CANADIAN KILTIES WILL LEAVE NEW YORK TONIGHT

New York, July 20.—The Canadian Highlanders, who have been here this week to aid in recruiting for the British army, will make their final appearance tonight at a mass meeting to be held in Madison Square Garden. All indications are that one of the largest crowds which ever filled the Garden will be on hand to cheer the kilties before they leave for Chicago, where they are to appear next week in the interest of 'British recruiting week' in that city. Lord Northcliffe will be the principal speaker at the meeting tonight. speaker at the meeting tonight.

Copenhagen, July 20. - The Reichstag yesterday adopted the majority peace resolution by a vote of 214 to 116, with 17 not voting.

The peace resolution of the majority bloc in the Reichstag, as given in the Tageblatt of Berlin last week, is as follows: "As on August 4, 1914, so on the threshold of the fourth year of the war the German people stands upon the assurance of the speech from the throne—'We are driven by no lust of conquest.'

"Germany took up arms in defence of its liberty and independence, and for the integrity of its territories. The Reichstag labors for peace and a mutual understanding and lasting reconciliation among the nations. 'Forced acquisitions of territory and political, economic and financial violations are incompatible with such a peace.

FREEDOM OF SEAS.

"The Reichstag rejects all plans aiming at an economic blockade and the stirring up of enmity among the peoples after the war. The freedom of the seas must be assured. Only an economic peace can prepare the ground for the friendly association of the people. "The Reichstag will energetically promote the creation of international judicial associations. So long, however, as the enemy governments do not accept such a peace; so long as they threaten Germany and her allies with conquest and violation, the German people will stand together as one man, hold out unshaken, and fight until the rights of itself and its allies

One of City's "First Citizens," Who Planned for Future and Helped Make London Beautiful, Is Still Young in Heart and Appearance, and Intensely Alive.

Seated on the veranda of his home on St. George street, enjoying the pleasant summer afternoon while chatting with friends who had called to pay their respects, he might have passed for twenty years younger. Still an unusually handsome man, clear-eyed and fresh of coloring, his voice strong and steady, while keeping abreast of the times and taking a keen interest in the occurrences of every day, he is able to recall at will the most minute details in connection with people and events foundation on Richmond street are not right, so that somples can be taken for testing in Toronto.

This action was decided on by the board of control this morning. City Engineer Brazier appeared before the board and asked for definite instructions as to the samples to be sent.

"There seems to be some objection made to everything I do in connection with this matter," said Mr. Brazier. "I have sent samples taken by Dr. Shaw, and also a sample on Wellington street, taken by Controller Little, and I don't know what else to do. Ido not care to take them myself." "We should have some idea where the concrete is wrong," said Controller Shaw. "If does not seem right for us to take them everywhere. Let those who complain tell us where things are wrong."

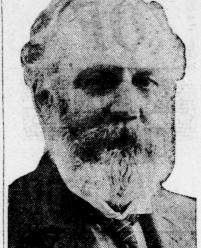

"I will move that the persons complaining about the concrete submit in writing where the pavement is defective," said Controller Moore. "The people who complain should show us where it is wrong."

"That is my idea exactly," answered Controller Shev.

Thus it will be u-tinctly a matter for Sir Adam Beck and others to point out where the concrete is wrong.

FOR all taking a keen interest in the loc occurrences of every day, he is able to recall at will the most minute details in connection with people and events with which he has been familiar in the long years of his life.

Happliy for himself and those who are fortunate enough to know him, he has retained his ready wit and keen sense of humor, and a certain irrepressible twinkle in his eye. This is the "First Citizen" to whom London today owes a number of its institutions in whole or in part, features of cive life which are simply taken for granted without question in regard to their early history and origin. When London people want a drink of water they go and turn on the tap. They do not for one minute stop to consider how it happens to be in the tap for the turning, unless a water rates bill has just been received. Perhaps then, they do some grumbling. Nevertheless, they do some grumbling. Nevertheless, they do some ronto with a view to discovering all they could about the systems in operation in these citles. They had been in Toronto a full week investigating before anyone knew and by that time were as well informed on the subject of Toronto's waterworks as the Toronto officials themselves. After the report was made and supported as promised by the council, a bylaw was submitted to the citizens which carried, by 140 votes.

The next step was to secure the best material and most skilled workmanship possible in carrying out the plans.

Though beginning life as a Reformer, Egan at that time had for number of years been identified with the Tory party, and was closely associated with John Carling, M. P., later Sir John Carling, of whom he was a warm friend and staunch supporter.

To illustrate the part politics were expected to play in those times as now in public works, an English engineer named Kitchen, a man of indisputable ability and integrity, and known to Egan, was in line to put through the feat of building the reservoir.

"But this will never do," said a political objector to Egan and Sir John Carling, "don't you know that Kitchen is a d— Reformer?"

It was characteristic that his reply, which is a matter of history, was this: "But what have politics got to do with it? We want a good job, a permanent job, one that is going to stand the test of time. We don't care what Kitchen's politics are. We want a good man for the job."

Kitchen got it, though there aren't probably a dozen citizens today who recall the name of the man who built the reservoir.

Egan's faith in him was vindicated. In all the forty or so years that have gone by, there hasn't been a crack or break in the walls of the reservoir.

The pipes were laid to the corner of Ridout and York streets, and tested by a practical engineer, Oswald Baines, of E. Leonard & Sons. He evidently also knew his business, judging by the way the pipes have stood by his test.

Musician and Reader.

These are things which Mr. Egan can tell about and also the names of men otherwise forgotten to whom credit is due in connection with the movements which have made London what it is today.

