What Fools Men Are!

CHAPTER XV.

The marquis sat in his darkened room at Fane Abbey, his head drooping on his breast, his white hands lying on the Times spread open on his knee. A certain change had come over the great and powerful marquis since we last saw him. He looked thinner and less stern and cold; at times, in the dimly-lit room, he would sigh heavily and, when the gout was not too rampant, would get up from his chair and pace the room with his head drooped on his chest and his white hands clasped behind. At such times he looked remarkably like Lord Edgar.

The reason of this change was not far to seek. The fact is, the marquis had been thinking. He had plenty of time to do it in, and a vast amount of opportunity, seeing that life went on at Fane Abbey pretty nearly with the monotony which distinguished existence in the Castle of the Sleeping Beauty! So he sat in his silent room and thought, and his thoughts, try as he would, would go in the direction of Lord Edgar.

The marquis had flattered himself for years past that he had got rid of that awkward and troublesome piece of human mechanism, the heart; but he began to fear that he had flattered himself without due cause. If he had no heart, why should he be so perpetually thinking of those hours when Lord Edgar sat beside his bed and ministered to him? Why should his son's handsome face, be continually rising before him? Why should that girl's, Lela Temple's tear-stained face and anguished eyes continue to haunt him and put him into a vague disquietude and unrest?

"I suppose I am getting old and weak, and driveling!" he would mutter to himself, with self-scorn and reproach. "I acted for the best. I saved both him and her. They'll both live to thank me for it! I'd do it again if it needed doing!"

But he could not quiet his conscience or harden his heart with this courageous assertion. He knew that he had acted cruelly; that he had tortured the pretty, trusting, innocent girl—that he had sent his son from him never, perhaps, to see him again. "That was the rub! In his heart of hearts he began to fear that he loved his son. He regarded it as a weakness, but he was compelled to recognize it! In the few days Lord Edgar had spent at the Abbey he had gained a hold upon the marquis' affections. Whether it was his handsome face, or his frank, open-mindedness, or the spirited way in which he had confronted the marquis and defied him, he, the marquis, could not tell. But there was the fact, that he actually missed Lord Edgar, that he ardently desired to see him, and that in the darkened room he fretted and fumed for him.

And yet his pride would not permit him to acknowledge it to himself, much less admit it to Lord Edgar. Though he were dying, he assured himself, he would not send for him. But though he would not send for him he took care that Lord Edgar should be supplied with plenty of money, and had written to him about Lela, as we know. He had hoped that his letter might have brought Lord Edgar down to the Abbey, but he had not come; only a cold, formal note had answered him.

But though Lord Edgar did not come, the marquis heard of him; the sporting news of the newspapers were full of him, and he had the satisfaction of reading each morning an account of the condition of the horse Assassin, which Lord Edgar was to ride in the Gentlemen's race at Badmore. The papers went into the full-est particulars, not confined to the horse, but extending to Lord Edgar himself. They wrote—newspapers nowadays are not respecters of persons by any means—that Lord Edgar was considered to be in splendid condition, that his well-known courage and nerve, which had been tested and proved before this, were still in his possession, and that if Assassin could be managed Lord Edgar was the man to manage it.

Every morning the marquis turned to the sporting news, and read that carefully before he looked at the other parts of the paper. He read a full description of the horse, in which the writers dilated, with evident gusto, upon its evil temper and irritability, and hinted pretty plainly that whoever rode him, be it Lord Edgar or any one else, rode with his life in his hands, and was as likely to lose as to keep it.

Often the marquis dropped the newspaper with a smothered curse. Was it for this that he had prevented Lord Edgar's marriage with Temple's granddaughter—that he should lose his life, break his neck on a race course?

When he reflected that if anything happened to Edgar, the man he hated, Clifford Revel, would be the next marquis, he grew white-hot and mad with rage.

Why did he not write to Lord Edgar, and beg or command him not to ride?

Simply, because he knew that it would be useless, that, having given his word to ride this evil-tempered beast, Lord Edgar would keep that word, though the gallop would carry him to the grave.

This morning he sat with the Times upon his knee, and one or two other morning papers at his feet, pondering and thinking.

"He will be killed," he murmured; "I feel it—I have a feeling of certainty that he will be killed—he, the last of the Farintoshes, and that whited sepulcher, Clifford Revel, will reign here in his stead. And I, with my worldly wisdom, have brought this to pass! Had I allowed him to marry that pretty little child there would have been a son and heir on the way by this time, and I should have died, if not happy, at least contented. Heaven, what fools men are!"

Then he took up the Times, and read the sporting news through again. It was full of Lord Edgar; for the hundredth time the writer pointed out that if Assassin could be induced to start in a good temper, and could be kept in an amiable frame of mind to the end of the race, that it must win; but that if anything occurred to arouse its evil temper, not only would the race be lost, but its rider would be placed in serious jeopardy. It was pleasant reading for a father; it saddened the marquis with a dull, heavy kind of madness.

"To break his neck on a race course—the last of the Fanes!" he muttered. "And he will do it—I feel it!"

With a smothered oath, he folded the Times and put it on the table. As he did so a sudden resolution was formed in his mind.

All the world—that is, all those favored individuals who think they are the world—intended being at Badmore—why should he not go?

No doubt a great number would go in the hope of snatching a pleasing excitement in witnessing the accident which the sporting world predicted to Lord Edgar; why should he not be there?

Badmore was only an hour's drive, an hour and a half at the most, from Fane Abbey. Why should he not go? He thought a moment, and then rang the bell.

Mr. Palmer entered noiselessly, and with an anxious glance at the papers lying around the chair; for lately the marquis's temper had been more violent than ever.

"What horses are there in the stables?" asked the marquis, shortly.

Mr. Palmer was silent for a moment, and that was all the time the marquis gave him.

"You do not know—you know nothing! You are a monument of stupid ignorance! Be good enough to find out and bring me word."

Mr. Palmer retreated, and was absent half an hour, then returned and made his report.

"Fourteen!" echoed the marquis, not angrily, but with faint surprise.

"Yes, my lord. It's a good many, but some of them are Lord Edgar's. I'll tell them to send them to town, if your lordship wishes it," he added, not having forgotten Lord Edgar's grip on his shoulder.

"You will tell them to—said the marquis, with a terrible frown, and in a voice which made Mr. Palmer tremble. "You will do nothing of the sort, sir! On the contrary, you will take this message to the groom of the stables—that he is to receive any number of horses my Lord Edgar chooses to send down, and that if the stables will not hold them, he is to consult with the architect and build others to receive them."

"Yes, my lord," assented Mr. Palmer, wondering what had happened to work this change in his master's mood.

"At the same time it would be well if you succeeded in realizing the fact that my Lord Edgar will be master here presently, and that if you wish to retain your situation and a whole skin on your body, you will study his wishes and interests!"

