Advises Workmen to Unite Toward This End—He Predicts Ultimate Success of Unionism in Britain—Canadians are Well Off

Kier Hardie, M. P., the noted British labor leader, arrived in this city this morning on the Calvin Austin from Boston and left on the Atlantic express for Springfield.

KIER HARDIE, M. P.

Leaving Springfield he will proceed to Halifax where he will attend the sessions of the Dominion Labor Congress which opens on Sept. 21.

Mr. Hardie is accompanied by his wife and daughter, and said to the Star that the main purpose of this trip is to give them a holiday, and that other interests are only incidental.

Mr. Hardie is ex-chairman of the Independent Labor Party in England, "Labor Leader." He started life as a miner and worked at that trade until his twenty-fourth year. In appearance he is rather picturesque. He is a man somewhat past middle age, and his hair is well tinged with gray.

His features are pretty well concealed by a bushy growth of whiskers, but his eyes, which are bright and keen, give some indications of the spirit which has made him a leader of the British laboring men and a member of the British Parliament.

Mr. Hardie still retains a very plain style of clothing and wore today a rough looking coat and a vest of homespun. His rousers showed marks of wear and repairing, and his hat had seen considerable service. In manner he is quiet, ostentatious, and somewhat reserved.

Speaking to the Star of his visit to Canada he said that on this trip he had already visited Quebec, Montreal, Hamilton and Toronto and has met many of the labor leaders. He considers that the working men of Canada are better off than their confreres in Great Britain as regards living conditions. In the old country the cost of living is rapidly advancing and the wage scale is not, thus making conditions there harder for the wage earners.

Speaking of political conditions in Great Britain, Mr. Hardie said that there was no doubt but that the Liberal Government would be again returned at the next election. The workmen are now receiving more attention from both parties than ever before but said Mr. Hardie, "no thanks to them." He explained that this was due to the success of the Labor party which now can demand what it wants from either party.

The political movement of the workmen had already met with great success and he looks for even more rapid advancement in the future. Laboring men are going into politics in all parts of the country with the endeavor to elect their own representatives. Their object is to seek legislation for the improvement of the condition of the working classes.

An old millionaire refused point blank to lend $10 to a boomer friend. "Well, I did not expect that of you," said the would-be borrower, rising and preparing to leave indignantly. "I will never forgive you for this refusal." "Of course you won't, my dear fellow," replied the old scoundrel with the utmost calmness. "But if I'd lent you the $10 you wouldn't have paid me, and we should have quarrelled about that, so it's as well to get the row over at once. Good morning."

SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

By FORREBET ORISSBY.

(Continued). "Yes, it is at home." "Get it when you go to dinner and meet me here at eight this evening. This will give me time to clear the decks and do a little studying on this case. We have only three and a half days in which to do our work—not a long time, for, as you say, we must not fail."

When Edens returned to the lawyer's office there was an eagerness in the way in which the lawyer reached out for the letter which seemed to contain all proportion to its possibility of value in the crisis which he was approaching. "Could it be that this young prosecutor, after all, a mere dreamer who had risen to sudden reputation by luck and accident, but who was laying out their true proportions, attaching importance to trifles and insignificance to things wholly insignificant in proportion to the spark of hope that had begun to burn within him?"

Standing in front of the grate his shaggy eyebrows across the room for he had not turned on the incandescent bulbs—Dole read the letter by the flickering of the open fire. "Vile!" he exclaimed as his eye followed the lines. When he had reached the bottom and not prove it in the least. However, it strengthens that feeling into a conviction. I can hardly tell you why, but the very thing, the turn of a single phrase leads me to believe that the man who wrote this stuff is a lawyer."

Again the lawyer dropped into silence his eyes gazing fixedly at a steel engraving by Chief Justice Marshall, which showed only of this and that of the room. Edens was impatient to hear the lawyer tell what course was to be followed, upon what line of action he had the hope of liberation from the clutches of a secret terror was to be had. Twice he followed, upon what line of action he had the hope of liberation from the clutches of a secret terror was to be had. Twice he followed, upon what line of action he had the hope of liberation from the clutches of a secret terror was to be had.

Then, when he seemed most abstracted, the lawyer asked: "Do you realize what it means if I can establish the fact my assumption that this lawyer—a disgrace to the profession—did write that letter?" "I do!" almost impatiently interrupted the lawyer, as if he had been hit on the head. "It means that we will then have him in a tighter grip than he has you. But the first thing is to get to the bottom of this theory and see what we can find. If there is any way in which you can assist me I will call on you, but I shall make an experiment on my own account first. Does he employ a stenographer or operate a machine of his own?"

"I think not," answered Dole, "the results of the day's work will be placed before him that evening—before we can do the work in hand I must explain to you my purpose in having a sample of work taken from each machine in the Ashworth Building and the theory on which I believe to have been written which a man who officiates in that building—and the probability—since he has no machine of his own—has written it personally on the machine of a friend or acquaintance in that building. To establish that supposition is of importance to a case in which I am employed and in which I am greatly interested."

"Now, gentlemen," said Dole, "as the results of the day's work will be placed before him that evening—before we can do the work in hand I must explain to you my purpose in having a sample of work taken from each machine in the Ashworth Building and the theory on which I believe to have been written which a man who officiates in that building—and the probability—since he has no machine of his own—has written it personally on the machine of a friend or acquaintance in that building. chine I would have been sure to have noticed it, for his office has no ante-room, no recesses or closets—just a desk, three or four chairs and a few shelves of law books."

"Then he must go outside for what little business he requires—probably to some public stenographic office in the building?" "No," answered the lawyer, "but I believe the idea is a good one. 'Cheer up, friend! I think we can find a way out. At any rate, we'll try it.'"

