British North America.

In point of territory, the Confederation of British North America would be about equal to the present extent of the United States. The Toronto Leader even claims for it a little superiority, estimating the territory of the British North America at 2 933,078 English square miles, and maintaining that the territory of the United States, the extent of which it says is genrally overrated by their inhabitants, is found on a critical examination not to exceed 2,364,450. We deem it unnecessary to the United States, if they retain their present territory, and British North America, if this proposed union can be effected, will both rank among the most extensive countries of the world; but that, in point of population, our Northern neighbour must, m climatic reasons, remain forever considerably behind the United States.

The largest portions of British North America are the Hudson's Bay territory, which the Toronto Leader sets down at 2 300,600 square miles, the two Canadas the estimates of whose area vary from 200. 000 to 300,000 square miles, and British Columbia, which is roughly estimated at 200,000 square miles. Two of these, the Hudson's Bay Territory and British Columbia, have been hitherto only of commercial, not of political importance. Trustentirely wanting. But both are beginning to play their part in the history of the American Continent. British Columbia has especially attracted the attention of the world by its newly discovered gold fields. It has received its own Governor and its own Anglican Bishop; and it has begun its life as a distinct British American colony. From documents laid before the English Parliament during 1863, it appears that 75 emigrants left the United Kingdom in 1862 for British Columbia, and 1,119, for Vancouver's Island, Two useful roads had been commenced, one from Lillooet and one from Yale, both terminating at Alexandria from its navigation, From Lillooet about 128 miles of road have been compleated at a cost of $190,000, Gold continues to be abundantly found, though many of the old spots are abandoned, and Carriboo is now the chief place for mining operations, where in one locality the produce is said to be $2,000 per running foot of land.

The immense tracts of land belonging to the Hudson's Bay Territory are also likely to assume greater importance than they have possessed heretofore. The Company inends to open up to colonization a large tract of country in the south portion of the territory, containing some 60,000 square miles and of remarkable fertility. It is expected that this land will be settled from Upper Canada, for a much larger number of per sons are now interested in this question tha heretofore, owing to the reorganization of the proprietary of the Hudson's Compan a more popular basis.

For the present, no one in British Au erica, appears to think of the possibility immediately uniting the possessions on th Pacific with those on the Atlantic. There is still a large, uninhabited wilderness be tween them, extending over more than thousand miles, which will take a long tin to span with scattered inhabitants of civilized men. But, even if for the present the Confederation must confine itself to the provinces on the Atlantic side, it would em brace territories more extensive than those of Germany and Spain taken together, or than the united territories of France, Italy, Portugal, and Greece, and it would contain ample space for a great empire.

The English press duly appreciate the in portance of the proposal of a Confederation They regard it as the first and enormous step towards independence. They are preparing themselves for an applicant on the part of the American colonies for peaceful secession. The liberal papers find this quite natural. The Spectator thinks that in either Houses of Parliament not tive votes will be given against peacful secession, and not a voice raised "for coercing them the people of British North America -or fighting them, or bribing them, or doing anything else in connection with them, except withdrawing the large fleet or small army now paid for their defense." That journal even advises the Ministry to bring forward a law "decreeing that any British Canada, colony numbering a million of English speaking inhabitants may, by a vote of it Parliament, rarified by an appeal to the electors ad hoc, or by a two thirds majority without such appeal, declare itself free and independent."

That the day is rapidly approaching who all the large colonies of Great Britain wi declare themselves independent, no far-se ing statesman at present denies. But law expressly conferring upon the colonists the right of declaring themselves indepen-dent would relieve the Government and the people of Great Britain of a great deal that bitterness which otherwise would cer N. Outrages in Hamilton. ROBBERY OF $850.

(From the Times.) We are sorry to say that the past week has added to the list of crimes in this city. in two instances of more than ordinary outrages and audacity. We were in possession of the main facts connected with both outrages a few days ago, but refrained from publishing them hoping that the police might the better succeed in arresting the criminals. On Friday night last, shortly after 12 o'clock, Mr. William Sanderson had locked up his establishment on King street, and was proceeding homewards, when on the corner of Wellington and Barton streets he was felled to the ground by a powerful blow on the left side of his face, he lay for a short time senseless, and when the powers of perception returned he found that his pockets had been searched. Fortunately he had no money on his person, and even his gold watch had been left the preceding day with a watchmaker to be repaired, so that the robber or robbers obtained no booty whatever. The night was very dark, and as Mr. Sanderson knows that he could not indentify the person who struck him, it is feared that the scoundrel will go unwhipped of justice. Even after he had fallen the ruffians struck him several times with slung shot, and inflicted such severe injuries that Mr. Sanderson was confined to his house for the workmen are paid weekly by Mr. John upon which he was pounced upon by both men, one of whom "throttled" him and rendered him incapable of shouting for assistance. Shooting Match.

during the summer senson at this port, and increased and flourished.