"Yes, my lord," murmured Mr. Palmer, humbly.

"Good. Go then and give orders that I shall want four horses to take me to the Badmore races."

Public Notice

I am directed by His Excellency the Governor in Council to issue the following notice under Authority of Minute in Council passed 28th February, 1918.

Augmentation of the Pay of Royal Naval Reservists Newfoundland.

The Government of Newfoundland have decided to augment the pay of Newfoundland Royal Naval Reservists so as to place them on the same footing as men of the Newfoundland Regiment.

Under the provision of the War Measure Act, authority is given to the Minister of Militia to deal with the matter of augmentation of pay of the Royal Naval Reservists, Nfld., in consultation with the Senior Naval Officer, St. John's.

It is ordered that a sum of 33c. per day be placed to the credit of each Naval Reservist from the time of commencement of the war, in cases where men were then serving, or otherwise, from the time when their services began up to the time of discharge, or of death, or to the 30th of September, 1917, inclusive.

As the rate of pay of Naval Reservists was increased from October 1st, 1917, and as the difference between the amount they receive and that allowed the members of The Royal Newfoundland Regiment is 17c. per day, this difference will also be credited them from that date.

The foregoing amounts will not in any case be made a payment from Admiralty sources. The Minister of Militia, St. John's, Nfld., is solely responsible for the issue of any sums due.

Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve men serving in any of H. M. Ships, including all members of the Trawler Reserve and those in Defensively Armed Merchant Ships etc., are eligible for the pay as set forth, and should be informed of the following alternatives as regards the method of payment:—

(a) Payment will be made on personal application to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.

(b) Payment will be made to the nominee of any Reserve man, on written application duly witnessed, to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.

(c) Sums due will be placed to the credit of Reserve men who do not desire to avail themselves of the foregoing and can be drawn by them at the expiration of their service.

The following form is to be compiled and forwarded direct to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, Newfoundland, at the earliest possible date:—

NAME AND OFFICIAL NO.	WHAT IS DESIRED DISPOSAL OF AMOUNT DUE UNDER ORDER 1, 2, or 3. (IN CASE OF 2, FULL NAME AND ADDRESS MUST BE GIVEN.)	SIGNATURE AUTHORIZING DISPOSAL.

All communications of any description with regard to these payments are to be made to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, direct.

Payment will commence on 1st May, 1918.

In cases where members of the Royal Naval Reserve (Newfoundland) have been killed in action or died of wounds or sickness, or through any other cause, the amount due as Augmentation Pay will go to the Estate of the deceased. The authority to obtain the Estate of the deceased is, in case of a Will, Letters of Probate; and in case there is not a Will, Letters of Administration. Such letters are issued by the Supreme Court of Newfoundland on the Petition and Proofs of Executor of the Will, or the next of kin. If the Estate does not exceed $500.00, after the proof of the facts has been obtained the petition can be applied for by the Minister of Justice.

With reference to the foregoing, it is suggested that the next of kin of Reservists who are now serving should communicate with them and request them to send their instructions to the Militia Department. No action can be taken until such instructions are received.

Next of kin of deceased Reservists will be communicated with in due course when their claims have been proved.

J. R. BENNETT,
Minister of Militia.

What Has He Not Done

Kaiser Wilhelm was looking down upon the battlefield of Queant, west of Cambrai. A war correspondent of the Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger was near; alongside, perhaps, and noted the pathetic scene:

His Majesty's silence was broken only once, when he remarked to an officer who stood beside him: "What have I not done to preserve the world from these horrors?"

The form of the question implies that his Majesty has done everything, has left nothing undone. This is an important revelation. From it the New York Times says we are able to construct a complete history of the Kaiser's part in the beginning of the war. "Since he did everything, that could be done to prevent the war, he must have begun his labors at Potsdam on July 5, 1914, when the lords of Germany decided to launch it. He positively forbade them to do so; he must have. When they persisted, he, of course, threatened to abdicate rather than to sanction such horrors. They silenced his protests by binding him and gagging him and imprisoning him in the cellar, while they went ahead with their plans."

It was eighteen days later when the conspiracy bore fruit in the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia. The Kaiser was said to be cruising on the North Sea in his yacht at that time. We know now, from his revelation on the battlefield of Queant, that he had a wireless apparatus on his yacht and was keeping it busy with frantic appeals to Kaiser Franz Josef not to carry out the Potsdam plot. In the ten days that followed he did not send the hocus-pocus messages signed with his name, in which the writer pretended a Peckinhamian anxiety for peace and at the same time found some way of blocking everything that Sir Edward Grey or Sazanoff proposed for the purpose of bringing it about. On the contrary, the real Wilhelm was beseeching the lords of Potsdam with urgent pleas to let him accept the proposals of Grey and Sazanoff and get the dispute arbitrated. He must have been! Indeed, we can go further back even than this, says the Times. We must assume that for twenty-five years Kaiser Wilhelm had not been planning this blow at the peace of the world; that he had not been building up his army and creating his navy and taking advantage of every incident, from Agadir to Adrianople, to force the domination of the world by Germany. He did not approve, he disapproved, he must have disapproved, the seizure of Bosnia and Herzegovina in 1908, the stirring up of Bulgaria and Serbia against each other in 1913, and all the other steps that led inevitably down the road to this war. He did everything he could to prevent them. It must be so. And he failed. Now, with a clear conscience, he can ask posterity, by way of the correspondent of the Lokal-Anzeiger, "What have I not done to preserve the world from these horrors?" And, as the Times adds, there is one point on which he need have no doubt—posterity will answer him. The blood of millions is upon his head.—Halifax Chronicle.

Two Memorial Altars

AT CATHEDRAL, ST. GEORGE'S.

Two memorial altars have been placed in the Cathedral at St. George's in honour of the boys who have given up their lives. No better way to show our gratitude than by placing in the chief church of the Diocese some monument to keep green the illustrious memories of those who heroically followed the Trail of the Caribou until they fell. One altar has been placed as a monument to the soldiers (Sacred Heart Altar), the other to the sailors (B. V. Mary—Star of the Sea). The name of each dead hero will be inscribed on a suitable tablet. An honour roll including all the boys who enlisted in the diocese will be erected as a perpetual memory of sterling patriotism. The altars are the last word in chaste design and artistic finish and are indeed worthy of their function.

The pastors have been requested to take up subscriptions in the various parishes. It is expected that every man and woman in the diocese will give a small donation. Donations will be acknowledged in the Star. Subscriptions will be gratefully acknowledged by any of the priests or may be sent to the Bishop. Should there be an over-subscription the difference will be utilized for pious purposes. Each year a Requiem Mass will be sung in the Cathedral for the repose of the souls of the fallen brave.—Western Star.

