A New Novel by a New Writer.

The Honey Pot by Countess Barcynska. It is a story of the stage, and never perhaps have the expectations and disappointments of the aspirant for a successful stage career been more naturally described. Two girls, Maggie and Lexie, hold the interest throughout. They are excellently contrasted. Maggie, the daughter of an actress, having been associated with the stage from her earliest childhood and influenced by its freedom, while Lexie has been brought up in refinement and wants a career for the use of her talent. It is not too much to say that Maggie, the lovable and loving girl who, with all her worldly wisdom, falls a prey to the man who captures her fancy, is a triumph of characterization. Natural and human she is the heart of the book; but hardly less interesting is Lexie's stubborn fight with its happy ending and the many intimate pictures of the life of the chorus girl. The whole story rings true. Paper, 65c.; Cloth, 90c.

CHAPTER IV.

I am afraid that Percy Chester will have lost all chance of being considered heroic by some persons; for heroes never do anything wrong, are never weak, never vulnerable, never anything but impossibly virtuous and preposterously perfect. But Percy Chester was a man with about the usual characteristics of his sex, and among them that strong prepossession for a beautiful woman, and that dangerous faith in the sex as a whole which makes the wisest and coolest of men an easy prey to the least cunning of it. Still, however, he possessed a full share of anti-matrimonial prudence, was in no hurry to twist the chains of love about his handsome person, and almost determined as he rose the next morning to start for Scotland on the following day, and so fly from the fascinations of the most lovely face he had ever seen.

"Percy, my boy," he muttered to himself, nodding his head at the glass in a way that startled his somewhat nervous valet, "if while there is time, or those deep violet eyes will bring you down, as sure as fate."

Then he walked down to the stables, got on his horse, and trotted into the park as the clock struck nine. Of course he did not expect her at that time; he was too well acquainted with the attributes of the sex to expect punctuality from any member of it. So he turned into the Row, and padded up and down, his horse fretting and fuming for a gallop, and wondering what on earth all his usually equally restless master.

Presently Lillian Devigne came in sight, mounted on the new mare, and followed by a sedate groom, who touched his hat to Percy Chester the moment he saw him, and then kept at respectful distance, as much as to say: "I resign her to your care, sir," but with a glance at the mare which seemed to add, "Keep you eye on both of 'em."

For a moment the animal—a superb creature, with a beautiful head, and in supreme fettle—passed unnoticed; it was impossible to give a thought, good or bad, to her until her mistress had received recognition and admiration.

Fresh and ingenuous as a dairymaid yet graceful and high-bred as a duchess, looked Lillian Devigne that morning "through," too, in the plain habit that fitted as if it had grown upon her, and the plain, well-poised hat throwing up the sunshiny hair.

"Yes," thought Percy, as he took her hand and bent over it bareheaded, "there can be no doubt that she is the most beautiful woman I have ever seen; and she is here riding with me at nine in the morning!"

Can it be wondered at that a certain kind of gratification ran through him;

Gin Pills

FOR THE KIDNEYS

Why They're Bought

"I can certainly say the Gin Pills have done a lot of good for me.

Some four years ago I could not walk up stairs, my feet and ankles were so swollen, but I took three boxes of Gin Pills and the trouble has never returned. My mother, 52 years of age, is taking them and feels fine.

MRS. J. B. SALSBRURY, Camden East."

he was a man of flesh and blood not a statue of stone or wood.

"You see I am here," she said, with a smile.

"Yes, and I can scarcely believe my good fortune. I never doubted it more than ten minutes since."

"Ah, I was just finishing the battle with mamma. Dear mamma, she is too good. But there is no harm. It is so absurd. Do I not ride every morning? And if I am rather earlier than usual—"

"It is to be accounted a virtue, rather than otherwise," said Percy.

Then he dropped his dark, piercing—but now mustily admiring—eyes from her face to the horse.

"Ah!" she said; "is she not pretty and so quiet—just now. I suppose she is comparing notes as to their owners with your horse. She is not always so quiet. John had some trouble with her this morning; and she would scarcely let me mount because I touched her with the whip; playfulness, I suppose."

Percy did not answer; he was looking with experienced eyes at the peculiar twitch of the fine, sensitive ears. It might be playfulness certainly, but it looked very much like a nasty temper.

While they were speaking they had continued, pacing along the track, Percy drawing a little apart to watch the action of the mare; and so absorbed was he, that he almost forgot her mistress—only for the moment, however.

"I am quite nervous," said Lillian Devigne; "I am glad it is not I who is being criticized."

"You need have no qualms," he said, with his earnest gaze.

She dropped her eyes and pulled at her gaiter.

"Put her to a canter," he said, and with an instant obedience Lillian Devigne did as she was told.

Percy trotted at a little distance and then regained her side.

"Admirable!" he said, "she is as sound as a roach, and I hope, quiet."

"Are you sure?" she said, and with a little flash of the eye she dropped the end of her jeweled whip on the satin neck.

With her ears thrown back like a hare's, the mare started and dashed forward; but the rider was no novice, and held her well in. The start threw all the grace of both mistress and mare out to perfection; nothing was lost to the spectator.

"Let us have a gallop," said Percy; "I think she can go by the way she throws her forelegs out," and touching his horse with his hand away they went.

"This is glorious!" exclaimed Lillian Devigne, her head erect, her face exquisitely tinted with the bloom of a young and healthy woman, her eyes sparkling, and her sweet lips half parted.

"I do love a gallop! Oh, if I were a man I think I'd live in the saddle!"

"Do you wish to make a Cossack of me?" said Percy, in a low voice.

"I?" she responded, with a little gaze of wonder, "what should I—"

Then she broke off with a laugh.

"You would not make a bad one."

"Thanks," he retorted, with a smile; "I'll let my hair grow and cultivate trailing mustaches."

Her light, girlish laugh rang out softly. "Once more," she said, and again they flew over the noiseless tan.

"How I should like a race!" she breathed. "A real race, for life and death! to fly like the wind across a battle plain, with the whistle of a thousand bullets about one's ears."

Percy laughed gravely.

"It is not so nice as it sounds. I did it once in Greece, with a score of dirty cutthroats at my back, and—no it is not as nice as it seems."

"Greece!" she mused, pulling up into a walk, and drooping with exquisite grace into a meditative attitude.

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Words of Encouragement to Childless Women.

Motherhood is woman's natural destiny, but many women are denied the happiness of children simply because of some curable derangement.

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its marvelous power to overcome such derangements, as evidenced by the following letter:—

Worcester, Mass.—"I suffered from female ills, and was advised to have an operation, but a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and who has six children, told me to try it. It has helped me so much that I am now well and have a baby boy who is the picture of health, and I thank the Vegetable Compound for my restoration to health."

—Mrs. BERT GARVEY, 20 Hacker St., Worcester, Mass.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

"Yes," said Chester, "she goes well; how she frets at it. I think she could jump, Miss Devigne."

"Shall I try her?" she said, suddenly.

"No," he replied, promptly. "Not the first time."

"Why?" she asked, with an arch twinkle. "There is no danger. Let me put her at the rails."

