CHAPTER X.
 A Rash Bet.

"Nonsense, nonsense!" retorted Mr. Gregson, slowly relapsing into his old manner at the warmth of Sir Fielding's apology. "Bulls are bulls. He didn't do much harm, and if he had, I suppose that wouldn't be any reason why one gentleman should forget himself in regard to another. I'm about sure if one of my cattle had got into your grounds, you would have acted something after the same style."

Sir Fielding colored slightly, for he had a shrewd suspicion that Mr. Gregson's bull, had it trespassed on the Chichester grounds, would have gone into the pound; therefore, he thought it safest to bow.

"Just so," exclaimed Mr. Gregson. "Do as you'd be done by, is my motto, and always has been since I first started in life. I commenced on that principle, and went along on that principle, and I'm going on it now," and he brought his heavy fist down upon a paper-mache table with sufficient force to make Sir Fielding jump and Chudleigh smile.

"A very good principle," said Sir Fielding, his soft, well-bred voice presenting a marked contrast to the burly one just silent. "With such a principle, a man should prosper."

"And I have prospered, Sir Fielding," replied Mr. Gregson, looking around with a defiant air. "I have prospered. I began life with two-and-fourpence half-penny in my pocket, and here I am with—well, it doesn't matter how much. I'm content. I've worked hard but uprightly. This hand may be hard, but it's honest," and Mr. Gregson flourished his right hand before him with a decided shake of the head, while Sir Fielding muttered beneath his breath:

"It is hard."

"I've worked my own way, sir, I may say unhelped, unaided. I've known what hardship is; but hardship and misfortune don't hurt a man; it's luxury and ignorance, extravagance and vice, as ruins a man, and that's what England is coming to."

Mr. Gregson having delivered his opinion, emphasized by another bang on the unoffending table, sat down. Sir Fielding smiled.

"Your life must have been an interesting one," said Sir Fielding. Then, turning to the window, and anxious to change, or rather avoid, a continuance of the subject, he said: "That is a fine position for your fruit trees."

"Yes, very good," said Chudleigh. "Miss Gregson tells me that their gardener got the prize at the last show."

"Three prizes," said Miss Lavinia, modestly.

"Dear me!" said Sir Fielding, who, within his heart, had cherished the idea that no plums could compare with the Chichester.

"Would you like to walk around?" said Mr. Gregson, and, Sir Fielding assenting, the three gentlemen made their way into the conservatories. Sir Fielding was astounded at their magnitude and appointments.

"This is very beautiful," he said, with admiration.

"That arrangement for the first is a splendid improvement," said Chudleigh. "Maud's ferns would be improved if she adopted this plan."

Mr. Gregson looked pleased.

"Well," he said, "they are nice, I suppose. They ought to be, for they cost a mint of money—a mint of money," and he shook his head slowly. "But there; I don't mind; it's a whim of my daughter's, and they never have a wish ungratified. 'Papa,' they say, 'I want a conservatory; I want a new pony; I want a set of brilliants.' They have them. Conservatory, ponies, brilliants—no matter what they ask for, they get it."

Sir Fielding murmured something, which sounded like: "Indulgent father, value of money," and they descended the steps on to the lawn.

As they did so, Mr. Hartfield appeared, coming around the corner, exquisitely dressed in a loose morning coat of purple velvet, perfectly fitting pearl-gray trousers and a deer-stalker that set off his golden hair to perfection.

Arranging his eyeglass, Mr. Hartfield lounged forward, and with a noiseless laugh of delight, shook hands.

"Ah, Sir Fielding, delightful morning, is it not? Ah, Mr. Chichester, can you play racket? Yes? Give me a game, eh? em! Points? Oh, deuced bad player, I assure you. Mr. Gregson—Tom, I mean—beats me frightfully. Ah, by Jove! here is Mr. Gregson," he added, as Tom Gregson, in a brown cutaway coat, light trousers and horse-looking deerstalker, emerged from the racket hall.

"Mr. Chichester, Mr. Gregson. If you want any information about the next handicap, Mr. Chichester, Mr. Gregson's the man. He knows a horse when he sees it. No, no; I don't mean that. I should have said that he's a most excellent judge of horses. Eh, Tom, eh?"

Mr. Thomas Gregson looked half sorry, half complimented.

"I am not a bad judge of a horse," he admitted. "Coming to have a game, Mr. Chichester? Fine game. I'll bet you what you like there is not a healthier sport, except hunting, going."

Chudleigh shook his head.

"I am very sorry," he said. "I must return with Sir Fielding."

Sir Fielding and Mr. Gregson had gone on to the stables.

The three younger men followed them, Clarence Hartfield talking all the time, and managing imperceptibly to cover Mr. Tom's occasional remarks with his frequent "Eh, eh?" and striving, so it seemed to Chudleigh, who being jealous of the exquisite, was naturally suspiciously keen-eyed, to pass the meeting over pleasantly.

"Hello, here's the governor," said Tom, entering the first stable. "Look here, Mr. Chichester, I can show you a good bit of horseflesh. What do you think of that?" and with a knowing look he pulled the cloth off a showy-looking animal. "That's a good one to look at, eh? How do you do, sir?" he added, turning to Sir Fielding, who at that moment entered.

Sir Fielding shook hands with him, and stood to look at the horse.

"A splendid creature," said Chudleigh, with honest admiration. "Rather a tough one, is it not? It's ears look suspicious."

"Tough!" repeated Mr. Tom; "I should guess she is, too. I'll bet there is not a nastier-tempered animal in the county. Have a spin around?" and he jerked his head at the courtyard.

Chudleigh was a good horseman, and did not know what fear was, but it struck him that it would be scarcely wise to get a broken head or a damaged nose simply to contribute to Mr. Tom Gregson's amusement, so he declined.

"Quite right, sir; you're quite right," said Mr. Gregson, senior. "Tom's an idiot with horses, a perfect idiot. This animal, sir, is a beast. Knew it the moment I saw it, but my son insisted upon purchasing it, and consequently there's a hundred guineas gone in a kicking machine," and he waved his hand in denunciation at the obnoxious quadruped, who, by its fidgeting to and fro, seemed to understand the lavish condemnation passed upon her.

"Oh, she ain't so bad as all that," said Tom. "Look here. Bob says he can't mount her, says she kicks him off as soon as he's on. Now, I say it's his fault. What does he let her kick him off for, when once he's on? Look here, Hartfield; I'll bet you two to one in guineas I mount her and keep her as still as a statue without a kick to the bad."

Mr. Gregson opened his mouth, pretty widely, too; but Clarence Hartfield's voice stopped the abuse, or whatever was coming, by drawing:

"Done, by Jove! and twelbe, if you like."

"I'll double it," said Tom, without hesitation, and telling one of the grooms to come and saddle her.

It was hard work for the man, but after a great deal of backing, kicking, hoisting and other gymnastics, the saddle was slipped on and all ready.

Chudleigh and Sir Fielding looked on with some little astonishment.

To mount the horse alone would be a matter of no little danger, and they had not given Mr. Tom Gregson credit for courage.

"All ready, sir," said the groom, touching his cap.

"Then take her out into the yard."

"Yard, sir?" muttered the groom, interrogatively; "not the paddock?"

"Yard, yard, I said," replied Tom.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the groom, with whom Mr. Tom, through similarity of tastes, was a favorite. "I was thinking of the stones."

"Then you shouldn't think of the stones," retorted Tom. "Go and do as you're told."