A VISITOR FROM THE STORK.—Word has been received here of the birth in Boston, May 6th, of a son, Elliott Franklin, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hawkins. Mr. Hawkins, who is of a Harbor Grace family, was for several years confidential clerk in the Colonial Secretary's Office during Sir Robert Bond's administration.

Soft folds of net outline the edges of a surprise waist very pretty. While the crown of some hats are very high some are very flat. Wide blue sashes are worn by little girls with one-piece linen frocks.

MILITARY SERVICE ACT, 1918.

EVERY MAN in Class 1, that is all unmarried men between the ages of 19 and 25 inclusive, must report to the Registrar at the Militia Building, St. John's, on forms provided, before the 24th day of May, 1918, or send an application for exemption.

Report and Application can be sent through the Post Office or may be made personally at the Militia Building to the Registrar.

Claims for exemption must be made on the following grounds:

- (a) It is expedient in the national interest that he should, instead of being employed in military service, be engaged otherwise.
- (b) Has one or more brothers and one of them is serving, or has served, in His Majesty's Naval or Military Forces during the present war.
- (c) That he has three or more brothers and two of them are serving or have served in His Majesty's Naval or Military Forces during the war.
- (d) That he has persons mainly dependent upon him for support, such as parents, brothers or sisters and
- (e) Ill health or infirmity.

EXEMPTION APPLICATIONS may be made to the Tribunal in St. John's through the Registrar and outside St. John's direct to the Commissioners (magistrates) appointed by the Tribunal. Commissioners have power to grant exemptions subject to confirmation by the Court on grounds (b), (c), (d), in cases where a man is so obviously unfit as to be unfit for military service. Ground (a) the Tribunal reserves to itself. Applicants for exemption may be made by the MAN SEEKING EXEMPTION on his behalf by his employer, or business partner or near relative. Application forms will be found at all Post Offices as soon as they can be printed and hurried there by mail.

REPORTS will also be found at all Post Offices. When Report is filled out hand to the Postmaster and get a receipt. Any man in the class called up failing to report is subject to a penalty of five years.

IMPRISONMENT. All who have received REJECTION BADGES must fill out Report for Service form and send same through Post Office or deliver at Militia Building to Registrar or make application to Tribunal in St. John's or to Commissioners (magistrates) in outposts for exemption.

Return or Resign.

The letter addressed to the Acting Premier by the Returned Soldiers and Rejected Volunteers Association, requesting that the Minister of Militia should return to his post or tender his resignation, has been the subject of much discussion in the city and the consensus of opinion favors the demand. The Minister's visit to England is not at all necessary. No military expediency calls for it and if it did, it is quite possible that the Home authorities would be perfectly capable of dealing with any situation that called for instant attention, without the expert advice of the gentleman who holds the portfolio of Militia in Newfoundland. Much could have been forgiven the Minister, if he had taken with him a draft of men to reinforce the Regiment, which since its withdrawal from the 29th division and the firing line, has not been heard from, that is so far as the public knows. There may have been correspondence on this subject, which for military reasons, could not be published. Be that as it may, nothing has yet been done to send the men, so urgently and imperatively demanded, over a month ago. The Regiment, what is left of it, will have cause to feel keenly, the undignified position in which it has been placed by the incapacity of those in authority, and it will not be surprising if there is a strong note of protest from the men "over there." Is it the intention to send reinforcements so soon as possible or has the remnant of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment to occupy a non-combatant position from the present time till the end of the war?

This is a question for the Minister of Militia to answer. The giving away of military secrets is not involved. The country wants to know, and the country should know. Therefore, as no good purpose can be served by the trip to England which this responsible official is now taking, the demand of the Soldiers that he either return or resign, should be backed by an overwhelming public opinion. There is work for the Minister at home. He is absolutely useless in England. The people of Newfoundland entirely disapprove his action in leaving the Dominion at this juncture. The condition of Military affairs imperatively demanded his presence and attention, and the Soldiers Association put the position squarely up to him in these words:—"In the absence of a valid explanation of his going away at such a critical time, Mr. Bennett should either return at once, or tender his resignation, not as to allow of the appointment of a successor who will discharge the duties of his position in a manner which the needs of the country and the Regiment require."

MARGINAL NOTES

THE SESSION.

The House has closed again and its members have departed on their well-earned holiday. Those in the lower chamber, particularly, must be relieved that the anxious strain of long discussion and deliberation is over. I wonder if there is another corner of the globe where the serious work of government has ever degenerated into such a solemn farce as we are yearly compelled to witness. The description and extension acts apart, there is hardly a measure on the list of those just enacted that evokes more than a passing interest, or is worth more. That may not be much matter for complaint—a cynic has said that the less a country is governed the better for it—but the same can hardly be said of the manner in which such legislation as is actually presented is handled. Nobody expects a Government paper to be a masterpiece of style, but it is not to be a mere "politics." It is not politics with these men. It is merely the expression of indignation and disgust that is felt on every side. It is hard to know which fact excites it the more, the shameful dereliction of duty by the minister or the exposed hypocrisy of the Government. It is not a fine combination—the nominal head of the Government and the most responsible official skip out of the way while the Act is being enforced; the real head issues hints as to how it may be avoided. How much more must we suffer?

To-Day's Messages.

NOON.

LONDON, To-day.

Speaking at the Foreign Press Association luncheon, in London, the Chairman paid a tribute to Lord Curzon as one of the great men who had shaped not only the destinies of India, but of the Empire. Lord Curzon replying said, the peace, for which we are fighting, must satisfy those conditions; it must be just and honorable, and secure the peace of the world, for generations, from the horrors of future wars. He hoped that neither the Allies nor the neutrals would ever subscribe to the doctrine that an unjust peace was preferable to a just war, as the former would be the precursor of new and worse wars, and would be a victory for crime and a justification for renewed crime in the future.

FOR VOLUNTARY ENLISTMENT.

DUBLIN, To-day.

A proclamation issued by the Lord Lieutenant yesterday reads "Whereas it has come to our knowledge that certain subjects of His Majesty the King domiciled in Ireland, have conspired to enter, and have entered, into treasonable communication with the German enemy, and whereas such treachery is a menace to the fair name of Ireland, and its glorious military record, a record which is a source of intense pride to a country, whose sons have always distinguished themselves and have fought with such heroism and valour in the past, in the same way as thousands of them are now fighting in this war; and whereas drastic measures must be taken to put down this German plot, which measures will be solely directed against the plot, now therefore, we the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and Governor General of Ireland, have thought fit to issue this proclamation declaring as follows: that it is the duty of all loyal subjects of His Majesty, to assist in every way His Majesty's Government in Ireland, to suppress this treasonable conspiracy, and to defeat the treacherous attempt of Germany to defame the honour of Irishmen for Germany's own ends. "That we hereby call upon all loyal subjects of His Majesty in Ireland, to aid in crushing such conspiracy and so far as in them lies to assist in securing the effective prosecution of the war for the welfare and safety of the Empire. That as a means to this end, we shall cause still further steps to be taken to facilitate and encourage voluntary enlistment in Ireland, in His Majesty's forces, in the hope that without resort to compulsory measures the contribution of Ireland to these forces may be brought up to the proper strength, and made to correspond to the contribution of other parts of the Empire."

