatically to those persons who are inclined to uric acid conditions. The rheumatic and gouty should also most rigidly abiu devising a most unusual, unappetiz stain. The tender lining of the child's stomach cannot, certainly, bear such must follow. The ripe, mellow peach is really the child's fruit.

A SURE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emul-Sarsaparilla, which cures when all other, sion comes the nearest to it, but even preparations fail to do any good what that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease. different tones will be highly favored all Cigar Store, St. Lawrence Hall.

THE costumes which appeal most directly to young women just at present are, which an American fashion specialist calls, the graduation gowns, especially the particular kind that can be utilized as party gowns later on. In a recent contribution to New York papers, this searcher of the news contained in the food they eat, and suffer | says :-- White organdies and dotted musfrom insufficient nutrition, because their lins are the most attractive among the wives do not understand cooking, have cheaper materials for this purpose, as they can be made over white lawn and how dishes are prepared so as to be ruches of the muslin, frills of narrow white satin ribbon or inexpensive lace insertion and edging. White India silk is a very pretty material, but white taffeta has the lead among the silks this season. In the first place it should form summer, and skirts of gray vigogne, mohair, canvas, étamine, ladies cloth, and repped silk or wool will very largely take the place of the useful and universal black skirt so long worn with fancy waists and jackets. Some of the smartest toilets worn at the recent fashionable gatherings in Paris-on varnishing day, at the horse show, and the likewere made of gray in some striking or elegant combination or wholly of one handsome fabric, with white silk or satin guimpe, and vest front trimmed with gold or silver braid, or again combined with mauve, red, or Spanish yellow. In evening toilets are some exquisite gowns in gray crèpe de Chine, crépon, nun's veiling, silk, or silk gauze, or monseline de soie, made up over rose colored or brilliant coquelicot red satin or taffeta.

One of the speakers at the recent Mothers' Congress protested against the abuse of children by the most well trimmed with tucks, tiny hemmed meaning mothers. He spoke against the practice of sending little babies out in carriages all of whose fittings were of dazzling white, and urged his hearers to reflect for a moment how they suffer in a snow landscape, with the sun shining brightly on it. The speaker might have the petticoat to be worn with the most gone on, says a writer in the Post, N. Y. simple as well as the most elaborate and told of numerous other ways in gown. It is as carefully fitted about the which mothers sacrifice the comfort of the petticoat, as well as the dress skirt, touch the floor, and trail just a little at the back. This lengthening of the skirt is a positive feature of all gowns which make any pretensions to style, while dressy gowns for the house and evening wear have decided trains.

With the white taffeta petticoat for a foundation the organdie gowns with a simple slip of the same muslin under neath hang very prettily. Some of the dress skirts are made with tiny tucks with an inch or two space between them, or lace insertion set in various designs, either in squares, points, diamonds, or battlement form, and edged with a gathered row of narrow white satin baby ribbon. The same designs are reneated in the bodice, which is usually a simple full waist fastened at one side with a frill of lace. Other waists are made with a lace trimmed yoke, and occasionally one is completed with a fichu of the muslin edged with lace frills.

The five gored skirt and the circular gowns, and the apron front with the deep flour ce is very much like i. as well as the straight around Spanish flounce. Cut this circular and cover it with narrow lace edged ruffles and you have a very pretty effect, or use the straight breadths, trim with insertion or tucks, and gather it on in the old-fashioned way. Very simple muslin gowns are made with the five-gored skirt trimmed with three four inch ruffles narrowly hemmed, and having three tiny tucks in each, set on with a cord and heading, fully their own width apart The bodice and sleeves are tucked crosswise, tucked frills trim around the shoulders in the form of a yoke, and white satin ribbon forms the collar band and belt.

hips as a dress skirt, the upper portion their children on picturesque or convenextending only to the knee. Below this tional principles. The little middy are two circular flounces, which gather a suits, for example, in which the small little at the top, the lower being attach-boys are exceedingly effective, are any-ed to the upper about midway, and both thing but comfortable for the sturdy legs are finished on the edges and at the which they envelop. It is almost as head with narrow pink ruches of silk. hard to run in the wide flapping trousers as in skirts, and more than one highshould be long enough all around to spirited boy has been known to mutiny against this swathing style of dress. A few years ago little girls in their artistic Kate Greenaway gowns were subjected to a similar penance. If any one is entitled to freedom, it is certainly an active child, to whom the bondage of clothes spells misery.

> Ruth Ashmore, in the May issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, says :

I have always maintained that it was the duty of every girl to look her best. Sne may look her best in a dainty cotton gown which cost but little, and which was made by her own deft fingers; indeed, she may look elegant in the dress, simple as it is, provided it is becoming, adapted to the lady and place, and, most important of all, absolutely neat. Per fect neatness is the keynote to a good appearance. Therefore, the girl who wishes to look well-and that is just as much her duty as that she should do right-must study how to keep her wardrobe in good condition, so that each garcut are both employed for the thin white | ment may be ready for wear when it is needed. Untidyness should be an unknown quantity. I have little faith in an untidy girl. She who goes without buttons on her shoes, wearing a torn skirt, a dusty hat and soiled gloves, can never possess real stability of character. The learning how to care for one's belongings is almost as necessary as the learning how to live a good life.

> DR ADAMS' TOOTHACHE GUN is sold by all good druggists. 10 cts. a bottle.

> > Second Capital Prize.

At the drawing of May 25th of the Society of Arts of Canada, 1666 Notre Dame street, the second capital prize Entire costumes of gray in very many has been drawn by Mr. A. E. Patno,

CHATS TO YOUNG MEN.

The man who has only visions of indolence in some fancy position, says Benedist Bell a regular contributor to the Sacred Heart R view, unfits himself for all kinds of labor, even Government work, for which the petty politicians are always intriguing, and which requires in its capture an amount of wirepulling, if not corruption, that seldom makes the game worth the candle. The last work I would advise a young man to do would be that of a so called political character. It presents so many temptations to dishonesty that, unless a young man has a strong will, he is apt to fall into the way of his more disreputable associates. Of course, all citizens should take an interest in the election of proper efficials, but eternal hanging around city balls, State houses and similar places in search of a fat salary for little labor is demoralizing. I do not mean to say that for nearly every public salaried position there are a hundred applicants.

The first requisite in a good citizen is to be a good man-honest, industrious, generous and truthful, writes Secretary of the Navy Long in the Christian Register. Not every good man, however, fulfile all the conditions of good citizen ship. A good citizen is not only upright in his personal, social and business relations, but he takes an interest in the welfare and government of his country. He gives his attention to the interest of the neighborhood, his town and his State. He first informs himself thoroughly with regard to public questions. He looks at both sides; he avoids prejudice; he votes at every election; he takes part in primary meetings for the nominations of the candidates; he is not discouraged or sour because he is not himself chosen for office, or because he is disappointed at the defeat of his friends; he knows that the government or the people is the government of all the people, and that 'all the people' means all shades and conditions of people; he knows that such a great mass cannot always ac: with the utmost dis cretion or wisdom, and that its action, on the whole, is the action of the aver age intelligence and honesty. If, there fore, things sometimes go wrong, he will only work the harder to make them go right, remembering that in the long run. though with many a twist and turn like Tennyson's brook, things do go right. The good citizen will not confine his public service merely to political mat ters. He will be alive and enterprising in everything that benefits the community in which he lives; he will not be afraid to stand up for the right sentiment, and to resist the wrong : he will take part in bettering the conditions of those around him by his example, by his charity, and by his participation in whatever makes for the public good and he will have his reward in the broad ening and strengthening of his own life which will be in propertion to the broadening and strengthening influence he brings upon the life ground around him.

