REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL

The KING OF DIAMONDS

By LOUIS TRACY

Author of "The Sign of the Cross," "The Pillar of Light," etc. Copyrighted by Melrose & Allen, Toronto.

(Continued.) "Glory be to God, Phil but it's myself glad to see ye," cried his old friend. "Where have ye bin at all at all? Have ye heard what the murtherin' War Office is a doin' to me? I haven't had a soul to speak to about the trouble they've put on me in me own age. This was not strictly accurate. O'Brien had posted the whole neighborhood with the story of his withdrawal pension and the preposterous claim made on him by some red-tape enthusiast in Pall Mall. But his plaint effectively stopped all further reference to Philip's disappearance. As to the "bit o' stone," that was "a wad o' alum nor lime," he hadn't a word to say. Philip borrowed a spade, a small sweeping brush and a strong sack without evoking the slightest comment from the prisoner, who discoursed incessantly on the iniquity of the "Government," and whose farewell remark dealt with the attempt to rob him of a "hundred golden sov'ns."

Decidedly, he was in luck's way. He had secured some necessary implements without attracting any attention. Watching a favorable opportunity, he slipped unperceived into the gloom of the passage. He tried the door of No. 3. It was locked. He inserted the key and entered. The darkness within was that of a cellar, but he dumped his impedimenta on the floor and locked the door behind him. Then he groped his doubtful path to the mantelpiece where he had left a candle and a box of matches. His boots crunched, as he went on what he knew to be mostly diamonds, and he stumbled over the mattress in front of the fireplace. Yes, the candle was there. Soon he had a light. The tiny gleam lifted the black curtain, and he surveyed his domain. A single glance showed him that all things remained exactly as he left them on Saturday morning. The packet of letters rested on the broken chair, the old sock was stuffed into the window, and the rope that never-to-be-forgotten rope-dangled from the hook to which he had fastened it. The sight brought a lump into his throat. He knelt by his knees, pressed down, he felt by some superior power. "Mother!" he said, humbly, "forgive me, and ask God to forgive me, for what I would have done were you not watching over me."

he persevered. By strenuous endeavors he accumulated an astonishing pile of iron ore shavings with diamonds, looking not unlike almonds in a brown cake, and the guttering candle held low down failed to reveal anything else in the hole. There was a good deal of debris at the bottom, and the depth was now over four feet. To reach to its full extent he was compelled to jam his head and shoulders into the excavation and feel blindly with one hand, so he rightly concluded that a final examination might be left until daylight. By this time he was hot and covered with dirt. He stripped, washed himself in front of the fire, and changed into his new clothes. He did not possess a looking-glass, but he felt sure that he presented a remarkably different appearance when attired in a neat serge suit, a clean shirt and respectable bootee. His first impulse was to thrust his discarded garments into the fire, but sentiment prevailed, and he folded them into a parcel. Then he extinguished his candle and went out. To his exceeding surprise he discovered that it was nearly nine o'clock—time had indeed flown. The shops in the Mile End Road open early and close late. These consisted of a restaurant where he was unknown, passing, as a matter of policy, the coffee stall of his kindly helper of those crowded memories. After eating a hearty meal, for which he was thoroughly prepared, he tendered a sovereign in payment. The proprietor barely glanced at him. Philip was now well dressed, according to local ideas, and his strong, erect figure, his resolute face, added two or three years to his age when contrasted with the puny standard of fifteen as set by the poverty-stricken East End. He had forgotten to buy a necktie and a new pair of stockings. These necessities he now rectified, and he also purchased a warm, dark-gray traveling rug, several yards of druggist, a ball of string, a pair of scissors. A couple of stout but worn leather portmanteaux caught his eye. "These are cheap," said the salesman, quickly, "only fifteen shillings each." "I'm not sure I can afford so much," said Philip, hesitatingly, for the rug alone cost one pound six shillings. "They're a rare bargain—real leather—they were never made under three pounds." "Oh, very well. I will take them." He produced three pounds, got change, and walked away with his goods without causing any wonderment. The shopman was only too glad to have such customer at that late hour. Philip now knew that he was fairly safe, but he decided that a billy-cock hat, a cap, this alteration being effected, he hurried off to Johnson's Mevs and re-entered his domicile without incident worthy of note. (To be Continued.)

