FALLING WALLS BRING DEATH TO FOUR MONTREAL FIREMEN THREE INJURED, ONE MAY DIE

Section of Wall of Sash Factory Collapses Without Warning, Covering Men in Smoking Debris—Captain and Two Firemen Barely Escape—Loss Will Reach $125,000.

MONTREAL, June 22.—(Can. Press).—Four firemen lie dead at the morgue and three are injured, one seriously. The dead are: John C. Forsythe, 28 years old; Patrick Hamill, 34; John McDermott, 22; and Webster Molson, 25.

The large three-story brick sash and blind factory of Itzweil & Sarrazin, facing on Duvernay and Levis streets and Fabian avenue, Saint Cuneoged, is demolished.

This is the result of the most disastrous fire that has visited this city since the burning of the Board of Trade building, 13 years ago.

From the refuse box to the dry kiln on the floor above in the east wing of the building, a room filled with closely piled lumber, the flames traveled.

Wall Suddenly Collapsed. Captain Enlow and five men were fighting the blaze with two streams at the place of its origin in Fabian Lane.

Owing to the intense heat and great volumes of smoke that poured from the smouldering debris the work of rescue was slow and difficult.

BROKE HIS NECK IN SHORT FALL

Unknown Workman Slipped Over Railing and Was Not Found For Four Hours.

Apparently not yet entirely recovered from the effects of an old skull wound, a working man, whose name is unknown, grew dizzy while sitting on the porch railing before the lodging-house kept by Alexander Haig of 129 West Wellington street, and fell 12 feet into the cellar entrance, breaking his neck.

He was dark, clean shaven, and nearly bald. But the most striking feature of his appearance is a long, deep scar on the right side of his head, which is nearly bald, exactly opposite a similar wound which he received when his head struck the stone foundation of the Wellington street house yesterday.

He was dressed in rags and measured only 4 feet 11 inches in height. Alexander Haig told 'The World' last night that the man had never lived at his house, and had never seen him before.

CLASPING HANDS IN A FAREWELL TWO BOYS ARE SWEEPED TO DEATH IN NIAGARA WHIRLPOOL RAPIDS

Hundreds of People on Bridge and River Banks Saw Hubert Moore and Donald Roscoe, Ten-Year-Old Lads, Carried Down Gorge in a Punt—Older Boy Escaped By Swimming.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., June 22.—(Special).—Hubert Moore, the ten-year-old son of Mrs. Tobia Moore, 628 1/2 Elmwood avenue, and Donald Roscoe, ten-year-old son of William Roscoe, 710 Ashland avenue, were carried to death in a fishing punt in the Whirlpool Rapids at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Fully 300 people saw the two boys go to their death, but were powerless to lend aid. A call was sent to the fire department, but the men who responded could do nothing to prevent the tragedy.

The three boys were playing on the lower river bank below the plant of the Niagara Falls Brewing Company. A fishing punt owned by George Wolfe, 1172 Michigan avenue, was moored to a tree stump, and the little fellows clambered into the boat and amused themselves for an hour throwing sticks into the river and watching the current carry them ashore.

Word was quickly passed that two boys were adrift in a boat without oars, and the river banks were lined with people. A crowd lined the rail of the tower bridge as the little craft with its helpless passengers plunged into the Whirlpool Rapids.

Just before the cockle-shell death trap entered the rapids, the two little victims of the treacherous stream stood up and shook hands. Men wept and women screamed when they witnessed this touching scene.

Like soldiers under fire, the boys faced their doom hanging tight to the side of the punt, while the tiny craft was buffeted from wave to wave in the turbulent, rushing, tossing waters of the rapids.

Mrs. Roscoe is seriously ill, and it is feared the shock will kill her. Three physicians were working over her tonight. She is unconscious. Mrs. Moore is prostrated by the shock.

The two boys lived only a block apart, and a strange coincidence is that the boys' mothers were together at the time the news of the accident was broken to them.

UNIONISTS ARE NOT PLAYING FAIR COMPLAINT OF ASQUITH CABINET

Embarrassing Situation Has Developed as Result of Opposition's Refusal to Accept Mild Apologies of Indiscreet Ministers—Unionist Press Clamors For Fuller Enquiry.

Special Cable to The World. Copyrighted by The Toronto World and N. Y. World. LONDON, June 21.—An awkward situation has arisen in the cabinet as a result of the Marconi debate. When the leading Unionist papers—The Times, The Daily Mail and The Daily Graphic—declared before hand that if the two ministers concerned expressed regret for their mistake in buying American Marconi stock the house of commons would accept it as sufficient and the matter would be closed, the cabinet assumed that this suggestion had been inspired by the Unionist leaders. Accordingly Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, who had intended, as he had preferred, to defend and vindicate his two ministers, was obliged to offer an expression of regret in deference to the views of Premier Asquith and the cabinet.

