THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

CHAPTER XVI. HER SOUL SHINES THROUGH HER EYES.

Good-morning, Mr. Slade, she said, with a smile. 'I will go and find papa.' And, with a slight inclination of the head, she glided away from him.

Dawson Slade sank into a seat, and looked round, with a strange, mystified expression. Not a sign of embarrassment, not a flicker of the calm eyebrows, nor a quiver of the red lips! Could it be possible that he was mistaken? Had he dreamed that she wore that look of surprise, dread, defiance, last night? Was she only like Hilda Fane?

The door opened, and she entered again, with Sir Talbot on her arm. Dawson Slade had seen him years ago—a tall, upright, iron-visaged man, with stern eyes and mouth. He could scarcely reconcile the bent, gentle, sinking old man with that figure of his memory.

'Mr. Slade? Yes, yes,' said Sir Talbot, extending his thin, white hand. 'Glad to see you. Not overcome by your exertions of last night? You played your part well, Mr. Slade. An ornament to the real stage. I said so at the time, and I repeat it. How are their graces? Sorry to hear that Gerald is so unwell. You are an old friend of his? Let me see—let me see—it is some years since I saw you; you have not been at the Grange for—'

'Half a dozen years, Sir Talbot,' said Dawson Slade. 'Have scarcely been in England, indeed.'

'Ah, traveling, said Sir Talbot, nodding absently, his hand toying carressingly with Lillian's white sleeve, his eyes wandering to her face with that strange look of anxious, craving affection. 'And where have you been?'

'In too many places to mention,' replied Dawson Slade, and as he spoke he leaned forward so that his face was in the shadow, while the beautiful one beside Sir Talbot was in the full sunlight. 'My last place of sojourn was in America.'

'Ah, yes—quite new ground,' said Sir Talbot. 'We did not go so far in my day. America—New York, and so on.'

'Yes,' said Dawson Slade, softly, his dark eyes fixed on the downcast ones of Lillian. America—New York, and so on.'

'Yes,' said Dawson Slade, softly, his dark eyes fixed on the downcast ones of Lillian. 'The last city was—San Francisco.'

As he spoke, Lillian rose. A flower had fallen from a vase on a table near her; she replaced it, and carelessly arranged the bouquet.

'Yes, yes,' said Sir Talbot; 'and you are not sorry to get back to England, and England is not sorry to have you back,' he added, with his old world courtesy.

Dawson Slade inclined his head. 'We cannot spare men of talent like yourself, Mr. Slade,' Sir Talbot went on. 'I have your performance last night fresh in my memory, and I thank you for an intellectual treat.'

'You are a connoisseur, Mr. Slade,' he said. 'That is in favour of mine.'

'A Kneller,' said Slade; 'and a fine specimen, too!'

'They tell me that there are two better ones in the portrait gallery; but we won't bore you with family portraits, Mr. Slade.'

'Nothing delights me more,' was the quiet, low-toned reply; 'I am fond of physiognomy, Sir Talbot; there is more to be learned 'from studying faces than we imagine, I think.'

'True, true,' murmured Sir Talbot. 'Yes,' went on Dawson Slade, 'one time, and not so long ago, I used to pride myself on the possession of a retentive memory for faces, and I think even now that I do not forget a face easily.'

'As he spoke, his eyes wandered from Sir Talbot's placid face to the beautiful one beside him, and rested there. She was looking down as he spoke, touching with her feet a rose that had dropped from her dress. As he spoke, she looked up swiftly, and her eyes met his. A faint, momentary quiver passed over the half-smiling lips; then her eyes sank again, not suddenly, but leisurely, to the flower at her feet.'

'A gift,' said Sir Talbot; 'quite a gift, and an uncommon one, though it might be thought otherwise. Speaking of that, I remember a story of a man who, like you, had a quick eye for the points in a face, who was able to identify a burglar who had broken into his house. The man wore a mask as low as his mouth, and the gentleman, though he caught sight of him for a moment only, noticed that his moustache grew a little lower on the right side than on the left. This gave a peculiar expression to the lower part of the face, and by that he identified the prisoner, who was—it is years ago—hanged! A useful gift in that case, Mr. Slade!'

Dawson Slade laughed, and, stooping, picked up the flower, and handed it to Lillian.

'I hope I may never be called upon to use mine in that fashion.'

'No, no—just so,' assented Sir Talbot. 'Yes,' he added, rambling on, identification is a ticklish thing; I have met with some strange cases in my time—I remember one at this moment, a successful attempt at impersonation. I forget the exact details; but the impostor enjoyed the fruits of his fraud, a large estate, till the day of his death. He would have been buried under his assumed title, but remorse compelled him to confess at the last hour. The rogue confessed, also, that he had never enjoyed a happy moment during all his years of wrongful possession. 'Fear of detection or the return of the right man, I suppose?' said Dawson Slade, with placid curiosity.

'N-o; for, if I remember rightly, he had murdered the right man, and had, apparently, proved his identity so clearly that—Yes, my dear!' he broke off, for Lillian had drawn her arm away, and had dropped a low murmur.

'Is it not very hot up here?' she said, with a smile that served to show up the sudden pallor of her face.

'Yes, yes how thoughtless of me! And I have startled you with my foolish stories!' broke in Sir Talbot anxiously. 'The window! Would you be so good, Mr. Slade?'

But Dawson Slade did not wait to be requested; the window was already open; and he was back again by her side, with a chair in his hand. But she put it aside with her hand, gently but firmly.

'No, thanks; I am not at all faint—but it was hot, was it not? Well, papa?'

'No, no, my dear,' said Sir Talbot, his anxious eyes glued to her face. 'Come, let us go back. Mr. Slade can see the portraits on some other occasion.'

Dawson Slade bowed; a swift gleam of relief played over Lillian's face, but it faded again instantly as Sir Talbot went on: 'And yet this is the quickest way to your room—for you must go and rest, my darling. Ah, last night was too much for you.'

'Well, I will go to please you,' she murmured, and they passed on. In a few steps they came to the entrance of the small gallery at the end of the corridor, where hung the family portraits, and in which Harold smoked the obnoxious cigar.

'Here a smaller corridor led to her room. With a bow to Dawson Slade, she was turning away, on Sir Talbot's arm, when suddenly, as if obeying an impulse, she stopped, and, turning back, said, quickly but quietly: 'No, it is too hot in my room, and I am quite, quite well. I would rather go on with you, papa, for it is cooler here, now that the window is open.'

'I shall be delighted,' said Dawson Slade. Sir Talbot rose, and drew Lillian's arm through his.

'We'll show you what we have,' he said. They passed on into the hall, the old man gently patting the white hand upon his arm, and looking at the beautiful face as if he had already forgotten the presence of a third person.

The duchess had said that he was wrapped up in his newly-found daughter, and Slade, as he watched them knew that her grace had spoken only the simple truth.

At the first stair, she drew Sir Talbot's arm under, instead of over, hers, so that he should lean on her, with a sidelong glance of loving devotion. Nothing escaped the keen eyes behind them.

Having reached the gallery, Sir Talbot turned to his visitor: 'But a poor collection, I fear, Mr. Slade.'

Dawson Slade raised his eyebrows. 'Anything but that, Sir Talbot,' he said, taking in, at a glance, the number of masterpieces; 'anything but that! I must rather call it a riot one!'

Sir Talbot smiled, and nodded deprecatingly. 'Poor as collections go now, I began too late in life, or left off too early—one or the other.'

They paced slowly along the polished floor, Dawson Slade making a remark now and then, and full of genuine admiration, which pleased Sir Talbot.

'You are a connoisseur, Mr. Slade,' he said. 'That is in favour of mine.'

