The Fox Educational Board for good boys and girls. Educate your children while they play.
The Sentence and Wordbuilder consists of 48 letters and pictures from which the groups of words and sentences may be built, separate, and rebuilt, while the child plays until his interest in spelling and in writing, as well as in the meaning of words, is forever rightly fixed.
Introduce the Letters and easy words slowly. As soon as the child gets acquainted with a few letters and words, and the process of Word Building, he will be able to build his own thoughts into words and sentences.
The board is in the form of a circle, is strongly made, of a bright color and is nicely decorated. A most attractive looking game and one that will stand a lot of hard wear.
The price is $1.75 each, and there are only ten in stock.

CHAPTER XXIII.

We must return for a while to the kidnapped Leicester.

Gagged and completely powerless, he was hurried along by his captors, through the ruins and down, by a circuitous path, terribly narrow and steep, to the beach.

Though his mouth was gagged, he could still see and hear, and when they had reached the beach he saw the starlike signal which had often puzzled him and heard the sound of muffled oars.

Presently, amidst a dead silence, he was lifted into a boat, which instantly put about toward the open sea.

After some little time he saw the spars of a small schooner looming in the distance.

The boat reached it.

He was lifted from the boat and carried on deck.

There he was instantly surrounded by a crew of desperate and ferocious-looking sailors, half of them Lascars a few Spanish, and one or two Englishmen.

Job, who had remained on deck, drew aside with the captain, and, after a few minutes' rapid conversation with him, returned to where Leicester lay.

"I am going, Master Leicester," he said, gravely, and almost sadly. "I be sorry to leave ye like this, but ye wouldn't come to terms and there was naught else to do. I'd advise ye to give in like a wise gentleman; no harm 'll come to yer if yer keeps quiet. Good-by, Master Leicester. I be sorry, mortal sorry, and I'd give a sight of money if it was any one else as we'd had to play the trick on."

So saying, he turned and dropped over into the boat, which instantly rowed away.

Immediately afterward the order was given to crowd all canvas and put the ship about.

While it was being executed the captain of the motley crew strode up to Leicester and unbound his hands and removed the gag.

Leicester sprang to his feet.

"Stranger," he said, with that nasal twang which proclaimed the Yankee, "I guess we'd better understand each other. I'm captain of this yere vessel, and what I say I mean; and no gentleman, whether he's an eternal Britisher or a free man born under the Stars and Stripes can mean more. You've been consigned to my charge under peculiar circumstances. I'm to take care of you, keep yer safe and sound, and drop you soft as a kitten at a sartin place. Them's my instructions, and them's my intentions."

"I will offer no resistance to this villainous oppression," said Leicester, "on the condition that I am not kept in confinement, and am allowed to mingle with and assist your crew."

The Yankee thought a moment and nodded.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes It and the Cough will Stop Itself

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heat the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you 18 ounces of the most pleasant and effective remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex.

It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent hoarse cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in pinic acid, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MRS. MABEN WAS MADE WELL

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Wants Other Suffering Women To Know It.

Murfreesboro, Tenn. — "I have wanted to write to you for a long time to tell you what your wonderful remedies have done for me. I was a sufferer from female weakness and displacement and I would have such tired, worn out feelings, sick headaches and dizzy spells. Doctors did me no good so I tried the Lydia E. Pinkham Remedies—Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. I am now well and strong and can do all my own work. I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and want other suffering women to know about it."—Mrs. H. E. MABEN, 211 S. Spring St., Murfreesboro, Tenn.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why Lose Hope. No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

"That's fair," he said. "And I agree, with this yere stipulation, that you comes no nonsense with my men none of yer pitching yarns or tempting to a mutiny."

Leicester smiled bitterly as he glanced at the villainous countenance of the crew.

"I give you that promise," he said. Leicester took off his coat, waistcoat, boots and stockings and quietly joined the crew at their task of setting the sails.

It was his wisest course of action, for had he been left idle and fettered with nothing to do but to think and dwell upon his position he must have gone mad.

It is a beautiful spring morning, and the London season is, like the time of year, just at its greenest and most verdant state.

This afternoon the Lady's Mile in the Park is tolerably full, and the loungers against the railings especially numerous.

At the corner, near the old elm, leans little Tommy Gossip; everybody knows Tommy, and, what is worse, Tommy knows everybody and everything.

"Who's that, my dear boy?" says Tommy, as a green chariot dashes by, in which are seated a stout elderly lady and a companion; "that's the Duchess of St. Clare, and he lifts his hat. 'She's the queen of fashion, my boy, and can make or mar a reputation with a word. Jingo! how she paints! Ha! And here Tommy Gossip brightens up into a state of mild excitement. 'Here she is!'"

"Who?" asked the lad at his side.

"Who? Why the beauty of the day, the new belle, the Ice Queen, as Madam White called her. By St. George, she grows more beautiful every day—and more pale."

And as he spoke he raised his hat, with an emphasis of reverence and eagerness, to an open carriage which slowly passed by.

In the carriage were seated three ladies.

Two of them were old, but one was superbly beautiful, with a beauty that was not only captivating but absorbing in its expression of pensive, resigned and dignified repose.

