The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

INTRODUCTION.

A sketch of the legislation which has resulted in the present Division Court system may shortly be given as follows :—

In 1792, Courts of Request were established by 32 Geo. III., cap. 6, which gave power to two or more justices of the peace to decide matters of debt up to forty shillings. This act was amended in several particulars in 1816 by 56 Geo. III., cap. 5, which also increased the jurisdiction of the courts to £5. By the 3 Wm. IV., cap. 1, the jurisdiction was further increased to £10; commissioners were appointed to preside in the courts in the place of justices of the peace; a clerk and bailiff were appointed for each court, and the commissioners, clerks, and bailiffs were all paid by fees.

In course of time, the large majority of the commissioners proved to be utterly unworthy of the confidence of the government or of the people, and the evil was so great that a commission was issued in October, 1839, to investigate the subject generally, and, if possible, suggest a better mode of recovering small debts.

The statute of 4 & 5 Vic., cap. 53, was the result of this enquiry. The Bill was introduced by the then Attorney-General, Mr. Draper, and was based upon the report of the commissioners, of which he was one. To the sagacity and energy, therefore, of the present gifted Chief Justice of Upper Canada do we owe the establishment of our present admirable system of local courts.

This Act abolished the old Courts of Request, and in their stead established what we now call Division Courts. The District Court judges, were appointed to preside over these courts in each district, and were authorised to make rules of practice in their own courts. The jurisdiction was further increased and various other improvements effected.

This Act, however, with others passed from time to time on the subject, was repealed by 13 & 14 Vic., cap. 53, which remodelled the courts, and gave them much more extended jurisdiction, following, in a great measure, the provisions of the Imperial Act of 9 & 10 Vic., cap. 95. The subsequent statutes, 16 Vic., cap. 177, and 18 Vic., cap. 125, gave the courts further powers and remedied some of the defects of the then existing law.

All these last mentioned statutes, together with parts of 16 Vic. cap. 180; 19 Vic. cap. 43; 20 Vic., cap. 3; 20 Vic., cap. 58; 20 Vic., cap. 59; and 22 Vic., cap. 33, (1859) were, with some slight alterations that were necessary to carry out fully the spirit of the various enactments, consolidated by the commissioners appointed for the revision of the statutes. The result of their labors on this subject appears in chapter 19 of the Consolidated Statutes for Upper Canada.

. Further powers, referred to in the body of this work, have since been given to the Division Courts, and it would not seem to be going too far to say, that the law, as it stands, is, with a few imperfections, as complete a system for the purposes for which it was intended, as could well be devised.

It was not until 1846 that the system of local courts in England was established in the way in which it now exists. In their general features the English "County Courts" are the same as our Division Courts; and most of the decisions on English acts are more or less applicable here. Many of these cases are noted in their proper places, whilst all the decisions in our own courts, which bear on the text, have been referred to at greater or less length as their importance deserved. Many of the provisions of the Act have also been examined by experienced County Judges in cases brought before them—of this the editor has also availed himself.

The object which the editor had in view throughout was not to write a theoretical treatise on Division Courts, but to annotate the Division Courts Acts and Rules, by notes which it has been his endeavour to make explanatory of the text, as well as practically useful to professional men and others, and particularly to the officers concerned in the administration of the Courts. In addition to this, many of the notes will be found not only explanatory but critical examinations upon many doubtful points which have not as yet undergone judicial exposition.

With the view of making the work as complete and useful as possible, the editor has collected and brought into one book the Division Courts Act,—the Rules and Forms (adding a number of new Forms—over sixty in all),—an Appendix containing all the acts or portions of acts which in any way affect proceedings in Division Courts or the duties of Division Court officers; together with a Table shewing the judicial districts (composed of a county or union of counties) with their sub-divisions into court divisions, with the names of the County Judges, and the names and post-office address of the various Clerks, which, it is thought, will be of much practical assistance to business men, and may be relied on as correct;—the whole being supplemented by a very full index. The editor therefore ventures to think that all the information which could have been given respecting these Courts, (within the scope of the work), has been given; and when we consider that these courts now embrace a large portion of the whole civil business of the country, numbering about 270, and nearly 600 officers being connected therewith, and that an immense number of suitors resort to them, it can scarcely be doubted that even the collection into one book in an accessible form, of information which could only heretofore be obtained from a variety of sources, at considerable trouble and some expense, will be in itself of infinite use to all concerned. As to that part of the work for which the editor is alone responsible, he leaves it to the indulgent judgment of his readers, with the simple remark that he has spared no pains to make it as correct and as complete as possible.

During the progress of the work through the press, two important decisions affecting procedure on writs of certiorari have been given, which it will be advisable to note, — Barnes et al. v. Cox, 16 U. C. C. P. 236, 2 U. C. L. J. N. S. 67; and Gallagher v. Bathie, 2 U. C. L. J. N. S. 73, 2 L. C. G. 44. The latter of these particularly refers to Division Courts, and it was there held (in Chambers, by Adam Wilson, J.) that after the hearing of a cause has been proceeded with before the judge, though no jury is sworn, and after a cause has been heard, but judgment postponed to be given at the clerk's office on a future day, it is too late to serve a writ of certiorari. The reader is also referred to a correction of the report of the case of Watt v. Van Every, as given in 23 U. C. Q. B. 196, which will be found in 2 U. C. L. J., N. S., 80.

In conclusion, the editor has to thank many kind friends for valuable information and assistance on various doubtful points — amongst these some of the most experienced County Judges, and especially Judge Gowen; the writer having had, in the first place, such advantage as could be gained from a personal attendance for years in the well-conducted courts of his county, and the free use of his notes and the benefit of his advice, the value of which in the preparation of a work of this kind cannot be too highly estimated, being founded on a large practical experience of the working of the Division Courts of Upper Canada.

THE DIVISION COURTS ACT.

(CON. STAT. U. C., CAP. 19.)

An Act respecting the Division Courts.

HER MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of Canada enacts as follows : (a)

INTERPRETATION.

I. In construing this act, the word "county" shall include any two or more counties united for judicial purposes; and in any form or proceeding, the words "united counties" shall be introduced according to the circumstances rendering the same necessary; the words "judge," "the judge," or "county judge," shall mean the senior or the acting judge (b) of the county court of the particular county in which the Division Courts are respectively situated. 18, 14 V. c. 53, s. 111.

Interpretation of certain words.

THE COURTS.

II. The Division Courts, and the limits and extent thereof existing at the time this act takes effect, shall continue until altered by law; all proceedings heretofore duly had shall remain valid, and all suits and proceedings heretofore commenced shall be continued and completed under this act; and all rules and orders made under the provisions of any former Continuing clause.

(a) The "Act respecting the Consolidated Statutes for Upper Canada," which gives vitality to the consolidation of the statutes affecting Upper Canada was assented to on the 4th May 1859.

(b) See notes to secs. 16, 17.

Division Court Act, and in force when this act takes effect, shall continue in force subject to the provisions of this act (c). 13, 14 V. c. 53, ss. 1, 2.

III. There shall not be less than three nor more than twelve Division Courts in each county or union of counties (d); of which there shall be one Division Court in each city and county town. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 3.

IV. Every court shall have a seal (e), with which every process of the court shall be sealed or stamped, and such seal shall be paid for out of the fee fund. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 86.

(c) The latter part of this section, and section 70, were introduced by the commissioners and confirmed by the legislature, as being necessary to maintain and protect the general rules and forms framed and approved pursuant to 16 Vic. cap. 177, sec. 10, and no further or other rules or forms have been promulgated under the provisions of the 62nd and following sections of the present act. Reference must therefore now be made not to the sections referred to in the rules and forms, but to the corresponding sections in this consolidated act; and to facilitate this, the rules which refer to the various sections of this act, and vice versa, are referred to in notes to such sections and rules.

(d) See sec. 8 and note thereto. See also the table at the end of this work, shewing the various Division Courts as at present established throughout Upper Canada, together with the names and post-office addresses of their respective clerks.

(e) In olden times, a seal would have been defined as an impression made on paper or parchment with wax; and in fact in those days that was the only kind of seal known. It has, however, been held that it is now unnecessary, in order to constitute a valid sealing, that an impression should be made with wax or wafer, but that an impression in ink with a wooden block will suffice. (Reg. v. St. Paul's, Covent Garden, 7 Q. B. 232.) It was also considered, in Foster v. Geddes 14 U. C. Q. B. 289, that an impression on the paper, without any extraneous substance, would be a sufficient sealing. In addition to this, the word "stamped" is used in this section. It would, therefore, seem evident that a stamp or print made with colouring matter, or an impression made on the paper requiring to be sealed, by means of a die or press, without the addition of wax or other matter, would be a sufficient "seal."

The judge of the court should make choice of and appoint the seal for each court.

The seal and process of the court are protected from forgery and abuse by sec. 3. of Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 101, which enacts that "Any person who forges the seal or any process of a Division Court, or serves or enforces any such forged process, knowing the same to be forged; or who delivers or causes to be delivered to any person any paper falsely purporting to be a copy of any summons or

VI. A court shall be holden in each division once in every two months (g) or oftener, in the discretion of the senior or the acting county judge; and the judge may appoint and from time to time alter (h) the times and places (i) within such divisions, when and at which such courts shall be holden. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 3. Time and place of holding courts.

VII. If the magistrates of any county in Quarter Sessions assembled, certify to the Governor that in any division of the county, from the amount of business, remoteness, or inaccessibility, it is expedient that the court should not be held so often as once in every two months, the Governor in council may order the court to be held at such periods as to him seems meet, and may revoke the order at pleasure, but a court shall be held in the division at least once in every six months. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 109. The Governor may, in certain cases, regulate the holding of courts.

other process of any such court, knowing the same to be false, or who acts or professes to act under any false colour or pretence of the process of any such court, is guilty of felony."

This section is taken almost verbatim from the English act of 9 & 10 Vic. cap. 95, sec. 57.

(f) Judgments, therefore, of these courts are not matters of record which constitute the highest species of evidence. Sec. 42, however, provides a simple means of proving facts therein referred to. The English county courts are made courts of record by statute.

(g) Except in cases provided for by the next section. There would therefore be six courts in the year. They need not be held at any regular intervals, in fact it would be impossible to do so; the sound discretion of the judge must decide.

(h) See sec. 8 and notes.

(i) No provision has been made by statute for providing court room accommodation for these courts. It was a strange oversight on the part of the legislature, and has led to much injustice and mischief. Courts have occasionally to be held in inconvenient and out of the way places, and even in taverns, to the great discredit of justice. Clerks are often put to much trouble and expense in securing a room suitable for the purpose, and the occasional removal of a court-room from one building, and perhaps from one village to another, causes confusion and annoyance to all concerned. Since the passing of 27, 28 Vic. cap. 27, it has become of the greatest importance that the place of holding the courts should not be moved from place to place; for by that act such place of sitting regulates, in certain cases, the venue of a suit. (See section 71, et seq.)

Quarter Sessions may alter number and limits of division.

VIII. The justices of the peace in each county in General Quarter Sessions assembled, may, subject to the restrictions in this act contained, appoint, and from time to time alter the number, limits and extent of every division, (j) and shall number the divisions, beginning at number one; but a less number of justices shall not alter or rescind any resolution or order made by a greater number at any previous session (k). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 4.

(j) By sec. 3 there cannot be less than three nor more than twelve in each county. There will be found on pages 112 and 146 of the U. C. Law Journal, vol. 7, some excellent observations as to how the discretionary power of the magistrates in Quarter Sessions should be used. It there states that the population and extent of the intended divisions should be a leading guide. That they should, if possible, be of such a size that suitors could go to and return from them in one day, and should be of as uniform a size as circumstances permit. No separate division should be formed unless the probable amount of business would give a reasonable remuneration to the officers of the court, nor should divisions be multiplied without an evident necessity. That if possible each division should include some town, village or place of business resort, and the divisions should be fixed with precision, and follow the established territorial division of the county into townships and concessions. The case of a separation of united counties, where a division consists of a part of each, is provided for by sec. 13. It would be well, however, for magistrates to keep that section also in view in appointing the divisions.

(k) See note to sec. 15.

A new mode of establishing additional courts has been introduced by the late Act of 29 Vic., which reads as follows:

"Notwithstanding anything in the said Act respecting the Division Courts, it shall and may be lawful for any judge of a County Court, in his discretion, upon the petition of the municipal corporation of any township or united townships in which no Division Court has already been established, praying that a Division Court may be established in and for such township or united townships, to establish and hold a Division Court therein, and the court so established shall be numbered and called the ——— Division Court of the county or united counties in which such township or united townships shall be situated, taking the number next after the highest number of the courts then existing in such county or united counties; and the courts so established shall have the same jurisdiction as Division Courts established under the said act respecting Division Courts, and all and singular the provisions of the said act, not inconsistent with this act, shall apply to all courts established under this Act; provided always, that no business shall be transacted in any such court until after the establishment thereof shall have been certified by the county judge to the Governor in council,

(n) See also Con. Stat. U. C. c. 120, as to the duties and emoluments of the clerk of the peace with respect to these returns.

It has been decided that under the above section and the act referred to, the clerk of the peace is required to record and notify to the government and to the clerks of each Division Court only the acts of the Quarter Sessions with regard to the limits of different divisions, not the orders of the judge as to the times and places of holding the courts; (In the matter of Pousett and the Court of General Quarter Sessions for the County of Lambton, 22 U. C. Q. B. 412.)

As under secs. 8, 10 and 14, a less number of magistrates cannot rescind or alter any order as to the appointment of divisions made by a greater number at a previous session, it will be also necessary for the clerk of the peace to keep a record of the magistrates present when such order was made.

(o) The various duties of the judge with respect to Division Courts will hereafter appear throughout the work. As to his liabilities, it may be stated as a general rule, that he incurs no liability for giving a wrong judgment or making a mistake in law, or for being guilty of any mere irregularity, provided he acts within his jurisdiction (Deens v. Lord Brouham, 1 In. & Rol. 309). Nor even when acting without it, if the evidence given before him justifies him in assuming that he had jurisdiction. And the objection to his jurisdiction should be taken at the trial (Graham v. Smart et al., 18 U. C. Q. B. 482). But there is a difference, as to his liability, between his judicial and ministerial duties (Parks v. Davis, 10 U. C. C. P. 229.)

See also notes to sec. 54.

(p) The appointment of and other provisions respecting county judges are regulated by Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 15, secs. 2 to 12, inclusive. Section 6 provides, that "In case of the appointment of a junior judge for any county, such junior judge may preside over all or any of the Division Courts within the county, and shall, as regards any such Division Courts, have the same duties, powers and authorities as the judge," &c. But "the appointment of a junior judge shall not prevent or excuse the judge of the county court from presiding at any of the Division Courts within his county when the public interests require it," (s. 7.)

Section 383 of the Municipal Institutions Act (Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 54), empowers the Governor, by letters patent, to appoint the recorder of a city to hold the Division Court of the county

Who to preside in case of illness or absence of judge. XVII. In case of the illness or unavoidable absence of the county judge, the county judge of the court of any other county may hold the court, or the first mentioned judge may appoint (q) some barrister of the bar of Upper Canada to act as his deputy (r), and the person so appointed shall, as judge of the Division Court, during the time of his appointment, have all the powers and privileges, and be subject to all the duties vested in or imposed by law on the judge by whom he has been appointed. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 8.

Governor to be notified of appointment of deputy. XVIII. The county judge or the barrister so appointed deputy shall forthwith send to the Governor notice of such appointment, specifying the name, residence and profession of such deputy judge, and the cause of his appointment. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 8.

Appointment, how long to continue. XIX. No such appointment (s) shall be continued for more than one month without a renewal of the like notice, and in case the Governor disapproves of such appointment, he may annul the same. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 8.

which includes the city. In case of the illness or absence of the Recorder the county judge may officiate in his stead, or the Recorder may appoint a barrister for that purpose (sec. 386).

(q) The appointment it is said may be made by parol, but the better opinion seems to be that it should be made in writing. (11 Co. Rep. 4.)

(r) Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 15, sec. 8, provides for the appointment of deputy judges who shall hold office during pleasure, and who shall, in case of the death, illness, or unavoidable absence, or the absence on leave of the judge, perform all the duties of and incident to the office of judge of the County and Division Courts, and all acts required to be done by such judge, as effectually as a junior judge.

Thus the senior judge of the County Court of the particular county, or the junior or deputy judge thereof, the judge's deputy or the judge of the court of another county (as mentioned in above section), are each allowed to act and are included in the interpretation clause (sec. 1).

The distinction between them is this: the senior and junior judge of the county are clothed with the absolute right to hold the courts not dependent upon any contingency, whereas the deputy judge, the judge's deputy, and the judge of another county, act only on certain contingencies.

XX. In case the judge or the acting judge (t) from illness or any casualty, does not arrive in time, or is not able to open the court on the day appointed for that purpose, the clerk or deputy clerk of the court, shall, after eight o'clock in the afternoon, by proclamation adjourn the court to an earlier hour (u) on the following day, and so from day to day adjourning over any Sunday or legal holiday (v), until the judge or acting judge arrives to open the court, or until he receives other direction from the judge or acting judge. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 8.

Clerks or deputy clerks may adjourn court if judge does not arrive in time.

THE CLERKS AND BAILIFFS, &c. (w)

XXI. For every Division Court there shall be a clerk and one or more bailiffs (x), who shall be British subjects. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 9.

Every court to have clerk and bailiffs.

(t) See notes to sec. 17.

(u) That is to some hour before eight o'clock in the evening, usually till noon of the following day. All persons having business at the courts are bound to remain up to eight o'clock in the evening of the day appointed for holding the court, and to appear at the hour to which it may be adjourned the following day.

(v) By the Interpretation Act (Con. Stat. Can. cap. 5), the word "holiday" shall include Sunday, New Years' Day, the Epiphany, the Annunciation, Good Friday, the Ascension, Corpus Christi, St. Peter and St. Paul's Day, All Saints Day, and Christmas Day, and any day appointed by proclamation for a general fast or thanksgiving.

It is to be remarked, that the Queen's Birthday so generally kept as a holiday, and made such in certain cases under other acts, is not a "holiday" within the meaning of this section.

(w) The common law requires persons holding any office to be (amongst other things) of sound mind, possessing sufficient skill and ability to perform the duties of the office, and not holding any office incompatible with such duties.

The express disqualifications for office are, not being a British subject; and, as regards a clerk, being a practising barrister or solicitor, as mentioned in the next section.

The power of appointing to these offices was from the first vested in the judges, and it may not be out of place here to say, that the result has been on the whole most satisfactory to all concerned.

(x) If two bailiffs are appointed to a court they do not constitute one officer. They may therefore act independently of each other, and each may perform all legal acts required of him, by himself and in his own name. (Corrigal v. L. & B. R. Co., 5 Man. & Gr. 219.)

Who disqualified.

XXII. No county court clerk, practising barrister or solicitor shall be appointed clerk (y). 13 & 14 V. c. 53, ss. 9, 110. See 12 V. c. 66, s. 12.

SECURITIES TO BE GIVEN BY DIVISION COURT CLERKS AND BAILIFFS.

Clerks and bailiffs to give security by bond to the crown.

XXIV. Every Division Court clerk and bailiff shall give security by entering into a bond to Her Majesty, with as many sureties, in such sums, and in such form as the Governor directs (a), for the due accounting for and payment of all fees, fines and moneys received by them respectively, by virtue of their respective offices, and also for the due performance of their several duties. 16 V. c. 177, s. 12.

Clerks and bailiffs of Division Courts to give security

XXV. Every clerk and bailiff of a Division Court shall, by a covenant according to the form A. (b), or in words to the same effect, give security, with so (y) In addition to the disqualifications in this section, it was forbidden by the English Act of 1846, under a heavy penalty, that any clerk, or the partner or servant of such clerk, should be a bailiff of the court. And, although there is no express provision of the kind in our act, it is quite evident that the positions are incompatible, and the principle of such prohibition would apply in this country.

(z) These appointments may perhaps be made by parol, but it would seem more correct, and at all events more desirable, to make them in writing.

By section 25 the judge is also to direct the number of sureties who are to join in the covenant with the clerk or bailiff, and the amount of security to be given by them; and it may be found convenient to embody this direction with the act of appointment. The appointment does not, however, become complete till the security is approved of by the judge under sec. 25, and is filed in the office of the clerk of the peace under sec. 26.

(a) Forms for these bonds have been given by the Executive, with full directions and particulars respecting them. These forms and directions are given in the Schedule of forms 68 (a).

(b) See sec. 220.

There have been several decisions as to the force and effect of this covenant which it will be necessary here briefly to notice:

McArthur v. Cool et al., 19 U. C. Q. B. 476, was an action brought on a covenant in the form given by the act, against a bailiff and his sureties. It was objected that the defendants could not legally be sued in a joint action as upon a joint undertaking, when bound in different sums. Robinson, C. J., said, "It is true that the covenant does limit the amount that each of the covenantors can be compelled to pay in all under the deed, but nevertheless in the form given by the legislature the parties are made to enter into a joint and several covenant, and this covenant is in fact joint. . . . The proviso at the end of the deed . . . is not a part of the undertaking of the covenantors, but it makes it the duty of the court to see that none of the parties are compelled to pay under it more in all than the sum set opposite to his name."

In Miller v. Tunis, 10 U. C. C. P. 423, the covenant sued upon, though it should and was intended to have been executed by both the bailiff and his surety (the defendant), was in fact only executed by the latter. The question that arose was, whether the defendant's position as surety in a limited sum, and being jointly and severally liable according to the form given by the act, was prejudiced in any way by the non-execution by the principal. The court held that it was not so prejudiced, and that the defendant was not thereby relieved from his liability under the covenant.

Where an action has been brought against a bailiff for a tort and part of the damages sustained by the plaintiff have been recovered, he cannot afterwards in a suit brought on this covenant for the same cause of action recover against the bailiff and his sureties the balance of his damages. (Sloan

v. Creasor et al., 22 U. C. Q. B. 127, the plaintiff having elected to take his remedy for the tort.)

As to the parties to whom this covenant is available see sec. 27, and note thereto.

(c) By endorsement of the covenant after execution. The amount would be regulated by the probable amount of business to be done.

It is the duty of the judge to approve of the sureties and to settle the amount of the security, (Miller v. Tunis, ante.) and a failure of this duty on the part of the judge will, if he permits the officer to enter on the discharge of his duties without giving proper security, render him liable in an action at the suit of a person who has thereby suffered a loss (Parks v. Davis, 10 U. C. C. P. 229). But still it cannot be supposed that the judge would be liable for a simple error of judgment, and certainly not if he takes the precaution of procuring from the sureties affidavits of justification, such, for example, as would be required in the superior courts for bail, or on giving security for costs.

This section is directory and not mandatory, therefore the fact of the sureties being non-residents of the county in which the bailiffs duties lie does not avoid the covenant; the provisions being merely for the guidance of the judge as to the class and character of the sureties required. (Pearson v. Rutan, 15 U. C. C. P. 79; 1 L. C. G. 26.)

It has been suggested, and the suggestion is, in some respects, a good one, that instead of the judge being compelled to undertake the responsible and troublesome duty of looking after these securities, the officers of his courts should be required to furnish the guarantee of some recognized "guarantee company" authorized to grant indisputable policies. The principal objection to this would be the expense that it would entail on clerks already sufficiently taxed.

As to the particulars of claim under this section and the form to be used, see rule 7 and form 5.

When clerk may appoint deputy.

(f) See sec. 49 and table of fees at the end of this act.

In the original act as introduced by the present Chief Justice of Upper Canada the clerks were remunerated by salary on a graduated scale, and there is now a growing feeling that the change from salary to fees was not a move in the right direction. The fee collector of all grades has a direct interest in promoting litigation, and in matters connected with Division Courts, the clerk, if a dishonest man, has peculiar facilities in this way. It is believed that the great body of clerks would willingly be relieved of the odium of the fee system, and accept salaries on a fair scale instead.

(g) Besides the duties mentioned in this act and the rules, the clerk has other duties assigned to him by statute, and hereafter referred to.

The clerk shall also issue all warrants, precepts and writs of execution filled up and without blanks,—he shall tax costs (m), subject to the revision of the judge,—register all orders and judgments of the court, and keep an account of all court fees and fines payable or paid into court, and of all suitor's moneys paid into and out of court, and shall enter an account of all such fees, fines and moneys in a recognized by the statute, should sign all necessary documents as such.

The act makes no provision for the judge appointing a deputy clerk; in case, therefore, of the inability of the clerk to make the appointment, it would be necessary for the judge to appoint a new clerk to perform the duties of the office.

(j) See form 6.

(k) See rules 9, 14, 15, 18, and forms 3 and 4, and notes.

(m) The ordinary costs that a clerk is required to tax are: the officers fees (clerks and bailiffs), fees to the fee fund and witness fees provided for by rule 48. It may also be necessary for him to fix the amount of costs to be paid by each party according to any special apportionment of costs by the judge under sec. 114.

XXXVII. The clerk, at the periods from time to time appointed by the governor, shall submit his said accounts to be audited or settled by the county attorney. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 13.

XXXVIII. The clerk of every Division Court shall, from time to time, as often as required so to do by the county attorney of his county, and at least once in every three months, deliver to him, verified by the affidavit of such clerk, sworn before the judge or a justice of the peace of the county, a full account in writing of the fees received in his court; and a like account of all fines levied by the court, accounting for and deducting the reasonable expenses of levying the same, and any allowance which the judge may make out of any such fine, in pursuance of the power hereinafter given. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 15; 20 V. c. 59, s. 13. (o) In case of the resignation, removal from office, or death of the clerk, the county attorney for the time being may sue and recover from such clerk, or from his executors and administrators, in case of his death, and from his sureties, all sums of money which may remain in the clerk's hands at the time of such resignation, Clerk of Division Court to furnish judge with a verified account of moneys paid in and out of court.