Many young men incline towards the very unmanly practice of prying into the private affairs of their neighbors. A writer in the Baltimore Sun deals with this class in the following manner. He

Like many other qualities, inquisitive ness may be reprehensible or commend able according to the use that is made of it and the tact with which it is employed. Lequisitive people learn a great deal, or at least get much information, and if they confine their inquiries to legitimate topics on which they have a right to be informed, and if, moreover, their enquiries are directed to the obtaining of solid infor nation that will be of use to them, their inquisitiveness serves a good purpose. It is far differ ent with that inqui-iveness which deals only with petty affairs or scandals, and which is directed not to the obtaining of legitimate information, but to prving into other people's affairs. That kind of inquisitiveness is an impertinence which is properly resented. Men have property rights in their thoughts and opinions as real as the property rights in their pocketbooks. To pry into their thoughts against their will is an offence comparable to filching from their pock-

Another writer refers to the young men who go about retailing little scandals. He writes:

There are many men who have neither the courage nor the malice to say any thing really bad about their acquaint ances, but who go about making illnatured little comments that do as much harm as the most serious accusations.

People are alienated from their best friends by just such stabs in the dark. A comment is made, or a speech repeated. which is really not much in itself, not even enough to take cognizance of, but the little rift is made—the rift within the lute, which, widening slowly, maketh, all the music mute.' A dangerous man' is sometimes said of such a person, but society in general rather likes the amusing criticism, and does not trouble itself to find out the truth of such mild aspersions, and hence their danger.

'I wonder why so and so is so changed,' is a remark frequently heard. We used to be so friendly, and now we are almost strangers.' A state of affairs which is frequently brought about by injudicious speeches by one who is too feeble and colorless to be dignified into being considered an enemy.

Business Gards.

TELEPHONE 8393 THOMAS O'CONNELL

Dealer in general Household Hardware, Paints and Oils, 137 McCORD STREET, Cor. Ot:awa: PRACTICAL PLUMBER, GAS. STEAM and HOT WATER FITTER.

Butland Lining fits any Stove, Cheap. Orders promptly attended to. ; Moderate, charges. : A trial solicited.

J. P. CONROY

(Latewith Paddon & Nicholson)

228 Centre Street. Practical Plumber, Gas and Steam-Fitter

ELECTRIC and MECHANICAL BELLS, Bts. .....Telephone, 8552.....

CARROLL BROS.

Registered Practical Sanitariant PLUMBERS. STEAM FITTERS, METAL AND SLATE ROOFERS.

785 CRAIG STREET, : near St. Antoine Drainageand Ventilation aspecialty.

Telephone 1832. Charges moderate.

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS 1821 & 1823 Notre Dame St. [Near McGillStreet.] MONTREAL.

Sales of Household Furniture, Farm Stock, Ree Estate, Damaged Goods and General Merchan-disc respectfully solicited. Advances made on Consignments. Charges moderate and returns prompt.

N.B.—Large consignments of Turkish Ruge and Carpets always on hand. Sales of Fine Art Good; and High Class Pictures a socialty.

ESTABLISHED 1864.

C. O'BRIEN

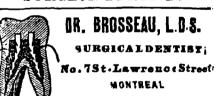

House, Sign and Decorative Painter PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER HANSER; Whitewashing and Tinting. All orders promptly attended to. Terms moderate.

Residence, 645 Dorchester St. | East of Bleury, Office 647

LORGE & CO., HATTER - AND - FURRIER AWRENCE STREET

MONTREAL.

SURGEON-DENTISTS

Telephone, . 62of. Your impression in the morning.
Teeth in the afternoon. Blegant full gum sets.
Rose Pearl filesh colored.) Weighted lower sets for shallow jaws. Upper sets for wasted face: gold crown plate and bridge work, pailes; attacting without charge if sets are inserted. Teethfiled; teeth repaired in 50 minutes; sets in three hours if required

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

J. ALCIDE CHAUSSE. ARCHITECT.

153-157 Shaw st., Montreal. Plans and Estimates furnished for all kinds of buildings. Merchants' Telephone 1455.

C. A. McDONNELL

Accountant and Trustee, 180 ST. JAMES STREET. Telephone 1182.

Personal supervision given to all business. Rentscollected, Estates administered and Book sudited.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

The Quickest, Most Direct and Popular Route to the KLONDYKE

YUKON GOLD FIELDS. Choice of several routes, and impartial information given.

Full particulars as to sailing of all steamer p from Pacific Coast cities for Alaska, and accommodation reserved in advance thereon. Through passenger and freight rates quoted. Alaska pamphlets and maps, containing foldinformation as to the Yukon district, furnished of application to any Grand Trunk Agent.

CITY TICKET OFFICE 137 ST. JAMES STREET,

And Bonaventure Station. BRODIE & HARVIE'S PANCAKE FLOUR For PANCAKES, MUFFINS, EIG.

Ask your Groser for it - 31 bs and 61 bs packs gos.

LOSS AND GAIN.

[After all, the mains of sharp practice in business are a small percentage of the legit-imate gains—as in the case of Andrew Marvel, whose story fellows:]

......

NDREW MARVEL was a mer chant to whom his neighbors ap plied the word 'thrifty.' He had been in business for only a few years; yet, in that, he had made a good deal of money, Mainly, the thrift of Andrew Marvel was the result of great shrewdness, industry, and a knowledge of trade. It was also that he had done through the day, while dependent, in part, on his habit of drivdependent, and partial of door control of duced a sense of uncariness; and, op in every transaction. So that he gained, upon his uneasy pillow sometimes for he too rarely stopped to consider who lost—that is, he did not stop to consider while in the warmth and eagerness of business. Then his love of gain ruled his actions. But, in earlier years, Marvel had received instruction from the lips of one who taught him to repeat the Golden Bule, and thus fixed that heavenly precept in his memory. It was, therefore, impossible for him to sot with dis honesty, and not, in some after moment, when his cupidities were at rest, feel a sense of disquietude therefor. He could not gain a worldly advantage of this kind, without losing some portion of

In the gains of Mr. Marvel, there was, therefore, a loss, and that a serious one -a loss of which he was too often conscious-a loss that troubled him.

Strong in the love of money, and eager And yet accompanying his possessions fixed expression. Then she said, in a was a feeling of disquietude, a want of severe tone self-approval and celf-satisfaction. And there were times, when thinking over Marvel-fifty dollars gained from the some of his business deeds, that he felt small remnant left to the widow and per cent. paying bonds and mortgages, and the remainder was in his business. His family consisted of only himself and wife, and their whole expense of living did not exceed two thousand dollara per annum.

Now the whole amount of this prop erty, acquired by over reaching in business, did not exceed, if every little item of fraudulent gain had been fairly counted, ten thousand dollars. Had Marvel been strictly honest man with | forehead. man, in all his business dealings, he would have been worth seventy thousand dollars. But his selfish desire to bave additional ten thousand, to mar all real enjoyment of the seventy thousand.

that was impossible.

One day a gentleman called upon Mr. Marvel and said to him:

family. Do you wish to buy?

'What stock is it?' asked the mer-

The name of the company was mentioned.

What does she ask for it?' 'She will sell at the market price.'

'What is that?'

'I saw a broker just now, and he said it was worth eighty dollars.' Eighty was the quotation of the previous day. But Marvel knew that an advance had taken place, and the true value of the shares was eighty-five dol 'Very well,' said he, with a pleasant feeling at the thought of making fifty dollars by the transaction in consequence of the gentleman's ignorance of the real value of the scrip, 'I'll take the scrip. When do you want the money?' 'As soon as the transfer can be made.