F. BROWN CAPTURES MISS AND OUT RACE

The first meet for the local pedal pushers was held Saturday evening at the Scarborough Beach track, and the Big Four had a program composed of some real good events, especially the miss and out race, which took the crowds' fancy right from the start. Big Chief Andrews was also an all evening owing to lack of condition, while MacMillan succeeded in capturing one event after a hard race with Frank Brown. The latter and Scotty Wilson were the only two of last year's cracks who displayed any shape at all, and they have the big fellows working under a big handicap. The final of the one mile novice came pretty near being a horse when the race was forced to come on and win. A. Spencer captured the final of the 2.40 class from Baily Watson, who did not have the necessary steam for the final sprint. The miss and out race had ten starters, and Frank Brown won all the way after leading the entire distance of 2 1/2 miles. His time was 5:14 2-5, with Scotty Wilson back three lengths. McMillan went out in the fifth lap, and Andrews followed him two laps later. Herb McDonald was third. Boys' race, 1/2 mile—1, S. Martin; 2, W. Pender; 3, A. Edwards. Time 1:18 4-5.

REFORM DISLIKED BY MONEY KINGS

But New Currency Bill Finds Favor With Less Prejudiced Bankers.

POLITICAL CRY RAISED

Proposed Governing Board Would Have Too Much Power, 'Tis Asserted.

Special to The Toronto World. NEW YORK, June 22.—Wall street is against the administration's bill to reform the banking and currency. Officials of some of the largest national banks and other institutions are outspoken in their adverse criticism. Officials of many other banks and trust companies, however, commended the main features of the measure, altho questioning certain details. Fundamentally sound. The following are favorable expressions of opinion: Otto T. Baumard, president of the New York Trust Company: "The fundamental provisions of the bill seem to be sound and in accord with the best discussions. There are features which ought to be amended, and which perhaps will be. The organization of a national federal reserve board has been changed in the last sketch of the bill so that its constitution is almost entirely political, and it would seem unwise to attach the banking system of this country so closely to the prevailing administration, whatever it might be. It might be a temptation for a political board fixing rates of interest and exercising other details of its authority to study the voter rather than the best interests of the banking community. I am pleased on the whole, however, that the framework and starting point are as good as they are."

Some Fear of Politics.

William H. Nash, chairman of the board of the Corn Exchange Bank and a former president of the New York Clearing House Association: "I believe that the bill as a whole is probably the best that has been suggested so far for reforming the currency system. It certainly has excellent features, but the scheme is too elaborate for any one to digest it without more careful study than it is given time to devote to it. One feature which will probably come in for a good deal of discussion, is the political character of the Federal Reserve Board. Concerning the wisdom of that provision I am in doubt. Whether the bankers will be willing to have the whole board composed of the representatives of the president, except the three government officers, I cannot say. "The salary of $10,000 a year would be inadequate to command the best ability in the country, and the directors would have to devote their whole time and their best energies to the work of the board. If a man is big enough and broad enough to take such a position, he ought to get more than $10,000."

Scotty Wilson Second at Big Four Races—A. Spencer Was Good.

The first meet for the local pedal pushers was held Saturday evening at the Scarborough Beach track, and the Big Four had a program composed of some real good events, especially the miss and out race, which took the crowds' fancy right from the start. GREEN STOCKINGS WORN THIS WEEK

By Miss Haswell in the Play Bearing That Name.

WALLINGFORD - SHEA'S Change of Program Every Night For the Star's Closing.

Commencing tonight, and continuing for the rest of the week, Miss Percy Haswell and her players will present at the Alexandra Theatre the comedy by A. E. W. Mason and George Fleming, "Green Stockings." This is the play in which Margaret Anglin scored such a success in this country a few seasons ago. The story deals with one Celia Faraday (Miss Haswell), the eldest sister of four, being forced to wear green hose, according to an old English custom, at the wedding of her two younger sisters. Now that a third is to be married, and not wishing to wear the stockings, Celia invents an imaginary fiance and kills him by the simple method of sending a paragraph to a newspaper, which publishes the announcement. Then comes a messenger from Africa, bearing with him the dead hero's love for Celia. She has written a letter to him, intending later to destroy it, but it is inadvertently mailed and comes to her. Friday night, the name invented by the elder sister. There are complications aplenty, and out of them arises a comedy that is filled with delightful lines and situations.

Farewell Week at the Star. Owing to the change in circuits, the Star Theatre this week will put over a new feature night, namely, Monday night, cabaret night; Tuesday night, necktie night; Wednesday night, chorus girls' contest; Thursday night, amateur night; Friday night, chorus girls' minstrel show; Saturday night, farewell night. By special request, Miss Blanch Baird will do a pianolo in the olio. The patronage score board will be shown at the matinees.

Grand Gala Week at Hanjans. This is going to be a gala week at Hanjans Point. Now that warm weather appears to be assured, visitors to this popular amusement resort, "The Grand Point of Canada," will find that the management is spending no expense to secure the best for their patrons. Among the free out-door attractions will be found Spellman's bears. They are such a funny and clever lot that the spectators will laugh until their sides ache. Big, handsome fellows they are, nearly a dozen of them, and the cute and cunning baby bears. All of them do something, and such a remarkable performance has never been seen before. For two years they were one of the leading attractions at the New York Hippodrome. An act that is absolutely new to Toronto will be that of "The Tormados," who have just concluded an engagement at the Grand Circus, Paris, France. They will only visit a few cities in America, as they are under contract to appear at the London Hippodrome at an early date. Their performance is described as thrilling, sensational and awe-inspiring. In addition to these and other features there will be a military band concert every evening.

