Seize 500 Bottles of Scotch Whiskey On Train In City

OFFICERS FIND CARGO WORTH $8,000 IN BERTH

Pullman and Railroad Employees Disclaim Knowledge of Montreal Shipment.

ALL DENY OWNERSHIP

London License and Police Officials Question Passengers in Vain.

Five hundred bottles of excellent Scotch whiskey "laid" carefully away in 21 suitcases, were seized in the Pullman car of the C. P. R. train from Montreal, arriving in London at 11:15 Wednesday morning, by License Inspector J. E. Keenleyside, Inspector Lucas and Constables Singleton and Leach of the London police force. The whiskey, worth about $2,900 in Canada, would bring from $8,000 to $10,000 in the U. S. A. if it was distributed to the right persons, police officials declare.

Not a soul on the train cared to be named owner of the suitcases, which were piled in two berths. The colored porter even rolled his eyes into the heavens, as he disclaimed all knowledge of the "velvety" Scotch.

"Ah tells you, Miah Officals, Ah know nothing about dis yeh liquor," earnestly informed the custodian of the whiskey when questioned by the officers. "Ah swears unto Hebin dis yeh stuff am a surprise and a revelation to me."

The only passengers in the pullman at the time, a lady and a gentleman, both declared firmly that they knew nothing about the whiskey, nor did they know who was supposed to occupy the section.

The officers claimed that the conductor could throw no light on the subject, while each and every passenger in the day coaches were shocked to think that they would be even suspected of taking liquor through to the States.

It is said that a number of passengers grew pale and nervous when questioned, and heaved sighs of relief when the officer passed on without examining their club bags and suitcases.

The seizure, the largest made by Inspector Keenleyside for some time, was conveyed to the Ontario dispensary office here for storage purposes.

MAN KILLED WHEN ENGINE HITS TRAIN

Toronto, May 31.—Herbert Delayer, C. P. R. yardman, 52 years old, was killed this morning, while acting as conductor on a freight train being transferred from North Toronto to Jay street.

The train was backing on to a track when a yard engine approaching side-swiped the caboose on the rear of the freight. The caboose was overturned, and Delayer was found pinned between the car and rails.

Death was probably instantaneous. Delayer had been with the C. P. R. 25 years.

WELSH OFFICER EXECUTED.

London, England, May 31.—Major Herbert Rouse Armstrong, a leading Welsh soldier, who was convicted last month on a charge of poisoning his wife, was executed in the Gloucester jail this morning.

DENY GUILT AS CROWN BEGINS WYOMING CASE

Four London Men Accused of Bank Robbery Appear Calm in Court.

DEFENCE READY TO WAR

Claims Crown Witnesses Identified Port Huron Man "By Mistake."

Special to London Advertiser.

Wyoming, May 31.—When the crown calls its witnesses this afternoon in an effort to show good and sufficient reason why Edward McMillen, Jack Yohn, William Ayers and George Anderson of London, should be committed for trial on a charge of robbing the local branch of the Bank of Toronto in October last, counsel for the defence will endeavor to show the evidence in the evidence.

While the prosecution claims that a party of Watford motorists have already identified at least three of the four prisoners as the occupants of the automobile they assisted on the morning of the robbery, the defence alleges that their evidence should not be accepted seriously.

The defence states further that Tuesday morning when the Watford witnesses viewed the prisoners at the Lambton county jail they unanimously selected as one of the bandits a Port Huron resident, who has been in custody for more than two months past, awaiting deportation proceedings.

Subsequently, the defence asserts, the crown witnesses changed their opinion, explaining that they had made a mistake, as he had "just liked like" one of the men they saw in the car the morning of the robbery.

All members of the Toronto bank staff, as well as the Watford motorists, are on hand to give evidence. Brought from Sarnia, closely guarded by provincial and county officers, the four prisoners presented a neat appearance in court and appeared little perturbed by the gravity of the charge against them, or the possible outcome of the trial, all pleading not guilty.

FORTY KILLED IN RIOT AT MACAO

Hong Kong, May 31.—Forty persons were killed and more than 100 wounded in the fighting on the island of Macao recently, which resulted in the declaration of martial law. Macao is a Portuguese concession, and the trouble is said to have arisen when Chinese women were insulted by the African police employed by the Portuguese.

Finds Rattlesnake In Bed When He Wakes

PORTERVILLE, Cal., May 31.—To awaken from a night of peaceful sleep to find a rattlesnake coiled at the foot of his bed, apparently preparing to make a spring at its victim, was the harrowing experience yesterday morning of R. E. Woods. Woods fortunately had a revolver beneath his pillow, and shot the rattler.

CAPTAIN CUTTLE WINS DERBY IN FIELD OF 30

Viscount Astor's "Tamar" Finishes Second and "Craigagower" Third.

Epsom Downs, May 31.—Captain Cuttle, owned by Lord Wooler, and ridden by Steve O'Donoghue, champion jockey, won the English Derby today.

Viscount Astor's Tamar was second, and B. Walker's Craigagower was third, St. Louis finishing fourth. Thirty horses ran.

Captain Cuttle ran third in the 2,000 guinea stakes, the opening classic of the British racing season, run at Newmarket April 26.

The betting on Captain Cuttle was ten to one against, Tamar ten to one, and Craigagower twenty to one against. Captain Cuttle won easily by four lengths. Three lengths separated the second and third horses. St. Louis was close up, finishing fifth.

Want Askin Street Pastor To Remain In London

Methodists Draft Stations.

Seventy-nine changes in the London Conference of the Methodist Church were made on the first draft of pastors for Western Ontario, which was announced Wednesday morning.

The committee wrestled with the task of stationing pastors in London Conference Monday night, Tuesday morning, afternoon, and night, and finally completed their work at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday.

A significant feature of the draft is the stationing of Rev. J. T. Cosby Morris at Askin Street Methodist Church here for a fifth year. This recommendation will be laid before the conference, but its fate lies in doubt, as a fifth year for a Methodist pastor is frowned upon by the conference unless under special circumstances.

However, Mr. Morris desires to remain in his present charge another year, and his congregation desires that he do so, and under these conditions, it is said that the conference is likely to stretch a point.

Six changes are scheduled for the London district in the first draft, including ratification of the appointment of Rev. J. Franklin Beycraft of Victoria Street Church, Goderich, to First Church, London, posting of O. Gerald Lawson, B.A., to the new church at Ealing, and new pastors to be stationed at Siloam, Thamesford, Lambeth and Byron.

The time of the stationing conference is likely to stretch a point.

CLAIMS WAR WAGED BECAUSE WORLD HAD FORGOTTEN GOD

Rev. Geo. Elliott of New York Asserts Church Is Worst Mobilized Organization in World Today. At London Conference of Methodist Church.

Ministerial sessions of the London conference of the Methodist Church, with approximately 250 pastors of Western Ontario registered in attendance, were opened in Centennial Church Wednesday morning. Rev. George Elliott, D.D., of New York, editor of the Methodist Review, opened the session by a devotional address.

Dr. Elliott announced his topic as "Intercessory Prayer as a Factor in World Reconstruction," stating that during his visit to the conference he will preach a series of sermons on "The Relation of the Christian Church to Present World Order."

He declared that the church is the worst mobilized organization in the world today, and urged that every effort be put forth to eliminate this condition.

"It is only a few years since the most brutal war in history was fought," began Dr. Elliott, "and although the war has ended, the moral effect of it is still alive. The spirit of autocracy of the Romanoffs and Hohenzollerns is still present."

"Follow this war with a holy war of saving and redeeming," he pleaded. "The moral and spiritual causes of the war were not that God had forgotten the world, but that the world had forgotten God."

"When I was attending university in the nineteenth century, science was the white-winged angel of light that was going to redeem the world. In the twentieth century, it was the same science that loomed on the world's very fields of hell."

"Science has failed, commerce has failed, business has failed, everything has failed, but Christ has not failed, and he will not fail until he has set righteousness in the earth."

"The church has never been mobilized to do the work it should do," concluded the speaker. "It is the duty of the church to be mobilized."

Conference Sidelights.

WEDNESDAY morning at the London Methodist Conference saw much hand-shaking and renewing of old acquaintanceships on the part of both ministerial and lay delegates, who were continually arriving throughout the morning, in order to be present at the commencement of the general sessions Thursday.

The halls of Centennial Methodist Church were filled with groups of laymen and clergy who evinced much delight at the reunion, and it was to be plainly seen that in moving away from a charge a minister does not lose his interest in his congregation, for one heard a rapid fire of eager questions from minister to another, concerning the members of past charges, and changes and progress in the various churches.

JOHN C. HAY, of Listowel, who arrived Wednesday morning, can lay claim to being one of, if not the longest continuous lay delegates to London Conference. For thirty years Mr. Hay has never missed a conference meeting, and for the past five years he has been member of the general conference. A reputation for hard work in the cause of Methodism was awarded Mr. Hay many years ago, and as yet there is no cessation in his activity in connection with the conference. Mr. Hay was the first president of the laymen's organization in connection with London Conference, and has for the past sixteen years been a member of the executive of the superannuation fund board.

MR. Andrew Vennings, of Belmont, who is over 90 years old, is probably the oldest lay delegate present at the conference. Mr. Vennings has been coming to the conference for 47 years, attending his first session in 1859, the conference at which the union of the two branches of Methodism in Canada, the Wesleyans and the New Connections took place.

Coming to Canada from England when only 14 years of age, Mr. Vennings has been associated with the work of the Methodist Church practically all his life. "When I came over," he said, "I didn't fancy I should have any life left for any church. We were seven weeks and two days on the voyage, and we encountered such great storms that we hardly dared hope to reach land."

REV. A. G. Harris of Thamesford, is indeed one of the fathers of the conference, for he has been 53 years in the ministry, all of which with the slight exception of three

Old Broadway Wet, But Everybody Runs Away

NEW YORK, May 31.—The street came to life and wriggled under his feet like a big snake yesterday afternoon as John Hess, a jewelry salesman, walked across Broadway at Eighty-ninth street.

He dodged an automobile, which was pitching and tossing like a tugboat in a choppy sea, and scrambled to the northwest corner just as a series of fountains shot up 20 feet high from the half-inch holes in a sealed manhole cover.

A 36-inch main, one of the chief arteries of Manhattan's water supply, had burst five feet below the street level. For more than an hour it boiled into Broadway, casting up about 5,000,000 gallons of water, according to Deputy Chief Engineer Brush of the water department.

The fire underwriters will send an inspector to London to go into the matter of the reduction of the fire-fighting force of the city, and the closing of two outlying fire halls.

A letter to this effect has been received by Mayor Wilson.

The underwriters received a report from their local representative outlining the details of the council's contemplated action and a letter was then sent to the mayor asking that he present the details. These were sent.

"I told them that we were centralizing the force with a view to more efficiency," said the mayor. "And in return they informed me that some time in the future they would send a man here to go into the whole matter."

"It may mean an increase in the key rate, I don't know as yet," was the statement given over the phone by an official of the underwriters.

He said that London's key rate for the congested area was 60 and the outlying areas 40. This was regulated by the size and efficiency of the fire department, and the fire hazard. He could not say offhand whether the changes in the department would mean an increase or not.

Find Arm of Law Is Still "On Job" In London

Nab "Dusty" After Year.

Much fiction has been written about the all-powerful "arm of the law, which is always on the job year in and year out," and quite frequently the adage is proven true in everyday life.

Thirteen months ago Hiram "Dusty" McGlone of this city was summoned to appear in court on a charge of selling liquor without a license, contrary to section 40 of the Ontario Temperance act. The summons was served on McGlone by the police, "requesting" him to appear in court on April 16, 1921, but McGlone hustled off in the cool of the evening and did not return "arrearin'" to the old home town till last Saturday.

Chief Birrell and his men then quickly proved that they have wonderful memories for names and faces by picking up Mr. McGlone, who appeared in court Wednesday morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He asked for bail, which was fixed at $500 cash, in the meantime the prisoner was remanded for a week.

"I can get it," was McGlone's confident answer as he asked if his father-in-law had put in an appearance, the chief replying in the negative.

"Why didn't you appear when summoned?" queried the bench.

"My brother was sick and sent for me, that's why I went," stated McGlone.

"That's not the evidence I have, your worship," cut in Chief Birrell. "My information is that he skipped out because of the summons."

"If you are ready to go on with the case before a week, it can be arranged, chief," stated the magistrate. It is alleged that McGlone sold liquor to several young men in London South.

DETROITER KILLED IN MOTOR RACE

Kansas City, Mo., May 31.—Charles M. Reynolds of Detroit, Mich., was killed and William Jackals, of St. Paul, sustained three fractured ribs when their cars crashed on the sixth lap of a six-mile automobile race at Independence, Mo., yesterday.

The drivers had swerved to avoid hitting a board torn from the fence by a machine ahead of them. Reynolds' car was demolished. He died beneath the wreckage with a crushed skull.

WILL NOT PAY UNTIL COUNCIL EXTENDS TIME

Deputation Arrives at City Hall Early Wednesday to Continue Battle.

TURNED DOWN BY BOARD

Citizens Plan Second Open Air Mass Meeting To Air Grievances.

North End residents, who Tuesday night were practically refused assistance by the city board of works in regard to extending the time for the payment of their sewers and pavements, will decline to pay their taxes until the council takes action on their case.

They are practically all agreed on this and early Wednesday morning it was said that only one taxpayer remained to be got into line. It is proposed to stage a second outdoor mass meeting Wednesday night, if the residents can be got together, to go further into the matter.

Bright and early Wednesday morning members of Tuesday night's deputation were on hand at the city hall and preparing to carry their battle further because of the failure of the board of works to act Tuesday night.