'I'll give you a check at any moment,' said Marvel.

So the transfer was made without delay, and the stock became the merchant's.

'That much gained,' said he to him-self, as he placed the certificates care-fully in his fire proof. 'I should like to enter a transaction like this every day. The stock is worth eighty-five. So there are fifty dollars clear. Howard was not so wide awake as usual. But the stock was none of his. It is the poor widow who has to suffer. A nice man, truly to have the widow's interests in charge,

There was a sudden depression in the thermometer of Andrew Marvel's feelings at this last mental exclamation. A poor widow had been wronged-in plain words, cheated—out of fifty dollars. Who had done this? Who was guilty of so mean an act of dishonesty? Why, Andrew Marvel! The transaction was a mirror, in which the merchant saw himself reflected, and, with a feeling of shame at his heart, he tried to turn his eyes away from the likeness, so little flattering to the good opinion of himself he so fondly cherished.

'It was a fair business transaction,' he said to himself, in the struggle for self-approval.

But that would not do. 'The stock was offered at eighty dollars, and I bought it. Was there any.

thing wrong in that? It was a good bargain for me, I own; but every man is entitled to the best bargain he can make. Still, the merchant felt uncomfortable. He had wronged a widow, whose slender income was insufficient for the support of her family, out of fifty dollars. That was the plain truth; and gloss if over as he would, he could not make it look any better.

Thus stood the account of loss and gain in that matter.

The sleep of Andrew Marvel was not always sound. It too frequently hap pened that, ere his senses were looked in sweet forgetfulness, there would intrude upon his mind the thought of something absorbed in the sphere of gain, that pro hours.

It was so on the night that followed his purchase of the widow's stock. He had lost far more than he had gained, and the trouble of this would not let him rest. At length, after many unhappy hours, nature gave way, and he sank into a troubled slumber. But, the current of his thoughts went on, uncontrolled not by reason and the real things around him. To a certain extent he lived over very many scenes in his life and some of the actors in them were face to face with him again. By this one he was charged with overreaching in a certain transaction; by that one self-respect, and with that peace of con- convicted of falsehood in some busiscience, without which no one can be ness operation, that he might acquire an advantage; and by another pointed at as a specious villain. At length his crowd of accusers passed away, and he was left alone with his own unhappy re flections. Not long alone, however, for the door of the room in which he seemed for its accumulation, as a means of hap to be sitting, opened, and a woman, in piness, our merchant, in acquiring widow's weeds, came slowly in. Though earthly treasure, was like a man who he had never seen the person from whom builds a house, and uses, in its erection, he had bought the stock on the previous a portion of bad materials, thus making day, he knew this to be her. By the the whole structure defective, and des | hand she held two little children, poorly troying all his pleasure in the use of the clad. They were weeping. The woman building. He was getting rich fast. He approached and stood before him. For was investing money year after year, a little while, she looked at him with a

'There were fifty dollars gained, Mr. Andrew Marvel, at the time we have introduced him to the reader, was worth Loss of honesty; loss of self-respect; over eighty thousand dollars. Forty loss of peace, and, worse than all, so thousand of this sum was invested in 6 much lost of heaven. With whom do you expect to live hereafter, Mr. Murvel? With the loving, unselfish, true minded angels, or with the overreaching, dis honest, cruel hearted spirits who cannot enter heaven? It must come to this at last. There were fifty dollars gained, Mr. Marvel, but how much lost? Can you estimate that?' The merchant heard no more in his dream. Shuddering, he awoke with beads of clammy perspiration on his

On the next day Marvel enclosed the widow fifty dollars, saying to her in the note accompanying the sum that he more than his own share, led him, for an | found, on inquiry, that her stock was worth just that much more than he paid her for it. To screen himself from being Could he have obliterated from his thought by her what he really wasmind the true precepts he had learned dishonest at heart-he evaded the truth as a child-could be have hushed the in his act of restitution. But, so far as whispers of conscience, heard in the the act went, it was good. The merchant silence of his heart after he had turned | felt better, therefore; and enjoyed the away from the busy world, he might property he had purchased far more than have better enjoyed his wealth. But if his right to it had been vitiated by the right of another therein.

'A widow, a triend of mine, has ten again to the profit and loss account that whares of stock that she wishes to sell. | was posted up in the Book of Memory The income from this stock is too small | And, whenever he looked at this ac to be of any value to her, and she is count, he was positively unhappy. For torced to part with it, in order to meet the future, he was wiser, and ender yield low-man. But whatever is, written in record. He could not forget the past nor obliterate from his mind the canaciousness that a portion of the worldly wealth he possessed was at the expense of dishonesty and wrong to others. In several cases he made secret restitution, thus lightening the pressure that was on him. But a portion of the weight could not be removed; and thus the abundince of this world's good things that were gathered around him were but half enjoyed, because a portion was not justly his own.

So much for loss and gain, - Catholic Citizen.

PATENT REPORT.

Below will be found a list of patents recently granted through Messrs. Marion & Marion, Solicitors of Patents and Experts, New York Life Building, Mont-

No. 60 053 -A. Laustram, Hope, B. C. oar lock. No. 60 055-Aurele Noel, Pointe au

Pere, P.Q., oar lock. No. 60,067-William V. Chisholm, Ashdale, NS, wrench, No. 60,070-Jos. Cadicux, Montreal, envelope. No. 60,095-R. B. Stevenson, Victoria, BC., swimming and life preserver.

WAS WASTING AWAY.

"I could not eat, sleep, walk or sit down for any length of time. I was al ways in pain and was wasting away. I grew very weak and had a bad cough. I tried many different remedies, but did not get relief. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, however, I am able to attend to my business."-MINNIE JAQUES, Osh-

Hoop's Pills cure all liver ills. Mailed for 25c. by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

The first baby gets its photograph taken every three months; the other babies are lucky to get theirs taken once in three years.

TOOTHACHE STOPPED IN TWO MINUTES, with Dr. Adams' Toothache Gum. 10c.

THE SOCIETY OF ARTS OF CANADA, 1666 Notre Dame Street, Montreal. Distributions every Wednesday, Value of prizes ranging from $2.00 to $2,000 Tickets 10 cents.

SAVE your For 25 Surprise Soap Wrappers SURPRISE SOAP we give FREE: 1/2 dozen Lend Pencils.

2 of the famous Binisdell's Lend Pencils.

A choice of a great many beautiful Pictures. Wrappers. A fine selection of the latest movels. 2 sheets of up-to-date Music. A Cook Book.

FREE for 50 Surprise Soap Wrappers: A choice of 4 kinds of Jack Knives 4 kinds of Scissors—long kind—short kind-round point-sharp point and Button Hole Scissors.

Beautiful Bound Books of Standard authors-Books of Poems-Leather Purses - Bound Cook Books.

For a larger number of Wrappers: Bicycles-Sewing Machines-Book Case-Dictionary-Carpet Sweeper

-Clocks-Watches-Silverware.

A request on a Postal Card, will obtain you a catalogue free THE ST. CROIX SOAP MFG. CO. ST. STEFHEN, N.B.

99999999

PROFESSOR HUXLEY'S BUCKWHEAT CAKE.

Huxley, the famous English scientist was as simple and unaffected in his manner as a child, and was frankly interested in America as well as in Ameri-

When he visited this country some years ago, he was entertained at the home of his friend, John Fiske, the historian. At breakfast, when the raised biscuits were passed, it was noticed that Huxley took one, eveing it curiously, and held it carefully beside his plate for further investigation. It was evidently an unknown quantity to him.

