TWO MEN ARE HARD AFTER THE LATE G. M. JARVIS' JOB

H. P. Fleming and J. T. Hallisey Both Want to be I. C. R. District Superintendent--Division May be Divided--Other I. C. R. News.

Moncton, July 4.—In connection with the fight for the position of superintendent of the Halifax and St. John division, made vacant by the death of Mr. George M. Jarvis, there is a report in circulation that the division may be divided into two districts. This would necessitate the appointment of two superintendents instead of one and, in a measure, satisfy both claimants to the vacant position. At present the department appears in a dilemma as to just what to do. Mr. H. P. Fleming, chief dispatcher at Moncton, and Mr. J. T. Hallisey, chief dispatcher at Truro, who is now acting superintendent, are both strong applicants for Mr. Jarvis' place. Mr. Fleming, besides having an excellent record in his line of railway work, is seven years the senior of Mr. Hallisey. But the latter, who is also a very competent man, has a strong influence behind him, urging his claims strongly. If the division is divided, it is intimated it may be the dividing line will be Springfield Junction, and Mr. Fleming would have charge on this end and Mr. Hallisey on the Nova Scotia end. Another rumor in connection with the vacancy on the Halifax-St. John division is that Mr. Evan Price may be removed from Campbellton to Truro. Rumors are heard of considerable dissatisfaction among trainmen, particularly at Truro, over the interference with the placing of the men in the district which is the oldest division which has never been entirely settled. The difficulty is principally on the eastern division and the trouble seems to arise from the meddling of certain of the Nova Scotia politicians. The quarrel of the men, however, is not with the politicians, but with the department for allowing the agreement entered into some time ago to be violated. In other words, the department has not kept faith with the men, and a dissatisfaction that will eventually develop into a protest. The whole question is one of runs for the men on different divisions, and is not difficult of settlement if the minister and his deputy did not allow the politicians to interfere. District Superintendent Price and Acting Superintendent Fleming have been called the attention of engineers to a matter of considerable interest to the citizens of Moncton. The superintendent has been called to the whistling of engines in Moncton, particularly on Sunday, and in connection with the rule in the time table governing this matter. In effect, the superintendent is instructing the engineers to discontinue the unnecessary whistling in Moncton. What has become of the celebrated motor cars which were so much in vogue several years ago? So far as Moncton is concerned, the cars were making a number of trial trips, but up to the present these demonstrations of ex-minister Emmons' great ability as a railway manager have not been seen in service. One of the cars has been round house all winter at the rear of the round house at

JUNK STEALING CASE TAKEN UP

Leslie Singer Arraigned in Police Court this Morning.

George Gillespie charged Fred King with stealing a car in a saloon on King Square, Dominion Day. Several witnesses for both prosecution and defence were examined to-day, but owing to the absence of Arthur Hoyt, a witness for the complainant, the case was adjourned until Monday morning. George Babb, a Jew, charged George Clarke with assault by means of a stick, but the case was dismissed. Leslie Singer was arraigned at the police court this morning on suspicion of stealing large quantities of lead and brass from McLan and Holt's foundry on Albion street near the site of the old shipyards. Edward Harder, foreman in the moulding department of the foundry, testified that the prisoner was employed levelling a dump controlled by the proprietor of the foundry and he had advised Singer to pick up all pieces of iron or other metals which were in the refuse and to pile them in the moulding shop. Quantities of lead and brass had been deposited in a receptacle in the carpenter shop situated one story above the foundry in the same building by orders from James H. McAvity, the proprietor. On July 3 he missed metal and informed Mr. McAvity's representative who placed the matter in the hands of the police. He identified the metal exhibited in court as that which he perceived in the carpenter shop. Another employe corroborated the foreman's evidence and positively identified the brass and lead in the court room. William Foynt and Mayer Birchenok, two Jew junk peddlers, swore they purchased lead and brass from Singer on different occasions. The case was postponed until Tuesday. MODERN CRUSOES RESCUED BY WARSHIP

Twenty-two French Sailors Picked Off Barren Island After Experiences Similar to Those Told of in Fiction

Victoria, B. C., July 3.—While sailing a tall, slender, dark-skinned man, with a white beard, one of a party of twenty-two French sailors were rescued by the British warship Pegasus, which was on duty in the straits of the Maracaibo, which is now in port here. The castaways, who lived a Crusoe life, fashioning their utensils in the same resourceful way as the maroon of Jean Fenelon, scrambled ashore on Antipodes Island, south of New Zealand, and near where the survivors of the British barge Dundolar were rescued before, after their vessel drove ashore during March last, and at last had given up the hope of rescue when the British warship was sighted. The men were ravenous when rescued, having been on short rations for some time. They had needles made of blades of pocket knives, dinner knives made from an iron bolt torn from a cask which had been washed from the wreck, fishhooks from bent nails, spoons from shells, hair combs from bush thorns, etc. Burns and Squires again. London, July 2.—Tommy Burns, the American newsboy, will be deported to Australia July 7. He has signed articles for three months during the visit of the American fleet to Australia. His first fight will be with "Bill" Lang in Melbourne. He will also fight Squires. Burns gets $25,000 for the contest. FIREWORKS FACTORY BLOWN UP. Bridgeport, Conn., July 3.—A building owned by the American Explosives Co. for making fireworks, was blown to pieces tonight by explosion of the materials used in their manufacture. The explosion occurred in the building at the time of the explosion.

Cultivated strawberries were plentiful in the market this morning at ten cents a box. Sprung chickens sold for one dollar a pair. Kathleen, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Rev. Canon Montgomery of Springhill, fell from a swing at her home yesterday and sustained painful injuries, but fortunately no bones were broken.

BROOKLYN HAS A BOLD, BLUE EYED ROBBER AGED 9 YEARS

Thirty Houses Have Been Entered and Police Suspect She Did It--Golden-Locks Had Armful of Jewelry and Millinery When Arrested.

