

CENTRAL RY. INSPECTION TRIP A REVELATION OF TRUE VALUE OF ROAD AND MINES

In Spite of Terrific Storm Guests of Commissioners King and McAvity Saw Enough to Convince Them of Road's Excellent Condition and the Immense Wealth of Minto Coal Fields.

Contending against an unfavorable weather as might well be imagined, the visit of a body of representative citizens yesterday to the Central Railway and Minto mines, guests of the commissioners under the local government, Senator King and Geo. McAvity, was a success. Fifty-four made the trip from this city, while quite a number of others joined the party along the route. The unanimous opinion of the visitors was that the Central Railway is now in first class condition and it was also a general conviction that the road is a valuable asset of the provincial government.

Notwithstanding the unfortunate weather the visitors were convinced from what they saw that with the great future of the coal industry in the section served, this road even in its present condition is at least as good as any other of the smaller lines, and a decidedly good paying proposition, while during the construction of the Transcontinental, and afterwards as a trunk line for through freight, its possibilities of usefulness seem almost unlimited.

There was a general expression of surprise at the magnitude of the operations which are going on and the reconstruction work which has been effected. The name of "Busy Chipman" was found to be well earned, while at Minto there is a regular boom and houses are being built for the workmen by the scores. It was found that at Minto eight miles were found constantly being worked with an output of 200 tons a day. The crying necessity of the district is for more working men. If the mines were properly managed there is no doubt that the capacity could be increased to 500 tons a day. The same scarcity of labor has been a difficult problem which has confronted the commissioners and Manager Hunter.

The following were those who accompanied the trip over the line and the guests of the commissioners: Col. H. H. McLean, Dr. J. M. Smith, J. H. McRobbie, president of the Board of Trade; W. E. Foster, vice president; K. B. Kesson, general manager of the Bank of New Brunswick; Geo. Robert, M.P.P.; Sheriff Ritchie; Capt. E. C. Elkin; E. M. Shadobit, manager of the Bank of Montreal; J. W. Daniel, M.P.; Hon. C. J. Oaman; Hon. C. W. Robinson, premier of the province; J. B. Goggin, M.P.P.; J. F. T. T. Brown, T. B. Blair, W. B. Faris, J. B. Cudlip, Dr. Peake (Sunbury), L. R. Ross, H. M. Hopper, A. W. Adams, J. W. W. Lawlor, J. Morris Robinson, Chas. Nevins, Dr. Ruddle, M.P.P.; E. E. Francis, manager of the Bank of Commerce; F. M. Tweedie, C. W. Winslow (Chatham); J. T. P. Knight, secretary to the Canadian Bankers' Association; Hon. L. P. Faris, who was among those who joined the party along the line; G. G. Scott, M.P.P.; Isaac W. Carpenter, M.P.P.; Moses Burpee, Hugh Balcom, C. E. H. Hon. Jas. Barnes, Dr. Keith, H. P. Robinson, James Pender, Manager Sherwood of the Albert Railway; S. H. White, M.P.P.; J. F. T. Brown, M.P.P.; M.P.P.; Victoria; Dr. Hay, T. P. Hetherington, N. Foster Thorne, of the Carleton Sentinel; J. D. McKenna, of the Sussex Record, and representatives of the St. John newspapers.

The guests were greeted at the Union Depot by George McAvity and by Manager Hunter. Senator King, the other commissioner, joined the party at Chipman. A special car attached to the day express leaving at 7.15 conveyed the party to Norton. Hope was expressed that the weather, which was decidedly unpleasant, with incessant rain and a high wind, would clear up during the morning, but the hope was not realized and throughout the whole day there was a constant rainfall.

At Norton the visitors' cars were taken up by a special. As the I. C. R. was left behind, the visitors to the majority of whom the trip was entirely new, left their newspapers and their attention to what was happening around them. There was an inclination in not a few to take a firm grip of the chairs and await events. But their fears were unfounded and before the special had travelled many miles, the opinion was expressed that while not as smooth running as the main line of the I. C. R. it compared most favorably with any other line in the province.

From Norton to Chipman, which is the older section of the line, and which is 45 miles in length, the run was made in a little less than two hours, including a number of stops. The reconstruction work has been carried on both from Norton and Chipman, and the improvement made is most marked. There remains to be done, however, about twelve miles on the Norton side of Cumberland Bay, where there is a necessity for a large amount of ballast and ditching. This work would be about completed if it had not been for the scarcity of labor and the unfavorable season. This section, however, is practically the only part of the road which is not now in first class condition. In fact, of the 135 miles of the road 40 may be said to be in excellent condition.

The average grade of the line was found to be 1 1/2 per cent, although for a short section in the vicinity of Cumberland Bay the grade is 2 per cent. This no doubt could be somewhat reduced, although no effort is being made to do so at the present time.

The old trestles and bridges have either been filled in or replaced. Particular mention should be made here of the splendid steel bridge at Norton, with steel superstructure and concrete sub-structure. The bridge at Bellefleur creek yet remains to be replaced, but the hard southern pine which is being used exclusively in such work, has already arrived and the reconstruction has begun.

All along the route it was to be noticed that the stations had been repaired and put in first-class condition. Five miles of fencing has also been done this summer. The special arrived at Chipman at eleven and found the flags throughout the town raised in honor of the visitors. The railway has at Chipman a most modern yard, a mile long. At the Norton end the visitors were shown the flags marking the course of the transcontinental, which is to make Chipman a railway centre, besides having already splendid water connection to this city. Chipman is growing fast, and although yesterday's storm did not add to its attractiveness, it has an ever-increasing number of fine structures. The visitors were decidedly unfortunate in their first view of the reconstruction, which consisted them by informing them that it would not have made much difference what day they came, as this summer it has been raining eight days out of each week.

The rain was quickly sought shelter in the new shops of the Central Road built at a cost of $10,000 and insured to the value of $7,000 which have just been put into operation. Ten men are being regularly employed. The visitors were quick to see practical work of the company's engines were in the shops undergoing repairs. It is expected that these shops will also be no little business from the transcontinental during its construction days. In fact it is very probable that had not the commissioners taken this work in hand that the transcontinental would themselves have built shops there. The amount of business which the construction of the new road will mean to Chipman will be immense.

The King Lumber Co. have stores both in Minto and Chipman. The department store at Chipman is one of the finest in the province and supplies a large part of the neighboring districts. There proved also to be two public houses at Chipman, as the guests who were divided between the two houses for dinner, can testify.

At one o'clock the special left for Minto and the run of thirteen miles was made in 24 minutes over the new and best laid section of the road. The cuts in the old part of the road were conspicuous by their absence and the road lies for a mile at a time in a perfectly straight line. For scenery, this section calls for less attention, as it is practically unscenic and the road is not intersected as in the older sections by innumerable small waterways.

Minto lays no claim to beauty, although it has two or three fine structures. The visitors after a short halt at the mine were taken along one of the spur tracks and had an opportunity to visit two of the coal mines, the G. H. King mine and the Barnes mine. At the King mine, President McRobbie and the local pressmen made the descent into the subterranean depths, while another party ventured into the Barnes mine. The visitors, however, contented themselves with a casual examination as the wet weather has not been so favorable as to make the mines any clearer. Some idea of the extent of the veins, however, could be seen. Senator King, whose optimism concerning the district is contagious, pointed out to the visitors nine mines, all in the immediate vicinity.

