ORTH LANARK LIBERALS.
k, Ont., Feb. 8.—At a meeting of Lanark Reform Association held ay Mr. Chas. Mohr resigned his s nominee of the Liberal party on f his holding the office of postnder the Dominion Government.
M M. Fraser, of Almonte, was una usly nominated as the Liberal stan -bearer in the coming contest.

NORTH LANARK.
L ARK, Feb. 18.—At a meeting of the North Lanark Reform Association held here to-day Mr. Charles Mohr resigned his positions nominee of the Liberal party, on acco of his holding the office of post-mas under the Dominion Government.
Mr ohr was a strong candidate and was cer of election, but he had received assu es that the fact of his holding the p n of postmaster would be used against h the eleventh hour. He also felt conthat his resignation would not be ed by the present Postmaster-Gen-time for the purposes of the election.
esignation as their candidate was ac-d by the Liberals with the deepest
t. The association, however, at once d enthusiastically and to a man upon Donald M. Fraser, of Almonte, as his had stood most prominent, next to Mohr's, at the first convention. Mr.
r is a clever young man, a vigorous er, and, being popular with all classes ghout North Lanark, there is scarcely bt but he will redeem the riding by a majority notwithstanding the gerryer and the late date at which he has placed in the field.

TRULY TRANSPARENT.
NGSTON, Feb. 18.—The opening of the dock at this juncture, when it was n out that work would not be resumed re April, and the proposed building of ge barge by the Montreal Transporta-Company, after it had been stated that arge work of this sort would be done winter, can only be considered as es to catch workingmen. These schemes too transparent to be successful.

ALGOMA.
AULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 18.—Mr. D. F.
k, of Port Arthur, has received the nimous Liberal nomination for Algoma.
greatest gathering of Liberals ever as-bled in Algoma met at Sault Ste. Marie night and unanimously ratified the mination.

DUNDAS.
MORRISBURG, Feb. 18.—The largest and st enthusiastic convention ever held by Liberals in Dundas county took place
Winchester Springs to-day. A. J. La-mme was re-elected president; G. R.
w, secretary; George Elliot, treasurer.
me nineteen names were proposed as ndidates, including the old war horses
Chamberlain, A. J. Laflamme, Adam hnston and G. P. Graham. Speeches re made by all the candidates, and it aparing that Mr. Johnston was strongest ong the number he was induced to ac-pt the nomination, which decision was eeted with deafening cheers. Mr. Pat-llo, of Woodstock, made a rattling ad-ess. Never was the party here in better hting trim, and the prospects are bright a victory for reciprocity and Johnston
March 5.

WEDNESDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

The list of candidates who will take part the coming contest is almost completed. In East Grey Dr. Sproule is opposed by Mr. John Clark, president of the Farmers' Institute. In North Lanark it was found that Mr. Charles Mohr, the Liberal candidate was ineligible, being a postmaster, and Mr. D. M. Fraser, of Almonte, has been nominated in his stead. In Algoma Mr. D. F. Burk is again the Reform standard-bearer. Dundas Reformers have nominated Mr. Adam Johnston, of Morrisburg. East York Conservatives have nominated Mr. W. F. Maclean, but Mr. E. A. Macdonald says he is still in the field. East Durham Equal Righters have nominated Mr. Samuel Grandy, of Cavan.

AN ENGLISH TORY CAMPAIGN DODGE REBUKED.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—In the debate on Mr. Hoard Vincent's motion for an Imperial conference to consider closer commercial relations between the colonies and Britain, Mr. Goschen, on behalf of the Ministry, very strongly rebuked the attempts of some speakers to make party capital for Sir John Macdonald out of the debate. Mr. Goschen declared that no inferences ought to be drawn from the debate to the effect that the House desired to influence the Canadian people to vote on one side or the other. Englishmen would dislike, if not resent, any such influence from colonists during our elections. He trusted that whatever happened in the elections on either side all parties would feel convinced of the loyalty of the Canadian people towards this country.

EAST GREY.

CLARKSBURG, Feb. 18.—The Liberals of East Grey held a mass meeting at Kimberley yesterday, and John Clark, of St. Vincent, was selected as their standard-bearer. Mr. Clark is a successful farmer, about 45 years of age, Canadian by birth, of Scotch descent, a Presbyterian, and for many years prominently identified with Sunday school work in the county. He is also president of the North Grey Farmers' Institute, and will make an excellent representative.

EAST DURHAM EQUAL RIGHTERS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 18.—The Equal Rights convention met here to-day to select a candidate to contest East Durham. Mr. Samuel Grandy, of Cavan, was the unanimous choice of the convention. The Equal Righters are confident that they will score another victory on the 5th of March.

A GRAND MEETING AT TORONTO.

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—The greatest meeting of the campaign was held in the Horticultural Pavilion last night. Five thousand citizens and ladies thronged every foot of space in the immense building. The people gathered at 6:30 to wait, and at 7 o'clock the galleries and aisles could hold no more. Thousands in the grounds outside were pressing towards the doors. The galleries were hung with mottoes and flags, and over the platform floated a weather-beaten Union Jack and the words: "Loyalty will not allow the Old Flag to be used to make a wigwam for Old To-morrow and his tribe of boodlers." That was the spirit of the meeting. In point of enthusiasm the meeting was one of the grandest demonstrations that has ever been given in the city or the Dominion. It was a vote-making meeting. There were no appeals to catch-cries, no attempts to inflame the passions, and yet at frequent periods the enthusiasm rose tumultuous. The speaker's utterances were marked by a steady, enlightened patriotism, which the outbursts of applause showed the good sense of the immense audience appreciated. At 7:30 o'clock the appearance of Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., with the evening's chairman, Mr. R. U. McPherson, ex-president of the Young Men's Liberal Club, was the signal for the first great wave of enthusiasm. A moment after Mr. A. Wheeler, the candidate in East Toronto, appeared and received a splendid ovation. At the entrance of Hon. Oliver Mowat, Mr. Arthur Mowat, the candidate for West Toronto, and Mr. J. K. Kerr, Q.C., the Liberal standard-bearer for Center Toronto, the thousands rose to their feet and with prolonged cheering and waving of a sea of handkerchiefs and hats gave them welcome. The galleries were filled with ladies, who joined heartily in the applause. The first two speeches were by Messrs. Geo. Bertram and Ald. Hallam, prominent business men associated with two important industries that will be developed by the policy of the Liberal party. The veteran Premier of the Province, Hon. Oliver Mowat, was then called upon, and the fervor of the meeting broke out in wild waves of cheers that swelled out again and again after seeming to subside. The Premier was obliged to stand several minutes waiting for the acclaim to cease. The enthusiasm he aroused was only matched by that which broke out and made the rafters tremble on mention of the name of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. At every utterance of the name of the Liberal leader the great meeting filled the building with their demonstrations of confidence and devotion. Hon. S. H. Blake's reception was such as he always receives at the hands of a Liberal audience. They cheered him to the echo. The city candidates took a good part in the night's success. They talked like men who are in the fight to win.

NOTES.

The Conservative Association for North Brant will hold a convention at St. George on March 24.

The meeting of the North Oxford Conservative Association held at Woodstock Wednesday was adjourned until Saturday. Mr. D. W. Karn has declined to contest the riding.

At the adjourned convention of Equal Righters held at Peterboro on Wednesday it was decided to place no candidate in the field, as E. Douglas Armour, of Toronto, had refused to accept the nomination.

At Saturday's meeting in Montreal Mr. Guerin, the Liberal candidate, said in a pleasant way that he had in his possession the manifesto in favor of annexation, signed and circulated by Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, Henry Lyman and other good Tories.

Mr. Snetsinger, the Liberal member for Stormont, is meeting with great encouragement in his canvass, and everywhere receives promises of support from life-long Conservatives who are tired of Dr. Bergin and disgusted with his oft-broken promises, besides being anxious for free trade with the United States.

NATURAL GAS EXPLOSIONS.

Several Houses in Pittsburg Wrecked and a Number of Persons Injured.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—An explosion of natural gas occurred here yesterday morning, which threw the front and rear walls of a double two-story brick house belonging to Samuel and William Haxlett into the four feet of water surrounding it. There were nine persons in the house at the time, four of whom were blown into the water. Those injured were: James Fletcher, brother-in-law of the mayor of Allegheny, who will die; Jenn Hazlett, Mrs. Samuel Hazlett, Owen McLaughlin and Mrs. Eliza White. It is supposed the rush of water in the cellar broke the natural gas pipe.

Two other explosions of natural gas in houses where the pipes had been broken by water occurred last evening. Andrew Anderson went into the cellar of his house on Sixteenth street with an open lamp and an explosion occurred, which wrecked three small houses owned by Shoenburger & Co., and burned Anderson severely and Mary McGraw and her daughter Nellie slightly.

The other explosion occurred in the large boarding house of Mary Hubbard, on Lacroix street. The house was wrecked and several persons were burned.

THE RAILWAYS.

The staff of engineers of the South Ontario Pacific Railway have arrived in Woodstock. They intend commencing operations at once, and will work their way east from there to the Niagara River.

CARLING'S REFUGE.

When Beaten Next Month He Will Go to Toronto as Lieutenant-Governor.

[Special to the ADVERTISER]

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—The feeling in the Conservative circles here is that Hon. John Carling will be beaten in London and that one of the last acts of the dying Government will be to appoint him to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario.

CAMPAIGN CREAM.

In Bowmanville the owner of the piano and organ factory, which under its former managers was a bulwark for the N. P., believes that if only he could get access to the American market a splendid business could be done.

For the past few years the workingmen have found that there is no labor schedule in the tariff. When a dispute takes place in any highly protected industry labor can be imported free. Protection does not protect the wage-worker. He sells his labor in the market of open competition with the world; he buys his goods at the price fixed by the Combines.

Every Liberal in the West ought to constitute himself a committee of one to secure a friend who has not hitherto voted with the Liberals.

In the doubtful constituencies the Government majorities are small, and it would not require a great change in public feeling to give the Opposition a majority. If the Conservatives foster a belief that Sir John is going to sweep the country, they may be rudely surprised election night.—[Toronto Telegram (Independent).

Superintendent Brown told the M. C. R. employes that the Canadian tariff prevented their wages being raised. The superintendent is right. While Canadian railways are handicapped by duties on coal and heavy duties on iron and other necessary supplies, they necessarily have a much less wages fund than would be possible if they were on an equality with railways over the border.

The Government's care for the interests of the poor man is shown in placing diamonds on the free list and heavily taking sugar and blankets.

The railway employe who votes for the maintenance of the present policy of hostility to the States will have himself to blame if he loses his situation by the withdrawal of the bonding privileges.

A Kingston telegram says: "Spectators in a business office on Tuesday were deeply touched by the appeals of a poor old farmer, who asked a buyer if he could increase his price on a contract for hay by 50 cents per ton. The buyer, a leading Conservative, replied to the farmer's request as follows: 'I cannot give you more for your hay than I bargained. On Saturday I was offered twenty tons of hay at $2 50 per ton.'"

At a meeting on Wolfe Island the other night Mr. Haycock said: "If I were an annexationist I would go heart and soul for the N. P. as the surest possible way to effect the absorption of this Canada of ours by the United States. The farming class and others will bring about that end if the values of farm produce continue to decline at the present rate." John Kinsley, one of the many reformed Conservatives, stated that he had never cast a Reform vote in his life, but this time he would vote for his own interests as a farmer in preference to the interests of party.