Don't Miss Bicycle Act. Scarborough Beach Park will have one of the finest attractions in the country this week, when D'Urbano plays an engagement with his royal Italian concert band. This famous organization arrived in Toronto on Saturday and gave their first concert at the New York Hippodrome. It is a mere coincidence that there has been a more celebrated Italian band in Toronto since the late 1800s. This band has been several years ago, and all sorts of music will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing Luigi D'Urbano conduct his own band. Little Marie and her Four Tones Quartet is another feature act, and is said to be one of the cleverest animal shows now before the public. The moving pictures in the open air, are changed three times a week, and continue to amuse the crowds.

Union President Arrested. ST. LOUIS, June 22.—Miss Lillian Milten, president of the Telephone Operators' Union, the members of which are on strike against the local Bell company, was arrested today on a charge of "throwing something at a taxicab in which several operators were riding."

Miss Miller denied the charge.

Daily Fashion Talks BY MAY MANTON

A SMART COSTUME OF A PRACTICAL SORT

The smartly tailored shirt waist with the tailored skirt makes a costume at once practical and fashionable. It is ideal for the mountain tramp, it is really perfect for general use.

For the medium size, the skirt will require 3 1/2 yards of material 27, 2 1/2 yards 36 or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches wide; the skirt 6 1/2 yards 27, 5 yards 36 or 3 1/2 yards 44 inches wide.

The May Manton pattern of the shirt 7793 is cut in sizes for 34 to 40 inches bust measure; of the skirt 7596 from 22 to 32 inches waist measure. They will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of 15 cents for each.

7793 Sport or Mannish Shirt Waist, 34 to 40 bust. 7596 Five Gored Skirt, 22 to 32 waist.

Even attempt the description of a lily, how altogether ridiculous, because futile. No lily but is beautiful beyond description, whether it be the stately Calla, sacred to the Egyptians, who gazed reverently upon it, growing coldly white and aloof above the sluggish waters of the River Nile; or whether it be the tiny vale lilies, shyly fragrant within the shelter of their broad green sheathing leaves; whether it be the gorgeous tiger, dazzling the mind and eye alike, or the brave, we snowdrop, blooming bravely, alone above the melting snow.

A lily is a lily. The very name, it seems to convey to the mind, some of the many characteristics possessed by the various members of this immense family. Just now, we want to talk about the old-fashioned lemon lilies, that are opening to the June sun. These lilies are so closely related to the ordinary orange lilies, that the two are often confused. Certainly in many respects, a close similarity is present. For instance, the roots of each. Now nothing on earth, or in the earth, for that matter, either, resembles the peculiar collection of "tail-ed bulbs" one end of each being attached to a main stem, the whole forming a reserve of nourishment, on which the plant lives, besides counting that drawn from the ground. The older the root, the greater the number of bulbets attached to each plant.

A peculiar thing we have discovered about these small bulbets. If the large root seems to have a very large number of these, remove as many as you think may be spared, never failing to leave at least three fair sized ones attached to the central root. Plant these, each separately, in rich earth, keep well watered, and in the course of nine months or a year, they will throw out root-fibres, and in two years will be as large (capable of flowering) as the original plant. We planted some hundred or more, the year before last, and saw no sign of shoots until late in the fall last year. This year bloom has appeared, quite luxuriantly, so that we have concluded that a way has been found to increase one's stock, slowly, but surely.

These lemon lilies are of the palest, most delicate yellow, smaller than the ordinary orange (or sometimes called day lily) and give off a dainty fragrance.

Planted among stocky, bushy plants, they raise their slender flower stalks above the surroundings, and gleam out like golden stars. Divide the roots in the usual way, at least every fall. We have found that constant division of most roots guarantee much larger bloom the next season.

THE TRIPLE TIE BY A. H. C. MITCHELL

But Kelly was the pupil, not the teacher. He frankly confessed to Smith that while theoretically he knew all about baseball, practically he knew nothing about it. He knew the various signals, but he didn't know the methods of using them. He knew how to steal bases, and his fast way slide was a thing of beauty and a joy forever, but he didn't know how or when to start with an opposing teacher in the box. There were, in short, a hundred little wrinkles, the art of "inside" baseball that he had no actual experience in. All these things, however, Bill Smith, being a past master in the arts and wiles of the diamond, was able to demonstrate to his charge. Kelly spent much time as possible every day with the manager. He was a glutton for information, and he absorbed all that Smith told him, so that at the end of the week he had a pretty clear understanding of the Bill Smith style of baseball. Every manager of a club will develop a winning combination on the ball field, in expounding his theories, Smith found a willing listener in Gordon Kelly.

A Poor Guess. On Saturday afternoon Smith cut the practice short and invited Kelly to go downtown with him. Half an hour later they were in the office of Frank A. Callaway, president of the Atlanta baseball club.

"Mr. Callaway," said the manager, "I want to make you acquainted with Mr. Gordon Kelly."

"There was a business of shaking hands and saying 'Glad to know you.' Callaway swept a quick glance over Kelly's figure and laughed.

"I can guess what you came to see me about before you tell me, Mr. Kelly," he said.