The principal mines are the Minto mine, owned by G. H. King which produces the Minto coal, the Northfield Co. mine, of which James Barnes is manager, the Rothwell Coal Co. mine, of which Evans is manager and the Sunbury mine of which Harvey Welton is owner. Fred Tweedie is just opening up a new mine and lastly the Winterport mine owned by J. S. Gibson & Co. Smaller mines are those of Edward Kelly, of Leary Bros., and J. Cookley. The aggregate of men at work in the mines is 150 but only about 30 or 40 are working at one time. The owners have been much hampered by the scarcity of labor. G. H. King has created a number of houses for his workmen at the Northfield and Rothwell Companies are following his course. A school building is being erected on the unanimous decision of the people of Minto. Special efforts are being made to bring men to the village with their families and a good school system is therefore essential.

These areas which are in operation at Minto by private companies are quite apart from the immense deposits owned by the province. There are 693 square miles owned by the government, which are of proven value, while there are in addition almost as much in which the deposit is probably shallower. The federal government experts have placed the amount of workable coal in these areas at 200 or 250 million tons. At Minto also the Central Railway has a modern yard, a water tank of 50,000 capacity and a series of 100,000 capacity. In fact the equipment at Minto is in every way up to date. At Norton, likewise, the company has a two-stalled steam heated engine house. The Central Railway has as a part of its equipment a telephone line along its whole length, with eight stations on it. The railway staff numbers 52. This, however, does not include the ten men who are employed in the repair shop nor the number of men who are employed from time to time on the construction work. The pay roll on the same basis is $2,200 a month. The equipment of the road includes five engines, 70 cars, three of which are passenger coaches. The road has two snow plows.

After the inspection of the mines at Minto, it was decided that with the torrent of rain which was falling that it would be better to make the run back to Norton in daylight. Manager Hunter feared a washout and his fears were later confirmed. The special therefore left for Norton again after a brief wait at Chipman. It was the hope of Manager Hunter that the special would be able to connect with the C. P. R., especially on account of the illness of Gillmour Brown, C.E., but when five miles from Norton the special caught up to the regular, which was stalled before the small washout. Senator King and the party remained to be replaced, but had fallen in torrents and little unnamed streams which the visitors had noticed on the trip up were now raging rivers, while the roadway had been flooded in all directions. Senator King and the party remained to be replaced, but had fallen in torrents and little unnamed streams which the visitors had noticed on the trip up were now raging rivers, while the roadway had been flooded in all directions.

On the train becoming stalled, the passengers, almost without exception, went to the rescue of the lucky sail, made under the direction of Manager Hunter. The repairs were made speedily, but not before an hour had been lost and all hope of catching the C. P. R. gone.

The new incident of railway life, new to it was to the majority of the travellers, was not the only variation afforded. A whistle from the engine and a cry of moose cause a rush for the window, and some of the lucky sail pulled. Two cows on the track were not so careful to get out of the way, and got a rude jolt from the engine, which tossed them over the embankment, while the train was seen struggling in the water below.

At Norton the hungry passengers thronged to the Campbell House, greatly overworking that hotel. A half a dozen, unable to gain admittance, sought refuge at the Campbell House, the Grand Central, but to their surprise, President McRobbie was already in possession. President McRobbie did not linger in the rear yesterday. Besides reporting the coal mine, he distinguished himself by studying the sensation of stoker on the locomotive. At his hotel one of the visitors found himself in a land flowing with milk and honey by giving his host the impression that he was a stoker on the train of public works. The best that the pantry afforded was brought forward and the genial host asked the honor of being allowed to introduce his family, which request was generously granted. Meanwhile, the guests for the evening were entertained and Messrs. Shadwick and Kersey and Col. McLean were all asked whether they would sing "The Saver's Little Boy on Nellie's Hat." All refused.

During the trip down on the I. C. R. Mr. Shadwick moved a vote of thanks to His Majesty's royal commissioners. His speech of the board of trustees, which had been provided for their enjoyment. He had never seen a washout, he had been in a coal mine and he had never ridden in a locomotive. He had seen a washout, he had been in a coal mine and he had never ridden in a locomotive. He had seen a washout, he had been in a coal mine and he had never ridden in a locomotive.

Mr. Daniel said that it gave him great pleasure to record the motion of Chipman, where Senator King is such an important figure, is quite a centre. The trip, he thought, very educational. He said that he had found more industrial activity than he had expected. The amount of coal taken out had been an eye-opener to him. The Central Railway, he said, was a first-class road. He spoke of the great care of the commissioners in their work.

Senator King in reply said that he thought the inspection a vote of thanks, Mr. McAvity should get a vote of censure for deciding upon today. He hoped that they could renew the trip under more favorable circumstances. His reply was in favor of government ownership of railways, but he thought that this railway was a good paying property. Mr. McAvity was then called. He said that he did not believe that the people of St. John knew the extent of the coal areas and he gave the following figures to show the growth of the Central railway business:

The number of tons of coal taken from Minto was as follows:

1904	8,153
1905	18,318
1906	31,238
1907	45,695

The number of passengers was as follows:

1903	3,674
1904	10,122
1905	10,526
1906	13,940

WESTERN EDITORS PREPARING CASE
TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 3.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, in conference with the Winnipeg editors at Winnipeg today, declared he knew nothing of the trouble except what he saw in the papers. This bears out the general report that the action was the work of underlings in the west who did not understand the situation. The convention of publishers opened at Regina today to prepare the case for the railway commission and parliament. Every senator and every member of parliament in Canada is being wired for his views for publication on the question of public ownership of telegraphs or railway commission regulation. Senator Davis is the first to reply, stating unequivocally that only public ownership will remedy the existing evil.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION NOW IN SESSION

23 New Unions and 64 New Members
—Mrs. Gray Urged Claims of Y. Work.

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Oct. 3.—The annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island began this morning in Oddfellows' Hall. A violent storm of wind and rain made the attendance rather small at the opening, but did not seriously interfere with the work of the session. The president, Mrs. M. Gray of Fairville, took the chair and opened the meeting with the crusade hymn, Give to the Winds Thy Fears.

Mrs. Dr. Johnson of Prince Edward Island presided over the general assembly. The report of the recording secretary, Mrs. Humphrey of Moncton, in the absence of the recording secretary, was appointed to that office. Minutes of the executive, filling vacant offices and appointing committees of arrangement, were read and adopted. Miss Gray was appointed corresponding secretary. The superintendent's report of world's missions showed the total of $227 contributed to the work of the W. C. T. U. in the province. It was found that a contribution of $5 from St. John did not appear. The report was accepted subject to correction. The reports of superintendents of juvenile work, peace and arbitration, systematic giving, Sabbath observance and other work were not forthcoming. Some of them will be presented at the afternoon session. The report of mothers' meetings and moral education was also presented, and the distribution of literature on the subject.

Mrs. A. W. Barney, who was cordially greeted on taking the platform, gave an inspiring address on this topic. The report of work among lumbermen and rural women showed a considerable interest in the work throughout the two provinces, but efforts to send a missionary to the lumber camps have not been successful.

The rule of the W. C. T. U. is that their missionaries shall not receive money contributions from the men they visit. There was some difference of opinion as to whether this rule should be modified. The W. C. T. U. convention was occupied wholly with the consideration of reports. The report of the treasurer, Carrie A. Robinson, showed total receipts of $465.76, and expenditure of $293.55, and a balance of $172.21. The report of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. N. Asker, showed twenty-three unions reporting, with a membership of 542, and 64 new members. The report of the president, Mrs. Nellie M. Gray, dealt exhaustively with the work of the year. She urged that the most attention be given to the Y. work.

Mrs. A. J. Fraser, delegate to the world's W. C. T. U. recently in great and interesting report of that great gathering. This evening a welcome meeting is being held in the Methodist Church.

"BOO-HOO" Shouts a Spanked Baby.