THERE'S MONEY IN IT!

The wealth of the people of Canada under unrestricted reciprocity would probably be double and treble what it is to-day in a very few years—in fact, both our population and wealth would increase in a ratio that we have never yet seen.—[Sir Richard Cartwright at Toronto.

Floods.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 18.—River men here think that unless more rain should fall the flood in the Ohio River is at its height. The river is falling. Recent rains appear to have missed the Kentucky and West Virginia tributaries of the Ohio.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 18.—The Mississippi here is yet two feet below the danger line, but it continues to rise steadily.

Annual Meeting of the Grand Lodge A. O. U. W.

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—The Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen met in Victoria Hall yesterday morning and was called to order by Grand Master Workman John Milne, of Essex Center. W. Warner Wilson, of Detroit, supreme master workman of the Supreme Lodge of the United States and Canada, was introduced by Grand Master Workman Milne to the Grand Lodge and received an ovation. He acknowledged the fraternal greeting by a most enthusiastic address. The Executive Committee appointed James Dixon, M. D. Carder, W. W. Montague, W. R. Fenton, Henry Taylor and W. H. Zeigler as a Committee on Returns and Credentials.

ROYAL TEMPLARS

In Annual Session at Hamilton — Increase in the Membership.

HAMILTON, Feb. 18.—The ninth annual session of the Grand Council of Ontario, Royal Templars of Temperance, convened here yesterday morning. Rev. T. R. McNair, grand councilor, presided. The officers and over 100 representatives from all parts of the Province were present.

From the reports it appears that the membership has increased by over 3,200, the present number being 13,127 for the Province. The number of councils shows a net increase of 64—77 new councils having been instituted during the year. The calls on the sick benefit fund have been numerous, especially during the early part of the year, but the fund is in a good position, and the benefits have been availed of by a large number of members. The missionary work of the order has been made a special feature of the year's work, and the royal revivals conducted by the several teams have resulted in a large increase in the membership of the order, as well as an increased interest in temperance work throughout the Province.

Fraternal greetings were received and suitably acknowledged from the Y's of Peterborough and from the W. C. T. U. of Hamilton. Several amendments to the sick benefit law were under consideration when the council adjourned.

SUFFOCATED BY SMOKE!

Disastrous Fire in Brooklyn—A Mother and Four Children Perish in Their Beds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A woman and four children were suffocated and a man was probably fatally burned in a fire that occurred at Delmonico Place and Hopkinson avenue, Brooklyn, this morning. The building in which the fire occurred is a three-story frame structure. The basement and the ground floor were used as a bakery, and two families lived on the floors above. Jacob Enrich was at work in the basement over a pot of boiling fat at 4:30 o'clock this morning, when the fat boiled over and running to the floor set fire to the surrounding woodwork. In a few minutes the building was on fire and dense smoke was pouring through the halls. Enrich was badly burned and cannot live. On the top floor was found Mrs. John Henessy and her four children dead. The woman and her children were asleep when the fire broke out, and were overcome by smoke before they could escape.

Brawling in Church.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—At Newton Abbot, Devonshire, yesterday Rev. Dr. Pope was fined £2 for brawling in church. Dr. Pope attended a religious service on Sunday, and while the communion was being administered walked up to the officiating clergyman, wrested the chalice from his hands and drank the wine while standing near the altar rail. Dr. Pope then returned the empty chalice to the clergyman, remarking in a voice heard all over the church, "You're no Christian. You are unfit to administer the communion." By this time Dr. Pope was greatly excited. He stood gesticulating near the altar during the rest of the service. The court was crowded with clergymen and others. Amid considerable excitement Dr. Pope at first said he was not guilty and afterwards pleaded guilty and apologized for his conduct in the church. Dr. Pope's lawyer said his client's mind had become unbalanced and it would not be just to be too severe upon him.

The Grand Lodge in Annual Session at Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—The Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Ontario holds its thirteenth annual session in Victoria Hall to-day. About 400 members from all parts of Ontario and some from Quebec and Manitoba are in attendance. Ontario has paid ten relief calls in all, amounting to $32,942 25. Just now, call No. 11 has been made on the various grand lodges for an amount equal to $1 70 on each master workman. This will necessitate a payment from the Ontario Grand Lodge of $37,415 30. Although anticipated that, as a result of the effects of la grippe and other causes throughout America, the relief would be a large one, yet this is far above any sum thought of. Referred to a committee of past grand masters. The grand master's report says: "There have been 26 lodges organized during the year 1890, of which nineteen are situated in Ontario, four in the Province of Quebec and three in the Province of Manitoba. The area now embraced in the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge, extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Ocean, and the rapid increase yearly of our membership has greatly added to the anxiety, responsibility and work in administering its affairs. I think the time has come when the formation of separate jurisdictions in the near future will be id the interests of the order in Canada. The Province of Quebec with the other eastern Provinces would make a territory sufficiently large to form a grand lodge. Manitoba, the North-west and British Columbia would make another."

Business Embarrassments.

The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency reports the following assignments: Seaforth—Cardno Bros., drygoods, assigned to Robert Gibson, Goderich. Simcoe—George J. Green, grocer. Toronto—Anderson & Co. (Charlotte Halford only), grocer; Wm. Hessin, manufacturer confectionery, biscuits and jams. Windsor—Joseph Aber, grocer.

Trainmen Badly Mangled.

RAHWAY, N. J., Feb. 18.—A disastrous collision occurred between a freight and passenger train here yesterday morning. A freight train was standing at the junction west of here when the passenger train crushed into the rear end. The engine of the passenger train plunged through the caboose and five cars, tearing the cars into splinters. Engineer Page, Fireman Mooney and Express Messenger Parker were badly injured. The accident was caused by the telegraph operator giving the wrong signals.

Victims of Drink.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 18.—John Trout was jailed at Schell City, Mo., Monday, for drunkenness, and when the jail burnt that night he was cremated.

OMEMEE, Feb. 18.—John Doig, an old navvy who had been working lately at John Scully's, about three miles from here, committed suicide to-night by cutting his throat with a pocket knife. He was 70 years old. The deed is supposed to have been committed while he was under the influence of liquor, as he had been on a protracted "spree."

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—Police Magistrate Denison granted Mrs. Louisa Patterson an order of protection from her husband James, at the Police Court yesterday. Evidence was brought to show that he drank to excess, and that his family were afraid of him; also, that he gave them no support.

Toronto Industrial Fair Association.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—The thirteenth annual meeting of the Industrial Exhibition Association of Toronto was held yesterday afternoon. The managers' annual report shows that the assets and liabilities balance at $144,115. The revenue from admission fees last year was $65,524, from entry fees $4,047, and the total revenue $84,737. The expenditures including a balance of $15,424 carried to general account were of the same amount, the principal items being on account of prizes $28,859, for fireworks, etc., $6,324, for special attractions, including the Wild West Show, $7,480. The total assets over and above all liabilities at present date, $122,200 43, represent the net profits made out of the twelve exhibitions held under the auspices of the association.

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

IT WO[illegible]D BE $30 B[illegible]R ON EACH HORSE.

To the farmer an[illegible]rse dealer: Under Unrestricte[illegible]d Recipro[illegible]y you would get an average of $3[illegible]0 mor[illegible]r every horse you want to sell. Vo[illegible]icte[illegible]eciprocity. dates and Unrestr[illegible] the Liberal candi-

LET US STOP THE EX[illegible]OS BY VOTING FOR UNRESTRICTE[illegible]CIPROCITY.

To my mind the [illegible] deplorable thing at present is the exodu[illegible] Canadians. Last week three boys went [illegible]m our shop, and they are going conti[illegible]y as fast as we make men of them. [illegible] are keeping our raw material in the [illegible]nd, but we are driving our young men [illegible] of the country.—[C. H. Waterous, [illegible] manufacturer, Brantford.

MR. CARLING REFUSES R[illegible]F—HE THINKS THINGS "WELL [illegible]GH."

Sir John Macdonald's [illegible]y was to sustain the National Policy a[illegible]t well enough alone.—[Hon. John Carlin[illegible] London, Feb. 7, 1891.

THE LONDON "TIMES" D[illegible]OT SEEM TO THINK IT A BIT D[illegible]AL.

It is at this very momen[illegible]tter of discussion in Canada whether [illegible]aty of reciprocity should not be con[illegible] with the United States, and the re[illegible] of the deliberation may very possibly [illegible]n admission of the manufactures of [illegible] England into the Dominion under [illegible]r duties than the manufactures of Gr[illegible]ritain. If the Canadian Ministry com[illegible] the conclusion that such an arrange[illegible]s for th benefit of that country will [illegible] Colonial Office advise the Crown to [illegible]low the negotiations? Assuredly n[illegible][London Times.

THE SELF-SUPPORTING INDUSTR[illegible]IAVE NO FEAR OF RECIPROCIT[illegible].

We are not afraid of the c[illegible]ition of United States manufacturers, [illegible] we believe their larger markets w[illegible] be of benefit to us.—[C. H. Wat[illegible]sen., Waterous Engine Works, Brant[illegible]

UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY W[illegible] BOOM THE PRICE OF CITY AND FARM P[illegible]RTY.

A Liberal victory on March 5[illegible]ld increase the price of real estate in [illegible]y part in this Province, and revive the in[illegible] cities and towns which, with one or t[illegible] exceptions, are now stagnant.

NO CHANCE FOR ANYTHING BUT UNR[illegible]CTED RECIPROCITY, AND THAT IS JUST [illegible]AT WE WANT.

There are no negotiations wh[illegible]ver on foot for a reciprocity treaty w[illegible] Canada, and you may be assured that [illegible] scheme for reciprocity with the Dominion [illegible]nfined to natural products will be entertai[illegible]d by this Government.—[James G. Blaine[illegible]

CATTLE AND UNRERTRI[illegible]ED RECIPROCITY.

They try to frighten us also by tel[illegible] us that if this policy is adopted our c[illegible]ry will be scheduled in Britain as the [illegible]d States is, and we shall lose our [illegible]le market. Mr. Frankland has been wri[illegible] a letter to one of the city papers in whi[illegible]e draws attention to this fact, and he a[illegible]t the close of his letter unfurls the Old [illegible] (Cheers and laughter.) He calls upon [illegible] stand by the Old Man, the Old Fla[illegible] the Old Policy. I want to draw his a[illegible]tion and yours to the fact that the diff[illegible] States quarantine cattle against each o[illegible] and it could not be supposed that any[illegible]rangement we could make for recip[illegible] trade would interfere with our power [illegible] the same. (Loud cheers.) Let us see [illegible] Mr. Frankland has to offer us. He say[illegible]

You have good cattle, you have good [illegible] and we want you to do your best. If you [illegible] been accustomed to rise at 5 o'clock, ris[illegible] Take care of these good cattle; fit them [illegible] English market and we will get you 4[illegible] per pound. Possibly we may be able to ge[illegible] even 5 cents per pound, but we will get [illegible] cents anyhow. And you must remembe[illegible] you are getting from 75 cents to $1 more [illegible] these miserable sinners who live across [illegible] United States, because their cattle are n[illegible]mitted to go inland in the old country.

Now, I have the same paper in [illegible] that letter appears.

A Voice—What paper?