'A Kneller,' said Slade; 'and a fine specimen, too!'

MULLALY'S MOTION Defeated by Casting Vote of the Mayor.

At last night's meeting of the Civic Board, the motion of Councillor Mullaly, asking for a special audit of the Council's affairs covering the last four years, came up for discussion. The Mayor and the full Board were present, and also representatives of the News and Herald.

At 11.30, the notice of motion of Councillor Mullaly came up for discussion, and for more than an hour, occupied the attention of the Board, during which a heated debate was kept up, particularly between Councillors Mullaly and Martin.

Mr. Mullaly, in bringing forward the resolution, intimated that he was not prompted by ulterior motives, and that he in no way wished to reflect on the conduct of the past two Councillors. The present Board, however, contained five new men and he thought it was due to those to know how business had been and was conducted. The people, he said, demanded an audit, and he felt sure that if an expense were incurred, the public would willingly pay for it.

Mr. Ellis—Are you asking an audit because of your own charge of any wrongdoing by the Council or its officials? Councillor Mullaly—I'm only here long enough to know some keep books around here; but as to how they are kept, I can't offer an opinion. Councillor Channing—Have you considered the cost of an audit? Councillor Mullaly—No; that is a secondary consideration; but I believe that it would be money well spent, as the public is asking for it.

Mayor Ellis—If Councillor Mullaly would examine the books himself, and then found anything wrong, he could make a specific charge, and an audit would follow. Councillor Mullaly—Mr. Mayor, you might as well ask me to conduct the audit. I came here as a Councillor, not as a book-keeper. If I made a specific charge, then an investigation would have to follow. I'm making no charge, but only asking for an audit.

Mayor Ellis—Under the Municipal Act, we have an audit every month by the Auditor-General. Councillor Mullaly—So far as I can see, Mr. Mayor, that is only a check which you speak of. The Auditor-General comes in, and simply sees that the vouchers correspond with the statements submitted. He does not go over the books, as an Auditor, that is, he does not know whether there has been extravagance or waste on the part of officials. On the statement of arrears, submitted to-night, we find that $70,000 was due Dec. 31st last; and, glancing through the names, I find some who are well able to pay up. Surely the Board had nothing to fear if a special audit were held. It has come under my notice, recently, that estimates have been given for certain works, and instead of being near or about the price figured on when the job would be finished, the cost would be double the estimate. What the public wants to know is, has this money been spent judiciously; have more men that were necessary been employed; have too much been paid for materials, etc.?

Mayor Ellis—The proposition would come with better force if you had gone into matters, and went over the books. Councillor Mullaly—I have just gone over this statement of arrears. I say, and I can't find out whether the delinquents owe for one or ten years, though I can find some on the list who owe as much as $672.00, $649.50, and others $300 and $400. If an audit were held, we could find out these matters. Mayor Ellis—The books are audited by the Auditor-General every month. Councillor Mullaly—Are all the books at the disposal of the Auditor-General, Mr. Mayor? Mayor Ellis—Yes. Councillor Mullaly—Will you tell me if he always had access to the arrears book? Mayor Ellis—I can't say; but he has a right to. Councillor Mullaly—That's not the answer, Sir; did he— Here it was explained by the Secretary that the Auditor did not go over the roll of arrears. Councillor Mullaly—Then it is not a complete audit, and the sooner we have one the better.

Mayor Ellis—I agree that it is not a complete audit; but the books are there to be audited, if the Auditor-General so wants. I doubt if a special audit, or any audit, were held, that the auditors could question our expenditure, as is suggested by Councillor Mullaly; because if they could, the usefulness of the Council ceases. Councillor Mullaly—But if an estimate of $500.00 were made for a road, and it costs $1,200 when finished, would not we be able to see why or where the expenditure was so much above the estimate? Here Councillor Martin took exception to Councillor Mullaly's remarks, and asked him to make an assertion. Councillor Mullaly (continuing to fear, Sir, and as I have mentioned the public, are asking for an audit. You and the old Council should court one. Councillor Mullaly—By your introducing the motion, you have insulted and also reflected on the old Council. There is no need for an audit. It is only a cause of expense. I will strongly oppose the motion from my seat. It would be better to expend the money, it will cost, on Cook or Spencer or some other street. This would give the public more satisfaction. I would like to ask Councillor Mullaly the following questions: (1) What are the grounds upon which Councillor Mullaly claims that an audit should take place? (2) Does he now assert and state as a basis for his audit, that there has been wrongdoing or dishonesty of any kind, on behalf of the Council that preceded us, or its officials? If so, when, where, with whom, and under what circumstances? (3) Does he now assert or state that any monies had been received by the officials of the Council and not entered upon the books of the Council? (4) Have any monies of the Council been corruptly or dishonestly paid by any of the officials of the Council? If so, when, to whom, and what amount? Councillor Mullaly—I refuse to answer. You don't know what you are talking about.

Councillor Martin—I do, and further, I know that during your campaign you were going about the city, asking some employees of the Council to take men to work and then going somewhere else saying there were too many to work. Councillor Mullaly—I emphatically deny what Councillor Martin has said; and if Councillors and officials attended to their duty more and talked less, there would be better results all round. I want Councillor Martin to withdraw these statements or prove them. Councillor Mullaly—I refuse to withdraw. Here the Secretary took down the statements of Councillor Martin, at the request of Councillor Mullaly. Councillor Martin—I repeat, Mr. Mayor, that Councillor Mullaly is casting a reflection on the old Council, and I further state that we have no legal right to hold an audit. Councillor Mullaly—Mr. Mayor, it is only a week ago that Councillor Martin told me he would vote for an audit, if I would make the motion that it extend over 8 years. He has evidently been talking to some one since. Councillor Martin—I have reconsidered the matter since, and will oppose the motion, as I consider the cost will be too great where the City's needs are considered. Councillor Mullaly—No wonder the City's needs are many when people, well able to pay, can owe as much as $700.00. Councillor Martin—The answer to Mr. Mullaly's criticism, Mr. Mayor, is that you were returned by acclamation, and me at the head of the poll. Councillor Mullaly—What's that man talking about. The motion before the chair is dealing with an audit not about who footed or headed the poll. Councillor Martin—Whatever it has to do with it, that motion will not pass if I have to keep you here until five this morning. Councillor Mullaly—"You won't keep me, Mister." The storm subsided for a few minutes, and Councillor Channing said he would support the motion if the audit would cover eight years, and if Councillor Mullaly deferred the motion until the financial aspect was looked into at a future meeting. Councillor Ryan—Do I understand from you, Mr. Mayor, that the present system of auditing is not a complete one? Mayor Ellis—Yes; it is not exactly complete. Councillor Ryan—Then, for this reason I must support the motion of Councillor Mullaly, and will second his motion. Councillor Martin—We should consider this matter seriously. I reiterate that there is a reflection on the old Council, and certain insinuations have been made to-night that are unfair. Councillor Mullaly—Mr. Mayor, I ask you; do you think that I'm reflecting on you, by bringing in this motion? Mayor Ellis—I have nothing to hide; but there is a reflection. Councillor Mullaly—I'm sorry you think the latter. Councillor Ryan—Mr. Mayor, was there ever a compromise made with any person, who was in arrears, for a considerable sum. Mayor Ellis—Yes; in one instance. It was about the time of the Crash, and the person was 'hard up.' Councillor Mullaly—There were quite a number 'hard up,' the time of the Crash, Mr. Mayor. Mayor Ellis—I think, if Councillor Mullaly would submit to a Committee of investigation going into the matter, it would be better, and would cost nothing. Councillor Mullaly—The only thing is an audit. Councillor Myrick—I cannot support the motion, as there does not appear sufficient cause for an audit being made; and again, we don't know what the expense will be. Councillor Coaker—I think Councillor Mullaly could get at the matter some other way, and that he should leave it over to another meeting. Councillor Mullaly—Now or never, Mr. Mayor. A supreme calmness fell over the Council after this, and for about three minutes the full Board considered the matter in silence. Suddenly Councillor Mullaly rose to his feet and said: 'Say, Mr. Mayor, let us take a walk.' The motion was then put, the vote being: For, Mullaly, Against, Martin, Myrick, Ryan, Coaker, Channing.