Along with his many public welfare activities, Mr. Egan found time for his books, his writing, and one of his greatest pleasures of all, music.

Every year until within recent times, he went down to New York for two full, happy weeks of the best music.

"They get the best music in the world in New York," he says, "for the reason that they will pay for it."

Ardent Roman Catholic though he is, his fondness for good music frequently led him to attend the evening services in the North Street Methodist Church (now the First Methodist), and the Baptist Church (Talbot Street) in days gone by— Along with his many public welfare

Charles Webster, 597 Piccadilly street, a former inspector for the city, alleges that tile condemned by him while inspecting a sewer job on Van street as unfit for use, is being used on other streets, thereby causing the citizens to lose a great deal of money and secure inferior work. It is claimed that the tile comes from Copp Bros.' yards, and Ald. Thomas W. Copp is said to have had something to do in getting inferior tile into the sewers. MUST SPEND 30 MONTHS IN PEN. FOR FORGERY

Bert Stainton Admitted Crime, But Wants to Reform.

Bert Stainton, convicted a week ago of forgery and obtaining money under false pretences, was sentenced in police court today by Magistrate Graydon to two years and six months in Kingston Penitentiary on each count, the sentences to run concurrently. Stainton pleaded guilty a week ago to misrepresentations in connection with some land which he stated he owned, and the titles to which he had forged. He raised $500 on the land from Edward Lee of this city, and $300 more when Lee backed a check for him on his statement that he had a sum of money in a St. Marys bank.

Jared Vining, counsel for Stainton, made a strong plea for leniency, declaring that the prisoner had not had the chances of other boys, as his parents had died while he was but an infant, and that Stainton, if given another chance, would pay up all he owed at the earliest possible moment. The magistrate declared that the crime was themost serious kind of forgery, as it threatened all business done the world over on a system of credit.

"You forged this man's name after he had treated you as a father might," said Mr. Graydon in passing sentence. e had treated you as a father might, aid Mr. Graydon in passing sentence. EARNEST APPEAL TO WOMEN TO ATTEND FOOD CONFERENCE

Lady Hendrie Urges Seriousness of Crisis.

FOR NATIONAL SERVICE Duty of All to Contribute to Solution of Problem.

The following appeal, signed by Lady Hendrie, has been issued by the organization of resources committee, in the hope that it will assist in impressing the people of Ontario with the seriousness of the food crisis:

The organization of resources committee of the Province of Ontario has asked for the co-operation of the woman power of the province in dealing with the all-important matters of food conservation thrift and economy. with the all-important matters of food conservation, thrift and economy.

The food problem is of the utmost seriousness. The situation has been stated by our food controller to be desperate, and in the United States Mr. Hoover recently has said that if it is not squarely faced, the whole world will soon be hungry, and that our civilization will have to meet the sternest tion will have to meet the sternes nenace with which it has yet been menace with which it has yet been threatened.

To the end that Ontario women may do their full part in meeting the situation, a convention has been called in Toronto, when women from all parts of the province may be present to voice their determination and to state the contribution they can make to the solution of the problem.

As chairman of the committee of arrangements, I take this opportunity to call upon Ontario women to regard this conference as a call to national service.

PRICE OF FISH HAS GOT TO COME DOWN, ASSERTS MR. HANNA

Food Controller Invests Committee With Wide Powers.

TORONTO, July 19. — The initial meeting of the Government food controller's fish committee was held this afternoon in the office of Hon. W. J. Hanna, food controller for Canada. G. Frank Beer, who will be chairman of the fish committee, and F. S. Wiley were present. The third member of the committee, R. Y. Eaton, was unavoidably absent in Manitoba.

At the conclusion of the conference Mr. Hanna issued a statement, which reveals the extent of the authority and the measure of the power invested in the members of the fish committee. He also indicated that within a short time the consuming public in this and other parts of Canada will see a material reduction in the price of fish.

Price Will Be Lower.

Mr. Hanna's statement was as follows:

"The question was asked whether the"

The powers cited in the order-in-council, and referred to by Mr. Hanna, are comprehensive and drastic, if the food controller and his appointees choose to exert them. For instance, the fish committee may govern the price of fish, or the storage, distribution, sale and delivery thereof. Or the commit-tee, if it desires, may purchase, requisition, store, sell or deliver fish.

LINE ON WIDE FRONT IS GERMAN CLAIM

Attack Launched in Answer to Offensive Ordered by Petrograd.

LONDON, July 19 .- Having brough LONDON, July 19.—Having brought up heavy reinforcements all along the line, the Germans and Austro-Hungarians in Eastern Galicia have started what apparently is a tremendous offensive against the Russians. From Brody, near the northeastern border of Galicia, southward to below Kalusz, the operations are in full swing, but have not yet developed to an extent where particulars of the battles in their entirety are available. particulars of the battles in their entirety are available.

The latest German official communication announces that the Germans have accepted the gage of battle thrust upon them by the Russians and in a counter-attack upon the line guarding Lemberg from the east have defeated the Russians over a wide front near Zlochoff, which lies on the Tarnopol-Lemberg railway line, about 40 miles distant from the capital.

To the north of volhynia and still farther north on various sectors to the Baltic Sea, especially around Smorgon and Dvinsk, heavy artillery duels are being fought. Near Lutsk, in the famous Volhynian fortress triangle, the Germans report the capture of many Russian prisoners.

Turkish Force Is Routed At Ramadieh, on Euphrates.