The man led the horse out. The animal was as quiet as a lamb, but with her ears laid well back, and her eyes leering viciously.

"Don't you think you'd better try the paddock, Mr. Gregson?" said Sir Fielding, mildly. "A fall on those stones would be dangerous."

"But I'm not going to fall, sir," said Tom. "Besides, the bet was for the yard, and I'll stick to it."

"Don't be foolish," growled his father.

But to this mild exhortation Mr. Tom made no reply, and followed by the others, walked into the yard.

The moment he approached the horse it reared on its hind legs, then coming down with an ominous crash, struck out behind.

"I'm off the bet, Tom, if you like," said Mr. Hartfield. "You'll break your neck."

"I'll treble it, if you like," retorted Tom.

"No; it's wobbling you," said Clarence, shaking his head.

"All right," said Tom.

And taking his whip from the groom, he, with a sudden spring, vaulted onto the saddle, and, holding the bridle with a grasp of iron, gave the beast a good slash across its skin.

Sleepless Nights Overcome By Safe Method.

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN WHEREBY INSOMNIA CAN BE SAFELY AND QUICKLY CURED.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and indigestion cause insomnia.

Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs.

First, the blood circulation must be improved.

Congestion of blood in the head must be removed.

Irritation in the brain must be relieved.

It's because Ferrozone equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion that it does cure insomnia.

For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into over-worked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so efficient as Ferrozone?

Remember, sleep is just as important as food.

You must sleep or break down, but if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep, you'll get well quickly.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use.

Absolutely safe is Ferrozone.

Take it for a month, take it for a year—no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

To sleep well, look well, feel well, to be free from depression, nervousness or blues—use Ferrozone. It's a food tonic, a healer to the weary and wretched, a boon to the sleepless—sold in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrh-ozome Co., Kingston, Ont.

Off she went across the yard like a thunderbolt, then made a sudden stop and an attempt to raise her heels, but with another slash, and a peculiar turn of the hand, her rider got her mouth well under, and she stood still.

"Keep a lookout, sir," cried one of the grooms, as the beast, perfectly astounded, laid back her ears right along her neck.

"Confound you! mind your own business," shouted Tom, irately, and the groom slunk away.

"Now, then," cried Tom, "she's to stand three minutes."

And with a lash of the merciless whip again, he brought her, with a leap, into the center of the yard.

Then, stroking her neck but in no whit lessening the strain on the bit, he kept her motionless almost as a statue, and, as Chudleigh cried out the third minute, he leaped to the ground, with a grin.

"By Jove!" exclaimed Clarence Hartfield, assuming, with the aid of his eyeglass, a look of astonishment that was perfectly ridiculous, although he had known that the feat would be performed. "Tom, you are a w-wonder. Here's the m-money; and the twick was worth it, eh, Sir Fielding?"

"Beautifully done," assented Sir Fielding, with genuine admiration, adding, to Tom, whom he regarded with very different eyes to those which acknowledged his greeting: "If you would do me the favor to look over the stables at the hall, Mr. Gregson, I think you would find one or two animals there that would interest you."

"You are very kind," said Tom, candidly. "I should be glad to come. To tell the truth, I'm fond of horses—"

"Too fond," muttered his father, who, though proud of his son's achievement, could not miss an opportunity of growing at him.

"And I'm glad to make the acquaintance of a strange one now and then," he continued.

"Then come over to the hall, by all means," said Chudleigh. "I have just bought a new hack; perhaps you would be kind enough to give me your opinion of him. Will to-morrow suit you?"

NO CHANGE IN SAILINGS.
 PARIS, Feb. 1.
 The Central Committee of French ship owners informed the Associated Press to-day that the new German submarine policy will cause no change whatever in sailings from France.

PRISONERS TAKEN.
 PETROGRAD, Feb. 1.
 A Russian official from the Roumanian front says that more than 1,000 prisoners were taken during the fighting of Tuesday in the Jacobeni region. One cannon and ten machine guns were also captured.

An advance by Russian troops near Kaluzin, on the northern end of the Russian front, is announced to-day by the War Office. The statement is as follows: In the sector of Kaluzin the high road has been entirely cleared of the enemy. Our troops, notwithstanding asphyxiating gas, severe frost and obstinate resistance by the enemy, re-occupied their trenches. Three attacks on the Russian positions east of Jacobeni on the northern end of the Roumanian front were reported last night, the war office also announced.

GERMAN NOTE CAUSE SURPRISE AND SENSATION.

LONDON, Feb. 1.
 Although the German note came as a surprise and produced a sensation among the public and newspapers, there is reason to believe that those in the inner circles of the Entente Allies were aware of what was coming, and had considered the measures to be taken. The second naval conference held here, at which Admiral Cora, the Italian Minister of Marine, Admiral Lacaze, the French Marine Minister, and other representatives of the Allied nations took part, is understood to have gone over this subject. Information available at that time was that Germany would use the rejection by the Allies of her peace proposals as justification for intensified naval warfare, and that the measure to be employed would take the form of a blockade of Britain and the northern coast of France.

The German declaration of unrestricted war at sea has created a profound sensation in England. All interest centres on the policy which neutral maritime nations will adopt. The decision of the United States is awaited with most intense interest as it is recognized that it will have a strong influence on other neutrals, and be a most important factor in the solution of one of the most serious crises of the war. Officials decline to discuss the question formally at present.

CAUSES ANXIETY.
 LONDON, Feb. 1.
 A Reuter despatch from the Hague states that to-day's German announcement of submarine warfare is regarded in circles here with grave anxiety.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.
 LONDON, Feb. 1.
 Commenting on the announcement of the German naval policy, the Westminster Gazette to-day considers that under that policy all concessions hitherto made by the Central Powers to President Wilson have been withdrawn. There could scarcely be a more direct challenge, continues the newspaper. The note of the Imperial German Government assures the United States that Germany desires in the highest sense to serve humanity, and it proposes this method as the first installment to this end. President Wilson, in his notes on the Lusitania question, showed that he has made other ideas of serving humanity. Renouncing any intention of suggesting to America what she should do, the Westminster Gazette notes that President Wilson invited the belligerents to state their terms. The Allies complied, while the Central Powers carefully refrained; and if President Wilson's intention was to clear the situation, it adds he succeeded with the Allies, but he failed with the Teutonic Powers.

NINE VESSELS SUNK.
 LONDON, Feb. 1.
 The sinking of nine vessels, causing the death of eight men and the injury of one, is announced by Lloyds. The Shipping Agency says the British steamer Trivean, 3,001 tons gross, the Belgian steamer Euphrates, 2,909 tons gross, have been sunk; the steamer Dundas, of Hamilton, Ontario, 2,275 tons gross, has been submerged with one man killed and one injured; the tug Ida has been sunk, presumably by striking a mine while towing barges, and five men lost. Two trawlers and three smacks have been sunk with the loss of two men.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.
 ROME, Feb. 1.
 Pronounced artillery activity along the Italian front is again reported by the War Office in to-day's official statement.

SAYS HEAVY FOG THE CAUSE.
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.
 The Treasury Department issued an official explanation that ships were prevented from leaving New York Harbor last night because of heavy fog, which obscured the markings. It denied that the port had been or was now closed.

WAS FOG THE CAUSE?
 NEW YORK, Feb. 1.
 After being sealed all night by a cordon of destroyers and coast guard patrol boats, the port of New York was opened to-day by customs authorities to all incoming and outgoing shipping. The stand taken by the collector of the port was that ships could sail at their own risk, and they were permitted to clear as usual.