"No, no," he said, but his words scarcely reached her, for, with a quick movement, she turned round and sent the mare at the rails. To herself and Percy's surprise, however, the animal refused point blank.

Something in the laugh, though it was not directed at her, seemed to jar on Lillian Devigne's ears, and the temper that lay hidden beneath the velvet of her manner rose hotly.

"She shall go," she said, and raising her whip gave the mare a cut across the shoulders.

With a nasty start the animal showed its vicious nature in a moment, reared for one second, then sprang off as if she had been an arrow discharged from a bow.

In an instant Percy had stuck the spurs into his own horse and was after her.

"Keep her well in hand!" he cried, gently, "and mind the turn!" he added, as a thought, a dread, flashed upon him.

She locked back for a moment with a little smile and nod, but he saw that her face was white to the lips, and his own set hard as he urged his horse in pursuit.

A minute or less and he was at her side; the mare, alarmed and irritated by the sound of the horse's breath so near her, cut short her gallop, and, shaking her head, began to prance about with the set purpose of hurling the rider.

"Sit firm! Sit firm!" said Percy, quietly, feeling, for the moment, an apprehension—only for the moment, however, for as he came nearer and was able to see Lillian Devigne's face under the shadow of the hat he saw that it was distorted by fear, and that the apparently composed woman had lost her head.

Indigestion Resulted From Bad Case of Inactive Liver

Experience Proved That Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Were Exactly What Was Needed.

If every sufferer from indigestion would study his case as did the writer of this letter the great majority would find sluggish action of the liver and bowels to be the cause of trouble.

It is then an easy step to finding a cure, for there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to awaken the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. With these organs performing their natural functions the system is thoroughly cleansed of all poisonous waste matter and the process of digestion is no longer impeded.

Mrs. W. L. Jones, Hill Spring, Alta., writes: "I have often thought I would write and tell you how much I appreciate Dr. Chase's medicine, especially Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I suffered terribly from indigestion and did not know what was the cause. I got to using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and was so improved that I began to study the malady. I found that the indigestion resulted from a bad case of inactive liver, and as soon as I got the liver working right, I didn't have any stomach trouble or indigestion, the nervous spells vanished and the 'blues' flew away. I am never sick now, but should the old trouble return, I know how to cure it quickly. There is a whole host of derangements which disappear when the liver is set right. Biliousness, indigestion, headache, irritability, constipation are a few of the more common results of torpid liver action. By the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you can control all such disorders. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bator & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Have You Given Your Stenographer a LINE-A-TIME?

WE have sold a number of them in the last month or two, and the testimonials we have received show the greatest enthusiasm over this little Machine that saves so much for the employer and the stenographer.

Were it not for the LINE-A-TIME hundreds of thousands of typists would have no prospect of relief from the nerve racking and health breaking practice of twisting their necks and shoulders, and straining their eyes a thousand times a day, over note books and record sheets.

Hundreds of thousands of employers would have to go on wrestling with the problem of how to increase the output of their typewriters without requiring more "work" from the operators.

The LINE-A-TIME has become widely popular with employers and office managers, not only as a money making labor saving invention, but as a humane device that increases output by removing a condition detrimental to the welfare of the operator.

THE PRICE IS $8.50.

We will gladly put in a LINE-A-TIME for a week or a month so that your stenographer can give it a trial. If at any time she does not like it, or you think it does not do all we claim for it, we will take it back and there will be no charge for the time you have had it.

Hundreds of thousands of employers would have to go on wrestling with the problem of how to increase the output of their typewriters without requiring more "work" from the operators.

The LINE-A-TIME has become widely popular with employers and office managers, not only as a money making labor saving invention, but as a humane device that increases output by removing a condition detrimental to the welfare of the operator.

THE PRICE IS $8.50.

We will gladly put in a LINE-A-TIME for a week or a month so that your stenographer can give it a trial. If at any time she does not like it, or you think it does not do all we claim for it, we will take it back and there will be no charge for the time you have had it.

"Westerland" Stock Exhibition.

Yesterday morning at the Parade Grounds the exhibition of animals bred from the stock of Westerland Farm, owned by Mr. Harold Macpherson, presented marked progress in the history of stock raising in the country. Never before was such a fine collection of animals gathered together for exhibition purposes, all of which were bred from the stallion "Bullington Statesman" and the bull "Brickkove Covenant," both animals owned by Westerland Farm. We are informed by persons interested in stock raising, who have visited many stock shows in the Maritime Provinces and the counties, who have yet to see a better showing than that which was presented yesterday. "Bullington Statesman" as he stood overlooking 30 of his large family is worthy of special mention, as never before has there been such a number of excellent stock bred from one beast exhibited here. Included in the large number of people present were His Excellency the Governor, the Misses Davidson, Sir William Howard, Hon. John Harvey, R. B. Job, John Browning, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Hon. S. D. Blandford, R. J. Doyereaux, Dr. Campbell, Geo. W. Gushie, Geo. E. Turner, A. Macpherson, R. G. Reid, Judge Johnson, C. McK. Harvey and others interested in stock raising. A large number of ladies were also present. Dr. McDonald of Halifax, an experienced stock man, acted as judge. His decisions were in every case satisfactory to all. The prizes, which were awarded by the Westerland Farm, were presented to the fortunate winners by Miss Davidson in a fearless and graceful manner, as it required extraordinary nerve for a lady to step in among such high spirited horses and fasten the ribbon to the bridle of the winner. The prizes were won by the following—

Best 2 Year Old—Mt. Cashel Bay Filly, $100.
Best Yearling—M. Butler, Seal Bay, $50.
Highly Commended 2 Year Olds Bay Mares—M. Butler, A. O'Neill, Jabez Butler (Manuels), Justice Johnson, Bay Colts—Thomas Kearsey, W. Clooney, John King and A. E. Parkins (brown).

Yearlings Highly Recommended—Bay Filly, A. V. Ross and Art O'Neill; Brown, D. Dalway; Bay Colts, C. Campbell, F. Steer and Peter Murray. Heifer or Bull (best 2 year old)—1st, A. V. Ross, Heifer, $20; 2nd, Geo. Thomas, Bull, $10.
Yearlings—1st, Albert Pearcey, $10; 2nd, H. R. Cook, $5.
Highly Commended 2 Year Olds—W. H. Tucker, St. Phillips; H. R. Cook, twin Heifers; Yearling, T. Bearns.

The points which assisted the judge in reaching his decisions were: Conformation, 30 p.c.; condition, 30 p.c.; gait, 20 p.c.; grit or spirit, 20 p.c. These were considered by the majority of competitors as a fair and just manner of judging the best points of a horse. We congratulate Mr. Harold Macpherson, to whom much credit is due, as the affair was entirely a private enterprise and successfully got up by that gentleman; and also Mr. A. E. Parkins and others who assisted in the work.

According to reports received by Bowring Bros. Ltd., from the ship, White Bay is blocked with ice and in consequence many reports there were omitted by the Prospero, which took an outside cut from Tilt Cove and went ten miles outside the Horse Islands and then the first port she made was Engle. Word was received this morning stating that the ship was then at St. Anthony, the ice was very heavy and the wind was E.N.E., still packing the ice tight together.