XL. The clerk of each Division Court, when required by the judge, shall, from time to time, furnish him with a like account, verified by the oath of the clerk, sworn before the judge or a justice of the peace, of the moneys received into and paid out of the court, by any suitors or other parties under any orders, decrees or process of the court, and of the balance in court, belonging to any such suitors or parties. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 15.

Division Court clerks to furnish the judge with semi-annual accounts of fees and emoluments.

XLI. The clerk of every Division Court shall, half yearly at least, furnish to the judge of his court a detailed statement of all fees and emoluments of his court (p), which statement shall be sworn to before such judge, and it shall be the duty of such judge to require such statement and to file the same with the county attorney. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 110.

Clerks to keep a record of writs and judgment.

XLII. The clerk shall cause a note of all summonses, orders, judgments, executions and returns thereto, to be from time to time fairly entered in a book to be kept in his office; and shall sign his name on every page of such book; and such signed entries, or a copy thereof certified as a true copy by the clerk, shall be admitted in all courts and places as evidence of such entries, and of the proceedings referred to thereby, without any further proof (q). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 49.

These fees to the fee fund are now payable in stamps under 27 & 28 Vic. cap. 5, hereafter referred to. The returns to county attorneys, are, as to fee fund moneys, virtually done away with.

(p) See rule 5, and form 66.

(q) It has been held under the English act of 9 & 10 Vic. cap. 95, sec. 111, which is similar to the above enactment, that this entry, or a copy of it, is conclusive evidence of the proceeding to which it relates, and cannot be contradicted by a note or memorandum of the judge. If he does, and there are many cases in which it would be a hardship on suitors to refuse, the clerk should not suffer for the indulgence, and the next section is designed to prevent, if possible, any loss to him thereby.

It is common in some of the large divisions, for the sake of convenience, to fix a scale of deposits, proportioned to the amount of the claim to be sued, which will be sufficient, in the majority of cases, to cover the costs of the suit, up to the time of judgment, adding something additional for any special circumstance which would increase the costs.

(t) But probably the judge would not grant this order without a summons to shew cause.

(u) We have already seen (note to sec. 27) that the bailiff can have the benefit of the covenant of the clerk and his sureties to recover the fees here alluded to.

(v) As these fees go to the Fee Fund, no discretion can be used by the clerk as to their forfeiture. Such fees as the bailiff would have been entitled to in case he had done his duty as by law required, must, in case of his default, be paid to the Fee Fund by means of stamps.

JURISDICTION. (w)

Cases in which court has no jurisdiction.

LIV. The Division Courts shall not have jurisdiction in any of the following cases :

(w) It may be necessary either to compel judges of inferior courts to perform a duty imposed upon them by statute, and thereby make them act up to their jurisdiction, or, on the other hand, it may be necessary to prevent them from proceeding in a cause which is beyond their jurisdiction. In the former case the remedy would be by writ of mandamus, and in the latter by writ of prohibition.

A mandamus is a high prerogative writ issuing from one of the Superior Courts directed to any person, corporation, or inferior court of judicature within the dominions of the Crown, requiring such persons, &c., to do some particular act therein specified, which appertains to their office and duty, and which is consonant with right and practice, although, in its application, it may be considered as confined, as a general principle, to cases where relief is sought in respect of the infringement of some public right or duty, and where no effectual relief can be obtained by an action at law. It is nevertheless granted in a number of particular instances, and, amongst others, it issues to judges of Division Courts "to prevent a failure of justice." (See Tapping on Mandamus.)

The court to which application for the writ is made must be assured, before granting the application—

1. That there is no other remedy.
2. That the Division Court has jurisdiction to do the act required to be done.
3. That it has positively refused to do such act.

4. That the act is not discretionary, but imperative.

5. That it is not merely a matter of practice, unless it be an illegal practice.

6. That it is required to enforce, not merely aid a jurisdiction.

7. That the applicant has not acquiesced in the proceedings in the Division Court, and makes his application within a reasonable time. (Cox & Lloyd C. C. Prac. 216.)

A mandamus will lie to a County Court judge, commanding him to hear and determine a matter, but not to correct his judgment when given. (In re Burns v. Butterfield, 12 U. C. Q. B. 140.) And it has been held in England that where a judge hears evidence upon the question whether he has or has not jurisdiction in the case brought before him, and decides in the negative, a mandamus will not be granted to compel him to try the case, he having decided the case within the meaning of the statute and his judgment being final. (Kernot v. Bailey et al., 4 W. R. 608.)

Nor can a judge be compelled to try a cause where he is personally interested in it, or is a relative or near connexion of one of the parties to the suit, (In re the Judge of the County of Elgin, 20 U. C. Q. B. 588; 7 U. C. L. J. 282,) and for similar reasons such facts would seem sufficient to warrant the removal of the cause by certiorari under sec. 61. But under such circumstances it is very possible that terms might be imposed as to costs. It is scarcely necessary, on the other hand, to say that a judge would be prohibited from trying a cause in which he is personally interested. (Anon, Salk. 306.)

For further information on the subject see Mr. Tapping's treatise on Mandamus, and 28 Vic. cap. 18.

A prohibition is an original writ issuing out of a Superior Court, and directed to the judge of an inferior court, or to a party to the suit in such court, commanding that no further proceedings be taken in some particular cause; and it is in many respects the converse of a mandamus. (Cox & Lloyd C. C. Prac. 220.)

If the judge has jurisdiction in a case his proceeding in it will not be restrained by a writ of prohibition, even though he decides against law and good conscience. (Siddall v. Gibson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 98; 5 U. C. L. J. 84.)

To have held otherwise would, in effect, be allowing an appeal from the judge's decision, which, it is provided, "shall be final and conclusive between the parties." (Sec. 55)

A mere matter of irregularity in practice is no ground for interfering by prohibition. (Jolly v. Baines, 12 A. & E. 209, cited in Higginbotham v. Moore, 21 U. C. Q. B. 329.)

A judge sitting in Chambers has power, under 28 Vic. cap. 18, sec. 2, to order a writ of prohibition to issue to restrain a judge of a Division Court from proceeding in a plaint brought before him.

Upon an application for a prohibition it is sufficient that a prima facie case be made out) and if the opposite party do not answer the court will presume that it is not intended to deny the right asserted. (Macara v. Morrish, 11 U. C. C. P. 74.)

The affidavit on which such a writ is moved for should not be entitled in any cause. (Siddall v. Gibson, ante.)

See late act respecting Prohibition & Mandamus. (28 Vic. cap. 18.)

The question of jurisdiction will hereafter be noticed, as we proceed, under the following heads:

1. With reference to the subject matter of the suit intended to be brought (see secs. 54, 55, 56).

2. With reference to the amount claimed (see secs. 55, 216).

3. With reference to locality or division in which the suit should be brought (see secs. 71, 72, 73, 216).

4. With reference to the parties to the suit (see sec. 54, sub-secs. 7, 57, 58, 81, 83).

5. With reference to other persons not parties to the suit (see sec. 99, as to witnesses; secs. 147, 185 and 186, as to clerks and bailiffs; and secs. 182, 183 and 184, as to the public generally).

(x) It was held by Macdonald, Co. J., in Kelly v. Gafney, 8 U. C. L. J. 50, following the English cases on the subject, that an action brought to recover $60 paid to defendant as a stakeholder, to abide the result of a horse race, did not come within the meaning of the words "any gambling debt."

See the next note, and 1 U. C. L. J., N. S. 169 & 171.

3. On notes of hand given wholly or partly in consideration thereof. (y)

4. Actions of ejectment or actions in which the right or title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments (z); or any toll, custom or franchise, comes in question; or

(y) "The court has no jurisdiction to try an action upon a note of hand, whether brought by the payee or any other person, the consideration, or any part of the consideration of which was any gambling debt, or for spirituous or malt liquors, or other like liquors drunk in a tavern or ale-house." (Rule 69.)

From which it would appear that it is not intended that the general rule of law—that an illegality in the consideration of a note does not affect the rights of a bona fide holder for value without notice—should apply, so as to put such a holder in a different position from the payee as to his right to sue in a Division Court.

(z) An hereditament is an estate, of whatsoever duration or quality, which is carved out of the inheritance. It is a more comprehensive expression than either lands or tenements, and includes both of these as well as whatsoever may be inherited. (2 Black. 17.) A corporeal hereditament is something substantial and permanent, and consists of what is generally known as land, including buildings thereon. An incorporeal hereditament is a right issuing out of a thing corporate, whether real or personal, or concerning, or annexed, or exercisable within the same, (Co. Litt. 19, 20,) and includes rents, annuities, commons, ways, dignities, offices and franchises.

The words used in the act of 1850, (13 & 14 Vic. cap. 53, sec. 23,) to limit the jurisdiction of Division Courts with respect to land, were, "No action shall be brought or tried, &c., for any cause involving the right or title to real estate." The words of the Division Courts Extension Act of 1853, (16 Vic. cap. 177, sec. 1,) were, "or of a vy action of ejectment, or in which the title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, &c., shall be brought in question," the same as the words used in the English County Courts Act. The words used in our County Court Act are, "where the title to land shall be brought in question..."

In the case of Overholt v. Paris and Dundas Road Co. 7 U. C. C. P. 293, the phrases, "When the title to land shall be brought in question," and "in which the title to any corporeal hereditament shall be in question," were treated as having the same meaning. The section before us, however, uses the word "right" in addition to "title." The introduction of this word would seem to point to something more than a pure question of title. Quere, would it include possession.

Latham v. Spedding 17 Q. B. 440; 15 Jur. 576, establishes, that the plea of "not possessed," in an action of trespass, q. c. f., does not necessarily raise a question of title within the meaning of the Imperial Statute of 9 & 10 Vic. cap. 95, sec. 58; and Lord Campbell intimated, that a question of simple possession could be tried in a County [Division] Court.

(See also Caghey v. McCoy, 1 Cr. & Dix., C. C. 290.) If the word "right," which is not used in the English act, can be said, as one of its meanings within the section, to signify possession, it would follow that Division Courts have no jurisdiction in any action where the possession of lands comes in question. There does not appear to be any decision with reference to this.

In order to deprive a court of jurisdiction it must be proved affirmatively that the title does bonâ fide come in question at the trial, and the judge has power to take evidence on this point. It is not sufficient that the title may come in question, or that the party objecting to the jurisdiction asserts that it will. (Lilley v. Harvey, 17 L. J., N. S. 357, Q. B.; 5 D. & L. 648; Lloyd v. Jones, 17 L. J., N. S. 206, C. P.; 6 C. B. 81; Latham v. Spedding, ante; Overholt v. Paris & Dundas Road Co., ante.) And the rule is the same even when the question of title comes up incidentally during the progress of the cause. (Trainor v. Holcombe, 7 U. C. Q. B. 548.)

But the rule is different in the trial of interpleader issues, for it has been decided that in such cases a judge may decide upon the question of property in goods, even though the enquiry may involve the title to land. (Munsie v. Mc- Kinley, 15 U. C. C. P. 50; 1 L. C. G. 8.)

In an action by a landlord against his tenant the latter is estopped from denying his landlord's title, and cannot, as against him, set up any claim of title. If the defendant let another into possession of the premises voluntarily he is still estopped; but if he is evicted by title paramount he is not, (Emery v. Barnet, 4 U. C. L. J. 212; 4 Jur. N. S. 634; Macara v. Morrish, 11 U. C. C. P. 74.) and so if a third party becomes entitled to the reversion and agrees to release the tenant upon receiving, and does receive, possession from him. (Campbell v. Davidson, 19 U. C. Q. B. 222.)

Want of space prevents any more extended reference to the cases decided under this and analogous statutes. Many of them will be found collected in Vol. VI. p. 145, of the Upper Canada Law Journal, and in books on the English County Courts Act.

(a) From the use of the words "may be disputed," and comparing them with the words "comes in question," as used with reference to title to land, it may be inferred that the court will not have jurisdiction in any case so soon as it appears that the cause of action may depend upon the validity of a devise, without any proof that it does so depend.

he objects thereto (b). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 23; 16 V. c. 177, s. 1; 16 V. c. 180, s. 9.

Cases in which the court has jurisdiction

LV. The judge of every Division Court may hold plea of, and may hear and determine in a summary way, for or against persons, bodies corporate or otherwise:

(b) Sec. 12. of Consol. Stat. U. C. cap. 126, points out the time and manner in which the objection is to be made, viz., "if within six days after being served with a notice of any such action, such justice, or his attorney or agent, gives a written notice to the plaintiff in the intended action, that he objects to being sued in such [County or] Division Court for such cause of action, no proceedings shall afterwards be had in any such court in an such action," &c.

(c) "Personal actions are those whereby a man either claims the specific recovery of a debt or personal chattel, or satisfaction in damages for some injury done to his person or property. (Ins. 4, 6, 15.)

The forms of personal actions in use are debt, covenant, and assumpsit, founded on contract; and detinue, trover, trespass, trespass on the case, and replevin founded on tort, i. e., such wrongs as do not fall within breaches of contract.

Debt lies for the recovery of a sum of money certain.

Covenant, when redress in damages is sought for the breach of an agreement by deed.

Assumpsit is the remedy assigned by law for the breach of a contract not under seal.

Detinue lies when the object is to recover a chattel unlawfully detained. It seems to be the better opinion that an action of this nature may be brought in a Division Court. (See Wickam v. Lee, 12 Q. B. 521; 1 Cox. & Mac. 119; Taylor v. Addyman, 22 L. J., C. P. 94; Lucas v. Elliott, 9 U. C. L. J. 147.)

Trover lies to recover damages for the wrongful conversion of plaintiff's goods.

In Ginn v. Scott, 11 U. C. Q. B. 542, the court inclined to the opinion that trover for a deed would not lie in a Division Court. But would it not lie for the paper or parchment upon which the deed was written?

Trespass lies when the plaintiff claims damages for an injury accompanied with actual or implied force. It may be either trespass vi et armis, with force and arms, as a battery or imprisonment; quare clausum fregit, breaking into an enclosed place; or, de bonis asportatis, seizing and taking away goods.

Trespass on the case lies in every case of damage to person or property not included in trespass.

Replevin is the re-delivery by the sheriff or bailiff, as the case may be, to the owner, of goods unlawfully detained, or unlawfully taken and detained, or distrained. Jurisdiction was not given to Division Courts in replevin until the recent statute 23 Vic. cap. 45. The act is given in full hereafter.

(See Hyland v. Warren, 6 U. C. L. J. 116.) Others that no action for mere damages can be brought for more than that amount, and others again that the first sub-section applies solely for all practical purposes to actions for torts.

It will be seen that under 18 & 14 Vic. cap. 53, sec. 23, the Division Courts had jurisdiction over all claims and demands whatsoever of debt, account, breach of contract, covenant, or money demand up to £25, "and in all torts to personal chattels to and including the amount of ten pounds." 16 Vic. cap. 177, sec. 1, recites the expediency of extending the provisions of the former act to all personal actions (with certain exceptions) not exceeding £10, and gives jurisdiction in "all personal actions when the debt or damages claimed is not more than £10." Sec. 55 is compiled from the sections above referred to.

It is difficult to say what class of actions besides actions for torts to personal property, or personal wrongs, the legislature intended to include in the first division of this section. The words used are so comprehensive that they include all the causes of action specified in the second division. But in determining this point it is to be borne in mind that the object of the 16 Vic. cap. 177, was to increase and not to diminish the jurisdiction of the courts, and to give them jurisdiction in certain cases, where before they had none; and it may fairly be presumed that any case which before that statute could have been brought up to the amount of £25 can still be so brought. The test, therefore, as to whether $40 or $100 would in any particular case be the limit, would not be whether it would come within the first sub-section, but whether it could not reasonably be placed under one of the classes of cases mentioned in the second sub-section.

There appears to be but one authoritative judicial decision on the question, that of Morris v. Cameron, 12 U. C. C. P. 422. This was an action brought for the recovery of the costs of a suit brought by the same plaintiff against a different defendant in the County Court of the United Counties of York and Peel. The defendant subsequently promised, on behalf of the defendant in the County Court suit, to pay to the plaintiff his costs of that suit. The declaration set out the promise, the breach, and averred that the County Court suit was not of the proper competency of the Division Court. The plea set out the fact of the action having been brought for the breach of a warranty of a horse, and that only fifty dollars were recovered, and alleged that the action could have been brought in the Division Court. The plaintiff demurred to this on the ground that the action was of the proper competency of the County Court. Draper, C. J., said, "I think the 54th sec. of the Division Courts Act has nothing to do with this amount or balance claimed (e) does not exceed one hundred dollars, and except in cases in which a case, for that points out the cases where the courts have no jurisdiction at all. Here the jurisdiction, as to the mere cause of the action, is undeniable, provided the amount is not too large, and therefore the question arises whether it comes within the first or second sub-sections of sec. 55. If the former, as a personal action, where the debt or damage do not exceed $40, then the action is properly brought in the County Court. If the latter, as a claim and demand of debt account or breach of contract, &c., then defendant is entitled to judgment. But for the word 'debt' in the first sub-section it might be argued that the words personal actions there used meant that class of actions to which the old maxim actio personalis moritur cum persona applied. It is not easy to point out a personal action of debt to which the second sub-section would not apply. The English County Courts Act enacts, that 'All pleas of personal actions when the debt or damage is not more than £20, (afterwards extended to £50,) whether on the balance of account or otherwise may be holden in the County Court,' and then follow certain exceptions. I take it that there is no doubt an action for breach of warranty, within the limited amount, would lie in the County Court in England. The case of Aris v. Orchard, 30 L. J., Ex. 21; 3 L. T., N. S. 443, seems conclusive on this point. In my opinion as to this point the defendant is entitled to judgment."

This decision confirmed the opinion expressed on the same point by the learned judge of the County Court, and may be said practically to decide that Division Courts have jurisdiction in all personal actions, within the scope of the act, where the amount does not exceed $100, except in actions for torts, which appears to be the only class of actions, within the statute, not covered by the second sub-section.

(e) That is, when the parties have themselves struck a balance, or where there have been payments on account, or what is equivalent in law to a payment (Woodhams v. Newman, 7 C. B. 654; Cameron v. Thompson, 1 U. C. L. J. 9), and anything received by a binding agreement between the parties in reduction of plaintiff's claim is equivalent to payment. (Hart v. Nash, 2 C. M. & R. 337; Turner v. Berry, 5 Ex. 858; Wilson v. Franklin, 1 Cox. & Mac. 497.)

Sec. 59 provides, that no action for the balance of an unsettled account shall be sustained where the unsettled account in the whole exceeds two hundred dollars. This provision is necessary to prevent the trial in these courts of long complicated accounts amounting altogether to large sums.

An account reduced by payments (or what is equivalent to payments) is not an "unsettled account" within the meaning of this section or of section 59, but a reduction of the plaintiff's claim by set off, which is in the nature of a cross action, and is a defence that the plaintiff cannot be assured the defendant will set up, has not the same effect as if it were reduced by payment, "for the reduction of the plaintiff's demand by set off is no satisfaction until the verdict of the jury has pronounced it to be such," and this distinction must be

(f) See section 119.

(g) The principles of equity are thus incorporated with Division Court administration.

How are we to interpret the words "just and agreeable to equity and good conscience?" Have they reference merely to the (practically) limited equity administered by the Court of Chancery, or do they refer to something more than that, and signify what has been termed "natural equity," or that which is morally just between man and man in each particular case, irrespective of the probable or possible results logically consequent upon a broad application of the principles deducible from the supposed equities of such case, according to the view taken of them by a judge of average capacity.

The case of Siddal v. Gibson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 98; 5 U. C. L. J. 84, favors the more extended interpretation of the words. A prohibition was asked to a Division Court, because a plaintiff was there permitted to recover in an action on a promissory note against an endorser without being required to give evidence of the presentment of the note for payment or notice of non-payment. The court considered that the judge had jurisdiction to dispose of the case according to his ideas of equity and good conscience, and so would not grant the writ, but at the same time intimated that he should at least have insisted upon evidence of presentment of the note.

The Court of Chancery in England was originally purely a court of conscience. That it is not so at the present day is evident, for it holds itself bound by statutes that often operate harshly in individual cases, and has laid down many rules for its guidance which are applied with greater or less rigour according to circumstances. That any rules are in existence is an argument that they are necessary,—and if necessary in a court which was originally a court of good conscience only, why are they not necessary in a lately constituted court of "equity and good conscience."

But however this may be, it may safely be said that there is nothing in the term, "according to equity and good conscience," that would warrant a judge in violating any positive enactment, and that the more closely he adheres to the principles of equity as administered in the Court of Chancery, the more likely is he to be correct, and certainly, as a consequence, judgments will be more

LVI. Upon any contract for the payment of a sum certain in labour or in any kind of goods or commodities, or in any other manner than in money, the judge, after the day has passed on which the goods or commodities ought to have been delivered, or the labour or other thing performed, may give judgment for the amount in money as if the contract had been so originally expressed. 16 V. c. 177, s. 1; 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 23.

No privilege to exempt parties from jurisdiction of court.

LVII. No privilege shall be allowed to any person to exempt him from suing and being sued in a Division Court, and any executor or administrator may uniform and therefore more generally satisfactory and beneficial.

After all, certainty and uniformity in the administration of the laws are practically matters of primary importance, and cannot be too strongly insisted upon. The too numerous complaints on this head shew that something is wrong somewhere. To obtain certainty and uniformity, an intimate knowledge of, and strict adherence to first principles on the part of the judge is indispensable, and this must be combined with the salutary maxims of equity, which are of universal application. Cases often occur in Division Courts where it is difficult to decide upon which side the equities lie, and in such cases the maxim, "when the equities are equal, the law must prevail," would be a safe guide. With reference generally to this equitable jurisdiction in Division Courts as compared with County Courts it must be very perplexing to an uninitiated suitor to find that the judge who decides in his favor on a claim for one hundred dollars, on an exactly similar state of facts decides against him in an action for one hundred and one dollars. But so it must be in a greater or less degree, according to the views of the judge, until such time as there is a fusion of law and equity.

(h) It would be quite foreign to the object of this little work to discuss the advisability of an appeal in certain cases from these courts, or the wisdom of preventing litigation by withholding such a provision. The great desideratum of all laws, and one which can scarcely be expected in these courts under the present system, is expressly recognized in the "Upper Canada Common School Act," section 108, which says, "It being highly desirable that uniformity of decision should exist in cases within the cognizance of the Division Courts, and tried in such courts, in which superintendents, &c., acting under the provisions of this act are parties," &c. But the practical objections to an appeal are so cogent, that those most conversant with the working of the system are entirely opposed to it.

LVIII. A minor may sue in a Division Court for any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, due to him for wages, in the same manner as if he were of full age (j). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 27.

LIX. A cause of action shall not be divided into two or more suits for the purpose of bringing the same within the jurisdiction of a Division Court (k),

(i) The rules of practice, 56 to 66 inclusive, and forms 33 to 51 inclusive, make full provision as to proceedings against executors and administrators.

(j) "This clause does not appear to be by any means intended as a restriction upon the right of infants to sue in the Division Courts, but rather the contrary,—the object being to enable an infant to sue for his labor, contrary to the principle of the common law, which would give his earnings to his father. The clause leaves the right of infants to sue upon other causes of action as it stood before, and no doubt an infant may well recover any demand that he may have for goods sold, money lent, &c.; his infancy being a protection to himself, not to his debtor. We find nothing in the statute respecting the mode in which infants may sue, no means being given of appointing a next friend, nor any necessity imposed of doing so, or of giving security for costs."—(Robinson, C. J., in Ferris v. Fox, 11 U. C. Q. B. 312; 1 U. C. L. J. 227.)

The provision of the 69th section would doubtless come into operation in such cases. In the Superior Court an infant usually sues by "next friend," who is liable for costs. In like manner, an infant suing in a Division Court for other claims than wages should sue by "next friend" thus: "A. B., an infant by C. D. his next friend, v. E. F." The rules under the English County Courts Act provide for the bringing the next friend to the clerks office when the plaint is entered, where he signs an undertaking to become responsible for any costs that the infant may be ordered to pay.

(k) There has been much litigation in England, as to what is to be considered as a splitting of the plaintiff's demand, under an enactment similar to the above. The leading cases on the subject will be found collected, and the matter fully discussed, in the Upper Canada Law Journal, Vol. VII. pp. 75, 95, 282; and Vol. VIII. pp. 66, 91, 231; see also Grace v. Walsh, 10 U. C. L. J. 65.

The apparent result of the cases on this subject may be briefly stated as follows:

1. A cause of action or contract, and one for a tort, are in their natures distinct, and need never be joined together in the same plaint.

2. Causes of action for work and labor, money lent, goods sold and and no greater sum than one hundred dollars shall be recovered in any action for the balance of an unsettled account (l), nor shall any action for any such balance be sustained where the unsettled account in the whole exceeds two hundred dollars. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 26.

Judgment
to be full discharge.

LX. A judgment of the court upon a suit brought for the balance of an account shall be a full discharge delivered, and the like, are primâ facie distinct, and need not in general be joined together in the same plaint.

3. A tradesman's bill, in which one item is connected with another in the sense that the dealing is not intended to terminate with one contract but to be continuous, so that one item, if not paid, shall be united with another and form one entire demand, forms one cause of action, and can only be the subject of one plaint.

4. Causes of action, originally separate, may, by act of the parties, (treating them as one demand) become so connected together as to form but one cause of action.

5. Where a bill or note is given for a portion of an account, such bill or note and the balance of the account form distinct causes of action. (See Lloyd's County Court Practice, p. 114.)