The Mayor gave his casting vote against the motion, on the ground that Councillor Mullaly had no justification for making the resolution. At 12.40 this morning the meeting adjourned, which was one of the 'hottest' on record.—Daily News.

SELF CURE NO FICTION! MARVEL UPON MARVEL! NO SUFFERER NEED NOW DESPAIR.

Just without running a doctor's bill or falling into the deep ditch of quackery, may safely, speedily, and economically cure himself without the knowledge of a second party. BY THE INTRODUCTION OF THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY THERAPION Complete revolution has been wrought in this department of medical science, whilst thousands have been restored to health and happiness who for years had been suffering, dragging out a miserable existence.

THERAPION No. 1.—A Sovereign Remedy for discharges, suppurating sores, gonorrhoea, and all other venereal diseases.

THERAPION No. 2.—A Sovereign Remedy for primary and secondary syphilis, skin eruptions, swellings, joints, and all those complaints which mercury and arsenic are popularly but erroneously supposed to cure. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood and thoroughly eliminates all noxious matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 3.—A Sovereign Remedy for debility, nervousness, impaired vitality, sleeplessness, distaste and incapacity for business, headache, joint aches, blushing, indigestion, pains in the back and head, and all disorders resulting from dissipation, early excesses, which therefore speedily cure, because impossible to cure or even relieve.

THERAPION appears on British Government Stamp (in white letters on a red ground) affixed to every package by order of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners, and with-out which it is a forgery.

Therapion may now also be obtained in Dragee (Tasteless) form.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

At a recent educational conference Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, the wonderful woman who won the position as head of the Chicago schools from four men competitors, was talking about the change in teaching methods since she began.

"Why, just think, I can remember at the earlier conventions they used to discuss how to prevent whispering," she said with a laugh at the absurdity of the thing. "Wonder if there isn't a mother to think about in the presentment with which Mrs. Young regarded that point of view."

Wonder if the time will come some day when mothers will say, "To think we used to be always talking about how to keep the children from doing naughty things."

Wonder if they will ever be able to say something to correspond with the sentence with which Mrs. Young followed up her reminiscence.

"Of course they don't discuss such things now. Discipline is automatic. Interest the pupil sufficiently and he loses his desire to whisper."

Last summer I visited a certain picturesque little strip of beach not far from New York where about five thousand children bathe daily.

The age of these small bathers ranges from a year and a half and two years up. Many youngsters of this age come attended only by their starbly older brothers and sisters. Boys from five or six to eighteen or nineteen—the mischief belt—are in the majority.

And yet only two life savers are delegated to watch that beach and handle the crowd.

And handling the crowd means not only looking out for drowning accidents but keeping a sharp watch for broken glass, preventing the boys from scaling stones and being ready to check any other piece of mischief that the active minds of five thousand children can cook up.

And now for the reason that I have told you all this.

I was talking with the senior life saver and asked him how he managed to accomplish this Herculean task.

"Well," he answered, "don't know as I could manage it if it weren't for the help I get from the boys. There are lots of them that come here quite regular and when I told them what I was trying to do and how hard it was they were proud to help me." They stop the other boys from throwing stones or scrapping and they keep a splendid lookout for broken glass and things of that sort on the beach.

"Some of my best helpers, too, are the boys that used to be the worst mischief makers before I asked them to help."

Mischief in nine children out of ten or more likely in ninety-nine out of one hundred, is simply energy without the proper outlet.

Children in school whisper not because they want to be naughty but because they are not supplied with enough else to hold their attention.

The boys on the beach threw stones and scrapped and were mischievous not because they wanted to make trouble but because they wanted to be doing something and they had not been supplied with the better outlet of helping to keep order.

No doubt this hot weather, when you mothers are listless and hardput to it to find energy enough to do all that must be done, it doesn't seem possible to you that anyone can be babbling over with energy.

But children somehow are remarkable that way. So suppose the next time you feel inclined to punish for some piece of naughtiness you think over Mrs. Young's point of view and see instead if you can't find a better outlet for the energy that caused the mischief.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid rising in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Bovel's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, it is a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A ounce of these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

The little vests which are quite novel and very fetching are generally made of something to match the trimming of the waist.

The vogue of short skirts for street wear favors the sale of boots that are handsome and distinctive—boots of class and style.

Gold-colored satin is a material which is being used with success for evening slippers, to be worn with silk hose of a shade to match.

Perhaps the greatest novelty of all in shoes is the Panama pump, made from straw. Pumps of this material have leather tips and collar.

The Chanticleer madness has ever struck the evening scarfs, and some of the latest models are shown with roosters and feather designs.

Many smart afternoon dresses of foulards and tulle are shown for young girls in the tunic effect, most of others with the simple peasant blouse.

The material most in favor for bathing suits is brilliantine, because it does not cling to the figure, nor does it become heavy with water-like flannel.

Vanity bags of gold clasp now like a flat purse. The mesh bags are no longer plain but are of two metals—gold and gun metal or oxidized silver and copper.

Bracelets should not be worn over gloves; if one wears a bracelet with long gloves at all it should be worn under them but if possible it should not be worn.

Very handsome bathing suits are trimmed with bands of wide braid, stitched flat to the neck and sleeve bands; another approved trimming is of plaid or striped silk.

The side frill which is so pretty on shirtwaists has established itself as a necessity on the tailor made waist; this otherwise severe style is hardly seen without the frill.

Brussels net scarfs are seen in white. Pearl beads in white iridescent bugles replace the jet on white scarfs, while sequins are frequently used on white and black.

The popularity of belted coats has in no way diminished. Some of these belts only appear in back and front, while some are interlaced through cut slits or narrow tabs of the material.

There is a great deal of gun metal and jet seen since the King's death; for the same reason orchids, real and artificial, are on view everywhere since they were Edward's favorite flower.

Safe Swimming Pools.

We congratulate the Mayor and Councilors of the city on their promptitude in taking up the matter of providing for the boys and youths who are in the habit of resorting to suburban waters for a bath or a swim. The exercise is wholesome and manly and should be encouraged where proper provision is made for safety. As will be seen an attempt to provide a safe pool will be made at Quidd Vid pond, and a conference will be held with the Assembly members for St. John's West and East with a view of providing other safe bathing places. The co-operation of the St. John's Ambulance Society, as is indicated by Dr. Maspreon's letter in regard to instructions and life lines will add much to the provisions for saving life which may be endangered. It seems to us, however, that it is essential to provide a man at each place to oversee each site and to be ready to render aid promptly.

Addresses by Rev. G. Rideout.

To-morrow opportunity will be afforded to listen to the words of wisdom of the Rev. George Rideout, in George St. Church in the morning, at the Cochrane Street Sunday School in the afternoon, and at Gower Street Church at night.
For some years the reverend gentleman was connected with Cochrane Street School, and rendered valuable service there. Since his boyhood days he has been associated with the Evening Telegram, for in his youth he was a salesboy of this journal. After he left the country he kept up his connection with the People's Paper, and for many years our patrons have looked forward to a topical article on Christmas Eve and have not been disappointed. His articles are full of religious fervour, stimulating in spirit, and choice in diction. Those who know him only through his pen may better the acquaintance by his utterances in the pulpit.