Naval Funeral.

The funeral of Royal Naval Reservist Thyer, of Smith Sound, T.B., whose death occurred from pneumonia at the General Hospital yesterday morning, took place from that institution to the railway station at 11 o'clock this morning and was attended with full naval honors. The remains were tenderly placed in a beautiful casket by Undertaker Carnell and were conveyed to the station on a gun carriage hauled by a squad of reservists. A firing party preceded the procession while officers, ship's company and reservists acted as mourners. The remains were placed on board the outgoing express for conveyance to Smith Sound where interment takes place to-morrow.

Another Milk Case

The case of the Department of Public Health vs. a milk vendor of the Goules, St. John's West, who supplied milk to the Poor House, occupied the attention of His Honor Judge Morris for a considerable while this morning. The evidence of several witnesses was taken, including Inspector O'Brien, Government Analyst Davies, and Mrs. F. Ross, Acting Matron of the Poor Asylum.

The Inspector testified as to seizing the milk after delivery on April 3rd; Mr. Davies as to the results of his analysis in which he found 1.67 per cent. fat, 5.33 per cent. solids other than fat, and the balance 98 per cent. most of which would be the natural water.

The natural water found in all good milk is 88.5. The Act calls for 3 p.c. of fat, to all milk offered for sale, which is considered a low standard of milk.

Mr. Leo Carter, who appeared for the Health authorities, pressed hard for a conviction on the ground that the milk was adulterated.

Mr. J. J. McGrath, on behalf of the defendant, claimed for non-suit on the grounds that there was no direct proof that the milk in question was that supplied by the defendant, and furthermore the Act as passed by the Legislature concerning the handling of milk did not affect his client, even if he was responsible for adding water, as by the addition of water it did not make the milk unfit for human consumption. "Unfit for human consumption" is expressly stated in the Act.

A perusal of the Act has convinced us that it is so full of loop holes that to use a well known term, "you could drive a milk cart through it." It is an other example of our hurried and non-interesting pieces of legislation that has been shied through the official records of the House and made law without anyone bothering their heads about it. The case is not yet concluded.

OFFICER'S SELF-SACRIFICE. Admiralty, April 22.—The King has been pleased to approve of the posthumous award of the Albert Medal in gold for gallantry in saving life at sea to Commander Francis Herbert Goodhart, D.S.O., R.N., in recognition of the services in respect of which the medal has been conferred as follows:— Owing to an accident one of his Majesty's submarines sank and became fast on the bottom in 38ft. of water, parts of the vessel became holed. After several hours the only prospect of saving those remaining on board appeared to be for someone to escape from the submarine in order to concert measures with the rescuers, who were by this time present on the surface. Commander Goodhart, after consultation with the commanding officer, volunteered to make the attempt. Accordingly, after placing in his belt a small tin cylinder containing instructions for the rescuers, Commander Goodhart, went into the rising tower with the commanding officer, volunteered to make the attempt. ed up to their waists, and the high-pressure air was turned on; the clips of the conning tower were knocked off and the conning tower lid was soon wide open. Commander Goodhart then stood up in the dome, took a deep breath, and made his escape, but unfortunately, was blown by the pressure of air against part of the superstructure, and was killed by the force of the blow.

The commanding officer, whose intention it had been to return inside the submarine after Commander Goodto the surface by the air pressure, and it was thus rendered possible for the plans for rescuing those still inside

the submarine to be carried out.
Commander Goodhart displayed extreme and heroic daring in attempting to escape from the submarine in order to save the lives of those remaining on board, and thoroughly realized the forlorn nature of his act.
His last remark to the commanding officer was:—"If I don't get up, the

and his Hamburg-American Steamship Company and every man directing every branch of that corporation in the world, have constituted a menace to free institutions everywhere and have simply been advance agents of treachery, treason and pro-German propaganda wherever they have obtained a foothold. Ballin himself has been Emperor William's man
Friday for the past twenty-five years.
He and his creatures have flooded our social, commercial and political life with German spies and have placed these spies within the very ranks of official activity in the United States.
It is about time that the people of this country realized the fact that fifty per cent. of the work of the German murderers and propagandists in America has been accomplished through the social, political and industrial "pull" of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company; the North German Lloyd and the great network of German owned electrical and business concerns which have found a foothold in America.

C'est la Guerre!

By JAMES HOBSON.
Miles and miles behind the Somme
battleground is the village of M—.
That village has been as Heaven to many a lad fresh from the Somme—
M—, with its eggs and milk, its roast apples, its cider, its plump chickens. But that is not my story.
A widow lives there on whom I had the good fortune to be billeted.
She had a little boy named Paul.
Paul's father had died for France—and for us also, one may add—and Paul's mother kept herself and her son by weaving coarse sacks on a hand-loom in an old barn at the bottom of the garden. Very laborious work it was in this cold, draughty barn. The racket the loom made used to wake me in the mornings; the racket was often going on—in the light of an oil lamp—till late at night.
And the results—a few francs a week.
One night after the lad had been put to bed I stole down to the barn to watch. Intent on her work, my approach was unnoticed. She was working patiently but swiftly, keeping herself warm (it was October) by her very energy. I was thinking how fearfully hard the work was compared with the hand-loom weaving I had seen in Lancashire years before; how long her hours, how pitiful the result. When she looked up at last I spoke something of my thoughts to her. She smiled bravely and said,
"C'est la guerre, m'sieu." That was all—C'est la guerre!

C'est la guerre! How many hundreds of French men and women have I heard say the words, and, always with that same brave, patient resignation, that cheerful acceptance of Fate that only great souls can show.
We have no phrase in English that is quite the same. Tommy has caught something of the spirit of it, though.
Often I have heard lads finish warm trades against fancied or real grievances, or shoulder their packs for an unexpected extra mile or two, with the very words and the very shrug of the shoulders that is so inimitably French.
But in English "It's a bit of bad luck
we're having" comes nearest to it.
Whether it was a working party back in the front line only a few hours after being relieved, whether the cooks had burnt the stew, or the rest behind the line was curtailed, or the billet was bad, or the trenches particularly vile, the grin and the phrase inevitably came to someone's lips, and thence afterward the grin to the faces of all.

But folk at home have the spirit too.
The man who can receive the worst news of all with the courageous words, "He has joined many another gallant fellow," has plumbed C'est la guerre! to its depths. And England can number many of these great souls to-day.