Hon. Mr. Dryden—The Empire. [illegible]plause and laughter.) I have here [illegible] same paper in which the letter appears [illegible] looking at the market reports from Ch[illegible] I find these words:

Cattle—Receipts, 7,000; quality fair; ma[illegible] moderately active on local and shippi[illegible] count and prices well maintained. Quot[illegible] ranged from $5 to $5 50 for choice to f[illegible] shipping steers.

These are the same animals that Frankland wants us farmers to produ[illegible] this country and for which he says he [illegible] give us 4¾ cents, and that he says [illegible] cents to $1 more than "those mise[illegible] sinners" get on the other side of the [illegible] (Loud applause.) That is the kind of c[illegible]fort they give us; we are to feed the st[illegible] and take a small price and—"Hurrah [illegible] the old flag!" (Great cheering [illegible] laughter.)—[Hon. John Dryden, Ministe[illegible] Agriculture, at Toronto.

My Toothache!

Is an exclamation heard every hour in the [illegible] Toothache is the most common ailment [illegible] young and old, and in the aggregate infli[illegible] more suffering than perhaps an other sing[illegible] complaint. A one minute cure is just wha[illegible] every person desires to possess. Nerviline—nerve pain cure—acts almost instantly i[illegible] lieving the agony, and a sample bottle affo[illegible]d quantity sufficient for 100 applications, 10 [illegible]n fills the bill. Polson's Nerviline is the [illegible] positive remedy for toothache and all [illegible] pains. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

It corrects all looseness of the bowels, promptly and cause a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc. in the market.

EAST MIDDLESEX.

George Taylor, the Independent Candidate, in London West.

The Principles Laid Down in His Address—His Opinion of the Dominion Voters' Lists.

Albert Hall, London West, was fairly well filled last evening with Mayor Taylor's supporters. Mr. Matthew Kershaw occupied the chair and in a few words introduced the speaker of the evening.

Mayor Taylor was received with applause, and in opening referred to his candidature. He had always been a Conservative, but considered the present a time when one could go to Parliament as an independent man, prepared to vote for what was right and not on mere party lines. Sir John Macdonald had said some time ago in Toronto that he desired reciprocity in natural products, but if they looked for such they must certainly be prepared to offer a little more than this if freer trade relations were to be secured. It would doubtless be to the interests of the country to obtain this, and while he would be willing to reduce the duties on a certain line of goods coming from the United States, he would not feel like discriminating against Great Britain. The granting of $400,000 as a settlement of the alleged claims made in the Jesuits Estates Bill, he considered an act of injustice to the Dominion; the amount could have been obtained in no other country. He did not wish to stir up any feeling against his Roman Catholic fellow-citizens; they had the same rights and privileges as others, but no more. The present wholesale system of railway bonusing by the Dominion Government had been carried too far, although Ontario had not shared in the same proportion as others. (Applause.) It was unjust in view of this that the Province should be asked to unduly assist railways in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. A larger revenue would certainly be necessary if the Government continued to advance money at this rate. Again, the same thing applied to assisted immigration, which should be stopped. (Applause.) There were plenty of men looking for employment in this country, or working and paying their taxes. The Government should appeal to the people, said the speaker, in such a manner that every man's voice should be heard on the important issues before the country, and which will be brought up in the next House. It is not obtaining a fair verdict from the people, and asking them to vote on lists compiled two years ago, as now a large fraction of the qualified electors are off the lists, while many voters are out of the country, and a large number have died in the meantime. (Applause.) If I am elected as a representative of E[illegible] Middlesex I can go into Parliament [illegible] out looking for a favor from eith[illegible] and no matter from what party [illegible] measure may emanate I would be pr[illegible] to support it. There is too much of [illegible] sending men to Parliament as mere voting machines, to obey the will of the leaders of the party to which they cling, instead of following the dictates of conscience. (Applause.) In conclusion Mayor Taylor pointed out the advan[illegible] to the people of Middlesex [illegible] London and Port Stanley Railway [illegible]est of a combination of the G. T. R. and [illegible] and its additional value as a conne[illegible] with the water traffic, especially if oc[illegible] steamers, as was probable, could be mad[illegible] to pass the Lachine rapids. He also favored a measure for the remuneration of those disabled while in the employ of railroad companies.

The meeting broke up with the usual cheers. Committees were subsequently formed to carry on the work.

THE COMING ELECTIONS

A Distinguished Exponent of the N. P. Thoroughly Disgusted with Its Working.

It Is a Failure and Must Give Place to Something Better.

How Canada and the Mother Country Would be Benefited by Unrestricted Reciprocity.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

I should like, if you can afford the space, to say some words on the above subject. I have of late taken little part in politics, but as I had, when it was first introduced, much to do with advocating the National Policy, it is but fair that when the question of its perpetuation is discussed, I should state what, after twelve years' experience of its working and its workers, are my present views. And, in the first place, this is not the National Policy I advocated, but rather a caricature of it.

We were to have had the great industry of smelting iron, and the much greater industries of producing the various finished articles framed from that and other metals, an industry greater than all others put together in point of increasing the employment-providing capacity of the Dominion. We have it not; it has, so to speak, been made a gift to the railways, which have been allowed to import free those manufactured metals, the production of which here would have been of enormous benefit to the country. No one would object to this under a free trade system, but under the present we are charged the high tariffs which, under proper management, should give us these industries, but under our Government do not.

Then the National Policy, as I understood it, contemplated the settlement of the Northwest by a system of free grants to actual settlers, which would have given us a large market for manufactures, and a means of making the settlers prosperous. Instead, the country seems to have been largely given to railroad companies and other speculators, the result being that in all this time we have but a couple of hundred thousand people in the whole Northwest. Our canals to the ocean were to have been enlarged so as to allow large ships to come to the lakes; it has not been done. Our population, to give which work at home was one of the reasons for the National Policy, still keeps up a large annual exodus to the States. In fine, Canada is not reaping the benefits which the high tariffs she pays should secure her in the way of home markets, nor have her natural resources been properly taken advantage of. I consider that this need not have been the case, and it may be remembered that when it was known that Sir John Macdonald was bringing back only his old friends to manage his new policy I left his party, stating that his Cabinet would do—precisely what they have done. That is, to my mind they have taken away the advantages which a system of low tariffs gave, without being able to substitute those which a system of high [illegible] might in capable hands have con[illegible] much for the past. Now, at present [we] are confronted with a dissolution of Parliament, for what reason? Simply, it appears to me that the Dominion Government are well aware of what is undoubtedly the case, that the McKinley Bill will inflict on this country great injury, and that the resulting dissatisfaction would have ended in their defeat had they waited till the usual time of dissolution. We may certainly then, take this as settled: That this bill will cause much loss and, as they are called "hard times" in Canada. The questions then are: "How can these be avoided? Will the party in power be likely to succeed in avoiding them? What plan do they propose to attempt it?"

Principally they allege to try by negotiations with the States to obtain a renewal of the reciprocity treaty "with the modifications required by the altered circumstances of both countries." What these modifications are we are not told one word of, and yet in that lies the whole good or evil of such a treaty. Surely, it is a most extraordinary proceeding to dissolve a parliament in order to get the indorsation of the people to they do not know what. Canada is asked, in fact, to vote Sir John Macdonald a blank check of utter credulity. The alleged reason for dissolving Parliament is an actual reason for continuing it. Canada might have been asked to indorse by the election of a Parliament a treaty when she knew what the treaty proposed. But here we are not told what is proposed at all, and we cannot trust them.

The Americans will not wish to give anything to Sir John Macdonald's Government. To give my reasons for thinking thus I must open up another branch of the subject. Americans, who are perhaps the most sensitive of nations to slight or censure, are well aware that it is the party led by Sir John Macdonald which [in] Canada has been apparently actuated by hostile and contemptuous feelings towards themselves. I cannot tell the reason, it always seemed to me a most injudicious course, but all know that the leading mouthpieces, the newspapers of Sir John's party, have for years endeavored to manifest an attitude towards the United States which, if not altogether inimical, has reared anything but friendly. Of this the American leaders are well aware, and things will result therefore. First, the Reform party will have a far better chance to make good terms with the States than will the Conservatives. Next, they will be more likely to keep up that friendly feeling, which alone can perpetuate treaties.

Next, with regard to discrimination in favor of the States. Let us take the plain truth. The States neither will nor can grant reciprocity in manufactures to Canada unless Canada makes her tariff against the rest of the world as high as that of the States, for doing otherwise would allow the cheap manufactures of the world to enter the States through the back door of Canada. Yet they will grant no treaty without manufactures be included. In fact, letting our goods in free, they discriminate in our favor, they require that in return we shall discriminate in their favor against others, England included. This Sir John Macdonald declares he will not do. Therefore he can get no treaty with the States.

Next, I consider it would do no harm to Britain, but great good, if Canada had free trade with the States, though at the same time we heightened our tariff against Britain. For since 1861 the States have greatly heightened their tariff against Britain, yet their volume of trade with Britain is far greater, owing to their enormous increase in population and wealth. In the same way, under the proposed arrangement, there is every reason to believe that Canada would shortly so prosper that Britain would do, even in face of a higher trade tariff, a far larger and more profitable [illegible] with us than she ever otherwise has [illegible] will do. But this, I think, must be [done] by the Reform party. The other [illegible] work well with the [States. It does n]ot appear to me that there would be, as some fear, any need of direct taxation ensuing. There are many methods, both connected with [illegible] and external revenue of continuing taxation on an indirect basis.

There is, apparently no reason why such a course should lead to annexation. It would rather, by improving the position of Britain, Canada and the United States, render each less desirous of change. North America would be better in the hands of two nations, if these were, as they should be, emulative instead of aggressive, than in those of one. The disparity of strength under the new prospects opened out to Canada would soon become much less. Capital and population would flow hither from Europe and from the States and greater development of our natural resources be witnessed in ten years probably than otherwise in a life time. Any manufactures we might lose would be well replaced by far greater ones we should be likely to gain.

Some individuals in Canada are fond of using the word "treason" in connection with these matters. They should reflect that it is in another country, if anywhere, that word should be first heard. No course can be treasonable which first contemplates gaining the goodwill and consent of the chief governing body of the empire, and no one, I think, has advocated any other.

Yours, etc., R. W. PHIPPS,

Toronto, Feb. 5.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A Carriage Worker's Evidence.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

As the carriage trade is taking a prominent part in this campaign, I would like to give a workingman's view of the trade. I don't think first-class builders need fear competition with the United States, as they can sell all they can build for more money than they get here for the same class of work, but the cheap shoddy builders are the ones that are afraid to venture, because their stuff won't take. But they need have no fear as regards the cost of building, as the wages some of them pay are away below what is paid in the United States for the same class of work. People are getting their eyes opened as regards the wages. There was a young man working in a shop here for $4 per week. He is now in Columbus, O., getting $12 per week, within a year. Workingmen, please note the difference. VULCAN.

London, Feb. 17.