Special Evening Telegram.

BILBAO, Spain, July 29. On account of the public excitement here over the Church and State question the Governor has interdicted Catholic and other manifestations which had been arranged to take place next Sunday.

Special to the Evening Telegram.

MADRID, July 29. El mundo discussing the threatened break between the Spanish Government and the Vatican over the refusal of Premier Canalejas to rescind the Imperial Decree which permits non-catholic societies to display the insignia for public worship, says the Holy See has no reason to feel offended. It is heading towards a rupture which will precipitate the opening of a rapid and energetic anti-clerical campaign.

Special Evening Telegram.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 29. Don Jaime de Bourbon, the Carlist Pretender to the Spanish Throne today issued a manifesto to the Carlists in part congratulating them upon their loyalty to the Pope and their defence of the Church and declaring, "I think the day is not far distant when my followers must rally to our flag. I will lead the best of them." Numerous reports are received following the publications of the news that a rupture between the Spanish Government and the Vatican appears imminent. At San Sebastian, Don Jaime has issued a manifesto in which he says that he will lead the Carlists in the battle which he intimates may be called soon. It is expected that Premier Canalejas will ask King Alfonso to set the stamp of his Majesty's approval upon the course that the Premier has adopted.

Special Evening Telegram.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 29. At the conclusion of a conference between King Alfonso and Premier Canalejas this evening, it was announced that Marquis Emilio De Ojeda, Spanish Ambassador to the Vatican, has been recalled. At the same time the opinion was expressed that a rupture with the Vatican was inevitable. Senor Canalejas told the King that the Government could not accept the condition of the Vatican's last note and that the Vatican would be so informed. The Premier will continue his return on the programme counting upon the support of King Alfonso. During the negotiations between the Vatican and Spain Marquis De Ojeda has complained of ill-health. On July 12 the negotiations were suspended because of illness and last Monday it was stated that he was unable to return. At the press conference he was relieved of his duties as ambassador to the Vatican. The order sent to Marquis De Ojeda to leave his post signifies that the rupture which Senor Canalejas described as inevitable is virtually accomplished. Marquis De Ojeda himself is in bed, and his illness has insisted on his return on the ground that the position of the Government at Rome was no longer tenable and that he considered a rupture between the Vatican and Government imminent.

Spain's initiative in recalling Ambassador De Ojeda is expected to be followed by a departure from Madrid of Monsignor Vico, the Papal Nuncio when the rupture will be completed. Senor Canalejas is preparing for a supreme battle.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, July 29. The conference of the two dominant parties who are trying to compose the constitutional differences between the House of Lords and the House of Commons already have succeeded in bridging several gulches, but have not yet reached an agreement, and a statement made by Premier Asquith in the lower chamber this afternoon indicates that the outlook for a compromise is more hopeful than had been anticipated. Unless a rupture occurs during the recess little more of an official character is likely to be heard regarding the negotiations until parliamentary reassemblies on Nov. 15. Mr. Asquith after citing that the conference in the course of twelve meetings had surveyed the field of controversy carefully said, our discussions have made some progress, although we have not so far reached an agreement, and as to whether it is desirable or necessary that they should continue, in fact I may go further; we would think it wiser at this stage to break them off. The Premier added that if further deliberations showed no prospect of an agreement that could be announced in parliament next session, the conference would be closed.

OTTAWA, July 29. The conflict of the fisheries jurisdiction between the province of British Columbia and the Dominion Government is to be settled by an appeal to the Supreme Court. The Province claims the right to issue exclusive fishing licences in waters within the railway belt territory which is under federal jurisdiction in tidal and navigable waters and also to issue licences to fish within a marine league of the coast of the province. The Dominion claims that the issuing of such licenses falls within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Fisheries Department. The Supreme Court has been asked by the Federal Government to answer a stated list of questions involving the constitutional issues.

Special to Evening Telegram.

OTTAWA, July 29. An order in Council has been passed fixing the rates of pay for the officers and men of the naval service of Canada. The main figures were made public during the last session of parliament, but the present order gives them in much greater detail for all ranks of the service. The pay allowances and gratuities are based upon the rates in the imperial Navy taking into consideration the increased cost of living in Canada. On the whole the rates vary from 25 to over 50 per cent more than the British navy.

Another Boy Drowned

This week has certainly been prolific of drowning accidents. On Monday a very sad accident similar to those which happened in St. John's, occurred at Port aux Basques, the victim being a boy named Sheaves aged 12 years. The boy with two little tots went to a pond just above the hill near the cable house and went out to bathe. He could not swim and going out over his depth he went down in a hurry. He rose three times to the surface but the little chaps with him could render no aid, and they were so frightened that they did not make the outcry or report the matter until over a half hour after the boy had disappeared. Then men went to the scene with jiggers and in a short while secured the body. His father is a fireman on the Harlaw and came home by the Bruce yesterday. The parents are grief-stricken over the boy's sad fate.

Crippen Arrested on Steamer Montrose.

London, July 26.-According to the Express, which prints a circumstantial account of the arrest of Dr. Crippen and his companion aboard the steamer Montrose, the latter burst into tears when arrested, and is now in a state of collapse and ready to make a sworn statement. Dr. Crippen, however, declares he can prove his innocence on the charge of murder. The two are now in separate cabins and are closely watched. On Friday evening a note established that Doctor Crippen and the Le Neve woman spent all the time from July 10 to July 20 in Brussels, staying at an obscure hotel. Thence they came to Antwerp. They have not been in France at all. Scotland Yard deprecates the certain assumption that the couple on the Montrose are Dr. Crippen and Miss Le Neve.

The accumulating evidence points to the certainty that the couple aboard the Montrose are Dr. Crippen and Miss Le Neve. The movements have been traced practically since they left London, most of the time being spent in Belgium under the alias of Robinsons. The girl throughout posing as Robinson's son. When purchasing passage tickets at Antwerp Robinson particularly insisted upon having the couple in his cabin. The London Express publishes a circumstantial story of their arrest on board the Montrose. The British authorities were overheard discussing their escape, according to the paper, and the captain of the steamer communicated with Scotland Yard and on Saturday decided to arrest the couple.

Crippen was searched and deprived of a revolver and cartridges and a pen knife. He demanded to know what offence he was charged with and was informed he had contravened the law by giving an assumed name and travelling with a woman in the guise of a boy. As he was unable to provide proofs that his name was Robinson or that the woman was his wife, and the girl were placed under arrest in separate cabins and are being watched night and day.

New York, July 26.-With the young woman dressed as a boy, the pair boarded the Montrose at Antwerp under the name of Rev. Mr. Robinson and son. The elder man was essentially clerical. He wore a pair of spectacles, a mustache, a short beard, and a shorn upper lip. His eyebrows were very heavy, and formed a prominent characteristic. It was these eyebrows which attracted the officers of the Montrose to suspect that all was not as it seemed with the passengers.

The putative clergyman and his son occupied a second class cabin, and one day, soon after sailing, a sharp-eyed steward noticed that one of Rev. Mr. Robinson's eyebrows had been placed for an instant. He mentioned the phenomenon, and soon afterward the sex of the so-called "son" was discovered.

New Features in Elmore Murder Case Discussed.

London, July 18.—Notwithstanding the most extraordinary efforts of the police, up to this afternoon no trace has been found of the whereabouts of Hawley Harvey Crippen, or of Miss Le Neve, Dr. Crippen's business intimate, who is believed to be in France, and that he will commit suicide if his capture is imminent.