A very interesting Rifle Match took place at Mohr's Corners, Fitzrov, on Saturday last, for a purse of twenty dollars, between 20 men of Captain Dunnet's Company, o Pakenham Rifles, and 20 men of Captain Fraser's Company of Fitzroy Light Infantry. The ground chosen for the match-a field of Mr. Riddle's-was in every way suitable. The firing commenced at 11 a. m., and continued to 1 p. m., when a heavy rain-storm obliged the firing party to seek shelter; at ing 12 points alead. Shortly after three o'clock firing was resumed, but from some first time cause the Rifles did not make as good shooting as they had done in the morning. I man, That the by-law now read be read here remark that the ground was entirely strange to them. The ranges were 200 and time and passed. 400 yards, five shots at each. The Match was concluded at 6:30, when Drill Sergt. Conway declared the result to be in favour of Fitzrey Company by 30 points. Sub. ioined is the score, which, taking into account the strong wind which prevailed the greater part of the day, preventing in great measure accurate aim being taken reflects great credit on both companies. Captain Dunnet, on behalf of his company then challenged the Fitzroy Company to a that he hoped the Infantry would be no worse shots, but at the same time he hoped that the Rifles would beat them a good score. The challenge, after some deliberation, was accepted by Capt. Fraser on be

THE LOSSES AT THE BATTLE OF THE 22ND JULY. New York, August 10,-The N. Y. Triune's special, at Harper's Ferry, gives the articulars of Averill's victory

Jeneral Averill attacked the combined forces of McCausland, Johnson, Gilmore, and McNeil, on the morning of the 7th, and after a spirited fight completely routed heir entire command, capturing all their stidery, 4 pieces, and a vast quantity o small arms, 400 horses and equipments, and 420 prisoners, including 6 field and 32 company officers. McCausland, with his comand, had fled to the mountains. Our loss comparatively small, being 7 killed and wounded. Among our killed are Major Congress and 1st Lieut. Clarke, of the 3rd Virginia cavalry. They were struck down while gallantly heading a charge. Captain Keri was severely wounded while penetrating the coemy's lines.

The Tribune's Washington special says Chief Engineer Latimer, who arrived this morning from the fleet off Mobile, reports that when he left, active preparations were being made for immediate action by Admiral Farragut. He describes Fort Morgan as a brick structure, on the Sumter plan, and banked up, as an additional preventive, with sand, so that the front is considered impregnable, but that being once passed, it can readily he reduced by an attack from the

To the right of the 20th corps' head-quarter, one may distinctly view the operations of groups of men and women on the roof's and elevations beyond the city. We are somewhat puzzled at the stubborn front presented by the enemy.

Gen. Hood has been dreadfully worried since our encroachments commenced, and has experienced three disastrous defeats, in which, according to the rebel newspapers he has sustained a loss of 26,000 men. Yet he keeps up a bold front and stands his ground to the great dissatisfaction of our skirmish line, which made three unsuccessful attempts to advance yesterday.

absence, bethought himself of a method of fornishing her with something to do until his return. He accordingly took the monkey on his lap, dressed her in a gay gown, which had served as a model in one of his pictures a marquise of the time of Louis XV, painted her cheeks white and red, with a black patch under one eye, powdered her head, hung a string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of beads round her neck, and then, having seated her on the floor, in the string of and then, having seated her on the floor, in a corner of the utelier, put a small looking-glass into her hand and left her, not without some misgiving, and promising himself not to be long away. But instead of redetained all night, and only got home next morning. He rushed to the atelier in terror expecting everything upside down, and half his pictures spoiled.

"I really must get rid of Nounine!" said the artist to himself, as he anxiously unlocked the door of the studio, "for I cannot let my work remain at the little wretch's

But to his surprise and relief, he found her sound asleep, exactly where he had placed her, and holding the looking-glass firmly in her hands. Not a thing had been touched by her in the artists absence.

"The fact is, "continued the cynic," that the ugly little beast, as vain as her sex entitles her to be, had been so enraptured with her own beauty, and that of her finery, that she had remained, through the entire day, absorbed in the contemplation of her charming self in the little looking-glass. Now tell me, "he added, triumphantly, appealing to his listeners," does anybody be ieve that a male monkey would have passed a whole afternoon in gazing at himself in a mirror, and can anybody doubt, after such proof to the contrary, that vanity is not the ruling passion of the female sex?"

Ran over by the Cars.

Herod, Coroner, held an inquest at Tobin's Hotel, Rockwood, on Friday and Saturday last, upon the body of Alexander McFadgeon, of Erin, who was killed on Thursday by being run over by the cars. From the evidence taken at the inquest it appears deseased was the worse of liquor, and started between six and seven o'elock in the evening to walk down the track. The next morning the foreman of the track with his men were going to work, and when about two miles east of Rockwood station they found deceased lying on the side of the track dead. Dr. Perkins made a post mortem examination, and gave it as his opinion that the injury to the ribs, scapula and langs was such that must have been caused from severe violence as would be most likely to occur by a train coming in violent contact with the deceased. The following is the verdict: "From the evidence produced before us we are of opinion that the deceased McFadgeon, came to his death whilst in state of intoxication, from injuries received from a train coming in contact with him while lying or sitting upon the track." Deceased was between 50 and 60 years of age. -Guelph Advertises.

Death from Lightning.
