SITUATION IS ABOUT SAME

Hard Fighting Between the Cavalry Continues and the North Sea is Reached-- Antwerp Has Suffered Serious Damage.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(2 p.m.)—The military fortunes of General Von Kluck and his one-armed adversary commanding the Allies' cavalry are being rapidly made or marred within sight of the North Sea, which sets a limit to the outflanking movements, the accomplishment of which for so long has been the supreme goal of the rival generals.

The storm centre gradually has extended northward. The battle of Aisne already has been merged into the battle of the Somme and the battle of the Lys, and if the long left tentacle of the Allies continues to stretch out in its present direction the finale of the titanic struggle may be fought out on the banks of the Scheldt, and may decide the fate of the beleaguered fortress of Antwerp, now a prey to German howitzers and air craft.

Whether or not the garrison of Antwerp will be able to stand its ground until the fate of the attempt to relieve the fortress is decided, it is impossible to foretell, as the situation is liable to change vitally with each round of the German 16-inch siege guns.

While some pictures of the bombardment of Antwerp may have been overdrawn, it is nevertheless fully confirmed that the damage done by the incendiary shells and bombs showering upon the citadel from the German howitzers and air craft is extensive.

The aerial raid on Dusseldorf, presumably by British airmen, is confirmed by the German official communique, which admits that the cover of an airship in the hangar was demolished.

From the same source it is admitted that the Russian army invading East Prussia is again back at Lyck, the scene of one of the earlier Muscovite successes. The report that the young Grand Duchess of Luxembourg is a prisoner of the Germans is reiterated to-day, though official confirmation is lacking.

CORRESPONDENT TELLS WHERE FIGHT WAS THE HOTTEST AROUND ARRAS

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Times' Boulogne correspondent, who has been on the scene, relates some phases of the fighting on the French left wing.

The correspondent says that he went unsuspecting to Arras on September 13. The battle of Arras began October 1, and the whole region became a veritable inferno. All around was an unceasing hail of shells and shrapnel, violence, destruction and death.

"On the previous Thursday," the correspondent continues, "the allies were battering at the gates of Cambrai. On Friday the enemy developed a vigorous counter-attack from Valenciennes on Lens and from Cambrai and Boulogne on the allies position south and east of Arras.

"On Saturday the enemy greatly reinforced, attacked with great violence all along the line. The allies were compelled to fall back from Lens and Douai, fighting stubbornly the while. The enemy occupied Bethune and sent troops into Lille, firing from windows as they went.

"When I left Arras the enemy's shells were bursting within three kilometers of the town, since we have heard that shells fell in the town and that three streets were set on fire. The enemy did not enter Arras. They swept around it. They cut a line between Arras and St. Pol, seeking to effect a junction with their Bethune force.

"They came into contact with strong French reinforcements and were driven back in the south. In the north they retired to Labasse, with their right wing resting on Lille. The tide of the battle has been stemmed perhaps has turned in favor of the allies.

"This battle of the north developed with amazing suddenness as may be gathered from the diary of my experiences."

The diary describes the beginning of the battle on October 1, and goes on to say: "As darkness fell the tired, blood-stained soldiers began streaming into Arras and for hours the air resounded with the din they made. Throughout the night the boom of guns could be heard in the distance from the east and southeast.

"The next morning opened quiet in town, but the roar of guns was still heard and apparently as the day advanced the sound was coming nearer, but the citizens showed a stout heart and

Even Hospitals Are Under Fire

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A despatch to the Chronicle from Rocendael, Holland, dated Thursday evening says: "Severe fighting is proceeding outside of Antwerp. I am informed that shrapnel struck the Arazmus hospital in Fontaine street, breaking many windows. In Turnhout, and its vicinity many houses have been destroyed.

"It is reported here that the Germans have been compelled to retreat for a short distance. A number of Ursuline nuns have arrived at Breda, Holland, from Londerzeel, near Malines, where their convent was destroyed by the German fire, although they were nursing there, it is said, hundreds of wounded. The wounded were courageously rescued by Belgian soldiers, who dashed through the flames to get them out."

SCOUTING AEROPLANES ARE A GREAT AID TO GERMAN ARMY

AEROPLANE SCOUTS DELIVERING MESSAGES TO GERMAN STAFF

In the above illustration is shown German soldiers taking messages from an aeroplane, which shows that one of the most striking changes which has arisen in tactical methods in the present struggle has been the combination between the aerial and artillery arms in the German army. The assistance which the aeroplane has given to the gunners in enabling them to find the exact range of the hostile trenches has been remarkable. By day the German monoplane has daintily hovered over the hostile lines and have indicated to the batteries the most vulnerable positions of the hostile trenches. At night time the German aeroplanes have been fitted up with a small portable searchlight, by means of which the enemy's trenches have been clearly visible, whilst at the same time small bursting charges have been also dropped into the trenches. These flare up and burn for several minutes, and so help the German batteries to range at night with more or less accuracy. The officer pilots of the German Flying Corps greatly prefer the Taube monoplane to the Albatross and Eulor biplanes, which they chiefly use for work with the artillery arm, as they are so much more stable and mobile. The German airmen consider themselves out of danger of hostile fire at a range of 2,000 feet, but as so many of them have been brought down in the recent fighting it is very doubtful if they are immune from fire at anything like that height.

Vivid Story of Work at the Front Issued by the British Bureau To-day

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The official press bureau to-day gives an eye-witness' narrative of operations in France, supplementing that of October 8. It follows: "Wednesday, the 30th of September, merely marked another day's progress in the gradual development of the situation, and beyond slight attacks by the enemy. There was also artillery fire at intervals. One of our airmen succeeded in dropping nine bombs, some of which fell on the enemy's rolling stock, collected on the railway near Laone. Some were found empty at night, but nothing much can be deduced from this fact, for they are frequently evacuated in this way, no doubt to prevent the men in the back lines from firing on their comrades in front of them.

"Thursday, October 1st, was a most perfect Autumn day, and the most peaceful since the two forces became engaged on the Aisne. There was only desultory gun fire as targets offered. During the night the enemy made a few new trenches, and a French aviator dropped one bomb on the railway station and three bombs on the troops massed near it.

"The weather on Friday, the 2nd, was very misty in the early hours, and it continued hazy until two in the afternoon, becoming thicker again at night. The Germans were driven out of a mill, which they had occupied as an advanced post, their guns and machine guns, which supported it, being knocked out one by one, by well directed artillery fire from a flank. During the night they made the usual two attacks on the customary spot in our lines, and as on previous occasions were repulsed. Two of their trenches were captured and filled in. Our loss was six men wounded.

"Up to the 21st September, the advance made by our airmen since the beginning of the war amounted to 87,000 miles, an average of 2,000 miles per day, the total nearly equalling four times the circumference of the world. The total time spent in the air was 1,400 hours.

"There are many points connected with the fighting methods of either side that may be of interest. The following description was given by a battalion commander who has been at the front since the commencement of hostilities, and has fought both in the open and behind entrenchments. It must, however, be borne in mind, that it only represents the particular unit. It deals with the tactics of the enemy's infantry:

"The important points to watch are the heads of valleys and ravines and woods, especially those on the sides of hollow ground, and all dead ground to the front and flank. The German officers are skilled in leading troops under cover in closed bodies, but once the latter are deployed, and their is no longer the direct personal leadership, the men will not face heavy fire. Sometimes the advance is made in a series of lines with the men well opened out at intervals of five or six paces; at others it is made in lines with the men almost shoulder to shoulder. But it is followed in all cases by supports in close formation. The latter either waver when the front line is checked, or crowd on to it in moving forward under the orders of their officers, and the mass forms a magnificent target.

"Prisoners have described the fire of our troops as pinning them to the ground, and this is certainly borne out by their actions. "When the Germans are not heavily entrenched no great losses are incurred in advancing against them by methods in which the British army has been instructed. For instance, in one attack over fairly open ground against about an equal force of infantry sheltered in a bunker road and in ditches, we lost only ten men killed and sixty wounded, while over 400 of the enemy surrendered. After some men had been killed, each side had the support of a battery of artillery, but the fight for superiority of infantry fire took place at range of about 700 yards, lasted only half an hour, and the Germans were wavering. Some of them put up white, but others went on firing and our men continued to do the same. Eventually a large number of white flags improvised from handkerchiefs, pieces of shirts, etc. were exhibited all along the line and many of the men hoisted their helmets on their rifles.