LONDON, July 19.—An official re-port relating to the Mesopotamian cam-paign was issued tonight, showing a considerable British advance. The report relating to the Mesopotamian campaign was issued tonight, showing a considerable British advance. The report reads:

"On July 11 one of our columns engaged a Turkish force in the direction of Ramaglieh, on the Euphrates. After a short action, in which considerable loss was inflicted on the Turks, a further advance was broken off by us owing to the extreme heat. As a result of these operations we have been able to advance about twelve miles up the Euphrates in the last ten days."

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that with

Price Will Be Lower.

Mr. Hanna's statement was as follows:

"The question was asked whether the fish committee will need to assume control of the actual distribution of fish. Such action may be necessary. It is hoped, however, that the interests concerned may adjust their methods to the requirements of the public. The price to the consumer must and will be lower.

"The fish committee is now ascertaining the proportion of the supply of fish which comes direct from the fishermen to the large retail distributor and the proportion which goes from the fishermen to the so-called wholesale man, and then to the smaller retail dealer.

ADVANTAGES OF AJAX BYLAW

Some of the Benefits Which Will Come to the City From Its Adoption

THE CITY SECURES a giant industry, second in size only to McClary's. The rubber tire business is bound to grow with great strides in the next few years and the Ajax Com= pany will grow with it.

THE CITY INCREASES the number of its employed citizens by at least 250 men, all potential heads of families, and its population by 1,000 people or more.

THE CITY ADDS TO its factory payrolls by the splendid sum of $5,000 or more weekly.

THE CITY WILL NEED 200 or more houses to house these employees and their families, helping fill up the vacant lots in the city's 6,423 acres.

THE CITY DISTRIBUTES the cost of maintenance of its streets and public utilities among more people, and lessens the burden of taxation on the individual taxpayer.

THE CITY INSURES itself against unemploy= ment during the readjustment period following the declaration of peace, by provid= ing work for its returned soldiers and the men now employed in munition factories.

THE CITY IS HELPING maintain its proud position as the industrial centre of Western Ontario. Other cities are offering big inducements to obtain industries and are getting them.

What the City Gives the Ajax Rubber Company

To obtain the advantages enumerated above the city indorses the bonds of the company to the extent of $450,000.00, or such less amount as is expended on site, plant and manufacturing accessories, but only after the company has fulfilled the following

1. The company must erect a factory and equip it to manufacture 900 tires daily. This plant, ready for operation, is to cost not less than $300,000.00.

2. The company shall deposit with a trust company to be approved of by the city a sufficient amount of cash or securities. approved of by the Ontario Government for investment of trust funds, to pay, with accumulated interest, the principal of the bonds as they mature.

THIS GUARANTEES THE CITY AGAINST ANY POS-SIBILITY OF LOSS ON THE PRINCIPAL OF THE BONDS.

3. The company must execute a first mortgage on its plant, equipment and other assets to the extent of $300,000.00 to guarantee the INTEREST on the bonds.

Not Till All These Conditions Have Been Fulfilled Will the City Under the Bylaw Give Its Indorsement to the Company's Bonds.

If You Want London to Progress, Vote for the Ajax Bylaw on July 30

Break the Kaiser's Yoke? "The Imperial Government is now on the defensive at home, and is compelled to deal in concrete fashion with the growing dissatisfaction of the German people," is a significant fact that stands out clearly and distinctly in the opinion of the New York World. Nevertheless, in the minds of other cautious American editors, we are warned not to expect too much from the crisis in Berlin, for Germany is not Russia, nor is Wilhelm a Nicholas. The Boston News Bureau, however, perceives that whereas in the early days of the war, "all was vaunted political unanimity in the Fatherland," today "the vast change in the military setting has its counterpart in the political transformation. Disillusion has brought dissension; confidence has given way to criticism; lines of faction are deeper than ever, over grave issues of war aims and war conduct." Vorwaerts. the German Socialist organ, in a warning to the German Government, remarks, "let none be blind to the fact that at this time a certain unrest is spreading throughout the nation."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for July 21, the leading article shows every angle of the significant developments that have been taking place in Berlin during the past few weeks, and the influence that they will exert upon the conduct of the war.

"The Digest" Stands Squarely for American Ideals

In these days of world-wide change and universal shattering of old traditions, when all existing systems of government are being tried as by fire and democracy finds itself everywhere at death-grip with absolutism in new and sinister forms, it behooves every true American to hold fast to the ideals upon which this republic was founded, that he may still continue to enjoy "life, liberty, and the pursuit of

THE LITERARY DIGEST stands squarely for these great principles. It knows no party, no creed, no color. It fosters no racial antagonisms, It believes in impartial justice as between man and man and nation and nation. It is the organ of no class, but for all the people. It sets the facts before you without bias. It is essentially and fundamentally American.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly send me "Kildare's" address in the inclosed, stamped envelope, as I would like to send him some reading matter. Please inclose also the address of a lonely soldier, and will you kindly inform me if it is permissible to send reading matter to prisoners in Germany? If it is, will you be so kind as to send me some of their addresses also, and oblige, Similar Tastes in Wedded Life.

Dear Miss Grey,—One feels like answering lots of letters, but it would not do to bother the readers too much. Sorry about the potato patch under water, for we all know potatoes under water for 24 hours simply rot, and the work is all lost.