SUNLIGHT SOAP.
£1,000 Guarantee of Purity on every Bar.
THE "Sunlight" Guarantee of Purity was never more justified than it is to-day, because it enables us to insure the wives of our gallant soldiers and sailors against the drudgery and worry of household cleaning.
Sunlight Soap saves rubbing—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. That portion of a wife's allowance which must be devoted to the cleaning of the home is, therefore, absolutely safeguarded when spent on Sunlight Soap.
SUNLIGHT SOAP is made for the housewife's profit for only thereby can the makers hope to profit by Sunlight Soap.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I have seen many letters re the coming home of our Blue Put-tee Boys and others who have spent a long period of time in the trenches.
I would like to say, sir, that now is, I think, the best time for them to come, as I understand that the Regiment have been withdrawn from the firing line, and I think that they would have time to get over and back while our forces are being made up. I trust that now Hon. J. R. Bennett, who is making a hurried visit to the other side, will do something in this line which shall lighten our hearts and the hearts of the boys who need the well-earned furlough.
Thanking you now, Mr. Editor, in anticipation and wishing you and your paper every success.
I beg to remain,

The system had heated the factory very successfully, but it had not been installed in the most economical way, and experts estimated that hundreds of tons of coal could have been saved by a more carefully thought out system.

wardrobe with a view to weeding out and renovating. One garment was a dress, bought last summer, which I had worn but little and which I disliked so intensely that I wanted to give it away. As I looked at it and questioned whether I ought to try to wear it or not, a sudden thought came to me: "This is an example of the sort of mistakes you make in spending your clothes appropriation. You are not trying to cheat yourself or anyone else; you are just doing the best you can, and still you make mistakes in the way you spend that money."

Our Daily Story.

TOO MUCH.

Despite uncounted provocations, no oath, curse or swear word had passed the lips of Private Russell France since the first day of war.

The day he left his home his aged father had said to him: "Russell, remember your Sunday school record. You must not let war make you common. If, when you return home with our victorious armies, you can assure me that you have uttered no oath, I will give you my set of Milton's works that you prize so highly."

The room in which a baby sleeps should contain no upholstered furniture or heavy curtains on which dirt and germs could find a lodgment and breeding place.

The temperature of a baby's room should be kept no higher than sixty-eight or seventy degrees and in summer it should be kept as cool as possible. The windows should be kept open day and night in summer and in winter the room should be aired two or three times a day.

A small boy who thought he could not drink milk was persuaded to change his view when his mother thought of supply him with straws purchased at a soda fountain. Drinking milk from that moment became one of the delights of his young life and a troublesome problem was solved for the mother.

END OF THE WAR.

You ask me when the war will end, and sadly I reply, "I fear it will not stop, my friend, till pigs begin to fly." A flippant answer, you will say, to come from my fat tongue; but every hour of every day I hear a question sprung. I am no seer in spangled robe, no wizard full of gail, who looks into a crystal globe and tells what will befall. No prophet's mantle came my way, the mystic's power to lead, and so I really cannot say just when the war will end. Oh, I can see as far ahead as any common swain; and when the morn sky is red, I know there will be rain; and I can tell by sundry signs when there'll be snow and sleet; along such cheap forecasting lines I simply can't be beat. But when you to my lair ascend, along my stairway steep, and ask me when the war will end, "Search me," I say, and weep. In politics I can predict the votes cast, more or less; George Harvey's flaunting plumes are picked, when I begin to guess. And once I won a full size cheese, as good as cheeses are, by guessing just how many peas were in a grocer's jar. All guessing contests I attend, in this and other lands, but ask me when the war will end, and I throw up my hands.

The Murder at Brandenburg.

(From the New York Times.) The burning alive of seven prisoners of war—one English sailor, one French soldier, and five Russians—in the German prison camp at Brandenburg is officially established. The statements of the British and German Governments, as printed in our Editorial Section yesterday, agree on the fact. The fire was accidental. That is to be assumed. Eyewitnesses assert that when the prison shack took fire the seven inmates; that they resolutely prevented other prisoners from going to the rescue; and that when the endangered men tried to climb out through the window, a sentry bayoneted them one after the other and they fell back into the flames. The first to suffer in this way was John Genover, the English sailor, and his fate is thus described in a memorandum drawn up by eight Spanish sailors who saw it:

"Those inside the dungeon were being choked. The Englishman broke the panes of a small window with the idea of freeing himself and his companions. The sentry, seeing him leaning out of the window, gave him a tremendous thrust in the chest. The wounded man fell like lead. A small but revolting struggle then took place. The prisoners attempted to get out, and the German soldier reddened his bayonet again and again with the blood of the men shut up, who saw with horror that the fire was increasing."

So say the Spanish sailors. An English prisoner of war, who tells the same story, adds that after the bayoneting of Genover "a rush forward" was made to break the place open, "but we were driven off by other armed Germans who had arrived on the scene." Another eyewitness says that when he and other prisoners attempted to go to the rescue, "they placed a cordon of German soldiers" at a distance of sixty yards, "around the cells, with rifles loaded and fixed bayonets, so as we could not get near."

WAR REVIEW.
American troops are awaiting the when they will be thrown into an entirely new part of the battlefield in France. This time they are behind the British positions. The announcement that the British Union Jack and the French tricolor on this battlefield said that Americans were completing their line in the area occupied by the Germans which are blocking the path of the line from Merville to Ypres. This is the fifth section of the line where Americans have been fighting. The others are east of Lunenburg, northwest of Toul, north of St. Mihiel, and in the heights of the Meuse, in the Mont Didier sector of the Champagne battle area. How many Americans are behind the British, when they arrived and the part of the United States from which they are drawn is not known. It is probable that they are not to be used as a separate unit, but will be drafted with the British in meeting the next stroke of the Germans in the northern part of the front. During the past day the action of the enemy has been most pronounced at the tips of the salients in the Allied lines in the west and some fronts. There was a notable increase in the German ar-illery fire on the Lys front, in front of Hazebrouck, while Halites east of Amiens has again been deluged with shells from the German cannon. At this point the French have made notable advances of late and at no time since the German wedge ceased to move early in April has this region been quiet. The perfect weather that has prevailed for many days over the whole western front has led to an unusual number of battles between air squadrons. In these combats the enemy seems to have suffered heavily and while the Allies have not escaped unscathed, they appear to have maintained their mastery of the air. Along the whole front in France the tension under which the men are working has been reflected by the large numbers of trench raiding forces. Nowhere, however, has there been a conflict which might be considered more than a skirmish. There have been no further reports from Rome or Vienna relative to operations on the Italian front where on Thursday the Italians made determined attacks on Austrian positions east of Brenta River.