Sensational Story About an Ottawa Baby.

Chicago Woman Is Accused of Attempting to Foist Upon the Court a Child Not Her Own, as one of the Heirs to the Matters Fortune.

Chicago, May 19.—The "scurious heir" in the case of Mrs. Dottie Ledgerwood Matters, was a real "war baby," according to testimony given to-day in the trial of Mrs. Matters on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the probating of the estate of her late husband, Fred Matters, Illinois banker, and moving picture theatre owner. She is accused of attempting to foist upon the court a child not her own, as one of the heirs to the Matters fortune.

The testimony was given by a little Canadian girl from Ottawa who occupied the stand during a great part of to-day's session of the trial. She claims the baby is her own, and that it was taken from her at birth and given to Mrs. Matters by the officials of a hospital in Ottawa.

Jessie Bryan, whose real name is said to be Margaret Ryan, told in a weak voice how she had "kept company" in innocent fashion, with a young shoemaker. They were to wed. Then came the war and her sweetheart donned a uniform and shouldered a rifle.

A year or so ago much was written and spoken of the great wave of emotion which shook women of the belligerent countries as their men marched away to possible death. The elemental instincts brushed aside the conventions of centuries, and "war babies" became a problem.

It was thus with Jessie Bryan. Her lover sailed away with his comrades, and in May, 1915, the girl went to the Misericordia Hospital at Ottawa.

Not a juror took his eyes from the frank, round face of the girl as she told her story. It was not until she was asked, "Do you want your baby now?" that she broke down and cried unrestrainedly. The judge would not permit her to answer the question.

It was to this hospital that Mrs. Matters, according to testimony, came seeking an infant that she might pass off on the probate court as the posthumous child of her late husband, of whose estate she desired a larger share.

"We called her the millionaire lady," said the witness. "She had a private room."

The infant, a girl, was born July 24, 1915. It was a healthy and promising youngster, but the unwed mother was told that he was born dead. She was told her babe was a boy. The girl continued her story:

"I was taken into a private room. There was another woman there—married—and she asked me a lot of questions. I said I did not want to stay there. I wanted to go back to the poor ward, but the nurse said no. They brought me chicken on silver trays, and nice things I never had eaten before in my life."

"What happened August 3?"
"There were several babies to be christened. One was brought in to me and it was the most beautiful baby, dressed in beautiful clothes, and I asked whose it was. The nurse said: 'It's the millionaire lady's.'"

Jessie paused for a moment. Her features moved convulsively. "Then I began to cry," she added.

Four months passed before Jessie learned that the baby she had admired so much was alleged to be her own. "A chum," went on the witness, "read of the Matters case. She told me about it and I ran out of the house straight to the hospital. All the old Nuns were gone. I begged for the truth, but no one could tell me."

On cross-examination Joseph R. Burres, for Mrs. Matters, asked, "Did you tell Sister Celestine, the Mother Superior, that you wanted to abandon the baby?"

"I never did that; I wanted my baby."
"You want it now, don't you?" put in Attorney Ramsey, of the prosecution, but Mr. Burres objected, and a burst of sobs was the only reply the jury got.

You smoke all you want as often as you care to fire-up, without a comeback! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

Men, it's so easy to get on the right track for straight-ahead-action that it sure is due you to know how much you'll like

the international joy smoke

That tobacco appetite of yours, when it gets-going-good, is as eager as a baby's cry for milk! Right now, while you feel it digging in, make a straight line for the nearest store that sells tobacco! And get your P. A.! If your dealer cannot supply you, ask him to secure Prince Albert through his wholesaler.

Because Prince Albert, packed into a jimmy pipe or rolled into a makin's cigarette, taxes the joy-speed-limit! And you'll understand what that means the minute you put some P. A. next to a match! You'll get flavor and aroma and coolness that will set-to-rest-for-all-time any odd notions you ever hatched about pipe-pleasure or cigarette pleasure!

Prince Albert is sold throughout Newfoundland, generally, in the 16-sided tin, in pound and half-pound tins.

Wagner.

By GEORGE FITCH Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Regarding Wagner, America is divided into two classes—those who admire him for his harmonic originality and those who worship him for his home runs.

It will be a great shock to many of the latter class to learn that there are two immortal Wagners and that we propose to tell of Richard and not of Hans.

Wilhelm Richard Wagner was born in Leipzig, May 22, 1813, and was about 102 per cent German in family and feeling. It broke out in him early in life in the shape of an overture which he produced at the age of twelve. At twenty-one, he was conducting a forty fiddle-power orchestra and was writing scores which caused the oldest and most experienced fute players to lay down their weapons and exclaim: "Donnerwetter und blitzten, was is los mit ihnen?"

In a few years more Wagner was so far advanced in music that he did not express merely love and sorrow in notes, but, set mythology, jealousy, spring fever, growing grass and brainstorms to music. His first great work was "Tannhauser," and after it was produced the audience sat, dazed and solemn for some time, picking strange harmonies out of their ears and examining them with much doubt. Wagner was an insurgent in music, politics, love and poetry, and after he had infuriated all the musical stand-patters by writing pieces which made the most celebrated prima donnas stand around and help out the bull fiddles in the orchestral score, he indulged against the government and was ejected from Germany with great emphasis in 1848.

For many years afterward Wagner lived in Paris and produced his great operas for the French, who cheerfully got up riot after riot in opposition to the diminished seventh and other musical heresies. When we realize how fiercely patriotic the French are regarding musical styles and how patiently they bear up under sixty-cent beef and a tax on salt, we begin to realize what is the matter with the French census returns. Wagner remained in Paris twenty years, writing operas, each one of which demanded more muscle on the part of the kettle drums. In 1872 he returned to Germany and spent the rest of his life at Bayreuth, where he built his own theatre—an idea which has since been copied by Maxine Elliott, George Coahan and other great artists.

Wagner's music was not understood while he lived and many people were severely jarred while trying to follow the melody, which wandered in among countless modulations and crescendos. His music consists of a theme indefinitely repeated for four hours by one to 150 musicians armed with well-known instruments and some which Wagner invented to take up the slack in the disturbance. His music is an acquired taste, but millions of people are steadily acquiring it at from $2 to $8 a seat and in Germany it is a national dissipation. It can be fed to a well-built pianola with much success, and some of our most promising Olympic athletes train during the winter on "Tannhauser's" overture for the eighty-eighth note foot-power player.

"Milestones."

IN AID OF THE RED CROSS. A large audience greeted the rise of the curtain last night at the Casino Theatre, when "Milestones" was presented by a company of our local talent. The entertainment was under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor who was accompanied by Miss Davidson and Capt. Abraham. Those taking part were—Mestames Colville, Gosling and Chater, Misses Phillips, A. Hayward, E. Mare, Commander MacDermott, R.N.; Messrs. F. Emerson, A. Reid, W. R. Warren, J. Arnaud and Bell.