So far as is known the only new point that has been established to the satisfaction of the police is the date of the tragedy at the Crippen house. This, they say, was the night of Jan. 31, or the early morning hours of Feb. 1. The Crippens, it was stated, entertained a few friends on the evening of Jan. 31, and they left before midnight. The following day the Vaudeville Artists Guild, of which Mrs. Crippen, or Belle Elmore, as she was known on the stage, was the Treasurer, received a letter signed "Belle Elmore," stating that the writer had gone to America on business, and the misspelling of the name caused comment.

Criticising Police—as Usual. The police are criticised as usual in such cases, but the criticisms are based generally upon knowledge which was not possessed by the authorities when they interviewed Crippen and allowed him to escape. The police maintain that prior to the finding of the woman's body in the cellar of the Crippen home they had nothing upon which to justify the detention of the doctor. As it is, though, the police firmly believe that the body is that of Crippen's wife, but it is doubtful if the identity of the remains can be legally established.

The Evening News says that a check for £27 was cashed on June 9 for Dr. Crippen by an acquaintance. The check bore the signatures of Mr. and Mrs. Crippen. From February 1, until last Friday Dr. Crippen and the Le Neve woman lived in the house beneath the cellar floor of which lay the body of his wife.

No Record of Marriage to Le Neve Woman. The story which the Le Neve woman told to her mother and friends, that she had been married to Crippen at the St. Pancras registry office, is not true. There is no record of the marriage there. The missing girl's sister worked for Dr. Crippen before he engaged Ethel. Miss Le Neve's aunt refuses to believe that Ethel was aware of the murder of Dr. Crippen's wife. The aunt visited the house on Sunday before last. She says, speaking of this visit: "I wanted to chat with Ethel, but Crippen would not leave her alone with me for a second. Crippen was worried and nervous. I cannot believe that he murdered his wife. A more inoffensive man I never knew."

As Crippen disappeared only four days before the horrible discovery of the mutilated body of the woman under the coal cellar, the scent is fresh, and the arrest of the suspected murderer is highly probable, especially as every newspaper is seeking to frighten the typewriter into betraying him in order to escape her own responsibility as an accessory before or after the fact.

Liable to Homicidal Mania. New York, July 18.—Scotland Yard is looking for another man in the case, who, though it is said that he is not thought to have had anything whatever to do with the murder of Belle Elmore, will nevertheless be largely connected in the capture of her much wanted husband, if he is ever captured. The man according to information given last night by William E. Scott, the New York advertising man who had European business with Crippen, is known in London under half a dozen aliases and at a half dozen different addresses. He has been for years past the financial backer of Crippen's enterprises, and without his aid, it is said, Crippen would never have gained the material success he attained.

"Dr. Crippen, when I knew him," added Mr. Scott, "was a confirmed absinthe drinker, and when under the influence of the drug-like drink was often oppressed with suicidal or homicidal mania."

Believed Herself Married. London, July 18.—According to the published statement of her sister, Ethel Le Neve, who is believed to have been Dr. Crippen's companion when he disappeared from his home, in a hurried visit to her on July 9, professed the greatest anxiety over the possibility that she was not Crippen's legal wife.

After the announcement of the death of Belle Elmore, Dr. Crippen introduced the Le Neve girl as his wife, although there has been no proof, so far, that the marriage took place. The statement of the sister throws a new light on the subject. She says that Crippen informed Ethel Le Neve that he had just discovered that Belle Elmore was still living, and he proposed to go to America to clear up the matter.

Private Detective Sent to Jail for Abduction

Charles Gorman, the private detective who was very recently found guilty of abducting Katherine Laroque, by enticing her from her room and detaining her by means of a warrant which he had illegally used for his purpose, was sentenced to serve a month in jail. Gorman was accused of having gone to the house where the girl lived, and through a warrant which he had in his possession for the arrest of another woman, taken the girl from the house and had kept her with him at a hotel.

In sentencing Gorman this morning Judge Choquet said the accused had used the warrant to compel the woman to follow him. The offence was one for which the accused might be sentenced to a term of ten years. It was the duty of the accused as a detective to protect society, but the evidence of the woman herself made the offence appear less serious.

A warrant should never have been entrusted to such a man, said the judge, as he was too youthful. The temptation was too great for such a man to be sent to certain houses for the purpose of serving warrants.

The accused, Gorman, had been in the employ of a private detective agency for some time but had never at any time had any connection with the Detective Department of this city.

This Report of Mr. Roberts Upon his Recent Meetings in Trinity Bay is Appended More in Detail and it has Therefore Been Deemed Better to Leave the Names of the Settlements Which are in the South West Arm of Random in Blank.

On Monday, July 18th, I left and came to ———. Visited several of the Coves and had a meeting arranged for 8 p.m. It was in the school room, a miserable old building, not a window could be opened, still 30 children were gathered there when I called, attending school. The building is not fit for a school room, but I am glad to see they have a new school partly erected.

We had a crowded and very appreciative house and they apparently appreciated my endeavours to enlighten them upon the nature of Consumption, and it is not before it is needed. It is a poor place and Consumption is quite rife here. I should think that here would be a good place to send a nurse for a couple of weeks, as there are at least four dying now from Tuberculosis. The water supply is usually from running brooks, and I saw a stable and cabbage garden bordering on and above one of these brooks; a condition not very conducive to health. Mr. Wm. Flynn acted as Chairman.

Tuesday I had a meeting at ———. A good audience and a very interesting one. The people came in some cases from a distance of five miles. Mr. Newman Frost filled the chair well and Rev. Mr. Prescott managed the lantern. At the conclusion Rev. C. Whitmarsh and Rev. Mr. Prescott made appropriate remarks and impressed the people with the need of such a work. The meeting was held in the Orange Hall. No charge for hire.

At ——— a full house. Mr. John Vey acted as Chairman. Rev. Mr. Prescott spoke at conclusion. School with no window which could open. I saw a well which supplied water for several families which was little less than a cess pool and received the drainage of several gardens as well as the drainage from the road, which was above the well.

Thursday, a crowded house at ———. Advertised the meeting all along the coast, so that we had people from coves on either side. The Master of the Orange Lodge kindly placed the Hall at my disposal for the meeting. The Hall in question is a fine building with several "Don't spit" cards around. But the deplorable condition is that not a window could be opened. The school is poor, the people backward.

There are no outhouses for any of the schools, hence a glance at some of the immediate surroundings tell a tale. It is quite a common thing for some person living at those places to detail a pitiful story of such and such a family being swept out of existence by consumption. I have had several houses pointed out to me where from three to seven members have died of consumption during the past decade.

They have bad habits of keeping blinds down for months for deceased relatives. These people are completely isolated. They never see a mail boat and the train is from 5 to 15 miles away. As far as I can learn fully one out of every two deaths here is caused by consumption.

Friday—Arrived at ——— to-day and to-night in the schoolroom had a very successful meeting. Certainly men were in the minority as they are all away. But women and children crowded the school so that there was not even standing room. I think there must have been half a dozen babies present, and some of them at intervals tried mighty hard to keep germs out of their lungs by making quite audible expulsive efforts, the vocal chords being much in evidence. The school needs repairs, but the windows can be opened. No outhouses. The church is clean. Consumption has been the cause of several deaths here. I made enquiries about the water, and noticing a well on the side of the road asked if the water contained therein was used for drinking purposes. They said it wasn't except when everything was clean around. I couldn't conceive when that was, and several pigs are at large here. I pointed out clearly to-night the evils of such water and the great danger of typhoid, and made it all the more emphatic as at the present time in this Arm there is a case of typhoid. I also had something to say about garbage disposal and the filthy habit of standing in back doors and throwing all dirty water out. They all took it kindly and saw the truth of my statements.