"There she goes! Look at the men. There's not a head covered, and there's not a heart, my boy, that would not jump out of its shoes at a smile from her. Who is she? Why she is the beauty and the belle and the mystery of London. Her name is Mildmay, Violet Mildmay, one of the old ladies with her is her aunt, Mrs. Mildmay, the other is a Mrs. Dodson—a relation of the family, some say, others a mother of that singular fellow, Leicester Dodson, Bertie Fairfax's sworn friend, who cut his throat down at some outlandish watering place. Look, you see those two genlemen, those riding toward us on horseback? That is Howard Murpoint, Esq."

"Which," said the boy, "the old one?"

"No, the young one; the old gentleman is Mr. Dodson, poor Leicester's father. No, the young one; watch his face, my lad, for it is the face of a great man. That man can command millions. He is chairman of the great Confederated Credit Company, and director of half a hundred companies besides."

At that moment, while Mr. Gossip was running on to the delight of the lad, a tall, golden-haired man came slowly by.

Tommy Gossip caught his arm as he passed.

"Hello, Bert, back again! Dine with us at the Thebesus to-night?"

"I can't, I'm busy," said our old friend. "I'm very sorry. Ah, there is Miss Mildmay," and, dragging himself from the gossip he made his way to the carriage.

Barely two years had elapsed since the time of that tragedy in the little watering place of Penruddle, and wonderful changes had come about.

Captain Howard Murpoint, no longer known as captain, but as Howard Murpoint, Esq., M. P., is, or is supposed to be, one of the great capitalists of the day.

How he has made his money and found his position is a mystery and a marvel.

And what of Violet? Has she forgotten her love-passion? Has she forgotten her ill-fated lover?

Look at her face, and see if it is the face of a woman that forgets.

None know how much she remembers, how much of the past she still clings to.

To no one, not even to Mrs. Dodson, whom she loves as a daughter loves her mother, does she ever mention that familiar name.

"Leicester" may be graven on her heart, but it never passes her lips.

We shall see her to-night, for there is a ball, the first of the season, at the Duchess of St. Clare's, at which she will be present, in company with the elite, including Bertie Fairfax.

Bertie Fairfax, the favorite of the club and the drawing-room. Still the handsome Apollo Belvedere, but not quite the light-hearted, free, laughing fellow as of old.

He is a celebrated man, an author of great repute, whom men point out to their sons as a modern genius, and to procure whom at their balls and dinners women will do much.

Bertie was fond of a dinner once and loved a ball, but it seems now as if "mad delighted him not, nor woman either," at least not women.

He will always go to a ball or a dinner if he is sure that Lady Ethel Lackland will be present.

For the rest, he spends his life, writing hard, in those very set of chambers which his dear friend Leicester shared with him, and which his spirit still visits.

There is to be a crowd at Clare House to-night, and Bertie will see Ethel—perhaps speak to her.

As he leans against the Mildmay's carriage he tells Violet that he will be there, and he knows by the gentle smile with which she looks down at him that she knows why.

"I am so glad," she says. "Will you look out for me? Lady Boisdale will not be there till eleven."

There is indeed a crowd at Clare House. The huge staircases are one great crush, the saloons a scene of warfare.

To dance is almost impossible, save to those young and ardent votaries of Terpsichore who are willing to whirl in the mazy waltz reckless of their own distress and other people's toes.

Still, however, there is breathing and moving room in some of the corridors, and thither many have taken refuge.

Violet dances and she sings, and laughs sometimes, but not as she did of old.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scrub will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.

The earl and Howard Murpoint were alone in a corner.

"A great crush," said the earl, stroking his white mustache. "The young people seem to be enjoying themselves, which brings me to the remark that you ought to be classed with the juveniles, Mr. Murpoint."

And he looked at the capitalist with a cold smile.

"I am not very old, certainly," said Howard Murpoint. "Some would call me very young."

"For so successful a man," put in the earl, with another smile. "The successful man bowed."

"I have had my fair share of fortune," said Howard Murpoint, "but perhaps like Sempronius, I have done more than deserve success—worked for it. That reminds me, my lord, that you have not yet made up your mind to join us in the new Penwain mines."

He glanced at the earl as he spoke, then looked away to the ballroom with a careless air.

"Eh—hem!" said the earl, "you wish my name to appear on the list of directors."

"Exactly," said Mr. Howard Murpoint. "An earl pleases, and—pardon me, my lord—soothe the monetary public, as you are aware."

The earl frowned, if a slight contraction of the eyebrows can be called a frown.

"I am already on the board of several of your companies, Mr. Murpoint, at your request."

"Certainly at my request, my lord; but you have not undertaken any responsibility, and I trust, have found your reward."

"Eh? Yes," said the earl. "To put it plainly, I have received certain shares as an equivalent for the use of my name, and they have paid tolerably well."

"Very well, I think," said Howard Murpoint, with quiet and smiling emphasis.

"Tolerably well," resumed the earl, as if he had not been interrupted.

"But as you seem to attach so much importance to my—the fact of my name appearing on the list of the Penwain Mine Company, it has occurred to me that—ahem!—it may be worth more than I receive for it. I speak plainly."

"I am honored by your candor," said Howard Murpoint, with a crafty smile. "You have forgotten while enumerating the equivalents received some slight service which I have been enabled to render you."