"It is a part of your business to take contracts to charge typewriting machines in repair—charging so much a month?" "No," answered the exchange manager, "but I believe the idea is a good one. 'Cheer up, friend! I think we can find a way out. At any rate, we'll try it.'"

"Of course it is," replied the lawyer, "You can make them a price which looks very low. If you get a good word of business you can afford to make a really low price. At any rate, the American business-man likes to do business on a flat contract and cover a certain line of service for a stated period so that he may dim the details of the matter from his mind once for all. That's our way of handling things. You'll find the public will fall in line with the plan."

"But, of course, I have a personal reason for coming to you with this suggestion. I want a sample of the work of every machine in the Ashworth building. Your solicitors will have the best possible excuse for procuring these samples without arousing any suspicion. All the expense which will be incurred by you may add a good round profit. Will you undertake the work and see that it is done intelligently?"

"The manager assented and arranged to bring the results of the work to the lawyer's office at 8:30 that evening and to bring with him his two most expert operators."

"Now, gentlemen," said Dole, "as the results of the day's work will be placed before him that evening—before we can do the work in hand I must explain to you my purpose in having a sample of work taken from each machine in the Ashworth Building and the theory on which I believe to have been written which a man who officiates in that building—and the probability—since he has no machine of his own—has written it personally on the machine of a friend or acquaintance in that building. Big Battleship and the Laurentic Both Mystery Ships.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Certain details regarding the construction and armament of the St. Vincent, launched last week, are being carefully kept secret by the British Government, and in some respects also the Laurentic is a mystery ship. The latter is the first passenger vessel of such dimensions. She is 4,000 tons and fitted with a combination of reciprocating engines with low pressure and with turbines. The builders and owners both refuse to give any indication as to the speed expected from the combination, and it is generally supposed that if the conclusion proves satisfactory the novelty will be followed in providing with similar engines the two vessels, which the White Star is about to build for the New York service. The St. Vincent marks a distinct advance even upon the Dreadnought. She is of 1,350 tons greater displacement than the latter and of much greater horse power; but her constructor, Sir Philip Watts, is already looking far ahead for further developments. The St. Vincent, in his opinion, no more represents finally in naval construction than does the epoch-making Dreadnought. The recent experiments with suction gas engines on

HARRY K. THAW GETS FEWER LIBERTIES IN HIS LATEST JAIL

Jailer Refuses to Permit Him to Pose for Photograph and Looks Him in Narrow Cell—Evlyn's Favorite Portrait Seized for Doubt.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Harry Thaw was locked in a cell of the White Plains Jail yesterday after another jaunt and an unceremonious reception which seemed to surprise the star prisoner.

Thaw arrived at Tarrytown at 1.30 p. m. and by trolley at the jail in White Plains an hour later.

Thaw was placed temporarily in an extra large cell, 8 x 12, on the top tier in the eastern end of the hospital section of the jail.

Thaw's upper lip puckered when he saw that he had to be locked up in a cell, but he made no complaint.

Thaw's arrival at White Plains, although heralded, didn't attract a crowd.

When asked how he was feeling he said, "Dully. I hope that this is the last jail I will have to go into and that I will soon get my freedom."

He will remain in the jail until Supreme Court Justice Mills, who will hear arguments on Monday on the jury trial motion, passes upon his sanity.

A portrait of Evelyn Thaw, painted in Paris by Harrington Mann, was seized yesterday on a judgment for $33 obtained against Mrs. Thaw by Miss Elise L. Hartwig, a milliner, of No. 9 West Twenty-ninth street.

The judgment was obtained on a bill for $38, upon which Mrs. Thaw had made payments reducing the sum to $3.

THE MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

What with the exhibition, the political campaign and other attractive and exciting affairs going on at the present time, the Laymen's Missionary movement will scarcely receive from the people of St. John that attention which its importance deserves.

And yet the meetings so far held have been well attended, and certainly there is no lack of interest on the part of those thoroughly understanding the aims and objects of the movement and the manner in which it is to be conducted.

They are giving their knowledge to all who care to listen. Briefly, it is the hope of those promoting the movement to bring about such a change in the churches of the continent that the men will have fewer to do with as much as the women.

If this goal can be attained the extension of missionary work will be of the greatest importance. The ideal is the evangelization of the world in a generation.

Heretofore mission evangelism has been left generally to the ladies, the clergy and the janitors. Collections have been made from time to time, but the number of male members of churches who take an active interest in Home or Foreign Missions has been but a small proportion of the total attendance.

That all should be interested in this branch of the work is admitted, even by those who themselves have never paid a cent towards any of the funds.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement proposes to bring all those into closer touch, to make them realize the magnitude of the undertaking to appreciate what a small individual effort is required in order that valuable and far-reaching results may be achieved, and to lift from the shoulders of the ladies a portion of that burden which they are now bearing.

This movement has spread rapidly in different countries. It is the outcome of a student gathering, and it promises to develop into the greatest missionary campaign the world has ever known.

CHOLERA IN RUSSIA.

An official bulletin published in St. Petersburg yesterday showed that at that time there had been two hundred and forty-nine cases of cholera reported to the authorities and seventy deaths.

It is only about ten days since the disease was first discovered and it appears to have become epidemic with alarming rapidity.

THE SAME THING.

MARIE CORELLI MAKES VIVID DENUNCIATION OF DRINK SLAVES

In her new novel Miss Corelli carries on the definite lesson which was conveyed in "Wormwood" and in "Boy." The purpose of "Holy Orders" becomes a vital part of a great artistic creation; but the author's object will have been served if every reader into whose hands her book may fall will have the courage to face the drink evil in all its hideous nakedness, make war on its ravages, and pray with her that "the wicked financial profit derived by the brew out of the many may be checked and finally come to naught, so that the British people released at last from the dominating sway of the liquor traffic, may rise to the best of everything in them."