"Please tell me," answered Kelly, with a smile.

"Now, I'm sure of it," said Callaway, pleasantly. "You are the manager of a college something or other and you want the use of our ball park for a certain date, because your own grounds are not available on that date. I'm a mind reader, also I can tell you are a college man a mile away."

"You a ball player?" ejaculated Callaway in surprise, turning to Kelly.

"I don't know whether I am or not," laughed the young man.

"Looks like a million,"

"Well, I do," broke in the manager. "He looks like a million dollars, Mr. Callaway. That is a favorite expression of George Stallings, manager of the Boston Nationals. George will be here in a couple of weeks with his team playing at the Atlanta Club some exhibition games. From what I can learn he is shy of speedy outfielders and best of all, something you like that he will spot this kid right away and make me an offer for him. I'll take by you the cigar that you can sell Kelly's release for $5000 before the Southern League championship season is a month old. But I wouldn't sell him, no, sir."

It may be remarked in parentheses that professional baseball players are bought and sold, traded and transferred from one club to another at all seasons of the year. The money involved in a transaction between clubs have no say in the matter, but must obey orders or rules of the league.

This occasionally works a hardship on a player, but it is baseball law and it is a necessary part of the preservation of the national game. The clubs could not pay the high salaries they do pay their players unless they had the right to buy and sell them as they please.

Bill Smith seems to have a high opinion of Mr. Kelly, remarked President Callaway.

"Very kind of him," replied Kelly, and I hope I can make good. You see?"

Tells the Reporters. "Wait till you see, Mr. Callaway," interrupted the manager, "excuse us two minutes. Gordon," he added, "I want to say something to Mr. Callaway, and he drew the president to the inner office, where he told him the little he had been able to learn about Kelly. When he had concluded, he said to Kelly:

"And you signed him up on the strength of that drive that broke the bull's ribs?"

"Well, Billy, you know, I consider you the best manager in the world. And I don't want to see you get into a jam. I will put thru this contract, but remember, Billy, you must shoulder all the responsibility. If this Gordon Kelly blows up, the laugh will be on you, not me."

"I'll take my chances on that," said the manager, confidently.

Another thing will make good reading in the newspapers. Send for the reporters, Billy, and we'll tell 'em all about your 'wonder'."

The reporters came, they saw, they were not conquered. They took copies of notes of all the manager told them, but they refused to "fall for Kelly as a ball player." They admired his shapely and good-looking figure, but they were "shrewd" before committing themselves to extravagant praise of the new man.

"All right, boys, I'll show you," declared Bill Smith; "and mark my words"—every reporter made a mark in his notes book—"mark my words, this fellow will turn out to be a wonder."

"Hope so, Billy," replied the reporters, they filed out of the room.

"They all handled the news in a facetious manner. In one of the newspapers there was this headline:

"Joked" in the Papers.

ADONIS JOINS THE CRACKERS. Bill Smith Signs a Player Who Has Never Seen a Game of Ball.

Another newspaper had this headline: LEARN TO BE A LEADER.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL. Atlanta Club Secured a "World-Beater" Who Never Played a Game of Baseball.

The third newspaper had this to say in its headlines: O'CONNOR LEADER TO PLAY BASEBALL. Bill Smith Lands a Handsome Young Man That Knows Everything Except the National Game.

Within twenty-four hours Bill Smith was the recipient of all sorts of pleasant jibes. Every friend or acquaintance he met, he had to explain himself as the "world-beater." The manager took everything in good part, but mentally acknowledged that he had overplayed himself. "I ought to have said nothing about it," he thought, "they'll give me the laugh all over the country. But," he added, grimly, "that kid will make good, all right, all right."

NO OTHER WAY

By GORDON HOLMES

The doctor forthwith entered into a technical description of the effects of crystals of nicotine; but when the coroner asked if he had formed any definite view as to whether the deceased man had taken the poison when in the cutter or had been placed after death in the seat where he was found, Traherne jumped up.

"I respectfully submit that the witness ought not to answer that question at this stage," he said.

"For whom do you appear?" demanded the coroner.

"For the widow, Mrs. Kyrie."

"By no means, I am swayed rather by my own notion of the proper procedure, Mrs. Kyrie is, of course, anxious that every fact should be made known."

The coroner nodded to Dr. Gilman. "I said 'every fact,' sir," continued Traherne, rather red-faced, since he was doubtful of the right line to follow.

"I think the witness should be allowed to proceed," said the coroner quietly, and the lawyer sat down again.

He caught a dry smile in the corner of Traherne's lips, and understood that he had not benefited his client by the protest. In the result, this impression was an unfortunate one, as he did not interfere later when he might have stopped some really damaging, but quite irrelevant, evidence being placed on the record.

"I cannot decide that very important point," said Dr. Gilman, when he felt that the legal barrier which Traherne sought to interpose was not to become effective. "The contortions of path that the poison would induce in what I may describe in simple language as its middle stage would render it absolutely impossible for any human being to remain calmly seated at the tiller of a yacht. But, in the case of a man with a strong will, clinging obstinately to a dominant purpose, and wishful to create an impression that he had died from what is popularly known as heart disease, he might have struggled back into a natural position during the last phase of a stupor developing into insensibility. That is possible. The balance of probability is that the body was placed in the box after death."