"Loans, my dear sir," said the earl, "loans; which, of course, I shall pay. Merely loans."

It was Mr. Murpoint's turn to "ahem!"

German Strength Weakening.

The German power of making a successful offensive movement on an extensive scale seems to have been broken. In the West, the Germans are held up along a line of some 250 miles, and sporadic attempts to concentrate and break through the line of the Allies are promptly met and repulsed with severe loss to the attacking forces. Behind the lines of the Allies the French are making great efforts to prepare for a big offensive, and British troops and supplies are being sent across the Channel on a most extensive scale. There can be no doubt that preparation on a most extensive scale for a great movement are under way. When, where and how it will be launched is a matter of speculation which it is futile to undertake. In the East, the big attempts by the Germans to effect something decisive before they are called upon to meet the big bolts from Joffre and French have been again frustrated. The Russians have successfully established themselves over the border in East Prussia, and the German attempt to drive them back has failed. The Russians have also cleared the Germans from the northern banks of the Vistula beyond its confluence with the Bzura and after crossing this tributary have established themselves on the left bank of this tributary. The gigantic move on Warsaw, launched weeks ago, the latest phase of which was the six day's attack near Bereznow, appears to have been a costly failure to the Germans, and the report now comes that the Germans are hastily evacuating Lodz and falling back on Kalisz. Further south, the assistance obtained by Hungary from Germany in the way of troops and officers to stem the Russian advance into the plains of Hungary has proved ineffective. At all these points, Russian reports show that the casualties of German forces have been exceptionally heavy. The significance of the situation arises from the fact that while the Germans and Austrians are failing to obtain decisive victories on either front, the Russian millions are massing behind a line of some 600 to 800 miles in length, while the French and British are massing their millions behind a line of 250 miles long. Under these circumstances the decision must be obtained by the combatants who can bring the bigger forces to bear. In this respect the future is with us. The resources of men, money and supplies are with the allies, and it would appear that the pressure is now being severely felt by the Germans on both fronts.

NOON.

ABSOLUTE MASTERS OF THE DUNES.

LONDON, To-day. A correspondent at Boulogne of the London Telegraph says from exceedingly reliable source I am in a position to state the Allies are now masters of the Dunes, little by little the German offensive movement has been changed and after a short defensive they gave way before the allied troops. With regard to the district about Ostend, the Germans have become greatly alarmed at their position. Large reinforcements arrived daily at Ostend from Bruges.

USE OF NATIONAL FLAGS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The Government to-day sent a note to Great Britain, making friendly observations on the use by British ships of neutral flags. At the same time the Government despatched a communication to Germany, inquiring what steps would be taken by German naval commanders to verify the identity of ships flying neutral flags in the recently proclaimed zones of war around England and Ireland. The American Government points out how a frequent and continued use of this strategem might cast a doubt on the character of vessels really entitled to fly the American flag and produce dangers, to which neutral ships ought not to be subjected on the high seas and in unblockaded waters. In the note to Germany, it is understood the United States asked how the German Admiralty proposed to carry out in practice its recent proclamation of war on merchant ships and its warning that on account of the misuse of neutral flags by belligerent vessels neutral ships could not always be distinguished when an attack was made. Both notes are brief and couched in a friendly spirit. Neither makes a protest, but each points out how recent developments may seriously embarrass the voyages of neutral ships on the high seas which always have been considered free to them in times of war as well as peace.

EVACUATING LODZ.

PARIS, To-day. The evacuation of Lodz by the Germans, has been confirmed, according to a Petrograd despatch, which states that the stores, the offices of the Commissariat and transports are being removed hastily to Kalisz.

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE IMPORTANT CAPTURES.

ST. OMER, France, To-day. The capture of the hill of Notre Dame de Lorette, by the French has been announced at headquarters here. The hill which dominates the entire region, has been fiercely disputed for weeks. A position captured by the British close to Violanes Station was one of considerable importance. It overlooked Le Bassoe. The Germans made several attempts to re-capture it but the British troops held strongly fortified lines and repulsed these attacks with heavy slaughter. The British captured on Sunday night two trenches near Eastbert, taking 500 prisoners who belonged apparently to the newest class of German recruits. Nearly all of them were young and wore new uniforms.

HEALTH UNIMPROVED.
Rev. Fr. Donnelly, formerly Parish Priest at Holywood, who has been away for the benefit of his health the past three years, came by the Stephano yesterday from New York. During his absence he spent some time in a sanitarium, but without improvement to his health. On arrival yesterday he was brought to the home of his aunt, on Monkstown Road, in the ambulance.

If you catch a cold in time—before it has gained any great hold upon you—you can almost always sweep it away by means of Ammoniated Quinine. The handiest way of taking this reliable drug is in capsule form, and we have it put up in tins of convenient size. These capsules are tasteless, and there is no difficulty in swallowing them. Price 35 cents a box.
Has your shaving brush come nearly to the end of its usefulness? If so, throw away the stump, and let us sell you a new one. We have some very nice ones, perhaps the best selection in town, at prices ranging from 15 cents to $4 each.