"In the fighting behind entrenchments the Germans endeavor to gain ground by making advances in line at dusk or just before dawn and then digging themselves in, in the hope no doubt that they may eventually during near as to be able, as they do, to reach the hostile trenches in a single rush. They never have succeeded in doing this against us. If by creeping up in dead ground, they position in a forward position, they are easily driven back by fire in the morning. A few of the braver men sometimes remain behind at close ranges and endeavor to inflict losses by sniping.

Sharpshooters also are often noticed in trees or wiggling about until they get good cover. Their remedy is to take the initiative and detail men to deal with the enemy's sharpshooters. "Few night attacks have been made against us. Previous to one of them, a party of the enemy crept up close to the British line and set light to a haystack, so it should form a beacon on which the center of the attacking line marched. Generally, however, in these night and early morning attacks widely separated one from the other, and making every endeavor to obtain an advantage from cover. Light balls and searchlights on some occasions have been used. Latterly these attacks have become more and more half-hearted. "Against our men the enemy never has closed with the bayonet.

"The German trenches I have seen were deep enough to shelter a man when firing from a standing position. As regard our own men, there was at first considerable reluctance to entrench, as always has been the case at the commencement of fighting. Now, however, having bought their experience dearly, their defences are such that they can deny the German artillery."

"On the lighter side of the picture is the following anecdote which is current at the front, although its absolute truth is not vouched for. On a recent occasion a British cavalry subaltern, who was cut off from his men, hid himself in the edge of a wood by a road. It was not long before he saw an unsuspecting armed German soldier patrolling the road. He could have shot the man without warning, but felt that it would be akin to murder to kill him in cold blood. In order to instill a little of the spirit of combat into the affair, the subaltern crept from his cover, ran up behind the "bosch" as our men call it, and gave him a kick. Instead of him a furious yell, and the German gave a yell and ran for dear life, leaving the subaltern laughing too hard to shoot."

A despatch from Athens says that German officers have placed large German guns in the forts on the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus.

ANTWERP AND BATTLE OF RIVERS

Are Closely Allied--London Sees Cause for Assurance.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—So far as England knows this morning Antwerp, the latest of the beleaguered cities of Belgium, is still holding out against the German onslaught. King Albert has withdrawn from the city toward Ostend, where the administration is now fully established, but practically the entire Belgian field army has remained to resist so long as possible, the fire of the great German guns, the horrors of which were made so plain at Liege.

From the standpoint of those nations opposing Germany the hope was that the defenders could hold out till the allies delivered some decisive blow along the battle line in France, which has now almost reached the North Sea, and taken in conjunction with the fighting which extends across the Belgian frontier to the northward of Lille, makes a gigantic front, sprawling like a snake half across Belgium, and practically all of northeastern France.

Though separate conflicts, the siege of Antwerp and the battle of the Aisne are thus becoming more and more closely related and both the Germans and the allies are making the most desperate efforts to crush each other and smash through the ever lengthening right and left wings respectively.

It is contended that the Germans failed in their great effort to drive a wedge through this region, and the latest Paris communication contends that the situation is stationary, though most violent fighting continues.

If Antwerp falls, it will prove the ineffectiveness of modern fortifications against the even more modern guns, for Antwerp is the last old in ingenious barriers. To the east the situation on the East Prussian frontier is becoming more like what happened in France after the German invasion and retreat. Being driven from Poland the Germans are making forcements from Koenigsberg will doubtless give a battle, which will determine whether the Germans will again invade Russia in this region.

All reports of the surrender of Przemysl appear to be premature as were various reports about the beginning of a battle at Cracow.

SUMMARY OF ALL THE WAR NEWS

German heavy artillery is pounding Antwerp, the last remaining stronghold of the Belgium army while German armies to the westward are in a far indecisive struggle with the French and British allies.

Beyond this, little is known of today's developments in Belgium and France. The situation at Antwerp is in doubt. The censorship which masked the fighting there until the Belgian Government was compelled to withdraw to Ostend, is now veiling the attack on the city proper. Reports coming through London refer only to events of yesterday morning or earlier.

King Albert is variously reported as leading a part of the Belgian army out of the city with the intention probably of effecting a juncture with the British and French and having arrived at Zelsacte, a village on the Dutch frontier. Refugees from Antwerp continue to pour into Holland. They report that the German guns already have done much damage in the city.

The bombardment of Antwerp's inner forts is said to have begun at 12.30 o'clock Thursday morning. Two of these forts are reported to have been silenced, and fire is said to have started in four parts of the city.

The most recent statement by the German war office stated that the Germans had crossed the flooded area along the River Nethe and continued to make progress.

The general situation in the west has undergone no change, says a French official announcement made at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The battle continues along the line of Lens, Arras, and Launoy. An artillery duel is occurring in the Woevre district. Otherwise nothing of importance on the right or on the center of the allies is reported by the French.

The Paris announcement says that Montenegrin troops continue their advance on Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia. A similar report has been made almost daily for many days.

The Austrian war office, in its most recent communication reported successes against the Montenegrins and a decisive blow against the Serbian invaders of Bosnia and Vishegrad.

The latest reports from the eastern theatre of war are that the Russians who invaded East Prussia and later were defeated and driven back to the Niemen River, have again invaded East Prussia, driving the Germans back as far as Lyck. On the other hand the Germans are in force in Russian Poland, having reached almost to Warsaw, while the Russian movement west through Galicia is meeting a stubborn resistance from German and Austrian forces. The Russians claim to have captured one of the forts at Przemysl. A similar claim was made several days ago.

OFFICIAL FRENCH NOTICE

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The following official announcement was given out in Paris this afternoon: "The general situation has undergone no change.

"On our left wing, the two opposing bodies of cavalry are still operating to the north of Lille and of Labasse, and the battle continues along the line marked by the regions of Lens, Arras, Bray-Sur-Somme, Chalon, Roye and Lassigny.

"On the center of the Oise and on the Meuse, only actions of minor importance have been reported.

"On our right, in the Woevre district, there has been an artillery contest along the entire front.

"In Lorraine, in the Vosges and in Alsace, there has been no change.

"In Bosnia, Montenegrin troops have continued their advance in the direction of Sarajevo as far as the fortified line which protects the city at a distance from it of eight kilometers."

Everything Booming for the Patriotic Concert

As a requiem to the dead fallen in battle or buried in time of peace, the regimental buglers always play the weird heart searching melody the "Last Post." The honors are not to be forgotten when on the 15th of October the Patriotic concert is put on at the Armories. At the commencement of the evening, drums and buglers will on a sign from the conductor stand to attention and with reverent power give expression to our tribute to the gallant lives laid down on the field of honor in defence of freedom by the allies. While this is being done all will stand and for the space of a few minutes pay reverent tribute.

Following on this the bands will gaily strike up "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" and with the 400 voice choir harmoniously blending the song of our flag will be chorused. These two numbers mark the opening scene and afterwards many other songs from the repertoire of national music, will be sung by noted artists. Everything in regard to arrangement of seating and program is being satisfactorily completed and in a few days will be made known.

Paris Choir.
The Paris choir's contribution of over forty voices will leave that city on the 7th. The choir and the concert committee wish to have all bookings from there in by Wednesday, 14th. A section of the Armories is being reserved for Parisians, of whom it is anticipated there will be quite a large number. Bookings can be made with choir secretaries or by mail to Mr. J. R. Cornelius, 138 Colborne street, Brantford.

Choirs.
Last night the director, Mr. J. R. Cornelius paid a visit to the Wesley church and St. John's church choirs. A few minutes was spent at each place in explaining music. The rehearsal will be held on Wednesday night at 7:45 in Collegiate Institute. The musicians of this city the director explained are the first in Canada to join together, irrespective of church and by their services offer to raise money for the Patriotic fund.