Rev. Mr. Prescott gave me good assistance at this meeting. He managed the lantern and made quite a spicy and enthusiastic speech, which made my remarks quite a deal more effective. He sees the great ravages done here by tuberculosis. They all tell me that I have not reached the worst portion of the Bay yet.

Well, my voice is so bad and my throat so sore that I intend saying nothing more until Monday or Tuesday. I have been talking every day this week from 9 a.m. till 11 p.m. Those places are small and most of the men are away. I expect from this time out I shall not attempt more than three meetings a week. However, I like it and am interested, and the people also seem very interested in the subject.

The gasoline boat which I have hired is indispensable for this coast. I could not have done what I have in two weeks without it.

I expect to spend from two to three weeks up in the bottom of the bay. M. C. ROBERTS.

Saw No Distress Signals, He Says.

Dear Editor.—With reference to article "Bankmen Adrift," published on the 20th inst., I beg to say the schr. Commander is grossly misrepresented. I admit we saw a dory coming into Burin from Sydney, but saw no distress signals, but judged she was sailing in from the fishing ground. I used the glass several times, as did also my men, and could have made out signals if any were given. Yours truly, GABRIEL HOLLETT. Great Burin, July 27th, 1910.

PERSISTENT COUGH.

Wherever soothing syrups fail to cure that persisting cough which exhausts you, MATHIEU'S SYRUP of Tar and Cod Liver Oil and other medicinal extracts will rapidly and definitely rid you from it. The merits of Mathieu's Syrup are highly recognized and endorsed. Here are a few proofs:—

PORT GREVILLE, C.B., Dec. 31, '08. Blacking & Mercantile Co., y. Ltd. Dear Sirs,—Please ship by next express if possible, 3 doz. Mathieu's Syrup. It is the best cough mixture on the market. Yours truly, W. STERLING.

CHURCH POINT, July 31, '08. Blacking & Mercantile Co., y. Ltd., Amherst, N.S. Dear Sirs,—Nearly one year ago I had my first order of Mathieu's Syrup from you. It was not known in this country, and I gave samples to several families whom I knew would use it. After a few weeks I began to have a call for it, and trade has increased wonderfully since. I have not the least doubt but that it will soon be the best selling remedy for coughs, colds, etc., on the market. In my store here sales are good and our people ask for it. Several stores in this country now keep it in stock and report sales increasing. I have bought from you since August 10th, 1907, 4 Gross and have only 3 dozen on hand at this date, and which I am holding for retail trade in my store. Yours truly, LOUIS A. MCLANSON.

AGAINST HEADACHE there is no remedy so active as Mathieu's Nerve Powders which contain no opium, morphine or chloral. 25 cts. per box of 18 powders. J. L. MATHIEU CO., Sherbrooke, Can. T. W. McMURDO & Co., Wholesale Chemists and Druggists, St. John's, Nfld.

How Nations Are Born

A new European kingdom will shortly come into existence. Prince Nicholas of Montenegro having informed the Great Powers of his intention to raise his principality to that higher status on August 8th. If, as seems probable, the governments concerned do not oppose the step, the change will be an easy one, unattended by trouble of any kind. This is a welcome innovation, for new kingdoms are generally born of war and baptised in blood. A typical instance is that of the German Empire, born at the Palace of Versailles, on January 18th, 1871, during the Franco-Prussian war. There have been few more dramatic national births, for Paris was actually being bombarded at the time by the German artillery. France has been three times an empire and three times a republic, and each change has been attended by fighting and loss of life. The kingdom of Italy came into being on March 17th, 1861—born of the Austrian conflict and civil war between the various states—and was gladly recognized by Britain a fortnight later. Nor are these the only European nations that have been born in similar fashion within the last hundred years. Greece achieved her independence in 1830, and Serbia and Roumania were granted it in 1878 under the provisions of the Treaty of Berlin. Within the same period two European nations have died by violence at the hands of their neighbours. Poland perished, after long-drawn out agony, on December 19th, 1866. Finland was strangled, almost unresistingly, only the other day.

CHURCH PARADE.—The Methodist Guards parade to Wesley Church to-morrow forenoon and a big muster is expected. The service will be conducted by Rev. J. K. Curtis who will preach on the occasion.

City Council Meeting.

At the meeting last night there were present Mayor Ellis in the chair, and Councillors Martin, Coaker, Channing, Ryan, Mully and Myrick. The pay rolls and bills were disposed of and the following business was discussed.

Supt. Grimes acknowledging a communication, stated that the proposal to place light bulbs over fire alarm boxes would be laid before Inspector General Sullivan when he resumes duty.

Manager Thompson informed the Council that owing to large expenditure on plant, his firm were unable to lay concrete sidewalk in front of their building on Water Street. The Council will lay a drain and fix a gully.

James Ellis offered 200 feet of land for $300. He bought land with the understanding that the road was to go through it and had sold several lots of it for building. The proposed street runs east of Leslie Street. The Council will visit the place on Monday at noon.

The Mayor gave notice that he would from this time forward be present at the Municipal Office each morning from 9 to 10 o'clock to confer with officials and hear complaints of citizens.

Dr. Macpherson, Hon. Sec. of the St. John's Ambulance Association, proposed to place cards about town, in the watch-houses on the wharves and convenient places near suburban ponds, bearing simple instructions for the resuscitation of those apparently drowned. He had already secured the matter over with the Mayor. He also submitted sample cards. The Association supplied also a pocket cork, line and drag, with 80 feet of line, in a case, for the recovery of persons from the water; the price is $1.00; and also a pocket reel and line, with 80 feet of line, for ice accidents. The Council agreed to contribute $20 towards the expenses of the scheme.

Henry Blatch complained that Long's Hill had been sprinkled only twice since the 15th inst., and of the best condition of the drain. The Mayor will investigate.

The Gas Co. will fix up New Gower Street.

G. Howden's complaint about the bad state of drains, &c., on Water St. will be dealt with.

The Council will find out cost of leveling depression in pavement in front of Rankin's store, on Water St., at request of J. J. Mulcahy.

J. Hanley asked that watering cart be sent occasionally to King's Road, Council will enquire.

A. W. O'Reilly asked for the removal of an obnoxious grating under his window on Water Street. Engineer must report.

Permission to repair or alter premises was given to several applicants.

The application of employees of Water Works Department and of West End Turnkeys was referred to Finance Committee.

Tenders for plumbing the water closets in Bannerman and Victoria.

You Blame the Stomach

Get chronic indigestion with discomfort when the liver, kidneys and bowels are set right by DR. A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS.

You are skeptical. For you have tried many medicines and still suffer from indigestion with its annoying symptoms. Take a new line. Leave the stomach alone, for the cure of trouble is in the intestines; a healthy digestion can be restored the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills.

Mr. C. D. Bennett, Maple Grove, Quebec Co., Que., writes: "I had special very bad. The food would not go down, my stomach would swell up, I had a great deal of acid and could not sleep. As the result of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I am now entirely cured and can eat any kind of food. They have made a new man of me, a younger man of me, and I cannot say too much in their praise."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, one will dispense in a box, all dealers in Medicine, Bates & Co., Toronto.

City Council Meeting.

Parks will be called for on Tuesday at 3 p.m. The specification has been submitted by the City Engineer.

The Health Officer reported that he found the place on the South Side, complained of by Ed. Hayes, in good sanitary condition. The Health Inspector was carrying out the Council's instructions. There are 5 cases of scarlet fever, 2 of typhoid and 8 of diphtheria in hospital, and 7 cases of scarlet fever, 1 of typhoid and 1 of diphtheria being treated at home.

The question of swimming baths was discussed. On motion of Councillor Mully supported by Councillor Channing, it was decided to proceed with one at Quill Viar. Councillors Mully, Channing and Myrick were appointed a committee to confer with the members of St. John's East and West in the proposal to provide other baths.