New York, July 3.—Brooklyn police officers in their search for a baby burglar girl aged nine, who has been reported to have entered thirty houses in the city, have arrested a girl named Annie Reilly, aged five. She is a tall, puny girl, with high as the nose of Detective Thomas Robinson, the officer in charge of her, and she has pale cheeks and innocent blue eyes. Yet her skill and daring are said to have amazed her captors. Several times she has been caught by her victims and left unsuspected because she was so little and so young, and looked so simple. Even when she was captured yesterday evening the police laughed at the notion that she could be the cunning thief who has been stealing in the fashionable section of Williamsburg for weeks, and they did not wish to arrest her. Her name is Annie Reilly, and she lived with her father, Richard Reilly, a stove-dore's laborer, at No. 383 Hewest street, Brooklyn, where for a month past the man has occupied a single room, with his two children, Annie and another little girl, Lizzie, aged five. The mother is said to be in Flatbush Hospital suffering from some disease of the leg. The mother has never been at No. 383 Hewest street, and the baby burglar says she cannot remember when she went to the hospital and does not know which hospital it was. When this extraordinary child was being taken around the field of her exploit by Detective Robinson last night, with a view to getting her identified, a crowd of little children followed at her heels. The mite looked just as they did. One could have thought that Robinson was some good genius who had promised a free distribution of Fourth of July fireworks and that this particular little one was the keenest to get a share and so was trotting along by his side. Yet she had been caught a few moments before making her way along with the haul of a number of burglaries in her arms. And then she had shown a knowledge of human nature that is as surprising as her robberies. She was making no attempt whatever to conceal the stolen things. That she evidently knew, might attract attention. She just carried them openly in her arms, and she was helping mother shift home. None the less she had in her bundle two excellent ladies' Merry Widow hats, two children's hats, a quantity of beautiful child's clothing, some silk things, and a valuable presentation gold hunting-case watch, with gold chain and heavy crucifix on the train, disappearing in the darkness. For several weeks past a number of homes in and about Marcy avenue, Hewest street and Bedford avenue have been entered and robbed in daylight in an apparently bold manner. Not a clue could be found, and the police thought a clever gang was at work. House after house has been visited. Within the past week there have been no fewer than thirty complaints, all within a stone's throw in the district named. On Saturday, to give one day as an example, the case of Merry Widow hats, No. 300 Marcy avenue, was entered and robbed and the same happened next door at No. 302, the home of W. H. Shore. Just around the corner, No. 246 Hewest street, was visited and $200 worth of things were stolen from the apartments of Alexander E. Lane. At No. 298, lower down in the same street, Mrs. Hammond was robbed of $60, while Mrs. H. Hames, who lives on the corner of Hewest street and Bedford avenue, lost $70, and near by Mrs. Morgan, at No. 300 Lynch street, had about $10 worth of trinkets taken. Mrs. Shore caught the girl in her flat, but the child said she was looking for Mrs. Reilly and was very hungry. Mrs. Shore took pity on her and gave her some food. Mrs. Lane also caught her, but again the child got away in the same manner. As a matter of fact, she had come back into Mrs. Lane's room for a second haul. Her first was already waiting for her on the doory's doorstep. But these two captures in one day proved fatal to the continuance of her exploits. The neighbors began to recall that they had ritigously seen the slim, little black-haired girl, described by Mrs. Shore and Mrs. Lane, pushing a go-cart laden with things. A police officer also recalled that once he had stopped the little maid and she had told him that her doily was at the doory's doorstep. So hundreds were on the lookout yesterday for the child with the whip of black hair and with pale cheeks and innocent blue eyes, dressed in a neat white frock, and with white roses in her cream colored straw hat. Little Annie Reilly, however, went on with her visits in the same district. It remained for the sharp eyes of Mrs. Eva Dittmann, the proprietress of No. 246 Hewest street, to recognize her. About six o'clock last evening the child was trading by the door she had only just previously robbed, when Mrs. Dittmann rushed out and caught her by the arm, and got Miss Eva Goodman, the daughter of one of the tenants, to telephone for the police.

SWEDISH LABORER TO GET ESTATE OF $35,000

"And Just to Think" Says His Irish Wife, "We Can Have an Auto."

New York, July 4.—John Ahlstrom, a Swedish laborer of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., has received word to leave for Gulland, Sweden, where his father, who is failing in health, is anxious to deed him his property, worth $35,000. Twenty-two years ago Ahlstrom came to this country, and during this time has saved enough to buy his own home. He married an Irish girl and has two children. For the past year his father has been advertising for him in this country, and finally, through the Swedish consul, located him here. Mrs. Ahlstrom said she was Swedish to go, as she could not speak the Swedish language. "And to think," she said, "we can have an automobile now, and I'd just love to have one!"

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN READY TO FIGHT IN MEXICO

Patriots Who Deplore the Iron Hand of Diaz Invited to Help.

El Paso, July 4.—From Ricardo Flores Magon, the Mexican revolutionary leader now in jail at Los Angeles, a manifesto has reached the local Mexican sympathizers in which Magon declares there are 20,000 revolutionaries already in the field and 80,000 ready to rise at the word. These men, he declares, are hidden in villages and hamlets on the Mexican side of the border, even down as far as Matamoros de Coahuila and Torreon. The document orders all revolutionists to respect the rights, both personal and property, of Americans in Mexico, saying that the Americans will not be molested unless they take active part against the revolutionists. Bank robbery is pointed out as one of the best methods of securing money to carry on the fight, but the promise is made that all money will be paid back when the revolutionists conquer and peace is declared. Urgent appeals are made to "All patriots who deplore the iron hand of President Diaz to come forward and place themselves in readiness to take up arms against the tyrant, and their country from the depot who sits on the throne of Mexico, as Maximilian would have done." Magon, the writer, is serving time at Los Angeles for infringing on the neutrality laws of the United States. The revolutionists who attacked Palomas yesterday have moved south towards

After their dental work they carefully placed the teeth in their pockets and left him in the train, disappearing in the darkness.

UNCLE REMUS IS DEAD

Joel Chandler Harris a Southern Author of Note Passed Away Last Night.