One of Mr. J. L. Toole's little jokes gave Mr. Justice Hawkins a great fright on one occasion, according to a story told by Miss Emily Soldene in her "Recollections."

Mr. Hawkins was sitting in a cause celebre at the Liverpool Assizes, and Mr. Toole was playing at one of the Liverpool theatres. The judge went across to say he was sitting late, and would Mr. Toole come over after the performance and have supper with him? Mr. Toole accepted the invitation.

During supper, talking over the events of the day, Mr. Justice Hawkins said he should next day "give his man fifteen years."

"Oh," said Toole, on leaving, "would you mind me calling at the different morning newspaper offices and telling them about the 'fifteen years'? It will be a tip for them and do me no end of good with the press—exclusive information, you know, and so on."

"Good gracious, no, sir!" thundered the judge, and walked with Toole to his hotel, tucked him up, and waited until the joker was fast asleep and safe from temptation.

The Prussian Outlaw.

Llewellyn A. Atherley-Jones, K.C., since 1885 a member of the British House of Commons, for many years Recorder of Newcastle, and a well-known publicist, recounts in the London Times the adventures of Germany against rules and conventions to which she is herself a signatory. The counts in Mr. Atherley-Jones' indictment are as follows:

"The population of a territory not occupied by the enemy which takes up arms to resist the invaders shall be regarded as belligerents if they conform to the usages of war (Art. 2, Hague Conference). As in the war of 1870, the Germans have not only executed without trial 'war-rebels' but inhabitants in unoccupied territory resisting invasion.

"The emblem of the Red Cross shall secure immunity and protection. (Geneva Convention.) The Germans have in several instances disregarded this rule.

"There must be no improper use of the uniform of the enemy (Hague Conference, Art. 53.) The Germans have frequently used the uniform of the enemy in approaching to attack and otherwise.

"By a majority The Hague Convention unconditionally forbade projectiles from aircraft. Germany did not assent in the case of fortified places, but conceded that they must not be used against undefended places. She has cast bombs indiscriminately in undefended towns and slain women and children.

"The destruction of enemy's property, unless imperatively demanded by the necessities of war, is prohibited (Hague Conference, 23). Devastation is only permitted to deprive armed forces of sustenance and harbage. The many memorable instances of ruthless destruction and devastation by the Germans need no comment.

"The tasks of prisoners of war shall have nothing to do with the operations of war (Hague Conference, Art. 7). If reiterated reports are to be credited, military and even civil prisoners have been compelled to work in the construction of trenches. It is just to add that in their treatment of prisoners the Germans have otherwise acted with humanity and consideration.

"The attack or bombardment by any means whatever of towns, villages, dwellings or buildings, which are undefended is prohibited. When defended places are bombarded the commander of the attacking force should, before bombardment, do all in his power to warn the authorities. (Hague Conference, Art. 25.) All necessary steps must be taken to spare buildings devoted to religion, science, art, and charity. (Hague Conference, 27.) Louvain, Rheims and many other beautiful towns of Belgium and France tell their own tale.

"In the case of naval bombardment, there is special provision against bombardment of undefended places, and in the event of naval or military works or plant being in an undefended place due notice of bombardment must be given, and reasonable time allowed for the local authorities to destroy such places or things. (Hague Conference, 25.) Scarborough, Whitby and Hartlepool.

"An army in occupation shall only levy contributions and make requisitions on inhabitants' and communes for the needs of the army in occupation, and payment must be made or receipts given. (Hague Conference, 49.) The Germans, in violation of this rule, have in some cases, without any pretext, levied extravagant contributions.

"No general penalty, pecuniary or otherwise, can be inflicted on the population on account of individual acts for which it cannot be considered as collectively responsible. (Hague Conference, 50.) The Germans, on account of alleged resistance by individuals, have indiscriminately slaughtered the inhabitants."

Death of Prof. D. A. O'Flynn.

Newfoundlanders at home and abroad will be grieved to learn that a message was received from Grand Falls yesterday announcing the death of Professor D. A. O'Flynn.

Prof. O'Flynn was born in Harbor Grace sixty-six years ago, his father, Mr. Michael O'Flynn, being master cooper in that town for many years, carrying on a very extensive trade which gave employment to thirty journeymen. As a small boy Prof. O'Flynn displayed truly wonderful musical talent, inherited, no doubt, from his father, who was also a musician of marked ability. At an early age the professor was sent to St. John's, where he studied under the most famous masters of music, amongst whom was Thomas Mullock, brother of the illustrious prelate, Rt. Rev. Dr. Mullock, Bishop of St. John's. After finishing his term he returned to Harbor Grace and was appointed organist of that grand monument of ecclesiastical architecture, the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception of that town, by the Rev. Dr. Dalton, first Bishop of the diocese. He held the position until the destruction of the beautiful Cathedral, and with it the Grand Organ, on the 2nd September, 1889. He then came to St. John's, where he remained until about two years ago, when he went to Grand Falls, where his son holds a responsible position.