(l) It is somewhat remarkable that the plaintiff's right of abandoning the excess is nowhere expressly given except in section 205, which appears to refer exclusively to proceedings against absconding debtors. This is an alteration of the original enactment of 13 & 14 Vic., and it is difficult to see the reason of it. It is, however, generally admitted that this privilege is implicitly given by the present section. It follows, moreover, that the abandonment of the excess in any suit in which judgment is given, is by the next section a discharge of all demands with respect to such excess so abandoned, for that section makes the judgment a discharge in respect of the account of which such suit was for the balance, and therefore of that part of the account which is abandoned. Section 205, already referred to, is more explicit by speaking of the cause of action. All the cases therefore with reference to abandoning the excess, though decided on the statutes, before altered by the Consolidated Statutes, or under English enactments similar to them, are still in point.

Draper, C. J., in Geroux v. Yager, 8 U. C. L. J. 19, uses the following language: "The jurisdiction of the Division Courts extends to all cases of debt, account, &c., when the amount or balance claimed does not exceed £25; but any plaintiff having a cause of action above £25, on which a suit might be brought in the Division Court if the demand were not above £25, whenever he shall claim or demand only the balance or sum of £25, may, on proving his case, recover to that amount only. I regard this as a privilege conferred on a plaintiff and not a right granted to defendant to insist that the plaintiff shall give credit for any set off which the defendant may

Where the excess is abandoned
it must be done in the first instance on the claim or set off (Rule 69).
An offer therefore at the hearing would be too late. But, according to the decisions in England, it seems that if the summons or particulars state a demand not exceeding $100, and the excess appears in proof at the trial, such excess may then be abandoned. The abandonment must be a positive act done, and would appear to be an abandonment for all purposes, irrespective of whether the plaintiff recovers all his claim up to the extent of the jurisdiction or not,
and must be made by the plaintiff himself, or of some person authorized by him for that purpose, and the entry of judgment should be made accordingly.

(m) See note (l) to preceding section.

(n) A certiorari is an original writ issuing out of Chancery or the King's Bench (but is under this section confined to the Superior Courts of Common Law), directed in the King's name to the judges or officers of inferior courts, commanding them to return the reords of a cause pending before them, to the end the party may have the more sure and speedy justice before him, or such other justices as he shall assign to determine the cause. (Baçon's abr.)

The application should be made to a judge in Chambers and not to the full court. (Re Bowen v. Evans, 18 L. J., Ex. 38; Soloman v. London C. & D. R. W. Co. 10 W. R., Ex. 59.)

To entitle a suitor to this writ
it must be shewn that,

1. The amount claimed is £40 and upwards.
2. That the cause is a fit one to be tried in one of the Superior Courts, that it will, in all probability, bring up difficult points of law at the trial, or that it presents some other circumstance which would render a trial in the court above advisable, and,
3. The leave of a judge must be obtained.

As a general rule a certiorari only lies before judgment with a view to a trial of the cause in a Superior Court (Siddall v. Gibson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 98); and Robinson,
C. J., in McKenzie v. Keene, 5 U.
C. L. J. 225, refused an order after judgment and execution regularly issued and money made and paid into either of the said Superior Courts upon such terms as to payment of costs or other terms as the judge making the order thinks fit. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 85.

over, although a new trial was subsequently granted by the county judge. But generally when a new trial has been ordered, and the case is again coming on for trial, a writ may issue. (See Help v. Lucas, 8 U. C. L. J. 184; Corley v. Roblin, 5 U. C. L. J. 225.)

The 43 Eliz. cap. 5, provides that no such writ shall be received or allowed by the judge except it be delivered to him, before the jury, which is to try the question, has been sworn. "The mischief," said Richards, C. J., in Black v. Wesley, 8 U. C. L. J. 277, "intended to be cured by the statute arises when the cause is gone into before the judge alone, as before a jury; for it enables the defendant, in the language of the statute, to 'know what proofs the plaintiffs can make for proving their issue, whereby the defendants that sued forth the writ may have longer time to furnish themselves with some false witnesses to impugn these proofs, which the plaintiffs have openly made by their witnesses, which is a great cause of perjury and subornation of perjury.' I think the act in spirit applies to cases where plaintiff's witnesses are sworn although no jury is called."

The removal of a cause under this section is entirely in the discretion of the judge to whom the application is made, upon its being shewn to him that difficult questions of law are likely to arise, and he may impose such terms as he thinks fit. Each case must therefore depend on its own merits, and the circumstances attending it.

With reference to the English cases as to the discretion of the judge, it is to be noticed that the wording of the analogous section of the English act is different from that before us.

It is the practice in England to grant orders for writs of certiorari on ex parte applications. The practice was formerly the same in this country, but of late years the practice has usually been to grant only a summons to shew cause, in the first instance; and, as our Division Courts are constituted, this seems the more correct course, as it certainly is the most advisable. The writer is not aware of any authority on the point.

Nor has it yet been decided in the full court whether the plaintiff can, as a matter of right, remove a cause from a Division Court by certiorari. Some of our judges grant such orders whilst others refuse to do so. In Dennison v. Knox, 9 U. C. L. J. 241; 3 U. C. Prac. R. 151, Chief Justice Draper said, that a removal of a case from a County Court by a plaintiff was open to grave objections, and that he should not facilitate it. But there were circumstances in that case, which would not apply to a similar application in a Division Court suit, such for example as the right of appeal from a County Court.

The plaintiff makes his election with full knowledge in most cases as to what points will come up at the trial. He can discontinue if he chooses in the Division Court, and commence de novo in a Superior Court at a trifling expense.

PROCESS AND PROCEDURE.

LXII. The existing appointments of County Judges (o), with authority to frame general rules respecting the practice and proceedings of the Division Courts, shall continue until superseded or revoked by the Governor. 16 V. c. 177, s. 10; 20 V. c. 58, s. 8.

But even if leave is granted to a plaintiff to remove his own suit, the difficulty still remains of forcing the defendant to appear in the court above. There would be more show of reason for the removal when the defendant pleads a set off, which is likely to bring up difficult questions of law, as a set off is in the nature of a cross action, but an application of that nature was refused by Morrison, J., in Prudhomme v. Lazure, 10 U. C. L. J. 330. It was subsequently expressly held by Mr. Justice Adam Wilson, in Chambers, in Maney v. Hollinrake (not reported), that a plaintiff cannot remove his cause by certiorari.

The plaintiff cannot be compelled, when a cause is removed by a defendant, to follow his plaint into a Superior Court, nor is the defendant entitled in such case to his costs of removing it from the inferior court (Garton v. Great Western R. W. Co. 5 Jur. N. S. 595; 28 L. J., Q. B. 103); though he is entitled to his full costs of suit without a certificate if successful in the Superior Court. (Corley v. Roblin, 5 U. C. L. J. 225.)

An interpleader issue has been held not to be within this section, and cannot be removed by certiorari. (Russell v. Williams, 8 U. C. L. J. 277; and see Jones v. Harris, 6 U. C. L. J. 16.)

The affidavits to be used on applications of this kind must be entitled in the court to which it is desired to remove the suit. (Smyth et al. v. Nicholls, 1 U. C. Prac. R. 355.)

Such rules to be approved of by the judges. LXV. The judges of the Superior Courts (of whom the said Chief Justice, or the Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas shall be one) may approve of, disallow, or amend any such rules or forms.

And have force of a statute. LXVI. The rules and forms so approved of shall have the same force and effect as if they had been made and included in this act.

The judges to transmit copies to the Governor, &c. LXVII. The judges who make any rules and forms approved of as aforesaid, shall forward copies thereof to the Governor, and the Governor shall lay the same before each House of the Legislature.

Practice of the Superior Courts to be followed in unprovided cases. LXIX. In any case not expressly provided for by this act or by existing rules, or by rules made under this act, the county judges may, in their discretion, adopt and apply the general principles of practice in the Superior Courts of Common Law, to actions and proceedings in the Division Courts.

Former rules continued. LXX. All rules and forms legally made and approved under the former "Upper Canada Division Court Acts," and in force when this act takes effect, shall, as far as applicable, remain in force until otherwise ordered (p). 16 V. c. 177, s. 10; 20 V. c. 58, s. 8.

The rules now in force bear date the 28th June, 1854, and were approved on the 8th July, 1854, by the (then) Chief Justice of Upper Canada, the Chief Justice of LXXI. Any suit may be entered and tried in the court holden for the division in which the cause of action arose (g) or in which the defendant or any one of several defendants resides or carries on business at the time the action is brought, notwithstanding that the defendant or defendants may at such time reside in a county or division or counties or divisions different from the one in which the cause of action arose. 16 V. c. 177, s. 8; 18 V. c. 125, s. 1.

In what courts suits may be entered and tried.

(g) There has been and still is considerable difference of opinion as to the court in which an action may be brought under these words. The case of In re Watt v. Van every, 23 U. C. Q. B. 196, (decided before the late act of 27, 28 Vic. cap. 27,) though only the judgment of the court on an ex parte application for a rule nisi, is an important judicial decision on the subject. The defendants, residing at Goderich, made a contract at Brantford with plaintiff to deliver to him certain goods at Goderich. The plaintiff alleged that the defendant failed to perform his contract, and commenced an action against him in the Division Court at Brantford. The defendant then applied for a rule nisi for a prohibition. Draper, C. J., in granting the rule, said: "The words, 'cause of action,' have, in the English County Court Act, been repeatedly determined in England to mean the whole cause of action: in other words, whatever the plaintiff must prove to entitle him to recover. (See Borthwick v. Walton, 15 C. B. 501; Hernaman v. Smith, 10 Ex. 659.) Now, what is the cause of action in this case? Not the contract only, but the contract and the breach, for which the plaintiff claims damages. The first was made at Brantford, but the fish were to be and were delivered to the plaintiff at the railway station at Goderich. The breach of contract alleged is, that the fish there delivered were unsound, &c., and if true, this breach occurred at the place of delivery stipulated for by the contract. The cause of action therefore arose partly at Brantford and partly at Goderich, and the plaintiff must bring his action according to the second alternative [as given in the statute, namely, where the defendant resides or carries on business]. The rule nisi must issue."

Where the defendant resided at G., at which place a bargain was made for the delivery of certain goods at W., and the bargain was fulfilled by such delivery and acceptance, it was held that the cause of action arose partly at G. and partly at W., and that the judge of the county in which W. is situated had no authority in respect of the cause of action. (In re Kemp v. Owen, 1 U. C. L. J., N. S. 71; 1 L. C. G. 41; 14 U. C. C. P. 432.)

It is difficult to give a definition of the word "residence." A learned judge in England doubted if a general definition could be found anywhere, and said he never could find or frame one satisfactory to his mind. Robinson, C. J., in Mellish v. Van Norman, 13 U. C. Q. B. 455 says, "The term 'resident' is differently construed in courts of justice, according to the purposes for which

[Whereas (r) it is desirable to lessen the expenses of proceedings in Division Courts in Upper Canada, and to provide, as far as may be, for the convenience of parties having suits in these courts: Therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of Canada, enacts as follows:—

1. Any suit cognizable in a Division Court may be entered, and tried, and determined in the court, the place of sitting whereof is the nearest to the defendant or defendants (s), and such suit may be enquiry is made into the meaning of the term. The sense in which it should be used is controlled by reference to the object."

Residence is said to mean a domicile or home, (Lamb v. Smith, 15 L. J. Ex. 267,) and a man's home is where his wife and family reside. (Reg. v. Duke of Richmond, 6 T. R. 561.) But this is only the case generally, because a man may reside in one place and his family in another. There is a difference between domicile and residence. The latter is more transient in its nature than the former,—and the cases shew that a person may have in fact two places of residence at the same time (Withorn v. Thomas, 7 M. & G. 1,) though he can have but one domicile. Practically, however, the points which will generally be necessary to establish are, that the "residence" (which may here be considered synonymous with "dwelling") is bona fide, and that, although it may be constructive, as by a family or servants, or even the possession of a domicile, which is not actually used, there must be a reasonable intention to reside whilst there, and a clear intention to return whilst absent.

A public company is said to "dwell" where they have their office for the transaction of their business. (Aberystwith Pier Co. v. Cooper, 14 W. R. 28.)

"Carrying on business" refers to a man's "calling" and not to an accidental occupation, and the words do not apply to a mere clerk in the employment of another.

(r) The late Act of 27, 28 Vic. cap. 27 (assented to 30th June, 1864), is here inserted within brackets, for the reasons to be found in its third section.

(s) The two alternatives given to a plaintiff by section 71 have been already noticed. This act gives him a third, namely, that he may bring his suit in the Division Court, the place of sitting whereof is nearest the residence of the defendant, and generally therefore the most convenient court, and this without reference to where the cause of action arose, and no matter in what county or division the defendant may live. It is a provision of great benefit and importance to suitors; for in the majority of cases the plaintiff lives in the immediate neighbourhood of the defendant, as also the witnesses likely to be called, and the expense of suing a defendant increases with the distance he may live from the court.

2. It shall be sufficient if the summons in such case be served by a bailiff of the court out of which it issues (t) in the manner provided in the seventy-fifth section of the Division Courts Act; and upon judgment recovered in any such suit a writ of feri facias against the goods and chattels of the defendant, and all other writs, process, and proceedings to enforce the payment of the said judgment, may be issued to the bailiff of the court, and be executed and enforced by him in the county in which the defendant resides, as well as in the county in which the judgment was recovered.

3. This act shall be read as incorporated with and as part of the said Division Courts Act, and the foregoing sections shall be considered as inserted next after section seventy-one in the said act, and the authority from time to time to make rules and to Section 72 will, in a great measure, be superseded by this provision, although there may be cases where it will be necessary to obtain an order under that section, as, for instance, where there are two or more defendants, whose residences are not all nearest to one and the same place of holding a court, this act only speaking of "the defendant or defendants," without adding the words "or one of several defendants," as in section 72. The judge can, under that section, exercise his discretion as to the court where the suit is to be entered, according to the facts of each particular case.

It has been questioned whether proceedings by replevin or attachment, which are not for the purpose of enforcing payment of a judgment come within the meaning of the act. It may also be argued that a judgment summons does not come within the statute, as the means of enforcing the attendance of a debtor to be examined, namely by commitment, is in the nature of a punishment for contempt of court or fraud, as the case may be, and cannot therefore be called a proceeding to enforce payment of a judgment, but at the same time that it is such a proceeding, and an effectual one too, cannot be denied; and much benefit to be derived from the statute would be lost if the narrow view of it is to be taken. No decision has yet been reported on the points spoken of.

alter and amend the same (given under the sixty-third of the said act) shall extend to the provisions in this act contained. 27, 28 V. c. 27.]

When suits may be brought in other than the regular divisions.

LXXII. The places fixed for holding the sittings of the courts and the offices of the clerks thereof, being in some instances situated at an inconvenient distance from the place of residence of certain parties residing in such divisions, while a court is held in an adjacent division, in the same, or in an adjoining county more convenient for such parties, and it being desirable that procedure in the Division Courts should be made easy and inexpensive to suitors; therefore, in case any person desires to bring an action in a division other than that in which the cause of action has arisen, or in which the defendant resides, any county judge may by special order (u) authorize a suit to be entered and tried in the court of any division in his county adjacent to the division in which the defendant or one of several defendants resides, whether such defendant or defendants reside in the county of the judge granting the order or in an adjoining county. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 25; 16 V. c. 177, ss. 8, 9; 18 V. c. 125, s. 1.

Where no special order, clerk to forward summonses.

LXXIII. In case where no such special order has been obtained, the clerk of any Division Court shall, when required, forward all summonses to the clerk of any other Division Court for service, and the clerk of any Division Court shall receive any summonses sent to him by any other Division Court clerk for service, and he shall hand the same to the bailiff for service, and when returned, shall receive the same from the bailiff and return them to the clerk from whom he received them, and every clerk shall enter all such proceedings in a book to be by him kept for

(u) Under 16 Vic. cap. 177, sec. 9, it was held that the application should be made to the judge who would ordinarily have cognizance of the cause, and not to the judge of the division to which it was desired to transfer it (McWhirter v. Bongard, 14 U. C. Q. B. 84), but under this section the order must be made by the judge of the county in one of the divisions of which the suit is to be brought.

LXXIV. The plaintiff shall enter with the clerk a copy, and if necessary, copies of his account, claim or demand in writing in detail (and in cases of tort, particulars of his demand) (w), which shall be numbered according to the order in which the same are entered, and thereupon a summons shall be issued, bearing the number of the account, claim or demand on the margin thereof (x), and corresponding in substance with the form or in such other form as may be prescribed by any rule respecting the practice and proceedings of the Division Courts, according to the nature of the account, claim or demand, and on the trial of the cause no evidence shall be given by the plaintiff of any cause of action except Plaintiff to enter copy of his claims with clerk.

(v) See rule 21, which enlarges upon the mode of procedure under this section.

The book here spoken of may be called the "foreign procedure book," and be in a form analogous to that of the "procedure book," required by rule 4 and form 64.

It would seldom be possible and often inconvenient for the transmitting clerk to know and send the exact sums that would be required to pay for services in a foreign division; it is therefore usual for each clerk to keep an account with other clerks, that he sends summonses or other papers to, in which to credit them the charges that they make against him, and which are endorsed on the papers returned. If he also keeps in his foreign procedure book, besides the index of the names of the suits, an alphabetical index of the names of the clerks sending him these suits, referring to each as it comes to him and is numbered, he can at any moment see what any such clerk owes him, and so make out his account with him accordingly. This is the course pursued by the clerk in Toronto, and answers all purposes. But where there is no such understanding between clerks, a sum should be sent on account of service, &c.

(w) See section 35, note (k).

Rule 15 provides that the account, claim, or demand, shall, whenever possible, contain detailed particulars. It would be unreasonable to require less than this. The plaintiff, moreover, is bound by his own particulars, though he may in certain cases obtain leave to amend on terms. Suitors would do well to be very careful about the manner in which they put their claims into court, and thereby save much valuable time to the court and delay and expense to themselves.

See forms 3 and 4, for particulars of demand.

Service of summons to be ten days.

LXXV. The summons with a copy of the account or of the particulars of the claim or demand attached, shall be served ten days at least (z) before the return day thereof.

When service to be 15 days and when 20 days.

LXXVI. In case none of the defendants reside in the county in which the action is brought, but one of them resides in an adjoining county, the summons shall be served fifteen days, and in case none of the defendants reside in the county within which the action is brought, or in an adjoining county, the summons shall be served twenty days at least before the return day thereof. 16 V. c. 177, s. 29; 18 V. c. 125, s. 1.

When service to be personal or otherwise.

LXXVII. In case the amount of the account, claim or demand exceeds eight dollars, the service shall be personal on the defendant (a), and in case the amount does not exceed eight dollars, the service may be on the defendant, his wife or servant, or some grown person being an inmate of the defendant's dwelling house, or usual place of abode, trading or dealing (b). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 24.

(y) The judge may, however, in his discretion, adjourn the hearing of the cause to enable a party to furnish particulars or further particulars (rule 15).

(z) That is, ten days exclusive of the day of service and the court day (rule 22).

It is laid down in the books of practice in the Superior Courts, that when practicable, the defendant, or each of them if more than one, should be served personally with a true copy of the writ. It is not necessary to leave the copy in his actual corporeal possession, and whether the party touches him or puts it into his hand is immaterial. Personal service may be where you see a person and bring the process to his notice, and if, after informing him of the nature of it and tendering a copy, he refuses to receive it, then, placing it on his person, or throwing it down in his presence, would be sufficient service. But each particular case must depend upon its peculiar facts. Where a writ was put through the crevice of a door to a defendant, who had locked himself in, the service was deemed insufficient.

If the defendant conceals himself to avoid service of process the plaintiff's course is to proceed against him by attachment under section 199.

LXXIX. The bailiffs shall serve and execute all summonses, orders, warrants, precepts and writs delivered to them by the clerk for service, whether bailiffs of the court out of which the same issued or not, and shall so soon as served return the same (c) to the clerk of the court of which they are respectively bailiffs; but they shall not be required to travel beyond the limits of their division, or be allowed to charge mileage for any distance travelled beyond the limits of the county in which the court of which they are respectively bailiffs is situated (d). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 13; 16 V. c. 177, s. 29; 18 V. c. 125, s. 2.

LXXX. The clerk shall prepare affidavits of service of all summonses issued out of his court, or sent to him for service, stating how the same were served, the day of service, and the distance the bailiff necessarily travelled to effect service (e), and the affidavits shall be annexed to or endorsed on the summonses respectively; but the judge may require the bailiff to be sworn in his presence and to answer such questions as may be put to him touching any service or mileage. 16 V. c. 177, s. 31.

(c) The bailiff should make a note of the mode of service without delay, to enable him correctly to make the return required by rule 11. If the service is not personal the bailiff should make enquiry as to the name and position of the person that he leaves the process or paper with, if unknown to him, so that he may be able to fill in the affidavit of service properly, and to give full information to the judge if required so to do under section 80.

(d) By 27, 28 Vic. cap. 27, sec. 2, a summons in a suit entered as there provided for may be served by the bailiff of the court from whence such summons issues, notwithstanding that the defendant may live in another county (sec. 1), and as this act is incorporated with the Division Courts Act, the bailiff would doubtless in such case be entitled to his full mileage.

(e) See form 7.

One of several partners may be sued in certain cases.

LXXXI. In case of a debt or demand against two or more persons, partners in trade or otherwise jointly liable (f), but residing in different divisions, or one or more of whom cannot be found, one or more of such persons may be served with process, and judgment may be obtained and execution issued against the person or persons served, notwithstanding others jointly liable have not been served or sued, reserving always to the person or persons against whom execution issues, his or their right to demand contribution from any other person jointly liable with him. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 29.

Balliff may seize property of firm on certificate of judge.

LXXXII. Whenever judgment has been obtained against any such partner, and the judge certifies that the demand proved was strictly a partnership transaction, the balliff, in order to satisfy the judgment, and costs and charges thereon, may seize and sell the property of the firm, as well as that of the defendants who have been served (g). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 29.

Clerks and bailiffs may sue and be

LXXXIII. Every clerk or bailiff may sue and be sued (h) for any debt due to or by him, as the (f) In the Superior Courts, if one of several joint contractors be sued alone, he may plead in abatement the non-joinder of the others, unless it can be shewn that those not sued were out of Upper Canada. But here, if these partners or other joint contractors reside in different divisions, or if one of them cannot be found, any one or more of them may be served and sued, as though the person not sued had not been a contracting party.

The words cannot be found are indefinite. It was evidently the intention of the Legislature to remove the restrictions of the common law on this point; the words cannot therefore refer exclusively to cases where the defendant is out of Upper Canada, but must also apply to cases where he cannot be found after diligent enquiry. It would be for the judge, upon the question being raised, and before going into the merits of the case, to determine whether proper exertion has been made to effect service.

(g) This section only applies to the cases referred to in the previous one.

As a general rule only the defendant's own goods, or his undivided share or interest in the partnership property, can be seized and sold under an execution against one partner, so as not to affect the property or possession of the other partner, and the purchaser would have to discover what that interest might be as best he could. (Johnson v. Evans, 1 D. & L. 935; Holmes v. Mentze, 4 A. & E. 131.)

(h) These words are permissive, whilst the words in the latter part of the section are imperative and prohibitory.

(i) Neither the act nor the rules expressly lay down all the duties of clerks and bailiffs in court. It is not necessary, however, to say much on this subject. Each judge will of course make such arrangement as he finds most conducive to the convenient and speedy despatch of business.

(j) A good deal has been said about the evils and inconveniences arising from the too common practice in this country of allowing unqualified persons or agents to conduct cases in court. Some judges permit professional men only to exercise this privilege of advocacy, whilst others do not think that they have power, or at all events do not like to exercise it, to prevent any "agent" from acting on behalf of the suitor who may employ him. There has never been any decision on the subject, and the act leaves it an open question, but the statute respecting attorneys (Con. Stat. U. C. ch. 35) is principally relied upon in favor of the former view. Section one enacts, that no person, unless admitted, &c., as an attorney or solicitor, shall act as such in any superior or inferior court of civil or criminal jurisdiction in law or equity, &c., or sue out any writ or process, or commence, carry on, solicit or defend any action, suit or proceeding in the name of any other person, &c.; and section 18 provides that if any person, unless himself a plaintiff or defendant, commences, &c., any suit, &c., in any court of law or equity, without being admitted as an attorney or solicitor, he shall be incapable of recovering any fee, reward or disbursements on account thereof; and such offence shall be a contempt of the court in which such proceeding has been commenced and punishable accordingly. Whatever may be the strict law of the case, there appears to be sufficient authority to warrant a judge in refusing to hear or acknowledge in a suit before him any layman claiming to act as an advocate. It is at most a matter of discretion on the part of the judge. The writer has before now (10 U. C. L. J. 258) suggested the propriety of the allowance of a small counsel fee to professional men, for conducting cases in court, as a taxable item in the costs of the cause. This would to a certain extent, it ther pleading or formal joinder of issue, proceed, in a summary way, to try the cause and give judgment; and in case satisfactory proof is not given to the judge entitling either party to judgment, he may nonsuit (k) the plaintiff; and the plaintiff may, before verdict in jury cases, and before judgment pronounced in other cases, insist on being nonsuited. 13, 14 V. c. 53, ss. 41, 84.

LXXXV. If on the day named in the summons (l) the defendant does not appear, or sufficiently excuse his absence, or if he neglects to answer, the judge, on proof of due service of the summons and copy of the plaintiff's account, claim or demand, may proceed to the hearing or trial of the cause on the part of the plaintiff only, and the order, verdict or judgment thereupon, shall be final and absolute, and as valid as if both parties had attended; and, except in actions of tort or trespass, in case of the personal service of the summons and of detailed particulars of the plaintiff's claim, the judge may, in his discretion, give judgment without further proof (m). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 45.