There seems little hope of getting the time on the paving debentures extended, but several of the aldermen who were interviewed by the deputation Wednesday seemed to lean towards an extension of the sewer debentures from 10 to 30 years.

Reveal New Facts

Some new and interesting facts were brought out by the deputation.

One is that Ed. Lance, former secretary of the soldiers' aid commission, is building a house on Huron street. He is billed $180 a year for the sewer, but cannot use the sewer, as there is no water on Huron street, and he has been asked to pay another $400 to get the water mains extended.

Charles O'Brien owns a lot on St. George street, which has been for sale at $300 for a couple of years, with no takers. His tax for the sewer is $360.

Two reasons were advanced by the deputation in their complaints Wednesday morning for the high cost of the sewer.

Years ago when the trunk sewer was laid on Victoria street, an extension was turned north on Richmond street, but it was of shallow construction. The result, they claim, is that the sewer would only drain the high part of the street, and ultimately the point was reached where the road was so low the sewer had to be stopped.

When the Richmond street pavement was proposed, it was necessary to start a new sewer about Sherwood and run north to Regent and Huron, and then west to St. George. At St. George and Victoria a pumping plant was installed to pump the sewerage into the other sewer.

Condemn Drain Work.

The residents claim that the faulty laying of the Richmond street extension of the Victoria sewer years ago made it necessary that five blocks of sewer be laid, four of which front on vacant property, which is not worth the cost of the sewer to day, and can be bought for less than the total sewer cost.

Their second contention is that the part of the sewer in the flats was Turn to Page 11, Column 4.

STATES BRITAIN TO HOLD DUBLIN IF TREATY FAILS

Churchill Declares Establishment of Irish Republic Would Be Opposed.

DENY ISSUING LEAFLET

Free State Leaders Repudiate Authorship of Appeal to Republican Voters.

London, England, May 31.—The provisional Irish free state government did not, as was charged, issue a leaflet urging Irish voters to support the treaty conditions in the coming elections on the ground that they could thus secure a republic "through the safe, short road of the treaty."

This assurance has been received by Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies, he informed a questioner in the House of Commons this morning.

When the Commons met at 11 o'clock today, a full attendance in anticipation of the Irish debate, the gravity of the situation plainly causing deep concern in all quarters of the House.

The importance of the occasion was emphasized by the presence in the peers' gallery of Viscount Fitzmaurice, lord lieutenant of Ireland, and Lord Chancellor Birkenhead. Michael Collins, Arthur Griffith and Eamon Duggan, signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty, and moving spirits in the provisional free state government, occupied seats in the gallery reserved for distinguished strangers.

Secretary Churchill, following his statement on the Irish situation, reiterated that Great Britain would not tolerate the establishment of a republic in Ireland. He said the British troops remaining in Dublin were secure, and were awaiting eventualities.

He would hold Dublin. "In the event a republic is set up," added the colonial secretary, "it is the intention of the British government to hold Dublin as one of the preliminary and essential steps of military operations."

"No one disputed," continued Mr. Churchill, "that the wish of the Irish people was reconciliation, which would give Ireland her freedom, her place in the world, and the hope of final unity. Up to ten days ago the leaders of the provisional government had appeared to be resolved to march steadily forward through a free election and put down, if necessary by force, all armed persons who tried to prevent them."

Strikes At Treaty. "The agreement reached between Michael Collins, head of the provisional government and Eamon De Valera, the republican leader, however, struck directly at the provision of the treaty," Mr. Churchill declared. "The imperial government would not in any circumstances agree to deviate from the treaty. Mr. Churchill declared."

"It is almost certain that the Irish people will not be able to say in an intelligible way whether they accept or reject the treaty offered by Great Britain. A certain number of labor or independent candidates may doubtless secure election, but it is difficult to see how the parliament resulting from the election, and the government to be based on that parliament after the election, can have either representative or democratic quality or authority as it is usually understood."

"The provision of the agreement that four anti-treaty men will be included in the government after the election strikes directly at the provisions of the treaty."

After Secretary Churchill's speech, Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins said the colonial secretary had made a perfectly fair presentation of the situation.

Mr. Collins will return to Ireland this afternoon, but Mr. Griffith will remain in London for a few days.

TABLET TO PERPETUATE MEMORY OF TEACHERS

Inscription To Be Placed Over Crib in War Memorial Children's Hospital.

The inscription on the tablet over the crib which the London Women Teachers' Guild is endowing in the War Memorial Children's Hospital will tell all who pause to read that the gift has been intended to perpetuate the memory of the women teachers who have died in the service in the city, and those of the future.

Decision regarding the inscription was made at a meeting of the new executive, held on Tuesday afternoon, when plans were also made for dramatic work in the fall, and for the annual picnic, to be held at Springbank on June 12. The resignation of the treasurer, Miss Edna MacCallum, was regretfully accepted, and Miss Vola Macdonald appointed in her place. The following standing committees were appointed with power to add: Social, Miss Isabel Craig, Miss Maybelle Stuart; properties, Miss Irene Stockwell; Miss Tarry; publicity, Miss Evelyn Johnson; Miss Laura Carson; Miss Knott; Miss Windsor; Miss Loney; Miss Chapman; Miss McLeish; Miss Munro; literature, Miss McLeish; Miss Yeates; Miss Woolverton; Miss McMechan; Miss Upshall and Mrs. Cowley.

WHAT IS A MILLENNIUM? "Popp, inquired little Clarence Lilywhite, 'what am a millennium?' 'Sho,' said his parent, 'Doan you know what a millennium am chile? It's jes about the same as a centennial, only it's got mo' legs.' Perfect Diamonds are the same as other diamonds, only more valuable and much brighter. These are sold by John A. Nash, Jeweler, 152 Dundas street. 'Where you will eventually buy.'

Raney Has Not As Yet Entered Appeal in Race Track Tax Case

TORONTO, May 30.—No appeal having been entered by Attorney-General W. E. Raney against the dismissal pro forma by Mr. Justice Riddell of the provincial treasurer's application for the payment out of court of $183,000, collected by the Ontario Jockey Club at the Woodbine under the act which imposed a tax of five per cent on race track wagers, the court of appeal took no action when the matter came up here this afternoon.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., appeared for the O. J. C., and N. W. Rowell, K.C., and J. T. White for the attorney-general.

Chief Justice Meredith asked if the attorney-general had appealed, and Mr. Rowell replied in the negative.

"If there is no appeal by defendant, I don't see what this court has to do with it," said the chief justice.

The result, so far, is that the money remains in court, with an action pending to test the constitutionality of the tax act.

AMENDMENT TO SALARY BONUS ITEM DEFEATED

W. F. Nickle Argues in Vain Against $67,000 Supplementary Estimate.

HAY SUPPORTS DRURY

Middlesex Agrarians, However, Lend Aid To Conservative Member.

TORONTO, May 30.—The amendment moved by W. F. Nickle, Conservative member for Kingston, to strike out the supplementary estimate of $67,000 providing for a $600 bonus for members of the house was defeated early this morning after the Legislature had debated the issue since early in last night's session. The salary bonus was therefore carried. Premier Drury justified the bonuses as necessary.

Mr. Nickle took the ground that members were elected on the basis of the $1,400 indemnity, and so understood it when elected. They ought not, he said, to take the ground when elected that $1,400 was not sufficient. They ought not to be party to any vote that would directly or indirectly benefit themselves.

Says Country Suffering. Mr. Nickle referred to the losses being incurred at the present day by all classes of the community, the unemployment throughout the province, and the soldiers marching to Ottawa taking the position that they were suffering from the ingratitude of their country.

The indemnity ought not to constitute a salary, he said, or rather it had never been recognized as such. He agreed, however, that changed conditions made it worth while considering at this date whether there ought not to be a revision of indemnities, and to that end he suggested that the prime minister at the next session name a committee to consider the matter, together with the remuneration of ministers of the crown, whom, he said, ought to get a salary such as would attract the best men within the province.

That committee could make recommendations in time to have the next parliament properly constituted in the matter of drawing an increased indemnity. Increases ought not to be undertaken in piecemeal manner. He urged that the Legislature "get away from these periodical, irregular, unfortunate bonuses or gifts."

J. G. Lethbridge (Middlesex), in seconding the motion to strike out the item, said he thought this was no time to be granting bonuses or increased indemnities.

JOINT OPPOSES BONUS. John Joyn (North Bruce) said that when he was elected he understood the indemnity was to be $1,400, and therefore he did not feel that he should take part in raising that amount.

Sam Clarke (Northumberland) wanted to know who could raise the indemnity if not the members of the Legislature.

J. C. Brown (U. E. O. North Middlesex) said that although there was a great deal to be said in favor of the increase, he was elected at $1,400, and felt that should be the amount of his compensation.

E. Wellington Hay (Liberal leader) supported the item and said that he and the Liberal party took their full measure of responsibility with the government in approving it.

The Legislature this afternoon and long into the evening discussed in committee the government's bill to provide a board of arbitrators to take the place of a referee in the control of the production and sale of natural gas in the western portion of the province. The clauses were passed by the house after several amendments had been adopted, but final report on it by the house in committee was left over until tomorrow.

Protects Townships. One of these amendments protects townships which received special concessions from gas-producing companies in return for permission to lay pipe-lines through the municipalities for the purpose of supplying larger centers. Another makes decisions given by Gas Referee Henderson subject to review by the new board. A third protects companies who own their own wells and use the gas for their own industrial purposes.

During the afternoon Hon. D. Carmichael introduced a bill extending the government bonus of 50 per cent on rural primary transmission lines previously enjoyed only by hydro enterprises, to be adopted by the electrical undertakings outside the hydro commission. Orilla is said to be the only district which is at present in that situation.

The provincial government has reached an agreement with the federal government regarding the loan and trust corporation act passed by the Legislature last year, and which the Dominion administration took exception to.

The federal authorities agreed to let the bill pass if the Legislature eliminated the clause which provided for cancellation of registration of companies which did not comply with certain provisions of the act. Hon. Mr. Raney introduced a bill to put this change into effect.

The government's natural gas bill is the result of long negotiations in an effort to please all parties interested in natural gas. Under it the control of conservation, price, etc., of natural gas passes from Gas Referee Henderson to a board of arbitrators of the producing or distributing companies; the second is to be selected by members of the Legislature whose constituencies are affected.

These include ridings in Essex, Elgin, Kent, Lambton, Middlesex, London, Oxford, Norfolk, Brant, Waterloo, Wentworth, Haldimand, Welland, Lincoln, Windsor, Hamilton, St. Catharines and Niagara Falls. These two arbitrators will select a third member. If they cannot agree Hon.

Harry Mills, minister of mines, will make the selection.

London Left On List.

R. L. Brackin (Kent West) raised the point that London was not directly interested, but it was left in the list.

The act provides that whereas the board may fix prices, etc., in connection of existing agreements and franchises, the agreements between the farmers on whose farms the wells have been sunk and the producing companies shall not be disturbed.

R. L. Brackin said that while he was prepared to allow the board to have the say in fixing gas prices to consumers in large centers, there was one class which should be given the advantage of agreements they have with the companies. It was where a township gave permission to a gas company to lay main lines through the municipality in order to reach a large center of population. In return for such franchise the companies agreed to give the farmers in the townships gas at a very low rate if they laid their own branch pipe lines. They also agreed to give gas to town halls, churches, etc. He accordingly introduced the amendment that such agreements should not be disturbed. It was only by the townships allowing those pipelines to go through their lands that the cities were able to get natural gas at all. This precipitated a long debate in which J. C. Brown (Middlesex), P. G. Cameron (Elgin West), and W. Stringer (Haldimand), supported the amendment. The government finally agreed to the change.

COSTS EXCEED HYDRO REVENUE

Municipalities Are Billed With Negative Balance Amounting To $106,354.40.

Only Twelve Small Municipalities in Niagara System Lack Surpluses.

TORONTO, May 30.—The increase of hydro business in the Niagara district will take care of the increased cost of the Queenston-Chippewa development without the necessity of an increase of rates to consumers, according to the prediction of Sir Adam Beck, contained in the 14th annual report of the hydro-electric power commission, tabled in the Legislature tonight.

The report covers the year ending last October 31. Sir Adam notes with gratification that despite continuing commercial depressions and high costs of material and labor the commission is again able to report the most successful year in its history, this being especially true of the Wasdell, Muskoka and Niagara systems.

At the beginning of the year, he continues, the commission determined a schedule of rates to cover the estimated cost of service to all municipalities. On all systems the total revenue was $5,419,518.81, while the cost of service was $4,753,445.69.

The necessary sinking fund and reserves for renewal and contingencies amounted to $72,727.52, making a total of $5,526,173.21. After meeting all obligations, the expenditures and reserves exceeded the revenue by $106,354.40, which has been billed to the municipalities.

On the Niagara system all but twelve of the smaller municipalities and three township systems, which will be placed in a satisfactory operating condition by a small adjustment in rates, showed surpluses.

The dropping off of large industrial loads in Collingwood, which increased the cost of power supplied to the other municipalities, curtailed greatly the previous successes on the Severn system.

A big improvement for the year is noted on the Eugenia system, the average load of power sold increasing approximately 40 per cent, while the revenue collected increased $84,000 over last year.

Proposals are noted in the report to extend the transmission lines to supply municipalities at the western end of the system, and to a number of rural power districts during the coming year.

The Wasdell system report is described as better than any previous year, every municipality except one reporting a surplus.

The Muskoka system report was also gratifying, while the load distributed on the St. Lawrence system doubled over the previous year.

An increase in capital expenditure of over two millions on this system is contemplated during the year. The Rideau system's load increased by 25 per cent, while on the Nipigon system it is expected that before the end of the coming year additional capacity will have to be installed to meet the demands of the pulp and paper industries, which are recovering from the commercial depression. The Central Ontario system load increased slightly over the previous year.