I started cut to answer the one who wishes to know whether it is better for a girl to marry a man who is like her, or one who is different. The query is. "Does a man and woman whose tastes or one who is different. The query is, "Does a man and woman whose tastes coincide have a greater chance for happiness in wedded life than the couple whose upbringing and inclinations differ decidedly?" I answer in the affirmative. It is certainly better to be either both Catholics or both Protestants and so much the better if Protestants if they both belong to the same church. If they bother about politics it is better that both are on one side—they will agree better. If it better for them both to be good workers, for if one is a good worker and the other is lazy, I think there would be disagreement. If one is a spendthrift and one is saving, they may just as well both spend all they can lay their fingers on. If one likes company and the other hates to see anyone darken their door, I think it would end in unhappiness. If one is selfish and the other is not, the latter can give in in everything cooked to suit himself or herself, and the other ought to be satisfied because it is "good."

There are so many things for people to agree or disagree on. For instace, one likes the house very warm, and the other does not, but wants it almost cold. One likes the windows always a distinct credit to the teacher of a 'Does a man and woman whose tastes

VANITY VISIONS

Hats of all kinds are fascinating this summer. Big and little, dressy and informal, they seem to have received espe. cially delightful treatment, and the wo-we have them we wonder why we have not seen their like before. A new model is a straight-brimmed salior, broad of brim and rather high of crown, with a plain red gingham brim faced in fine black straw, a crown of gingham in black straw, a crown of gingham in black straw, a crown of gingham in black, red and white plaid, the whole finished with a smart little band and bow of black varnished ribbon. Another pink and white check gingham—just the pattern we are accustomed to associate with nursery frocks and rompers—has a wide mushroom-brim faced in white straw and is trimmed with a bunch of white straw flowers. Many other gingham creations are equally delightful and novel. Very smart are the small-brimmed hats of gingham worn with a matching frock, and full scope is given to individuality in the trimming thereof.

In fabric hats, linen plays quite a considerable part. It has been popular for several summers, but this year it has managed to take on new airs and graces that lend it an air of novelty. A canary and white-striped linen departs from sailor and mushroom tradition, and allows itself to be knocked into a tricorne affair trimmed in two perky little bows of the linen, and adventised and the stray of the linen, and adventised in the linen, and adventised in the little dream, how far you go, how far!

dition, and allows itself to be knocked into a tricorne affair trimmed in two perky little bows of the linen, and admirably rakish of line. A linen hat that disdains such audacity and goes in for demureness is of soft blue handkerchief linen with a wide drooping brim and a medium high crown is entirely covered with dasies made of the linen and flatly applied. The edges of the petals on these linen daisies are narrowly outlined with black, and a very narrow black ribbon bow is posed on the left front. Simplicity itself but exclusively smart!

pany the sheer summer frocks. loveliest of them are all organdie, formal, they seem to have received especially delightful treatment, and the woman who cannot this season find a hat in which she looks well is surely the exception.

One of the most interesting groups in the general melange of delightful things is that of the fabric hats. Of course, we have always had them, these hats of linen, of satin, and of crepe, but never before have we had such a wealth of them, and certainly never were they as charming. And then again, wash fabrics have never been so featured by the milliners as they are this season. In fact, it is almost safe that the hat designers are using wash fabrics that have not before been used for anything outside children's wear.

Gingham—Fashion's Last Word.

Gingham has are fashion's last word in summer headgear. And now that we have them we wonder why we have not seen their like before. put up their regular supply of homemade preserves; and bitterly they regretted it. They became scared at what they called the high price of sugar. When sugar reached 71/2 cents a pound, they let the strawberries and cherries go by. When sugar sold at 8 cents and 81/2 cents, they permitted the luscious peaches, pears, plums and apples to rot on the ground. But never again. This summer will see a genuine, old-time revival in homemade preserving; because the women of Canada now realize what a foolish extravagance it was to do without preserves, especially when the increased cost of putting them up is infinitesimal. As a matter of fact, every woman can prove, with her first lot of strawberries, that the increased cost of sugar is surprisingly small. Turning back the files of papers publishing market prices, we find that in 1912, 1913 and 1914, up to the outbreak of war, the average price of granulated sugar was 5½ cents a pound. Today, the best granulated sugar retails at 8½ cents. This is an average of 3 cents a pound for the whole of the country. A quart jar of preserved berries or fruit, requires but half a pound of sugar, so that the increased cost of preserving, due to the increased cost of sugar, is only 1½ cents a quart, compared with the cost of preserving before the war when sugar was unusually cheap.

Now is the time for the women of Canada to come gallantly to the aid of the country, and help to conserve our food supplies. The fruit crop this year promises to be a record one, both in quality and quantity. Foreign markets being closed because of the shortage in transportation, it rests almost entirely with our homemakers as to whether this crop, worth millions, is to be a source of profit or a complete loss. With the home pantries filled with delicious jams, preserves and jellies, with the nome pantries filled with delicious jams, preserves and jellies, with these delicacies served for desert instead of pies and cakes, enormous quantities of wheat will be released for the troops in France and for the starving children in Belgium.

MORAN IS GREATEST OF ALL MANAGERS

Secretary John Macpherson of the W.O.B.A. received a number of communications yesterday from outside sources asking an extension of time on the big tourney entry list, in order to get rinks together. After due consideration by the executive, it was decided to hold the entry list open till tonight. Philly Leader Regarded by Many as the Best Major League Pilot.

Every once in a while someone wonders why Pat Moran isn't considered gers, thereby giving Pat more consideration for what he has done than any other man in baseball-with the possible exception of the party who has become the game's greatest repudiator. Pat, in fact, is the recipient of more favorable publicity than any other man in the two major leagues. No one ever writes or says anything bad about him. He always is referred to as a jolly Irishman, ready to talk and smile while he's doing it.

Moran's accomplishments this year in throwing his team into a hot race.