As soon as he could quietly, without being observed, gain the attention of his host, he lifted the biscuit solemnly, and, holding it out to Professor Fiske in the palm of his hand said in a whisper: 'Is this a buckwheat cake, Fiske?"

GREATER HONORS IN NUMBERS.

more title than brains, not long ago they will grow up intelligent it they encalled upon Governor B.b Taylor, of Tennessee.

The Governor was much engrossed but requested his visitor to be seated, and turned for a moment to finish a cer tain piece of work. This greeting was not effusive enough for the aspiring lawver.

" Perhaps you do not know who I am Mr. Gavernor," he said, in a tone which bespoke that he was vexed at his cooling ception, "I am the Hon, J. Blank Brain, Coloner Much Money's som in Law !

"Ou-ah, excuse me," gushed the Governor in his most persuisive voice: a thousand pardons; have two seats Mr. Blank-Brain, have two seats."

MR. BEECHER CLEARS UP A DARK POINT.

that this young tellow met Mr Beecher, protection, If one is really grief stricken who knew his family.

· I ve been thinking that I would settle | believe that crape and other mourning down, behave myself and join your habilliments are often directly responthe present and pressing wants of her to limit his gains within the bounds of church. Now, I like your preaching, sible for bad complexions, bad eyes, bad strict honesty between man and his fel- but when I go to your church and see digestion and bad temper. such men as old S--and others, graspthe Book of Memory is a permanent | ing skinflints and hypocrits to the core, sitting there in full membership, why, the thing is just a little too much for most extravagant. The very wealthy

'Well, you're right,' said Mr. Beecher, every church has such men, and I fancy Plymouth is not free from them. And until you spoke I have wondered why the girl herself must superintend the work good Lord permitted it. Now I understand.

'Ah,' gurgled the young fellow, drawing himself. 'I am glad I have thrown mend and darn with great neatness, and light on the question. What strikes you to make over those gowns which were as the reason, Mr. Beecher?'

'Well,' replied the great preacher, looking the young man straight in the eye, 'it is permitted in order to keep just such tools as you out of the churches.'

EVARTS' IDEA OF WOMAN'S VERSA. TILITY.

Ex-Secretary William M. Evarts was for a long time the most skilful of all public men in polite and pointed repartee. At a reception in Washington he was once drawn into a discussion between two is always the best judge of another woman's character?

not only the best judge, but also the best | uer.-Raiph Waldo Emerson. executioner.'

PROOF THAT HE WAS NOT TWO-FACED.

The Rev. Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist, was holding a series of meetings at a church whose pastor was noted for his lack of good looks.

One evening at a revival service, as he was talking about the sin of hypocrisy and duplicity, he—in a sudden gleam of characteristic humor—turned round to the pastor, sitting in the pulpit behind him, and said, amid a whirlwind of laugnter:

Well, John, your congregation can never accuse you of being a two faced man, can they? For the Lord knows that if you had another face you'd certainly wear it, wouldn't you?'

HAD ALWAYS ELUDED DU CHAILLU. Paul du Chaillu, although a confirmed bachelor, is very fond of the ladies, and never loss an opportunity of paying them a compliment.

Some years ago, while under the treat-ment of a famous Philadelphia physician, Mr. Du Chaitlu was introduced to Doctor X's secretary, a charming girl of twenty years. The African explorer was much impressed by her beauty and wit, and chatted a long time, telling her, with his delightful French accent, of his many visits to many lands. No opportunity had occurred for Mr. Du Chaillu to pay his usual homage until Miss said, pointing to contain the said. S—said, pointing to a couple of assegais mounted on the wall which Du Chaillu had given to Doctor X: "And have you really fought the dreadful people who use those hideous weapons?" "Oh, yes," responded Mr. Du Chaillu; "I have fought ze Kaffirs, and faced ze lions, and taken ze gorilla captive but zere is one creature zat I have never captured, and ze only one of which I am afraid." "And which is that:" asked Miss

- innocently. With a beaming smile, and a bow such as only a Frenchman can give: "Ze deer," responded Du Chaillu.-Ladies' Home Journal.

TRAINING CHILDREN.

A contributor to an Irish exchange, in dealing with the all-important question of training children, says:

Children hunger perpetually for new ideas. They will learn with pleasure from the lips of parents what they deem drudgery to learn ir m books, and even if they have the misfortune or being de-A very pompous young lawyer, with | prived of many educational advantages, joy in childhood the privilege of listening to the conversation of intelligent people. Let there have many opportunities of learning in this way. Be kind to them and don't think it beneath you to answer their little questions, for they proceed from an unplanted faculty, which every true man and woman should take a great delight in gratifying,

THE WEARING OF MOURNING.

Here are the views of a doctor about mourning, says an exchange: 'Many a woman has been laid in her cetlin by the wearing of crape. It is a sin to do or wear anything that hurts the health, and therefore I think it positively sinful for women to wear mourning. Even plain black is not wholesome. It is proached by a young man whom wealth grown very sensible in the matter of one's own feelings are sufficient protec-Do you know, Mr. Beecher, said he, tion against society, and for my part I

> It is a truth, and a sad one, that the girl may not have to care for her own wardrobe, yet each piece belonging to it is made to do full service, and in many instances, if she has a wise mother, the of the maid. It is said of the daughters of Queen Victoria that each one of them was taught, not only to sew well, but to counted worth it. The girl whose wardrobe is not large makes her first mistake in buying cheap material of a color that is the fancy of the moment. In stead, when only one new gown may be had during the season, it should be of a fabric that will stand wear, that will endure making over, and of a color of which neither the wearer nor the lookeron will soon grow weary. It is an extravagance to have a gown made in the extreme of the fashion, for the extreme soon goes out, and then you have a failure on your hands.

'Mr. Evarts,' said one, 'do you not think I am right in saying that a woman is always the best judge of another women is withholden, the better for you; for compound interest on compound in-'Madame,' replied Mr. Evarts, 'she is | terest is the rate and usage of the excheq-

> If you cannot get beef, mutton will answer.

> You may choose between milk, water, coffee or tea. But there is no second choice for Scott's Emulsion.

> It is Scott's Emulsion or nothing.

When you need the best cod-liver oil, the best hypophosphites, and the best glycerine, all combined in the best possible manner, you have only one choice.

It brings prompt results in all cases of wasting, or loss in weight.

All druggists; soc. and $r.ee.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronte.

A · HOPELESS INVALID.

SUCH WAS THE CONDITION OF MISS RODD, OF BROOKLYN.

AN EDITOR RELATES THE STORY OF HER ILLNESS AND HOW A REMARKABLE CHANGE IN HER CONDITION WAS DESCRICT

FROM THE GAZ!"TE, WHITBY, ONT For some five years the editor of this pourpal has made weekly visits to Brooklyn in search of news. One of his earliest recollections of the village was journal has made weekly visits to Brooklyn in search of news. One of his in noting that Miss Levina Rodd was very ill. Miss Rodd was well known, and as week after week rolled round it was natural to ask how she was getting on, and the reply always came that she was no better. Time went on and it became a settled fact that Miss Rodd was a confirmed invalid and that such she would continue until a kind Providence took mercy on her by allowing death to end her sufferings.