MEN'S CLUBS OF CITY TO HEAR DR. MERTON S. PRICE

Well-Known Detroit Will Address Local Organizations At Ten-cumseh Thursday.

Various men's clubs of the city—the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Club, and the Advertising Club—will hold a joint dinner meeting Thursday of this week in the Tecumseh Hotel at 8.30, at which Dr. Merton S. Price, of Detroit, who is attending the London Methodist Conference, will speak.

Dr. Price addressed the assembled Rotary clubs of this district at their recent convention there, and much impressed his London hearers, for they declare him to be a most enterprising and witty speaker, with unusual ability, in addressing organizations such as those mentioned whose objective is service.

Postcards are being sent out announcing the dinner and address to all the members of the different clubs by a joint committee, who advise that it would be best for the recipients of the postcards to make a reservation for the dinner by return mail.

LAUDS NURSING AS PROFESSION

Rev. Monsignor O'Connor Presents Diplomas To 15 St. Joseph's Graduates.

Class Valedictory Given by Miss Mary M. Devlin of Tillsonburg.

High tribute was paid to the nursing profession and St. Joseph's Hospital as a training school, by enthusiastic speakers at the graduation exercises of the 15 members of the 1922 class of nurses of St. Joseph's, Tuesday night, in St. Peter's Parish Hall.

A crowded hall of friends of the young ladies and interested persons witnessed the presentation of diplomas by Rev. Monsignor Dennis O'Connor, V.G.

Banks of flowers were heaped around the edge of the stage, in the center of which was a floral arch, under which the graduates passed as they reviewed their diplomas.

P. J. Sweeney, M.D., who acted as chairman, told the graduates that graduation for a nurse was the crowning glory of her life, and that they should always owe a great deal of gratitude to the Sisters of St. Joseph for the untiring efforts and persistent zeal which had been shown in the training of the class. On behalf of the training school and the physicians who had been their instructors, he offered the young women his congratulations. Now they were going out into a wider sphere of activities, and said Dr. Sweeney, "I would suggest that your motto always be service."

Delivers Valedictory. Miss Mary Devlin in delivering the class valedictory, referred to the high ideals of the profession.

She and her co-graduates were going out into the world to engage in a profession which always demanded self-sacrifice, and they must always remember that they were working for the welfare and alleviation of suffering among the human race, said Miss Devlin.

Miss Devlin commended St. Joseph's training school, which, she said, "expected every nurse to do her duty and be loyal to her Alma Mater."

The next speaker was W. P. Tew, M.B. Dr. Tew gave a short sketch of the origin of nursing. The first hospital, he said, was built at Lyons, France, and was called the Hotel Dieu, this was in 1500. At Paris, a few years later, another Hotel Dieu was established by the bishop of Paris. The first hospital to have nurses was St. Bartholomew's, London, England. He spoke of the work of Florence Nightingale, who founded the first training school for nurses.

Every nurse should learn something every day, and he recommended this thought to the graduates.

Rev. Monsignor O'Connor presented the diplomas after Dr. Tew had spoken. The graduates given diplomas were: Isabel D. M. Woods, Bayfield; Mabel E. Fletcher, London; Mabel B. Carrothers, Wilton Grove; Margery Dorrington, London; Helen Veronica Hood, Goderich; Madeline Baker, Brussels; Helen Pitt, London; Alice Davidson, Brucefield; Dorothy Mullins, London; M. Loretta McCaughey, London; Margaret M. Burns, Sarnia; Mary M. Devlin, Tillsonburg; Nellie Barr, London; M. Letta Lamont, Komoka, and Rose M. Downy, Lucknow.

In speaking after the diplomas had been presented, Monsignor O'Connor said that he took it that the great number of people who had turned out to witness the graduation exercises, had a meaning which he interpreted to be: that those attending wished to pay tribute first of all to the St. Joseph's Hospital and the good sisters of the institution, and that they wished to pay tribute to the young women of the 1922 graduating class.

Musical Program Given. He urged the nurses in going out into a wider field of activity to take with them sympathy and cheerfulness, and to be a credit to themselves and to their chosen profession.

An excellent musical program interspersed the speeches. Mrs. C. P. McTague received a very hearty reception with her vocal number, "The Cuckoo Song," by Niltar. Miss Lorna MacGillivray drew several encores and certain calls for her harp solos, winning an ovation with "Patt uil Spagmoola," by Tedeschi. Jack Bridgeman sang vocal solo, "Just That One Heart of Evilie," which was much appreciated.

Immediately after the singing of the National Anthem the graduates received their friends and relatives in the parlors of the hall, while the auditorium was prepared for dancing.

PROTEST COST OF PAVEMENT

North End Residents Refused Extension of Time For Payments.

New Road To Be Laid On Dundas Street East.

The North End delegation to the board of works, consisting of the owners of property on Richmond, Huron, Regent and St. George streets, who Tuesday night protested against the cost of their sewer and the Richmond street pavement, and asked for extended time to make their payments, will not have their request granted.

The committee heard the deputations, and after they had departed, discussed the matter in its different phases, concluding with the decision that nothing could be done.

Ed. Lantz, John Francis, Prof. Anderson, and others, addressed the committee. They declared that no houses had been connected with the new sewer, which had been laid without their sanction, and the latter statement also applied to the pavement. There were rumors that in places the property was higher than the sewer.

The general request was that the sewer debentures be extended over 30 years and the pavement over 20 years, also that a portion of the pavement cost be charged to the general tax rate.

During the discussion, Dr. G. Weir stated that Judge Macbeth had visited the property and said that it was the biggest outrage he ever saw to saddle the people with the sewer.

Figures Quoted.

Figures were quoted to show the taxes on the various properties. In all cases the sewer cost was higher than the general rate, and the pavement cost, in so far as Richmond street was concerned, not far behind. It was argued that the pavement was part of a main artery of traffic, and that the city generally should pay a portion.

Ald. John Ashton thought this was so, and Ald. Douglas thought that an effort should be made to bring relief in some direction. He did not think the people could afford to pay the large tax bills.

Mayor Wilson said that the request was a direct result of the precedents which had been established. He did not know where it would end if the city went on making such concessions.

Ultimately the proposal was rejected. If the front street residents want their broken sewer gone ahead with they will have to shoulder the cost of equipment to do the work, $4,000, as a local improvement. Engineer Brazier wants a carrier system to carry cinders from the incinerator over, and he estimates the cost at $4,000, and says the work will take four or five years to complete.

Col. Hartshorne asked for a sewer on Windsor and Tecumseh. He is putting in a system on Windsor Crescent. This was granted.

Clatworthy Bros. do not now desire the George and C. P. R. property for a lumber yard, and instead asked permission to locate on the C. P. R. east of Quebec street. The matter was referred to the building inspector.

Will Lay Pavement.

Dundas street east pavement will be laid. There was a petition against it sufficiently signed as to names but not as to assessment.

Emery street drainage scheme was laid over again. Mayor Wilson remarking that we promised we might do something in the summer.

Ald. Ashton reminded him that the exact summer was not stipulated.

"We will do something when we can," said the mayor.

The city is having trouble about the upkeep of lanes in the city, especially in the downtown section. Mr. Baker informed the committee that there was trouble over the assessment for lanes in the other parts of the city. Lanes were owned privately, but all abutting on them used them. If anyone objected, the owner had to pay the full cost. He suggested that the Toronto system of charging for the use of the lane by increasing the assessment of all users might work out here. It will be tried.

Police Chief Birrell made the important suggestion that angle parking be used on Talbot street, York street, Carling, Talbot to Richmond, Clarence, York to Dufferin, and Wellington, King to Queen's. Parking will be allowed on one side of the street, and the cars to be faced with the traffic of that particular side.

A bylaw will be prepared.

SHOOT'S GIRL WHO SPURNED HIS LOVE

Toronto, Ont., May 31.—Resenting the refusal of Annie Weingarten, aged 23, to become his bride, Sam Burger, aged 29, stepped up behind the young woman in a shoe store and shot her in the back of the head with a 22-calibre revolver. He then turned the revolver to his own head and killed himself.

The wounded girl may recover. Relatives of the pair say they had been keeping company for some time. Burger boarded at the home of Miss Weingarten's brother.

A horse belonging to the garbage department was killed the other day, and the engineer wants a new one. Mayor Wilson suggested that he get one from the fire chief, as the department has some that are not being used.

The engineer said that such transfer did not always work out well for his department.

Might Run Off.

Ald. May opined that the fire horse while out on the garbage wagon might run off to a fire.

Mayor Wilson thought it might be a good scheme to get some of the fire horses on the garbage wagons.

The committee granted the Pure Gasoline Company permission to cut down a tree at 362 Dundas street, and the clerk will so notify the utilities commissioner.

John Hooper, Elm street, is being billed for a sewer by the city. He objects. He says the utilities commission will not put down the water services, so that he is unable to use the sewer. His complaint will be sent on to the utilities commission.

The utilities commission wrote asking that the engineer, with his efficient crew of workers, be given permission to lay their new road in Springbank Park. The mayor thought the latter an excellent evidence of the spirit of co-operation, and the request was granted.

A. E. Barbour wrote complaining that the syphon sewer system on Riverview avenue was a nuisance, and threatened suit if the city did not move it. The committee decided that the system, having been so located since 1898, can hardly be a nuisance.

LAMBETH ROAD IS SHUT FOR REPAIRS

Motor League Points to Wellington Road Through Glanworth For Detour.

Lambeth road from London to St. Thomas is closed for repairs the Motor League of London reports. There is, however, a fairly good road for detour at this point. The league recommends for all traffic the Wellington road through Glanworth for trips from London to the railway city.

During the spring when a terrific hailstorm brought down a very steep hill and telegraph and telephone poles, the Motor League, states Secretary C. E. Bernard, lost a great number of its direction signs, and the league would like to know of any that have been lost so as replacement might be made.

In addition to the Lambeth road being closed, the league reports the Longwood road through Delaware unit for traffic on account of repair work going on.

There is a marked detour for traffic going in the Delaware direction, but it leads off on a very steep hill and motorists are urged to exercise the greatest discretion possible when starting off on the detour.

PAPWORTH QUILTS LONDON POLICE

Constable Thomas Papworth, who has been connected with the London police force for the past nine years, has handed in his resignation to Chief Birrell, to take effect immediately. The officer will take a trip to England towards the close of the summer, it is believed.

MERGER OF FIRMS IS ANNOUNCED

New York, May 31.—A new tobacco merger, representing a combined capitalization of $157,000,000, involving the United Retail Stores Corporation and the Tobacco Products Corporation, was announced last night by James Dixon, president of the Tobacco Products concern.

The United Retail Stores Corporation controls the United Cigar Stores Corporation by stock holdings.

James B. Duke, founder of the American Tobacco Company and the British-American Tobacco Corporation, will be the guiding head of the merged company.

FORMER CITY RESIDENT PASSES IN SASKATOON

Mrs. Henry Thompson Dies Suddenly At Home of Her Daughter in West.

Friends in London have been notified of the death of Mrs. Henry Thompson, for many years a resident of South London, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Thompson, Saskatoon, with whom she had been making her home for the past eight years. Though she had been in delicate health for four years, she was so much improved that she was preparing to leave for Port Arthur to visit another daughter.

Mrs. R. S. Feader, when she passed suddenly away, interment took place in Woodlawn Cemetery, Saskatoon.

Mrs. Thompson, who was born in Sheffield, England, came to Toronto when a child, and lived there until her marriage to Thomas S. Atkinson, of Orillia, Ont. Some years ago she had been making her home for the past eight years. Though she had been in delicate health for four years, she was so much improved that she was preparing to leave for Port Arthur to visit another daughter.

Farmer's Dream of Gold In Huge Boulder Fades

Finds Mica Also Glitters.

Visions of a second Klondike, and fame for him from a great discovery, drifted through the mind of a farmer who dwells on the 13th concession of London, near Adelaide street, and who found in the vicinity a rock as big as the Bank of Montreal branch at Queen's avenue and Richmond street, this week.

At one time there was an assayer stationed at the customs house, and the farmer had some vague idea of one being still there. So, with the energy of ten to fifteen Portsmouth prisoners granulating a pile in a prison yard, he set himself to work to haul from the rock a specimen piece for the customs house assayer, firm in the conviction that from the way the rock glittered, it must be gold or some other precious substance.

With the excitement of a miner who has struck "pay dirt," he rushed to the office of the collector of customs, C. H. Talbot, seeking an assayer.

He was told nothing had ever been found more worthwhile than mica around London, and that once this latter fact had become established in the mind of the erstwhile assayer at the customs, he had departed.

But the customs official's curiosity was aroused by the tale, and they questioned their visitor. They elicited the information that the rock was on the 13th concession, near Adelaide street, and was about as big as "the Bank of Montreal across the way."

The man was referred to Dr. S. Woodruff, an authority on rocks, but he received no encouragement in that direction, and only learned the truth that "all is not gold that glitters."

The farmer returned home determined in the future to stick to bucolic pursuits rather than get-rich-quick methods in his race for a million.

The agriculturist was convinced the time of '49 was all right, but that those days are gone forever.

Each morning of the conference, at which Rev. Dr. Elliott speaks, and Rev. George Dewey leads the singing, are also open to the public of London and district.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, exponent of spiritualism, who recently lectured to Canadian audiences on his beliefs and his methods of communicating with the spirit world, were roundly rapped by Rev. Arthur W. Brown, of Sparta, in addressing the conference Tuesday night.

Speaking in Centennial Church on "An Imperative and Imperishable Study for the Christian Church," Mr. Brown declared that such spiritualism deals with petty things producing petty results.