The violin solo and songs by Mrs. Ayre, Miss Mare, Miss S. Johnson and Mr. Williams were well rendered. The orchestra music by Miss Johnson, Miss Bradshaw; Messrs. C. Hutton, A. Crocker, F. Bradshaw, Jago, Burley, A. Bulley and Stafford was all that could be desired. A number of young ladies acting under direction of Mrs. H. Ayre conducted a successful sale of candy. The play will be repeated to-night, and as the proceeds are in aid of the Red Cross Fund we feel sure a crowded house will be secured.

Obituary.

DR. SMITH.
On Monday last the death occurred at Burin of Dr. Herbert Smith, after a brief illness. He was one of the oldest medical practitioners in the country. He was born in Bermuda 67 years ago and came here with his father, Rev. Thomas Smith. Deceased spent a busy and useful life. He displayed great activity and marked interest in local affairs. He leaves to mourn a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Parker at Toronto, and Miss Smith, of Burin, and two sons, Mr. William Smith and Dr. T. Smith, dentist of this city. The Telegram extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

How the Holiday was Spent.

Yesterday (Empire Day) was the first regular general holiday for the season. It was certainly the warmest day yet for 1916 and thousands of people, basket parties, etc., took advantage of it and went countrywards. All the suburban ponds were well sprinkled with trouters who returned to town last night with "log loaded" baskets and showing that they had been tagged by the proverbial mosquito as a result of the heat.

FROM ALL QUARTERS.

LONDON, May 23.

The Germans have replied to the terrific French offensive in the Douaumont region with assault after assault, and the deadly combat to the northeast and northwest of Verdun is still in progress. Heavy masses of German troops have been thrown against the picked French troops, whose successful attacks won for them the greater portion of Fort Douaumont and considerable ground adjacent to the fort of high strategic value. These newly captured positions the French have tenaciously held. Particular mention is made by the French War Office of the maintenance of the position of Fort Douaumont captured by the French on Monday. Fighting at this point is characterized by Paris as a "murderous struggle," each attack being succeeded by powerful artillery preparations. Although they were hard held to the northeast, the Germans achieved some temporary success at Le Mort Homme, where, after having been moved down by the French artillery and machine guns with sanguinary losses, during several attacks they finally gained a footing in the trenches to the west of this much-fought-for position. Their tenure in the trenches was short-lived, however, for a French counter attack immediately drove them out.

Italy's first anniversary of her entry into the war found her troops on at least one sector in southern Tyrol forced back by a great Austrian offensive upon Italian soil, which compelled a general retirement upon their main lines of defence from the region south of Rovereto to Val Sugana, south-east of Trent. Rome admits that between Astico and Brenta River and in Sugana Valley the Italians have fallen back upon their main line of defence. While Rome asserts the operation was carried out in perfect order after the Italians repulsed the Austrian attacks against their advanced line, Vienna says that in their retreat from Borgo the Italians were driven, across the border by the Austrians. That the Austrians have advanced as far as the head of Lake Garda, the Italian press is indicated by the Rome official communication, which says Austrian troops assemblages have been observed in the Riva zone.

While along the Russian front the usual bombardments have continued almost exclusively, in the Prepit River region a Russian infantry attack drove the Germans across the Voschaba River and destroyed their trenches. In the coast region of Asiatic Turkey, southwest of Trebizond, the Russians repulsed attempts by the Turks who assumed the offensive, and have also dislodged the Ottoman forces from a position on one of the slopes of the Taunus mountains. In their advance with Mosul, Mesopotamia, as their objective, the Russians have occupied Serbecht.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS (Official), 3 p.m. May 24.

In Champagne, under cover of a strong gas emission, the Germans attempted to reach our lines west of Navarin Farm, but were thrown back to their trenches by our cross-fire. On the left bank of the Meuse the Germans during the night attempted a strong offensive action east of Mort Homme. After a hand to hand fight the enemy, after heavy losses, succeeded in getting a footing in Cumeres village, and in some trenches. From new reports just received it is advised that the German offensives used in Mort Homme region since 21st May, exceed three divisions. On the right bank of the Meuse artillery preparations and attacks succeeded each other with equal violence in Haudromont-Douaumont region. In spite of its stubbornness the enemy which spends freely without counting the cost only got footing in a few parts east of the fort. All attempts made against our western positions and on the fort itself were shattered by our fire. In Woivre there was a bombardment of the Elx Moulanville sectors.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE FAILS.

PARIS, May 24.

A powerful offensive was undertaken by the Germans last night to the east of Deadman's Hill in the Verdun front. The attempt in general was unsuccessful, the war office reports today say, but after fierce hand to hand struggles the attacking forces made their way into a portion of the village of Cumeres. At this point the French are faced by more than three divisions. German attacks on Fort Douaumont, the cornerstone of Verdun, are said virtually to have failed. Notwithstanding the determination of their attacks and what is characterized as most reckless expenditure of life, the Germans succeeded only in taking a small part of the French trenches west of the fort.

GOOD SHOES Reflect Good Judgment

On the Manufacturers part in the choice of materials and in the selection of styles that well dressed men will find appealing. On the dealers part, in handling high grade shoes for the sake of the prestige gained in the eyes of the people who appreciate quality. On the purchasers part in discerning value and appraising quality.

Invictus Shoes,

Manufactured by Geo. A. Slater, are good shoes in every sense of the word. We have just opened a large shipment of these well known Shoes. We are sure to have a particular style suited to your own especial requirements.

MARSHALL BROTHERS.

What Eats Up the Time.

RUTH CAMERON.

How the woman of a century ago managed to bring up eight or ten children (besides the three or four that she bore and lost in infancy), do all her housework, make all the clothes for the household and perhaps do the weaving, and still have time to keep voluminous diaries and read interminable novels is a perennial mystery to the woman of to-day.

With three or four children and all the modern conveniences in her home, she is apt to find herself over taxed, unless she is one of the eight per cent. who keep a helper, and even then she wonders where all her time goes to.

The other day I caught a glimpse of one of the thousands of answers that could doubtless be made to that question. It was a muddy day. The answer was on the feet of several women. It took the form of white shoes. To wear those white shoes on such a day meant the expenditure of much time and energy before they would be clean again.

Little Drops of Water, Little Grains of Sand.

That's just a small thing, but it's typical of many small things that in the aggregate make a deep dent in twenty-four hours a day.

Count the white gloves you see on the trolley car the next time you go to town. Can't you remember the days when we only wore white gloves to teas or dances or similar grand occasions?

Then there are all the little dewdabs that we wear about our necks.

They are so becoming that we don't see how we ever got along without them, but they do take time to keep up.

And what about these silk stockings! And what about the light-colored spats and the silk stockings and underwear, requiring such careful washing and mending, and the fragile blouses and all the other little refinements of fashion that simply gobble up time.

Of course I know that in the old times they had their time-eating refinements of fashion, but, first, the woman of small means didn't aspire to them, and, secondly, they were used to grace special occasions, not for every day. That's the difference.

He Uses Four Tooth Brushes A Day.

Of course the care of the wardrobe is not the only time-eater. The increasingly fastidious care of the person keeps pace with it. For instance, there was a time when if one brushed one's teeth twice a day one considered one had done one's duty. A man told me the other day that he brushes his five times a day and keeps four tooth brushes going.