POSTPONED SAILING.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 1.
 Announcement was made here this morning by a representative of the Scandinavian American Line that the sailing of the liner Helligog, booked to leave to-day with 300 passengers and cargo for Copenhagen, via Kirkwall, had been indefinitely postponed.

U.S. STEEL DROP BELOW PAR.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 1.
 The stock market was in a demoralized condition at the opening to-day. Rails as well as industrials suffered. Rallies of 2 to 10 points were recorded within the first fifteen minutes, however, with signs of support in some of the leading stocks. Selling, nevertheless, was of the most urgent character. The support did not prove effective. United States steel

States, arrived to-day on the steamer Noordam. He learned for the first time from newspaper men of the despatch by Germany of its note outlining its new naval policy. "The note is a surprise to me," he said. "I knew nothing about it until you newspaper men showed me the newspapers containing it."

QUIT.
 BERLIN, Feb. 1.
 No notable happenings are reported from any fronts, says this evening's supplementary army headquarters statement.

WANTS DEFINITE NEWS.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 1.
 Definite news and instructions from official sources as to the future movements of American Line steamships was asked of Secretary of State Lansing at the State Department to-day by P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine. Their steamship St. Louis is now in port taking cargo and passengers, being booked to sail for Liverpool on Saturday. It was said by Franklin that unless instructed contrary by Washington, the St. Louis would sail as usual for Liverpool, her regular port of destination. A telegram sent by President Franklin to Secretary Lansing officially advised the State Department that the St. Louis is an American ship owned by American citizens, insured by the United States War Risk Bureau; carries passengers and American citizens, and in compliance with the Government War Risk Bureau regulation with reference to contraband. The telegram also advises that the liner Philadelphia, operated under the same conditions was now about 1,200 miles from Liverpool on her way from New York; that the steamship Finland was due to leave Liverpool for New York on Feb. 3rd or 4th; the steamship and Kroonland carry passengers. On Liverpool for New York. Like the St. Louis, the Philadelphia, Finland and Kroonland there are 25 American citizens and 148 aliens; on the Finland, 46 Americans and 114 aliens; Cable advices as to the Kroonland placed the number on board as 191, but gave no information as to their nationality.

WILSON'S ACTION NOT KNOWN.
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.
 Whatever course of action President Wilson has chosen to meet Germany's declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare, is known only to three or four members of his official family. Neither the Cabinet as a whole nor the Foreign Relations Committee of Congress has been taken into his confidence. One high official

ON THE FRENCH FRONT.
 PARIS, Feb. 1.
 Patrol encounters occurred at various points along the front especially east of Rheims and in the region of Altkirch, says to-day's official communication. Elsewhere the night was calm. Adutant M. Aden yesterday brought down his fifth German aeroplane. Last night one of our aerial squadrons bombarded the railway station and one storehouse at Marchy, and Voyannes and also some barracks to the east of Neal.

PASSPORTS SUSPENDED.
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.
 The State Department suspends the issuance of passports to American travellers abroad.

ARRANGEMENTS WITH HOLLAND.
 THE HAGUE, Feb. 1.
 The German Minister to the Netherlands, it was officially announced to-day, notified the Dutch Government that Germany stands ready to make special arrangements respecting passenger and mail traffic between Holland and England, and that no mines will be laid on the Flushing southward route, it is stated.

GERMAN PRESS DELIGHTED.
 BERLIN, Feb. 1.
 The Berlin press received the announcement of unrestricted submarine warfare with delight. Pan-German papers do not exult to the extent that might have been expected, but the liberal organs, almost without exception, have abandoned the old-time opposition, and hail the Chancellor's words with warmly patriotic expressions of approval. Most of the journals devote a paragraph or more to the probable effect on neutrals, especially America.

SAYS HE KNEW NOTHING.

SAYS HE KNEW NOTHING.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 1.
 Count Adam Tarowski, the new Austrian Ambassador to the United close to the President declared to-night that no communication had been sent Berlin or Count Von Bernstorff, who outwardly was expecting severance of diplomatic relations. There was every indication in official quarters that the note had been determined upon, but indications as to whether it actually had been despatched were about evenly divided, with few high officials a authority that it had not, and some others who gave intimations of belief that it had. From under the curtain of official silence which had been drawn closely over every move to-day, came various indications taken everywhere as an index of the fingers pointing toward the probable course of the United States. It was undisputed the Government would not permit Germany's announcement to stand without challenge, but whether President Wilson's answer will be a solemn warning of a break of diplomatic relations if the German campaign of ruthlessness is carried into execution, or actually severing relations without further waiting remained undisclosed. Secretary Lansing refused absolutely to discuss the situation or answer any inquiries when he met newspaper correspondents; he said, "Gentlemen, I have nothing to tell you, neither will I answer any questions."

CANADA'S WAR APPROPRIATION BILL.
 OTTAWA, Feb. 1.
 Canada's answer to Germany's frightfulness campaign is a new War Appropriation Bill for $500,000,000 to relentlessly prosecute the war. The measure, the greatest ever introduced in Parliament to-day by Sir Robert Borden, amidst cheers. The Prime Minister explained that while the total amount will not be required for actual war expenditure during the coming year, the provision would be utilized to finance British purchases in Canada. The growing importance of Canada's naval contribution to the war was indicated by the fact that the war vote to-day includes 17,500,000 for naval expenditures. Another important announcement was made by the Premier to the effect that the Government will immediately raise large forces in Canada for home service.

THE ONLY ANNOUNCEMENT.
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.
 The only announcement that the German Ambassador made to-day was to deny the published report that he had told friends that he expected to receive his passport within 48 hours. There was no denying, however, that Count Von Bernstorff fully expected that action by the United States would be swift and decisive. It has become known that several times during last week he attempted to discourage Americans from sailing for Europe. He has declined to write letters of introduction for friends, and on other pretexts without disclosing knowledge of what was about to happen, has done his best to discourage them from going to Europe.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.
 LONDON, Feb. 1.
 A report from British headquarters in France received at midnight reads: Last night we again improved our position slightly, north of Beaumont Hamel. This morning the enemy attempted to rush one of our posts in the neighborhood of Gancourt, but was driven off. We carried out a successful raid early this morning south of Neuville St. Vaast. We had no casualties. Hostile attempts to approach our line during last night and early this morning southeast of Armentieres and east of Ypres were repulsed with loss. This morning two enemy attacks in the neighbourhood of Wytschaete were made by strong enemy parties, dressed in white, but were driven back before they could reach our trenches. The enemy suffered heavy casualties, we took few prisoners in these encounters. Counter battery work and bombardment of enemy trenches were carried out by us with success. During the day in a number of places along our front, enemy artillery was more active than usual south of Ypres. The total number of Germans captured by British forces in France during January was 1,128, including 27 officers.

Household Notes.
 Bird's-eye makes good sheets for a baby's crib, especially good because it does not wear out easily.
 Don't use an earthen baking dish after it has become well cracked, it will be impossible to keep it clean.
 A uniform width in curtain and pillow case hems will save time taken in matching different widths of hem.
 So many dried fruits are more delicious when cooked in a casserole than when cooked on top of the stove.
 It should never be forgotten that labor-saving machinery is just as important in the home as anywhere else.
 To make fried chicken very crisp, sift 1/4 teaspoonful of baking powder into the flour the chicken is dipped in.
 If you have an electric fan anywhere handy in the kitchen use it when peeling onions and your eyes will not smart.
 Care should be taken not to set a steaming hot casserole dish in cold water or in a wet sink. This will cause it to crack.
 Many people do not know that an excellent pudding can be made of crackers used instead of bread. It should be served with a lemon sauce.