During his lecture the speaker digressed to spiritualism, and said: "By the way, how different is this conception of spirit endowed, spirit controlled life, and its relationship with the unseen realities, to the spiritualism whose chief apostle seems to be Dr. Conan Doyle."

"Men may turn to his spiritualism and grow into his shadowy ways and yet have no high moral and spiritual quest. They may knock at mysterious doors and use mediums, and yet miss the things of high morality, of spiritual grandeur, of lofty emotion; in a word, of true religion."

"Such spiritualism deals with petty things and only produces petty results," asserted the speaker. "We are convinced of that when the shadowy beings behind the veil are said to assure us of a spirit world where whiskey, cigars, Ford cars, mud and dancing are found and enjoyed."

So say the least, a cult that rises no higher than that which treats man as if the only thing he cared for was an endless capacity to exchange platitudes, together with an interest that is confined to what is shallow and eventually unimportant, does not do justice to the divine capacity in his soul and the moral grandeur to which he may attain, nor yet to his inherent spiritual hunger for the stupendous and the infinite.

Need Holy Ghost.

Mr. Brown declared that the spirit necessary in the church today is that of the Holy Ghost.

Spiritual intoxication was defined by him as "A shocking out of our wearisome complacency, changing the stagnant pools into rushing waters, and pronounced as the demand of the hour."

"There is room amid the conventionalities of our church life for an astonishing outpouring of the Spirit that will spool a drab program and invade the common routine," said the Sparta pastor.

"When this pentecostal experience is ours there will be no chance of our services being described as three yawns and a benediction, nor your board and business meetings opened and closed without divine consultation and direction."

"Our district meetings and conferences will move on a higher plane of discussion and expression under the quickening, inspiring spirit of Jesus. Flabbiness and forcelessness will be missing in the church life, for the church will have begotten a masculine and be courageous both in its aggressions and in its retreats, never feeble but always and everywhere fair as the moon, clear in the sun, and terrible as any army with banners."

"Such a church," concluded the speaker, "will be able to say with deeper and joyous meaning as ever expanding spiritual delight and wonder, that is open by the spirit to her occupation, 'I believe in the Holy Ghost.'"

The amount raised by trustees and boards in London Conference totals $313,459, while that raised by Epworth League is $14,398. The ladies' aid of the conference has obtained funds aggregating $109,265.

There are 26 brotherhoods in London Conference, and 261 ladies' aids, and Women's missionary societies number 204. There are 395 preaching appointments in London Conference, and during the past year three new churches, costing $71,000, and two new parsonages, have been erected.

Wednesday afternoon the lay association of the conference opened, with devotional exercises in charge of President William Heaman of this town. An address by Rufus James Brown of London is also on the program, after which a nominating committee will be appointed. This association meets in Centennial Church Sunday school at the same hour as the ministerial session.

Conference will be marked Wednesday evening by a mass meeting in Centennial Church, which will be addressed by Rev. Kenneth J. Beaton, B.A., missionary to West China, and Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., secretary of evangelism and social service. Special music will be featured, and the public is invited to attend.

OBJECT TO PAYING COST OF CARRYING

Front Street Residents Resent Invitation To Provide For Cinder Transportation.

"The city has got to find a new place to dump its cinders from the incinerator or move the incinerator. It would be a city thing for the city to have the front street residents solve this problem by agreeing to pay for the carrying apparatus that would carry the cinders across the river."

"Why not ask us to buy garbage wagons to collect the garbage first?" These rather caustic remarks came from Raymond Smith, spokesman for the front street residents, who have waited on No. 2 committee at least 12 times this year, demanding that action be taken to prevent their property being flooded by the river.

"Matters have come to the point now where the city dare not further encroach on the river by filling in the north bank. They are interfering with a navigable stream, and we know that we can prevent their going any further in this regard," said Mr. Smith, in discussing the statement of the engineer to the city board of works on Thursday night.

The front street residents should put up $4,000 for machinery to carry cinders across the river to build a breakwater.

"The city has been responsible for making the river a menace, and it is rather poor business to ask the residents of this little street to foot the bill that will get he out of its difficulty."

"Mind, we have not forgot that we promised injunction proceedings if the city does not take some action. The city has encroached over 40 feet into a navigable stream, and if they try to put it over on us, we must fight back," said Mr. Smith.

CHESLEY AVENUE MOTHERS' CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Make Donation of Ten Dollars to War Memorial Children's Hospital.

Election of officers for the ensuing year constituted the business of the regular meeting of the Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club, held Tuesday evening. The election was in charge of Mrs. John Rose, president of the club.

First vice, Mrs. W. H. Griffin; second vice, Mrs. Thomas Owen; secretary, Mrs. H. Huddart; assistant secretary, Mrs. Charles Denley (returned by acclamation); treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Cury (returned by acclamation); and Mrs. E. Pellow, who was appointed representative on the child's welfare committee.

Ten dollars was donated to the War Memorial Hospital for supplies, and six dozen towels were distributed among the mothers.

The Budget Debate.

It is to be expected that there will be criticism for the FIELDING budget from the ranks of the Progressives in the Ottawa house. It is desirable that there should be, and they are quite within their rights in making this criticism just as straight and outspoken as they desire, so long as they talk to the business of the hour.

It is almost too much, after the DRAVON amendment on the budget, to expect anything in the nature of constructive criticism from the smallest group in the house. That amendment, which really is a vote of censure on the government, was pulled at the wrong time.

It said more plainly than words that the Conservatives saw the chance for a little sharp practice, and that they were ready to go in and try it out. In order that their remarks might have had even a veneer of sincerity that amendment should have been kept in the background for the present at least.

The chief whip of the Progressives, speaking of Mr. DRAVON'S move, remarked that "Sir HENRY condemns the government for not doing something, which neither he nor his associates would do. He condemned it for refusing to do that which the Conservatives said during the campaign would bring 'blue ruin' to Canada. He accuses the Liberal party of political immaturity when he and his fellow-members themselves were performing merely a bit of party manoeuvring."

"I am attacking the government from an entirely different motive. I was pleased with the 1919 platform of the Liberal party, but I am not criticizing the government because it failed to adopt it as a whole, but because it did not go further than it did. I hope that next session the Liberals will go much further."

It is to be hoped that the members of the house at Ottawa are fully and decisively seized with the importance of the problem they are discussing when they come to give their views on the tariff. It is not a time for the mere repetition of views, or theories. In so far as these views and theories can have some practical application on the problem under discussion, they are important. If they cannot be related to the big matter of the hour, they have no business in the house.

If a member of any group in the house can take the provisions of the present budget and show how they are going to affect the business of his constituents in a more adverse way than any benefit that can come to the country at large, then it is his serious duty to do so to the last letter, and to the very best of his ability, and it is the duty of the government to listen.

If any other member has in his pocket—because he could not have it in his mind—a resolution similar to the one standing in the name of Sir HENRY DRAVON, then it is his serious duty to keep it in his pocket, because the country has neither the time nor the inclination for this form of nonsense.

Let the criticism on the budget be pertinent, severe and searching, but let us have no more of this DRAVON type of penny politics that finds its outward expression in an amendment that is blatant to the point of impudence, and so partisan that it is hardly likely it can gather the support of the fifty Tories in the house.

Drug Traffic.

CANADIANS ARE apt to imagine that if they have the O. T. A. working properly, and the smoking of cigarettes by minors under control, things will be in fair shape.

Fine, but here comes a vote at Ottawa for $115,565 to help put down the drug ring in Canada, there being last year 17,665 people convicted of traffic in drugs.

Morphine and cocaine are the pair mostly in demand. Foreigners are responsible for most of the traffic, and the Chinamen lead the race as drug peddlers.

When a Chinaman comes to this country it is his duty to mind his business and attend to his knitting.

When he takes it upon himself to smear this country with his damnable drug business it is time to take him by the scuff of the neck and lead him to the dock, there to await the first boat that points toward China.

Getting a "Job."

WHAT AN old utterance it is! Looking for a job. Go into any of the larger cities and watch the crowds around the newspaper offices when the paper comes out. There they are in hundreds with a couple of cents to spend for the paper, to see who may have something that will "give them a job."

It may be our training that is at fault, but it does seem that the average man is a helpless individual unless some person comes along and "gives him a job." We are probably trained in that direction. A boy leaves school and learns his trade, at the end of which time the very first thing he starts to look for is some place where he can sell his training and his labor power. He

Keep a Promise

(London Daily Mail, May 12.)
ON the excuse that Canadian cattle might bring in contagious disease, we have maintained the embargo for thirty years—thirty years, during which Canadian cattle have had a clean bill of health.

With Canada at our side in the war it seemed a small matter to do her justice at last. In 1917 the Government's pledge to remove the embargo was readily given.

That was five years ago. The embargo has not been removed, and the government are trying to wriggle out of their promise. The slur on Canada was always unfair; a broken pledge is always a disgrace.

Undoubtedly there is considerable farming opposition to the admission of Canadian cattle; undoubtedly, also, on a broad view, the removal of the embargo will benefit this country. Our farmers, however, naturally, are inclined to anticipate the worst, particularly after the trying times they have been through. On the other hand, they are apt to overlook the fact that the cost of transport to this country is in itself a measure of protection. And also that, as the royal commission pointed out, there is an increasing demand for fresh home-made meat, which our present herds are unable to supply. Only little more than half of the beef consumed in this country is home-grown.

But in this matter our word is pledged to Canada, and there can be no question at all of shuffling out of it. The embargo must go.

probably has not the money to finance an undertaking where he could collect the full returns for his labor power, so he is forced to share it with another, because from the time he takes that "job" right on he must produce his pay and some more for the man who employs him.

But how are we to get away from that "job" idea? Some men seem to do it just as readily as a duck takes to water. Trown out today, the first thing would be to get started on something else tomorrow. Ask some person for a "job"? Not much of it. You may argue that it takes backing to do this. Not nearly so much backing as it does backache.

Here is a case that took place in recent months. A man was out of work. He had a little money, a few hundred dollars. Most people would want him to put it in a sock so they could get it as a last resort in case they were going to starve. He looked around and saw two frame houses that had not been finished, and which were some distance from a street where there was sewer, water or light. He made a small payment on one of them, another small payment on a lot, got a man to work with him to build a foundation, and then moved the house over. Once the house was moved he painted it and added a dining-room at the back. By this time he was in for a bill of some $2,300, and his cash interest was increasing to a point where he was about all in.

The logical thing was to sell, and this he did, getting $3,400 for his house, which was now on a street that had sewer, water and light. He had made over a thousand dollars, and the thing had not taken him three weeks. He did the same thing with the other frame house, for there were two of them, and repeated the operation at a little less cost, and disposed of the place in a reasonable time. In seven weeks he had made $2,000, which is more than a whole lot of people make at a "job" in a whole year.

Is it our system, or our method of training, or what, that makes "getting a job" the one and only method of making a living for so many people? Have we developed our powers of thinking or of acting? Is it fear or lack of proper appreciation of our own ability?

Here and there we see people we know branching out in a timid way into something. They take their little chance, keep on working and enlarging until they have built up a business that amounts to something. And during the same time the rest of us have been standing to one side betting our dimes on whether the project would last for three weeks or six months. We have been glued to a "job," and we're scared green to get an inch away from it.

A high regard for a "job" may be desirable from the standpoint of the employer of labor, but it does not develop much initiative. We have a lot of people who seem to think there are only two things to do: (1) Have a "job," or (2) Stand in the bread line.

LITTLE TISERS

It's one thing to have a man keep a promise, but a much better thing to have him fulfill it.

They are still shaving 31-32 of a cent off the Canadian dollar in New York. Just enough to make it wear a peak cap instead of a silk lid.

Quite a discussion is going on as to how large a house a family of five needs to live in. It can be answered by ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S remark that a man's legs should be long enough to reach from his body to the ground.

A man sitting in a show in Newark heard an actor sing a song, and after listening as long as he could, advised the actor to go out in the alley and die. He was fined $10. Will the Personal Liberty League prepare this case for a hearing?

The fact that there are undisturbed canteen funds of some eleven million dollars held at Ottawa suggests that there must have been very fair prices charged to the soldiers patronizing these places in the first place in order to pile up such an amount of profit.

PREMIER OLIVER of British Columbia says his province will be justified in using brute force if it does not get justice in the matter of railway rates. Does that mean that the premier is going to pick up Sir Donald or the Three Sisters and heave them at the C. P. R.?

Folks down in Windsor have a great time wondering where the new bridge is going to land. Real estate men, up to the last counting, have had it starting across the river from seventeen different places, and sales have been fairly good in each spot.

According to the finance minister, every man, woman and child in Canada averages about 700 cigarettes a year. Considering that there are millions in the country who smoke none at all, some person must be burning them at a good rate to keep up the average.

At this early date in the season reports have it that there are bush fires in Northern British Columbia. If they could take the bush fire, the coal strike idea and the Oriental problem and sit them down in a row so they'd behave, British Columbia would be a fairly decent place to live.

HORATIO BOTTOMLEY, editor of John Bull at one time, has been sentenced to jail for seven years, but hasn't gone down yet. He was a vicious and a desperate writer, who never hit a man with a small club if he could find a big one. Things may go along fairly well, even if he does go to jail.

The New York Sun has made the discovery that under the FIELDING tariff there is "to be a sharp reduction on the tariff on plows, tractors," and so on. It might be well for the New York Sun, before it speaks as an authority on Canadian tariff matters, to become aware of the fact that tractors in nearly every case have been coming into Canada from the United States duty free for some years.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review reads a lesson to a mob which operated on a man in Orangeville who has been branded as somewhat of a home-wrecker. Tar and feathers was the mixture used, and the Woodstock paper claims: "If one mob is allowed to use tar and feathers it will not be long before another mob will attempt something more serious." Absolutely right, but it does seem that there are times when tar and feathers just naturally step forward as the proper method for quick application.