None of the villagers anticipated any other ending. Our astonishment can be better imagined than described, therefore, when Mrs. Bert Wells hailed us one morning with "Well, editor, we have some news for by allowing death to end her sufferings. "Well, editor, we have some news for you to-day." "What is it?" "Why, Miss Rodd has gone on a visit to Columbus friends." "Why, I thought she was a confirmed invalid?" "So she was," but she has been improving so much lately that she is now able to help herself a good deal, and it was thought a change of scene would do her good,"
"That is certainly news," replied the quill-pusher, "and good news too; but what cured her?" "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," replied Mrs. Wells. We then decided to ask Miss Rodd upon her return for an interview, but it was some time before it took place, owing to the limited time at our disposal between trains, and partly owing to a desire to wait and see if the improvement was likely to prove permanent. However, after many put-offs, we finally called at the home of Mrs. Doolittle, a sister of Mies Rodd's, who has carefully cared for her during the long illness. At the request of the editor Miss Rodd made the following statement:—"I am fifty years of age and have lived in Brooklyn ten vears. Five years ago I was taken ill with acute rheumatism, and have not done a day's work since. The trouble began with my feet, and the swelling extended to my arms, wrists and shoulders, and finally settled in my neck. I had such pain that I was obliged to use a walking stick to case me in moving about, and two and a half years ago the stick had to make way for a crutch. At this time I used to get up a little each day, but it was not long before I was denied even this privilege, and the next six months I was perfectly helpless and bed-ridden. I could not even turn my head or put a cup of tex to may mouth. I got completely discouraged after ineffectually being treated by two physicians and trying the different incdicines recommended for my sument. While I was in this helpless condition my niece came in one day and prevailed upon me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking two boxes I felt a slight change for the bet ter, so I continued to take them, with astonishing that this custom has not the effect that I continued to improve Honry Ward Beecher was once ap been wholly abolished, for women have slowly ever since. I now sleep well, have a good appetite and have gained in nat made a fool and who also was con dress. It would have been atolished the considered himself very long ago were it not for the fact that even get in and out of the buggy GRAND COUNCIL OF QUEBEC the right of another therein.

Andrew Marvel could not forget his dream; nor help recurring now and dream; nor help recurrence nor help recurr still using a crutch is on account of my kness being weak and a desire to not overtax my strength. Jubilee Day was the first time in twenty-one months that I was able to put my foot outside the door and I am satisfied had I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the first place instead of the other medicines used, I would have been spared much suffering, I am sure I owe my improvement to these Pills alone." Mrs. Doolittle, who, as we have previously stated, attended her sister through her trying illness, was equally strong in her recommenda-tions as to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills having effected the radical change, and the three of us agreed that it would be only just that this case should be brought to the notice of auffering humanity in the hope that it might prove a blessing to more than Mins Rodd, who still continues to improve and who hopes to again be able to do her full day's work at no distant date.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapper bearing the full trade mark. "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Write today for a tree copyrat on interesting foods "inventors Help" not "How you are swandled" We have extensive experience in the intricate patent laws of 50 foreign countries. Stud sketch mole, or photo for free advice. MARION & MARION, Experts. New York Life Building, Montreal, and Atlantic Building, Washington, D. C.

900099399999999999996966699 ROME WORK FAMILIES.

KOME WORK FOR HAMILIES.

We want the services of a number of families to do work for us at home, whole or spare time. The work we send our workers is quickly and easily done, and returned by parcel post as finished. Pay $7 to $10 per week. For particulars ready to commence send name and address. The STANDARD SUPPLY CO., LONDON, ONT. STANDARP SUPPLY CO., LONDON, ONT äasasaaaaassoosaaaaaaaaä

SPECIALTIES of GRAY'S PHARMACY

FOR THE HAIR: CASTORFLUID..... 9 use

FOR THE TEETH: SAPONACEOUS DENTIFRICE __. 25 cents FOR THE SKIN: white Bose Langlin Oream , 25cts

HENRY R. GRAY. Pharmaceutical Chemist

122 St. Lawrence Main Street N.R.—Physicians' Prescriptions prepared with care and promptly forwarded to all parts of the city.

Society Meetings.

Young Men's Societies.

Young Irishmen's L. & B. Association

Organized, April 1874. Incorporated, Dec. 1875. Regular monthly meeting held in its hall, 18
Dupre street, first Wednerday of every month at 3 o'clock, r.m. Commutice of Management meets nearly second and fourth Wednesday of each month President, JAS, J. McLEAN: Secretary,
M. J. POWER (all communications to'c addressed to the Hall. Belegates to St. Patrick's Lagne
W. J. Himphy, D. Gallery, Jas. McMahon.

Meets in its hall, 157 Ottowa Street, on the first Sunday of each month, at 2 50 mm. Spiritual Advisor, HEV, E. STRUBBE, C.SS.R.; President, JOHN WHITTY. Secretary, D. J. O'NEILL, Delegates to St. Patrick's League; J. Whitty, D. J. O'Neill and M. Casey.

Aucient Order of Hibernians. DIVISION No. 2.

A.O.H.-Division No. 3,

Meets the 2nd and 4th Mondays of each month, at Hiberma Hall. No. 2892 Notre Dame St. Officers: B. Wall. President: P. Carroll, Vice-President: John Hughes. Fin Secretary: Wm. Rawley, Rosectery: W. P. Stanton, Treas: Marshal, John Kenneiv. T. Erwine, Chairman of Standing Committee. Hall is open every evening texcept regular meeting mather for members of the Order and their friends, where they will find Irish and other leading newspapers on file.

A.O.H.-Division No. 4.

President, H. T. Kearns, No. 22 Delorimier avenue; Vee President, J. P. O'llara: Recording Socretary, P. J. Fina, 15 Kent street; Financial Socretary, P. J. Tomilty; Tressurer, John Traynor; Serceant attary, B. Mathewson, Sentintl, D. White: Marshal, F. Gechan; Delegates to St. Patrick's League, T. J. Donovan, J. P. O'llara, F. Gechan; Charman Standing Committee, John Costello. A.O.H. Division No. 4 meets every 2nd and 4th Monday of each month, at 1113 Notre Dame atreet

C. M. B. A. of Canada.

C.M.B.A. of Canada, Branch 74,

Organized March 14, 1888. Branch 7t meets in the basement of Sr Gabriel's new Church, corner of Centre and Larrantic streets, on the first and third Centre and Lagranie streets, on the first and third Wednesdays of each morth.

Applicants for membership, or any one desirous of information regarding the Branch, may communicate with the following others.

Rev. Wo. O'Maxee, P.P., Sprittual Advisor, Centre street.

Ver. Ww. Dienexy, President, 15 Fire Station, May 2000 More to Financial Secretary, 77 Forfagestreet.

C.M.B.A. of Canada, Branch 26

We Comers, Treisurer, Bourgeois street, James Tayron at Prince Artnur street.

Wences 1994 th November, 1883.1

April of the Street, a nevery Monday of each month. The regular meetings for the transaction of busimess are held or the and and 4th Mondays of the in cuth at Sec.

Apple at the can make hip or any one desirous of outers also the arrival the franch may commuch de with the tell wing offset.

MARTINAL to AN. Prelibert, 47 Cadicux St. 2-H 144 Lichard Tousten, 11. Sactionoke St. 6-A, 6 Attacks Tousten, 41 St. Lawrence St. JAS, J. 0.0-110 AN, Societary, 2-St. Urbain St.

C. M. B. A. of Quebec.

A ware large to the large of th

Catholic Benevolent Legion.

Shamrock Council, No. 320, C.B.L. Meets in St. Ann's Young Men's Hall, 157 Ottawa Street, on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month, at Sp.a. M. SHEA, President: T. W.

