

BACK TO THE FARM.

[EVERY THING WEAR IS SIXTY CENT A BUSHEL.]

Yes, mother, I'm back to the farm an' back this time to stay. Seems like a dozen years since the day I went away. Through the bridge call that was born just afore I quit the plough. Hain't growed too much more nor a siable heifer now.

Why, they're one big pawn-shop, where everybody's in debt. Where everything costs like thunder and money is hard to get. And the fortunes we used to read of are mostly paper, ye know. It's either show an' starvation or starvation without show.

It's durned hard times in the city—the hardest I ever see. An' thousands of strong young fellows are much woff of me. Not havin' no home to go to an' stan' between them and arm, they kaint do the Prudigal Son act an' dig out back to the farm.

Not as I've blowed myself in a way that should bring me to shame, Boodin' or knockin' around ter git myself a hard name. Never done more than let me sometimes take a drink with a friend, An' squander a quarter or so, just so I could hold up my end.

Why didn't I write for money? I reckon I'd too much git, I'd set out to make my fortune an' was bound I wouldn't git. Nor own myself such a dogged old chump, after settin' on such hills. As ter come on dad for the long staff to settle my boardin' bills.

Well, I toughed it as long as I could, but I didn't get no show. An' the boardin' bills that come down an' I hadn't no place to go. My clothes was mostly in lock—was hard to git or sup. So Thursday I took a tumble an' just throwed the durn thing up.

THE GOVERNOR'S DECREE.

How it Affects the Manufacturers' Life—Some Interesting Facts.

Our governors and law-givers have decreed that once a year, for the information and guidance of these our people, corporate bodies with their charges keep shall give an account of their stewardship. And if so be that these corporate bodies have progressed and advanced, and have added to their stores, that they shall take unto themselves as much credit as they can for their wisdom and good guidance; and shall show it to the people in a language which shall be understood by all.

The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company began business in Canada on 12th August, 1887, not yet seven years ago, and at this time of writing has a larger amount of business on its books than any other Canadian company, and at the same time. The people of Canada have taken the Manufacturers Life into their confidence, and in the most overwhelming opposition and the most conflict of opposing interests, this company stands today in the pride of place amongst the oldest and largest institutions that our country can boast of, and who have only obtained their position after years of patient and persevering effort.

There are the facts, and by no process of "Hurrub, boy!" and whooping can be they brought about. The secret of the Company's success is to be found in the words of the President, who on being asked to accord the late Sir John A. Macdonald on June 25, 1891, said: "Without adverting to the peculiar circumstances under which Sir John Macdonald joined the company, I must say that I determined long since to identify myself with the company, asking only the hearty co-operation of all the shareholders. With that exception, I believe that the company is a good one, and that it has no other to be desired."

The great contest is over.

The greatest Tankard contest is over and the prize goes to our own Granites.

The favorites ran the gauntlet of Group 3, defeating Toronto and Brampton by big margins.

The contest in the final was scarcely so easy, as twice they had close calls.

Gale pressed them severely, and but for a little good luck near the close they would have won.

The final was another close call, when good management, assisted by a little good luck near the close, gave them ultimate victory and retired Dundas.

Their first and only defeat was when they were beaten by Dundas and Sarnia succumbed.

Dundas Ahead For 30 Ends.

The galleries and platforms were crowded early in the afternoon and jammed towards the finish at 6.30.

As the score shows, Dundas led by 100 to 90, and it was those six scored by Dundas that brought the Granites victory.

Williamson and Bertram were the star curriers, and the other rink got through three ends.

THE HENRY IRVING CRAZE.

He Got a Straight Tip, But Was Three Hours Late.

"Do you want a tip on a good match?" asked George. "No, decidedly and emphatically, no. You can hold on to it as far as I am concerned," answered Alfred.

"But this conversation," said Alfred, "is friendly. I got the straight, silent, friendly tip last Monday, and told the loveless girl in the world to prepare for Irving's performance. The tip was no good, indeed, of going down to the stock office at midnight I should have been there three hours ago."

"Why, one Shylock had the nerve to ask me $15 blood-money for his number, but when I tumbled to the racket—it was too much for me. Love, fortune, everything was forgotten. I wouldn't pull on the other end of the rope. Well, I explained the affair last night to her, but she couldn't see through the number racket—it was all for the wind and she was no tipster. Finally she got mad, and calling Louis Xilike at my home, I declared in an Ellen Terry voice that she was to be paid for the sale of her number, and she graciously accepted the stage. "Be gone, base, mer-cen-ary, false-hearted man, you'll get your money, my Shylock. No, sir, you're too—too—too pen-u-ri-ous. Go! I went. Now, I could forgive her tragedy, but to say she should be her Shylock—just as I wanted a flock of peas! But I'll get square. I'm going to write Henry Irving and see if I can't get his engagements or the reduction in his salary and sell midnight numbers to other tipsters."