Choirs Note.
To-night each choir in the city which is taking part in the concert will be visited by the ticket committee and a few words of explanation given as to programme and ticket selling campaign.

Plan Now Open.
The plan for seatings at the patriotic concert opened this morning at M. H. Robertson's. It is advisable that bookings be made early, as already a large number of reserved seats have been taken.

MARIE TEMPEST KNOWS BELGIUM

Popular Actress Here Monday Night Received Education There.

Miss Marie Tempest, who is now making her farewell tour of America, is more distressed even than most Englishwomen over the fate of Belgium, particularly Brussels, is very dear to her, for it was there that all her schooling was obtained. As a very small girl she attended private schools in Ghent and Antwerp, and later finished her education in a Brussels convent.

Miss Tempest, and her London Company, headed by Mr. W. Graham Browne, are booked to appear at the Grand on Monday, Oct. 12, the attraction being Henry Arthur Jones' latest comedy, "Mary Goes First," in which the comedienne and her associates have scored such a phenomenal success in England.

PICTURES OF QUEEN'S LIFE

Splendid Panorama at the Grand Opera House Being Presented.

To see vividly portrayed the leading events in the life of the late Queen Victoria, from the time the Princess was called at 5 a.m. from her boudoir on urgent matters of state immediately after the King's death; to be an eye-witness, as it were, of her courtship and marriage to her chosen consort Albert, these are but the opening incidents of a beautiful pictorial panorama being provided at the Grand Theatre for the balance of the week, afternoon and evening. The pictures represent the 40 years of the beneficent reign of Victoria the Good, with the most striking events of that long period which has gone down in history as the development of a world empire. The christening of the Prince of Wales, the attempt on the Queen's life, the attack of Sebastopol, even the death of Prince Albert, the sad incidents in the Queen's life, are all portrayed vividly. To those who have not seen these pictures, a treat is in store. They are far above the average and of fascinating interest.

Music and Drama

The programme at the Brant Theatre is for the second half of the week a great improvement upon the first, and again large houses are flocking to this popular resort. They could not have been better entertained than they were yesterday when a bill pleasing in its variety and excellent in its strength was provided. Just Three Girls, May Sheldon and the Kemp Sisters are distinctly original and dance well, but their best feature is the fine line of comedy imparted by May Sheldon.

A novelty and a good one at that, is the farce served up by Colton and Darron. A woman and a dog, with a human expression, might describe it. When not dispensing novel comedy they are harmonising superbly.

Another act of the kind seldom seen in the city is that of Farman and Tetman, the Bug House Furniture Breakers. They are a couple of the best mirth provokers that have here appeared, and cause a sea of fun. They complete a bill, replete with the Adventures of Kathlyn in photo play, which is decidedly good.

ALL AGREED THAT RETREAT IS IMMINENT

Paris Finds Assurance in the News From the Front.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] PARIS, Oct. 9.—Most of the letters from soldiers at the front speak of the great battle that is expected for the morrow that will decide the great struggle along the Aisne and the north, which shows that they, as well as the military critics, are baffled by the immense operations, of which big battles here and there constitute mere details. Heavy fighting occurs every day along some part of the battle line, the importance of which cannot be gathered from the sober details of the official statements, and so it is impossible to assemble all of the simultaneous movements bearing on the general situation. As a consequence, the reviews of the situation by critics this morning resemble what they said yesterday and the day before. All are agreed, however, that developments are favorable to the allies, and all emphasize the advantage gained from splendid health and spirits shown by the army, which the war department is doing everything possible to maintain. It has just forwarded a million suits of underclothing which supplemented private contributions of clothing. The war department is also sending sweaters, jerseys and flannel belts for the use of the soldiers in the winter campaign. While points of the greatest interest have been at the point of the elbow of the battle line in the region of Roye and on the extreme left, attention is called to the importance of the Germans retreating movement on the right bank of the Meuse beyond Hatton Chatel, which endangers their last position in the region of St. Mihiel. It is not considered possible that the Germans can remain in this region, and their retreatment may entail a general retreat of the army operating between the Meuse and the frontiers. The suggestion is made in Paris this morning by some observers that the Germans are building out first and then retiring to a line of defences prepared in Belgium, as it is not possible for them to find reinforcements to counter balance the fresh troops coming and coming to strengthen the allies. The transfer of the seat of the Belgian government from Antwerp to Ostend was not made public in Paris until this morning, which resulted in the crossing of the river at three points. I watched dense clouds of smoke rising from the naphtha works at Schoonaerde, which was fired by the Germans the previous night. The damage done by the bombardment in Schoonaerde was very great. To-day's fighting was bitter and determined and both sides suffered heavily. The German losses, especially in the important, for they held the bridge over the Scheldt close to the entrenched Belgians and the mitrailleuses were in constant use. In southern Belgium, the small town of Waraton, close to Ypres, has been razed to the ground by the enemy.

BERLIN STATEMENT

Russian Advance in East Prussia is Admitted by Germans To-day.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 9.—10.40 a.m. The official communication of the German general staff, given out at Berlin in the evening of October 8, is contained in a despatch to Reuters' Telegram Co. from Amsterdam. It says: "From the western scene of war no facts of decisive importance can be mentioned. Small progress has been made near St. Mihiel and in the Argonne. "Before Antwerp, Fort Breendonk (to the south of Antwerp) has been taken and the attack on inner fort line has begun there-with. The bombardment of the quarter of the town lying behind was being after the declaration of the commander of the stronghold that he took the responsibility. "The airship hall at Dusseldorf has been hit by a bomb thrown by a hostile aviator. The roof of the hall was pierced and the cover of an airship in the hall was demolished. "In the east the Russian column is marching from Lomza (Russian Poland) and has reached Lyck (in east Prussia, just beyond the frontier and almost directly west from Augustow)."

WHAT VIENNA SAYS

VIENNA, Oct. 9, via Amsterdam, and London, 11.20 a.m.—The following official announcement, signed by General Hoeffler, deputy chief of staff, was given out at Vienna to-day: "Our troops have made further advances, and yesterday they repulsed the enemy on the road to Przemysl near Baryoz, west of Dinow, Przemysl has been recaptured and guns taken. "In the territory between the River Vistula and the River San we took many prisoners from the fleeing Russians. "The renewed violent attacks on Przemysl have been splendidly repulsed, and the enemy's dead and wounded are counted by the thousands. "We have had victorious battles at Saiget, in Marmaros Co., Hungary and in east Galicia. The landsturm of the 1st Legion rival each other in gallantry."

BLOWN UP

COPENHAGEN, via London, Oct. 9, 7 a.m.—A German fishing vessel has been blown up by a German mine in the Langeland belt, north of the coast of Denmark. The captain was killed, but the rest of the crew were saved.

IN STRONG FORCE

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Times Belgian correspondent in a despatch dated Wednesday, says: "That the Germans are in strong force is evident from their fierce offensive along the River Scheldt, which resulted in their crossing of the river at three points. I watched dense clouds of smoke rising from the naphtha works at Schoonaerde, which was fired by the Germans the previous night. The damage done by the bombardment in Schoonaerde was very great. To-day's fighting was bitter and determined and both sides suffered heavily. The German losses, especially in the important, for they held the bridge over the Scheldt close to the entrenched Belgians and the mitrailleuses were in constant use. In southern Belgium, the small town of Waraton, close to Ypres, has been razed to the ground by the enemy."

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers you. Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney-region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation. The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Time Recipe That Anybody Can Apply. The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.

THE SITUATION.

The plucky Belgians, who for nothing at all have had their men and youths killed, their women and girls dishonored, their houses and public buildings destroyed and their fertile lands devastated, are again in the thick of fierce fighting. Antwerp is suffering a bombardment from land guns and airships such as no other place in all history has ever experienced.

At the time of writing the position of the Allies would seem to be somewhat improved, but there is in reality nothing of a definite nature. Off the China Sea Japan is bringing matters to a certain climax.