Moran's accomplishments this year in throwing his team into a hot race with the Giants for the leadership of the National League is worthy of more consideration, perhaps, than any stunthe has pulled since he supplanted Charley Dooin as leader of the Quaker men. He has done more with a team of hasbeens and misfits than the New York Giants have accomplished with a high-salaried team of stars.

The Giants were expected by a majority of critics to have it all settled and laid away along about this date. But they haven't done it yet, and indications right now point to anything but a pleasant journey for Herzog et al. the rest of the season.

Pat Moran's infield, composed of ancient Fred Luderus, cast-off Bert Niehoff, rookie McGaffgan, or competent Dave Bancroft, and cast-off Milton Stock, is the main reason why when rated alongside Grover Alexander. These two things, backed with the come-back of Gavvy Cravath, the continued good basebaall of Dode Paskert and George Whitted, are whooping things up. The Phillies would not be so good in a world series as the Giants, for the Giants consist of men who would be practically unbeatable in a world's series. But it's going to take a lot of baseball and a lot of hard fighting to keep Pat Moran from taking the race right down into the home stretch. Next year Pat will be counted a stronger factor.

GRAFTON'S SEMI-ANNUAL SALE

An Accumulated Overstock at Less Than Cost.

To meet changing conditions we are making radical readjustment of our business, now at the very height of the season.

An extensive expert survey has proved to us that we can do the same volume of business on almost half the amount of merchandise by eliminating waste and increasing efficiency.

Our first aim in this campaign will be to clear out all "accumulated" and "slow moving" stock, every left-over, "broken size," "odd lots" or patterns which we cannot duplicate, whether of present or past seasons. They must all go immediately at prices much below cost of production.

Among the hundreds of Suits in various assortments of patterns and sizes will be found something to please and fit every man, provided he comes early.

Men's and Young Men's Suits at $9.98

We are confident that you never before saw such remarkable values on absolutely new and stylish garments as comprise this lot. Regular values $12, $13, $14, $15.

Men's and Young Men's Suits at $12.98

emption board to take oath of service if they were not judges.

The penalty provisions against newspapers were attacked by the Hon. Frank Oliver. He stated that newspapers involved large investments and the value depended upon continuous publication. The suppression of a book merely destroyed the investment in an issue, the suppression of a newspaper destroyed a business. He offered an amendment providing that suppression in the case of a newspaper should be limited to the single issue in which the offence was committed, and that action had to be taken by indictment before a judge. That

Hon. Mr. Meighen did not see the ourpose to be served by suppression of a single issue of a newspaper. After he contents of an issue had reached he public the harm had been done, and could not be reached by the suppression of the issue. The paper would not are a fig whether the issue were suppressed or not. Almost since the outpreak of war the Government had ower to suppress offending newspapers without resort to a court, but papers without resort to a court less paper had suffered unjustly. Unc

THIRD READING OF THE R. H. & J. Dowler, Ited. COMPULSION MEASURE

NEWSPAPERS ARE GAGGED

[Special to The Advertiser.]
OTTAWE, July 17.—The military service bill has taken another step forward. Tonight it received its final gouch in committee, and was reported. The scrutiny that has been given the measure in committee had been long and careful. It emerges with the principle intact, but with the details considerably altered.

There has been a reclassification of the men liable for conscription; there was added to the bill most drastic and stringent provisions against interference with its enforcement. The reclassification puts the first six classes into two classes; single men and widowers without children to be called first.

A clause exempting divinity students

A clause exempting divinity students was put in by way of amendment, and taken out by way of further amendment.

taken out by way of further amendment.

Now the measure stands for third reading, and then goes to the Senate for enactment by that chamber.

It will reach the Senate on Wednesday next, and the centre of interest will be transferred from the green to the red chamber. There is expected to be no great difficulty in getting the measure through the Senate. The Government now has a majority there, and vacancies enough to increase that majority by further appointments. As in the Commons, it is expected that a number of the English-speaking members of the Upper House will vote with the Governent for the bill.

The vote of French Government members of the Senate against the bill is expected to be limited to two. The debate in the Senate is not likely to last as long as in the Commons. The measure has been much discussed already; there is little that can be said further, and it is not the practice of the Senate to struggle with a measure with the bitterness of the Commons.

Canada will soon have conscription as a part of the law of the land.

Condition Needs Fixing.

Capt. Burnham informed the House that many gallant officers of Canada, who were over age, had succeeded in getting to the front and doing fine service. There were others equally willing who had not been able to get to the front, and there were some, not over age, and of military age, who neither desired nor endeavored to go to the front, but preferred to remain and hold down jobs. Capt. Burnham declared it a scandal that they should be allowed to do so. They were blocking the advancement of worthy men who could not rise past them. There were many cases where men who had seen service, who had suffered wounds, and who had efficiency, and were entitled to be brought back and given positions held by men less worthy. This condition exasperated young men in the service, and the Government should take steps to correct the condition.

Board Must Be Sworn.

Mr. Meighen made an amendment to the bill, requiring members of the exemption board to take oath of service if Now the measure stands for third

Government's Word Not Enougt
Hon. George P. Graham preferred to have the protection of newspaper in the statute rather than the promis of Government. It was extreme law Hon. Mr. Oliver did not see why such a property as a newspaper should be subject to destruction by the Government without proof of offence by the Government or possibility of defence by the paper. To put the Government into possession of such a law would be to give them power of destroying partisan opponents. There was a book entitled "The Fiddlers" that he held in his hand, It was simply a powerful arraignment of the liquor traffic. Because the liquor traffic had more friends than the people of the country, the pamphlet had been placed under a ban.