The scene of the story is laid in the dreary little village of Shadbrook, in the Cotswolds. The vicar of the parish of Shadbrook, an eminently religious type of minister, is convinced that his purpose in life is to grapple on his spiritual sword and buckle, and go forth to battle with the sin and demerit caused by the Demon of Drink, which is eating like cancer into the life and soul of his parishioners. Richard Everton was neither wise nor clever. Had not his own Dresden china doll of a wife, the religious "It's dreadful to be clever, Dick! You don't know how dreadful it is! Nobody likes you!" If Richard had been blessed by his wife's wisdom, he would have wasted his youth and energy in an unsuccessful effort to convert the Shadbrook drunkards. In his own nature he was trained in dealing with sin from the hypothetical standpoint—not with what he knew sin to be, but with what he had read that it was.

A VIGIL AND ITS SEQUEL

To Jacoby Miller, the village beauty, and a girl of obscure parentage, the vicar deputed the task of preventing the village drunkard, Dan Kieran, who in a fit of drunken fury has nearly killed his wife, from obtaining liquor. Jacoby, lovely and coquettish, and herself the victim of the drink habit, performs her task with calamitous results. She stays up with Kieran, whose drunk-tuddled brain and animal nature are fired by her beauty, through the night, while in the adjoining chamber lies the half-murdered wife, all bleeding and bruised by the blows her husband has inflicted on her.

The result of Jacoby's "vigil" may be conceived. In attempting to win an evil, the unfortunate vicar has unwittingly helped in the accomplishment of another, and a sixth scandal is provided for the village gossip. When the matter comes to the knowledge of Jennie Kieran, the poor wife, the blow is too severe for her, and she dies, while Jacoby Miller runs away from Shadbrook with a travelling agent. Her child is subsequently born in Paris.

Miss Corelli furnishes a striking scene between the Rev. Richard Everton and Dan Kieran, upon the latter discovering that Jacoby has gone. This troubles him more than the loss of his wife. He blames the vicar and Mrs. Everton, and vows vengeance on the latter, whom he holds responsible for the separation. His vengeance is more terrible than even he contemplated. One afternoon, in a drunken fit, he takes a gun and goes out to shoot rabbits. He sees Asa, the vicar's doll wife, gathering flowers— "With a smothered exclamation he stopped short, and pushed his hat up from his brows, showing a soiled, red, bloated face. "By G—!" he muttered thickly. "It's that damned parson's wife!" He laughed stupidly—staring fixedly at the little white figure below him. Just then a small sweet voice floated up to his ears, singing. With a mocking movement of his head Dan kept time to the floating echo of the tune. . . . "You lost me Jacoby, you little devil!" he said in a hoarse

A BOY POLICE FORCE.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, has discovered a new and simple way of dealing with unruly and mischievous boys without the services of a modern juvenile court. One of the most novel law-and-order forces in the country has recently been tried out in this Iowa city. The institution is known locally as the "Kid police force," and so popular has the movement become that practically every boy in town has put in his application for membership. Juvenile crime has almost entirely disappeared, and the "young man" criminal class of the city police force has been reduced to a movement. Four years ago Chief Richmond was arranging a schedule of his men for the Fourth of July. Al- though the boys were beginning to get off their cracker. The chief had ordered that any boy caught setting off fireworks should be taken to the station and put in the Fourth should be arrested. "A policeman entered, half dragging, half leading a dirty-faced little fellow who was wiping his eyes on his sleeve. "Caught the kid shooting a giant cracker. Here's the cracker itself as evidence," said the policeman. "All right. Put the kid over in that chair," said the chief. "Chief Richmond is a friend of boys, and understands them. "Jimmie" he said, "what do you say to helping me make the 'rag' behave themselves tomorrow? I need a good boy, and I believe you are the very one I want."

TORONTO DOCTOR WAS BITTEN BY MAD DOG

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Dr. Bruce L. Riordan, of Simcoe street, official surgeon of the G. R. of this district, left last night for New York. He will be treated at the Pasteur Institute here for bites from a mad dog, a pet of the family, which died last night. Analysis of the body of the dog revealed the fact that it was suffering from rabies in an advanced form. Dr. Riordan was accompanied by Dr. J. M. Cotton of this city and Mrs. Riordan.

A GREAT BIG SHOW AT HAPPY HALF HOUR.

The biggest show ever given in America at the price is promised patrons of the Happy Half Hour today. Holmes and Buchanan will sing "Experience," a comedy conversational duet from the musical comedy The Little Chubb, in character costume. This selection is promised to be the best yet and is one long loud laugh. Don't miss it. Prof. Wood will present a new line of different feats in magic, of course retaining the catching of real live gold fish with rod and line out of the air. He will also present the famous aerial illusion act, in which Miss Wood is hypnotized and floated in air. It's the separation of the city. The new pictures are: Richman Military Academy, Boys' Fancy Drill. The wonderful drill of the boys is something really worth seeing. Metamorphosis is a trick comedy picture, showing the effect a merry widow had on a man who tried to see a picture show before he was married. Old England, also some beautiful scenes. The Old Compo is a pathetic dramatic picture. By request, Bailed, at the Altar will be repeated. This picture is 1,000 feet of laughs and patrons have declared it to be the funniest picture ever seen here. Prof. Titus has the best song he has yet sung, in the Garden of Dreams. This will make the best singing act ever heard here, the best magnetic ever seen here, 3,000 feet of pictures, making the biggest and best show ever given in America at the price.

TREMENDOUS CROWDS AT THE NICKEL.