"Why do you do that?" said George, "you're just a little down on your luck. Now, I know that Miss—has only one fault to find with you, and that is the outrageous size of your feet. Everybody laughs at them, and she objects. Don't fret, but she will get over the disappointment of not seeing Irving, but your feet—never! Now, what I want to tell you is, that there's no tipster alive who can tip you better than I do."

"I tell you, they're almost giving them away. Why, beautiful piccadilly sewed lace boots for one dollar. Take your tip and get a pair of genuine brocade piccadilly boots at once, and also take good care to show her your feet. It will be for her own good."

THE HENRY IRVING CRAZE.

He Got a Straight Tip, But Was Three Hours Late.

"Do you want a tip on a good match?" asked George. "No, decidedly and emphatically, no. You can hold on to it as far as I am concerned," answered Alfred.

"But this conversation," said Alfred, "is friendly. I got the straight, silent, friendly tip last Monday, and told the loveless girl in the world to prepare for Irving's performance. The tip was no good, indeed, of going down to the stock office at midnight I should have been there three hours ago."

"Why, one Shylock had the nerve to ask me $15 blood-money for his number, but when I tumbled to the racket—it was too much for me. Love, fortune, everything was forgotten. I wouldn't pull on the other end of the rope. Well, I explained the affair last night to her, but she couldn't see through the number racket—it was all for the wind and she was no tipster. Finally she got mad, and calling Louis Xilike at my home, I declared in an Ellen Terry voice that she was to be paid for the sale of her number, and she graciously accepted the stage. "Be gone, base, mer-cen-ary, false-hearted man, you'll get your money, my Shylock. No, sir, you're too—too—too pen-u-ri-ous. Go! I went. Now, I could forgive her tragedy, but to say she should be her Shylock—just as I wanted a flock of peas! But I'll get square. I'm going to write Henry Irving and see if I can't get his engagements or the reduction in his salary and sell midnight numbers to other tipsters."

"Why do you do that?" said George, "you're just a little down on your luck. Now, I know that Miss—has only one fault to find with you, and that is the outrageous size of your feet. Everybody laughs at them, and she objects. Don't fret, but she will get over the disappointment of not seeing Irving, but your feet—never! Now, what I want to tell you is, that there's no tipster alive who can tip you better than I do."

"I tell you, they're almost giving them away. Why, beautiful piccadilly sewed lace boots for one dollar. Take your tip and get a pair of genuine brocade piccadilly boots at once, and also take good care to show her your feet. It will be for her own good."

Sir Oliver Mowat with our Opportunity.

We are indebted to The Montreal Star for statistics in regard to the iron industry that every Canadian ought to make himself acquainted with. These statistics teach a lesson that Canada must learn and act upon if she wishes to advance in material prosperity. The iron tariff amendments of 1887, which the Liberal press have denounced so loudly, have not had the effect of increasing the price of iron in Canada. The price of iron at the Canadian furnaces to-day is precisely the same as at Pittsburgh, the great iron centre of the United States, and only three per cent higher than at the furnaces of Great Britain. Of course the statistics connected with the production of metal are the most difficult of establishment, and of iron especially. Several years elapsed after the amendments of 1887 before they began to have any appreciable effects, but latterly the wisdom of putting on the iron duties has become evident. Probably the best evidence of all is the fact we have already stated as to the price of iron in Canada compared with the price in other countries. But in addition to this fact evidence we have some significant facts as to production. At the time the tariff was amended there were in operation one blast furnace at Londonderry, N.S., and two small stacks at Drummondville, Que., while at Radnor, Pique, there was a small charcoal iron furnace stack, with a capacity of four tons per day, which was only in operation for about two months each year. The total output of all the furnaces the year before the tariff was amended was 78,180 tons. In April, 1892, the Canadian Iron Furnace Company put into blast at Radnor, Pique, a new furnace, with a capacity of forty tons per day of high-class charcoal iron; early in the spring of 1893 the new Glasgow Iron, Coal and Railway Company put into blast at Pictou, Pictou County, N.S., a new furnace with a daily capacity of 100 tons of pig iron, and just at the close of 1893 the Pictou Charcoal Iron Company of Bridgewater, N.S., started a furnace which will turn out five thousand tons of charcoal iron a year. In 1892 the total output of the Canadian furnaces was 51,000 tons, an increase of nearly one hundred per cent. over the year before the tariff was amended. The figures for 1893 have not yet been made public, but nearly all the estimates of the output for that year are at least expected at sixty thousand tons, and it is expected that for the year 1894 the output will be considerably greater. Including those engaged in getting out the raw material, the London and Hamilton companies employ 800 men, the Ferron Company 625 men, the Pictou Company 300 men, the Canada Company 650 men and the Drummondville Company 200 men, making a total of 2575 men employed by the industry. As a result of the tariff, about thirty thousand people may be said to be dependent upon the Canadian pig iron industry at the present time. But this is only the beginning of the industry. A leading American manufacturer, while in Hamilton recently, stated that if all the iron consumed in Canada was made in the country, and the furnaces were all in one place, the men directly employed would, with their families, make a city as large as Toronto, Hamilton and London combined, that is a city of about three hundred thousand inhabitants. It is true that Canadian iron is as cheap as Pittsburgh iron.