LXXXVI. In case the judge thinks it conducive to the ends of justice, he may adjourn the hearing of any cause in order to permit either party to sum-is submitted, have the effect of throwing the business into the hands of those best able to conduct it, and at the same time be a matter of justice to the successful suitor, who, under the present system, has to pay money for the recovery of a just debt, or for defending himself from an unjust claim, as the case may be.

(k) A nonsuit only affects that particular action, but is not a bar to any further proceeding, or to another suit for the same subject matter.

A defendant is in general entitled to his costs of defence on the plaintiff being non-suited, and section 114 authorises the judge in his discretion to award to the defendant his costs and other reasonable charges in satisfaction for his trouble and attendance. But some of the most experienced judges apply the principles acted on in the Court of Chancery as to costs, and do not always award the costs according to the event of the suit.

(l) The defendant is bound to be present at the time appointed for the opening of the court, and to remain in attendance till the case is called on.

TENDER OR PAYMENT OF MONEY INTO COURT. (o)

LXXXVII. If the defendant in any action of debt or contract brought against him in any Division Court, desires to plead a tender before action brought of a sum of money in full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, he may do so on filing his plea (p) with the clerk of the court before which he is summoned to appear, at least six days before the day appointed for the trial of the cause, and at the same time paying into court the amount of the money mentioned in such plea, and notice of such plea and payment (q) shall be forthwith communicated by the clerk of the said court to the plaintiff by post (on receiving the necessary postage,) or by sending the same to his usual place of abode or business. 16 V. c. 177, s. 27.

LXXXVIII. The said sum of money shall be paid to the plaintiff, less one dollar, to be paid over to the defendant for his trouble, in case the plaintiff

(n) See rule 28.

(o) A tender must be made to the person authorized to receive it, and it must be unconditional. A tender of more than a man ought to pay is good, but it is not so if change is required. The actual production of the money is necessary, unless dispensed with. British and Canadian silver coin is a good tender, up to ten dollars; copper coin to twenty cents. American gold coin and British gold and silver coin are a good tender according to rates specified by act of Parliament (Con. Stat. Can. cap.

15). Country bank notes are, in England, a good tender, unless objected to at the time, (Polglass v. Oliver, 2 C. & J. 15; Lockyer v. Jones, Peake, 180, n.) and so it is presumed are our Provincial bank notes.

Payment into court admits the jurisdiction, and that a debt is due to that amount, in fact, everything that the plaintiff must have proved in order to recover.

The rule as to costs in such cases.

LXXXIX. If the decision thereon be for the defendant, the plaintiff shall pay the defendant his costs, charges and expenses, to be awarded by the court, and the amount thereof may be paid over to him out of the money so paid in with the said plea, or may be recovered from the plaintiff in the same manner as any other money payable by a judgment of the said court; but, if the decision be in favor of the plaintiff, the full amount of the money paid into court as aforesaid shall be applied to the satisfaction of his claim, and a judgment may be pronounced against the defendant for the balance due and the costs of suit according to the usual practice of the court in other cases. 16 V. c. 177, s. 27.

Defendant may pay money into court.

XC. The defendant may at any time, not less than six days before the day appointed for the trial, pay into court such sum as he thinks a full satisfaction for the plaintiff's demand, together with the plaintiff's costs up to the time of such payment. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 46.

Clerk to give notice of payment into court.

XCI. The clerk having received the necessary postage, shall forthwith send notice of such payment to the plaintiff by post or otherwise to his usual place of abode or of business, and the sum so paid shall be paid to the plaintiff, and all proceedings in the action stayed, unless within three days after the receipt of the notice, the plaintiff signify to the clerk his intention to proceed for the remainder of the demand claimed, in which case the action shall proceed as if brought originally for such remainder only (s). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 46.

SET-OFF AND STATUTORY DEFENCE.

XCVIII. In case the defendant or defendants desire to avail themselves of the law of set-off (t) or of the Statute of Limitations or of any defence under any other statute having force of law in Upper Canada;

(t) The statute giving the right of set-off is 2 Geo. II. cap. 22, s. 13. It enacts, "that when there are mutual debts between the plaintiff and defendant, or if either party sue or be sued as executor or administrator, where there are mutual debts between the testator or intestate and either party, one debt may be set against the other, and such matter may be given in evidence upon the general issue," &c.

The subject matter of a set-off must be a debt due at the time the action is brought, but not a demand for uncertain damages, nor a claim on a guarantee for debt or against contingent damages. A set-off under the statute cannot be had in actions for torts, nor when the demands are not mutual and in the same right. A debt barred by the Statute of Limitations cannot be set off, and the plaintiff may plead the statute. And it is presumed that he would be entitled to an adjournment under section 86 to enable him to give the necessary notice.

A defendant is not bound to set off his claim against the plaintiffs', but he may do so, even though it is beyond the jurisdiction (provided he abandon the excess, sec. 95), but by section 96, the judgment of the court is a full discharge of the whole cause of action; or he may shew a claim sufficient to over-balance the plaintiff's claim, and then demand that the defendant be non-suited under section 95.

It is said that Courts of Equity will grant relief in cases of mutual credit where there is an equitable, without a legal right to set off (James v. Kynnier, 5 Ves. 108); and in Switzer v. Wilson, Chan. Cham. Rep. 160, it is remarked that equity professes to follow the law in allowing set-off, except where there are particular circumstances which ought in equity to make a difference. As Division Courts have an equitable jurisdiction, the latitude allowed in courts of Equity would be applicable to them. But when there are unconnected cross demands, equity does not in general interfere to set-off one against another, in the absence of any special circumstance or agreement express or implied. Nor unless it is shewn that the debts are due from and to the same parties respectively.

they, or one of them, shall, at least six days before the trial or hearing, give notice thereof in writing (u) to the plaintiff, or leave the same for him at his usual place of abode if within the division, or, if living without the division, shall deliver the same to the clerk of the court in which the action is to be tried, and in case of a set-off, the particulars thereof shall accompany the notice (v). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 43; 16 V. c. 177, s. 29; 18 V. c. 125, s. 1.

No evidence of set-off allowed.

X CIV. No evidence of set-off shall be given by the defendant except such as contained in the particulars of set-off delivered. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 42.

Plaintiff may be non-suited or judgment given for defendant.

X CV. If the defendant's demand, as proved, exceeds the plaintiff's, the court may non-suit the plaintiff; or if the defendant's set-off, after remitting any portion of it he pleases, does not exceed one hundred dollars, the court may give judgment for the defendant for the balance found in his favour. 13; 14 V. c. 53, s. 43.

Set-off to be a full discharge.

X CVI. And where a set-off is set up, the judgment of the court thereon shall be a full discharge, as well of the amount allowed to be set-off as the amount by which such claim of the defendant exceeded one hundred dollars, and the judgment shall be entered accordingly. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 43.

(x) In the majority of cases plaintiffs know what defence is likely to be set up, but, unless the witnesses reside at a considerable distance from the court, it would be better for them not to get out their subpoenas, until the time has elapsed for defendant giving his notice of statutory defence, or pleading tender and paying money into court, for otherwise the judge might well refuse to allow the fees for a witness who might prove to be unnecessary.

XCVIII. Any number of names may be inserted in the subpoena, and service thereof may be made by any literate person (a), and proof of the due service thereof, together with the tender or payment of expenses, may be made by affidavit sworn before any county judge or the clerk of any Division Court, or before any person authorized to take affidavits in any of the Superior Courts, and proof of service may be received by the several judges of the said courts, either orally or by affidavit. 16 V. c. 177, ss. 5, 33; 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 48.

XCIX. Every person served with a copy of a subpoena either personally or at his usual place of abode, and to whom at the same time a tender (b) of payment of his lawful expenses (c) is made, who refuses or neglects without sufficient cause to obey the subpoena, and also every person in court called upon to give evidence, who refuses to be sworn (or affirm where affirmation is by law allowed) or to give evidence shall pay such fine not exceeding eight dollars, as the judge may impose, and shall, by verbal or written order of the judge, be, in addition, liable to imprisonment for any time not exceeding ten days; and such fine shall be levied and collected with costs, in the same manner as fines imposed on jurymen for non-attendance (e), and the whole or any part of such fine, in the discretion of the judge, after deducting the costs, shall be applicable towards indemnifying the party injured by such refusal or neglect (f), and the remainder thereof shall form part of the General Fee Fund. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 48.

Parties may obtain subpoenas from Superior Courts.

C. Any party may obtain from either of the Superior Courts of Common Law a subpoena requiring the attendance at the Division Court, and at the time mentioned in such subpoena, of a witness residing or served with such subpoena in any part of Upper Canada (g); and the witness shall obey such subpoena, provided the allowance for his expenses, according to the scale settled in the Superior Courts be tendered to him at the time of service (h). 16 V. c. 177, s. 5.

(e) Under sec. 126. See forms 59, 63.

(f) It is supposed that this provision does not interfere with the right of the injured party to bring an action for damages against a witness, who when duly subpoenaed, fails to attend.

(g) The mode of compelling the attendance of witnesses not resident in the county is here pointed out. Should the clerk not keep a supply of these subpoenas on hand, they can be obtained from the deputy clerks of the Crown in outer counties.

(h) The fees allowed by rule of court are as follows:

To witnesses residing within three miles of the Court House, per diem	$0 75
To witnesses residing over three miles from the Court House	1 00
Barristers and attorneys, physicians and surgeons, when called upon to give evidence in consequence of any professional service rendered by them, or to give professional opinions, per diem	4 00

Engineers and surveyors, when called upon to give evidence of any professional service rendered by them, or to give evidence depending upon their skill and judgment, per diem..	4 00

If the witnesses attend in one cause only they will be entitled to the full allowance. If they attend in more than one cause they will be entitled to a proportionate part in each case only. The travelling expenses of witnesses over ten miles shall be allowed according to the sums reasonably and actually paid, but in no case shall exceed one shilling per mile one way (Har. C. L. P. Act, p. 716).

Under this rule the taxing officers of the Superior Courts of law at Toronto allow fees to witnesses coming over ten miles as follows:

If they travel by railway or by other public conveyance, only the ordinary fare, but if they are

EVIDENCE AND EXAMINATION OF PARTIES AND WITNESSES. (1)

CI. On the hearing or trial of any action or in any other proceeding, the parties thereto and all other persons may be summoned as witnesses and examined, either on behalf of the plaintiff or defendant, upon oath (or affirmation), to be administered by the proper officer of the court; Provided always, that no party to the suit shall be summoned or

If they travel by their own conveyance, then at the same rate per mile, as would be charged by stages in the vicinity, and which in Canada is generally three cents per mile (with any necessary extras as already mentioned).

The sum of one dollar per diem is to include all incidental expenses of food and shelter during the journey.

(i) It would be impossible in a work of this kind to give even an outline of the principal rules which govern the law of evidence; it may however briefly be stated that,

As a general rule the best evidence, of which the nature of a case will admit, must be given. But, if it is impossible from the loss of documents or the death of witnesses, &c., or from the wrongful act of the opposite party, to produce the best or primary evidence, secondary evidence would become admissible, but only after laying a proper foundation for it to the satisfaction of the judge.

Hearsay evidence is in general inadmissible.

Witnesses are not incapacitated from giving evidence by crime or interest; but parties to the suit cannot, subject to the limitations in the next sections, give evidence on their own behalf, nor can wives give evidence for their husbands, but the plaintiff as well as the defendant may be called by the opposite party or by the judge.

Insane persons (except during lucid intervals); children who do not understand the nature of an oath; atheists and other infidels, who profess no religion which can bind their consciences, are incompetent witnesses. Barristers and attorneys and their clerks cannot be compelled to give, and may be prevented from giving evidence touching any communications made to them in such character.

See the "act respecting witnesses and evidence" (Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 32, sections 1 to 8.)

As to the means of securing evidence the four preceding sections provide for compelling the attendance of witnesses. Rule 26 provides for the inspection of documents by one party in the possession or control of the other. Rule 30 enables either party to the suit to give his opponent notice of his intention to admit any fact on the trial of the cause for the purpose of saving expense in proof, and form 10 is the form given for this notice.

Judge may require either party to give evidence.

CII. The judge holding any Division Court may, whenever he thinks it conducive to the ends of justice, require the plaintiff or defendant in any cause or proceeding to be examined under oath or affirmation, and in any case of debt or contract brought for a demand not exceeding eight dollars, in which the plaintiff gives sufficient evidence to satisfy the judge that the defendant has become indebted to such plaintiff, but the plaintiff has not evidence to establish the particular amount, the court may in its discretion examine the plaintiff on his oath or affirmation, touching the items of such account, and give judgment thereon accordingly, and such judge may also, under like circumstances, examine the defendant as to the amount of any payment or set-off in any such case, and may give judgment accordingly for such defendant. 16 V. c. 177, ss. 22, 23.

Judge may receive in evidence plaintiffs' or defendants' books of account.

CIII. In any suit for a debt or demand, not being for tort, and not exceeding twenty dollars, the judge, on being satisfied of their general correctness, may receive the plaintiffs' books as testimony, or in case of a defence of set-off or of payment, so far as the same extends to twenty dollars, may receive the defendants' books, and such judge may also receive as testimony the affidavit or affirmation of any party or witness in the suit resident without the limits of his county, but before pronouncing judgment, the judge may require any such witness or any party in a cause to answer upon oath or affirmation any interrogatories that may be filed in the suit. 13, 14 V. c. 53, ss. 31, 72; 16 V. c. 177, s. 28.

JUDGE'S DECISION.

CVI. The judge, in any case heard before him, shall, openly in court, and as soon as may be after the hearing, pronounce his decision, but if he is not prepared to pronounce a decision instantan-^{Judge may give judgment instantan-ly or postpone judgment.} ter, he may postpone judgment and name a subsequent day and hour for the delivery thereof in writing at the clerk's office ; and the clerk shall then read the decision to the parties or their agents if present, and he shall forthwith enter the judgment, and such judgment shall be as effectual as if rendered in court at the trial. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 39.

CVII. The judge may order the time or times and the proportions in which any sum and costs recovered by judgment of the court shall be paid (^{Judge may direct times and proportions in which judgment shall be paid.} k), reference being had to the day on which the summons was served, and, at the request of the party entitled thereto, he may order the same to be paid into court, and the judge, upon the application of either party, within fourteen days after the trial, and upon good grounds being shewn, may grant a new trial upon such terms as he thinks reasonable, and

(k) It is usual for judges, for the sake of convenience and uniformity, to make a standing rule on this subject, the time given for payment (not being more than 50 days by section 103) being in proportion to the amount of the judgment, exception however being made to the rule upon special circumstances

Execution not to be postponed for more than 60 days.

CVIII. Except in cases where a new trial is granted, the issue of execution shall not be postponed for more than fifty days from service of the summons without the consent of the party entitled to the same

(l) The right of a suitor under certain circumstances to obtain a new trial is one of great importance, especially in courts from which there is no appeal. It gives the judge an opportunity of calmly reviewing his decision, without the unavoidable hurry and distraction incident to a crowded court and a number of cases, presented for adjudication in a crude state, and not brought to a simple issue by the science of pleading, and generally unexplained by experienced counsel. It gives the suitor an opportunity of obtaining redress in a variety of cases and under various circumstances.

The following are the principal grounds upon which new trials are granted in the Superior Courts, and which are applicable to Division Courts:—

Mistake of the judge; wrong non-suit; improper admission or rejection of evidence; default or misconduct of an officer of the court; absence of counsel, upon its being clearly shewn that the defendant has a good defence on the merits; default or misconduct of, or being misled, or taken by surprise by the opposite party; absence of material witnesses; misconduct or perjury of witnesses; discovery of fresh evidence that is material, &c. And to these may be added, in jury cases, misdirection of the judge; the improper discharge of a jury; default or misconduct of jury; perverse verdict, or verdict against law, or evidence, or judge's charge; that the damages are excessive or too small, &c.

For the reasons already suggested in the first part of this note it would seem that judges should exercise the power of granting new trials liberally, and in some cases where they would not be granted in a Superior Court, but new trials should not be granted in any case where the application is made on a ground that does not affect the equity of the case.

It was incidentally decided under 13 & 14 Vic. cap. 53, sec. 84, and 16 Vic. cap. 177, sec. 7, that a new trial could not be had in interpleader cases, (Reg. v. Doty, 13 U. C. Q. B. 398,) and if this be the law, and at present it must be considered so, an alteration, it is conceived, would be most desirable, for in no class of cases would new trials be more beneficial than in interpleader issues. See sec. 175, note (e).

The right to a new trial, being only by force of the statute, must be exercised strictly according to the terms of it. The application may be made either when both parties are present on the day of hearing (Rule 52), or within fourteen days after the trial. And it would appear that if the judge hears an application on the day of trial and decides against granting it, he becomes functus officio, and a subsequent application will be futile—the first judgment being final. (Great Northern R. W. Co. v. Mossop, 16 C. B. 580; 4 W. R. 116; 2 U. C. L. J. 19.)

The practice on this subject is minutely laid down in rule 52. The form of order for a new trial is given in form 19.

(m) No provision similar to this exists in any of the other courts of law or equity, and the large discretionary power here vested in the judge should be sparingly exercised. An ex parte order for an extension of time would be obviously unjust to the judgment creditor. An application should therefore be made to the judge, upon producing and filing affidavits disclosing the facts relied upon, for a summons headed in the court and cause, calling upon the plaintiff, at a certain time and place, to shew cause why the defendant should not have a certain number of days within which to pay the debt; and so in like manner the plaintiff has power to shew that the disability has ceased.

(n) Suitors do not often take advantage of these provisions, finding generally that there is more satisfaction in the decision of an experienced judge who has power to decide the dispute upon equitable grounds, than in the award of an inexperienced layman, who, with the best intentions, may possibly make an award that must in the end be set aside by the judge. In matters of long and complicated accounts which the judge has not time to examine, and as to which there is in the Superior Courts a provision for a compulsory reference, the services of an intelligent arbitrator would be very useful. In that class of cases, and in cases growing out of family quarrels, when the bickerings and exposures in open court would embitter the parties and perhaps alienate them for life, the adjustment by arbitration may be well resorted to.

(o) This reference can only be had with the consent of both parties, there being no provision for jurisdiction of the court, to be referred to arbitration to such person or persons, and in such manner and on such terms as he thinks reasonable and just. 16 V. c. 177, s. 4.

Judge may set aside award.

CXII. The judge on application to him within fourteen days after the entry of such award, may, if he thinks fit, set aside the award, or may with the consent of both parties, revoke the reference and order another reference to be made in the manner aforesaid (q). 16 V. c. 177, s. 4.

compulsory reference in the Division Courts. But consent to reference is all that is required, the appointment of the arbitrator and the terms, &c., belong to the judge.

Section 97 provides for issuing summonses to witnesses in arbitration cases. When a suitor desires to compel the attendance of a witness, he should take the arbitrator's appointment to the clerk, who will thereupon issue a summons to the witness, which may be as in form 13 (a).

The arbitrator cannot enlarge the time for making the award unless the order of reference gives him power. The award is considered as published when the arbitrator has given notice to both parties of its having been made and ready for delivery, and after that time, or probably after execution, it cannot be altered in any material part.

See forms 25, et seq., for various useful forms in arbitration cases.

CLERKS AND BAILIFFS MAY TAKE CONFESSIONS.

Clerks and bailiffs may take confessions.

CXVII. Any bailiff or clerk, before or after suit commenced, may take a confession or acknowledgment of debt from any debtor or defendant desirous of executing the same, which confession or acknowledgment shall be in writing and witnessed by the bailiff or clerk at the time of the taking thereof; and upon the production of such confession or acknowledgment to the judge, and its being proved by the oath of such bailiff or clerk, judgment may be entered thereon (u).

After referring to 13 & 14 Vic. c. 53, sec. 52, he continues, "But that is a mere negative provision. It will have a meaning and an operation given to it, if we suppose it meant to apply to cases in which an action might be brought in one Division Court upon judgments recovered in another; and we do not think we can allow our judgment upon the question to be influenced by the existence of that merely negative clause, imported, as it evidently was, into this statute from a former act, without duly reflecting upon the very great difference between such former act, and the system about to be established by this statute. . . . CXIX. Either party may require a jury, in actions of tort, where the amount sought to be recovered exceeds ten dollars, and in all other actions where such amount exceeds twenty dollars. 13, 14 V. c. 53, ss. 30, 32.

CXX. In case the plaintiff requires a jury to be summoned to try the action, he shall give notice thereof in writing to the clerk at the time of entering his account, demand or claim, and shall at the same time pay to the clerk the proper fees for the expenses of such jury, and in case the defendant requires a jury, he shall, within five days after the day of service of the summons on him (u) give to the clerk or leave at his office the like notice in writing, and shall at the same time pay the proper fees as aforesaid; and thereupon, in either of such cases, a jury shall be summoned according to the provisions hereinafter contained. 13, 14 V. c. 53, ss. 32, 33.

All male persons being subjects of Her Majesty by birth or naturalization, between the ages of twenty-one and sixty years, assessed upon the collector's roll, and resident in the several divisions respectively, shall be jurors for the Division Courts in such divisions (x). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 35.

(v) The matter of this section is embodied in the form of affidavit given in form No. 12.

(w) If the words, "at the time of entering his account," &c., refer to the time of the original entry of the suit, and if the words, "within five days after the day of service of the summons," &c., cannot be interpreted to refer also to an order for a new trial, it follows that a jury cannot be demanded in cases where a new trial is granted. And such would appear to be the result of the English cases, though the rules there specially provide, that in such cases a jury can be had. (See Sparrow v. Reed, 17 L. J., Q. B., 183; 12 Jur. 896; Reg. v. Harwood, 22 L. J. Q. B. 127; 17 Jur. 87.)

Jurors, how selected and summoned.

CXXII. The jurors to be summoned to serve at any Division Court shall be taken from the collector's rolls of the preceding year, for the townships and places wholly or partly within the division, and shall be summoned in rotation, beginning with the first of such persons on such roll; and if there be more than one such township or place within the division, beginning with the roll for that within which the court is held, and then proceeding to that one of the other rolls which contains the greatest number of such persons' names, and so on until all the rolls have been gone through; after which, if necessary, they may be again gone through wholly or partly in the same order, and so on toties quoties. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 35.

Collector to furnish clerk with list of jurors.

CXXIII. For the purposes of the last preceding section, the collector for each place wholly or partly within any division, shall furnish the clerk of the Division Court thereof with correct lists of the names of all persons liable to serve as jurors at such court in the order in which they stand upon the rolls. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 35.

Jurors to be summoned for each court.

CXXIV. The clerk of each Division Court shall cause not less than fifteen of the persons liable to serve as jurors to be summoned to attend at each session of the court (y) at the time and place to be mentioned in the summons, and such summons shall be served at least three days' before the court, either personally, or by leaving the same with a grown-up

(y) These words would lead one to suppose that fifteen jurymen must be summoned for each court, whether a jury has been demanded by any suitor or not, as may done under secs. 119 and 120, but this cannot have been the intention of the legislature. Such a course would entail a great deal of useless labor on clerks and bailiffs, for which there is no provision for payment; and section 132, which empowers a judge in his discretion to order a jury to be empanelled of "five persons present" in the court, to try any disputed fact, does not contemplate the presence of fifteen jurymen, summoned under the preceding sections, and in fact provides for cases on the supposition that there are no such jurymen present. Section 120, moreover, shews that the clerk is to be set in motion by the parties and fees deposited.

Cross-Judgments.

CXXXIV. If there be cross-judgments between the parties, the party only who has obtained judgment for the larger sum, shall have execution and

It will not be necessary to make out a written summons. The clerk, on the verbal order of the judge, writes down the names of five persons in the court room and calls them one by one to appear and be sworn as jurors.

(e) As to the duration of a Division Court judgment see note to rule 67.

(f) Before considering the subject of executions generally it will be necessary to see what provision has been made to regulate any conflict which may arise as to priority between executions issued respectively from the Superior or County Courts and Division Courts against the same debtors.

Section 266 of the Common Law Procedure Act (Con. Stat. U. C., cap. 22) enacts, that "Where a writ against the goods of a party has issued from any of such courts, and a warrant of execution against the goods of the same party has issued from a Division Court, the right to the goods seized shall be determined by the priority of the time of the delivery to be executed of the writ to the sheriff, or of the warrant to the bailiff of the Division Court; and the sheriff on demand, shall, by writing signed by him, or his deputy, or a clerk in his office, inform the bailiff of the precise time of such delivery of the writ, and the bailiff on demand shall shew his warrant to any sheriff's officer; and such writing purporting to be so signed, and the endorsement on the warrant shewing the precise time of the

Where money not paid pursuant to order, execution to issue.

CXXXV. In case the judge makes an order for the payment of money, and in case of default of payment of the whole or of any part thereof, the party in whose favor such order has been made, may sue out execution against the goods and chattels of the party in default; and thereupon the clerk, at the delivery of the same to such bailiff, shall respectively be sufficient justification to any bailiff or sheriff acting thereon." (Slightly altered by the commissioners from 20 Vic. cap. 57, sec. 24.)

The question was mooted by the court in Culloden v. McDowell, 17 U. C. Q. B. 359, but neither argued nor decided, as to whether executions from Division Courts bind the debtor's property from the time of the receipt of the writ by the bailiff, or only from the time of actual seizure. Chief Justice Robinson said, "The writ (of execution) indeed had issued in January, but that did not signify; it could not bind the property before it came into the bailiff's hands,—if, indeed it could before an actual seizure was made under it; for it is not to be assumed that an execution from an inferior court binds from the time of its delivery to the bailiff."