Another doctor, and the state analyst, confirmed Dr. Gilman's evidence, and the local prosecutor, prompted by Traherne, asked each man only one question.

"Would any well-conducted drug store supply a large quantity of crystals of nicotine to any ordinary customer?"

In each case the answer was an emphatic "no."

The next witness came as a veritable surprise to everyone in court, save the coroner, who knew why he was there. Two men, apparently foreigners, and certainly strangers in Atlantic City, were sitting apart, shielded from all enquiry by the detectives and the local chief of police. One of them rose and smilingly touched his companion's shoulder when the coroner called "Jose Vuilmo." The man who had paid no heed to his own name was the proprietor of the drug store on Everglades avenue, Palm Beach, for he had only a hazy notion what the court was saying; but the other man proved to be an interpreter, and it was soon learned that Vuilmo had sold an ounce of crystals of nicotine to an American on Feb. 22, as his counter record would show, and the name of the American was Claude Waverton.

The reporters were writing at top speed. Mrs. Delamar's face had exhibited a gleeful pallor from the instant she heard the druggist's name, given correctly to the coroner by the interpreter, whereas Claude Waverton watched the man's appearance with a bored inattentiveness that yielded to curiosity only when he found that, for the sake of accuracy, the testimony would be delivered in Spanish.

To these three, then, seemingly busied with documents and notes, but actually devouring each slightest change of expression in Mrs. Delamar's livid features, to which no more marked foil could be provided than Waverton's heedlessness, there was forthcoming the amplest confirmation of an amazing fact. The stout and voluble Spaniard was to Mrs. Delamar a figure of terrible and sinister portent; but to Claude Waverton he presented such affrighting spectacle. The one knew, and dreaded, the coming revelation; the other was wholly unconscious of it. Yet, had he been the man he represented himself as being, he could not have forgotten that remarkable purchase of a deadly poison; nor, however innocent his intent then, would he be blind to its grave significance now.

Of course, none of the three gave credence to Waverton's pretence of a loss of memory, and it was almost amusing to them individually, the their faces were masks of indifference, when the suspect kindled into angry annoyance at hearing himself named as the buyer.

"No sense!" he cried fiercely, without waiting for the interpreter to explain what Vuilmo had said, and he sprang upright, all aquiver with wrath and resentment; for he was in the position of a man wandering idly thru a flat and dreary country who finds himself suddenly on the brink of an unfathomable abyss.

"You must not interrupt the witness," said the coroner, glancing sharply at the tall, thin, well-dressed individual who had been thus stirred into activity and discomfiture.

"But there is some ridiculous error," cried Waverton in white heat.

"Are you represented by a lawyer?"

"No. If it was intended that this cock-and-bull story should be made public today, why was I not warned of it?"

"No comments, please," said the coroner. "When the witness has concluded his evidence you can question him, if you so desire, or wait until another occasion, when you will have procured legal assistance."

Waverton sat down, with an impatient gesture, and now at last the interpreter was free to go on with the Spaniard's statement. Up to this point the great majority of people in court were ignorant of Waverton's identity, and wondered why the stranger had protested so vehemently.

During the somewhat striking scene Mrs. Delamar had endeavored to catch Waverton's eye; but in vain. The she had the aspect of a woman stricken on the rack, she strove to conquer her agitation, and hastily scribbled a note, which she asked Clancy, of all men, to hand across the table.

The detective obeyed with a smile, and Waverton opened the folded paper. He read:

"Please try and recollect that you did buy the poison. The man is telling the truth. I can explain everything fully.—Peena."

He crumpled the message in his right hand, he was sure that three pairs of watchful eyes saw which hand he used—and seemed not to pay the least regard to it, devoting himself rather to a close following of Vuilmo's words.

"You are sure of the name?" went on the coroner, blandly resuming his task as if the nothing remarkable had happened.

"Yes, the witness had copied it from the gentleman's card."

"Do you see him in court?"

"Vuilmo did not wait for the interpreter. Certainly. That is he, only thinner and greatly changed since his accident. I heard of the affair, and remembered the name," he said in Spanish.

Then he looked straight at Waverton, and it was not to be doubted that he was telling the truth. Every eye was bent on the bronzed man sitting at the table; but he only smiled scornfully, and met Vuilmo's mild gaze without flinching.

"Are you positive on that point?" persisted the coroner.

CHURCH FARADES HELD

Foresters and Knights of Malta in Annual Gatherings.

Yesterday morning the various West Toronto lodges of the Independent Order of Foresters amalgamated for their annual church parade to service in the Annette Street Baptist Church. The lodges marched in procession from St. James' Hall to the church at the corner of High Park and Annette street, where Rev. W. J. H. Brown conducted the service. In the afternoon the St. Robert Land Commandery, No. 3, G.R.C., Knights of Malta, headed by the uniform corps and Weston Prize Band, marched to St. John's Anglican Church, where their annual service was conducted by Rev. T. Beverley Smith, D.D.