It was the solicitor-general who had introduced closure into Parliament, and now it was the solicitor-general who stood sponsor for a law by which he and his colleagues could hold the threat of suppression against any newspaper in Canada. He believed that the provisions of this bill had been framed with the view of gagging the press of the country.

Mr. Meighen repiled that if a newspaper became guilty of printing sedipaper became guilty of printing sedi-tious matter it should be suppressed. However, drastic action would be taken in extreme cases only. The newspaper of the member for Edmonton had never-been interfered with for criticizing the Government.

Sir Robert Borden said that the minister of justice always had charge of summary action respecting a newspaper. The law was administered, almost entirely, by officials appointed for the purpose, who come to the Government occalionally for direction. In defence of the bill under discussion, he said that there might be cases of a newspaper printing an article of so seditious character that it would be necessary for the central judge to act minister.

SAVE THE WHEAT---USE CORN

Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Canadian food controller, and Mr. H. C. Hoover, food controller for the United States, both urge the people to save the wheat so that it can be shipped to the Allies, and Mr. Hoover strongly recomm ends the use of Corn.

Cornmeal, in itself, is not particularly appetizing to most people, but when Corn is converted by our secret process into

HOUSEKEEPING IS A BUSINESS. ECONOMICAL COOKING IS A SCIENCE.

Who is responsible for the fact that the country women who bring their butter, eggs and poultry to London market to sell these products direct to the city consumers, have been transferred from the big, top o' the ground shed to a dismal, dark, damp insanitary cellar? At best, the shed wasn't particularly inviting. In cold weather it was decidedly chilly, and at times very draughty. But at that, it was dry. It is understood that the shed has been appropriated for a vegetable house, and that this is the reason the fiat has gone forth for the women to foregather in the cellar, dignified by the name "basement."

The country women didn't like it one bit last Saturday. No sane person would expect them to be pleased. No person who has reached an age of reason, excepting under absolutely unavoidable circumstances, will sit round in a damp, dark place for hours at a time, a place where in spots water is standing on the floor. This is exactly what the country vendors have been sentenced to do, or take their wares to other markets. Somebody, singular or plural (very singular under any circumstances), has blundered. There is such a thing as overdoing the business, of not letting your left hand know what your right hand is doing, especially when it comes to scattering literature broadcast, with one hand crying for greater production to fill the market, and with the other hand signing decrees to consign to dampness and darkness those who bring the fruits of great production to offer them for sale.

The city women weren't a bit pleased with the change from the high and dry shed to the basement. It was rather amusing in three or four cases this week to hear them expending all kinds of pity on themselves. "I didn't like it a bit," said one. Another said: "I didn't think it would be necessary to put on rubbers to go down into that basement. It made me quite indignant when I got my feet wet." "I simply won't go and buy in a place like that," said another. Others expressed their indignation on behalf of their country sisters, and a few days ago a letter appeared in The Advertiser from a prominent London woman, Mrs. T. C. Duncan, who is willing to lead in a campaign to obtain better quarters for the country women who bring their products to market. A few nights ago a meeting was called of representatives of women's organi zations to confer with civic officials in regard to the advisability of establishing a canning centre for the district in London, a kind of co-operative plant. 'Sit up around the table, ladies," invited the mayor, who presided. It was the long board of control table, and as one woman drew up her chair, she remarked, "I wonder how long it will be before women really sit around this table in an official capacity." The remark was so unexpected from this gentle woman that the others laughed and one commented, "You are quite brave to say that"; another, "You are getting ambitious," and still another, "You don't really mean that you would like to be here in an official capacity?" The first speaker answered the last question, "I really would," she said mly. "There are so many things I would like to see changed."

For one thing, she wouldn't countenance, if she had any say in the matter, the placing of the country women in a damp basement to sell their butter, eggs

There are many others, men as well as women, who would like to see this particular thing changed in short order. Nobody could blame the country women for boycotting the market, knowing as they do, that they can dispose of their produce.

NOT THE ONLY "MARKET VICTIM."

The letter from "A Victim of Tuesday's Market." which appeared in Our onsumers' League department last Friday, has evoked a good deal of comment. everal people were not aware that a city bylaw was being broken when huck. sters or runners bought on the market before 11 o'clock, until they saw the by-law quoted in response to the request of the "Victim."

Mrs. H. E. Wheeler, who has contributed bright letters to this department from time to time, says: "I think that letter was splendid, and I would like to see it printed in big type right on the front page of the paper, where it would catch the eyes of the men. I know a number of the men read the Consumers' League Page. But there are others who think it is just for women and don't see what is in it. The buying up of everything by these runners naturally sends up the prices and defeats the very object in having a market at all. I didn't know till I saw your quotation of the bylaw that established grocers and butchers were at liberty to buy at any time. If there are bylaws, why aren't they enforced? the speed limit on the city streets. Why not for breaking the bylaws of the market through buying up products on the market for re-sale before the hour named? I have been out of the city for several weeks, and the last time I went to market I looked all over for some decent lettuce. I went down early, too, about 9 o'clock. The only one I could find who had lettuce was one woman, and she wanted eight cents for a bunch with eight leaves. I thought it was too much and left it. At my own grocer's on the way home, I got beautiful lettuce for five cents a bunch. He wouldn't be selling it without some profit, and he had doubt-less bought it on the market earlier. I have been told by a number of women whom I know that the hucksters, runners and wholesalers secure what they want by putting slips in baskets and wagons. I would like to know what this is f it isn't "indirect" buying and securing for re-sale, thus preventing the con-Mrs. A. E. Tutt, who has recently been elected the new president of the Union Mothers' Club, stated that it is probable the clubs will take some united action in a "Housewives' League" capacity in the autumn in regard to breaking of byaws and other abuses of the market. The Union Mothers' Club represents a large constituency, more than a thousand housewives and homes, and any united action of theirs is likely to carry considerable weight.