One is reminded of the experience of John Fox, the novelist in the Southern mountains. A little boy saw him at his morning toilet, which consisted of washing his face and hands in the brook and combing his hair. "Mister," said the little boy, "ain't you an awful lot of trouble to yourself?"

Aren't we all of us a good deal more trouble to ourselves than we used to be? Mind you, I'm not saying that a good deal of the trouble isn't worth while. But that doesn't prevent its taking time. And if you take more time for any purpose, however worth while, you will have less time left. Q. E. D.

CHANGE OF HEART.

My teacher, when I went to school, would lam me with a pole, when I defied his tyrant rule, which jarred and chafed my soul. I'd mutter, when he left on me, full many a wale and bruise, "W h e n I'm grown up I'd hate to be in that blamed teacher's shoes! When I'm a man, unless he's dead, for all my grief and pain, I'll surely punch his old bald head, and split his face in twain." The years passed by, and I became a man of famous might; I had a great and stalwart frame, my whiskers were a sight. And so I sought that teacher out, I met him at his door, and said to him, "I was, old scout, a pest in days of yore. When I recall the fiendish tricks I played, with ribald glee, I wonder that you used small sticks when you were pounding me. I was a wicked little d'ub, who riled you all day long; you should have used a big spiked club, to show me I was wrong." The teacher fell upon my neck, and I reclined on his, and through his tears he said, "By heck! and I remarked, "Gee whizz!"

Ruled Appam Not Entitled to Stay in American Port.

But Ruling Not Enforced Pending Libel Case Decision.

Norfolk, Va., May 17.—Argument of counsel in the libel suit by which British owners of the German prize ship Appam seek to recover possession of the vessel and cargo, was concluded in the Federal Court here yesterday, and Judge Waddill took the case under advisement, with a promise of an early decision.

Washington, May 17.—Secretary Lansing yesterday made public the text of his note of March 2 last to Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, in which the latter was informed of the decision of this Government in the case of the British steamship Appam. The note contained about 1,500 words. Summarized, it was as follows:

"The State Department has decided the Appam is not entitled to remain in American waters under the treaty, as it was not brought in by a warship, but was sent in unescorted, to be deposited as a prize of war in an American port.

As the old treaty is not held applicable, the State Department rules that the Appam can only enjoy the privileges usually granted by maritime nations to prizes of war and that the Appam should leave as soon as the cause of her entry into an American port is removed—stress of weather, repairs or need of provisions.

However, in view of the libel proceedings instituted at Norfolk by the British owners of the vessel in an effort to obtain custody of the ship the State Department will take no action until the Supreme Court decide whether the United States Court at Norfolk has properly taken jurisdiction of the case.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

"Is it necessary to dress a child five years in mourning upon the death of a brother?" asked a young bereaved mother.

"No, it is not considered correct at present to dress children in mourning," said her knowing friend.

Household Notes.

If soft-boiled eggs remain from breakfast, boil them hard at once; then they are ready to use in salads or fish sauces.

Inexpensive handkerchiefs for school children can be made out of sheer lawn or India linen dresses that are worn out.

Green tomatoes can be fried the same as green peppers. Slice them, dip them in oil, then in breadcrumbs and fry in fat.

All boxes on top shelves should have plainly marked labels on them, telling the contents of the box. This saves much time.

A fine polish for floors can be made by melting the short ends of candles and mixing them with equal parts of turpentine.

Potatoes will remain firm and mealy all winter if air-dried time is sprinkled over the barrels or bins; the lime absorbs the moisture.

To save time on washday drop all the little things like handkerchiefs into a pillowcase-shaped bag of mosquito netting and pin this to the line.

If you would have your rush bushes flourish, water them with the suds from the tubs on washday. This method will apply to most any growing thing.

POWERFUL OFFENSIVE.

PARIS, To-day.
On the east front throughout last night the battle for the "fortress" of Verdun raged with increasing fury on both banks of the Meuse. The French stubbornly resisted every attempt by the Germans and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. The Germans delivered one attack after another on the northwestern front, rushing forward with powerful thrusts against the French works and hand-to-hand fighting occurred on the French right, where the Germans, after suffering heavy losses penetrated Cuneles Village near the bank of the Meuse. West of the village on the east bank of the Meuse, the Germans after most extensive artillery preparations, launched an attack after attack against the Douaumont front, losing fearfully, artillery fire blotting out the French trenches and fighting was again of a hand-to-hand character. East of Fort-pite, with the deadly work of machine guns, a few German detachments streamed through the French fire and reached the trench position, west of the fort. All German charges were stopped. The Germans attacked west of Navarin in Champagne using gas, but were unable to gain.

THE PONSONBYS AND PEACE.

LONDON, To-day.
In a recent interview, Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary, said there could be no end to the war until the Prussian idea of peace, from peace, imposed on other nations by German supremacy, was done away with and renounced. The peace talk that followed in the interval, was brought up in the Commons yesterday by Arthur Ponsonby, Liberal. Ponsonby argued in favor of countenancing peace possibilities against prolonging the war, merely for the sake of obligations to Britain's Allies. The speaker said if war had to be continued until Constantinople fell or until some unknown obligations to the Allies are fulfilled, the country ought to be told what these obligations are, and if there was no essential difference between Germany and Britain, and no such obligations, the Government ought to take the earliest opportunity to press for the termination of the war. Sir Edward Grey, replying, pointed out that his interview contained no new declarations. He had no prepared speech or statement to make, but, he said, if he thought the German Government or German opinion had reached the point where the Allied Governments could bring about peace compatible with their desires, nearer, by making speeches about peace, he would make dozens of them. But, the Foreign Minister added, the time had not yet arrived. The Allies were bound by common obligations not to put forward any terms of peace, except by mutual agreement. The war would never end, Ponsonby continued, "if Britain waited till Sir Edward and Dr. Von Bethman Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, agreed as to who was responsible for the war. Had Germany refused to resort to the evacuation of Belgium, France and Serbia to form an independent Poland; had she refused to agree to form an international council to maintain European peace? Ponsonby asked; if she refused these things, the country ought to be told. We ought not to allow diplomatic etiquette to stand in the way of taking a lead definitely, openly and boldly to bring the nations back to sanity and peace, Ponsonby concluded.

James Ramsay MacDonald, Labor member for Leicester, supported Ponsonby. He declared peace was a political, not a military problem. That it was the duty of the Government to state the terms by which it was prepared to conclude peace.