Councillor Mully drew attention to the condition of the fish market at O'Dwyer's Cove. The Mayor and he will investigate.

The Road Committee will see to the sweeping of Water Street.

Pilot's Hill and Hamilton Street will be flushed.

In another part of this issue will be found a report on Councillor Mully's motion for an audit, for which we are indebted to the Daily News.

Note of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Devine thank most sincerely all those kind and sympathetic friends who sent letters of condolence to them on the sad death by drowning of their little boy Charlie, viz. Rev. Fr. Rowe, P.P., Harbor Main, A. A. Parsons, Esq., C. J. Coughlan, Jno. W. Leonard (Briggs), Mrs. T. Hanrahan (Harbor Grace), Jno. M. O'Donnell (Bell Island), Stewart A. Long, D. F. Stafford & Son, Capt. T. Bonia, Mr. Stephen Loveridge (Twillingate), Mr. Elisha Button (New Melbourne), and the following who sent wreaths and flowers for the casket: Lady Whiteaway, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Herder, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carter (Maxse Street), Employees of the Evening Telegram and the reporters of the daily papers—Messrs. R. Dowden, T. J. Moran, E. Deary, R. Jeans, W. Croux and Leo. Murphy—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodland, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Greene, Miss Sutton, Miss M. Doyle, Masters Organ and Gus Collins, Mrs. Jno. Kean, Miss Daisy Lawlor, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Flynn, Mrs. Randell Greene, Miss Esther Halleran, Misses Dorothy and Mabel McGrath, T. S. Devine, Mr. Sullivan and others.

Notes of Bank Merger.

Circulars of the Union Bank of Halifax announcing the terms of purchase by the Royal Bank were issued to the shareholders on Wednesday. In part it says: "The par value of the shares of the Union Bank of Halifax is $50 each; that of the Royal Bank of Canada is $100. Under this agreement, for each five shares of stock of the Union Bank of Halifax, you will receive two shares of stock of the Royal Bank, and cash for fractions of a share of Royal Bank stock at the rate of $250 per share. If the agreement with the Royal Bank of Canada is adopted the amalgamation will declare the usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, and the Royal Bank of Canada undertakes to increase its present dividend of 11 per cent to 12 per cent, on December 31 next, and the holder of the new shares of the Royal Bank of Canada will receive a dividend of 2 per cent, on Dec. 31 for the two previous months. A dividend of 12 per cent, it is assumed, will give a market value of not less than $250 per share. If so, this price would be equivalent to $100 for each $50 share of the Union Bank of Halifax."—Mon. Times, July 23.

The Governor at King's Cove.

His Excellency Sir Ralph Williams and party received an exceptionally cordial welcome at King's Cove on their arrival there from Bonavista, on Thursday, the 21st inst. His Excellency, Lady Williams, Miss Dean, Secretary Fitzherbert and Lieut. Gale came ashore at 4 p.m. The place was in fête for their reception and the harbor was ablaze with bunting in their honour. The flag of the Fishermen's Union floated from their hall, where a crowd of the fishermen of the place had assembled. T. Devine, Esq., J. P., went to the wharf and received the Vice-Regal party, who after going to the telegraph office to send some messages, were escorted to the harbor where they visited all the principal places of interest, including the R. C. Church. Then a call was made on Rev. Fr. Scully, the Parish Priest, after which a visit was made to Rev. S. A. Dawson, the respected Church of England pastor. They then wended their way down the South Side of the harbor where Mr. Devine invited them to his home and they partook of the good old time hospitality for which the Devine family of King's Cove are noted. His Excellency evinced special interest in the tradition which exists amongst the people that King's Cove was the famous landing of John Cabot. Mr. Devine remarked that the Great Venturian mariner must have poor taste in coming to such an out of the way place, when His Excellency said that he thought it quite likely that in such a cosy little cove old mariners like Cabot would be glad to take shelter where plenty of wood and water could be found.

On his way to the wharf to rejoin the steamer His Excellency happened to see a lobster factory conducted by Mr. Devine, and desired to visit it. He was shown through it and was much interested in the industry. He said he would like a lobster fresh from the water. Mr. Devine picked out 3 fine ones for him and sent them on board the ship. As His Excellency and those with him stepped on board the Florida the fishermen assembled gave three hearty cheers for him and his lady and the King and Royal Family. As His Excellency before going on board came along the road he met and chatted with the men of the place, and also had a kindly word for the children who had congregated to see the party.

The King's Cove folks are delighted with the kindly, genial manner of His Excellency, and had they earlier notice of his coming amongst them would have given him a reception worthy of the occasion and the loyal old town of King's Cove.

Won't Spoil Sport.

The men of the People's Club who were objected to in the Society Race by other teams have dropped out sooner than spoil sport. They are succeeded by H. Peddiggrew, J. Saturday and W. Brown. As regards the allegation that the men are fishermen, James Healey, of T. J. Allen's, never missed a rod's tail out of water; Joseph, now at sub-station, gave up fishing 6 years ago, and Frank has not fished for some time past.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

R. D. McRae, Esq., arrived by Tuesday's train from a visit to friends at Cape Breton.

Miss N. Munn is home again after an extended visit to the city. Her friends are pleased to see her looking so well.

The strawberry festival at St. Paul's Hall on Tuesday night was a grand success, financially and otherwise—about $110 being realized and a jolly time for all who attended.

Much sympathy is expressed here for Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Devine in the sad death of their son through drowning.

The British band and their friends left for Bell Island by steamer at 6 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The day, being fine, was much enjoyed, cricket and football being played by the residents and the visiting friends. A concert and dance was the programme for the evening and night. The party arrived home at 5 a.m. Thursday after an all round good time.

Mr. H. H. Archibald left for St. John's by yesterday's early train on a business trip.

The Guy Celebration Committee are leaving no stone unturned to make the fast approaching celebration worthy of the occasion. We are going to have a "good time," and we expect to see quite a number of St. John's folk over to help us to celebrate. Over $2,000 has been subscribed.

Dr. W. H. Parsons has resigned his position as medical officer on the Labrador mail boat and will now continue his practice here. The doctor's practice is fast increasing and he is continually kept busy attending to calls.

WISE WORDS

A Physician on Food.

A physician out in Oregon has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence.

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach especially at breakfast to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work. In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is necessary not to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Cove, an old and much respected resident of this town, died at his home yesterday a.m. after a short illness. Capt. Parsons was in his 77th year and leaves several sons and daughters besides a widow to mourn their loss. He was a member of the Masonic and British Societies. Funeral this evening.

Miss M. Cody's musical recital and operetta has been postponed owing to several other events this week, but it will take place on Tuesday night next when a programme of sweet music will be rendered and a pleasant evening assured.

The members of the Conception and Trinity Bay Medical Association met on Saturday last, and after passing a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Dr. Allan, a committee was appointed to arrange for future meetings. Dr. Boyle was the Chairman.

Mrs. Mahala Cole, an old lady of the West End, died on Saturday last and was buried on Monday.

A young woman named Maggie Luther, stepdaughter of Mr. James Dove, died of consumption on Monday last after a long illness.

The Stars are the Champions.

Defeat Casuals by 7 Goals to 0.

The football match of last evening between the Stars and Casuals was played under very adverse conditions. From the start rain fell, at first very lightly, but as the game progressed it descended in torrents and continued so until the referee blew the final whistle. Despite this a considerable number of spectators were present and saw the match to a finish, of course getting a drenching. The Stars won the toss and defended the western goal. The teams lined up:

Stars—Keefe, goal; Hart and Kavanagh, backs; Sullivan, Jackman and Duggan, halves; Brien, Adams, Evoy, Morgan and Power, forwards.