David A. O'Flynn was a gentleman of education and culture, deep research, as well as a brilliant and interesting conversationalist. He was an omnivorous reader and his descriptive powers were of a very high order. But it was as a musician that he excelled, and it may be said that he was born one, and his whole heart was in his work. One circumstance occurred about forty-five years ago which left a lasting impression upon the mind of the writer of this brief tribute to our talented fellow-countryman (unique in the history of our country), and that was during the celebration of High Mass by the late Rt. Rev. Dr. Dalton. Six of the O'Flynn family, father, three sons and two daughters sang the Gloria, whilst the deceased professor presided at the organ. Truly they were a musical family.

Whilst in Harbor Grace the professor was instructor to the Total Abstinence Band, and it was nothing unusual to see him take the first instrument to hand and take his place in the ranks. All instruments were alike to him, and many of his pupils, both in our own country, the United States and Canada, have been known for their proficiency in music, which was instilled into them by the late professor. As a composer and writer of music he had few equals and no superiors, and one of his last acts in life was to write off and send to our Volunteers of the 1st Regiment, now at Fort George, Inverness, Scotland, the music of our grand old national melody, the "Banks of Newfoundland."

For some years he was musical instructor to the Catholic Cadet band and Total Abstinence band, as well as instructor to the pupils of St. Bonaventure's College and organist of St. Patrick's church, Riverhead, of this city. We all remember the prominent place he took in the sacred concerts of this city, and the sweet music that filled the Cathedral under the magic touch of the talented master. It would be a great loss to the country if his vast collection of music (much of it his own composition) were to be lost.

Of the large family of brothers and sisters only one now remains, viz., Mrs. M. Scanlan, residing in New York for the past twenty years. The late learned and energetic parish priest of Little Bay, the Rev. Stephen O'Flynn, who died about twenty years ago, was a brother of deceased.

The deceased gentleman was of a somewhat retiring disposition, but once the ice was broken, his pleasing personality, his rectitude of principle, purity of thought and innate nobility and grandeur of soul drew insensibly towards him all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance as with the greatest charm. He was organist of the church at Grand Falls up to his demise.

A fervent and practical son of Holy Church he died fortified by the rites, surrounded by his wife and children, mourned by his numerous relatives, and regretted by his hosts of friends, amongst whom he was such a favorite and who shall miss the kind and pleasing voice of the deceased gentleman, whose only thought was to be of benefit to all and injure none. It is probable that the remains will be brought to Harbor Grace for interment in the family plot in the Roman Catholic Cemetery, to rest beside the remains of his parents, brothers and sisters who have predeceased him. Requiescat in pace.—Com.

WORKMAN DEPORTED.—A Newfoundland, who had been working at Halifax where he became insane, came by the Stepano yesterday and was brought to the Lunatic Asylum.

IF THEY UNDERSTOOD.

Here's a simple rule—oh, heed it, as adown this world you tread—write y o u r name so man can stand it without standing on his head. We all get so many letters bearing s i g natures so vile, that we tear our hair and sweaters when we ought to sing and smile! When you make your name a jumble of fool flourishes and twists, the receiver's apt to grumble, "He has jimjams in his wrists!" If your pen's a chronic skidder, making flourishes like those, you should pause once and consider how on others you impose. For it sets their nerves a-jangle, conning crazy signatures, striving hard to disentangle calligraphic stunts like ours. And they say, "What nerve it is'n, that he thus takes up our time! He should spend ten years in prison for his writing is a crime!" Some in dilge in crazy writing, thinking that it's rather smart, but the reader's life it's blighting, and it breaks some weary heart. Men will cuss you fully freely, if your signature's insane; do not try to write like Greeley till you have a Greeley's brain.

With Gloves and Without.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"It's easy enough to get along with a man," said the much married lady oracularly, "if you only learn to handle him with gloves." The e could-not-be-read-y-to-be-married girl listened with a toss forward of her firm, little chin.

"But suppose you don't like to wear gloves all the time?" said she. "Suppose you don't like the feeling of them?"

The much married lady looked her wonder at such heresy.

"It's the only way to get along with most men," she reiterated.

"But is it the right way?" asked the girl.

"Why, of course," said the much married lady. She is one of those people to whom what is, is always right.

But is it the right way, reader friend?

"Is it heresy to dislike being forced to wear figurative gloves all the time?"

What Do We Mean by "Gloves"?

Of course that depends more or less on the meaning of "gloves."

If they mean tact and consideration, that's one thing.

If they mean constant humoring, constant submission to unfairness and rampant selfishness, merely because submission is easier, that's quite another thing.

Men have to give consideration if they expect to receive it in business, then why not at home in the business of living?

"Home should be restful for a hard-working man," says the exponent of the handle-with-gloves school of wives.

Giving a Man the Right to Be a Bully.
By "restful" I take it you mean a man should have full right in his home to bully, to blow off the irritation he has accumulated during the day, and to generally make everyone in the home feel painful necessity of handling him with gloves, just as we do anything scratchy, or disagreeable, or poisonous.

Beware, no man who is given that right fails to take advantage of it. Moreover in so doing he loses as much happiness for himself as he spoils for others, which is saying a great deal.

The happiest homes are those in which neither party has to handle the other with gloves, but each is glad to treat the other with tact, with consideration, and with that sensitive understanding which is the fine flower of a true love.