A quiet but exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Cecilia's Church, when Rev. Dr. Tracey united in marriage Miss Teresa Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McNulty, and Mr. John P. Mahoney. The bride was given away by her father and wore a bridal veil of white duchesse satin with a train of white tulle. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Evelyn McNulty, and Mr. John Reeves supported the groom. During the ceremony solos were rendered by Miss Kathleen McCarron and Miss Ellis Doyle, Miss Alice McEaney presiding at the organ. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding supper was held at the home of the bride's parents, Annette street, and Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney left shortly afterwards for a honeymoon trip thru the Thousand Islands. On their return they will reside on Fairview avenue.

Many citizens of ward seven have complained to the World that their gardens and flower beds have been almost destroyed by night marauders, who not only despoil them of the choicest flowers but seem bent on ruining the plants and shrubs as well. In many cases unpardonable vandalism has been committed, and many very valuable shrubs have been destroyed, whole branches being torn off by the thieves in their endeavor to secure perhaps a single flower. The police have been instructed to keep a sharp lookout for such destructive pilferers, and an example will undoubtedly be made of such a one should he be discovered.

The death occurred yesterday afternoon at the Weston Sanitarium of Mrs. Christina Beaton, wife of Sidney Beaton, of 888 Lansdowne avenue, in her 22nd year. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon to Prospect Cemetery.

TRADES UNIONS ARE INCREASING

Membership in Canada Is Over a Million and a Quarter.

WORLD'S MEMBERSHIP

Special Report by Department of Labor Contains Interesting Figures.

OTTAWA, June 21.—(Can. Press).—Some interesting facts respecting labor and its organization in Canada are contained in the annual special report on the subject by the department of labor. The union membership in the last calendar year increased from 132,132 to 160,120 at the end of 1912. The report says in part:

"It is now well understood by those interested in the subject that the great majority of units of organized labor in Canada are affiliated with international organizations having their headquarters in the United States. The mass of membership is in all these cases south of the line, the Canadian membership receiving generally its proportion of officials. This system of internationalism in labor organizations in Canada is apparently confined to no particular class of workers and extends through practically all industries; in some cases, however, the workers have favored a form of unionism independent of the international bodies and have proceeded on non-international lines.

"International unions in North America number 148, and 90 have a full-time staff in Canada. Of the latter 82 are in affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. The Canadian membership of this federation is about 93,000 or one-twentieth of the whole. The tables submitted show that the 136,389 workers in Canada who are members of international organizations are not included in the figures of an increase of 107 locals and 16,974 members over the figures reported for 1911. Of Canadian organizations there are 217 local unions, with a total membership of 15,516, a slight increase for the year; and in addition there are twenty-eight independent bodies, of which 16 report a membership of 8,115, thus bringing to the figure of 160,120 the total membership reported in the 1883 local branches and independent trades union organizations of all types in Canada at the close of the year 1912. The total membership reported for 1911 was 132,132, contained in 1741 local and independent bodies.

Wage Earners.

The total number of wage-earners of Canada may be fairly estimated for the current year at 1,300,000. With regard to the majority of wage-earners, which remains thus apparently untouched by organization, and representing 88 per cent. of the whole, the organization is in the case of the unskilled labor, farm labor and the class of workers described generally in the census and other official returns as 'laborers', this men who have no technical instruction of any kind, alone comprise about one-fourth of the total of wage-earners, and these are the most unprotected. Female workers, too, are but little organized in Canada. The number of women workers in 1901 was placed at 158,042, and in the year 1912 a increase of 46 per cent., or 72,652, being 230,694 at the end of 1912. The extent of organization among women workers in Canada is not easily ascertained, but the information to hand shows there is little to report. Organization on the part of female workers is found chiefly in the manufacturing group, in such callings as, for instance, garment workers, cigar makers, bookbinders, etc.

The trade union membership throughout the world aggregated 11,455,408, Germany is first, Great Britain second, and the United States third. The report gives a complete list of all unions in Canada and their officers.

HYDRO PROFITS FORTY THOUSAND

First Quarter of Year Shows Remarkably Fine Financial Statement.

City hydro commissioners are elated over the financial report for the past three months of this year. The profits reached the large sum of $43,156.23. The department's total income for the quarter was $275,822.60. Expenditures were $232,666.37, as follows: Current, $185,641.03; operation and management, $82,353.63; interest on debentures and sinking fund, $41,563.10. Reduction in the cost of operation has assisted materially to increase the profits.

CORNWALL LACROSSE LEAGUE.

CORNWALL, June 22.—The opening of the Cornwall Lacrosse League took place on Saturday afternoon in the Cornwall lacrosse grounds, when the Iver Modern Bedstead defeated the Toronto Paper Co. by 9 to 3, the Beach Furniture Co. won from the McGill chairs by 10 to 1, and the Stormont Mill defeated the Canada Mill by 9 to 3. The matches were all closer than the figures indicate. About 1500 people witnessed the contests, ten men a side were played, only at matinee games that there are still plenty of lacrosse players left in Cornwall. A few retired Cornwall players figured in the contests.

GET RICH QUICK WALLINGFORD

ISN'T THIS FELLOW THE CRUEL THING?

Stands Outside Jail and Makes Faces at Imprisoned Mother-in-Law.

Special to The Toronto World.