LESAUE, Secretary, 47 Berri Street. Catholic Order of Foresters.

Meets every alternate Monday, commencing Jan. 3), in St. Gabticl's Hall, cor. Centre and Laprairie

M. P. McGOLDRICK, Chief Ranger. M. J. HEALEY, Rec. Sec'y, 48 Laprairie St.

St. Patrick's Court, No. 95, C.O.F Meets in St. Ann's Hall, 157 Ottawn street, every first and third Monday, at 8 r.m. Chief Ranger, JAMES F. FOSBRE. Recording Secretary, ALEX.

Total Abstinence Societies.

ST. PATRICK'S T. A. & B. SOCIETY, Established 1841.

The hall is open to the members and their friends The hall is open to the members and their friends every The sday evening. The society meets for religious instruction in St. Patrick's Church, the second Sunday (Leach month at 30 n.s. The regular monthly meeting is held on the second Tuesday of each month, at 8 p.s., in their hall, 92 St. A'exander St. REV. J. A. McCALLEN, S.S. Rev. President: JOHN WALSH, 1st Vice-President; W. P. DOYLE, Secretary, 254 St. Martia street. Delegates to St. Patrick's League: Messrs. John Walsh, J. H. Feeley and William Rawley.

St. Ann's T. A. & B. Society.

ESTABLISHED 1863. Rev. Director. REV. FATHER FLYNN; President. JOHN KILLFEATHER.; Secretary, JAS. BRADY, 220 Manufacturers Street. Meets on the second Sunday of every month, in St. Ann's Hall. corner Young and Ottawa streets, at 3:30 p.m. Delegates to St. Patrick's League: Measrs. J. Killfeather, T. Rogers and Andrew Gullen.

DROPS YTREATYD FREE Positively CURED with Vegerable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases called hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK at testimomials of miraculous cures sent FREE. TO DAYS IREAIMENT FREE by mail. DT. H. H. Green's Bons. Specialists. ATLANTA. GA.

DROVINCE OF QUEBEC, DISTRICT OF MON: REAL. SUPERIOR COURT. No. 3094. Ubaide Garand and Tancrede D. Terroux, both baukers, of the City of Montreal, and there doing business as such as co-partners under the firm of Carand, Terroux & Cie., Plaintiffs: vs. A: Dumber Taylor, heretofore of the nown of Westmoust, in said district, now absent of the Province of Our bee, and in parts unknown, Defendant. The Defendant is ordered to appear with n one month.

Montreal, May 13th, 1896.

AUG. BERTRAND,

47-2

Deputy Prothenetary.

He Gives His Reasons for Supporting the Measure.

The manly letter of Mr. Russell to Mr. Thomas Johnstone, Grand Secretary of the Orange Lodge, Belfast, will be read with much interest by all friends of the Local Government Bill. Mr. Russell does not mince his words, and, after telling the Belfast gentleman some truths, he insinuates that all the brains of the United Kingdom may possibly not be confined to the Grand Lodge. Following is Mr. Russell's letter :

"I am in receipt of your letter in regard to my action on the Local Government Bill. Perhaps I may be allowed to say that in calmly assuming that you represent the views of the Irish Unionist party you assume a great deal too much. Be this as it may, however, I beg to say that I have been pledged to a broad and democratic scheme of local government. It was made a condition of my first election as candidate in 1886. I placed it in my election addresses in 1892 and 1895, and you simply call upon me to break these deliberate pledges.

Again, on hundreds of British platforms and all through the Home Rule controversy I declared that Irish Unionists de aired no privileges, and they were content to be governed as England and Scotland were governed. You ask me to repudiate every word I then uttered, and what is it all about? In Belfast you have this identical local government which I am gladly voting to secure for the people of South Tyrone and every other part of Ireland. Why are you so churlish as to refuse to others what you have got for yourselves?

You plead the cause of the Southern Unionists. By whose authority do you act in so doing? I live and all my interests are in the South. Probably no people know less of the people of the South and West than the people of Belfast. It is an unknown country to most of your citizens, the communication be tween Belfast and Glasgow being much closer than between Belfast and Cork. My own firm belief is that the Southern Unionists are not a bit obliged to you for your violent advocacy of their cause. They are in a minority now, and it is their interest, as I know it to be their desire, to live in amity and at peace with their neighbours. It is not the Southern minority you are thinking of at all. You are against all popular rights. In this I am absolutely opposed to you. I do not consider it good for Ireland that this feud of ages should go on for ever. Men will differ in religion and politics until the crack of doom, but it does not follow that in the adminis tration of the fiscal affairs o the country, in the sanitation of a district, in the case of the poor, the insane, and the afflicted, they should not meet on common ground and work for the common good. Everywhere else it is possible to do this; I refuse to believe that Ulster is the only place where it is impossible for this agreement to take

The real difference between us is linger on the banks of the Boyne-1 recognize that we are on the verge of the 20th century. You desire to see Ulster separated into hostile parties — I recognize facts as they exist, but I do not acquiesce in them, and where common ground is possible I desire that Irishmen should unite. It is because I believe the Local Government Bill will tend to break down barriers between classes and parties, teaching both sides they have common interests, that I support it, and in doing so I have not received, although I am in daily touch with my constituents, one word against the Bill. You have twelve members for Belfast, Down, and Antrim. You have Orangemen sitting for Armagh and other places. Are they all given over to reprobate mind? Are they all, like the member for South Tyrone, bereft of principle, common serse, and reason? There are six hundred and seventy members in the House of Commons. Not a single man of these could be found to vote against the Bill. Had all political wisdom taken refuge in the Grand Orange Lodge? Is it not just possible that the Unionists who support the Bill may be right?

In conclusion, you will permit me to Bay that I have not either hand, act, or part in what you call the jerrymanderng of Belfast.

Sometimes it seems to weary woman that she must certainly give up. The simplest and easiest work becomes an almost insurmountable task. Nervousness, sleeplessness and pain harrass her and life seems hardly worth the living.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was made for her. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was made for her. The former is for ills distinctly feminine, the other for her general system. Together they supply a scientific and successful course of treatment. The "Favorite Prescription" restores healthy, regular action to the organs distinctly feminine. It forces out all impurities, strengthens the tissues, allays inflammation. The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes appetite, helps digestion, promotes assimilation, fills out the hollows in cheeks and neck with good solid flesh and brings back the gladsome glow of girl-

Send 31 cents in one cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Associa-tion, Buffalo, N.Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page common sense medical ADVISER, illustrated.

even in our amusements, that we do not abandon ourselves too much to a life of pleasure, and, carried a way, by such sink into immorality sport and merrical ment are at times allowable; but we must enjoy them as we do sleep and other kinds of the common and the stress we do sleep and other kinds of the common as needeficient of the carried as we do sleep and other kinds of the carried as we do sleep and other kinds of the carried as we do sleep and other kinds of the carried as we do sleep and the carried as a carried as we do sleep and the carried as a carrie ment are at times allowable; but we must see of sleep and I went to bed. Sunday afternoon third a team and called for other kinds of repose when we have not a very interesting falk. By string Hoods Sarispanila you afternoon third a team and called for other kinds of repose when we have not a very interesting falk. By string Hoods Sarispanila you afternoon third a team and called for other wides. We had a very interesting falk wided. CATHOLIC PU about things that concerned not only bit. Johnny (vivaciously)—3y earthquake; there we have not a team and called for other wides. We had a very interesting falk with four blood strong formed our with things that concerned not only bit. Johnny (vivaciously)—3y earthquake; there we have not a team and called for other with the purple. We had a very interesting falk with four holes we will be at the weath of the purple. The week we will be a team and called for other with the purple. We had a very interesting falk with four holes are not at the called for other with the purple. The purple of th

HE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BILL JAMES A OGILVE & SONS ADVBRTISEMENT.