THE EMPIRE STANDS

The following editorial is taken from the New York Herald:—"In the face of the larger issues, those in which there is involved the fate of nations, it is quite natural that some of the minor developments of this war should be overlooked, even though these are of great consequence."

"Some German writers have endeavored to make an appeal to American sentiment through raising a 'color' issue. The spectacle of Indian troops being brought to Europe to fight against white men is harped upon. When attention is called to the fact that the United States used its colored troops to splendid advantage in the campaign against the Spaniards in Cuba, by way of rejoinder there comes the assertion, 'Oh, but they were Americans!'"

"In the scheme of things as this was seen before the outbreak of the war by the German strategists two factors were prominent. One was that the Irish would take advantage of any trouble to the British Empire to promote the independence of Ireland and the other was that at the first note of danger there would be a revolution in India. Perhaps the latter was counted upon more strongly than the former."

"Developments have demolished both of these theories. As the Irish are fighting for the empire so are the troops from India. Instead of disloyalty in India, all elements there seem eager to contribute their part to upholding the izzat of the British raj."

"There is every reason to assume that the Indian troops now in France are just as eager to fight for their flag as the colored troops of America were to fight for the Stars and Stripes in Cuba."

PROOF OF ATROCITIES.

"The Case of Belgium in the Present War" is a volume of 120 pages issued by the delegation representing Belgium which recently crossed the Atlantic and laid before President Wilson, at Washington, a mass of evidence in regard to the invasion of Belgian territory by German armies and the outrages committed in violation of the laws of war by the invaders.

her evidence taken up to September 15, the day preceding the reception of the delegation by President Wilson. The evidence set forth in this book is in each case the actual deposition made and signed by the witness, whose name, age and occupation are also given. The witnesses are of all classes—peasants, laborers, priests, merchants, school teachers, professional men and others, making a representative showing of the population in the regions of Belgium overrun by the modern Hun who, in their devastating destruction and pillage, have tortured and outraged fellow human beings with savage bestiality which it is hard to imagine can have ever been exceeded in deliberate cruelty and lust even in warfare before the dawn of civilization.

It is a sickening recital of facts, all duly attested, many of which are too horrible to be dealt with in a public journal. Here and there in the mass evidence there is mention of an occasional German officer who showed regard for humanity; but the facts set forth in this book constitute an indictment of a system which cannot continue in a universe governed by moral laws—an indictment to make civilization shudder in horror.

CHAMBERLIN'S OBSERVATIONS.

The observations of E. J. Chamberlin, president of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific, make pleasant reading. He said, among other good things:—"I found conditions in the West very satisfactory."

THE CONTROL OF THE SEAS

The fleets of a great nation are constantly changing, old vessels being discarded and more modern designs being built and even now that great nations of Europe are in desperate conflict on land, the building of new war vessels continues. Of course, no entirely new ship can be built out of hand, for this requires several years time, but the finishing up of vessels on which work was begun a long time ago will, in the near future, add considerably to the strength of both the English and the German fleets. Most valuable lists of the fighting fleets of the contending nations of Europe are given in the Scientific American of October 3rd, and the following facts in regard to the new ships that will be added in the near future have not been heretofore published.

We find then, that in the dreadnought class, by December 1st, the British fleet will be increased by the addition of the "Queen Elizabeth" and the "Warspite" and by the first of March by the addition of the "Majestic," the "Barham," and the "Valiant." All five of these ships are similar. They are of 27,500 tons displacement, and they are notable as being the first dreadnoughts to mount the 15-inch gun, of which they will carry eight in four turrets on the center line. The 15-inch gun fires a shell weighing 1,925 pounds, which is discharged with a muzzle velocity of 2,500 feet per second and a muzzle energy of 83,500 tons. The gun weighs 98.6 tons, and it is enormously superior to 10,000 yards to anything afloat to-day. Another remarkable feature of these ships is that they will have a speed of over 25 knots. Their belt armor will be from 13 to 14 inches in thickness, and this combination of qualities will enable them to overtake a fleeing dreadnought fleet, and by engaging the vessels at the rear of the line, force the enemy to accept a fleet action. In the scout class, Great Britain will add by December 1st, seven vessels of the type of the "Arcturion," which was engaged in the recent fight at the mouth of the Elbe. These ships mount two 6-inch and six 4-inch guns and carry four torpedo tubes for the 21-inch torpedoes. The speed is 30 knots. By March 1st Great Britain will have added two more of this class.

Germany, before the close of the present year, should she preserve her seaboard intact, should be able to add three powerful dreadnoughts to her fleet; the "Markgraf," the "Grosser Kurfurst," and the "Koenig," vessels of 25,500 tons displacement and 21.5 knots speed, protected by 14-inch side armor and mounting ten 12-inch guns and fourteen 6-inch guns. These vessels are being built at Bremen, Hamburg, and Wilhelmshaven, respectively. Before the close of the year Germany should add to her fine fleet of fast scout cruisers the "Regensburg" and "Graudenz," of 27 1/2 knots speed and 5000 tons displacement, which are protected by a 4-inch belt and have twelve 4-inch guns, and two 20-inch torpedo tubes. By the first of March they should have two additional ships of this class, the "Geignon" and "Hela," ready for service.

All of the navies engaged in the war have a greater or less number of destroyers and submarines under construction, and all of them will doubtless make every effort that the exigencies of the war will permit to complete these craft and put them afloat. Great Britain and Germany, because of their large facilities, will make undoubtedly a considerable increase, but it is impossible to predict how many of these craft, and when, will be completed in the earlier months of the year.

In addition to these, France, by March 1st, will be able to add to her fleet the "Provence" and "Bretagne," vessels of 25,500 tons and 21 knots speed, mounting ten 13.4-inch guns, and protected by a 10.5-inch belt. Russia, by March 1st, will have completed her first two dreadnoughts, "Gangut" and the "Poltava," 23,000 tons, and 23 knots speed, each mounting twelve 12-inch guns, in four three gun turrets, the ships being protected by 9 inches of side armor.

CORRESPONDENT TELLS

(Continued from Page 1) had plenty of occupation tending the wounded, who were being brought in continuously, so that the hospital soon were full.

"The losses on both sides, I am told, have been very heavy. In one action alone to-day five German regiments were cut up and the horses of their convoys stampeded. They were advancing on Arras by the road along the River Scarpe and at the village of Plouvin, they came under the devastating fire from our artillery and the whole five regiments broke and fled.

"The day, however, has not been altogether favorable for the allies as the French line was obliged to fall back considerably and this evening the enemy's shells are falling within a few kilometers of the Arras station.

"Again to-night a squadron after squadron of war stained and tired dragons rode into Arras, while long lines of limbers are rattling out the Douai road laden with shells for to-morrow. It is a serene moonlight night, but they are racing still, not having ceased since dawn.

"On October 3, I am awakened at daybreak by the thunder of heavy guns, now from north and east, where the third day's battle is raging in a triangle formed by Arras, Lens and Douai. During the day I watch a daring aeroplane fight in the air and am invited to watch the battle at closer quarters.

"I am conducted to some rising ground outside the town where a wonderful battle scene bursts upon my view. In front, on the horizon, a farmstead is blazing fiercely and the black smoke trails across the evening sky. Within 500 yards of us, the French batteries are in action, shelling the woods to drive out the enemy. Flashes of flame burst over the woods like lightning dancing in the tree tops. Presently the German artillery begins shelling the battery near us. We watch spellbound, and, as the shrapnel fire becomes heavier and nearer, our guides suggest it is time to go.

"October 4, the action is now general in all directions. We go out in the afternoon with the Red Cross to aid in bringing in the wounded. Going in the direction of Cambrai, the shells hurtle overhead as we run the gauntlet. Away to the south villages are in flames and northward a huge cloud of black smoke hangs over Lens where the coal mines are on fire.

"It is a real battle picture, awe-inspiring and fascinating. We reach a little hamlet where every building is full of wounded and the nurses and doctors are working heroically at the terrible shrapnel-mangled limbs. We take all we are able to in the cars.