"DON'T WORRY."

Hundreds of people are suffering from Coughs and Colds at the present time. You may be as careful as you like in trying to avoid catching this miserable Cough and Cold but you'll get it don't matter what you do—so "Don't Worry" while Stafford's Phorontone Cough and Cold Care is obtainable. "Whooping Cough" is also very prevalent amongst children; you can use nothing better than "Stafford's Phorontone." The above preparation is manufactured only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, Theatre Hill, St. John's, Nfld. Open every night till 9.30.

NO NEWS!

It is possible that the extraordinary nature of situation to-day will provide, in time, a satisfactory explanation of the extraordinary way in which we are being treated here in Newfoundland, and in view of such a possibility we refrain from the criticism we feel tempted to make upon first thoughts. But we demand that the true explanation be found, and if it be no other than that vouchsafed of similar treatment in recent days, that the cause be removed without further delay. It may be that the censor is at work, in which case we shall be amply rewarded for the exercise of a little patience. We cannot believe, however, that censor or no censor, the wires are not everywhere red hot to-day, except, of course, in unimportant Newfoundland. Up to midday at least not a single message, not a single word, has reached us. The United States may be severing, may have already severed, diplomatic relations with Germany. We can only speculate. The matter, of course, does not interest us much and concerns us not at all. We have no part in the war and are not affected by it. We are merely an insignificant little island somewhere near the North Pole, and should be grateful for any little crumbs of information that may charitably be scattered to us.

Yesterday we were more fortunate than usual and were favored with a little of the stirring news that is agitating the world. The primary cause of it all, however, the premonitory note from Germany to the neutral nations, was conspicuously absent from the messages. Another point on which we ask to be enlightened has already been referred to by the Herald. For some time the major part of such news as we do receive has, for some reason or another, been granted, as if by special preference, space in our morning papers, including much matter that used formerly to be received in time for publication in the evening papers. We may instance, as an example, the daily review of the war, of interest to almost every reader. We are making no insinuations, but merely demand an explanation of an indisputable fact. There must be a reason for this change and we intend to know what it is.

Trust the Navy!

With the war about to enter upon a new and distinct stage of which the current prophecies may not be over-coloured, and with the whole world under the strain of tense excitement, the pliegm of the British temperament is as noticeable and admirable as ever. There may be excitement in the old country, but there are no "nerves". It is generally recognised that this is Britain's round, she will play the major part in every direction in which the war will now be waged. Her wealth supports the whole fabric of the Allied combination; her armies will be most numerous on the West front, where victory will be won; and her navy will fight almost unaided this last advertised weapon of the enemy, while it is prepared as ever to meet her in legitimate combat on, and not below, the seas. For the moment the last seems to concern us most. If there is any apprehension here (and it would do more justice to our alertness if a little more were in evidence), every act and word from the mother country should inspire confidence. "Trust the Navy," they seem to say.

These will be Britain's great days, and she will measure up to them with all her greatness. Looking at the history of her awakening since 1914 and at her girding herself for efforts of which she had not dreamt that she was capable, we are, among those who believe that the enemy has not yet the slightest suspicion of her real power. Be it remembered that Germany has not yet met Great Britain face to face. Her people have not estimated the great silent victory of the British navy because it has been achieved without fighting. On land, the battles of the Somme and Ancre last year were but a mild foretaste of what is to come, at best a defensive-offensive designed to relieve France at Verdun. We believe that it not alone the deluded German people but their self-deluded leaders, still constitutionally unable to regard England as a military nation, had any real foreknowledge of the events to come, there would be at least a speedy end of their boasting and arrogance. It is not by starvation that the enemy will be humbled, but by the mighty blows of Britain's armies in France, which will first shatter and then rout into confusion the opposing forces that have not yet learned the power that is behind them. But first must come this struggle on the seas in which not the strength but all the resource and cunning of the British navy is challenged. We shall hear, as in the past, only one side of it, but we shall be able to guess at the other. We shall trust the Navy.

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, Feb. 2, 1917.
Sanident Tooth Paste is still very much to the front. For general use to preserve the teeth and keep them in first rate condition, as a means of keeping the gums and mouth in a healthy and antiseptic state, and as one of the most pleasant tooth pastes in use, we can point to it as fulfilling all requirements. It still sells at 25c. a tube.

The Sanident Tooth Brush occupies a similar high position in the estimation of users of this indispensable toilet adjunct, and is one of the few tooth brushes the hairs of which will not come out. May be had in medium (35c.) hard (35c.) and unbleached varieties.

Theatrical Troupe Returning.

Mrs. Baxter and party, who left here for Grand Falls on Sunday last as the guests of Manager Scott of the A. N. D. Co., will join the incoming express to-night, which is due here to-morrow afternoon. The entertainments given were largely attended and the "At Home" held in honor of the guests was a great success. While at the paper town the party were shown all over the A. N. D. Co's plant, while some of their number took a hand in producing the material that paper is made from. Mr. J. Baxter, who was returning by rail from a business trip abroad, joined the party early in the week.

S.S. Kite Sold to Gloucester Firm.

We learn that a Gloucester firm has purchased the s.s. Kite through their representative here. The purchase price, we hear, was $12,000. The steamer is now being stripped and is to be thoroughly renovated and refitted, including the installation of a new boiler. She will be used by her new owners as a fish carrier. The Kite prosecuted the sealfishery for more than forty springs and was known as the "baby" of the fleet.

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle left Balne Hr. at 2.40 p.m. yesterday, outward.
The Glencoe left St. Jacques at 12.50 p.m. yesterday.

The Kyla reached Port aux Basques at 9.30 a.m. to-day. The Sagona arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.30 a.m. to-day.

DOG NUISANCE.—The residents of Cochran Street are complaining bitterly about the horde of savage dogs that infest that neighborhood. Particularly is it the case at night time when people are unable to sleep on account of the hideous barks of the mongrels. The enforcement of the Dog Act would put an end to the nuisance.

Governor Addresses Llewellyn Club.

His Excellency the Governor gave an interesting address last night at the monthly meeting of the Llewellyn Club, taking for his subject "The Life of an Englishman in Ceylon." His Excellency, who for some time was stationed on the island, for over an hour reviewed the customs and habits of the inhabitants and told how the colony had prospered under British rule. At the close of the address Rev. Dr. Jones proposed a vote of thanks to His Excellency, which was carried by acclamation. Through the kindness of Mrs. Walter Willis, assisted by several other ladies, a bountiful supply of refreshments and "smokes" were served in the lower flat. After full justice had been done the inner man, an impromptu concert took place. Mr. W. H. Stirling presided at the organ and the following contributed numbers: Rev. C. E. Moulton, Messrs. H. Y. Mott, C. J. Fox, C. E. Hunt, A. Carnell, Green, R. G. McDonald and Sergt. Edwards. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Willis and associates, proposed by Mr. R. Dowden, was carried by hearty clapping and the singing of "They are Jolly good fellows." Before the gathering dispersed the Rector called for three cheers for the Royal Navy, which still rules and would continue to rule the waves.

Barefaced Fraud.

"Joey" Gibbs Acts "Navy Veteran" and is Brought to Task.