Questions and Answers.
Question. "Don you think it is right for me to use the interest of my money for household expenses? My husband is hard working, sober and honest, but his wages are small. It seems right to me, but I have a chum who is similarly placed, and she tells her husband 'what's mine is mine, and what's yours is ours.'"

Reply. Certainly I should use my interest money to help my husband out. Aren't you two partners? But I shouldn't get into the habit of touching the principal unless absolutely necessary. Keep that as a nucleus for other savings.

Question. "My two brothers are keeping company with two girl friends of mine to whom I introduced them, but they never introduce any of their boy friends to me, and I have no chance to make such friends. Don't you think they ought to be more considerate?"

Reply. Certainly they should. A thoughtful brother will see that his sister has a chance to meet worthy, while male friends, but most boys, you know, aren't by nature thoughtful. Can't you intimate your feelings to them? They might be glad to help

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED JEAN BAPTISTE TAPP.

Quebec Man who Suffered from Kidney Disease for Years is Again a Robust, Healthy Man.

L'Anse-a-Valleau, Gaspé Co., Que. Feb. 10th. (Special)—"I am happy to tell you (Dodd's) Kidney Pills made me well." So says Jean Baptiste Tapp, a well known and highly respected resident of this place. And so thankful is Mr. Tapp for the benefits he has received from Dodd's Kidney Pills that he wants the whole world to know it. He wants others who suffer as he did to know the cure.

"For many years I suffered from kidney disease," Mr. Tapp says. "It started from a cold, and gradually grew worse. My skin had a harsh, dry feeling, my appetite was fitful and I perspired freely with the slightest exertion. I had flashes of light before my eyes and I was always tired and nervous."

"Finally rheumatism was added to my troubles, while attacks of sciatica and neuralgia followed. The doctor who attended me and the medicines I tried, failed to help me till I decided to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took four boxes in all, and to-day I am a robust man in excellent health."

All Mr. Tapp's troubles came from sick kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them.

The new parasols are much puckered, puffed and shirred in every direction.

Crescent Picture Palace.

The programme presented at the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday was one of the finest yet given by this popular house and attracted large crowds at both afternoon and evening shows.

"The Stranger at Hickory Nut Gap" produced by the I. M. P. Company and featuring Wm. Shea, as the Revenue Officer, is a splendid picture and deals with the moonshiners in Old Kentucky.

"His Servant," an Eclair drama with A. O. C. Lund, as the faithful servant, is perhaps one of the best stories yet presented by this popular company, and for good, clear acting cannot be surpassed.

The comedy element is well looked after by the Powers Company in "A Bad Egg" and the Joker Company in "Pay the Rent." These two are high class comedies and they kept the audience in rōars from start to finish.

This show will be repeated to-day with a new song by J. O'Neil Farrell. Don't fail to take it in.

Congregational Sociable.

A large gathering attended the sociable held in the Lecture Room of the Congregational Church last night.

An interesting programme was gone through in which the following took part:—Mrs. Stranger, Misses E. Johnson, J. Strang, Fennell Jones, Mitchell, Curtis, Steele, Duley; Messrs. Ruggles, R. Steele, King, Watson and Seymour.

The several items were well received, each performer having to respond to an encore. Following the concert refreshments were served by the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. A sale of candies was also held during the evening and the proceeds of the affair were quite satisfactory.

Fads and Fashions.

Wooden beads are appearing. Buttons are still a fashionable trimming.

Dolly Varden effects will be very fashionable. Circular brooches are having a decided vogue.

Traffets is coming into use again for petticoats. Dress shields may now be had in true flesh tint.

Smart top coats continue to flare at the bottom. The chiffon blouse is smart for afternoon wear.

Black and white are certain to return to favor. A revival of the "gate top" handbag is promised.

Your suit skirt should have fullness this season. The new, quaint, full skirts are made of soft silks.

Organdie will be a great favorite in cotton materials. Bouton caps have large bows made of wide ribbon.

Simplicity is the keynote of the new shirtwaist styles.

Give the Miller His Due, Mrs. Housewife

If he selects his wheat—
Washes, brushes and scours it—
Grinds it 20 times, so the granules are all alike—

Sifts it 10 times through silk, so you get only utterly perfect flour—

Then bakes a batch from every lot before it leaves the mill—

He deserves Recognition.
It is fair to you and fair to him that you specify his flour.

That's why we tell you of Gold Medal Flour.

We do it to better your baking—to give you more for your money—and to win a bigger place.

And, because we have done it, more homes use Gold Medal than any other flour in existence.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Quite a large foreign mail arrived by last night's train, and our postal officials were kept busy this forenoon.

A young man of this town who is not noted for early rising, excelled himself on Sunday morning when he got up at 2 o'clock. It might be just as well to explain that while saying his prayers on Saturday night he fell asleep and only woke at 2 a.m. when he "got up" to go to bed.

Your correspondent Mary, is in error for once at least, when she referred to the desirability of having the public building open on Sunday mornings. The building has all the time been opened from 8 to 10 a.m. Sundays.

Mrs. John E. Tucker, after spending a pleasant visit to friends here, expects to return to her home at St. John's to-morrow (Wednesday).

Mr. C. Pike, of M. Simmonds' grocery store, has been confined to his home the past week with a heavy cold.