Atlanta, Ga., July 3.—Joel Chandler Harris, familiarly known as "Uncle Remus" and an author of note, died at his home in a suburb of this city to-night. Mr. Harris, whose health had not been good for some time had only been confined to his bed for about ten days, suffering from cirrhosis of the liver. Complications set in and yesterday he grew rapidly worse and continued to sink until the end came, at eight o'clock to-night. Joel Chandler Harris was born in Eatonton, Ga., in 1848. It was while he was connected with the Atlanta Constitution that his tales "Stories by Uncle Remus" first attracted attention. In 1899 Mr. Harris retired from active journalism and until last year when he became editor and proprietor of "Uncle Remus" magazine, spent most of his time at his suburban home. He is survived by a widow, four sons and two daughters.

AMERICAN HISTORIAN FINDS RECORDS OF OLD SEA FIGHT

Participants Were the Yankee Privateer Sky Rocket and the Scotch Vessel Sharp--Fight Occurred in 1779 and Had Apparently Never Been Recorded in History.

New York, July 2.—Edward Stanton Mackay, author of the "History of the United States Navy and American Privateers," announced yesterday that he recently had discovered in the archives in Edinburgh, Scotland, the record of a naval action in which an American ship named Sky Rocket, and the Scotch vessel, Sharp, and occurred in 1779. Mr. Mackay's story of the action is as follows: A sea fight between an American and a Scotch armed vessel, which never before has been recorded in American annals, has just been brought to light by the discovery in the library archives of Edinburgh, Scotland, of a copy of a letter from the commander of the Scotch craft to his employers. The name of the Scotch boat was Sharp, Captain Archibald Bogg, owned by merchants in Glasgow, while the name of the Yankee craft was Sky Rocket, Captain Burke, a big mounting sixteen guns and twenty men on armament and complement that made the Sky Rocket more formidable than many of the regular American warships in those days. The Sharp, according to the letter of Captain Bogg, was armed with fourteen carriage guns, six of them 12-pounders, besides six carronades. The only note there is of the Sky Rocket in American records is the bare mention of her name in Edmonson's Statistical History of the U. S. Navy which was published in 1830. But the most important feature of the Scotchman's armament was that six of his carriage guns were carronades—a new weapon in those days and one that at first carried consternation to the enemy—was seen in a letter from Captain Bogg to his employers. The carronade was a gun of large bore, having a shorter range, but greater smashing power. It was claimed with truth, that the smashing force of a 12-pounder carronade at short range was equal to that of a 24-pounder. In fact the invention took its name from the town of Carron, France, was quite as much of an advance in ordnance in those days as is the rifle shot of today over the solid ball shot of forty years ago. In Captain Bogg's report of this action it had the first account of the effect of these "new" guns in actual battle. It appears that the Sharp was bound on

ORCHARD SAVES HIS NECK BUT LOSES HIS LIBERTY

Sentence of Death on Harry Orchard Commuted to Life Imprisonment.

Boise, Idaho, July 3.—Harry Orchard, self-confessed murderer of thirty persons, who during the famous Moyer-Haywood trials, calmly told in detail upon the witness stand the story of the killing of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, is not to be hanged for his crimes, today, as the law had decreed. The State Board of Pardons commuted the sentence of the many times murderer to imprisonment for life. When Orchard recited in cold-blooded fashion how he bombed and blew Steunenberg to pieces had been prepared and declared he had not the least hope that his own punishment would be mitigated. But there are few men in Idaho, or outside of it, who do not regard commutation of Orchard's sentence the direct reward for his so-called confession, which implicated Charles Moyer, William Haywood and George Pettibone, collectively the president, secretary and a member of the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard had said that no promises had been made him. He said he made his confession because he thought it best to free his mind and tell the truth. When the news of this commutation was brought to him, he showed no surprise. He might have been expecting it for all his manner showed.

Lincoln, Neb., July 3.—The stream of callers and of letters, all expressing the best wishes for the political future of William J. Bryan, was interrupted today when Herman Ridder, editor of the New York Staats Zeitung, called at Fairmount and asked Mr. Bryan to withdraw from the contest in favor of "some Democrat who could win."

Subsequently Mr. Arthur was released, and arriving at Greenock, reported that the weight of the sharp's metal together with the quickness of the firing, particularly of the carronades, threw the privateer's people into the utmost consternation and that they would have struck to the Sharp had she been able to come up with them.] day and break one of the small bones in his right arm. THE CANADA OF THE FUTURE IS GLOWINGLY PICTURED

La Presse, the Greatest of French Canadian Papers Grows Enthusiastic in its Celebration of the Dominion's Natal Day--An Article in National Tone.

Montreal, July 3.—The following article, speaking for French Canada, appeared in La Presse on Dominion Day, and the broad national tone was much admired. Canada, says La Presse is the one country in the world possessing two national holidays. The first, May 24, is our homage to British sovereignty, while the second, July 1, is the affirmation of our own autonomy. Properly speaking, July 1 is the one holiday for the whole country, and we have a thousand reasons for celebrating the birthday of our Canadian confederation. What would we be today, in fact, without this grouping of our forces? Could we have built an Intercolonial, or even the transcontinental railway? Without the Province of British Columbia the Northwest would have remained ignored quantities, and the maritime provinces inaccessible neighbors. In fact, at that period, our credit was so poor that even after confederation Great Britain had to guarantee the rental loan of $5,000,000 to begin building the I.C.R. Without the union of the provinces we would have never found the necessary funds, and as a matter of fact, we had to secure British endorsement to the extent of $31,000,000 during the first eleven years of our national regime. At that time, the new Dominion occupied the position of a good farmer, well installed upon his property but unable to secure any credit at the banks. The Canadian confederation, which was the unification of our prodigious domain from the Atlantic to the Pacific, opened up to us the markets of the world, and at the present time we can do business at our own counter. In a word, July 1 of the present year should be the most enthusiastic of all past celebrations, because an unexpected triumph has come to crown our national work. It is our supremacy in the traffic of the continent. The cry of alarm, which has been heard in the powerful metropolis of New York, has not failed to thrill the national heart of Canada. It is true, then, that Canada's dream for years past has been realized. The St. Lawrence has, in fact, been proclaimed by our rivals the key to the commerce of the continent. Wheat, it appears, can be landed in Montreal at 2 1/2¢ per bushel cheaper than at the port of New York. It is the vast railway and canal policy that has brought this about. Capital, encouraged by the sight of our vast inland ways by sea and by land, has not been afraid to place the largest steamers on our lakes, and today there is no less a sum than $100,000,000 invested in our inland navigation. This, therefore, is why we commend the traffic of lakes from Superior and Michigan to the Atlantic Ocean. What will, therefore, be our position when we will have completed the Georgian Bay canals? We are also promised a railway to Hudson Bay, and La Presse has already designated Fort Churchill as the New Bay canal. At that time, the new Georgian Bay Canal, Montreal will be the New York of the future, and with a port open ten months of the year on the coast of Labrador, our commercial situation will be quite as impressive in America as that of the British Isles in Europe. Let us, therefore, celebrate in a most worthy manner this confederation, without which Canada would be still two small provinces, out of which nothing great or noble could have possibly evolved.