OVER 40 YEARS ON THE ROAD

The name of W. G. Reid of Hamilton, Ont., is a familiar one to thousands throughout the Dominion. For over forty years Mr. Reid has seen service as a commercial traveller. A letter recently received from him indicates how he suffered from Rheumatism, and at last found relief.

GETTING READY FOR OFFENSIVE.
LONDON, May 17. The Associated Press has been given the following summary of the military situation as representing the considered opinion of the British General Staff: The situation on the West front has been quiet during the past week except for minor raiding operations, in which the Allies on the whole had the advantage. The momentum of the Germans in the opening spring offensive has been expended, but it is clear as now boiling up for another big effort. The longer the Germans wait the more men they can put in from divisions which have been resting and reforming, and if they wait only a little longer they will be able to resume the offensive on the same scale as before, when they opened on a front of fifty miles. But they cannot wait too long. The steady stream of American reinforcements is coming faster. The Germans still pretend to treat the Americans as negligible, but the German staff doesn't under-rate them. If the German staff hadn't taken the American Army seriously, it is doubtful whether they would hazard their whole future on the dangerous expedient of a spring offensive this year.

AMERICAN ARMY IN THE WAR ZONE.
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 17. (By the Associated Press.)—Troops of the new army have arrived within the zone of British forces in Northern France, and are now completing their training in the area occupied by the troops organ in Switzerland says: "It is nothing else but the annexation of Austria-Hungary by the Germans." This is further reflected in the comments of the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung which says "The Austrian people ought to know if in the agreement reached at German headquarters, Baron Burián maintained Count Cserlin's position that Austro-Hungary would defend her pre-war possessions, her allies and herself but wouldn't fight for imperialistic aims."

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.
Eastern Theatre—There was reciprocal artillery activity in the Doin-Angel-Cern tent and Monastir sectors. There were patrol encounters west of Lake Ochrida. British aviators bombed enemy establishments around Sere and Perna.

AUSTRALIAN WAR LOAN.
MELBOURNE, May 17. (Via Reuter's Agency.)—Acting Premier Watt to-day moved a resolution in the House of Representatives authorizing the flotation of a war loan of £3,000,000 at five per centum subject to taxation.

ANOTHER WINTER OF WAR.
BERNE, May 17. (Via British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—In a speech before the Wurtemberg Diet, Herr Haasmann, one of the leaders of the Progressive Party said that a fifth winter war was inevitable. The Germans must make up their minds to face disappointment he said, instead of obtaining the victory hoped for during the summer.

Ah! How "Tiz" Helps Tired Aching Feet.
Instant relief for sore, swollen, tender, calloused feet and corns.

You're footsick! Your feet feel tired, puffed-up, chafed, aching, sweaty, and they need "Tiz." "Tiz" makes feet remarkably fresh and sore-proof. "Tiz" takes the pain and burn right out of corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is the grandest foot-gladdener the world has ever known.

GERMAN FOOD REDUCTIONS.
BASEL, May 17. Reduction of the German bread ration from 200 to 160 grammes daily per person has been decreed, says an official despatch from Berlin. A despatch from Bucharest to the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, reports that the exports of foodstuffs and fodder from Roumania passed the second million tons in amount at the end of April.

SEIZING WITHHELD FOODSTUFFS.
AMSTERDAM, May 17. Extreme steps taken by the Dutch authorities in sending troops to farms for the purpose of seizing wrongfully withheld stocks of grain, has aroused such indignation among the farmers affected that they threaten to plow up their fields. In some cases they are alleged to have taken this unpatriotic course. The food shortage in Holland is becoming serious; not only is wheat scarce, but other foodstuffs as well. It has been decided that on June 13 butter and other fats will be added to the ration list.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
LONDON, May 17. A suggestion that the United States ask Holland to take the initiative in calling upon the Allied Governments to confer at the Hague, not in substitution for, but as preliminary to the third Hague peace conference, was made by George N. Barnes, Labor member of the War Cabinet without portfolio, in discussing the question of a league of nations last night, and he expressed hope that other Hague peace conferences would be held after the war. An Allied Conference at the Hague now, Mr. Barnes added, could be held without slackening the efforts to beat the Germans, and "in fact might even induce Germany to respect her position in the world. People everywhere are ready for such a meeting," he believed.

WILL ANSWER WITH REVOLUTION.
WASHINGTON, May 17. According to an official despatch from Paris to-day, quoting a telegram to the Matin from Zurich, it is asserted that the Czech delegation in Vienna through their leader, Deputy Stok, has declared that if the Austrian Government proceed to establish German districts in Bohemia the Czech nation will answer with a bloody revolution. The despatch says Judoslav circles are preparing for a struggle.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY ANNEXED.
LONDON, May 17. (Via Reuter's Agency.)—There is uneasiness in Austria regarding the new Austro-German alliance of which the Volkrecht, the leading Socialist

Not a Bible Student.
The London Chronicle gives the following extract from a Palestine officer's letter: On the day after the official entry I got leave to go into Jerusalem and have a look round, to see some, at least, of the places with which my name I had been familiar. I particularly wanted to find the Mount of Olives. Seeing one of my own platoon, I walked up to him and said, "Where's the Mount of Olives?" He looked at me in a puzzled way for a moment, and then blurted out, "Dunno, sir! I don't know where any of the pubs is."

Great Skin Cure Stirs Country.
A new scientific discovery for skin diseases is attracting the attention of all doctors in Newfoundland and Canada. This discovery gives instant relief to the most aggravated cases of Eczema and allied diseases and brings about permanent cures in a fortnight. It is called the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

Apparently no case of eczema can stand against this simple remedy, D. D. D. Prescription. As soon as the first few drops of this cleansing, soothing liquid are applied, the itch is gone. D. D. D. cures because it penetrates the skin and washes away impurities, unlike greasy salves which merely clog the pores and aggravate disease. D. D. D. penetrates to the disease germs, kills them and then soothes and heals the skin. D. D. D. is being used with great success for all forms of Eczema, Bad Leg, Pimples, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Barber's Itch and in fact all skin diseases.

Test this great cure; don't delay. Get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold Everywhere. Recommended by T. McMurdo & Co., A. W.

Unintelligible Phrasing

"Why is it," asks the Calgary Herald, "that these Military Service regulations have to be so phrased as to be unintelligible to the people they are supposed to affect?"

A little more plain English and less legal phraseology would be acceptable. In many instances the verbiage is, as another paper says, so confusing that the officials appointed to enforce them experience difficulty in comprehending their real intent.

The same criticism applies to many of the Food Board regulations. Tell the people simply and plainly what they ought to do and they will do it.

The Industrial Worker.

A new publication made its bow to the public this morning. The newest recruit to the ranks of journalism being The Industrial Worker, which is issued under the auspices, and as the official organ, of the Newfoundland Industrial Workers Association.