A public scandal was exposed and stopped this morning when Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C., J.P., sent a disreputable character named Gibbs to the Penitentiary where he will quarter till sun-basking time comes round again. "Joey" as he is termed by those of his calibre, is a character well known to the authorities and has spent at least ten of the past fifteen years in jail for grave crimes committed by him, such as robbery, indecent assault on children and other offences almost too numerous to mention. His latest exploitations have been to deceive the charitably disposed people of the community, including clergymen, by relating to them bogus and pitiable yarns, thereby eliciting their sympathy and help. Invariably he impersonated the "Dardanelles veteran" at residences in various parts of the town where he called and solicited alms, said he was a Naval Reservist, had spent two years in the Navy, during which period he had many thrilling experiences and only recently was invalided home. Not infrequently did "Joey" give fictitious names to his victims, who gave him money and clothing and half the places on the Newfoundland map were given as his birth-place. Two well known gentlemen, who had strong reason to doubt the stories, reported the matter to the authorities and last night he was rounded up by Constable Whelan in a stable on Pleasant Street. He appeared on the Magistrate's Court to-day charged with being a loose and disorderly character. Gibbs admitted all that was said in evidence about his conduct. Mr. Morris commented strongly on the rascality of the prisoner, who has grossly slandered and libelled the brave men of our navy who were now fighting for our existence. He ordered Gibbs to give bonds in $200 or go to jail for six months. The latter course was adopted. Mr. Morris thanked the two citizens responsible for the exposure of such a grave public scandal and for the capture of Gibbs.

Note of Thanks.

M.C.L.I. Discusses Church Union.

There was a large attendance at last night's meeting of the M. C. L. I. Dr. W. F. Lloyd, M. H. A., acted as judge of the debate. The subject was: "Resolved, that greater benefit would accrue to the Christian Church by the consummation of church union now under consideration in Canada." The speakers for the affirmative were Rev. T. B. Darby, Mr. Arthur Mews and Mr. Geo. P. James; for the negative Rev. H. Royce, Mr. R. F. Horwood and Mr. T. M. Gillingham. The affirmative contended:—

- (1) That church union was bound to come; it was the Christian ideal, and gave an impetus to church work.
- (2) The present system is costly, both in men and money. Places were insisted in Canada where three men were doing the work of one, creating denominational jealousy among the churches.
- (3) There is nothing now to keep the churches apart, as funds of long ago have been forgotten, and the debatable points are not essential.
- (4) Church dis-union in the mission fields of China and Japan is the greatest stumbling block the Christian church has to deal with to-day. This has compelled the division of territory among the churches operating in these fields, and now each of the four great churches has an allotted sphere in which to work and she dare not trespass on her sister church's territory.
- (5) Division looks badly and causes unbelief in Christendom, and much more so in heathen lands; it prevents the church from putting a united front against the great evils of the day, and encourages bickering, etc.
- (6) Union would speed up the evangelization of the world, by setting free both the men and money now tied up by the present overlapping system.
- (7) It would be a convincing proof to the world of the reality of the Christian faith and spirit and would be in accordance with the Christian age.
- (8) It is in accordance with the mind of Christ.

The negative side based their arguments on the following:—

- (1) Doctrinally, it would not be beneficial; it is a compromise of the beliefs of each church. To some these are small matters, but to those contending for these things, great issues.
- (2) Types of mind are ruined by such a union. The Christian church as a whole must cater to every type of mind. Each type demands separate treatment and separate organization.
- (3) To do justice to Truth we must have more divisions.
- (4) Co-operation would be a much greater benefit.
- (5) The present proposition would not be a union at all, in that it would not be unanimous. In this connection the votes of the churches were given, which showed that there was considerable opposition to it. In the case of the Presbyterian Church there were more votes cast against union in the last poll than in the former one.
- (6) Union would only bring into being an additional church, because it would not remove the old ones. Legislation was already being sought to protect the present churches.
- (7) Churches as separate organizations have not failed in their work, and the affirmative should prove that better work would be accomplished after union. The present system produced a healthy rivalry.

After the leaders had presented their case the question was thrown open for discussion. The vote being taken was in favour of the affirmative. Dr. Lloyd, agreeing with the popular decision, in summing up the debate showed where the negative in point of presentation and oratory had made the best showing. In conclusion Dr. Lloyd complimented the members of the Institute on their speaking abilities and gave them some good advice which was much appreciated.

St. John's Boy Under Arrest

IN U. S. A.

It is reported that a young man, a native of St. John's, who left here for New York in September last year, has been arrested for a breach of neutrality. The man in question was at no time over-flowing in his love for King and Country and gave as his reason for leaving home that he feared conscription. It appears that on reaching New York he secured employment in a German Hotel and his arrest followed from information given by a secret service bureau. Friends of his family who reside in New York offered to give bonds for the young man's future behaviour, but were informed that the crime committed was of too serious a nature for any favours to be given.

CLEANING WATER STREET.—The police and City Inspectors are at present busily engaged keeping the snow cleaned off Water Street.

Marshall Bros

Anti-Rose Specs.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Is it not queer how even the best of us are apt to look at certain people in our acquaintance through the opposite of rose colored glasses (whatever color that may be)?

After she went away she sent them a lovely wicker and cretonne chair for the guest room and a beautiful book for the baby.

What do you think the young wife's comments were? On the chair—"I think it was rude of her to hint that she hadn't been comfortable."

On the book. "It's altogether too old for the baby. It was a perfectly absurd thing to send."

On both gifts, "I'd rather she had not sent them than have to write the thank note."

German people as did Napoleon?

"Even as France avoided terrible peace conditions by deposing Napoleon," he says, "so Germany, faced by the vision of the final catastrophe, will one day be driven to decide on deposing the King of Prussia in favor of the Bavarian ruler. The House of Wittelsbach has fulfilled all its duties to the Empire. Its escutcheon is unstained, and in this war it has won its laurels again and again. Not only would the German Empire under the Wittelsbach dynasty offer the necessary security for European peace, but also the possibility of realizing a still greater Germany."

The Zurich Volksrecht says the document here summarized voices a state of opinion very widely diffused in Bavaria, and, indeed, almost everywhere in southern Germany, as well as in influential middle class circles and among the lower orders.

Don't Scold, Mother! The Cross Child Is Biliious, Feverish.

Look at tongue! If coated, clean little stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit-laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.

No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Chores.

Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of soot rise and settle on the furniture.

It Eliminates Hard Work. Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and, best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

OUT OF DATE. To-day I have a motor car as fine as any wagons are. It has all kinds of modern traps, invented by long-headed chaps. I'm all swelled up with pomp and pride, when I scoot over the countryside, and get the everlasting goats of those who own back number boats. And when in town I stop my car, to buy my face a good cigar, the people crowd around and say, "Gee, but that car is resher-shay!" To-morrow when I drive around the courthouse and the village pound, I'll be too grouchy to relate; my auto will be out of date. And I will hear cheap skates remark, "It came across in Noah's ark!" Ah, melancholy is the fate of one who'd be right up to date, and have the latest thing in cars! His spirit soon is seamed with scars. Those brisk inventors should be canned, who spring new schemes to beat the band, who make the triumph of to-day look cheaper than the one ho-ho-shay! 'Twould break a John D. Astorbill, and send him porpoiseward full tilt, to own a modern car substitute, for more than two weeks at a time.