The tremendous volume of business the Nickel is doing this week is proof beyond dispute that its fame is at least maritime provincial, that every man, woman and child who has come to the great exhibition has figured on taking in this big show. Yesterday the crowd of people lasted all day and eight out of every ten faces were new—strangers within our gates. And they were all delighted. Today the bill changes again; here's the list: "Bobby White in Wonderland," a weird fantasy of a lad who was carried away to strange places by a bunch of toy balloons, making a particularly pleasing picture for the children. "Weary Wagoner Busy Day" will be a scream of laughter from start to finish, and "The Fate of a Gambler," a strongly dramatic, with such a novel feature as divers searching on the bottom of the sea. The talking picture will be the course of events in the third act in the prison with Manrico have never been surpassed even by Verdi himself. Certainly no other grand opera is so replete with haunting melodies.

CARIBOU HUNTING IN NEWFOUNDLAND AT THE BIJOU TODAY.

Another good bill at the Bijou today, pictures very interesting, instructive and some brim full of fun are the kind offered. You couldn't do better than drop into the Bijou and see the "Caribou Hunt in Newfoundland," which is intensely interesting and highly instructive. First you see the start of the hunting party from Portland, Me., then their arrival by Newfoundland Railway, loading of baggage on boats and canoes, crossing the lake, arrival at camp, first meal, roundup of big game, first one shot, back to camp, congratulations, etc. etc. A picture sure to please old and young. "Intentionally an Aeronaut" pictures a man who takes a trip in an unheated flying machine to environment. The pretty daughter of a wealthy Colorado ranch man is in love with a dauntless cow boy, Frank Carson. He has a rival, however, in the person of a Mexican half-breed named Fairbanks, who has cast longing eyes on poor Bessie. The young woman is very much interested in a poor Indian, whom she is trying to convert to the Christian religion. The half-breed attempts to shoot Bessie, but her life is saved by the Indian grappling with him. The half-breed turns the situation to advantage by accusing the Indian of the crime. He then attempts to take the life of her lover, but is prevented. He attempts to accuse the Indian of this crime, but the cowboy recovers long enough to tell the true version of the story. They set out to capture the half-breed, but were forced after a time

PHONE MANAGERS HERE IN A BODY

Among the visitors to the city yesterday were the local managers of the various exchanges of the New Brunswick Telephone Company throughout the province. On the invitation of the head office about twenty of the branch managers came to the city in the morning. The chief object of the gathering was to have a good time and enable the various managers to get better acquainted with each other. They were entertained during the day at the Par. Hotel by the company. During the morning the visitors were taken through the construction and repair department and were shown the full operations of a big exchange. In the afternoon the party embarked on buxcocks for a trip around the city to the various points of interest. In the evening the party again assembled and went in a body to the exhibition and took in all the departments of the big show.

AN INDIAN GRATITUDE AT THE UNIQUE TODAY.

This is a bit of western realism that for scenic grandeur and vivid truthfulness has never been excelled. The story appeals to all through its absolute fidelity to environment. The pretty daughter of a wealthy Colorado ranch man is in love with a dauntless cow boy, Frank Carson. He has a rival, however, in the person of a Mexican half-breed named Fairbanks, who has cast longing eyes on poor Bessie. The young woman is very much interested in a poor Indian, whom she is trying to convert to the Christian religion. The half-breed attempts to shoot Bessie, but her life is saved by the Indian grappling with him. The half-breed turns the situation to advantage by accusing the Indian of the crime. He then attempts to take the life of her lover, but is prevented. He attempts to accuse the Indian of this crime, but the cowboy recovers long enough to tell the true version of the story. They set out to capture the half-breed, but were forced after a time

JUDGE COMMITS COLONEL LESLIE

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—After deliberating judgment in which he followed each development of the case, Magistrate Denison in the police court this morning committed Colonel J. Knox Leslie for trial on a charge of stealing over $15,000 from the funds of the Canadian National Exhibition Association, of which the colonel was treasurer. The magistrate criticised severely what he termed "an improper, illegal and discreditable use of police force to squeeze" $25,000 out of the wife of a man who had been declared bankrupt. Nothing, he declared, could be more dangerous than for the idea to get abroad among city officials that the funds of the city may be appropriated and stolen, and that if theft is discovered it can be changed from a criminal offense into a civil liability by relatives coming forward and making restitution.

BUSINESS HOUSES ARE CONSERVATIVE

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 17.—Trade returns for the Dominion for August again reflect the conservative policy of business houses this year in considerably restricting imports for the full month. The total imports for the month amounted to $23,656,137, as compared with $23,919,820 for August of last year, a decrease of $263,683, or about thirty per cent. The exports of domestic products for the month totalled $22,910,311, a decrease of $3,269,087, compared with the same month last year. For the first five months of the present fiscal year the total trade of the Dominion was $211,665,093, a decrease of $64,225,548 as compared with the corresponding period of 1907. Imports decreased by $50,179,292; exports of domestic products decreased by $9,654,433, and exports of coin and bullion decreased by $3,790,294. For the five month period imports totalled $115,844,348, and domestic exports totalled $99,115,621.

ROCHE AND CARNEY AGAIN IN HALIFAX

HALIFAX, Sept. 17.—At a big convention of Liberals of Halifax county, held here tonight, William Roche and Michael Carney were again unanimously nominated for the commons. The Liberals are in fine fettle and every district in the county sent delegates to the convention. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, will again be a candidate in Kings county. At an enthusiastic Liberal convention held in Kentville today, he was again nominated. Addresses were delivered by Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Macell, and Mr. McLean. Sir Frederick delivered a stirring address, in which he vigorously assailed his critics and defended his policy and that of the government.