Said Austria, "You murderous Serb. You the peace of all Europe disturb. Get down on your knees, And apologize, please. Or I'll kick you right off my front curb."

Said Serbia "Don't venture too far! Or I'll call in my uncle the Czar. He won't see me licked. Nor insulted nor kicked. So you'd better leave things as they are."

Said the Kaiser, push in that Serb's face. It will teach him to stay in his place. If Russia says "boot" I'm in the game too. And right quickly will settle the case. The Czar said, my cousin, the Kaiser. Was always a good adviser. He's determined to fight. And insists, he is right. But soon he'll be older and wiser.

"For forty-four summers," said France I have waited and watched for a chance To wrest Alsace-Lorraine From Germany again. And now is the time to advance. Said Belgium "When armies immense Pour over my boundary fence I'll wake from my nap And put up a scrap They'll remember a hundred years hence."

Said John Bull "This 'ere Kaiser's a scab. And his work isn't worth 'arf a bob! If I lets Belgium suffer I'm a blank blooming duffer. So 'ere goes for a crack at his nob."

Said Italy, I think I'll stay out. Till I know what the row is about. It's a fair better plan. Just to sell my banan. Till the issue is plain without doubt. Said our good uncle Samuel, I swaorn I had better keep out of this row. For with Mormons and niggers And greasers, I figgers I have all I kin handle just now.

THE BRITISH ADVANCE AT CHIEF SPOT

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Times correspondent south of the Aisne says:—"At one centre—and that the most important—the British victory on the River Aisne is now complete. The Germans have evacuated their trenches, leaving in some of them many soldiers who died from a severe visit of typhoid. They left two of their heaviest guns in the quarries, heavily cemented in place."

"Two salient events marked the part of the fighting, of which Soissons was the center. First, the capture by the allies of Fort Conde after a siege of 15 days, and second the remarkable slaughter by the British in the last of a series of German attacks."

It is agreed that wherever the Germans have dealt severe havoc to the allies around this position their success was due wholly to a spy system. The allies soon found out that the Germans were able to diagnose their movements readily, and instituted a systematic search for offenders. They captured several spies, one of them a woman, who used electric flashlight signals from a window.

It is not altogether true to say that the battle of the Aisne is over even now, but in the past few days, considerable areas have been deserted by the Germans and great wedges of the allies forces thrown forward."

L. E. & N. PLANS. A Galt dispatch says: "On Sept. 29 the Dominion Railway Board held a sitting here in regard to plans of the line of the Lake Erie & Northern railway through Galt, and on the same day the plan for the extension through Jackson Park was approved, but judgment on the other plan, a revised location from Bruce to Main streets, was withheld. A memorandum of the Assistant Chief Commissioner, D'Arcy Scott, just received, conveys the information that this application has been also granted. The R. M. McDougall Co. strenuously objected to the revised plan, as the original provided for its factory being on the right of way, and this so because it owned the pond of which the railway purposes taking part as a location for the station. The town of Galt also fought hard to have the railway made to stay with the original plan, as the town wanted Mill creek diverted."

OLD BOYS DEFEATED

The dormitory men met and defeated the older boys softball team in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night when they slipped two runs across in the last innings, and so pulled the game from the opposition, who had tied the score at eight all in the 8th. It was a good game from the start, and interest did not cease until the close. Fleming pitched fair ball for the Domers, and Reg. Robbins caught effectively. White Buckborough did not especially puzzle the roomers.

Greens Lead Again Today

The green flag still flies over the Y. M. C. A., and although the majority which carries it is only small, it represents the work, hard work of the Irishmen. Alec. Lockington looks at it calmly and says: "Wait until tomorrow, then you will see what is doing." He intends to put the final dose of cayenne pepper into his men and bring about a transformation in the now lying flag.

To-day at 4.30, another balloon will go up, and with the same conditions as attached to yesterday's aircraft. Captain Hutton gives a clue as to the final destination of yesterday's red balloon. He declares it was found upon a let-us patch by the Irishmen and taken captive to procure another membership for the Greens. Encouraging for friend Lockington.

The Austrian army headquarters also renewed the repulse of the Russians, who are marching on Przemysl in Galicia.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Nearly Had Fatal Results on the Burford Road This Morning.

A motor car accident, which almost resulted fatally, occurred on the Burford road on the outskirts of this village this morning, and Mrs. John Childs and Harold Childs, her son, both were seriously injured as the result.

The party, which was composed of Harold Childs, driving the auto, his wife, his mother and his sister, were leaving the village to attend the Calceonia fair, and the machine was just beginning to collect speed on the highway, when a patch of gravel was struck. In a minute the car skidded and turned turtle, pinning Mrs. Childs and Harold beneath it. The sister was able to crawl out and went back to a farm house where she was able to procure assistance. With a group of men she returned and the car was lifted and the victims extricated. It was found that Mrs. Childs had been badly hurt, contusions being apparent. Dr. Rutherford was called to the scene, and he found that Harold had sustained a broken limb, while the extent of Mr. Childs' injuries could not be definitely ascertained. Harold Childs' wife escaped with a few scratches, while her sister also got off lightly, apart from the shock, neither of them being badly hurt. The party was conveyed back to the village where the two badly injured victims now rest.

Mrs. Childs, Senior, is the wife of Mr. John Childs, a grocer of the village, who is the father of Harold Childs, the driver of the automobile. The gravel upon which the auto skidded, was newly laid, and the party was unaware of its existence.

BIG SERIES IS STARTED

Boston and Philadelphia
Teams Line Up This Afternoon.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9 - Baseball held the centre of the stage in Philadelphia today when, weather permitting, the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Braves met in the first game to decide the 1914 championship of the National League. The contest was scheduled to start at 2 o'clock this afternoon. While the official weather forecaster promised showers, the afternoon, the early morning hours were clear, and the thousands of fans who gathered to see the game were hopeful that this prediction would prove erroneous, or at least that the rain would hold off until after the initial struggle.

The telephone battle between
Connie Mack and George Stallings, the Boston manager, over the use of Shibe park for practice and other like incidents, which intensified the interest of the baseball world yesterday, apparently were forgotten in the enthusiasm that held the followers of the game, as the hour for staging the contest approached.

The pitching selections of the opposing managers, seemed to be the absorbing topic of the fans. Neither Mack nor Stallings had intimated who would be his choice, but the general opinion was that the veteran Adrian Athletic Indian twirler, and Rudolph, one of the Boston stars, would be on the mound for their respective teams.

Both teams had their final practice yesterday, and all the players were said to be in the best of condition. The Athletics, who play their home base for Boston in place of Smith, who has a broken ankle, was put through a long drill in batting and holding stunts. Stuffy McInnis, who had been nursing a bruised hand for more than a week, was out with his team mates and handled both the bat and ball as though he had never been injured. There was no doubt Manager Mack said that he would be in the game today.

There was no lack of confidence on either side as to the ultimate result of the series. "We will win sure," declared Stallings. "My team is as good as the Athletics anyway you look at it, and we are going to hand a lot of people a big surprise." Manager Mack, as reticent as usual. All he would say was: "We'll be in there to win, and I hope we will have good weather for the series."

The Athletics players, however, were more outspoken and all of them felt sure of victory.

Baseball enthusiasts from all sections of this country are in the city tonight, and the excitement is at its height. A large crowd stood around the bleacher entrance all night patiently waiting an opportunity to pass through the turnstiles when the gates opened at 10 o'clock.

There was very little betting, which was accounted for by the long odds asked for those willing to take Boston even. What few wagers that were laid were placed with the Athletics favorites at two to one and eight to five. The largest bet heard of so far was one of $500 placed at the larger odds.

The probable batting order for today's game: Athletics - Murphy, rf.; Oldring, lf.; Collins, 2b.; Baker, 3b.; McInnis, 1b.; Strunk, cf.; Barry, ss.; Schang, c.; Bender, p.

Boston - Moran, rf.; Evers, 2b.; Connolly, lf.; Whitted, cf.; Schmidt, 1b.; Deal, 3b.; Maranville, ss.; Gowdy, c.; Rudolph, p.

Batteries Announced.