War to the Knife

London Daily Mail.—The enemy, it appears from the comments of the humorless Hun press, is almost speechless with rage at the Allies' answer to his "peace" note. He is threatening henceforth to wage "war to the knife" against the Allies. It is a threat which will leave us entirely unmoved. For the past two and a half years the Germans have exhausted the resources of cruelty, infamy and crime. So far as we are concerned, not even they can now outdo their own diabolical record. They may send their Zeppelins afresh to murder women and children, but in that case a decreasing number of these clumsy airships will return. They may attempt murder on a yet more gigantic scale by submarine, but as we dealt with the last campaign, so

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses. It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Don-Opto tablets. Drop one Don-Opto tablet in a quart of glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "This drug is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to render eye troubles and vision corrected by them. The manufacturer guarantees it to strengthen eyesight to per cent in one week. It is the most successful of all the eye treatments. I should be glad to see it in regular use in almost every family."

Assert Allies Seek to Eliminate Kaiser

Dr. Norton Prince Declares Terms, Not Given to Wilson, Include Wilhelm's Downfall.

Peace terms which the Allies did not give to President Wilson, provide for the literal elimination of the Kaiser as the absolute ruler of Germany, according to Dr. Norton Prince of Boston, who said in an address under the auspices of the American Fund for French Wounded at the Old Colony Club Building yesterday afternoon that "The German Kaiser, the felon and bully of Europe, must go." He declared that President Wilson did not represent the attitude of the American people when he said that the United States was not concerned in the causes or aims of the war.

Dr. Prince, who is an uncle of Norman Prince, killed while serving as an aviator for France, said that this country had much at stake because the theory of government back of those fighting the Kaiser was the same as that on which this Government was founded. That the Allies know that German militarism must be crushed, or the battle would have to be fought all over again, he gave as the motive for their determination not to make peace until the Kaiser and what he stood for were in the dust. He predicted exile for the Kaiser or establishment in Germany of a democratic Government that would destroy Wilhelm's autocratic power.

Dr. Prince recounted the action of the late Admiral Dewey, who he said put an end to the Germans' proposed interference at Manila Bay by threatening to fire on the German ships. The English fleet under Admiral Chester then drew up with Dewey's ships. He also praised President Roosevelt for warning Germany in 1902 to withdraw her ships from the Venezuelan coast in ten days, and then after seven days had passed, telling the German Ambassador at Washington that the limit had been cut to nine days. The German ships withdrew in thirty-six hours.

"But," Dr. Prince continued, "in 1908 and in 1902 we did not have a pusillanimous administration. It is known that the Kaiser said that if we had had a bigger fleet at Manila he would have taken Uncle Sam by the scruff of the neck."

"The Allies hope to rid the world of the House of Hohenzollern, and if they do, they will get the thanks of the world. The determination to do this is one of the 'details' of their peace terms, which they told President Wilson could not now be known."

Discussing the President's proposal to open peace negotiations, Dr. Prince said:

"What chance is there about a conference table for the Kaiser to agree to eliminate himself? Here is the reason why negotiations cannot now end the war.

"It is all too easy to question the legal right of the Allies to dictate what kind of Government there is to be within Germany, yet there was no legal right for the North to free the slaves in the South. That was done because slavery was a moral wrong, and so Prussian militarism must go, even within Germany, because it is a moral wrong. And it is against this moral wrong that the Allies—I mean the people in those nations—are willing to make any sacrifice to win. It

Shannahan Bids Farewell

TO THE SO-CALLED "GOOD OLD TIMES."

Mrs. Tucker says 'tis simply ridiculous to hear folks talk of the "good old times" and sound its praises, and try to convince us that the people of to-day missed a lot of good things by being born fifty years too late. It would be just as reasonable to argue that the country has made no progress either socially or commercially. Some writers who try to be sarcastic seem to delight in making little of our women by criticising their style of dress, and seem to want them to go back and don the regalia worn by our grandmothers. There is about as much sense in that as there would be in asking us to do away with the railway and go back to the days of Coughlan's coach, or inviting us to abolish the street car system. Mrs. Tucker says 'tis impudent for any writer to be continually sneering at our young women, for she says that they can compare favourably with any women in the world. No one doubts for a moment that the women of the so-called good old times were good in every particular, but Mrs. Tucker says that the women of to-day are just as good. Let us take into consideration for a moment the change that has come over the scene in the life of the young women of to-day compared with those of the so-called good old times. In the "good old times" nobody went out to work but father, simply because there was no opportunity for the young women of that time to obtain employment except as a servant with some well off family, and if she did accept that kind of employment she got about sufficient wages to keep her shoes repaired. What a change has come about in the last twenty years! Why, we have young women to-day employed in this city by the thousand, earning in many cases just as much as the so-called men who scoff at them because fore-sooth they dress decently, in keeping with the times.

The pen is a powerful instrument that can be used for good or harm, and before a scribe dips his pen in the ink bottle to ridicule his countrywomen, because they adorn themselves with up-to-date apparel, he should remember that everyone, even the young women of this town, have their rights, which ought at all times be respected.

"The 'Good old times,' oh, yes, Tucker says, 'good old times' they were for about five men in every hundred. They had the cream, the other ninety-eight just sniffed the aroma of the good things that were being cooked in the kitchens of the 'Chosen Few.' Good Men lived in the so-called 'good old times,' no one would be foolish enough to contend otherwise, if they weren't good men, exceptionally good men, they would never have lived so long through the tortures they put over them. 'You'd get a quarter of beef at tuppence a pound' the champion of those dismal days tells us. Oh, yes, and you'd also get your 'death of cold' at that time waiting to be sent to work on a wharf at the noble price of three shillings and sixpence a day.

But enough. Let the champion of the so-called good old times praise the work of the brave, hardy race of men and women who lived in those days. They deserve all the praises that pen or tongue can give them. Let him chant those praises and we will join in the chorus. But for goodness sake don't pretend to be weeping, my sarcastic friend, because you cannot get back to them. If you really want to get back to them, if you are in earnest, then here's a little advice that if acted upon will give you a taste of them: Haul on a pair of "bloomers," a moleskin pants, and a dungaree jumper to-morrow morning at half-past six and go down on the nearest wharf and stand there for an hour or so and imagine you are living in the good old times and waiting your chance to be put to work. While you stand there you can keep your heart up by dreaming that if you live long enough you will get a square feed of Beef at "tuppence a pound." Do this for a week, remembering that it was done and endured by the men of long ago. If after that experience you want to go back to the "Good old times," then go, and, I promise you, we will think of you in our dreams as one who had the courage of his convictions, as one who hadn't sense enough to know when he was well off.

We now bid adieu to the good old times. So says Tucker, so says The Cute Man, so say we all.

TIM SHANNAHAN.

Potato salad and shredded fried beef make a good combination for a hot supper.

A piece bag of netting or scrim is convenient, as one can readily find what one is looking for.

Silver that is in use every day can be kept bright if soaked in hot borax water once a week.

Almost any food may be cooked in the casserole instead of being steamed, boiled or baked.

It is an intelligent housewife who knows how to snatch a few minutes' rest between duties.

When hemming new linen soap the hem with castle soap and the needle will slip through easily.

Hockey Notes.