BANGOR, Maine, June 23.—Every day, sometimes thrice a day, a man pauses in his walk past the Androscoggin County Jail in Auburn, gazes intently at a window in the top tier and when a face appears there, shakes his fist threateningly and indulges in grimaces, concluding with a jeering laugh. Many persons have witnessed this man whose performance several times and wondered what it meant. A man watching today the actions of the mysterious one, who shouted "Oh jail, jail, jail!" several times at the window.

"Why do you do that?" the passerby asked. "That's my business," was the reply. The passerby entered the jail office and asked the warden if he had noticed the crazy man shaking his fist and yelling at the prisoners.

"Crazy? Crazy nothing!" was the answer. "That fellow, he ain't crazy, that narty that he's makin' faces at is his mother-in-law. She's in for thirty days for smashin' him with a beer pitcher and this is the first time in his life that she's dared to talk right up to her and tell her what he thinks of her. But she's to be out next week and then I'm thinkin' she'll get square with him."

HUNGER STRIKE RELEASES FOUR

Terms of Imprisonment for Conspiracy Prove Usual Hollow Mockery.

LONDON, June 21.—(Can. Press).—Ill-health brought about by "hunger striking" opened the prison doors today to four of the six officials of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant suffrage organization, who were sentenced on Tuesday last to varying terms of imprisonment for conspiracy to commit malicious damage to property.

The women who were released on license were Miss Annie Kenny, who superintended the organization of the Women's Social and Political Union; Miss Rachel Barrett, assistant editor of the Suffragette; Miss Agnes Lake, business manager of the militants' organ, and Miss Laura Geraldine Lennox, a sub-editor.

Miss Kenny was serving a term of 18 months imprisonment; Miss Barrett nine months, and Miss Lake and Miss Lennox six months each, all at hard labor.

The prisoners declared, when sentence was pronounced, that they would refuse to eat and would compel the prison authorities to release them.

LEAFS LASTED THIRTEEN INNINGS

Lush's Triple, a Single and Sacrifice Gave Toronto Early Lead.

PESTS TIE UP IN NINTH Then Win Out in the Hoodoo Round on Two Singles and a Sacrifice.

JERSEY CITY, June 22.—(Special.)—In one of the prettiest fielding contests witnessed at West Side Park, the home team won by 4 to 3. The battle went 13 innings and the fans experienced many thrills, as hard drives were nearly caught or stopped and runners were thrown out within a step of the goal. It seemed to the Leafs that the game of baseball is "mighty intricate, and that fickle Dame Fortune had transferred her smiles to the Skeeters.

In the third Graham's single, Lush's triple and Fitz's sacrifice fly tilted two for Toronto. They netted one in the seventh on O'Hara's walk, Bradley's sacrifice, Dooscher's wild throw to try to catch Northern napping, he also having been walked, and a long fly by Bemis. The Pests scored one in each of the seventh, eighth and ninth and then won out in the thirteenth on a single by Egan. McCabe's sacrifice and Callahan's single. The score:

BISONS WIN SUNDAY FOURTEEN INNINGS

Low Throw by Swacina to Plate Defeats the Newark Indians.

NEWARK, June 22.—A low throw by the plate by Swacina in the 14th inning with two men out, enabled the Bisons to take the final game from Newark today. Jackson scored on it, he having walked and reached third on Bues' single, Swacina fumbling the return and giving the opening for the dash to the plate. Lehr's single sent Bies home with the extra run. Enzmann would have had a shutout in nine innings had not Dalton's wild throw put Truesdale on second, whence he scored. E. Zimmerman's double and Higgins' single produced the Newark run. Score:

TIM JORDAN BACK ON THE JOB LEAFS LOSE TWO ON SUNDAY

Skeeters Land First Game by Getting to Maxwell in the Eighth Innings For Two Runs—Brandon Had Toronto All Tied Up in Second When Hearne, Was Knocked Off the Mound.

JERSEY CITY, June 22.—(Special.)—The Jersey City Skeeters stung the Toronto ball players twice in the same place in their double-header at Jersey City this afternoon. The Skeeters took the first game by the score of 3 runs to 2, and gathered in the second contest by 5 runs to 0. A crowd of nine thousand persons attended the contests.

The Leafs had the first game well in hand up till the eighth innings. In that session the Skeeters got to Maxwell for two hits, a single, a sacrifice and a pass putting across two runs. The Leafs went out in order in their turn in the ninth, and the first game was over.

Jersey City were the first to score in the opener, when they put over their tally on Vaughn's hit past Jordan and Knight. Bingle to left. Kelly forced Eichen skied to O'Hara and McCabe went out, Maxwell to Jordan.

Toronto came right back in the second and scored two runs. Jordan went out, Vaughn to Calhoun. Northern and Fitzpatrick each doubled, the former scoring. It looked as if the Leafs would sew up the game right here, but Bemis hit into a double-play, Purcell to Calhoun to Wells, the latter tagging Kelly as he slid into the plate.

In the eighth, for Jersey City, Wells walked. H. Bradley, batting for Thompson, singled. O'Hara, batting for Eichen, walked. Maxwell tossed Knight and Eichen forced Kelly. Two runs.

Too Much Brando.