Mr. Frank Davis, of the Bank of Nova Scotia, left for Burin on Friday last, to relieve the manager of the bank there.

Now that it has been thought necessary to send special constables to the different Cable Stations to have "an eye to the cable," would it not be well to have a couple of officers to look after the Cable Station here? There is no person living in the Company's house and it might be an easy matter to do mischief if an attempt were made. We hope soon to see some arrangements made. No need to worry about men for the work, as there are a number here who would be glad to earn a dollar or two.

CORRESPONDENT.

Hr. Grace, Feb. 9th, 1915.

Mount Cashel Concert.

The annual entertainment, in aid of Mount Cashel Orphanage, was held at the Casino, and was largely attended, amongst those present being His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Roche, V. G., Adm., and several of the city clergy. The program was a most enjoyable one, and included selections from the following ladies and gentlemen: Misses G. Strang, Mary Ryan, Louise Anderson, Jean Strank, Mary Morris, Johnson, Messrs. McCarthy, Cameron, Ruggles, Hutton, Slattery, O'Neill and Master O'Leary. The Mount Cashel boys danced the Irish jig and Highland Fling in their usual style, and were much applauded, while the gun exercises were gone through with creditable precision and skill. The orchestral selections by the C. C. C. Band, under Capt. Arthur Bulley, were pleasingly rendered and added much to the evening's entertainment.

Help the Poor.

The entertainment which takes place at the Casino to-night should be largely patronized, since the object is a most deserving one. This city has already responded nobly to the calls of the Empire in the sacrifice of men and money. Our troops, and our brave Allies, the Belgians, have been provided for in a manner that has merited much favourable comment from abroad. To-night the people of St. John's will have an opportunity of assisting in the alleviation of much distress in the city, caused by lack of employment.

The entertainment is a most enjoyable one and as the cause is such a deserving one, we bespeak a full house.

Big Snow Fall

AND HARD TIMES IN U. S. From passengers who came from New York by the S. S. Stephano, we learn that an unusually heavy fall of snow occurred at Brooklyn, N. Y., this day last week and as a result traffic was practically demoralized. We also hear that on account of the war there are thousands of people out of employment in the American cities and most of them can be seen going around the street in distress and Associations are being established for the relief of the distressed. The big snow blockade, as above referred to, gave a few days' work to hundreds of men. Altogether times in the States are hard.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

Nothing too good for the West End and last night this unique little theatre was positively packed all night, notwithstanding the other amusements, and concert in the T. A. Hall. The dainty little Aneta, child vocalist, who receives encores at each show, in her bugle song is well liked. We feel sure the next change will be even better: a great war song "The Same Old Flag," in character costume. The pictures are talked of because there are many new and beautiful specimens shown. Mr. Rosley has just made arrangements with the great Elliott firm whose pictures made such a sensation in Europe; different to anything ever seen here before. West End patrons don't forget the Cinderella pantomime.

"War Prices" of 100 Years Ago.

A hundred years ago much of Europe was also at war and prices of food were soaring much as they are today.

In the unearthing of an old day-book kept by Abraham Pickett, a storekeeper of Edwardsville, Ill., an interesting side light is thrown on the retail selling prices of some of the necessities of life in this state nearly a hundred years ago.

This document, as quoted by the "Industrial Grocer," and bearing the initial date July 14, 1815, gives an idea of what the men and women of Illinois bought the year after the state was born and what they had to pay. One entry explains why wooden pegs were used instead of nails in the building of houses and barns. The charge for 100 pounds of four-penny nails was $34, or nearly 38 cents a pound.

In 1819 beef and pork were 4 to 6 cents a pound and flour $8 to $12 a barrel. Corn was worth 33 to 50 cents a bushel and wheat $1. These cereals dropped in the market next year to 15 cents for corn and 37 cents for wheat.

One entry shows that the housewife had to pay $1.25 for five pounds of sugar. Another entry on the same day showed that one brand of sugar cost 23 1-3 cents a pound and that pepper brought at retail 27 1/2 cents a pound.

Items for wine scattered here and there through the book indicate that the beverage sold for $6 a gallon and that home-made brandies brought a like return to the merchant. Empty bottles were not thrown into alleys or garbage barrels a hundred years ago. For a quart receptacle of this kind 25 cents was charged. In other words, the bottle was worth two-thirds as much as the whiskey it held.

One bridle cost $2, a pair of moccasins 50 cents, seven pines of glass $1.31, a pitcher 87 1/2 cents, a teacaddy $1, and a pound of tea $4.—Canadian Grocer.

A Treat to the Orphans

Again Mr. Rosley invited the various orphanages to see the pantomime and how the youngsters enjoyed it. The kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Rosley ought to be long remembered, for the poor little orphan children have seen each change of pantomime, and the Rosleys themselves say they work twice as hard when they have an audience of little folk, and the delight of the children knew no bounds. A kind and thoughtful act.

A Night With the Allies.

Is the title of the new patriotic production by the Rosley Company, and it's safe to say it will be all right. We know of the elegant display when Mrs. Rosley presented the last military play, and this, the last of the season, will be better still. Last night the Rosley Theatres, East and West, were packed. Cinderella seems the lucky pantomime, for the large crowd enjoyed it more than ever. Last night Jack Rosley, as Sister Jemima, was one long laugh. It's a great pantomime and the songs the best ever heard; the dances original, dainty and beautifully performed. The pictures, too, are fully up to the high class of perfection with the rest of the entertainment. While the music by Mr. A. Crocker and Mr. Jago is worth more than the price of admission.