The Victorias and Terra Novas had their final try-out at the Prince's Rink last evening. They will try conclusions this evening and a stiff contest is being looked forward to. Their probable line-up will be:—

Victorias	Terra Novas
Hunt	Goal
Ford	Point
Shinnott	Cover
BrienTobin
ReidWatts
CouttasClouston
PowerSellers
Left
Trapnell

As will be seen, there is a notable change in the ranks of both teams since last year; notably is there much new material with the Terra Novas. Matters are going on apace respecting the contemplated visit of a Canadian team and a definite answer, we understand, will be sent to King's College, Windsor, to-morrow in reply to their communication.

The opinion of the fans and hockey enthusiasts generally is that the bringing here of an outside team would be a capital means to raise a substantial amount for the W. P. A. Funds.

If the present Windsorsites are half as good as the team that was here about a decade of winters ago, then they are worth having. There is a strong inclination on the part of a great many to say that at present our City team is weak, caused by the War. But what about calling on Reserves, such as some of the "has-beens" who played such a classy game the latter part of last winter?

TRUST THE ADMIRALTY.

LONDON, To-day. Carson, First Lord of the Admiralty, referred to Germany's new submarine campaign in a letter excusing himself from addressing the war loan meeting last night, on account of indisposition. He wrote:—"We are threatened with increasing acts of barbarity on the high seas by the enemy who has long substituted the practice of pirates for the laws of nations. I do not delude myself, nor will I attempt to delude you about the dangers of the German submarine campaign. These ruthless and inhuman attacks upon the peaceful shipping of the world have created for us and our Allies a problem as difficult as it is grave. But at least I can say. The problem will be grappled with day and night by the Admiralty with tirelessness and vigor, and hourly anxieties only stir us on to greater increasing effort."

BRITISH CRUISER ATTACKED BY SUB.

BUENOS AYRES, To-day. The British cruiser Amethyst, one of a squadron searching for the German raider in the South Atlantic, was attacked by a submarine, according to the Pernambuco newspaper Journal Pequeno, but repelled the attack. The cruiser then touched at Pernambuco to repair. Although the extent of the damage is not exactly known, the newspaper declares that the British Consul admitted an attack of a submarine on the Amethyst, although the ship bore no evidence of having been in the engagement.

EMBARGO RAISED.

NEW YORK, To-day. The Collector of the port, Malone, decided last night to modify his order under which ships were forbidden to leave port after night fall, and several vessels were permitted to pass quarantine. Every ship was stopped, however, by the torpedo boat destroyer assigned to enforce neutrality and subjected to a thorough examination. Only two of the steamships which sailed last night carried munitions.

RAIDER REPORTED SUNK.

RIO JANEIRO, To-day. Persistent reports have been received by newspapers here that the German raider has been sunk in an engagement with a British squadron.

DANISH STEAMERS TO DISCONTINUE.

COPENHAGEN, To-day. Danish export steamers carrying agricultural products and mail to England will discontinue their sailings, as will ships of various other companies.

AMERICANS RELEASED.

Five Americans, including a negro, were aboard the British steamer Yarrowdale, which was captured by a German raider in the South Atlantic. The men had been interned in Germany, but were released and sent to Copenhagen. They are now being forwarded to England by the British Consul.

SPANISH PRO-GERMANS THINK SITUATION GRAVE.

PARIS, To-day. A Havas despatch from Madrid says that even the Germanophile Press characterizes the Central Empire's blockade note as a document of real gravity and calls upon the people to group themselves around the Government and lend aid without reserve in the conflicts that are bound to present themselves.

U. S. ACTION DETERMINED.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The United States' action in reply to Germany's proclamation of unrestricted submarine warfare has been definitely determined by President Wilson, according to the official belief.

here to-day. What the course is, or when it will be announced remains undisclosed. The White House and State Department maintained strict secrecy, as on former occasions when a note had been despatched to Berlin.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR UNMASKED.

LONDON, To-day. The Times says that there is nothing surprising in the German note to those who are nearest the war. It contends that the communication is merely the logical application of the principle upon which Germany has acted from the outset, namely that necessity knows no laws. The Times sees in the speech of Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg proof that his real attitude on the submarine question has been consistent throughout. Although in his dealings with the United States he has sometimes sacrificed his principles to expediency, he now proclaims, says the Times, that he was always ready to adopt a ruthless U-boat war as soon as it seemed likely to bring Germany a victorious peace; so he flings aside the pretence of humanity unctuously affected in his former notes to President Wilson.

2.00 P.M.

NOT AFRAID OF FRIGHTFULNESS.

PARIS, To-day. Rear-Admiral Lacaze, Minister of Marine, speaking in the Senate yesterday declared that only one half of one per cent of all tonnage which entered French ports during the last eleven months have been sunk by German submarines. He said that this percentage might be a little higher in the future, but that no efforts of the Germans could prevent the final victory of the Allies. The Admiral added, the Germans are trying to do now what they always have done. The world ought to know that they have endeavored to terrify us since the beginning of the war. Disregarding the engagements they made at the Hague they have not hesitated to throw crews and passengers into frail boats and abandon them to the waves and tempests far from any coast. In a great many cases even recently, a number of their victims who could not be reached in time died of hunger, thirst and cold.

THEY WILL SOON BE ENLIGHTENED.

BERLIN, To-day. The attitude of the German people in respect to the new submarine policy, so far as ascertained to-day from conversations with persons in various walks of life, is that the inauguration of an unrestricted submarine campaign is dictated by stern necessity and for self-preservation and that in such a life and death struggle no regard can longer be paid to other considerations. The all absorbing question in every discussion concerns the attitude of America.

GERMAN ATTACKS FAIL.

PARIS, To-day. French trenches south of Leintry in Lorraine were attacked last evening by the Germans. The attacks failed, the War Office announcement says to-day.

WILL WAIT GOVERNMENT INSTRUCTIONS.

NEW YORK, To-day. The owners of American vessels in Transatlantic trade probably will follow the example of the ship owners of the Entente nations and abide by the instructions of their Governments in regard to running the risks of the new German blockade regulations. They awaited to-day the reply of the State Department to a message sent by P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine, seeking advice as to movements of steamships of the American Line. No passenger steamers have left New York for Europe since the declaration of the German blockade, but several freight ships sailed yesterday and last night.

JOINT SELECT COMMISSION.

The postponed meeting of the Joint Select commission of the Legislature, which was to take place yesterday, will be held in the Speaker's room at 5 p.m. to-day.

CARE OF THE BODY. The doctor considers the body a house that needs constant care. If one neglects her house dust and dirt gather in every corner. And because a famous actress loves her art she has persisted in adhering to the rules of her beauty trinity—diet, exercise and bathing. The extreme grace and ease of her little movements are not characteristic of many women of even thirty years. She has no sympathy with the woman who takes a hot soapy bath each day—and wonders why she is listless and inert. She herself makes the bath a source of invigoration. Here is the recipe for a beneficial herb bath: Barley—two pounds; Rice, one pound; pulverized Lupin. Seed, three pounds; Bran, six pounds; Oatmeal, two pounds; Lavender, half pound. Cover this mixture with water and boil for an hour. Strain and add two quarts of this decoction to bath water in which are previously dissolved one ounce of borax and one of bicarbonate of soda. Rub the body with a rough towel and use a flesh brush vigorously. She believes this herb bath is unequalled for softening, whitening and preserving the flesh. She usually drinks a cup of warm milk or a frothy, beaten raw egg just after the bath in order to relieve any faintness of the stomach. After the theatre the famous actress always eats a light supper of simple food and has a rub-down. Rather than use impure soap she will use dried rosemary. She believes that a few handfuls of cowslips in the bath water help to make the flesh firm and that a warm salt rub restores as much vitality as three hours of sleep.