SPENT FOUR MONTHS IN CANADIAN WILDERNESS

Engineer Bedford Tells of Hardships Endured by Builders of Transcontinental Railroad—Temperature 50 Below Zero.

St. Louis, August 11.—After spending four months of Arctic winter in the extreme northern part of Canada, over 500 miles from the northern confines of civilization, where until three years ago few white men had ever penetrated, George Bedford, superintendent of the J. H. Reynolds Construction Company, and a former St. Louisian, is visiting friends here before returning to spend three years more in the Arctic wilderness. Mr. Bedford is in charge of the construction of a portion of 100 miles of the Transcontinental Railroad which is being built under the direction of the Canadian government. He and 100 workmen have been confronted by almost insuperable difficulties in carrying forward this work. "The region in which we have been working is the thickest bush country," he said Mr. Bedford. "We have been compelled to cut our way, step by step, through almost impenetrable undergrowth. "The cold in that region is intense. A temperature of 30 degrees below zero is nothing unusual. When I arrived last March at McDougall Chutes, the nearest settlement to Perry Sound, where our work is being done, I had made no preparations for the climate, and was clad

Of Interest to You AND ALL TYPEWRITER USERS.

THERE'S a whole lot of things for a Typewriter to do in modern office work that weren't even thought of five years ago. There's a number of Typewriters on the market, designed for the needs of that time, that were counted pretty good machines then but have only been adapted to modern methods by alterations and costly attachments. Make shift! You need a typewriter with all the modern devices—built into it, not attachments, additions or alterations—which will do the new things as easily as straight writing.

The L. C. SMITH AND BROS. TYPEWRITER (writing-in-sight) is the one typewriter that does all these difficult things in an easy way, and economically. When you have bought it you haven't got to go down in your wallet again to pay for attachments to fit it for your work. It will be money in your pocket to look at. Perhaps the most profitable fifteen minutes ever spent. At any rate you can't stand to loose more than your time for the look doesn't cost you anything. Neither does the demonstration.

Some New Features.

- BALL-BEARING TYPEBARS.—It's no secret that nearly all typewriter makers worried over that problem without success and that it remained for us to make a really satisfactory application of the principal. The Gardner Ball-Bearing does the trick. That's one of the invaluable new features.
OUR AUTOMATIC RIBBON REVERSE is another. Not an ounce of added key tension, not a bit of strain to tear the ribbon. The ribbons last their natural lifetime.

NAPLES AT NICKEL TODAY

The distinguishing new feature at the Nickel today, aside from the Humanov Company's fine production, will be a picturesque tour of the loveliest city in all Italy, historic Naples, with its crescent-shaped shore, its hanging gardens and angry mountainous background where Vesuvius still spatters. Then there will be three delicious comedies of that pleasing French vintage—A Cumbrous First Prize, Son-in-law on two days of the Quebec Tercentenary pictures with no hint of comedy in the programme, these little laugh-fests will prove a refreshing bit. The Humanov Co., which has been delighting everybody with his Raffes drama, A Gentleman Bargain, will give the final presentation of this piece today and Thursday will start with a farce of the most laughable kind entitled The Book Agent. Miss Emma Felix has maintained her hold upon Nickelgoers as she did last summer and her song, Just One Word of Consolation is winning lots of plaudits. OUTING COSTUMES ARE THE ACME OF SIMPLICITY.

As the first mission of an outing costume is to be absolutely comfortable, it is not amazing that the pleated or plain shirtwaist and walking skirt remain in favor. Among the many pretty and comparatively inexpensive lightweight materials employed for this purpose none are better than the tropical serge, which come in white striped with gray, dark blue, black, brown or navy. In some instances the skirts are made similarly to those of duck or pique, and usually the blouses close in front, as they are then easily and quickly adjusted. A touch of color may be added by means of satin or linen collar, cuffs, belt and tie.