Under sec. 16 of the Statute of Frauds, writs of execution bind from the time of the delivery thereof to the sheriff or coroner to be executed. This provision obviously applies only to writs issuing from a Superior or County Court, and does not affect Division Courts—which are inferior courts having only a statutory existence, and whose officers have only the powers expressly given by statute. Sheriffs, on the contrary, are officers having great powers and privileges under the common law; the provision of the Statute of Frauds in fact limited the former operation of writs. There seems to be no common law right, as there is nothing in the statute which would give bailiffs power to hold goods under executions from Division Courts until they had actually taken possession of them in the manner authorized by the statute.

There seems, therefore, to be little doubt, and it is the generally received opinion, that Division Court executions bind from the time of actual seizure only. A different rule would doubtless prevail in cases of a conflict between sheriffs and bailiffs under the enactment above referred to. But it is thought that that provision cannot have the effect of altering or interfering with the law where there is no such conflict.

The law in England as to Superior Court writs has been altered by a late statute, by which executions only bind the debtor's property from the time of seizure.

(g) It is a common law rule that a plaintiff has to state a claim in his writ, and prove it at the trial, and that when the proper time comes for the issue of execution for the judgment. CXXXVI. No writ in the nature of a writ of Writs of F. fieri facias or attachment shall be executed out of ^{the place where to be executed.} the limits of the county over which the judge of

(g) It is a common notion that all a plaintiff has to do to recover a claim is to leave it with the clerk, and prove it if necessary at the trial, and that the clerk will, when the proper time arrives, issue execution for the amount of the judgment. This is quite an erroneous view, and such a practice would lead to much mischief. All that the clerk has to do is to issue execution after default, at the request of the judgment creditor.

The act relating to replevin does not authorise the replevying or taking out of the custody of a bailiff any personal property seized under process issued from any Division Court. (See 23 Vic. cap. 45, sec. 8, and sec. 208 and note.)

(j) Various sections and rules provide for some of the duties of bailiffs in respect to writs of fi. fa. delivered to them for execution. Section 136, and the late act of 27 & 28 Vic. cap. 27, inserted after section 71, refer to the locality of his jurisdiction. Section 138, to payment of debt and costs before sale. Section 141, to the time of return of the writ. Sections 150 and 151 to what may be seized under it. Sections 152, 153 and 154, to proceedings to realize securities for money under seizure. Sections 155 and 156 to the sale of goods under seizure. Section 175, to interpleaders. Sections 176 to 180, to cases where rent is due the debtor's landlord. Rule 12, to returns to be made to the clerk of what may have been done under the writ.

It would be impossible in a work of this nature to give even a brief outline of the various important duties of bailiffs with respect to executions, or the responsibilities they incur in performing those duties, &c. Such matters as do come within our design will be referred to under the appropriate sections. For further information the reader is referred to the pages of the Upper Canada Law Journal, where the subjects have been from time to time carefully and fully discussed.

with respect to this rule, if a judgment is more than a year old, it would be advisable that the transcript should shew whether an instalment had been paid on the judgment, or that an execution or warrant of commitment had been issued within a year from the time of obtaining the judgment. If one or other of these facts do not appear, the clerk before acting upon the judgment should be satisfied that the leave of the judge in whose county the judgment was originally recovered has been obtained.

The writer does not see why, under this section, any number of transcripts should not be sent to as many counties, in analogy to the practice in the Superior Courts of issuing as many writs of execution as may be required to different sheriffs. Sending a transcript of a judgment is not transmitting the judgment itself; and in this respect this section differs materially from sec. 143, which provides that a judgment may be removed from a Division Court to a County Court, and become a judgment of the latter court. The use and intention of this transcript is to give the foreign clerk all necessary information as to the state of the cause, so as to enable him to enforce the judgment in his division. In the Superior Courts the attorney is the person properly cognizant' in the first place, of the position of the suit, but in Division Courts his place is, in the majority of instances, practically filled by the clerk. Of course a plaintiff who causes several transcripts of judgments to be sent to different counties does so at his own risk of costs, and any damages which may accrue to the debtor by such a proceeding. It is right to add, that the views here expressed are somewhat at variance with those held by some of the county judges.

(n) Not to a clerk of a Division Court in the same county. Such a mode of proceeding is not warranted by the act.

(o) It is the practice in some counties to charge for the certificate as well as for the copy of the entry of the judgment, or the transcript, literally speaking. This it is thought, is an improper charge; in the first place, there is nothing in the tariff that warrants the charging such certificate, the allowance being merely for "every copy of judgment to another county;" and in the next place, the simple copy of the entry would be useless without the clerk's certificate authenticating it. The two things are required to make up what is technically called "a transcript of judgment."

the judgment according to the certificate; and all proceedings may be taken for the enforcing and collecting the judgment in such last mentioned Division Court, by the officers thereof that could be had or taken for the like purpose upon judgments recovered in any Division Court (p). 18 V. c. 125, s. 3.

Renewal of judgment in case of death of party to judgment.

CXL. In case of the death of either or both of the parties to a judgment in any Division Court, the party in whose favor the judgment has been entered, or his personal representative in case of his death, may revive such judgment against the other party, or his personal representative in case of his death, and may issue execution thereon in conformity with any rules which apply to such Division Court in that behalf (q). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 73.

(p) More practical difficulty arises in reference to the working of the act in cases of "foreign" summonses and transcripts of judgments to "foreign" courts than any other. In the case of a summons sent from one court to another for service, there is no provision for the receipt of the money by the foreign clerk, if a debtor should desire to pay him on the spot. The clerk, if he receives it, does so as the agent of the debtor, and in case of loss, the debtor would have to pay it a second time, and would have no recourse against the clerk's sureties. In the same way a bailiff has no authority to receive the amount of the claim endorsed on the summons which he serves, and the debtor, if he wishes to be perfectly safe, must bring or send the money to the clerk, or wait till the bailiff comes with an execution instead. In the case of moneys being paid to the foreign clerk by a debtor, there is no provision for a return of the amount to the "home" clerk, with whom the creditor entered his suit, and from whom he expects to get his money. It is thought by some that the moment a transcript of judgment is sent off, the clerk to whom it is sent must deal directly with the plaintiff. But this course presents many difficulties, and the usual practice is for the foreign clerk to return the money, together with a formal return, (see form 52 (c), one in common use,) to the home clerk. But in doing this he undertakes a responsibility, and may, if the money does not arrive safely, be called upon to pay a second time. One part of the difficulty may be obviated by obtaining the plaintiff's signature to a request or order (form 52 (d)) to the foreign clerk to transmit the proceeds of the execution to the home clerk. This, however, might be no protection to the plaintiff, for if the clerk is not acting in accordance with or under the act, his sureties would not be liable in case of loss.

(q) Rule 68 directs that the mode of reviving a judgment shall be by summons on the judgment in the nature of a sci. fa., the proceedings on which shall be the same as in ordinary cases. Forms 45, 46, 47, 48, 50 and 51, are the necessary forms as given in this behalf in the schedule.

In case an execution be returned nulla bona, and the sum remaining unsatisfied on the judgment under which the execution issued amounts to the sum of forty dollars (s), the plaintiff or defendant may obtain a transcript of the judgment from the clerk, under his hand, and sealed with the seal of the court, which transcript shall set forth (t): If execution returned nulla bona, parties may obtain transcript.

(r) In the Superior Courts a writ cannot be executed after it is returnable, and on this principle it was decided in Weston v. Thomas, 6 U. C. L. J. 181, by Logie, Co. J., with reference to this section, that an execution from a Division Court cannot be executed after the expiration of thirty days from its date. And in Duggan v. Kitson, 20 U. C. Q. B. 321, it was remarked that it would be a fatal objection to the title of any purchaser at a bailiff's sale, that nothing had been done towards seizing under the writ until after it had become returnable.

(s) The words, "the sum remaining unsatisfied," clearly indicate that the $40 may be partly made up of costs and possibly interest also, though this is not so certain. Interest accruing subsequently to an entry of judgment is no part of the judgment, although the collection of it may be enforced by execution.

(t) This transcript is different from that referred to in section 139, and should be carefully drawn in accordance with the act, following as far as possible the form (No. 52) given in the schedule.

In Farr v. Robins, 12 U. C. C. P. 35, the clerk of the Division Court who made out the transcript evidently acted under the 139th section, and omitted the statement of the issuing of the fi. fa. goods and the return thereof. The transcript was accordingly held to be informal and insufficient to support a judgment in the County Court in which it had been filed. In giving judgment, Draper, C. J., said, "The Legislature have apparently adopted the principle that an execution against lands must be founded on a record, and as Division Courts are not courts of record, they have provided a method by which their judgments may be made records of the County Court and thereupon that executions against lands may issue. But in order that the transcript may become a judgment of record, they have required that it should, among other things, shew the date of issuing the execution against goods, and the return to that writ, in order to avoid any conflict with or departure from the 252nd sec. of ch. 22 of Con. Stat. U. C., which enacts that no execution shall issue against lands and tenements until the return of an execution against goods and chattels."

This case was followed in Jacomb v. Henry, 13 U. C. C. P. 377, which decided that a transcript was defective and invalid which did not contain a statement of the proceedings in the cause.

Upon filing transcript in office of County Court clerk, judgment to be judgment of that court

CXLIII. Upon filing such transcript in the office of the clerk of the County Court in the county where such judgment has been obtained, or in the county wherein the defendant's or plaintiff's lands are situate, the same shall become a judgment of such County Court (u), and the clerk of such County Court shall file the transcript on the day he receives the same, and enter a memorandum thereof in a book to be by him provided for that purpose, which memorandum shall contain:

1. The names of the plaintiff and defendant;
2. The amount of the judgment;
3. The amount remaining unsatisfied thereon; and
4. The date of filing;

For which services the clerk of the County Court shall be entitled to demand and receive from the person filing the same the sum of fifty cents. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 57.

County Court clerk's book to be accessible.

CXLIV. Such book shall at all reasonable hours be accessible to any person desirous of examining the same, upon the payment to the clerk of ten cents. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 57.

Parties may prosecute judgment in County Court.

CXLV. Upon such filing and entry the plaintiff or defendant may, until the judgment has been fully paid and satisfied, pursue the same remedy for the recovery thereof, or of the balance due thereon, as if the judgment had been originally obtained in the County Court (v).

(u) See section 145.

(v) Section 143 provides, that upon filing the required transcript in the office of the County Court the Division Court judgment shall become a judgment of such County Court, and directs the clerk of the latter court to make certain entries in a book to be provided for that purpose; and this section enacts, NEGLECT OF DUTY BY BAILIFFS IN RELATION TO EXECUTIONS, &c.

CXLVII. In case any bailiff employed to levy an execution against goods and chattels, by neglect, If bailiffs neglect their duty in relation to execution. connivance or omission, loses the opportunity of so doing (w), then upon complaint of the party thereby aggrieved, and upon proof by the oath of a credible witness of the fact alleged to the satisfaction of the court, the judge shall order the bailiff to pay such damages as it appears the plaintiff has sustained, not exceeding the sum for which the execution issued, and the bailiff shall be liable thereto; and upon demand made thereof, and on his refusal to satisfy the same, payment shall be enforced by such means as are provided for enforcing judgments recovered in the court (x). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 101.

that upon such filing and entry the plaintiff (or defendant) may pursue the same remedies thereon as if the judgment had been originally obtained in such County Court.

A judgment cannot be a judgment of two courts at the same time, if, therefore, a judgment, which was originally a judgment of a Division Court, has "become a judgment of a County Court," it necessarily ceases to be a judgment of the former court, and all proceedings to enforce it must therefore be taken in the latter court. What these proceedings are it is not our province at present to discuss, it may however be noticed, that it has been decided under these sections that a judgment debtor is bound to appear and be examined as to debts and liabilities, &c., under Con. Stat. U. C. ch. 24, sec. 41, and may be imprisoned upon default, (Kchoe v. Brown, 13 U. C. C. P. 549,) and it is a matter of every day practice to obtain garnishing orders on such judgments.

(w) This section applies where the bailiff has lost the opportunity of making the money on an execution. Section 148 where the bailiff neglects duly to return any execution or makes a false return thereto; and section 185 to cases where the bailiff has made the money but has not paid it over.

(x) This is a summary remedy against the bailiff, entirely irrespective of the right of an aggrieved party to sue the bailiff and his sureties on the security covenant, referred to in sections 24 and 25.

The plaintiff's course under this section would be, to make a plain statement of the facts and hand the same to the clerk to be served on the bailiff, and produced before the judge on the next court day, or such day as he might appoint for hearing the matter; on which day the plaintiff should be in attendance with his witness or wit-

Action against bailiff and sureties for neglect of bailiff in returning execution.

CXLVIII. If any bailiff neglects to return any execution within three days after the return day thereof, or makes a false return thereto, the party who sued out such writ may maintain an action in any Court having competent jurisdiction against such bailiff and his sureties on the covenant entered into by them, and shall recover therein the amount for which the execution issued, with interest thereon from the date of the judgment, or such less sum as in the opinion of the judge or jury the plaintiff under the circumstances is justly entitled to recover. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 59.

Execution may issue instant, and if bailiff has removed, his sureties nevertheless liable.

CXLIX. If a judgment be obtained in such suit against the bailiff and his sureties, execution shall immediately issue thereon, and in case of the departure or removal of such bailiff from the limits of the county, the action may be commenced and carried on against his sureties alone, or against any one or more of them. (y)

The interest of a mortgagor in goods mortgaged may be sold in execution.

CL. On any writ, precept or warrant of execution against goods and chattels, the sheriff or other officer to whom the same is directed, may seize and sell the interest or equity of redemption in any goods or nesses to prove his case; the bailiff and his witnesses would then be heard, and if the complaint was sustained an order would be made on the bailiff to pay such damages to the plaintiff, as the judge might think proper, and that in default thereof execution should issue against the bailiff. The plaintiff should then have a copy of this order served upon the bailiff, and at the same time demand from him the amount mentioned in the order (or what would be better, endorse on the order and copy a demand for the amount). Upon the refusal of the bailiff, or his neglect, which would amount to the same thing, to satisfy the demand, the plaintiff should go to the clerk with the person who served the order and made the demand, himself to make an affidavit that the bailiff had not paid the amount, and that it was still due to him, and the person effecting service and making demand to make an affidavit of such facts, upon which the clerk would be justified in issuing an execution against the bailiff for the amount due. As the proceedings under this act are somewhat complicated and difficult, parties usually find it more to their advantage to proceed by ordinary action against the officer and his sureties on the covenant.

(y) These very stringent provisions are intended for ensuring promptitude on the part of bailiffs in acting on executions placed in their hands, and if more generally known to suitors would be more efficacious.

(Burns, J., in Squair v. Fortune, 18 U. C. Q. B. 547.) But if the mortgagee is in possession, the bailiff, although he appears to have the right to seize and expose the goods, in order effectually and advantageously to make sale of the equity of redemption, cannot sell the goods themselves or take them from the custody of the mortgagee and transfere them to the purchaser. (Ib.; Swift et al. v. Cobourg and Peterboro' R. W. Co., 5 U. C. L. J. 253.)

In case of the sale of an "interest or equity of redemption" in any goods, the bailiff's advertisement and proceedings should show the fact clearly, and should refer to the chattel mortgage.

The interest of a mortgagee in goods is not an interest that can be sold under an execution. (Ferrie v. Cleghorn, 19 U. C. Q. B. 241.)

The section does not authorize the seizure and sale of chattels real, as, for instance, a lease or term of years. (Ib.)

But it would seem to include all instruments containing an unconditional covenant to pay a specific sum to the judgment debtor for his own benefit.

In Caberty v. Smith, 3 U. C. L. J. 67, the defendant, acknowledging the correctness of the plaintiff's claim as to part, paid that sum into court. A Division Court bailiff, who held an execution against the plaintiff, was purposely present when the money was paid in, and seized it, after it had been laid on the table before the clerk, and receipt given for it to the defendant's attorney. The court held the seizure illegal, saying that under the act the bailiff, &c., could only seize money which is in the hands of the defendant, and not in the hands of a third party.

are by law exempt from seizure (b),] and may also seize and take any money or bank notes, and any cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, bonds, specialities or securities for money, belonging to such person. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 89.

(b) The words between brackets are substituted by 23 Vic. cap. 25, sec. 2, for the words "the wearing apparel and bedding of such person or his family, and the tools and implements of his trade to the value of twenty dollars, which shall to that extent be protected from the seizure," which are the words of the original act.

The articles now exempted from seizure by the fourth section of the same act are:

1. The bed, bedding and bedsteads in ordinary use by the debtor and his family.

2. The necessary and ordinary wearing apparel of the debtor and his family.

3. One stove and pipes, and one crane and its appendages, and one pair of andirons, one set of cooking utensils, one pair of tongs and shovel, one table, six chairs, six knives, six forks, six plates, six teacups, six saucers, one sugar basin, one milk jug, one teapot, six spoons, all spinning wheels and weaving looms in domestic use, and ten volumes of books, one axe, one saw, one gun, six traps, and such fishing nets and seines as are in common use.

4. All necessary fuel, meat, fish, flour and vegetables, actually provided for family use, and not more than sufficient for the ordinary consumption of the debtor and his family for thirty days, and not exceeding in value the sum of forty dollars.

5. One cow, four sheep, two hogs and food therefor for thirty days.

6. Tools and implements of or chattels ordinarily used in, the debtor's occupation to the value of $60.

By the fifth section none of the articles mentioned in sub-secs. 3, 4, 5 and 6, are exempt from seizure in satisfaction of a debt contracted for such identical article, and by section 6 the debtor may select out of any larger number the several chattels exempt from seizure under the act.

This act was amended by 24 Vic. cap. 27, sec. 2, which provides, that "notwithstanding anything contained in the act of 23 Vic. cap. 25, the various goods and chattels which were, prior to the passing of the last mentioned act, liable to seizure in execution for debt in either Upper or Lower Canada, shall, as respects debts contracted before the 19th of May, 1860, remain liable to seizure and sale in execution, provided that the writ of execution under which they are seized shall have endorsed upon it a certificate, signed by the judge of the court out of which the suit issues, certifying that it is for the recovery of a debt contracted before the date above mentioned."

In the course of a short time the reason and benefit of this act will cease, it will not therefore be necessary to refer at length to its provisions.

It was held in Davidson v. Reynolds, 16 U. C. C. P., that a horse, sleigh, and harness of a farmer, ordinarily used in his occupation, under the value of $60, were exempt under sub-sec. 6.

As to exemptions when the defendant absconds from the Province. In certain property, which had been left by the defendant on his absconding from the Province in the possession of his wife and family, and all of which would, under ordinary circumstances, have been exempt, was seized under the writ. The wife claimed the goods, and the question was submitted to the court, whether or not this exemption could be claimed by the wife, the defendant at the time being an absconding debtor. Robinson, C. J., said, "It is my opinion at present, looking at the whole statute, 23 Vic. cap. 25, that when a debtor has absconded from his dwelling in this Province, the bed, bedding, &c., which would have been exempt from execution against him in ordinary cases, if he had been residing with his family, will not be exempted when they are no longer in his use, but only in the use of his family whom he has left behind. There are several expressions in the statute which lead to that conclusion, but perhaps on further consideration I might come to a different conclusion on that point, though it is material to consider that in cases of attachment against the goods of absconding debtors there is no exemption."

This judgment was not given with any reference to the Division Courts Act, and the words in section 199 which empower the bailiff to make the seizure of the absconding debtor's goods, are "all the personal estate and effects, &c., liable to seizure under execution for debt." It may therefore be doubted whether the same conclusion would have been arrived at, if the question had come up on an execution issued from a Division Court.

See section 176, as to whether the exemption given by the statute does or does not operate to exempt from seizure and sale the goods of a debtor in cases where his landlord has made a claim for rent under that section.

Bailiff after seizure of goods to CLV. The bailiff, after seizing goods and chattels by virtue of an execution, shall indorse on such tiff, or in fact in the name of any assignee, of ordinary book debts or other choses in actions of that nature. The action must be brought in the name of the defendant, and the notice required by rule 19 must be given on the summons to appear to warn the person liable on any such securities, that the amount due must be paid to the beneficial plaintiff. But the defendant must, of course, in such cases, take any exception as to parties at the trial.

This provision is different from the analogous proceeding in the Superior Courts, where the action may be brought in the name of the sheriff.

See the case of McDonald v. McDonald et al., 21 U. C. Q. B. 52, as to the pleadings and evidence in actions brought in a Superior Court under these sections.

(d) This is rather indefinite, and is remarked upon in McDonald v. McDonald et al., ante, where Robinson, C. J., says, "I suppose it means what is not stated, that the payee or holder of the note, &c., whose name is to be used in the action, as plaintiff, must be secured against liability for costs, if the defendant should succeed in the action. It may, however, mean that the real plaintiff shall make the defendant secure as to his costs, in case the action shall fail, for the person whose name is used may be worth nothing, and he is not in fact the real plaintiff; or it may mean that both are to be secured in the costs, for the expression is very general—that the person who desires to enforce payment, (who may be either the bailiff or the execution plaintiff,) shall first pay or secure, &c. The provision has not been carefully framed, for as the amount of costs cannot be known till the suit is at an end, they cannot be first paid,—that is, before the suit is begun,—although they may be secured."

CLVI. The goods so taken shall not be sold until the expiration of eight days at least next after the seizure thereof (g), unless upon the request in writing under the hand of the party whose goods have been seized. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 60.

Goods not to be sold till after 8 days have expired after seizure.

CLVII. No clerk, bailiff or other officer of any Division Court shall, directly or indirectly, purchase any goods or chattels at any sale made by any Division Court bailiff under execution, and every such purchase shall be absolutely void (h). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 61.

Bailiff and other officer not to purchase goods seized.

(e) The bailiff at the time of seizing the goods should make out an inventory of them. He may then remove them, or if he find it more convenient, there is usually no objection to his taking proper security for the forthcoming of the goods when required, but of course he does this at his own risk, as the goods are presumed to be in his custody, and he is accountable to the plaintiff if any loss thereby arises.

—the bailiff has no power to sell goods on credit.

If the bailiff is requested to withdraw from a seizure which he has made, he should get the request from the plaintiff in writing to protect himself.

Care should be taken not to sell more than is sufficient to satisfy the execution, and it is the duty of the bailiff to stop the sale as soon as sufficient money is realized to cover the execution.

(f) See schedule of forms, No. 20 (d), for a form of notice of sale.

There is no objection to the plaintiff purchasing his debtor's goods at a sale by the bailiff, but it must be a bonâ fide sale, or if there be no bidding, they must be fairly valued, and the amount credited on the execution.

(g) That is to say, eight clear days, not reckoning the day of posting the notices or the day of sale.

(h) It may be remarked that the prohibition extends to any sale made by any bailiff under execution. An analagous enactment is contained in 27 & 28 Vic. cap. 28, sec 30, which provides, that "no sheriff, deputy sheriff, bailiff, or constable, shall, directly or indirectly, purchase any goods or chattels, lands or tenements, by him exposed to sale under execution."

The sale should be for cash only,

Judge may order an execution to issue before regular day.

CLVIII. In case the judge be satisfied upon application on oath made to him by the party in whose favour a judgment has been given, or be satisfied by other testimony that such party will be in danger of losing the amount of the judgment, if compelled to wait till the day appointed for the payment thereof before any execution can issue, such judge may order an execution to issue at such time as he thinks fit. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 63.

Judgments in the former Courts of Requests provided for.

CLIX. The orders, decisions and judgments of the Courts of Requests formerly existing in Upper Canada (i), which were in force on the thirtieth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, and which remain unsatisfied, shall be taken to have been orders, decisions and judgments of the several Division Courts to the clerks of which the books, papers and documents connected with the business of such Courts of Requests, have been delivered by order of any judge of a district or county in Upper Canada, and such orders, decisions, and judgments, shall be carried out and enforced in the same manner as similar proceedings in such Division Courts; but no proceedings shall be taken by any county judge to carry out and enforce such orders, decisions or judgments, unless he be satisfied by the oath of the party, and such other evidence as he may require, (all of which shall be reduced to writing,) that it is just and reasonable in equity and good conscience that the same should be enforced. 16 V. c. 177, s. 24.

Judgment debtors may be examined at the instance of their creditors.

But if the judgment has been removed by a transcript to another court in another county, the summons must be taken out there, provided the defendant resides or carries on his business within the limits of such Division Court. It is therefore necessary, whenever a debtor removes from the county wherein the original judgment has been obtained, to send a transcript to the Division Court within the limits of which the debtor may reside, &c.

CLXII. The examination shall be held in the judge's chamber, unless the judge shall otherwise direct (o). 22 V. c. 33, s. 23, 1859.

CLXIII. The costs of such summons and of all proceedings thereon, shall be deemed costs in the cause, unless the judge otherwise directs (p). 16 V. c. 177, s. 30; 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 91.

Party examined and discharged not to be again summoned, except, &c.

CLXIV. In case a party has, after his examination, been discharged by the judge (q), no further summons shall issue out of the same Division Court at the suit of the same or any other creditor, without an affidavit satisfying the judge upon facts not before the court upon such examination, that the party had not then made a full disclosure of his estate, effects and debts, or an affidavit satisfying the judge that since such examination the party has acquired the means of paying. 22 V. c. 33, s. 23, 1859.