A Chant of Love for England.

This "Chant of Love" was suggested by Ernest Lisauer's "Chant of Hate," familiar through the spirited version of Mrs. Archibald Henderson:

A song of hate is a song of Hell; Some there be that sing it well, Let them sing it loud and long, We lift our hearts in a loftier song; We lift our hearts to Heaven above, Singing the glory of her we love,— England!

Glory of thought and glory of deed, Glory of Hampden and Runnymede; Glory of the ships that sought far goals,

Glory of swords and glory of souls! Glory of songs mounting as birds, Glory immortal of magical words; Glory of Milton, glory of Nelson, Tragical glory of Gordon and Scott; Glory of Shelly, glory of Sidney, Glory transcendent that perishes not, Hers is the story, hers be the glory, England!

Shatter her beauteous breast ye may; The Spirit of England none can slay! Dash the bomb on the dome of St. Paul's!

Deem ye the fame of the Admiral falls? Pry the stone from the chancel floor, Dream ye that Shakespeare shall live no more?

Where is the giant shot that kills Wordsworth walking the old green hills? Trample the red rose on the ground, Keats is Beauty while earth spins round.

Bind her, grind her, burn her with fire, Cast her ashes into the sea.— She shall escape, she shall aspire, She shall arise to make men free: She shall arise in a sacred song, Lighting the lives that are yet unborn;

Spirit supernal, Splendor eternal! — Helen Gray Coné, in the Atlantic.

WHAT PRIVATE BROWN SAYS.

A stirring story of an heroic stand on the part of the 2nd Coldstream Guards is told by Private F. Brown, an ex-Maidenhead policeman.

In opening, Brown says: "We had a very rough Christmas. Talk about shaking hands with the Germans! I can tell you that the boys of No. 4 Company of the 2nd Coldstreamers are not so fond of them. I have given my experience of their outrages on defenceless women to a Special Commissioner. They aren't fit to place on paper."

"On December 22nd we received orders to advance, as the Germans had broken through the French lines. At dawn we let them have it, and drove them back and took their advance trenches. They were reinforced, and a terrible fight commenced, and lasted till Christmas night. We were told that it was important that we should hold their advance trenches, and hold them we did, although God knows why."

"They had something up their sleeve. As it was getting dark on the 23rd and they found they could not drive us out with bombs, etc., they broke a great dyke and tried to drown us out. But they found that it took more than cold streams to beat the Coldstreamers. The water was about four feet deep in our trenches, and they (the enemy) started a night attack, thinking that we should never stick the night in four feet of water and freezing very hard."

"But our boys didn't half let them have it! The German cries were terrible. They tried for about four hours, and then retired beaten. The only thing that worried me was our poor wounded. When they fell I am sorry to say they were drowned. Try as we would we could not save them. The next day our 3rd Battalion came up behind us and dug trenches. They worked like mad, and before dawn they had finished and relieved us."

PLAYING HER CARDS, NATURALLY (From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

That Germany is deliberately trying to foster trouble between the United States and Great Britain should occasion no surprise. Tactically it is the logical thing for Germany to do, the thing that the precedents of ages recommends, the thing that England expected Germany to attempt. For months Germany has been looking for some pretext that could be so exaggerated as to arouse resentment in this country against the Allies. And quite naturally, failing to find such a pretext, she will do her utmost to create one. A board of strategy that neither balked nor gagged at letting loose all the Moslem fanatics and dervishes upon the Christian world would hardly hesitate to break the 100 years of peace that have existed among the English-speaking nations. Forewarned should mean forearmed. The Administration cannot be unaware of the motives and hopes that lie behind and control the stage of the present international situation. President Wilson's neutrality must be as impartial and real in effect as it was prompt and emphatic in enunciation. The United States has too much at stake, is too essential to the work of world reconstruction after the war is over, and is far too wise and just, to be drawn into a false position by the designs of any of the European combatants. America is genuinely committed to neutrality and must not violate it on any terms.

The Nova Scotia "Lumber King" says:

"I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT the best LINIMENT in use."

I got my foot badly jammed lately. I bathed it well with MINARD'S LINIMENT and it was as well as ever next day.

Yours very truly,

COPPER IN WAR.

An English military writer, enumerating the various uses of copper in war, says: "First and foremost, of course, are the cartridge cases for rifles. The alloy of copper and zinc from which rifle cartridge cases are drawn is so thin that the metals must be very pure to insure against flaws. Then there are cartridge cases for the quick-firing guns. These also require the highest quality copper and zinc, since they must be exact to a 500th part of an inch and gas tight. On shells there are copper bands encircling the steel to insure close fitting in the rifling. Pure copper is the only substance known that gives satisfactory results. For field telephones copper wire is indispensable. Indeed, in the electrical industry generally there is an enormous consumption of copper. The windings on dynamos, for instance, are all copper. Thousands of experiments with alternative substances have been tried, but all have failed."