BRITISH SUPREMACY

The swift passage of the British cruiser Indomitable across the Atlantic has been the cause of much discussion, and once more emphasizes Britain's naval supremacy. The press of the United States is prone to assure the people that for the real thing in cruisers, warships or anything else the world should look to Uncle Sam, but there are honorable exceptions.

"Thirteen years ago the United States made a trial of the commerce-destroyer Columbia, from the British shore to New York, a land to land race for a record, and the ship averaged rather more than eight knots for the trip, a performance at that time widely noted as remarkable in a man-of-war, and due to the special qualities of the vessel. For a long time the Columbia's race has remained untouched, but it has now been relegated to the category of the almost primitive, speed of the British armored cruiser, which carried the Prince of Wales home from Quebec at such a gait as to make the event epochal in naval history.

"It must be admitted that our naval designers seem strangely content with moderate speed, and seldom originate. They are satisfied, apparently, to copy. Even our destroyers do not equal the speed which most nations consider the attainable maximum. We are building 28-knot destroyers at the time when Great Britain has the Swift at sea, which has recently done 38 knots an hour. Naval opinion has long been disconcerted by the policy of the Navy Department in this respect.

Reactionary operations starting yesterday in the stock market interrupted by short covering rallies and specialty operations, all of which will present confusing cross currents and one in which the daily operators will get the best results by following the individual technical position.

On breaks there is likely to be found support and bull turns may be made by purchases discriminatingly made at such times. Technical requirements demand a temporary reactionary operation.

The Lawson ad. today throws more light on his objective which is evidently an effort to sell the Ray State stock by a sensational method. Bryan speech will be printed sometime to-day, but as it is pretty well known it will be necessary to ascertain the digest of public opinion after publication before the real market interpretation can be had.

Commerce this morning says the grocery trade shows improvement throughout the country especially in the west and central states on the low July exports. The statement by the head of the Pennsylvania, that no freight rate advance is intended at this time shows the tendency of the news to become darker.

HOW MORSE ROSE FROM THE RUINS

Apparently He Was Only a Figurehead for Other Capitalists Who Had Planned to Capture the Bank of North America.

(New York American.)

A new Federal indictment against Charles W. Morse yesterday led to the revelation of the secret of his ability to pay in full the $2,000,000 of deposits in his National Bank of North America within six months of the date, when he, an alleged bankrupt and fugitive from justice, was brought back to this city by the police.

Some weeks ago a circular letter sent by Morse to the directors of the wrecked bank offering to redeem in full, on demand, the certificates of deposit sent to them by the United States receiver, astonished Wall St. It was believed that the former Mr. King and that one more he was on the high road to becoming a multi-millionaire.

The celebrity with which he had risen from the ruins was regarded as little more than a figurehead for other capitalists who had planned to capture the bank of North America.

Many of the smaller depositors jumped at the opportunity to obtain their money in full at once. A waiting list for it to be paid in installments by the receiver as he realized the assets, Morse's interests applied to the Government for permission to place in the hands of the receiver a sufficient amount of the bank's assets to take care of the bank and complete the liquidation of the bank.

That decision dashed the hopes of the receivers of the bank, who were among the bank's assets, and it was held to be a business done for themselves.

Such was the condition of Morse's affairs yesterday when the United States receiver handed over another indictment against Morse to the Government for the liquidation of the bank of North America.

The alleged falsities concern seven and a half millions of dollars, and which were recorded in the bank books of the bank.

THE OPPORTUNITIES for thrifty mothers are very great at this time of the year. You will find ends of pretty cottons, lincens and other wash goods for children's dresses that will cost you just half.

HAIR FOR 'RATS.' The Pacific liner Siberia, reaching port last night, had on board as part of the cargo queues of dead Chinamen to the value of nearly $35,000. The queues, which are for the most part those of executed criminals, are to be used in the manufacture of 'rats' for women's hair. Dealers say that such goods are now being exclusively used. It is rather startling to learn that the locks of some noted Chinese criminals will form the foundation of 'mild' hair.

Under an amendment to the Canada Shipping Act assented to July 20, 1908, steam yachts, whether propelled by gas, fluid, naphtha, or electric motors will be obliged to carry a life preserver for each person on board and one life buoy. Small yachts and launches under five tons can carry passengers without a passenger or inspector's certificate, provided they take the above precautions against fire.