A Doctor of Divinity, now Editor of a well-known Religious paper, has written regarding the controversy between Collier's Weekly and the Religious Press of the Country and others, in relation to the matter of ratings for libel brought by Collier's against us for commenting upon its methods. These are his sentiments, with some very emphatic words left out.

"The religious Press owes you a debt of gratitude for your courage in showing Collier's Weekly as the 'Yellow Oh Man.' Would you care to use the enclosed article on the 'Boo Hoo Baby' as the 'Yellow Oh Man's' successor?"

"A contemporary remarks that Collier's has finally run against a solid hickory 'Post' and been damaged in its own estimation to the tune of $750,000.00."

"Here is a publication which has, in its disregard of the facts, spread broad damaging statements about the Religious Press and others and has suffered those false statements to go uncontradicted, until, not satisfied after finding the Religious Press too quiet, and peaceful, to resent the insult it makes the mistake of wandering into a fresh field and butts its rattled head against this Post and all the World laughs. Even Christians smile, as the Post suddenly turns and gives it back a taste of Collier's. The volume is so large that a man could not well go thru it under half a day's steady work. The letters come from various parts of America. Usually a private controversy is not interesting to the public, but this is a public controversy. Collier's has been using the 'yellow' methods to attract attention to itself, but, jumping in the air, cracking heels together and yelling 'Look at me' wouldn't it suffice, so it attacked out 'Holler Than Thou' attack on the Religious Press and on medicines. We leave it to the public now, as we did when we first resented Collier's attacks, to say whether, in a case of sensation, it is not better to let a mercenary hounding, we advise leave it to the public to say whether Collier's, by its own policy and methods, has not made itself more ridiculous than any comment of ours could make it. Does Collier's expect to regain any self-inflicted loss of prestige by demonstrating through suits for damages, that it can be more artful in evading liability for libels than the humble but resentful victims of its defamation or does it hope by starting a campaign of libel suits to silence the public indignation, reproach and resentment which it has aroused. Collier's can not dodge this public controversy by private lawsuits. It can not postpone the public judgment against it. That great jury, the Public, will hardly blame us for not waiting until we get a petit jury in a court room, before denouncing this prodigal detractor of institutions founded and fostered either by individuals or by the public itself. No announcements during our entire business career were ever made claiming "medical effects" for either Postum or Grape-Nuts. Medical effects are results obtained from the use of a medicine.

Thousands of visitors go thru our entire work each month and see for themselves that Grape-Nuts contains absolutely nothing but wheat, barley and a little salt. Postum absolutely nothing but wheat and about ten per cent of New Orleans molasses. The art of preparing these simple elements in a scientific manner to obtain the best food value and flavour, required some work and experience to acquire. Now, when any publication goes far enough out of its way to attack us because our advertising is "medical," it simply offers a remarkable exhibition of ignorance or worse.

We do claim physiological or bodily results of favorable character following the adoption of our suggestions regarding the discontinuance of coffee and foods which may not be keeping the individual in good health. We have no advice to offer the perfectly healthy person. His or her health is evidence in itself that the beverages and foods used exactly fit that person. Therefore, why change? But to the man or woman who is ailing, we have something to say as a result of an unusually wide experience in food and the result of proper feeding. In the palpably ignorant attack on us in Collier's, appeared this statement: "One widely circulated paragraph in Grape-Nuts will obviate the necessity of an operation in appendicitis. This is lying and potentially deadly lying."

In reply to this exhibition of ill will let the reader name it, the Postum Co. Let it be understood that appendicitis results from long continued disturbance in the intestines, caused primarily by undigested starchy food, such as white bread, potatoes, rice, partly cooked cereals and such. Starchy food is not digested in the upper stomach but passes on into the appendix, or lower stomach and intestines, where, in a healthy individual, the transformation of the starch into a form of sugar is completed and then the food absorbed by the blood. But if the powers of digestion are weakened, a part of the starchy food will lie in the warmth and moisture of the body and decay, generating gases and irritating the mucous surfaces underneath such conditions the whole lower part of the alimentary canal, including the colon and the appendix, becomes involved. Disease sets up and at times takes the form known as appendicitis.

When the symptoms of the trouble make their appearance, would it not be good, practical, common sense, to discontinue the starchy food which is causing the trouble and eat a food in which the starch has been transformed into a form of sugar in the process of manufacture? This is identically the same form of sugar found in the human body after starch has been permitted to undergo its natural process.

Now, human food is made up very largely of starch and is required by the body for energy and warmth. Naturally, therefore, its use should be continued, if possible, and for the reasons given above it is made possible in the manufacture of Grape-Nuts. In connection with this change of food to bring relief from physical disturbances, we have suggested a washout of the intestines to get rid of the immediate cause of the disturbance. Naturally, there are cases where the disease has lain dormant and the abuse continued too long, until the intestine is well-nigh worn out. But it is a well-established fact among the best physicians who are acquainted with the details above recited, that preventive measures far outlast any cure. Are we to be condemned for suggesting a way to prevent disease by following natural methods and for perfecting a food that contains no "medicinal effects" but which has guided literally thousands of persons from sickness to health? We have received during the years past upwards of 25,000 letters from people who have been either helped or made entirely well by following our suggestions, and they are simple. If coffee disagrees and causes any of the ailments common to the stomach, if white bread, potatoes, rice and other starchy food make trouble, quit and use Grape-Nuts food, which is largely predigested, and will digest, nourish and strengthen, when other forms of food do not. It's just plain old common sense.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 3.—The report of the finding of the board of trustees of the Victoria hospital on the recent investigation held was given out this morning. It covers a large number of typewritten pages and the conclusion reached is about what was expected. The report speaks first of the way in which the charges were set out in the charges that those who were said to be familiar with these facts refused to come forward. Then it had been stated on all sides that if the matron did not resign, the hospital would be closed. # STRANGE SHOOTING CASE IN MAINE

Unknown Man Shot Two Others in Maine
Central Station at Brunswick—Neither Will Die.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Oct. 3.—John McCoy of Centre street, Portland, was shot through the abdomen, and another man who refused to give his name, was shot in the leg by an unknown man at the Maine Central station here this evening. The assailant escaped after the shooting and has not been captured. The injured man was taken to the hospital in Portland by Chief of Police Colburn. The details of the shooting cannot be learned here. The two injured men had come from Bath on an electric car and claimed that the man who did the shooting was a stranger to them. Persons who were near at the time state that three men were engaged in earnest conversation for some time, when one of them suddenly drew a revolver and fired four shots in rapid succession, then ran away and was quickly lost in the darkness. A crowd was attracted by the shots and the condition of the victims was considered sufficiently serious to order them removed to the hospital at Portland.

The police at once began a search for the fugitive, but at a late hour tonight they had failed to apprehend him. KILLED BY FATHER.

WEST DERRY, N. H., Oct. 3.—Fred Groleau, who was shot in the abdomen last night, died this evening. His father, Cyril Groleau, who is under arrest on a charge of manslaughter, will be arraigned in the morning. He was given a preliminary hearing today on a charge of assault. He waived examination and pleaded not guilty. The hearing was adjourned pending the outcome of his son's injuries.

THE SKILLED ARTISAN.

Once again the scarcity of skilled artisans has been forced upon the attention of the country by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. They, of all men, are most apt to know the actual conditions and when they affirm that this scarcity is one of the great impediments to industrial development in the Dominion, their opinion is worthy of consideration.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association persistently recommend a remedy. The European countries are constantly developing skilled artisans. These men have been and may be induced to come to Canada. It, therefore, say the manufacturers, is the plain duty of the Canadian government to use every power which it possesses to provide the country with this sorely needed skilled labor.