Casuals—Foster, goal; Herder and Lumsden, backs; Rendell, Brown and Mars, halves; Lilly, Fraser, Smallwood, Miller and Cunningham, forwards.

The rain made the ball greasy and heavy and the sodden ground made it difficult for the players to keep their feet. It was now or never with the Stars, who played despite such conditions with their usual vim and dash, and from the start they played all round their opponents. Before spectators were hardly aware that the ball was kicked off the Stars had rushed down field and scored, rushing the ball into the net twice afterwards in a few minutes. Keeping the leather down in Casual territory, the champions now had matters their own way and scored two more goals before half time. When the teams crossed Stars had 5 goals, Casuals 0. Hardly had the second half been properly started when the Stars took a dash up field and hit up No. 6 goal. The Casuals now rallied a little and got down on the Star goal, but Star defence was admirable and shortly after the ball was again got west and Brien put it into the net, scoring the 7th goal for Star. Determination to win, coupled with hard and systematic practice, is what the Star team can ascribe their premier position among the football teams to. We heartily congratulate them on their success. Messrs. Hartley and Carew were substituted in last night's match for Kavanagh and Sullivan, who have not played often this season. Mr. P. Mars replaced Mr. Eric Bowring on the Casual side and worked well.

Largely Attended Funeral Yesterday.

The funeral of the late Master Wm. Joyce, who was drowned at Long Pond Wednesday afternoon, took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. The Methodist Guards, of which deceased was a member, were present in force, and guards of honor from the C.L.B. and C.C.C. also attended. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket which was literally covered with wreaths and floral offerings, the tribute of kind and sympathetic friends. Funeral marches were played along the route to the cemetery by the Guards' band. At the cemetery the service was conducted by Revs. J. W. Bartlett, G. Foreshaw and F. R. Matthews, B.A., and as the last clod of earth fell on the grave where the squad stood with reversed arms, the Last Post was sounded, and all retired saddened by the thought that one so young should be cut off so suddenly and tragically.

McMurdo's Store News

SATURDAY, July 30, '10. As an external application in some kinds of rheumatism, and for muscular pains, Chillum Paste takes a foremost place. It is probably the best counter-irritant, being easily applied and prompt in its action. 25c. a bottle.

To cool the blood and settle the stomach salines have been used from time immemorial. We have had an elegant Effervescent Saline put up in convenient sized bottles. This will be found a good febrifuge and purifying medicine. All travellers and vacation takers should have a bottle. Price 40c.

Do not forget, if you are passing any time during the day or evening, to drop in for a glass of Ice Cream Soda. You will feel refreshed after it.—adv.

The Champions Dined.

Last evening the Star Football Team—the champions for 1910—were given an informal dinner by their admirers at the rooms of the Star of the Sea Association. A very pleasant time was spent, and speeches were made by Messrs. J. Vinnicombe, J. Robinson, T. Kelly and W. Duggan, while songs were given by the team's able goal keeper, P. Keefe, and Messrs. Langmeade, Milley and Royle. The goal keeper, Mr. P. Keefe, will be leaving the country shortly, and before he goes a dinner will be tendered him.

Happy Dreams.

I am a dreamer. Even when I am wide-awake, my dreams like other dreams, are dis-connected with each other. I dream of the golden future, when the lion will play with the lamb. I dream of the time to come, when all nations will realize that they are the children of one living Father. I dream of many other good things. But this is no dream: "I am selling clothing, dry goods and furniture for cash or credit." B. FRIEDMAN, 301 Water Street (water side), Phone 546; P. O. Box 5. Mail orders promptly attended to.—jy30.11.

The Swimming Race.

We are in entire accord with the observations of the News this morning as to the Swimming Race on Regatta Day. This is a contest in which none should be allowed to enter except those of mature years and of good constitution, and each applicant for entry should be carefully examined to see that he is physically fitted to engage in such a strenuous race. President Hon. John Harvey recognizing the danger even to the most robust, in such a struggle, will see to it that boats will be about to promptly render aid should such be necessary.

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure. Mrs. Oscar Vanoost, St. Antoine, Pa., writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him. "Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering. "As a cure for eczema and itching skin diseases there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Regatta Com. Meeting.

There was another very enthusiastic meeting of the Regatta Committee in the Armoury of the T. A. Hall last night. Practically all the members attended and Hon. John Harvey, the President, occupied the chair. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed, Mr. Hiscock, the Vice-President, reported that satisfactory arrangements had been made for the luncheon at Mr. Ross's place.

A letter was read from Sir E. P. Morris in which he enclosed $28 to be divided as prizes for the winning crews in the fishermen's and laborers' races. President Harvey asked Mr. C. Ellis what had been done as regards the getting of boats to be near at the time of the swimming race, so that swimmers required aid it could be promptly afforded. Mr. Ellis had seen the commanding officers of the city brigades and they had assured him that they would provide men and boats to look after the contestants. Secretary Noonan said that he had written the same people on the subject.

Hon. Jno. Harvey stated that His Excellency the Governor would not be present on Regatta Day, and that after discussing the matter thoroughly with V. P. Hiscock it was decided to ask Mrs. Job to present the cups and medals to the winners of the various events. In this connection the enthusiasm of Mr. Job and the practical aid he has always extended to those engaged in carrying out the Regatta was extolled, and the mention of his name was the signal for loud applause.

When Mr. J. W. Morris, who recently joined the noble army of Benefactors, entered the meeting he was given an ovation and all present simultaneously flocked about him and he was kept busy for a while receiving hearty hand shakes and warmest congratulations.

The Vice-President handed $25 to the Committee as a subscription from the Commercial Cable Co. Just after Mr. P. F. Moore announced the fact, President McGrath, Secretary Allan and Treasurer Hallam, of the Longshoremen's Union, arrived and donated a cheque for $75. Votes of thanks were unanimously accorded each of these donors. Four dollars was the contribution of the cabmen of the East cab stand, to which only a very few of those who ply their trade had subscribed. Mr. P. Hanley presented it to the Committee, and it was generally remarked that such a sum would hardly be expected from men who profit so much by the Regatta.

Mr. Bates proposed and Mr. Hiscock seconded the resolution that the Presidents of the Laborers and Truckmen's Unions be the guests of the Committee at luncheon on Regatta Day. This was carried by acclamation.

The President expressed the satisfaction it gave him and the members of the Committee to see the Union men give such practical support to our great annual fête. It augurs well for its perpetuation and increased success.

Mr. Harvey had seen Mr. R. Stein and told him of the failure to have a log rolling contest and suggested a greasy pole. The suggestion was adopted and Mr. R. Stein and Mr. P. F. Moore will look after the matter. The discussion of matters connected with the Regatta was now postponed to allow the boats and crews to enter. The entries will be found in another column.

Ample funds have been received to enable a successful Regatta to be carried on.

The C.C.C. produced birth certificates for each member of their crew, which show all to be under 21 years of age, and requested the Committee to have similar certificates produced from the members of the other brigades rowing before the morning of the Regatta. This is according to rule, and the President has requested the officers of the other brigades to have their crews produce similar documents.

When all the crews present had entered, Mr. Hiscock spoke at length, as did also the President and Mr. Higgins, on the subject of having competent coxswains only to steer the boats in the Bridge Race. The Committee as a whole authorized the Secretary to request this from the brigade authorities so as to ensure the safety of the crews rowing in this race. None but competent men should steer for these lads and the principle was affirmed that these, if necessary, need not be members of the brigades. The Secretary will lay the matter before the brigades. The meeting adjourned till Monday night at 8.30 when stakes must be drawn and the Juvenile and other crews who have not entered must positively do so.