QUINBY NOMINATED

CONCORD, Sept. 17.—The political strife which for many months has split the Republican party in New Hampshire into three factions, came to an end late today, when Henry B. Quinby of Laconia, was nominated by the Republican state convention. Two ballots were necessary, and on the second and decisive ballot Quinby had the margin of only six votes. On the first ballot Quinby polled 372 votes, with 385 necessary.

FARMERS FIGHT FOR LIVES AGAINST FOREST FIRES

PARRY SOUND, Sept. 17.—There is no sign of rain in this neighborhood as yet, and forest fires are still raging. The pall of smoke is so dense as to almost tie up navigation on Georgian Bay and to render life unpleasant owing to smothering fumes resulting from it. Settlers are fighting for their lives in many localities and to save their homes and crops. Powass and South River have been threatened, but have managed to beat back the line of fire. A rumor that Bying Inlet and its big mill were destroyed reached here yesterday, but was fortunately found to be untrue. The town fire brigade has been called upon to fight fires in the commons in the vicinity of the town, but so far the bush fires are some distance from the town. It is said that on the line of the C. P. R. the engineer of a train had his hair and eyebrows singed.

JAMES W. WALLACE EXPIRES SUDDENLY

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 17.—Death came suddenly about two o'clock yesterday afternoon to James W. Wallace, I. C. R. travelling auditor, at his home at the corner of Highfield and Fleet streets. Deceased, who has been taking the place of Mr. Whelpley, I. C. R. cashier, now on his holidays, was at work in the morning as usual, and was apparently in good health. At dinner time he was engaged in good spirits, and it was while engaged around the house that he suddenly fell. When Dr. Burgess, who was summoned quickly, arrived, Mr. Wallace was dead. Death resulted from heart failure. Deceased was the son of the late John Wallace, M. P. of Hillsboro, and is survived by his wife and three children. The daughter is Mrs. M. R. Lawrence of St. George, Charlotte County, N. B. Mr. Wallace was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Underhill of St. John. His second wife was Miss Gendart of Hillsboro. He is also survived by five sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Miss Josie Wallace of St. George, Mrs. Jordan Stevens and Mrs. Geo. F. Westwood of Pictou, and John Wallace of Hillsboro. The deceased Mr. Wallace was born at Hillsboro in December, 1837, and entered the I. C. R. service in 1869. He was first agent at Penobscot and then at Salisbury. After wards he became assistant auditor or at Moncton in 1874. When a section of the C. P. R. was owned by the Dominion government in 1879 he was with the Charbonneau, Newell and Co. in the department of that road. He returned to the Intercolonial Railway service in 1880 as travelling auditor, which position he most efficiently held up to the time of his death. Mr. Wallace was a man of high character, and was highly esteemed by his fellow employees and was of a genial disposition. He was a Baptist in religion. His death is deeply mourned by his family and by those who were acquainted with him.

ROUSING WELCOME TO ARMY OFFICERS

At a rousing meeting held in the Charbonneau, Newell and Co. building, the delegates to the twenty-sixth annual congress for the officers of the Maritime Provinces were welcomed to St. John. A union open air meeting was held at the head of King street and at its commencement the meeting in the Citadel was opened. Major Phillips, provincial secretary, presided at the meeting, and introduced the other speakers addressed the meeting in an earnest and practical manner. Adjutant Sparks of No. 2 company, St. John, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the field officers of this province. Treasurer Barnes spoke as the representative of the local staff in extending a hearty welcome to those from outside points. On behalf of the women members of the local corps, Sergeant Letley gave a short address of welcome. Major McGillivray, the St. John divisional officer, gave an interesting speech, in which he suggested that the Army could get along without making as much noise as they sometimes do. His remarks were greeted with loud applause. Brigadier James of New Glasgow spoke as the representative of the local officers for the Maritime Provinces, and he welcomed the local officers for their words of welcome. Brigadier and Mrs. Morehead of the Halifax division also addressed the meeting. During the evening a solo was rendered by Captain Novel, and other musical selections were given. There was a large attendance of local and visiting officers, but a large number of the delegates will not arrive until this morning.

HIDES HIS LOOT IN A DEEP CAVE

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 17.—The police this afternoon made what is believed to be an important arrest. Recently arrested was John Nooman, Irishman. This afternoon the police visited the shack of Olaf Larsen, a Swede working at the new I. C. R. shops, and found the stolen harness and considerable garden stuff, besides parts of new harness. The goods were found in a cave which was reached through a tunnel. Although the cave was stocked with vegetables, Larsen has no garden and the police think this was obtained in the same manner as the harness. They will make a further search of the premises tomorrow for stolen goods. Larsen will be arraigned tomorrow in the police court.

WHAT EYES TELL

Blue eyes are said to be the strongest. Wide-open eyes are indicative of rashness. Small eyes are supposed to indicate cunning. Side-sighting eyes are always to be distrusted. Brown eyes are said by oculists to be the weakest. The downcast eye has in all ages been typical of modesty. The proper distance between the eyes is the width of one eye. People of melancholy temperament rarely have clear blue eyes.

WILL NOT TAKE PLACE

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The contemplated meeting of Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan here Oct. 7 has fallen through, according to Chairman Dixon of the Republican speaker's bureau today. Mr. Dixon said that Mr. Taft's itinerary would not allow of his speaking in Chicago Oct. 7.

LOST TOW DURING HEAVY GALE

Tug Edna R. Abandoned Bark in Passage Between Annapolis and Yarmouth.