It is true that the duty on iron has had the effect of giving employment to 2575 men in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. It is true that Canada consumes sufficient iron to maintain a population equal to that of the three largest cities of Ontario. It is true that our own provinces have not profited at all by the legislation that has begun to appreciably benefit Quebec and Nova Scotia. These questions have all an affirmative answer, and particularly discreditable to Sir Oliver Mowat. The government of Quebec take a great interest in Ontario. He gives the ballot to those who do not need it. He withholds it from those who are persecuted by a tyranny which only the ballot can destroy. Again Sir Oliver has to appoint a commission to discover the public sentiment on the fee system. Let Sir Oliver reduce his son's salary by one-half; let him abolish the dual offices that he has created; and regulate the salaries according to the abilities required of men who fill the offices. This is what the public want to see done. The appointment of a commission instead of immediate action is another evidence of the old woman in politics. We refer to these matters to show what a mistake we are committing in entrusting matters of national importance, iron production, for instance, to a politician of the old woman school. Sir Oliver Mowat is not an affair of Ontario. He is in addition attached to a party which is hostile to the development of the country on the lines adopted by the Dominion Government. Sir Oliver Mowat is pledged by his connection with the Liberal party to offer no encouragement to our iron industry, because such SIXTIETH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE British America Assurance Company.

The annual meeting of the Shareholders was held at the company's office, Toronto, on Thursday, Feb. 15. The president, Mr. George A. Cox, occupied the chair. Among the Shareholders present were Messrs. A. M. Smith, Alexander S. S. Kenny, Dr. Daniel Clark, James M. Hamilton, A. Myers, R. F. McKinnon, John Hoskin, Q.C., L.L.D., B. Jackes, Henry M. Pollard, Robert Thompson, F. H. Sims, John Morison, John Scott, Robert Batty, John Stewart, William Adamson, A. G. Fitzgerald, James O'Hara, John H. Ewart, George Gamble, Walter McDonald, John K. Nixon and H. D. Gamble. Mr. F. H. Sims was appointed to act as secretary and read the following:

The Directors had to submit herewith statements showing the results of the Company's business for the year ending 31st December, 1893. The premium receipts show a considerable increase over those of the preceding year, and afford gratifying evidence of the growth and popularity of the Company, while the accounts show a most satisfactory feature of the business, the diminished ratio of expense which the business has been conducted. The general depression in trade throughout the year 1893 and the almost unprecedented financial stringency that prevailed for several months in the latter part of the year, upon the fire insurance business of 1893, and to these causes may be attributed to a considerable extent at least, the large increase in losses which is shown in the returns made by all companies, both in Canada and the United States. The total losses reported far exceeded those of the preceding year, and although the losses incurred by this company are considerably in excess of what might be looked for in an ordinary year, it is gratifying to your directors to be able to point to the fact that the ratio of losses to premiums is considerably below the average loss ratio of all companies doing business in Canada, and will compare favorably with the general experience of companies in the United States. It is also encouraging to note that during the closing quarter of the year the business advanced rapidly, and with a corresponding increase in losses, which are now being obtained on many classes of risks, our directors feel warranted in anticipating more favorable results from the business of the current year, 1894.