CANNING TO KEEP

Every housewife of experience has her own favorite methods of canning and preserving and making jellies. But all the housekeepers who will put away stores of fruits and vegetables this summer unfortunately do not possess the benefit of either training or experience. The following suggestions, obtained from an expert on canning are especially for the benefit of those to whom "conserving" fruits and vegetables for winter use is quite a new experience. Some ries keep last year?" or "Why didn't that jelly jell?" for housewives of longer

IMPORTANT!

1. The selection of the fruit is the first step in obtaining good results. 2. The flavor of the fruit is not developed until it is fully ripe. The fermentation stage follows so closely upon the perfectly ripe stage that it is almost safer to use it a little under-ripe than over-ripe. 4. For the making of jelly, fruit should always be under-ripe, as ripening changes the pectin or jellying principle.

5. Buy the fruit early in the day. Exposed to dust and air in stores, fruits decompose quickly and undergo fermentative changes, which make them dan-6. See that the jars are perfectly clean, thoroughly scalded with boiling water, filled to the top and left in them for a considerable time

7. Boil your rubbers and covers. See that the rubbers are soft, not in the least hard, and free from grooves or cracks. 8. The best rubbers cost only about a cent apiece. It is poor policy for the sake of one cent's worth of expenditure to run the risk of spoiling a whole jar

9. Pay particular attention to and especially clean jars, which formerly conained moldy fruit, or which had been put away partially cleaned.

10. Fruit keeps just as well when canned without sugar and sweetened at the time it is to be used. It is said by those who perfer this method, to have a more delicate flavor, sugar in the heating process either blunting the fine flavor or entirely changing it. Again it is not especially thrifty to use sugar at the me of canning, owing to the fact that sugar cooked with the fruit is changed into a much less sweet form of sugar, and consequently deteriorates in sweetening ower. In other words, at least two-fifths more sugar is required for sweetening when used at the time that fruit is canned.

MISS DOLLY'S PEELINGS THAT SPROUTED

Miss Dolly had her first adventure in thrift during the early weeks of this spring, and has been enjoying her first experience in gardening. Away back in February she made up her mind to plant a garden, because of the call of ntry. Further, she decided that potatoes would be as good a safeguard as anything in the vegetable line against famine, so her choice fell upon

She spent the greater part of Saturday afternoon digging, weeding and hoeing, and she was nicely flushed and sun-burned, as well as bright-eyed and very much excited, when she burst in upon the editor of this department on Monday through the doorway. "They are away up that high (holding her hand about two feet from the ground), and they have real potatoes on the roots. I pulled them up to see," she ended with a squeal of ecstacy. 'But what did you think you were growing them for? The foliage?" queried the cold-hearted editor.

"Why, potatoes, of course," Miss Dolly hastened to explain, "but you see, I just planted PEELINGS."

"Peelings?" It was the editor's turn to squeal.
"Well, not exactly peelings," said Miss Dolly. "You see, I was told that potatoes would grow just as well if, instead of taking potatoes and cutting them up, and planting them you just took the eyes, and that it would be such a saving at a time when potatoes were so dear and so scarce. Every time I peeled the potatoes at home for weeks and weeks it must have been at least three or four weeks, I cut out the eyes very carefully and saved them. I saw you wrote about it in your column one day, too. Well, some people told me that the potatoes would be just weak little things, and others that the eyes would grow splendidly. You should have seen how they grew on top of the ground, from the very first. But, do you know, I was afraid to pull them up for fear there wouldn't be any potatoes at all. And then, when I was hoeing Saturday I went just a little deep and I turned one up. And you should have seen it. Big enough to eat. Then I looked for more, and, sure enough, there were lots. My peelings have done just as well as the little bits of bags of seed potatoes that some people I know paid a dollar a bag for. Not a big bag, but just a little bit of a bag. Oh, I AM so happy!"

Then Miss Dolly bounced out to tell some more of her friends how great potatoes from very small eyes and little bits of peeling may grow.

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Doctor Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that there is no other eliminator of uric acid there i that can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation — as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the pany the disease rapidly disappear.

"I declare, in fact, that the submarine accomplishes in the destruction of enemy tonnage what it should. "I destre to send home greetings to our troops on all fronts, land, sea, air and undersea. What our troops, under the leadership of great commanders, have accomplished in three years is unprecedented in the world's history. Our thoughts also turn to our true allies, a brothership in arms, which, cemented and tested in heated battling, will not be dissolved. Germany will hold fast in faithful alliance to its treaties and agreements.

"England forced this weapon into our hands through an illegal blockade. England prevented neutral trade with Germany, and proclaimed a war of starvation. Our faint hope that America, at the head of the neutrals, would check English illegality was vain, and the final attempt we made by an honorably intended peace offer to avoid the last extremity failed.

"Then Germany had to choose this last measure as a counter measure of self defence. Now also I must carry it through for the purpose of shortening the war. (Applause.) "It must," he continued, "as expressed in your resolution, prevent nations from being plunged into further enmity through economic blockades, and provide a safeguard that the league in the arms of our opponents does not develop into an economic offensive.