Consequence of neglect or refusal to attend,

CLXV. If the party so summoned, 1. Does not attend as required by the summons, or allege a sufficient reason for not attending; or 2. If he attends and refuses to be sworn or to declare any of the things aforesaid; or 3. If he does not make answer touching the same to the satisfaction of the judge;

(o) The object of this provision is to obviate any unnecessary exposure and annoyance consequent upon an examination in open court. It would, however, be both useless and cruel to insist upon the attendance of a debtor before the judge at his chambers in the county town, it is therefore the usual practice for judges to direct that these examinations shall take place in the court room of the court from whence the summons issues, or in some convenient place in the neighbourhood after the rest of the business is disposed of.

(p) There is no provision made for the payment of the debtor's expenses to the place of examination. In the Superior courts some of the judges consider it only reasonable that such expenses should be paid, but it is not the usual practice to do so in Division Courts, and the latter part of section 166 seems to intimate that such payment is not contemplated by this act.

If it appears to the satisfaction of the judge that the party had when summoned, or since the judgment was obtained against him, has had sufficient means and ability to pay the debt or damages, or costs recovered against him, either altogether or by the instalments which the court in which the judgment was obtained has ordered, and if he has refused or neglected to pay the same at the time ordered (r), whether before or after the return of the summons,—the judge may, if he thinks fit, order such party to be committed to the common gaol of the county in which the party so summoned resides or carries on his business, for any period not exceeding forty days (s). 16 V. c. 177, s. 30; 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 92.

Commitment

CLXVII. Whenever any order of commitment as aforesaid has been made, the clerk of the court shall issue, under the seal of the court, a warrant of commitment (u) directed to the bailiff of any Division Court within the county, and such bailiff may, by virtue of such warrant, take the person against whom the order has been made. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 95.

(t) If the debtor does not appear upon the first summons, the burthen of proof lies upon the creditor desiring to have him committed to shew that such non-attendance has been "wilful;" but the failure to attend on being summoned a second time raises the presumption that such non-attendance was "wilful," thereby subjecting the debtor to punishment for non-attendance.

(u) See forms 56 and 57.

By rule 55 warrants of commitment shall bear date on the day on which the order for commitment was entered in the procedure book, and shall continue in force for three months.

By rule 10 the clerk issuing the warrant must endorse upon it the amount of debt and costs, in gross, up to the time of its delivery to the bailiff for execution.

(v) Rule 13 requires the bailiff, when he delivers the person arrested to the gaoler, with the warrant, to indorse the number of miles, shewing the amount of mileage, and also to state in writing the actual day of the arrest.

CLXXI. In a Division Court the summons to trial, and judgment at the hearing thereof, may be set aside, and any other order hereinbefore made in respect of the defendant to prison as he might have obtained a sum of money (x). 13

(w) That is to say, in committing a defendant to prison, if ordered, he may be liable to pay the amount of the debt by way of satisfaction upon any default. He will be liable to pay upon a fresh summons upon dealt with section 165.

(x) It is difficult to give the exact meaning of the word. It can scarcely be said that the judge should at the time of the order of imprisonment being made, together with the costs of obtaining such order, and all subsequent costs, shall, upon the certificate of such satisfaction, signed by the clerk of the court, or by leave of the judge of the court in which the order of imprisonment was made, be discharged out of custody. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 99.

CLXX. The judge, before whom such summons is heard, may, if he thinks fit, rescind or alter any order for payment previously made against any defendant so summoned before him, and may make any further or other order, either for the payment of the whole of the debt or damages recovered and costs forthwith, or by any instalments, or in any other manner that he thinks reasonable and just (w). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 93.

Judges may make order and may alter and modify the same.

CLXXI. In case the defendant in any suit brought in a Division Court has been personally served with the summons to appear, or personally appears at the trial, and judgment be given against him, the judge, at the hearing of the cause or at any adjournment thereof, may examine the defendant and the plaintiff, and any other person touching the several things hereinbefore mentioned, and may commit the defendant to prison, and make an order in like manner as he might have done in case the plaintiff had obtained a summons for that purpose after judgment (x). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 94.

Parties may be examined when.

(w) That is to say, instead of committing a debtor for non-payment of the debt as originally ordered, he may extend the time for payment, or order the payment of the debt by instalments, and upon any default made the debtor will be liable to be again brought up on a fresh summons, and thereupon dealt with as provided for in section 165.

(x) It is difficult to understand the exact meaning of this section. It can scarcely be intended that the judge should commit a debtor to prison for not having paid a claim—perhaps a disputed account between the parties—only settled by judicial interposition a few moments previously. The judge could, however, it is presumed, make such enquiries as he might think necessary, for the purpose of obtaining information as to the debtor's ability to pay, and thereupon make an order for payment of the debt, by instalments or otherwise, and upon which, if default should be made, the creditor might have the debtor again

Party committed not to be discharged for insolvency.

CLXXII. No protection, order or certificate granted by any Court of Bankruptcy, or for the relief of insolvent debtors, shall be available to discharge any defendant from any order of commitment as aforesaid. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 95, the end.

Debt not to be extinguished.

CLXXIII. No imprisonment under this act shall extinguish the debt or other cause of action on which a judgment has been obtained, or protect the defendant from being summoned anew and imprisoned for any new fraud or other default rendering him liable to be imprisoned under this act, or deprive the plaintiff of any right to take out execution against the defendant (y). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 96.

CLAIMS BY LANDLORDS OR OTHERS TO GOODS SEIZED.

Interpretation of certain words.

CLXXIV. The word "landlord" shall include the person entitled to the immediate reversion of the lands, or, if the property be held in joint tenancy, coparcenary or tenancy in common, shall include any one of the persons entitled to such reversion, and the word "agent," shall mean any person usually employed by the landlord in the letting of lands or in the collection of the rents thereof, or specially authorized to act in any particular matter by writing under the hand of such landlord. 16 V. c. 177, s. 15.

summoned and proceeded against under section 165.

But the principal benefit of this section appears to consist in the power it gives of punishing summarily any fraud on the part of the debtor coming within the fourth clause of section 165, which might be proved at the hearing. (see Ex parte Purday, 19 L. J., C. P. 222.) Of course, such an order can only be made if the debtor "personally appears at the trial," and has thus an opportunity of defending himself, nor would a judge, except in a very clear case, exercise the powers given to him; and where the debtor could shew any reasonable ground for leading the judge to believe that he may be able thereafter to clear himself from the fraud charged against him, however strong the evidence of such fraud may be, the judge would properly refuse to make any order of committal.

(y) In fact these sections partake of the nature of penalties, either for fraud or for contempt of court, as the case may be, the power of imprisonment not being by way of satisfaction of the debt. (Ex parte Kinning, 4 C. B. 507.)

Claims of landlords to goods seized in execution, how to be adjusted.

(z) There is nothing in the act expressly requiring a claimant to make his claim in writing, except a landlord under section 176, but such a course would be most advisable for all parties concerned.

The claim should state not only that the goods seized are those of the claimant and not of the execution debtor, but also in what way the party claims. (Ex parte Harper et al., 4 C. C. C. 115.) See form 27 (a), as to this notice of claim.

(a) No application for an interpleader can therefore be made until a claim has been made by a third party after an actual seizure of the goods.

(b) This application should be in writing, addressed to the clerk, and should contain, as fully as possible, all the facts with reference to the seizure and claim that are referred to in the form which is supplied, No. 27 (b).

An interpleader summons issued by a clerk without a previous request by the bailiff would be irregular if not void. (Reg. v. Doty, 13 U. C. Q. B. 398.

(c) An interpleader issue is not strictly a suit or action, it is in fact an interlocutory proceeding in another suit, wherein the court is subsequently to act in disposing of the rights of parties. The parties concerned are, the claimant, who is deemed the plaintiff, and the execution creditor, who is deemed the defendant (see rule 53), in the issue that is to be tried for the purpose of ascertaining which of them—claimant or judgment creditor—is entitled to the goods under seizure.

The provisions of this section are intended solely for the protection of bailiffs, though the bailiff is not bound to take advantage of them, and in many cases when he finds upon enquiry that the claim set up is clearly fraudulent, or without a shadow of right, he would not do so; and in such a case he might safely take a sufficient indemnity from the plaintiff and proceed to sell. If, however, he finds it necessary for his protection to take out an interpleader summons, he should be prompt in making his application. The provisions do not apply to conflicting executions, it being the duty of the bailiff to pay the first execution creditor. (See Bragg v. Hopkins, 2 Dowl. 151.)

The rule has, however, been altered as far as the Superior Courts are concerned, by the late act of 28 Vic. cap. 19.

Where an execution plaintiff directs goods to be seized, or persists in opposing the claimant's title to them after they have been seized, and the issue is decided in favour of the latter, he has a good right of action against the former for damages sustained by the seizure; and the result of the issue is conclusive as to the claimant's right to the goods. (Harmer v. Gouinlock, 21 U. C. Q. B. 260; May et al. v. Howland et al., 19 U. C. Q. B. 66.)

It has been decided, that in interpleader issues, contrary to general rule, the judge of a Division Court may try the question of property in goods, even though the enquiry may involve the title to land. (Munsie v. McKinley, 15 U. C. C. P. 50; 1 L. C. G. 8.)

The disposition of the goods seized is, during the pendency of the interpleader issue, in the absence of any special order by the judge, left to the discretion of the bailiff. It is very common for him to take a bond for the production of them, but this course, though advantageous to the person who shall eventually prove to be the owner, is not without risk to the officer. His safest course is to sell the goods and pay the proceeds into court; or else, if the articles are not perishable, nor likely to deteriorate rapidly in value, nor be expensive to keep, he might deposit them in a safe place under his own control. The character of the parties and the nature of the goods will generally be a guide to him.

In Harmer v. Cowan, 23 U. C. Q. B. 479, the defendant, a bailiff, seized certain goods under an execution, which were claimed by the plaintiff. The bailiff, intending to apply for an interpleader summons, sold the goods subject to the claim. The price of the goods was not paid to the bailiff, and they were to remain in his custody until judgment should be given on an intended interpleader application, which was subsequently adjudicated upon. Hagarty, J., said, "However we may be inclined to agree with the plaintiff that a bailiff cannot make a conditional sale, we do not see how we can therefore turn his objectionable proceedings into an absolute sale, vesting the property in his vendee. We incline to consider the sale wholly nugatory, and that the execution was not executed, and the goods still remained in the words of the act, 'taken in execution,'" &c.

(d) This application must be made to the court, or a judge of the court, in which such action is pending. Delay in making the application will not, it is said, deprive the applicant of his rights, but will influence the court as to costs. (Washington v. Webb, 16 U. C. Q. B. 232.)

parties when the goods had been replevied from a bailiff under a Superior Court writ, are set at rest by the enactment of 23 Vic. cap. 45, sec. 8, that goods taken under process from a Division Court cannot be replevied. (See that section, and notes to it, in another place under the head of "Replevin in Division Courts.")

The court will not interfere if it appears that the Division Court judge has not awarded damages to the claimant for the seizure by the execution creditor. (Mercer v. Stanberry, 4 W. R. 649; 2 U. C. L. J. 177.)

An application under the sections from which the one before us is compiled, was objected to on the ground, that although the interpleader was fully heard before the Division Court judge, no judgment was then given, nor was any subsequent day appointed for giving judgment according to section 106, and that therefore there was no binding decision in the court below, whereby the action of the claimant against the bailiff for trespass in seizing his goods could be stayed. Draper, J., said, "On the face of the judge's adjudication there is nothing but what he had authority to do, and I do not feel at liberty to enquire, on this application, into the regularity or mode of the proceedings themselves which end in this adjudication."

(Finlayson v. Howard, 1 U. C. Pr. R. 224; 1 U. C. L. J. 94.)

Rule 53 provides, that by consent an interpleader claim may be tried, though the requirements of the rule as to certain proceedings have not been complied with.

(e) It was held in the late case of Munsie v. McKinley, 15 U. C. C. P. 50; 1 U. C. L. J., N. S. 12; 1 L. C. G. 8, that the words, "The county judge, &c., shall adjudicate upon the claim," are imperative, upon the judge to decide an interpleader issues without the aid of a jury. It is submitted that there are other and stronger reasons than the mere words of the section above referred to, why a jury could not be called in interpleader issues by either one of the parties to the suit; such as, amongst others, the provisions as to jury cases under sections 119, &c. The words referred to in the above judgment, are not very different from those in section 55, which certainly do not mean that juries cannot be had in ordinary cases; and it may be remarked that the words, "the county judge having jurisdiction in such Division Court shall adjudicate upon the claim," are used in contradistinction to the application to be made to a different court or judge in the previous part of the section. (See Washington v. Webb, 16 U. C. Q. B. 232.)

Provisions in relation to rents due to landlords.

CLXXVI. So much of the act passed in the eighth year of the reign of Queen Anne, intituled, An Act for the better security of rents and to prevent frauds committed by tenants (f), as relates to the liability of goods taken by virtue of any execution under the process of any Division Court, but the landlord of any tenement in which any such goods are so taken, may, by writing under his hand, or under the hand of his agent, stating the terms of holding, and the rent payable for the same (g), and delivered to the bailiff making the levy, claim any rent in arrear then due to him, not exceeding the rent of four weeks when the tenement has been let by the week, and not exceeding the rent accruing due in two terms of payment where the tenement

But however this may be, it is a very common and a very convenient practice, and one which has received the sanction of some of the best of our county judges, for the judge to call to his assistance a jury under the provisions of section 132, to try "any fact controverted in the cause," adopting or not their finding is his discretion. This section does not appear from the report of Munroe v. McKinley, to have been referred to, either by the court or by counsel, on the argument.

It is rather remarkable, that in this case no reference was made to the fact that a new trial had been granted by the judge of the Division Court, whereas it was decided in Reg. v. Doty, 13 U. C. Q. B. 398, referred to in note (l) to section 107, that under such circumstances no new trial could be had. If this was not an oversight it would be an argument that the Court of Common Pleas did not agree with the Queen's Bench on this point.

(f) Section 1 of this act (8 Anne cap. 14) provides that no goods shall be taken in execution unless the execution creditor, before removal of the goods, pays to the landlord the rent due. But it will be seen that the following sections are substituted for the provisions of the statute of Anne.

CLXXXVII. In case of any such claim being so made, the bailiff making the levy shall distrain as well for the amount of the rent claimed, and the costs of such additional distress, as for the amount of money and costs for which the warrant of execution has issued, and shall not sell the same, or any part thereof, until after the end of eight days at least next following after such distress taken. 16 V. c. 177, s. 6.

How the bailiff is to proceed.

(h) The exemption act (see section 151 and notes) only relates to the seizure of goods under a writ. It may be said, therefore, that these exemptions do not touch the case of a distress under a landlord's warrant, and it has been decided in England that if the proper claim be made by a landlord, the bailiff may distrain on goods that would be exempt from seizure under an execution (Woodcock v. Pritchard, 17 L. T. Rep., Q. B. 16); and section 179, which recognises the right of replevin in these cases, coupled with the subsequent act of 23 Vic. cap. 45, sec. 8, supports this view. The act under which this case was decided did not contain, if it would make any difference, any provision similar to that of section 180. Woodcock v. Pritchard does not appear to have been expressly overruled; but, on the other hand, the later cases of Beard v. Knight, 27 L. J., Q. B. 359; 4 Jur., N. S. 782, and Wilcoxon v. Searly, 29 L. J. Ex. 154, to the effect, that the goods of a stranger on the premises, which, as a general rule, are liable for rent in arrears, are not distrainable under this section, are sufficient to found a strong argument against the former case, combined with the fact, that the bailiff's right to levy is derived solely from the writ of execution, unless indeed it can be considered that he becomes, upon receiving the notice of claim, the bailiff of the landlord as well as of the court issuing the writ, as was suggested in Woodcock v. Pritchard.

But again, can the mere direction of section 177, that "the bailiff making the levy shall distrain as well for the amount of the rent claimed," &c., make the bailiff enforcing the execution the bailiff of the landlord. It was necessary that such or similar words should be used for the purpose of directing the bailiff to increase the amount of his levy, but the writer thinks it would require more explicit words to clothe the bailiff with powers which he could only receive under his common law right from the landlord himself. The principle would seem to be, that the bailiff's right to levy arises by virtue of the execution, under which it is his duty to levy the debt out of certain of the debtors goods. Upon the claim being made for rent, the statute steps in and authorises him to make a further levy to satisfy the further demand, but his position as the bailiff of the court is not altered, and he is still acting under the writ of execution.

Fees of bailiff
in such cases.

CLXXVIII. For every additional distress for rent in arrear, the bailiff of the court shall be entitled to have as the costs of the distress, instead of the fees allowed by this act, the fees allowed by the act respecting distresses for small rents and penalties (i). 16 V. c. 177, s. 6.

If replevin made.

CLXXIX. If any replevin be made of the goods distrained, so much of the goods taken under the warrant of execution shall be sold, as will satisfy the money and costs for which the said warrant issued, and the costs of the sale, and the surplus of such sale, and the goods so distrained, shall be returned as in other cases of distress for rent and replevin thereof (j). 16 V. c. 177, s. 6.

When landlord's claim to rent is to be first paid.

CLXXX. No execution creditor under this act shall be satisfied his debt, out of the proceeds of such execution and distress, or of execution only where the tenant replevies, until the landlord who conforms to the provisions of this act has been paid the rent in arrear for the periods hereinbefore mentioned (k). 16 V. c. 177, s. 6.

(i) Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 123. The fees under this act are as follows:

Levying distress under $80, one dollar.

Man keeping possession, per diem, seventy-five cents.

Appraisement, whether by one appraiser or more, two cents in the dollar on the value of the goods.

If any printed advertisement, not to exceed in all one dollar.

Catalogues, sale, commission and delivery of goods, five cents in the dollar on the net produce of the sale.

Bailiffs have no right to charge poundage in cases of this kind. See Murray v. McNair, 2 L. C. G. —.

Under section 11 of this act, every person who makes a distress shall give a copy of the demand, and of the costs and charges of the distress, signed by him, to the person whose goods are levied upon. The strict letter of this would not include, perhaps, bailiffs acting under sections 176 and 177, but it would be advisable for them as a rule to do the same thing.

(j) Section 8, of 23 Vic. cap. 45, provides that the act relating to replevin shall not authorize the replevying out of the custody of a bailiff any personal property seized under Division Court process; but this section is to be read as part of the Division Courts Act, and a fair construction must if possible be placed upon both enactments; it is therefore thought that the late act does not touch cases where the bailiff distrains for rent as well as on an execution.

(k) The landlord, therefore, unless the goods are replevied, is to be paid first, and any balance is to go to the execution creditor; anything more than this must, of course, be returned to the debtor.

CLXXXII. If any person wilfully insults the judge or any officer of any Division Court during his sitting or attendance in court, or interrupts the proceedings of the court, any bailiff or officer of the court may, by order of the judge, take the offender into custody, and the judge may impose upon the offender a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, and in default of immediate payment thereof, the judge may by warrant under his hand and seal commit the offender to the common gaol of the county for any period not exceeding one month, unless such fine and costs, with the expense attending the commitment, be sooner paid (m). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 75.

BAILIFFS TO BE CONSTABLES.

CLXXXIII. In a prosecution under this section it is not necessary to show that the document used bears any resemblance to the genuine process of the court. (Reg. v. Evans, 7 Cox. C. C. 293; Reg. v. Richmond, 8 ib. 200.)

If any officer or bailiff, (or his deputy or assistant,) be assaulted while in the execution of his duty, or if any rescue be made or attempted to be made of any property seized under a process of the court, the person so offending shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, to be recovered by order of the court, or before a justice of the peace of the county or city (o), and to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three months and the bailiff of the court, or any peace officer, may in any such case take the offender into custody (with or without warrant) and bring him before such court or justice accordingly. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 14.

CLXXXV. If any bailiff or officer, acting under colour or pretence of process of the court, be guilty of extortion or misconduct, or does not duly pay or account for all money levied or received by him by virtue of his office, the judge, at any sitting of the court, if a party aggrieved thinks fit to complain to him in writing, may inquire into the matter in a summary way, and for that purpose may summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary parties and witnesses, and may make such order thereupon for the repayment of any money extorted, or for the

EXTORTION.

CLXXXVI. If any clerk, bailiff or other officer ^{Extortion.} exacts, or takes any fee or reward other than the fees appointed and allowed by law for or on account of any thing done by virtue of his office, or on any account relative to the execution of this act, he shall, upon proof thereof before the court, be for ever incapable of being employed in a Division Court in any office of profit or emolument, and shall also be liable in damages to the party aggrieved. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 77.

Limitation of actions for things done under this act.

(q) It may be stated as a general principle that clerks and bailiffs acting in a ministerial capacity, and in the performance of a duty, are not liable for anything done by them in the performance of such duty.

With reference to costs in actions against Division Court officers, it is provided by the Common Law Procedure Act, sec. 330, that in case any suit be brought in any Court of Record in respect of any grievance committed by any clerk, bailiff or officer under color or pretence of court process, and the jury shall find no greater damages for the plaintiff than ten dollars, the plaintiff shall not have costs unless the judge certifies in court, on the back of the record, that the action was fit to be brought in such Court of Record.

(r) Trespass ab initio, or, from the beginning, occurs in this way, —When one, who has authority by law for doing an act, but, instead of acting lawfully under that authority, abuses it, such abuse turns the act into trespass, and the person becomes a trespasser ab initio, and this even though his conduct may have been lawful in the first place. The effect of this section is therefore, that a person so acting as to come within this definition, though liable for any special damage, would not be liable for acts originally justifiable.

(s) A thing is done "in pursuance of the act" when the person who does it is acting honestly and bond fide, either under the powers which the statute gives or in discharge of the duty which it imposes, reasonably supposing that he has authority, though he may erroneously exceed the powers so given to him, yet if he acts bond fide in order to execute such powers or discharge such duties, he is to be considered as acting "in pursuance of the act," and entitled to the protection conferred on persons whilst so acting. (See 10 U. C. L. J. 150.)

in the county where the fact was committed, and notice in writing of such action and of the cause thereof shall be given to the defendant, one month at least before the commencement of the action (t). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 107.

The protection afforded by these sections does not apply to the defendant in an action brought against him for trespass in seizing the goods of A. on an execution against B, either as to venue or to notice of action (Dollery v. Whaley, 12 U. C. C. P. 105; 8 U. C. L. J. 239), nor to a defendant in an action for maliciously suing out an attachment. (Palk v. Kenney, 11 U. C. Q. B. 350).

But it does apply when a bailiff and his sureties are sued under the statutory covenant for an excessive levy by the former and a sacrifice of the plaintiff's goods; and the bailiff may raise the defence both of want of notice, and that the action was not brought within six months under a plea of not guilty by statute. (Pearson v. Rutian et al., 15 U. C. C. P. 79; 1 L. C. G. 26.)

(t) That is to say, if the notice is served, for instance, on the 28th of March, the writ may be taken out on the 29th of April. (McIntosh v. Vansteinburgh, 8 U. C. Q. B. 248.)

Bailiffs are entitled to notice if they believe they are acting in the discharge of their duty, even though the warrant under which they act be not under seal. (Anderson v. Grace et al., 17 U. C. Q. B. 96.)

A bailiff is not entitled to notice in an action brought against him for money had and received to recover the excess levied by him under an execution, but which he has failed to return to the plaintiff, as he is not acting "in pursuance of the act," the charge being an omission not a concurrence in a positive tort. (Dale v. Cool, 6 U. C. C. P. 544.)

The reference in the next section to the act to protect justices of the peace and other officers from vexatious actions (Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 126), creates a difficulty as to whether the provisions of the latter statute are applicable to notices of action under this section so as to render it necessary to state certain facts in the notice which are required by that act. It would seem, however, from the language of Draper, C. J., in McPhatter et al. v. Leslie et al., 23 U. C. Q. B. 573, that a notice of action to a Division Court clerk is sufficient if it comply with this section. He says, "In Dale v. Cool, 4 U. C. C. P. 462, Macaulay, C. J., held, that on reference to 13 & 14 Vic. cap. 53, sec. 107, 14 & 15 Vic. cap. 54, sec. 5, and 16 Vic. cap. 177, sec. 14, he thought the bailiff entitled to notice, and that the objection was open to him on the plea of not guilty per stat. The first of these three acts is the Division Courts Act, the second is the act for the protection of magistrates and others, and the third is the Division Courts Extension Act. In Anderson v. Grace, 17 U. C. Q. B. 96, the Chief Justice says, it is the act of 14 & 15 Vic. that must govern, because the previous enactments giving protection are repealed by that act. But the Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 19, secs. 193, 194, provide expressly for notice and limitation of action for anything done under that act; and though the enactments of 14 & 15 Vic. are re-enacted by Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 126, it appears to me we cannot hold that the latter chapter was intended to overrule or vary the provisions of chapter 19 of the same statute, but that they were establishing rules for distinct cases. I think, therefore, that the clerk in this case having been served with a notice of action, such as chapter 19 requires, cannot successfully object to the want of additional formalities which chapter 126 requires."

If the notice volunteers information which is incorrect, it will be bad. In Buck v. Hunter, 20 U. C. Q. B. 486, Robinson, C. J., says, "If this notice had given no information whatever in regard to the court in which the action would be brought [necessary under chapter 126], there would be less difficulty in holding it to be sufficient, though it is usual in all these notices to state the court in which the plaintiff intends to sue. But here the plaintiff has given incorrect information on a point on which the statute does not expressly require that he should have given any, and we cannot say that we think the learned judge was wrong in holding it bad on account of its tendency to mislead."

A notice of action stated a trespass on the 18th of October and on divers other days. The goods were seized on the 18th October, but returned and again seized on the 18th November and sold. The notice was held sufficient. (Okphant v. Leslie, 24 U. C. Q. B. 398.)

(u) See note (o) to section 87.