The scheme is plausible; but it presents grave difficulties and serious dangers. It is one thing to induce the unskilled workmen of Europe to avail themselves of Canadian opportunities; it is quite another thing to induce skilled artisans to leave the pleasant certainties of present employment and embark upon an uncertain voyage of discovery. And even if they could be brought here in sufficient numbers to supply the present demand, the good effect in one quarter would be balanced by injury in another.

NEW BRUNSWICK FORWARD MOVEMENT.

Two of the greatest needs of this province are more people, particularly on the land, and more industries. In taking energetic action to meet these needs the provincial government is winning credit for itself and is procuring co-operation of every man interested in New Brunswick's progress.

As announced in the news columns of The Sun yesterday, the government is arranging for the creation of a bureau of immigration under the administration of competent men who will carry out an advanced policy leading to the settlement of New Brunswick's fertile but unutilized areas by practical British agriculturists. A notable feature of this policy, in its beginning at least, is to be the employment of the wonderfully effective colonization system of the Salvation Army, for the purpose of procuring and settling on the land a start in the new country. Premier Robinson has under arrangement with the Army authorities a scheme under which the government will supply the necessary funds to the Army, and the Army will supply the men fitted by character and training to become useful Canadian citizens and to assist in the development of the vast agricultural resources of this province.

Under vigorous direction the new immigration bureau, co-operating with this tremendous machine, is bound to effect a great transformation in immigration conditions. The new feature of provincial enterprise such an influx of new people as New Brunswick has not seen since the days of the Loyalists.

But this is only one feature of the forward movement which Premier Robinson's government has inaugurated. The new Premier has not been saying much since his appointment, but evidence is accumulating that he has been doing a great deal of practical work. Second only in his plan for the colonization policy is his plan for the encouragement of an industrial bureau to encourage the establishment of new industries and the development of New Brunswick's rich mineral resources. The province has not gone ahead more rapidly in largely its own hands and the government proposes speedily to find where the fault lies and effectively to remedy it.

Another evidence of the government's quiet activity is the action taken to facilitate and hasten the absorption by the Intercolonial of its branch lines. The advantage of this policy has been obvious for some time. Many have advocated it, but Premier Robinson is the first to take definite action to bring it about. And these things are only a beginning. There is much to be done to bring to this province the prosperity to which it is justly heir, and the government is showing unmistakably its capacity to appreciate what is needed and to do it.

TELEGRAPH COMPANIES AND THE PUBLIC.

A delegation of western newspaper men will wait upon the federal government immediately after the session opens and urge upon the authorities the wisdom of bringing Canada into the Railway Commission. Their case is based upon the recent action of the C. P. R. Telegraph Company in suddenly increasing press rates to a level which is a newly formed news exchange organization arranged by western papers in the system of the Associated Press, and openly charge that the C. P. R. has gone so far as to refuse to give its service to some newspapers unless they would promise to boycott the new organization and not criticize the C. P. R.

While the company's case has not yet been presented, the claim of the western press seems a strong one. Even if there be two sides to the question, the demand for federal control of these great mediums of communication is just and reasonable. A well founded sentiment which led to the existing system of railway control. Parliament has considered the matter before and with the new arguments which will now be offered, will undoubtedly take it up again vigorously. If it does, the result must be either a rigorous system of public control or complete public ownership.

Another result which we hope this western agitation will bring about is a better arrangement among Canadian news agencies. Under existing conditions news from American sources, owing to the splendid organization of the Associated Press, is far more complete and reliable than Canadian news. As an instance, we may point out that Canadian papers had far fuller reports of the anti-Japanese disturbances in San Francisco than in Vancouver, the latter report received by the Vancouver riot arrived from Seattle via Chicago, New York and Boston. The disadvantage and possible evil of this is obvious and a remedy should not be impossible.

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.

This politics is an amazingly uncertain business. A few weeks ago the position seemed to be predicting a general provincial election in the very near future; had even fixed the date as the Tuesday preceding the opening of the federal house in November. But the government maintained a prudent silence and made no apparent preparation for the contest. Now that the opposition press has recovered somewhat from its fright and is reassuring its readers with the announcement that the elections will be held until after another session, the government has entered upon active preparations for a contest. The Liberal convention for Kings County is slated for October 15, and the Conservative convention is slated for October 16. It certainly looks as if the distracted opposition would again have to revise its plans.

A SIMPLE REMEDY.

That Canadian immigration agent at Vancouver who has got himself into trouble for refusing admission to Japanese who are not provided with passports direct to Canada, has called upon the existing difficulty. It seems that the official had no authority to make such a demand upon the immigrants; but if Japan is as friendly towards Canada as she professes to be, it should be possible to obtain the necessary authority. The Japanese government is under promise to restrict the number of Japanese immigrants to Canada to four or five hundred a year and professes itself responsible and sorry for the present influx. The two governments being sympathetic in this matter, Japan should be willing to allow Canada to refuse admission to all lacking passports, which passports the Japanese government can limit according to the terms of the treaty and thus prevent any future trouble.

CANADA AND EUROPEAN POLITICS.

The Hon. L. P. Brodeur is the present authority for the statement that the present entente cordiale between Great Britain and France was fixed in part to the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier when the guest of Premier Loubet had referred convincingly to the friendship that existed between the two races in Canada. The fact is significant of the future influence of Canada in European politics. From the very beginning we have been related to two European races. Moreover, as the days go by, it is apparent that we will welcome to our land large numbers from other influential European countries. These peoples must come to constitute one nation with common interests, common purposes, and common life as inevitable.

The history of the United States is in that respect significant. Though they have in the cities large herds of unassimilated foreigners yet they have been able in a marvellous way to bring the European people into the life and spirit of their new home. We cannot believe that we will be less successful. We have realized already the enduring friendship and national unity of the Anglo Saxon and the French and in the passing of the days we will bring into the life of this new nation the German, the Italian, the Russian and others of the European people. In the fields, the mines and the factories of Canada these men must be treated and respected on another. They must be associated in the tasks of municipal, provincial and federal government. Into the new Canadian life must enter the thought and life of all Canadians.

The influence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in helping to determine this new relationship between Great Britain and France is, therefore, but the beginning of the future influence of Canada in European politics. Moreover, in this respect Canadian influence must differ from that exerted by the United States. We have preserved a British connection. Friendship in Canada must come to mean friendship with Great Britain. Canadian institutions are, however, British institutions. Men of many nations must, therefore, come in this new land to an appreciation of, and a loyalty to the home of their liberties.

The peace of democracies is most effectively insured by the mutual acquaintance of individuals of the various nations. As Secretary Root recently expressed it, "All affairs in this world go better when people know each other and get to like each other." Every new immigrant who finds his way from the overcrowded countries of Europe to this new land will find in his work, in the schools, in the politics a new companionship which will create in him a new affection and loyalty which cannot fail to exert a powerful effect in the future of European affairs. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the first of many influential Canadians who in the days to come will journey to the European racial home lands with authority and enthusiasm to commend the essential advantages of British friendship.

CANADA'S ALTERNATIVES.

Discussing existing relations between Canada and Great Britain as indicated by our recent negotiation of an important treaty with a foreign country without the intermediation of the British foreign office, The New York Sun says: "Canada is now too strong and self-reliant to need or ask for government or even guidance by the mother country. Economically Canada has arrived. Politically she stands on her own feet, and it is perhaps only a question of a few years before she will cross that line."