Letter from Mr. McClary.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

In considering this matter, an important bearing [illegible] first, we find our neighbors have been built up under protection and secured home market, acquired plant many times the capacity of ours. They have reached a division of labor we cannot hope to attain in many years. We find them in an overproduced market with as fine manufacturing plant, not the finest in the world, much in excess of their home market, now making great efforts to find an outlet in the markets of the world. This I take to be their chief aim, to absorb our market, the foundation of some industries. Can they largely absorb our trade and swamp our infant industries, or can we in return successfully reach their increased market and compete with them? With few exceptions we cannot. Why? Are we inferior in capacity or energy? No. With few exceptions our factories would have to be reorganized to produce smaller lines at reduced cost, meaning loss of present business connections and making new ones under unfavorable contingencies to compete with older rivals, holding a firm grasp on an overproduced market, in a new field, in the face of unpromising prospects of success. Suppose a diminished number of our manufacturers decided not to be squeezed out of the race it would take, under the unfavorable circumstances, years to gain a standing to successfully compete with stronger rivals. In the face of the instability or possibility of Unrestricted Reciprocity coming to a termination, say five, ten or fifteen years, such new developed factories would naturally cross the border, that when it did terminate he would be left with a larger market, not necessitating a fresh equipment of his factory. My next will be an endeavor to [show] why our factory would necessarily [illegible]. Yours truly, JOHN MCCLARY.

EGGS AND POULTRY.

In no agricultural or dairy products are the farmers and their wives more directly interested than in the prices that can be secured for eggs and poultry.

For many years these two commodities have been admitted free to the United States. The result has been the establishment of a trade—one of the most profitable in the country.

Under the operation of the McKinley Bill (by which a duty of 5 cents per pound on dressed poultry and 5 cents per dozen on eggs is levied), the trade in eggs and poultry has received a crushing blow.

Nothing can secure the free market again except the adoption of the policy of unrestricted reciprocity by the people of Canada.

A duty of 5 cents per pound on dressed fowls (turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens), means that the wives of Canadian farmers will receive $75,000 less for the poultry exported to the United States than they would if there was a free market.

The Christmas markets just passed showed a decline in prices in Canada compared with other years. The high prices ruling in New York, Boston, Buffalo and Albany indicated that the Canadian farmers were receiving 5 cents per pound less than they would have had if the American market had been free.

The duty of 5 cents per dozen on eggs will paralyze a trade which has grown under a free market from 17,000 dozen in 1870 to 15,000,000 dozens in 1890.

A duty of 5 cents per dozen means the loss of $750,000 to the wives of Canadian farmers in one year.

Success at the election for Sir John Macdonald's Government means a tax of $3,250,000 during the next five years on the farmers' wives on the one article—eggs.

By the Liberal policy of unrestricted reciprocity being adopted on the 5th of March this $3,250,000 will be in the pockets of the Canadian farmers' wives.

No other market in the world is open to Canadian eggs.

The effort to establish an egg trade with Great Britain has signally failed—the Dominion Government Commissioner having reported that it could not be successfully carried on in the summer months, which is the egg period.

Canadian eggs must be sent to the United States.

A restricted trade (a continuation of the National Policy) and farmers' wives will be taxed $825,000 a year on eggs and poultry alone in order to keep the Tory party in power—$4,250,000 during the next five years.

This market can be thrown open by the adoption of the policy of unrestricted reciprocity.

The Americans have promised to enter into negotiations for such trade relations as the Reform party have proposed, and they have already declined the restricted reciprocity which the Tory Government at Ottawa profess to be in favor of.

Vote for the Reform candidate and a free market.

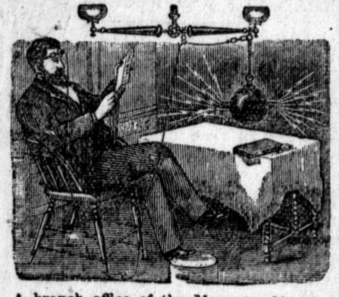
TERRESTRIAL HEALING



A branch office of the Magnetic Meridian Vitapoise Company is now permanently located at 294 Dundas street, for the purpose of giving practical demonstrations of the healing virtues of the "Vitapoise," (or miniature earth.) It is the most wonderful healing instrument ever discovered. It only fails to cure the afflicted when their case is hopeless, and it makes no difference what ails you.

If you would like to investigate "TERRESTRIAL HEALING," call at the office, and Prof. Reid, will cheerfully explain to you the mysteries of the subtle healing force contained in a Magnetic Meridian Vitapoise.

Separate rooms are fitted up for the treatment of ladies and gentlemen. We want every family and physician in Canada to buy a "Vitapoise," and we will accomplish our object if an afflicted member of every tenth family will give the instrument a trial, by taking a "course of treatment." Its application is absolutely painless and is also harmless; but disease will flee from before it as if driven away by magic.

Physicians! try a "Vitapoise" on one of your patients, having either la grippe, inflammation, fever, insomnia, neuralgia or rheumatism, and thereafter your "medical case" will be a secondary consideration so long as you have a "Vitapoise" with you.

"Whatever there be between the two nations to forget and forgive is forgotten and forgiven. If the two peoples which are one be true to their duty, who can doubt that the destinies of the world are in their hands? Let America and England march in the van of freedom and progress, showing the world not only a magnificent spectacle of human happiness, but a still more magnificent spectacle of two peoples united, loving righteousness and hating iniquity, inflexibly faithful to the principles of eternal justice, which are the unchanging law of God."—[Archdeacon Farrar, of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, Eng.

MR. PATERSON TO-NIGHT.

The trumpet-tongued orator of Brant county, Mr. Wm. Paterson, will be the principal speaker at the Grand Opera House mass meeting this (Thursday) evening.

Mr. Paterson is the hero of many a battle for the right in the historic county of Brantford. Gerrymandered, franchise-billized, and assailed on all sides by the trade restrictionists who could not trust the old-time constituencies to condone their shortcomings, Mr. Paterson has come out of every contest with a bigger majority than ever. The present campaign is not likely to prove an exception.

A self-made man, who has risen from the ranks, beginning life as a boy driving a baker's wagon, Mr. Paterson has by indomitable perseverance reached an enviable eminence as a manufacturer. He has never wished to be aided by "protection" or any class legislation, and he is an earnest advocate of complete freedom to trade with the United States. Moreover, nearly every one of his fellow-townsmen engaged in the manufacturing business is with him. In the present contest he is supported by the following manufacturers in Brantford: A. Harris, Son & Co., employing 400 hands; the Waterous Engine Works Company, employing 215 hands; J. O. Wisner, Sons & Co., 170 hands; William Buck, 170 hands; Clayton Slater, 125 hands; Brantford Cordage Company, 65; Schultz Bros., 65; Goold Bicycle Company, 45; Brantford Furniture Company, 45; William Fowler, paper boxes, 40; Eagle Plow Works, 35; Bain Brothers Manufacturing Company, 20, Adam Spence, carriages, 15; E. L. Goold & Co., beekeepers' supplies, 15; H. B. Gardiner, cigars, 15; A. Murray, builder, 13; W. E. Welding, pottery, 10; Workman & Watt, 15; William Moran, carriages and sleighs, 10.

Every citizen who has any doubts on the rightfulness of Unrestricted Reciprocity should hear Mr. Paterson.

THE STOVE MEN.

Many prominent stove-manufacturers are supporting the Liberal candidates in the present election. In Brantford Mr. Wm. Paterson, has no more loyal supporter than Mr. Wm. Buck, who employs 170 hands. But what is more significant still is the fact that in Hamilton, the Liberal candidates are ex-Mayor Doran, a well-known manufacturer, and Mr. Adam Laidlaw, one of the most successful stove-manufacturers in the Dominion. Mr. Laidlaw recognizes the fact that with unrestricted reciprocity and free raw material his markets would be extended along with those of the Canadian farmers, who are his best customers, the natural resources of Canada would be developed, and that greater prosperity would be brought about which is needed to cause a healthy revival in the trade of the Dominion.

The candidates of the restricted trade party in Hamilton are two retired dealers in liquor.

SOUTH MIDDLESEX.

South Middlesex is a strong Liberal constituency, made so by the scandalous gerrymander, which "hived" the Liberals. At the last election the full Liberal vote was not got out on the ground that it was not believed to be necessary. Such reasoning has lost many an election. Let every vote be polled on the 5th of March. We observe that young Mr. Chisholm has been cruelly selected as the victim to lead the forlorn hope against the late member, now renominated. Yet no foe, however contemptible, is to be despised, and South Middlesex should pile up its biggest majority both for Unrestricted Reciprocity and James Armstrong.

NO CHANCE FOR RECIPROCITY IN NATURAL PRODUCTS.

It is now as good as settled that Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues have gone back on the mongrel reciprocity scheme with which they deluded "My Lord Stanley of Preston" into dissolving Parliament.

Had the Governor-General but known something of the history of Canadian politics, even during the period of the last decade, he might have satisfied himself that there was nothing substantial in the so-called reciprocity proposals. Had he but read the speech with which Lord Lorne closed Parliament in 1882, preparatory to a dissolution, he might have suspected that all was not straight in the advice with which he was being plied.

Lord Lorne was made to say that millions of British and American money was ready to be invested in Canada, and that it was certain to be invested when the people pronounced another favorable verdict on high tariffs. He granted a dissolution a year before the Parliament had run the course of its life, on that distinct understanding. Yet when the elections were over, and the favorable verdict was pronounced, there was not a dollar of British or American gold invested in Canadian industries. More than that, it is perfectly safe to say that the Governor's advisers had no warrant for saying that a dollar had been promised for investment.

And if Lord Stanley of Preston had taken the trouble to read any of his First Minister's speeches on the subject of reciprocity, his doubts might have given place to absolute assurance.

There is, for instance, the speech made by Sir John Macdonald in the House of Commons in 1884, on the motion for reciprocity proposed by Mr. Davies, of Prince Edward Island, and seconded by Mr. Charlton. On that occasion Sir John referred to the numerous but futile efforts made to renew the treaty of 1854.

"When the treaty was ended," Sir John said, "Canada attempted by every possible means, by sending agents to act with the British Minister at Washington, by stirring up her Majesty's Government in England to interest itself in the renewal of the treaty, by doing everything that possibly could be done to induce the American States to enter upon a renewal of the treaty, or a reciprocity treaty of some kind. We went so far again and again in pressing it that a great many Canadians, in the press and at public meetings—and the voice was heard in Parliament—thought the Government had gone too far, that in fact it had humiliated itself by going as it were on its knees to Washington to entreat for the renewal of that reciprocity."

But the Americans would not entertain the proposals made. They said that an offer to exchange the natural products of the two countries was a "jug-handled reciprocity," and that unless they could get a market for manufactures in Canada they would make no treaty.

"Then the attempt was not ended by the failures of the Canadian Government to succeed at once," Sir John went on to say. "It was renewed again and again. It was renewed by the Government of which I was a member. We sent one Minister after another. Sir Alexander Galt and Sir William Howland went to Washington. When my honorable friend opposite (Mr. Mackenzie) assumed the Government, he sent a very able leading member of his party, Mr. Brown, to Washington; but it was all of no avail; the Americans had taken a certain line and we had to submit. And I believe that the feeling which then existed still exists, AND THAT YOU WILL NEVER GET A TREATY BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA FOR RECIPROCAL TRADE IN THE NATURAL PRODUCTIONS OF THE TWO COUNTRIES."

That was clear and emphatic enough, and the reason for refusal was stated by Sir John Macdonald to be that we had no market of sufficient importance to offer the Americans for our productions of grain and cereals and fisheries. The old treaty, they said, was a nominal reciprocity, "but all the advantages were on the side of Canada." And, furthermore, Sir John Macdonald said in the course of the same speech:

"We, on the other hand, had to gain everything by their markets being open for the articles which were specified in the treaty. That feeling I believe still exists, and unless the United States will come at some time or other to a conclusion that they would be willing to ENTER UPON A RECIPROCITY TREATY, NOT ONLY FOR OUR NATURAL PRODUCTIONS, BUT FOR OUR MANUFACTURES AS WELL AS OUR NATURAL PRODUCTS WE WILL NEVER HAVE A TREATY. I am quite satisfied the United States will not agree, the country will not agree, the voice of the country will be against a repetition of the treaty of 1854."