CHAPTER XXXVII An Unexpected Friend.

Outside in the garden, under the cover of the darkness, Ravenspur and his companion waited anxiously for a sign from Walter. The minutes crept slowly on. Still there was nothing to break the tedium. A quarter of an hour passed, and at length Ravenspur began to feel decidedly anxious.

we must risk it a little longer. Any undue haste now would ruin our plans. So, against his convictions Ravenspur allowed the point to pass. A quarter of an hour had elapsed now, and there was no sign of Walter. Ravenspur was about to speak again when suddenly from the lane came something in the way of a diversion. A man's voice was raised in terror, a frightened scream for help rent the air. As the cry died away, a deep growl of the dog was heard, and out a moment's hesitation Ravenspur rushed away down the garden and in the direction of the lane.

I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time. It gave me pain in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

HOW SIR JOHN CARLING AIDED CONFEDERATION

Hitherto Unrecorded Story of How "John A." and Geo. Brown Were Brought Together.

(The London, Ont., Free Press.) Few people in Canada, and only a very small circle in London, are aware of the part played by Sir John Carling in bringing into effect the measure which saved the Canada to the British crown. This unassuming, quiet, old gentleman, who has served longer than any living Canadian in the councils of the nation, seldom speaks of the great part he has taken in the country's affairs, Sir John, as he is now, was trusted by his opponents as well as his friends, and it was to this fact more than anything else that the confederation is due.

Confederation had been urged by politicians for more than two decades, but the extreme bitterness of party feeling and the personal animosity existing between John A. Macdonald and George Brown were insurmountable barriers. If these two great men could be brought together—they had not spoken to each other for several years—confederation might be consummated. Those who knew the two leaders had little hope of renewing friendship between them. Brown hated Macdonald because of some personal traits of character, and Macdonald despised Brown because of the bitter personal attacks of The Globe. Few believed the gulf between them could be bridged. But it was bridged. John Carling was a personal friend of both these gentlemen, and it was through his offices that they were brought together and jointly guided the Canadian ship through one of the most perilous passages in its history. In 1864 political conditions were nearing a crisis in the two Canadas. "Whether are we drifting?" was the question asked on every hand, in the press, on the public platform and in private conversation. The parties in the house were so evenly divided that it was impossible for either party to carry on the responsibilities of government satisfactorily. The Macdonald-Tache government had first been defeated by a majority of two, and the ministers did not know what to do, for it seemed as if a regular deadlock had been reached. It was almost certain that if they resigned any government which took their place would be in the same hopeless condition. Finally they decided to ask Lord Monck, the Irish nobleman who was then governor-general, to dissolve parliament, in the faint hope that, though scarcely a year had passed since the last general election, one party might this time gain a majority strong enough to enable them to carry on the government. Before this resolve was laid before Lord Monck, a little event happened, a chance meeting on a railway train, that was big with import to the young and struggling colonies. Parliament was meeting at Quebec and Mr. John Carling represented this city therein. He was on his way to the ancient capital when Mr. George Brown came on board the same train at Toronto. They were glad to see each other, and though politically opposed discussed in a friendly way the troubled conditions through which the country was passing. They talked of the coming convention of the Provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island to discuss their confederation, and the benefits to be gained therefrom were being enumerated. As they talked it seemed as if all was brightness and prosperity ahead for the provinces down by the sea, but the exact opposite for the two Canadas. Maybe annexation to the United States was not far off for them. Suddenly Mr. Brown straightened himself in his seat, and with a voice choking with patriotic emotion he said—"Carling, if Mr. Macdonald will come out fairly and honestly for the confederation of all the British North American colonies he can save his country and make a great name for himself."

"How will that help matters if you and your party continue to oppose him?" asked the younger statesman. "I pledge you my word, if he does, I will help and support him by every means in my power," responded Mr. Brown. "May I tell Mr. Macdonald that you have just told me?" again asked Mr. Carling. "You may," was the answer. As soon as Mr. Carling reached Quebec he at once went to his chieftain and related the conversation. "John A." was profoundly moved at this overture from the man whom he considered his bitter personal enemy. He did not hesitate, however. His country was in too great straits for him to allow personal feelings to stand in the way. On Mr. Carling's advice he went to Mr. Brown, and the first practical step toward confederation was taken. Just how great an influence Mr. Carling's conversation with Mr. Brown at the chance meeting on a railway train had in bringing him to a decision will never be known, but certain it is that the Lib member for London the Liberal leader first expressed his desire to help his opponent. Brown and two of his supporters were invited to enter the government, and it was decided to send a delegation to the maritime convention at Charlottetown and