The paper, which is the usual six page seven column edition, will be published bi-weekly, and will be mainly devoted to matters affecting the work of the Association and its members.

The policy of The Industrial Worker is fully set forth in article under the caption of "Our Policy" and no doubt this policy will be maintained.

Mr. M. J. James, is the Editor-Manager and associated with him are Messrs. P. Bennett, W. Smith, M. E. Mullenbow who form the Board of Directors.

It gives us much pleasure to compliment the management on the neat and attractive appearance of the initial issue, and to wish them success and good luck.

The 29th Division.

The annual service in memory of the famous 29th Division (Gallipoli, 1915-16) took place at 11 a.m. on Thursday, April 25 (the anniversary of the landing), in Holy Trinity Church, Eltham, S.E. It was in the form of a Solemn Requiem.

The band of the Royal Artillery, assisted, and a sermon was preached by the Bishop of Woolwich, C.F. (T.) Seats were reserved for all friends of the Division by the vicar, the Rev. H. A. Hall, C.F. (T.) The collection went towards the endowment of an annual service in perpetuity, for which £60 is still needed.

and sincere is the regret expressed throughout the Parish by Rev. D. O'Callaghan, who as Parish Priest there since 1916, and who has been in the new Parish of Mid-Cape Cove and Logy Bay.

regretted Pastor, who was at times an energetic, zealous and untiring worker, and who had temporal advancement and a true, sincere friend, and who in the Parish endeared himself to all, both old and young, and consequently with penitence they met him after Mass yesterday to present him with their addresses.

Members of the Holy Name Society first with the presentation following address read by Rev. D. O'Callaghan, President of the Parish.

Dear Sir,—

The members of the Holy Name Society of Flatrock, having with profound regret of your departure from amongst us, and in this opportunity of to-day and tendering to you most sincere and heartfelt expressions of reverence, love and affection, approach you with sentiments of respect for your Holy Priesthood, and many ministrations to our wants and the many acts of which you have taught us to do, will not soon be forgotten by us.

Under your most sincere and affectionate attention, which is brought to our hearts and minds in our frequent meetings with you, the memory of which will remain engraven on our hearts.

Remembered with sentiments of affection for the heartfelt interest always taken in our temporal and spiritual welfare, we pray that you will ascend our prayers that He may grant you speedy restoration to health and spare you for many years to labour in His Vineyard.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a tiny token of our gratitude and with it our best wishes for your future happiness and success. May God shower upon you and your future labours all His choicest blessings in this life, and after this life.

life grant you a glorious crown of immortality.

Signed on behalf of the Society, Margaret Everson, President; Katherine Maher, Vice-President; Bridget Maher, Secretary; Mary Ann Everson, Treasurer.

Following the address from the Blessed Virgin's Society came an address and present from the school children. The address was read by Miss Katherine Martin and it was expressed the regret which was felt by them at his departure. With the school children Father O'Callaghan was ever a favorite, and to him they were accustomed to look with that implicit confidence which children place in those from whom they receive only kindness. Frequently was the tedium of the school hours brightened by his visits, while his kind words of encouragement were ever an incentive to them in their work.

The rev. gentleman thanked all for their addresses and presents and in very touching words expressed his appreciation of them. And few were the hearts that were unmoved as he bade them farewell and they knelt, for, what might be the last time, to receive his blessing.

In Memoriam.

Pte. Samuel J. Gillespie, Killed in Action.

With feelings of heartfelt sympathy we record the death of Pte. Samuel J. Gillespie. Like many others of our brave heroes who have already made the supreme sacrifice, he was killed in action, April 13th. Pte. Gillespie was amongst the first from Fortune Harbor to answer the call of King and Country, and although a mere lad he can be justly termed a true man. Being of a cheerful disposition he was a great favorite with all who knew him, and his death was a shock to his many friends. Pte. Gillespie is the son of Mary and the late John Gillespie. To his sorrowing mother, brothers and sisters we extend sincere sympathy.

Mrs. Gillespie has another son Pte. Patrick Gillespie now lying in Wandsworth Hospital suffering from a wound in the right arm. Shortly before he was wounded he voluntarily gave 450 cubic centimetres of his blood for transfusion to save the life of officer Goddard, of the Queen's Own Rifles. What more striking illustration of his bravery and generosity than this can we have. Capable of such a meritorious act as this for an entire stranger, what would he not do for his friends and comrades. Private Gillespie enlisted two years ago. —Members Queen Mary's Guild, Fortune Hr., April 9, 1918.

Defective Acoustic Properties.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the difficulty experienced by the jury in hearing the evidence of the witnesses in the recent charge for manslaughter, I think it would not be out of place to make a few remarks.

In the first place the Supreme Court is very badly situated. It should be somewhere on the "higher levels" removed from the noise of traffic of the town. At times during the hearing of evidence yesterday the noise from Water Street was almost deafening, while when some bolshemakers started work near the front door on Duckworth Street it was impossible to hear anything.

In the second place the acoustic properties of the court room are dreadfully bad. These drawbacks, I suppose, cannot be altered now.

In the third place I would like to make some suggestions as regards the arrangements of the court room to the "powers that be." The presiding Judge, of course, very properly occupies the prominent position, though it is unfortunate that he has to sit with his back to the light, so that his expression cannot be clearly seen by the Jurors. The chief part of the room is taken up by the "dress circle" and, apart from the counsel engaged in the case, is empty or casually occupied by stray lawyers or members of the unprofessional public who have or think they have a right to a front seat, and who just drop in out of curiosity or to pass away an hour or so free of charge.

The prisoner is at the back of the court (perhaps as near the Judge as he wishes to get), but far removed from the witnesses who are giving evidence in the case in which he is the chief one interested.

While the Jurors (those unfortunate men who are made so much of while the preliminaries to their selection are going on, and who if after being called do not come up to the standard of good looks set by the counsel in the case are ignominiously ordered out of the box again), after they have been selected are corralled in any old uncoupled corner out of the way and troubled very little more about while the case is going on.

Now most witnesses especially when undergoing cross-examination, are more or less nervous, and being close to the examining counsel are apt to speak in a low tone, so that the examination often sounds more like a private conversation than otherwise.

Now it seems to me that both the Prisoner and the Jury are rather important items in the performance, and should be allowed to occupy more prominent positions than they do.

Suppose the arrangement were something like this:

The Jury box in front of the Judge's box, and behind two cross tables allowed for the counsel engaged in the case. The Prisoner between the Judge and Jury on the left of the former and opposite the witness box, then all the important actors in the case would be within earshot of one another, and everything be more satisfactory all round.

Yours truly,
JUROR.

Gower St Adult Bible Class.