This judgment, though we believe its concluding suggestion incorrect, is an admirable contemporary forecast. It is obvious that Canada is increasing not only her self-governing powers, but also her sense of nationalhood. Less and less she looks beyond the horizon of her own continent, and more and more she resents British interference in her affairs. If this progress toward complete autonomy is not accompanied by a corresponding growth of imperial sentiment, the inevitable tie of legislative dependence upon the Imperial government are not replaced by a developing sense of responsibility in the administration of Imperial affairs, the end which our British contemporaries foresee is inevitable. But while the separating tendencies are at present more apparent, the counter-tending influences are at work and will, in the long run, prove the stronger.

GIBSON MILLS MAY ALSO BE SOLD.

The International Paper Company, of Bangor, which recently purchased the lumber and milling property of Ernest Hutchinson, Ltd., of last year, are said to be negotiating for the Alex. Gibson lumber and milling interests at Marysville. It is said that in fact the negotiations are about completed, and that the transfer to the new owners will soon be made. The deal is said to include all the lumber mills at Marysville, and Blackville, together with all of the timber limits owned by the company and the license under their control; and also all of the company's residential and other property at Marysville west of the Nashwaak. The purchase figure named is something over 2,000,000.

The Canadian Colored Cotton Company, who recently purchased the Gibson cotton mill, and the brick buildings in connection with that property, are now negotiating. It is said for the transfer of the wooden residence on the east side, all of which are said to be necessary to accommodate the operatives in the mills under their control.

There seem only two ways out of the difficulty. The power to make treaties involving the power to enforce them, Britain cannot fairly be asked to furnish the power without the right to dictate the terms, and Canada cannot fairly be asked to surrender the power to enforce them without a share in Imperial management. There must be a closer drawing together toward imperial partnership or a gradual divergence ending in complete separation. There will be no hesitation in her choice.

CIVIS CANADIENSIS SUM.

With bold, commanding look and flashing eye, And man that spoke the master's words, The freeman Roman haughtily proclaimed, "Civis Romanus Sum. This title high With sealed gold a world subdued did bid To purchase, for Rome's equal justice framed. With balance nice for him alone was framed. Who, conquered, Roman name and state could buy."

But I who from the full and generous breast Of greater Rome's Imperial daughter drew Freedom's pulsing life, I proudly To claim a birthright nobler than e'er best Imperious sons of conquering Latium, "Eo Civis Canadensis Sum!" —S. C. Swift, Ridgway, Pa.

"I DIED THIS YEAR."

I died this year though still I glimpse the sun; For watching month by month lives fall and old Dwellings dim and lapse into the cold. With neither joy nor sorrow have I too have come to think the thoughts of one Who no lies bind and no regrets can hold. Who has felt the ultimate change, and so must fold. Hands void of hands and feet forgot to run. Yet death reminds not in twain the veil of things. So, Lazarus-like, I watch the sunlight fall.

On children as they play, breathe deep the spring's Shy incense and hear the thrushes call, Finding them every one—hearts, petals, wings—Curious, lovely, immaterial. —E. K. Adams, in the October Atlantic.

HARTH, THE BEAUTIFUL.

I watched alone the wonder of the night— The frozen moon, with lustrous, borrowed light, Trailing upon the lake her silver bars, I saw the varying radiance of the stars Set jewel-like in the great azure arch. Yet ever moving with majestic march To great Arcturus, thronged upon the sky, Viewing processions of the worlds wheel by, And wondered if with equal, far seen grace, Our planet in their mighty ranks keeps place.

I saw the lesser beauties of the night— The fireflies, with their evanescent light, Great moths, like pale hued, floating flowers drift. Dense darkness where the columned trees uplift, From earth their spreading canopies of shade. Where weak wild things may shelter unafraid; While swarming fields, set diamond-like with dew, Marked with white roads like ribbons winding through, And felt the touch of soft, sweet winds that pass, like the soft breath of life, So lightly that they scarcely bend the grass.

I heard the tender voices of the night— The hum of creatures whom the days do not afford; The querulous katydid's incessant note, The flutings fall from the shy Hylas's throat. From the far ponds a faint, unchanging drone, To other sounds a cadenced undertone; My heart grew faint and I felt tears that came, So great the beauty of the earth and skies; If there are worlds beyond for us to see, If we forget not, will they seem more fair? —Nerette M. Lovator.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETING.

SUSSEX, N. B., Oct. 8.—An interesting meeting of the Sussex and Studholm Farmers' Institutes was held at Lower Millstream on Saturday evening, Oct. 5th. Colonel Campbell took the chair at 8 o'clock and in very interesting terms introduced the delegates, Duncan Anderson and N. B. Daw. There was a large attendance and the interest manifested proves that the farmers in this section are fully alive to the requirements of their business. Many questions were asked and answered, and a lively discussion ensued. Mr. Anderson advised the farmers to raise more roots and buy less heavy feed in order that the income on the farms would not be too heavily taxed because of the farmers' inability to raise enough to feed the stock. While he admitted that the dairymen of this county had been selling large quantities of milk, cheese and butter, and had a good deal of money coming in, he said that it was not much that should be raised at home.

Mr. Dow spoke of the need of knowing the merits of the individual cow in the herd. Mr. Douglass, superintendent of the Sussex, also spoke on the urgent need of greater attention to the care of milk to insure a good article of butter and cheese.

The meeting did not break up until 11 o'clock and the delegates expressed themselves as particularly well pleased with the meeting, claiming it to be the best of the circuit thus far. A vote of thanks was tendered to the speakers, which was responded to by Mr. Anderson.

The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride for the occasion, and the wedding was to the utmost capacity by the invited guests and friends. Many were present from other places, including the brothers and sisters of the bride. The choir, of which the bride has been a member for a number of years, sang the "Voice that Breathed Our Eden" and "Oh Perfect Love." ### CHATHAM NOW A DRY TOWN

Scott Act is Being Vigorously Enforced.

Secumiac Man Badly Injured by Acci- dental Discharge of Gun While Out Shooting.

CHATHAM, N. B., Oct. 5.—Charles Critch and Edmund Harrington were in the police court Friday charged with stealing apples and breaking trees in the rear of the Hotel Dieu Hospital. The charge was not pressed, as the hospital management only desires to put a stop to the damage being done there.

The second Scott Act case within a week against Mrs. John R. McDonald was taken up on Friday morning. Several witnesses testified to getting liquor at the New Brunswick Hotel, but the case was stood over until Friday for further witnesses.

David Martin of Secumiac was badly injured while out hunting with his brother, on Wednesday. His gun caught in a branch and was jerked out of his hand and as it struck the ground, went off, the contents of the cartridge striking Mr. Martin under the arm and mangled it terribly, exposing the bone. Dr. McKensie summoned and reached Mr. Martin's home at three o'clock in the morning. He dressed the wound and later in the day Mr. Martin was removed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where he is now under the care of Dr. Duffy.

A garage and an auto repair shop will soon be a necessity here. In Chatham and the immediate vicinity there are now nine cars, and several others are reported to be about orders. Ernest Hutchinson of Douglastown has two, and F. M. Tweedie, S. D. Hubbert, W. L. E. Weldon, L. O. Snowball, O. McLennan, Dr. Byrne and R. H. Wing each have one automobile.

Arch. Frazer was fined $50 and costs for violation of the Scott Act. "We are going to enforce the Scott Act to the limit," said Chief Lawson last week. "The council wants it and will show them just what a real enforcement of the act means. No doubt the staff will be peddled in the streets when the bars are all closed up. To date Lahey's Hotel, Albert House, Bowser House, John McKinnon, Can- adea House, and Jerry Muserall have notified me that their bars are closed. "I intend to do just as the council has instructed me and will put the third and fourth offenses against de- licates if they continue selling. The third offense carries with it a sentence of two months in jail and the fourth conviction means four months in the county jail without the option of a fine."