Had the Governor-General known of this speech of his First Minister, delivered in Parliament less than seven years ago, he could hardly have been persuaded that there was any sincerity in the advice so recently given him to dissolve Parliament at the present time, and particularly in view of the constitutional necessity for another dissolution next year. But the Governor has been in the First Minister's hands like clay in the hands of the potter, and in less than a week after the fiat for dissolution has gone forth, Sir John Macdonald has practically abandoned his nondescript reciprocity scheme, at the bidding of his bankers of the Red Parlor.

A year's taste of the McKinley tariff would have done much to ripen the public opinion of Canada on the trade question; but if the farmers will only do their duty vigorously and manfully in their own interests, as it seems certain they will, the country will have no cause on the evening of March 5 to censure Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues for the precipitate dissolution they have obtained.

A reciprocity treaty with the United States in natural products is out of the question, and no one knows that better than Sir John Macdonald himself. He could not obtain it if he would. But Unrestricted Reciprocity is attainable and feasible; it is the policy of the Liberal party, and it is in the interest of every class.

HOW TO PREVENT ANNEXATION.

Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper spoke at Toronto last night, and explained as well as they could their policy or rather lack of policy in the present campaign. Their one theme was the extraordinary things they had done for the country—how very loyal they were, and how exceeding disloyal were all who opposed them.

How weak must be the case of the Administration when, in order to cover up the condition into which their high tax policy has dragged the country and the wholesale disfranchisement of the young men of the land at their instance, they charge one-half of the people of Canada with being traitors and scoundrels.

If, for the purposes of argument, it were admitted that the people had reached the state of disloyalty charged by the fearful Minister and his Man Friday, what better commentary of the fruits of restrictionist misrule than that could be imagined?

The foundation for the allegation that the Liberal party favors annexation Sir John Macdonald professed to find in a letter written by Mr. Edward Farrer at the time when he was editor of the Toronto Mail. In this letter Mr. Farrer is stated to have expressed his belief that the ultimate destiny of Canada was annexation to the United States. This charge Mr. Farrer does not now deny. He simply states his belief that the union of the two countries will some day be brought about, just as Mr. Meredith's Westen Ontario lieutenant, Mr. Sol. White, M.P.P., and prominent men in the Conservative party in London and elsewhere believe.

By the way, at least one man who avows annexation principles in private life, now holds office in the Conservative Association in this city.

It would be idle to deny that many and various views are held by different persons in Canada with regard to the ultimate destiny of their country. There are not a few who believe that, what with the enormous debt of the country and the steady increase of the burdens of the people, every year of the rule of the men now in power combined with trade restriction makes us less masters of our own future.

Five years more of restrictionist rule and continual additions to the burden of our taxes and debt would render the situation so intolerable that annexation might be the only alternative.

At this moment, Unrestricted Reciprocity will save our independence and save and keep Canada for the Canadians. This is why Canadians who are loyal to Canada and by no means disloyal to British institutions are strongly in favor of Reciprocity, believing as they do that five years more of the present system would do more to promulgate annexation sentiment than any expedient that could be devised.

"I am in full accord with the policy of the Liberal party. The Liberal policy will not be inimical to the interests of Great Britain."—[Hon. Alex. Mackenzie.

GIVE THEM A CHANCE.

In the report of the Toronto Conservative meeting published by the London Free Press it is stated, after Sir Charles Tupper had spoken for some time, that

"At this stage, the audience grew restless and hardly treated Sir Charles with courtesy."

This is too bad. A man who costs the Dominion so large a sum annually should be heard if only to enable the people to see how little value they are getting for their money.

Sir Charles is coming to London in company with Sir John Macdonald on Friday evening next. London audiences are generally better than those of Toronto, and always extend the utmost consideration to even tedious speakers. We trust the visitors will have a good time, though they need not expect to make many converts to their failing cause of trade restriction and combine rule.

There are no negotiations whatever on foot for a reciprocity treaty with Canada, and you may be assured that no scheme for reciprocity with the Dominion, confined to natural products, will be entertained by this Government.—[James G. Blaine.

TWO MINISTERS.

The Liberal Minister of Agriculture will not be a brewer or an ex-brewer. There are a score of intelligent farmers in the Liberal ranks from whom a Minister of the stamp of Mr. Drury and Mr. Dryden can be chosen.—[Globe.

Is it uncharitable to believe that Mr. Carling's only interest in Agriculture is to cheapen the price of barley so as to increase his beer profits?

HIS SIDE OF THE QUESTION.

Our esteemed fellow citizen, Mr. John McClary, one of the most respected members of the Stove Combine, sends us a note that he purposes to write a series of letters against Unrestricted Reciprocity. It is his intention to send these communications to the ADVERTISER as well as to the organ of the Combines. We will be very happy to publish Mr. McClary's defense of the present restrictive system, subject to the limitations of our space and such criticisms as, in the public interest, they may demand.

—Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. N. Aylmer, brigade major of district No. 2 (London), is a brother of Hon. Henry Aylmer, who, at the recent Liberal convention in Danville, Que., moved the following resolution:

"That the Liberal party of the counties of Richmond and Wolfe desire to renew their expression of confidence in and loyalty to the Honorable Mr. Laurier, their esteemed and distinguished chief, and to the principles of the Liberal party, and unanimously desire Mr. Laurier to do them the honor to place himself in nomination as their standard bearer, and they pledge themselves to make every effort to elect him to represent this constituency in the next House of Commons."

The motion was carried unanimously by an enthusiastic standing vote.

CANADA'S RELATIONS TO THE UNITED STATES.

The complete failure of the high tax policy to fulfill its promises is doubtless the reason for endeavoring to raise the cries of Loyalty, Treason, and the like.

But perhaps because we have heard so much of these cries, they cease to alarm, causing only amusement. In this city, it is particularly entertaining to see waving the Old Flag in the interest of the Combines more than one individual who in private life does not conceal his desire for political union with the United States. Perhaps they are shrewd enough to know that nothing would so much help on what they really desire as five years further refusal of Unrestricted Reciprocity.

There is a possibility that these fairly-acted histrionics may, however, create wrong impressions abroad, and especially in the great country which gives profitable employment, honorable position and friendly treatment to a million of Canadians—our sons and friends and former neighbors.

The Liberal party are in favor of the frendliest relations and the freest trading facilities with the United States. They recognize that Providence seems to have given the future leadership of mankind to the great English-speaking family—that the two principal members of that family are Great Britain and the United States—that the chiefest benefit Canada can render mankind is to help, not hinder, that moral union of the whole English-speaking race; that those who seek—through lust of office, or of monopoly, or to retain luxurious sinecures across the sea—to make Canada an instrument of discord between Great Britain and the United States, are justly chargeable with treason to the interests of the English-speaking race, treason to the best hopes and interests of the world.

THE RING.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 18.—At 2:30 a.m. President Harris of the Twin City Club, announced his intention of making Needham and Ryan fight to a finish. Up to that time 73 rounds had been fought, and the men were simply walking around each other letting fly a blow occasionally. In the 75th round the fighting was hot and fast. Perfect pandemonium reigned among the spectators. In the 76th round the fighting was fierce and fouls numerous. Needham was knocked down and carried to his corner in a dazed condition, and his seconds threw up the sponge. The exact time of the fight was five hours and five minutes. Needham was badly punished. Ryan escaped without a mark.

Bismarck To Be Prosecuted.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says he has seen a letter from Prince Bismarck's wife which says the family is alarmed at the prospect of the prosecution of the Prince, resulting from his obstinate persistency in uttering remarks calculated to provoke the Emperor.

Save the Dear Children.

The children of nervous and irritable parents will to some extent inherit these dreaded troubles, and show them as they grow up. These ailments will be intensified when the children devote themselves to school studies. Their delicate systems and over-taxed nerves will soon feel the severe strain, and the certain result is a very brief life.

We see, daily, young children afflicted with twitching muscles, general nervousness, dizziness and irritableness. These troubles bring on that dreaded disease St. Vitus Dance, with all its involuntary movements and spasms.

Such children require immediate attention. Paine's Celery Compound is now acknowledged to be the great agent and remedy for all these distressing symptoms. It tones up and strengthens the weak nervous system, builds up the body and health, and restores to natural activity and perfect action every muscle, and purifies and cleanses the whole system. Do not allow the dear children to suffer and die while Paine's Celery Compound guarantees health and long life. Save the children from all ills; they are the hope of our country.

The handsome residence of Mrs. Root, Oxford street, was the scene of a happy event on Tuesday morning, being the marriage of her daughter Ida to Mr. John A. Matheson, local editor of the Daily Times, of Aspen, Colorado. Mr. Matheson left Ingersoll about three years ago, and by push and energy has secured an honorable and lucrative position in Uncle Sam's domains. The happy couple left the same day for their home amid the well-wishes of many friends. Miss Root was one of Ingersoll's most admirable young ladies, and will be missed by many. The groom's supporter was Mr. Alex. Shaw, of Detroit, also an old Ingersoll boy. Thus they go—our loss, but a gain to the United States.

A GROCER'S EVIDENCE.

Some of the Taxes That Keep People Poor.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Molasses, sugar and coal oil, luxuries for the rich!

Mr. Carling compels us to pay 7½ cents a gallon for oil more than we should pay. No wonder Messrs. Fitzgerald, Minhinnick and Hodgens are "loyal." Mr. C. gives them 7½ cents a gallon on all the oil we burn.

Our sugar can always cost us 1 cent a pound higher than the United States, and Mr. Redpath has $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 that should have been saved to us. Don't the poor like sugar? Sugar is low now; true, but quite unusual. Would you like it always lower? See to it, then, that you get a change in the trade policy.

If we want a gallon of molasses from the United States Mr. Carling charges us 4 cents extra for it. The poor man's children know well the taste of syrup, and wouldn't they enjoy it good? We can get better quality across the line, but Mr. Carling compels us to pay 13 cents per gallon extra for it and 30 per cent. It's shut out. Mr. Redpath makes a good syrup, but the difference between his best and American best is very great.

Mr. Carling lets bananas in free. Why won't he let us have oranges and lemons free, too?

No poor man can pay 25 cents a package for rexwheat, but if Mr. Carling would allow free trade it would be 20 cents.

Pearline—The people will have it, and the 3 cents per pound duty don't keep it out.

The best brand of canned lobsters comes from the United States, but the 25 per cent. keeps it out of the poor man's reach.

Mr. Carling walks into my store and says, "Grocer, across the line the other day I tasted at dinner a sauce made by so-and-so, the finest I ever tried." "Sorry, sir, we can't handle those goods, and that's only one article in many we would delight to have on our shelves, but the duty keeps them out. We can't enjoy their good things, Mr. Carling, for what God hath joined together man hath put apart."

I think, Mr. Editor, I speak the truth, and about goods we have handled for twenty years. If you would like me to refer to some other lines on my shelves, say so at the end of this article in your paper. I would write more now, only I am not sure but this will go to the waste basket straight.

GROCER.

[Go ahead, gentle friend; this is no time for keeping back facts pertaining to the public welfare.—EDITOR ADVERTISER.]

THE CONSERVATIVE POLICY

As Laid Down in the Grand Opera House.