YOUR SHOPPING OGILVY'S.

The b ightest store in the city, where shopping is a comfort, with the aid of the Boyle System of Ventilation, and the new system we adepted of heating and cooling the building, the temperature is always kept at the same degree.

DRESS GOODS.

All Wool Canvas Plaid, nice and cool for sum-ner wear, suitable for Children's Dresses or Ladice' llouses; original prices, &c yard, to be cleared at Zic per yard.

Tweed Dresses in Handsome Two-toned Rucets; value for Fig. to clear at 2°c yard.

Handsome Tweed Dress Materials, regularly sold at 76c, we have marked down to 3°c yard.

BOYS' CLOTHING.

Children and Boys' Crash Norfolk Jackets Children and Buys sizes, 24 to 28. Just the thing for the hot season; price, $1.75.

Boys' Brown Holland Jackets; size 29 to 34; price, $1.59.

Youths' All Wool Tweed Suits, with long trousers; regular price, $7.50; now $4.75.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

Gent's Hemstitched White Silk Handkerchiefs, ours silk. 5 c, to clear at 25c each.

MISSES' BLOUSES.

Blouse weather will be here with a vengeance shortly. In Misses' Blouses, for Warm Weather wear we are showing a beautiful line made in Duck. Chambre. Ginghams, in White or Fancy Effects, all decided povelties, specially imported for our trade, suitable for Misses, 8 to 12 years of Weldon's Patterns in Stock.

MAIL ORDERS A SPECIALTY.

The Largest Exclusive Dry Goods Store in Canada.

St. Catherine & Mountain Sts

Six months ago I was a bachelor and an unbeliever. I didn't believe in love, and I didn't believe in ghosts, and, being 35, I ought to have been wiser.

But I did believe in Bessie Denning. Oh, you needn't begin to smile. Being in love and believing in a person are two dist-net things! She was a pretty girl, and had charge of the ribbon counter in the store where I worked. I boarded on the next street to her home, and simply because I am a social fellow it soon became the regular thing for us to walk home together after work was done. For five months this sort of thing continued, and then—well, grin if you must!—I fancied that Bessie was getting iona oi my company. I began to dream dreams that made my boarding house a howling wilderness, and I decided to ask Bessie a most important question. The very morning I made this decision I found Bessie talking with Bronson, a fellow who had been in the linen department only two weeks. I hated the youngster, who was a conceited puppy, and seemed to think Bessie admired his

When it came time for dinner he waited for Beasie, and as my dinner hour came an hour later I could do nothing to keep him from going with her. It being Saturday we kept open for the evening, and at tea time he went and came with her again.

When 10 o'clock came he hurried after her before my department was covered K and asked if she was going his way. I made no attempt to respond when she looked in my direction ior an answer, and as I left the store I saw them shead of me. How I hated that fellow! I hurried to my room, threw off my coat, seated myself by the fire and thought what an insignificant little cad he was. I told myself Bessie was a flirt and tried not to think of her. I must have been sitting there for an hour when the door suddenly opened and in walked a smil-ing young fellow of about 18. He pulled a chair up to the fire and sat down, asking:

'Are you Jack Herrington?'

I admitted that I was. Deliberately looking me in the eye, he began: 'Well, I just dropped round to tell you that you are the biggest idiot I ever saw."

Sheer astonishment kept my mouth shut and he continued, 'Yes, sir, without exception, you are the biggest fool that I ever met.' That was enough! I wasn't in the mood to stand the insults of a stranger at my own fireside, even if it was a boarding house fire I seized the tongs and aimed a blow at his head. The stroke would have made me a murderer, if in some mysterious manner he had not evaded it. Full of fury at my failure, I made a second attempt and fell headlong. Quickly taking advantage, he seated himself across my knees, held my arms down and went on: "As I was saying, you are the biggest idiot I ever met. You think you are in love with Bessie Denning, do you? Rather expected her to stand on the steps and ask you to go home with her, did you? Well, I am glad she has a little common's use left.

Thoes Extraordinary. At Prices Extraordinary.

MAIL ORDERS GIVEN SPECIAL ATTENTION.

G. Mansfield, 124 St. Lawrence Street.

New Scale

NORDHEIMER

Distinctly art creations. Built on latest principles. Qualified to meet the demands of the most advanced musicians New and striking designs Choicest veneers. Prices very low, grade of pianos considered. Inspection earnestly requested. Also splendid stock of Steinway and Heintzman Pianos.

Lindsay-Nordheimer Co., 2366 St. Catherine Street.

USE ONLY

Finlayson's Linen Thread.

IT IS THE BEST

Willianininininininininin Alphonse Valiquemme & 60.,

... IMPORTERS OF ...

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS

Carpets, Oil Cloths, Glass Ware, China and Crockery Ware, Tin and Steel Enamelled Kitchen Wares, in large varieties, Brooms, Soaps, Etc.

mm

MR. PATRICK McGovern wishes to thank his many friends who have been kind enough to call and make their purchases at the

GREAT AU BON MARCHE,

1883 and 1885 NOTRE DAME STREET,

ALPHONSE VALIQUETTE & CO.

HOW TO SEE THE POINT AND PLACE 1T. Punctuation without Rules of Grammar.

A book of 40 pages, which teaches punctuating rapidly by example. Many people who have studied English, Latin, and Greek Grammar are very careless and slovenly nunctuators. This book is indispensable to all writers. By mail. 20 Cents.

LACONICPUBLISHING CO., 122 Liberty St., N.Y.

CHICKERING

the Great house of CHICKERING has stood Pre-eminent in the manufacture of Artistic Pianos, and to day its product is more appreciated by Artists than ever before.

Karn Pianos

Used and Endorsed by the Principal Musical Institutions of Canada.

D. W. KARN & CO.,

Karn Hall Building.

St. Catherine Street.

CHICKERING

to-morrow and she refused on account of | py. That evening Bessie remarked: "I an engagement that I'm sure never exist | dreamed of my brother Harold last ed. If you happen round there to-mor- night." row and ask her to go you may get a chance to spring that proposal that had a brother, I asked. you've been so long winded about. It 'I don't know why I you've been so long winded about. It if don't know why I never happened may interest you to know that I'm to mention him,' replid Bessie. He was Bessie's brother Harold, and I hope you'll my only brother and he died four years lose some of your conceit before you become my brother in law.'

Here he raised himself and started toward the door, while I got up feeling me give you a bit of advice, and if you rather sheepish. With his hand on the are green enough to think there's no knob he turned and remarked: 'Now, such thing in this world as love, and that I'm off to advise Bess to go to bed and ghosts are seen only in nightmare quit worrying over your hatefulness. Taquit worrying overyour nateratives.

ta! Better go to bed yourself, as it's are wiser. You'll find it embarrassing the Better midnight, and you ought to take when you come to change your mind as after midnight, and you ought to take I did after the only visit I ever received. care of yourself for Bessie's sake. Mind you don't tell her I called!' The door closed with a bang, and I was alone again. Astonished? Well, a fool of myself. "Harold," I repeated, "I didn't know Bessie had a brother.