DIGBY, N. S., Sept. 17.—A strong northeast breeze prevails here tonight and it is very rough along the water front. Everything that was anchored off Digby has either been knocked at the wharves or tossed to a safe anchorage in the lee of Bear Island. The dredge Canada now lies in a safe position at the mouth of Bear River and her mud scows have been docked at the wharf. Captain L. R. Kinney, master of the tug Edna R., which arrived here early this morning with salt and empty barrels, seeking lobster bait, reports that he had in tow the Norwegian bark, Medura, about 1,000 tons register, from Yarmouth for Annapolis in ballast to load lumber at that port for South America. Something during last night the tug was unable to hold the vessel's head to the wind and the hawser was finally slipped. After standing by for a time the Edna R. proceeded to Digby.

PROTESTS THE KING'S VISIT TO GERMANY

Mr. J. G. Swift MacNell raises a point of national importance when, in the London Times, he draws attention to what he calls "a new departure in constitutional practice"—the interview of the Sovereign with the heads of foreign States when unattended by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. The practice, of which the heads of foreign States when unattended by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs should be present at every interview in which questions of State have been admitted subject of discussion between the King and foreign Ministers, is thus commended by Sir William Anson in The Law and Customs of the Constitution.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S CUSTOM.

"It is the modern practice uniformly observed by George III., and only for a short time broken by George IV., that the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs should be present at every interview between the Sovereign and a foreign minister, and so far is the crown from taking independent action in foreign affairs that all letters addressed to the Queen (Victoria) and the late Prince Consort for foreign princes or received from them were shown in the Foreign Secretary or Prime Minister and the same rule applies in domestic affairs. At every interview, he writes, 'between the Sovereign and the Minister of any foreign court it is the duty of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to be present. Private communication between a King of England and foreign Ministers is contrary to the spirit and practice of the British Constitution.'

A STRONG STATEMENT.

"Lord Liverpool, in a letter to Lord Castlereagh, dated Oct. 3, 1815, in absolutely rejecting the idea broached by Lord Castlereagh of allowing the Prince Regent to sign the Treaty known as that of the Holy Alliance 'without the intervention of his Ministers,' thus expounds the constitutional position of the King in relation to foreign policy. 'A treaty is an act of State, and this treaty, if it is of any use, is obviously meant to be so. Now, nothing is more clear than that the King or Regent of Great Britain can be a party to no act of State personally—he can only be a party to it through the instrumentality of others who are responsible for it. 'The Sovereign, therefore, never signs any treaty in the first instance. He negotiates, concludes and signs by plenipotentiaries whom he empowers to do these acts. He afterwards ratifies whatever they have done if he approves of it, but this ratification must have the Great Seal affixed to it. If the Sovereign cannot sign a treaty personally, neither can he accede to it personally.' 'Mr. Canning, writing on April 4, 1825, from the Foreign Office to Lord Granville, says: 'I should be very sorry to do anything at all unpleasant to the King, but it is my duty to be present at every interview between His Majesty and a foreign Minister.' The going abroad of a Sovereign unattended by a responsible Minister to hold interviews with foreign monarchs on affairs of state is calculated to render the Sovereign his own Minister and to weaken the force of the leading maxim of the British Constitution, that 'the King can do no wrong,' which is itself based on the fundamental doctrine now insisted upon, that the King can perform no act of state, but that all the acts of the Crown must be supposed to have been done by some Minister responsible to Parliament.'

MANY LIVES LOST IN TERRIBLE FOREST FIRES

British Columbia's recent great loss by forest fires makes it interesting to recall one of the most calamitous forest fires in the history of the American continent, which destroyed the town of Peshtigo, Wis., in 1871. The burned area covered two thousand square miles, timber worth millions of dollars went up in flames and about twelve hundred people were burned or smothered to death. A surface fire had smouldered for weeks on the outskirts of the town, and no one dreamed of danger until the red death suddenly leaped forward with volcanic fury. The event is thus described in a "History of the Great Fires in Chicago and the West" by the Rev. E. J. Goodspeed: "It was Sunday. The sharp air of early October had sent the people in from the evening church services more promptly than usual, although numbers delayed to speculate on the great noise which set in ominously from the west. The housewives looked tremblingly at the glare. The noise grew in volume and came nearer with terrific crackling and detonations. The forest roared and trembled tumultuously. A fire alarm fell upon the imprisoned village, for the swelling blasts came now from every side. In one awful instant a great flame shot up in the western heavens, and countless fiery tongues struck downward into the village. A deafening roar mingled with the hissing of flames in a dozen places, and, turning sharply to the left, the flaming whirlwind whirled in an instant through the town. Moved by a common instinct, the people fled to the woods that encircled the town were impracticable, the people ran to the Peshtigo River. On the west they saw the bridge in flames in a dozen places, and, turning sharply to the left, they plunged into the water. Three hundred persons wedged themselves in between the rolling booms of timber, away too and fro by the current, where they roared in the limit of flames that hovered above them and singed the hair on each head exposed above water. Dying men and women held their children until the scorching cold forced them to let go or to sink downward in a last embrace. Above was infernal heat and below an unendurable icy flood. "Meantime the eastern wind was crowded by the dying and dead. The victims who rushed to the river in this direction were moved down in swaths by swirling blasts of flame. To breathe the fiery air was death. Scores fell before the first blast. A few were able to crawl to the pebbly banks, burned naked and hairless, dreadfully disfigured. They fell prone on the grateful damp grass, suffering excruciating agony. The fierce blast played in tremendous force currents above them, and the wind whirled them about, the red-hot sand that blistered the flesh. All that could break through the stifling smother had come to the river, where they could see in the red glare the sloping bank covered with bodies of those who fell by the way. The people who were on the roofs, terrified by smoke and flame, rushed in a great lowering herd to the river bank. Women and children were trampled by the frightened brutes and many, losing their hold on life, were swept under the water.