"These aims may be attained within the limits of your resolution, as I interpret it. (Cheers.) We cannot again offer peace. We have loyally stretched out our hands once. It met no response, but with the entire nation and with Germany, the army and its leaders in accord with this declaration, the Government feels that if our enemies abandon their lust for conquest and their aims at subjugation, and wish to enter into negotiations, we shall listen honestly and readily for peace to what they have to say to us. Until then we must hold out calmly and patiently.

Times Are Severe.

"The present time is, in regard to food conditions, the most severe we have experienced, and in the month of July has been the worst. Drought has delayed and wants exists in many cases, but I can declare with glad confidence that relief will shortly set in, and the population can then be supplied more adequately.

"Nothing can yet be said about the harvest, but the fact is already established that the harvest of potatoes will be better than is believed. Straw is indeed short, but the development of the kernels is excellent, and we shall, as in 1915, reckon upon an average harvest. In the wide regions of the empire rain has fallen, and everywhere in time enough to bring potatoes.

"We hope for a good potato crop, and if we utilize the increase from Rumania and other occupied territories carefully, the shortage of fodder with which we should otherwise be confronted will be overcome. It has been proved in these three war years, even in the case of a bad harvest, as in 1916, that Germany cannot be starved out at all.

A painful experience in wide areas has shown that on account of war conditions, relations between the town and country populations becomes a source of trouble. Enlightenment here is an absolute necessity.

"Urban population must appreciate the great difficulties under which agriculture suffers through war conditions. On the other hand, the cauntry population must be made to understand thoroughly how important industry in great cities has been and is. If that is done, a rapprochement will follow, and each will do for others what he can and what is his duty. The successful experiment of transferring hundreds of thousands of city children to the country may perhaps build the bridge, but we must take pains in every way to see that this conflict of views is moderated, alleviated and ended."

RUMOR CONTINUES THAT UNITED STATES TROOPS ARE TO TRAIN IN CITY

icers Have Heard Nothing and Discredit the Reports.

That a large number of troops from the United States were to arrive in this city in the near future to take up their quarters on Carling Heights was the rumor that again prevailed in military circles today. The number was variously placed, and ranged from 1,500 to nearly 15,000.

Lieut.-Col. Brown, assistant adjutant-general, stated that he had heard absolutely nothing with regard to such ant-general, stated that he had heard absolutely nothing with regard to such a movement, and regarded it as most improbable. Other officers gave little credence to the rumor, but the fact that the story, which was published in The Advertiser some time ago, again cropped up, led some to think that some such movement might actually be on foot. tually be on foot.

DEATH OF MRS. MOODY.

After successfully passing through a critical operation, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Moody, wife of George H. Moody of Highgate, died in St. Joseph's Hospital late Wednesday night. Her death came as a shock to her relatives, who expected that she would be sufficiently recovered within a few days to leave the hospital. She is survived by her husband and one daughter.

The remains were forwarded by John Ferguson's Sons to Highgate, where the funeral will be held on Saturday or Sunday.

FUNERAL OF T. D. BRODISON.

The funeral of Thomas Duff Brodison, well-known local athlete, who died on Tuesday, was held from the family residence at 827 Lorne avenue, on Thursday. Impressive services were conducted by Rev. Canon G. B. Sage of St. George's Chürch. The funeral was a large one, and the attendance evidenced the popularity of the young man. The pallbearers were six of his personal friends: John Gillies, Wilbert Murray, Alvin Ball, Rufus Fatheringham, H. Laird and Floyd McDonald. Interment took place at Woodland Cemetery.

Realizing that summer was almost half gone, the weatherman today showed another sign of returning to life, switched off the April variety of weather which he had been handing out, and came across with the real July sample for the second time this season. From now on he will be at work trying to establish "the hottest day yet." The mercury touched 86.4 early today, and had not fallen much by 2 o'clock.

There is still another storm coming, however, if the barometer can be trusted. It registered a drop this afternoon. and lawn social under the auspices of the Devine Street Methodist Epworth League will be held on Friday evening on the lawn at the residence of John Burkham, 131 Emma street. A sale of fancy and useful articles will be held, and the citizens' band will be in attendance. A diversified musical program has also been prepared.

months, that a few of the houses are within six feet of the precipitous edge. The size of the landslides is illustrated by quoting the experience of a well known local man. He bought a lot 60 by 4t feet at the beginning of the year, intending to erect a cottage on it in the spring. When he journeyed to Port for an examination of his property about March he was astounded that he could not find it, but soon discovered it had become a part of Lake Erie.

Fresh fish only should be used. Wash and clean thoroughly and let stand in salted water four or five hours; wash and dry. The easiest way to remove the bones, said Miss Powell, is to cut straight down the back with a very sharp knife, then remove the back bone and the thin skin, cut into small pieces and put into the jar and cook until the fish appears cooked.

Miss Powell, who has conducted these canning demonstrations in many parts of Canada, is a member of the

The management of the place stated that the company made regular returns to the Government as to stocks in hand, and had furnished all the information required. There was nothing to show that the company had to allow a city inspector into the place, and as a result the request was refused.

The controllers did not think the matter could be settled without legal advice, and City Solicitor Meredith will be consulted.

LONDON LIFE AGENCIES

HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

The city agencies of the London Life Insurance Company held one of their most successful annual picnics at Springbank Park. Although the early part of the day was spoiled by the weatherman, conditions improved later. One of the most interesting events of the cay was a ball game between teams picked by P. C. Hooper and Z. H. Pinny. Hooper proved to be a regular Walter Johnson when he filled the delivering end of the battery for his team. W. Courtis did some marvelous twirling for the opposing team. His team was defeated, however, by one run. The umpires were Vivian and Staples.