For three years the little son of G. Romanello, of Edenbridge, suffered with a bad attack of eczema, which everything failed to cure until they used Zam-Buk. The father, writing to the Zam-Buk Co., says: "For three years my little son suffered with a severe attack of eczema, which many doctors pronounced incurable. For two years the sores on his eyes and forehead were so bad that he was unable to see. We tried everything, but without any benefit and he was in a shocking condition when Rabbi Shaitit recommended Zam-Buk. This wonderful ointment has entirely cured my boy, and I cannot express my gratitude for his marvelous recovery." Zam-Buk is also unequalled for ringworm, scalp sores, salt rheum, old wounds, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, cuts, scalds, and all skin injuries. 25c. box, 3 for $1.25. January 13th, 1917. Dear Misses Diana and Daphne Davidson. I learn from 'The Daily News', St. John's, Newfoundland, that you have very kindly appealed to the children of Newfoundland to assist in providing an organ for the use of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan daughters who after the war will return to the Royal Victoria Patriotic School now a temporary hospital for wounded soldiers. It will interest you to know that the donations already received amount to £250. In addition to this the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust has made a grant of £320. After several interviews with Sir Frederick Bridge the Organist of Westminster Abbey, I have accepted the estimate of the well known firm of Messrs. Hill Son, Norman and Beard, to erect an Organ for £580. It will be hand blown and thus further donations come in and thus enable us to substitute electrical power.

WATCHING WASHINGTON. LONDON, Feb. 1. The eyes of the British and of all Europe are to-day focussed on Washington, as it is recognized that the question whether the United States will be finally drawn into the European war is being decided there. Not only the policy of the United States but of the neutral European nations is also being largely determined at Washington. From Spain, Holland and Scandinavian countries messages to the English papers say they are waiting for the lead which the United States will give before framing their reply to the German announcement of unfettered maritime war against all cargo ships approaching her enemies' coasts. British officials have declined to speak for publication on the crisis, lest any utterances might be construed in the United States as an officious attempt to influence the American policy, or intrude upon the problem, which they recognize is purely one between a neutral nation and the Central Powers. Two theories are current here and are being warmly discussed. One is that the Central Powers expect to starve out Britain and her allies by unrestricted sea warfare, and that they consider they have done more by trying to shut off American supplies of munitions and food than by continuing friendly relations. The second is that the Central Dynasties consider that at the present moment they may best serve their own interests with their people by bringing upon themselves the hostility of neutral nations and saying they cannot fight the whole world. At no previous stage of the war since the sinking of the Lusitania has the development of the American policy been watched and so curiously awaited. Every news message from the United States, however brief, or however indefinitely worded, is devoured by the public and debated as to its significant bearing in newspaper offices and in the streets.

Newfoundland Children Help Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans in England. Government House, February 1st, 1917. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—The enclosed letter has just come to hand and as we know that there are many lovers of children in Newfoundland we thought it might interest them to know that the Chaplain is the Children's own Chaplain, although now looking after the soldiers. That makes it very specially interesting to us, because, well, he must love children, and he must love music too. So please help us to help Mr. Phipps to have the electrical power blower. That is really a very important part of an organ, no wind no music. With love from your little friends, Diana and Daphne Davidson. P.S.—We may mention that a friend studying at Burlington College, London, S.W., tells us that to their pleasure it was the Newfoundland Sailors who wrote and thanked them for socks and mitts they had knitted. And also some poor Newfoundland soldiers.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Messrs. W. Simmons and Frank Jones were among the passengers who left by this morning's train. They go to Sydney, the former to resume work in the wire mill and the latter to take up some other work. Another of our old and most highly esteemed citizens—Capt. J. J. Hennessy—passed away on Monday last after a long illness. Capt. Hennessy was a sea-faring man in every particular, and commenced that calling when very young. He had reached the age of 77 years. We tender our sympathy to the sorrowing relatives. Mr. Patrick Northcott, an old resident of Bryant's Cove, passed away at that place yesterday morning at the age of 80 years. He was well known in Hr. Grace and much respected. President Coaker and Dr. Lloyd paid a visit yesterday to the Local Council of the F.P.U. here and at 7.30 last night the members, to the number of about 250, left their hall accompanied by the visitors and attended a parade through the streets, going down Harvey Street and on to Water Street by way of Cochrane Street, then back to the Hall. They were then addressed by President Coaker and Dr. Lloyd, who were listened to with keen interest and rapt attention. The S.S. Euphrates arrived from St. John's yesterday morning with the schr. Minnie Maud in tow. Quite a snow storm raged last night, and as a result banks of snow are now to be seen in different parts of the town. Snow-shovellers are not sorry as they are not making hay while the sun shines, but making dollars while the snow lasts. The Sock Social held by St. Catherine's Guild in St. Paul's Hall on Tuesday night was very enjoyable and a success financially. CORRESPONDENT. Hr. Grace, Feb. 1, 1917.

Will Make Special Effort to Collect Arrears. The regular weekly session of the Municipal Board was held last night and was an unusually brief one. The Council's accounts showed that $23,000 of last year's taxes remained unpaid at the end of the past year. This amount added to the outstanding arrears for many years up to January, 1916, made an aggregate of approximately $70,000. A special effort will be made by the Council to collect taxes that are due. When the new Charter comes into being, the law will be strictly enforced. Particulars regarding the death of Denis Sullivan were asked for by The Newfoundland Manufacturers' Mutual Insurance Co. Will be supplied by the Secretary. On recommendation of the Public Health Officer, J. Anderson was given permission to build a stable on Hamilton Street. The reports of the Engineer, Plumbing Inspector and Waste Water Inspector were read and adopted. The vacant land at the junction of Queen's Road and Victoria Street is dangerous to passersby and the owner must put a fence there. The comparative revenue and expenditures for last week were:—

Dramatic Feast at Rossleys.

They certainly know how to impersonate French Canadians, was the general verdict of the audience concerning Fox and Carr's act, as they left Rossley's British Theatre last night. Appearing in an act in which they depict the peculiar characteristics of the French Canadian farmers and lumber jacks. They gave a splendid delineation of the late Dr. Drummond's splendid creations that was indeed a rare treat. "Leetle Dominique," "The Cure of Calumette" and "De Nice Leetle Canadians," were all given with exquisite expression, and not only was the accent and manner of the back woods farmer of Quebec faultlessly portrayed, Mr. Fox not only proved himself an actor of rare ability, but in his curtain speech at the close of the act handed out a bit of advice that should be followed by theatre goers in general. "Don't ask your neighbor how the show was," he said "see it for yourself," and that is the very best advice the writer can offer, for the performance is certainly worthy the patronage of all lovers of high class entertainment. "In the Moon's Rays" by the Essany Co. in two parts is a fine social drama and well worth seeing. "Taking a chance" by the Selig players, a strong Western Drama, and the "Tank Town

Order of parade:

The various units will parade at the Headquarters of the 1st Nfld. Leaving the Furness Wharf at 3.15, the parade will proceed to Government House via Cochrane St., Duckworth St., Ordnance St., entering Government House Grounds by the eastern gate. From Government House the route will be via Military Road, Theatre Hill, Queen St., and Water St. to the Court House Square where the guns will be placed and the parade dismissed. After February 7th, and until further notice the guns will be exhibited in the Court House Square on Water Street every suitable day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public are asked to co-operate heartily and make the occasion a memorable one.