ONLY 700 LEFT OUT OF 2,000. "Below the bridge the burning timbers of a mill floated down on the multitude assembled on the flats and inflicted lamentable sufferings. The men fought this new death bitterly. Those who had coats flung them over the heads of wives and children, and dipped water from their hats on the unprotected chests. Scores had even shed of hair burned off. Many lost their lives protecting others. The firemen had made an effort to save some of the buildings, but the hose, swollen with water, burned through in a hundred places. Many lumber company workmen shut themselves up in a great brick building with their wives and children, and were roasted in the raging heat of the next half hour. The situation on the river banks, crowded with animals and men, was full of despair. The flats were covered with prone figures with backs ablaze and faces pressed rigidly into the cool, moist earth. A maelstrom of sparks, cinders and hot sand did as much in killing the people as the first terrible sirocco. The wretched throng neck deep in the water, and the still more helpless beings stretched on the heated sand, were pinned and blistered by the burning particles. "When the hapless dwellers in the remote streets saw themselves cut off from the river, groups broke in all directions in a wild panic of terror. A few took refuge in a cleared field near the town. Here, flat upon the ground, with faces pressed in the sand, the helpless sufferers lay and roasted. Few survived. The next day revealed a picture exceeding in horror any battlefield. Mothers with children huddled closely lay in rigid groups, the clothes burned off and the flesh seared to a crisp. One mother had escaped a hollow in the sand, put her child in it and lay above it as a shield. When daylight came both were dead, the baby with face un-

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

A most successful meeting of the Laymen's Missionary Movement conference was held yesterday. The session in the afternoon was devoted to informal discussion of the state of the movement in various provinces. Judge Forbes presided. It was pointed out that three meetings had been held in Nova Scotia and more on Prince Edward Island, and it was stated that meetings will be held on the island commencing next month. There was also a discussion on the methods of organization. At 6 o'clock there was a luncheon at St. David's church school room. At 7:30 o'clock N. C. Rowell, of Toronto, addressed the gathering. He said it was the intention to hold a series of provincial meetings at various places throughout the provinces. Canada's share of the non-Christian world was 60,000,000 of people. At the present time Canada had 300 missionaries in the field. There should be one

THE FIRE RECORD.

LISBON, Me., Sept. 17.—A forest fire, which already has burned over an area six miles long and three miles wide, is tonight raging through the timber land to the west of this place, between Lisbon and Lewiston, and 300 men are fighting the flames in an endeavor to save fifteen to twenty houses, which are in their path. The fire started at noon, being set by sparks from a locomotive on the Maine Central Railroad. During the afternoon two sets of farm buildings, 20,000 feet of sawed lumber and 1,400 cords of wood had been destroyed. Other houses were several times afire. Tonight at the houses in the threatened zone are surrounded by trenches of sand. Early in the afternoon the fire spread over 500,000 feet of lumber, owned by John West, of Brunswick, and destroyed it. Help was then asked from Brunswick and eighty men responded. The Lisbon fire fighters attacked the flames on the west while the Brunswick men fought the east. The fire was confined for the most part to a swamp area covered by thick underbrush and the refuse left from the cuttings of the past two years. The house of a farmer named Michaud was five times afire, but was saved. A small house belonging to Joseph Banters was destroyed with all the contents, as was the home of Frank Fields. Directly in the path of the flames the case of Alfred Metier has been va-

BATTLESHIP FLEET STARTS FOR MANILA

ALBANY, West Australia, Sept. 15.—The American battleship fleet, under the command of Admiral Sperry, left here at 5 p. m. today for Manila, 3,500 miles away, where it is due to arrive Oct. 2 or 3. The flagship Connecticut did not leave with the other vessels, but will depart at midnight and overtake the rest of the fleet tomorrow. She was delayed by coaling operations. She will pass Rottnest Island, near Fremantle, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The fleet is making nine knots an hour. The delay of one day here, the vessels were scheduled to leave Sept. 14, has been occasioned by the unreliability of the chartered colliers, a circumstance which in war time might be attended with most serious results.

TERMINAL MINNESOTA FIRE.

The great fire that overwhelmed Hinckley and Minnesota towns in September, 1884, destroying nearly 500 lives and property worth $5,000,000, will be remembered for one thrilling and heroic episode. It had been a very dry season, not a drop of rain having fallen in four months. A locomotive spark fell in a heap of dry leaves and started a little blaze which a track laborer ignored, thinking it would soon die out. Two days later a breeze fanned the partly extinguished spark, and the fire spread rapidly. A semicircle of conflagration soon raged through the forest, while a great firestorm, Hinckley, which was in the centre of the arc. On it came, a moving fire, wings of the half circle were a mile beyond the town before the centre had reached it. The people heard the roar of the flames three miles away and saw clouds of fire about a hundred feet above the trees, while a gleaming trail of smoke shrouded the sky. Some panic stricken and smoke blinded persons dashed to their doom in the arms of the advancing fury; others fled from the flames, but were soon overtaken. The wagon roads led into a furnace that took toll of one hundred lives.

The information regarding South Africa contained in a paragraph in the Star a few days ago was furnished by a correspondent in Africa, and not by anyone formerly resident of that country and now in St. John.

Writ Served on Him in the Action Brought by Thomas Dobson.

The mayor has received a communication from Chief of Police Clark, stating that he has been served with a writ of summons in the Dobson case for illegal imprisonment, and asking that counsel be retained for his defence.

At the last meeting of the safety board when the matter was brought up the chief's request was not then granted and action was then deferred in the matter.

The subject may be brought up at the council meeting this afternoon.

MARKED ADVANCE IN ABILITY OF OFFICERS

Commissioner Coombs, Here, Discusses Work of Army in Canada—His New Secretary.