FRICITION AND SPLIT IN SUFFRAGETTE RANKS

Mrs. Despard and Two Other Women Secede and Form New Society

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

LONDON, Oct. 4.—There has been a split in the suffragette ranks. Three of the active members of the national committee have seceded, and are going to form a union of their own, which will probably be called the Women's Suffrage party.

The three are Mrs. Despard, sister of General French; Mrs. How Martyn, B. Sc., and Miss Hodgson, M. A., and the ground of their disagreement is a pledge which the Women's social and Political Union has called upon each member to sign.

When first the suffragettes started their campaign there were no rules, and only one object—the securing of the vote for women. Battles with the police have been fought, and many members have spent periods in Holloway jail.

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR NEW PARTY. "Things came to a head during the past week. The pledge is partly a cause and a result of the event. The three members wanted to feel free to do what they liked, and we feel that we ought to support no one until we have the vote.

"We hope the new party will be successful and that it will help us to get the vote. After all, our own union is only an off-shoot from another branch. Only we must be independent, and our first claim on members is that they hold themselves aloof from party."

The new committee has been strengthened by the election of Miss Elizabeth Robbins, the authoress and actress, and Miss Mary Neal, one of the original women. They are more flourishing than ever and are now busy preparing an extremely active campaign for the autumn and winter. They are waiting for the house to set again.

THE COAST SCARE OF 1898; AFRID OF SPANISH FLEET.

New England Thought Cities and Villages Were Unprotected— Business Came to Standstill—Residents Fled to the Mountains—Story of Warships Along the Coast.

Spain practically declared war on April 24, 1898. Congress did not declare that a state of war existed until nearly a week later. Sampson was at Key West with one squadron and Schley at Hampton Roads with another. Spain's vessels had started for the Cape Verde Islands. On the night of April 22, under orders from the Navy Department and as a precautionary measure, the swift cruisers Columbia and Minneapolis, good for nothing else than scouting and with sides as easily punctured by modern projectiles as tissue paper would be by a rifle ball, slipped out of Hampton Roads on a secret mission. For forty-eight hours their movements were hidden. The American liner Paris, which was to be used as a despatch boat, had sailed from Southampton and it was thought that they had gone to escort her to port.

On April 25 the Columbia turned up at Newport. Then it was learned that the Minneapolis had gone far down the Maine coast. Both were scouting. Newport England at once began to see that there were dread possibilities for her coast in the war. Even the school children became apprehensive and a shiver of fear ran along the shore. The Columbia was reported at Eastport, Me., that he had seen a Spanish warship off Machias. It was plain that she was waiting to intercept the American steamships, the Albatross, bound from Portland, and the St. Croix, bound from St. John, N. B. The Austrian warship Donau did run into Halifax that day and Capt. Pratt probably saw her.

The Columbia left Newport for Boston in a hurry. She called there to get more news. On the way a mysterious vessel appeared on the horizon. The call to arms was sounded, but the ship was only a harmless liner going about her business. The jack-tars were now quite as excited as the New Englanders.

On April 26 the Minneapolis called at Eastport. She had seen down the Nova Scotia coast, but had seen no hostile ship. Three days later the Columbia was storm-bound at Provincetown. The people were in a state of terror. The next day the Minneapolis was at Rockland. The people had heard firing off the coast. They were sure that their homes were to be destroyed. Why did they not get up and fight? They were told that the Government would send them arms. The newspapers, having two hours and then raved away. That act showed that there was great danger, and every boom of the surf along the coast was being magnified into a report of hostile guns, and the telegraph wires groaned with the load of despatches telling about it and appealing to Washington for help.

The next day the Minneapolis and Columbia met in Portland harbor. Neither had seen any danger or signs of any, but the mysterious conferences of officers and the receipt of sealed orders by telegraph did not assuage the excitement.

CONFIRMATION FROM ENGLAND.

Meantime corroboration apparently had come from England of the fact that Spanish warships were sailing westward to capture American shipping and to devastate the coast. The White Star steamship Majestic arrived at Queenstown. Her passengers said that while 1,700 miles out she had passed, on April 24, a little after midnight, a battleship, and a smaller vessel, both bound west. The Pennard also got into Queenstown on the same day. Her passengers were sure they had seen on April 25 a Spanish cruiser, supposed to be the Emmerich, which they had seen west at full speed. She was supposed to be after the Paris, which the Pennard had passed 800 miles out.

These cable despatches seemed to dispel any doubt that the Spanish fleet in store for the Atlantic coast was not only Schley but Sampson was sent right up there. Meanwhile the Spanish fleet had left Cape Verde Islands and no one could predict accurately, naval officers excepted, where they would go.

On May 1 the Columbia started for Bar Harbor, but before she left there were stories of three Spanish ships off Halifax. The Minneapolis went south, calling at Boston and fetching up at Hampton Roads. On May 8 the Columbia was in Bar Harbor. She stayed a few days and then left for Boston. The scare seemed to simmer down a little. SABLE ISLAND STORIES ARRIVE.

For a week there was little alarm and then it started up afresh. Schley's ships were about to sail. There were stories that the Spanish fleet had been seen on the way to the West Indies. On May 9 Captain Roberts of the Warren Liner steamship Roman got into Boston and reported that 70 miles southeast of Sable Island, 600 miles east of Boston, he had seen a "long, low, rakish craft," four miles away. She was sharp at both ends. She flew a flag and was going at the rate of about twelve knots an hour. The atmosphere was hazy, but Captain Roberts was quite sure she was a Spaniard.

On the same day the Norwegian steamer Narport got into Halifax and Captain Isaken said he had seen sixty miles south of Sable Island, a warship which made after him in the night. He showed his colors and the ship went away. This time the hostile fleet was composed of our warships all going in a westerly direction. A steamship from Genoa then got into St. John. She was carrying two warships headed for Sydney, Cape Breton. They were probably part of the fleet that protects the Newfoundland fishing fleet.

Captain Mann of the British tramp Menantic got in. Twenty-seven miles east of Nantucket he had seen two Spanish torpedo boats and one torpedo destroyer. They had no lights, and were painted dark grey. They sailed away in the night and ten minutes later sent up rockets, and then the Ardo signal lights, such as our warships use, were displayed.

The converted steamship Yankee was cruising around about this time, as was the cruiser San Francisco, both of which had been added to the New England scouting fleet. At 5:30 a. m. in the cold gray dawn of the morning, Captain Mann was sure he had seen another torpedo boat. She had two funnels, had a high shield in front with a gun mounted behind it. The Halifax rumor foundry had been busy all the time and half a dozen more reports of warships sighted came from there.

Philadelphia then got into the game. Captain Kreech of the Hamburg-American liner Alsace arrived from Halifax. He had seen a Spanish warship with four masts and two funnels. On the way to Halifax, 800 miles off the coast he had been stopped by this ship, which fired a blank shot at him. He showed the German flag and the other royal ensign of Spain. She had five big black guns and came within 500 yards of him. Why the story did not get out at Halifax was not made clear. All the rumor factories along the coast, Boston, Portland, Portsmouth, Newport, and even New Haven had similar stories. They all clamored for mines, old monitors that were used for firing at sea, and land batteries and what not.

SCHLEY GETS OFF AND NEW PANIC STARTS.