Rev. Dr. S. F. Huettis and Mrs. Huettis will leave on Wednesday for an extended trip. They anticipate an absence of three months, first paying a visit to their daughter, Mrs. Dawson, wife of the Rev. Mr. Dawson, Miramichi, N. B., and the doctor will attend the meeting of the General Mission Board of the Methodist church, of which he is a member.

Last week, on the return of Mrs. Mosher from Toronto, Boston and New York, he assumed the duties of boat steward.—Halifax Chronicle, Aug. 12.

The most interesting time of year to many, and particularly the thousands through the country, who choose this as the most convenient time for their annual visit to the city, is exhibition week, the dates for which are so very rapidly approaching. There are hundreds, probably as yet who do not know the dates, and this because many fail to take a personal interest in the big show. Many there are who regard it as simply an opportunity to criticize the efforts of those who sacrifice their time for the good of the community and province. If every citizen, from the largest manufacturer down to the small boy, who has but a dollar to spend, would take a personal interest, and feel that it was their own particular show, and that a failure reflected just as much upon them personally as citizens, as upon those directly interested, there would be a working together that could not but result in making the coming show from September 12th to September 19th a credit to St. John and her citizens.

SLIGHTLY IN ERROR

The tug Dirigo, lying at Dunn's wharf, in Carleton, sprang a leak Monday night and filled with water before Tuesday morning. Last night the workmen were busy locating the leak and emptying the tug of the water it contained. The tug is owned by A. B. Ruddick. (Sun.)

The above item which appeared in the Sun this morning is slightly in error. The facts of the matter are that the Dirigo did not spring a leak yesterday. The Dirigo's owner informs the Times that there has been a slight leak in that tug for at least 4 years and yesterday workmen started to locate the leak. They filled the boat with water put her on the mud and at low tide discovered the leak. The tug is now in good condition. Incidentally the Dirigo is not owned by A. B. Ruddick. Aside from these trifling corrections the item is almost accurate.

WOMAN MAY BE A "FIRE BUG"

Mrs. Georgiana Sneed Arraigned in Police Court This Morning Charged With Setting Fires in Union Alley.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Georgiana Sneed, a colored woman, arrested last night, charged with incendiarism in setting fire to the house of Philip Bushfan, her father in Union alley, was commenced at the police court this morning.

The first witness examined was Philip Bushfan. He stated that he owned the houses No. 1 and No. 3 Union alley. Mrs. Sneed is his daughter. She has lived alone of late in a house opposite Bushfan's. Approximately three weeks ago he heard her declare "after you go to bed you might find yourselves in a blaze."

Last night at 10.30 he heard Mrs. Sneed addressing Mrs. McAleer, her sister, and his daughter in unseemly terms. Afterwards Bushfan heard her say that "she'd wait until they were all nicely in."

At 11.15 he opened a window in his house and saw the Sneed woman running across the alley.

He then saw the blaze and hurried out. The gate attached to the vestibule of No. 1 house was afire but with the aid of several neighbors he succeeded in extinguishing it before it became dangerous.

He went for a policeman and when he arrived the woman had barricaded her door and refused to open it. The officer climbed through a window and arrested her.

Bushfan was compelled to expel her from his house in time as she was continually using abusive and profane language to her mother.

Mrs. Sneed threw stones into his house at her mother and he came in time to see her running away.

Mrs. Sneed's wife, the first witness and mother of the prisoner was next sworn. She had heard her daughter threaten to blow them up in smoke and in addition to kill her. Mrs. Bushfan corroborated all her husband's testimony.

The prisoner asked her if she did not sleep three nights in the alley after she was ejected from the house.

Mrs. Mabel McAleer, another sister, said that the prisoner designated her as a "devil with horns" and proceeded to pick up stones to "knock them off" as she declared. The witness ejected her sister from her domicile recently.

George Hector heard her abuse Mrs. McAleer last night when she was arrested. Policeman Sullivan testified concerning the arrest. He said a man named Groves informed him that the blaze illuminated the alley. All the residents in the alley were excited when he arrived. The woman is believed to be unaccounted for.