They Brand the Liberals as Traitors and Express a Desire to Fight for the Old Flag.

The Conservatives held a meeting in the Grand Opera House last evening. About 50 prominent followers of the Johns were seated on the stage and assisted materially in leading off the applause. The body of the theater and the first gallery were crowded, and the audience though somewhat noisy was good natured.

Chairman T. D. Hodgens opened the meeting shortly after 8 o'clock. Having been before the people several times, he said that it was not necessary for him to make any speech, so he accordingly called upon Mr. T. F. Kingsmill to address the audience.

Mr. Kingsmill, without any preliminary talk, plunged at once into his subject. If we are satisfied with our present form of Government, he said, we should all support Mr. Carling in this struggle. What have we to gain by this fad of reciprocity or annexation? Inside of six months after reciprocity is inaugurated every manufactory in this country will be closed up. The future of Canada was to him of the brightest nature, but it must be without reciprocity with the United States. The English market, he said, was ever open to Canadian natural products. Wonderful advancement had been made of late by Canadian cheese and bacon in the English market, and with respect to eggs the old country purchaser had found out that Canadian hens laid heavier eggs than their American competitors, and they were therefore sought after. The speaker pointed out that if the country was annexed to the United States Canadians would have to submit to a still greater discrimination against the wares of Great Britain. In concluding he announced that he was prepared to fight for the old flag if necessity for the same should arise. (Applause.)

School Trustee Yates was the second speaker. He stated that he was present more for the purpose of showing which side he was on than for anything else. Referring to his own works he said they had their inception with the National Policy and could not exist were that policy removed. To him it appeared that there was more competition in the United States to the square acre than there was in Canada to the square mile, and this would be found out to the sorrow of the Canadian manufacturers. He was talking in his own interests, and he had no doubt but that Mr. Gibbons while talking as he had been lately was doing the same, as he evidently knew that he was the commercial lawyer and wanted to be at several funerals when the walls of protection were pulled down. The speaker was cheered on taking his seat.

Mr. B. J. Nash was next called upon. He reviewed the history of the carriage industry and claimed that the development made was altogether due to the protective tariff. There was a good Canadian market, he said, but it was evident that London had a Rip Van Winkle in the carriage business who had not as yet found it out. If the people want to keep their factories open and running they should support the Conservative candidate.

F. A. Fitzgerald followed Mr. Nash. The difficulty, he said, with which the people would have to contend with in competition with the United States was not a lack of ability, but a disadvantage from the geographical position of the country. The Liberals, he said, were talking up what they called unrestricted reciprocity, but they only would have the exchange with the United States. He contended that it was the man that consumed luxuries that contributed to the Government funds rather than the man who used only the necessaries of life. The farmer, he said, could clothe himself from head to foot, with first-class clothes that did not pay a cent of duty. Nearly all the commodities in general use, he said, were free of duty; but the man that drank whisky or smoked his cigar was the one that paid the greater part of the revenue of the Government. If reciprocity was put into effect he estimated that at least 2,000 mechanics of the city would be thrown out of work and forced to seek employment elsewhere. (Applause.) He was confident that the Liberals would be taught a lesson on March 5 which would prevent them ever starting a cry in Canada which had the faintest ring of annexation in it.

Mr. J. R. Minhinnick, on being called upon, stated that if reciprocity were introduced his works would be closed up inside of 24 hours, and the 5,000 men employed at Petrolea and elsewhere would be thrown out of work. He was convinced that the United States was not a land flowing with milk and honey—(laughter)—as the Reformers termed it, but that there were more vacant factories and unemployed laborers and workmen in the United States according to the population than there were in Canada. He defended the action of the Macdonald Administration in springing on the elections, because there was, he said, an uneasiness in trade circles waiting the disposal of this question of reciprocity. Mr. Charles S. Hyman, he said, was a personal friend of his, and he had nothing to say against him, but his policy was rotten to the core.

Mr. Joseph Graham announced himself as always ready to fight for his flag and for his bread and butter. He ridiculed the idea that the Canadian people were suffering from any burden by the National Policy. The audience took considerable fun out of the speaker, which was greatly enjoyed by all present

Mr. H. [illegible]ott was the next speaker. He confessed that he did not understand what the Liberal party policy was, and afterwards exhorted the faithful to support the candidature of Mr. Carling.

Capt. Dillon, of Oshawa, was then called upon, and made a spirited speech, generously padded out with newspaper clippings. The question to be decided, he said, in conclusion, was whether the Canadian people were willing to live under the flag of the United States or that of England.

Hon. John Carling, on rising to address the meeting, received an ovation. He confined the first part of his speech to discussing the newspaper life of Mr. Farrer, of the Toronto Globe, much on the same lines as those laid down by Sir John Macdonald in Toronto on Tuesday evening. On asking the audience whether they were willing to adopt such tactics and sentiments, the house was about equally divided in a chorus of yes and no. Mr. Hyman, continued Mr. Carling, has indorsed Sir Richard Cartwright, and Sir Richard has indorsed Mr. Farrer because Mr. Farrer is his mouthpiece. The condition of the farmers and mechanics was, he said, much better than that of their neighbors in the United States. On taking his seat Mr. Carling was accorded a hearty round of applause. A large number rose and left the hall during the cheering.

Mr. Thomas Cowan, of Galt, arrived about this time and was received with manifestations of welcome. He was immediately called upon and in opening took occasion to eulogize "honest" John Carling, as he termed him. "The Government was willing," he said, to negotiate upon any matter which could advance the interests of the country, but the Government would never consent to allow any other country to regulate the Canadian tariff. He then referred to a statement made by Mr. David Cowan that the duty on iron hindered the manufacturer and increased the price of manufactured goods. The duty stimulated production and thus lessened the price of the article produced. He defended the National Policy and claimed that it had built up for Canadian manufacturers an unlimited market. The Canadian people, he said, were only beginning to know the value of their great inheritance and were not in a mood of surrendering it to the United States. In support of the statement that the policy of the Liberals would discriminate against the goods of Great Britain as in favor of those of the United States the speaker quoted extracts from the speech of Sir Richard Cartwright as reported in the Globe of Feb. 10. He was glad, however, that there was as much national sentiment in the ranks of the Liberal party as in the ranks of the Conservatives.

The meeting closed with cheers for the candidate and the Queen.

THE WESTERN FAIR.

Annual Meeting of the Association—Success of the Fair of 1890—The Financial Statement—Election of Officers.

The Western Fair representatives of 1891 turned out in full force at the annual meeting of the association in the City Hall yesterday afternoon. President A. W. Porte occupied the chair, and began proceedings by reading the directors' annual report. It set forth the success of the fair of 1890, which established the fact that a nine day's exhibition was what the people of the West desired. The display in all departments had been unequaled, one of the most important features being the introduction of machinery in the main hall, showing the processes of manufacture in various industries. This department should be added to. The advisability of providing additional grand stand accomodation, which last year had been inadequate, should be considered. Several improvements had been made on the premises, including a temporary addition to the sheep pens, owing to the large number of entries. A caretaker should be appointed who would keep everything in proper repair on account of the constant use of the park by citizens. In conclusion the report tendered thanks to the water commissioners for placing a fountain and pond in the park, to the prize and money contributors, and to the railway companies and press for their uniform kindness.

Treasurer D. McKenzie read the annual financial statement as follows:

Mr. David Mills, a widely-known drug traveler, of St. Catharines, writes to a friend from Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, South America, that he recently was walking on one of the principle streets in that city when he suddenly came face to face with A. M. Macrea, formerly secretary-treasurer of the St. Catharines Security Loan and Savings Company, who absconded with some $30,000 of the company's money in September last.

Death of Dr. Leitch, of Dutton.

DUTTON, Ont., Feb. 18.—Dr. Leitch has been in the habit of using morphine, and last night he took an overdose and never rallied. He died about 12 p.m. He was highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves a wife and three children.

It appears that a majority of the Brantford aldermen at Monday night's meeting voted for increasing the shop liquor licenses by two, but the motion was lost, as two-thirds did not vote for it. The action is likely to arouse a storm of indignation.

Mr. J. R. Allen, upholsterer, Toronto sends us the following: "For six or seven years my wife suffered with Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Inward Piles and Kidney Complaint. We tried two physicians and any number of medicines without getting any relief, until we got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

1st Lady.—Have you bought a new pair of Rubbers?

2d Lady.—Why no! These are the old ones—dressed with

Wolff's ACME Blacking

It makes them look like new; and my shoes, also dressed with it, hold their polish under the rubber, even should the snow creep in. It saves the leather, and waterproofs it; and my husband says it is just as good for HARNESS as for Shoes.

WE WISH TO SAY TO THE

ELECTORS OF LONDON AND SURROUNDING COMMUNITY

that we are still in the field. We thank you one and all for past favors and solicit a continuance of the same, which we trust, by good goods, right prices and fair dealing, to merit. We want you to come in and inspect our stock and prices. Our stock is so large that it would be impossible to give prices here. The best way is to see the price and article both at the same time. Then you can better judge of value. Our stock is very large and finely assorted, including books, all kinds of stationery, toys, dolls, games, fancy china, plush and fancy goods, and hundreds of other lines too numerous to mention. Come in and see us, anyhow. Do not have the idea that you are putting us to any trouble, for we consider it a pleasure to show you through.

Finance Notes.

The Toronto money market continues quiet, with no change in rates. Call loans are quoted at 5½ per cent.

In London the open market discount rate is higher at 2⅝c per cent. Call loans easy in New York at 2 to 2½ per cent.

There was an advance yesterday of ½c in the rate for demand sterling bills at New York, and a small shipment of gold is reported from that center.

Toronto Globe: The wholesale trade of the city has been quiet during the week under review. The election continues to be the disturbing factor, and no important transactions will be put through between now and the 5th prox. Prices are somewhat irregular, while the leading mercantile staples are not quotably changed. There are a few orders coming in for dressgoods and millinery. In groceries the business is small and prices steady. Teas and coffees are firm. Hardware quiet and steady. Payments generally show little improvements but some dealers say that they are fair. There has been a good demand for wheat, and, owing to increasing scarcity, prices are higher. Barley dull and lower. Oats, peas and rye are higher. Hog products are weaker. There is nothing doing in either wool or hides.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 18.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Looking over the amount of business done on this market during the past six days, it may be called a flat week. Deliveries in all lines were light, and the only notable feature was an advance in wheat of 1c to 2c per bush.

Peas have shown considerable strength and prices ruled firm; ordinary samples sold from $1 10 to $1 15. A few sales of seed peas were made at higher prices. Multipliers and Vines brought 70c, and Crowns and Mummies 75c.

Only a few lots of corn came forward, and sold at $1 10.

There is a good demand for hand-picked beans at $1 30 per bush.

Barley sold chiefly at $1 02 to $1 05 for feed, and $1 10 to $1 20 for malting.

Rye sold at $1 10 and buckwheat at $1 05.

Dressed hogs were weak and sold down to $5 25 to $5 50 some days; the average sales for the week were made from $5 25 to $5 60. Other meats were quiet and unchanged.

Hides and skins were in good demand and practically unchanged from last week.

Butter and eggs have been steady and quiet; both receipts and demand light.

Hay quiet at $6 to $7.

Vegetables and fruits steady; potatoes, 80c to 90c per bag; apples, $1 to $1 50.

IN A TERRIBLE STEW.