On May 14th Schley left Hampton Roads. The coast was now unprotected except for the few ships that Commodore Howell had to patrol the coast. The Albatross, Columbia, Minneapolis and Manila. Two days later the storm broke. The keeper of Great Point light at Nantucket saw a warship in the haze two miles off. He and his colleagues heard heavy cannonading. The vibrations shattered the windows. Keeper Gibbs of a life saving station further up the coast had seen a Spanish vessel. Of course the Spanish warships had shattered her until she became a derelict. The steamship Gate City of the Ocean Line ran into Boston. She heard the firing from the coast. The noise shook his vessel. It was probably the cruiser San Francisco having target practice. The signal stations at Naves, Chatham, Highland light and Orleans and heard the reports of firing. There surely was a great battle going on off the Massachusetts coast with the Albatross and the Manila down at Cuba. The firing was at five minute intervals, according to most accounts. South Yarmouth also heard the shooting.

Provincetown also put on its glasses and far down below the horizon could see with its bent telescope an entire Spanish fleet. The keeper of Nantuxet hearing station heard heavy firing, forty-nine shots, all fired between 10:40 and 11:15 a. m. The Yankee was there about that time practising gunnery.

On May 17 British boats brought in to Halifax more news of Spanish ships off Sable Island. Capt. Hawes of the steamship St. John arrived. He had seen a "peculiar looking craft," going west, painted dark grey and having a yellow funnel. Capt. Versey of the British steamship Lord Warwick reported that he had been followed off Sable Island for seven hours in the night by a warship which used a searchlight and was directly in the steamship's lane. She was not coal carriers even if they did go one behind another and were eight miles off. Gabarus, a town near Louisville, came to the latter's assistance and had seen a group of vessels near Guyon Island. These ships were using searchlights.

Then Halifax jumped into the game again. A "strange schooner-like vessel" was off that port. It hovered about there for five days, "keeping well out to sea." It never made an attempt to enter the harbor. It was trying to intercept American shipping. The ship was seen daily by the military signal corps men down on an island fifteen miles away. Late that night the Louisburg saw things again. This time the hostile fleet was composed of our warships all going in a westerly direction. A steamship from Genoa then got into St. John. She was carrying two warships headed for Sydney, Cape Breton. They were probably part of the fleet that protects the Newfoundland fishing fleet.

FLEETS BOUND SOUTHWARD.

On May 18 Bridgewater, seventy-five miles west of Halifax, began to have visions. James Reinhardt saw smoke from the top of Round Hill. He called in the neighbors and they were sure they had seen "nine large vessels steaming south at regular intervals." They were four miles away. The Columbia had got back to New York by that time and off she scurried down east two days later.

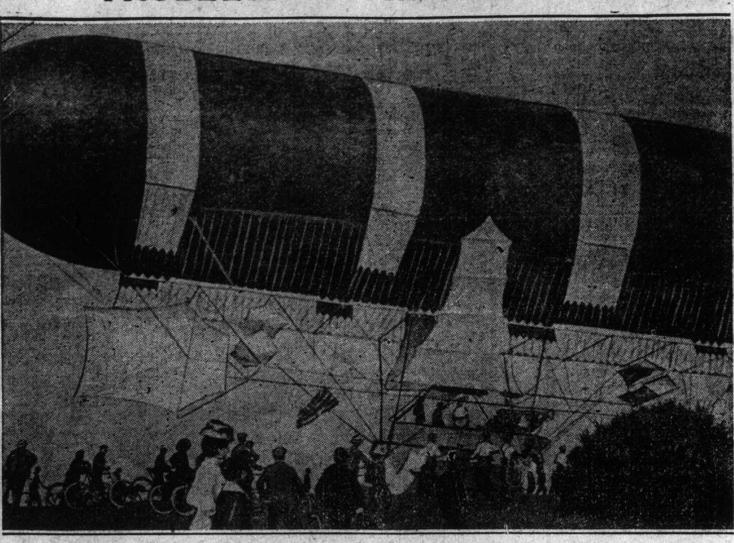

On May 22 Halifax reported that the pilots of Louisburg, Cape Breton, had seen seven large warships steaming southward. Capt. Newton of the British steamship Halifax City had seen three days before on the east edge of Newfoundland Banks a warship which followed him but veered off when he showed his colors and a light at his stern. Louisburg came back with a tale of seven ships steaming south. Louisburg was sure they were not coal carriers even if they did go one behind another and were eight miles off. Gabarus, a town near Louisville, came to the latter's assistance and had seen a group of vessels near Guyon Island. These ships were using searchlights.

NEW YORK GETS ITS FRIGHT.

On May 19 New York got its scare. Headlines reading "Enemy Off Coast" appeared in the newspapers.

BRITAIN'S NEW AIRSHIP SOLVES PROBLEM OF AERIAL WARFARE

THE COLUMBIA PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

The Columbia had returned from her wild goose chase by that time, but started out again on May 29 for a trip along the east coast. That day she was rammed by the freighter Foscilia, bound out from New York to Marselles, fifteen miles southwest of Fire Island in a dense fog. The Columbia was badly damaged and the Foscilia went down seven hours afterwards. The Columbia was in the dry dock for more than two weeks. It put her out of the business of chasing phantom ships for a time. The other vessels of Commodore Howell's fleet stayed on the job, and found nothing more formidable at sea than occasional rainbows after thunderstorms, which were usually reported as "heavy cannonading at sea."

By this time the fleets had got busy at Cuba and the coast dwellers had become convinced that there was no immediate danger. It was not until the Yankee was again shot at that the alarm was fully dissipated. When Schley and Sampson came back to New York in August and the fleet was in home waters again folks began to get nervous. Then if the slightest diplomatic mess should occur — and who knows when it will occur — you will see another scare that will frighten the entire coast and the nation.

NAVAL OFFICER'S OPINION.

A naval officer who had much to do with the patrol along the coast and who was familiar with the tremendous amount of work it imposed upon four of our warships, which might have been put to better use in New England waters, said of the proposed trip of the battleships to the Pacific:

"Mark my words! As soon as that fleet gets well on its way the people will begin to get nervous. Then if the slightest diplomatic mess should occur — and who knows when it will occur — you will see another scare that will frighten the entire coast and the nation. The newspapers will suffer heavily. Securities and valuables will be locked up. People who do not reason about the capabilities of warships to dart here and there without an adequate coal supply will sound the alarm loud and clear. It may be as foolish as those scares of the Spanish war, but there will be no stopping it. Stories of phantom ships will multiply and increase from day to day in general. It will be only a question of time when the fright of a nation will be turned into terrible wrath. Such a wrath will surely smite one man hard. I can not see how any man of reason can face such a possibility."

SUDDEN DEATH OF MONGTON MAN

MONCTON, Sept. 8.—E. S. Outhouse of Moncton died at the home of R. H. Lutes at Pettitodiac early this morning. His death was unexpected. The deceased was seized with paralysis while on a visit to Pettitodiac. He was 72 years old and among his nephews is Hazen Steves of St. John.

William McDougall, a well-known Moncton man who went to Boston a short time ago for special treatment, has had his leg amputated above the knee. Mr. McDougall has been laid up for several months with the limb, from which he suffered a very serious case of rheumatism. He has been conducting a saloon on Main street for the last few years.

Report of A. McNeill Just Issued Contains a Good Deal of Interesting Information.

The following extract from the crop report of A. McNeill, chief of the fruit division of the Department of Agriculture, will be read with interest by Maritime Province residents of The Sun.

The winter apples throughout Ontario are now growing rapidly. Should the present favorable weather continue into October the late varieties will probably reach a good average size, but early fruits are past the intervention of favorable weather conditions.

The outlook for September, as noted in the different sections throughout the Dominion, is as follows:

In District 1 fall apples are light; winter apples are light to medium; the heavy rains, the trees are heavily laden, which are reported very nearly medium.

In District 2 fall apples are light to medium; winter apples on the whole are reported light to medium, and spurs a medium to full crop.