Sir Edward Grey, in the course of his speech, characterized Chancellor Bethman Hollweg's recent statement that Britain was prepared to go to war over Bosnia as a first class lie. It was impossible, the Foreign Minister continued, to reason with the German people while they were fed with lies, and knew nothing of the truth. The real reason for the prolongation of the war was that the German Government was continually telling the people they were winning the war and that the Allies were beaten. Sir Edward here made a declaration that the time for peace had not yet arrived, that the Allies were under obligations not to act separately on peace terms. He added, if any Allies had a right to speak with regard to peace at the present moment it was France, on whom the concentrated fury of the German attack had been thrown. Rebuking Ponsonby for making no allusion to Verdun, Sir Edward said, through the long battle of Verdun, France was saving not only herself but her Allies as well. If anyone has the right to speak about peace, it is France, and President Poincare has spoken. I believe it is the duty of diplomacy to maintain the solidarity of the Allies, give the utmost support to the naval and military measures which are being taken by the Allies in common to bring the war to the stage it has not reached. The prospect of maintaining an enduring peace will be with the Allies. Ponsonby hardly seemed to realize that we are at war. I care not how often I say it this war could have been avoided by accepting a conference. Why was the conference not accepted? Because there was good will. Sir Edward then referred to the recent Balkan Conference in such conference and added I only wish that the German and Austrian Governments published reports of their Ambassadors of the part Britain played in that conference.

NOT YET CONFIRMED.

LONDON, To-day.
The rumor of Prince Von Buelow's visit to the United States as peace delegate is current in diplomatic circles, but up to the present hour it has not been possible to obtain confirmation from any authoritative source. The rumor, however, attracts much attention in consideration of the fact that Prince Von Buelow lately summoned to see the German Emperor and that as he has not been in office during the war he can disclaim any share in the conduct of the war.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

LONDON, To-day.
The British official at midnight says the situation at Vimy Ridge is unchanged, small parties of our troops pushed forward, and engaged in hand to hand fighting with the Germans. To-day, Wednesday, there has been heavy bombardment by both sides astride Souchez River and artillery activity near Rocincourt and Sahanzollern redoubt, Wykchaete and St. Eloi.

ITALIAN LOSSES HEAVY.

LONDON, To-day.
Under the rain of shot and shell which inflicted enormous losses the Germans have again taken Fort Douaumont, northeast of Verdun, from the French, although somewhat to even the score, however, the French in spirited counter attacks to northwest of Verdun, recaptured from the Germans, trenches on the southern outskirts of the Village of Cuneles, which the Germans occupied in the late fighting and stopped with their artillery the several attempts of the Germans to bebouch from the village. The fighting around Fort Douaumont was furious, the Germans launched attack after attack against the fort and employing among others two fresh divisions of Bavarians. Several times the attacks were put down with heavy losses, but finally the Germans succeeded in reoccupying the point of vantage which they had virtually held since the commencement of the Verdun offensive, until the French drove them out several days ago. The French still retain the immediate approaches to the fort. On the Austro-Italian front the Austrians from Lake Garda region to the Valley Sugana district are keeping up their violent offensive against the Italians and driven them across their border. Southeast of Trent the Italians are endeavouring to hold the fortified lines from Aslago heights, east of the Valley Passa, but the Austrian report they have captured over 25,000 officers and men, 251 cannon, 101 machine guns, 16 bomb throwers, Rome admits in effecting their retreat across the border the Italians destroyed artillery which it was impossible to withdraw.

PARIS, To-day.
The condition of General Gallieni, former Minister of War, has suddenly grown worse, altho they do not profess to have any information as to the accuracy of the facts contained in the cablegram.

NAVAL FIGHT IN ADRIATIC.

ROME, To-day.
An Austrian aeroplane and an Austrian gunboat have been destroyed in a battle with an Italian gunboat in the upper Adriatic. The crew of the Austrian craft were taken prisoners.

Rev. Edward Noel
Mellish Wins V. C.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I enclose copy of an article which was read by Rev. W. C. Hollands, on Sunday night, before beginning of his sermon. It possibly may be of interest to some of your readers.
Sincerely yours,
T. RUSSELL,
Carbonear, May 22, 1916.

"His Majesty the King has been pleased to award the Victoria Cross to the Rev. Edward Noel Mellish, temporary Chaplain to the Forces for most conspicuous bravery.
During heavy fighting on three consecutive days he repeatedly went backwards and forwards under continuous and heavy shell and machine gun fire, between our original trenches and those captured from the enemy, in order to tend and rescue wounded men. He brought in ten badly-wounded men on the first day from ground swept by machine gun fire and three were actually killed while he was dressing their wounds.
The Battalion to which he was attached was relieved on the second day, but he went back and brought in twelve more wounded men.
On the night of the third day he took charge of a party of volunteers and once more returned to rescue the remaining wounded.
This splendid work was quite voluntary on his part and outside the scope of his ordinary duties."

P.S.—Only once before has the V.C. been awarded to a clergyman, the Rev. James William Adams, B.A., Bengal Ecclesiastical Establishment, on December 11, 1879, rescued two men of the 9th Lancers from certain death at Killa Khazi near Kabul, under heavy fire when the enemy were charging; just before he had assisted a wounded Lancer. Mr. Adams was gazetted a V.C. on Aug. 26, 1881.
He died in 1902.
The above Rev. Ed. Noel Mellish served as a Private in the Boer War.

"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

(Found in the knapsack of a soldier of the American Civil War after he had been slain in battle.)

Near the camp fire's flickering light,
In my blanket bed I lie,
Gazing through the shades of night
To the twinkling stars on high;
O'er me spirits in the air,
Silent vigils seem to keep,
As I breathe my childhood's prayer,
"Now I lay me down to sleep."
Sadly sings the whip-poor-will
In the boughs of yonder tree;
Laughingly the dancing rill
Swells the midnight melody,
Foesmen may be lurking near,
In this canyon dark and deep,
Low I breathe in Jesus' ear,
"I pray thee, Lord, my soul to keep."
Mid those stars one face I see—
One the Saviour turned away—
Mother, who in infancy
Taught my baby lips to pray;
Her sweet spirit hovers near
In this lonely mountain brake,
Take me to her, Saviour dear,
"If I should die before I wake."
Fainter glows the flickering light,
As each ember slowly dies,
Plaintively the birds of night
Fill the air with saddening cries;
Over me they seem to cry:
"You may never more awake."
Low I whisper, "Should I die,
I pray thee, Lord, my soul to take."

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray Thee, Lord, my soul to keep.
If I should die before I wake,
I pray Thee, Lord, my soul to take,
And this I ask for Jesus' sake, Amen.

Accident at Placentia.

On Monday evening while playing with some companions near the "Quarry," Tenie, the seven year old daughter of J. G. Kelley, mail clerk, fell from a height on to the rocks below. She was picked up unconscious, bleeding profusely. Drs. McKendrick and McDonald were quickly in attendance and soon had the little sufferer made comfortable. She was severely bruised about the face and body together with a large wound in the scalp. How she escaped death is a marvel. Upon enquiring to-day we learn that she passed a very good night and is feeling somewhat better.

Your Boys and Girls.

The first band to be put on the baby in the summer should contain some wool and the shirt should certainly be of a medium weight. The child should be kept as cool as possible, although you should keep the band containing some wool over the abdomen during even the extreme weather. It is wise to sponge the entire surface of the body several times a day during the extreme weather.
Nowadays the fond mother begins from almost the day of her baby's birth to keep a card book for its future inspection. This needs must be a large volume, for into it go all of the correspondence cards, of congratulation to the parents, the birth announcements of contemporary infants, the visiting cards attached to flowers and gifts, and all holiday picture cards.
A good way to keep the collar or dairy from having any unpleasant odor is to whitewash the walls with lime that contains carbolic acid. One ounce of carbolic acid to a gallon of whitewash is the proper proportion.