SAFETY AND PROFIT Are the elements necessary to make An Ideal Investment We can Show you where the Greatest Amount of Profit can be made in Perfect Safety. Asbestos Mining in the Province of Quebec where 95 per cent. of the world's supply is produced has proven to be one of the most profitable enterprises that is carried on today. The Dominion of Canada Blue Book issued on Asbestos, page 89, quotes the Bell Asbestos Co. as having earned 22 1/2 per cent. dividends on a share capital of $1,000,000, years ago, when the machinery used was not of the most up-to-date style, neither was the value of Asbestos what it is today—being worth as high as $400 to $600 per ton, for No. 1 quality. Other Companies operating in the same districts are making handsome profits. This is one of the first opportunities that the public have had of participating in this branch of industry, as heretofore the business has been carried on and controlled by close corporations whose stock cannot be purchased upon the open market. Our property consists of 250 acres of the highest grade Asbestos bearing land, situated in the heart of the Asbestos belt of Quebec. We propose to develop it and for that purpose are selling stock to secure funds for the erection of a modern, up-to-date plant. The Engineer's Report on this property is all that an investor could ask for. His examination of the ore shows 30 per cent. crude Asbestos found on the surface, while at a depth of 30 feet practically pure Asbestos was found, yielding 90 per cent. The cost of mining Asbestos ranges from $14.50 to $17.50 per ton, and our estimate of $80.00 clear profit on each ton of Asbestos produced is very conservatively compiled. Think what this means in Dividends for investors! When it is understood that our plant will produce over 25 tons of Asbestos per day or $2,000 clear profit. Do you know where you can make an investment equal to this? There is no "if" in this Asbestos proposition. We have the ore; capable management; a positive demand for all Asbestos that can be produced at high price; and all the other elements that make up a successful positive money making opportunity. HEMP IN TEXAS The valuable nature of the work now being carried on in Texas by the United States Agricultural Department is again shown by the discovery that the "abaco" or hemp plant can be successfully grown in the Southwest Gulf coast country. Experiments have been carried on the last year and the horticulturists are convinced that this valuable addition can be made to the list of Texas crops. It has long been the theory that the hemp plant would not grow successfully in any section of the world except the Philippine Islands. Efforts have been made to transplant it to Africa, India and South America, but with little success. Heretofore Manila has had a monopoly of the hemp trade and the finest ropes and cordage come from that city. The hemp plant is a variety of banana and has exactly the same appearance as the broad leafed plants found growing in many San Antonio yards. It was quite by accident that the discovery was made that the hemp plant could be successfully grown in Texas—San Antonio Express.

THE CHEESE MARKET (Montreal Star). The cheese market this week rules very firm. This is due to the high prices in the country, but the response from England at the higher level has not, so far, been encouraging. The opinion is prevalent among certain dealers that the top has been reached for some little time, and as the July make generally sells for less than the June cheese, it is not improbable that the prices will show a decline in the near future. The English make continues heavy, and sells at very reasonable prices compared with the Canadian articles with an increase in the milk supply. C. S. Harding came home yesterday after a fishing trip to P. E. Island. He says the weather was exceptionally hot there.

COPENHAGEN, THE BEAUTIFUL CAPITAL OF DENMARK BY DELIA AUSTRIAN. The Canal to Clean and Attractive. Though Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, is a very old city, it has been so completely remodelled in the last half century as to have become a beautiful and interesting capital. It was first called Hafslund, or Merchant Harbor, because traders and fishermen gathered there, attracted by the richerring fisheries of the sound. The town was first known in the eleventh century as a simple trading town. It was not until the reign of Christian the IV, that its establishment was begun. The most popular of Danish kings planned all the improvements carried on two centuries after his rule. He began the work by raising an embankment around the castle and strengthening the fortifications. It was nearly a century later when the new quarter was incorporated with the town. But this century marks an era of great civic improvement. The old ramparts were levelled and new fortifications erected. Many handsome boulevards have been laid out between the ramparts and the lakes, and the suburbs beyond the lakes have been given to the city. Copenhagen may be divided into the old city within the ramparts and the new city with handsome squares and broad boulevards. The streets in the old town were once narrow and winding, but they have been straightened and widened, while the narrow channel that divided the old town into two small parts has been spanned by several handsome bridges. Because of these improvements there is very little medieval look to the old part of the town. The newer part has many handsome buildings, such as the Royal Theatre, the Royal Polytechnic Institute and the Museum. A fitting introduction to this beautiful city is the king's new square, situated at the centre of the old town. This square is exceedingly large and irregular in shape. Thirteen streets go out from it like spokes in a wheel; the handsomest of these are Ostergade, Gøttersgade, Bregeløve and Holmen's Canal. In the middle of this large square is a handsome statue of Christian the V., done by a great Danish sculptor. On the east side running up from the harbor and of the streets on either side is Charlottenburg. This palace was once occupied by the queen dowager, Charlotte Amalie, but is now used for the spring exhibition. On the other side of the square is the Royal Theatre, an imposing building in the Renaissance style. The main entrance is surmounted by a colossal bronze group of Apollo and the Muses, and Pegasus at the spring of Castalia. In the vestibule are marble statues of Danish poets. The handsome foyer is adorned with a number of interesting marble busts of famous Danish dramatists, composers and actors, and a bas-relief of Ophelia, modelled and presented by Sarah Bernhardt to the opera house. The auditorium is large and spacious and is handsomely decorated, especially the ceiling, where are seen the nine muses. There is a drop scene representing winged genii drawing aside a curtain. On the other side of the square is a handsome palace, once occupied by a prince, but now used for a bank. Walking along Holmen's Canal, one passes another handsome building and in front is a great monument to the beloved naval hero, Niels Juel. It is made of old cannon. A splendid bridge spans the castle island with the main land and this offers a fine view of the harbor. It was here the large Christianborg Castle once stood; it was destroyed by a fire and is now a pile of ruins; all that remain are four bronze figures which once adorned the court. These figures represent strength, wisdom, justice and health. In 1902, the occasion being which once adorned the court, it was decided to rebuild the castle; it will probably be a building of great splendor. In no European city are old buildings making room so quickly for new ones. A masterpiece of modern architecture is the new Glyptoteek, the gift of Mr. Jacobson, a wealthy brewer and a great patron of art. Though the collection contained in this building was only started in 1887, it is one of the best north of the Alps. At present there are only three bronze figures, the Laocoon, Moses and a bronze statue of Dubois. The entrance hall is large and stately. It is supported by eight yellow fluted columns and 18 figures of Danish queens, instead of going on with their own scheme, promised to go to Quebec a few weeks later to discuss the confederation of all the provinces. When they came they were royally feted, the cities of Quebec and Ontario vying with each other to show them honor. London was among the number, and here the maritime delegates were entertained at a magnificent ball and a banquet. After this it was only a question of details suggest to them not only the union of the three provinces, but of the five. The result was that the delegates of the maritime provinces, instead of going on with their own scheme, promised to go to Quebec a few weeks later to discuss the confederation of all the provinces. When they came they were royally feted, the cities of Quebec and Ontario vying with each other to show them honor. PAROLE AND PROBATION