Bender and Schang were announced as battery for the Athletics. Rudolph and Gowdy for Boston.

STALLINGS THREATENS PUNISHMENT FOR MACK

Trouble Over Grounds For Practice Creates a Bitter Rivalry—Rain is Threatened For the Opening of the Series To-day.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Unless all signs fail, the world's series of 1914 will be modelled along the lines of the great European war. The spirit of brotherly love, for which the Quaker is noted, appears to have been crowded into the background. The struggle for the premier baseball honors of the universe opened with a campaign of threats that read like bulletins from the foreign war zone.

Manager Geo. Stallings of the Boston Nationals, threatened to punch Connie Mack, of the world's champions, on the nose; Director Porter of the Department of Public Safety threatened of public safety threatens to investigate graft scandals; the National Commission received an alleged shortage of pasteboards, and to cap the climax, the weather man threatens rain for to-day, the day on which the American and National league pennant winners are scheduled to open the series at this park, in this city.

Trouble Between Managers

Statements and denials issued from the camps of the rival clubs help to keep interest keyed up to an unusual pitch. This is especially true of the controversy between the two clubs managers regarding the use of Shibe

Park for practice yesterday. Manager Stallings of the Boston Braves accuses Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Americans of unsportsmanlike conduct, and during a telephone conversation during the afternoon threatened to punch the world's champions' leader on the nose at the first opportunity. The trouble arose over Stallings' request for the use of Shibe Park for practice. He made the request to Mack in person and the Athletics' manager assured him he was welcome to use the park at any hour except between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the local club was scheduled to practice. According to Connie Mack, the Boston Manager was satisfied, but when Mack asked Stallings yesterday if he had accused the Philadelphia club of refusing to permit the National League champions to use the park, the argument soon became both bitter and personal and the hard feelings spread rapidly among the players, magnates and partisans of the two teams.

Both Teams Are Ready.

Because of the trouble, the Boston players confined their practice to the National league grounds. The Braves spent more than an hour in batting and fielding, while the Athletics were having a similar workout at their own park. Both managers reported that their players were on edge for the opening game, but neither would state the exact order of batting or the pitchers for the initial contest. The general opinion is that Rudolph will be Stallings' choice because of his

said that he was as fit for the series as any of his team mates. So far as the general wagering is concerned, the local club is a top-heavy favorite. Few big bets have been recorded, but in the small way, the Athletics have been quoted at odds ranging from 1 to 1 to 10 to 1.

HOW SIX AUSTRIAN WARSHIPS WERE LOST

British and French Fleet Did Quick Work in the Adriatic Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—An officer in the British Mediterranean squadron writes to The Times as follows, describing recent fighting in the Adriatic Sea: We got wind of the Austrian blockade in Antivari, so we planned an attack at 8.30 next morning. A cruiser squadron consisting of Frenchmen and British patrolled one side of the Adriatic during the night. We turned so that we might be off Antivari at 8.30 next morning and the French squadron turned so as to be to the westward of us. We intended to look in at Durazzo on the way up, but we were late. We increased to full speed, but the Austrians sighted us coming from the southward, and at once steamed north. The French fleet were in such a position that the enemy went northward they ran right into the arms of a huge fleet. The Austrians were very inferior, having only two small cruisers, four destroyers and certain heavy ships. We opened fire, and the destroyers sank immediately. The enemy's cruisers returned the fire, but in about three minutes both ships caught fire and were a burning mass. Suddenly there was a huge mass of dense, black smoke, followed by an explosion. The ships could be seen with the bows at right angles to the water. In less than a second both ships sank with all hands. Cheers went up from the fleet. We did not open fire, but followed closely in the rear, and then turned southward, steaming out at full speed.

THE GERMAN REPORT

BERLIN, Oct. 8, via London, Oct. 9.—2.45 a.m.—It is officially announced that the Germans continue to make progress at Antwerp and that they are already over the flooded area along the River Nethe. A writer in The Militar Wochenblatt, however, last night warned the people against an excessive optimism regarding Antwerp as the garrison of the fortress there is still able to continue a desperate resistance.

Child's Tongue Becomes Coated if Constipated

When Cross Feverish and Sick Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep, or act naturally, breath is bad and system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels. Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups, plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

An Aerial Raid

LONDON, Oct. 9.—1.58 a.m.—According to a Central News despatch from Amsterdam, another aerial raid has been made by the allies on Cologne and Dusseldorf, both important German Zeppelin airship bases. The telegram follows:
 "A despatch from Cologne states that hostile aeroplanes threw bombs at the Zeppelin hangars at Cologne and Dusseldorf on Thursday afternoon. The former was uninjured but damage was inflicted at Dusseldorf."

 The previous aerial raid on Cologne and Dusseldorf was made by British naval airmen from Belgium on September 23.

FOOTBALL GAMES FOR TO-MORROW

Courier Cup finalist medals—Holmedale v. Paris at Tutela. League game—Duffs vs. S. O. E. at Agricultural Park.

The games for Saturday in the local football tourney will provide some good sport.

The Sons of England will have an opportunity of showing their strength against the Duffs at the Agricultural Park. This game was, the Sons claim, won by them. It was protested by the Duffs and this match is the replay. It ought to be good, fast football. Despite assurances that the Duffs have been greatly weakened, they are still a strong team, and with the Sons in pretty good shape, the rubber will be contested to the bitter end.

Paris will be seen at Tutela park, where they play Holmedale for the Courier Cup, runner-up medals. These teams provide an evenly contested game, and the result will be a matter of conjecture, to the finish. Teams for Saturday are here given:

Y.W.C.A RALLY WAS SUCCESS

Winter Work Was Given Impetus by Gathering Last Evening.

The girls of the Y. W. C. A. held their annual rally last night, and it was truly a great rally. The way in which these girls flocked around the standard would have done credit to the crusaders of old. There were perhaps two hundred of them gathered in the Victoria Hall to enjoy an evening programme, which was excellent in its unconventionalness. The spacious hall seldom looked prettier and rarely did it present a more animated scene. There could be little doubt it was a magnificent rally.

After a splendid programme given by the girls of the various clubs, refreshments were served, and a pleasant social half hour brought to a termination the happy event.

The programme was composed of the "stunt" prize for the fine effort. The "Boo-Boo" Man. The other stunts were both excellent and amusing. They were, The Little Man, a modern revision of the Punch and Judy show, a laughable farce, Loving Partners, portraying the troubles of a charming male; and a Ghost Parade, which terminates, unexpectedly originally.

Miss Helena O'Hara sang well. Tipperary song. She has the swing of the words, and her splendid voice did ample justice to the song of the moment. A piano duet by Misses White and Johnson was finely rendered and much appreciated.

Janie McNeal's Ride, a reading giving a wide scope for ability, was exquisitely rendered by Misses Muriel Whitaker. Her expression was superb.

Miss Sweet, as is her custom, sang meritoriously with appreciation of all. Mrs. Wright was in glorious mood in her reading, "That little boy o' mine," and Miss Hart, in song, contributed in no mean manner to the all-round excellence of the evening. Miss Wilma Jones delighted with her vocal talent.

The reports of the club secretaries showed that the Loyalty club had a percentage of 75 percent, beating the Triangle and I Will Trust for the honor. Mrs. Harris then presented the Harris permit to the winners with remarks appropriate to the occasion.

Miss Best then gave all a hearty word of welcome, and gave them each a reminder of the physical exercises. In the role of court crier, Miss Annabel Ryerson was quite a decided success. With the close of the programme the ladies served refreshments, and a social chat brought to a conclusion a most successful rally.

No Stomach Pain Gas, Indigestion In Five Minutes

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the Only Real Stomach Regulator Known

"Really does put bad stomachs in order—'really does' overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regular in the world. If you eat ferments into stultifying lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment 'Pape's Diapepsin' comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regular in the world.