AMBASSADOR FOR WASHINGTON
LONDON, To-day.
The Exchange Telegram stated this afternoon that it has learned on good authority that Prince Von Bülow, formerly Chancellor of the German Empire, is to become Ambassador to the United States.

NEGOTIATING PEACE.
LONDON, May 24.
The Exchange Telegraph Company says: In diplomatic circles it is believed that Prince Von Bülow, former German Chancellor, is proceeding to Washington charged by the Emperor with a special mission. Prince Von Bülow is one of the foremost statesmen in Europe, and has been referred to during the last few months as the man who might be elected by Emperor William to conduct preliminary peace negotiations should they be undertaken. He had been mentioned in this connection, not only on account of his experience, and recognized ability, but because he has occupied a rather detached position so far as the actual conduct of the war is concerned.

THREE MONTHS IMPRISONMENT.
LONDON, May 24.
Jas. R. White, formerly captain of the 1st Gordon Highlanders, and son of the late Field Marshal Sir George White, the defender of Ladysmith, was sentenced to-day to three months' imprisonment in Aberdare, Wales. He was convicted under the Defence of the Realm Act for having attempted to induce coal miners to strike in order to compel the Government to show leniency towards the leaders of the rebellion in Ireland. After leaving the army, in which he won the Distinguished Service Order for services during the Boer War, White became a Socialist and went to Ireland to live. He took part in the riotous Larkin strike in Dublin in 1914, and joined the Sinn Fein Society.

DENIES AUSTRIAN REPORT.
ROME, May 24.
The Austrian statement that the Italians surrendered trenches in east Selz, is denied in an official bulletin issued to-day. The bulletin says: The Italians voluntarily abandoned 50 yards of line trenches in this vicinity, but continue to hold three hundred yards of trenches, which they took from the enemy.

WIRELESS FEAT.
SYDNEY, N.S.W., May 24.
The American steamer Ventura, has just arrived here from San Francisco, and reports that she picked up a wireless message from the station at Tuckerton, N.J., when 9,000 miles distant from that point. This is said to be the world's record.

GERMANS HOLD DOUAMONT.
PARIS, May 24.
German troops have occupied Fort Douaumont, while the French hold the immediate approach to that position. This announcement was made in an official bulletin issued by the French War Office this evening, which says that two new divisions of Bavarians effected the re-capture after a series of furious attacks.

AEROPLANES ACTIVE.
LONDON, May 24 (Official).

Splitting Pains in the Muscles Driven Out Quickly by "Nerviline."

Rheumatic Pains Go—Suffering Ceases—Cure Comes in Even Chronic Cases.

For aching bones and sore muscles nothing will soothe away the pain like Nerviline.

For nerve-wracking twinges in the muscles, for torturing backache or lumbago, you'll find Nerviline is full of amazing power.

You see, Nerviline has the power—it's about five times stronger than ordinary remedies, and can penetrate very deeply. It contains juices and extracts of certain herbs that give it a strange power to drive out congestion, inflammation or pain.

You are safe in using Nerviline. Just rub it on—it won't blister or burn, and can do nothing but good.

Fourteen enemy aeroplanes were engaged on portions of our front yesterday, and one driven down inside the enemy lines in a damaged condition. Last night and to-day there have been heavy bombardments by both sides about Vimy Ridge.

MONTAGU'S RESOLUTION.
LONDON, May 24.
Baron Montagu, of Beaulieu, in the Lords to-day moved a resolution complaining against divided control of the nation's air service. The debate which followed, and which was adjourned until to-morrow, when Earl Curzon of Kedleston will speak, was chiefly noticeable because of the maiden speech of an aeroplane pilot, who expressed his belief that the new Air Board must develop into an Air Ministry. There was need, he held, for encouraging inventors so that the Government be placed in the way of getting all required air craft, and for timely training of an adequate number of air pilots.

MIXED UP.
BRITISH HEADQUARTERS.
France, May 23.
A unique incident occurred to-day, when for the first time during the war, an aeroplane mistook a hostile aeroplane for its own. The German aviator and his pilot, who landed within our lines, saw their mistake too late when a figure in khaki running up made them prisoners. The machine was new and of the latest type.

BULGARIANS MADE PRISONERS BY ITALIANS.
ROME, May 23.
Along the Isonzo front, Bulgarians have been made prisoners by the Italians showing that the former have joined with the Austrians in their present offensive. The heavy guns of the Austrians are much more numerous in this region than those of the Italians, but they have not been able to overcome the well-organized Italian defences.

SALONIKA.
PARIS, May 23.
The Entente Allies have occupied the station of Florina, south of Monastir, according to a Salonika despatch. The Germans have bombarded the village of Pothelos, south of Douirra.

ASQUITH AND THE IRISH PROBLEM.
LONDON, May 24.
Premier Asquith will announce in the House of Commons to-day the abolition of the office of Viceroy of Ireland, according to the Daily Express, and Lord Wimborne, whose resignation has not yet been accepted, will be offered another post of importance under the Government. The Daily News says the scheme for the solution of the Irish problem, which has received the largest support of the Cabinet, is for an agreement between the Irish leaders accepting the principle of separate parliaments for Ulster and the rest of Ireland, after the war, but until the war ends for the Government to be in the hands of a coalition executive council with officers equally distributed between the parties.

BATTLE RAGING.
PARIS, May 23.
The battle around Verdun continues to rage with a violence unexampled even in this region. The Germans are striving with every source in their power to capture Hill 304, and Dead-man's Hill on the left bank of the Meuse and to win back the famous Fort Douaumont on the right bank, which was wrested from them by General Nivelle's brilliantly planned and executed offensive.

rub it on—it won't blister or burn, and can do nothing but good.

Whenever there is pain or suffering Nerviline will go and will drive it out. It penetrates to every cell of a sore muscle; it sinks to the heart of every stiff sore joint; it searches out the pain of rheumatism quickly.

Give Nerviline a trial. See how fast it will limber your lame back, how quickly it will cure neuralgic headache, how fast it will break up a bad cold or ease a sore throat.

The best family pain-remedy ever made is Nerviline. Forty years of great success proves this.

For emergent ills, when the doctor isn't handy, there is nothing better than the 50c. family size bottle; trial size 25c., all dealers.

The War Vote.

£300,000,000 WAR CREDIT—ASQUITH EXPLAINS EXPENDITURES—CHURCHILL'S CRITICISMS OF CONDUCT OF WAR.