TO THE EDITOR

HIS ANSWER.

Vinona, Ont., May 29, 1922.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me to reply briefly to "Interested," in regard to her letter of the 27th instant in The Advertiser? In the first place, I have not the time to answer a letter two columns and a half long, for I have to get my bread by the sweat of my face, and I have done that for 70 years, and I am not ashamed to own it. Pushing a barrow with a hundred green brick or tile from a pugmill to the kiln is no snap for one on the verge of 80, so I will ask "Interested" to excuse my last letter on this subject being short, as I believe controversies of this kind do very little good. I fail to see anything she has proven in her letter on the two questions under discussion. I will put the questions again as plainly as I can. Is God a God of the dead or of the living? Is He, or is He not, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. If he is, where are they? I do not mean their bodies—I mean themselves. They are absent from their bodies. John tells us "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Now, when does that everlasting life commence? Jesus says the believer in Him hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation because he has passed from death unto life.

As for the poor thief, I hardly wonder at what he did under the circumstances he was placed in. Jesus gave him all he asked for and a little more. Yes, "Interested," he was with Jesus in Paradise that day, for Jesus would not blight his hopes just as he was dying. He is too kind for that. Yes, "Interested," I know a little about Solomon. I took his advice once and I have not regretted it. This was the advice, whose findeth a wife findeth a good thing and obtaineth favor of the Lord, and I have proven his word is true. I found her in a Sunday school, teaching a class of little girls in old Brackley, in Northamptonshire, England, sixty years ago, and she is my wife today. We are engaged in that work today. We have had God's favor all right.

Now, if God made Solomon wise, he made a fool of himself when he entangled himself up with a thousand women. Now, "Interested," you and I had better agree to disagree, for I shall soon go the way I shall not return, and life is too short to spend it in quarrelling—so farewell.

BENEFITS OF EXERCISE

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.
We can attribute many of our present ills to the war, but there is one thing that is not a result of the war—our lack of exercise. The training of the late war turned many a slouching, mediocre fellow into a man of action, a man of energy, a man of spirit.

In the awkward squad you are first introduced to a fine system of gymnastics, in which nearly every muscle, organ and cell in your body gets a chance. Sometimes for hours at a stretch you are compelled to stand to the limit of your height, shoulders back, head up, chin straight, eyes to the front. Your movements are timed and measured and rhythmical for you.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

By Digby Phillips.

NO. 228—SELLING THE SOFT-SPEAKER.

As soon as you discover that your prospect speaks in a low, well-modulated tone you've got a cue which you can make valuable as a guide to the manner in which you talk to that prospect.

Just as you reply to the loud-voiced man in a loud tone, so you should model your own tone after that of the soft-spoken one. You are talking to a person of some education and refinement. If it isn't the more obvious education and refinement of the school and the home, if your prospect is in greasy overalls and covered with dirt, don't be misled. If he speaks in a well-modulated voice there is refinement and education there. It may be the sort that is born in many people in the instinct or tendency which will not be denied. The education they don't get in school they pick up by natural observation.

At any rate, it grates upon these quiet, self-contained people to be treated as you would treat the vigorous, energetic and less restrained type of man. This does not mean, however, that you have to be so careful as you do with the man or woman with the high-pitched voice. The soft-spoken ones are really very "regular" sort of people, being pretty near the average as you find them in this country. Just don't try to tear them down, yet at the same time don't be so extremely careful and quiet.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is CHAGRIN.

It's pronounced—sha-grin, or, especially by the English, sha-green, with accent, in either case, on the second syllable.

It means—that which worries, vexes or mortifies; melancholy.

Its origin—is uncertain. It's used like this—"English politicians are showing considerable chagrin over the defeat of Premier Lloyd George's program at the Genoa conference."

How Much Does City Council Know About London "Y" Work?

Y. W. C. A. Conference Discusses National Triennial Recommendations—Favors More Boosting of the Splendid Activities—Speaker Declares "Cleaning-Up" Mission of Association needed in London As Well As in Larger Cities.

How much do the mayor and members of the city council know about the work of the Y. W. C. A. in London? How much do the citizens in general know of the travelers' aid, the industrial extension work, the educational classes, the physical training work, the basic religious instruction, the "teen age girls' work," the safeguarding of girls and women, the filling, to many girls of the roles of father, mother, home and family?

The foregoing questions arose at a conference of London Y. W. C. A. workers held Tuesday afternoon at the Wellington street residence, to hear reports from the national triennial convention in Toronto, and to discuss recommendations therefrom. In the course of a comprehensive report, Mrs. C. B. King, president, referred to the tribute paid the Y. W. C. A., by Mayor Maguire, of Toronto, in delivering an address of welcome to the delegates, a tribute which indicated a very thorough knowledge of what the Y. W. C. A. stands for in that city.

A tribute from a Montreal speaker was also quoted, to the effect that in large cities, the Y. W. C. A. is one of the greatest factors in cleaning up commercialized vice, providing as it does recreation centers for girls, and places where they can see their friends in right environment.

Commenting on the reference to the need of the Y. W. C. A. in large cities as a cleansing element, Miss Helen D'Avignon, girls' work secretary, declared it is also needed for this purpose in London as well.

"People will tell you," she said, "that London is all right. But London is not all right, as social workers know, and it is all the more shame to it that wrong conditions prevail for girls, because it is a smaller city. Knowing these conditions, the only thing to be done is to try to improve them."

"Let's Boost."

If the Y. W. C. A. is such an important factor in the community of London, why is it not better known?

Members of the board present advanced the view that it has not been sufficiently advertised. The recent big physical training demonstration held in the armories, under the direction of Miss Edith Wynne-Pryce, backed by the physical training committee, had been a revelation to the hundreds of citizens who attended.

"Are the girls of the association appreciating what is being done sufficiently to advertise it?" asked a board member, to which the Roland for an Oliver came back, "Are the board members doing enough?"

Suggestions for making knowledge of the work public property were:

(1)—Let us do as much personal boosting as possible; (2)—Speak on the work of the association to other organizations whenever opportunity offers. The formation of a membership committee was proposed to arrange membership meetings from time to time, to be addressed by speakers of outstanding ability.

"What is the Y. W. C. A.?" asked a building, an activity, a group with purpose and vision?" was a question brought back from the triennial by Mrs. King.

Laughter was evoked by the remark of a committee member, "You couldn't call it a building in London."

Emphasis was laid on the importance of recognizing the Y. W. C. A. as the kind of organization that signifies an "association," not an irresponsible membership for whom a board provides benefits, but an association of young womanhood. A definition brought back by Mrs. King was, "The Y. W. C. A. is the girls themselves."

Accepting this definition, a question naturally provocative of animated discussion was this, "Should there be more girls on the board?"

The London board, it was pointed out, has one valuable girl member in the person of the president of the Federation of Girls' Clubs, Mrs. Donald McLean's club, which had hearty backing, was that with a larger representation of girls as a link, the more mature members of the board would be more closely in touch with the activities and the ideas of the girls.

Another suggestion favorably received, though no action was taken, was to form a Y. W. C. A. council, composed of members of all the activities and clubs therein, to unify the work.

Employed Girl Y's "Backbone."

Mrs. Mattie Rose Crawford, extension secretary, spoke enthusiastically of the industrial secretaries' convention, which preceded the triennial meeting in Toronto, stressing the supreme importance of this work as the "backbone of the association," representing as it does a movement to assist Canada's employed girls to realize their highest possibilities, physical, mental and spiritual.

Speaking along the lines of the address on girls' work at the Toronto convention, Miss Helen D'Avignon referred to the definition of the Y. W. C. A. given by the reorganization committee, limiting it to "young women." She pointed out the importance of a service to guide Canada's "over-privileged" girls to a choice of the best in the wealth of opportunity offered them and to establish understanding between the over-privileged and under-privileged girls as is possible in summer camps. Touching upon the fine support given by the local Y. W. C. A. to teen age girls' work, she referred to the big development in the past three years. In that time the number of organized groups in connection with churches has increased from six to more than 24, which reported for the field-day rally Saturday. The need of more room for activities felt by every Y. W. C. A. department was urged.

The conference was particularly pleasant, held in the spacious rooms of the Wellington street residence, which have been attractively redecorated by the judicious expenditure of time and money on the part of the ingenious residence committee, of which Mrs. A. G. Calder is convener. The money for the work was raised at a rummage sale held some weeks ago.

LITTLE MISS MELODY.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am returning my crocheted patterns and they were fine. I see where Little Miss Melody is making yokes to help raise funds. If she gets more than she can do just call on me and I will help her out, as I am glad to do that kind of work. Just now I am making some lace for an undershirt. I have lots of yoke patterns. Little Miss Melody would like them. Nice weather we are having now, isn't it? I have my garden all in, and some of it is up. Inclosed find mine.

PEACH.

It is good of you to offer to help with the yokes. Maybe Little Miss Melody will send some of the orders to you as she has had quite a large number of them lately. It might help to get more orders too. Thank you for the hospital mite.

WANTS S. F. P.

Dear Miss Grey,—I received the letter with the names of the flowers, and thanks very much.

WITH BRIDES SHUTT-CROWE.

A smart Guelph nuptial event of interest to many Londoners was the wedding which took place Thursday, May 25, of Greta Mary, daughter of Major Charles R. Crowe and Mrs. Crowe, Woolwich street, and Mr. Donald Bethune Shutt of Moose Jaw, Sask., formerly of Toronto, Rev. Scoville officiating, assisted by Rev. Frank Sanders. The quaint old Congregational Church, where the ceremony was performed, was made festive for the occasion with a profusion of white lilies and Darwin tulips. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a robe of white georgette, heavily beaded with crystal, with court train of white satin, and embroidered tulle veil held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her girlie was fastened with the "something old" necessary to bring the bride good luck, in this case a handsome diamond brooch that had belonged to her great-grandmother. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses with shower of lily of the valley. A fascinating color scheme of orchid mauve, dainty green, blue and yellow was carried out in the costumes of the attendants. As maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Pettit, Grimsby, was becomingly gowned in orchid georgette over pale blue, with orchid georgette hat with ostrich plumes. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pansies shading from mauve to deepest purple. Miss Lois Walker of Toronto and Miss Catherine Crowe were charming bridesmaids, the former wearing an orchid organdy frock and hat, and the latter green organdy. Both carried French bouquets of pansies. Little Betty MacDermott, wife daughter of Col. (Dr.) W. M. MacDermott and Mrs. MacDermott of this city, as flower girl, was quite "the belle of the ball" apart, to be sure, from the bride. The dainty maiden was frocked in pale yellow organdy, with yellow bonnet, and carried a gold basket filled with pansies. Mr. George Patton of the O. A. C., was best man, the ushers, Messrs. Kenneth Crowe, Ernest Crowe and Allan Skinner. Mrs. Crowe, mother of the bride, was strikingly handsome in black panne velvet, with gold brocade inset, a black hat trimmed with drooping ostrich feathers and a bouquet of orchids and mauve sweet peas. Mrs. Shutt, mother of the groom, wore a graceful gown of gray charmeuse, with trimming of Carriackmacross lace, and carried Richmond roses.

Following the service in the church, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the house throughout beautifully decorated with mauve lilies and pink tulips. The bride's table was adorned with mauve sweet peas, lily of the valley and maiden hair fern.

The young couple left in the evening for Moose Jaw, where they will make their home, the bride traveling in a modish tailored costume of blue serge with sand-colored hat and fur choker.

Among the guests, numbering 125, were Major A. G. Calder and Mrs. Calder, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Col. (Dr.) W. B. MacDermott, Mrs. MacDermott and little daughter, Betty, of London.

LAMPHIER—MCKENNA.

At 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, the marriage took place of Gertrude McKenna, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hawthorne of Toronto, formerly of London, to Patrick Lamphier of Guelph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lamphier. High mass was sung by Monsignor McKenna. The bride, a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital, who was given in marriage by her uncle, wore a graceful gown of navy blue canton crepe, heavily beaded, and a picture hat to match, and her corsage was of roses and sweet peas. Miss Josephine Nangle of London, a graduate of St. Mary's Hospital, Detroit, was bridesmaid, and wore a smart frock of navy satin, with an over-dress of georgette, heavily beaded, a large hat and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was held at Smallman & Ingram's. Covers were laid for fourteen guests, including relatives of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Lamphier left on a honeymoon to points east, and upon their return they will reside at Granton.

but I did not receive the S. F. P. Miss Grey, isn't it nice to think that Thirty-Seven had so many things sent to her? I often wish I could help those that are asking for help, but I haven't much to give, and sometimes I would like some myself. My boy needs a pair of shoes. I would pay the postage. I only have one girl, and when she outgrows her clothes I make them into quilts. How is Tip? I hope she is better, also Aunt Nannie.

WEAVING WILLOW.

I am sorry if I neglected to send you the pattern. Your name is on our family list in case anyone wishes to send you shoes for your boy. Thanks for the hospital mite.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY CHICKS.

Dear Miss Grey,—I just thought I would call again for a minute or two. Aren't we having beautiful weather just now? We are all busy seeding out on the farm, and there's a nice warm rain tonight. The trees are just coming into leaf, and the spring flowers are all at their best. I was working in the bush two weeks ago, and at that time the Spring Beauty was the only flower in bloom, but there may be more now. In the summer there are heaps of ferns in this bush too. There are some dandies sometimes. I am a poultry fancier, and have 240 chickens just now, and they are growing just like weeds. Are there any girl poultry fanciers in the M.H.B.? I will send in some recitations, and hope they will be of use to you. I think this pen is sick, so I will have to stop for this time, although much against my will. Wishing the Mail-Box every success, I am, as ever, SUNNY JIM.