Why didn't you ever tell me that you ago, when he was 18. Do I belive I saw a ghost? Well, sir, I bave seen what I have seen. Just let dreams, just hold your tongue till you are wiser. You'll find it embarrassing from 'My Future Brother in Lay.'-Box-

The communicating of a man's life to rather. I was conscious of having made his friend works two contrary effects, for it redoubleth joys and cutteth griefs in half; for there is no man that imparteth Wish I'd given him a more brotherly his joys to his friend, but he joyeth the greeting. I'd no idea I showed her how more and no man that imparteth his grief ugly I felt. Crying By Jove, I wish I could go to her now!"

Bacon.

Notre Dame Street. Montreal's Greatest Store.

The accuracy of our Wail Order organization during recent rears is well known. A blunder occasionally—the means are human-but so seldom that the D partment is known as having a model system. Success proves it. We shall lift it this year above its own level, so that what has been good service before -far above the average-will be excellent now.

BLACK GOODS SPECIAL.

The Black Goods Store news never was more interesting, and you'll do well to inspect the two specials which the Big Store offers on Monday.

1500 Yards Black French Crepons the balance of the makers' stock and not a yard of it worth less than 45 cents; it came to us in a nurely commercial way through the influence of ready money. The Big Store offers it on Monday at 29 cents. 1,200 Fancy French Brocaded Crepons, rich raised effects in brilliant black mohair; this belongs to the kind that sells at $1.25, and are good value at that price. Still the Big Store yields to the spirit of quick selling and offers them

THE S. CARSLEY CO., Limited.

NEW SHIRT WAISIS.

To see the vast crowds that filled our Shirt Waist Section during the past week, you'd be convinced of the Carsley leadership in these dainty garments.

Ladies' Muslin Shirt Waists, in green, blue and pink effect, pointed yoke back, full front, detachable collar and cuffs.

Special price, 75 cents.
The irresistible plaid muslin Shirt Waist, in blue and yellow, green and mauve effects, beautifully made, pointed yoke back, full detachable white collar and cuffs. Special price. $1.15. Stylish Shirt Waist, from 35 cents.

THE S. CARSLEY CO, Limited.

SUMMER SKIRTS.

Hundreds of these special skirts were sold, but the Big Store has an inexhaustible supply. Ladies Fancy Pique Outing Skirts. cut very full and with wide hem, splendid value at 59 cents. Ladies' Duck Outing Skirts, in white grounds with small figures and polks dots Special price, 89 cents. Ladice' Pure Linen Outing Skirts cut full sweep and very wide hem. splendid latest Effects, light as a butterfly's wing value at $2 25. Special price, $1.85.

Indications point to a prompt and vigorous demand for these goods on Mon-day. The cautious will make their

COLORED DRESS GOODS.

FANCY BROCHE DRESS GOODS, in handsome raised effects, in the richest of colorings 30 cents.

NEW MOHAIRS—Special shot effects, smart and graceful styles, new patterns and great favorites, 38 cents.

'NEW CREPES'—In changeable col. ors, bright and pleasing to the eye, eco. nomical to the purse and satisfactory wear. There's absolute appreciation in every piece. Special, 42 cents.

THE S. CARSLEY CO., Limited.

SUMMER HOSIERY,

For Ladice and Children some remark. able values are on the catalogue of special events for Monday.

Lidies' Black Cashmere Hese, special tummer weight, 18 cents a pair Ladies' Black Cashmere Hese, full fashioned, spliced feet, fast dye, special price 25 cents. Ladies' Fast Black Cotton Hose, Fast Dre, full fashioned and very flexible, 120, Ladies' Fancy Embroidered Hose, pretty designs in light colors. Special price 23 cents.

THE S. CARSLEY CO., Limited.

SUMMER MUSLIN.

You'll make a mistake if you don't look at these dainty muslins; they're as light and airy as moonlight mist and soft as thistledown.

MOUSSELINE D'ITALIE.—The dain. ties of the dainty things for Summer wear. Special price. 9 cents.

MOUSSELINE DORGANDIE. - The lightest and coolest of fabrics. Special MOUSSELINE DE PARIS-GAY and Bright in styles that's typical of the gay capital. Special price, 21 cents.

MOU-SELINE D'ORIENT, in all the

and of rarest beauty. Special price, 27c, Write for Summer Catalogue. .. Mail Orders Carefully Filled.

1765 to 1783 Notre Dame St.

:. 184 to 194 St. James St., Montreal.

***************************** "It is every man's duty to his family and to himself to buy where he can buy the lowest to buy where his dollar will bring him the biggest value." -FRANK A. MUNSEY, at Ottawa, 10th March, 1893.

RIGAUD WOOD

Satisfies all these requirements. An extra large load of good wood at a cheap price-commends itself to every economical housekeeper.

> Kindling Wood, per load, $1.50 44 2.00 Hard Maple 2.25

RIGAUD MILLING CO.,

Bell Telephone 396.

653 ST. PAUL STREET.

$\mathcal{A}\mathcal{N}D$ $\mathcal{A}\mathcal{C}\mathcal{A}D\mathcal{E}\mathcal{M}Y$ .

CONGREGATION DE NOTRE DAME. Corner Bagot and Johnston Streets, KINGSTON, ONTARIO.

For terms, etc., apply to MOTHER SUPERIOR.

FIRST COMMUNION.

PICTURES FOR FIRST COMMUNION FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

 Size
 22 x 18 with figures of the Sacred Heart
 72c per doz.

 12 x 18 with emblems
 60

 20 x 12
 40

 6½ x 10
 20

FIRST COMMUNION ROSARIES.

In Mother of Pearl Silver Chain $1.00 each and In Mother of Pearl Silver plated Chain, 25c each and upwards, Imitation Pearl Beads, 75c, 90c, $1.00 and $1.20 Plain Wood Beads, 30c, 44c, 50c, 60c, 75c and 9sc per dcz.

White Bone Beads, 90c, $1.00 and $1.25 per dcz.
Plain Wood Beads, 30c, 44c, 50c, 60c, 75c and 9sc per dcz.

PRAYER BOOKS.

White Covers, at 75c, $1:00, $1:25, $1:50, $2:00 and $3.00 each.
Dark Morocco Covers, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1:00 and upwards.
Cheap Books, at 90c, $1.20, $1.50, $1:80 per doz.
Sanctuary Oil, best Quality. incense, charcoal, gas lighters

Headquarters for the best grades of Candles in pure Wax Stearine and Paraine.

JACQUES CARTIER BANK.

DIVIDEND No. 65.

NOTICE is hereby given that a dividend of two and a half (24) per cent, for the current six mouth, equal to a dividend of 5 per cent. per annum, has been declared on the pald-up espital of this institution, and will be payable at the office of the Bank at Montreal, on and after Wednesday, June 1st next.

The transfer books will be closed from May 17th to May 31st inclusive. The general annual meeting of the Shareholden will be held at the office of the Bank at Montrest, on Wednesday, June lêth next, at noon.

By order of the Board of Dirrectors. TANOREDE BIENVENU, General Manager

LA BANQUE VILLE MARIE.

NOTICE is hereby given that a Dividend of three per cent. for the current half-year (making a total for the year of Six per cent) apon the paid up total for the year of Six per cent) apon the paid up to the total for the same will be payable at its Banking House in this city, and at its Branches, on and after the same will be payable at its Banking House in this city, and at its Branches, on and after the same will be payable at its Branches. Wednesday, the 1st Day of June next. The Transfer Books will be closed from the litb to Slat of May next, both days inclusive.
The Annual General Meeting of the Share holders will be held at its Head Office on Tuesday, the 21st day of June next, at noon.

By order of the Board, W. WEIR, President

AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN

Allan, Dominion and Beaver Lines.