LONDON, May 23.
In proposing the vote for further credit Premier Asquith laid before the House of Commons an account in detail of some of the government's recent financial operations. He took up the period between April 1 and May 20, stating that the actual outlay during those fifty days was £2,410,000,000. The expenditure for army munitions in that time amounted for £149,000,000, loans to Allies and Dominions, £245,000,000, outlay for food supplies, railways and miscellaneous items £175,000,000. Eliminating payments by the Bank of England in respect of advances abroad for which allowances had been made in previous votes, the daily average expenditure had been reduced to £4,600,000. There had been no increase but a slight decrease in expenditures for the fighting forces. The total outlay was somewhat larger, mainly on account of loans to the Allies and Dominions. The average expenditure for the army and navy for munitions was just under £3,000,000 daily. Speaking of the loans to the Allies, Asquith said, without that financial assistance it literally was true that the combined operations of the Allies could not be prosecuted with success and efficiency. The House would not grudge the addition to the expenditures in order that the whole financial, naval and military fabric, upon those co-operative work the success of our joint effort depends, should be kept in a state of efficiency. The Premier added that he could hold out no hope that there would be any appreciable reduction in expenditures, estimating that the £300,000,000 asked would last until the middle of first week in August. The Premier said he moved "his vote with the same confidence that he felt in moving the first vote, but that at this stage he would deal only with the financial position.

CHURCHILL CRITICIZES.
Winston Spencer Churchill, former First Lord of the Admiralty, who was the first speaker in the general debate which followed, expressed his regret that Asquith had not reviewed the general strategic situation and said it was unreasonable for people to expect the war to turn suddenly in their favor of the Allies, contending that the armies at war were too evenly matched at the present time to permit such a change. The Allies had larger reserves actually fighting for. Apart from such splendid passages as Joan of Arc uttered in "Richard II.", the answer was written over all his work.

"Besides," Sir Frederick added, "there are some questions really too impertinent to be put to any honest English gentleman, even when he is dead and immortalized these three hundred years."

Shakespeare and War.

Sir Frederick Pollock, addressing the Ancoats Brotherhood on "Shakespeare and War," said:

"Shakespeare's work contained no general moral judgment about war. Like Justinian, he accepted it among the inevitable facts of life. Princes and nations fought, and arms was the natural profession of a gentleman. Shakespeare as a playwright was offered not only stirring incidents, but precious occasions for developing every kind of character—Falstaff being one of the most notable examples. The need for rapid action on the Elizabethan stage limited the presentation of actual warfare to a series of personal episodes.

"For any recognition of military science one must turn to the satirical romantic drama of 'Troilus and Cressida,' and for the business-like anecdote to the legendary play of 'Cymbeline.' The speech of Ulysses on the discontented Ajax and his followers in 'Troilus' might be said to embody the staff officer's view of war. In the same scene the professional pessimist was pilloried—a slave whose gall coins slanders like a mint."

"The lines given to the messenger at the opening of 'Henry VI.'—doubtful lines which might, however, have been touched by Shakespeare's revising hand—referred to various factions. One fell pat for our latest variety of politician, the air service candidate—'Another would it swift, but watch wings'; and the other equally pat for those who desired to discuss terms of peace in detail before the enemy was beaten:

A third man thinks, without expense at all,
By gullible fair words peace may be obtained."
"Shakespeare took the measure of war just as he found them, but in one passage in 'Henry V.' the Prussian devil's policy of frightfulness stood rebuked:—'We give express charge that in our marches through the country there be nothing compelled from the villages, nothing taken but paid for, none of the French upbraided or abused in disdainful language, for when lenity and cruelty play for a kingdom the gentler gamester is the soonest winner.' That was the Shakespeare whom the Germans pretended to understand better than his own countrymen did.

"Someone might ask if Shakespeare thought that England was worth fighting for. Apart from such splendid passages as Joan of Arc uttered in 'Richard II.', the answer was written over all his work.

"Besides," Sir Frederick added, "there are some questions really too impertinent to be put to any honest English gentleman, even when he is dead and immortalized these three hundred years."

Honor.

After Lovelace.
Oh dear and blessed country mine
My life belongs to thee
My fame and fortune all are thine,
My Honor 'longs to me.

America! I could not love
Thy Liberty and Peace
Loved I not Honor far above
Them both till life shall cease.

'Tis Honor bids me live for Right
And Thee—for Thee to die
If fate demand that in thy fight
On Honor's field I lie.

My Love could not be half so deep
For all within thy shore
For all the blessings Thou dost heap
Loved I not Honor, more.

Dear Land! For Thee my Fathers
Died
When Monarchs dared oppress—
By Honor they were proudly led
Till wrongs received redress.

To-day, neath Wrong and Shame we bend,
And Belgium's fate we seek;
All earth, all seas Assassins send
Till Honor's deeds shall speak.

'Tis Honor leads us to maintain
The dignity of men;
'Tis Honor frowns at slightest stain,
The Honor that we ken.

At Honor's call our Freeman rise
In majesty superb,
Disdaining all that dastards prize,
Who can their anger curb?

True Honor's call 's the call of God,
The Common People's voice
That bids their servants heed their rod,
The servants of their choice.

"I could not love Thee, Dear, so much
Loved I not Honor, more,
Thy truest lover cries—that touch
Of Manhood, Men adore!"
—J.C.C.

Ocean Freight Rates Continue to go Higher.

Ocean freight rates are steadily rising. At present they have reached an unheard of figure, but the end of the gourse is still not in sight. Despite this thriving condition in shipping circles the inference cannot be assumed that all vessels are making big money. Naturally the majority of them are, but several instances are known of vessels coming to the port of St. John which are tied up with ante bellum contracts.

One case in particular which is cited frequently as a "hard luck" charter, is a collier now under charter to the Dominion Coal Company. The contract was made with the company seven years and a half ago and it has still seven or eight years to run. Of course when the charter was made the rate must have been fairly good for those times, but at the present time it is ridiculously low in comparison with the rates the freelancers are getting. Now this particular vessel, it is said is being run by the owners at a continuing loss. By the time the contract is finished the inflated rates no doubt will have vanished. The market will probably be back to normal, if not many degrees below the standard rates of 1913-14.

Reverting again to the more pleasant view of the inflated rates, it is interesting, to say the least, to note the money that is being made. Since the rates began to rise, many big interests have worked into the game. Strange craft were put afloat and most ludicrous extremes were resorted to—pruning junk yards, and so forth. The best yarn that has been related, however, is told concerning Maine interests. A certain schooner was wrecked and sank in the summer of 1915. She was given up as a total loss, but recently, it is learned, the Maine interests paid a fabulous sum for the submerged hulk, and she will be raised and put in commission again.

Each week the freights are higher than before. The latest report comes from the North Shore, where, it is said, 400 stiffs of a standard was the price paid by a Chatham firm to ship a cargo of lumber to Great Britain.

Son of Field Marshal

HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE.
London, May 17.—James White, son of the late Field Marshal, and formerly a captain in the army, was reformed to custody at Abordare yesterday on a charge of making statements likely to cause disaffection and prejudice in connection with recruiting. The prosecution describes White as a "dangerous character" and claimed that it was able to prove that he went to Abordare to induce miners to strike if John Connolly, the rebel leader, was executed.

Documents found in the possession of the prisoner proved, it is charged, that he was consorting with the enemies of Great Britain. White has figured previously in connection with the agitation carried on by Jim Larkin, who organized the street car strike of 1913.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!
 The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."
 Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.
 We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTREAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.