Your letter makes me long for a long walk in the country. Sunny Jim. It must keep you busy taking care of your large family of chicks, besides your other farm duties.

JUST TWELVE.

Dear Miss Grey,—I hope there is room for another new one in your cosy corner. I want to get some flowers for my garden; you can send me what you please, but do not send me Morning Glories or Sweet Peas as I have got them now. My Sweet Peas are up about three inches but my Morning Glories are not up. I just planted my bulbs yesterday.

Well, I guess I will close. Here is a mite for the S. C. H. I am writing for a girl's twelve and is in the Junior III book.

"JUST TWELVE."

You write very well. Just Twelve, I am mailing you a few seeds which I hope you will like. Thank you for remembering our hospital fund with a mite.

What Women Are Accomplishing in London.

CLOSE BUSY SEASON.

Holding the last meeting until the autumn, on Tuesday evening, the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. W. V. A. reviewed the activities of the winter and spring months, the busiest in the history of the organization, owing to the great need for relief work. On motion of Mrs. M. Summers, a hearty vote of thanks was moved to the citizens of London who have assisted the auxiliary in its welfare work by contributions of clothing and other accessories for distribution.

Report was made of a gratifying improvement in conditions, which makes the auxiliary feel justified in disbanding for the holiday months, Mrs. J. F. Thomson, the president, and Mrs. M. Summers, the secretary, to look after any emergency cases which may present themselves. Definite arrangements were made for the annual picnic, to take place at Springbank during June.

JUNE ARRIVES AT "I SERVE" SALE

The "I Serve" Club of the Cronyn Memorial Church, which has made a name for itself in social service activities, is holding the annual summer bazaar this week in the church hall, commencing at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and continuing all day Friday. The most sumptuous and attractive decorations are to be used, and the goods offered will be seasonable as well as appealing. Miss Hilda Keene, good friend of the club, has been asked to formally open the event, the proceeds of which will be used for the War Memorial Children's Hospital and social service work.

Members of the club, in their daintiest June time creations, will take charge of the tables. Miss Lois Richards is convener of the troupe; Miss Kathleen Cowan, the children's; Miss Evelyn Hayman, the tea room; Miss Dorothy Gleeson, the campers; Miss Helen Talbot, the home cooking; Miss Theresa White, the veranda; Miss Kitty White, the sand pile; Miss Ella McGuggan, the bargain basket.

Ross' Review of Fashions —Summer 1922

WHITE combines in itself the prismatic colors of the spectrum, and constitutes "the seven-hued harmony."

The prism of fashion promises to span the heavens of the Summer Girl with the glory of a dozen rainbows.

Distance will serve to lend enchantment to the view, for the Summer Girl will be visible to the observant eye a mile away.

Fabrics in Favor—

Ginghams will hold the premier place, as they combine economy with artistic assemblings of gay colors, ranging all the way from the faint blush that tints the delicate cheek of the pale pink to the rare bloom that mantles the pride of the garden and crowns the rose imperial, the queen of June and joy.

Strong Hues to Lead—

Gay Parée is aflame with red, and, viewed from afar, looks like a house afire.

The primary colors, red, yellow and blue, and the secondary hues, green, orange and violet, lead in the train of fashion.

White will take second place in the scheme of color, and white, combined with black, will follow in the Rainbow hues on the summer girl; Primary and secondary colors will lead, White, with white and black next. Rainbow will have nothing on the Summer girl.

The June Bride

Every day in June is touched with joy. It is the summer month in which youth and beauty embark on a frigate freighted with hopes, and are wafted by the zephyrus of love over a sapphire sea. It is only natural that the June bride should mark the happy occasion by appearing in V form, with short kimono sleeves edged with lace. A sash of tulle tied in a bow with long ends at one side, or a one-sided band of crystal embroideries continued from the bodice over the hips and down the side, may be worn. The semi-princess style may have sleeves of lace slashed below the shoulder, and the side panel hung below the skirt edge.

Trimmings—

White dresses will be embellished with brilliant colors in the form of girdles, with long, flowing ends made of ribbons in prismatic colors, twisted together into soft ropes deftly plaited. White forms a background of strong contrast on which bright hues can be displayed to advantage.

Separate Skirts—

Variety will find a broad expression in separate skirts, lending dashes of beautiful color to the white waist, which is always in evidence during the summer season. Striped and checked silks and silk wool tr crash effects will be much worn.

Ratines—

will prove a leading favorite, because it can be woven into a variety of fascinating forms, peculiarly adapted to be designed in multi-colored patterns. Here are a few names to conjure with: Embroidered and plain voiles, plain and flowered organdies, crepe knit, crystal knit, crepe pongee, rhesanora crepe, satin crepe and a host of novelty ribbed fabrics in both silk and wool weaves.

Sweaters—

Silk and Icaand Wool Sweaters, knitted in flamboyant shades, will be found admirably suited to wear with white skirts and white dresses.

The Utility Coat—

For outing and sporting purposes, such as mooring, boating and golfing, the separate coat is always necessary or comfort. The Summer Girl will never go abroad without her utility coat.

TOWARD morning exhaustion claimed Lucinda absolutely, and for some hours her slumbers were unbroken. But she woke up, as it were, against her will, heavy of heart and without sense of having rested. The bedside clock struck nine, and Lucinda started up in a flutter, thought she would be late and so efforted fresh reason for dissension with her director. . . . then sank back to her pillow, cringing from memories that came trooping in the wake of the reminder that she was to know no more of Barry Nolan in her life. . . .

No more of Nolan, no more of Nelly, no more of Lynn. . . . no more of love. . . .

Bel came in about ten, by that many sleepless active, anxious hours more laded than when she had seen him last.

"You've found her, Bel? Where?" With a weary nod, Bel dropped into a chair.

"She ran your car off the road at a turn and over a low cliff to a rocky beach. Must have been killed instantaneously."

Neither spoke for a time.

Bel got up. "I'll be getting along to the studio first and have a word with Lorraine. And then I need Nolan's address."

"Do you think that wise to see Nolan?"

"I won't permit him to spread gossip about your being with Summerlad last night."

"Will he admit your right to dictate?"

"I don't imagine it will be news to him that you're my wife. Your friend the actor seems to have been tolerably busy crowding about his conquest of Mrs. Bellamy Druce—always, of course, in strictest confidence. And Nolan was Summerlad's bosom pal."

The thrust told shrewdly, rewarding Bel with a fugitive moment of sardonic satisfaction. Then the courage with which Lucinda took punishment exacted his admiration.

"But I am afraid," she said quietly, "you won't have much success with Nolan."

"On account of your quarrel with him, yesterday?"

"I didn't know you knew. Then I presume you know about my new arrangement, with Mr. Zinn."

"Yes. But that arrangement's not binding till you've signed."

The tensing of her body betrayed the temper in which Lucinda met his suggestion. "What you really mean is: Have I changed my mind about continuing in pictures, because of this dreadful accident to Lynn?"

Bel's eyes and mouth tightened. "It's not an unnatural supposition, that you may have concluded you've had enough."

"Enough, Bel?"

"Of both."

"That can't be anything but calculated impudence!"

Bel made a wry face as he stooped to pick up his motor-coat. "This conversation is degenerating into a wrangle. Mind lending me a hand, Linda? Can't quite manage this with one arm."

At once angrily and gently Lucinda draped the motor-coat over his shoulders.

Bel continued: "I'm to understand, then, my wishes mean nothing to you?"

Lucinda gave a little silent laugh, and in silence for a moment gazed on Bellamy, her eyes unreadable.

"You forget, what I don't, Bel," Lucinda said slowly, "that it was you who made the mode of life with which I was content impossible for me. If this life I've taken up here is in some sense a makeshift, it's all I've got to take the place of all I had. And now you'd rob me even of it! And one thing more you forget: If I should give in to your wishes and leave Hollywood today, I would had been abolished. . . .

In the upshot Lucinda acknowledged receipt of neither, but for two mornings her waste-basket, with its deep drifts of note-paper minutely scrapped, bore witness to her endeavors to frame a reply at once final and not too cruel.

Better (she decided) send no word at all than a letter which could only hurt his pride. . . . If Lynn still believed he loved her. . . . If he had ever. . . .

For her part, the thing was dead and done and finished and as something that had never been; the only wonder was, it ever had.

One evening, as she was leaving the studio, she met Wallace Day on the steps of the administration building, and learned from him that, making fair allowance for every imaginable delay, he counted on making an end to camera work in two days more.

Accordingly, instead of going directly home to the Hollywood, Lucinda motored to Los Angeles and booked reservations for Reno.

On the way back to Hollywood she Bel entered, shut the door, dropped upon the red plush seat a duster and cap caked with alkali, and stood apprehensive of his welcome, his heart in his eyes.

She fell back to the petition, breathing his name, her whole body vibrating like a smitten lute-string.

In a choking voice he cried: "Linda! Listen to me. I've been up all night driving against time to overtake you and beg you to listen to this last appeal. I want you to promise me not to go to Reno. Not yet, at least. Give me a little more time, a little chance to prove to you that you're the only woman in the world for me, that I'm living the life you'd want your husband to live, and have been ever since you left me. Because I want you back, because I'm lost without you, because I want to make you happy. . . . as you were happy when you first loved me, long ago. . . ."

She lifted shaking hands to him, cried his name again, swayed blindly into his arms.

"Take me back, Bel," she whispered. "Make me happy. . . . Be kind to me, Bel, be kind. . . ."

THE END.

IN A CHOKING VOICE HE CRIED, "LINDA! LISTEN TO ME!"

Instructed her chauffeur to make a detour and stop at Fanny's hotel.

Drawing near the hotel, she recognized the conspicuous car of Barry Nolan waiting at the carriage-block, and as she bent forward to tell her chauffeur not to stop, she saw Fanny come out of the entrance, Nolan smiling, with an air of contented habit, at her elbow.

Well! that was that. . . .

Yet it was long before the picture faded of that girlish figure, posed prettily in stardom, brief skirts whipped about it by the evening wind, with its gay look of mirth, half shame-faced, half-impudent, wholly charming. . . . sweet grist for the mills whose grinding knows no rest. . . .

XXXV
WHEN she had bribed her maid to observe discretion concerning her plans, and had herself attended to the business of checking her trunks through to Reno, thus keeping her destination secret even from the woman, Lucinda felt fairly confident of getting away unhindered and unpursued.

She caught the train with little to spare, and not until it was in motion did she discover a box of roses in the luggage rack in her drawing-room.

FOOD FOR THE BRIDAL TEA

REFRESHMENTS for a bridal shower should be light and as attractive and fanciful as possible. During the afternoon a drink of some sort is always welcomed. This should be served some time before the real tea party. Serve the tea at small card tables. The guests are much more comfortable and the extra work is not worth considering.

A salad, sandwiches, tea, an ice cream cake or cakes or macaroons provide a happy medium of simplicity.

Tomato salad is delicious and refreshing and not too heavy for afternoon. The tomatoes may be stuffed or used in this fashion:

Peel tomatoes and put on ice to chill. Cut in half-inch slices. Put a slice of tomato on a lettuce leaf.

Cover with neutchal cheese mixed with chopped green olives and English walnuts. This layer should be about one-quarter inch thick. Cover with another slice of tomato and mask the whole with mayonnaise.

Marshmallow Salad.

Three cups marshmallows cut in quarters, 2 cups pineapple cut in dice, 2 cups English walnut meats, whipped cream, mayonnaise, maraschino cherries.

Mix marshmallows, pineapple and nuts. Add one-half cup whipped cream to first mixture. If not moist enough add more mayonnaise. Put salad on a lettuce leaf, top with whipped cream and add a maraschino cherry.

The sandwiches should be very thin and very dainty.

A delightful sandwich for a bridal party is made with Spread thin slices of white bread with creamed butter. Spread lightly with honey and cover with freshly gathered rose leaves. Cover with another slice of bread spread with butter and honey and cut with a heart-shaped cutter.

Strawberry sandwiches are delicious. Butter white bread with sweet creamed butter. Cover with slices of strawberries, sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar and finish with a slice of bread and butter.

Cream cheese and preserved ginger, makes a delicious filling for brown bread.

English walnuts and shaved maple sugar are another filling rather different. Toast the nuts and, while warm, cover with grated maple sugar. Mix well and use freely between thin slices of bread and butter.

Watercress and mint chopped together and moistened with mayonnaise make a filling delicious with any salad.

Use any good white cake rule and bake in a sheet. Cut in fancy shapes with a sandwich cutter and cover with colored icings. Garnish with candied rose leaves and violets.

Serve lemon or orange slices with the tea.

Radio Radiations

Amateurs are requested to make their queries as brief as possible, facilitate the publication and answering of the questions. Address your communications to the Radio Editor, The London Advertiser.

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

A THING which puzzles many radio fans is their ability to receive concert programs from a broadcasting station one night and their inability to get anything from the same station the following night.

In some cases the credit for the reception is given to the receiving equipment, while in others the novice assumes that the success is the result of his own skill.

Many receivers have been discarded for no better types because of the failure of a particular set to get these nightly concerts regularly.

As anyone may learn by a little experience in the reception of radio messages (particularly on the shorter wave lengths allotted to amateur and broadcasting stations) signal strengths vary from night to night, hour to hour and even minute to minute.

Signal Variation.

There are times during the colder winter months when signals, quite steady and dependable, are heard from stations at extreme distances. On the other hand, there are periods during the summer months when stations close at hand cannot be heard at all.

It should be expected, then, that during the change from one extreme of season to another, such as in the spring and fall, reception varies a great deal.