About the only feature of the second game was the superb pitching of Brandon, whom Manager Schaffly selected to pitch until the eighth inning when Gowdy held the Leafs safe all the way.

After scoring one in the first inning, the Skeeters fell upon Bunsy Hearne's offering in the second, scoring four runs, before he was able to retire the side.

The Skeeters grabbed six hits off Brandon in the one and two-third innings. The Leafs were blank in each of the last two innings, leaving only one base on ball.

Eichen, outside of Brandon, was the star performer. Each of the two basemen, got two hits in three times at bat. Kelly, who stole one of the two bases, pliffed during the contest. He had two put-outs, one of his running catches being that of Maxwell. Each of the visitors took the visitors of three certain runs.

WORKERS' CAMP WILL BE BUILT

In Connection With Toronto Free Hospital For Consumptives TO OPEN IMMEDIATELY

Workmen Will Be Able to Receive the Best of Care.

Provision is now being made for the establishment of a workers' camp or pavilion on the grounds of the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives, which is located by street on the Toronto Junction. The government authorities, city authorities and hospital authorities, are all combining in this latest move.

The arrangement is that the workman, instead of returning to his home surroundings, will, upon finishing his work, go to the workers' camp, which is a fresh air pavilion. Here he will be served with a substantial and wholesome evening meal, will occupy a fresh clean bed under open air conditions, and will be served with a good meal in the morning before leaving for his work, the midday meal being secured in whatever way may be customary to the worker in his home.

In this way he will be enabled not only to continue his work, as a useful citizen and as a breadwinner, but also to receive the best of medical care, for his full wages will be available for the support of his family, but at the same time to build up into restored health, thus becoming an asset instead of a liability to the community. The possible infection of other members of his family, and the possibility of the entire family being thrown upon public charity, at a later date, will be removed.

These arrangements were concluded at a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives, where intimation was given that the consent of the Provincial Government to the proposal had been received thru Dr. Bruce Smith, and where the city was represented by Ald. Rowland, chairman of the board of health, and the controller McCarthy, whose interest in the advancement of all matters pertaining to public health is well known. It was intimated that the proposal also had the hearty endorsement of Dr. Hastings, medical health officer.

A number of cases were submitted, which were at present a source of danger and anxiety to the health officials. Dr. Dobbie, physician-in-chief of the Toronto Free Hospital, was, therefore, instructed to make preparations for the immediate reception of such cases.

SCOTT PICTURES FOR THE ARENA

Complete Record of South Pole Expedition Will Be Reproduced.

In this day and time when the news of the world becomes ancient history, thru the medium of marvelous inventions for disseminating publicity before the human eye, it is not surprising that heretofore methods must be resorted to in order that attention may be attracted. This is where the indisputable art of the cinematograph comes in.

The cinematograph has been used for the never failing lens of the camera to depict the actual scenes. On February 11, 1913, the world was startled with the news that Captain Robert Falcon Scott, R.N., and his noble little band of antarctic explorers had perished on their triumphant return when within eleven miles of success. The entire world mourned the loss of one of its splendid heroes, and since that day, interest has been kept alive thru different channels because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the discovery. Now comes the cinematograph with its voluminous pictorial record of all the episodes and incidents occurring on the hazardous voyage and journey. The little coterie of brave men, seated around their patent cooker, which furnished the only means of artificial heat, obtainable and that, too, in very meagre quantities—were shown in the act of preparing a meal, returning into their tender sleeping bags and cuddling together, just as they were afterwards found by the rescuing party, frozen to death. Small wonder it is that the cinematograph is the acknowledged monarch of modern inventions.

The complete and vivid animated record, secured by Mr. Herbert G. Ponting, F.R.G.S., official cinematograph expert of Captain Scott's memorable expedition to the south polar regions, will be flashed upon the screen at the Arena, week of June 23, with matinee performances, and comprehensively and volubly elucidated upon by an educated and informed lecturer.

Leslie C. Cox has been appointed assistant secretary of the Municipal Improvement Association. An extensive program is being prepared for public presentation early in the fall.

HOW THEY PLAY POLO IN MOTORS

No More Than Four Cars Can Be Used in a Game.

Teams Will Compete For Handsome Prizes at the Exhibition.

Great interest has been shown in the auto polo games which are to take place at the Exhibition Grounds next Saturday afternoon. Polo in general has become very popular, and auto polo is the departure in the game which is rapidly becoming a national already fast performance.

Auto polo, as played by its exponents, is divided into five periods of ten minutes each, with an interesting intermission of five minutes between each period. Each team may consist of two cars, but more than four cars all told is considered suicidal. The occupants of each car are a driver and a mallet man. The mallet man, seated in the rear of the bare frame, and geared in such a manner that it is almost impossible to kill the engine, even when the car capsizes, which is not an infrequent occurrence. Heavy strap iron loops are mounted back of the driver's seat and over the radiator on each car. Their purpose is to protect the power plant should the car turn turtle, also to keep the weight from crushing the players should they not jump quick enough and be caught underneath. It also serves as a self-righter. Once a car veers clear over on this arch and came right side up again. The mallet man crouches, with his feet braced on the right side running board, ready to strike at the ball when the driver whips the car into action. The steering wheel and controls are on the left side of all cars.