The Ladies' and Men's Adult Bible Classes of Gower St. Church are reporting for service to-morrow, Sunday, May 19th, when an address will be given by Hon. R. A. Squires, with other special items to follow. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Come along and bring your friends. Service commences at 2.30 p.m. in the Church Parlor. Entrance from Gower Street.

Everyday Etiquette.

"How should dishes be served to guests at the table?" inquired Mrs. Justwood.

"All dishes should be offered at the left of the guest if the guest is to help himself. Dishes left for the guest must be placed from the right side," answered her mother.

The Romance of Sabastopol.

(From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.)

"From Odessa, on to Sebastopol." Such is the Kaiser's plan as outlined in the general despatches. Sebastopol! What a word with which to wake the memory and fire the imagination! Here, on this promontory, jutting out into the Black Sea, in the legendary days of Greece, Iphigenia, daughter of Homer Agamemnon, was sacrificed in the temple of Diana after her preservation from the altar of sacrifice. From that shore her eyes must have watched the sea moodily, for her sentence was to slay every Greek who landed in the harbor. The story of her escape is the climax of one of the old Greek tragedies. Here on this site rose the old Tartar valley of Akhtis, and Genoese colonists built Balaklava like a suburb, eight miles away. It was Catherine II. of Russia who made the Crimea a part of that country and built the famous city of Sebastopol, the strongest citadel on the Black Sea; possibly at that time the strongest in the world. That was in 1783. In 1854 there blew through Europe the fierce storm of the Crimean War when Russia strove with France and England and Turkey over a question of church protection. Sebastopol became the storm centre, and the world had never seen such fighting as befell within sight of its walls. There the guns thundered on the Malakoff and the Redan day after day; and night after night the English soldiers lay under the stars and sang the songs of the camp, and as they sang "Forgo't was Britain's glory." Each heart recalled a different name. But all sang 'Annie Laurie.' There fever and death walked through the ranks, and there Florence Nightingale, "angel of the Crimea," carried her ministrations to the wounded and dying. There, in the Balaklava district, on the winds of destiny went the "Charge of the Light

Incidents of the Zebrugge Fight.

Vindictive took two black cats into action.

The Royal Australian Navy had a few men in the ships which got inside the mole.

Captain Carpenter, of Vindictive, had five bullet holes in his cap, the peak of which was shot away.

The captains' quarters of Iris and Dafoed, which were Mersey ferry-boats, are still labelled "Ladies only."

The body of Captain H. C. Hlalahan, killed on board Vindictive, was according to his wishes, buried at sea.

Commander Brock, it is believed, fell very seriously wounded or dead when leading a party in the direction of a German battery on the mole.

When the crew of Vindictive went home on leave from Dover Captain Carpenter went on the platform and shook hands with all the men.

A Royal Marine who boarded a Hun destroyer at Zebrugge said to a Hun before leaving the ship, "Sorry, old chap, but I'm a marine myself, so there's no harm in my taking your helmet." He wore it when he arrived back and some people took him for a German prisoner.

In his cabin in Vindictive at Dover Captain Carpenter in telling the story of the raid, said: "On the way across before the operation the Admiral made a signal to Vindictive, 'St. George for England' (it was St. George's Day), and the reply was made to him, 'May we give the dragon's tail a damned good twist.'—Daily Mail.

A Minister's Evidence.

That Piles or Hemorrhoids, Can be Quickly Cured by the Peace Cured Many Years Ago.

There has come to use recently these two letters from prominent men who bear unquestionable testimony in regard to Dr. Chase's Ointment as a prompt and lasting cure for piles.

"These men give their evidence freely because they know what it means to suffer from the tortures of piles and then be cured. They feel it a duty and a pleasure to let others know how they, too, may be cured."

Rev. Frank N. Bowes, Methodist Minister, Priceville, Ont., writes: "In the winter of 1912 I was stationed in Cobalt. I went for a snowshoe tramp one day, and sat for only a few minutes on a cold stump waiting for some comrades to catch up to me. From sitting on the damp stump I contracted piles, and suffered so severely that it caused me great pain to walk. A friend recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I immediately purchased a small box, which very rapidly effected a cure. I always keep a box on hand and find it excellent for any kind of wound or sore."

Mr. W. B. Thorne, J.P., Alderside, Alta., writes: "It was twenty-eight years ago that I became acquainted with the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment and would not be without it on any account, as it never fails to do its work. I was first induced to try it for piles. Less than one box cured me, and I have never been troubled since. That was twenty-eight years ago, so I think the cure is permanent. It is good for sore lips and hands, chafing and, in fact, all sorts of sores. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others."

You can put Dr. Chase's Ointment to the test in any case of piles with the utmost assurance that you will obtain relief from suffering and ultimately lasting cure. 80 cents a box, at all dealers, or Birmanshaw, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the box you buy.

Knock Down Motor Engines!

4 H.P., $110.00; 8 H.P., 2 Cylinder, $175.00.

A new idea in Motors. We have secured the agency for the celebrated "Knock Down" Motor Engines. Each part of these engines is made so perfect that it is not necessary to assemble and test the engine before shipment. You save the cost of all that work by doing the work yourself.

All parts of the engine are carefully packed and shipped just as they come from the automatic machines at the factory—not even painted—full directions for assembling, including a picture with number and name of each part, are sent you. The Company guarantees that every part will fit perfectly, and that any man who can read English and use a wrench can set them up.

These engines are guaranteed exactly the same as common engines that have been fitted and tested at the factory and sold at double the price. Why not save a month's wages by setting up your own engine? These engines are 2 cycle. Terms: half cash with order, balance on arrival.

On rush orders, can wire order and have engine sent by express.

WATERPROOF ENGINES,
Four Cycle.

Here is what you have been looking for, a special Four Cycle Engine, specially fitted with a waterproof ignition system, at a price to meet all competitions.

1 CYLINDER 2 HORSE POWER	70.00
2 CYLINDER 4 HORSE POWER	130.00
3 CYLINDER 6 HORSE POWER	190.00
4 CYLINDER 8 HORSE POWER	240.00
5 CYLINDER 12 HORSE POWER	295.00

These Engines come set up ready for use. Everyone knows that a Four Cycle Engine will produce the same power on much less fuel than any two Cycle Engine made; it will also be much cleaner.

The only objection to Four Cycle Engines has been the difficulty of keeping the ignition dry in wet weather; this objection is overcome in our "WATERPROOF" Engines. A big advantage in having two or more Cylinders is to reduce vibration and give steady power; a smooth running Engine will last much longer than any other.

Write or wire if interested. Two shipments of Engines now on road, expected here by May 25th. Wire your order.

ST. Louis Cash Registers!

We have secured the Agency for the St. Louis Cash Register line. These are not second-hand or rebuilt machines, but are new Registers, built in a new factory, and are sold at about half the price of the common registers.