Mr. W. P. Archibald, Dominion parole officer, states that the parole system in connection with convicted criminals is working out very successfully in Canada. Of 1,042 men and women released on parole in the last nine years, only 33 had relapsed into a life of crime.

The Ontario government has decided to take the place of the present Central Prison, and to make it a reformatory pure and simple. This, I presume, will provide for the reception of inebriates as well as other first offenders.

The Times referred a few days ago to the efforts of German merchants and manufacturers to induce the government of that country to negotiate for better trade relations with Canada.

A Jopous optimist in Halifax wires this news to the Montreal Star: "Farmers are everywhere rejoicing in the promise of the largest harvest in years. The spring catch of cod, mackerel and herring has exceeded all expectations. The apple yield promises to be the largest in the decade."

Among the blessings for which St. John people should be grateful is the climate they enjoy. In New York, on Thursday, eight deaths caused by excessive heat were reported before noon. Such occurrences are practically unknown in St. John.

A correspondent of the Montreal Star discusses with some benefit to himself, no doubt, the subject of removal of snow from the streets. It must be cooling even to write about snow in Montreal at this season.

All honor to Mr. Henry Joseph, of Montreal, who has placed his grounds at the disposal of a charitable organization during the hot season, for the benefit of the poor.

NO GREAT DANGER

Small Harold was crying, and his aunt said: "Don't cry, Harold; it doesn't help matters." "What do you care," sobbed the little fellow, "so long as you get my heart beat?" (Chicago News). AN IMAGINARY ONE. "What sort of a telescope do you use for seeing things on Mars?" "The entire astronomer, habituated to scanning the heavens at imaginary space rates, stared his eyes out at the sight of the 'It has landed,' he replied, 'not to rely on my telescope. The effect of your early dampers the play of the imagination.' (Philadelphia Public Ledger).

A CONVENIENT SHEET

Ben had been going to school all of a month, but Ben had thought it high time to find out how things were running. So he asked one day, "And what is it you learn?" "Oh, a mouse," Teacher told us all about mousey. "Fine, sonny. Now, how do you spell mouse?" "A long moment's silence, and then the teacher blurted out: 'Father, I guess I was wrong. It was a mouse. It was a rat.' (Carpenter's Weekly).

AN UNFOLDING SIGN

A lady who was perfectly well, but fancied she suffered from fever, called on an old and experienced physician. He examined her and he listened patiently. At last he said: "I understand your case, madam. Sit perfectly still a few moments and I will look you over." She complied and he eyed her attentively, not needing a minute, reading at his watch once or twice in the meantime. "You are slightly in excess of weight," he said, "the slightest indication of fever." "Why, how do you know, doctor?" she asked in surprise. "You didn't feel my pulse." "Didn't need to," he answered. "I counted the vibrations of the optic teacher on your eye and he bowed her out—(Cott's Companion).

ROYAL CIGARS

King Edward, who is a connoisseur in tobacco, has just placed with a New York firm of tobacco brokers an order for 500 cigars which in point of price will be cigars which in excess of what His Majesty paid some two years ago, when his bill for 1,000 cigars was $750. For the 500 that are to be shipped from Havana in time to reach England at the beginning of the Easter holidays he will pay $400, but it is not likely that they will excel, even if they equal the quality, the famous 1,000 which took three months in the making. "There is no exaggeration as to the price of having served royalty and went to extraordinary expense. The cigars were eight inches in length, and at the thickest part, in the middle, one inch in diameter. They were made of the finest Vuelta Abajo tobacco. The way in which these royal cigars were manufactured is extremely interesting. Each leaf passed through the hands of two 'selectors,' and it required the examination of thousands of leaves to obtain those that were uniform in color and in size, and free from large veins." (Tit-Bits).

DEAN SWIFT'S OPPORTUNITY

It is related of the whimsical Dean Swift that on one occasion, when caught in a shower of rain, he took shelter under a tree, where he found a party of young people waiting for the storm to cease. One, a girl, was weeping, and the Dean learned that she was on her way to church to marry a young fellow who was with her. The party were walking, as was then the custom in country districts, but owing to the storm it seemed very much as if the ceremony would not take place that day.

"Never mind," said the Dean, "I'll marry you." He took up his prayer book and then performed the ceremony. At the finish he tore a leaf out of his pocket-book, and with a pencil scribbled and signed a certificate, which he handed to the bride. Besides the names and the date there was the following: "Under a tree, in stormy weather, I married this man and woman together; let none but Him who rules the thunder and the margin of this and woman's answer." (Reynolds's Newspaper).

THE GUINEA PIG PROVED IT

That dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, are caused by a germ or parasite is now recognized by dermatologists everywhere.

A notable demonstration was by Drs. Lazarus and Bishop who took dandruff scales from the head of a student who was losing his hair and having made a pomade of them with vaseline, rubbed the same upon a guinea-pig, and the pig became bald.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. Keep your scalp in a sanitary condition with Herpicide and extraordinary results will follow.

MANY DEATHS CAUSED BY A FIREWORKS EXPLOSION

Explosion Occurred in Crowded Cleveland Store—Seven People are Dead, Two Will Die and More Than Thirty are Injured.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 3.—Seven persons were killed, at least two others were fatally injured, fully thirty more were severely hurt, as the result of a fire in S. S. Kreege's five and ten cent store on Ontario street today.