(v) The words "any such action," have been judicially interpreted to mean any action, and not only an action in which a tender or payment into court has been made, and they are to be read as a separate member of the section. By this construction the original intention of the act (sec. 107 of 13 & 14 Vic. cap. 53, which is now divided into sections 193 and 194) is preserved and is made reconcilable with the "Vexatious actions" act and with itself. (Pearson v. Rutlan et al., 15 U. C. C. P. 79; 1 L. C. G. 26.)

A bailiff intending to avail himself of the privileges of this section in an action brought against him in a Division Court, should, if acting on his own behalf, give the notice of defence under section 93, taking form 9 as a guide. If the action is brought in a County Court or one of the Superior Courts, he will, of course, place his defence in the hands of a lawyer.

(x) If the action be brought in a Division Court the benefits of this section would practically amount to nothing, but if brought in any of the Superior Courts

PROTECTION OF BAILIFF—COPY OF WARRANT, &c.

Demand of perusal and copy of warrant to be made before action.

CXCV. No action shall be brought against the bailiff of a Division Court, or against any person acting by his order and in his aid, for any thing done in obedience to any warrant under the hand of the clerk and seal of the court (z), until a written demand, signed by the person intending to bring the action, of the perusal, and a copy of such warrant has by such person; his attorney or agent, been served upon, or left at the residence of such bailiff, and the perusal and copy have been neglected or refused for the space of six days after such demand. 16 V. c. 177, s. 14.

Bailiff entitled to verdict on production of warrant.

CXCVI. In case, after such demand and compliance therewith by shewing the warrant to, and permitting a copy thereof to be taken by the party demanding the same, an action be brought against where pleadings are necessary the advantages thus given to the defendant are very considerable.

It was doubted in Pearson v. Ruttan et al., ante, whether sureties can in a joint action against the bailiff and themselves take advantage of want of notice of action to the bailiff or to themselves, or of any other defence given by statute for the protection of the former. But in a joint action against the bailiff as principal and his sureties, the recovery must be against all or none—the discharge of the principal involving that of the sureties.

(y) Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 126.

(z) The enactment is only intended for the protection of bailiffs, or persons acting by their orders or in their aid; it does not therefore extend to constables executing warrants of attachment issued by a magistrate, nor to constables enforcing a magistrate's warrant for any penalty made recoverable before him under the Division Courts Act. (Gray v. McCarty, 22 U. C. Q. B. 568.)

Nor does the provision apply in actions against a bailiff where the wrong complained of is the misconduct of such officer and not anything illegal in the writ itself or in the act of granting it. (Sayers v. Findlay, 12 U. C. Q. B. 155; Oliphant v. Leslie et al. 24 U. C. Q. B. 398.)

Although it has been held that a bailiff acting in obedience to a warrant, without a seal, can claim notice of action (Anderson v. Grace et al., 17 U. C. Q. B. 96), yet it will be observed that this section expressly refers to the warrant being under the hand of the clerk and the seal of the court, and a bailiff could not justify under the following sections unless the warrant was so signed and sealed.

agent makes and produces an affidavit or affirmation to the purport of the form prescribed by any rule respecting the practice and proceedings of the Division Courts (d), (and the clerk of any Division Court of the county wherein the debtor was last domiciled, or where the debt was contracted, may administer such affidavit or affirmation (e),) and in case the said affidavit or affirmation be filed with such clerk, then such clerk, upon the application of such creditor, his servant or agent, shall issue a warrant under the hand and seal of such clerk, in the form C. directed to the bailiff of the Division Court within whose division the same is issued, or to any constable of the county, commanding such bailiff or constable to attach, seize, take and safely keep all the personal estate and effects of the absconding, removing or concealed person within such county, liable to seizure under execution for debt (f), or a sufficient portion thereof, to secure the sum mentioned in the warrant (g), with the costs of the action, and to return

(d) Rule 24 directs that this form shall be according to No. 22 in the schedule.

The affidavit must not be in the alternative, and must comply with the form. In Quackenbush et al. v. Snider, 13 U. C. C. P. 201, the affidavit, after stating the indebtedness, further stated that the defendant had good reason to believe, &c., that the said debtors had absconded from the Province of Canada with intent and design to defraud him of said debt; or that the debtors were about to abscond from said Province; or leave the county of, &c., with intent, &c., taking away personal property liable to seizure under execution for debt; or that the said debtors were concealed within the county of, &c., to avoid being served with process, with intent, &c. Draper, C. J., said that the affidavit did not contain any one of the three alternatives contained in the statute. "The last alternative is the one most nearly approached; but there is an obvious difference between keeping concealed and simply being concealed, which might be on a single occasion to avoid being served with process."

The form (No. 22) directs that the character in which a party sues, as executor or the like, must be stated in the affidavit; and for forms as to this see note to above form post.

(e) See forms 7 (a), &c., for affirmations by Quakers, &c., and special jurats.

(g) "All the personal estate, &c., or a sufficient portion thereof to secure the sum, &c.," appears to be a clumsy way of saying that the bailiff is to seize enough goods to satisfy the debt and costs, or if there are not enough for that purpose, then all. It can scarcely mean that the bailiff is to seize all the debtors goods liable to seizure,

The judge, or a justice of the peace for the county (h), may take the affidavit in the last preceding section mentioned, and upon the same being filed with such judge or justice, the judge or justice may issue a warrant under his hand and seal in the form C., and such judge or justice shall forthwith transmit the affidavit to the clerk of the Division Court within whose division the same was made or taken, to be by him filed and kept among the papers in the cause. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 64.

whether or not such seizure be largely in excess of what would be a "sufficient sum." But though this is the apparent meaning of the words used, it cannot be denied that this reading leads to many difficulties which would have been obviated (at least if the debtor had absconded) by authorising the bailiff to attach all the property. See secs. 204 & 207 and notes.

(h) After the decision in Gray v. McCarty et al., 22 U. C. Q. B. 568, creditors will not willingly institute proceedings before a magistrate, and magistrates on their part will be chary of acting under this section. In the case referred to, the defendant M. at the request of defendant W., gave a warrant to defendant K. to attach the goods of the plaintiff, but through some neglect or ignorance the necessary affidavit was not made and filed. Upon this warrant some goods of the plaintiff's were seized. On action brought, the court considered that all the defendants were liable; and that as the affidavit was not made and filed, the magistrate, as well as the attaching creditor, was a trespasser. An application to the clerk of a Division Court, who would have known what was necessary, would have saved all this loss.

CCIV. The property seized upon any warrant of attachment shall be liable to seizure and sale under the execution to be issued upon the judgment, or in case such property was perishable, and has been sold, the proceeds thereof shall be applied in satisfaction of the judgment (k). 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 64.

(k) Cases of several attachments are provided for by sections 206 and 207, but there is no express provision for any conflict between attaching and non-attaching creditors of the defendant.

There can be no question but that an execution issued on a judgment obtained in the ordinary manner, and placed in the bailiff's hands, before an attachment from a Division Court, and necessarily, therefore, before an execution to be obtained in such attachment suit, has the priority.

And, further than this, it seems to be the more general opinion, and that acted upon by the majority of the County judges, that, although the debtor's goods are seized under an attachment, they are nevertheless liable to the execution of any creditor who may obtain a judgment, and deliver the execution issued thereupon to the bailiff before judgment is obtained and execution issued by the attaching creditor. The case principally relied on in support of this view is that of Francis v. Brown, 11 U. C. Q. B. 588; 1 U. C. L. J. 225, in which the above rule was laid down, but with this difference—that there, the execution of the non-attaching creditor was issued from a Superior Court.

If such be the rule respecting executions from Superior Courts, there would seem to be no reason, particularly looking at the broad ground taken in the judgment in Francis v. Brown, why it should not likewise be applicable to executions from Division Courts.

Proceedings by attachment are either to compel the appearance of, or rather to effect service upon a defendant, or to obtain security to the plaintiff for his claim; in neither case, it is argued, would it be reasonable, that by taking a step for such a purpose a creditor should obtain a priority over another creditor who commenced proceedings before him, such proceedings being finally carried to judgment and execution.

Again, section 211 provides, that an execution shall forthwith issue upon a judgment obtained in a suit, wherein the summons was personally served before the seizure of any property under any warrant of attachment, that is any warrant in some suit other than that in which the summons was personally served, (if such be the meaning of the section). If this is not intended to give the plaintiff who had commenced his proceedings by personal service the advantage of priority of execution, what is the object of the provision that the execution should issue forthwith. The rule,—that laid down in Francis v. Brown,—appears to be, qui prior est in tempore, potior est in jure.

On the other hand, it is urged with much force, that carrying out this doctrine to its full extent would work great hardship and injustice to attaching creditors; and it is argued in this way:

Where proceedings are commenced by an attachment obtained on the ground that the defendant is removing goods out of Upper Canada, or from one county to another, to defraud his creditors, another creditor may commence proceedings and serve the defendant with process personally, immediately upon the seizure of the property under the attachment, and ten days only before the sitting of the next court for the division. This creditor so effecting personal service may thus obtain judgment and execution two months in advance of the attaching creditor — unless the attaching creditor succeeds also in effecting personal service of his summons.

Again, it may happen, it is urged, that several of a number of attaching creditors might be unable to prove their claims, as required by law, at the first court, and an adjournment be obtained until a following court. Executions would issue on the judgments in favour of some of the attaching creditors, and property might be sold to realize the full amount of such execution, but the judge might direct that no distribution should be made until the other creditors, the plaintiffs in the adjourned attachment suits, had an opportunity of obtaining judgment at the following court. In the meantime, other creditors at that court might obtain judgments in suits where the summons had been personally served, and if the executions on such judgments were allowed to attach upon the property in custody of the clerk under the attachment, the attachment creditors would be deprived of the benefit of the security obtained by their proceedings, and instead of saving the property for themselves, they would merely have benefited a party who did not move in the matter until the property was in the hands of the law.

If the ground upon which an attachment could be obtained in the Division Courts was only because the defendant had absconded, so that personal service could not be the value of one hundred dollars, and not exceeding two hundred dollars, for which an attachment might be issued if the same were not above the value of one hundred dollars may abandon the excess, and upon proving his case, may recover to an amount not effected after the issue of an attachment, no conflict could arise, and all creditors wishing to obtain anything from the debtor's property would have to proceed by attachment under sec. 207 in order to obtain judgment and execution to be entitled to rate.

It is also objected that there is a much stronger reason than the supposed equities of the case for thinking that attaching creditors have priority, and that the principle to be applied is that the goods when once attached and handed over to the Clerk are in the custody of the law and are not therefore liable to seizure under execution. It is contended that there is nothing in the act to interfere with this principle, in fact that sections 199, 204 & 211 all uphold it. Sec. 199 only authorizes the bailiff to seize sufficient goods to cover the debt and costs mentioned in the warrant delivered to him in a particular suit, and not all the goods of the debtor as in the Superior Courts, expressly for the security of all his creditors (note g). If the principle referred to does not govern where is the sense of enacting, as an apparent exception to the general rule, that property seized under an attachment may be seized or sold under an execution to be issued in such attachment suit. But this section says nothing about any other execution. The rights of a judgment creditor who has commenced his suit and served his summons personally upon the defendant before the seizure of any of his property under an attachment are referred to sec. 211, and it is provided that his suit shall proceed as if no attachment had issued, and that he shall have execution forthwith on his judgment. If it was intended that other creditors should be able to acquire an advantage by obtaining judgment on a personal service after the seizure of property under an attachment, it would have been provided for.

The silence of the act respecting the rights of judgment creditors in the Superior Courts was held not to deprive them of their rights to priority. When in a Division Court attaching creditors obtain by means of such attachments a security for their debts—the property being held in the custody of the law for that purpose—unless the rights of others are provided for, where their claims conflict, the security provided to attaching creditors by the act must be upheld against the claims of others whose rights are not provided for or referred to.

It is also thought by some that after a seizure has been made under an attachment, the non-attaching creditor ought not, unless he should have had already commenced his proceedings by personal service, gain any advantage over the attaching creditor by subsequently effecting personal service.

The matter is one of considerable difficulty, and whichever may be the better opinion on these points it is quite evident that the Legislature has carefully abstained from throwing any unnecessary light on the subject.

The section provides, that if a sheriff to whom a writ of attachment has been delivered for execution, finds any property or effects which have been sold as perishable belonging to the absconding debtor in the hands or custody of any constable, clerk or bailiff, under a warrant of attachment from a Division Court, the sheriff shall demand and take from such bailiff, &c., all such property or proceeds thereof, which such bailiff, &c., is bound to deliver to the sheriff upon demand by him, and notice of the writ of attachment, under a penalty of forfeiting double the value of the amount thereof, to be recovered by such sheriff with costs of sale, and to be by him accounted for, after deducting his costs, as part of the property of the debtor; but the creditor who has taken out such warrant of attachment may proceed to judgment against the debtor in the Division Court, and on obtaining judgment and serving a memorandum of the amount thereof and of the costs, to be certified under the hand of the clerk, every such creditor shall be entitled to satisfaction in like manner as, and in ratable proportion with the other creditors who obtain judgment, as mentioned in section 29, which enacts, that the property in the sheriff's hands shall be ratably distributed among each of the plaintiffs in such writs as obtain judgment and sue out execution, in proportion to the sums actually due upon such judgments, and the court or a judge may delay distribution in order to give a reasonable time for obtaining judgment.

Section 30 further enacts, that every creditor who produces a certified memorandum from the clerk of any Division Court of his judgment, shall be considered a plaintiff in a writ of attachment who has obtained judgment and sued out execution, and shall be entitled to share accordingly.

In case the property is insufficient to pay all the creditors, section 31 provides that none shall be allowed to share unless their writs or warrants of attachment, as the case may be, were issued and delivered to the sheriff, or bailiff, or constable, as the case may be, for execution, within six months from the date of the first writ of attachment.

The enactments in the Absconding Debtors' Act that have been referred to are intended to provide for cases where writs have been tels attached shall not be paid over to the attaching creditor or creditors according to priority, but shall be ratably distributed among such of the creditors suing out such attachments as obtain judgment against the debtor, in proportion to the amount really due upon such judgments, and no distribution shall take place until reasonable time, in the opinion of the judge, has been allowed to the several creditors to proceed to judgment. 13, 14 V. c. 53, s. 65.

GENERAL RULES AND FORMS

AS FRAMED AND APPROVED PURSUANT TO 16 VIC. CAP. 177, SEC. 19, AND CONFIRMED BY SECTIONS 2 AND 70 OF 22 VIC. CAP. 19, FOR REGULATING THE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE OF THE DIVISION COURTS FOR UPPER CANADA.

[NOTE.—The forms distinguished thus, *13 (n), *68 (b) (as the case may be), are not given in the Schedule of Forms as approved by the judges.

The marginal references to the rules and forms, which are printed in italics, are also original.]

Whereas by "The Upper Canada Division Courts Extension Act of 1853," it was enacted, That it should be lawful for the Governor General of this Province to appoint and authorise five of the Judges of the County Courts, in Upper Canada, to frame such general rules as to them should seem expedient, for and concerning the practice and proceedings of the courts holden under the authority of "The Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850," and for the execution of the process of such courts, and in relation to any of the provisions of the said last mentioned act, or of "The Upper Canada Division Courts Extension Act of 1853," or of any act to be thereafter passed, as to which there might have arisen doubts, or might have been conflicting decisions in the said Division Courts, or as to which there might thereafter arise doubts; and also to frame forms for every proceeding, for which they should think it necessary that a form should be provided: and that all such rules, orders and forms, as aforesaid, should be certified to the Chief Justice of Upper Canada, under the hands of the County Judges so appointed and authorised, or of any three of them; and should be, by the said Chief Justice, submitted to the judges of the Superior Courts of Common Law at Toronto, or any four of them; and that such Judges of the Superior Courts (of whom the said Chief Justice, or the Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas at Toronto should be one) might approve or disallow, or alter or amend such rules or orders; and such of the rules as should be so approved by such Judges of the Superior Courts, should have the same force and effect, as if the same had been made and included in "The Upper Canada Division Courts Extension Act of 1853."

And whereas by virtue and in exercise of the power for that purpose given to the Governor of this Province by the said recited act, "The Upper Canada Division Courts Extension Act of 1853," The Honorable Samuel Bealey Harrison, Miles O'Reilly, Edward Clarke Campbell, George Malloch and James Robert Gowan (five of the Judges of the County Courts in Upper Canada), were on the twenty-fifth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three, appointed by his Excellency the Administrator of the Government of this Province, to frame such general rules and orders as to them should seem expedient, for and concerning the practice and proceedings of the courts holden under the authority of the said Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850, and for the execution of the process of such courts, and in relation to any of the provisions of the said act of 1850, or of the above in part recited act, as to which there might have arisen doubts, or might have been conflicting decisions in the said Division Courts, or as to which there might thereafter arise doubts, and also to frame forms for every proceeding, for which they should think it necessary that a form should be provided.

In pursuance of the powers thereby vested in us, we, the said Samuel Bealey Harrison, Miles O'Reilly, Edward Clarke Campbell, George Malloch, and James Robert Gowan, have framed the following Rules, Orders, and Forms, and we do hereby certify the same to the Chief Justice of Upper Canada accordingly.

24. The form of affidavit for an attachment (r) shall be according to the form in the schedule, in lieu of the form given in the "Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850," schedule D. See No. 22 of schedule.

25. In all cases where an attachment shall issue, (whether the suit be commenced by attachment in the first instance or not,) and the summons against the defendant shall not be personally served, the hearing or trial shall not take place until a month after the seizure under the attachment (s). See Form C. to the act for form of writ of attachment.

INSPECTION OF DOCUMENTS.

26. When in any action, the defendant (t) is desirous of inspecting any deed, bond or other instrument under seal, or any written contract, or other instrument in which he has an interest, and which shall be in the possession, power or control of the plaintiff, he may, within four days from the day of the service of the summons, give notice, by pre-paid post letter, or otherwise, that he desires to inspect such instrument, at any place to be appointed by the plaintiff, within the division in which the suit is brought; and the plaintiff shall appoint a place accordingly; and if the plaintiff shall neglect or refuse to appoint such place, or to allow the defendant or his agent to inspect it within three days from the day of receiving such notice, the judge may, in his discretion, on the day of hearing, adjourn the cause, for the purpose of such inspection, and make such order as to costs, as he shall think fit.

WITHDRAWAL BY PLAINTIFF.

27. If the plaintiff be desirous of not proceeding in the cause, he shall serve a notice thereof on the defendant, in the manner directed in the "Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850," for the service of a notice of set-off (u), and after receipt of such notice, the defendant shall not be entitled to any further costs than those incurred up to the receipt of such notice, unless the judge shall otherwise order: and where a cause is not withdrawn until after the opening of the court, the hearing fee shall be charged, unless otherwise ordered.

ADJOURNMENT OF SUIT.

28. Where a cause is adjourned (v) no order of adjournment shall be served on either party, except by direction of the judge; and where the adjournment is opposed by either party, a hearing fee, as for a defended cause, shall be charged, and the usual costs of the day, in the discretion of the judge.

NOTICE OF DEFENCE.

29. Where the defendant is desirous to avail himself of the law of set-off, the statute of limitations, or any other defence requiring notice to the plaintiff, under the 43rd section of the "Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850," (w) the forms of notice in the schedule may be used, to be served in the manner directed by the act (x).

See Nos. 8 & 9 of schedule.

30. With a view to save unnecessary expense in proof, the defendant (or plaintiff) shall be at liberty to give the opposite party a notice in writing, that he will admit, on the trial of the cause, any part of the claim or set-off, or any facts which would otherwise require proof; and after such notice given, the plaintiff or defendant shall not be allowed any expense incurred for the purpose of such proof; the notice to be according to the form in the schedule, or to the

(x) Sec. 87 provides that a defendant desiring to plead a tender and payment of money into court must file a plea to that effect six days before trial. As no form is given in the schedule under that section or this rule, a form of plea has been prepared, No. 68 (c), which will answer the purpose. The notice which sec. 87 requires the clerk to give may readily be drawn from the plea filed.

CONFESSION.

31. Every confession or acknowledgment of debt, taken before suit commenced (y), must show therein, or by statement thereto attached at the time of the taking thereof, the particulars of the claim or demand for which it is given, with the same fulness and certainty as would be required, if such claim or demand were sued on in the ordinary manner; and unless application for judgment on such confession or acknowledgment shall be made to the judge, within three calendar months next after the same is taken, or at the sittings of the court next after the expiration of such period, no execution shall be issued on the judgment rendered, without an affidavit by the plaintiff or his agent, that the sum confessed, or some and what part thereof remains justly due; and applications for judgment shall be made at a court holden for the division, wherein the confession or acknowledgment was taken.

PAYMENT INTO COURT.

32. When the plaintiff shall, in accordance with the 46th section of the "Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850," (z) signify to the clerk his intention to proceed for the remainder of his demand, and such signification shall be given within three days after he received notice of the payment into court, but after the rising of the court at which the summons was returnable, the case shall be tried at the then next sittings of the court, and be put upon the list for that court in the regular order.

(y) By sec. 117 a confession may be given before or after suit. This rule provides for the former case. The form given in the schedule, No. 11, is of a confession after action, but will answer for one before action, by inserting in or attaching to it, the particulars required by this rule.

The affidavit of execution by the officer would be the same in both cases. See form 12.

AMENDMENT.

33. Where a person, other than the defendant, appears at the hearing, and admits that he is the person whom the plaintiff intended to charge, his name may be substituted for that of the defendant, if the plaintiff consents, and thereupon the cause shall proceed, as if such person had been originally named in the summons; and, if necessary, the hearing may be adjourned on such terms as the judge shall think fit; and the costs of the person originally named as defendant, shall be in the discretion of the judge.

34. Where a party sues, or is sued, in a representative character, but at the hearing it appears that he ought to have sued or been sued in his own right, the judge may, at the instance of either party, and on such terms as he shall think fit, amend the proceedings accordingly; and the case shall then proceed in all respects, as to set-off and other matters, as if the proper description of the party had been given in the summons.

35. Where a party sues, or is sued in his own right, and it appears at the hearing, that he should have sued, or been sued in a representative character, the judge may, at the instance of either party, and on such terms as he shall think fit, amend the proceedings accordingly; and the case shall then proceed in all respects, as to set-off and other matters, as if the proper description of the party had been given in the summons.

36. Where the name, or description of a plaintiff in the summons, is insufficient or incorrect, it may at the hearing be amended, at the instance of either party, by order of the judge, on such terms as he shall think fit: and the cause may then proceed, as to set-off and other matters, as if the name and description had been originally such as it appears, after the amendment has been made.

38. In actions by or against a husband, if the wife is improperly joined or omitted as a party, the summons, may, at the hearing, be amended at the instance of either party, by order of the judge, on such terms as he shall think fit; and the cause may proceed as to set-off and other matters, as if the proper person had been made party to the suit.

39. Where it appears at the hearing, that a greater number of persons have been made plaintiffs, than by law required, the name of the person improperly joined may, at the instance of either party, be struck out by order of the judge, on such terms as he shall think fit; and the cause may proceed as to set-off, and other matters, as if the proper party or parties only had been made plaintiffs.

40. issue as the judge shall think fit; but if such party shall not consent to become a plaintiff in manner aforesaid, either at the hearing or at an adjournment thereof, judgment of nonsuit may be entered.

41. When it appears at the hearing, that more persons have been made defendants, than by law required, the name of the party improperly joined may, at the instance of either party, be struck out by order of the judge, on such terms as he shall think fit; and the cause shall proceed as to set-off and other matters, as if the party or parties liable had been sued, and judgment shall be given for the party improperly joined.

42. Where several persons are made defendants, and all of them have not been served, the name or names of the defendant or defendants, who have not been served, may at the instance of either party, be struck out by order of the judge, on such terms as he shall think fit; and the cause shall then proceed, in all respects, as to set-off and other matters, as if all the defendants had been served.

43. Where, at the hearing, a variance appears between the evidence and the matters stated in any of the proceedings in the Division Court, such proceedings may, at the discretion of the judge, and on such terms as he shall think fit, be amended.

44. In cases of amendment, a corresponding amendment shall be made, in the presence of the judge, in the proceedings of the court, antecedent to such amendment; and the subsequent proceedings shall be in conformity therewith: and all amendments shall be made in open court, and during the sitting of the court.

45. The judge may, in any case, refuse to set aside, or to hold void, any of the proceedings, on account of any irregularity or defect therein, which shall not, in his opinion, be such as to interfere with the just trial and adjudication of the case upon the merits.

46. Every affidavit must be entitled (commenced), stating parties as in the affidavit, and his plaintiff, and his affidavit be sworn to by the plaintiff, and must contain a certificate of the judge administering the oath, and his presence to the taking of the affidavit, and such party seamed there shall be no objection to the jurat: but the jurat shall be insufficient, unless the above requisites be complied with, in the discretion, receive

AFFIDAVITS.

46. Every affidavit, in any proceeding in the court, must be entitled in the cause (if a cause has been commenced), stating the christian and surname of the parties as in the summons, and also that of the deponent, and his place of abode and addition; and if an affidavit be sworn by an illiterate person, the jurat must contain a certificate of the clerk or commissioner administering the oath, that the affidavit was read in his presence to the party making the same, and that such party seemed perfectly to understand it (a); and there shall be no erasure nor interlineation in any jurat: but the judge shall not be bound to reject, as insufficient, any affidavit not complying with the above requisites, or any of them, but may, in his discretion, receive the same.

POSTAGE.

47. Postage necessary for the transmission of any process, order, notice, or other matter, by the clerk or judge, shall be paid in the first instance, by the party on whose behalf the proceeding is required, and shall be costs in the cause.

WITNESS FEES.