As radio broadcasting develops, every possible step will be taken by those interested in its development, to offset the disadvantages of this great variation in signal.

Either stations will be made more powerful or they will become sufficiently numerous to take care of all sections of the country.

Nevertheless there will always remain the lure of "distance." A great many amateurs would prefer to hear a few discordant notes from a station 1,000 miles away than to hear a most wonderfully executed program from a station in their own home town.

Results Differ.

Do not judge the merits of a radio receiving set upon the results which you may get from night to night or even from hour to hour. To make a fair comparison of radio equipment of any sort, it must be installed and operated under exactly the same conditions and the notes of operation made in exactly the same instant.

In making comparisons in the laboratory, engineers produce an artificial set of conditions over which they have complete control, in order that all their measurements may be made with accuracy.

The amateur may be misled very easily if he places too great dependence on appearance. I am encountering daily enthusiasts who have discovered unheard of things. As a rule they return later to confess that there must have been some mistake.

WATT—The unit of electric power equal to the work done by a pressure of one ampere under a current of one volt. A horsepower is equal to 746 watts.

To the Radio Editor:

Could you give me a little information on metres?

1. What does it mean by 450 or 3 metres wave length?

2. Will a wooden bowl, full of water, sunk in the ground, give a good ground connection?

3. How far should I be able to receive with the following set—1 loop coupler, 1 detector, 1 condenser, 1.0 Ohm earphones, 60 ft. aerial, 75 ft. high from the ground? J. H. Ans.—1. A metre is 39 inches, and is used to measure the radius of sound waves in radio telephony.

2. No. A wooden bowl filled with water would not make a good ground connection. An iron pipe from three to six feet long, driven into the ground, is a good ground connection.

3. Possibly 18 to 25 miles.

EDDIE HEARNE FINISHES THIRD IN RECORD-BREAKING 500 MILE DRIVE

MURPHY VICTOR IN 500-MILE AUTO CLASSIC

Flashes Into Lead At Start of Indianapolis Race and Retains It To End.

135,000 CHEER WINNER

Smashes All Records For Distance, Maintaining Average of 94.48 Miles An Hour.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—Leading from start to finish, Jimmy Murphy of Los Angeles, winner of the 1921 French Grand Prix, carved his name still deeper in the hall of motor fame today, when he flashed across the wire winner of the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Speedway, before a record-breaking crowd of 135,000 spectators.

Murphy smashed all records for the distance, clipping more than 16 minutes off the best previous record. His time was 5:17:30.79, an average of 94.48 miles an hour, against the old record of 5:33:55.51, or 89.84 miles an hour, made by Ralph De Palma in 1915.

Murphy did something which had never been accomplished before at the Indianapolis Speedway, and to the knowledge of racing experts, never before in a race of major importance. He shot into the lead at the start and never relinquished it during one instant of the five hours and 17 minutes, winning $28,000 in cash prizes.

The Los Angeles driver made only three stops during the entire 500 miles. Hartz finishes second.

While major honors went to Murphy, Harry Hartz, also of Los Angeles, who finished second, drove a remarkable race. He jumped into second place 60 miles after the start and held it throughout, always making a desperate effort to catch Murphy.

Hartz's time was 5:20:24.59, an average of 93.54 miles an hour, which placed a French car third place in the 500-mile race, for an average of 93.04 miles an hour, while Ralph De Palma, one of the favorites, was in fourth in 5:31:04.65, an average of 90.61 miles an hour.

Paced for the first lap by Barney Oldfield, retired star of the racing world, the field roared around close-bunched. Murphy finished the first lap in 1:34.54.

Passing the judge's stand on the second lap, Murphy was five car lengths in the lead, with Leon Duray second and moving up. De Palma was a close third. On the third lap Murphy and Duray increased their leads, De Palma falling back. These positions were maintained throughout 10 miles, Murphy covering the route in 6:09:54, an average of 97.84 miles an hour.

Baker in Pit. Cannon Ball Baker, in his Frontenac, developed ignition trouble on the 10th lap and had to pull into the pits for 2 minutes and 45 seconds. Murphy, still leading by nearly a lap, finished the first 25 miles at an average of 95.74 miles an hour. De Palma kept dropping back, but it was apparent there was nothing radically wrong, and evidently the wily De Palma was laying back for a hard drive at the finish.

Wilcox was forced to withdraw after the tenth lap because of valve trouble. Baker went back to the pits for the second time soon after, ignition trouble again forcing him to the sidelines.

Ralph Mulford was forced to the pits on the 19th lap and changed a rear tire in 28 seconds.

Murphy Still Ahead. At the 50th lap, Murphy still held a long lead, finishing the distance in 3:12:29.63, an average of 95.74 miles. Duray was second and Harry Hartz third.

W. D. Morton, relief driver for Joe Thomas, took the wheel on the 50th lap.

Roscoe Searles pulled into the pits on the 21st lap and changed two spark plugs in three minutes and ten seconds.

Cliff Durant was forced out of the race on the 20th lap by what appeared to be a broken axle, but examination showed this not so, and he resumed the race.

Jules Ellingboes' car threw a wheel and spun around three times on the left turn on the 25th lap. Nobody was injured.

Jules Goux was forced out of the race on the 24th lap by a broken axle.

94.91 Mile Pace Is Set. The 75 miles was covered in 47:24.94, an average of 94.91 miles. The time for the distance in the 1921 race was 52:57.

At 75 miles, Murphy was leading Harry Hartz, his nearest opponent, by half a lap, with Leon Duray close behind. Haibe was fourth, two laps behind, with De Palma trailing him.

Murphy, by retaining the lead for the first 30 laps, had won $14,000 in lap prizes.

In the 38th lap, De Palma raced past Duray and took third position. It was apparent he had made up his mind to come in to move up toward the lead. At the 100-mile lap, De Palma was a lap behind the flying Murphy, who was leading Hartz by a scant half lap.

The time for 100 miles was 1 hour, 3 minutes, 14 seconds, an average of 94.07 miles an hour.

Jack Curtner stopped at the pits on the 21st lap, changed a spark plug and took gas, oil and water in seven minutes.

D'Alene Out. D'Alene's car took fire on the 40th lap, but D'Alene and his mechanic, Schloem, extinguished the blaze, and pushed the car to the pits. The car was forced to withdraw from the race.

Duray pulled into the pits on the 44th lap and changed his right rear wheel in 22 seconds.

Rich was the referee, and Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, the starter.

The list of prizes follows: First place, $20,000; second place, $10,000; third, $5,000; fourth, $3,500; fifth, $3,000; sixth, $2,200; seventh, $1,800; eighth, $1,600; ninth, $1,500; tenth, $1,400. ## GREAT BAM GETS HOMER ONCE MORE

His and Ward's Circuit Drives Tie Up Score Twice.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Philadelphia and New York split in the holiday double bill, the Yankees winning 3 to 2 in the morning while the Athletics won in the afternoon, 4 to 3. Ruth and Ward twice tied the score in the second game, but Schang's wild throw let the winning fall in the ninth.

The scores: First game: R.H.E. Philadelphia.....001 000 010-2 6 0 New York.....000 100 113-3 9 1 Sullivan and Perkins; Hoyt and Schang.

Second game: R.H.E. Philadelphia.....000 110 101-4 10 2 New York.....000 000 000-0 6 1 Heinach and Perkins; Shawkey and Schang.

INDIANS TAKE DROP. CLEVELAND, May 30.—Cleveland dropped from third to fifth place in the American League today, losing two games to Chicago. The score of the morning was 4 to 0 and the afternoon game 7 to 6.

After holding the Indians to a tie in six innings Courtney weakened in the second game, and the locals tied the score in the seventh. Faber replied the left-hander and held Cleveland safe. Chicago won out in the ninth on Mulligan's single, a sacrifice double and Johnson's infield single. The scores: First game: R.H.E. Cleveland.....000 000 010-4 6 0 Cleveland.....000 000 000-0 6 1 Leverage and Schalk; Morton, Keffe and O'Neill, Sewell.

Second game: R.H.E. Cleveland.....000 114 001-7 11 2 Courtney, Faber and Schalk; Sothorn, Bagby, Edwards and O'Neill.

SENATORS KNOCK DOWN TWO. BOSTON, May 30.—Washington took both games of the afternoon double header from Boston, 7 to 4 and 5 to 3. Ragged fielding by the Red Sox made Boston's score of 5 to 2 while the Senators captured the afternoon contest, 2 to 1, in sixteen innings. It was due to efforts of recruits that the afternoon contest went to the eleventh inning. Shocker had held Detroit to eleven hits and one run in 14-1-3 innings. Durr, substituting for Tobin in right field, after the latter had been put out of the game together with Shocker in the 15th inning, singled, was sacrificed to second and scored the winning run on a single by Collins. The scores: First game: R.H.E. Detroit.....020 112 000-5 12 0 St. Louis.....020 001 101-5 9 1 Ebbets and Bessler; Bayne, Henry, Holp and Severid.

Second game: R.H.E. Detroit.....000 000 001 000 000-1 11 2 St. Louis.....000 100 000 000 1-2 17 2 Oldham, Olsen and Bessler; Shocker, Pruett and Severid, Collins.

TIGERS SPLIT WITH BROWNS. ST. LOUIS, May 30.—Louis and Detroit broke even in today's double-header, the Tigers taking the morning game by a score of 5 to 2 while the locals captured the afternoon contest, 2 to 1, in sixteen innings. It was due to efforts of recruits that the afternoon contest went to the eleventh inning. Shocker had held Detroit to eleven hits and one run in 14-1-3 innings. Durr, substituting for Tobin in right field, after the latter had been put out of the game together with Shocker in the 15th inning, singled, was sacrificed to second and scored the winning run on a single by Collins. The scores: First game: R.H.E. Detroit.....020 112 000-5 12 0 St. Louis.....020 001 101-5 9 1 Ebbets and Bessler; Bayne, Henry, Holp and Severid.

Second game: R.H.E. Detroit.....000 000 001 000 000-1 11 2 St. Louis.....000 100 000 000 1-2 17 2 Oldham, Olsen and Bessler; Shocker, Pruett and Severid, Collins.

FLIGHT IS MADE 6 MILES FARTHER

Owing to express agent at Prairie Sliding being disposed with the birds of the Forest City Racing Pigeon Club were shipped to Jeannette's Creek, six miles further, and released at 11:30, instead of 11:30. Rawson Bros. won first place, making the distance, 78,527 miles, in 2 hours, 30 minutes, 31 seconds. 2nd, J. Lightfoot, 79,030 miles, 2 hours, 30 minutes, 18 seconds; J. Aisle, 79,000 miles, 2 hours, 40 minutes, 30 seconds.

Velocity proper for first three: Rawson Bros., 78,527 miles per hour; J. Lightfoot, 873 yards per minute; J. Aisle, 872 yards per minute.

Other members' velocity faster, but positions were unchanged.

GIBBONS K.O.'S MARTIN. LOUISVILLE, May 30.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul knocked out "Salor" Martin of New York in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout here last night. Gibbons weighed 172 pounds, and Martin 175.

RECEIVE SMALL SALARIES. OTTAWA, May 30.—Canada has over 7,700 civil servants who are receiving smaller salaries than $50 per annum, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons today. The total of employees given as receiving $500 per annum and less was 13,500.

Mother Saves 9 Babes From Burning Home.

MONTREAL, May 30.—Although severely burned, Mrs. J. B. Ainey, 2147 DeLauro street, was able, because of her mother love, to rescue her nine children, all under 16 years old, and three in arms, from their burning home today. All the little ones escaped injury.

Sudden gusts of wind coming through an open window blew the flames coming from a stove against the wooden walls of the kitchen, starting the blaze which threatened the lives of the family.

12TH BATTERYMEN SCORE FIRST GOAL

Grand Trunk Juniors Win Good Fixture 4 to 1.

Grand Trunk juniors defeated the 12th Battery boys 4-1 last night, the lone tally made by the artillerymen replying their first score of the season. It is a fine example of good sportsmanship on the part of the battery crew, their handling so well in the face of continued defeats, and the crowds are with them in their game efforts.

Each of the Progressive speakers in turn expressed disappointment to-day that the tariff reductions were not greater, and in addition fault with the government for effecting their reductions directly, but not in a single instance did a member voice a threat against the government.

Following the example of all preceding Progressive speakers, little sympathy was expressed for the amendment moved by Sir Henry Drayton.

Three Conservative speakers, including J. L. Stansell, of East Elgin, made destructive criticism to the debate.

Two Maiden Speeches. Two Western Ontario Progressives, John W. King, of Huron, and John D. F. Drummond, of West Middlesex, joined in the debate today, delivering their maiden speeches to the session.

Mr. Drummond attacked the way in which the governments of the past had arrived at the end of each year, while for the last several years large additions were made annually to the public debt.

He felt that the finance minister did not give much encouragement in regard to the possibility of reducing the public debt which he felt must be reduced by the American people, and that with municipal and private debts taken into consideration, Canada owed nearly five billion dollars or more than one-quarter of her total wealth of 19 billions. He claimed Canada was not carrying out the heritage left her by the pioneers by allowing public debt to accumulate.

Mr. Drummond criticized the proposed tax on beet sugar, claiming that it would hit many producers in his riding very hard.

Drummond Raps Tax. He believed it was the first time on record that a tax was placed on an industry where the manufacturer had no opportunity to collect the losses incurred from either the consumer or the producer of raw materials. He wanted to know why a burden had been placed on the beet growers when all other branches of agriculture escaped a tax.

He was of the opinion that the finance minister would reconsider the tax or at least apply a similar tax to other industries when he learned of the hardship it would work on the beet sugar trade.