The British America Assurance Company. The annual statement of this company, which appears in another column, is assuring to shareholders. Notwithstanding the disastrous fires during 1893, the British shows larger profits than the previous years. The total losses of all companies far exceed those of the British, and although the losses of the British were large the ratio of losses to premiums is considerably below the average of all companies doing business in Canada. After paying the regular semi-annual dividends of 3 per cent. this company shows a surplus of $47,694.00. Mr. George A. Cox was re-elected president and Mr. J. J. Kenny vice-president.

Governor-General and Lady Aberdeen. The seventeenth annual meeting of the Association was held at the Galveston Hotel, on Jan. 17. The reports presented at the meeting are gratifying and show the prosperous condition of the company. The business for the year ending 31st Dec. 1893, as a result of the business of the year, was a surplus of $47,694.00. Mr. George A. Cox was re-elected president and Mr. J. J. Kenny vice-president.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE DOES IT ALL.

Twelve Years' Intense Suffering From Acute Indigestion, Headache and Constipation—No Relief From Physicians or Proprietary Medicines—A New Man in One Week. The Great South American Nervine does it all. Prof. Hanley, the great scientist, tells us that pain and suffering are always with us, and even increase in intensity as civilization advances. Men, women and children have not been spared their quota of suffering, and despite the efforts of physicians of all ages to alleviate the distresses of men it has been left for these latter times and to modern sciences to discover the real theory of pain, which implies certain physiological conditions that have at last led to conclusive evidence that nerve centres lying in or near the base of the brain control the organs of the body. When the nerve centres are being exhausted the forces which maintain the proper amount of healthy flesh are reduced, and the body becomes emaciated, the flesh wasted and the system sapped of vitality. THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC is a flesh builder, makes and keeps putting on solid, healthy tissue, lustrous looking sturdy flesh, because it reaches the nerve centres, stimulating them to permanent normal action and

The Covenant Mutual Benefit Association OF GALESBURG, ILLINOIS, ASSESSMENT SYSTEM, MUTUAL PRINCIPLE.

The Seventeenth Annual Meeting of the Association was held at Galesburg, Illinois, the Home Office, on Wednesday, Jan. 17. The reports of the Executive Committee, Secretary, Treasurer and Auditing Committee were very gratifying and showed the excellent condition of the Association to be in a very prosperous and sound financial condition. The new business written during the year 1893 amounted to 16,517 applications for $3,000,000 of insurance, an increase of about 25 per cent over the business written during the year 1892. The cash income amounted to $1,500,000, and the disbursements for death losses were $92,000. The amount of new business written in Canada amounted to $1,200,000, while $28,250 was paid in death claims, making the total amount paid by this company in Canada in death losses the sum of $150,000. The company has 2901 policies in force in Canada and $4,000,129 of insurance in force. The total assets in Canada at the close of the year, including the Government deposits, were $73,366.82. Since organization, Jan. 7th, 1877, the Covenant Mutual has established a reputation for reliability and the strictest integrity enjoyed by few similar associations. At a lower ratio of management expense than any other company in the world; it has insured the business of 45,000 holders, $100,000,000 of insurance in force, has surplus assets of $1,000,000, and $7,500,000 has been paid to the widows and orphans and beneficiaries of the deceased members. With a net gain of 2000 members, $5,000,000 of insurance and surplus assets thirty-one times its liabilities, the Covenant Mutual enters upon the sixteenth year of its corporate life with the brightest possible future. The new policy contract issued by this company empowers Ordinary Life, Term and Combination Policies, and are devoid of all vexatious restrictions, by-laws and regulations, without limit as to residence or travel, at about 60 per cent of old line companies' rates. Mr. A. H. Hoover, manager for Canada, is in charge of the company's interests here, with offices at 17 Jordan-street.

STATION MASTER G. SWAIN. Mr. G. Swain, the veteran station master at Winnipeg, is one of the old and tried officials of the great Canadian Pacific Railway. He left England in 1852 and settled in Montreal, where he entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, spending over 20 years of his life with Canada's pioneer railway corporation. In 1880 Mr. Swain was transferred to the position of station master for his present position. Mr. Swain, though a man of extraordinary physique and giant strength, was some time ago made as helpless as a child, from the sufferings and agonies of rheumatism, to which terrible disease he had been a slave for fifteen years. After utter failure with doctors and medicine he was induced by Capt. Douglas, the general proprietor of the Leland House, to try Paine's Celery Compound. The trial proved wonderful; the results and cure perfect.