IT WAS FURIOUS

The exact place where the knot was to be tied being banked with fine blossoms. The bride, who was tastefully attired in rose colored silk, entered the room to the strains of the wedding march, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Haskett of Kelvin. After a lunch had been served, Mr and Mrs. Wylie drove to Hatchley to take the train for Toronto, where they will spend a few days. WORK NOT TALK

Britain's "Man of Iron" Puts at the Front—Never Healed He Believes He Will

The "Man of Iron" That exactly sums up the character and career of Lord Kitchener, who during the great European crisis is acting as Britain's Minister of War. Thorough, resolute, and possessing that virtue of virtue, silence, the work Lord Kitchener has accomplished stamps him as one of the greatest soldiers and administrators that Britain has ever produced. Work not talk, is his motto.

Take the Boer war for instance. Kitchener went to South Africa in the black days, when we had secured a succession of defeats—Stormberg, Magersfontein, Colenso—and our military supremacy was in great danger. And here the "gentleman" of the rank and others, hated his methods. Soldiers were arriving in this country complaining of his arbitrary ways. He was "making himself hated everywhere," insulting, voluntary officers of noble birth daily; "ruining the organization," and so on. But never a word from Kitchener until he broke the silence with this laconic despatch: "Send me more men." And with these he won through.

His thoroughness is proverbial; but he likes things done in his own way.

Rash in His Daring.

In these early days in Egypt Kitchener was daring almost to rashness. He thought nothing of disguising himself as an Arab and living among the sons of the desert for months at a time, in order to acquire a knowledge of the Mahdi's movements and conspiracies. And so clever was he a disguising himself that even his own comrades did not know him. Indeed one day a soldier flung a brickbat at Kitchener, whom he mistook for "blooming nigger," inflicting rather a nasty scalp wound.

Kitchener's cleverness in disguising himself, coupled with a knowledge of Arabic, which he had picked up in his wanderings in Syria, made him invaluable to the authorities. He was appointed chief of the Secret Service and the following incident, the truth of which is vouched for by one of Lord Kitchener's relatives, strikingly illustrates his personal courage and cleverness.

Two Arab spies had been caught but they feigned deafness and Kitchener could get nothing from them. They were detained in a tent, for half an hour another spy was caught and bundled into the tent with the other two. They were left for an hour, talking briskly all the time, and then the third spy demanded to be taken to headquarters. It was Kitchener himself, who had of course found out all that he wanted to know.

For two years Kitchener practically lived among the Arabs, carrying his life in his hands, never knowing when he might be brought face to face with

The Rexall Stores of Canada

CONTRIBUTE TO

The Canadian Patriotic Fund

THE Rexall Stores of Canada, 400 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada have unanimously agreed to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund FIVE PER CENT. of their total purchases of all Rexall Toilet Goods, Rexall Remedies, and other merchandise manufactured or sold by the United Drug Co., Limited, Toronto, for the months from October to December 31st.

This action of the Rexall Drug Stores of Canada has been undertaken co-operatively, because as a co-operative organization, they realize how much more can be done unitedly than individually, and it has been taken for two reasons—to fulfil a humane duty in raising a fund for Relief Work of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and a patriotic duty in an endeavor to keep a large staff of Canadian employees busy.

Figuring on the basis of last year's business, this should add several thousand dollars to this humane fund.

The 400 Rexall Stores of Canada make an appeal to your sympathy and support in their doubly worthy cause for increasing the funds of the Canadian Patriotic Organization and for the support of Canadian workmen because—

MOREOVER, Rexall Goods will not cost you a cent more than they have in the past, notwithstanding the fact that the cost of the ingredients entering into Rexall preparations is higher than before the war. The extra cost is being borne by the company and the Rexall Stores, who have, in addition, placed upon themselves voluntarily an extra five per cent. to be devoted to the humane work of the Canadian Patriotic Organization.

Why not, therefore, decide NOW that you will help, during the months of October, November and December, at least, by favoring Rexall Stores and Rexall Goods? There are a hundred different Rexall products that you can buy and that will give you equal or better satisfaction than similar products of foreign manufacture—Tooth Paste, Toilet Powders, Cold Creams, Toilet Creams, Soaps, Shaving Creams, Perfumes, Toilet Waters, Household Remedies, etc.

There's a full list of Rexall Products waiting for you at the Rexall Store in your town.

Rexall Goods are made in Canada and you can procure them in your town only from

WORK NOT TALK—KITCHENER'S WAY

Britain's "Man of Iron" Puts Time First in Running Our Army at the Front—Never Leaves War Office—A Fatalist, He Believes He Will Die Peacefully in Bed.

The "Man of Iron." That exactly sums up the character and career of Lord Kitchener, who during the great European crisis is acting as Britain's Minister of War. Thorough, resolute, and possessing that virtue of virtues, silence, the work Lord Kitchener has accomplished stamps him as one of the greatest soldiers and administrators Britain has ever produced. Work, take the Boer war for instance, Kitchener went to South Africa in the black days, when we had suffered a succession of defeats—Stormberg, Magersfontein, Colenso—and our military supremacy was in great danger. And how the "gentlemen" of the ranks and others, hated his methods. Soon letters were arriving in this country complaining of his arbitrary ways. He was "making himself hated everywhere," "insulting voluntary officers of noble birth daily," "ruining the organization," and so on. But never a word from Kitchener until he broke the silence with the laconic despatch, "Send me more men." And with these he won through.

His thoroughness is proverbial, but he likes things done in his own way. Rash in His Daring In these early days in Egypt Kitchener was daring almost to rashness. He thought nothing of disguising himself as an Arab and living among the sons of the desert for months at a time, in order to acquire a knowledge of the Mahdi's movements and conspiracies. And so clever was he at disguising himself that even his own comrades did not know him. Indeed one day a soldier flung a brickbat at Kitchener, whom he mistook for "a bloomin' nigger," inflicting rather a nasty scalp wound.

Kitchener's cleverness in disguising himself, coupled with a knowledge of Arabic, which he had picked up in his wanderings in Syria, made him invaluable to the authorities. He was appointed chief of the Secret Service and the following incident, the truth of which is vouched for by one of Lord Kitchener's relatives, strikingly illustrates his personal courage and cleverness.

Two Arab spies had been caught but they feigned deafness and Kitchener could get nothing from them. They were detained in a tent. At half an hour another spy was caught and bundled into the tent with the other two. They were left for an hour, talking briskly all the time, and then the third spy demanded to be taken to headquarters. It was Kitchener himself, who had of course found out all that he wanted to know.

a violent death, and all the while communicating to the heads of the Egyptian intelligence department information of the utmost importance. Curiously enough Lord Kitchener is a fatalist, and on several occasions has expressed some very strong convictions as to his future. During the Soudan campaign he was once warned not to expose himself so recklessly to the enemy while in action. To this remonstrance he replied, "I shall never be killed. When my time comes I shall die peacefully in bed."

His capacity for work is amazing, and he has no patience with a man who is less energetic than himself. It was characteristic of him that his first question when he entered the War Office as Secretary for War was: "Is there a bed in the building?" "No, sir," replied an official. "Then get one," said Lord Kitchener. Then the officials knew that day or night would find Lord Kitchener at his post. During the South Africa war he seldom had more than three or four hours' sleep a day, rising regularly at 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning and working hard until night. Officers knew that Kitchener always meant business. He had no use for regimental ornaments; practical soldiers were what he wanted. One officer in command of a column had not been heard of for several days. Telegrams were sent in all directions to find him, bearing two questions: "What are you doing? Have you taken any Boers, and how many?"

Grim and Laconic Stories of Kitchener's bluntness are legion. "Sorry to report the loss of five men through explosion of dynamite," was the gist of a telegram he received one day during the Boer War from a captain at the front. "Do you want any more dynamite?" was the immediate answer.

His grim, laconic humor was well illustrated by his reply on one occasion to the War Office authorities who were pressing a certain weapon upon him.

"Keep the gun," he wired, "I can throw stones myself." "Twelve hours in which to carry this dispatch?" he remarked to an officer on one occasion. "You must do it in six." And the officer, who had asked for twelve hours, did it in five.