Sir John Macdonald was billed for Kingston to-night. But Mr. Carling went down to Toronto on Tuesday and pleaded with his leader to come to London and make an attempt to save him from the wreck.

Dr. Roome wrote that unless he could get a big lift in West Middlesex he was lost beyond redemption, and thus the pilgrimage was resolved on.

By the way, Dr. Roome has set the whole western district laughing over his assumption that the Anti-Combine Free Trade Patrons of Industry have everything in common with the high tax party that has nurtured Combines and opposed freedom of trade at every turn.

Perhaps when Sir John Macdonald reaches Strathroy he will tell the people in what manner he has lived up to the promise made in his telegram from that place to the New Brunswickers. It was dispatched in 1878, and it affirmed that "protection" did not mean an increase of taxation but only a "readjustment." Under this promise, what enormous burdens the people have been made to bear for the benefit of the Combines!

The D. D. G. M. at Nilestown.

Tuesday night Rt. Wor. Bro. A. B. Munson, D. D. G. M. of London district, paid an official visit to Nilestown Lodge. Among the visitors present were: Wor. Bro. R. Carrothers, W. A. Small and A. E. Peters, of London; Wor. Bros. R. Lane, R. Facy, T. Scott and R. Thomas, of Harrietsville, and Wor. Bro. G. Durand, of Dorchester. After the first degree had been exemplified by Wor. Bro. Wm. Wallace in a very creditable manner, the visitors with the members present were invited to the Royal Hotel, where a sumptuous dinner was served by the host, Geo. Byers. A pleasant hour was spent in social speech-making and singing.

East Middlesex Farmers.

A meeting of the East Middlesex Farmers' Institute was held at Ilderton yesterday, and was largely attended. The programme contained some interesting features, the subjects down for discussion at the morning session being: "Road-Making," by Capt. T. Robson, Ilderton; "Large or Small Farms for Profit," by Peter Elson, London; "Care and Feeding of Sheep," by Wm. H. Beattie, Wilton Grove. In the afternoon a special subject was taken up by Richard Gibson, Delaware: "Dairying," by John Geary, London; "General Farming, or the Best Method of the Different Branches of Agriculture," by C. M. Simmons, Ivan. The papers for the evening were: "Education," by C. M. Simmons, Ivan; and "Some Good Reasons for Young Farmers' Institutes," by H. Walton, Telfer;" also an address by A. T. Robson, Vanneck. This institute, as is well known, is one of the most progressive in the Province, and the discussions on this occasion proved, as on former occasions," highly instructive. Mr. J. K. Little is president, and Mr. T. Baty secretary.

Welcoming Their Pastor.

The members of the South London Baptist Church tendered their new pastor, Rev. Mr. Walker an "at home" last evening. The church looked very inviting and home-like—thanks to the efforts of the ladies in decorating it with flowers and plants—and the large audience that found its way thither was soon made to feel at ease. Mr. Harry Sutherland was appointed chairman, and after the opening services made a short speech. In the programme which followed Mrs. (Hon.) D. Mills, Mrs. Kilgour, Miss. Moorehouse, and the Misses Dadd took part. Rev. H. C. Speller and Rev. Ira D. Smith delivered addresses, and as each had been acquainted with Mr. Walker for several years their remarks were confined chiefly to relating anecdotes of his early life. Rev. James Ballantyne, of Knox Church, made a few well chosen remarks and welcomed the new pastor to the work in South London. Mention was made during the evening by the chairman of the unavoidable absence of Hon. David Mills and Mr. E. R. Cameron. Deacon Ferguson (who also took part in the programme) on behalf of the church, very warmly welcomed Mr. Walker, and made a few remarks regarding the work in the church during the past and the hearty co-operation which he might expect from all the members. Rev. Mr. Walker followed them, and good naturedly acknowledged the statements made concerning himself. He made an earnest address to his congregation and said he was confident that with the aid of the Spirit they could together be a power for good.

LOCAL CAMPAIGN JOTTINGS.

A British subject I was born,
  A British subject I will die,
And I'll wave aloft the dear old flag
  As long as there is "fat" to fry
Out of the hogs who eat the nuts

I'm up to snuff and the Loyalty cry
  Is plenty good enough for me.

The Conservatives of South Middlesex met in the Masonic Temple Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of nominating a candidate to contest the return of Mr. James Armstrong as Liberal representative for that riding. Mr. R. Gibson was elected chairman. The following names were brought before the meeting for the purpose of choosing a candidate: A. G. Chisholm, R. Whetter, J. R. Minhinnick, Ald. Judd, Ald. Thomas, R. M. McElheran and H. H. Judd, of Westminster; H. G. Lindsay, Mount Brydges; A. Parfitt, H. C. Garnett and R. Gibson, Delaware; Dougald Leitch, Caradoc; R. McEwan, Byron, and D. J. Donaldson, Caradoc. All the nominees retired except Mr. A. G. Chisholm, whose candidature was then accepted by the convention.

The Grand Opera House will no doubt contain a big audience this evening, as Mr. William Paterson, M.P., the fluent member for South Brant, will deliver an address on the great issue of the forthcoming election. Mr. John Marshall, Mr. Thos. H. Purdom and the people's candidate, Mr. C. S. Hyman, are among those announced to deliver short speeches. Conservatives will be made welcome, and ladies with their escorts who arrive before 7:50 will have seats reserved for them.

The Conservatives of London West met in Jeffries' Hall last night, about twenty being present. Delegates to the East Middlesex convention on Saturday were appointed. Committees and scrutineers for the different divisions were selected.

Call at Hyman's central committee rooms and see if your name is on the list.

The Toronto Mail is an independent journal, but it is being led astray by its London correspondent. He seems to be a prejudiced agent of the anti-reciprocity crowd, who is determined to keep Mail readers in the dark about the true state of affairs, and to make political capital for Mr. Carling, and even against Mr. Taylor, the independent candidate in East Middlesex.

For bracing up the nerves, purifying the blood and curing sick headache and dyspepsia, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Dr. W. M. Taylor, New York, says there are more shrines for the worship of Bacchus in one of our great cities than there were in the whole of ancient Greece.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, is ear-ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

TRAGEDY ON A TRAIN.

An Insane Man Kills the Conductor and a Passenger.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 18—As the Iron Mountain passenger train from St. Louis was pulling out of Gladstone station yesterday, Isadore Meyer, traveling man for Foster, Hilton & Co., of New York, was sitting in a palace car, when a man who sat eating lunch suddenly drew a pistol and fired, killing Meyer instantly. Conductor E. W. Leach was on the platform, and hearing the shot pulled the bell to stop the train. The man thereupon turned and fired at Leach, shooting him in the head. He fell to the platform dead. All the passengers rushed from the car, one of whose doors was locked by the porter, the murderer locking the other, leaving it with no occupant but the dead drummer and his murderer. The murderer was finally secured. He is an insane man named John W. Grenter, from Vincennes, Ind. Two weeks ago he was taken home from Fort Worth, Tex., in shackles, insanity having developed. After remaining a few days he managed to leave home and was returning to Texas, when the tragic affair occurred.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. AN ARMY PORTIA.

By Charles King, U. S. Army.
AUTHOR OF "THE COLONEL'S DAUGHTER," "THE DESERTER," "FROM THE RANKS," "DUNRAVEN RANCH," "TWO SOLDIERS," ETC.

And now, barely two months later, Georgia Marshall, for the second time in her life, finds herself an inmate of an army garrison and living a blithe and restful life after many years of thankless toil. She was not originally one of Mrs. Lane's intimates in the home of their girlhood. They had known each other as children, and had gone to the dancing-school together, but Mabel Vincent's "set" was made up mainly from the young people whose parents were wealthy, and Miss Marshall's father had to struggle hard for the wherewithal to "keep the wolf from the door." She was only 17 when compelled to shift for herself. Her mother had been taken from her years before. She had been a loving daughter to her sad-faced father, and had comforted and blessed his humble home to which he had been forced to retire after some disaster which involved all his savings. And here she worked and studied; and here she gave herself up to the task of cheering his declining years until the feeble thread of his weary life snapped suddenly assunder and she was left alone. For a moment she found a home in the army in the household of a relative stationed at the barracks near at hand. But, being determined to launch out for herself she had sought the position as teacher to the younger children of a wealthy manufacturer and of companion to his wife. This she had held for a few years, sorely tried at times, yet never complaining. She had ample opportunity, at least, to read, to study, and to estimate character Indeed, it was her keen perceptions that brought about the final rupture between herself and the wife of her employer, herself a distant connection. It was in the days of and early widowhood that Mrs. Lane found herself so frequently in Miss Marshall's company. During the winter the young widow had spent in the South her mother's health was failing, and between the invalid and Miss Marshall there had sprang up a friendship and intimacy for which the daughter at the time could hardly account. But when letter after letter came, telling how the girl managed to run over almost every day and spend an hour or two reading aloud, and then when Mrs. Vincent began to intrust much of her correspondence to these willing hands, Mabel had learned to understand how unselfish was her devotion; and after her mother's death there arose between these two young women—the one widowed, yet cherishing a new-born love, the other a wage-worker and fancy free—a firm friendship which gained strength with every month. It was to Georgia Marshall that Mabel, sobbing with emotion, had first confided the news of her engagement to Captain Lane, and was amazed, yet rejoiced at the fervor with which her friend had received the tidings. "At last!" she cried. "Oh, I am so thankful. He loved you so truly—so long."

And so, when from her brother Reginald's letter Mrs. Lane read the story of Georgia Marshall's difference with her employers, no time was lost in demanding that she should come to their army home for what Mabel termed a good long rest. She was determined that Georgia should have just so good a time, just as much attention, just as many devotees, as any girl that ever turned the heads of the bachelors of the Eleventh. For the week preceding the young lady's arrival she had been impulsively preparing the young fellows for Georgia's coming and sounding her praises to many a listening ear. Who would not listen to those pretty lips? And therefore there was a distinct sense of disappointment when that much lauded damsel stepped from the train at the station and was rapturously enfolded to Mabel's heart. Jim Wallace, who was Hearn's especial chum, and "Lazy" Lee declared that the new arrival was plain as a pipe-stem, except that her hands and feet were particularly slender and shapely, And Mr. Martin, something of a connoisseur, declared that her eyes were the only redeeming feature of her face. But these gentlemen had seen her only at the station the afternoon of her arrival after a dusty ride; and Hearn himself, being the officer of the guard, was not presented until the following day. That evening, however, he was her escort to the little gathering at the colonel's, and was far from content that she did not second the cordial invitation extended by the Captain and Mrs. Lane to come in and chat awhile.

But now, three days after her advent, as she comes down to the pretty breakfast-room, drinking in the soft balmy air that floats through the open window, Georgia Marshall's face is by no means plain. Her eyes are deep, dark, full of intelligence and life. Her mouth is large, but her teeth are pearly white and regular. The instant she speaks or smiles there is a transfiguration in her looks, and her manner is all unaffected grace and gladness Mabel raises her sweet face to meet the warm good-morning kiss. The captain lays down the letter he is conning over, and the perplexed expression vanishes, as he cordially greets her:

"Well, how did the heroine of Fort Ryan rest last night?"

For every one, it seems, is talking of her pluck and promptitude—for the oddity of the thing that she, a new arrival, should have been the only one to hear the brief colloquy between the unknown ruffian and the corporal of the guard, that she should have been the first to reach and succor the still senseless soldier, Brent.

CHAPTER IV.