The fire followed an explosion of fireworks on display in the store. The exact cause of the explosion has not been determined. A woman who was at the fire-works counter said the stock was ignited by sparks from a device which was being demonstrated to her by a clerk.

Immediately following the explosion an alarm of fire was sounded and a panic seized the hundreds of clerks and shoppers. A mad rush was made for the doors and windows. Many jumped from the second and third floors.

The store, which is located near the business corner in the downtown district, was well filled with shoppers, mostly women and children. Practically all of the clerks were young girls. Although the explosion of the fireworks caused destruction, the real panic did not occur until someone shouted "fire."

For an instant a hush came over the crowd. Then, crazed by the possibility of injury or death, all on the main floor rushed for the front and rear doors. The front door-way soon was jammed, the rear door was too small for all who sought safety there and the rear windows were closed with iron bars.

Several women, forced to the rear of the store by the approaching flames, finally sought safety under a counter, where their bodies were found two hours after the explosion. The five women had been suffocated. The sixth victim, the four-year-old son of Mrs. Parker, was knocked to the floor in the panic. There he lay unconscious and trampled upon, until suffocated by smoke.

While the panic upon the main floor was in progress, the flames from the fire-works counter rapidly advanced to other parts of the store. The smoke and flames were whirled up the stairways to the second and third floors. There another frenzied crowd of clerks and shoppers were endeavoring to find a means of escape by way of the stairs and were frustrated by the suffocating smoke. The elevator made several trips during the first few minutes of the fire and took many to the main floor.

Hundreds of persons were near or in front of the store at the time of the explosion. Terrified shoppers rushed out of the front door to the sidewalk. Women and children appeared in the upper windows shouting and pleading for help. Hysterical with fright, some hurled themselves to the sidewalk. In this manner many were severely injured. When one or two had thus faced death it stampeded the others upon the upper window ledges and they, too, followed.

VICTIM IN NEW DENMARK MURDER IS IDENTIFIED

He Was Michael Salvatore and His Assassin is Said to be Fernando Cerugine—Murderer Still Evades Arrest.

A Hartland special says that the Italian who was murdered on Thursday night at New Denmark (N.B.), where he was engaged in working on the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific, was Michael Salvatore and the man injured during the shooting is called Regandi. The murderer's name is said to be Fernando Cerugine.

Latest reports last night were that the latter had not been captured, though a posse of constables are scouring the country for him. There is some fear that the murderer is not yet obtainable and accounts from various sources differ.

The Telegraph's special from Hartland says: "A difficulty in locating the assassin is that all the fellow look alike. If it becomes necessary to use arms to effect his capture, the wrong man may be injured. There is some fear that the other Italians may aid the criminal, either in getting out of the country or in hiding."

On Monday last a party of four other Italians arrived from Plaster Rock, one of them supposed to be the woman's husband. They sought work at MacDonald's camp in the other Italians did not wait them so they left after staying all night at the camp to seek work with Messrs. Johnson, a few miles nearer this place.

As they were on the way to Johnson they met four of the Italians whom they left at MacDonald's camp, among whom was one calling himself Sullivan (the supposed cousin of the woman).

These Italians were all armed, three having a revolver and one a shot gun. After passing the others going to Johnson's they are said to have turned round and, without secretly speaking to them, deliberately fired at them, killing one instantly and injuring another.

Coroner Ryan is arranging to hold an inquest and officers are searching for the murderer.

THE SUSSEX SHAM FIGHT WAS DECLARED A DRAW

Sussex, N. B., July 3.—Drill at Camp Sussex practically closed at noon today when the sham battle ended in a draw.

The umpire following the movements of the troops were unable to meet during the afternoon owing to pressure of duties and, to the satisfaction of all, the affair was declared a drawn contest. The plan of battle followed was identical to that outlined in the Telegraph yesterday.

The town was calmed about 8:30 o'clock this morning by the sound of martial music and the streets were invaded by the defending or southern force. Col. Chipman was in command and with him was the 13th brigade of infantry under command of Major Perkins of the 6th, the 12th field battery, forty of the army medical corps, and Serjt. Major Atchison, and two squadrons of Hussars in command of Major Markham and Major Black.

At 9:20 o'clock this force left the station and were placed in positions of defense about the town. The artillery took up a position on a hill just back of the Knoll and was supported by a troop under Capt. Kirkpatrick. The main body of cavalry and C company of the 6th, advanced and, crossing the railway track, prepared to defend the armory.

In this body were two companies each of the 71st and the 67th. The northern force left camp at 7:45 o'clock and made a record march to Plummesop.

The four miles were covered inside of one hour and the army under Col. MacKenzie was ready to move at 9 o'clock. The 10th and 19th field batteries were placed on the hills, as told, and after the battle opened, rained shells on the camp.

While the northern force was advancing, the defending force was spread out under cover and companies A and B of the 67th took up a particularly good position on the ridge around the swamp to the west of the drill grounds. Companies A and B of the 71st and other corps were placed on the outskirts and formed the advance guard.

At 10:29 o'clock the first rifle shot was fired between skirmishing parties and ten minutes later the big guns of the 12th spoke from the Knoll. The answering shots came from the artillery of the enemy and the engagement became general. The skirmishing parties sent out by the defending force for a distance of a mile or more were withdrawn and massed along the railroad track to repel the attack.

The umpires were kept busy in keeping account of the wounded and prisoners and early in the action Col. Ogilvie had counted ten per cent. of the troops in

THESE YOUNG MEN FOR SPECIAL WORK

Leave in the Steerage on a Tour Through Bohemia, Poland, Hungary and Other Countries.

New York, July 2.—A unique experiment begins by a party of college men who sail to-day in the steerage of the Rotterdam, Holland-America Line. It is a group of young men representing the Young Men's Christian Association, who are going to Europe for a year of study and training in the emigration countries of the Continent, in preparation for their work as leaders among the foreigners in this country.