Time to Kitchener is everything. While engaged in building a bridge for the advance upon Pretoria, the engineering officer, apprehensive of danger to his workmen, hinted his fears to Lord Kitchener, explaining that a different mode of construction would be much safer than the one employed, which might, indeed, cost the lives of 30 to 30 men. Kitchener listened patiently, and then asked: "How much longer would it take to do the work by this safer method?" "Not more than an hour longer, sir." "Very well; do not change the plans. You will continue the work as it is begun."

RHEUMATIC MISERY

Can Only Be Cured Through the Blood—Liniments of No Use. In no disease does the blood begin to so rapidly as in rheumatism. Not only does it become thin, but it is loaded with impurities—rheumatic poisons. Without the proper treatment these poisons increase, the inflamed joints swell and the patient becomes a cripple. There are a number of methods of treating rheumatism, most of them aiming to keep down the rheumatic poisons until nature can build up the blood sufficiently to overcome them. But unfavorable conditions of cold or dampness may give the disease the advantage and a relapse or renewed attack follows.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People build up the blood and enable it to cast out the rheumatic poisons with the natural secretion of the body. Thousands have tried this treatment with the most beneficial results. That every sufferer who does not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is neglecting the most helpful means of recovery is shown by the following statement. Mrs. Emeline Smith, St. Jerome, Que., says: "I was attacked with what the doctor said was inflammatory rheumatism. The joints of my hands, feet and limbs were badly swollen and I suffered the most excruciating pain. Notwithstanding medical treatment the trouble became so bad that I could not go about. My appetite began to fail me and I was growing physically weak. A neighbor who had been benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, advised me to try them and I decided to do so. In the course of a few weeks I noted some improvement and my appetite began to return. Then the swelling in my joints began to disappear, and it was not long until I was perfectly cured and I have had no return of the trouble." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GERMAN SPY SYSTEM FAILURE IN BRITAIN

Despite the Enemy's Lavish Expenditure of Money.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The official News Bureau has issued the following: "Steps have been taken to deal with German espionage. It was clearly ascertained five or six years ago that the Germans were making great efforts to establish a system of espionage in this country. In order to trace and thwart these efforts, a special intelligence bureau was established by the Admiralty and War Office. This department, acting in close co-operation with the Metropolitan Police Department, was able from 1911 to 1914 to discover the ramifications of the German secret service in England.

"Despite the enemy's enormous efforts and lavish expenditure little valuable information reached them. All the agents who were known to be engaged in this traffic were marked and kept under observation. "On August 4, twenty known spies were arrested under instructions from the Home Secretary. In addition 200 suspects were watched and a majority of them interned soon after the breaking out of the war. "It is believed that this action broke up the spy organization that was established before the war, which has not been re-established. A vigorous search was made of the houses and clubs of Germans and Austrians, but no stores of arms, bombs or instruments of destruction were found. All Germans or Austrians who were deemed likely to be dangerous have been arrested. Nine thousand Germans and Austrians of military age are now prisoners of war."

CANNOT SEE HOW KAISER CAN WIN IN THE PRESENT WAR

After more than a month's practical incarceration in the very heart of the German Empire, Miss Florence Egglestone, a London lady, returned home Tuesday after having passed through many harrowing experiences. Her terse summing up of the present war situation is this: she does not see how Germany can possibly hold out against the allies.

Since the declaration of hostilities the greatest fears have been entertained for Miss Egglestone's safety. For a month after war broke out her parents were without a single line as to her whereabouts, and a letter posted through the kindness of American friends who went from Berlin to Holland and thence to England, was the first intimation they had of her safety.

Mother's Joy.

As she stepped from her train at the Grand Trunk depot yesterday, Mrs. Egglestone cried to her daughter: "We didn't know if we were going to see you again."

The expression was but indicative of the suspense in which the London girl's family and friends have been since the war clouds suddenly darkened and plunged Europe into war.

Rumors of cruelty to foreigners in Berlin, especially British, added to the suspense, but Miss Egglestone escaped remarkably well.

Sees Embassy Wrecked

Much of the comfort, courtesy and security afforded her in Berlin came from the protecting arms of her music teacher, Professor Theodore Spierling. Mrs. Spierling and the family members. Their home was her home, and by not betraying her unfamiliarity with the language she was able to go about the streets and see the Russian embassy wrecked by mobs goaded into madness by their hatred for the Czar. She confirmed the stories that women act as conductors on the street cars, owing to the scarcity of men, and that other British women, not so fortunate in their friendships as she was, were treated harshly, some being turned out of houses into the streets.

English Passports Valueless

When war first became a reality, she procured an English passport, but this availed her nothing. As the days passed and the real terrors of war came home to the German people, Professor Spierling and his family decided to come to New York and open up a music studio. For five weeks Professor Spierling pulled the military wires, finally securing passports for Miss Egglestone and her family. Miss Egglestone's passport, signed by the commandant, who is next in authority to the Kaiser, was issued on condition that Professor Spierling be responsible for her acts outside of Germany. With these papers and after undergoing a rigorous examination on the Holland frontier she was able to leave Germany two weeks ago.

Must Pose as Americans

The party travelled with 250 Americans, and Miss Egglestone was the only Britisher in the party. "It is impossible for a British subject to leave Germany without posing as an American citizen," said Miss Egglestone. "We sailed from Rotterdam on the steamer Nieuw Amsterdam and as we got away from the coast a British cruiser sailed round us three times, and did not allow us to proceed until the captain had ordered down the wireless on the boat. I left Professor Spierling and his family in New York, where he is to teach. I may resume my studies with him later. The Germans treated me very courteously, but without the assistance rendered by Professor Spierling I probably would not have been able to leave the country."

Saw Many Wounded

"In Berlin, and in fact all through Germany, the reports of the war are of such a nature that everyone is led to believe that the allies cannot hold out much longer. It was only after I got out of the country that I heard the other side. Every train was loaded with wounded soldiers and every place we stopped we saw hundreds of wounded. Even in Berlin, 40 miles from the scene of war, the department stores, especially Vertheim's big store, have thrown open some of their floors to the Red Cross for the care of the wounded men. Judging from the wounded I saw I don't see how Germany can hold out much longer."

"Conditions in Germany are not so serious as to effect the transmission of mails, as I was able to receive letters from Miss Killmaster, sister of Fred C. Killmaster (organist of St. Paul's Cathedral), who is now at Dresden, Germany. I received the last letter from her two weeks ago. She was then in good health, and had no concern for her safety. No letters written in English were delivered. There are many British subjects in Germany who are unable to leave."

Miss Egglestone has been teacher of the violin in Alma College, at St. Thomas for the past few years.

NOTHING DEFINITE HERE.

LONDON, Oct. 5, (10.26 a.m.)—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Berlin via Amsterdam gives an official statement issued at the German headquarters on the evening of October 4. It says: "In the western theatre the battle on the right wing and in Argonne district is proceeding successfully. The operation means to sing at der enemy, and will haf fatal effects. If all der American ladies learning singing in Europe could be persuasioned to choin der slaughters they would be worse."

Joking Is Dangerous

Berlin, Oct. 7.—A German soldier of der Twelfth Slur Brautens was executioned to-day. He was herd by der Kaiser to make a joke like this: "Der Kaiser was taking in new boarders last week; but this week all he has is his own borders." It is not known vether der joke or der inuit made der Kaiser mad.

STUDENT ROW

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—Students of the University of Wisconsin tried to throw a boy into Lake Mendota, mistaking him for a fellow student, and precipitated a street fight in which three hundred students battled with as many citizens for hours. For an hour the city fire department poured streams of water into the crowd without dispersing the fighters. C. R. Van Hise, president of the University gave bond for the four students who were arrested, and addressed the 1,500 students who surrounded the police station, finally persuading them to return to their homes. Hundreds of windows, including nearly all in the police station were broken.

TO HELP SOLDIERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A cable from London to The Herald says: "The Grandduke Michael Mikhylovich of Russia, who, with his wife, the Countess Torby, has long made his home in England, appeals to the public to assist him in sending half a million pairs of woollen gloves and mittens to the British soldiers in the field. 'The idea,' he says, 'belongs to my daughters, the Countess Zia and the Countess Nada.'"