Out along the grassy slopes the liveliest of trumpet-calls were ringing. Long lines of mounted skirmishers were advancing in mimic attack against the bluffs to the north of the wide valley. Assembly and deploy, rally and charge, followed each other in quick succession, and the piff-paff of carbines far out on the eastern flank was answered by a sweeping dash of whirling sabres and thunder of galloping hoofs. Here and there the dark hues of the guidons lent color to the somber effect of service dress and treeless prairie. And along the bold crests that spanned the northern sky-line groups of gayly-attired spectators, where parasol and fan, scarf and handkerchief, seemed fluttering in constant motion, watched the busy scene on the flats below. Several buggies and carryalls had driven out from the neighboring town; three or four ambulances and Concord wagons were present from the post itself; and one light open barouche, drawn by two stylish bays and driven by a dignified negro, was evidently a center of attraction for many eyes. Herein was seated Mrs. Lane and her guest Miss Marshall, with their near neighbors, the wife and sister of Mr. Wharton, first lieutenant of Lane's regiment. Several ladies from the fort had alighted from their various vehicles and were gathered in lively conversation about the barouche. Others, seated along the crest, were watching the evolutions, and commenting, as is their wont, on the horsemanship or voice of this officer or that. Every now and then some town buggy would drive close beside the one stylish-looking carriage, and its occupants would gaze with much curiosity upon the party therein. As a rule these gazers were women, possibly friends of some of the post people, and this was not a matter to be much objected to. But one buggy drawn by a gray horse, contained two men whose appearance Miss Marshall's keen eyes had noted as they passed the first time and scrutinized as they came down the next. One was flashy in dress; both were loud in their talk and swaggering in manner; both were smoking cigars of questionable origin, and one of them had the unmistakable cut of the German Jew. Anyone could "place" him, even had he maintained silence, while, on the other hand, his coarse tones would in the blackest darkness have proclaimed his class. Both times they passed they stared boldly at the occupants of the carriage and critically inspected the team and appointments — the second time driving alongside and perceptibly slackening up to have a better look. Mrs. Lane flushed under such bold scrutiny, and the other ladies looked embarrassed and annoyed.

Mothers

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation; its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mother's friend. 25 doses, 35 cents.

Mr. Edward Bellamy is reported to look back upon "Looking Backward" with positive disgust. It is not probable that he repudiates its doctrine, but he is surfeited with its popularity. Yet there are lots of authors who would like the sensation of something of the same kind of an embarrassment of riches.

The great lung healer is found in excellent medicine sold as Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

Radam's Microbe Killer.

The most important discovery of this century. New theories are usually received with distrust. Dr. Koch comes with his lymph, but Radam has long been curing consumption and all so-called incurables with his Microbe Killer. There is but one disease—microbe, decay, fermentation; there is but one remedy needed—Microbe Killer. Investigators have no need to go outside Toronto or London to learn of the most positive cures. All disease gives way before this germ destroyer, imparting life and health. This is no short-lived fad or quack remedy. It cures all diseases. Closest investigation solicited.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Mr. Thomas F. Kingsmill arrived home yesterday from the European markets.

—There should be a big audience at the Opera House to-night to hear Mr. William Paterson, M.P.

—Rev. George Brown, formerly pastor of Askin Street Church, who has been in the city for some time past suffering from sciatica, is recovering.

—D. S. Cavin, Canadian passenger agent of the Rock Island Railway, has resigned and accepted the position of colonization agent, C. P. R. office, Toronto.

—The employes of the London Furniture Company, who for some weeks have been working only six hours a day, commenced this week to work eight hours.

—Dan. Curtin, the man who is said to have made a wholesale robbery of cigars in Toronto, and was arrested here was taken back yesterday by a Queen City officer.

—At the second annual convention of the Ontario Association of Architects, which opened Tuesday at Toronto, the president, W. G. Storm, referred in feeling terms to the removal by death of one of the vice-presidents of the association, Mr. Geo. F. Durand, of this city.

—Rev. Rural Dean Wade, of Woodstock, who excited so much attention recently by inviting a Presbyterian minister to preach and partake of sacrament in his church, and by defending with considerable vigor his action in this respect, has received a call to Simcoe as successor of the late John Gemley, formerly of this city.

—The advance sale of reserved seats for the J. C. Duff Opera Company with Miss Marie Tempest, opened at 10 a.m. yesterday, and the indications are that the engagement will be an artistic and financial success. The "Red Hussar," which will be given on Friday evening and Saturday matinee, has a decided martial swing, and wherever it has been produced has immediately become popular. Great interest is taken in Miss Tempest, both on account of her splendid record in London and from the fact that she has been engaged to replace Lillian Russell at the Casino next season. Besides a strong chorus of 50 voices and an orchestra of twenty musicians, there are several well-known principals, such as Chas. Bassett, John A. Mackay, Miss Lenore Snyder, Miss Irving and Wm. McLaughlin. On Saturday evening "Dorothy" will be presented with Miss Tempest in the title role, in which she appeared 900 times at the Lyric Theater, London.

The McCloskey Separator.

Mr. McCloskey has produced an article which meets with great favor from the farming community wherever it has been tried. The patentee is a practical man, and he knows his business well. Not only is his separator in favor in Canada, but last year, in the face of a duty of 40 per cent., he sent the machine into the States. "Remove the tariff," he says, "and I will compete with the best of them on the other side."

Strathroy Items.

Anniversary services will be held in the Strathroy Baptist Church on Sunday, when sermons will be preached both morning and evening by Rev. A. H. Munro, of St. Thomas, and in the afternoon by Rev. W. G. Jordan, of Strathroy.

Rev. J. Vanwyck, B.A., of St. Catharines, preached anniversary sermons in the Frank Street Methodist Church, both morning and evening on Sunday. The large congregations enjoyed and appreciated the able discourses of an old pastor who had served them for five years. On Monday evening an oyster supper was held in the church, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Aylesworth, presiding. Besides a literary and musical programme, an excellent address was delivered by Mr. Vanwyck.

English National Concert.

A very good programme was contributed by local talent at the English national concert in Victoria Hall last evening, it being the fourth of the Y. M. C. A. course of entertainments. The first selection, "The Fisherman," by Mrs. Keltie and Mr. William Skinner was encored. Miss Christina Hiscott followed with "Who Will Buy My Violets?" in her pleasing alto, which was heartily applauded, as were her subsequent renditions. Mr. Fred Abbott scored a decided success, more particularly in his humorous impersonation, "People whom we see on the platform." Mrs. Keltie and Mr. Skinner acquitted themselves well in the solo parts, and the audience was highly pleased with the whole presentation. The musical director was Mr. W. J. Birks.

Related in This City.

The gentleman referred to in the following paragraph from the London (Eng.) Star is a cousin of Mr. M. F. O'Mara, of this city: "The newest tenor, Mr. Joseph O'Mara, who has been selected by Sir Arthur Sullivan to alternate the part of Ivanhoe with Mr. Ben. Davies, is a native of the city which gave birth to another famous singer—Catherine Hayes. He is a son of the mayor of Limerick, who, a few years ago, distinguished himself by refusing to pay the 'extra police tax,' and a brother of Mr. Stephen O'Mara, late M.P. for Limerick. Another brother of the new tenor is Mr. James O'Mara, a flourishing London merchant, who is a caustic humorist, and the fidus achates of a large section of the temporarily divided Eighty-six. Mr. Joseph O'Mara is a young man who has studied hard at Milan. He is of medium height, stoutly built, and good looking, as a tenor ought to be. He wears a neat black mustache, which leaves him quite an Italian appearance. He can sing 'The Wearin' of the Green' with as much spirit and fervor as his friend and fellow countryman, Ludwig."

Mantell in "Hamlet."

The successes which have attended Robert Mantell in his productions of "Tangled Lives," "Monbars" and "Othello" are totally eclipsed by his ideal "Hamlet." A large audience greeted this favorite artist at the Grand Tuesday evening, and the verdict expressed at the conclusion of the performance was that they had never seen Mantell to better advantage, and indeed by many that they had never witnessed a more meritorious and faithful portrayal of the character Hamlet than that given by Mantell. His interpretation of the role, though somewhat original, is entirely in sympathy with the immortal author's text, and is throughout a careful, artistic, forcible, though natural, delineation of the character of the melancholy Dane. He gives Hamlet a light colored wig and complexion which caused his piercing eyes to stand out painfully observant. His dialogue with the father's ghost, when upbraiding his mother, was a powerful piece of acting, and has seldom been equaled in this city. The applause was unbounded, Mantell being called before the curtain at the conclusion of each act. The company is much above mediocrity.

"SPEED THE PLOW."

This grand old farmer's sentiment should live forever.

Success to the industrial plowman means success to all.

Give the Canadian farmer fair play and a return of the good old times. Our factories will be busy, wages will be good to workingmen, merchants and storekeepers will be prosperous, farm lands will go up in value, town and village lots will sell at higher prices, and money will be plenty and circulate briskly.

Merchants and manufacturers have a common interest in the well-doing of our farmers.

Workingmen of all trades should vote and work for more money in the farmer's pocket.

More money in the farmer's pocket means the putting up new housrs, new stores, new wagons, new harness, new buggies, new organs, new furniture, and so on.

This means more employment for labor, and more employment for labor means more wages.

Unrestricted Reciprocity will enable our woolen mills to work night and day and increase the price of wool.

"The Reformers' battle cry is "Farmers' rights, and wrongs to none."

A Tragedy.

"Mamma," said a 6-year-old youngster in a loud whisper, so that everyone in the car could hear, "look at the man."

"Yes, dear," answered his mother, who was reading.

The train dashed around a curve and sent the boy's feet into one corner and his head against his mother.

"Yes, dear," she answered gently, still reading.

"The train shot into a tunnel, plunged through the darkness and drove out into the sunlight.

"Yes, dear," she said, turning a page.

"He's got red whiskers," said the loud whisper.

"Yes, dear."

"They're awful red."

"Yes, dear," and people began to realize that the mother was not listening to what her darling said. Those who were fathers and mothers smiled in anticipation. The red-whiskered man studied his paper carefully.

"They're fiery red."

"Yes, dear," sweetly.

"They're redder'n my father's."

"Yes, dear," and another page was turned.

"Is he any relation to my father?"

"Yes, dear."

"They're awful red."

"Yes, dear," quietly.

"Will I have red whiskers like that when I'm a man."

"Yes, dear."

"But I don't want em," whimpering.

"There, dear, don't talk so much. Mamma is reading,"

"Do you like 'em so red?"

"Yes, dear," soothingly.

"I don't. Maybe he paints 'em. Does he paint 'em?"

"Yes, dear."

"I won't have to paint mine, will I?"

"Yes, dear," fondly.

"But I don't want to. Does papa paint his?"

"Yes, dear."

"Oh, I won't paint mine."

Mamma begins a new page.

"When will I have to paint 'em?"

Mamma does not hear him.

"Will I have to paint 'em as red as his?"

"Yes, dear."

"Mamma, look at him. He's mad."

"Yes, dear."

"His face is redder'n his whiskers."

"Yes, dear."

"He's going out of the car."

"Yes, dear."

"Mamma, how often does he have to paint 'em?"

"Paint what, dear?" asked mamma, dropping the book in her lap and looking at the child.

"His whiskers. You said he painted 'em, and he got mad and went away."

But mamma's face looked as if it were painted scarlet, and she read steadily for one hour without answering a single question.