These are the young men who will be under the direction of Dr. Edward A. Steiner, of Iowa College, on a bicycle and foot tour of Bohemia, Poland, Hungary, Southern Russia, Servia and Italy. Dr. Steiner sailed with his family June 3, going in advance of the party to make preparations for the tour. It was announced in the press erroneously at that time that the young men accompanied him. The members of the expedition are E. E. Bohner, former traveling secretary for the State Y. M. C. A. of Pennsylvania; V. C. Harris, Jr., a graduate of the Association Institute and Training School at Chicago; B. L. Dawson and C. D. Blachly, graduates of the Oberlin College, and J. H. Dague, Jr., '06 graduate of W. and J. College and recently at Crozer Theological Seminary. They have been selected as men of liberal education, executive leadership and linguistic aptitude.

E. E. Bohner, the state secretary of Pennsylvania, who accompanied the party to the vessel, made the following statement concerning the advance leave arrangements: "This is not in any sense a junket for these men, who are seriously turning

Undigested Food

When any portion of food remains in the stomach and refuses to digest, it causes the torments of indigestion. This undigested food rapidly ferments, irritating the sensitive coating of the stomach, while other parts of the body, particularly the head, suffer in consequence.

So long as this undigested food remains in the stomach, the discomfort continues. A few doses of stop all fermentation, sweeten the contents of the stomach and give natural assistance that relieves the stomach of its burden. The use of Beecham's Pills gradually strengthens the stomach nerves and soon restores them to a normal, healthy condition. Beecham's Pills positively cure all stomach troubles, while their beneficial effects on the liver and kidneys greatly improve the general health.

KILLS HERSELF BY THINKING OF DEATH. Jamestown, N. Y., July 4.—Coroner Illston has been notified of the death of Mrs. Leroy Noble in her home, twelve miles east of Jamestown. Mrs. Noble was thirty-four years old. She died Sunday night after for months predicting she would die on June 28.

She was in perfect health Sunday evening when her husband went to visit a neighbor. Several hours later he returned and found her lying in her bed as if asleep. She was dead, and not a sign of violence or suicide was to be found. Then he remembered her repeated injunction: "I'll die June 28th."

Coroner Illston does not believe the woman's own mental force could have resulted in her death. He suspects suicide. Her husband and friends will not believe she ended her life. The coroner designated two surgeons to perform an autopsy.

THE HEROES OF THE LIGHT

BY THOMAS WILSON

The Warkwago The Keeper is Seated on the Steps that Lead to the Lantern Room

Let the lower lights be burning. Send a gleam across the wave; Some poor, fainting, struggling seaman You may rescue, you may save.

If there is one class of men and women to whom the old family hymn appeals to as a creed it is to the keepers of the thousands of lighthouses along the shores and streams of this country, who, as they nightly light their lamps, send across the water a gleam that is a guiding beacon to the mariner, navigating the Great Lakes or travelling the tortuous channels of an inland stream.

The army of lighthouse keepers numbers thousands, and, like the soldier, they are taught no matter what may occur they must not neglect their duty. One of the most rigid rules of the service is that the keeper must stand by the light as long as the building stands, and even then it is the duty of the keeper to make every effort to save the property of the government regardless of personal loss or not only property, but their lives as well if need be.

With this idea so firmly instilled in the minds of the keepers, it follows that the letter and spirit of the order has been faithfully carried out and the records of the Lighthouse Board show that there have been a number of those plain, every-day men and women who have sacrificed their lives in the service. When the first lighthouse on Minots Ledge, off Boston Harbor, went down beneath the furious battering of the waves the two keepers sent down with it. A few years ago when the Chesapeake Bay was a mass of ice, giant flows swept down upon Sharpe and lighthouses, just off the Choptank, overturned the structure and carried lamps must be burning at all hazards. At no time and under no circumstances must the lighthouse be left unoccupied for one knows when something will occur. Several years ago the President was making a trip on a lighthouse tender and the vessel anchored close to a lighthouse. The keeper and his assistant, wishing to see the nation's chief magistrate, went over to the tender. While they were gone a can of oil in some unaccountable way, exploded and the interior of the lighthouse was burned. Both men lost their positions for "neglect of duty in leaving the light."

Typical Off Shore Light

Dining Room, Kitchen, and Parity in One

The monotony of an existence on an offshore light during the stormy season cannot be described. Every now and then a keeper goes insane by reason of the strain, and yet the government does everything possible for the comfort of the men. The tender makes a visit every now and then and brings quantities of literature, such as newspapers and magazines, while there is a fine traveling library. This library, a stout box, containing perhaps 40 volumes on various subjects, is left at a lighthouse for three months, and then a new one is sent. The men are encouraged to read and study, and there are some who have put their idle moments to good account in this respect.

ST. JOHN HEALTHY PLACE TO LIVE IN

Reports From Board of Health Show a Very Light Death Rate.

St. John is apparently a very healthy place to live in just now. During the month of June there were only 28 deaths in the city, and Secretary T. M. Burns says this is the smallest number that he can recall to mind in any month during the seventeen years he has been in office. The average death rate per month is about 70, and since January, up to June the smallest number was 72, so that the past month is just half.

FIGHTING IN PARAGUAY.

Buenos Ayres, July 3.—The latest advice received from private sources at Formosa, in the north-east part of Argentina, say there has been sanguinary fighting in the streets of Assunon, the capital of Paraguay, where a revolution is said to have broken out recently and that hundreds of persons have been killed or wounded. THE SUN IS WRONG

Statement in This Morning's Sun as to Three Rivers Fire Loss Said to be Incorrect

The Sun this morning in an article dealing with the losses sustained by fire companies in the recent fire at Three Rivers, P. Q., does an injustice to the Ontario Insurance Company when in the heading over the article it says this company's loss was $83,000. In the body of the article the loss is estimated at $33,000, but according to William Thomson & Co. this statement also is far from the truth. The Ontario Insurance Company loses $10,000 in the Three Rivers fire $18,200 of policies in their own company and $800 in business taken over from the Ottawa Insurance Company. The Ontario Company did not purchase the Ottawa Insurance Co., as stated by the Sun, but about a year ago took over the business then on the Ottawa Company's books. In this business the company sustains the loss of $800 but the losses of the policies have run out since the purchase.