48. On application made to him in that behalf, the judge shall determine, what number of witnesses shall be allowed on taxation of costs; the allowance for whose attendance shall be according to the scale in the schedule, unless otherwise ordered; but in no case to exceed such scale, except the witness attends under subpœna from the superior courts (b); and, before allowing disbursements to witnesses, the clerk shall be satisfied that the witnesses attended, and that the claim for fees is just (bb). See No. 14 of schedule.

(a) Form 7 shews sufficiently the commencement and conclusion of affidavits in general.

See forms 7 (a), &c., for special jurats in different cases.

(b) The fees in such case are given in note (h) to sec. 100.

(bb) Sec. 36 authorises the clerk to "take costs subject to the revision of the judge."

Any person giving evidence before the judge is entitled to his witness fees, whether attending under a subpœna or not. And if in the opinion of the judge, a witness is material, he would, if at-

ABATEMENT.

49. Where one or more of several plaintiffs or defendants shall die before judgment, the suit shall not abate, if the cause of action survive to or against such parties.

50. Where one or more of several plaintiffs or defendants shall die after judgment, proceedings thereon may be taken by the survivors or survivor, without leave of court.

JUDGMENT.

51. Every judgment, order, and decree of the court, shall be entered by the clerk in the procedure tending on a subpoena, be entitled to be paid even though it should not be found necessary to call him.

The latter part of the rule gives the clerk a quasi judicial position, and requires that he should act with judgment and caution. He must be satisfied,—

1st. That the witness for whom fees are claimed has actually been paid, not that he is to be paid.

2nd. That he actually attended and was present in court when the case was under investigation, and ready to be examined if called, though he might not have been actually examined.

3rd. That he was a material and necessary witness, of which the fact of his being examined before the judge would be sufficient evidence, unless the judge should state that what he had to testify had nothing to do with the case, or for any other reason order that he should not be allowed witness fees. If the witness were not examined, and no order made by the judge on the subject, it would devolve upon the clerk to exercise his judgment as to whether the evidence of the person could be considered material or necessary. To satisfy himself on this point it would generally be necessary for him to have before him the statements on oath of the plaintiff or defendant, and such other evidence and explanations as could be adduced.

4th. That he attended only in the one case in which fees are claimed, for if he was a witness in more than one, the fees paid to him should be apportioned amongst the different suits.

5th. That the sums paid are within the scale allowed in the schedule (form 14), or in the Superior Court tariff, as the case may be, or are in accordance with the terms of any special order that the judge might make.

If the witness travelled by rail or other public conveyance, the judge would probably order that he should only be allowed his actual travelling expenses, if such sum were less than the 6d. a mile one way, allowed by the tariff.

In nearly every case the clerk will find it to his advantage, both for his information and as a protection against fraud to insist upon the production of an affidavit of disbursements by the plaintiff or defendant claiming witness fees. Such affidavit may be in the form 14 (a), given in the schedule.

NEW TRIAL.

52. Application for new trial (c) may be made viva voce, and determined on the day of hearing, if both parties be present ; but if made when both parties are not present, it shall be in writing, and show briefly the grounds on which it is made (which grounds, if matters of fact requiring proof, shall be supported by affidavit), and a copy thereof, and of every such affidavit, shall be served by the party, making the application, on the opposite party or his agent, or left at his usual place of abode or business, if within the division,—or if without the division, then with the clerk, who shall transmit the same forthwith to the opposite party ; and the application and affidavits (if any) together with an affidavit of the service thereof, shall be delivered to the clerk, within fourteen days after the day of trial, to be by him, on receiving the fees and necessary postage, transmitted to the judge, with a copy of the original claim, and other papers necessary to the proper understanding of the case, which delivery to the clerk shall operate as a stay of proceedings, until the judge's final decision on the application is communicated to the clerk ; and the judge after receiving such papers shall delay for six days deciding upon the application, to enable the opposite party to answer the same in writing or by affidavit, if facts stated by the applicant in his affidavit are disputed ; and the decision or judgment of the judge (d) shall be transmitted to the clerk by mail, who shall, if a new trial be ordered, notify the parties thereof by mail or otherwise, and the suit shall be tried at the next sittings of the court, unless the judge shall otherwise order ; and if the application be refused, or if the party applying shall fail to comply with the terms imposed by the judge, the proceedings in the suit shall be continued as if no such application had been made; provided always, that the judge, instead of deciding upon the application after the end of the six days aforesaid, may, in his discretion, decide to hear the parties on the matter of such application, at the next sittings of the court, or at such other time and place as he may appoint, which decision shall be sent to the clerk, and be by him communicated to the parties in like manner as aforesaid.

INTERPLEADER.

53. When any claim shall be made to, or in respect to, any goods or chattels, property, or security, taken in execution, or attached under the process of any Division Courts or the proceeds or value thereof, by any landlord for rent, or by any person, not being the party against whom such process has issued, and summonses have been issued on the application of the officer, charged with the execution of such process, such summonses shall be served in such time and manner, as by the "Upper Canada Division Courts Act of 1850," is directed for service of an original summons to appear (e), and the claimant shall be deemed the plaintiff, and the execution creditor the defendant: and the claimant shall, five clear days before the day on which the summonses are returnable, leave at the office of the clerk of the court, a particular of any goods or chattels, property or security, alleged to be the property of the claimant, and the grounds of his claim, set forth in ordinary and concise language; or, in case of a claim for rent, the amount thereof, for what period, in respect to what premises the same is claimed to be due, and the terms of holding. And any money paid into court shall be retained by the clerk, until the claim shall be adjudicated upon; provided that, by consent, an

WARRANT OF COMMITMENT.

55. Warrants for commitment (g), whenever issued, shall bear date on the day on which the order for commitment was entered in the procedure book, and shall continue in force for three calendar months from such date, and no longer; but no order for commitment shall be drawn up or served. See Nos. 56 & 57 of schedule.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

56. A party suing an executor or administrator, may charge in the summons, in the form in the schedule, that the defendant has assets, and has wasted them. See Nos. 42 & 43 of schedule.

57. In all cases, if the court shall be of opinion that the defendant has wasted the assets, the judgment shall be, that the debt or damages and costs shall be levied de bonis testatoris si, &c., et, si non, de bonis propriis (h), and the non-payment of the amount of the demand immediately, on the court finding such demand to be correct, and that the defendant is chargeable in respect of assets, shall be conclusive evidence of wasting to the amount with which he is so chargeable. See No. 34 of schedule.

REVIVING JUDGMENTS. (k)

67. No warrant of execution, nor summons for commitment shall, without leave of the judge, issue

(k) There has been no decision as to the duration of judgments recovered in Division Courts; nor does there appear to be any generally received opinion on the subject. Different judges of equal experience take opposite views, some holding that they are on the same footing as judgments of courts of record, others that they have no greater vitality than simple contract debts; others again, that they are voidable, though not void, after the lapse of six years.

The common law places no limit to the time within which an action may be brought upon any demand nor any limit to the duration of any judgment; nor does any statute declare that a simple contract debt or a specialty debt shall become extinct at the end of any specified period of time. What the statutes of limitation do, (at all events so far as they apply to the matter in hand,) is only to prevent actions being brought upon certain debts after certain specified periods.

There are two courses which may be taken to enforce a judgment: either by execution to be issued on the judgment, according to the practice of the court, and after any revivor of the judgment that the law may require, or by an action of debt on the judgment. In the former case there would seem to be no limit to the duration of a Division Court judgment for the purposes of execution thereon, except such rules as regards a rebuttable presumption of payment (in analogy to the rule of the Superior Courts hereinafter referred to) after the lapse of twenty years. But considerable difficulty exists in the latter case, and this difficulty is caused by the fact that Division Courts are not courts of record (sec. 5).

The reference in the Division Courts Act and rules to the revival of judgment are sec. 140, and rules 67 and 68, but they say nothing as to the duration of such judgments either by way of execution or action.

The statute 21 Jac. cap. 16, sec. 3, provides, that "all actions of debt grounded upon any lending or contract without specialty, &c., shall be commenced and sued; &c., within six years next after the cause of action or suit, and not after." And our statute of 7 Wm. IV. cap. 3 (C. S. U. C. cap. 78, sec. 7) limits actions of covenant or debt upon bonds or specialties, recognizances, &c., to twenty years, and all other actions to six years.

It has been uniformly considered that actions of debt on judgments do not come within the statute of James (1 Saund. 37; 2 Ib. 64, &c.; 2 Keb. 93; 1 Lev. 191); but these decisions were with reference to judgments of courts of record—debts of record being of a higher degree than specialties, in fact the highest species of debts known to the law, and judgments of courts of record being first paid in the order of payment of debts of a deceased person, though not so with judgments not of record (Wms. on Exrs. p. 899). If Division Courts were courts of record they would of course be entitled to the same privilege; but the statute expressly says that they shall not be held to constitute courts of record; and the statutes of limitation do not seem to have any reference to them or to cover them in any way, such courts probably not being thought of at the time. The only case on the point that the writer has been able to find are in the American reports, one of which expressly decides that an action can be brought on a judgment of a justice's court (not being a court of record) after the lapse of six years (Pease v. Howard, 14 Johns. 477), and this case is approved of in Dudley v. Lindsey, 9 B. Mon. 489.

So much for the only cases which appear to refer expressly to the subject, and now to return to the statutes. If such an action is not an action of debt grounded on contract without specialty, and is not a bond or other specialty, does it come within the statutes at all? Apparently not, unless indeed it is one of the "all other actions," which the statute of Wm. IV. says are barred by lapse of six years. But if so, would not actions on judgments of courts of record also come under these words? They are not however so barred, and this brings us back again to the question—do the words of sec. 5 of the Division Courts Act, that the said courts

"shall not be held to constitute Courts of Record," operate to take their judgments out of the rule laid down with reference to other courts, which were in fact courts of record—though not necessarily following from this that a similar rule should not obtain, respecting courts constituted as are our Division Courts.

It may well be contended, that so far as certainty in concluding a matter in litigation between parties is concerned, no judgment of any Court of Record could be more effectual than are Division Court judgments. The decision of the judge is "final and conclusive between the parties," and the claim has the solemnity of judicial investigation by a tribunal from which there is no appeal. Can it not therefore be said that such a judgment, though not matter of record, is in the nature of a specialty, though not perhaps a specialty in the strict technical sense of the word. It can scarcely be said to be a contract without a specialty under the statute of James. In Dudley v. Lindsey, ante, it is said that, "a judgment for money is not strictly a contract; but it imposes a civil liability, and is more conclusive evidence of indebtedness than a contract by specialty; and therefore an action upon it is not embraced by the Statute of Limitations." The statutes of limitations being in restraint of right must be construed strictly, and the settled construction of them is, that they apply only to actions of debt founded upon contracts in fact, as distinguished from those arising by construction of law. (See Pease v. Howard, ante.)

mitment has been issued within a year from the time of obtaining such judgment; but no notice to the defendant, previous to applying for such leave, shall be necessary.

68. The mode of reviving a judgment, under the 73rd section of the "Upper Canada Division Courts

It is also asserted that, as judgments of a foreign court are only simple contract debts, Division Court judgments are no more. But in answer to this it may be asked, could the defendant in an action on a Division Court judgment plead any matters which would have been a defence to the original suit? Certainly not, if the decision on such suit was "final and conclusive," and the statute says it shall be so. Again, if a suit were brought for a cause of action which had been already adjudicated upon, or was then pending in a Division Court (as to whether such an action could be so brought in a Superior Court, see sec. 115 and note thereto), would not such fact be an answer to the action? This part of the argument is thus put in Pease v. Howard: "A foreign judgment being prima facie evidence of a debt only has been considered as of no higher nature than a simple contract. But a judgment of a Justice's Court is of a higher nature than a foreign judgment, because its merits cannot be controverted in a suit founded on it."

The language used in the above case is so apt and forcible that it will be well to quote it more at length. After referring to Lord Mansfield's judgment in Walker v. Witter, Dougl. 1, the learned judge says: "From this it would seem to follow that if the judgment (being, in the case referred to, a foreign judgment) had been conclusive evidence of the debt, it would have been a specialty, and therefore not barred by the statute. This view of the question seems to derive great weight from the nature and effect of a specialty, which being under seal imports a consideration, and the want of one cannot be alleged by plea. . . . But it may be shewn that a specialty is founded upon an illegal consideration, and it is not always conclusive evidence. In this respect it is inferior to a Justice's judgment, and the solemnities attending the rendition of the judgment are equal, at least to the sealing and delivery of a specialty. A Justice's judgment is a debt of a higher nature than a simple contract debt, and is as much a specialty as a judgment obtained in this court (the Supreme Court of New York), which clearly is not barred by the Statute of Limitations."

Upon the whole therefore the writer with great deference submits, that—whether we look upon Division Court judgments in the light of specialties, and therefore, under our statute, good for twenty years, or whether they are not within the words of the statutes at all, and therefore only barred at the end of twenty years by a presumption of payment analagous to that said to exist with regard to specialties and judgments of record at the end of that period (see Oswald et al. v. Legh, 1 T. R. 270; Wilkinson on Lim. p. 8)—actions may be brought upon judgments obtained in Division Courts within a period of twenty years from their entry.

APPENDIX.

PROCEEDINGS IN REPLEVIN IN DIVISION COURTS

(CON. STAT. U. C. CAP. 29, & 23 VIC. CAP. 45.)

A limited jurisdiction in replevin was conferred on Division Courts on the 19th May, 1860, by 23 Vic. cap. 45, which is entitled "An Act to amend the law of replevin in Upper Canada." The same statute also provides that that act and the consolidated act relating to replevin (Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 29) shall, so far as any suit brought in a Division Court is concerned," be read as if they formed part of the act respecting Division Courts." It will therefore be necessary, to make the subject complete, to give these two acts in extenso. It will be noticed that many of these provisions are not strictly applicable to the proceedings of the courts that we are treating of, but they will be found useful in framing an analogous practice. The consolidated act gives a form of writ, bond and assignment thereof, and capias in withernam. These have been altered to suit proceedings in Division Courts, and appear together with some other useful forms at the end of the two acts, which are as follows :

(CON. STAT. U. C. CAP. XXIX.)

An Act relating to Replevin.

HER MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of Canada, enacts as follows :

WHEN GOODS REPLEVIABLE.

I. Whenever any goods, chattels, deeds, bonds, debentures, promissory notes, bills of exchange, ^{When goods may be} replevied.

books of account, papers, writings, valuable securities or other personal property or effects have been wrongfully distrained under circumstances in which by the law of England replevin might be made, the person complaining of such distress as unlawful may obtain a writ of replevin in the manner prescribed by this act; or in case any such goods, chattels, property or effects have been otherwise wrongfully taken or detained, the owner or other person, or Corporation capable at the time this act takes effect of maintaining an action of trespass or trover for personal property, may bring an action of replevin for the recovery thereof, and for the recovery of the damages sustained by reason of such unlawful caption and detention, or of such unlawful detention, in like manner as actions are brought and maintained by persons complaining of unlawful distresses. 4 W. 4, c. 7, s. 1; 14, 15 V. c. 64, s. 1.

GOODS IN EXECUTION NOT REPLEVIABLE.

Goods seized
in execution not to be replevied.

II. The provisions herein contained shall not authorize the replevying of or taking out of the custody of any sheriff or other officer, any personal property seized by him under any process issued out of any Court of Record for Upper Canada (a). 18 V. c. 118.

REPLEVIN IN COUNTY COURTS.

County Courts may grant replevin where value does not exceed $200.

III. In case the value of the goods or other property or effects distrained, taken or detained, does not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars, and in case the title to land be not brought in question, the writ may issue from the County Court of any county wherein such goods or other property or effects have been distrained, taken or detained. 19 V. c. 90, s. 20; 4 W. 4, c. 7, s. 7.

PROCEDURE.

Proceedings

of which the writ issues, and sworn before any person entitled to administer an affidavit, therein, stating:

1st. That the person claiming the property is the owner thereof, or that he is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof, describing the property in the affidavit; Affidavit to be made.

2nd. The value thereof to the best of his belief; and such description of the property and the value shall be stated in the writ (b). 14, 15 V. c. 64, s. 2. To state value, &c.

V. The writ shall be tested in the same manner as a writ of summons, under the Common Law Procedure Act, and be returnable on the eighth day after the service of a copy thereof, and may be in the form A, or otherwise adapted to the circumstances of the case (c). 14, 15 V. c. 64, s. 1. How writs to be tested.

VI. A copy of such writ shall be served on the defendant personally, or if he cannot be found, by leaving the copy at his usual or last place of abode, with his wife or some other grown person, being a member of his household, or an inmate of the house wherein he resided as aforesaid. 14, 15 V. c. 64, s. 1. Copy of writ to be served.

VII. The sheriff (d) shall not serve a copy of the writ until he has replevied the property, or some part of the property therein mentioned, if he cannot replevy the whole in consequence of the defendant Sheriff not to serve writ until he has replevied.

(b) The amendment act, as will be seen, requires the order of a judge in ordinary cases before a writ can issue (sec. 1, 1st clause). But the two last clauses of that section permit a plaintiff to issue a writ if he can, in addition to what is required by the first part of that section (which is similar to the requirements of the section before us), make oath to the facts set out in them.

See forms of affidavits given in schedule, Nos. 1 and 2.

The affidavit must be sufficient to enable the sheriff by it to identify the property to be replevied. (Jones v. Cook, 2 U.C. Prac. R. 396.)

(c) The Division Court writ will of course be returnable on a court day, and be served ten days before the court, as in ordinary cases. The mode of service, however, must be regulated by the next section.

See form 3 for this writ as made applicable to Division Courts, and form 4 for affidavit of service to be endorsed.

VIII. Before the sheriff repleves he shall take a bond in treble the value of the property to be replevied as stated in the writ, which bond shall be assignable to the defendant, and the bond and assignment thereof may be in the form B, the condition being varied to correspond with the writ (f). 4 W. 4, c. 7, s. 2; 14, 15 V. c. 64, s. 4.

If the property to be replevied, or any part thereof, be concealed either about the person or on the premises of the defendant, or of any other person holding the same for him, and in case the sheriff demands from the defendant or such other person aforesaid deliverance thereof, and deliverance be neglected or refused, he may, and if necessary, shall search and examine the person and premises of the

An Act to amend the Law of Replevin in Upper Canada.

[Assented to 19th May, 1860.]

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to replevin, so as to prevent the same being perverted to purposes of injustice: Therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of Canada, enacts as follows:—

I. No writ of replevin shall issue, (l)—

1. Unless an order is granted for the writ, on an affidavit by the person claiming the property, or some other person, showing to the satisfaction of the court or judge, the facts of the wrongful taking or detention which is complained of, as well as the value and description of the property, and that the person claiming it is the owner thereof, or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof (as the case may be).

On what conditions only the writ of replevin shall issue.

Allegations in affidavit.

(k) See form 8.

(l) See sec. 4 of former act.

In practice it will be found most convenient for the judge to endorse his fiat or order for the issue of the writ on the back of the affidavit filed.

of the property, or may direct him to take and detain the property until the further order of the court, instead of at once replevying the same to the plaintiff; or may impose any terms or conditions in granting the writ, or in refusing the same (on the return of a rule or order to show cause), as, under the circumstances in evidence, appear just.

IV. In case a writ of replevin is issued, whether with or without an order, or in case any rule or order is made under the preceding section, the defendant may, at any time, or from time to time, apply to the court or judge, on affidavit or otherwise, for a rule or order on the plaintiff to show cause why the writ, or why the rule or order respecting the same, should not be discharged, or why the same should not be varied or modified, in whole or in part, as therein specified, or why all further proceedings under the writ should not be stayed, or why any other relief, to be referred to in the rule or order so applied for, should not be granted to the defendant, with respect to the return, safety or sale of the property or any part thereof, or otherwise; and the court or judge may make such rule or order thereon, as, under all the circumstances, best consists with justice between the parties.

Defendant may apply for a rule to show cause why the writ, &c., should not be discharged, &c.

V. Before the sheriff acts on any writ of replevin he shall take a bond, conditioned not only to the effect mentioned in form B, appended to the above cited act; but also that the plaintiff do pay such damages as the defendant shall sustain by the issuing of the writ of replevin, if the plaintiff fails to recover judgment on the suit; and further, that the plaintiff do observe, keep and perform all rules and orders made by the court in the suit (m).

Further conditions of the bond to be taken by the sheriff before acting on the writ.

VI. In case the value of goods or other property or effects distrained, taken or detained, does not exceed the sum of forty dollars, the writ may issue from the Division Court for the division within which the defendant or one of the defendants resides, or carries on business, or where the goods or other pro-

Division
Court.

VII. But the matter shall be disposed of without formal pleadings, and the powers of the courts and officers, and the proceedings generally in the suit shall be, as nearly as may be, the same as in other cases which are within the jurisdiction of Division Courts; and this act and the act relating to replevin shall, so far as any such suit is concerned, be read as if they formed part of the act respecting Division Courts. (Consolidated Statutes for U. C., chapter nineteen.)

Goods taken

ble.

VIII. The act relating to replevin shall not hereafter authorize the replevying or taking out of the custody of any bailiff any personal property seized by him under any process issued out of a Division Court in Upper Canada (o).

IX. [Relates to certain proceedings in the Superior Courts.]

(n) But the goods may have been taken into another county, wherein the defendant does not reside. A writ from one court cannot, it is apprehended, be directed to and acted upon by the bailiff of another, and a bailiff has in general only jurisdiction in his own county. A difficulty would seem to arise under these circumstances which is not provided against.

(o) An important provision, which has got rid of some troublesome questions with reference to the right of replevin where goods are in the custody of the bailiff on an execution, and probably also on a warrant of attachment, though the section only speaks of the custody of the bailiff, and says nothing of the clerk, whereas the goods seized by a bailiff under an attachment are to be delivered into "the custody and possession of the clerk," who shall take the same "into his charge and keeping" (See sec. 208). And some difficulty may possibly arise in cases where the bailiff seizes goods under an execution and makes a levy at the same time for rent under sections 176, &c.

PROCEEDINGS IN DIVISION COURTS ON ATTACHMENT OF DEBTS IN JUDGMENTS IN SUPERIOR OR COUNTY COURTS.

(CON. STAT. U. C. CAP. XXII. SEC. 292, et seq.)

By a provision of the above act (Common Law Procedure Act) a judgment creditor in the Superior and County Courts may obtain what is called a garnishing order, which has the effect of attaching debts due from a third person, called the garnishee, to the judgment debtor to be applied towards satisfaction of the judgment debt. If any of these debts so attached are within the jurisdiction of a Division Court, the statute provides that any dispute as to whether such debts are really due or not shall be tried, and, if found to be due, the debts shall be recoverable as in an ordinary Division Court suit.

The enactments are as follows:—

CCXCII. In cases in the Superior Courts, when the amount claimed as due from any garnishee is within the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court, the order to appear made under the two hundred and eighty-ninth section shall be for the garnishee to appear before the judge of the County Court of the county within which the garnishee resides—at some day and place within his county to be appointed in writing by such judge—and written notice thereof shall be given to the garnishee at the time of the service of the order. 20 V. c. 57, s. 16.

CCXCIII. If the garnishee does not forthwith pay the amount due by him, or an amount equal to the judgment debt, and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear before the judge named in the order at the day and place appointed by such judge, then such judge on proof of service of the order and appointment having been made four days previous, may make an order directing execution to issue out of the County Court, or out of a Division Court, according to the amount due, and such order shall, without any previous writ or process, be sufficient authority for the clerk of either of such courts to issue execution for levying the amount due from such garnishee. 20 V. c. 57, s. 16.

The sheriff or bailiff to levy the amount with costs and fees.

CCXCIV. The sheriff or bailiff to whom such writ of execution is directed, shall levy the amount mentioned in the said execution, towards satisfaction of the judgment debt, together with the costs of the proceeding, to be taxed, and his own lawful fees, according to the practice of the court from which such execution has issued. 20 V. c. 57, s. 16.

Proceedings if the debtor disputes the debt.

CCXCV. If the garnishee disputes his liability, then such judge of the County Court may order that the judgment creditor shall be at liberty to proceed against the garnishee according to the usual practice of the County or Division Court, as the case may require, for the alleged debt or for the amount due to the judgment debtor if less than the judgment debt, and for costs of suit. 20 V. c. 57, s. 16.

Proceedings in County Courts when amount within the jurisdiction of Division Courts.

CCXCVI. In cases in the County Courts when the amount claimed as due from any garnishee is within the jurisdiction of a Division Court, the order to be made under the two hundred and eighty-ninth section, shall be for the garnishee to appear before the clerk of the Division Court within whose Division the garnishee resides, at his office, at some day to be appointed in the said order by the judge of the County Court; and the said order shall be served on such garnishee, and if the garnishee do not forthwith pay the amount due by him or an amount equal to the judgment debt, and do not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he do not appear before the Division Court clerk named in the order at his office at the day appointed by such judge, then such judge, on proof of the service of the order having

DUTIES OF DIVISION COURT OFFICERS WITH RESPECT TO AWARDS BY FENCE VIEWERS.

(CON. STAT. U. C. CAP. LVII.)

The above statute provides for the inspection of line fences and water-courses by fence viewers, who are authorised amongst other things to ascertain the amount payable to any person who, under the authority of the act, makes or repairs a fence or water-course, which another person should have done. Sec. 16 of the act provides a mode of enforcing payment of the amount due. At the request of the person claiming payment, a justice of the peace shall issue a summons to the person in default, which summons is to be served also upon the fence viewers, who shall thereupon award what sum (if any) should be paid to the plaintiff, and shall report their determination in writing under their hands to the justice who issued the summons.

It is then provided by sec XVI., sub-sec. :—