In District 3 fall apples are light to medium; winter apples on the whole are reported light to medium, and spurs a medium to full crop.

In District 4 fall apples are very nearly a medium crop, while winter varieties are light to medium. The local markets will absorb all the apples in this section.

In District 5 fall apples are very nearly a medium crop, while winter varieties are light to medium. The local markets will absorb all the apples in this section.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS IN WESTMORLAND

Westmorland

SACKVILLE, N. B., Oct. 8.—In the municipal elections today in Sackville parish, C. C. Campbell and J. W. S. Black defeated B. C. Rayworth and Bliss Anderson. The vote was: Campbell, 672; Black, 455; Rayworth, 456; Anderson, 393. In Westmorland parish, Chas. H. Read and Edgar Brown defeated Robert Prescott and Wm. Trueman. The vote was: Read, 276; Brown, 245; Prescott, 215; Trueman, 211.

In both parishes the contest was run on party lines and the fight was very warm. The successful candidates in Westmorland are Liberals, and those in Sackville parish are Conservatives. In the last election in Sackville parish Campbell and Rayworth went in by acclamation, so that today's election is a Conservative gain. Last year, however, Sackville town council sent a Conservative to the council, but this year S. W. Copp, uncle of A. B. Copp, M. P. E., is the man. The net result then is the same as last year, two Conservatives and one Liberal.

MONCTON, N. B., Oct. 8.—H. H. Mitton, Liberal, and J. J. Bourgeois, Conservative, on coalition ticket, were elected to the county council today as representatives of Moncton parish. While there was no political feeling involved, Mitton led the poll with 375 votes. Bourgeois had 369; Thomas Hennessy, Conservative, 239, and D. D. Legeur, 142.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Oct. 8.—The county councillors for the next two years were elected today. A small vote was polled in nearly every polling district owing to the wet weather. While the official reports have not been received from a few of the polls the following result will be likely correct, viz: two Conservatives for each parish and three for the town.

In Aberdeen—David Lamont and Ed. Wiley defeated E. Gilmore.

In Brighton—Allan Bradley and C. J. Connolly were elected. There was no opposition.

In Kent there were five candidates, but when the voters gathered at the polls the voters' list was missing and the election was postponed.

In Northampton the results were: Henry Phillips, 71; Alex. Brown, 60; W. Betts, 47; Chas. Connell, 32. Peel—Edward Melville and Wm. Tompkins. No opposition.

Richmond—John Hay and Alex. Bell. No opposition.

Simonds—Wm. C. Rideout and Odour Shaw. No opposition.

Wakefield—Frank R. Shaw and Albert Bell. No opposition.

Wicklow—W. J. Owens and Carey Eberly defeated Hon. G. W. White and Hugh G. Tweedie.

Wilmot—J. T. Williams and R. Duran King defeated Wilford Anderson.

Woodstock Parish—John Flemming and F. Hyron Bell was elected. No opposition.

WOODSTOCK TOWN—H. D. Stevens, 220; J. Rankin Brown, 212; Wm. Balmain, 178; James E. Drysdale, 111.

The charge against Daniel Robichaud's three companions was dismissed Saturday morning and the magistrate gave all four some good advice relative to drinking and keeping bad company.

Mrs. John R. McDonald was fined $50 and costs on Friday for another Sect. Act offense.

The temperance people are much pleased with the work of Obediah, the new Sect. Act inspector. At last night's meeting of the town council he submitted the following report:

I would beg to submit the following Sect. Act report for the month of September. There were 14 cases tried and the result was 12 convictions and 2 adjournments. The cases that were adjourned were those of Mary E. McDonald and Arch. McNeill. The convictions were Michael Jardine, J. D. Lehey, Peter Archer, Thos. Flanagan, Roger Flanagan, Allan Mann, Mary E. McDonald, George Morris, John McKeown, Jerry Musera, J. B. Dawson. I have pleasure in reporting the following places closed: J. D. Lehey, James D. Johnston, Thos. Flanagan, Roger Flanagan, Allen Mann. As this is the first time that all the houses of a municipality have been closed, I do not see as they should be punished for past offenses, I will pay strict attention to those that still remain in business.

The chief reported 34 arrests for drunkenness, 3 for theft, 4 for assault, and others, amounting to 54 for September.

Ad. Skothart reported the quarterly finances to Sept. 30, showing receipts of $9,804.82. The report of the police magistrate for the same period showed 55 cases of drunkenness and $319.10 in fines accruing to the town's treasury.

The town will fight the suit brought by Michael Jago against the town for selling property for taxes claimed to have been owed by him.

MONARCHS OF FOREST IN FIERCE COMBAT

Hunters Interrupted Battle Between Two Bull Moose and Shot One, but Had to Let Other Go.

CHATHAM, N. B., Oct. 8.—Charles McIntyre, of Montreal, is visiting R. A. Snowball.

Mrs. George McLean has returned from Halifax, where she was the guest of her brother, Melbourne McArthur. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Neale returned on Friday from St. John, where Mr. Neale attended the Synod meeting.

James A. Dickens of the town and Guide Peter Fraser saw a sight on Friday that is rare even in this thickly moose-inhabited section of the woods. Mr. Dickens, incidentally brought down one of the prize heads of several seasons' run. The two had left William Dickens' farm, Upper Bay du Vin, at 7 o'clock Friday morning and were going along the main or mill road, when their attention was attracted by a peculiar smashing noise, seemingly two or three miles into the forest. By signs the guide made known that there was a fight between moose and they worked their way within sixty yards of the combatants without making their presence known.

They could see the bushes and small trees sway backward and forwards and the antlers met with a deafening crash, as the big animals plunged and rushed at each other. Suddenly they detected the hunters and stopping the fight, made off in different directions. Mr. Dickens brought down the one by following with a ball through his forehead and into the lungs, but his two more were necessary to stop his struggles. Mr. Dickens has secured the first bullet and is keeping it as a memento. In the meantime the guide had followed the second moose in an endeavor to discover which animal had the biggest spread, and when he returned he found his companion had already bagged his game. While they were cutting it up, the other moose came back and was very eager for a fight.

As two moose could not be shot on the one mose, the hunters had to drive him away. They had left the moose at 7 and at 8:30 they were back with their moose.

The head was a very handsome one, measuring 52 inches and has 28 points. Many admired it when Mr. Dickens brought it to town and he is now having it mounted at Barker's taxidermal establishment.

A. A. Ritchie and J. D. Creaghan went to Montreal last week.

Felham Winslow returned to Moncton last week.

Adam Dickson was in town last week, called here by the death of his mother.

An attempt to break into the summer cottage belonging to J. D. Evans of Hampton, at Duck Cove, was apparently frustrated by the timely arrival of George Craigie on the scene. Mr. Craigie's father owns a cottage in the vicinity, and on Sunday George went there to spend the day. Hearing a noise at Mr. Evans' house and knowing the family to be in Hampton, he went to investigate and found a tramp on the veranda. The stranger on seeing Mr. Craigie took to his heels. One of the shutters had been torn off and the glass broken in one of the windows. Mr. Craigie called "up" security before leaving the house.

She has good breeding on both sides; her dam being Kitty B., a mare with considerable speed owned by Mr. Burden.

There is every prospect that there will be an automobile service to Rockwood Park next summer if the Street Railway people do not extend their service in that direction. A. O. Mr. Skinner said that the White Candy Co., Ltd., would certainly have at least two cars, carrying twelve people each, on the route next year in connection with their amusement enterprise.

For some time it looked as though the fire would spread, but the mill hands using the apparatus were able to put it out. The loss will be very slight.