The member for Middlesex West advocated an excise tax of 5 per cent on every commodity taxable, in order to reduce the debt. He favored the excise tax rather than customs duty as a revenue-getter.

He did not particularly care for either the budget or for Drayton's amendment.

J. W. King did not criticize the budget as severely as Mr. Drummond, dealing more with the general policy of the government than with any particular item.

Mr. King said that in his opinion the fiscal policy of Canada had been at fault for many years. As a result of the protective tariff, he claimed that since Confederation the people of the country had been encouraged to congregate in the cities until at the present time the cities were overcrowded with unemployed, while millions of acres of fertile lands were unpopulated.

He read figures to show that exclusive of forest swamps, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, less than 15 per cent of the land fit for agricultural purposes was under cultivation. In spite of this fact bread lines existed in practically every city.

Favors Reciprocity Pact. "We hope," he said, "that the present government will continue in the direction the hake (cod) has based. It made a very short step in the right direction, and we hope they will continue it, so that ultimately a different fiscal policy will be adopted."

Mr. King did not object, he said, to fostering infant industries, but he believed the idea of protection was being carried much too far.

He advocated the adoption of a reciprocity pact with the United States if such an agreement were possible. It would tend to develop the four basic industries of the country from which all the wealth of the country must emanate. He did not think that the United States would agree to a reciprocity pact, but he felt that a change would come in the United States within the next five years.

Mr. King objected to the custom of several members of always referring to the Progressive group as Westerners.

The budget debate was resumed today by A. J. Lewis (Progressive, Swift Current), who replied to criticisms by Conservatives that the Progressives were supporting the government on measures generally in the house.

Mr. Lewis ran over the divisions which have taken place since the session opened and gave the report as follows:

PROGRESSIVES DECLINE TO AID TORY STRATEGY

Criticize Liberal Tariff Program, But Refuse To Embarrass Government.

DO NOT VOICE THREATS

West Middlesex Member Fears Beet Sugar Tax Hits His Riding.

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL. Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, OTTAWA, May 30.—Speeches in the House of Commons by several Progressive members today, strengthened the impression left by the party's whip Monday, that while the Progressives are inclined to criticize several resolutions, they have no intentions of embarrassing the government.

Each of the Progressive speakers in turn expressed disappointment to-day that the tariff reductions were not greater, and in addition fault with the government for effecting their reductions directly, but not in a single instance did a member voice a threat against the government.

Following the example of all preceding Progressive speakers, little sympathy was expressed for the amendment moved by Sir Henry Drayton.

The budget debate was resumed today by A. J. Lewis (Progressive, Swift Current), who replied to criticisms by Conservatives that the Progressives were supporting the government on measures generally in the house.

Mr. Lewis ran over the divisions which have taken place since the session opened and gave the report as follows:

Chatham Teacher Will Not Accept London Collegiate Offer.

Special to London Advertiser. CHATHAM, May 30.—Despite a tempting offer from the London Collegiate Institute, Professor W. J. Haydon of the local collegiate staff has decided to remain in the city. At a special meeting of the board of education last evening he was given a raise in salary.

Professor Haydon is in charge of the science department and laboratories at the local collegiate, and is in charge of the crack lacrosse team of the collegiate. He is an all-round sportsman, and is fond of soccer and baseball.

He voted preponderantly with the government. Progressives had not come here to play party politics. They had come to help the interests of the country as a whole.

"I am a free trader out and out," Mr. Lewis proceeded, "and I am not ashamed to admit it; but, Sir, this is a democracy, and a great majority of the people in this country do not believe in free trade. They perhaps believe in free trade than we have, but this country is a democracy and the majority has the right to rule."

Could Not Discriminate. Mr. Lewis was unable to discriminate between the Liberal policy and the national policy. Mr. Fielding was a believer in tariff for revenue, and he had hoped to see that minister reach his ideal of reciprocity and free trade before he handed over the financial burden to other shoulders.

For some reason, however, the finance minister had held that this was not the proper time to bring tariff for revenue into existence. Surely 44 years was a long enough period for experimenting with the national policy, and surely it had been amply demonstrated that it was based on a fallacy.

Mr. Lewis was pleased to see that the government had not accepted the invitation of the United States to enter upon negotiations for the construction of the St. Lawrence canal. The Canadian people must not be overtaxed, and the St. Lawrence project would mean a great expenditure of public money. The new tax on cigarettes was unfair, and it worked an injury to the poor man.

As far as the income tax was concerned, Mr. Lewis had noticed that the rate was very high on incomes from sixty to a hundred thousand dollars, but thought that it might well be raised on incomes of $10,000 and up.

It would have been a master stroke to bring down the general tariff 10 per cent. This reduction could have been overcome by a tax on cigars, a luxury tax and a graduated tax on automobiles.

Mr. Lewis had increased consumption and made up the revenues. Mr. Lewis hoped to see before long reciprocity with the United States, reduction of duties on goods coming from England by 50 per cent and free trade all around.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William-Rainy River) said the present budget did not carry out either the Progressive or the Liberal tariff platform. "The Liberals last year had said they were unable to concur in a policy of protection yet this budget was a protectionist budget."

It would increase the cost of living by $30,000,000 to $35,000,000, by adding this much to the sales tax, which amount would be taken from the consumers.

The only sign of free trade in this budget, said Dr. Manion, was that of free trade with Germany. "I am not a flag-waver," added Mr. Manion, "but when I am extending favors to anyone I prefer doing it to a nation friendly during the war rather than to an enemy nation." Under the present exchange system the Germans were given a great advantage by this budget.

The resolutions cancelling the depreciated currency regulations were a mistake. The restrictions on the export of goods had been removed without something being done to place the Canadian manufacturer on a parity with the German manufacturers. The Americans had placed restrictions on depreciated foreign currency.

Fielding Makes Explanation. Hon. W. S. Fielding interjected that this was not law in the United States, and probably never would be. It was merely proposed legislation.

Dr. Manion said that even if it showed the need for it.

The prime minister, during the campaign, had argued for a tariff for revenue and a tariff for the producer and the consumer. The prime minister had called the tariff by many names, but it was noticeable that the minister of finance had not called it a tariff.

He had said that it was not possible for Canada to have free trade. Free trade was a sectional cry, and was being raised by interests in the Prairie Provinces. The wheat board was another sectional cry, as was the demand for the restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement.

Dr. Manion admitted that the thousands of farmers who sold their products in the industrial centers realized the importance of home markets. If the tariff was removed altogether the farmers would pay a greater proportion of the national revenue than ever before.

Dr. Manion admitted that he had voted for reciprocity in 1911, but was of the opinion that the attitude of the United States was not going to give the finance minister an opportunity to open reciprocal negotiations for a long time to come. The reduction in the tariff would tend toward reducing the revenue.

SHOWS BUILDING TREND UPWARD

MacLeans, Ltd., Report Large Advance Over Previous Year.

Statistics From Construction Costs Continue Downward Course.

During May, construction contracts awarded in Canada, according to MacLean Building Reports, Limited, amounted to $34,827,300, compared with $29,428,400 in April, and $26,859,500 in May, 1921. This is the second largest monthly figure on record since 1914. Residential building accounted for 45 per cent of the May total and amounted to $15,633,500. Business building amounted to $11,716,000, or 33.1 per cent of the total; industrial buildings, $8,015,000, or 24 per cent; public works and utilities, $8,576,300, or 19.3 per cent. The value of contemplated new work reported during May was $28,571,500.

The figures for the different provinces are as follows:

No. Projects.	Value
Ontario.....2048	$20,912,200
Quebec.....779	$13,793,900
British Columbia.....276	2,090,900
Manitoba.....290	1,381,300
Nova Scotia.....84	1,045,700
Alberta.....162	$75,400
New Brunswick.....94	$18,400
Saskatchewan.....136	668,500
Prince Edward Is.....4	101,000

Total for Dom. 3873 $34,827,300

The trend of building costs is still downward. During April, the whole sale price index of 48 building materials declined four-fifths of one per cent and is now 78.3 per cent above 1913, compared with a peak of 183.8 per cent reached in May, 1920. Prices have now declined 59.3 per cent from the high. Manufacturers and others who control factors of building cost would make a serious mistake to attempt any price increase at this time. The benefits must be taken on volume of business, and in so doing no barriers to progress will be raised.

The various factors which control activity in the building field are pointing more definitely to a period of stabilization and indicate an increasingly encouraging outlook. Money available for new construction is increasing in amount and the cost of financing is decreasing. The labor situation seems to be calming down and it is anticipated that there will not be any reaction of building cost increase as a result of increased volume.

FAILS TO FINISH STATIONS DRAFT

At an early hour Wednesday morning the stationing committee of the London conference of the Methodist Church had failed to complete the first draft of stations. Despite the fact that three sessions were held Tuesday, and one meeting Monday, the committee failed to complete the draft, which must be presented to the ministerial associations opening in Centennial Methodist Church Wednesday morning.

STINNES "KING" OF PAPER AND
INK IN GERMANYStrives To Wield Public Opinion On Taxation, Tariff and All Laws.

BACKS PEOPLE'S PARTY

Critics Claim Magnate Owns

120 Newspapers in Republic and Austria.

This is the sixth and last article in a series exposing the activities of Hugo Stinnes, the present "kaiser of Germany."

BERLIN, May 30.—In London clubs

they love to tell the story of the man who boasted he had lost of newspapers so he could have all kinds and shades of opinion before making up his mind on public questions.

Asked what papers

he read, he replied: "I read the solid Times and the Daily Mail and the bustling Evening

News in the afternoon. On Sundays Iread the breezy Dispatch."

He was amazed

when his friends

greeted his statements with shoutsof laughter. One of them enlightened him by explaining that all those papers belonged to Lord Northcliffe and expressed his policies.

There are many who say that Hugo Stinnes, Germany's business king, is the German Northcliffe, only more so. They will tell you the time is rapidly approaching when it will be difficult to know whether one is reading an independent opinion or a Stinnes opinion.

Controls Newspapers.

People ordinarily well informed variously estimate Stinnes owns 12

papers, 10 papers, even 130 papers in Germany, and still others in Austrian. They bellow the growing lossof free newspaper comment in Germany.

Labor leaders tell me Germany,

since 1870, has always in this regard been worse off than almost any big nation in the world.

Bismarck had his press which told the public what he wanted it to believe and fought the causes and statesmen Bismarck hated or feared.

With the tremendous expansion of Germany as a business nation, labor leaders make the flat assertion that coal, iron and steel interests openly or secretly secured control of many of the big influential newspapers of Germany. Their object was to support political parties and leaders who would give them the kind of laws and tariffs best suited to their interests.

People who know Stinnes well

tell me the ability to mold public opinion through ownership of newspapers was probably only a secondary thought with him. For Stinnes, business is always business. He is a practical man. He came into the publishing game first of all because he owns coal mines. The bridge from coal mines to newspapers is made of wood.

In his coal mines Stinnes needed

great quantities of wood for shoring up seams and for many other kinds of construction in the pits. To assure himself a steady, ample supply of cheap wood, he bought great forest tracts in East Prussia and Finland. Then his restless brain got busy again. He had timber and he had the coal. Why not ship the coal to where the timber stood and manufacture valuable wood products—cellulose, paper pulp and paper?

So one fine day Germany learned that loads of Stinnes coal were going across Germany to East Prussia, where, in Stinnes mills, trees were converted into Stinnes paper and pulp. Later he bought a big concern in Koenigsburg and another inNorth Germany. In his own neighborhood of Westphalia there was a mill which manufactured fine note paper, so he bought that, too.

Buys Three Berlin Papers.

Then it struck Stinnes it would be a grand idea to manufacture Stinnes paper into Stinnes newspapers. So in quick succession he bought three

Berlin journals. His first investment was the "Industrie und Handelszei-tung," which, as its name indicates, is a business paper. It was the best in Germany, and so an important acquisition for a business king. His next purchase was the smaller

"Deutsche Warte."

His third acquisition was the most significant of all. He bought the "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung," the paper, which, in the old days of the monarchy, was the semi-official organ of the government. What it said represented what the rulers wanted known. Its readers are still very largely the once-upon-a-time official classes, who are true to the royalist cause, and hope for an ultimate restoration of the Hohenzollerns.

Supports People's Party.

Stinnes belongs to the German People's party. In fact, he is its chief financial backer. He fills its campaign chest when an election is fought. And the right wing of the party is largely royalist. Germans

Accepts Nomination, But Loses Rail Job.

DAUPHIN, Man., May 30.—

Dismissal of George H.

Palmer, member of the Provincial Legislature for Dauphin, who has accepted the Labor-Farmer nomination for the approaching elections, from the Canadian National Railroads, created quite a stir in Labor-Farmer circles here.

Intimation that Canadian National headquarters that his services would no longer be required was received today. It is because the order came as a surprise that it has caused such great consternation in his party ranks.

who belong to the democratic parties which believe in republican institutions tell you Stinnes himself at heart is a monarchist. However that may be, he is too shrewd a businessman to come out in the open for the king business so long as the republican wave lasts in Germany, and so long as open espousal of royalty would throw him into conflict with his workmen.The fact is the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung certainly watches its step. It confines itself largely to giving the news. If the news is colored to suit the interests of Stinnes,

it is very cleverly done.

In a time when German papers are almost as small as those of France

because of the high cost of things,

this great Stinnes sheet gives abundant proof of the full money coffers

in back of it. It is the largest paper in Berlin, and it spends much money on special telegraphic service in a period when the rate of foreign exchange against Germany makes cables from outside really worth their actual weight in gold.

I have been told that Stinnes owns at least one important paper in almost every considerable city of Germany, and that only recently he closed a deal for two in Leipzig.

Whenever such assertions appear in the German press, they