Commissioner Coombs, head of the Salvation Army in Canada, arrived in the city this morning to participate in the annual congress of the army officers of the maritime provinces.

The commissioner was met at the Union Station by a delegation and escorted to the residence of Lieut-Col. Turner, where he is now residing.

Speaking with a Star reporter Commissioner Coombs said that the work of the Salvation Army in Canada was progressing splendidly. He had every reason to be grateful for the advances being made. There was a steady increase in the number of soldiers throughout the country.

"One of the most pleasing features concerning the work generally," said the Commissioner, "is the marked advance being made in the ability of our soldiers."

Colonel Mapp, an Anglo-Indian, reached the city at noon from Toronto. Colonel Mapp has just arrived in this country to assume the duties of secretary to the Commissioner. He was born in India, of English parents.

COUPLE WERE INJURED DURING RUNAWAY

A middle aged couple who were enjoying a drive through the many pretty drives afforded in Rockwood Park, had a most thrilling experience yesterday afternoon. The couple were Mr. Samuel Brentnell and a lady who is his guest during exhibition week. Just before coming to the top of a steep hill the animal became energetic and ran away owing, it is said, to a break in the harness. After running at a good clip down the hill, the driver was able to make a turn and the runaway horse narrowly escaped colliding with a team occupied by a gentleman and family. The runaway carriage then overturned and the occupants were thrown out. The gentleman received a very bad cut on his forehead and his face was covered with blood. The lady, who was a person of considerable weight, was thrown from the team into the trees and received severe injury to one of her limbs. The horse was unhurt but the carriage had a pair of broken shafts. The injured couple were conveyed quickly to the city where their injuries were attended to by Dr. Emery. It is feared that the lady visitor is injured internally as she had a severe fall, but it is hoped that her injuries are not of a serious nature.

Mr. Brentnell will not suffer any serious results from the injuries to his head, although a person who witnessed the accident said that it is a wonderful escape from death.

THE REAL DIFFICULTY IN HANDLING THE GRAIN

Mr. Downie Makes Clear the Problem which the City is Called Upon to Solve.

In conversation with the Star this morning Gen. Supt. Downie of the C. P. R. pointed out that some uncertainty as to the true position of affairs on the West Side may be created in the minds of citizens by the rather incomplete paragraphs published concerning the handling of grain. Some time ago Mr. Castle, chief grain inspector, while on a visit to St. John, expressed the opinion that fourteen million bushels will pass through this port during the coming winter. This, as Mr. Downie points out, is only an estimate and may be influenced very considerably by the state of the markets.

Mr. Downie has erroneously been quoted as saying that all the grain coming this year can be handled by the present facilities. What he did say was that the capacity of the West Side elevator is sufficient for all that is likely to come, but that the handling of this grain is another matter. If all the grain carrying steamers were to dock at the Sand Point berths there would be no difficulty in delivering their cargoes from the elevator without confusion or delay. But the trouble now is that a considerable number of these steamers will necessarily have to dock at berths five and six. The problem of getting them their grain requires solution. Three courses are open. The steamers may be moved across the slip to Sand Point where they could be supplied from the elevator. This has many objections. Shipping men are not desirous about moving steamers in such confined space, incurring expense and running the risk, and at the same time experiencing much delay. The next method available is by extending the conveyors from the Sand Point elevator to the new wharf. This would cost about $10,000, and would necessitate an increase of power in the elevator which is now capable of operating such an extent of cables. The third plan is to furnish the grain by a floating elevator which, with the necessary barges, would cost about $60,000.

Mr. Downie does not express his personal views on the practicability of the two latter plans. He merely wishes to point out that although the present elevator has a capacity sufficient for all the grain likely to arrive here this year, the problem is in getting that grain to the new wharf.

It is probable that the floating elevator idea will be abandoned and that the most desperate effort will be made to construct conveyors to the new wharf, if the city should decide on this plan.

SPECIAL MEETING OF WATER AND SEWERAGE BOARD

No Action Taken Yet Regarding the Pulp Mill—$800 Required to Complete Sewers—D.A.R. Wants Water

A special meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board was held in the City Hall this morning to deal with a number of matters which required attention.

Considerable time was devoted to the Mispac Pulp mill, and the action which the city should take regarding its being a nuisance. After a thorough discussion of the matter it was referred to a special meeting of the committee to be held later.

A request for $800 additional to complete the work on the Cedar street and Sheriff street sewers was received and its adoption recommended.

A communication from the D. A. R. asking that their office at Reid's Park be connected with the water main was received and referred to the meeting of the council this afternoon.

MINISTER OFFERS AID IN PURCHASING ELEVATOR

Suggests That Part of Harbor Appropriation be Reserved for This Purpose—Urges Necessity of Securing Plant.

A communication from Hon. Wm. Pugsley dealing with the matter of the floating elevator will be submitted to the special meeting of the council this afternoon.

The minister states that he has been pressed by the Allan Line to arrange for some means to supply grain at the new berths without having to shift to the Union wharf.

He informs the council that the Montreal estimate of the amount of grain to be handled here this winter will be twelve to fifteen million bushels. Instead of ten millions as previously stated.

He considers that it is imperative that the floating elevator be secured to help to handle the grain and urges that one be brought here and made ready before the season opens.

Regarding assistance from the Department of Public Works, he says that he regrets that at the terms of the appropriation for the St. John harbor do not allow him to use part of it for the purchase of the needed apparatus. He suggests, however, that if the city purchase the elevator it will be taken over by the government when the place is placed in commission. As an alternative to this he suggests that a part of this year's appropriation be not expended by the government but be expended to secure authority to use this amount for the repayment of the city for the purchase of the plant.
